Winchester Couple Honored By Friends

PRESENTATIONS MADE TO MR. AND MRS. N. W. BEACH ON MONDAY

In observance of their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Beach, highly esteemed citizens of Winchester, were at home to their many friends in this district, on Monday evening of this week.

In addition to being felicitated by local friends and acquaintances, they were the recipients of many messages of congratulations from friends from distant points who were unable to be present for the happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach were married at Cass Bridge on September 28th, 1911, by Rev. G. A. McIntosh, of Carp, a brother of Mrs. Beach; and the late Rev. Mr. Sproule at that time pastor of the local Methodist (now United) Church. Immediately following their marriage they took up residence in Winchester, where they have continued to reside, and where they have endeared themselves to a large circle of friends, who delighted to honour them on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Beach was a bower of beauty on Monday evening, with an abundance of cut flowers artistically arranged about the rooms.

As the guests arrived, they were greeted by Mr. Harold Beach, of Toronto University, who was home for the occasion.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Beach were Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Atchison. Mrs. Beach was attired in a beautiful black velvet dinner gown, with touches of silver and a shoulder bouquet of white roses, while Mrs Atchison's gown was a blue velvet floor length model, trimmed with silver lace.

During the evening, vocal selections were rendered by Miss Jean Beach, accompanied by Mrs. G. O. Barclay, both of Ottawa.

Dainty refreshments were served from a tea table, centred with a bride's cake, and decorated with white roses and silver leaves. From the amber chandelier dropped satin streamers of mauve and yellow, strung with silver hearts which led to mauve and yellow corner candles and small vases of pansies. Mrs. Eleanor McLean, of Morrisburg, and Mrs. Ross Miller, of Winchester, presided at the tea table. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Leroy Strader, Mrs. E. A. Devitt, Miss G. Openshaw, and Misses Grace and Marjory McNairn.

Numerous gifts attested to the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Beach, who have always contributed unstintingly to every good cause in the community. Among these were a beautiful eight-day Chime Clock, presented by Mr. Aaron Sweet on behalf of the Official Board of the United church, and a handsome silver water jug, presented by Mrs. George E. Earle on behalf of the W. C. T. U. Both presentations were accompanied by appropriate addresses, which were read to the honoured couple by Mr Sweet and Mrs. Earle.

The addresses were as follows:

Winchester, Ontario,
September 28th, 1936.

To Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Beach:

On this the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of your Wedding Day a number of your friends from the official Board of the United Church, Winchester, wish to congratulate you on your attainment of this milestone on life's journey.

The fact that you have both been connected with choir work, where time is such an important feature of musical harmony, has suggested the selection of a timepiece as a suitable remembrance on this happy occasion. We appreciate your faithful and unselfish devotion to the work of the church in the past, and bespeak for you many more years of health and vigor in which to carry on the good work. This clock will not only mark the flight of time, recording the seconds as they pass, but will, by it's chimes, remind you of the call to worship rung out from so many of the great Cathedrals of the Old Land.

We appreciate Mr. Beach's work as Treasurer of the Board for so many years, and hope that he may be long spared to fill that important position.

With best wishes for the future, Signed on behalf of the Board, J. D. Stewart, Chairman of Committee of Stewards; Aaron Sweet, Secretary.

Winchester, Ontario,
September 28th, 1936.

To Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Beach:

Dear Friends:—This auspicious occasion gives your many Winchester friends an opportunity to call and extend congratulations and wish you many more years of wedded bliss.

Among these friends are the members of the W. C. T. U., who, because of the oustanding part you have both taken in the cause of Temperance, feel that they should show some slight appreciation.

You especially, Mrs. Beach, have labored faithfully in this organization, and have assumed the office of President, not only at the present time, but in the years gone by.

It is our sincere wish that you may be able to enjoy working in the Master's Kingdom here for many years yet.

On behalf of the members of the Winchester W. C. T. U., we present to you this small token of our love and appreciation

Signed, Mrs. Wm. Johnston, 1st Vice President; Mrs. T. D. MacLean, 2nd Vice President; Mrs. Karl Helmer, Secretary; Mrs. P. S. Durant, Treasurer; Mary A. Empey, Cor. Secretary; Mrs. Geo. Earle, Press Secretary.

Mr. Beach needs no introduction to the citizens of this district. He is well known as a business man of more than usual ability, and for many years was the manager of the M. F. Beach Co., Limited. He has always taken a keen interest in community affairs and has served on the Municipal Council in the capacity of councillor, reeve, clerk, auditor and tax collector. He is a director of the Winchester Rink Co., Limited, and a member of the Official Board of the United Church. He has always taken a strong stand for the Temperance cause and has done much to promote community enterprises.

Mrs. Beach, like her husband, is also widely known, having taken an active part in the work of the W. C. T. U., not only in Winchester, but throughout the county. She is also a member of the several Women's Organizations connected with the United Church, and takes an active part in all their undertakings.

Among other things, which will be cherished by Mr. and Mrs. Beach, as a memory of their 25th wedding anniversary, is a beautiful guest book, which contains the names of over 125 friends who called at their home on Monday. This artistic book was designed by Miss Jessie Preston. The leaves were made in the form of wedding bells and were trimmed with silver. During the registration of the guests, the book was in charge of Mrs. Mabel Allison, who assisted Mrs. Beach at her wedding 25 years ago.

Among the out-of-town guests who visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beach on Monday afternoon and evening were: Mrs. Amanda Devitt, Colonel and Mrs. E. A. Devitt, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Strader, Miss Jean Beach, Misses Jean and Marjorie McNairn, Miss G. Oppenshaw, Miss Eva Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Beach, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Beach, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Beach, Dr. and Mrs. G. O. Barclay, Mrs. Bertha Parker, Mrs W. B. Campbell and Mrs. J. R. Mulloy, all of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Allan McInnis, Iroquois; Mrs. Eleanor MacLean, of Morrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Fulton, of Chesterville; Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McIntosh, Mr. annd Mrs. I. Preston McIntosh and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McIntosh, of Winchester Springs.

The Press joins ,with their many friends, in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Beach, and wishes them many more years of happy wedded life.

FAREWELL PARTY

Prior to her departure for Coburg, where she will reside in future, Mrs. Edwin Baker was honoured by friends and neighbours of the Summers' Settlement on Tuesday evening. Following a dinner served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Summers, Mrs. Baker was presented with a Bible and Travellette on behalf of the community, also a book containing the names of the members of the community in which Mrs. Baker has spent her entire life. The presentations were made by Mrs. N. Summers and Mrs. John A. Carkner.

For over 40 years, Mrs. Baker had been a teacher in the Summers' Sunday School. She was a member of the local United Church and had taken an active part in the work of the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Association.

HEPBURN MAY DELAY ELECTION UNTIL 1938

Premier Hepburn said definitely Saturday a redistribution bill forecast for the coming season would not be introduced until the 1938 meeting of the Legislative Assembly. This was taken to indicate the Government will continue sitting through a fourth session in 1938 before an election The approaching session is the Government's third.

REWARD FOR HONESTY

At Morrisburg on Saturday night, Dwane Hutt, a 14-year-old lad, found a bank book containing $25.00 in cash. Shortly after picking it up off the street he turned it over to Constable Lawrence Riddell, who located the owner, John W. Casselman, a district farmer. The young lad was rewarded with a $2.00 bill for his honesty.

Forty Years' Service With One Concern

MR. F. A. COONS STARTED AS DELIVERY BOY IN STORE OF A. SWEET & CO.

On September 26th, 1896, a young lad called at the general store of A. Sweet & Co., and applied for a job as a delivery boy. Mr. Sweet liked the appearance of the youth and could see at a glance that he was a thoroughly reliable character, so gave him a job. That was 40 years ago on Saturday last. To-day that same boy is still a member of the staff at The Big Store, only in a much larger capacity than delivery boy.

We are referring to Mr. Finlay A. Coons, not only one of Mr Sweet's right hand men, but one of Winchester's most enterprising citizens.

"Fin" as he is popularly known, has grown up with "The Big Store," and is more or less of a fixture. At any rate we cannot imagine what the hardware department in that concern would do without him.

During the past 40 years as a member of the staff of A. Sweet & Co., Mr. Coons has learned much about the business. From the day he was given the job he became observant and always put his whole heart into his work, and the experience gained from his efficiency is an asset to The Big Store.

Although Mr. Coons' chief interest is in the hardware department, which, by the way, contains the finest stock of hardware outside of the large city stores, he knows practically all the details of conducting a general store. He is also an expert buyer and takes charge of the advertising for all departments.

Although the greater part of his time has been devoted to business, Mr. Coons has taken an active interest in sports, fraternal societies and church work, and is a splendid example of what an "enterprising" citizen should be.

The very fact that he has remained in the employ of the same concern for 40 years, speaks well for both employee and employer, and it is the earnest wish of his many friends that this mutual relationship may continue for many years to come.

The Press joins in extending congratulations to Mr. Coons on his completion of 40 years service at The Big Store.

CAR DITCHED NEAR INKERMAN

When the car in which she was riding turned over in a ditch along the highway, one and one-half miles north of Inkerman on Saturday night, Miss Annabel Crowder suffered injuries to her left hand and sustained a badly wrenched arm. The driver of the car was Dwight Baldwin. Other passengers who were also badly shaken up were Miss Gladys Baldwin and Mr. Bernice Crowder.

According to information given to Constable Herbert Helmer, who investigated the accident, the Baldwin car was travelling north, when it was overtaken by another car, driven by Judd Imrie, of Inkerman. In passing, it is alleged that Imrie's car sideswiped the other vehicle, forcing it into the ditch.

A charge of reckless driving has been placed against Imrie, who will appear in police court next Monday.

HIS WORK APPRECIATED

The following editorial, which appeared in a recent issue of the Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, should prove of interest to our readers, as it concerns a former Winchester boy, who has achieved considerable distinction in his chosen profession. The editorial follows:

"Up in Peterboro recently Warden Gifford referred to the Peterboro branch of the Department of Agriculture as being the most efficiently administered in the Province. We take exception to this statement, not in any way to belittle the work of the Peterboro representative, but to show that Durham's Agricultural Representative has a record that no other representative in Ontario can equal. Since Mr. E. A. Summers has been representative in this county, the work of the branch has gone forward by leaps and bounds It is generally recognized that the most important branch of the work today, is that among the junior farmers, because they are the farmers of to-morrow. The ideas and knowledge that these young men are acquiring through the local branch of the department will make Canada a country of modern and up-to-date farmers. In the field of junior work Mr. Summers is supreme in Ontario. His judging teams have been featured at every big event in Ontario, and have also represented Ontario with marked success in the World Grain and Seed Show at Regina a couple of years ago. Mr. Summers' office in Bowmanville bears witness to his work by the many trophies on display there. Mr. Summers has done much to improve farming conditions in Durham County. He has done a work that has saved, as well as made, farmers thousands of dollars annually, and he goes about his job with characteristic modesty. Perhaps it is because of this modesty that the Warden of Peterboro County can step in with his statement of the Peterboro representative's superiority, but figures and facts don't lie, and Mr. Summers' record will stand comparison with any in the province.

"Of course we could write another paragraph on the growing success and practical results of the annual school fairs, just finished, which Mr. Summers conducts, but they speak for themselves."

YOUR HEATING PLANT

Now that Fall is with us once more, our thoughts naturally turn to cool weather and the heating plant. Each year there is a marked increase in the number of chimney fires due to the fact that individuals have a tendency to start a wood fire in the stove or furnace in the early autumn without having ascertained whether or not the heating equipment was in good condition following the summer months.

Now is the time to check over the furnace and stove pipes, chimneys and other parts of the heating equipment, in preparation for cold weather. Take no chances on a disastrous fire that might destroy your home and cause no end of trouble and misery for yourself and family. "A stitch in time" is a wise proverb when it comes to your heating equipment.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Dominion Government has set aside Monday, October 12, as Thanksgiving Day, which choice should prove popular with a majority of the citizens. The selection of a Monday enables those who wish to enjoy a "long week-end" to do so, and is a much more satisfactory arrangement than last year, when Thursday was chosen.

Fall is with us once again. To a good many people the Autumn days are the best of the entire year, when Nature dresses up in all her glory, with tented leaves, misty landscapes and bluer skies.

According to press despatches, a transient appeared recently in magistrate's court at Brockville on a charge of theft of two baskets of fruit. He was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory.

Despatches state that the man has been convicted 30 times in 30 years, which is a fair average for sure, all things being considered. The average citizen has difficulty in understanding the mental outlook of such a man.

APPOINTED TAX COLLECTOR

A special meeting of the municipal council of the township of Mountain was held at the clerk's office at Hallville for the purpose of opening tenders for the excavation of the Ennis drain and for appointing a tax collector for the township of Mountain for the year 1936. The time for receiving tenders for the Ennis drain was extended until October 3.

George Whipps of Inkerman was appointed tax collector

The entire council was present at the meeting with Reeve Robert Bryan presiding.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR CORNWALL

Cornwall is to have another industry. At present a $100,000 plant is under construction and when completed early in 1937 will produce the commercial flavoring extract popularly known as vanilla, and will be known as Howard Smith Chemicals, Ltd. The plant will have a daily production of 400 pounds of vanillin and will employ about 15 persons. The extract will be for domestic and export markets and when completed, the Cornwall plant will be the first and only plant of its kind in the world.

SYNOPSIS . . . Silas Spelle, high-handed, low-principled cattle baron, is out to smash the local bank and force foreclosure on the small ranchers of the Kanab desert country so that he can seize their range lands. He is opposed by Ed. Starbuck, president of the Cattlemen's Bank and by San Juan Delevan, prominent rancher who has been crippled by a fall from his horse. Tex Whipple and his partner, Johnny Clehoe, are cowpunchers employed by San Juan Delevan to fight the rustlers and protect his interests.

"Pink," he drawled. "It's always been my opinion that yuh were a more or less useless young whelp, but I take it back. What in Sam Hill did yuh do to them broncs to get all that action outa 'em? Come on now—didn't yuh have a bottle o' high life with yuh?"

"Nope," grinned Pink. "Nary drop. I jest painted their hides with leather an' man — they shore responded."

"I rise to remark they did," chimed in Johnny. "Every time me an' Tex took a look both hosses an' all four wheels was plumb off the ground."

"Well doggone it, Tex said, show some speed—an' I did."

"Yuh did yuh know," nodded Tex. "Johnny, if you an' Pod'll undress these skates I'll take Utah and Al up to see ole Jim. We gotta hold a council o' war. Spelle's shore to start somethin' an' we wanta get the jump on him. Utah, you an' Al come along with me. These cub'll take care o' yore outfits."

When the three old timers were out of earshot Pod Fortune turned to Johnny and Pink.

"If yuh ask me," he stated ponderously, wagging one big forefinger for emphasis. "If yuh ask me, there's more genuwine high fire an' sudden death tied up in them three old rannihans than they keep buttoned down under the hinges o' hell. If'n ole Si Spelle don't step wide an' handsome he's due to be run through a buzz-saw. An' that's whatever."

At Jim Delevan's favorite corner of the porch, the old cattleman sat in serious conference with Tex, Utah Lynch and Al Burrows.

"Jim," Tex said slowly. "Those eight hundred Herefords yuh lost when yuh was hurt ain't gonna get away if I kin help it. Just about where'd be the place them rustlers would drive a big herd like that?"

Delevan considered. "If I'd been doin' it I'd a took 'em South. There's a string o' waterholes reaching clear down to the S. W. & P. railroad. It'd mean a hard drive but it could be done. It'd take time o'course, but if the herd was kept close to the edge o' the desert they could find enough pasture along the eastern foothills to keep the cattle movin'. O' course I'm convinced Spelle is behind the steal but he wouldn't dare hold that many cattle with my brand on 'em up north anywhere. He might take a chance on hidin' out a hundred or so in some out o' the way corner o' his range, but eight hundred would be too big a cut. An' then 'course he'd have to blot the brands. I got the sheriff workin' on the case but after hearin' Doc McMurdo's report on the man I ain't got much hope o' results. Yuh see, Westhaven is the main center o' Kanab County an' they jest about control politics down there. Most o' the office holders are professional politicians who are long on office detail but damn shy on everything else."

Tex nodded. "Which leaves it up to us to handle our own affairs in our own way. Le's see, that steal happened a little over two months ago. How far is it to the railroad south?"

"Close on two hundred miles."

"H-m." Tex considered. "Then on top o' the time it took to drive 'em south they'll have to blot the brands an' give 'em time to heal. I'm bettin' the Herefords ain't seen the inside of a cattle train yet. Jim, Utah an' Al an' me are hittin' the trail in the mornin'. I'll leave Johnny here with Pink and Pod to keep things movin' on the ranch. Besides, Spelle will probably try some kind of a ranikaboo an' yuh need somebody close what can throw a gun like the kid."

"Yuh don't think Spelle will go that strong, do yuh, Tex?" argued Delevan.

"I know he will. Didn't he turn some o' his outfit loose after Miss Ronny this mo'nin', figgerin' on collectin' that mortgage again. I tell yuh Jim, that jasper is the kind that won't stop short o' sudden death to try an' have his own way in everything. He's been havin' things his own way for quite a time now an' it don't set well with him to think o' gettin' beat. Yeah—I'm bettin' yuh can look fer trouble right here on this ranch."

"A'right," growled Delevan. "Let him come, damn him We'll be set."

"Everythin's settled then," said Tex. "Hi—Johnny, come here. Got somethin' to tell yuh."

Johnny listened to Tex without comment until the latter was finished, then nodded. "I expaict you three ole chuckawallas will glom all the fun goin' after that rustled herd, but fer the good o' the cause I'll stick around an' boss hell outa Pink an' Pod. We'll handle things at this end without trouble. If Spelle gits on the prod I'll end the whole mix-up with a .45. That'll be the quickest way out of a lot o' argument."

"Shore, that's common sense," drawled Utah, with a wide grin. "Well, seein' that we know which way we're pointed I'm gonna grab off a round o' shut-eye. Me an' Al ain't been doin' such a hell of a lot o' sleepin' in the last week."

"Which goes fer me, too," nodded Tex. "I'm feelin' my age tonight."

"A'right," jibed Johnny. "You three broken down fossils hit the hay. Pink an' Pod an' me'll get yore packs made up an' grain yore broncs. We'll see that yore slippers an' pyjamas an' hot water bottles are all included."

"You git to hell outa here," threatened Tex, while the others rumbled with laughter. "Git—or I'll whale the tar outa yuh with a number ten boot."

Johnny fled, cackling, and the three old timers clanked wearily down to the bunk-house, soon to be buried deep in their blankets. Johnny and his two assistants labored nearly to midnight currying and graining horses and making up packs. It was Pod Fortune who made a trip to the bunkhouse and returned with two quart bottles of whiskey.

"Roll 'em up in a sack an' put 'em in," he boomed. "Be a pleasant surprise for the ole boys, come tomorrow night. Make 'em forget the sandfleas."

Tex and Utah Lynch and Al Burrows left the Box D early the following morning. The stars were still gleaming cold and bright when they herded their pack animals out of the corral and started them down into the purple depths of the Kanab Desert. Tex was the last to leave and he hesitated a moment, looking down at the silent bunkhouse. His stern, deeply seamed face was wistful, and his eyes just a wee bit hurt.

"Better get a wiggle on, yuh ole brindle-haird," came a gruff voice at his elbow. "The others are gettin' a lead on yuh."

Tex started slightly and turned. Johnny was standing there at his stirrup. Miraculously Tex's face cleared and for a moment a beautiful light glowed in his deep eyes. Johnny held up his hand and Tex gripped it mightily. His left hand went out and settled lightly on Johnny's towseled head.

"Take keer o' yoreself, son," he drawled gently. "If trouble breaks rememeber all I've taught you. Don't go bustin' into things without thinkin' yore moves out first. If yuh ain't here when I get back I'll pave this damn country with daid men."

"Hell!" gulped Johnny. "I'll be all right. It's you I'm worryin' about. Yuh're shore to bump into gun-play down south an' I won't be there to watch out fer yuh."

"Nemmine me—I kin get along. So-long Johnny."

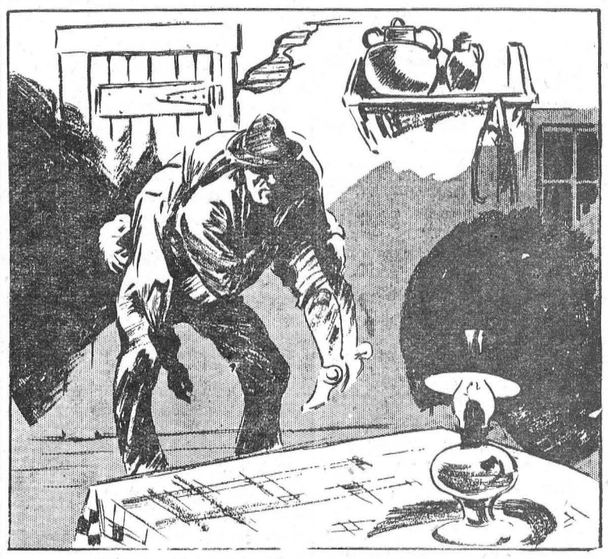
"So-long, Tex."

Tex rode away, a dark, creaking bulk in the half dawn. At the corral gate Johnny stood, watching and listening until the last sound of departure vanished. Then he turned slowly back to the bunk-house, swallowing thickly and blinking his eyes. He was strangely unashamed of the tears.

For the next three weeks Johnny drove Pink and Pod and himself unmercifully. There were a multitude of things to be done about the ranch, and every night the three youngsters dragged themselves to their blankets tremendously weary. But a month after Tex and Utah and Al Burrows had gone found everything about the ranch in tip-top shape.

From his daily seat on the porch, old Jim Delevan watched the progress with an approving eye.

"That boy Johnny is shore a go-getter," he remarked one evening to Ronny, who was perched beside him. "Pink an' Pod have done more work in the last month than they ever did in six before, an' darned if they don't seem happy in doin' it. They're gettin' that danged proud o' this ranch they ain't fit to live with."



"Strike a light, Johnny," said Pink. "Pod's hurt."

"They are good boys, all," answered Ronny softly. "So loyal and cheerful."

"Cheerful—yeah," nodded Delevan. "All except Johnny. That kid's worryin' about Tex. I kin tell it."

"I love him for it," said Ronny. "He worships old Tex. He—he'd die for him. I know he would."

Delevan nodded again. "I like that kid—sh-h-h, here he comes now."

Johnny came striding up out of the dusk and crossed the porch to Ronny and her father. He looked very tall and lean and capable, thought Ronny, her heart skipping a beat. And his usual devil-may-care face was set and grim and strangely harsh.

"Evenin' folks," he drawled. "I come up to say so-long for a time. I'm headin' south in the mornin'."

"I savvy," nodded Delevan. "Go ahead son, yuh've done mighty fine work in the past month an' things are in better shape than they've been for a year. I see Pink an' Pod haided fer town after dinner."

"Yeah," said Johnny, relaxing a little. "Them boys shore have earned a holiday. An' it was jest about a case o' have to. Pod was down to his last pair o' socks an' Pink's been on the verge o' tears for a week over the way his pants are fallin' apart. But they shore have worked."

"I'm raisin' their wages," declared Delevan abruptly. "I kin appreciate any man's efforts."

"Be all right if I take a couple o' spare hosses?" asked Johnny. "I aim to make a fast trip."

"Hell," snorted Delevan. "Do yuh need to ask? Take a dozen if yuh want 'em, son. I don't think yuh need to do any worryin,' but I ain't tryin' to hold yuh back."

"Take—take care of yourself, Johnny," she murmured, holding out her hand shyly.

Johnny gripped it in both of his. "They's jest two things worth while in life fer me, Ronny," he murmured with a kind of fierce tenderness. "Yuh an' Tex make up the herd. Yeah—I'll be back."

Just before midnight Johnny awoke with a start. Someone, grunting and stumbling, had entered the bunkhouse.

"Quien es?" called Johnny. "Who it it?"

"It's me—Pink," came the answer. "Strike a light Johnny, Pod's hurt."

Biggest Cheese

So huge was the cheese made by Nick Simon at Appleton, Wis., it was necessary to prepare it on a railway flat car. Fifty-nine different cheese factories were called upon to supply the curd for the 31,964 pound giant which was of excellent quality.

Slave-Ship Bible Student

Impressed into the Royal Navy on the British man-of-war, "Harwich," in 1742 at the age of 17, John Newton served as a midshipman for a short time.

For an attempt to desert the ship, while off Plymouth, the youthful midshipman was degraded and treated with such severity that he pleaded for transfer and was granted exchange to an African trading ship. After making numerous voyages as mate, Newton rose to captaincy and engaged in an active career commanding slave-ships from 1748 through 1754.

During this period, in spite of his horrible duties as a trader in human flesh, he spent all his leisure time studying religion. In 1755, Newton left the sea to take an appointment as tide-surveyor at Liverpool, but notwithstanding his paradoxical past, he yearned to gain a post in the English church.

Refused ordination by the archbishop of York in 1758, six years later he was offered the curacy of Olney. Accepting it, John Newton was ordained by the bishop of Lincoln and from then on, his rise in the church was rapid. In 1779 he was given the high post of rector in St. Mary Woolnoth, London, where he attained great popularity as a spiritual leader.

Brand New

"Brand" was derived from an old Anglo-Saxon word which meant "burn." Hence an article fresh from the forge was said to be brand-new. The popular belief that "brand-new" originated from the practice of putting brands or trade-marks on maufactured articles is erroneous.

EXPLAINED

Husband (reprovingly): "Didn't I hear you tell your friends that your pretty dress came from abroad?"

Wife: "Not exactly, dear. You see, it's last year's dress which I turned inside out. I simply said, "It's from the other side."

ELECTRIC HAZARDS AND FIRE

Few people realize that the electric pressing iron is a small portable furnace, the surface of which is capable of heating to a temperature equal to that of other types of stoves and furnaces. Its use and installation has never been restricted to any extent, and its safety has largely been left to the judgment of the user, most of whom have little or no knowledge of its dangerous nature. Everyone knows in a general way the destructive possibilities of fire and that stoves and furnaces if in contact with combustible material will cause fires. Therefore, everyone is constantly on the lookout to keep all combustible materials well away from stoves and furnaces. Yet there is hardly a user of the electric iron who does not unhesitatingly from time to time allow it to rest directly on unprotected cloth-covered ironing boards It is roughly estimated that over 2,000 fires are caused annually by over-heated irons, and in searching for the causes of the fires these facts become apparent.

1. That practically all the fires that result from the use of irons are directly or indirectly due to carelessness and indifference on the part of the users.

2. That fires of this origin start with the ignition of inflammable material under or at the sides of the iron, frequently because the iron does not rest on a good metal stand when not actually in use.

3. That properly built pressing irons under proper care and when provided with good safeguards are perfectly safe and harmless.

In order successfully to cope with the hazards of carelessness and negligence, it is necessary, as far as possible, to apply remedies that operate automatically. This is only possible with the electric iron which is equipped with an attachment called a thermostat that will at a given temperature shut off the current automatically. Another safeguard which can be safely recommended is the use of a pilot light, a red light which is connected in series with the pressing iron when the electric current is snapped on. A proper stand should always be provided regardless of any other safeguard on which to rest the iron when not in use. This stand should be of metal on legs that will raise it well above the surface of the ironing board.

I wish to repeat two precautions which are particularly applicable to the pressing iron. Know that your iron is one designed for attachment to the ordinary lighting circuit and that it does not overload the electrical circuit when in use, and be sure that the electric cord and plug used for attachment is in good condition.—Dominion Fire Commissioner at Ottawa.

CLELAND—IRVEN

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United church parsonage, of South Mountain, on Wednesday of last week, when Hazel Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cleland, of South Mountain, became the bride of Gordon Hollister, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Irven of Morewood. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Cleland, attired in green with black accessoies. The groom was assisted by his brother, Ray Irven, of Hallville. The bride wore a grey sheer tweed suit, white crepe satin blouse and matching accessories.

The happy couple later left on a motor trip to western points. On their return they will reside near South Mountain.

TOURING . . with an Easy Mind

. . . they keep in touch with home by TELEPHONE

At first the Hendersons couldn't bear the thought of being away from the family for any length of time. Then someone suggested leaving an itinerary behind; "You can always depend on Long Distance to find you if anything crops up . . . and you can call home whenever you feel like it yourselves." . . . The telephone is ready everywhere to serve you. Speedy, dependable, inexpensive, it keeps you within reach wherever you go.

SKILLED PLOUGHMEN AT CORNWALL PLOUGHING MATCH

If unforseen duties do not interfere, it is hoped that His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada will visit the International ploughing match which will be held at Cornwall, Ont., on October 6, 7, 8, 9 inclusive. The match is open to the whole world, and already celebrated ploughmen from different parts of Canada, particularly from Quebec, and from the Eastern United States, have intimated their intention to compete in the various entries. During the four days some exciting and exacting contests in the high art of skilful ploughing are expected both with horse-drawn and tractor ploughs.

The ploughmen and their friends, together with prominent visitors, will be the personal guests of the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, and everything has been done to make the four-days meeting a success by J. A. Carroll, secretary-manager of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association, East Block, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Reservations for the comfort of visitors have been made, and up to the present every indication points to an attendance far beyond former years.

The field in which the ploughing contests will be held is in the district described in Ralph Connor's books, particularly in the "Man From Glengarry," which a few years ago was a "best seller" and still is in demand.

An important part of the meeting will be the exhibition of all kinds of machinery and home accessories and conveniences.

MORRISBURG LIONS GET FINE START

Morrisburg Lions got off to a most successful start at their initial meeting last Thursday night. Ten members of the Ottawa Lions Club, which is sponsoring the Morrisburg service club, attended and led the Lions through the routine. In the chair was Organizer Vernon LaChance, who introduced Bruce Grayle, president of the Ottawa club, Clifford Cotter, ex-president, and several other members of the visiting Lions as speakers.

To add to the impressiveness of the Ottawa Lions' visit, Mr. Grayle offered to present the Morrisburg Club with their new gavel, and Mr George Smith, Ottawa Lion, presented them with a Union Jack and a Stars and Stripes.

President Arthur Flynn of the Morrisburg organization, appointed the following committee chairmen: William Roach, transportation; Charter Night, Arthur Cole; survey, Dr. D. A. Currie and Arthur Cole; civic improvement, George D. Howith; attendance, Malcolm Ault; constitution and by-law, Reeve A. Flynn; finance, W. L. Boland; membership, S. G. Finnie and W. R. Roach; entertainment and publicity, Paul Gormley. The Morrisburg Lions, it was decided, will meet on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, their Charter Night to be held on November 9th.

Membership buttons were presented to the Morrisburg Lions by the president and ex-president of the Ottawa Lions, Bruce Grayle and Clifford Cotter. Greetings were received from the Ottawa and Kingston clubs, the latter inviting the Morrisburg Lions to their Charter Night.

HONOURED AT INKERMAN

At the home of Mr. Dan and Miss Kate McDougall, on the banks of the north branch of the Nation River, Inkerman, Sept. 22, occurred one of the most interesting and pleasant social functions of the season, the occasion being the celebration of the 84th birthday of Mr. McDougall. The affair was in the nature of a surprise. At 8 p.m. the cars began driving in the yard and by 8.30 twenty-five friends and neighbours had arrived.

Special guests of the evening were Hon. Parker G. and Mrs. Bolton, Ruthven, Ont., and Dr. Redmond A. Bolton Agincourt, Ontario, cousins of Mr. and Miss McDougall.

A four-course dinner was enjoyed to the full. A three-storey birthday cake smothered with candles graced the centre of the table, which was later served to the guests.

An interesting programme was arranged, which included short speeches, stories and songs. The radio was turned on long enough to get the results of the Joe Louis and Al. Ettore prize fight and to hear the referree say, "Louis won in the fifth round by a knock-out."

During the evening a beautiful electric lamp was presented to Dan McDougall and a silver coffee percolator was presented to Miss McDougall.

This being the birthdays of Miss Dorothy Slater and Mr. Cecil Rae, suitable presents were presented to them. The recipients of the presents responded in well chosen words.

Mr. LaPorte, who made the presentations, had the following to say to Mr. McDougall:

Dear Dan:—

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we your friends have gathered here this evening in celebration of your eighty-fourth birthday. So lightly do the years rest upon you that many who are years younger might well envy your alertness, your firm step and the general interest which you display in the life of our community and the world in general.

We hope that the future years will deal as kindly with you as those which have gone by and that you will continue to enjoy the good health which has so long been yours.

On behalf of your many friends, we ask you to accept these gifts as a slight token of the love and esteem which your many friends hold for you, and we hope that they will long serve as a reminder of this very pleasant evening which so many of us have enjoyed.

Signed on behalf of your many friends.

The difference between man's law and God's law is that, whereas we may reach the highest standard set before us by the former, the more we advance in striving to fulfill the latter the higher it keeps rising above us.

HAD FINGERS AMPUTATED

While engaged in corn-cutting on the farm of Mrs. D. E. Forrester, one mile east of Mallorytown, last week, David McMurtie had the misfortune to lose all the fingers on his left hand and the thumb to the first joint, when the member became caught in the machinery.

PENNY BANK REPORT

At the end of June the 497 schools making deposits had to their credit $1,275,198.51, as compared with $1,263,-769.42 a year ago.

The average weekly percentage of pupils depositing during May and June in Eastern Ontario towns was as follows: Cornwall, 93; Morrisburg, 80; Pembroke, 38; Perth, 38; Gananoque, 36; Smiths Falls, 25; Carleton Place, 14; Arnprior, 8.

FINED AT KEMPTVILLE

Morris Grinsburg, of Ottawa, pleaded not guilty in magistrate's court at Kemptville last week to two charges; unlawfully driving a vehicle on the highway with a defective rear vision mirror, and reckless driving by using a badly worn tire. Evidence was given by Provincial Constable George Buck as to the mirror and tire and the magistrate imposed a fine of $1 and costs of $3.50 in the first case and a fine of $10 and costs of $6.50 in the second case. Grinsburg stated he could not pay the fine at once, and magistrate gave him 30 days in which to pay or in case of default, to go to jail for 30 days.

PROPER PUNISHMENT

A year ago last spring a Michigan youth drove his automobile into a group of pedestrians and killed two people, the parents of five children. Charges were brought against the youth, and just recently a final disposition of his case was made. Under a court order, he must pay $10 a week toward the support of the five orphaned children for five years. He must not drive an automobile again, and under no circumstances may he purchase liquor. The court put him on probation to make sure that these orders would be carried out. Here is a disposition of a traffic case which seems to be highly sensible. The young motorist is getting enough in the way of punishment surely, to impress on motorists generally the need for caution. Being kept away from liquor and automobiles, he won't repeat his offence. Meanwhile, he is compelled to render a substantial financial aid to the dependents of his victims. The whole might well set a precedent for similar cases elsewhere.—Alliston Herald.

BUTTER NOW GRADED

Under Dominion Government regulations which went into effect Sept. 1st, creamery butter as sold in retail establishments has to be marked as to grade on the wrappers. Such action is compulsory on the part of the dealers. Now the consumers will be spared paying grade 1 prices for grade 2 product.

PRESENTATION AT PLEASANT VALLEY TO NEWLYWEDS

The home of Mr. William Thorpe was the scene of a happy gathering on Wednesday evening of last week when friends from Pleasant Valley and Hulbert gathered to pay honor to his daughter, Margaret, who was recently married to Mr. George Bycroft of Shanly.

The young couple were presented with a rocking chair, an all-wool blanket and a purse of money, after which all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Luncheon was served and best wishes from those present extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bycroft.

$150,000 SUBWAY

That work will get under way this week on the $150,000 subway on the Ottawa-Morrisburg highway at Morrisburg, was the opinion expressed last Friday by H. O. Waddell, of the Canadian National Railways, who is to supervise the job. Construction of the subway will necessitate the removal of both tracks on the Canadian National Railways at that point, while the subway is being built, and their later removal back to their original position. The job, to be undertaken by The Holmes Construction Company, of Kemptville, will take several months, it is expected.

Our Column

When you turn over a new leaf fasten it down with cement.

No one thing in life makes a greater coward of a man than debt.

But for some trouble and sorrow we might never know half the good there is about us.

The reward of attainment is not repose, but a wider prospect and a new ambition.

Those who have real merit are the last to see it themselves and the first to detect it in others.

For home to look good to many people, it is necessary for them to get a long distance away from it.

Some mothers no sooner get their babies taught to talking that they start trying to teach them to keep still. Ho, hum!

Save all the wax paper that comes around bread. It is excellent for wiping off the range after each meal, for it polishes as well as cleans.

A man should never be ashamed to say he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

Sincerity is like travelling on a plain, beaten road, which commonly brings a man sooner to his journey's end than byways, in which men often lose themselves.

A great act does not perish with the life of him who performed it, but lives and grows up into like acts in those who survive the doer thereof and cherish his memory.

It seems quite fitting that Ontario's magistrates should wear morning clothes when they frequently have to deal with individuals in the throes of the morning after.—Exchange.

Monday, October 12th, is Thanksgiving Day, Surely we, in Canada, have plenty to give thanks for, compared with the lot of other countries. Let us all recognize this fact in our observance of Thanksgiving Day this year.

In a move to increase the dignity of the bench, Hon. A. W. Roebuck has ordered all magistrates while presiding at police court to wear either their legal robes or morning coat and striped trousers.

In an interview with the Press, Magistrate John McCormick said he was quite willing to conform with any system of dress that may be adopted.

THRESHING MILL DAMAGED

While turning into the gate at Mr. Ed. Merkley's farm, just east of Cass Bridge, on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Harold Baker accidentally missed a small bridge over a sluiceway and upset his threshing mill into the ditch. Considerable damage was done to the mill, but neither the driver nor the horses were injured.

FIVE CHURCHES IN CANADA UNITE TO HELP WESTERNERS

A joint committee of Presbyterians, United, Baptists, Roman Catholics and Anglicans has been formed to bring relief in the form of fresh food to the drought-stricken Western provinces.

A letter from the joint committee appealing for the co-operation of individuals was read in all the churches of the five denominations across Canada on Sunday including the churches of our town.

It is expected a generous response to the appeal will be made and that hundreds of carloads will be shipped into Saskatchewan and Alberta to be distributed.

LANNIN'S GARAGE OPENS BRANCH IN CHESTERVILLE

Mr. Harold Lannin has announced the opening of a new garage in Chesterville, under the capable management of Mr. Milton Shaver, a former member of the Melvin Staff of district salesmen. Mr. Shaver will devote his time to the sale of the new Ford V-8's, while Mr. Gordon Lannin will look after the servicing end of the business. The garage is one of the most up-to-date in the county and is ideally situated in the neighbouring village of Chesterville.

In introducing this new garage to the public, Mr. Lannin has something important to tell you—see advertisement on Page Five of this issue.
