Tenders to be Called for Senior Citizens' Rental Housing

Ontario Housing Corporation an nounced today that will be issuing tender calls immediately under a new technique for the development of family and senior citizen housing units in 50 locations during the next few weeks.

And among the locations in the east part of the province where tenders will be called are Morrisburg and Iroquois states the announcement from the Corporation received Thursday.

The tender calls, whch are for the production of over 2,000 housing units are expected to produce an estimated $30 to $40 million worth of family and senior citizen rental housing.

The new technique, called "Mod ified Tender Call", involves a builder using prelminary drawings provided b ythe Corporation for construction on properly zoned land owned by OHC.

The successful low bidder is expected to be able to commence construction within 50 days of the tender call closing, using final working drawings and detailed specifications developed by him from the preliminary OHC drawngs.

In the case of smaller senior citizen projects of less than two storeys and 50 units, OHC is implementing a further refinement of this technique to allow a contract to be based on preliminary drawings and project specifications.

Upon receipt by the Corporation of acceptable foundation draw ings, the successful contractor will be permitted to commence construction — this process can be completed in less than 30 days in most cases.

The announcement of such a large number of calls s the result of policy decisions by OHC over a year ago to start acquiring land and zoning approvals for anticipated developments at a rapid pace. This program has now reached the stage where a large num ber of sites for housing units are coming on stream in a short period of time.

The specific locations of the housing projects have been determined by OHC in consultation with municipal officials. Financing for construction is provided by a 90 percent loan from Central Mortgage and Housng Corporation, which the province repays with interest, and 10 percent from the Treasurer of Ontario.

To date OHC has under management over 60,000 units of rental housing for families and senior citizens. Over 12,000 additional units are in the construction or development stage.

Management of the completed units wll be by the local housing authority, or directly by OHC. Operating deficits are shared by the three levels of government: federal 50 percent, provincial 12½ percent, municipal 7½ percent.

The "Modified Tender Call" method is expected to be of considerable interest to residential builders and general contractors in many municipalities where private construction opportunities are presently limited. The availablity of OHC-provided preliminary drawings also reduces costs incurred by builders in the preparation of submissions.

In addition to the quick turnaround time between tendering and initiation of construction provided by this new technique, the "Modified Tender Call" also provides an opportunity to plan intensified activity n a short period of time.

The program covered by this announcement includes some projects advertised early in July; the remainder will be in rapid succession over the next month.

A New Member of Police Team in Eastern Ontario

Newest member of the Ontario Provincial Police at the Morrisburg Detachment, may yet become the best known of the force.

"Gunner" is a 1½ year old, 90-lbs. German Shepherd dog specially selectd for the O.P.P. Canine Program.

It's Tubie Time Again In Morrisburg Aug. 3-4

Fun time is here again and we know it is not going to be any different this year than any other year. We, in Tubie Heaven are planning a fast moving easy-pleasing weekend. Events begin with the tubie parade on Saturday, Aug. 3 at 2 p.m. The parade leaves from the dock and travels along Lakeshore to Meikle and from there proceeds along Fifth to the Shopping Centre. Be sure to catch a glimpse of some of the interesting crafts which will participate in the big race on Sunday afternoon. One thing which is a must for everyone in town is Tubie Pubnite. It happens at the Community Centre at 8:30 on Saturday night. There will be a super good band playing, called "Stagecoach", and they will provide music for everyone's taste. Later your taste buds will be satisfied by a very tantalizing buffet catered to by the Morrisburg Bakery. It will be a banquet no one should miss. Tickets are available at the Morrisburg Bakery or Casselman's Shoe Store. You'll be sorry if you miss it, so see you there! Trophies will be awarded for "most comical" and "most original" Tubie at Tubie Pubnite.

Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, the big race takes place. It leaves Mariatown Bay at 2:30 and the bigger and better Tubies should be rolling into the beach approximately thirty minutes later. It is a hard-fought battle and many calories are burned up in the process but the title of "King of the River" seems to be worth all of the sweat and toil. There will not be a barbeque this year, so pack a picnic lunch and proceed to the banks of the lovely St. Lawrence for an exciting, fun-filled afternoon. For anyone who still wishes to participate in the big race, entry forms are available at Casselman's Shoe Store. The more people, the more fun. so don't be shy, be a joiner, it's always more rewarding. See you there. Have a happy day. And remember. It's Tubie Time.

Today's Health

For many people, the word poison conjures up thoughts of a skull and crossbones on a sinister little bottle.

But you don't have to swallow poison to suffer its effects; in summertime especially, there are many toxic substances around that work through the skin.

These can be broadly categorized into four main types — those found in the man-made chemicals used on plants, in certain types of plants themselves, in inscts, animals and reptiles, and in soil or water.

So far as chemicals are concerned, the summer farmer or gardener should treat herbicides, fungicides and insecticides with caution. Many of them are powerful enough to do damage to human beings as well as to weeds and bugs. Wear protective clothing to avoid skin contact with these substances.

Among poisonous plants, there's enormous variety — and the severity of their effects depends more on the person's sensitivity than on the plants themselves. Even so, the number of severe reactions to plant poisons increases each year.

For example, about 10 per cent of those who come in contact with poison ivy suffer reactions — which can get worse with repeated contact. Mild forms of poisoning from this plant can be treated by washing the affected area with strong soap, and by using calamine lotion. More serious effects, such as extensive swelling and itching, will require medical help.

Stings from bees, wasps and hornets — while obviously no treat for the object of these insects' attentions — are generally more of an irritation than a danger except for hypersensitive persons; multiple stings, however, can produce a dangerous toxic reaction because of the large amounts of venom injected into the system.

The only protection is to leave these insects alone, and to discourage them from coming close by covering food. If you know you're allergic, especially to the bee, which can sting only once but leaves its sting in the victim's skin, you'd do well to cover yourself as well.

Horse flies, black flies, mosquitoes and midges aren't poisonous, but their bites can produce infection. Insect repellent may help, but if it doesn't create the same holocaust as the ones in the TV commercials, you should seek treatment both for local symptoms and possible infection.

Your best protection against potentially harmful animal and reptile bites is to observe these creatures from a distance. Foxes, skunks, bats and racoons are affected with rabies more frequently than other animals, but any animal behaving peculiarly should be avoided.

Finally, water and soil can present hidden (but no less serious) poisoning hazards. Avoid swimming in polluted waters, and, on land or water, be on the lookout for tetanus-inducing cuts from rusty nails or broken glass.

The secret is to recognize the possible sources of poison — and avoid them. Armed with that knowledge, you'll stand a better chance of avoiding the doctor's office during your summer vacation.

Changes in the Dental Office

Dentists probably suffer more backaches, leg cramps and fallen arches than most other professionals in Canada.

The next time you visit your dentist you might find out that he has done something to combat his "occupational hazards."

Many dentists today are turning to the use of inter-related work stations arranged in an open operational setting. Modular units which bring the dentist's equipment and lab facilities within comfortable reach of both the dentist and his assistant are set up. The dentist works on one side of the patient, his instrument tray out of the patient's sight but well within easy reach. The assistant works on the other side with immediate access to a make ready and sterilizing station, a dark room and a laboratory. The patient, in the middle of the work station sits in an inviting, comfortable and stylish chair.

After hundreds of years of standing the dentist now has a choice between standing and sitting, work ing on an upright or a reclined patient, and being able to work with an effective assistant.

Changes in dentistry - changes with you in mind.

What & How to Tell Your Teens

How do parents react when their teenage children get caught up in today's sexual revolution? With sympathy and understanding or with fear? How does an expert on teenagers and their sexual problems deal with his own children?

Richard Stiller, author of The Love Bugs: A Natural History of the VDs and popular articles about teenagers and sex, and his wife, Fanny, have found a formula that seems to work for them.

"We believe in an atmosphere of freedom and discussion and talk about 'far-out' subjects like abortion and venereal disease," says Stiller whose daughter Helen is 16 and son Michael is 13½. "But we're strict on curfews and other rules. It's the kids' job to fight for their freedom. It's our role as parents to resist and say 'no'."

Too many parents worry about their youngsters "in the wrong way for the wrong reasons," th writer thinks. Fearful that their children are becoming sexual beings, these parents make the same mistake their parents made when they were young — invasion of privacy. Some go to the extreme of listening in on teenage telephone conversations, reading private diaries or opening their chldren's mail.

"Even when you're a 12-year-old you're entitled to not having your parents read your mail," comments Stiller. "Having a life of your own is part of becoming an adult. Kids have a right to privacy and internal dignity.

Mom and Pop Guidance

Parental authority and guidance should not be minimized, however. Books on sex — what it is, how it's done, what the problems and the joys are — can be a big help. "But don't hand it to the kids — they'll never read it," contends Stiller. He says when Helen and Michael were younger he and his wife kept informative books on their bdroom dresser. "The kids wanted to know 'why are you reading that?' and before we knew — they were gone!"

Stiller is also a firm believer in the power of parlance. "Grit your teeth," he tells parents who feel too embarrassed to discuss sexual matters, "and remember there's no substitute for the simple truth."

There is a danger in giving too much information — too soon. "By appearing to be 'liberal' you may actually push your child into a relationship he or she is not ready for, and may not want. On the other hand, you don't want to give them a license for sexual activity. The decision has to be theirs alone," Stiller advises.

This suburban father says he and his wife occasionally take positions they feared might be considered too rigid, only to find they were accepted with "equanimity and almost relef." He says that by setting standards and limits you offer kids an out. "They're able to say 'Gee, I'd like to— but my father would kill me!"

Teenage Responsibility

Teenagers have a "responsibility to be responsible," too. "They should ask questions, read and assimilate. If they're going to be sexually active, it's up to them to know how to prevent pregnancy and venereal disease," says the writer, adding "most of t h e m don't worry about it until they think it might have happened — I guess that's human nature."

"The Love Bugs" (Thomas Nelson, $5.95) is Richard Stiller's newest book for teenagers. "Gonorrhea, now the most prevalent infectious disease in the world, is most common among young people from 15 to 24," he points out. Yet when Stiller surveyed his daughter's friends for questions they had about VD, "their biggest concern was not prevention or treatment — but keeping it a secret!"

RESCUE BREATHING (MOUTH-TO-MOUTH)

THE CANADIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY

Start immediately: The sooner you start, the greater the chance of success.

Open airway by lifting neck with one hand and tilting the head back with the other hand.	Pinch nostrils to prevent air leakage. Maintain open airway by keeping the neck elevated.	Seal your mouth tightly around the victim's mouth and blow in. The victim's chest should rise.	Remove mouth. Release nostrils. Listen for air escaping from lungs. Watch for chest to fall.

REPEAT LAST THREE STEPS TWELVE TO FIFTEEN TIMES PER MINUTE.

YOURS SINCERELY

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

In this corner of the world, the summer seems to be at its best, at the moment, especially after a wet and somewhat chilly Spring.

I have been out a good deal, walking as well as by car, and really, the countryside near and far, is very beautiful indeed. The heavy foliage of the trees give a welcome shade from the hot sunshine, lots of tiny wild animals are to be seen, as well as many kinds of birds from the south. I have enjoyed watching the butterflies of various sizes and hue as they flutter past here and there, so different to the bees which are equally as plentiful. However, these always appear to be more definite as to their journey's end.

Watching bees has always been of interest to me, and I once read a book about their life and their hives, and of the tremendous work which goes on inside the hive as well as outside of it. Once, a big bee alighted on my arm while I was sitting under the tree in the garden. I decided I had better keep perfectly still if I didn't want to be stung! It just turned round and flew away, giving me a little time to admire its beautiful and colourful markings on its back. This reminded me of something I had read just recently and after looking it up, I decided to quote it: "There was a keeper of bees named Bradshaw, and he had a label printed and stuck on every jar of honey he sells. The label says . . . Honey bees have gathered nectar from approximately 4 million, 5 hundred thousand clusters of clover, and have travelled about 150 thousand miles, equal to many times around the world, to deliver this jar of honey to you." (end of quote)

Perhaps those of us who enjoy nature's sweetness, might like to consider this, the next time we put a little honey on our bread or toast, for we do need a summer like this in order to get any honey at all, for the honey comes from many other flowers besides clover. A poet by the name of David Hope today expresses it like this . . .

There's no air like the country air,
Rich as heather honey;
You cannot buy a scent so sweet
For any kind of money."

And now, as I finish writing this, I have come almost to the end of another perfect day of summer. The evening sky is clear and the sun is slowly sinking in the west. The silvery half moon is rising high from the south. I am reminded of a similar Sabbath evening which happened, so the story goes, a hundred years past, and so I quote:

"A lone figure stood gazing out over the hills of Cheshire (one of England's very lovely northern counties and well known to me) "He was a clergyman, the Rev. John Ellerton, and he was making his way home from the evening service. As he turned to look back at his church, his eyes were drawn to the sky.

It had been a perfect summer's day. Now, as the sun sank in the west, the heavens were ablaze with crimson, gold and purple, breath-taking in its beauty. John stood in silence, thrilled by the splendour of the sunset, then walked slowly on.

All this took place a century ago, but we can still share John's thoughts as he arrived home that night.

For he wrote of that sunset, and all it meant to him, in lines that have become one of the most beloved of our evening hymns . . .

'The day Thou gavest, Lord, is ended,
The darkness falls at Thy behest
To Thee our morning hymns ascended,
Thy praise shall sanctify our rest . . ."(end of quote)

You know, I have yet to read anything as good and as beautiful from our modern poets of the 1970's. To be able to write like that of one's deepest and innermost feelings by pen or pencil... which have been aroused by glorious scenes of colour, is surely one of god's own gifts.

Some have even been able to reproduce colours of summer on to canvas, and others have even managed to reproduce their feelings to music. So it is left to many of us, including myself, to learn to appreciate the manifold works of the Almighty during the summers as they come in turn with the rest of the seasons, down the years.

To be able to be out, from daybreak to sun-down, during a glorious summer day, no matter where, proves my point. Would you agree?

Make this salad ahead for your convenience.

Summer Menu

Zesty Vegetable Salad, a summer pelaser, is elegant but unbelievably easy to make. It's an appealing collage of marinated vegetables that lends color and nutrition to any meal — simple or sophisticated, say Food Specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Even on lazy summer days we can't forget about nutrition and planning meals around the basic food families. Rutabaga, carrots, cauliflower, and green pepper all belong to the vegetable family; so besides adding flavor, color, and texture to meals, they also provide necessary vitamins and minerals.

Try Zesty Vegetable Salad soon. Its superb blend of flavors is marvelous with cold meats. Because it's prepared in advance, the cook can relax in the summer sun, knowing that vegetables are ready for serving.

Zesty Vegetable Salad

A recipe that "sounds strange" but looks and tastes great, It's a colorful blend of crunchy vegetables marinated in a zesty dressing — and the curry can hardly be detected!

Ingredients:
1 medium rutabaga, pared and sliced very thin (about 2 cups)
3 medium carrots, pared and sliced (1½ cups)
½ small cauliflower, broken in flowerets (2 cups)
1 small green pepper, cut in strips (½ cup)
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt

Dressing:
1/2 cup vinegar
1/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup salad oil
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Quarter rutabaga slices. Drop vegetables into boiling salted water. Do not cover. Boil for 5 minutes or till tender-crisp. Drain and cool. In screw-top jar, combine vinegar, sugar, oil, curry, the remaining salt and pepper. Cover and shake vigorously. Pour dressing over vegetables; toss lightly. Refrigerate several hours or overnight, stirring vegetable mixture occasionally.

Makes 8 servings 3/4 cup each. Great with cold meats.

Recipe tested and approved by the Ontario Food Council.

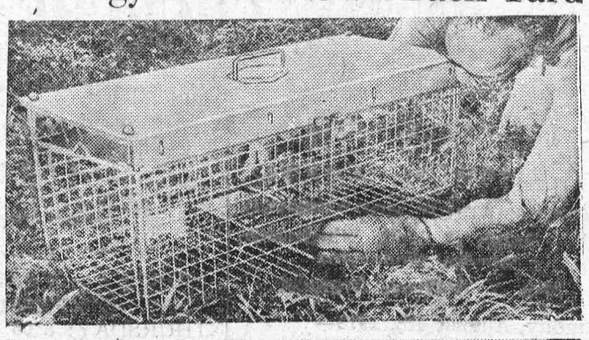
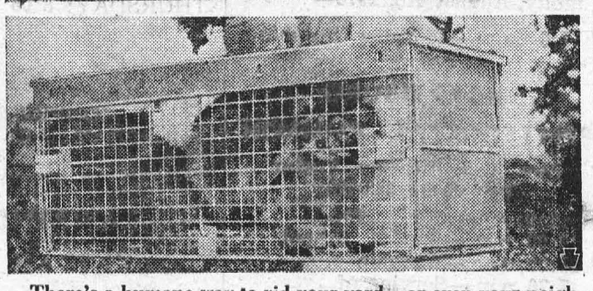
Ecology In Your Own Back Yard





There's a humane way to rid your yard—or even your neighborhood — of unwanted animals, pests or predators without harming them. It's called the "Tender Trap," and has been used for some time by conservation officials in several areas.

The "Tender Trap" makes animal control easy, humane and even educational. It is described by its manufacturer as "a cage-like device which is designed to catch predators and nuisance animals, as well as birds, without harming them."

It is even used by a considerable number of conservation officers in their regular animal control activities.

Basically, it's an updated and portable version of the trap that was used to catch the lion in every Tarzan movie from 1930 on. Entering the trap, the animal or bird goes for the bait and trips the sensitive bait pedal. As he begins to move — backward or forward — the fold-up doors quickly snap shut, making escape impossible.

The unique door design provides maximum utilization of overall trap dimensions. The doors open the entire enclosure to large animals.

The Tender Trap is available in four models, designed to trap everything from rats and squirrels to bobcats and large racoons.

Described as the most humane and effective live trap available, the Tender Trap is ideal for suburbanites, city-dwellers and farmers. After the pest is trapped it can be relocated to a more favorable habitat.

School-age youngsters, youth organizations as well as conservation-minded home owners are making use of the Tender Trap all over the country to help control pests harming their own homes, their camp grounds, athletic fields and such. This activity is gratifying, fun and educational. The Tender Trap also enables club and scout leaders to teach population ecology and conservation.

For further information on the Tender Trap®, visit your local lawn and garden supply, hardware or sporting goods outlet or write to Woodstream Corporation, Niagara Falls, Ont. L2E-6T3.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carkner were: Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Taylor of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carkner of Ypsalanti, Michigan.

On May 28th, Gord Mulholland planted their garden and on July 28th they had a boiled dinner of potatoes, cabbage, carrots, turnips and beans. This may not be a record, but we think it is a good average.

Capt. ePrry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Smith has recently been promoted to Major in the Provost Corps of the Canadian Forces and is now stationed in Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold O'Shaughnessy of Owen Sound spent a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tim LaPierre.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim LaPierre spent a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. David Killins, and Mr. Roger and Graham Reid at Schumacher, Ontario.

Negotiations have been completed to bring another dentist to Iroquois, and within a couple of weeks he should be established in the new medical building. Dr. Kun Y. Diu, a native of Hong Kong, is a graduate of the University of Ottawa, where he received his B.Sc. degree in Biochemistry. Following his graduation from Ottawa in 1970, he entered the Faculty of Dentistry at the University of Toronto, graduating in May with the Degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

Friends of Mrs. Ruth Sturgess will regret to learn that she suffered a broken foot in a recent fall at her home, and was forced to postpone a planned trip to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Reid of Oshawa ,Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Killins and family, Toronto, visited Mrs. Wm. Cochrane of Deseronto, a former resident of Morrisburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Mooney of Ottawa.

John Anderson, Assistant Agricultural Representative for Dundas County, earnd himself a niche in the local golfing hall of fame last week when he scored an ace at Williamsburg's Cedar Glen golf course. Hole number 8 proved to be the lucky one for Mr. Anderson and it was the second time this season a player had secured a hole-in-one on that particular hole. Gary Duvall of Morrisburg, was the first to accomplish the feat.

WHAT DOES SUMMER MEAN TO YOU . .

Summe ris a special time for all of us. For the city dweller, it's hot pavement, cool drinks and vacation time. For the farmer, it is a time of work, of hoping for rain — or hoping the rain will stop. For children, it is the very essenc of childhood.

For one group of Canadians, it 's a time of crisis. Every summer the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service runs short of blood. The normal needs go on and there is usually an increase in the accident rate: this demand for blood and blood products increases every year. For the volunteers of Red Cross who recruit donors, summer is a time of bruised telephone dalling fingers as they step up their efforts.

Summer is a time when a great many people leave home; they move to cottages, they go on camping trips, motor trips, boat trips and airplane trips. Sometimes they simply go to a neighbour's home to answer the telephone when the blood donor recruitment backyard pool. There is no one volunteer calls.

Please share the joys of summer. Before you leave home, drop in at your local blood clinic and make a donation. It will take only a half-hour of your time. And this small effort on your part can help as many as five people back to health.

Blood donors love life.

Please come to the RED CROSS BLOOD CLINIC

SHARE to play at EVENT

One of the happenings at the Montreal and Ottawa Conference United Church Women Summer Event being held at the College Marie-Victoria in Montreal August 9, 10 and 11 will be music supplied by "SHARE".

"SHARE" is a group of fifteen young people drawn from the area around Kemptville. It is under the leadership of Mrs. Lil Williams and Preston Gilmer.

Their slogan is "The Church message but not necessarily church music". The group began because there was a feeling that the music we hear today has a great deal to offer the church. 4 years ago, "SHARE" provided music for the first tme at St. Andrew's United Church, Heckston, Ontario. Their music ranges from "On Top of the World" to "Amazing Grace" and now includes some originals written for the group.

"SHARE" music is non-rock, and is meant to entertain and involve the listeners. The feeling wthin the group is one which supports the idea that there are many songs today which have a very meaningful message.

Living up to their title of "All in the Church Family", the organizers of the event this year have invited all members of the family, women, men and youth. Besides the musc, which is in the capable charge of David Irwin of Winchester, there will be many other interest groups included in the programme at the Evnt, including: The Growing Family (Mrs. Margaret Houston), Dealing with Grief (Rev. J. Sinclair), Crafts (Mrs. Marg. Collins), Worship (Burn Purdon), Senior Citizens (Mrs. Evelyn McOuat), Rural Ministry (Rev. Peter McKellar) and Political Action (Mary Alexander).

Activities for the three days will range from listening to speakers, discussion groups, worship, music, social hours, something called "Impromptu Fun" and a mysterious "Surprise".

Highlight of the event ths year will be the two speakers, Dr. Merle R. Jordon of the School of Theology and Pastoral Psychology at Boston University and Rev. Peter McKellar of the Division of Missions in Canada, an expert on Outreach, Stewardship and Rural Ministry.

George M. Cohan singing Give My Regards to Broadway, The Romance of Helen Trent, Joan Crawford in Mildred Pierce, the Brazilian bombshell Carmen Miranda — it's the sound of the '40's One More Time on The Entertainers starting Sunday, August 4 This nine-week nostalgia series is prepared by Doug Lennox, who has often tripped down memory lane for CBC Radio. He also appears as a co-host on CBC-TV's Juliette and Friends. Host for One More Time is Bill Kemp, a Canadian actor who played the male lead for a year in the soap opera Valiant Lady. Sheila Shotton plays the part of a gushy Hollywood reporter.

Adanac Avenue, a situation comedy series with an ethnic twist, begins the same date on The Entertainers. Marilyn Lightstone, Wendy Thatcher, Dan Hennessy, Errol Bruce and John Stocker double up as variety of characters with different accents and attitudes who dwell on a typical suburban street. Host-narrator is Allan McFee, a man whose great comic sense is revealed by his witty contribution to The Max Ferguson Show and the offbeat music series, Eclectic Circus.

Host Lubomyr Mikitiuk takes listeners on a tour of Caribana, Toronto's annual Caribbean carnival on Identities, Monday, August 5. In August, Lubomyr and producer Richard Osicki will visit Ottawa and Montreal, and in September, the west, to gather stories for later broadcast on Identities.

In another ten years, it will be 1984, the time of George Orwell's mythical society. How close are we to that day when Big Brother will watch our every action? Monday, August 5 Ideas presents a three-part series, George Orwell: A Reassessment 10 Years From 1984, on the British novelist and essayist, and his Austrian counterpart Karl Kraus.

An evening of midsummer revels will be re-created on CBC Tuesday Night, August 6 when the Grand Concert Orchestra plays music from the Baroque and Classical eras from old Montreal's Youville Stables. Listeners to this memorable hour of music, are invited to "cast away melancholy and to embrace the joys of sweet music and the dance"

LETTER No. FIVE

Fort Henry Letter

HEALTH AT FORT HENRY

Fractured skulls, lacerations, gunshot wounds, drownings and stabbings — these were all in a day's work for a regimental surgeon at Fort Henry.

Every regiment in the British Army had its own surgeon and assistant surgeon to treat the troops. The soldiers garrisoned at Fort Henry never suffered any battle wounds, though, because the fort was never attacked. However they managed to fall victim to numerous ailments and accidents.

Poor ventilation, meagre rations cramped, unsanitary living quarters, loose morals, drinking and carousing all contributed to the decline in the men's state of health and the spread of disease.

Take the case of one Private Bonwood, a man "much addicted to drinking", who dropped dead from "an effusion of blood from the brain", presumably due to too much exertion at drill. Or consider poor Ensign Godfrey, who fell headlong into a ditch while escorting some ladies home from Fort Henry late one dark night. Is it any wonder that ten per cent of Fort Henry's troops were always in the hospital?

Rather than burden Kingston's hospitals with patients from Fort Henry, the British Army in the 1820's ordered a military hospital built to accommodate the troops.

The main building in the hospital enclosure, situated in a secluded spot on the east shore of Point Henry, was a three-storey stone structure, complete with cellars, privies, a kitchen, store rooms, operating roms and wards for about 30 patients, plus a medical oficer. Also contained in the enclosure were a well, a stone guard house, a straw store room and a "dead house" for storage and dissection of cadavers.

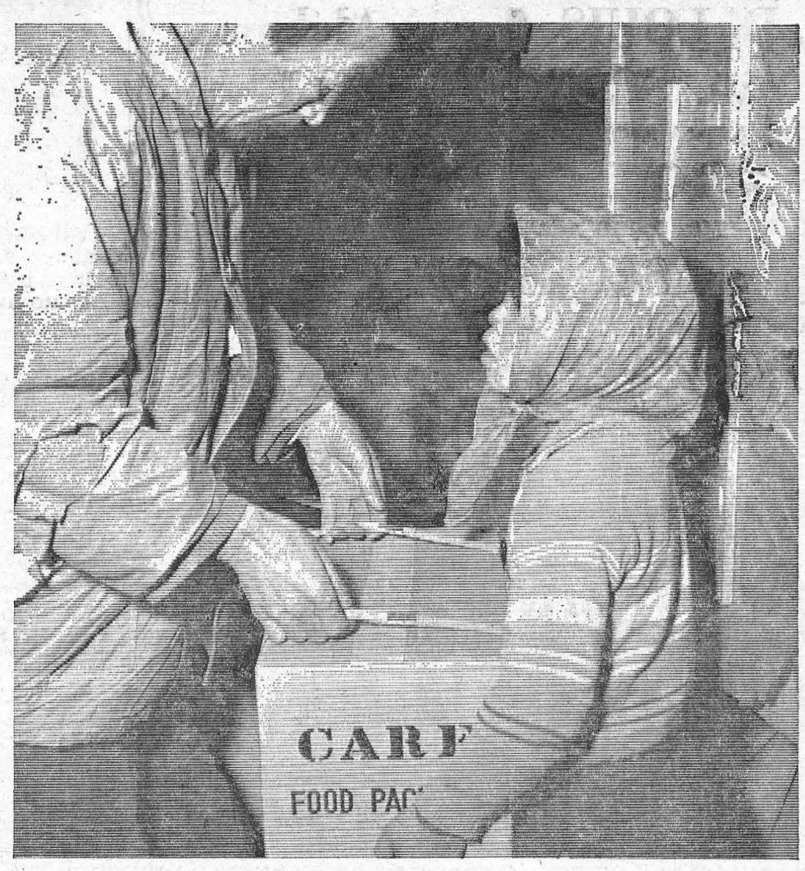
This hospital was exclusively for the soldiers in garrison at Fort Henry, but their wives, children and servants could also benefit from free medical care, whether they lived at the fort or in town. Understantably, the regimental surgeon had his hands full.

His standard remedy for any ailment — from powder burns to labour pains — was bleeding. Failing that, the doctor would invent and prescribe a dose of herb-brewed tea. Medical knowledge was advancing in leaps and bounds, but superstitionsstillpersisted about the dangers of cool drinks and fresh air.

Today all that remains of the hospital is the small stone guard house, overlooking a charming picnic area. Old Fort Henry is now a restored historic site, operated by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

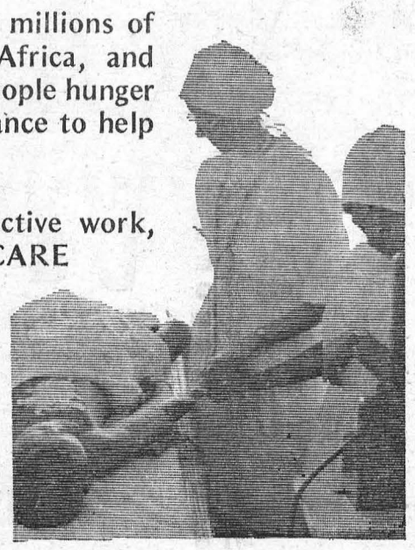
It is manned during the summer months by the Fort Henry Guard, a group of Canadian high school and university students who drill just as hard and spend their leisure time in much the same way as their counterparts a century ago. The happy part is — they are much, much healthier!

CARE is more than just a package



It's people helping people

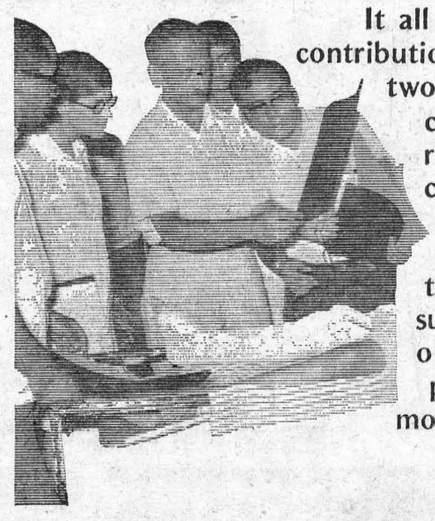
Each day CARE feeds millions of hungry families in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. But, these people hunger for more than food: the chance to help themselves.



They yearn for productive work, for education, for tools. CARE works to satisfy these hungers.

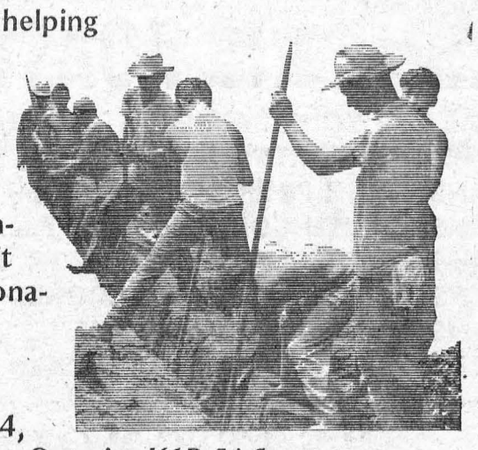
Throughout the developing world Canadian CARE teams co-operate with local people in an effort to provide better nutrition, safe water, permanent housing, less illiteracy, more and better medical services, and information about family planning.

Through CARE's partnership program local governments give what they can and the people volunteer their labour.



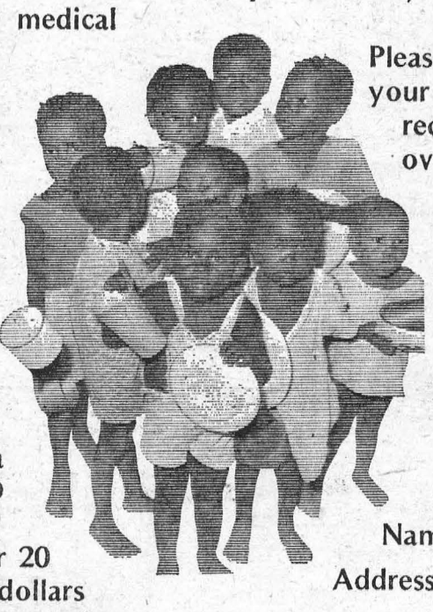
It all starts with YOUR contribution to CARE. For two dollars CARE can provide nourishing food to 180 children. Five dollars provide a CARE MEDICO team with enough suturing material for 20 operations. Ten dollars provide enough cement to mold 400 construction blocks.

CARE is people helping people to help themselves. But most of all, CARE is YOU making all this possible.



CARE is a non-governmental, non-profit organization and all donations are tax deductible.

Send your dollars to:
CARE of Canada, Dept. 4,
63 Sparks Street, Ottawa, Ontario, K1P 5A6



Please cut out this coupon and return it with your donation. CARE will send you an official receipt and a report on current programs overseas.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Donald looks wistful and no wonder. In his eight years, this young lad has suffered rejection more than once, so he must often wonder, when he meets people, what their attitude will be. Because Donald really wants to belong to a family, he is enthusiastic about the idea of adoption. But he is anxious too. Will any people want me? And if they do, will they keep on wanting me? For Donald's sake let us hope for warmly affirmative answers to both questions very soon.

Donald is a pleasant, friendly boy doing well in school. He speaks clearly, expresses himself well and is a good reader. He is not so good at writing and drawing though he is improving. His teacher says he has good potential.

Anglo-Saxon in descent, Donald is small in stature with blue eyes, light brown hair and fair skin. His smile shows deep dimples. He wears glasses for near-sightedness. Donald is strong and healthy, a recently discovered heart murmur having been diagnosed as not significant.

This good-natured, kind youngster is always willing to help anybody. His foster parents say he is mischievous but only in a normal eight-year-old way and is easily disciplined. He gets on well with children and with adults too once he feels he knows them.

Donald needs a mother and father who will welcome him and love him and help him learn that family relationships can last. It is especially important that the adopting father values family activities and wants to spend a lot of time with his son.

To inquire about adopting Donald. please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.

THE SECOND FORTY

Two Year Wait

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I am 40-plus, the mother of two grown children, and divorced. (My husband deserted the family.) I met a man who has a common-law wife and an adopted child whom he supports. About two years ago, he proposed but his personal problems delayed the marriage. Now I'm glad because I realize our marriage would have been a disaster. He's a liar, a heavy drinker, and constantly involved in get-rich-quick schemes that end in failure. I'm not writing for advice; just to get this off my chest. Y. C.

Dear Y.C.:

You're fortunate in having discerned the man's shortcomings before you married him. His problems and pretexts delayed the marriage but worked to your advantage. You don't need this guy's problems.

Shower Gifts

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I went to many bridal showers about 25 years ago when I, and my friends, were young. Lately, I have received a number of invitations to bridal showers for the children of friends and relatives. Boy, has the world changed! The young hostess of the shower I attended last week actually had the audacity to suggest gifts, all very expensive items. Her excuse: she wanted to avoid duplication. I was surprised at tthe costly gifts the bride-to-be received: sets of blankets; a vacuum cleaner. I have two more invitations this month. Must my gifts be expensive ones? H.C.

Dear H.C.:

While it's true that some guests now give as shower gifts what were, in the past, considered suitable wedding presents, there's no need to be intimidated into wrecking your budget for the next two bridal showers. You can find appropriate gifts, ranging from towels to kitchenware, if you shop wisely.

Husband's Boss

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

About two years ago, my husband started a new job. Two weeks ago, his boss invited a few men, and their wives, a dinner. The boss, a widower, is very attractive. I was flattered, for he was most attentive to me. I have been thinking about his ever since. I toyed with the idea of phoning him on some pretext. Am I being foolish? L.D.

Dear L.D. :

Before you pick up the phone, think about the consequences. If the call works the way you hope it will, you may lose your husband. If it doesn't, your husband may lose his job, especially if your approach is viewed as an unwelcome nuisance.

The rest is up to you.

Delivering a constant flow of power, dependably and safely—that's your Hydro's round-the-clock responsibility. And because electricity provides so many services so dependably, most homeowners can take it for granted.

And yet, in many homes over ten years old, the quality of service is severely restricted—simply because the wiring is outdated and inadequate.

Rewiring can make a world of difference: In convenience, by providing ample outlets and switches where you want them. In performance, by bringing full power to your appliances so that they can operate at peak efficiency. In safety, by eliminating the hazards of an overburdened wiring system. Good reasons for giving top priority to your home wiring when you consider making improvements.

To find out what rewiring can do for your home, call a qualified Electrical Modernization contractor. And ask him about the Hydro Finance Plan—an easy way to fit the work into your budget.

DEADLINE FOR CLASSIFIEDS IN THE LEADER IS TUESDAY NOON

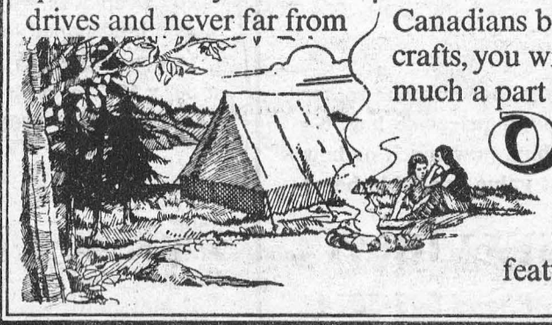
Old times~ Good times Not so far away.

You're less than a day's drive from a 1st class vacation experience that lets you get back to nature, make your home by the waters, and savour life as it used to be.

The St. Lawrence Parks Commission, which cares for Old Fort Henry, Upper Canada Village, and 14 major park sites between Lake Ontario and the Quebec border, invites you to consider our riverside pastimes.

The Parks: more than 6000 acres of greenspace, linked by scenic drives and never far from The Heritage Hwy. (No. 2), or the 401, offer campers picnic grounds, beaches, golf and many fully serviced sites.

Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg (401 exits 119 and 120), brings together in one place the story of pioneer Ontario. Among the 40 odd authentic buildings and a host of costumed Upper Canadians busy at their crafts, you will feel very much a part of the 1800's.



Old Fort Henry at Kingston, with access via exit 104, features precision drills daily by the famed Fort Henry Guard. On Wednesdays and Saturdays until Labour Day, with the exception of August 21 and 24, a spectacular sunset retreat ceremony will be staged.
