H. S. Commencement

Lannin's Hall was filled to capacity on Friday evening last, in spite of the inclement weather, when the annual commencement exercises of the Winchester High School were held.

The program opened with several selections by an old-time orchestra, composed of Cecil Strader, Dixon Hutt, Gordon Wilson and Harry Strader, after which a junior chorus of girls rendered in a pleasing manner, three selections, "O Canada," "Land of Hope and Glory," and "There's An Old Spinning Wheel."

In opening his remarks as chairman, Mr. E. J. Spinks, principal of the school, stated his pleasure at seeing so large an audience present on such a disagreeable night. It was gratifying also to the students, to whom the commencement was the biggest event in the school year.

A delightful folk dance by the senior girls was next presented and drew hearty applause from the audience. The dance was under the direction of Miss Anne Henderson, while Miss June Sharpe acted as the accompanist. Those taking part in the dance were the Misses Jean Vail, Mima Campbell, Margaret Hitsman, Eleanor Melvin, Jean Scott, Ruth Walker, Beatrice Jackson and Margaret Walker.

"The Swineherd," a comic fantasy, presented by a junior cast, was well received by the audience. The directors were Miss Henderson and Mr. T. J. Hawkins, with the following taking part: King, Dan Blair; princess, Betty Davies; prince, Charles Davidson; messenger, Blake McKendry; maids of honour, Jean Vail, June Sharpe and Doris Herriman; pages, Hubert MacCaulay, John Campbell and Don Rowat.

Diplomas Presented

A most interesting feature of the program was the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class, scholarships and athletic awards, under the chairmanship of Dr. J. J. McKendry. Mr. D. H. Weir, a member of the High School board, presented the graduation diplomas to the following students: Misses Mima Campbell, Madge Coons, Eva Gibson, Evelyn Erratt, Edith Hill, Mary McIntosh and Ruth Walker. The diplomas, beautifully designed, are awarded to students who have completed the required number of courses in Lower, Middle and Upper School work and have come to be highly prized among the students.

Scholarships for outstanding achievement have come to play a leading part in the life of the school and keen competition has resulted. Mr. Hy. Bessin, donor of four scholarships in the 1st and 2nd forms, next made the presentations to winners in this year's class as follows: Form I, Lillian Walker; Form II, Ronald Cass, the awards being a certificate and cheque for $10. The students with second highest standing in each form were: Form I, Ritchie Allison; Form II, Betty McKendry and Blake McKendry, (tied) each receiving a book, also the gifts of Mr. Bessin.

Mr. J. D. Stewart next made the awards to the third and fourth form students who won the Literary Society Scholarships as follows: Form III, Teddie Weir, James McKendry; Form IV, Edward Annable and Ruth Walker. Winners were given certificates and cheques for $10, while the runners-up received $5. cheques.

Dr. J. J. McKendry, chairman of the Board of Education, made the presentation of the Board Scholarship to Miss Mima Campbell, of Vernon, who achieved distinction in her work in the fifth form. The award took the form of a certificate and cheque for $25.

Magistrate John McCormick was next asked to make the presentation of the athetic awards to the winners in the various divisions. Medals were granted to Miss Willena Hurley, midget girls' champion, Miss Gladys Folkard; junior girls' champion; Miss Betty McKendry, intermediate girls' champion; Clark Curtis, midget boys' champion; Ronald Cass, junior champion; Jim McKendry, intermediate champion; while the Board of Education cup, an historic trophy which is highly prized, was awarded to Nairn Boyd, as senior champion.

Mr. W. H. Agnew, in the absence of Mr. James H. Ross, the donor, made the presentation of the cup to Miss Albra Boyd, emblematic of the senior girls' championship. As this was the third successive year in which Miss Boyd had won the trophy, it has now become her permanent possession.

Dr. J. J. McKendry next presented the Meikle Cup and the Cornwall Collegiate trophy to Nairn Boyd, Teddie Weir and Lloyd Rowat, the cups signifying the championships of the United Counties and the district E. O. S. S. A.

In appreciation of his interest during during the year, Sam Ault, captain of the school football team, made the presentation of a cheque to Mr. William Servage, who coached the team this season. It was pointed out that this was the first year that a team had represented the W. H. S. and in spite of this fact, the school was represented in the county finals.

As a special award for athletic achievement, Mr. E. J. Spinks presented Nairn Boyd with a handsome watch and chain. During the past years, the principal has made it a point to give a watch to the outstanding athlete in the school. He pointed out, however, that next year he will award prizes in each form of the school to the student standing highest in mathematics.

The above portion of the program was enthusiastically received by the audience and bursts of applause greeted the various students as they came forward to receive their awards.

A splendid comedy "The Bluffers," was then presented by senior students under the capable direction of Miss Irene Weir, Miss Henderson and Mr. Hawkins. It proved to be one of the outstanding features of the program and was well executed. Those in the cast were: Audrey Bell, Ruth Scharfe, Evelyn McDonald, Albra Boyd, Desmond Dixon, Willett Summers, Edward Annable, Carl Barrigar, Ted Weir, Mary McIntosh, Hazel McDonald and Charles Davidson.

At the close of the play the exercises were brought to a close by the National Anthem.

SPLENDID DEBATE HELD ON MONDAY

Interesting Subject Debated on from all Angles. Speakers for the Affirmative Side are declared Winners. Large Crowd Attends.

Contributed)

An interesting and colorful Debate on the subject, "Resolved that the Depression has been productive of more harm than good to Mankind," was held in Lannin's Hall on Monday evening last. Citizens of Winchester and vicinity who attended were unanimous in declaring it to have been the most clever "clash of intellects and wits" to which they had ever listened.

Howard Nesbitt, Reeve of Winchester Township, who opened for the Affirmative, dealt at length with the destructive effects of the Depression as reflected in statistics of the United Counties, and went on to quote facts and figures illustrating declining revenues in the coffers of prominent Canadian and American religious denominations compelling these churches to withdraw missionaries and thus seriously curtail the progress of the Gospel throughout the world. His arguments were cleverly marshalled, and his long experience as a prominent member of various municipal organizations and committees was generally reflected in his utterances.

Dr. Sherwood, who made a fine impression in the 100 Club Debate two years ago, opened for the negative. He lost no time in emphasizing the universality of scope embraced in the resolution showing that the reference was not to a small selected group but to mankind in general, and declaring that the Depression had no meaning for 75 per cent. of the people of the world. He mentioned many former periods of difficulty and showed that they had been productive of good rather than evil.

Arthur Christie, another veteran of forensic encounters, took up the argument for the affirmative, dealing with the effects of the Depression on agriculture. Tis address, replete with illustrations from our own community life, very vividly and forcefully portrayed the dire results of the Depression as it affected the farmer.

W. J. Cass, K.C., supported Dr. Sherwood in opposition to the resolution. His clever defense of "Old Man Depression" will be remembered for many a year, and the dignity and poise which an experienced lawyer brought to bear in the Debate was a helpful illustration to everyone of the technique of this difficult art

Joseph Webb, of Winchester Springs, the last speaker for the affirmative, made a particularly favourable impression. His three or four opening sentences constituted a "rapier thrust" into the arguments of his opponents. His ease of manner and approach and his thorough familiarity with the subject as well as his presentation of reasonable arguments convinced more than one "would-be" debater in the audience that this man is a dangerous opponent.

William H. Agnew, the negative leader, the youngest man on the platform but possessing skill developed intensively as a member of Queen's University Debating teams a few years ago, launched into his subject with the enthusiastic fervor and dramatic presentation typical of the great orators of olden days. His portrayal of the benefits of the depression in the realm of agriculture, and his humorous "sallies" putting municipal leaders "no the spot" were specially enjoyed.

The Judges were Rev. John M. Kellock, Vernon Presbyterian Church, Rev. W. R. Johnston, South Mountain United church and Miss E. Mackay, M.A., Hallville Consolidated School. They brought in a decision in favour of the affirmative.

A programme, consisting of selections by the United Church Male Quartette, Reading by Betty Stewart, Monologue by W. A. Rowat, and Piano Solo by Alice Singleton, was also presented.

The Debate was sponsored by a Committee of the young men of the United Church, consisting of Messrs. W. J. Stewart, H. L. Flora, A. P. Johnston, H. G. Graham, W. H. Agnew, Melvin Scott and Eldon Davidson.

MANY HOMES MADE HAPPY

The Hearts of the People Respond in Time of Need—Official Acknowledgment of Goods Contributed to those in need by people of this District.

The following letter addressed to Rev. Mr. McKay, of the Winchester United Church, speaks for itself:—

Tilston, Manitoba,
November 19th, 1934.

Dear Mr. MacKay:

The car loaded at Winchester and other points was sent to Fertile. Sask., one of my appointments. Permit me through you to convey to the good people of your district, whose contributions helped to make up a splendid car, the grateful appreciation of the many who are now enjoying a share of its good things. The people here had neither grain, vegetables nor fodder, and most of the horses and cattle have been shipped out at sacrifice prices or for winter feeding. The people are feeling keenly the necessity of sacrificing their cattle at from one to five dollars per head. They will be hard, very hard to replace. Feed, such as it is, is being shipped in to provide for the few they are allowed to retain. Between drouth and hoppers this good land has been changed into a veritable desert, yet the rainfall here since August has revived the spirit of optimism once more in the minds of those who have not taken departure for greener fields. It is not easy for old people to pull up stakes and move out.

I handled the honey, canned fruits, vegetables and pickles and this section of the supplies was a constant centre of attraction and called forth many an expression of wonder and gratitude, e.g., "What a God-send this car has been!" "What good hearts these people must have to respond to our need year after year!" "There must still be much good in human nature."

Hearts were gladdened and a smile appeared on every face as they passed from section to section where supplies were sorted out in the basement of the school. We had the name and number for every family and knew what could be given from each section. Nothing was given out without a ticket issued to each by the Reeve and Secretary, and I understand there has been no fault with the distribution. The clothing, and there was a fine lot of it, was distributed later by a committee of women who did excellent work.

A number of the tags attached were dropped in unloading the car. but some were retained where they belonged and the good things will be duly acknowledged. Where there is no response it will not be from lack of appreciation as all are, and rightly, deeply grateful.

I am writing to our Ministers at the different points at the request of our people as a whole to thank you all for your kind and thoughtful liberality. The Gospel of our Master Christ is not being preached in vain.

Yours sincerely,
A. D. Menzies,
Minister of the United Church at Regent, Man., in Rock Lake Presbytery

Fertile, Sask.,
Nov. 22nd, 1934

Dear Friend:

No doubt you have been looking for a reply to your letter which we found in a sack of potatoes. Many thanks for the potatoes, also the Sunday School papers. Our family consists of seven. father, mother, and five boys, the eldest 20 years and the youngest is 8 years old.

We have had very little snow so far. Just at present we have about one inch of snow but it has been thawing and I hope it will all be gone by night. We have had such fine fall weather, which was a god-send I am sure. Horses and cattle have been able to rustle their feed until yesterday when this snow came. We had no crop here on account of drouth and grasshoppers, and most of the cattle had to be disposed of and thousands were shipped north to be fed over winter. At present my husband is gone with a baling crew near Winnipeg. The men from here go and do the baling, the government buys the straw and the railroads deliver it free here. We get it on relief for about three dollars a ton. We had no garden. I am quite a gardener, but this year one couldn't save anything. The grasshoppers devoured all mine in four days. The only vegetables I have are what I got from the car, and we bought five bags of potatoes before. The vegetables were lovely. We had a meal of beans yesterday sent by Stanley Nesbitt, which were fine. Fertile is located in the south-east corner of Saskatchewan. We live two mile from the Manitoba boundary line and 20 miles from the U. S. boundary.

The people are of different nationalities, and no doubt a good many of your donations went to people that can't read or write the English language, but they are thankful I know. Thanks for your good wishes, we all will remember you in our prayers

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joe Eilers.

Hurled From Buggy

Mr. Arnold Docksteader received painful injuries about the head on Friday evening last when the delivery rig in which he was riding, was struck by a hit-and-run driver. He was thrown from the vehicle, landing on his head and shoulders on the pavement.

The injured man was immediately rushed to the office of Dr. J. J. McKendry, where it was found necessary to use several stitches in order to close a deep wound on the back of the head. He is at present making satisfactory recovery.

According to witnesses the car involved in the accident was travelling at an excessive rate of speed and did not even slow up following the collision. The Provincial police are working on the case and hope to learn the identity of the hit-and-run driver shortly.

Local Poultry Feeds Are Widely Known

X-L-O POULTRY FEEDS PROVEN TO BE OF SUPERIOR VALUE

A member of the firm of Fennell Feed Company where X-L-O Poultry Feeds are manufactured, called on a few of their many customers who are using the above mentioned feeds, in order to secure some first hand and reliable information regarding results obtained by feeding X-L-O Feeds.

At each place visited the people in charge were quite enthusiastic and deeply interested in their work simply because they were engaged in something that was giving them profitable returns for the cost of feed and the amount of labor required.

Lot No. 1—A beautiful flock of 100 pullets hatched about May 1st fed throughout their growing season on X-L-O Chick and Growing Mash and well cared for otherwise which developed large strong birds. At the present time they are fed on X-L-O Laying Mash with Wheat and Corn as Scratch Feed. Egg production has reached about 70 per cent. or over. Records of cost and returns from sales of eggs carefully kept showed a good margin of profit

Lot. No. 2—A flock of 116 pullets hatched about May 1st. Not quite so well fed and cared for, but at the present time are giving excellent results. X-L-O Laying Mash is again found in the feeding troughs with Wheat, Oats and Barley as a Scratch Feed. Production in this case is also 70 per cent. or better.

Lot No. 3—This time a larger flock of 425 pullets showing splendid development, due to proper care and feed of the highest quality. Hatched about April 18th and fed from that time on with X-L-O Chick Starter followed by X-L-O Growing Mashes. Since pullets started laying they have been fed X-L-O Laying Mash with Wheat as a Scratch Feed and a little corn on the cob. This lively bunch of chicks have been steadily gaining in egg production during the month of November until they reached almost 80 per cent. and are still increasing.

At the places visited the birds were in comfortable quarters and apparently enjoying themselves as they help to pay their keeper a handsome profit.

Those in charge of the poultry were very courteous and willing to give the information asked for, which went to prove that if poultry is well cared and fed on a properly balanced ration they are a profitable investment and once more X-L-O Poultry Feeds have proved to be all the manufacturers claim for them and capable of giving the best results.

The figures given above are from carefully kept records and by very reliable and well known men engaged in the poultry business for profit.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Municipal elections were held in many places on Monday, and in some places, especially Ottawa, Smiths Falls and at Cornwall, for Deputy Reeveship; also in Cornwall Township, and the contests were very lively and in some instances close. Mayor Nolan was re-elected in Ottawa by a large majority. In Smiths Falls Mayor Marsh was re-elected against two opponents, ex-mayors, John Davidson and D. Murphy. In Cornwall, W. H. Gallanger, who has to fight each year for the position of deputy-reeve, was re-elected. In Cornwall township there was a very close and somewhat bitter contest, and there is a report that there may be a re-count as the majorities for reeve and deputy were very small. J. L. McDonald was re-elected as reeve against John Lafave, a former reeve, by only four votes, and C. T. Johnston, former deputy, was re-elected by fourteen of a majority. J. A. Laurin, publisher, of Alexandria, was elected Mayor of that town for the 13th time. Dr. Taugher was elected Mayor of Prescott. In Morrisburg the council elected as Reeve A. Flynn, (accl.) and Councillors F. H. Broder, H. O. Hessell, W R. Roach and Arnold Jarvis In Gloucester township J. Innes was elected reeve, while in Osnabruck township, Wallace Gallinger was re-elected for another term. In Osgoode village, Geo. Lewis was elected reeve with N. J. McCormick, deputy reeve. The councillors are Arthur Armstrong, James Lee and R. Little.

CAN YOU CLASSIFY THEM?

In every community there are to be found two types of citizens! There is the citizen who stands on the street corner with his hands stuffed down in his pockets, his shoulders stooped and a sneer on his face. Such a one is no value to any community.

He is the fellow who says the fire department does not know how to fight a fire and tells how it ought to be done but never lends a hand. He is the fellow who complains about the ruts in the streets—but he hasn't paid any taxes for years, and, of course does not help to keep them in condition. He is the fellow who finds fault with the school and the teachers, but never did anything in his entire life to improve or help this side of civic life. He is the fellow who criticizes the local newspaper, but never subscribed for it, (or if he did he never paid for it.) He is the fellow who condemns everything and sees no good in anything.

Contrast him with the other type of type of citizen. The citizen who is a booster and who may be counted on to assist in every worthy cause. This type of citizen pays his debts and his taxes stands for everything that is for the betterment of the place where he lives, and never allows his enthusiasm for his home town to lag. He is an asset to any community.

It is men of his class that are responsible for all the improvements which are made. We owe it to him that we have good streets, that our school system is as modern as it is and that we live in a place that we can boast of to our friends. It is this latter individual who invests his money and his time in the development of his town and district.

Classify yourself and see which class yuo belong to and which type you can match. If you belong to the first it's time for rejuvenation if you belong to the latter class—more power to your elbow!—Exchange.

The Society will hold a meetin at Mountain Station on Friday evening, Dec. 7th, at 8 p.m, in the I. O. O. F. Hall, for the purpose of organizing a Society there. Mrs. A. J. A WISE MOVE

Orillia Township Council registered their disapproval of any recipient of relief frequenting beer parlours on November 14, when, at a meeting, a motion by Councillor Cox, seconded by Councillor Garner. was passed unanimously by the Council. The motion read: "That the Orillia Township Council will not issue relief to any person or persons found frequenting beer parlours or being found intoxicated." No opposition was offered and discussion on the motion was brief.

Working on the principle that men who can afford the luxury of beer by the glass, can also look after the business of supplying themselves with food and clothing, it would be wise if all municipalities made the same move.

HECKSTON

The November meeting of the Heckston branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. William Graham. Mrs. William McIntyre presided.

The report of membership showed 40 members registered, which is a very encouraging number. The roll call was answered by "Little Things That Make Life More Pleasant."

Miss Evelyn Cheney, of Mountain Station, gave a paper on "Hints in Candy Making." Mrs. D. Carmichael gave a paper on "Nutrition and Malnutrition."

The members, as a special novelty, displayed a number of inexpensive Christmas gifts, which gave suggestions for making pretty gifts at home at a small cost. A lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Graham, assisted by the members of the committee.

URIAH EMPEY

Word was received from Portland, Oregon, by relatives at Williamsburg of the death of Uriah Empey, a native of Williamsburg, who passed away at the home of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Davidson after a short illness, at the age of 71 years and four months.

The late Mr. Empey was born in Williamsburg, a son of the late Abner Empey and his wife Rosalind Casselman. He spent his boyhood days in Williamsburg and vicinity. Later he married Miss Sarah Ford of Boucks Hill who predeceased him sixteen years ago. He carried on a successful butcher business at Boucks Hill for several years and about thirty years ago with his family moved to Western Canada. He leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Moody of Parkdale, Oregon; two sons, Clifford Empey and Fay Empey, of California; one sister, Mrs. Mary Saddlemire, and one brother, Mr. Ralph Empey both of Williamsburg. Burial took place at Portland, Oregon.

MISSION BAND CONCERT

Despite unfavorable weather, a fair crowd attended the Mission Band concert presented in the auditorium of St. Andrew's United Church, Hallville on Friday evening last. The program was under the direction of the Mission Band leader, Mrs. Carmen Cummings, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Coleman.

Rev. Donald Morrison, pastor of the church, was chairman for the evening and gave a short address on the benefits of having a Mission Band organization in the church. The members of the Mission Band presented a fine program of musical and literary numbers, including a short play entitled "The Minister's Mistake," with Madeline Cummings, Vivian McDonald and Willie Richardson taking part.

Other interesting and much appreciated numbers were: A chorus, "I Would Be True," by the members of the Mission Band; recitation, Marion Coleman; solo, Jack Dougall, accompanied by Miss Lillian Dougall; song, by Beulah Hyndman, Marjorie Coleman, Corriene Hyndman and Donnelda Morrison; solo, Lillian Fetterly, accompanied by Mr. W. L. Brown; duet, Margaret and Melvin Christie, accompanied by Miss Carrie Stewart; and two playlets, "Getting Ready for a Visit," with Beulah Hyndman, Doris Martin and Shirley Christie taking part; and "Interviewing the Servant Girls," with Evelyn Martin, Corrienne Hyndman, Vivian McDonald, Georgenna McDonald, Pearl Tinkess, Marjorie Coleman and Helen Kerr taking part. Miss Laura Hyndman was the accompanist for the Mission Band choruses

VANALLEN—BURD

A pretty wedding was solemnized recently at the bride's home, Crysler, the contracting parties being Miss Elise May Burd, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Burd, and Lloyd Elton Wesley VanAllen, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. VanAllen, of Morrisburg.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Davies, B.A., minister of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch.

Miss Evelyn A. Burd, sister of the bride, was maid of honour, while Kenneth H. Barkley, of Winchester, acted as best man.

The bride, charmingly attired in blue crepe, with accessories to match, and wearing a string of pearls, entered the room to the strains of the Wedding March (Lohengrin) played by Mrs. W. E. Davies. While the register was being signed, Mrs. Davies sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

A select company afterwards sat down to a sumptuous repast served by the bride's mother. All wish the happy couple a long and prosperous life.

STUDY CLUB ORGANIZED BY HALLVILLE C. W. L.

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League of St. Daniel's parish of South Mountain, was held after mass on Sunday, the president, Mrs. J. A. Troy, presiding

The minutes of the previous meeting were given by the secretary, Mrs Justin Morrow, and much satisfaction was expressed by the members with the success of the society's undertakings. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hall and Mr and Mrs James Hall for the use of their home for a very successful card party, which was held in November and from which the society realized over sixteen dollars

Following the instruction of His Grace Archbishop O'Brien to the Catholic Women's Leagues, Mrs. Troy introduced the question of forming a divisional study club, with the encouraging result of one being organized in South Mountain. Through the kindness of Miss Maud Barry offering the hospitality of her home to the club, they will hold their first meeting there on Sunday evening next.

Mrs. H. E Barry has accepted the nomination to office of President, and Mrs Justin Morrow, vice president. The committee appointed was: Mrs Martin Hall, Miss Maud Barry, Mrs. Hugh McKee and Mrs. James McKee.

At the meeting on Sunday evening Mrs Troy will propose organizing another branch of the Study Club at Toyes Hill.

The Caldwell Linen Mills Limited began work on Wednesday last on a 70x40 feet addition to their plant at Iroquois. The new building will mainly be for the the housing of new machinery for more up-to-date finishing of the many lines of choice linens they manufacture, and also to accommodate a huge Beetling machine which the company is installing.

When the new machinery is installed the Caldwell Linen Mills Limited will have one of the finest linen finishing plants in the world. During the past few years this company, by the quality of linen they have been manufacturing, has enjoyed a very rapid increase in business, and have found it necessary to enlarge their plant, on several occasions, in order to increase production of their goods to meet the ever increasing demand for them. Caldwell Linens are becoming famed the world over.

The work of putting up the new building is being done by Barkley & Jackson.

SUM UP

Sum up at night what thou hast done by day;
And in the morning what thou hast to do.
Dress and undress thy soul. Watch the decay
And growth of it. If with thy watch, that too
Be down, then wind both up. Since we shall be
Most surely judged. make thy accounts agree.

MAN DIES SUDDENLY

A sad death occurred here on Friday evening last when Mr Bruce Strader of Williamsburg township, succumbed following a severe heart attack. Accompanying a large party of friends from the Strader Hill district, the man had come to Winchester to enjoy a social evening and dance which has come to be an annual event in the local town hall.

During the evening Mr. Strader had taken part in several of the square dances and was enjoying himself thoroughly, when he was suddenly stricken with a serious heart attack. He was brought to the office of Dr. P. McLaughlin immediately, who rendered medical aid and advised that the unfortunate man remain where he was until morning. In considerable pain, he was placed in bed and everything possible done to relieve his suffering. He passed away suddenly about 12.30 a.m.

"...So that Our Visitors will be Sorry to Leave"

"If we are going to invite people to this country, we must be honest with them . . . Courtesy costs nothing and is one of our greatest tourist assets . . . Let us so treat strangers within our gates that it will be easy for them to come, pleasant for them to stay, and difficult for them to leave."

Rt. Hon. R. B. BENNETT, Prime Minister of Canada, to the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus, November 6, 1934.

Canada's tourist activities represent more than a great industry from which everybody benefits. They provide an opportunity to create what the Prime Minister has described as "that feeling of neighbourliness" which is such a vital factor in building up cordial relations within the family of nations.

For both these reasons, may I urge upon the people of Canada the importance of showing consideration, courtesy and honesty to guests of our country? Let us all do those little acts of kindness which count for so much when one travels in a strange land.

We have a beautiful country. We must keep it so. We want our visitors to travel highways free from disfigurement, walk the streets of cities that are orderly and clean, and find at the end of every day's travel an inviting spot to rest. Canadians should turn their attention now to the important work of preparing for next year's tourist season.

As a nation, we are advertising abroad the attractions of Canada as a holiday land. We must see to it that our guests return home with only the happiest recollections—and the determination to come back again and again.

Nor should we forget, in planning our own vacations, that there are beauties to discover and friendships to be made in our neighbouring provinces. We live in one of the world's most glorious playgrounds—let us learn to know better the rich variety of its travel attractions.

4-H CLUB NEWS

FEED HUSKING THRONG

Over 300 4-H club members took part in feeding the 20,000 persons who attended the Iowa state corn husking contest near Waterloo. They were recruited by the county farm bureau organization. One of the important items the club members helped to supply was 1400 home made pies. Committees were named about a month in advance to plan and carry the arrangements through. The club boys and girls fitted in on every hand. They helped to erect the tent. They also took a hand in making the table layout and concession stands. All of the feeding was done in a 50 by 100 foot tent which housed 12 separate units.

Selection of helpers in the undertaking was under the direction of Miss Mae Anderson, county home demonstration agent and her assistants. Each unit required six persons to do the serving. There was a specialist on hand from the state extension office to help keep things moving smoothly and the food serving kept neat and orderly.

All of the buying was done by one of the adults who had served in handling the food supplies of county 4-H camps and like affairs. The 700 gallons of coffee served was made in galvanized steel stock tanks by using live steam from a threshing engine to heat the water. The water had to be piped about 80 rods. The weiners were prepared in 60 gallon stock iron kettles. From the kettles the weiners were taken to various units in large kettles and placed on unit stoves to keep them warm until served.

One task the club boys and girls had a lot of fun doing was selling confections in a main booth in which was stocked candy bars, gum, chocolate milk, orangeade, pop corn, cigars and frost sticks. To promote the sale of these items four teams of club boys were sent through the crowd. Club girls assisted in the pop-wagon and in selling balloons.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

THE FRETFUL CHILD

I mean the little fellow that has always been "peevish" and at outs with everything about him. He (or she) gives you more trouble than all the rest of the children put together. You have worried yourself sick——

You have done your extreme best, mercy knows! Haven't you dosed him with castor oil, time and again? . . . Then, you've tried to bribe him into a sweet disposition with innumerable candies, and every abominable confection that he saw in the dust-ridden show cases down on the street—and cried for.

Still he remains skinny, scraggy-haired, sore-eyed, foul-breathed, pot-bellied and evil-tempered. In your despair you have tried to "whale" it out of him with your slipper. But, it has not occurred to you that the child is SICK. He is just mean—may have gotten it from his daddy—or somewhere! The rest of the children are fat and sleek and inspiring; but not this little derelict—the black sheep of the family. . . .

Listen to me: The HEALTHY child is NEVER fretful. The HEALTHY child is the happiest being on earth. Let's be sensible about this matter. The fretful child is never healthy.

It takes the very best of human judgment to rear children as they should be reared. . . . There is no higher administrative duty. Your fretful child demands the best that is in you. There is no more dignified, better-paying job than that of restoring the little sure-enough invalid, back to health and the love of home. And, you can do it.

Take your SICK child to the Family Doctor. Look after his nose, throat, ears, TEETH, and digestive tract. Set his house in order; feed him; watch him grow and become your joy and pride.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

CLEAN NESTS, CLEAN EGGS

It takes less time to place clean straw in the nests than it takes to clean eggs. some eggs will become dirty in spite of the best of care, but the egg cleaning work is greatly reduced if the nests are cleaned at egg gathering time when dirt is noticed and a little clean straw is added once or twice each week. This is a good early morning job before the hens start using the nests. If you have no straw stack, keep a bale of straw in each laying house so that a measure of loose straw can be worked up and added by handfuls to any nests where the boards are becoming bare or the straw is soiled.

CLEAN AND STERILIZE ALL DAIRY UTENSILS

The keeping quality of milk depends directly upon the number of bacteria present and this in turn depends upon the thoroughness with which dairy utensils have been cleaned and sterilized. The use of live steam or scalding with boiling water is always effective providing it is available in sufficient volume, but as a general rule the quantity available on the average farm is inadequate for effective results. It is for this reason that the use of chlorine in suitable form is recommended by bacteriological experts. It acts rapidly in cold water, and is cheaper and more convenient than the heat treatment generally recommended. When properly employed chlorine sterilization gives excellent results and the practice, already general among milk and other food plants is spreading to the dairy farms.

CHEAP FEED FOR CRATE FINISHING OF POULTRY.

In experiments in crate finishing of poultry, it has been found that buckwheat screenings or standard recleaned screenings, a by-product from the grain elevators consisting largely of wild buckwheat and broken wheat with a small admixture of wild oats, flaxseed and other weed seeds, give excellent results both as to quantity and quality of flesh. It was also shown in these experiments that the small unmarketable potatoes may be used to advantage in crate-feeding. Fed in conjunction with home-grown grains the potatoes gave as economical gains as corn and produced better colour and finer quality in skin and flesh. The potatoes may be fed either boiled and mashed or raw and finely chopped, and mixed with the ground grains and milk.

WINTER CARE OF LIVE STOCK

With the approach of winter. farmers should make sure that the barns in which their live stock are to pass the cold season are clean and free from possible infectious diseases or parasites. Most progressive stockmen whitewash their barns or stables at least once a year, but frequent dustings with an old broom are needed to keep the cobwebs and dust down. Before the cattle leave the pastures for the season, it is a good practice to inspect the whole herd for possible skin diseases as ring-worm, scab or mange, lice or warbles, are dangerous and each needs special treatment. Ringworm is doubly dangerous because humans may contract it through handling or from the curry-combs and brushes. Tincture of Iodine applied daily following washing with soap and water will cure ring-worm, but scabies or mange need to be dipped in or sprayed with special solutions such as crude petroleum or equal parts of kerosene and cottonseed oil, which mixture is also recommended for lice. No animal can give its best milk production or put on flesh when feeding such parasites.

BUTTER AND MILK

Production of both creamery butter and concentrated milk for the nine months is higher in Canada this year than last. So also are the holdings of butter in cold stores. Reports on these three phases of production and trade form the regular and concrete indices of dairying available in the Dominion. Surveys of the whole field are now being made periodically by agricultural branch of the Dominion statistical office with the assistance of the provincial dairy commissioners, and these throw additional light on the probabilities as to production during the rest of the year. The latest of these surveys are more favourable than that issued a month ago, but the view is still expressed that butter production for Canada as a whole during the winter period approaching will not be quite as high as in the winter of 1933-34.

The production of creamery butter in Canada during the nine months ended with September totalled 189,473,000 lbs. In the corresponding year of 1933 the output was 177,988,000 pounds. For the month of September this year production of creamery butter was 24,124,000 pounds as compared with 22,777.000 lbs. in September, 1933. The leading province in the production of creamery butter is Ontario, with Quebec second and Alberta third. For the nine months the output of creamery butter in Ontario this year was 62,880,000 pounds, Quebec 53,-905,000 and Alberta 22,241,000 pounds. The other large producing provinces were Manitoba 18,480,000 pounds and Saskatchewan 18,322,000 pounds. In the first three quarters of 1933 Saskatchewan's production was slightly higher than that of Manitoba.

Production of concentrated milk in the first nine months of the current year in Canada has amounted to 74,542.000 lbs. In the first nine months of 1933 it was 66,552,000 pounds. The largest element in the output of concentrated milk products, both this year and last, has been evaporated milk with skim milk powder second and condensed milk third. For the nine months of the current year the production of evaporated milk was 45,-750,000 pounds, of skim milk powder 13,-003,000 pounds and of condensed milk 6,566,000 pounds. Other products of the industry include condensed skim milk, evaporated skim milk, whole milk powder. cream powder, buttermilk powder, condensed buttermilk, casein and sugar of milk. For the month of September the output of concentrated milk products this year has been 8,872,000 as compared with 8,431,000 pounds in September, 1933.

Dairy prodution in Canada is predominantly for the home market, though there is considerable export of cheese and of concentrated milk products. In 1933 Canada consumed 320,821,000 pounds of butter out of a total production of 323,-890,000 pounds. Cheese production was 111,042,000 pounds. of which 74,168,000 were exported. The total output of concentrated milk products was 84,844,000 pounds, of which 59,439,000 pounds were consumed at home.

WHEN TURKEYS BECOME DROOPY

Immediate action is absolutely necessary when turkeys show any signs of sickness. If some of the flock show signs of listlessness the probability is that they are suffering from having consumed an excess of fibre; and this is often mistaken for "Blackhead." First of all. make sure that the turkeys have not had access to any instant poison such as salt, and then being satisfied as to this, administer Epson Salts which has been carefully dissolved in hot water.

In ordinary cases with growing turkeys the dose should be one teaspoonful of salts for each bird. In the case of large, full-grown birds a little more than a teaspoonful. If the bird is very sick administer the salts in the morning and evening, and if there is not much improvement repeat this two days later.

It is sometimes quite difficult on the farm to prevent turkeys getting too much fibre, they may eat tough dry grasses or the husks of different grains and an excess of these will often kill them if immediate relief is not forthcoming.

If, on the other hand, an irritant poison is suspected, oil such as sweet oil should be given unless Castor Oil is on hand. Castor Oil should be procured as soon as possible, however, and a dose administered even if the sweet oil has been given as a temporary relief. The dose is a teaspoonful per bird. Cod Liver Oil will also be helpful.

HOW TO WASH VELVET

Many people hesitate to attempt to wash velvets at home, but with a little care, successful and professional results can be obtained. Rain water is best for the purpose, but if this is not available ordinary water can be softened with a little borax.

Heat the water until you can just bear your hand in it, prepare a liberal lather from pure soap or soap flakes, and add to the water, which should be sufficient completely to cover the garment.

Steep the velvet until most of the dirt is released, but do not squeeze or rub the material, or the pile will become damaged. Change the water once or twice if necessary, and if the article is extra dirty spread it out on a smooth surface and sponge very gently with a chamois, or old sponge (the natural kind, not the rubber variety) but remember to work in the direction of the pile, and not against it.

Have ready a large tub or bath of clear cold water, in which a handful of salt has been dissolved. Steep the velvet in this several seconds, and without wringing or squeezing just hang it right away to drip. Choose a cool, shady place, and if possible allow to remain in the open all night. Pegs must not ome in contact with velvets, or the pile will be spoilt. A clothes hanger, or long cane, well bound with soft linen or towelling, will prove most satisfactory.

When dry, brush well in the direction of pile, using a brush with good stiff bristles. No ironing is necessary.

ADVERTISES FOR HUSBAND

"Lady. considered fairly good looking, aged 27 years, with a large bank account and some good real estate, wishes to meet or correspond with a nice respectable young man not older than 35 years."

Headed "Husband Wanted," this advertisement in a Fredericton newspaper continued: "Not necessary for him to have money. Object matrimony. The advertiser added: "Am alone in the world. If we come to an agreement he may move in and stay."

COLD FEET

When winter comes, cold feet are in our midst again. Cold feet are the subject of many funny stories, but like most other afflictions, they are anything but a joke to the person who bears the affliction.

The feet become cold when the circulation of the blood in the feet is poor, or in other words, when warm blood does not flow through the blood vessels of the feet sufficiently quickly to keep these extremities warm.

It is obvious that anything which interferes with the circulation gives rise to cold feet and hands. Noticed chiefly in winter when the most rapid radiation of body heat takes place. Those whose hearts are so damaged as to cause poor circulation, which is most evident in the parts that are farthest from the heart, will complain of cold feet.

As we grow older, the blood vessels tend to lose some of their natural elasticity. The effects of this are seen in poorer circulation. As we advance in years and our arteries become hardened, we are more apt to experience the discomfort of cold extremeties.

Young persons are not immune to this complaint. In their case, the fact that they suffer from cold feet is most often due to their own actions. Tight shoes, which to the eye of the owner, may be beautiful, are not appreciated by the feet which they encase. For one thing, they interfere with the blood supply and as we have already said, that means cold, uncomfortable feet.

The blood keeps the feet warm and it can quite readily unless the loss of heat is so rapid that heat cannot be supplied quickly enough to meet the demand. Thin soles, on a day when the temperature is well down the scale, are more than the heating apparatus can take care of. and so the thin soles have cold feet above them as well as cold sidewalk below them.

"He has cold feet!" is a phrase used to describe those who apparently lack courage. There is some truth in the description because fear causes the arteries to contract and then follow, in natural sequence, poor circulation and chilling of the skin including the feet.

Those who suffer from cold feet should seek the cause of the trouble. It may be a symptom of anemia or other abnormal condition of the body. In all cases, loose shoes and stockings of a weight that is suited to the weather, will help. A dip in cold water, followed by a brisk rub with a rough towel, helps to maintain a good circulation in the parts. This should be practised at bed time by those whose feet are cold at nights.

RAMBLING 'ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

Periodically something happens in the Times Square district that attracts thousands of onlookers. And though that champion of attractions, the steam shovel, hasn't been there in some years, we've seen thousands look on at water main bursts, spectacular short-circuits arcing from the power line buried between the tracks of the surface cars, and great geysers of steam spouting from a broken steam main running beneath the streets to heat office buildings of the district. And hundreds gather round as a prize fighter waves for a taxicab.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE

There are many means adopted to catch the unwary, and extract the dimes and dollars out of the pockets of the sometimes too sympathetic, and sometimes too greedy public.

From now until Christmas our citizens will be pestered with canvassers who will be offering them all kinds of so-called bargains for Christmas.

We had a sample last week when a number of young men descended on our town in a big car, and each started out in different direction. They had a box of sample peanut brittle candy. They asked you to try it. It tasted good, or you thought it did, and then they took a box out of their basket and offered it for 25 cents. Having accepted their sample, and the box looking a good size, you parted with your 25 cents. Those young men picked up between fifty and seventy-five dollars in Winchester in less than two hours. That money, if spent with our local merchants, would have meant considerable to their days' business.

Other such schemes to separate you and your dimes, quarters and dollars will be tried, and every time you "bite" you are caught as a sucker, and the town is the loser.

Don't feed the transients who call at your door. That seems a hard thing to say, but provision is made whereby every man who travels the road may have a meal, and a night's lodging, by applying to Constable Helmer. We know of cases where they travel in pairs, where they make it a habit of calling at every likely place and ask for a meal. Last week such a pair, after getting meal tickets from the town, called at several homes immediately afterwards, and in most cases they were supplied with a parcel of food. They are all looking for work, so they say, but never finding any, and want to get to the next town.

It is a situation that is hard to meet, but there is no use in our citizens being annoyed by the putting up of lunches for tramps who have already been fed at the expense of the corporation.

Another nuisance that is growing, but purely local, is in having children peddling from door to door Christmas seals, cards, and canvassing for this and that organization. It is hard to refuse a child, but it is also a nuisance having children calling sometimes three times in a day, offering something that you don't want, or that you should buy in one of the local stores. If parents would refuse to permit their children to do such canvassing they would be doing both their children and their neighbours a good act.

There is altogether too much of this house-to-house peddling of all kinds of goods, and canvassing for orders. The only way to put a stop to it is to refuse to listen to those who call—get rid of them as soon as you can. That is sometimes hard to do, for some are not only very persistent but really impudent. Don't let them make a fool out of you. You can shut your own door, and lock it on the inside.

WINCHESTER BUSINESS MEN AND THEIR IMMEDIATE NEEDS

In last week's issue of the Press, we laid stress on the fact that there was a strong probability of several heads of families being thrown out of work in Winchester, due to the practice of purchasing goods made in Ottawa and elsewhere in preference to those manufactured here at home, which has grown among some of our citizens.

The above possibility should be sufficient to cause the business men much concern, for the removal of six or eight families from this town would have one lasting effect for them—loss of trade. Citizens generally would feel the result of such a movement of families, in increased taxation and deflation of land values.

The distressing part of the question lies in the fact that the citizens and merchants have it in their power to prevent such a thing taking place. Yet no action has been taken thus far. It is understood that every merchant and business man in Winchester has his or her own particular problems to face during these trying times, but what appears to be lacking is a clear conception of the other man's difficulties, on the part of many.

Such a situation could be greatly remedied if the business men of this town were to co-operate more whole-heartedly at this time. We have no hesitation in saying that a wise move on the part of our merchants would be to form a local Board of Trade or Business Men's Association, where they might meet together and discuss problems common to all, and peculiar to each, with the object of arriving at a desirable solution for them.

During past months we have heard much on the question of mass buying, chain stores and large city corporations, and the disastrous effects that have resulted for the small independent merchant from their activities. There is but one solution at the present time—hearty and sympathetic co-operation between merchants in small towns, and that includes Winchester. Why not form an Association at once, and help ourselves by helping each other?

The situation stands as we have pictured it above, in Winchester at the present time. The business men have it in their power to alter the condition of things, to their mutual advantage, if they act at once. Let us see some real action in this respect before it is too late and the damage done.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Premier M. Hepburn has gone off on a month's vacation for a much needed rest.

Christmas buying is now the order of the day. Give your home merchants the first chance.

Every dollar you send out of town means a dollar added as a mortgage to your property, and an increase in your tax rate, and a stab at the life of your own town. Our merchants will serve you if you give them the chance.

Premier Hepburn has announced that he is determined to abolish the office of Lieutenant-Governor in Ontario. To abolish the office of the Lieut.-Governor is beyond the power of the Ontario Legislature, but to refuse to vote supplies to maintain such an office is no doubt within their power. The general public would not suffer much if the office of Lieut.-Governor was abolished, and the same general public will no doubt approve of the action of the Legislature if it refuses to vote the necessary funds to maintain that office.

It is proposed by the Ontario Government to build a provincial highway in the north country, to give employment to many men. The road proposed is not a necessity, but a luxury, and to build it as a relief measure may in a way justify the expenditure of millions of dollars. But we very much fear that only a small proportion of the relief money will find its way into the hands of those who need it most. The money could be better spent where there would be no need of building camps, expensive transportation and too many bosses. Eastern Ontario could take charge of a very good percentage of the unemployed if only given the chance, in the way of provincial relief work.

The evidence being given the Mass Production and Price Spreads Commission at Ottawa during the past week is certainly not such as to make the general public feel that they have been receiving a fair deal. Some of the evidence is almost too startling to be true, and yet how many of those who have dealt in certain chain stores cannot recall incidents that confirm that evidence. Short weights, adulterated goods, short in change, every trick of the trained tricksters to beat the customers. Another good reason why people living in small towns should deal at home, where they know they get a fair deal, and where they know their merchants are only too anxious to serve them with the best, and give them the best values.

WINCHESTER SPRINGS Y. P. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Johnston opened their spacious home to the young people's society of Knox Presbyterian church Winchester Springs, for their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, Nov 27th. Mr. Alex Davisdon presided throughout the program, which was of a Scotch nature, in honour of St Andrew's night.

Mrs. W. T. Turner and Miss Winnie Ball opened the program with a well-rendered piano duet. Mr. Frank Nesbitt was in charge of the devotions, reading and explaining a chapter of the study book "Jesus, our Ideal." Mr. Preston McIntosh sang a Scotch solo: "Sing to me the auld Scotch songs," and Dwight Ball entertained the gathering with a fine lecture on "Famous Scotchmen in the building of Canada." A Scotch trio, Mr. Frank Nesbitt, Miss Winnie Ball and Mr. McIntosh sang Scotch songs, accompanied by Mrs. Turner.

Rev. W. D. Turner gave a talk on the Scotch poet "Burns," and told many amusing Scotch jokes Mrs. Earl Munro gave an interesting talk on "Current events" for the month, while Mrs. Turner with a violin, Frank Nesbitt, coronet, Preston McIntosh, harp, Alex Davidson, banjo and Winnie Ball, piano, added much enjoyment to the program by their many instrumental numbers.

Plans were made to attend the Young People's Rally in Winchester, and also for the next meeting. A very enjoyable meeting was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King. Refreshments were served to over seventy-five members and guests.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday afternoon in the United Church Sunday School rooms the following officers of the Association were elected for the coming year:

Hon. President, Mrs. Dukelow; president, Mrs. J. W. Ault; 1st vice president, Mrs. F. F. Davidson; 2nd vice president, Mrs John Moffatt; 3rd vice president, Mrs Bertha Parker; rec.-secretary, Mrs. Harvey Nesbitt; cor.-secretary, Mrs. E. Merkley; Treasurer, Mrs. Faye Scott.

Mrs. Ault conducted the devotions, when a Christmas hymn was sung, a portion of Scripture read and prayer offered. Some matters of business were dealt kith. Mrs. Preston reported on behalf of the flower committee that a little money had been spent for flowers although the church had been decorated almost every Sunday. A vote of thanks was tendered the committe. Mrs. H. Nesbitt gave the secretary's report saying that ten reguar meetings had been held and telling of many activities.

The group leaders gave their reports. Over one hundred dollars was raised in this way. The treasurer's report was incomplete because all returns were not yet in, but up to date, over $400 had been raised. $50 was voted to the Church Board.

Mrs. Davidson presided for election of officers after Mrs. Ault had thanked the ladies for their splendid co-operation throughout the year. The report of the Nominating Committee was brought in by Mrs. Preston. An enjoyable piano solo was given by Mrs. McKay, and a short poem by Edgar Guest was read by Mrs. Ault. Light refreshments were served by the Executive and a social time enjoyed when each lady named the talents of the woman at her left.

OXFORD GROUP MEETINGS

Several members of the Ottawa Group conducted a School of Life in the Town Hall here on Saturday afternoon and evening. This school was well attended and was found to be very helpful as well as interesting. Mark Vernon, who was the afternoon leader, told of his endeavor to try to live up to the four standards of Absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love. Kaye Long spoke on purity, Ted Devlin on honesty, and Warren Oliver on unselfishness and love.

The evening meeting was directed by Cecil Morrison, the other speakers being Eva Gordon, on Loyalty; Fred Thomas, on Stewartship; Ann Scott, on the Quiet Time and Guidance; Ken McQuaig and Dr. McKay, on Sharing; Bessie Skuce, on "How to Conduct Interviews," and Bob Fraser on "Are we taking this Fellowship into our Churches?"

Sunday morning and Sunday evening some of these Groupers spoke at the Baptist Church services.

In the afternoon, a women's meeting, conducted by Miss Eva Gordon, was held in the Baptist Church; a girls' meeting, led by Kaye Long, at Dr. McKendry's; a men's meeting led by Dr. McKay, in the Town Hall, and a boys' meeting, led by O. Wallace, in the Public Library.

After the regular evening services, the congregations met in the Town Hall for a mass meeting, under the leadership of Bob Fraser, when many pistol-shot testimonies were given, acknowledging God's power to save from every sin, and to give victory over sin.

ST. PAUL'S ANNUAL BAZAAR

Opened by Mr. Geo. Fraser, who wished the workers the greatest success, the Annual Bazaar, held Saturday afternoon and evening, by the Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, was one of the most successful events ever held by the Ladies' Aid. Mr. Fraser was received at the entrance of the Sunday School Hall by the President, Mrs. Chester Robinson, and other members of the Society. At three o'clock he formally declared the bazaar open and in a brief word expressed his appreciation of the efforts taken in making the annual bazaar such an undoubted success. The hall and booths were gaily decorated and each booth boasted an individual color scheme and called "The Nursery Rhyme Fair." The following were the booths and their conveners: "Old Mother Hubbard," home cooking, Miss Mary Empey, Mrs. Geo. Wilson; "Candy Shoppe," candy, Miss Mary Algate, Mrs. Geo. Coburn; Aprons, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. Edgar Smith; "Little Miss Muffet," beauty and gift, Mrs. Louis Bouchard, Miss Martha Knowland; "Touch and Take," miscellaneous, Mrs. B. McCourtie, Mrs. Rowat Elliott; Gentlemen and pound, Mrs. Wm. Johnston, Mrs. Geo. Angus; "Polly put kettle on," kitchen and tea room, Mrs. Geo Robinson, Mrs. Lorne Kinkaid. Colors of Dutch blue, yellow and white were used effectively in the tea room. The assistants wore novelty aprons and caps of blue and white. Mr. Wm. Justus kindly installed a radio for the occasion which was a great addition and enjoyed by all present. Money donations were received by Mrs. Russell Blaney and Mrs. E. J. Spinks.

Rev. G. H. Smith, the pastor, had charge of the services on Sunday, Dec. 2nd. Speaking in the morning on the fourth petition in our Lord's Prayer: "Thy will be done," one of the series he is taking up on Sunday mornings, he said: "Every petition was the outgrowth of the previous one. It is the very doorway into the Kingdom of God." "He that doeth the will of my Father." It is really praying for a new social order. We must surrender our wills to God to enter into the Kingdom. "Thy will be done," is the very climax.

We should dedicate ourselves to God everyday. Jesus set us an example to make ourselves worthy citizens of the Kingdom of God.

The choir contributed an anthem: "The Lord is my Shepherd."

The text for the evening service was "The Lord was with Joseph," Gen. 40:21. The Bible is full of great men and women whom we may read of with great profit. Problems are much the same to-day. Just one incident of Joseph's life was mentioned stressing his great fidelity. Even in prison "The Lord was with Joseph." A superior man will always manifest his superiority. True greatness is always vindicated. Fidelity to right is always rewarded."

Miss Blanche Loucks presided at the organ.

THE UNITED CHURCH

Large congregations were present on Sunday. The morning service was in charge of the pastor who spoke from Acts 5:15 giving a message deeply significant and full of suggestion for our lives today. In this story of the founding of the Christian Church, Peter was here and there carrying out conscious activity, yet there was an unplanned evangelism through the influence of Peter's life, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Is there any spiritual healing falling from the shadow of our lives, winning people to Christ? The shadow of the personality of Jesus falls across people to-day constraining them to yield to Him. Genuine and effective goodness has a wonderful power and influence on others.

Rev. C. A. Adey of Williamsburg, took for his evening text Eph. 2:10 and spoke on the witness of the centuries to Jesus Christ. He made reference to the great lives and great institutions as a result of the life of Christ. To-day Christianity is the only hope of the world. It has stood the test for 2000 years and is still advancing. Let us follow Christ, ever seeking for the coming of His Kingdom of righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost.

Mr. Thomas Reid contributed a solo at the evening service.

Next Sunday Rev. Geo. Stafford, of Ottawa, will have charge of the services.

THE LATE DANIEL KENNEDY

The death occurred at Vernon, Ont., on Sunday last of a widely-known and respected citizen of Osgoode township in the person of Daniel Kennedy in his 81st year, after an illness of about ten days.

The late Mr. Kennedy, who was born and lived his entire life in the Vernon district, was known to young and old as "Piper Dan," and leaves a wide circle of friends who will mourn his passing.

Much interested in farming, the deceased had built up a fine establishment through the years, which he gave his whole-hearted attention. His ready wit and kindly disposition endeared him to all who were privileged to know him.

A member of Vernon Orange Lodge, the late Mr. Kennedy was intensely interested in all phases of the Order and his absence will be felt in all its future undertakings.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday last from his late residence to the inUetd Church, Vernon, where Rev. Mr. Vail conducted the service. Interment was made at Springhill cemetery.

Those left to mourn include his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Edward Azil, in the West; three sisters, Mrs. McNab, Kenmore, Mrs. McKeown and Mrs. Campbell, of Maxville.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. Spurgeon Boyd, John C. Porteous, James F. Campbell, John A. Campbell, A. D. Kennedy and Ed. Kennedy.

McCann, of Massena, N.Y.; Mrs. Lloyd Hess, of Bouck's Hill, and Dorothy, at home The funeral was held from his late residence on Saturday to the United Church, Williamsburg. SIMPLE THINGS

Happy is he, who in this life,
Bring what it will of care and strife,
Can keep throughout his three-score springs,
A child's delight in simple things.
We're eight, eighteen, then twenty-eight,
"Grown-up," we sternly shut the gate
On all the dear remembered ways
We knew in youth's untrammelled days.
Our daily work must be sufficient,
And we must strife to be efficient,
And not go sailing shoreless seas,
On wondrous dream-built argosies;
We can't expect to earn our food
By seeking fairies in a wood
Or thrilling to some grand old rhyme
Of battles in forgotten time.
So, held by never-conquered bars,
We cease to wonder at the stars;
Of watching pictures in the fire;
Forget, or else too swiftly tire
The music of the harping winds,
Is lost upon our wearied minds,
And, scornful of accustomed ways,
We strive to gain earth's newer toys;
Scoff at our childhood's sheltered nooks,
Our carefree games, our worn-out old books,
That yet could give a keener bliss,
Bring back that "something" which we miss
And never find, if growing old,
In endless toiling after gold.
We clip our spirit's eager wings
And lose our joy in simple things.

OUR TOWN

We think we have the best small town
Of any of its size
Although no better folks are here
Nor even yet more wise
For our good schools have all been built
Since when we were young
Which may explain why our town's praise
Is not more proudly sung.

Of course some fellow now and then
Will come across the mat,
And hand to us such a raw deal
As leaves us feeling flat.
But such small things are not allowed
To mar our fair renown,
For some such things are always found
In every little town.

But what we mean is simply this,
The neighbours here are kind,
And reckon less on things of earth,
Than treasures of the mind.
And in the ups and downs of life
We do not find them prone
To shut their doors as many do
To live their lives alone.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU SAY

In speaking of a person's faults,
Pray don't forget your own;
Remember those with homes of glass
Should seldom throw a stone.
If we have nothing else to do
But talk of those who sin,
'Tis better we commence at home
And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man
Until he's fairly tried.
Should we not like his company
We know the world is wide.
Some may have faults—and who has not
The old as well as young;
Perhaps we may for aught we know,
Have fifty to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan,
And find it works full well,
To try my own defects to cure
Before you of others tell
And though I sometimes hope to be
No more than some I know,
My own short-comings bid me let
The faults of others go.

Then let us all, when we begin
To slander friend or foe,
Think of the harm one word may do
To those we little know.
Remember, curses sometimes, like
Our chickens, "roost at home,"
Don't speak of other's faults until
We have none of our own.

THE MAN WHO WINS

The test of a man is the fight he makes
The grip that he daily shows,
The way he stands on his feet and takes
Fate's numerous bumps and blows;
A coward can smile when there's nought to fear,
When nothing his progress bars,
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.
It isn't the victory after all,
But the fight that a brother makes
The man, who driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high
Is the man who will win in the by and by
For he isn't afraid to fall.
It's the bumps you get and the jolts you get,
And the shocks that your courage stands
The hours of sorrow and vain regret
The prize that escapes your hands,
That test your mettle and prove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows that you take on this good old earth,
That shows if your stuff is real.

BRIEF PARAGRAPHS TELL STORY OF "THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS OF YORE"

A young woman wrote to one of our contemporaries and asked if she could get some information about what she called "the good old days." She had often heard her grandmother tell of transpirings in her day. she said, and how people particularly women, dressed but, being born in this modern age, treated granny's recordings more as a fable than actual fact.

Here are some of the occurrences of "the good old days" as this newspaper unearthed them:

Ladies wore bustles.
Monday was wash-day.
There were no flappers.
Nobody had appendicitis.
There was no traffic cop.
Everybody played croquet
There were no Bolsheviks.
Nobody worked but Father.
Cream was five cents a pint.
Men sported wiry whiskers.
Ice cream was "iced" cream.
Boys' shoes were copper-toed.
Nobody was ashamed to walk.
Saturday night was bath night.
No one was fined for speeding.
Vitamin gauges were unknown.
Milk shake was a popular drink.
Only little girls wore short skirts.
Widow's weeds weren't cigarettes.
Only small boys wore short pants.
Doctors wanted to see your tongue.
Nobody was told, "This line is busy!"
Neither men nor women played golf.
Whiskey was fifty cents a quart bottle.
Farmers came to town for their mail.
The livery stable was the social circle.
Nobody cared for the price of gasoline.
Only lumberjacks rolled their stockings.
No one had to look for a parking place.
Chickens all went to roost at sundown.
Beer was five cents a glass, including lunch.
A good cigar set you back a whole nickel.
The shieks all lived in Arabia or Turkey.
Shows in the Town Hall came only so often.
Paper and celluloid collars were popular.
Food stuffs came in bulk, not in packages.
Women wore bathing dresses, not undresses.
Candies for the girl cost her fellow fifteen cents a bag.
School teachers "licked" pupils good.
The boyish form was displayed only by the boy.
Ladies used side saddles, not the whole road.
A girl was mostly bustle behind, not hustle ahead.
Statics were merely a mathematical study at school.
They were days mostly—everything over at ten p.m.
No one had to listen to a saxophone, thank goodness.
Everybody went to church or to sleep on Sunday.
Girls set their caps—not their knee caps—for a man.
Oyster suppers and church socials were twenty-five cents a throw.
Moving pictures happened only at housecleaning time.
Females all wore corsets—at least we think they did.
The hired girl drew $1.50 a week and did the washing.
They bobbed your hair only after they got you in jail.
The melodeon—not the radio—supplied the family music.
The family Bible and family album were popular institutions.
They didn't have to hire a big husky man to teach the boys how to play.
Everyone in the family took sulphur and lard each spring.
The hired man got a dollar a day for 'steen hours—and earned it, too.
Ladies' Clubs were the Ladies' Aid, Sewing Circles and rolling pin.
Milk was delivered into your own pitcher from the dealer's tin measure.
There were no germs, even in Germany.
There were no crooners. except mother when she rocked her restless baby to sleep.
Women's skirts trailed as much material below their feet as they don't now above.
People used to arise and retire on the same day; now they retire and arise on the same day.
Boys were boys, and girls were girls, but nowadays mother and grandmother are girls also.
High flyers used to "take a drop" often; now they take off and take a drop only once.
People took tonic when they were run down; now they usually take an ambulance or the hearse.
The most prominent part of an attractive girl was the bustle and frill; now it's hustle and thrill.
Young people turned in at nine p.m.; now they tune in, and don't turn in until the next morning.
Man wanted but little here below; now it's the woman who not only wants it but wears it also.
Girls wore many worthy mentionables, and now they wear hardly anything worth mentioning.

BOOK OF ACTS ENDS

DOCTOR LUKE stayed with Paul through the two years of imprisonment which preceded his appeal, journeyed with him in a winter voyage and shipwreck, and a sojourn of three months in Malta, all of which he describes vividly in The Acts. They reached Rome together, and there the book of The Acts ends abruptly:—

Bruce Barton

> And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him,
>
> Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

Probably no one came up from Jerusalem to Rome to appear against him, for five years had elapsed since his arrest, and so he was acquitted at his first trial and allowed to live under surveillance but in comfort. During those years he wrote more letters, including some of the finest, like Ephesians and Colossians, and especially Philippians. It was in this period, also, that he wrote the charming little personal letter to Philemon.

It happened in this way. Philemon was a Christian man of wealth who lived in Asia Minor. He had a slave named Onesimus, a wild and disobedient lad who ran away and got to Rome, where he led a gay life. But he knew Paul, who had been at his master's house, and he went to hear him preach. Homesick and conscience-smitten, he asked what he ought to do. Paul kept him a while to test him and then suggested that he go back to his master, not under bonds but of his own free will, and Paul wrote a letter requesting his old friend to take this lad back on a new basis, "as a brother in the Lord."

It was not at all a depressed and broken down apostle who was writing, you see. He was not in prison but was living under guard in "his own hired house," a splendid host, entertaining pilgrims from far and near. Where did he get the money? We can only guess. It must have cost him thirty thousand dollars, as an eminent scholar once computed, for those five years, six thousands dollars a year for rent in Rome, and for food for his rather large household, and for his expense of transportation for himself and his companions.

Wherever the money came from it is a fine thing for us all that during those five years Paul had it. Never, probably, has the world better spent thirty thousand dollars. He had a guard, whom, of course, he had to feed and fee, and this guard had to listen to Paul, who was always talking to visitors and telling about Jesus. It was not long till Paul could write:

> But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the gospel:
>
> So that my bonds in Christ are manifest in all the palace, and in all other places.

HABITS

A Habit is a tendency or inclination gained by practice. A thing once done is easier to do again. This is true of all things, whether good or evil.

Childhood and youth are the most important habit-forming periods of life—perhaps until we have attained the age of twenty years, we are fixing personal habits. Some one has said that, by the time we have reached our thirtieth year, 'our character has set like plaster.'

We are not so likely to change our ideas or habits during the years that follow; although there are exceptions—a a few over that age who have been led into habits that are unbecoming, due, perhaps, to evil associates. There are also a few who will, during middle life, give up some wrong habit that was formed in youth, but as a rule, we are not so readily transformed as we were earlier in life.

The training by parents and teachers, the home life and surroundings, are important factors which aid children and young people in habit formation. As they become older, their close friends and associates have a marvellous influence in this respect, thus they should be taught to choose their companions wisely—those with high and noble ideals, who value character more than popularity and social custom.

Here are some habits—perhaps you would call them virtues, but they become habitual, when cultivated, and which should be impressed upon the minds of our young. (1) The habit of truthfulness. So many children and young people do wrong and when questioned concerning the act, tell a falsehood. afraid to be truthful, perhaps beause of the punishment for the wrongdoing; (2) Honesty. Give to each and everyone what belongs to him. (3) Obedience to authority; (4) Courtesy. (5) Kindness and cheefulness; (6) Carefulness and neatness in all we do; (7) Industry sharing responsiblities in the home; (8) Cleanliness of body, mind and speech; (9) Good reading, to instill high ideals; (10) Temperance in all things; (11) Sportsmanship; (12) Thrift ; (13) Worship and attending church; (14) Self-control—control of temper and being true to convictions, regardless of what others may do.

Professor James says: "Could the young but realize how soon they will become mere walking bundles of habits, they would give more heed to their conduct while in the plastic stage."

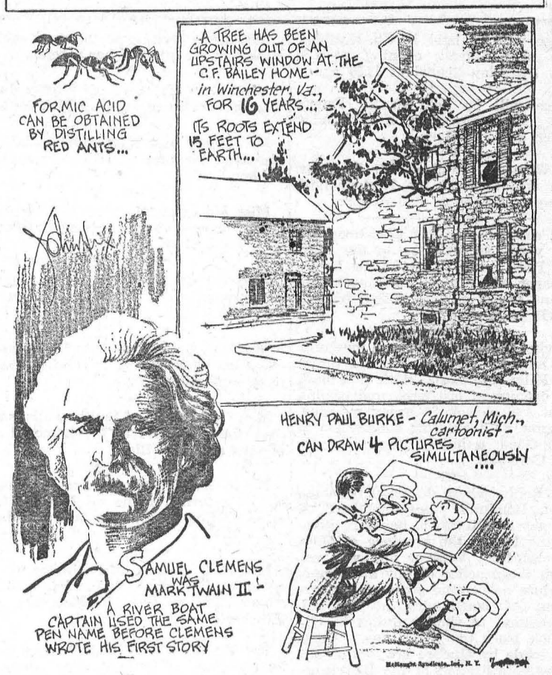
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Samuel L. Clemens, American novelist and humorist who is known more widely by his pen name "Mark Twain," was not the first writer to use this strange pen name. The name was adopted by Clemens during his days on the Mississippi River—"mark twain" is actually a call used in taking soundings on the water. Clemens first used the name in newspaper work in 1863.

The first "Mark Twain" was Capt. Isaiah Sellers, who used it in his writings for a New Orleans newspaper before Clemens wrote his first story under that name.

Formic acid, a colorless liquid which occurs in various insects, particularly red ants, and in some plants, used to be made almost solely in distilling the bodies of ants. Now it can be made artificially in several different ways.

It was first discovered in the bodies of red ants by Rey, in 1670—hence the name "formic" from the Latin "formica," meaning ant. It has an irritating odor, and causes blisters when brought in contact with the skin. It is a powerful antiseptic, and is used commercially as a food preservative, in brewing, and in dyeing.

A RECEIPT FOR LUCK

An old receipt for luck runs as follows: Mix thoroughly equal parts of honesty and ambition. Stir into these sufficient stick-to-it-tiveness to thoroughly emulsify and then apply generously to every task that has to be done. Like grandmother's mustard plasters, this has great "drawing" powers, so we are told. Luck of the desirable sort is simply the drawing to ourselves of the good things of life.

MATILDA COMMUNITY ASSN. ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Matilda Community Association, an organization for the care of the Memorial Park, was held in Gilson's hall, Brinstons, recently. There was a large attendance and more enthusiasm for the association was manifest than there has been for a number of years.

It was stated repairs were needed at the Memorial Park.

Addresses were given by Harold McQuaigg, past president; A. B. Smail, past vice-president; Edward Doddridge and others. It was unanimously decided to operate the community rink this winter and a committee was appointed to make the necessary repairs at the rink and to appoint a caretaker.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary presidents, Rev. Dr. L. A. Pierce; A. C. Casselman and Hon. G. H. Challies; president, John Thompson; first vice-president, Ralph Ennis; second vice-president, W. W. Reynolds; secretary, Charles Strader; treasurer, Peter Pocke; auditors, Orville Smail and Edgar Strader; directorate, Rev. A. C. Lacey, George Wickwire, Dr. I. Hamilton, Dr. A. Clark, Clifford McQuaigg, Edwin Johnston, William Lennox, Ben Johnston, Ralph Adams, A. Pitt, Edward Collison, H. Boyd, H. R. Wallace, S. D. Thorpe, Jas. Lennox, Edward Doddridge, R. Brinston, B. A. Strader, O. Wylie, A. B. Small, H. McQuaigg and S. Johnston.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS

On Friday evening, November 16th, a large number of friends and neighbours of Mrs. W. J. Johnson, North Elmsley, gathered at her home there, where they spent a social evening with Mrs. Johnson and her daughter, Miss Gladys, before their departure for their new home. Mrs. Johnson has rented her property and service station to Mr. Alex Armstrong, and will make a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Orton Hoy, at Metcalfe. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, and at midnight a dainty lunch was served, after which Mr. William McGregor read the following nicely-worded address, while Mr. William Frizell made the presentation of a well-filled purse. Miss Dorothy Carswell, on behalf of the choir of the United Church, and in a few well chosen words, expressed regret at the loss the community will sustain, and of appreciation of the worth of both Mrs. Johnson and her daughter in church work and presented a book to Mrs. Johnson and Miss Gladys, as a memento of the many happy days spent together. Mrs. Johnson made a fitting reply to both addresses and presentations, and accompanied by the best wishes of the entire neighbourhood ,left for their visit on Thursday of this week. The following is the address presented by the neighbors:

Port Elmsley, Ontario,
November 16th, 1934.

To Mrs. Johnson and Gladys:

We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered at your home on the eve of your departure, from our midst, to wish every success and happiness in your new home.

On such occasions we feel that words are superfluous to express our true feelings, only we want you to realize that we do extend to you our sincerest hopes for things worthwhile. Whenever we have been under your roof, we have indeed been welcomed and made feel "right at home." We trust that this same atmosphere will ever permeate your home wherever it may be, and that those who shall be your friends of the future will appreciate your hospitality as we have done, and while we hope you will have many sincere and loyal friends in the future, we are selfish enough to remember those of the present.

As a memento of our good wishes, we desire you to accept these token of friendship, and trust they will recall many happy memories and days spent amongst us.

Signed on behalf of the community, William E. McGregor, William Frizell.

A REMARKABLE HOLSTEIN

A 13-year-old Holstein cow that on the 23rd of November gave birth to her 13th lively calf, and that has in her lifetime produced 107,750 pounds of milk and 4,395 pounds of butter, is something worth while to talk about and much more worth while to see.

This is the record of Colantha Toitilla O.A.C. 111839 G.M., a cow bred at the O. A. C, Guelph, and still in the college herd along with seven of her own daughters. Three times she has born twins and seven times single calves.

This cow is a splendid example of a combination of production and reproduction. She and her offspring will be much in evidence in the demonstrations during the agricultural conference and short course at the college, January 2nd to 11th. when scores of Ontario's best young farmers will convene to discuss their problems and to enjoy ten days of real college life.

BE CLEAN

At the time when John Wesley said "cleanliness is next to godliness" one of his audience remarked in all truthfulness, "and sometimes it is next to impossible." The good old days may have been romantic and picturesque but on the whole, conditions were very dirty and foul-smelling and uncomfortable, because of vermin.

As the standards of living improve, so the standards of cleanliness are raised. One of the striking contrasts between the civilized and the uncivilized is the different attitude which exists regarding cleanliness of person and in the handling of foods.

A great deal of cleanliness has no direct bearing upon health; most of it is a matter of what we call decency, its practice grows out of a sense of comfort and self-respect associated with a clean body in clean clothes, and consideration for others to whom a dirty body is offensive to sight and smell.

Some forms of cleanliness have a very direct bearing upon health. Dirty hands are dangerous enemies. Dirty hands are almost sure to be soiled with body secretions which so often contain disease germs. These germs on the hands gain entrance into the body in putting fingers into mouth, by touching the lips or through handling which is later eaten without having been cooked.

We do not know of any other way in which we can so definitely protect ourselves against disease germs through our own habits as by thoroughly washing the hands before eating or handling food. If the hands are to be kept really clean, the nails must be fairly short so that they may be cleaned regularly. Use soap and warm water freely and do not hesitate to apply the nail brush.

A clean skin is a healthier skin in that when freed from dirt, it is able to do its work better. There is less danger of skin infections and lice are not found among those who bathe regularly and change their underwear frequently. A warm bath at least once a weak is advised, and oftener, if necessary, dependent upon the type of work and the weather, to keep the skin clean and free from odours.

Use clean handkerhiefs. When soiled, handkerchiefs are not only unsightly but the secretions they contain are picked up by the fingers and it is these secretions which must always be regarded with suspicion. Most of the communicable diseases which occur in this country are spread by the germs that are found in secretions from the nose and mouth.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev Charles E. Dunn

The Christian as Teacher.
Lesson for December 9th. Matt. 7:24-29.
Golden Text: 2 Timothy 2:15.

The church, more than in the past, now recognizes that religion is not simply something to be believed or experienced. It is also a body of truth to be taught. This is why we revere Jesus as Teacher, and call His followers, in harmony with the New Testament, disciples or learners.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

It is to be regretted that the church has failed to fulfil its teaching function. The first reason for this failure is sectarianism, with its heated controversies between sects. The second cause is the church's dependence upon revivals. Since the Reformation its history has been largely a succession of remarkable evangelistic awakenings, with periods of arid depression in between. A third factor in this forgetfulness of the educational ideal is an unenlightened ministry. The majority of our ministers have not had a full college and seminary training, and are therefore not truly cultivated.

But we are happily entering a new era. Roused from her lethargy, the church is repenting of her mistakes, and is now fully alive to the vital necessity of educating her constituency. It is a stupendous task, for two out of three of our Protestant children and youth receive no formal religious instruction.

Undoubtedly a place must be found for religious instruction in our public schools, for the burden cannot be borne alone by the Sunday Schools, with their poor equipment, untrained teachers, and inadequate time. But the responsibility of the home is central. Parents should read the Bible regularly with their children, and talk with them simply and frankly concerning the meaning of the Christian faith, and the grandeur of the Christian society. Most fathers and mothers are grossly negligent. Let us labor for the day when every child will be reached for Christ both by consecrated parents and trained teachers.

The reeve also states that an overcoat sent by Mr. Hughes would not fit any of the applicants, so he (the reeve) bought the coat for $10.00, the money to be applied to the purchase of other goods."
