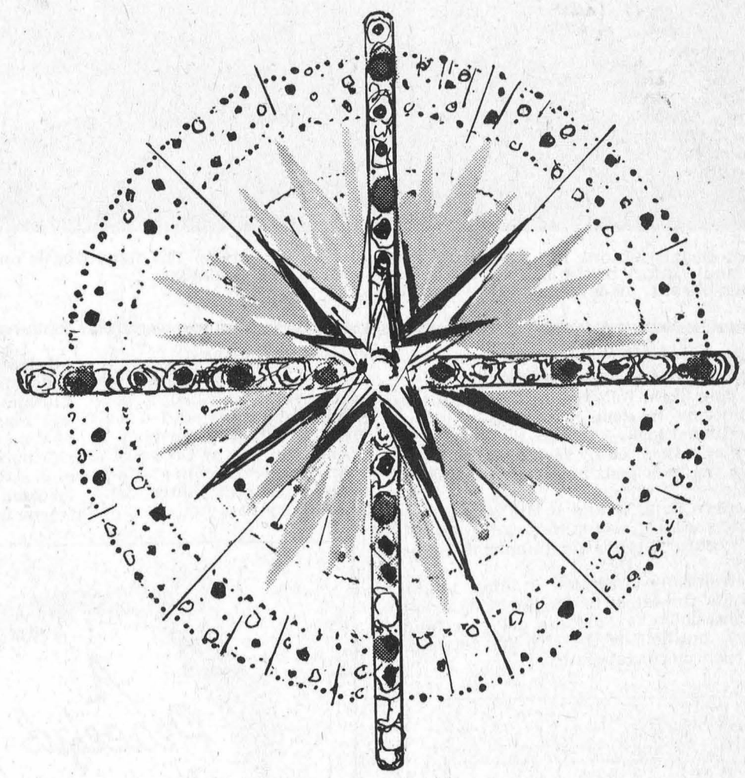
Joy and Peace at Christmas



Around us, the wonder of Christmas spreads its joy and warmth. The radiance of a Star shines into our hearts, as once it shone above a sacred manger, heralding the miracle of the Holy Birth. As you observe Christmas with those near and dear to you, may you rejoice anew at the true, deep meaning of this most glorious time. And may the peace and joy of the season be an ever present blessing, to light the way for all men, everywhere.

Droppo, owner of Bogart Motors, and his family took e for the best family effort in the parade. A Ski-Doo els and a jack-in-the-box made a colourful addition to the big parade. The front wheels on the Ski-Doo were the owners own invention.

Christmas Rose Famed in Legend

Blooming in the heart of winter and sometimes even in the snow, the Christmas rose is a plant famed in legend.

According to an old story, a poor little shepherdess had no gift to offer the Christ Child, and so she wept. When her tears touched the ground, flowers sprouted.

Delighted, she plucked an armful and hastened to the Infant. The caress of His fingers turned the petals pink.

Botanists class the Christmas rose as a member of the buttercup family. Native to Southern Europe and western Asia, it has leathery, dark green leaves and large, saucer-shaped flowers with white or rose-tinged sepals, according to The Encyclopedia Americana.

GROWING HOLLY

A holly tree grows 15 years before it produces, but its life may be as long as 125 years.

IN NORWAY

Norwegians hide an almond in the Christmas pudding. Tradition says the finder will be married in the next year.

Holly Holds Sway

The holly tree and its brightly berried branches hold an important place not only in holiday decorations but in the legends and lore of Christmas.

An old belief in England and Germany was that there are "he" and "she" hollies — the "he" hollies with spined leaves, the "she" hollies smooth-leaved. The varieties brought into the house at Christmas supposedly showed who would head the household for the coming year — "he" or "she."

A variation on this custom said that if the holly was brought into the house in fair weather, the wife would rule, but if the weather was bad, the husband would be master.

Holly was credited with many magical and medical powers. It was believed to cure toothaches, banish rickets, and even foretell to girls the names of their future husbands.

FEATURES ROBIN

One of the first Christmas cards ever published, a small (two by three-and-a-half inches) greeting printed in London in 1862 by Goodall and Son, features a robin presiding over a pastoral winter scene, framed by paper lace.

At the Round Table

Traditionally, the first Christmas feast in England was held at the Round Table of King Arthur. While the specific date is undetermined, references to the famous king in medieval legends have been traced back to as early as 600 A. D.

A couple of people took to disguise and made quite an impression. It was a guessing game all afternoon. Judges were quick to award a prize to Mrs Arthur Ringrow and Mrs James McCloskey for their imaginative effort. Mrs McCloskey is at the right with the baby.

Lore and Legend Express Happy Mood of Season

From home to home, from country to country, Yule celebrations abound. The happy traditions of gift giving, home decorating, carol singing, card sending, candle lighting and tree trimming express the merriment of the season.

Popular folk custms of nation after nation have been absorbed into the international legend and lore of the Yuletide. Yet virtually every nation — and every home and family, too — has its special way of celebrating Christmas, and its special memories of Christmas past.

Carrying in Straw

Straw is a traditional part of Christmas celebrations in Sweden — in probable remembrance of the first Christmas when there was straw in the manger.

While "carrying in the Christmas straw" is a tradition rather than a modern custom, Swedish people still make straw and wooden figures to hang on their Christmas trees.

"San Tan Lou Yin"

In Hong Kong, Santa Claus goes by the name of "San Tan You Lin."

The Hong Kong department stores employ elderly men who are specially costumed for the season. Just like Santa Claus, San Tan You Lin is present for the purpose of holding the youngsters on his knee and listening to their requests for gifts.

Log Had Charms

In ancient Germany, the Yule log was known as the "Christbrand." One belief held that if the charred log was placed in a cornbin, it would act as a charm to ward off mice.

If the weather turned stormy, the Christbrand was quickly brought back to the fire. While it burned, superstition said, the house was safe from lightning.

Going "Mumming"

"Mumming" is a Yule custom that originated in early England. Mummers, masked and in costume, silently enacted ritual plays about the death of winter and the old year.

The custom still survives in some parts of the world, although the plays are no longer performed. Today mummers usually entertain with dancing and instrumental music. They are rewarded with treats.

An early diary, written at Fort Dearborn, Ill., in 1804 relates the practice of trimming the Christmas tree with ornaments of the time.

TREE LEGEND

There are many legends concerning the origin of the Christmas tree. One of the most unusual is found in an old German folktale. According to the story, a branch of fir was given to a forester's family afte had offered food and she a waif, who was in reali Christ Child. The forest the branch into the groun it grew into a tree w always bore fruit and n Christmastime.

Robin Lives in Holiday Legend

What's a robin doing on a Christmas card? More familiar as a harbinger of spring, bobbing along with a fat worm in his mouth, the robin is nevertheless a centuries-old Christmas symbol. And one of the earliest Christmas cards, a 100-year-old English greeting, features an illustration of a robin on a snowbank.

Because legend says the robin played a vital part in the first Christmas, Yuletide decorations and cards have long celebrated the cheery redbreast. This year's crop of Christmas cards included an assortment of robin designs, many depicting the bird at the manger scene.

One card published for this year featured a retelling of the robin legend, reports Mrs. Jeannette Lee, design director for Hallmark cards.

According to the legend, the Holy Family was not alone in taking refuge in the stable at Bethlehem. Perched on a rafter, a small brown robin watched as the three Magi presented their gifts to the newborn Christ Child.

The robin seemed to understand that something wondrous was happening. After the departure of the Magi, when the Holy Family was asleep, the robin noticed that the stable fire was dying. Only a few coals smoldered.

67. MAT PAGE 27

ANTIQUE CHRISTMAS CARD INSPIRED BY robin legend was designed by Jonathan King in London in 1867. The robin wears a red vest because he fanned the embers of the stable fire, to keep the Christ Child warm, legend says. The well-preserved greeting, a century-old this year, is from the Hallmark Historical Collection.

In a valiant attempt to revive the flickering embers, the robin swooped down to fan the fire.

Hovering above the coals, he flapped his wings, fanning the embers to life. As the fire burned brighter, flames singed the robin's breast, scorching his brown feathers a brilliant red gold.

Through the night he fanned the fire to keep the Child warm. Ever since, the robin has worn a red vest, symbolizing his gift.

As a Christmas symbol, the robin embodies the spirit of giving. Like the Magi, the robin gave a precious gift, and he gave it at the cost of personal sacrifice. Thus the robin's gift suggests the deeper meaning — the giving of one's self — the legend notes.

No One Is Indifferent

Charles Lamb put it very concisely when he said that "No one ever regarded the First of January with indifference."

Curiosity, hope and superstition have marked man's observance of the New Year for centuries.

Among superstitious beliefs was that "dipping" provided an insight into the future. Dipping involved the opening of the family Bible while the head of the house, with eyes closed, indicated a passage with his finger; the text, supposedly properly interpreted, was supposed to fortell the good or bad luck in store in the months ahead.

Man has always been as curious about what the future holds as he has been eager to learn about all things unknown. Have you ever noticed how many "forecasters" are present at New Year parties and gatherings? Almost everyone can tell you what is going to happen in the world of business and finance, in politics, in affairs of state, in our relations with other countries around the world.

Be indifferent about the New Year? It's hardly possible. Try as you may, you cannot help but dwell for a moment upon the personal events and happenings of 1967. And, you cannot deny that you have some hopes and plans for 1968.

We hope that is is a very good year for you.

MAKE A DOLLHOUSE

An old wooden bookcase can be turned into a little girl's delight. Clean it up and sand it down. Add wood or heavy cardboard partitions for separate rooms. Paint the separate "rooms" in playful colors. Fill it with furniture, a new Christmas doll, and watch her eyes sparkle on Christmas morning.

They came in all sizes — worried, excited, some even questioning

Little ones by the hundreds came, saw Santa and were undecided about his intentions. This little lass had her doubts but before long she scuttled away clutching a bag of candy and wide-eyed about a chance to talk to Santa.

Dolls, Dolls, Dolls! Each Has Story to Tell

"It's fun to get a doll for Christmas."

This statement comes from a real authority, who is a former Marine, a world traveler and international airline executive — and who is also a man who has more dolls than almost anybody except Santa Claus!

Collector Samuel F. Pryor is the founder of the International Doll Library in Greenwich, Conn., where more than 8,000 dolls are gathered in fabulous variety.

Begun in 1953 when he inherited 300 dolls from a friend, the still-growing collection includes hundreds of dolls searched out by Mr. Pryor himself, and it has also been augmented by gifts from some of the thousands of visitors to the Doll Library — hence Mr. Pryor's personal knowledge that a doll under the Christmas tree is truly a source of delight.

The Doll Library, so named because every doll has a story to tell, is attractively housed in a 1792 barn, remodeled to provide appropriate settings for the dolls. Visits to the Doll Library are by appointment only.

Here, there are antique dolls, historic dolls, craft dolls, religious dolls, dolls of every land and every era. The dolls indeed have much to tell to the serious student of world history and world civilization.

But to Mr. Pryor, the important thing about the dolls is that they are objects of affection — cherished by little girls wating for Santa, and by everyone who loves dolls, to play with and admire.

Along with their legacy of love, the dolls bring a record of mankind's ingenuity.

Among the antique dolls in Mr. Pryor's collection is a 19th-century beauty who turns her head, flutters her eyelids, heaves her bosom and plays a lyre, to the tune of a hidden music box.

Many other dolls in the Pryor collection make it plain that mechanical accomplishments are by no means limited to the dolls of today. For instance, a group of early American dolls includes the "Autoperipatetikos"—a walking doll patented in 1862.

Another kind of ingenuity is manifest in the craft dolls, lovingly fashioned by thoughtful hands from virtually any and every convenient material — pen wipers, shells, pers, wishbones, spon cobs, pine cones, pipe clay pipes, even an o masher.

Among them are Mrs. Crab," dolls wi made from crab clav do-it-yourself dolls v tured in "Godey's Lad for May 1867, with illu of Mr. and Mrs. Crab to" instructions.

Among the Library's habitants, dolls of otl form a miniature Un tions. A turbaned dancer, a Spanish with cape and sword, nese geisha, a Belgi a German tourist, an desert prince, an Arg gaucho — the list is s endless.

Lithographer "Fathered" American Greetings, Encouraged Artists

To Louis Prang, a native of Breslau, Germany, goes the credit for being "father of the American Christmas card."

Prang, a lithographer who began a greeting card business in Roxbury, Mass., exhibited his own cards at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1875. He then had the idea of holding an annual competition to obtain the best of American art for cards.

Hundreds of paintings were entered in Prang's contest, for prizes from two hundred to one thousand dollars. Winners, with two exceptions, were artists born in the United States.

Women artists were well-represented among winners. Rosina Emmet was the mother of the late author and playwright, Robert Emmet Sherwood. Others were Dora Wheeler, Anne Morse, Lizbeth Humphrey and Florence Taber.

The group of 20 Prang prize cards is owned by Norcross, Inc., greeting card publishers.

Handel's "Messiah," often heard at the Christmas season, was begun in August, finished in September and first performed in April.

A Danish Christmas custom is the "Jul-bock," a long pole with a goat's head, whose duty it is to butt in when the children misbehave.

Long before Christianity, pagans believed the mistletoe to have special healing powers. The early Christians used mistletoe to adorn the altars at Christmas, as a symbol of the Lord's healing power. Early Christians also exchanged the kiss of reconciliation before receiving holy sacrament at the altar, a practice which led, perhaps, to the modern custom of a kiss under the mistletoe.

STLETOE KISS

nt Druids believed mis- s given to the goddess and therefore every passing beneath it was Today, it is popular be- t any woman who stands beneath the mistletoe invites a kiss. Some even hold that a girl kissed beneath the mistletoe will be married within a year — if she allows herself to be kissed but once for each berry on the mistletoe.

All the kids of the village and area were on hand. Santa was coming to town and everyone would be there. The streets were lined and his sled was cheered continuously as it rolled along behind a farm tractor. He had left the reindeer out of the village because of the crowd. It is understood the president of the Chamber of Commerce stabled them in the tank yard until Santa was ready to head away.

Burning the Log

From a miraculous Star to a tiny candle, gleaming lights have cast a glow over holiday festivities for centuries.

Pagan sun-worshippers lit candles and kindled fires at winter festivals to help the returning sun gain strength.

Traditional for both light and warmth is the blazing Yule log. Like all "Christmas lights," it has both a religious and a festive significance in holiday lore.

Because legend says that the Christ Child was washed and dressed beside an ash wood fire, the people of early England always had Yule logs of ash wood. Ash had a practical aspect, too, because it was the only green wood which would burn.

The Yule log of England and continental Europe was often believed to have mystical powers to protect the home. To give this protection, the Yule log had to be kept burning all through the 12 days of Christmas.

Later, the "blazing Yule" was primarily associated with the feasting and festivity of the winter holidays.

Chosen City Once Derided

We recognize Nazareth as "the chosen city" and consider it one of the holiest places in Christendom. Such was not always the case.

Nazareth was considered so insignificant that the term "Nazarene" was applied to Jesus Christ in derision.

When Jesus called his first disciples, among them was Philip of Bethsaida. Philip went to Nathanael and said, "We have discovered the one about whom our scriptures speak. He is Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph."

And Nathanael replied, "Can anything good come out of Nazareth?"

After Jesus had spoken to him, Nathanael exclaimed, "Thou are the Son of God; Thou art the King of Israel."

And Nathanael returned to Nazareth with a few chosen disciples as Jesus began his ministry in the chosen city.

Enormous crowds gather outside the Tron Church, in Edinburgh, on New Year's Eve, to wait for midnight. As soon as the clock strikes twelve there is an outburst of shouted good wishes, handshakes, toasts, and reels danced to the wild music of bagpipes.

THE ISLE OF MAN

Long ago on the Isle of Man, women sprinkled ashes on the kitchen floors on New Years Eve. Next morning they looked carefully to see whether there were any footsteps among them. If they saw prints leading toward the door, it was a sign there would be a death in the home. If the steps were reversed, it portended an addition to the family.

CRUMBS
Graham's Loaf

The Christmas spirit has invaded the Castle. Bits of holly and flicks of bunting hang from the walls. Oddments of decorations held over from the last 30 years have made their appearance and add something to the atmosphere. Even the rushes in the great hall have been swept into the fireplace and burned and new ones strewn. The place is homey again and the women have filled the cupboards with goodies of tender and delightful flavours.

We spoke to the man and have a fine, fat goose ordered and ready in the wings. It promises to provide a delicious feast, stuffed to the ears with the usual assortment of inside things. We ease up to the big brown, glistening fowl with a hungry glare, slice off a thick layer of goodness and eat until gravy is running out our ears. We settle back with a contented sigh, knowing full well that the mate to the contented feeling will be a galloping case of the gravy belches topped with baking soda and loud anguish. But the Castle does look with favour on a nice goose. It has the flavour and hearty goodness not always found on a wire-raised lesser fowl.

There is something about the kitchen end of the Castle during the Christmas season. The vice president takes the liberty of dipping into this Crumb's private stock of rum to lace the plum pudding. She even sloshes a bit of family wine over the edge of the roaster when the goose is nearly done. It seems all this heightens the flavour somewhat. The scurrying around and tasting and stirring that goes on is enough to send one into a rapture of anticipation. The results are usually well worth the effort although sometimes tempers reach a thin edge when the day has been long and the dog is too much underfoot.

Village lights are lovely this year. One has only to drive about the town and out into the country to see some handsome displays. A great deal of effort has gone into them. It is a far cry from candles in the window and the ever-present danger of fire. We enjoy Christmas and its ever new and ever familiar sights and sounds.

Here at the Castle, we are planning to join the rest of the family at the family board at our sister's home in Ottawa. It will be a time for reunion all over the country and we are looking forward to it.

Merry Christmas from us to all our friends.

Santa hosts capacity crowd last Sat.

Santa Claus reached out in the throng and came up with a small bright-eyed fan. Connie Elliott, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ren Elliott, Chesterville, had something to remember this Christmas parade. Santa let her sit on his knee. Here the old gentleman is saying something interesting to the little girl. Her expression was mirrored on hundreds of other small faces during the afternoon. — All photos by Record Staff photographers.

Christmas parade makes fine show floats and displays quarter mile long

Chesterville Christmas parade was the best yet. The displays and floats stretched well over a quarter of a mile through the village streets. The town was crowded with visitors and stores reported a rousing trade.

Chesterville Chamber of Commerce set up a committee headed by parade captain Bert Gillard. They were asked to set up a plan for the parade and enlist the aid of the merchants. The response was mixed. Some merchants of the main streets were on hand to take part, others were either too busy or had other plans. Out of an original 29 entries, however, the parade people sent away no less than 22 units.

Morrisburg Boys' Band stepped away smartly in the lead and their marching music could be heard all over town. Then the glitter and shine of the parade filled the streets.

Centennial queen Nancy Gillard wavel on probably her last big show of the season. Her convertible was followed by another carrying the Dundas County and Stormont County princesses.

Santa came along at the end of the parade. He had the loan of a fine sleigh and a bit more horsepower than the reindeer could provide. His entourage brought him to the front door of the Community Hall where he was immediately mobbed by throngs of youngsters. It took him some time to make his way to the hall stage and the big stacks of candy bags. When the last word had been said and the last youngster had been made happy, only 21 bags of candy of nearly a thousand were left.

Following the stage appearance of Santa, he was taken to several small shut-ins in the village where he offered cheer and a smile.

The parade was divided into three sections for judging purposes. The company prize went to a handsome display set up by Queensway Tank Lines Ltd. It depicted the world in glittering purple founted on a snow white bank. The motto was "peace" and "Good Will to Men."

Honourable mention in the category went to a combinatn

Help was immediately rounded up, the tractor raised from the unconscious man, and he was rushed to Winchester District Memorial Hospital by Brownlee ambulance. Dr. Howard Justus attended him and later he was taken to the Montreal institution for extensive care.

Rotary hears priest at Christmas meeting

Father J. J. Collins, P.P. of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Chesterville, was the featured speaker at the Christmas meeting of the local Rotary Club. He was introduced by Ronald Lynch and thanked on behalf of the members by Lorne Thompson.

The annual Christmas meeting of Rotary is one of the highlights of the year. The hotel staff under the direction of Mrs Clarence Hagan prepared a bountiful smorgasbord style dinner. Music for the Christmas carols was supplied by P. G. Hewitt and Leon Marcellus led the singing. Club president Glen Droppo presided.

Father Collins told again the story of Christ and his birth to Mary and Joseph. He illustrated how the divine birth changed the parents from ordinary Jewish peasants into figures of unending reverence and prominence. "The revelation of Jesus," the priest said, "is needed to change the world today." Father Collins suggested that even though following the will of Christ may seem a burden, it must be remembered the love of Jesus lightens any burden.

The speaker concluded his talk with the plea that Christmas should live throughout the year in the spirit of Jesus.

Nestle holds gala Christmas party at Cornwall

Santa arrived in a blaze of glory to the tune of "Santa Claus is Coming to Town' sung by over 300 Nestle employees and guests at their annual Christmas party held Saturday night, Dec. 9, at the Parkway Hotel in Cornwall.

A very fine time was enjoyed by all. After a social period the group were called to their seats by Mr Mike Fyke, M.C., for the affair. Grace was said by Mr H. Nottell and the group sat down to a fine turkey dinner. Quiet organ music and a Christmas atmosphere added to the evening.

Some of the "old friends" that came along to visit were: Mr and Mrs Cecil Carr, Mr and Mrs Bill Faubert, Mr and Mrs Thaddeus McIntosh, Mr and Mrs Glen Merkley, Mrs Una Merkley, Mrs M. Beckstead, Miss Evelyn Carr, Mrs Albert Hurtibise, Mrs Jean Barr.

From the Toronto Nestle office came: Mr and Mrs Stafford Campbell, Mr and Mrs Roy Richards, Mr and Mrs Don McCarthy, Mr Bruce Rennick. Other special guests were Mr Camille Pegano of the Corporate Head Office in Switzerland and from the Company's Montreal office came Mr and Mrs Ollie Perras.

The formal activities were relatively brief: Mr Dalton Carr extended Season's Gretings to one and all from the local union. Mr James Moonie, factory manager, extended a word of welcome and best wishes to everyone and Mr Stafford Campbell, president of Nestle Canada Limited, voiced his sincere appreciation upon being back among friends and fellow employees at this Christmas season.

The remainder of the evening saw door prize activity, long service recognition presentations and a lively dance to the snappy music of Alex Aubin and his orchestra.

Some ofthe prize winners were: a special prize direct from Santa's workshop, won by Alf. Jarvis. A Christmas turkey, won by Fay Shaver; cups and saucers, won by Mrs Jack Price, Carol Beckstead and Mrs William Fau-

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

Merry Christmas

The seasons come and go but everything seems to lead to Christmas. It is the highlight of the year in so many ways, and the Christian world has come to accept it as a time of joy and happiness. No other season reaches the spirit of man with such generous outpourings of friendship and familiarity.

The Centennial year of Canada was just a gleam in the public eye this time last year. In the span of 12 months the world has visited these shores, tasted some of the things we have to offer and gone away with a truer picture of Canada. For that we are thankful. We have had many sorrows and troubles during the past year, but then our blessings are great. This is the season to be thankful for all things. For some, it will be a difficult time, but out of sorrow can come stronger faith. Fortunte has smiled on many this Centennial year and Christmas will be a busy and happy time for them.

This newspaper and its faithful staff have worked hard in the public interest. We havetried to do our share in a continuing effort started away back some 74 years ago. It was December 15, 1894, the first issue of this newspaper began and now 74 Christmas's later, we are still at the same old stand. We have been proud to serve you all these years and this past year has been busy and eventful.

We have one wish for everyone.

A Very Merry Christmas.

We wonder . . .

Premier Johnson of Quebec won a lot of support and friends as well as sympathy at the recent Premiers' Conference in Toronto, states the Prescott Journal. Many of us came to realize by following discussions at the conference that French-speaking Canadians find it extremely difficult to operate outside the bounds of their own province without first learning another language and set of social rules.

Premier Johnson played the part of down-trodden minority leader perfectly and perhaps he had to in order to get a sympathetic ear. He is much more forceful in his own province, however, when seeking extended rights and privileges for the French-speaking people of Canada. He has demanded complete control of federal government money going into the province; he has expressed boundary expansion demands; he has demanded control of national radio and TV in Quebec.

These demands were not made at the Toronto conference. This is why we wonder . . .

Firms moving from Quebec?

In roughly 12 days after formal announcement had been made that Charlottenburgh township had been accepted for assistance under Ontario's industrial incentive program, Economics and Development Minister Randall disclosed a $171,000 grant will aid in the establishment of a new industry in the Summerstown Station area.

Acorrding to the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, this is first grant under the province's new industrial opportunity plan for slow-growth areas. Through it, a 50,000-square-foot industry will be estabished. The New Castle Products (Canada) Limited has its main operations in Montreal. It has seen fit to expand and has selected the Summerstown Station area as a site for increased operations. This is the second Montreal-based firm to make this move. The other is the Bantamac Co. plant that has been operating in Charlottenburgh since last spring. Could this be an indication that the instability in Quebec, both politically and economically, is causing such firms to establish plants in nearby Ontario?

If so, both Charlottenburgh and even Cornwall stand to benefit from an industrial development standpoint. Cornwall, once known as the Factory Town noted for its large-scale manufacture of textiles, has become a city of diversified industry. Manufacture of chemicals of various kinds has replaced textiles as the foremost products manufactured.

The new plant at Summerstown Station will, like similar industries obtained in recent years by Cornwall, start off with small-scale production. It is a growth industry, with good potential. Speedy response by Mr Randall's department in assisting the new firm to become established — shows the Ontario government's new industrial incentive program is being implemented and should prove successful.

Already, Cornwall, Kingston and other municipalities seeking new industry, have applied for registration under the scheme. Whether Cornwall's application will be approved is conjectural in view of the steady industrial growth experienced in recent years. Furthermore, Cornwall can't be classed as a small municipality. The same applies to Kingston and other cities of comparable size.

Since Ontario's industrial incentive program has formulated to give small municipalities a wider base of industrial assessment and to provide jobs for young people in slow-growth areas, it would seem logical that neither Cornwall nor Kingston can qualify at this time for inclusion in the scheme.

Your Federal Report

by Mrs. Jean Wadds, M.P.

Thursday, December 14, 1967, will be a day marked in Canadian history. At noon that day the Prime Minister of Canada announced his resignation as the Leader of the Liberal Party and one of the many careers of a great Canadian came to an end. Politics is history in the making and has the fast moving irrevocable flow of the historical stream.

Mr Pearson has held his party together by the force of his personality. He is an amiable and lovable man and his colleagues worked together under him because of the respect and affection they felt for him.

He has, of course, a tremendous record of association with Canadian Government over the last 40 years, 19 of those years as Member of Parliament for Algoma East, for the last ten years leader of the Liberal Party and for nearly five years, Prime Minister of Canada.

His time as leader of the Liberal Party has very nearly paralleled my time in the House of Commons. I remember well, in 1958, how inept he seemed as a politician and how everyone wondered what would become of the Liberal Party under his regime. It seems to have held an undramatic centre, neither much up nor down. The elections of 1963 and 1964, when the Liberals banked heavily on the Pearson personality, gave them only minority government. It was not until Bob Stanfield was chosen Conservative leader that the Liberal status changed, according to public polls it has taken a painful and powerful plunge downward. All this Fall everything seems to have gone from bad to worse in the Liberal Party and the divisions amongst its members are very obvious indeed.

After a year of trying to improve the machinery of the CBC and obtain the appointment of a new President, the Hon. Judy LaMarsh made public her irritation with Mr Pearson, with her "rotten management" statement, blaming Mr Pearson for delay. There is what seems to be an insurmountable problem over medicare with many Liberals thinking it would be a popular vote-getting measure and others thinking just as strongly that the country cannot afford it. With rapidly increasing government costs and a frightening degree of inflation, more and more are tending to the latter opinion which is unanimous amongst the Provincial Premiers. Mr Pearson has been up against a pitched battle on this important subject.

More important even than medicare is the serious gap between the English-speaking and the French-speaking citizens of Canada. It is now being admitted openly that Confederation might break up and end violently. To arrive at a workable federation is undoubtedly Mr Pearson's first priority at the moment, as it is Mr Stanfield's. They respect one another and Canadians will be assured and should believe that these two gentlemen will keep a calm approach to Canada's future, and will strive earnestly and honestly to keep down emotions and political opportunism. We are fortunate that two men of this caliber will be devoting so much time in the next few months to saving Canada. Those who have not thought too much of its dissolution would do well to consider the alternatives and how much preferable it is to have our future in our own hands.

It will take a great deal of clear thinking, constitutional knowledge, and warmth of heart. These two men have all these qualities.

The retiring Liberal leader has endeared himself to hundreds and hundreds of people. Every year he welcomes the student who is going to use his old room at Victoria College, University of Toronto, with an encouraging hand-written letter. These delightful hand-written letters go out generously across party lines when friends and acquaintances are in trouble or sorrow as I know from personal experience. I also remember the numbers of people that asked about Mike Pearson when I was representing Canada at the United Nations. People from all over the world, of all colours and creeds, sent their warmest affection and regards to him and there was no doubt that Canadian were more liked and trusted because of him.

I know I speak for many Canadians when I wish him personal health and happiness in the years ahead.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Unwed Mothers: Within the last few years, my husband and I adopted your baby boy. Do you ever wonder about him? Let me tell you what he's like. He is healthy, happy, a lovely disposition and is wonderfully curious about everything. I won't dwell on the fact that he is handsome because that's not important. I will tell you, however, that he is a loveable, sweet, gentle, mischeivous and he has a delightful sense of humour. Our friends, relatives and neighbours all adore him.

We think perhaps we love this child just a little more than most parents love their children because we know we must love him for you, too. When I tuck him in at night, I give him an extra kiss. It's the one you would give him if you could. If there is a shadow of doubt in your mind, please know that you made the right decision when you gave up the child. And when you think about him, please be assured that he is loved, loved, loved. We thank you for this precious gift and we hope and pray that you are well and happy and that you have made a good life for yourself. God bless you. Your Child's Mother.

Dear Mother: Your letter is one of the most touching I have ever published. Thank you very much.

* * * *

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to see this letter in print. And so would fifty million other women. I hope you will be a good sport and publish it.

Why has society given its unspoken blessings to the adulterous male, yet the female who does the same thing is labelled a tramp? The cheated wife is counselled to "forgive and forget" (your words). Furthermore, she is expected to keep her big mouth shut (my husband's words).

The husband always seems to have a good excuse, and even if it's no so good, it's supposed to be acceptable. So why be critical of a wife who wants someone to pay attention to her if her husband is too busy, too disinterested or too tired?

I was so dumb it took me 10 years to catch on a little stunt my husband was pulling regularly. Every February his industry has a national convention in Atlantic City. Just before convention time, he would get me into a big argument so I'd get mad at him and not go to the convention. This gives you an idea of how smart he was and how dumb I was.

Well, I have brained up a good bit since those days and now I am having a ball. Instead of crying my eyes out and being mean to my children, I've got myself a lover, I'm laughing my head off and I'm nice to everybody. — The Winner.

Dear Winner: What are you winning? So far as I can see, you've merely lowered yourself to your husband's level. Nobody ever won a game by changing the rules, and this is what you are trying to do. Too many kids today have one cheating parent. The kids who have two have my sympathy even more.

"WATCH DOGS"

A Dumbarton, Scotland, whisky distillery found it couldn't improve on the Romans for its security arrangements. A gaggle of 90 geese are used as "watch dogs" to warn guards of any break-ins.

At the slightest unusual sound, the birds raise the roof. A director got the idea from a story that geese gave the alarm during a fire in ancient Rome in 390 B.C.

Chesterville's Christmas parade was a huge success. Floats and clowns and pretty girls made a memorable show. In spite of the dull weather, the village was filled with people. Men of St. Luke's Church, Finch entertain ladies at annual banquet

St. Luke's Presbyterian Church hall, Finch, was the setting for the annual Ladies' Night Supper sponsored by the Presbyterian Men's Council of the Presbytery of Glengarry. Approximately 60 were present in spite of poor driving conditions last Monday night.

Guest speaker at the dinner was George Fernie, Toronto, assistant to the National Director of Presbyterian Men, who chose of his subject "Removing Landmarks", Mr Fernie in a challenging address called on men and women to maintain the great bulwarks of the Christian faith. These bulwarks, he said were the only firm foundations upon which to build when so many other things in the secular world are being found to be shifting and unsure.

The guest speaker was introduced by Allen McIntyre of Avonmore, and thanked by Harold Shaver, Ingleside.

Rev. Kenneth McDonald, Martintown, led in the singing of several of the much loved carols of Christmas. Guest soloist was Sterling Murphy, of Newington, whose ministry on song was much appreciated and enjoyed. Mrs John Fortier, of Lancaster, was accompanist.

Mrs Mogens Jensen of Maxville, showed a series of beautiful colored slides taken on her recent trip to Denmark. Her commentary was very appropriate.

Arthur Smith, Williamstown, thanked the Ladies of the Finch church and of the members of the "P. M." members, responsible for the sumtuous array of food.

John D. McLennan, St. Elmo, president of the "P. M." Presbytery Council, spoke briefly on the aims and objectives of men's program within the church. He referred to a meeting held that afternoon with Mr Fernier in which new ideas were advanced for men's work.

Reference was made to the one project that the local Presbytery's Men's Council undertakes, that of providing bursaries each year for the young men from Presbytery of Glengarry preparing for the Christian ministry within the Presbyterian Church of Canada. Last September six such bursaries were presented.

Clifford MacRae, of Avonmore, was chairman of the evening's program.

The next meeting will be held in Avonmore on Monday, Jan. 8.

The mother of the bride chose a gold metalic brocade dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was white mums. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a turquoise paisley satin gown and black accessories, complemented by a corsage of yellow mums.

A reception was held at MacDonell's Inn, Cornwall. For travelling on the honeymoon, the bride chose a shimmering blue antron dress with a three-quarter length persian lamb jacket, highlighted by a corsage of white mums.

Out of town guests were from Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Cornwall and Massena.

Christmas weekend is on its way. With most of us enjoying a three or four-day holiday, family gatherings will be possible since people will have time to travel home for Christmas. And, much of that travel will be by auto. So, just a word of caution . . . remember that sleet, ice, snow-rutted roads often make winter driving hazardous. These few remnders, recommended by many experienced drivers, if heeded, will help to make your Christmas holiday trip both safe and pleasant. Keep your car in top mechanical order. Observe all the laws and be courteous and alert. Use snow tires or chains on ice and packed snow. Drive smoothly, avoiding sudden starts, stops and abrupt turns. Keep more than the usual distance between your car and the vehicle ahead. "Pump" brakes lightly on icy or wet streets to bring your car to a gradual stop. If you should skid, let up on the gas pedal and steer in the same directin as your rear wheels are sliding. Watch for thawing ice — you need twice as much stopping distance on slush as on glare ice. Turn your headlights on low beam during a snow storm or fog. Watsh for icy patches on streets and frosty bridge floors. Keep windows clear and clean. Above all — slow down! Happy and safe travelling.

For those last minute checks on holiday plans remember your telephone is ready and waiting to help you thrugh these busy days. Whether it's a call to a neighbour to check up on Junior's whereabouts, to the store to quickly order a forgotten item, or to out-of-town relatives or friends to make final plans for the holiday, your telephone can ease the rushing about during these last few days. In fact, it's almost as good as having an errand boy at your beck and call 24 hours a day.

Canadians fortunate enough to have visited Expo 67 this past summer heard languages from every corner of the globe. Not only in the fascinating Expo pavilions, but along the walkways of Expo grounds the different tongues added to the international atmosphere. I thought it might be interesting to discover how the telephone was answered in some of the different countries. Our "Hello" comes from the High German "Holla" which apparently wa soriginally a commond for a horse or dog. It's completely replaced "Ahoy," the first telephone greeting. Today's German answers with "Wer spricht?" — "Who speaks?" while "God dag" — "Good day" provides the opening gambit in Sweden. The Spanish "Diga" — "Talk" comes straight to the point, and the ever tactful Frenchman commences with "J'écoute" — "I am listening." The Rdssians answer with "Slushayu" meaning "Listening." In Britain, the telephone is usually answered by repeating the telephone number. However, if you're answering a business call, the name of your firm and your own name provides the best response for the caller.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR!

NO MEDAL FOR BRAVERY

Kenneth Baumeister, 12, of Weymouth, Mass., was due to have his tonsils out but when he saw one of his brothers after a similar operation, he got lost fast.

He dashed from the hospital — hospital gown flowing and bare feet flashing and hid in a thicket of bushes 1½ miles away. Ninety minutes later two neighbours found Kenneth and took him home. His mother agreed to surrender his tonsils at a later date.

IN MEMORIAM

MacLEAN — In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert M. MacLean, who passed away January 8, 1965.
He could not say good-bye to us,
Perhaps it was just as well,
For we never could have said good-bye.
To one we loved so well.
All we have is memories
Sprayed with many tears
And a wish that God had spared him
Just a few more years.

Wife and Family.

FIT FOR A KING

A Lincolnshire, Eng., fish merchant had a kingly guest on his stall — a royal sturgeon. The huge fish — this one more than eight feet six inches long — is so rare that an ancient law states each one caught should be offered to the monarch.

Luckily this one was caught outside British waters and local citizens were able to buy the delicacy for 75c a pound.

Delightful program presented at meeting of Avonmore W. M. S.

Guests of the Women's Missionary Society Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Avonmore, meeting last Wednesday night in the church hall, were members of the Explorers and children of the Church groups who presented a delightful program appropriate to the Christmas Season.

Mrs Clifford MacRae, the president, welcomed members of all three groups to this special joint meeting.

The boys and girls presented a number f recitations, songs, prayers, musical numbers and plays.

During the meeting Mrs Allen McIntyre was honored by her fellow auxiliary members in the presentation to her of a W. M. S. Life Membership Certificate. Mrs John D. Ferguson read the accompaning address and Mrs J. A. Cameron made the presentation after which Mrs McIntyre voiced her appreciation.

Miss Jean Morrison gave the report of the Nominating Committee. Officers for 1968 are as follows: Mrs Neil Bush, president Mrs M. F. MacRae, vice-president, Mrs Glenn McIntyre, secretary, Mrs Allen McIntyre, treasurer.

Convenors - Mrs Clifford McElheran, Glad Tidings, E. M. Miller, friendship and service, and Mrs Fraser McRae, home helpers.

Mrs Clifford MacRae was reappointed leader of the Explorers group and Mrs Clarence Henderson will direct the children of the church. Mrs Hugh Morrison was re-appointed as pianist.

Following the presentation of a play "Room for the King" and the singing of "Away in in a Manger" by seven girls, Mrs Calvin Grant offered the closing prayer.

A fellowship hour and lunch rounded out an impresive Christmas meeting.

Two of the prize winners in the costume division were these two happy ladies. They represented a Centennial couple and caused a great deal of amusement by their crowd-pleasing antics. Mrs Ringrow and Mrs James McCloskey were effectively concealed by their costumes.—Record Staff Photo.

J. Clement McCloskey

Word was received last week of the sudden passing of a former member of the community. J. Clement "Clem" McCloskey had passed away in Ottawa. He was the son of the late Mr and Mrs F. McCloskey, longtime owners of the McCloskey House here.

Clem McCloskey was educated in Chesterville and Morrisburg schools. He went overseas in World War I in January, 1916, joining up with the Irish Rangers, 199th Battalion. After the war he lived for many years in Chesterville and then moved to Montreal. He was with the Canadian Corps of Veterans in Ottawa during World War II. In 1953 he finally moved to Ottawa where he lived until the time of his death. He was a keen sports enthusiast, especially hockey. His health had not been good in the past few years but his sudden death came as a shock to his family.

He is survived by two sisters, K. Agnes and Kathleen of Ottawa and a brother, Francis, Montreal. Two sisters died some time ago, Ella and Mrs T. A. McCauley (Ethel), Montreal.

Mr McCloskey's funeral was held last Friday at Blessed Sacrament Church, Ottawa, where a libera service was conducted at 2 p.m. Interment followed in St. Mary's' Cemetery here and funeral mass was celebrated Saturday morning at Blessed Sacrament Church at 8 a.m.

TALKING TURKEY

IF I WERE JUST ALLOWED to give one piece of advice about cooking the Christmas turkey I would say that you should be sure to cook it long enough. After the bird is done it can easily stand ½ hour before serving. In fact, that will make it easier to carve.

Getting the Bird Ready

This is not the problem it used to be, as nowadays birds are well cleaned for marketing, but as many of you will be buying your bird frozen you must be sure to have them thawed at the proper time. You will find a thawing time chart on the wrapper; if not allow at least 24 hours at rom temperature or 48 hours in the refrigerator.

When thawed, wash thoroughly in warm water, pat dry and stuff both neck and body cavities lightly with your favourite poultry stuffing. Sew openings shut, tie wings to body and legs to tail. Place breast side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Cover with loose cap of foil. Do not allow foil to touch top or sides of bird.

Turkey Roasting Chart

Oven temperature: 325 degrees.

Purchased Ready-to-Cook Weight	Guide to Total Roasting Time
6 to 8 lbs.	3½ to 4 hrs.
8 to 12 lbs.	4 to 4½ hrs.
12 to 16 lbs.	4½ to 5½ hrs.
16 to 20 lbs.	5½ to 6½ hrs.
20 to 24 lbs.	6½ to 7½ hrs.

Foil Wrapped Roasting Chart

Oven temperature: 450 degrees.

Purchased Ready-to-Cook Weight	Guide to Total Roasting Time
8 to 10 lbs.	2¼ to 2½ hrs.
10 to 12 lbs.	2½ to 3 hrs.
14 to 16 lbs.	3 to 3¼ hrs.
18 to 20 lbs.	3¼ to 3½ hrs.
22 to 24 lbs.	3½ to 3¾ hrs.

How to Cook Turkey in Foil

Use wide foil. Place stuffed turkey breast up, in centre of greased foil. (If foil isn't wide enough to have at least 5 to 6 inches beyond both ends of bird, join 2 pieces with drugstore or lock fold, pressing to make leakproof joining.) To prevent puncturing, wrap small folds of foil around tips of drumsticks and wings. Bring ends of foil up snugly ver breast of turkey; overlap in drugstore fold and press tightly to bird. Bring sides of foil up against ends of turkey, to prevent drippings from running into the pan and burning. Place foil-wrapped bird, breast up, in shallow pan — no rack.

When turkey has cooked to within 15 to 20 minutes of total time, pen foil and fold back so bird will brown. Roast till done.

Your turkey is done when the thickest part of the drumstick feels soft and the drumstick moves up and down and twists easily in the socket. If you use a meat thermometer it should register 175 degrees.

PLANT FAILURE

Dry atmosphere may be cause of house plant failure. Dry atmosphere is not only injurious to such insect pests as red spider, plants themselves but invites fern scale and thrips.

A humidifier such as a pan of water on a radiator, will help, although this seldom provides enough moisture in the winter. Spraying the plants occasionally with lukewarm water may be of benefit.

float fielded by R. L. Hutt and Mac LaSalle.

The family categry was won by Garnet Droppo and his lively family. Led by a Ski-Doo on tiny wheels, a garish golf cart pulled a jack-in-the-box that every little while erupted with a live jack. It was most effective. Honourable mention went to the Crumb Castle set up by Mary Graham for the Castle people.

The Chesterville Boy Scout troop took top prize for the organization classification. Chesterville Centennial committee ended in a blaze of fun and frolic with Mrs Arthur Ringrow and Mrs James McCloskey demonstrating what a 100-year-old costume would do if worn today.

Miss Marion Casselman, Mr

Judges for the parade were Jens Jensen and Rev L. Mc. Ferguson.

Nominations again one councillor needed

Nominations will be held Thursday, December 21, to fill the slate. Chesterville council is still one short for the 1968 government. Two meetings to date have elected by acclamation a reeve, James Brannen, and three councillors, Harry Allison, Fred Coons and Adolphe Lauzon.

The meeting will be open for new nominations from 7 to 8 p.m. in Community Hall. If more names qualify than are required to fill the slate an election will be held Jan. 2, 1968.

This centennial event was held in the United Church hall on Dec. 12th and was catered to by the local W. I.

Seated at the head table were the local clergymen, Rev. Ferguson of the United Church, Mr Jens Jensen, student minister of the Presbyterian church, Reeve Mr Cecil McNabb, Dep. Reeve Mr Willis Robinson, councillors Mr B. Link, Mrs J. Barrett, Mr G. Baker; clerk, Glen MacGregor; tax collector, Mr W. Carlyle; Road Supt., Mr Bell; the village trustees and all of their wives.

The impromtu program included addresses by the clergymen and trustees and a sing-song with Mrs Roy Nurse acting as accompanist.

It was noted that several Sr. citizens were present, two new babies as Jr. Citizens, several couples who had enjoyed 50 years of married life and a number who had been born and reside in ths village. The business men in the village and farmers were also introduced. During the last 20 years, 19 new homes have been erected as well as new industries started.

Institute Power Engineers elect 1968 officers

The Cornwall Branch of the Institute of Power Engineers held a dinner meeting at the Towne Line Motel on Dec. 4. The new officers for 1968 were sworn into office by Kenneth MacKinnon of Cornwall, the National President of the I.P.E.

Members elected were: Joseph Pringle, Chesterville, president; John Buck, Winchester, 1st vice-president; Seth Inglis, Cornwall, 2nd vice-president; Martin Van Beek, Cornwall, secretary; Lyall Forsyth, Newington, treasurer;

One of the highlights of 68 will be the Eastern District Conference held in Cornwall in June. Every operating engineer should try to attend as Canada will be represented from the Atlantic Coast to western edge of Ontario.

O.P.P. Report

O.P.P. officers in Dundas County last week patrolled 13,074 miles of highway and secondary roads. As a result 62 traffic charges were laid with 62 warnings issued. Only three accidents were reported and investigated in which two persons suffered minor injuries.

Two minor thefts are being investigated in Morrisburg and Iroquois areas. Officers also answered 16 other calls arising from various circumstances. As a result of these investigations, four charges under the Liquor Control Act and two under the Criminal Code, were laid. One person was arrested and charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

Several thefts of Chirstmas tree lights have been reported in the area. People go to a lot of expense to decorate their residences for this season, and to steal or damage these decorations, seems like a lowly form of entertainment. Any person found stealing or damaging decorations will be charged under the Criminal Code.

Members of Morrisburg and Winchester Detachments wish to convey to you, the very best for a safe and happy Christmas and New Year.

Mrs Peter Manley was hostess for the December meeting of St. Bernard's Catholic Women's League and welcomed thirty-four ladies to her home which was decorated beautifully for Christmas.
