HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Well-Known Colquhoun Farmer Takes His Own Life

Mr. James Gow, well-known and highly respected farmer of the Colquhoun district, committed suicide Tuesday morning by hanging himself from the litter carrier track in his barn.

The news of his death spread quickly and came as a shock to his many friends and acquaintances. He was a trustee of the Public school and an elder of Colquhoun United church.

Apparently in his usual good spirits he had gone to the barn about six o'clock. It was not his usual custom to go out so early, his sons doing up the morning chores, but it was not thought anything of as a sick cow required attention. He was in the barn longer than thought necessary when Mrs. Gow went to investigate, to find his lifeless body hanging from the litter carrier track, his feet only two inches from the floor.

No reason could be given for the rash cat. It is known that he was a sufferer from diabetes, but he was a very robust-looking man and did not seem morbid. In his pocket was found a note bidding farewell to his family.

Surviving are his wife and a family of nine children—James, who lives in California: Maud (Mrs. Ernest McMillan), of Beckstead district; William, who has been employed at his uncle's, Mr. Archie Black's, for the last ten years; Mahlon, of Dixons Corners; George, Stanley, Blanche, Douglas and Dwaine, at home.

Elma and Winchester Springs Churches Annual Meetings

The annual meetings of the Elma and Winchester Springs charges of the United Church were held last week with very good attendances. The pastor, Rev W. A. Morrison, reviewed at Elma the work of the year and was thanked for his faithfulness.

The treasurers of the churches reported a total of $4545 was raised during the year, of which $1143 was given to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund. The Woman's Associations raised $578 for improvements to church properties and other purposes. The W. M. S. had a good year. The work of the Sunday Schools came in for special mention as for local work and missions, being ahead of previous years.

In the election of officers some of the younger men were included. The ladies served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Both heifers made their records on twice-a-day milking.

Conservatives Win Hamilton and Grenville

The Conservative Government of Ontario scored a double victory in the by-elections in West Hamilton and Grenville yesterday, but not before the Liberal forces had cut previous majorities by a considerable margin, and given their opponents a real battlef or the vacant seats. In Grenville, James A. Sanderson, Conservative, was elected over Percy N. Barnard, of Prescott, by a majority of 1,476, 560 less than the majority of former Premier G. Howard Ferguson in winning the seat at the last election. In West Hamilton, Alderman Argue Martin, Conservative, defeated Captain Elmore Philpott, M. C., by a majority of 384 votes, and it was in this riding that the Liberals made their greatest gain. At the last election, the late Hon. Fred T. Smye, Conservative, was elected over J. A Soule, Liberal, by a majority of 4,763.

Both seats were Conservative strongholds. Mr. Ferguson held Grenville for 25 years without tremendous difficulty, while West Hamilton had been Conservative for a long period, with the exception of the years between 1919 and 1923, when Hon. Walter Rollo held the seat for the Labor party.

The victory gives the Government 88 seats in the Legislature, which opens to-day, as compared with the combined Opposition total of 24, including two Independent Conservative seats.

And so ends an election campaign which, for sheer intensity, has seldom been parelleled in the history of the province. The old-line parties have battled tooth-and-nail throughout. Both have had their outstanding orators in action; on at least one occasion Conservative and Liberal met on common ground and carried on the fight from the same platform, and by radio, newspaper a nd billboard, the electorate has been advised, warned, asked and told who, and who not to vote for.

Cornwall Has One-Goal Lead On First Play-Off Game

In the Central Ottawa Valley league play-off, in the first game between Cornwall Colts and Chesterville on local ice Monday night the Colts ran off with the game and a one-goal margin with which to enter the final in Cornwall Friday night, when the aggregate score of the two games will settle the championship of the league and the winners will go into the first round of the play-downs for the Ottawa district championship.

The largest crowd of the season locally began gathering an hour and a half before the hour of facing the puck, to secure points of vantage to witness the struggle and by the time of the starting whistle every nook and cranny held its fan.

The game was a hard fought affair without many highlights or much brilliant play to keep it talked about, and the fire of enthusiasm of either club's supporters had very little opportunity to burst out into a lusty blaze. Leo Heffernan, of Montreal, officiated with the whistle and never for a moment did he let the play get beyond his control, neither did he slow the game up with unncessary calling of a few inches off-side in centre ice.

After an exchange of long range shooting in the opening period with Parker of the Colts giving Hamilton the first real shot to work on, Chesterville made a determined attack with Oliver and Jarvis working well in, but the latter shot wide. Watt fired one at Robertson which was handled nicely, and Gamble came right back with a sizzler which kept the goalie on the jump. Osler cleared and let fire a long heave which Oliver returned and Robertson was mighty lucky to keep it from going into the twine. Scott and Plantz kept up the bombardment followed by Harper and Jarvis on a nice play but there was nothing happened. Parker again flashed a lot of good hockey and bounced a couple off Hamilton, but the big chance was missed when McLean made a nice pass out to Osler who failed to connect with only Hamilton to beat. Osler rather redeemed himself a moment later when he passed a hot one out from the corner which struck Hamilton's skate as it should have sailed by, and skidded into the net, giving the Colts the advantage which they never relinquished during the play. Cornwall slammed a second into the twine a couple of minutes later but were called back for an off-side.

The second session had only been under way a minute when Py Whitford slipped by Watt close to the left boards and took a pass from Moe Jamieson and buzzed the rubber into the net. A moment later on the best play of the night, while Earl Whitford was serving the first penalty of the game, Mel Harper secured the puck at his own blue line after the face-off and tore down through the whole Cornwall bunch and socked it home without Robertson having a chance to save, for which Chesterville's flashy defence man received an unstinted hand from the great crowd. This is the second time in play-off games that Harper has turned the trick, the first time having been in the memorable Pembroke struggle a few years ago. Cornwall added another counter when the period had three minutes to go, Osler again doing the trick, the period closing with the Colts two goals up.

With the start of the final period it looked as if Cornwall was going to make a run-away with the game, when Parker got right in alone with nothing to worry him and missed the net. He came back, had another try and missed again. Osler then teamed up with him but the play was shifted to the corner out of harm's way. Gamble drew a penalty and Osler and Parker continued their threat ineffectively, assisted by Py Whitford, in a determined effort that bore no fruit, before the situation was cleared with Watt taking the rubber at the blue line and flashing up the boards, swung in and rammed the rubber home so fast that Robertson did not know what happened. Oliver made a nice try after poke-checking the puck away from Jamieson, but Robertson was equal to the emergency and repeated his performance a moment after when Scott tried a heavy one from the blue line. Jamieson drew a penalty and Jarvis followed him to the bench a moment later. The younger Whitford tried a solo but was miles wide of the net. On the next threat Harper cleared with Watt and Jarvis taking the rubber and going in for a try but firing wide of the nets. Using their best efforts during the balance of the period Chesterville could not bring the count to an even basis and will have to go into the final in Cornwall Friday night with a one-goal lead hanging over them.

In the five games these teams have played this season that lone counter marks the difference between their scoring and Chesterville is by no means downhearted looking forward to the final tussle Friday night even if it is in the Colts' own stamping ground.

The line-up:

Chesterville—Goal, Hamilton, def., Gamble, Harper; centre, Oliver; wings, Jarvis and Watt; subs., Scott, Plantz and Dagenais.

Cornwall—Goal, Robertson; def., Osler and E. Whitford; centre, Jamieson; wings, McLean and P. Whitford; subs.. Currie, Parker, Collins and Heagle.

Nearly Asphyxiated This Morning

Mrs. L. M. Colquhoun, who conducts a millinery establishment on Main street in this town, with her daughters, Jean and Rose, and son, Bert, were almost overcome by escaping coal gas this morning between seven and eight o'clock. On arising, Mrs. Colquhoun went to the kitchen and turned the drafts on the stove and set things in readiness to get the morning meal, but feeling rather faint and not detecting the odour of gas, decided to return to her room, shortly to prepare breakfast, but, when she called the children they failed to answer. Believing that something must be affecting all alike, Mrs. Colquhoun called Miles Marselis to come, who quickly detected the gas and rushed all affected into the fresh air, and called a doctor when they were quickly restored, although a delay of a few minutes longer might have been fatal.

Chesterville's Unbeaten Juniors

In a 2 to 1 overtime win last night over Morewood on local ice the regular schedule of the Central Ottawa Valley League Junior series came to an end, with the home team having gone through with a clean sheet of victories, and will now hook up with their closet rivals, the Morewood team, in a two game series for the championship of the league and the right to go farther and try their mettle against the winners of other loops.

The first play-off will take place Friday night on Winchester ice to which place Morewood has transferred the game, with the return game in Chesterville Monday night, Feb. 16th, at seven o'clock. Goals in the two games will decide the winner, who will then play Osgoode on the latter's ice Wednesday night, with the return game Friday night of next week.

The game last night, which was very evenly contested, will give an idea of what may be expected in the play-off, and, unless the local kids fall down now, we are likely to have a repitition of the good hockey displayed last year when Cornwall and Perth juniors hooked up with Chesterville.

Village Council In Special Session

At a special meeting of the Village Council on Friday evening accounts to the amount of $290 were passed, $218 of this amount being required for the weekly payment of the workers on the fire protection extension under the unemployment relief plan.

While on the matter of fire protection the protection of hydrants from injury by frost after use in the winter time came up for discussion and the plan adopted of pumping the hydrants out after being used, which is said to be the plan followed in some of the larger cities. Council instructed S. and A. Peake to furnish a pump suitable for the purpose. Man holes on the new water mains where valves are installed will be two feet square.

The transfer of the Hydro account from the Bank of Nova Scotia to the Bank of Montreal, which was sanctioned at the last regular meeting, it was explained, had been done to equalize the banking business of the village between the two institutions, none of which had heretofore been done with the Bank of Montreal, although the latter owns its business premises and the residence of its manager, and is a considerable taxpayer in town, and has been for some years.

Transient traders' licenses, the fee for which has heretofore been $150, came in for consideration, following an objection by a ratepayer at a previous meeting, who claimed that such a high figure prevented the renting of business premises to any parties wishing to come into town to carry on business. After considerable discussion, a resolution was passed on a motion by the Reeve, who had vacated the chair, and Mr. Barrie, that the fee be reduced to $100, and that the Clerk be instructed to draft a by-law to that effect to be presented at the next regular meeting of council.

Mr. Allison brought up the question whether he, being a member of council, should allow his firm to sell goods to the municipality. After many expressions of opinion, the Reeve said he thought it would not be advisable as it might disqualify Mr. Allison. It was decided that the opinion of the Municipal World would be sought on the matter.

Mr. J. G. Cameron, Counties' Road Superintendent, in his programme of work laid out for the coming summer, among other items has reported the following:

Crusher Outfit No. 1 is located in the McIntyre Quarry in Mountain Township and it is our intention to start operations as soon as weather permits and construct a pre-mixed bituminous road from Mountain Station to South Mountain a distance of approximately four miles. On the completion of the mountain work the outfit will be placed in the McGregor quarry east of Morewood and the road from Chesterville to Morewood will be completed, a distance of about two miles. Road No. 13 from Winchester boundary, easterly in Finch township, a distance of 1½ miles, will also be constructed.

United Counties' Council Concludes January Session

The committee recommended that the Clerk take up the matter of Stormont pupils attending the Maxville High School District with Mr. W. B. Lawson, K. C., solicitor for the counties and report at the June session.

Miscellaneous Matters

Mr. A. W. MacIntyre gave notice of his intention to introduce a by-law to amend by-law 2336 regarding the per diem allowance of County Councillors and committees.

Mr. W. H. Gallinger gave notice of a motion to amend By-law No. 2341, appointing a valuator to replace Mr. Lount.

On motion of Messrs. H. C. Nugent and D. A. McIntosh, the Warden and Mr. John A. Lafave and Mr. Ed Strader were appointed as the Board of Management of the House of Industry and Refuge for 1931.

By-law No. 2344, appointing High School Trustees, as recommended and named in the report of the Education Committee, was given the necessary readings and passed.

By-law No. 2345, amending By-law No. 2268 of 1929, and substituting the name of A. E. Hall for that of Archibald Adams as Trustee for the Cornwall High School Dstrict, was passed.

By-Law No. 2346, appointing Warden Munro and Messrs. John A. Lafave and Ed. Strader as the Board of Management for the House of Industry and Refuge for 1931 and until the next January session was passed.

The Council then adjourned until 4.30 p.m. on Friday to allow remaining committees to advance business.

Reports Presented on Friday

The Council resumed at 4.30 p.m. on Friday, when Mr. John E. Crowder chairman, presented the report of the Communications Committee.

The report was a brief one, as only three letters had to be dealt with, and as these required no action they were ordered filed by the Clerk and the report was adopted.

Mr. R. J. Graveley, chairman of the Printing Committee, presented the report of that committee, which was adopted.

The committee recommended that an account for $416.40 from the Leader Publishing Company, Limited, of Morrisburg, for the printing of the minutes for 1930 be paid, the work having been done in a satisfactory manner. Two tenders for the printing of the minutes for the current year were received, from the Leader Publishing Co., Limited, Morrisburg, at $1.40 per page, and the Winchester Press, Winchester, at $1.50 per page. The committee recommended that the contract be awarded to the Morrisburg Leader Publishing Co. The contract for advertising the Sheriff's Notices of Sittings of Jury Courts, five courts and four publications each, was awarded to the Cornwall Standard.

Messrs. A. W. MacIntyre and G. L. McIntosh moved the first reading of By-law No. 2347, a by-law of which Mr. MacIntyre had given notice on Thursday, the substance stance of which was to amend By-law No. 2336 and reduce the perdiem allowance to Councillors from $8.00 to $6.00.

Per Diem Allowance Unchanged

The same gentlemen moved the second reading of the by-law and that it be referred to the committee of the whole.

Mr. W. H. Casselman, of Chesterville village, said he would oppose the amendment. When the increase from $5.00 to $8.00 was made in October last it was practically unanimous, but late in the session an attempt was made to upset it without success. On an assessment of say $3,000 the proposed change from $8.00 to $6.00 would save the ratepayer about nine cents and on two sessions of six days and one of five the counties would save about $1,224. Surely no ratepayer would object to pay a Councillor the extra nine cents to have him leave his business and come to Cornwall as his representative. Mr. Casselman remarked that plenty of $5 men could be secured and the man who made the move in the dying moments of last session to defeat the raise was not a member of Council this year.

Mr. MacIntyre said he we sincere about the matter. He instanced the fact that it was reported the increase would tend to shorten the sessions, but it didn't look reasonable to him that a man would shorten a session when his pay per day would be more.

Mr. Glenn A. Shaver wanted the $8.00 day to remain, but favoured reducing the amount paid for committee work and made an amendment to that effect.

The Warden asked Mr. MacIntyre to take the chair and when the by-law was referred the committee, Messrs. Robert Bryan and W. J. McConnell moved that the committee now rise and the By-law was thus defeated in committee of the whole on a standing vote. Mr. Shaver's suggestion regarding pay to committee being agreed to.

The Warden invited Mr. D. A. McNaughton, M. P. P., a former member of Council and an ex-Warden of the United Counties, to a seat within the railing.

Mr. McNaughton thanked the Warden for the courtesy and in doing so complimented the Council on securing Dr. Munro as Warden. He was sure the Council would bring forth the best of legislation.

Mr. C. C. Munro, an ex-member and ex-Warden, was also invited to a seat inside the railing and in accepting said he concurred in the remarks made by Mr. McNaughton.

By-law No. 2348, to amend By-law No. 2341, appointing County Valuators, was given the necessary readings and passed. This by-law named Mr. W. A. Craig, of Cornwall, as County Valuator in the place of the late James W. Copeland, and also named Mr. Nathan Copeland as substitute in case Mr. Craig could not act.

On motion of Messrs. J. H. Ross and W. H. Casselman, the Council adjourned to meet at 10.30 a.m. on Saturday.

Report of Finance Committee

Council resumed about 11 a.m. on Saturday, when the report of the Finance Committee was presented by the chairman. Mr. H. C. Nugent, and was adopted.

The committee recommended the appointment of Messrs. John McCormick, Winchester, and John McLean, Lancaster, as auditors for current year at a salary of $75.00 each; that the usual grant of $100.00 be made to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; that the pedlar's license issued to the late George David, of Chesterville, be transferred to Joseph David, of the same place, on the payment of $1.00; that the annual fee of $10.00 be forwarded to the secretary of the Association of Managers of Aged and Infirm and as the annual convention is to be held in Cornwall in June next the committee recommended that Messrs. R. A. Danis and W. H. Gallinger, together with the Board of Management of the House of Refuge, be a committee to provide for the entertainment of the delegates attending said convention; that the Warden, Clerk and chairman of the County Property Committee (Mr. W. H. Gallinger) be a committee to purchase uniforms for the Gaoler and Turnkeys; that the Warden, Treasurer and chairman of the Finance Committee (Mr. H. C. Nugent) be a committee to dispose of the debentures of the Road Committee when the money is required and when it is deemed the market is most favourable; that the following members be appointed the local authority for the administration of the Old Age Pensions Act—Messrs. J. A. McCrimmon, J. R. McLachlan, R.J. Graveley, D. A. McIntosh and J. H. Ross, they to be paid $5.00 a day for each meeting of the board and 10 cents a mile each way to attend meetings; that the chairman of the Finance Committee and the Clerk be members of the County Board of Audit; that the Warden and Treasurer be authorized to borrow a sum not exceeding $200.00 for ordinary County expenditure against levies to be made for current year; the committee considered the request of Mr. Fred Lefebvre regarding hawkers and pedlars and, as the Clerk had a letter from Mr. W. B. Lawson, K. C., county solicitor, along similar lines, the committee recommended that Council could take no action.

Road Committee's Report

The report of the Road Committee was presented by the chairman, Mr. Oscar Beckstead and with an amendment regarding a conference between the Counties' Council and Cornwall Town Council over co-operation in connection with expenses on Provincial Highways in these Counties, the report was adopted.

The committee recommended the filinging of a petition asking Council to take over the road between Concessessions 8 and 9 of Kenyon Township, three miles north of Maxville, thence easterly to the Military Road a mile south of McCrimmon, and supported by a deputation headed by Messrs. Wm. Blythe and D. A. Gray; that a committee composed of Warden Munro and Messrs. W. H. Casselman, J. E. Crowder and T. Johnston interview theMinister of Highways with a view to purchasing from the Provincial Government the old bridge over the Nation River at Cass Bridge and move same to a new location as requested in a petition endorsed by Mr. J. E. Crowder, Reeve of Mountain Township; that the following form the permanent Road Committee at a salary of $5.00 a day and travelling expenses and for the number of years specified—Fred McLeod, for one year; John A. Morrison; for two years; Howard Nesbitt, for three years, and Warden Munro, a member ex-officio; that the detailed report of the County Road Engineer (Mr. J. G. Cameron) be adopted, the keeping open of county roads for cars during the winter being left to the discretion of the committee and the superintendent; that Warden Munro and Messrs. Glenn A. Shaver and J. E. Crowder be a committee to re-consider the future apportionment of expenditure on County Road System and report at June session; that Warden Munro, Mr. W. H. Casselman and Mr. J. G. Cameron wait on the Minister of Highways and secure a written decision from the Minister in connection with the Chesterville Bridge in order that the matter may be settled for all time, Mr Casselman ,on behalf of Chesterville, and the Council agreeing to abide by the decision of the Minister; that the Council be empowered to take action as may seem advisable as a result of a conference with a similar committee of the Cornwall Town Council relative to curtailing expenditure on Provincial Highway in these counties. In this connection the committee reported being addressed by Mayor Horovitz and Mr. A. C. Robertson, on behalf of the Town Council, offering to co-operate with the Counties' Council in the matter, and a committee composed of Warden Munro and Messrs. Glenn A. Shaver and J. E. Crowder was appointed to consult a committee of the Town Council. The committee was presented with a statement of expenditures on the King's Highway in these Counties amounting to $561,869.01, of which the counties are liable for 20 per centum, which amounts to $112,371.80. To finance this expenditure it was recommended that the sum of $50,000 be provided for by the issue of debentures bearing interest at 5 per cent, payable in ten years in equal amounts of principal, and that the balance, $62,371.80, be raised by direct levy and provided for at June session.

The committee recommended payment of the annual fee of $15.00 to the treasurer of the Ontario Good Roads Association and that Mr. J. G. Cameron, County Road Superintendent, attend the convention of County and Township Engineers and the convention of the Ontario Good Roads Association.

The following were appointed Commissioners to have supervision over the following County bridges other than those on the County Road System during the current year and make any necessary repairs which cannot be safely delayed until Council session, their power not to include the replanking or rebuilding without special report to and sanction of the Council:—

Connaught Bridge—H. C. Nugent,
Scott's Brdgie, Silver Creek Bridge and McCaul Bridge—Robert Bryan,
Black Creek, Sandy Creek and South Branch (Nation River) Bridges—Thomas Johnston.
West Bridge—Alex. Clark.
McConnell's and Bickford Brigdes—J. E. Crowder.
Grant's Bridge—J. A. Lafave.
Belisle Boundary Bridge at Marionville—W. J. McConnell.

The committee recommended that Warden Munro and Messrs. J. D. McDonald and J. G. Cameron prepare a suitable memorial memorializing the Department of Highways, Toronto, to enact legislation regulating the loads of trucks on different types of roads, particularly during the early spring.

To finance the work on the County Road System for the current year, the committee recommended that the Warden and Treasurer borrow against the direct levy and estimated subsidy the sum of $100,000 on a contemplated expenditure of $200,000, such sums required from time to time not exceeding in the aggregate $200,000, and the necessary By-law be introduced and passed.

Moved by Messrs. Oscar Becktead and E. A. VanAllen, that the Warden and Clerk be authorized to sign and submit to the Minister of Public Works and Highways of the Province of Ontario the petition of these United Counties showing the amount expended on the highway system from January 1st to December 31st, 1930, and requesting the statutory grants on that amount, as provided by the Act to Aid in the Improvement of Public Highways. Carried.

A number of By-laws putting into effect the recommendations contained in the reports of the various committees were passed.

This concluded the business of the session.

Warden Munro thanked the members for the faithful manner in which they had attended to their duties and for the assistance all had given him.

The Council then adjourned to meet on Monday, June 22nd, at 8 p.m., the members rising and singing "God Save the King" under the leadership of Mr. Oscar Beckstead.

Former Presbyterian Pastor Died at Port Dover

Rev. Thomas B. McCorkindale, D.D., widely known Presbyterian Minister, died at Port Dover, Ont., on Wednesday, February 4th, after a brief illness. He went to Knox Church, Port Dover, from Levis, Que., less than a year ago.

Dr. McCorkindale was born and educated in Scotland and for a number of years was in Chesterville. In 1928 he received the degree of D. D. from the Presbyterian College, Montreal, where for some years he had lectured on church government. He was an authority on the early history of the Church of Scotland and on the literature of the early Christian Church.

Besides his wife he is survived by one son, Dr. W. M., a dentist of Toronto, and two daughters.

Church In Ottawa Destroyed By Fire Sunday Morning

One of the prominent marks in Ottawa's sky line was removed early Sunday morning when fire of unknown origin completely destroyed St. Jeon Baptiste church. Loss is estimated at $400,000, including a $25,000 gold altar entirely ruined. No one was injured.

The blaze was discovered shortly before three o'clock by priests who were at their devotions. In less than two hours the interior of the edifice had been swept by the flames and only the walls remain. The Sacred vessels were saved.

This is the second major loss to Catholic parishes of the city in six weeks. Two days after Christmas St. Joseph's Church was razed by fire with a loss also in the neighbourhood of $400,000.

Standing for nearly 50 years on a promontory in the western part of Ottawa, St. Jean Baptiste Church stood out conspicuously on the skyline and as the flames leaped upward 50 feet in the air the lurid glare was thrown over half the city.

Apparatus was rushed from several fire stations and atlhough firemen battled strenuously in sub-zero weather their task was hopeless from the outset. Fortunately a strong wind kept the flames from reaching the priests' residence only a short distance away. Priests have already stated that plans for rebuilding the structure will go ahead at once.

A seminary of the Dominician Order adjoining the church was also destroyed. Loss on the church was placed at $250,000, and the convent $150,000, with total insurance of $28,000. The debt on the church was paid off only a week ago, and plans had been made to add a steeple to it this spring.

Incendiarism is not suspected, Rev. Father A. Dion, parish priest, stated. Several of the priests and brothers risked their lives in saving the Host and ornaments of the church, Brother Viau being overcome by smoke when he made a second trip into the building. One fireman also was overcome by smoke.

The fire burned from three o'clock until noon.

Roxborough Farm Home Burned Sunday Aftenoon

Fire broke out at four p.m. Sunday and completely destroyed the farm house owned by G. A. McElheran, situated on the boundary of Roxborough Township, about four miles northeast of Finch village. Mr. McElheran had been living on the farm until a couple of years ago and moved to Maxville, renting his farm to James Aumell, who was living there until the fire.

Mr. Aumell, with his wife and family went to J. Deslaurie's to spend the afternoon and was just returning home when he saw a blaze coming from the top of the house. He immediately summoned the surrounding neighbours, but the fire had got such a start their efforts to save the house were in vain. Mr. Aumell is of the opinion that the fire started from an over-heated furnace.

Mr. McElheran's loss is estimated at $5,000, partly covered by insurance, while Mr. Aumel lost his household goods.

Perfectly Formed Baby Weighs 30 Ounces at Birth

Sarnia.—A baby weighing only 30 ounces, fully alive, perfectly-formed and in good health, is in the incubator at the General Hospital here, gaining a little weight each day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eckert Hanson. Smaller babies have been born, doctors say, but few so well formed and so bright. Baby Hanson could easily lie in the palm of a man's hand but there is no reason, the physician states, that she should not be a normal size in due course.

Has Resigned As Director

R. B. Faith director of extension for the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, has resigned from that position, according to C. T. Houck, chairman of the organization. No reason was given for Mr. Faith's resignation by the association. The former director was well-known throughout Canada, and had held the position for many years.

News and Information For the Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Where Begin Profits

If your hens lay 81 eggs a year or more you should be able to show a profit. A ten-year average of the cost of feeding laying hens shows that the yearly expenditure is $2.43 per hen. With eggs selling at 35c a dozen it takes 6.95 dozen or 81 eggs to pay for the hen's keep. Eggs laid in excess of that number are profit.

Plenty of Alfalfa Seed

Sixty thousand bushels of home-grown alfalfa are available for distribution in Ontario this year, according to Professor W. J. Squirrell of the O. A. C. He points out that the normal requirements are about 30,000 bushels, but hopes that all this seed, barring that intentionally held over, will be used, because of its cheapness (about half the price of last year), the shortage of home-grown red clover, and the necessity for re-seeding many meadows killed out by drought last summer.

Profit Important Factors

J. E. Whitelock, assistant director of agricultural representatives, was the speaker at the banquet concluding the short course in home economics and agriculture at Shelburne, in Dufferin County. In a thought-provoking address, he asked the question: "Just how good farmers are we?" and went on to explain how the average yield of barley was 45 bushels in Denmark and only 30 in Ontario. The average Danish farmer, he pointed out, secured 100 lbs. of gain in his hogs for 400 lbs. of feed, while in Ontario it usually required over 500 lbs. of feed. The conclusion was that every detail of the factors influencing profits on the farm must be heeded.

dom. An important point for packers to remember, however, declares Mr. Fulton, is to have stencilled on the outside of the barrel the net weight of the contents. Strangely enough, this seems to be an item strongly desired by the European buyer and will facilitate sales when done to a marked degree.

Needs of Agriculture

In addressing the London city-county dinner of the Chamber of Commerce, Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy stressed three main needs for agriculture in Ontario today:

1st. The need of growing quality products! second-rate products have little market in these days of keen competition.

2nd. Better grading of products, so that Canadian products will be known always as A1 in foreign markets.

3rd. Adoption of modern marketing methods to meet a changing world. The Minister quoted facts, figures and statistics to show the need of progress along all three lines. The Department has done much in this direction and under the present regime it is prepared to do more.

British Apple Market

An unusually keen demand for barreled apples is forecast by Andrew Fulton, overseas representative of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association. The demand on the British market from now on, he says, should be for both well-coloured dessert apples and for good quality cookers. From all accounts, barreled supplies are somewhat limited, he continues, recent reports showing that the storage holdings of barrelled apples in Canada and the United States about ten per cent less than last year. This, along with the increased demand on the continental markets for barrelled stock is bound to leave a limited supply for the United King-

Care in Selecting Hens

Hens should be in production three weeks before starting to save the eggs for hatching. Often electric lights are used to start the birds laying in February for March hatching eggs. If not used to provide longer than a 12-hour day, lights will not injure a bird's ability to produce hatchable eggs throughout the spring. In the selection of hens be sure they have vigour and nervous energy above all else. A hen that has a high egg record back of her, but was herself physically wrecked in making that record, is worthless as a breeder. Keep in mind that the laying record, in this respect, tells of only her production and not of her vigour.

Dairy Cattle Rations

Continuing from last week the discussion of rations for dairy cattle, the following is recommended where no silage or roots are available: Alfalfa or clover hay, 1½ lbs. to 2 lbs. to every 100 lbs. live weight. Concentrates in this case are: 150 lbs. oats, 100 lbs. bran, 100 lbs. gluten feed, 50 lbs. oil cake. Where lower grades of hay are used the proportion should be 1½ to 2 lbs. to every 100 lbs. live weight, with the following concentrates: 200 lbs. oats, 200 lbs. bran, 100 lbs. gluten feed, 250 lbs. oil cake. Alternative concentrates here are: 100 lbs. oats, bran 100 lbs. oil cake, 100 lbs. gluten feed; or 100 lbs. oats, 100 lbs. bran, 100 lbs. oil cake; or 200 lbs. oats and 100 lbs. oil cake. Note:—Feed 1 lb. concentrates to 4 lbs. milk. Corn or wheat may be used in place of barley in any of the above rations.

Marshes Produce Wealth

Extraordinary success has attended the plan of draining and reclaiming the Holland marshes near Bradford under the supervision of W. H. Day, former professor at the O.A.C. In 1930 a total of 37 acres in this area yielded a return of $26,000. The harvest included a total of 50 carloads and included parsnips, carrots, onions, celery and lettuce. The average yield per acre was $702, which leads Mr. Day to say: "Compare this with your high land crops. With wheat at 70c a bushel it would require 1000 bushels per acre to equal our marsh returns. Individual pieces have done better than the average. One acre of lettuce vielded $1400; one-seventh acre of celery nearly $500 and 6½ acres celery $10,412." Only a small portion of the marshes have yet been drain. They consist of low, very rich soil, only a few feet above the level of Lake Simcoe. Mr. Day has proved that a considerable area can be drained and put under agricultural production. Of still greater importance than the prolific yields is the length of the season, head lettuce from there coming on the market every day from mid-July to mid-October.

"Mamma, what makes daddy bald-headed?"

"Because, darling, grass can't grow on a busy street."

"Why, mamma?"

"Because it can't push up through the cement."

Baby Adoption Market Booms Throughout Alberta

Edmonton.—Bonnie, brighteyed babies to the tune of more than 40 a month were adopted during 1930 in homes throughout Alberta.

Twins? Yes, one pair. Twins are never separated when they are placed in foster homes by official child placing agencies. A second often follows the first ray of sunshine into an erstwhile childless home, and three is not an uncommon responsibility. What per cent of adopted children are returned to the department, for any reason? a provincial Government official in charge of the work in the province was asked. "Not a single one in the case of the babies under two years," was the reply. "If the prospective parent takes a child home, even on trial, the matter is practically settled."

In the Alberta Government plan a child that is not possessed of a sound physical and mental history is not available for adoption. The prospective foster parent is given all the information he desires, and is left to make his own decision. It is not alone childless families who are keen on adopting children. In many cases where the natural family is made up of either all girls or boys, a little foster brother or sister is sought, and becomes the idol of the household.

"Are people much concerned with nationality when they adopt a baby?" "Nationality doesn't mean a thing in the majority of cases," was the official's answer. "When a man or woman sees a child that appeals to them, nothing else matters." And it is a curious thing that in spite of depressing financial conditions during the past year more babies have been adopted than in any previous year in Alberta. Places for baby girls were sought and found, and baby boys were just as popular in securing foster homes. In all classes of society a demand for adopted children heretofore unknown has cropped up, and officials of the Government are wondering how long it will be before this demand becomes greater than the supply.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving remembrance of a dear husband and father, James J. Myers, who departed this life February 12th, 1930.

He counts the tears we shed.
And whispers, "Hush, he only sleeps,
Your loved one isn't dead."

Ever remembered by his wife and children.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR ASTHMA

The following from the Home makers page of the Toronto Globe is a simple and inexpensive remedy which, if as good as claimed, will be welcomed by sufferers from asthma: "Before I go I must pass on a suggestion for sufferers from asthma. A little friend of eleven visited our boys at the cottage last week. He has been made miserable by oft-recurring attacks of asthma, but this time he carried with him a pillow filled with the white everlasting flowers that grow wild in every part of the country. His father, a well-known doctor, told me that an old lady down the valley had found it a relief, and made the pillow for his little son. Since sleeping on it, the child has had no return of the asthma—and that was for several months." The white everlasting flower mentioned above is the Pearly Everlasting—Immortelle (Anaphalis Margaritacea) Composite.

Three Tweed Men On Bail Following Hockey Game

Belleville, Feb. 10.—A fracas at a hockey game in the Trent Valley League has resulted in the appearance of three players of the Tweed team in police court.

Max, Fred and Alex Geraldi, brothers, are charged with doing grievious bodily harm to M. J. Barkey, defence played of the Madoc team.

Barkey is said to be suffering from slight concussion of the brain and a fracture of the skull, and is in a serious condition.

The affair has stirred the officials of the league into action, and President William Whitty of Stirling is conducting a probe into the alleged attack which occurred at Tweed.

It is alleged that Max Geraldi intentionaly or accidentally struck Barkey on the head with his stick, and the latter is said to have retaliated, inflicting a deep wound on Geraldi's head which necessitated his retirement from the game, and he was taken to a physician.

Alex and Fred Geraldi rushed to their brother's assistance, it is alleged, and assailed Barkey, who was buried beneath a mass of flying skates and sticks. He was carried off the ice and was unconscious for many hours.

Father Meagher, manager of the Madoc team; Thomas Beatty of Tweed, and Herman Jacobi, O. H. A. referee of Toronto, finally pried the players apart and the game was completed.

The affair has created great excitement in the North, and following investigations by the police, the three Geraldi brothers were arrainged before Magistrate Casement to-day and were later released on bail of $1,000 each.

Max Geraldi will be under the care of a doctor for some time, as several stitches were required to close the wound in his head.

The games in the league have been hotly contested ,and for some weeks it has been apparent that ill-feeling had developed between Madoc and Tweed.

Waiter (seeing dissatisfaction on guest's face): "Wasn't the dinner cooked to suit you?"

Guest: "Yes, all but the bill. Just take that back and ask them to boil it down a little.

"You must visit our town some time. It is famous for its natural beauties."

"Can't do it. That's out of my line."

"What do you mean?"

"I'm a cosmetics salesman."

ROOTS IN CATTLE RATIONS

THAT silage alone for dairy cattle is not sufficient and roots should also be included in the regular rations, Prof. J. C. Steckly, of the O. A. C., stated at the Experimental Union meeting. He was supported by W. J. Bell, of the Kemptville Agricultural School, who pointed out that the cost of producing roots was not excessive, particularly where the ground had been thoroughly cultivated before sowing. In all the rations quoted for dairy cattle, Prof. Steckley urged feeding roots at the rate of two pounds daily for every two hundred pounds of live weight of the animal, in addition to one pound of alfalfa or red clover hay and two pounds of silage. Where no silage was available four pounds of roots should be fed, he said. In feeding beef cattle, roots also occupy a prominent place, the speaker advocating four pounds daily for every 100 pounds of the animal's live weight. Both speakers claimed that it was impossible to get too much succulence and palatability in the cattle rations and in their opinion roots constituted one of the most important feeds in this respect.

THE AVERAGE CANADIAN following the Indian conference in London to consider self-government for that great empire very probably regards it all as an academic problem which is of material interest to Indian people and of very little consequence one way or the other to Canada.

Is such a view correct? On the contrary, Canada has a vital interest in the programme and its developments, which will become increasingly apparent as self-government in India advances.

Up to the present India has been part of the British Empire by conquest. It is now planned that she will remain so voluntarily, and will ultimately be on a footing of equality with other self-governing dominions as a unit of the Empire. Ruled as a conquered people, her population has already risen in denunciation of restrictions placed upon them as British subjects by British subjects of other dominions—restrictions against their immigration and even their civil rights. Canada has many times heard leaders of Indian thought attack in strongest language the barriers fixed by Canada against the people of India.

How much more intense and determined will this hostility become with India on a basis of equal partnership in the Empire! In the Empire today are perhaps 70,000,000 white people. In India are 300,000,000 blacks. India, too, is a country of vast wealth and great resources of unlimited labour supply, waiting the turn of time to become industrially-minded—to bring a fresh and gigantic competition to the industries of the Empire, to challenge the restrictions now enforced against her people. Not the least force of that competition will be felt by the agricultural community of Canada, for of all industries the easiest to enter is agriculture and any preferential treatment Canada may secure in United Kingdom markets will be shared by India.

How will the 70,000,000 whites fare with 300,000,000 blacks on a footing of equality in their own political house? Time, and perhaps not this generation, will answer that question finally. We will probably live to see our Oriental Exclusion laws the basis of bitter conflict. We will live to see India, China and Siberia a striking challenge to our position as "the bread basket of the world.' And we may live to see the day when self-preservation will require the British Empire to cut the bonds of that Empire and exclude from it the India so much British blood was spilt to gain.

ANOTHER MONKEY WRENCH has been thrown into the delicate machinery which separates Dominion and Provincial rights in Canada. This time it is hurled by Quebec, where Premier Taschereau asserts the right of a province to control radio broadcasting within its boarders. He has submitted his position to the Appeal Court of his province for an opinion and plans' legislation this year to make effective his claim.

At a time when the question of a national radio policy is being seriously considered Mr. Taschereau's attitude is a bit disturbing and the likelihood is that the matter will find its way to the Privy Council for final settlement. His contention is that broadcasting is a local and provincial concern. Unfortunately, it doesn't end there. In Ottawa four or five of the best outside stations are constantly interrupted and distorted by the activities of the three Montreal broadcasting stations which, except when tied in on some chain broadcast, infrequently offer any programme of interest outside of Montreal. Broadcasting, it is felt, is much in the position of train operation. Trains also start from various provinces, but seldom stop in the same province. The moment they become interprovincial they come under federal control. Until it becomes possible to stop radio waves on the boundary of the province of origin they, too, are held to be interprovincial and a matter for federal regulation.

Deaf May Hear the Drama

Chicago.—The world's first successful installation of a super telephone system in a legitimate playhouse for the pleasure of deaf drama lovers has been completed in Chicago's famous Godman theatre.

The equipment worked so perfectly that the score or so of deaf men and women in the audience attending the rollicking comedy, "Rebound," were enabled to smile at quips from the stage for the first time in their lives, actually to hear the spoken words of the actors before them.

"It was as if a new world had opened before me," said Miss Aby Hosmer, white-haired and prominent leader in the league for the hard of hearing. "I sometimes attended the drama before, but I could only watch the actors. Now I can hear them. It is just too wonderful."

BREAKFAST AS AN EVENT

Vancouver Sun

STANLEY BALDWIN, who used to be Prime Minister of England, remarked the other day that breakfast is the finest meal of the whole day; and since nothing is much pleasanter than talking about meals, we might just as well go into the topic right now.

"I always enjoy my breakfast," says Mr. Baldwin. "I find it the most pleasant meal of the day. I am getting to be an old man now, but I still come down to breakfast every morning feeling full of great hope, faith and cheer. By lunch time I have lost a great real of it, and by evening I am nearly giving up all hope for this world or the next."

All of this, of course, proves nothing except that Mr. Baldwin does very well by himself at the breakfast table; but it does call to wind the fact that most Canadians treat their breakfasts in a most unpardonable manner. Breakfast ought to be an event; it ought, as it is for Mr. Baldwin, to be an occasion of hope, faith and cheer; but for most of us it is hardly as much as an incident.

The chief trouble, probably is that few of us come to the table fully awake. The city man lies abed until the last minute ;then he stumbles to his feet, shaves and dresses in a fumbling sort of way, and comes to the dining room tying his tie and mumbling piteously. Fighting to get out of the grip of Morpheus, he gulps down his coffee and bolts his food like an antomaton, and his breakfast is in him before he really knows that he is eating.

The farmer knows better. He generally does an hour or so of hard work before he goes to breakfast, so he is not only wide awake, but has worked up a good appetite. And then? Well, he leisurely tackles a bowl of oatmeal, some eggs and sausage and fried potatoes, a few griddle cakes, a doughnut or two and a couple of cups of coffee: and by the time he is through he can face the agricultural depression with a clear conscience.

Of course, such a breakfast would land the average city man in the hospital in short order. Nevertheless, the farmer has the right idea. Breakfast, to him, is something to be looked forward to—whereas for most of us it is just something to be got through with.

THE HEART AND ARTERIES

The heart is one of the vital organs of the body. By this we mean that when the heart ceases to do its work, life cannot continue. The gradual wearing-out of the heart and arteries is part of the process of growing old.

When the heart or arteries, or both, show signs of disease or of wearing out early in life we find an individual who is prematurely old. Normally, the arteries are elastic. The loss of elasticity is accompanied by thickening of the walls of the arteries, and, as a result, there develops the conditions known as hardening of the arteries.

This change in the walls of the arteries may be due to a chronic poisoning of the body. The absorption of the poisons from diseased teeth, tonsils, head sinuses or other parts simply means that the various tissues of the body are being poisoned. The heart and arteries show the effects of such poisoning, not by the incidence of any particular disease but by a premature wearing-out as a result of the injury done to them by the poisons.

Overstrain will almost surely leave some permanent change. It is not only foolish but harmful to overstrain some organ of the body, and if the heart is called upon to do more than it is capable of doing, it is injured thereby. To stop short of overstrain, never to go on to exhaustion, is a matter of common-sense. Moderation in all things is sound advice to follow. This applies to play as well as to work, to eating as well as to drinking.

The heart and arteries are but part of the whole body. Disease of another part, of the faulty functioning of other organs throws a strain upon the heart and arteries. Keeping the body fit is the only way to maintain the fitness of its various parts.

The whole body shows the effect of abuse of the digestive system through improper eating and drinking habits, or by overeating or undereating. The person who is over weight is throwing an extra load on his heart.

To prevent the heart and arteries from wearing out early in life, it is necessary to keep the body fit, and to live moderately, avoiding overstrain. Rest is just as important as exercise; both are needed to keep the body healthy.

Diseased teeth, gums, tonsils, head sinuses, or other foci of infection must be properly treated to prevent the poisoning which wears out the important parts of the body early in life. Growing pains in childhood and chorea (St. Vitus' Dance) are signs of rheumatic infection, and should be placed under treatment without delay. They are serious because if they are not properly treated, they often result in heart disease.

To these preventive measures, add the periodic health examination, and many cases of heart disease will be prevented and fewer of us will grow old prematurely.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 14 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Smith was called to the 'phone. "Are you going down our road this morning in your car?" inquired a feminine voice. "No," answered the astonished Smith. "But why do you ask?" "Oh, that's all right!" came in relieved tones over the wire. "I only wanted to know if it was safe to send my little girl around the corner on an errand."

ROTARY AND NATURALIZATION

THE family gathering of the Canadian nation, which has been arranged by the Rotary Club of Canada for Sunday, February 15th, is a significant idea. By means of an all-Canada hook-up on that date, starting at 6 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, every district in Canada will be able to listen in on an all-Canada musical programme designed to foster Canadian art and a Canada fellow-feeling.

But perhaps even more interesting than this first complete all-Canada hook-up, with every broadcasting station of consequence in the circuit, is the fact that the Rotary Clubs are using the occasion for a short address on naturalization. It is an undoubted fact that many of the wrong sort of people are obtaining the privileges of Canadian citizenship—people who use these privileges for the purpose of working for the overthrow of the kind of civilization for which the Dominion stands. On the other hand, many most desirable foreign-born residents are neglecting naturalization when, as a matter of fact, their addition to the citizenry would be a source of strength to the nation. Both these defects in our system of naturalzation the Rotary Clubs are working to remedy.

It has been said, with regard to the naturalization of undesirable foreigners, that this cannot take place, because the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are asked to investigate the applicant in each case. Nevertheless, it is a fact that in the vast majority of cases the judge before whom the application is made has no other information placed before him than the applicant cares to give, because no report of the R. C. M. P. is received unless the report is unfavourable for such reasons as that the applicant has a police record or has practically no knowledge of English. The lack of a report does not necessarily mean that the applicant is deserving of naturalization, for the applicant's general character, his associates and his society affiliations may be all against him, despite the fact that he has no police record.

"The rankest Bolshevist can be and, under the present system, often is admitted to the privileges of British citizenship," declares one judge who for ten years hand handled all naturalization applications in his district.

If a greater national interest in this important problem results from this national family party under the auspices of Canadian Rotary then an excellent and constructive piece of national work will have been performed. We need more of the right sort of citizens and fewer of the wrong sort.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

By Etta Bitta Pye

Yorkshire Puddings.

For one pudding: 4 dessertspoonfuls of flour, pinch of salt (I put a pinch of ginger), mix with milk, added slowly, to thick paste (to prevent lumps), then break in one egg (unbeaten), and add more milk until it is as thick as cream. Have dripping pan, with lots of fat in, piping hot; pour in mixture; bake until it rises in lumps arr over and the edges turn brown. Take a knife in each hand and slip underneath both sides and turn over quickly, and brown the other side. I bake mine in 15 minutes, cut into squares, and pour rich beef gravy on. It's a dish fit for a king when baked properly.

A dripping pan 10 inches square makes six nice squares.

Yorkshire With Two Eggs.

Put about one cup of flour into a bowl, and a little salt, break into it two eggs, and stir in the flour, adding a little milk. Mix into a batter thin enouge to beat, and beat for about five minutes or more. Then add more milk, until about the thickness of cream. Have pan very hot with dripping in it—nearly half a cup—and pour the batter in the boiling hot dripping. Bake about 8 or 10 minutes in a very hot oven.

His car had collided with the telegraph pole. "I think my collar-bone is broken," he said to the policeman who bent over him. "If that's all, you're in luck," growled the officer. "You were going at breakneck speed."

ON BEING CLINICKED

MRS. O'BRIEN, fat and fair, leans over the alley fence and talks to a neighbour:

"Good marnin' M s Smelts, it's a sad face you're liftin' to Heaven the day! Jaunders, is it? No? Well, yer looks desave ye. The endurin' bad health of ye is a curse for sure. But ye don't have to stand it, me dear, there's a blessed way out. Suicide, ye say? Gor fergive, no! I'm aimin' to keep ye above ground, not below it. What ye need is wan thing only. You need to be clinicked.

"Ye niver heard of it? No more had I this time last year, but 'tis the grandest notion the good Lard iver put into the heads of thim medicine men. As for me, 'twas this was the way of it. Along about Easter of last year I fell to ailin'. I was green lookin' the same as you, an' I had collapsin' spells in the middle an' at both ends at the same time, an' that nervous-like I imagined me good Dinnis was always peepin' over the rim of his eye fer some young chit to take me place.

"Now, none can iver cast upon me that I ain't been a dacent, industrious wife to Dinnis O'Brien, bearin' him six healthy children, an' helpn' him lay by a tidy sum agin' the future. I'd little taste fer lettin' another woman spend it fer him. So I puts me foot in me hand, an' I crawls up to the big hospital, an' I says to 'em,

"'In spect me over an' see what ails me.'

"I niver intended to spend the night with 'em, but afore I could bat me eye they had me in bed, with a hind-part-before nightgown on me, an' a young fellow dressed in white settin' beside me with a pencil an' paper, astin' me questions it was niver meant fer a lady to answer. Niver was a man born with more curiosity, an' if I so much as stopped to draw breath he egged me on with another question.

The nixt marnin', after they'd washed me an' stuck a themometer in me teeth an' helt me pulse a couple of times, The High Up Doctor come smilin' into the ward like a May marnin'. I was taken with him from the start, if I do say it, the mother of six. 'Tis a man he is as well as a doctor, an' the best of both or I'm no judge.

"He stepped alongside me bed (a neat stepper he is, too), an' 'God save you, what's ailin' ye?' he says, or words to that effect.

"That's fer you to find out, sir," I answered back with more sass in my voice than I thought was left in it.

He looked me over a minute, thin he pulled out a flask-light an' turned it in me eye, a peerin' an' a peerin' fer all the world like he was lookin' fer a cinder.

"'It ain't me eye,' I explained; 't's me thight that's troublin' me.'

"He paid me no mind whatsomever, but kept on squintin' an' squintin' till it was plumb nervous I was.

"'Is it blind I'm goin'?' I asked all in a swither.

"'Your eyes are all right,' he says; 'it's your blood vessels I'm watchin'.'

"Now I lave it to ye, Mis' Smelts, did ye iver hear of blood vessels bein' annywhere save in yer arms an' legs?

"Well, the High-Up One, havin' begun with me eyes, niver left off till he got to the soles of me two feet. He hammeered on me knees and elbows with a little mallet, God knows why, an' he made diagrams on me chist, an' listened at me breathe, an' tested me arms and legs to see if I was string-halt. An' whin he had done with me, I says to him,

"'Well, if ye know annything more now than ye did before, all I kin say fer yer blessed mother is that sh'e got a smart son!

He cracked a joke back that I didn't catch, but it set the ward laughin', so I made bold to answer,

"'I don't know yer ancistry, sir, but I'll venture wan of thim wore a shamrock in his buttonhole on St. Patrick's Day!' an' the blessed man retreated under fire as I mint he should.

"Well it was that I had me bit of fun, fer no sooner had he left, God rest his soul! than in come a nurse carryin' a covered tray that I took to be me breakfast. But whin she took the towel off, lo an' beholden, there was bristlin' needles an' tubes an' rubber hoses. Thin the young doctor I was tellin' ye 'bout, up he come, an' without so much as a by-yer-leave, he tied the hose around me arm, jabbed a darnin' needle into the crotchet of me elbow, an' dreened off 'bout half a teacup of me life blood! A sickenin' sight it was fer sure, but I had to get used to it. Endurin' the intire time I was in that hospital, that man hovered around like a mosquito bent on drawin' blood from me arm or wan of me fingers.

The nixt day was worse than the first wan. Before I'd collected me senses, a nurse brought me two slices of cold light bread an' two glasses of cold water.

"'An' ye call that a breakfast?' I asked, with scorn in me voice.

"'It's a test meal,' she says.

"'Test nothin',' I says; 'it's an insult. I wouldn't be caught offerin' it to me dog.'

Then in come a fat doctor, with a face like a marshmallow, an' in his hand he held what I took to be a perfumery atomizer an' some more rubber hose. Ye'd niver think' Mis' Smelts, what an important part rubber hose takes in curin' folks, till you go through a clinic. But to your dyin' day ye'd niver guess what they ast me to do with this particular piece. They wanted me to swallow it! Honest to God, if I niver draw another breath, it's the truth.

"But flabbergasted as I was, I give no sign. I just give wan witherin' look at the doctor an' I says, 'The consequinces be on your head,' an' I begin to swallow. An' I swallowed an' I swallowed eight finger lengths if it was an inch An' whin I was plumb full of rubber hose, that fat doctor—may I niver see his face agin—says,

"'Now I want you to eat this bread an' water.'

"'The saucer too?' I managed to ast with a look that would a' withered a less dumb man.

But I did what I was told, an' all the time I was tryin' to get the bread down, I was thinkin' how the slices was turning to loaves right before me eyes fer all the world like the Bible parable! An' all the whilst I lay there, half chokin' to death, with me heart in me mouth to say nothin' of all the other appyraturs, an' the nurse a holdn' me hand, an' the doctor holdin' fast to the other end of the tube to keep me from swallowin' it, didn't that flappery girl roll her eyes at the doctor, an' with the blarney drippin' off her tongue say,

"'I bet you are some dancer!'

"That marnin' was bad fer sure, but 'twas the beginnin' of the worse. Third day they started on me without even givin' me bread and water. A nigger boy come an' wheeled me out, bed an' all, to room where a redheaded girl was foolin' with somethin' I took to be a clothes washer. I didn't like the looks of her person from the start, an' whin she told me to lie stock still an' not to speak fer half an hour, I liked her less. At the end af the time she handed me another wan of thim iverlastin' rubber tubes with somethin' at the end that looked like a big set of rubber teeth.

"'I'll niver swaller that,' I says firmly, 'not if His Riverence stands in yer shoes and bids me do it.'

"'You don't have to,' she says cross-like. 'Just put it in yer mouth and close your lips around it, and breathe natural.'

"Well, I got it in, prayin' the blessed saints that I'd be able to git it out again. An' the whiles I had me eyes shut, didn't the redhead clap a steel clothes pin on me nose, an' start to pumpin' all the breath out of me body entirely? An' all the time she was sayin' 'Breathe natural,' as if a body could breathe natural with her mouth full of rubber, an' her nose pinched to, an' not enough air to feed a goldfish! Human flesh was niver mint to stand the like o' that, Mis' Smelts, an' you know it. In the nick of time, by God's blessin', just as I was passin' into another an' a better world, she took off the harness an' says:

"'Sorry, but I made a mistake. We'll have to try it over again.'

"I will not say what followed. Heaven fergive the two of us, me fer losin' me temper, her fer provokin' it.

"Once more back in the ward, breathin' un-natural through me nose and throat an' givin' thanks that I'd finished the ordeal alive, I made sure they were through with me. But not at all, at all. They put me in a wheel chair an' rode me up an' down elevators an' through cellars till I was that mixed me head wint 'round.

At last they landed me in room full plumb of the lame an' the halt an' the blind, rich an' poor, black an' white all lyin' round in chairs or on stretchers, waitin' their turn, like Judgment Day.

"I noticed iverybody was drinkin' what appeared to be buttermilk, so I says to a passin' nurse,

"'Don't I git some of that?'

"'You do fer sure!' she says, an' I mistrusted the way she laughed whin she said it.

Thin she hands me a schooner, an' after wan sip I hands it back.

"'I've changed me mind,' I says, 'I don't believe I care fer any.'

"'It's bay rum,' she says. 'You're to drink two glasses of it.'

"'Bay rum's to put on yer head, not in it,' I argued. 'Besides it's not thick an' whitewashey like this stuff.'

"'You drink it," the nurse whispered, coaxin' like. 'The rich dame nixt to you is payin' twenty dollars fer hers, an' you're gittin' yours fer nothin'.'

"'Twas a reconcilin' thought it was but even the economy of it didn't kape me from nigh onto burstin' before I had done. An' no sooner I had than they said I was to have me picture taken.

"An' Mis' Smelts, I said flat-foot I would not. I'd no notion of havin' me children remember me with all that bay rum on me insides, an' a look on me face that wasn't fit to print. But the nurse explained it was just a X-ray picture of me 'lamentary canal, so I let 'em strap me down on a zinc ironin' board as cold as ice. Then all of a sudden the light wint out, an awful lightnin' was buzzi' round me, an' I heard a turrible deep voice from God knows where sayin' over an' over:

"'Take a deep breath—hold it—let it out. Take a deep breath—hold it—let it out."

They must a' taken enough pictures of me canal to fill a family album, before they lave me go. An' all that night, whin I wasn't bein' kept awake by the screeches of the woman who had had both her appendicks out, or the wailin' an' hobbin' of the girl in the bed next to mine, I was hearin' that lightnin' buzzin' in me sleep, an' I was mutterin' to meself:

"'Hold it! Let it out.'

"A hospital ain't no place fer a nervous person, Mis' Smelts, an' as fer quiet I'd liefer be in a engine house.

"By the screek of day I'd come to a conclusion. But niver a word said I. It was the High-Up One's day to come an' I'd laid off to bide me time whin I'd see him onct again.

The good man—may Heaven be his final home!—come straightaway to my bed whin he intered the ward.

"'How's Erin?" he says.

"'It's by God's mercy I ain't walkin' on all fours, sir,' I says. 'I'm thinkin' 'twould be no sin to send me home.'

"'Home?' he laughed. 'Why, you've just come. We're givin' you a good rest, an' that's what you need.'

"'Well lave me have it over me wash tub,' I begged him. "I'd rather work than be worked on, anny day."

"'We are near through,' he says in that consolin' way of his. 'So far there's nothin' serious.'

Then he turned to the marshmallow wan, an' he says,

"'Have all the tests been made?'

"An' I heard the fat wan say behind his hand like, 'All but the Final Puncture.'

There was that in the words that sint the hair bristlin' on me head! I'd heard talk of them punctures in the ward an' I knew they were not for the likes of me. So whin the High-Up One says,

"'I will see you again in a few days.' I says mysterious-like.

"'Yis, if you're sufficiently farsighted.'

An' the good man—may he niver grow gray!—wint on his way, little dreamin' of the bold intintion I had in me mind.

The nixt mornin', whin I wint to wash meself, I took all me personal belongin's with me wrapped in a towel, an' whin I walked out the bathroom I had on me dress an' hat an' the shoes on me two feet. An' down the stairs an' out I wint, with no one payin' me anny mind whatsomever.

"At first me legs shook like the palsy, an' me heart felt like it goin' to boil over. For wan black minnit I saw meself reachin' home in a hearse. Then all of a suddint the fresh wind struck me in the face, the strength rushed into me legs, an' stepped forth into the spring-time as well a woman as iver trod shoe leather! Oh, God be thankit fer that blessed day!

"An' whin I reached home there was my good man Dinnis, tendin' the children an' lookin' after the house as faithful as a woman. An' 'Nora!' he cried, flingin' his arms around me neck, 'what brings you home whin ye are sick in bed?'

"'It's cured I am!' I says, laughin' an' cryin' all at once. 'Cured intirely!'

"'An' what did they do to ye?' he says amazed like.

"'They clinicked me!' I says. 'An' I'm cured of ivery ailment under the sun save a final puncture, an' I ain't got that!'

"So is it small wonder, Mis' Smelts, that I says to ivery friend that's ailin' in the flesh, I says:

"'Go up to the Hospital, an' git yerself clinicked, an' if ye don't die you'll be cured before they git done with ye!'"

MacTavish: "It's time to get dog licences again. You keep a dog, don't you?"

McStingy: "No. If we hear a noise in the night, we bark ourselves."

Employer: "Jones, call up my dentist and see if he can make an appointment with me. And Jones—"

Clerk: "Yes, sir."

Employer: "Don't urge him."

Irate Father: "Look here, Mabel, I won't have that Perkins chap bringing you home here at midnight."

Mabel: "Very well, father. Who else do you suggest?"

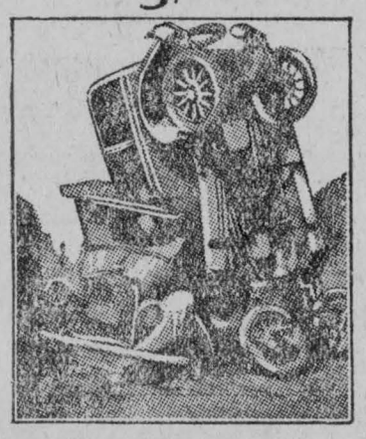
DRIVE in SAFETY



with an Automobile Insurance Policy to protect you against the hazards of Fire, Theft, Collision, Property Damage and Public Liability.

Every Automobile Owner in Ontario should know about the new Financial Responsibility Law effective since September 1st. The new law makes necessary the abi lity to pay for damage.

In its general application, it requires that the motorist responsible for damage to person or property of others MUST PAY either personally or through insurance OR BE BARRED FROM THE ROAD.

The sensible thing to do is to carry Automobile Liability and Property Damage Insurance. It is better to have this insurance and not need it, than to need it and not have it.

THE TEACHER MUSES

By R. J. Gale

Year after year they come to me,
These children with questioning looks,
Year after year they leave me.
As they leave their outgrown books;
And I wonder sometimes if I've taught them
Just some of the worthwhile things.
Just some of the things they'll need in life,
Be they peasants, or poets, or kings.

Of course, they've learned civics and history,
And how to divide and add,
But have they learned that these are not all
That make life sad or glad?
Have I taught them the value of smiling
When things are at their worst?
Have I taught them there's nothing that helps like a song
When the heart seems ready to burst?

Have I taught them that Fear is a coward
Who is beaten when they say "I can!"?
That Courtesy ranks with Courage
In the heart of the real gentleman?
Have I taught them these things and the others
That will help make them brave, kind, and true?
If I have, then, I care not if they tell me
That Irkutsk is a town in Peru!

"What makes you think she doesn't like you?"

"She told me she thought there was a fool in every family."

"Well, what of it?"

"I had just told her I was an only child."

Chesterville High School Literary Society Meetings

The following are the officers of the High School Literary Society:

Honorary President—Miss Hamilton,
President—Irene Allen,
Vice-President—Hubert Dixon,
Secretary—Betty Bolster,
Treasurer—Olive Casselman.

The opening of the Society was held on Friday, January 16th, when the school was entertained by a debate between Third and Fourth Forms. The question was: "Resolved, that Motion Pictures are detrimental to the Public." The affirmative side was upheld by Third form, the speakers being Marjorie Lynch and Edwin Hutt. The negative was ably defended by the Fourth form representatives—Sarah Atlas and Thomas Maloley. The judges were Miss Gardner, Miss McKay and Mr. Lowrie. The decision was in favour of the negative side.

The second meeting was held on January 31, when the First and Second forms entertained the meeting with charades which the Third and Fourth forms guessed. The meeting closed with God Save the King.

They were alone! The girl was trembling. Said the man: "Every time I look at you I think of revenge!" "Oh, but why?" wailed the maiden. "Because," he explained slowly, "revenge is sweet!"

"I've got a good dog. As good as any alarm clock. He barks every morning at seven."

"That is a wonderful dog!"

"Yes. All I have to do is to get out of bed and hit the dog, and then he barks, and I know it's time to get up."
