How Will the Wheat be Handled?

In our advertising columns will be found offerings of fall wheat seed by two parties. The question has been asked us as to where the farmers of this section are going to find a market for all the wheat they have grown in response to the request for greater production. The yield hereabouts this year of both the winter and spring varily is said to be remarkable and of superior quality. It advantage is to be taken of this by the Food Board some arrangements should be made at once for a local market. If this is not done much of the wheat will not reach the point where it will releive those most in need of it.

Picton Capitalists see the Condensery.

Howard G. Carter came to town Thursday evening last chaperoning a party of capitalists from Picton, namely Messrs. Reid, Leavens, Hyatt and Calnan, the latter of whom is the editor of the Picton Gazette and from whom The Record received a pleasant call. It was not strange that capitalists should come in the wake of Mr. Carter especially when their desire is to make more capital. Mr. Carter can safely turn any investigating committe loose in Chesterville when it is his trail they are on. He is given all credit for placing the condensery in Chesterville and he did it in a clean and business like way the benefits of which are appreciated by every citizen of the town. The establishing of the condensery means that it is the centre from which about three quarters of a million dollars are distributed to this community in the course of a year. The Picton bunch won't be led astray when Carter is doing the leading.

In The Wake of the Storm.

The scene of the destruction by last Wednesday's storm in the Limerick and Grantley sections has been visited by very many people during the week past, and all marvel that there was no loss of life. The district might well be likened to some portions of France and Flanders as described in the daily press, without of course the shell holes. Buildings present a much damaged condition with some blown down entirely and numbers with portions of the roof gone and the glass in almost all of them broken. Showing the velocity with which the hail was travelling, perfectly round holes without cracks are in many panes as if made by a rifle bullet.

It is impossible to mention all the damage but besides the almost utter obliteration of the crops Ken Myers' silo is down; Henry Hummel, silo down; John McCloskey, barn down; Con Barry, silo down; Len Clement, barn roof partly gone; D. McMahon, roof off shed. D. Kearney, two barns, horse stable and house damaged; Vincent McCloskey, house badly damaged; Pat Moore, machine shed and part of roof off barn and fifty panes of glass in house; Jos. Murphy, house spread and machine shed down; Ed. Carroll, hog pen roof off; P. Curran, M. E. Curran, W. Allan, Ed Sauve, Roy Elliot, silos down; Jno. Elliot, barn down; Roy McMillan silo down; W. Kyre, silo down and roof off barn; A. Beckstead part roof of barn off; Howard Beckstead, house roof off and barn doors off; Wallace Myers, 2 silos down; Frank Darling part of barn gone. The Grantley Methodist Church is a complete wreck with the front blown out and the building off of the foundation. James McMillan's big pine bush, with standing timber valued at fifteen thousand dollars was torn down.

Frank Todd, who was trying to get to shelter before the storm, was overtaken in the lane with his horses which he let go while he grabbed a post and held to it. When he could see again one of his horses had been killed nearby.

Proceedure for Cleaning and Disinfecting Milking Machines

Just before beginning to milk, suck a pail of clean water, either hot or cold, through the teat cups. Otherwise traces of disinfectant may be carried into the milk.

Immediately after each miiking prepare three pails. Fill Pail 1, with clean cold water. Pail 2, with hot salt soda water, and Pail 3 with clean hot water. While the teat cups are still attached to the machine immerse in these pails successively, at the same time sucking the water through them. Then take the teat cups and stanchion hose and either suspend them or immerse in the solution in the large crock. Care should be taken when putting the tubes into the solution to make sure that all air bubbles are out of the tubes and that they are entirely immesed. Three times a week the rubber teat cups should be taken apart and thoroughly cleaned. No disinfecting solution will take the place of cleaning.

Predicts End of War Nov. 25.

Mrs. Ida Carbino, of Massena Centre, tells of a vision which she had one evening during her waking hours. The sky was clear and a bright moon was shining; around the moon was a ring, and she says that as she gazed suddenly inside the ring and directly under the moon some words took form, moving slowly across the face of the sky. She could not make out all of the words, but she says that the words "War November 25" formed themselves very distinctly, and the sight lasted long enough for her to read it readily.

Mrs. Carbino predicts that the war will end November 25.

In Charge.

The soldier who believed in camouflaging unpleasant news in his letters home was scribbling a note to his mother as he rested on his way to the guardhouse, surrounded by his guards.

"Dear Mother," he said, "I'm quite well and going strong. At present I'm in charge of a squad of men."

His mother was delighted.

Documents Tell of German Gloom.

With the British Army in France Aug. 13.—Documents of the most significant character, indicating that the recent events have brought about an extremely marked state of depression in the German army, have fallen into the hands of the British. Most significant of all perhaps, is an extract from a German officer's diary in which he relates that he had been asked by the divisional headquarters whether the troops in the line favored peace or a continuation of the war, his answer being: "Immediate peace or an immediate decisive battle."

This entry was dated before the German drive for the Marne began.

Hardly less important is a letter taken from a German prisoner. It was written to him by another German who was stationed along the Marne. It reads: "You will be in the thick of it now. Shirk as much as you can. Do not be stupid. We are risking our lives only for big victories. Now we are taking the offensive on the Marne, and we will never get out of this mess at all. Our regiment has been nearly wiped out and we have not pushed far. The war is becoming a greater massacre than ever. What is going to happen, I don't known. Germany is slowly crumbling to pieces."

Another prisoner just captured on the British front says that the official figures show that 12,000 of his comrades were made prisoners in the Champagne fighting, but that rumour along this front is that 60,000 Germans and 800 guns were lost.

Adding to the gloom of his division, which realizes that Germany has suffered a great defeat, the prisoner was very poor. He said that poor rations has been especially noticeable for the past three months. The only time that good food is served, he said, is before the Germans are to participate in an offensive.

Saw Himself Taken Prisoner.

Corporal Harold Matheson, of Havelock, who was in Toronto undergoing treatment for injuries received at the front, had a unique experience in the Queen city when he saw in a shop window a photograph of himself being carried on a stretcher down the Arras road from Vimy Ridge by four German prisoners. He easily recognized his features in those of the wounded man on the stretcher. Corporal Mathison lost no time in purchasing the photograph and has sent it to friends in Belleville, where he is very well known. At Vimy Ridge Corporal Matheson suffered four bad fractures and fourteen shrapnel wounds.

Died A Hero's Death.

France, July 20th, 1918.

Mrs. Geo. A. Merkley
Winchester Ont.

Dear Mrs. Merkley:—

I have no doubt that you have learned long ere now the sad news of the death of your son No. 474040 Serg. H. A. Merkley, and my object in now writing you is to send you on behalf of all his friends here our very deep and sincere sympathy in your great loss.

I cannot tell you how sorry I am personally and the whole company is at one with me, for Sergt. Merkley was a great favourite with all the boys and deservedly so.

He will be missed in very many ways by us for he was a good soldier and one of the best Sergeants I have ever had in my company I knew him intimately during many long months in France and there are very few men whom I have more admired.

He was always so cheery and happy even in the most trying circumstances and such a disposition means a great deal to others around one, especially in this country.

We have consolation, though, Mrs. Merkley. He died for his country and was on duty when he fell. He was killed instantaneously by a shell and it will be some little comfort to know that he did not linger or suffer at all, as some of our poor boys do. It happened at 3.30 a. m., on the morning of July 19th, and I was on the spot a minute afterwards and he was quite dead and couldn't of known what happened.

His body has been removed and will be given burial in a little cemetery behind our lines.

I removed all his belongings and the contents of his pockets and these will be forwarded to you in course through the usual channels. Among them was a New Testament, Hymn Book and certificate of Church Membership.

If there are any further particulars you wish please do not hesitate to write me and I shall do all I can to help.

With deepest sympathy, yours sincerely Capt. A. W. Jack, O. C. "A" Co'y, 54th. Can. Inf. Bn. B. E. F., France.

Canada's War Bread.

Canada's war bread is made from 90 per cent wheat flour and 10 per cent substitutes. This makes the loaf a little darker but it is just as palatable as ever, if properly made, and just as nutritious. The Canada Food Board warned bakers not to use artificial means of whitening war bread.

Peace, Perfect Peace.

At the time of King Edward's recovery from appendicitis thanksgiving services were held all over the British dominions. The services were concluded at a certain place by the singing of a well known hymn, which happened to be in the back of the book.

"Let us close the services" the rector said, "by singing the hymn, 'Peace Perfect Peace,' in the appendix."

GIVING A DEFINITION.

A Little Story With a Very Legal Background.

"YOU understand, of course," pursued the lawyer, "what is meant by a 'preponderance of evidence?'"

"Yes, sir," replied the man whom he was examining with reference to his qualifications as a juror.

"Let me have your idea of it, if you please?"

"I understand it, I tell you."

"Well, what is it?"

"Why, anybody can understand that."

"Still, I would like to have your definition of it."

"I know what it is, all right. When I tell you I know what a thing is I know it. That's all there is about that."

"Well, what was the question I asked you?"

"You ought to know what that was. If you've forgot your own questions don't try to get me to remember them for you."

"I don't want to hear any more of that kind of talk," interposed the court. "Answer the questions addressed to you by the counsel."

"Judge, I did. He asked me if I knew what it was, and I said I did."

"Are you sure you understand what is meant by the term 'preponderance of evidence?'"

"Of course I am, judge."

"Well, let us hear your idea of it."

"It's evidence that's been previously pondered."—Chicago Tribune.

Then He Collapsed.

The first time a man speaks in public he probably suffers more agony in a shorter space of time than at any other part of his career. Young Frankington felt the truth of this very keenly the other day when he found himself facing an audience of free and independent voters at an election. He had prepared a very fervid oration in support of his father's candidacy, but for the first few moments he could do nothing but gasp. Then in response to an encouraging cheer he began to speak.

"Mr.—Mr. Chairman," he stammered, "when I—when I left home this evening only two people on this earth—my father and myself—knew what I was going to say, but now—now—well, now, only father knows."—Tit-Bits.

A STUDENT IN ARMS.

Some Axioms of a Noble British Soldier.

The true wisdom is that in which all knowledge is subordinate to practical aims and blends into a working philosophy of life.

The world judges a man by his station, inherited or acquitted. God judges by his character. To be our best we must share God's viewpoint.

The true wisdom is that it is not what a man does, or has, or says, that matters, but what he is.

This must be the aim of practical philosophy—to make a man be something.

To the world death is always a tragedy unless a man has been a contemptible character.

Religion is the widening of a man's horizon so as to include God.

It is in the nature of a speculation, but its returns are immediate.

True religion means betting one's life that there is a God.

Its immediate fruits are courage, stability, calm, unselfishness, friendship, generosity, humility and hope.

Religion is the only possible basis of optimism.

Optimism is the essential condition of progress.

One is what one believes oneself to be. If one believes oneself to be an animal, one becomes bestial; if one believes oneself spiritual, one becomes divine.

Faith is an effective force whose measure has never yet been taken.

Man is the creature of heredity and environment. He can only rise superior to circumstances by bringing God into environment of which he is conscious.

The recognition of God's presence upsets the balance of a man's environment and means a new birth into a new life.

The faculties which perceive God increase with use, like any other perceptive faculties.

Belief in God may be an illusion, but it is an illusion that pays.

If belief in God is illusion, happy is he who is deluded! He gains this world and thinks he will gain the next.

The disbeliever loses this world and risks losing the next.

To be the center of one's universe is misery. To have one's universe centered in God is the peace that passeth understanding.

Greatness is founded on inward peace.

Energy is only effective when it springs from deep calm.

The pleasure of life lies in contrasts; the fear of contrasts is a chain that binds most men.

In the hour of danger a man is proven. The boaster hides and the egotist trembles. He whose care is for others forgets to be afraid.

Men live for eating and drinking, passion and wealth. They die for honor.

Blessed is he of whom it has been said that he so loved giving that he gave his own life.—Lieut.— Donald Hankey, killed in action.

Another Battle Won for Dairymen

FOR months we have been experimenting—investigating—testing—fighting, to find a way to make the Empire Milking Machine, already the unquestioned leader, still more efficient for the dairy farmer.

THE BATTLE IS WON.

We have given the milking machine a new heart—the pulsator is the heart of the milking machine—and the result of our experiment, the new Empire Super-Simple Pulsator, is the most wonderful development since the invention of the Empire—the competent milking machine.

To be successful a milking machine must have a perfectly acting pulsator to cause the alternating action of suction and massage on the teats (to imitate the calf's "suck and squeeze") to occur with absolute regularity; and to make the change from suction to massage and back again instantaneous.

The Empire Super-Simple Pulsator, the pulsator without a piston, does that and more. It really is Super-Simple—so simple that it can be taken apart and put together again in less than two minutes. It has but five moving parts; nothing to wear out or "get out of gear." It cannot lose vacuum, so its action is perfect.

It places the Empire Milking Machine immeasurably in advance of all competition. Your cows should be milked by an Empire Milking Machine with the new Super-Simple Pulsator. It will milk them more rapidly than ever—it will solve your labor problem—it will increase milk production at a decreased cost; it will transform milking from drudgery into a pleasant chore.

Our factory is overtaxed by the increased demand for Empire Milking Machines, so go to your dealer at once, see the new Super-Simple Pulsator and tell him to order your Empire outfit without delay; or write for Catalog.

Letter On Oats Means Damage.

In the opinion of Dr. Frank T. Shutt, assistant director at the experimental farm, the letter which observers of natural phenomena in western Ontario have found on oat leaves, and whose presence they have interpreted as a forecasting the end of the war, is not a "B" or a figure "8" either, but possibly the letter "R" instead. But Dr. Shutt does not consider the mark as a good omen. Instead, he says that its real presence is that another war must be waged—not against the Hun but against rust which destroys thousands of dollars worth of grain every year. It is not an unusual occurrence for rust to form in the shape of the letter "R" on oat leaves, but every year since the war started credulous persons, seeing the letters for the first time have jumped at the conclusion that it is a mystic sign foretelling the end of the war or of the end of the world in the immediate future.

The Fattening of Chickens.

The profits obtained from marketihg lean, poorly fleshed, unfinished chickens are so small as to be frequently discouraging. Many of the packing houses and larger produce dealers find it necessary to go to considerable expense to provide the necessary premises and equipment to properly finish such poultry. The best place to feed poultry is on the farm, and, if it pays the packing houses to take the trouble, it obviously would be good business to do the work on the farm.

Proper feeding and finishing will not only greatly increase the weight of the birds, but will also enchance the value of every ounce of flesh on the carcass, and greatly reduce the proportion of offal in relation to the amount of edible meat.

There is generally a difference of from three to seven cents per pound in the price paid for well-fleshed birds as compared with lean unfinished stock just off the range.

There is always a market for prime quality poultry, while the poorer quality has to be sold at whatever price can be obtained, depending on the market and the amount of effort put forth on the part of the seller.

Birds generally make the greatest gain when about three to four months of age, and the average birds make the most economical gains during the first two weeks of special feeding.

Chickens can be readily taught to feed by lamplight; this is a great convenience, as it is desirable that the time of feeding be spaced as nearly as possible twelve hours apart.

The crate system of feeding is much more economical and efficient. In practising this method, one is able to carefully note the progress being made by each bird and the feeding period of the more thrifty can often be shortened or lengthened as desired. Also the flesh of the crate-fed birds is invariably softer than that of pen fed birds.

For amplifications of the forgoing information apply to the Publication Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin No. 88 of the division of Poultry of the Experimental Farms entitled "Preparing Poultry Produce for Market".

He was a credit to his parents at home and abroad.

We feel honored to know so fine a young man from here has given his life for us, has shed his blood for right and liberty, his King and his country. As long as the world stands such young men as the late Sergt. Merkley was in life will be needed, as an example and influence to others.

Have You Declared War?

A new spirit has arisen lately, at least new for those of us on this side of the Atlantic. There is beginning to exist a sense of discrimination as to what is war work, real and proper. The questioning, over here, no doubt started where war has fixed its fangs into everyday living—"over there." From the trenches this keen discrimination between what is essential and helpful and what merely seems to be has filtered through to the consciousness of those in the cities and hamlets where men and women toil for victory. Perhaps, because they have worked almost to the point of exhaustion, the less wearing work of others is attracting attention. At any rate, however it has come about, their is arising a distinction between war work that is for victory and war work that is merely a pastime. Writing in the Illustrated London News of May 18, G. K. Chesterton sums up the difference between that patriotism which the general run of people have not yet fully sensed and the real article which sinks all differences about means and all personal quarrels in the great fact that unless this war is won we perish. "One very simple way of stating the truth", he says, "is to say that there is nothing we can complain of in any of our fellow citizens or any of our Allies, which victorious Prussia would not impose on the world with all the evil proper to itself and with seven devils worse than itself. There is no disease of ours that we can try to cure which they would not merely make incurable. If the brazen militarist and materialism once strikes us down, he will stun us forever. We shall have lost the strength to reform and even the power to repent." Again he says: The very existence of our nation is in deadly peril; the last hope of all nations really is pinned to a victory over Prussia."

English women are criticizing their sisters at home who dable at "war-work"—just a little of this or that, enough io give the appearance without causing the real inconvenience of the real exertion. It is doubtful whether Canadian women have many "posers" among themselves but it is not at all doubtful that far too many have failed to devote themselves to winning the war with that abandon which would characterize them did they realize the truth and the possibility of "G. K.'s" remarks. Not yet has the tremendous significance of the possible (though not probable) breaking of the Allied line taken holt of our intellects.

It is all well enough to pin our faith implicity to the British Navy—as many are doing, and thereby escaping strenuous exertion on their own part; it is a fine thing to feel perfectly the right must win. So it must, finally, but there is no assurance that the victory over wrong will be a speedy one. When one studies history one must realize at the very outset that "a thousand years is a day" and several generations are none too many for the working out of great events. Frederick the Great is responsible for most of the atrocities that are taking place today. When we realize that fact we will begin to realize the overpowering responsibility that rests on every one who is not Prussian to buckle on the armour of real war work. Far too many have not yet declared war!

Limited Means.

The reformed toper was seen by his pastor, some time after his conversion to temperance, apparently directing his steps straight to the door of a public house.

In dire apprehension the pastor called after the man, who glanced round, but paused not, and disappeared through the doorway of the public house.

The indignant apostle of temperance waited, and in a minute or so the backslider came out wiping his mouth.

"Now, look here," said the pastor, "You heard me call and saw me before you went into tnat place; why didn't you wait?

"Well, to tell you the truth, sir," was the apologetic reply, "it wasn't a bit of use me waiting for you; I'd only got the price of one."

The Kaisers Punishment.

I would like to make the Kaiser wear his helmet upside hown,
And feet up in the air I'd make him walk upon his crown.
I would like to make him drink his beer while lying on his back,
And make him sit within a chair that held a rusty tack.
I would like to turn his helmet upside down and outside in,
And with an axe I'd like to put a dimple in his chin.
A thorn for every heart he's pierced, his mother's first of all,
For every child and woman's death, for every maiden's fall.
And when I had his helmet tightly fastened inside out,
I'd like to fill his ears and eyes and nose
with sauer-kraut,
Limberger cheese and sausage I'd leave
upon the floor,
And tie his han is behind his back, his feet behind the door,
Now. Kaiser Bill, just take your pill, as we have taken ours.
And don't forget to tell your friends to please omit the flowers;
For sweethearts, fathers, brothers, and all who have done their share
In memory of the brave lads who are fighting over there.

Poultry Diseases Responsible For Big National Loss.

At least fifty percent of the chickens, young turkeys, and ten percent of the adult birds, die each year from diseases many of which are preventable. This is an annual national loss of probably of millions of dollars that should be avoided to a large extent.

War conditions make it imperative that farmers and poultrymen as far as possible should stop this enormous leak. To do this every breeder should pay strict attention to the general conditions of his flock. When anything unusual is noted in a fowl, it is advisable to place the affected individual in separate quarters. If within a short time recovery does not take place, it is unwise to destrov the fowl without first ascertaining the cause of disorder. The prevalence of disease is more often the cause of failure than the lack of practical knowledge and the extreme importance of keeping the quarters clean; isolation of ailing fowls and immediate action in regard to finding out the cause cannot be too strongly impressed upon the poultryman.

When trouble occurs, forward to the Biological Laboratory, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont., a live but sick fowl, or, in the absence of such, a dead bird. In the interval disinfect the quarters, runs, drinking fountains and feed dishes to check the spread of any infectious disease.

Disinfect the poultry houses by spraying the interior with a lime wash-solution (50 lbs. stone lime slaked in a barrel of water plus a gallon of a good commercial disinfectant.) Fill cracks and crevices to destroy mites, lice, etc. If a smaller amount is required it may be prepared by adding two and a half pounds of lime to a pail of water plus half a teacupful of disinfectant.

Keep a crop growing in some part of the yards and alternate poultry and crops. If the runs are small cover with a coating of air-slaked lime and dig up. If the runs are too large to dig plough and cultivate before sowing. Rape is a good crop for this purpose. Rear all chicks on fresh soil.

Although these precautions may appear unnecessary it is the only way of combatting many disease conditions affecting poultry, which if left to themselves will undoubtedly prove decidedly costly in the long run.

A Guilty Conscience.

A young fellow who was the crack sprinter of his town—somewhere in the South—was unfortunate enough to have a very dilatory laundress. One evening when he was out for a practice run in his rather airy aud abbreviated track costume he chanced to dash past the house of that dusky lady, who at the time was a couple of weeks in arreas with his washing.

He had scarcely reached home again when the bell rang furiously and an excited voice wafted in from the porch: "For de Lawds sake! won't you all tell Marse Bob please not to go out no moh till I kin git his clo'es around to him?"

Canada's Substitutes for Wheat Flour.

A supply of substitutes for wheat flour in Canada is being rapidly augmented. The Quaker Oats Company of Peterboro have installed a mill to produce corn flour, corn-meal, oat flour and oatmeal, at the rate of 7,000 barrels a day. Two mills to produce 200 barrels of substitute per day are being installed in London and Penetang, respectively.

BEDRIDDEN WITH RHEUMATISM

Felt That He Would Never Walk Again "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC

3 Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better; and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.

I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism".

Company-Farming By City, Town and Village Organizations.

The forthcoming issue of the Ontario Public Service Bulletin contains a report on Company-Farming projects under successful operation in St. Catharines, Sarnia, Windsor, Owen Sound, Weston and Oshawa. If you are on the mailing list for this Government publication, you will be able to learn particulars from it. Reprints of the article will be available too for free circulation shortly.

At St. Catharines the Lincon County Greater Production Co. Ltd. with a $25,000 capitalization and about 250 shareholders (shares $50) is harvesting 29 acres of flax and 25 acres of spring wheat this season, and expects to put in 220 acres of fall wheat.

At Sarnia the Indian Lands Co. Ltd. has 40 acres in crop this year and will seed a large acreage of fall wheat. On the 170 acres leased over 1,000 rods of drains have been put in this year already. Thev are planning for production in future years.

At Windsor the Manufacturers' Co-Operative Agricultural Association has about 250 acres under crop this year and plans for 500 acres for next year.

At Owen Sound the Greater Food Production increased this years crops by 55 acres through releasing teams and ploughmen in the spring to farmers.

At Weston the Agricultural Production Committee has 40 acres of oats on a farm adjoining the town.

Is it not possible for groups of people in many of our cities, towns, and even villages, to undertake some form of Company-Farming?

Maybe some of your townspeople could undertake such a co-operative production service. Get them together and talk it over. There may be time yet to arrange for some fall wheat in your district.

Reports received from all parts of our Province show that the appeals for an increased Food Production have met with a splendid response this year. Besides better and larger and more back-yard gardens, there has been a great increase in Community Gardening. More groups of people in offices, stores, banks, clubs, factories, lodges, schools, colleges, churches, Sunday schools, have co-operated this year than last. Much is being done, too, in pork, poultry and rabbit production.

This is fine work! It is to be hoped it may be continued, increased and improved. Such work yields large returns in the spirit of team-play as well as in needed foodstuffs.

CASTORIA

Wounded Canadian in no Hurry to Leave Hospital.

"For goodness sake keep the Y.M.C.A. going," and, "I believe that the Peace Bell will be ringing before this year is out," are the messages sent to his home, Valleyfield, Que., in a letter by Lance Corp. Thomas Moir, of the 24th Victorian Rifles. The letter is written from the First General Hospital, Stourbridge, near Birmingham, and the writer gives the highest possible praise to the hospital Staff

"Fancy a bunch of nice nurses and sisters to wait on you, lying in bed and having your meals brought to you! Why it's worth while getting wounded, for this is the best part of the war hospital!"

"For goodness sake keep the Y.M.C.A. going", implores Lance Corp. Moir, who in his comfortable quarters in hospital does not forget the discomforts of the boys still in the trenches.

"Just think of coming out of the front line after a hard trip, wet, tired and hungry; never having a hot drink for days, to say nothing of a hot meal, and right up near the line you find the 'Y' with steaming hot tea and a smoke waiting. I don't know what we would do without them. I think if people really knew what the Y's are doing they would give more."

The writer concludes with the prophecy that the war will end this year. Austria's back is broken, he declares, and Germany cannot spare troops from the Western front to help her ally.

"Dinner time" is the excuse for an abrupt ending to an interesting letter and the last sentence is the cheerful prediction that "the PeaceBell will be ringing before the year is out."

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the whole system, and snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should enrich your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal-food and a building-tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it—YOU!

CUT FINE FOR CIGARETTES — CUT COARSE FOR PIPE

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A letter written 50 years ago for the Morrisburg Courier by the late Patrick Jordan, whose nom-de-plume will be remembered as "Timothy Terrence O'Mulligan." The copy from which this is taken, was sold by Miss Farlinger of Morrisburg for the Red Cross Society.

The undersigned whose cognogmen you are familiar with, claims your indulgence on the present occasion in order to give in your interesting journal a concise synopsis of our great demonstration held here on Dominion Day, which certainly was creditable to the loyalty, patriotism and enterprise of the inhabitants of this Townshsp and all others who participated in the day's recreation. It passed off with greater eclat than even its most sanguine friends anticipated. Before old Sol made his appearance above the horizion, crowds could be seen at a distance hastening to the scene of action, while our enthusiastic villagers were on the alert making suitable preparations for the reception and entertainment of their friendly visitors who assembled from various parts of the County and adjacent Townships to witness the celebration of our national festivity and to commerate the second anniversary of the inauguration of Confederation. The Union Jack, that flag that "braved the battle and the breeze" in England's battles by sea and land floated majestically from the Town Hall, it fluttered proudly to the breeze, the national supremacy, says a protection to friends and a terror to its foes. Old Boreas himself as it were lending his aid in maintaining its dignity as it floated to the breeze. While at a short distance on the opposite side of the bridge might be seen our enterprising citizens Messrs. Beach, Brown and Graham, "luffing the helm," busily engaged in decorating their respective places of business with splendid flags got up designedly in honour of the occasion. As your humble servant stood admiring the scene in all its sublimity (which certainly presented a good subject for an artist's skill to contemplate) confusion and amazement appeared to create a consternation in my mind which caused as I imagined a mental stupefaction around my poor "pericranium" for a time. This no doubt was attributable to the day being very sultry, the sun shedding his brilliant rays in tremendous force as he approached the meredian and feeling very much exhausted at the time. I sincerely wished from the inmost recesses of my palpitating "bussum", for a drop of the sweet Innishowen the national beverage of my native country, "Ould Ireland" which is as far superior to Down's Elixir Paragoric or Sarsaparilla, in resuscitating and reanimating human nature and drooping spirits as the Peak of Teneriff or the Grampian Hills is superior in magnitude to Bunker Hill, Williamsburg. Your generous readers will sympathize with me when I state to you that I could not wet my parched lips with a drop of my native luxury, my favorite panacea, owing to the vigilance of our Village modern Johnsonian "Medes and Persian". I had to succumb to cool lemonade furnished by some generous friends. This restored my equihbrium and recovering my equanimity determined to report progress for the Courier. As far as my opticals could carry me I gazed on the multitude increasing until noon when it reached its climax. Some better Judge than I am estimates the number at 2,000 and some more than this. I can form no accurate opinion on the number myself, suffice to say it was a large respectable crowd. The streets were lite all crowde with people (putting me in mind of Broadway on the 4th of July.) I could see the venerable matron participating in the amusements with as much eagerness as the girl in 'teens". Grey haired old men in as much hilarity as if their boyish days had returned, the juveniles performing all their antics in youthful glee even venerable and neglected old maids with all their melancholy and antimatrimonial affliction exhibited as much mirth and gaiety in external appearances as if they were in reality spliced for life and made a grand display of their 'heart catchers' with loving insinuations in presence of some callous hearted veteran old bachlors. reminding the latter of leap year. Any man who has passed the meridian of life refusing such favorable offers on these auspicious occasions would be as obdurate and inexorable to the entreaties of the fair sex as the person described in the following lines:

There was a criminal in a cart agoing to be hanged,
Reprieve to him was granted, the crowd and cart did stand,
To see if he would marry a wife or other-wise, choose to die,
A wife is the worst, drive on the cart the criminal did reply".

I must not omit to state that our gay, dashing, beautiful young belles perambulated the streets in gay attire, wealth, fashion and beauty were duly represented their expansive crinolines, fashionable waterfalls and aristocratic head gear of the latest Parisian style, which caused to many young men a palpitation of the heart, who stood gazing in silent admiration at the lovely fascinating "critters," their smiling countenances and bewitching smiles were used with model dexterity Our village clergyman are in great ecstacies in anticipation of reaping a golden harvest shortly in the matrimonial market.

Our young girls in this township are affable, courteous, hospitable, generous and beautiful, some of whom have no objections in making overtures to respectable young men on square terms, the rhymes of Burns I think are as applicable in this respect as in the Town of Ayr, and can be applied with equal propriety.

"Auld Ayr whom never a town surpasses
For honest men and bonnie lasses".

I am afraid I am transgressing the boundaries of brevity, but on a national occasion I want more sea room and I will now briefly refer to some of the games all of which were amusing and interesting. The canoe race being the first caused considerable excitement; the champions, Messrs. Merkley and Dillabough worked hard for their laurels closely pursued by their competitors. Old Neptune himself would certainly get his "Ebenezer up" on such an occasion. As the catalogue of prizes will be sent to you for publibation I will not enter into minute details about them. After the race the crowd repaired to hear the speeches which were appropraite to the occassion and recieved with great applause. The Rev. Mr. Fergusson being appointed chairman, addressed the crowd in a humorous way which caused great laughter particularly among the ladies with whom he is becoming quite popular. He advocated the cause of Confederation in an able manner; his sentiments were well received and exhibited sound arguments in political economy; he took his seat amid much merriment and applause, and introduced the Rev. Mr. Johnson, lately of Plantagenet this gentleman delivered a splendid oration on this occasion his remarks were well received and gave general satisfaction; he gave Confederation ample justice and in the course of his remarks made a pathetic allusion in glowing enlogy to the memory of the brave McGee; he took his seat amidst great acclamation. The Rev. Mr. Armstrong next favoured us with a nice address, short and sweet to the purpose and in his usual jovial and gentlemanly way. I regret I cannot give the addresses in full. At this stage of the proceedings "the cry arose the red-coats are coming", when looking at a distance I could observe a splendid procession headed by a fife and drum. This was our Morewood friends headed by young Captain McKoy and dressed in red shirts elegantly mounted (like Captain O'Malley the Irish Dragoon, they were accompanied by several nice modest young ladies on dashing chargers on side saddles) they rode round the square in splendid style exhibiting good horsemanship, and were enthusiastically cheered as they passed and repassed. This was certainly a splendid and interesting sight to behold the young women on horseback they were greatly admired and we hope to see this good healthy old fashion restored again among our father's daughters. Ladies dressed in nice riding habilaments able to manage the prancing steed attract our admiration Our Morewood friends made a grand display on Dominion Day and deserve credit for their general goaheadativeness, enterprise and patriotism. The old Patriarchs of that neighborhood should feel proud of their promising juveniles and might well exclaim with Burns:

"The dearest comfort of their lives,
Their rushie weans an' faithful wives,
The prattling things are just their pride
That sweetens a' their fireside".
