Sewer for Emma Council Project

Residents of Emma Street are in a mood to have a sewer, members of Chesterville council reported last Thursday evening at the May meeting. Council will consider the matter of building the sewer and joining it with Albert Street if the necessary petition is forthcoming from the residents on the street. A petition is necessary to allow for the charging of the cost against the properties serviced and to secure Health Department permission.

Reeve Chas. McMillan headed a full slate of councillors. They were Carl and Erwin Merkley, Harold Sharkey and Frank Arnold.

Hydro business was light as usual. After the paying of accounts and passing of minutes a letter regarding the forming of a local association was studied. It was decided that if an Eastern Ontario Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities local was formed Chesterville Hydro Commission would join when it came into being.

Two small accounts to the value of $7 were written off as uncollectable and the clerk was authorized to purchase a new billing typewriter for the commission.

Council passed the minutes and attended to several deputations. Andrew Harper was present with a picture of rising costs in the matter of garbage collection. Council regarded his situation with sympathy and revised his yearly salary upwards to now amount to $1,050 annually.

A deputation was present from the school patrol with a request that council place a number of sponsored "school-slow" signs at strategic points in the areas of the schools. It has been learned that the Department of Highways is refusing permission for any further signs to be erected as they are installing all new ones before the Fall term.

Mr Thos. McCadden and Dr B. W. Lapp received assurance that the Agricultural Society would receive an increased grant this year. The grant will be $150.

A money by-law was passed to enable the reeve and clerk-treasurer to sign new demand notes for town financing at the local bank at an increased interest rate. The town will pay 5% in the future.

The Department of Labour decided the town needed to make an appointment of one of the Streets and Bridges Commission members to be responsible for drains and trenches in the municipality. 'Twas done and council adjourned.

Winchester Warehouse Opened Wednesday Last

WAREHOUSE OPENING in Winchester last Wednesday was a notable success. Notables were present from nearly all the farm organizations and many government specialists. The warehouse is one of the largest in Ontario. Dean A. M. Shaw, of the Agricultural Prices Support Board, officiated at the ribbon cutting ceremony. Pictured here sampling some of the cheese stored in the warehouse are, left to right: George Amos, food and agricultural advisor to the High Commissioner of the United Kingdom in Ottawa; Don Hutchinson, area manager for the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board; W. N. Carkner, manager of the Winchester plant, and Dean A. M. Shaw.—Photo courtesy Cornwall Standard Freeholder.

Finch W.I. Hosts to Club Girls and Mothers N.F.B. Picture Made in Finch Shown at Meeting

The regular meeting of Finch Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall, with a large number of members and visitors present when the leaders and members of the Girls' Homemaking Clubs of Stormont and their mothers were guests.

The president, Mrs Donald Casselman, conducted the meeting and very graciously welcomed the girls and their leaders and all other visitors.

In the absence of the secretary, Miss Bella MacLeod was appointed to act in that capacity.

The motto for the meeting was "What we make of our homes is more important than what our homes are made of."

The roll call was answered by written suggestions for the new programmes.

Mrs H. MacMonagle and Mrs Rupert MacIntyre were appointed delegates to the district annual to be held in Wales early in June.

Mrs John Grandaw, Osnabruck Centre, secretary-treasurer of Stormont, announced an invitation had been received from Mrs Barry to tea to be held in Ottawa on June 18. Mrs Ernest Montgomery and Mrs Duart MacLean were appointed to attend.

Arrangements were made for cars to go to the district annual and the conveners of standing committees, who have not yet given their reports, were requested to send them in to the district convener before the district annual and they would be expected to give same at the next meeting in June.

After the business a very interesting programme was enjoyed. A piano solo was rendered by Marlene MacLean. Miss MacPhail, Home Economist, took charge of the Girls' Club parade, when each club member was wearing the blouse she had made and gave her name, the name of her club and the cost of her blouse. Doris Duff spoke on club work and how they conducted their meetings and prepared their record books. This was followed by a skit put on by the Cornwall Centre Girls' Club and a demonstration by the Moose Creek Girls' Club. A Cornwall Centre Club girl spoke briefly on her club, after which the Finch Girls' Club put on their skit.

The district president, Mrs J. McCleverty, Dickenson's Landing, spoke briefly on Women's Institutes and their Girls' Clubs.

A National Film Board picture was of particular interest to the community, because it had been filmed in Finch and was made up entirely of Finch residents. This film was entitled "The Station Master."

Contests were conducted by Mrs Donald MacIntyre and Mrs Blake Nephew were won by a Cornwall Centre Club girl and by Mary Casselman, of Finch.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Lunch was served by the members of Finch Women's Institute.

Weather!

It is rarely that one word can make such a good headline, but this Spring runs the gamut from worse to horrible in the matter of weather. At the first of the week we had the tail end of the Western Ontario storm slap us around with fifty-mile an hour gales. Damage was not too heavy although W. O. Dixon and Allison Graham lost their television aerials. The cross on the steeple of St. Mary's Church tumbled at the height of the wind. It parted from the roof at the base of the cross.

Wednesday afternoon after Tuesday's near 80's the weather skidded into a miserable wet snowstorm.

CORRECTION

The issue of the Record of April 28 carried a news report of the meeting of the Smiths Falls local of the Concentrated Milk Producers Association. Quotations were printed as being said by members of the executive of the local and the Ontario body.

Our attention has been called to the fact that many of the quotations were erroneous and completely out of context. In some cases the impression given was the exact opposite of the facts if the balance of the remarks had been used. This was biased reporting at its worst and we regret the Record reprinted the story without first checking on the facts.—Editor.

C.G.I.T. Mother and Daughter Banquet Held Here Miss Jessie MacLeod Guest Speaker at Gathering

The dining hall of Trinity United Church was very tastefully decorated in the Canadian Girls in Training motif for a Mother and Daughter Banquet that was held last Wednesday evening. The guest speaker was Miss Jessie MacLeod, deaconess at Chalmer's United Church, Ottawa. Miss MacLeod spoke on the C.G.I.T. Purpose—"As a Canadian Girl in Training under the leadership of Jesus it is my Purpose to Cherish Health, Seek Truth, Know God, Serve Others, and thus, with His help, become the girl God would have me be.

After informing the girls that they were part of a movement that extended from Newfoundland to British Columbia and that included groups in Trinidad, Bermuda and Japan, Miss MacLeod urged each one to find what it was that God wanted her to do, and to do that before anything else. It is only in love of God, love of one's neighbour, and respect for oneself that a person can truly find satisfaction in life, she claimed.

Miss Gail Belsher, C.G.I.T. president, was chairman of the meeting. Rev R. A. Mitchell proposed a toast to the church to which Miss Eleanor Simpson replied. Miss Patricia Cunningham then proposed a toast to the mothers who were present and to this toast Mrs Cunningham replied, proposing a toast to the C.G.I.T. group in turn. Miss Carole Smith responded to the latter for the girls.

Miss Carolyn Durant directed a lively sing-song, assisted by Mrs F. M. Cass who played the piano. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Hillie Schutte and thanked by Miss Judy Butcher who also expressed the appreciation of the group to the members of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. who provided the supper for the girls. The evening closed with Taps.

Head table guests included the two C.G.I.T. leaders, Mrs G. Gilbert and Mrs R. A. Mitchell, Mrs J. Cunningham, Miss J. MacLeod, Mrs H. Belsher, Rev R. A. Mitchell, Mr H. Allison, superintendent of the Church School, Mrs Lyle Marcellus, president of the Afternoon Auxiliary of the W.M.S., Mrs A. E. Jarvis, president of the W.A., and Mrs F. M. Cass, president of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S.

Impressive Tribute Paid H. O. (Bert) McMillan

Impressive tribute was paid Hubert O. (Bert) McMillan, who died at his home in Winchester Monday last, at the funeral which was held in the Winchester United Church Thursday.

The service was conducted by Rev Thomas N. Mitchell. Members of the Canadian Legion branches of Winchester and Chesterville formed a guard of honour at the church. The Legion service at the graveside in Maple Ridge Cemetery was conducted by F. Erle Helmer.

Born at Grantley 59 years ago, he was the son of the late Osborne McMillan and his wife, Mary Shaver. He attended the district schools and Morrisburg Collegiate. He was employed in the Bank of Nova Scotia, until he enlisted for service in the First World War, in the 154th Battalion, and was later transferred to the Canadian Army Pay Corps, where he served for a time as paymaster.

After his discharge, he farmed until he was appointed district superintendent of the Department of Veterans Affairs. He was a member of the United Church at Chesterville, and later in Winchester. A member of Winchester branch of the Canadian Legion, he took an active part in veterans' affairs. He was a member of the fireside bowling group.

In 1921 he married the former Mamie Hollister, who survives. He also leaves one daughter, Mrs Mary Johnston; three sisters, Mrs Wallace Myers, Ottawa; Mrs Donald Carr, Grantley; Mrs William A. Grant, Hamilton; three brothers, Charles, of Chesterville; Roy, Minneapolis, Minn., and Ernest, of Cornwall. One brother, Edward, was killed in the battle of Vimy Ridge.

New Cheese Warehouse Opened at Winchester See Brighter Future for Dairy Industry in Few Years

"This warehouse will stand as a monument to the cheese industry and cheese producers", Everett Biggs, Ontario Dairy Commissioner, told more than 200 visitors attending the official opening Wednesday last of Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board curing and storage warehouse.

Mr Biggs praised the co-operative effort of producers, federal and provincial governments in making this building possible and outlined some of the benefits that would be derived from it.

Price of cheese should be increased slightly to encourage the industry, he said. In the past five years there had been a noticeable increase in per capita consumption of cheese, three pounds extra, and the British market was paying extra for Canadian cheddar.

The crowd assembled in the big holding room where cheese will be received and assembled in future. This room, 42 feet by 100 feet, can be cooled independently to the proper temperature to hold cheese for a considerable time.

Each of four storage rooms, 75 feet by 75 feet, holds 12,000 boxes of cheese, and temperature and humidity can be controlled independently and accurately. Only a few thousand boxes were in storage at the time of opening and these were soon to be on their way to the United Kingdom market. In another cool room a few hundred boxes of apples were being held at optimum temperature.

A grading room at the rear of the building can also be cooled to correct temperature while cheeses are being graded. Office space is at a minimum in this reinforced concrete, one-storey building. Overall dimensions are 200 feet by 150 feet and capacity is close to 6,000,000 pounds of cheese.

This is the second largest curing and storage warehouse operated by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board. It is larger than the other storage at Belleville.

W. O. Coon, of the Marketing Board, called on A. M. Shaw, Ottawa, and Everett Biggs to cut the white ribbon officially opening the building. Mr Shaw is chairman of the Agricultural Prices Support Board and represented the Federal Government in the absence of Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner. Mr Biggs represented the provincial government in the absence of Hon. Fletcher S. Thomas, Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

Mr Shaw saw a brighter future for the dairy industry in a few years. At present, there was a surplus of butter, but with increasing population, this would cease to be a worry. There might even be a shortage, he said. Consumption of cheese was increasing in Canada, and in the future, there would be more cheese sold.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said the curing and storage plant was heartily endorsed by farmers across Canada. This was true even if they were not dairy farmers.

Farmers were up against a series of circumstances that kept agriculture depressed in the midst of a booming economy, he said. Farm costs were at a record height, influence of labour tended to keep other prices high. Farmers had surpluses depressing prices when other prices were up, and few industries had as much competition as dairying had from vegetable oils.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks to my friends for their personal calls and cards. Special thanks to Rev Mr Mitchell and Mrs Mitchell and to Dr H. Justus for his special care while I was ill at home with pneumonia.

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

Teachers Come — Teachers Go

Chesterville is in the same pickle each year about this time in matters concerning education and especially the field of secondary school education. Our problems are not much different from those of many other small rural communities throughout Ontario. This is the time of uncertainty and prayerful hope on the part of school boards; they are in process of lining up a teaching staff for the old p.s. or h.s, as the case might be.

The public school problems are not quite so acute here as are the high school ones; let us examine a few sides of the matter and see if there are any conclusions to be drawn.

Chesterville High School, now a part of the North Dundas High School District, offers a full curriculum of learning, sufficient to allow students to go on to university if they wish. It has adequate departments in the specialized studies of shop and home economics and commercial training. If a student applies himself, he can fill his cup of learning as far as Grade 13 will allow.

The physical plant is here. To make it practical, there must be teachers available to make use of the facilities and there is the unhappy part of the picture. Small communities cannot compete against large urban centres salarywise, and teachers use the small communities as a training ground, in many instances, to prepare for entry in the larger units. The situation is there, and experience over the years demonstrates the truth of the above statement.

The prospect of losing good teachers, and here we are talking about the good ones, is always difficult. Often in the discussions that follow the announcement that staff changes are forthcoming, we overlook the fact that we are close to the lowest on the totem pole when it comes to getting ahead in the teaching profession. We are a farming community; our basic industry is one that demands close attention to the expenditure of civic dollars, for education or otherwise. Farmers may make it first, but many of our city cousins forget that their mighty oak of prosperity is springing from a very small acorn out on the farm and that is the farmer's share. Salaries can only go so high; over a certain point it is ridiculous to think that we can compete dollarwise with an urban centre. That is not to say our school boards are penny pinchers—the Blue Book, the school teacher's bible, will show this district well up in top brackets in salaries paid when compared to like communities.

Salaries are not the only feature of a school board's problems. Lively, aggressive teachers on the climb in their profession look for plants that match their ambitions. A rural area cannot and should not have ambitions to match gyms with gyms and halls with halls. It is a fact that our school boards today must accept the constant turnover of staff. School teachers at last are getting salaries more in line with their abilities; the days of shabby dedication are just about finished and a better, more aggressive school teacher is the result. Even though his stay is only a matter of a few years, we think he will give good service if he intends to stay in the profession.

Contract time is the time when school boards suddenly believe nearly every teacher on the staff is indispensible. Often because of a very human wish to tidy things up with the least fuss, teachers are able to get a better bargain than they had hoped for, from their anxious boards. We are writing from sad experience. Nevertheless, we think the time is coming when rural area teachers and their boards will have to recognize the facts of life. School boards in this type of school will only be able to spend so much public money on salaries and plants. Teachers will come and go, the first class teachers using us as a springboard to wider experience after a few years of good service. No teacher is indispensible, and when their worth becomes greater than the community can afford, they will go on and be replaced. Each change will cause a certain amount of regret and outcry but it will soon become the nature of the thing to accept it.

Teachers come—teachers go. They have to be trained and the final training is experience. The small communities are elected to supply most of the training grounds, whether we like it or not. If they are good enough to move up, then we have had the benefit of several years of sound teaching before ambition leads them away.

Light Along The Way

"Lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone.
The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come.
The voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

The words of the writer of the Song of Solomon denote the inevitable sequence that life passes through year after year. There never has been an interruption of this cycle. The winter snows must melt and give place to the spring time. The long summer days, bringing the warmth and moisture necessary for growth, must follow. Then the harvest must come which, all too soon, is once more obliterated in the swirling snow and the cold north winds of winter. Each season has its attractions and its blessings, but what is most important is that each is but the prelude to the next.

This change reflects the very nature of life itself. It, too, is one continual change. We pass through the "valley of the shadow," or we rest awhile on the glorious heights, but in neither do we remain. Life carries us on and we move from one year to another as inevitably as the seasons come and go.

This is a good thing when its worth is recognized. Change can mean opportunity. Each new day brings us a new start in life. The past is gone, and if we let die all that should die with it we will be able to make much of the present. Too often we try to carry the burdens of one season into another, and the present is spoiled by the past. It is as if the winter snow hung on too long and the summer growth were marred by the foreign. cold. Therefore, let us see each new day as the new and inviting opportunity God has meant it to be, so that we can more perfectly fill up each hour with that which has worth; and the more completely manifest God's love in all our dealings one with another.

Change is also a good thing when it is marked with progress. As a garden becomes more and more beautiful with each summer's tender caring, so life becomes more righteous when it is wisely used each passing day. It is God's plan that each of His children should face temptation, should struggle with life and wrest from it all he can. When each experience that comes our way becomes the means of learning more what God expects of us, and teaches us how to live more nearly as we pray, the changes of life bear the right fruit within us. As the slush and mud of the passing winter are covered over with flowers and the grass, so the terrifying and harrowing experiences of life should bring a sense of strength and peace that is only attainable to those who have struggled with it. How great a blessing is that life in which the flowers continually break forth, and the song of joy is ever heard.

BUBBLE TROUBLE MAY ENDANGER HEALTH

Chicago is having bubbles of troubles with the new household detergents.

Frothy suds from upper storey apartments are massing in drain pipes and overflowing into lower floor households through kitchen sinks.

Edward J. Zimmer, director of the Chicago plumbing testing laboratory, said the problems lie in the fact that detergents do not oxidize or decay like soap. A detergent may lie dormant for years and bubble up again when mixed with water.

The backflow of suds can bring dangerous bacteria along with it. Children and household pets are apt to pick up this bacteria, Zimmer warned.

Experts are in a quandry over the situation. You can't ban detergents, Zimmer said. That would only start as much bootlegging as during prohibition.

The housewife is sold on them. The problem is how to dispose of the suds after they have done their cleaning job.

The problem could spread and even become world-wide since the frothy masses of waste suds just float out into the river. Zimmer said we must face the problem for the sake of health because all the waters around the world are connected.

Zimmer said it is possible to separate the detergent from the oil, grease and water by machine, but that still leaves the same problem to contend with: What to do with old suds.

A bright idea crossed Zimmer's mind, "Bury them, maybe?"

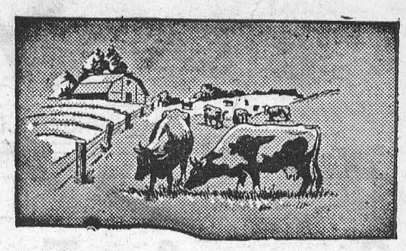
FRENDLEE FARM CHATS



By Lillian Allison

In all fairness to my readers who have shown so much interest I really must report again on the martins. A lot of them have come home. Either they must read the Record or someone has told them that the cat can't get them now. For the big house is full and a couple were investigating one of the cottages yesterday.

They're really happy out there again swooping around, chasing each other and having a big time. They make us wish we could fly too. It looks like such fun.

They got quite a scare the other night though. Mr Tom Cat was out on the prowl just at dusk. He eyed the martins with a covetous look and inspected the pole from every angle. Finally when he couldn't stand it any longer he stepped back, took a running jump and landed well up the pole. He hit the piece of tin however and fell back suddenly on the ground below. And believe me he got little sympathy from the audience.

The martins must have felt the jar. They flew out of all the doorways as if there'd been an earthquake. And to them I suppose it seemed like one. They fluttered around for quite a while and did a lot of talking about what had happened before they summoned up the courage to go back home to bed.

The cats have sort of spoiled my plans too. I was all set to plant a Virginia creeper at the base of the post and let it climb up to hide the ugly thing. I thought it would look lovely to have the martin houses on top of a vine-covered pole. Then I realized I would be merely growing a living ladder for the cats to climb. So that idea had to be scrapped.

If you happen to be interested in nature it would pay you to drive south from Highway 43 in the boundary between Dundas and Stormont. And go at night. It isn't on account of the road conditions that I advise this trip, mind you. For the road is so rough you'll jar your liver. But it's worth it.

We came back that road the other night. The car windows were rolled up, the tires on the gravel were creating quite a rumble and the motor was making more noise than a Rolls-Royce's. Even so I could hear something different above it all.

I rolled down the window. What a commotion! I guess the frogs were having a convention for it seemed that all the frogs in frogdom were there. They croaked, and sang in every key and in every tone. To us who never hear frogs at home it was pleasant to listen to indeed.

And it seemed the whippoorwills had picked the same night for choir practice. Their shrill voices sang the descant for the frogs' chorus for over the "brrr--umm, brrr-umm" of the frogs came the clear "whip-poor-will, whip-poor-will, whip-poor-will." It was noisier than a quilting bee.

We stopped the car and listened. And Nature's choristers sang on as unselfconsciously as if no one had been hearing them. You couldn't believe the volume they had. "How could anybody sleep near here?" Harry wondered.

"I'll bet they couldn't sleep now if the music stopped," I said. For one gets accustomed to a steady noise when one sleeps and wakens suddenly if things become quiet.

When I was a lot younger and was at home we lived across the road from a brushy place that was a frogs' paradise. From early spring on they croaked and groaned and cleared their throats. I paid no attention to them then except to wish once in a while that they'd shut up for a change.

Then when I moved down here I found there weren't any frogs near. Night was as still as a tomb. There wasn't a sound except when the odd car rushed by. I missed those frogs and their songs like old friends. So it was pleasant to hear great assemblies of them and their

THE PRICE of a basic industrial product in an expanding country such as Canada should be low enough to encourage maximum sales against world-wide competition.

The price should also be high enough to recover all costs and provide an adequate profit.

Without profits further expansion could not be paid for, and expansion is necessary if there are to be new jobs for our increasing population.

In fact, without profits there would be fewer and fewer jobs than now, instead of more and more.

And without profits there would be no return for the shareholders on their investment; and there are almost as many shareholders in industrial companies as there are employees.

The right price for Canada, then, must include a profit for investment in our future growth.

Eleven Cadet Corps to Concentrate at Cornwall Local Corps to Join with 2,000 District Cadets

Eleven cadet corps numbering some 2,000 cadets from all over the Cornwall area, accompanied by their own bands, will concentrate in the Cornwall Athletic Grounds Friday evening, May 18, for a ceremonial parade before their distinguished reviewing officer, Major General S. F. Clarke, CBE, CD, General Officer Commanding Central Command, commencing at seven o'clock.

The first cadet concentration of this kind ever held in Canada was held in Cornwall some four years ago, and they get better as the years go on. This concentration promises to be one of the best and for esprit de corps, enthusiasm and appearance, the cadet corps from Cornwall and area rank with the best. On parade will be Canada's future citizens and the reason that Canada can look forward to the future with confidence.

The cadet corps that will be taking part in the ceremonial parade will be from Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School with their band, Morrisburg High School Cadet Corps with their band, Alexandria High School Cadet Corps, Iroquois High School Cadet Corps with their band, Cardinal High School Cadet Corps, Finch High School Cadet Corps, St. Lawrence High School Cadet Corps with their band, Vankleek Hill High School Cadet Corps, Avonmore High School Cadet Corps with their band, and the Chesterville High School Cadet Corps.

For a ceremonial parade of this scope, which will involve so many cadets, there must be a Cadet Commander, Second-in-Command, Adjutant and Regimental Sergeant Major, and they are chosen from the cadet corps participating. The Commander will be from the Morrisburg High School Cadet Corps, Second-in-Command from the Iroquois High School, Adjutant to be detailed later, R.S.M. from the Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School.

A concentration of many cadet corps takes precise planning, a masterpiece of timing and administration. Lt. Col. J. P. Donihee, Commanding Officer of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, assisted by Major R. Cummings, GSO2 at Headquarters Eastern Ontario Area, Captain Fred Evans, area Cadet Officer at Headquarters Eastern Ontario Area, and Lt. H. E. Done, Cadet Training Officer, Headquarters Eastern Ontario Area, have all done wonders to make this cadet concentration and ceremonial parade the best yet.

The Cadet Corps will arrive at the Cornwall Athletic Grounds by 6.30 o'clock and move into their assembly area prior to the move out to the inspection area where they will be "on parade" in their predetermined position.

General Clarke will inspect the Cadets on parade and will be accompanied by Brigadier Eric T. Snow, Commander Eastern Ontario Area, Lt. Col. J. P. Donihee, CO, SD&G Highlanders, together with other officers and officials. Following the inspection the Cadets will march past the reviewing stand in column of route led by their own bands.

With the Cadets back in their positions, the programme to follow will be interesting and varied. First there will be a band selection by the SD&G Highlanders Band, followed by a selection from the St. Lawrence High School Band. Precision drill by the Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School, band selection by Morrisburg High School will follow in order. The Alexandria High School will stage a mass physical training show, followed by a band selection from the Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School band to round out the programme.

The closing address of Major General S. F. Clarke will be given the cadets drawn up in a hollow square at 9 o'clock to be followed by "The Queen" played by the band of St. Lawrence High School.

At just about this time, the expert planning and timing for this concentration will get the truly acid test. However, everything usually runs smoothly, with the buses ready to get them home just as soon as possible.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand to see their favourite Cadets on parade.

Seaway-Power Project Slated for Presentation ON CBC-TV June 3

A 1½-hour television documentary on the St. Lawrence seaway and power project will be presented jointly by the CBC and the National Broadcasting Company June 3, it was announced last week.

The programme, last in the NBC's 1955-56 "Wide, Wide World" series, will consist of more than 20 live TV pickups from locations in both Canada and the U.S. affected by the St. Lawrence development.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC's board of governors, who made the announcement with board chairman Sylvester Weaver, of NBC, observed, "The St. Lawrence seaway is rapidly becoming one of the greatest co-operative ventures by two neighbouring countries. I think it is significant and appropriate that this historic undertaking be recorded for the peoples of both our countries by another 20th century miracle—television."

The programme, which will be carried on the entire CBC and NBC networks from 4 to 5.30 p.m., Sunday, June 3, will show the international power development at Cornwall and Massena, N.Y., and construction of the seaway along the entire sweep of the Great Lakes system, beginning at Montreal.

People in the communities affected and workers on the project will be interviewed. Canadian centres from which live pickups will be carried are Montreal and Quebec, the Long Sault rapids, Iroquois, Toronto and Islington Ont. and the Welland Canal.

Many electric appliances don't operate properly because the prongs on the cord have become dirty and don't make good contact. Clean these metal prongs with a cloth or fine sandpaper and they'll be okay.

Before you glue a wood dowel into place, cut a small groove the length of the dowel. This will allow any excess glue to flow out and insure a better fit and a tighter joint.

Conservation Notes For Rideau District

Reports received from conservation officers and sportsmen would indicate that deer in the Rideau District have had a very good winter, with the light snow and the co-operation of the farmers and fox hunters in making every effort to stop their dogs chasing deer in the winter months. This has contributed greatly to our present deer population. Recently, in Oxford Township, a herd of eight deer was reported feeding in a field near Highway 16.

In North Gower Township approrimately a thousand Canada geese and several hundred black ducks have been observed feeding in farmers' fields for the past two weeks. Apparently they have been misled by the cold weather and think they have arrived at Baffin Island.

Hungarian partridge appear to have come through the winter very well and many pairs have been reported in recent weeks. With good hatching weather there should be a marked increase in the population of this species in 1956.

Conservation officers have been busy during the past three weeks patrolling pike and pickerel spawning areas. More pickerel have been observed on the spawning grounds during the past season, which lasted for about 12 days, than have been observed for several years.

During the period April 15 to May 5, 32 persons were apprehended for the following infractions of the Game and Fisheries Act: 14 for fishing other than angling; one for taking fish by angling during closed season; two for possession of fish during a closed season; one for angling by means of set lines; six for fishing without a non-resident licence; 3 for trapping without the authority of a licence; one for illegal possession of gill nets; one for violation of conditions of licence; three for carrying firearms without the authority of a licence. One man paid a fine of $100 and costs for obstructing an officer during the discharge of his duty.

HEN IN THE DOG HOUSE

Hitler is a hen which refuses to associate with the other chickens in the barnyard of Mrs Brenda Abernathy, Hickory, N.C.

She roosts on a perch in the dog house. Mrs Abernathy says Hitler has never developed a taste for the commercial poultry feeds and has no use for shelled corn. Hitler's diet consists mostly of salted peanuts and beer.

Osnabruck Centre W.A. Holds May Meeting

Mrs Garnet Ezard entertained the members of the Woman's Association of Osnabruck Centre United Church for their May meeting. The president, Mrs Wilson Mattice, opened the meeting with a hymn followed by a one minute silence in memory of a former member. The Scripture reading was in charge of Mrs Lloyd Wylie andthe missionary study by Mrs H. Flintoff.

Plans were made to accept the invitation from North Lunenburg for the W.M.S. Teen-age Rally on May 15.

The meeting closed with a hymn and the theme prayer.

Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs S. Eaman, Mrs R. Holland and Mrs C. Ezard.

Mrs A. Beckstead moved a vote of thanks to Mrs Ezard and her assistants for the pleasant evening.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Carl Tinkess on Monday evening, June 4.

NEW ESCALATORS MOVE TOO FAST

The Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors took up the question of speeding escalators at the new airport terminal at General Mitchell Field.

It seems these late model escalators move at a speed of 120 feet a minute, about 1½ miles per hour. Most escalators travel only 90 feet a minute.

Some travellers loaded with baggage have had a little trouble because of the speed.

"I have to get back and take a running leap to get on," Supervisor Bert Busby said. "I can't see why we have to be guinea pigs for the rest of the country."

HARD TO START

Republican representative Walter E. Harlow, of Hopkinton, R.I., told his house colleagues the other day that much can be said for the Democrats. He told this story:

When he left the house he found his car would not start. Several other Republican legislators started to push him. They pushed and pushed. No start. Then along came Democrat Joseph A. Savage. He thought it might be a good idea to look under the hood.

It was—no battery!

Civil Defence in a Small Town

The small town will have to come to the rescue of the cities if Canada is ever involved in a nuclear war. In the civil defence plan, the small town would assume the role of relief and rehabilitation.

The only effective defence against the H-bomb, with its massive destructive power, is evacuation of likely target areas before the bomb falls. The population of strategic cities therefore, would have to be absorbed in small towns and villages up to 100 miles away. That brings practically every community in the country a vital role in the over-all plan.

Towns close to cities may be required to provide many types of assistance. Transportation, most vital element in evacuation planning, may be required to help carry away the city population. Assistance from the closer towns' fire departments would be needed since no city is equipped to battle the fires expected to follow a nuclear attack.

But the big job would be to care for the fleeing refugees. Many would have nothing with them but the clothes they were wearing. The small towns would have to provide them with clothing, food and shelter. Emergency hospitals would have to be set up outside the stricken cities.

The first thing necessary for a small town's civil defence planning is to determine how its present facilities and layout can best be used. How many refugees could it care for? What help could it spare for a target city? Has it any large buildings that could serve as emergency hospitals? How many feeding establishments has it and what capacity could it handle in an emergency?

Then it must have a plan through which its faciltities can be put into use. The need of volunteers trained to supplement all of a town's regular services—police, fire, health and welfare—is obvious considering the increased demands a large influx of refugees would make on them.

No community, however small, can consider itself outside these responsibilities. The vast area that would be affected by just one H-bomb blast refuses to relieve any town of these obligations.

It is estimated, for example, that the area contaminated by radioactivity downwind from one exploded bomb might be 200 miles long and 40 miles wide. The size of this area would vary according to the power of the bomb, the height at which it burst, the nature of the ground under the burst and the weather at the time. It is possible to survive this fall-out radiation in proper shelter, for such radioactivity decays rapidly.

But evacuation is still the most effective defence. In event of a heavy bomb blast, leaving a whole city dangerously radioactive, and contaminating large areas outside it, the refugees would have only one safe course: to keep going until they got as far away as possible.

So no small town or community can consider itself too isolated to be of use in reducing the effects of nuclear attack on the larger and less fortunate communities.

"Having regard to the magnitude of the problems before us," F. F. Worthington, Federal Civil Defence Co-ordinator, has said, "it must be obvious to all that our safety depends on nationwide unity of purpose.

"There are no short cuts. The responsibility cannot be placed on the shoulders of any one level of government, nor can it rest entirely on the shoulders of the three levels of government.

"Every organization and all the people have to carry some share of responsibility if we are to survive in the event of nuclear attack."

SHEEP GIVE ALARM

Farmer Ernest Hawkes, of Falmouth, Me., installed a barn-to-house inter-communication system last Fall so he could hear the sound of new-born sheep.

There was a fire in the barn recently. The sheep bleated an alarm over the barn phone and Mrs Hawkes went to their rescue.

SERVE LIVER FOR A CHANGE

YEARS AGO THE BUTCHER used to throw in a piece of liver to feed the cat. Nowadays calves' liver is considered a real delicacy and is quite expensive. However, pork liver can usually be purchased reasonably; it is tender and has a good flavour. Many people prefer it to calves' liver and it is just as valuable from a nutritional standpoint.

Do not serve other strong flavoured foods when you plan to serve liver. Here is a dinner menu you might use with liver:

Liver and Onions
Stuffed Baked Potatoes
Buttered Carrots
Your Choice of Pickles
Sliced Bananas and Cream
Brownies

Liver and Onions

Put several onions, cut in slices, in frying pan with three tbsps. butter or bacon fat. Pour boiling water over liver; allow to stand two minutes. Drain well. Roll pieces of liver in seasoned flour. Add to onions and fat in pan. Fry until well browned.

Liver has more nutritional value if it is not overcooked, but many prefer the flavour of crisply cooked liver.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes

Select baking size potatoes; wash well. Bake in a moderate oven about one hour. When done, cut a cross in the top and squeeze the potato to soften. Place butter in opening and mix. Sprinkle with paprika or stick a sprig of parsley in centre of potato to add colour.

Buttered Carrots

Cook carrots in oven along with potatoes. Wash and peel carrots. Cut in length-wise slices. Place in buttered casserole, season. Add enough water to prevent burning. Cover tightly and cook in oven along with potatoes. Allow 1¼ hours for carrots.

Brownies

Brownies require a moderate oven, so may be baked at the same time the potatoes and carrots are cooking.

1 cup sugar
1-3 cup butter
¾ cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
2 squares chocolate, melted
2 eggs
1 cup chopped nuts
½ tsp. vanilla

Cream butter and sugar, beat in eggs and melted chocolate. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt; stir in nuts. Add vanilla. Turn into greased shallow pan and bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes. Cut in squares before removing from pan.

The brownies will seem to be underdone when taken from the oven but will become crisp when cool.

By request:

Golden Corn Bread or Johnny Cake

1 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
3 tsps. baking powder
2 tbsps. sugar
¾ cup yellow cornmeal
2 eggs
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar; mix with corn meal. Beat eggs and combine with milk and shortening; add to dry ingredients; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Bake in greased 9-inch square pan or in muffin tins in 400 degree oven for 20 minutes.

Parkway System to Link Up 13 Islands Construction of 7-mile Causeway Soon Underway

Tenders have been called for the construction of a seven-mile stretch of causeway between New Towns One and Two on the waterfront of the lake to be created by the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Hon. George H. Challies, chairman of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Devolopment Commission, said at a dinner meeting that bids on the project close May 15, with the contract award scheduled for early in June. Construction is expected to get underway shortly thereafter.

Mr Challies said the project, which includes a scenic highway on the 13 islands to be created in the new lake—these are linked by causeways and three bridges, one of which will have a clearance of 20 feet above high water for the passage of yachts—will cost more than $1,000,000.

No completion date was set for the project, but it goes without saying it must be finished well before the flooding date. Officials hope the project will be completed to coincide with completion of the power plant.

"We have an opportunity here to develop a parkway which will be entirely new," said Mr Challies. "The parkway will stretch between two new towns and will present boundless tourist possibilities. Tourists must, of necessity, enter at one town and leave by the other.

"We have seized this opportunity to develop this beautiful stretch of waterfront at a time when very few buildings will have to be disturbed, when there will be no permanent residences in the area and it will be completely open to the public. Such an opportunity may never present itself again."

To be known as the Long Sault Parkway, the project will include facilities for swimming, camping—both tents and trailers—and picnic grounds with barbecues and tables, and boating facilities. Long-range plans also call for a golf course.

Some of the cottages now occupied in other waterfront locations, he said, will be rehabilitated on several of the larger islands.

Reforestation is already under way for al l the islands, in the chain.

Ault Park Memorial, now on Sheek Island which is due for virtual disappearance, will be relocated somewhere in the parkway, Mr Challies intimated.

A new Crysler Farm Memorial Park will be one of the show pieces of the development programme, with old homes and buildings concentrated in a colonial-type hamlet filled with mementos of the past.

The present Crysler's Farm Memorial is to be put on a new, raised base which will be visible both on land and water.

Mr Challies was introduced by Peter Manley, Stormont MPP, and thanked by Clinton Rae.
