ONTARIO 'CUTS MELON' WITH WAGE EARNERS & TAXPAYERS

Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn in his budget presentation on Tuesday "cut a melon" with Ontario citizens which will mean an actual saving in dollars and cents to every man, woman and child in Ontario.

Apart from the subsidy handed to municipalities, the Ontario budget was also featured by abolishment of all amusement tax, to take effect June 1st next a reduction in commercial vehicle licenses fees of 25 per cent.; a unifor m50 per cent. subsidy to all townships in respect of township road and bridge construction, and a cut from 5 to 4 per cent. in the rate of interest on muuicipal drainage and tile drainage debentures.

Removal of the amusement "nuisance" tax will benefit Ont. citizens to the extent of over $3,000,000 per year and will be an added attraction for the American tourist trade, which is imposed upon in other provinces of the Dominion by such nuisance schemes.

The Ontario budget shows a surplus for the fiscal year (estimated) of over $7,000,000, most of which will be handed back to residents in the forms outlined above, the amusement tax change being the most noteworthy as far as the average wage-earner is concerned although lower municipal taxation will also work to his eventual benefit. Lower commercial vehicle license fees will benefit all tradesmen and farmers, and it is forecast by Premier Hepburn that some reduction may be made before the year's end in passenger license fees.

OTTAWA VALLEY SEED FAIR

The 10th annual itinerant Seed Fair, held under the auspices of the Ottawa Valley Seed Growers Association, is to be held this year in the new machinery building at the Experimental Farm Ottawa, on April 1, 2, and 3.

The prize list is the most extensive to date, both in number of classes and in amount of prizes. Approximately $1,000 will be awarded in prize money.

The new building, in which the Seed Fair is being held, is very spacious and is well lighted. A feature this year, on account of the Seed Fair being held at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will be a number of special exhibits prepared by various divisions of the farm.

Owing to the scarcity of good seed in the Western section of the Province, where drought conditions last summer were so devasting, farmers in the Ottawa Valley where good crop conditions prevailed, should make good use of this year's Seed Fair to advertise their seed surplus to the public.

The Ottawa Valley Seed Fair this year will be a splendid "display window" for the farmers of this section of Ontario, who specialize in producing good seed.

Prize lists are available for the asking from any of the 32 Community Seed Cleaning Plants in Eastern Ontario or can be obtained by writing the Seed Fair Manager, 295 Albert St., Ottawa.

IROQUOIS MAN CHARGED WITH NEGLIGENT DRIVING

A charge of negligent driving is to be laid against Eldon Rose, 70 years old of Iroquois, Motorcycle Patrol Constable Carl Johns, of Prescott stated on Tuesday. The charge is based on an accident which occurred Monday afternoon at 12.20 o'clock on King's Highway No. 2, passing through the village of Cardinal. It was stated that Mr. Rose was driving east on the north side of the road during a heavy snow storm. The windshield wiper of his car was not working, according to the constable. A car belonging to the Gazette Printing Company, Montreal, was proceeding westward driven by Hayward Masters, Montreal. The driver of the Montreal car saw the other approaching on the wrong side of the road and thought the driver intended turning into a driveway. The Montreal man swung to the left to avoid a collision and his car upset after swerving sharply. The Montreal car was damaged beyond repair, but the driver escaped injury.

WILLIAM MARCUS WELLS

STAR RUBY

By Louise Jerrold

Albertine Tevans, shopgirl, falls in love with Dennis Maxwell, jewellery salesman, but is bothered by his mysterious actions. He speaks once of being on the lookout for a man with a drooping eyelid. Albertine's righ great-aunt Celia Tevans invites her for a visit. Before she leaves, Dennis gives her a star ruby to keep for him. At her aunt's estate are two other guests—Countess Yelena Loupakoff and her brother, Count Michael. Then, Dennis arrives to show some rubies to Aunt Celia. He makes Albertine pretend they are strangers to each other, and pays ardent attention to the Countess. The houseman, Bates, who always wears dark glasses, gets drunk one evening, and Albertine catches him without his glasses on. He has a drooping eyelid! In the middle of that night, she hears a scuffle in Denny's room.

CHAPTER XI

In a few minutes, Bates came hurrying in with candles. Should he telephone the village for an electrician? Aunt Celia gave him a number to call and he left the room.

Michael remembered that he had a flashlight in his luggage and went to get it. And Yelena, pleading a headache went with him for a tablet.

Fifteen minutes passed. Neither Michael nor Yelena had returned. And Bates had not yet brought the car around. Finally, Dennis grew impatient.

"I' sorry," he apologized, "but I must be starting for the train. I'll go see what's happened to Bates."

A search however revealed no sign of the houseman.

"And where are Michael and Yelena?" Albertine said.

Aunt Celia looked at her blankly. "That's right, where are they?"

Denny glanced at his watch. "It's absolutely necessary that I catch that train," he said nervously. "Isn't there anyone else who could drive me to the depot? The cook or the gardener?"

"I will!" Albertine was all eagerness.

"But I can't have you coming back alone at this time of night," Dennis said, almost curtly.

"She needn't come back alone," said Aunt Celia. "Bob Fletcher hides out for speeders this side of the bridge just before you cross the railroad tracks. You two could pick him up there on your way, and he could escort Albertine back here with his motorcycle."

Dennis grabbed his bag. "Then we had better get under way."

He and Albertine hurried out to the garage and climbed into the limousine. Albertine took the wheel, competently backed the car into the driveway and was soon headed for the highway.

"Denny," she said. "It's awfully queer about Bates and the Russians."

Not so queer. They've all vamoosed, cleared out — that's all."

She turned a second to stare at him.

"But why? And how could they have left without taking the car?"

"It's my guess that Bates sneaked all their luggage to the depot before dinner. You'll recall that he was late. He probably made arrangements in the village for someone to come and get them—picking them up outside the gates — so that we wouldn't hear the car. And as to why they all left so abruptly, I'd say that I was mixed up a bit in that."

"Denny — I caught Bates without those dark glasses last evening — he was drunk in the kitchen. And his — his right eyelid drooped. I meant to tell you this before — but it seemed so silly—"

"I saw him, too," Dennis interrupted.

"Then he's the man you've been looking for? But you said that man was sandy-haired. That's what fooled me—"

"Bates has dyed his hair," Dennis explained.

Albertine was struck by another thought. "Yelena told me Bates used to work for them!"

"He still does," Dennis said firmly, "but not exactly in the capacity of houseman and chauffeur. Step on the gas, Blue Eyes. I can't let George Zoland get away with it this time!"

George Zoland — is that Bates' real name?"

"Yes, Zoland, alias Bates, used to be employed by Tanman-Roan in the loose-stone department. He designed settings too, and made reproductions for the firm. Any number of our customers asked us to fake their originals for them — then pawned the originals. Well, that was part of George's work and he was a whiz at it. But I never liked him. Too sly. Then he suddenly left about six months ago. And about that time he left, it was discovered that a very valuable diamond choker had been stolen from the shop and the circumstances pointed to me. I was convinced that George had made away with those diamonds and had framed me, but how was I to prove it? Mr. Tanman was good enough to believe my story, but the fellows I work with have never been entirely convinced. I knew I could never hope to be fully exonerated till I caught Zoland."

"I felt sure he couldn't disguise himself completely. That drooping eyelid of his would give him away. Well last week the insurance company that had stood the loss on the diamonds gave us the tip that one of their spotters in New York had located and investigated a man partly answering to Zoland's description. And there you have my reason for flying to New York, early this week. But I got there too late. I missed George and his gang."

"Gang?" Albertine said. "You mean Yelena and Michael?"

"Yes. This is the story as I got it in New York. We met the Russians — we'll call them that even though they aren't that part is as phony as their titles — in a down-at-the-heel boarding house where he went to hide after he left Detroit. The two were adventurers, and George took them on because it gave him a chance for a sweet set-up. He spent real money on them. Fine feathers for both Yelena and Michael — who, by the way aren't brother and sister — and a suite of rooms at an exclusive hotel where they posed as Russian aristocrats. I've got the straight dope on them up to that point — the rest is guess-work.

"It must have been at the hotel that they met your aunt. Of course, George would remember the name of Celia Tevans. She has been a customer of ours for years. He probably also found out about her defective eyesight before he went into this thing. At any rate he knew he had fallen into a good thing."

"Aunt Celia's collection!" Albertine gasped.

"Exactly," said Dennis. "She must have had it with her in New York for George evidently managed to make his duplicates before they all came here with Miss Tevans. I searched his room this afternoon, while he had you and your aunt out, but I couldn't find a thing."

"And that's why you wanted the combination to the safe! You wanted to see—"

"I didn't need the combination after all," he cut in. "Your aunt showed me her collection this morning and I also knew the worst. The fakes had been substituted. Besides, I'd already seen the "pearls" she'd given you. And you'll remember Yelena was cagey of that sapphire necklace of hers. She wouldn't wear it while I was there. Bogus stuff, of course."

"But did you know that you'd find Zoland here with Aunt Celia?"

"No." He and the pseudo-Russians had dropped from sight before I got to New York, and I didn't recognize him when I first got here. I thought he acted queerly, and the black glasses were unusual too, but the mustache and black hair put me off.

"Then, just before you came downstairs that night, I caught sight of Michael and Yelena — and things began to click for me — I'd got a pretty good description of them in New York. That's why I didn't want it known that I'd ever met you. I could not risk your being involved in this thing, little sweetheart — didn't want Zoland to think you were in the know, too."

The headlights of the limousine picked up a sharp curve in the highway. How dark and lonely the road looked, Albertine thought. She was glad that Bob Fletcher would be with her on the drive back.

She felt a sudden draft from the rear of the car, and half-turned her head — the glass partition was opening! Something cold and metallic was pressed against her neck. She screamed.

If You Have a Child

ASK YOUR DOCTOR THIS

Ask Him Before Giving Your Child an Unknown Remedy

Practically any doctor you ask will warn: "Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first."

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy — "milk of magnesia," the standard of the world is established. For over half a century many doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia." Safe for children. No other is "quite like it."

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Now also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

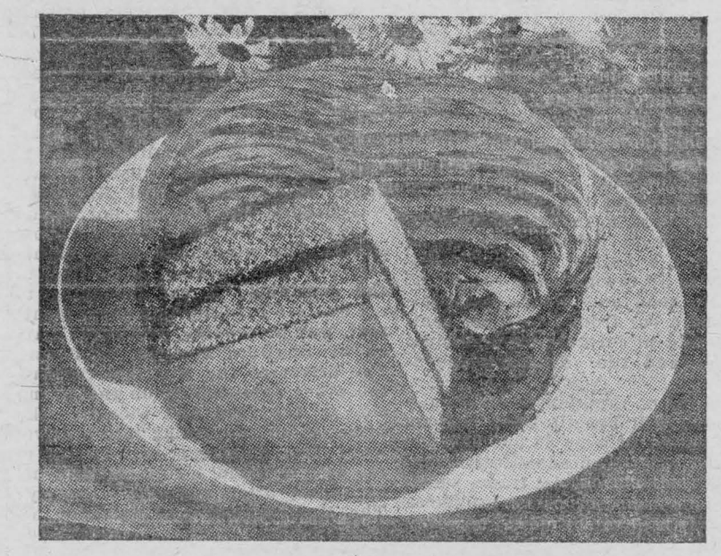

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Woman's World

ULTIMATE ECONOMY

Almost anyone can bake a cake. Recipes are practically fool proof and all you have to do is follow the directions. Why is it then, that so many cakes are not light, fluffy and fine-textured as they should be, but just mediocre? They are not so bad that they can't be eaten perhaps, but nobody wants to eat them, and they go stale and have to be thrown out. On the other hand, a cake which is a masterpiece, is eaten up entirely and you know that is a saving instead of a waste.

Well, the difference between a good and just passable cake often lies in the flour used. So many women overlook the fact that to bake a cake you must have cake flour which is lighter, finer, and has a more delicate gluten than just ordinary flour. The best cake flour may cost a little more, but what a saving it is in the long run! Actual laboratory tests have proved that with fine cake flour you can cut in half the amount of eggs and butter used, and still get a perfect cake, whereas with ordinary flour and double the amount of eggs and butter, you still have a poor cake.

Try it yourself with this one-egg cake and a good brand of finely-milled cake flour. You can't help but notice the difference in taste, texture and cost.

ONE-EGG CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg, unbeaten.
¾ cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together well. Add egg and beat very thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Spread Chocolate Orange Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

CHOCOLATE ORANGE FROSTING

2 tablespoons grated orange rind.
2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar.
Dash of salt.
3 tablespoons orange juice (about).
4 tablespoons butter.
1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Combine orange rind and butter; cream well. Add part of sugar gradually blending after each addition. Add chocolate and salt and mix well. Add remaining sugar, alternately with orange juice, until of right consistency to spread. Beat thoroughly after each addition.

TASTY FISH DISHES

Salmon Patties

Flake 1 pound can salmon, add 1 egg slightly beaten, 2 tablespoons cream, ½ teaspoon salt and a pinch of pepper. Mix and shape in 8 small flat cakes.

Dip in crumbs, then egg to which 2 tablespoons of water have been added and then crumbs again. Saute in hot fat until well browned on both sides. Place each cake on a slice of hot toast and serve with 2 cups of white sauce to which ½ cup of finely cut celery has been added.

Kedgeree

2 cups canned salmon, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 cup cooked rice, salt and pepper, 2 hard cooked eggs.

Free the fish from skin and bone. Melt butter in a saucepan, add the fish and stir gently. Put in the rice the white of the hard cooked eggs and season to taste with salt and pepper. Move gently over the fire until thoroughly hot, and serve on a flat dish with the yolks of the eggs, pressed through sieve, over the top.

Salmon Pasties

Chop fine 1 pound can salmon and 1 hard cooked egg. Stir 1 teaspoon moistened flour in ½ cup milk over slow fire. When thickened, beat in salmon, egg, 1 tablespoon butter, salt and pepper. Cool. Make a rich pie crust and cut the turnovers with a saucer upsidedown. Wet edges with cold water. Put a good tablespoon of salmon mixture on half of crust, fold over other half and press well together. Cut small slits on top brush with milk and bake in a quick oven.

Baked Salmon

One lb. can of salmon mixed with ½ cup cracker crumbs, one egg unbeaten.

Baked Noodles Yukon

Combine two tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon salt and one cup milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thick. Add two cups flaked salmon. Fill well oiled casserole with alternate layers creamed salmon and cooked noodles (2 cups). Sprinkle each layer with buttered bread crumbs (1 cup). Bake in a moderate over (375 degrees F.) 20-30 minutes.

Getting It Straight

Writes the New York Herald Tribune:—Gilbert ad Sullivan made this simple classification on the human race:

"Nature always does contrive
That every little boy and girl
that's
Born into this world alive
Is either a little lib-er-al
Or else a little con-serv-a-tive."
—World Telegram editoral.

Gilbert never got his reputation from that kind of writing, and if Sullivan had been asked to set it the G. and S. quarrel would have occurred sooner. If the W.-T. wants to quote this again it might do it:

Now Nature always does contrive
That every boy and every gal
That's born into this world alive
Is either a little Liberal
Or else a little Conservative!

Colors for Men

A dozen dummies at the convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors' of America, displayed outfits designed to place men in rivalry with women in brightness of dress.

The outfits, valued at $3,000, included a red outing coat with corn-colored trousers; scarlet hunting dress coat with insignia engraved on on the gilt bottoms; Gulf-stream-blue champagne coat with summerbund (sash); similar coat or orange; blue opera cape with scarlet satin lining; green double-breatsted dinner suit with green tuxedo hat; an orange Norfolk coat and vest with terra cotta slacks; strawberry Norfolk coat with red and black flannel trousers; blue cut-away coat and vest, and a canary pastel tuxedo coat with cummerbund and plum dinner trousers.

Jesus Praying For His Disciples — John 16:1-17:26

Printed Text John 16:5-7; 17:14-26

GOLDEN TEXT — "That they may be one, even as we are." — John 17:22.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time — The discourse and prayer in these two chapters were all uttered on Thursday night of Passion Week, April 7th, A.D. 30.

Place — Both Jesus' teaching and his intercessory prayer here recorded were uttered on the way to the Garden of Gethsemane, either in the city itself or in the valley between the city and the Mount of Olives, or in both.

"But now I go unto him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?" The isolated questions of Peter and Thomas (13:36; 14:5) are not inconsistent with these words. Those questions were not asked with a view to the Lord's glory; and much had been said since which might have moved the disciples to a persistency of inquiry. But their thoughts were bent upon their own immediate loss and no one asked how this departure affected him; so completely had their own sorrow absorbed them.

"But because I have spoken these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart." Four times in John's Gospel does the word sorrow occur, all of them in this chapter (see also vs. 20, 21, 22).

"Nevertheless I tell you the truth. It is expedient for you that I go away for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go, I will send him unto you." The word here translated "expedient" is the same word used by Caiaphas, the high priest, in speaking about the necessity for one man's dying for the people (John 11:50; 18:14). "The high line of politics," said Caiaphas, is that we get rid of him. The higher line of God's policy said Jesus is that I go. Thus all the folly and wickedness is at least resolved into the harmony of the divine government and the divine authority.

"I've given them thy word." (See Deut. 18:18, 19; Mal. 2:4, 6; John 7:16 5:24). "And the world hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." The tenses are past, but the main reference assuredly is prophetic; we infer that here, as so frequently in this prayer, the Lord is speaking as if the future, which lay germinating in the present was the present already.

"I pray not that thou shouldest take them from the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil one." Taht is only evil to us, which can hurt the soul (Psalm 121:7) all the other things, which we may think evil, and call evil, shall work together for our good. The evil that can hurt the soul shall never come night our dwelling. No evil, no hurt, no loss, no spiritual evil, can ever more prevail to injure the soul of any child of God, whether it arise from the evil one, or from the hatred of the world, or from our own poor wretched, fallen nature, or from the dominion or the consequences of sin.

"They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." Though we were born in the world, and live by the substance of the world physically, are educated in the world's schools, and transact business in the world's markets, yet we are delivered from the dominion of the ideals of the world (Rom. 12:2). We, by our faith, in Jesus Christ, have victory over the evil temptation of the world (1 John 5:4, 5).

"Sanctify them in the truth; they word is truth." The petition in verse 15 may be said to be a negative one. That in this verse is the positive side of the same idea. (Cf. 10:36). The word of God in his Son is the disclosure to men of eternal truth; truth as to his origin, position, destiny, the truth as to his relationship to God himself and his Son, Jesus Christ; as to his relationship to brother men, his place here, his hope for the future.

"As thou didst send me into the world, even so sent I them into the world." God's one great concern for the world was that it should be saved; to achieve this tremendous purpose, he sent the Lord Jesus into the world. This same purpose in the heart of God remains today, and it is to this end that Christ sends us into the world, though of course our work in accomplishing God's plan is not identical with the work that Christ did.

"Ond for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they themselves also may be sanctified in truth." Christ made the truth actual in his own incarnate life, and his victory over sin and over the world, and his own holiness, are to be appropriated by us by the very Spirit of Christ who lives within us.

"Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on me through their word." The word of the disciples here referred to their work and testimony to the Lord Jesus Christ, the witness which they gave to his saving power. (See 4:39; Acts 1:8, 22).

"That they may be all be one; even as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be in us; that the world may believe that thou didst send me. And the glory which thou hast given me, I have given unto them; that they may be one, even as we are one. "I in them, and thou in me, that they may be perfected in one; that the world may know that thuo didst send me, and lovedst them even as thou lovedst me." No human brotherhood can exist apart from the common bond of the individuals to the Lord Jesus Christ, and the Christian unity should testify to its divine origin. The unbelief of the world if not occasioned, is largely strengthened and hardened by the disunion of the Christians. The glory of the Son, given him by the Father, can be nothing else than the Father's love; that love which constitutes us sons in Christ.

"Father, I desire that they also whom thou hast given me be with me where I am, and they may behold the glory, which thou hast given me; for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world." The will of Christ for his people includes two things, that they should be with him where he is (see 12:26; 14:3); and that they should behold his glory.

"O righteous Father, the world knew thee not, but I knew thee; and these knew that thou didst send me." "And I made known unto them thy name, and will make it known; that the love wherewith thou lovedst me may be in them, and I in them." All of Christ's redemptive work, all of his teaching and intercessory work, everything undertaken in the marvelous, unfathomable divine program of having men terminates in the perfection of love. What could be conceived more glorious, more exalted, and more satisfying even though we cannot fully comprehend it, than such a divine purpose for us as this — that the love with which God loves his only begotten Son might be in us, transforming us, energizing us, abiding through the endless ages of eternity, from which nothing will ever be able to separate us (Rom. 8:38, 39)?

Says Another War Would Doom Europe

BERLIN. — Doom of Europe in event of another war was predicted in dramatic fashion by General Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

Addressing a delegation of 51 "front fighters," Chancellor Hitler's chief deputy said:

"All front fighters who fought side by side and went through inferno are comparable to ancient heroes.

"Ia was the prime of the world's nations which fought in the last war and experienced its unspeakable horhors.

"In another war, the flower of nations will have to fight, and Europe will be destroyed if the best of all nations is wiped out.

"A new war will exceed the last one in horror."

Farm Problems

Conducted by

PROFESSOR HENRY G. BELL

with the co-operation of the various departments of Ontario Agricultural College

1. Question:—"I have a lot of wood ashes. Would it do to put on land now or would it leach out too much? I intend to put it on vegetable and root crops. Also, can you tell me anything about Gypsum or land plaster, as it is commonly called? My father years ago used to sow it on red clover and on the turnips when nicely up. He said it kept the fly off. Does it help vegetable growth? I used to put it on my cut potatoes to dry or keep them from bleeding as it were, since we had to cut them quite awhile ahead when putting in 10 or 12 acres. I have not been able to get it the last few years."—T. C. F., Peel County.

Answer:—I would not advise you to put wood ashes on the land at this time. Too much available plantfood would leach out before growing time. Rather store the wood ashes so that neither rain nor snow can fall on it, and in the spring put it on the plowed ground and work it in by discing and harrowing. You are quite right in putting this on vegetable and root crops since it is relatively high in potash. It contains about thirty per cent lime which will tend to keep your soil sweet in reaction.

Gypsum is sulphate of lime, while Limestone is carbonate of lime. As you indicate, Gypsum use to be used in large quantities. It did not correct soil acidity, but it did let loose the potash out of the soil. That is why the crops were improved in yield and quality where it was applied, but its use is not to be recommended since its action in liberating potash resembles very closely the writing of cheques on a limited bank account. Gypsum does not put back any plantfood into the soil, but it does help let loose highly valuable potash. This is why it used to be considered valuable to dip cut potatoes in Gypsum. The potato crop is a lover of high potash fertilizer since potash is instrumental in forming the starch which fills the potato tuber.

You would do better to put your money into fertilizer suitable for potatoes rather than put on Gypsum which depletes your soil of potash.

2. Question:—"I am seeking information regarding the comparative values of the various farm manures such as poultry, sheep, swine, etc., as fertilizers. If you have available any information in respect to this, please send it to me as soon as possible. Also is it a fact that poultry manure is too strong to be used alone. I understand it can be used without harm by florists. I shall be very glad to receive this information." — C. O. H., Wenworth County.

Answer:— Herewith we present a table of analysis figures for various manures concerning which you inquire:

MANURES

Quantity, Composition and Value of Manure from Different Classes of Animals.

	horses	dairy cows	steers	sheep	swine	poultry
Lbs. manure produced per day per 1,000 lbs. live weight	35-45	70-80	40-50	30-40	40-50	30-40
Lbs. per ton, nitrogen	11.8	9.7	13.8	27.5	15.2	22.0
Phos. acid	5.6	5.4	5.6	9.9	9.5	17.0
Potash	14.6	9.4	10.5	22.7	14.6	11.2
Value per ton on basis of analysis	$2.57	$2.00	$2.57	$5.16	$3.17	$4.16
Tons manure produced per year 1,000 lbs. live weight	7.0	12.7	7.5	5.5	7.3	6.7

You will notice that these are in terms of pounds per ton of manure. Poultry manure is double as rich in nitrogen as horse manure, three times as rich in phosphoric acid and about the same in potash as is horse manure. If poultry manure were to be used alone on grain crops or on such crops as tomatoes, it would tend to grow too much straw or stalk, on account of the nitrogen. It can be easily balanced by adding superphosphate or better still, a phosphate-potash fertilizer, such as 0-12-10 or 0-12-15. Florists value poultry manure highly on account of its high nitrogen content. This is also true of sheep manure which florists and gardeners use extensively. You will notice that sheep manure is about twice as rich in potash as is poultry manure.

Movie-radio gossip

By DOROTHY

For months Cary Grant has gone around saying that if his Paramount contract would only come to an end, he would never sign another with anybody. He would just make pictures when he felt like it, and spend the rest of his time lying on the beach at Santa Monica or taking leisurely trips to England. But after watching his work in the new Grace Moore picture, Columbia officials didn't like his idea at all. They decided they must have him under contract. No one has ever been known to win an argument with Jack Cohn, the grand mogul of Columbia Pictures, so Cary signed the contract he offered.

Back in New York all the young stage players and all the dramatic school students go to see Greta Garbo in "Camille" over and over. Two girls who are living on a tiny budget that permits eating only now and then and never riding on a street car or bus, had gone every day for six days and seen the picture at least 14 times. They were broke and hungry, but they felt they just had to see it again. So, they screwed up their courage and told the manager of the Capitol Theatre how much they were learning from watching her, and he arranged to let them in free.

HOCKEY NEWS

GREHOUNDS & MAROONS WIN IN JR. & SR. TOWN LEAGUES

The first half of Monday's double header was the semi-final game of the Senior Town League. The Greyhounds beat the Rangers 6-5 after a close struggle, featured by a great drive in the last few minutes, which netted Rangers two goals Claude Woods led the Greyhounds with four goals and one assist; Snyder got four assists; Cliff Reid and Wally Guay notched one goal each

Pete Clark got three goals and one assist for the Rangers, George Smith got one goal and two assists, and Art Laurin, one goal and one assist George Smith scored his goal on a penalty shot.

The lineups:

Rangers: Goal, Canning; defence G. Smith and Bannister; centre F. Smith; wings. Laurin and Clark; subs. Bourette Gamble and J. McCoy.

Greyhounds: Goal, O'Malley; defence, Merkley and Bailey, centre, Woods; wings, Reid and Snyder; subs. Guay and G. McKoy.

M.C.I. VS. MAROONS

The second game of the Town League played on Monday night was the first of the final three game series to be played between M.C.I. and Maroons. The Collegiate supporters cheered the blue and white to no avail as the mighty Maroons captured a 4-3 decision on the game. The school boys were outchecked by the Maroon defence and were beaten on several occasions by the sensational work of Johnny McKoy in nets. Although the School forwards broke away on some good rushes. their defence was rather weak and Marcellus in goal, was forced to save time after time from the Maroon sharp-shooters.

First Period

Maroons carried the play from the first face-off into the enemy territory On the return rush "Scotchy" McIntyre assured the fans that the affair would be no tea-party by flattening McIntosh to the ice and forcing him out of the play with a bloody nose. Marcellus made several nice saves from Gamble and Smith, sometimes coming far out of his net. Penalties were awarded to R Reid, McIntosh, Tuttle, Casselman, Dillabough2. Maroons tried to rush the play and while they were playing all up. Weir broke away on a fast rush, passed to Tindal who beat McKoy cleanly for the first goal of the game.

Summary of Points— 1, M.C.I.. Tindal (Weir).

Second Period

The School went into the second period, determined to hold their scanty lead, and proceeded to shoot the puck the length of the ice, when danger theatened. Maroons rushed the play resulting in a goal by Gamble on MacIntyre's rebound. M.C.I. were awarded a penalty shot which was taken by MacIntyre. McKoy dived across the net to make the save. Paul Smith, Gamble, and Casselman were penalized. Referee Gord Smith allowed a goal to the Maroons, when McIntosh apparently threw his stick to intercept what looked like a sure goal. At this point coach Thomas appeared on the ice to protest the point and was promptly ushered off the ice by the coat collar, Denzil Dillabough appointing himself usher for the occasion.

Summary of points—2, Maroons Gamble (MacIntyre); 3. Maroons, awarded.

Third Period

Both teams were anxious to score in the third period, and the play was about even. McKoy was forced to make seveal nice saves from the students in order to protect their lead. Maroons finally managed to break away and Gamble scored from a pile up in front of the net. Dillabough and Casselman were penalized in quick succession. Eamon scored again for Maroons assisted by Dillabough. Buck McIntosh rushhed into Maroon Territory and was sent sprawling to the ice by Scotchy McIntyre. Dillabough received two more penalties spending, during the whole game, ten minutes in the cooler. M.C.I. scored two goals in the last minute of play, the first by Tuttle from a scramble in front of the Maroon net; the second by McIntosh on a penalty shot. Had the period lasted a little longer, the students might well have tied the score, as they were bombarding McKoy with shots in the last minutes of the game. Both goal tenders stood out for their teams and made phenominal saves while their defence was playing up in a wide-open game. Tuttle and Tindal were most consistent for the school, while Dillabough and Eamon played the best all-round game for the Maroons.

Summary of points:

4. Maroons—Gamble.
5. Maroons—Eamon (Dillabough)
6. M.C.I.—Tuttle.
7. M.C.I.—MacIntosh.

The Lineup.

Maroons—goal, J. McKoy; defence D. Dillabough and R. McIntyre; centre P. Smith; wings, A. Gamble and H. Eamon.

Subs—J. MacDonald and R Reid.

M.C.I.—goal, L. Marcellus; defence G. Coons, R. McIntosh; center, G. Tindal; wings, E. Weir C. Tuttle.

Subs—S. Martin W. Coons, C. Casselman, L. Gallinger.

Note—Reports have been circulating that the M.C.I. would protest the decision of Referee Gord Smith, who awarded a goal to the Maroons when MacIntosh lost possession of his stick. Captain Tindal stated today that no protest would be entered. "We will not protest the game," Tindal said "we think we can take them in two straight. Both teams scored the same number of goals last night, and we think we will show improvement in the next game on Friday night."

Was a Gentleman"

"It is with sincere regret and deep emotion that we announce the death, last night of the one and only Howie Morenz. He was a gentleman, and the finest hockey player ever known."

In these words, spoken by E. Savard, President of the Club de Hockey Canadien, fitting tribute was paid before the Maroon-Canadien game, Tuesday night, to the late Howie Morenz. There is nothing which can be added to Savard's words.

Truly, he was the 'Finest Hockey Player Ever Known.

M.C.I. PUTS WINGS OUT; ORIOLES-MAROONS TIE; LADIES' TEAMS TIE

Fans attending the hockey games at the arena Friday night last got their money's worth of hockey and an amateur prize fight thrown in. Three games wwere on the card that night. In the first, M.C.I. downed Red Wings 7-0, and winning the round 11-1, qualified to meet the Maroons for the Hunter cup, putting out of the final series for the first time since the Town League was formed, the team which was this year known as the Red Wings. The second game which was between a Prescott Ladies' team and the local Red Hawks resulted in a scoreless draw, and the final game of the night saw Cornwall Orioles and Maroons play another tie, each team scoring two goals.

In the first game with 15 seconds to go, and the M.C.I. leading 7-0 Gib Coons, M.C.I. defenceman and Len. Laurin, tangled behind the Wing net, and which resulted in players and supporters of both teams becoming involved in the battle.

The goal getters for the school were as follows: Weir (Tindal); Casselman (Gallinger, Martin) Casselman, McIntosh Tuttle) Tindal (Weir, Weir (Tindal), Tuttle (Weir) Ted Weir was the outstanding man on the ice; he got two goals and two assists had a couple of bumping duels with Charlie Weegar, and outskated all the other players on both teams.

The lineup.

Redwings: Goal, Baker, defence, Weegar and L. Laurin; centre, Millward; wings, A. Salmon and Smith; subs Coir, K. Salmon, C. Reid, W. Casselman.

M.C.I.—Goal, Marcellus, defence, McIntosh and G. Coons, Centre, Tindal; wings, Tuttle & Weir; subs. Martin, Gallinger and Casselman.

The Ladies' game which followed was not so interesting as some which have been staged this winter. There was little combination effort by either team. Both goalies, Flossie Kingston for Prescott and Marion Coligan for Red Hawks, made some nice saves to keep their opponents off the score sheet. Edith Taylor of the Red Hawks; and Joyce King of the Prescott Ladies were slightly hurt when they fell to the ice.

A return game played in Prescitt Wednesday night saw the homesters triumph 4-0. Once again Flossie Kingston saved her team wwith many brilliant saves. It was no fault of the Hawks netminder, however that they were beaten, as Marion had a great many more shots to handle than her adversary at the opposite end of the rink.

The lineup:

Prescott:: Goal, F. Kingston, defence, Bradley and Miller, centre Fleming; wings, King and Frattura, subs. Mallon, Whitney, Barton, Redmond and H. Kingston.

Red Hawks: Goal, Coligan, defence, Hutt and Hunter centre, Laurin; wings, Paddon and Dillabough; subs. E. Taylor, M. Taylor, Gordier, Deeks, Gilder, Smith.

The third game of the evening brought together Cornwall Orioles and Maroons Town League leaders.

In the first period the Orioles flew high over Maroons' heads and succeeded in scoring twice via Nichelson and Cline. The second period produced a lot of fast rough hockey, but no scores. In the third, the Maroons finally settled down to work and Howie Eamon and Art Coligan shot the puck behind McGillivray to tie the score. The two teams battled evenly for ten minutes overtime, with neither side registering. The Orioles had a former Morrisburg boy in their nets, in the person of Reginald McGillivray, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter McGillivray. Both he and Johnny McCoy at the Maroon end turned in near-perfect games.

The lineup:

Maroons: Goal, McCoy; defence, Dillabough and McIntyre; centre P. Smith; wings, Eamon and Gamble: subs. H. Smith, MacDonald, Coligan Hutt, and Reid.

Orioles: Goal, McGillivray, defence, Catoria and Nichelson, centre Sinfield, wings, Stone and Crites. subs. MacDonald, Levant, Cline, Gagnon, Morne.

AULTSVILLE Y. P. S.

The regular weekly meeting of Aultsville Y.P.S. was held on Friday night March 5th, with the president, Garnet R. Gallinger, in charge The opening hymn "I Love to Tell the Story," was followed by prayer, led by Mr. Morrison. Mr. Morrison next gave a very interesting account of the life and work of Gideon, one of the judges of the Jews after Deborah.

The minutes were next read by the secretary, Ella Garlough, Various announcments were made. The second hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," was next sung. Jessie Morrison read a very interesting account of the old favorite Sunday School hymn 'There's a Home for Little Children" The author was Albert Midlane who wrote various other well known hymns.

Ella Garlough next read a brief article in which those present were told that geology, and other sciences portray the works of God's stupendous machines. The beautiful mountain scenery of the Laurentide district is the result of the slow but steady operation of these same mills of God.

The president next called attention to the co-operation between the two great influences at work in the modern world, namely science and religion. These two have, until recently, been considered to be implacable enemies, but now we find a close connection. Religion tells about God and leads to Him by direct revelation. Science tells about God and leads to Him by allowing us to study His actual handiwork. For example, the Science of Geology tells us about the earth, but what is the earth? Is it not an example of God's work?

The religious denomination study was a discussion of the Quakers.

Last week the president started a discussion of Buddh'sm. This week the Y.P.S. finished that very interesting subject.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie", and repeating the Mizpah benediction.

Y. P. U. PLAY A GREAT SUCESS

"The Glow Lights of San Rey", a 3-act comedy, was presented by the Elma Young Peoples' Union of the United Church on Friday and proved to be an outstanding success.

For some weeks the young people have been preparing for this event under the direction of Mr. Fred Becksted.

The play is one of unusual interest, and from the first minute of the first act, to the last of the hird, moves forward with mirth and pathos love and hatred, comedy and tragedy to the finish when "All's well that ends well."

Each member in the cast did his or her part splendidly, and is to be congratulated individually. Together they displayed fine teamwork and so achieved a great success.

During the first intermission, Miss Eileen Becksted rendered a beautiful vocal solo. She was accompanied by her father, Mr. Fred Becksted.

During the second intermission the Rev. R. S. Smith, B.D. pastor of the church, complimented the Young People upon their splendid talent and Mr. Fred Becksted, upon his excellent service as director.

The play was presented in the church which was filled almost to capacity by an audience which by its continued applause left no doubt in the minds of the cast, of the enjoyment of the play upon the part of those present.

FARMERS BEWARE what seed grain you buy to sow this coming Spring. There is a great deal of grain being offered for sale in Ontario for feed. A grain shortage has resulted in a demand for Western Feed Oats. These oats are being sold for Feed but some farmers may re-clean them and use part of them for seed.

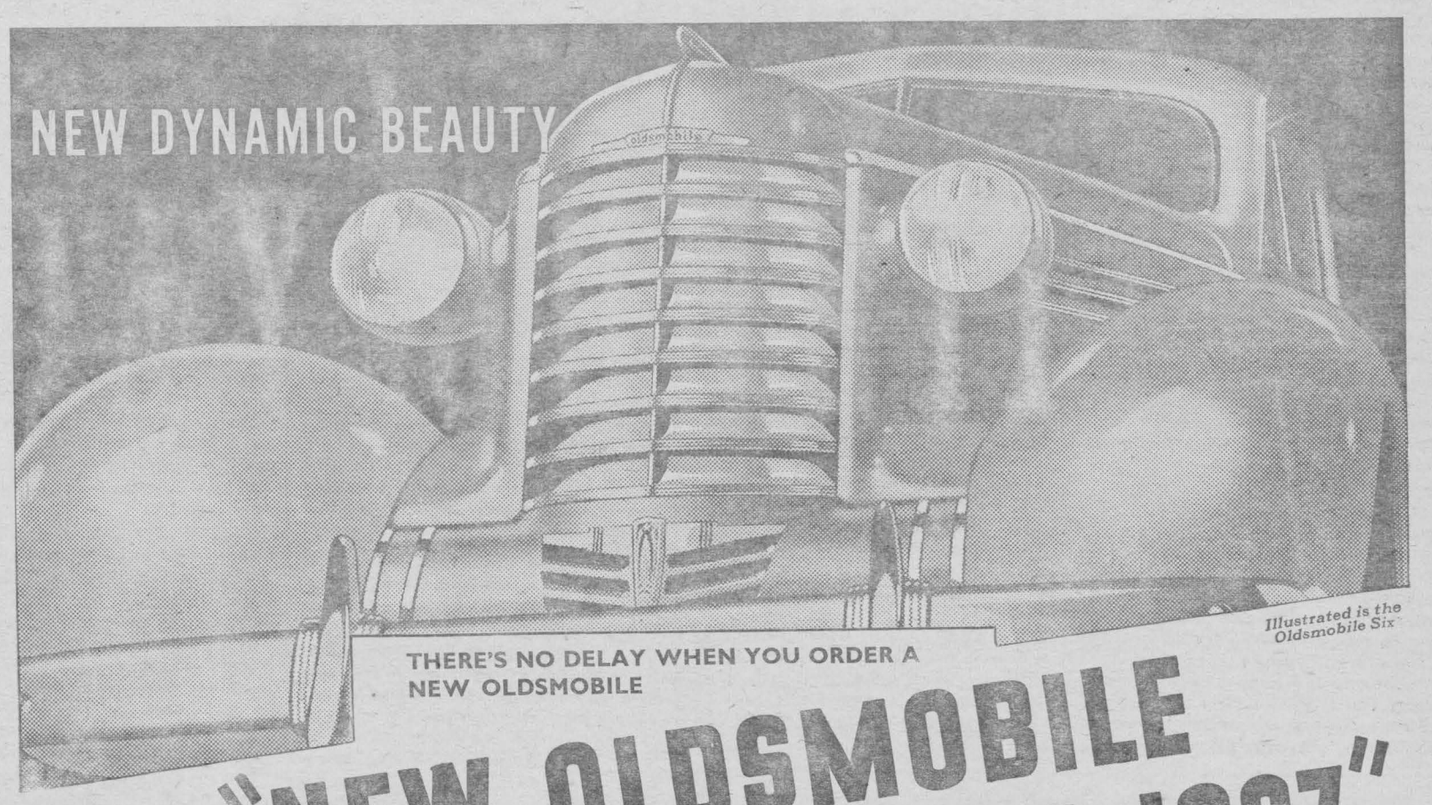

Germination Tests of samples of such oats have shown as low percentages as from 20% to 70%.

The Sowing of Such Seed may have disastrous results on the crops.

A survey of the grain held in Ontario would indicate there is sufficient good seed to be obtained at home, and all farmers who must purchase seed grain this year should make careful selection upon Germination Tests. A farmer can make a simple and accurate test at home by sprouting a number of kernels either between two sheets of dampened blotting paper or in a box of earth. The sample sprouted must be a fair average of the lot.

Crooners, For Instance

The broadcasting of the spanking of a London schoolboy was an arrant mistake, but each day, over radio, there can be heard far less salutary things.—Brantford Expositor.

Watch or Play

We note in an Ontario paper some discussion about a plan for a professional baseball league to include cities from 15,000 to 50,000, but the writer was somewhat skeptical about attendance at the games.

As a matter of fact, attendance at baseball and soccer games in many cities has fallen greatly in the past few years, for the very simple reason that the people who used to go and sit in the bleachers are now chasing a golf ball, swimming in one of the hundreds of public swimming pools or otherwise playing instead of watching others play. It is said that one of the reasons that hockey crowds at Montreal are somewhat disappointing this year is because so many people have taken up skiing and tobogganing.

It's a healthy sign when people would rather play and exert themselves than be content to sit in the bleachers and watch others play.—Lethbridge Herald

Her Special Train

A woman had a ticket to Haliburton, one cent a mile, as advertised at Toronto for Saturday last. The train stopped at Fenelon Falls, all got out except the woman. She insisted on the railway taking her to destination, a trip of 80 miles there and back. The railway carried out its contract, cheaper to have done s than to have faced a suit in court for failure. Getting a private train at one cent a mile does not happen every day.—St. Catharines Standard.

Tree Week?

The St. Thomas Horticultural Society is sponsoring a tree-planting campaign to mark Coronation Year. More power to the progressive society of that city; the effort should be emulated everywhere.—St. Catharines Standard.

Something Wrong

Blind River has 950 people still on relief, and yet cannot get enough men for the bush jobs offered. No wonder a physical fitness test of those on relief has been ordered, with the object of removing from the rolls those in shape to take the jobs offered.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

High Hatting

Whatever may be said about royal personages, they know the art of wearing top-hats And they ave grace in handling them when they remove them from their heads. Moreover, so far as Britain is concerned, they are mighty well informed on how to keep high hats good condition, which is another art. This is to introduce a counter-blast to lampooners of top-hats in this country or in the United States. In the latter country they profess to despise kings, princes and top-hats, but worship them all. At every possible official opportunity the proud U citizen will appear in publi in ill-shaped, unfitting and unkempt high hats. At le the European top-hat looks worth wearing and seems to fit both circumstances and head. One of the better things Britons ever saw the present Duke of Windsor do was to manipulate his always well-groomed high hat. He seemed to be born to it as part of his station in life. Now the chief executive of the United States should send his to Madame Tussaud's and wear a soft felt hat. We hate to tell it to our U.S. lampooners but even Harvard cannot teach their notables the grace of wearing top-hats—and we are not high-hatting. — Brandon Sun.

A Necessity

Boston woman judge says wives have a right to work after marriage. Having washed the dishes, straightened up the house and put the kids to bed, most wives could tell her it isn't a "right" but a necessity.—Windsor Star.

Battle of the Highways

If as many people got killed in a war as get killed on our streets, we would be erecting new cenotaphs and memorials. Yet because the auto, not the bullet, takes them off we look on these fatalities without the horror with which we regard the battlefield. —Hamilton Spectator.

Raise More Horses

When farmers look around for a profitable crop to raise, horses should not be overlooked. Official information indicates that the horse crop is low in Canada, United States, Great Britain, the price high and the demand keen.

In the United States the decrease has amounted to 29 per cent. or over five million horses in the last ten years. It will not be until 1940 that the colt crop will equal the annual wastage and not until 1944 at least, would their horse-power be on the increase. Canadian horse breeders might be able to satisfy this market to a considerable ex. nt if they turned their attention toward a consistent breeding program.—Victoria-Inverness Bulletin.

The Cost of Strikes

The dreary task of computing the cost of the General Motors sitdown strike is still going on. Tangible figures are hard to get, because so much of the loss does not reduce readily to dollars and cents; but one of the most conservative estimates puts the cash loss at about $84,000,000, divided equally between workers and the stockholders. Add to that the losses suffered by other companies which had to close down or go part-time operations because of the stoppage of General Motor orders, and you get a bill that must go well over $100,000,000. Rather a high price to pay, is it not, for failure to devise some system of mediation that would have brought strikers and management together at the very start, instead of after two months of struggle?—Sherbrooke Record.

What Is Horsepower?

A correspondent asks us to tell him how the horsepower, as a unit of power, originated. In the year 1770 Jas. Watt needed a measure which to state the rate at which his steam engine did its work. He hitched a strong horse to a pulley rope, at the end of which, down a mine shaft, he fastened a 150-pound weight. The horse drew it up, 220 feet per minute, so Watt multiplied 220 (feet) by 150 pounds) and got 33,000 (foot-pounds Thus one horsepower is the power required to lift 33,000 pounds one foot in one minute.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Value of Personality

Employers examining applicants for jobs often like to find out what an applicant's intelligence quotient is before reaching a decision. The intelligence quotient is supposed to be a fairly accurate measure of a person's intellectual ability. Now, however, comes Mrs. Beatrice Hunter Cahill of Boston University's Department of Student Counselling to remark that a good personality quotient can be much more important than a good intelligence quotient. What she is driving at is the fact that a smart man can be a flat failure in this world unless he has the sort of personality that his chosen calling requires.—Guelph Mercury.

THE EMPIRE

Tell Your Banker

Do you desire that the children of Great Britain should grow sturdily and happily? Do you honour the memory of that great man and great King, George V? Do you retain still the emotion which the voice of King George V evoked in you when in his Christmas broadcast he spoke specially to the children? If you do—then tell your banker that he may transfer to the King George V Memorial Fund any odd shillings and pence standing in your bank account. You may have an overdraft. Tell your banker to transfer an amount equal to its shillings and pence. You may have no bank account. Then send to the fund what you can spare. By so doing you will give the children now, and for future generations, room to fill their lungs and stretch their legs, and you will help to honour worthily a great memory.—London Sunday Dispatch.

No Sentiment in Trade

It may be argued that in the ordinary course of events Great Britain would not merely have held her ground in the Australian market but would have increased her trade commensurately with Australia's increasing purchasing power. Apart from Imperial sentiment, she had a right to expect this, seeing that her expanded purchases of Australian primary products had been a major factor in creating this increased purchasing power. This is unassailable reasoning; but pure logic does not govern trade. The old instinct of buying in the cheapest market is still strong. It may be well that the savings effected by buying cheap Japanese textiles have enabled Australians to buy other British products. There are many compensations, direct and indirect, in the complex structure of international trade.—The Australasian.

Two rules we should always have ready:—that there is nothing good or evil save in the will; and that we are not to lead events, but to follow them.—Epictetus.

Urges Adoption Of Shorter Hours

Speaker Says Nurses Would Be More Alert and Efficient

OTTAWA, — Madelene Baker of London, Ont., told the registered nurses of Ottawa that more adequate service to the public, especially the sick, can be provided by adopting shorter hours. "This can be done by dividing the 24 hours into three eight-hour periods," she said.

"A nurse who is on duty for a period of 12 or more hours cannot be as alert and efficient as one who does not feel the fatigue of such a long period of duty," Miss Baker said. "The patient will therefore benefit in proportion as the nurse is less fatigued. This division of the time on duty also has the resulting benefit of more equal distribution of work among the nurses."

News in Review

No Debates Over the Air

OTTAWA— The country is to be spared both the tedium and expense of listening to the radio broadcast of debates in the House of Commons.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King brought applause and merriment from Parliamentarians when, orally replying to queries on the order paper from W. A. Tucker, a Saskatchewan Liberal, he stated: "The Government does not think it would be advisable to broadcast the debates of the House."

"What would be the annual cost of broadcasting the debates of the House of Commons from the short-wave station in Ottawa?" was the first part of Mr. Tucker's double-barrelled question and the second part of it was, "Has the Government given consideration to the desirability of broadcasting such debates in this way or otherwise?"

Trained Workers In Demand

WESTON— That there was a demand for the services of vocationally trained students was the information given Weston Board of Education by Principal E. H. G. Wordan of Weston High and Vocational school last week. The greatest demand, he added, was for those accustomed to carpentry, woodworking and motor mechanics.

Attendance reports showed that the day enrolment in the High and Vocational school was 847 with 454 attending night classes. With a registration of 350, attendance at King Street school averaged 310, while in Memoria school with a register of 314 the attendance was 285.

The report of the school nurse indicated twenty-nine school visits, eighty-nine home visits, 115 individual visits and 164 pupils examined. Announcement was made that after being dormant for six years, the High school annual publication, "The Conning Tower," would be issued this year.

$113,330,199 In Subsidies

OTTAWA— Total cash subsidies and financial assistance given the Canadian Pacific Railway since its incorporation amounted to $113,330,199 an answer tabled in the House of Commons by Transport Minister Howe

The largest item in the total was $37,791,435, the book value of lines constructed by the Government and transferred to the C.P.R.

Dominion cash aid, including subsidies to main projects and to acquired and leased lines amounted to $33,417,889, while cash consideration for lands given up by the C.P.R. was $10,189,321.

Assistance under Unemployment Relief Acts and the special Public Works Construction Act, from 1930 to 1937, amounted to $12,330,199.

Dominion land grants to the railway for all lines was 26,108,988 acres.

Home Loans, $1,501,167

OTTAWA — Figures issued by Finance Minister Dunning showed 1,883 loans have been made under the Home Improevment Loan Plan up to Jan. 31 in cities of 20,000 population or more.

Total amount of loans in these cities was $768,326 out of a total of $1,501,167 throughout Canada. Total number of loans made in Canada up to Jan. 31 was 3,959.

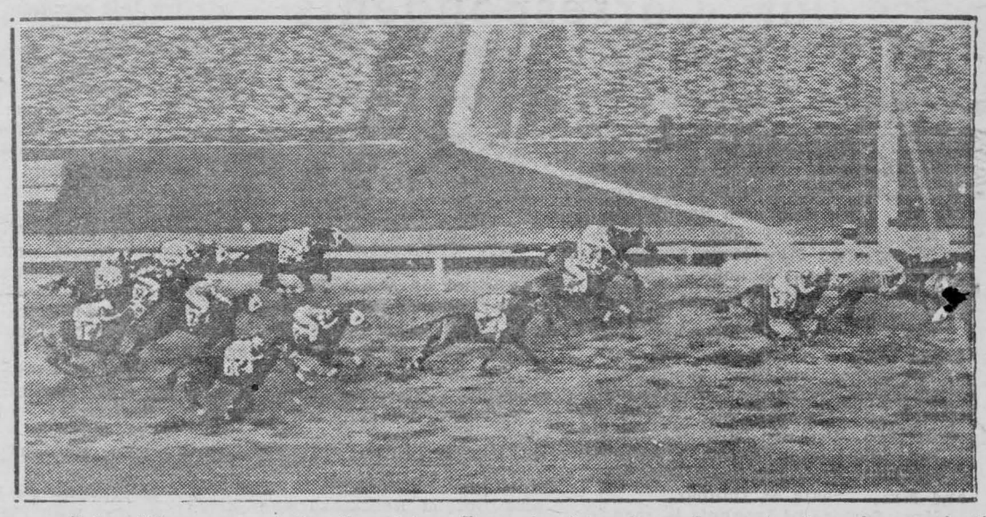

Montreal headed the list in total amount of loans, while Toronto had the largest number. Montreal's total number of loans was 251, with value of $137,712, while Toronto's total number of loans was 343 with value of $123,909

500 Millions For Navy

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's billion-dollar 1937-38 national defense program was formally set in motion this week when the House Naval Affairs Committee favorably reported a $526.555,428 navy appropriation bill, including $130,000,000 for new warships already under construction or to be laid down.

As soon as the naval bill is out of the way, a $416,000,000 measure to finance the army's activities will be introduced, the two together setting a peace-time record and carrying out the President's announced policy of a national defense second to none.

A $50,000 Crossing

Fairy Hill, entry of the Foxcatcher Farm, is pictured crossing under the wire to win the $50,000 added Santa Anita Handicap. Military, owned by the Milky Way Farm, is second, and Ptolemy, of the C. V. Whitney stable, third, in field of 21 starters.

Kills Girl And Self

FORT WILLIAM— Because Victoria Rasseur, 16 year-old, attractive blond farm girl spurned his attentions, and because her father, John Rasseur, Blake Township farmer, refused to consent to his proposal of marriage, John Pelez, 38, a woodcutter, stabbed the girl fatally and then turned the stiletto-sharpened kitchen knife on himself, with fatal results..

The attack occurred in the commodious log farm house on the Rasseur homestead. The man died in 30 minutes and the girl lingered for six hours, when she died in McKellar Hospital.

$2,250,000 For New Roads

OTTAWA — Approximately $2,250,000 will be spent by the Dominion Government this year in cooperation with the Provinces in providing roads and other facilities to reduce transportation costs to and from the mining areas of Canada.

Hon. Thomas A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, is asking the House of Commons to vote an appropriation of $1,400,000 at the present session and as the arrangement is that the Provinces will spend $1 for every $2 provided by the Dominion, it is estimated that the total expenditure this year will be $2,500,000, as there was a portion of last year's vote of $1,500,000 unexpended.

Routes of the highways will be defined by the Federal and Provincial Ministers of Mines. There will also be provision for wharves and other facilities for airplane transportation to the mining districts. The actual road building work will be supervised by the Provinces.

35 Million On Relief

OTTAWA — Appropriations for unemployment and relief in the supplementary estimates tabled in the House of Commons totalled $16,288,400. In addition $19,500,000 was provided for monthly grants-in-aid for the Provinces.

The unemployment relief appropriation was divided as follows: Relief settlement agreements with Provincial Governments, $400,000; Federal contribution to Provincial and municipal relief projects, $7,331,000; agricultural re-establishment in co-operation with Provincial Governments, $52,500; contribution to farm employment and supplementary plans $3,283,500.

Outstanding claims for direct relief under Unemployment Relief Acts of previous years, $169,000; outstanding claims for drought area relief, $215,200; contribution toward the Greater Winnipeg sewage disposal scheme, $362,200; development and training projects for unemployed young people, $1,000,000; direct relief for the driedout areas, $2,000,000; administration expenses generally, $475,000, and unforeseen contingencies, $1,000,000.

Form Protective Union

TORONTO —Contending that the prices are 50 cents a hundred pounds higher than they should be, large consumers of sugar have formed the Canadian Sugar Consumers' Protective Union, and have established Walter Martin as their secretary in offices in the Northern Building here. Domestic consumers may join the union without fee, while promoters except labor unions to support the campaign. it was announced recently.

Triplets Born

NORTH BAY—Triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Jonathon Brown, whose North Bay home is approximately 12 miles from the birthplace of the Dionne quintuplets. Like the quints, the Brown babies are all girls.

They weighed more at birth than the Dionne five whose total weight, officially recorded seven days after their birth, May 28, 1934 was 10 pounds, 24½ ounces. The Brown threesome weighed an even 16 pounds.

Willed $380,000

KINGSTON— Queen's University has received $380,000 under the will of Dr. Agnes D. Crane of Smith's Falls. The money is to be used for the erection and support of a biochemistry building, it has been announced.

Dr. Crane, 75, and the last member of one of the leading families of Smith's Falls, was born in that town and educated at Queen's, where she graduated in medicine in 1888. She did post-graduate work in Europe, attending Dr. Bilbroth's famous English clinic in Vienna.

For World Peace

LOS ANGELES—An Anglo-Saxon alliance, backed by the armed forces of the United States and Great Britain, would constitute the best guarantee of world peace, said Viscount Graigavon upon his arrival here from Hawaii en route home.

"With their combined fleets, manpower, and finances, no combination of enemies would dare make war," he said. "Something like that was in the back of the head of your President Wilson. Folks say he lived too soon. Perhaps, but our children's children will prove him right."

Fishing Season Opens

PORT DOVER— The fishing season opened at this Lake Erie port this week The lake has been free of ice practically all winter, and there is nothing to keep winter boats in harbor. There has been a very short respite between 1936 and 1937 fishing because of the extension granted at the close of last season by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries.

Quints' Third Film

HOLLYWOOD — At the robust age of three years the Dionne quintuplets will star in their third motion picture this June.

A story for the five little sisters was prepared at a studio here recently which would offer acting opportunities the quints never have had before.

Last May 28, on their second birthday, the quints received $250,000 as down payment on a new three-picture contract running to the end of 1936.

Like no other stars in movie history, the quints, unable to come to Hollywood, have had Hollywood come to them for each picture.

To Wed At Home

KANSAS CITY—Mary Pickford, the Toronto-born film star, will marry Buddy Rogers in California —at least her future father-in-law thinks so.

Miss Pickford, wearing scarlet lounging pyjamas, with slippers and fingernails to match, apparently squelched rumors of a London wedding during a 30-minute stop-off here en route for London to join her fiance.

"I guess we'll have to have the whole family with us when we get married, won't we?" she asked Probate Judge Bert Rogers, who met her at the train.

"Yes, yes, yes" agreed Buddy's father, seemingly relieved because the remark eliminated an English locale for the nuptials.

If appearances are deceitful, then they do not deserve any confidence when they assert what appears to them to be true.— Diogenes Laertius.

GARDENING

By GORDON L. SMITH

ARTICLE NO. 3.

The main object of pruning, whether it be rose bushes, fruit trees or flowering shrubs, is to open up the centre of the growth so that sunshine and air may penetrate freely and also, of course, to produce a symmetrical plant. Naturally any dead or weak growth should be removed and also branches that rub against each other.

Early March until late in June, is usually considered the best time for this sort of work, but there are a few specific exceptions. Most of these are the early blooming shrubs, such as the Forsythia. These should be left until after blooming. Grapes must be pruned early in March to avoid excessive bleeding. Raspberries are pruned after the crop has produced and then all the year-old canes should be removed, leaving only the new shoots.

MAKING A HOT-BED

The best arrangement for starting seed indoors is a hot-bed, though where only a few plants of each variety are required a shallow box in a sunny window will be sufficient. A frame-work about 18 inches high, which contains two inches of fine garden soil on a layer of fresh, slightly strawy, horse manure or some other heat-producing material. In an open place and facing the south dig a pit of the same dimensions as the window-frame and about a foot deep. Into this put the manure. (If frost prevents digging, simply pile on top of the ground). The layer of manure should be about 18 inches thick when well pressed down. It is held in place by the sides of the pit and the frame. On top is placed two inches of light garden soil, preferably mixed with a little sand. The window is fitted snugly into place on top and should be about nine inches above the soil at the front and 15 inches at the back to allow rain to run off and also catch the full rays of the sun. At the first the soil will heat quite rapidly, but in about three days, it will have cooled to around 80 degrees which is the proper temperature.

The seed is planted in rows about two inches apart, and the bed watered frequently. On warm days it will be necessary to ventilate by raising the window frame an inch or so. When the second set of leaves develop, thin. About three weeks before going outside, the seedlings are transplanted to a cold frame, which is the same as a hot-bed only without the heating manure. Here they are hardened thoroughly before being set out in their permanent quarters. When started in the house the procedure is practically the same, only of course, no heating material is needed. Boxes about three inches deep are filled with a mixture of sand and light soil and placed in a bright window where, preferably, there is a double glass to prevent cold draughts at night.

FINE FOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER WEAKNESS

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS
LOOK AND FEEL YOUNGER

Keep your kidneys free from waste matter, poisons and acid, and put healthy activity into kidneys and bladder and you'll live a healthier, happier and longer life.

One most efficient and harmless way to do this is to get from your druggist a 40-cent box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take them as directed—the swift resutls will surprise you.

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble are backache, moist palms, leg cramps, and puffy eyes. If you want real results, be sure to get GOLD MEDAL—the original and genuine—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic—right from Haarlem in Holland. Give your kidneys a good cleaning once in a while.

Broadcast Bans

Mr. Gladstone Murray is entitled to much sympathy in his task of deciding what shall and what shall not be communicated to the public of Canada over the governmentally-owned ether. While he is a Canadian, a good deal of his recent life has been spent elsewhere, and he is probably unfamiiar with the changes of opinion which have taken place in Canada regarding the discussability of many subjects, including venerael disease, sterilization, sexual abnormality and the like, which were regarded as hopelessly improper when he last resided in the Dominion. None among all these subjects is now more respectable than sterilization, which is actually practised by at least one provincial government under a statute of several years' standing, and which has been long and courageously advocated by the Lieut.-Governor of another Province. A ruling which will prevent the members and supporters of the Alberta Governments past and present from defending on the air a statute which they have enacted and administered is rather obviously impractical.

It is true that an important religious body in Canada is opposed to sterilization, but we are quite confident that that body would never claim that the advocacy of sterilization constitutes an offensive criticism of a dogma of the Church, and is therefore repugnant to the most sacred feelings of its members.

Declare Food Is Not Cause of Bad Dreams

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa.—Amateur psychologists at Westminster College decided on the basis of questionnaires and experiments that:

Food does not cause bad dreams.

Women sleep more lightly and dream more than men, and remember their dreams more vividly.

Dreams do not forecast future events.

In a series of experiments members of psychology classes learned that external stimuli stimulate dreams which are definitely connected with the external forces.

For instance, ice-bags placed on the head of one victim caused her to dream that she was sick in a hospital and that the nurse was applying ice-packs. Another one dreamed she was caught in a freezing windstorm.

The research workers said they found that men were less susceptible to outside influences in their dreams.

Fish Never So Plentiful

BOSTON—On Boston's famed fish pier, greatest fish marketing wharf in the world, storage space is overtaxed these days as trawler captains and wholesale fish buyers shake their heads and exclaim in unison: "We never saw such a winter."

Because of open water everywhere, in harbors as well as lakes and rivers, explained Edmund L. Dunn, president of the New England Fish Exchange, the fresh water supply has been a constant one this winter, with every prospect of continuing.

Consumption of the fish throughout New England and the rest of the country, serviced by long trains of refrigerator cars and chains of trucks leaving here every few minutes, was expected to increase 25 per cent during Lent, but even that stepped-up demand will not seriously raid the big stores.

The usual ice conditions, snow blizzards and foul weather that raise the cost of fish, have been absent this year and consequently the prices are at rock bottom.

Of course, Mr. Dunn continued, a run of heavy storms at sea and a sudden freeze-up would change the picture overnight.

SIGNS OF SPRING

The tulips are above the ground,
The bluebird's back from the South,
Upon my roof the rain drops pound,
And soon will end the drouth.
The cleaning companies advertise,
For Winter clothes, a rate;
The seed concern will give a prize
If you order now—don't wait.
Each day some harbinger adorns,
But the surest sign of Spring
Comes from my tender, aching corns—
They hurt like everything!

Along Canada's Mining Highway

In addition to the Kerr Addison, Martin Bird and Omega properties, which are conceded to be substantial mines in the making, numerous incorporations are being formed to develop the prospect areas in the Larder Lake district. The immediate vicinity of the Kerr Addison is the scene of the greatest activity.

Wesley Gold Mines, to the south-east of the Kerr Addison, the Chesterville and Pelangio properties to the east, and the Shaver property to the north-east, are new incorporations. Wesley Gold Mines are diamond drilling; Pelangio have men at work; and the Chesterville are also reported to have operations under way. To the west, Barber Larder and Armistice Gold are starting active developments.

Mr. C. S. Greenland is Consulting Engineer in charge of operations on the Pelangio and Barber Larder properties. He is particularly familiar with the district through his connection with the Martin Bird property. The Martin Bird is located some four miles to the south-west of the Kerr Addison.

Prisoner: Judge, must I be tried by that jury with all those women on it?

Judge—Certainly; they have all been sworn to duty.

Prisoner—Then, your honor, I'll plead guilty. It's no use to try to fool a pack of strange women when I can't deceive my own wife.

Dobbin Returning To Smaller Farms

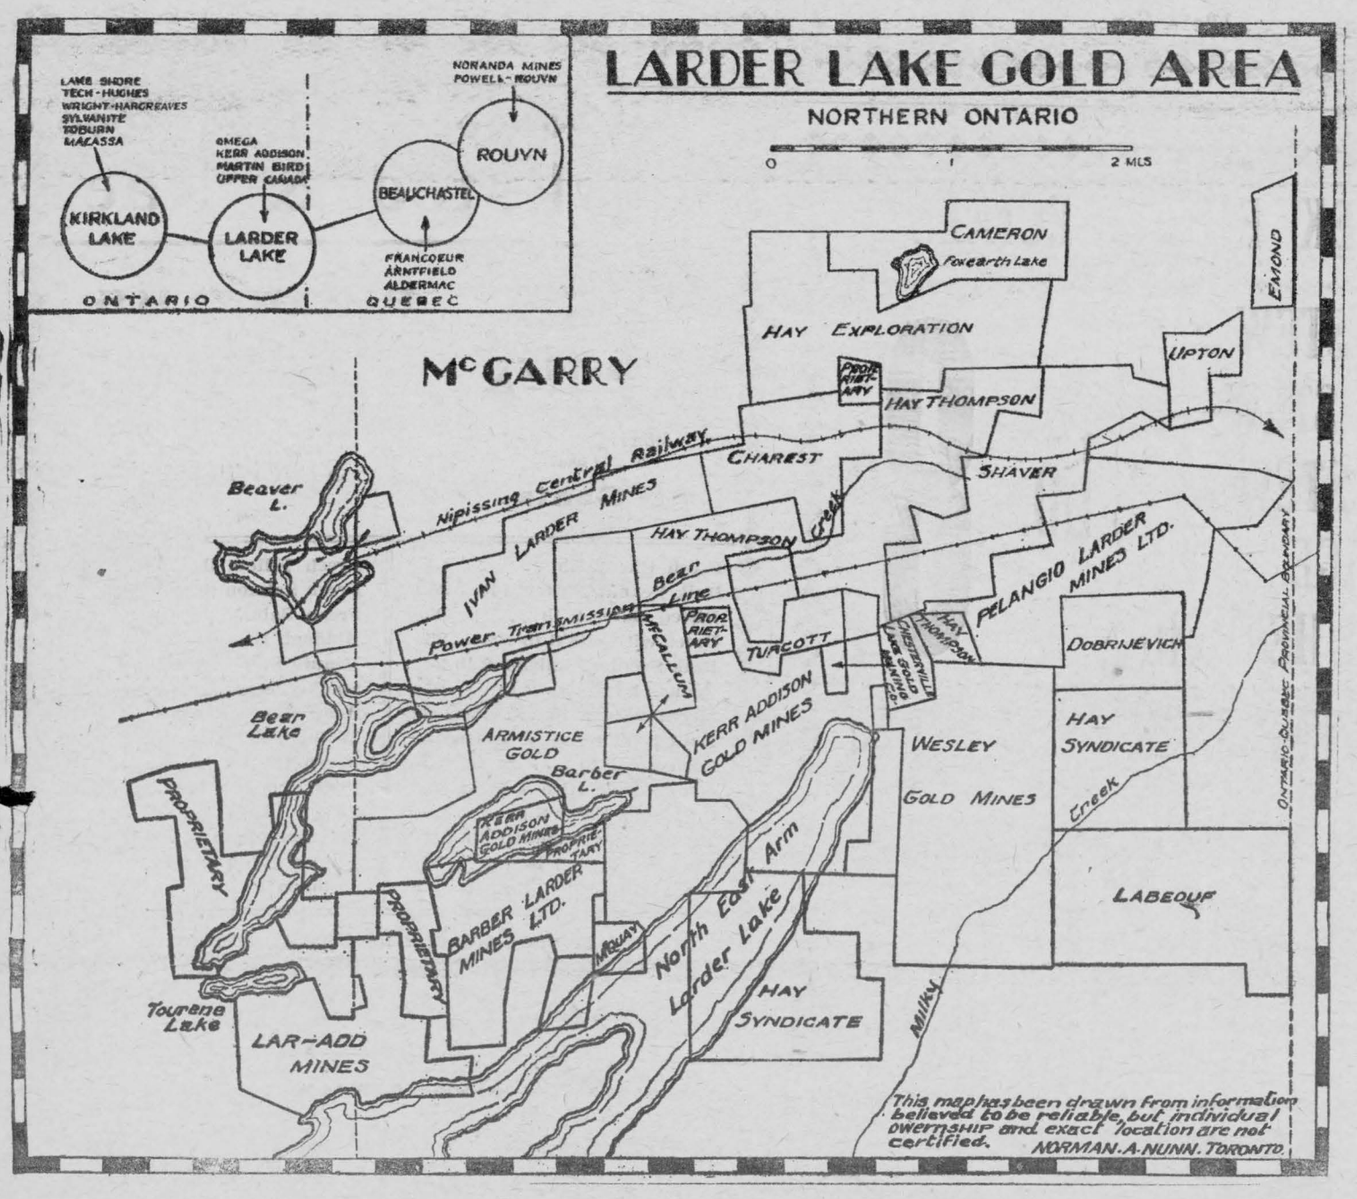

HELENA, MONT., — Old Dobbin—despite his appetite—is running machinery right off small farms in Montana, W. J. Butler, state veterinarian said today.

Farmers are finding it cheaper, he explains, to use work horses.

"It is surprising," he said, "the number of good horses seen in use in western Montana, where farms run to the smaller sizes. The use of machinery has paid on some large farming operations, but by and large, the horses have proven best."

"The radio shows us that we are brothers and sisters the world over. Why must there be strife when there are so many of us with the same ideas?

WILLIAMSBURG

(Contributed)

Just fifty years ago dear Tom,
Since I went through the town
Nor did I ever think t'would be
A spot of wide renown.
In those days it was different—
A corner where we met
To get the mail and chat a while
Or drive out with the pet.

No cop stood on the corner then
For cars were very rare,
The speed was mostly limited
To the quaint old sorrel mare.
T'was safe to stand upon the road
And talk about the weather,
Or else discuss some nights of fun
When we could get together.

A coffee shop in those days, Tom,
Would make a fellow stare.
While shorts and slacks and shingle bobs
Would make you tear your hair
And if a stranger drove around
We had to learn his name,
For fifty years ago, dear Tom
Things were not quite the same.

A moving picture house, old boy,
With lights that blaze and gleam,
Or thinking of a race track,
Was quite beyond my dream.
With big hotel, like city house,
And lodgings by the score,
Makes such a different place, dear Tom,
Than in the days of yore.
There was a lad who ran around
In patches too,, I'll say,
Just good, and bad like most of kids
Who played 'round in his day.
We never thought this little chap
Would some day grow to be
The man who built this burg anew
For famous now is he.

The people come from everywhere
Yes, far across the sea,
For treatments from this famous man;
And Tom, I come to see
The crowds that gather 'round his chair
And smiles that chase the tears
For some are walking once again
Who have not walked for years.

Some may forget the doctor's wife,
A woman full of grace;
So patient thoughtful, noble,
A credit to her race.
She makes the home a comfort
And when he needs a rest,
He steals away within those walls—
The place that he loves best.

I'm growing old and feeble, Tom
So I have come to stay
Where Dr. Locke is healing men
And brightening many a way.
I'll watch those people come to town
For healing 'ere they go,
Yes, its a different place, dear Tom,
Than fifty years ago.

AN OPPORTUNITY!

To the farmers who go ahead and buy their usual number of chicks this year there is a big opportunity to make a nice profit next fall and winter. The amount you make will depend very largely on the quality of chicks you buy.

Berryholm Bigger, Better, Blood-tested Baby Chicks

When you start with Berryholm Chicks you will have the satisfaction of knowing you are getting good chicks; chick that will grow into big profitable birds.

Prices Down

Quantity production has enabled us to make a reduction in price of chicks from last year. Ask us for our circular and price list. We are also giving enough of either Purina or Berryholm Chick Starter with each order to feed for two weeks.

Satisfied Customers

Mr. Stewart McConnell, Vernon, in ordering his chicks from us for the fourth successive year stated: "We put 158 Pullets in our laying house last fall and they have never stopped laying all winter. We got as high as 140 eggs from the 158 Pullets in one day in December." The amount of success you have with hens next fall and winter depends on how you plan today.
