Village Keeps Open House To Thousands of Visitors

Estimated 25,000 Make Merry During Old Hme Week

Gaily Decorated Streets and Homes Give Welcome

With the singing of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" by a small remnant of the gang that was here as the sun came over the horizon this morning, it can be said that Old Home Week came to a satisfactory conclusion after five happy days of homecoming celebration. With a schedule maintained throughout the week-end in the face of sun and wind and rain, there were very few moments during that time that something interesting was not provided for the visitors by the committees which have been in charge during the past 18 months.

Visitors began to arrive early Saturday and kept pouring in, in an increasing stream until the high water mark was reached Monday at midday when it was estimated that more than 10,000 were taking in the feature events or busily engaged in looking up friends and acquaintances of many years ago.

The official seal was placed on the activities with a reception following the registration of visitors in the Community Hall when Mrs. Thos. Flynn, Mrs. C. W. Casselman, Mrs. O. D. Casselman and Mrs. W .B. Lawson were a committee headed by Mrs. Jas. Hughes who extended the official greeting and gave the glad hand to all comers. A large number were on hand for the occasion, a list of whom will be found on page three.

King street from the Square to Queen street had been closed to motor traffic and handed over for the purpose of a midway and was lined from end to end with games, hot dog stands and all those glamorous shows which go to give the desired touch of colour to a big show. The crowds poured in until progress along the midway was a difficult matter, more difficult than it was to resist the winning of a fortune at the risk of a nickel, or have a young man guess your weight in the hope that he would fail and you'd be the proud possessor of a cane to swagger along with.

Bingo was a big business, and Teddy bears, coloured dolls, and even culinary dishes were flashed at their friends by lucky winners. The oldtimers who one time sported on the champion ball teams of the village and concession lines still thought they could bring down the pins or smash the "nigger" on the snout and win a choice cigar, but apparently many of them had to explain to their friends that "they had given up smoking anyway."

Church Services Well Attended.

Former parishioners filled the pews of the churches at both services Sunday and renewed the hallowed memories of those friends who had passed on, and remembered again the consoling messages giving them renewed hope as they took part in the last rites before laying dear ones in God's acres. Revs. H. E. Warren, of Ottawa, and R. E. Newman, of Belleville, occupied the pulpit of Trinity United. At the last moment, Rev. C. A. Mullen, of Flamboro, found he could not occupy the pulpit of of St. Andrew's Presbyterian, and his place was most ably filled by the student minister, Mr. Jesse Bigelow, when the church presented a most pleasing appearance after its recent redecoration.

St. Mary's church and Holy Trinity Anglican church were thronged with large congregations of local and visiting worshippers. Rev. G. O. Davies welcomed the visitors to Holy Trinity and Rev. Father P. J. Keaney and Rev. Father Martin officiated at St. Mary's which is the oldest church building in Chesterville.

Massed Band Popular

Music was the high spot of Sunday, centred around the visit of the bands of the Eastern Ontario Association. On the opening of their programme at the Fair Grounds in the afternoon, one of the largest crowds ever gathered in that place was present with the parking area presenting a sea of automobiles. The meeting of the bands was simply a coincidence when Smiths Falls graciously gave up their prearranged date to Chesterville Citizens' Band that this contribution might be added for the entertainment of our holiday visitors.

Drum Major Charlie Smith, Morrisburg, drew a big hand as he twirled his baton while leading the massed bands Sunday afternoon and again on Monday at the head of the parade from and to the fair grounds.

The expenses are always taken care of from a voluntary collection contributed by the listeners. Evidently the music did not soften their hearts as the contributed sum did not average a cent each for the estimated attendance of 4,000.

Festivities Started Early.

Sunday had hardly gotten by when things began to take on a livelier hue, and as it was just as much Monday a minute after midnight as any other minute, it was right there that everything was set for street dancing and the picture show, with the games realizing that the gambling instinct was still alive and the hot dogs began to bark, only to ease away again as the east began to redden and it became necessary to have batteries recharged if one was going to keep up with the procession.

Water sports and activities on the river kept a large crowd interested as they chatted over old times, hanging over the bridge and the retaining wall, marvelling at the transformation made in the scene with a body of water held back by the recently erected dam, which was not dreamed of in their own days. With the Community Hall in a nicely landscaped setting on the southern bank it truly made a picture of which any community might be proud.

Log rolling, an art with which few are familiar, daily attracted large numbers to the river bank when Rene Sabourin, an expert river driver of the old school, showed the fine points with eight-year-old Ormie Legace. A prize was offered for anyone staying on the log for a definite time. There were many attempts but few failed to go under promptly.

Huge Crowd for Parade.

Before the hour set for the start of the parade Monday afternoon, a crowd estimated at 10,000 lined the streets of the village with the heaviest crowding being on the Square, the bridge and Main street where the floats could be seen going from and returning to the Fair Grounds.

The parade marked the high point of endeavour in the whole celebration and brought forth more favourable comment than any other feature. It not only brought Chesterville up-to-date but brought our times up-to-date from a rural standpoint. Transportation, always a problem in a new country, was shown as it developed down the years. First the oxen dragging their load, then the harnessed bull.

A harnessed bull was in the parade in the securing of which it may be interesting to hear the terms on which it was to appear. The owner, who by the way is a Frenchman from the Vars district, on being asked how much he would want to make his appearance, said: "Wall, I dunno. She be a good bull, but I tell you what I take. When I bring heem on Chesterville on de Monday, you just give me enough whiskee blanc that I see two bulls." That was agreed to but we understand the price was not collected.

Such a parade will not be seen again by many who gazed at it Monday. A team of goats represented pioneer transportation, the harnessed bull, the oxen showed progressively what was developing as the need arose. Then the saddle horse. There were not many horses in the country in those days. The horse attached to a homemade vehicle was later and the horse-and-buggy days were climaxed by a spanking team hitched to an express or a democrat wagon as some called the vehicle. Willie Servage portrayed the latter outfit with a beautiful team of horses.

Years later Henry Ford transformed the picture when "Lizzie" took to the gravel and dirt roads. Rex Mattice, of Newington, kicked in with a one-lunger with Albert Johnston, of Winchester, sporting a 1906 Maxwell model. The climax in transportation was reached when the long smooth current models of different manufacture slid past purring as softly as tabby before the open fireplace in the days before the better trap caused the stampede.

Reminder of Buffalo Days.

It was following the early days that the spirit of adventure seized the then younger generation and the covred wagon provided home and transportation to the greener looking fields in more remote corners of our country. "Shy" Harper had a typical outfit in the lineup which would have given a heart throb to the "Forty-Niners" and possibly did to their children who remembered the oft-told stories of the journey tothe gold fields of California. Dave Bekstead was smart and true to life in his portrayal of "Buffalo Bill" and the high powered car had nothing on him in the minds of the small boys who would have loved to have hunted buffalos or fight injuns. "Dave's" cow pony was the last word and Wednesday nights did not have

There were numerous floats which should be brought before the mind's eye which will have to be left to the regular list, but the co-operation of our neighbouring villages was a feature which deserves the heartiest commendation and was appreciated more than Finch and Winchester will probably ever have directly expressed to them. "The Empress of Finch" with the Finch Boys' Band aboard was a masterpiece, while Winchester Horticultural Society probably had the most artistically pleasing float in the parade. Our own Women's Institute with a historical float merits high commendation but not envy to those who were ranked above.

Street Dancing Big Attraction.

Street dancing at night was the biggest nightly attraction, with a stretch of King street roped off. Many hundreds of couples danced along the cement to the strains of the Hickville Follies Band.

Large crowds attended the dances in the auditorium of the Community Hall Saturday, Monday and Wednesday nights.

Williamsburg Took Softball.

Softball games at the Fair Grounds attracted their quota. Williamsburg eliminated Chesterville and did the same for Hallville, winners and runners-up in the Dundas County league. Hallville first put Winchester out of the running.

Tuesday afternoon's rain and wind put a damper on activities, causing the horse races to be postponed until the following day, but softball got going late in the afternoon and the night shows were not inconvenienced. The local girls softball team defeated the Ottawa Maple Leafs in a close game while the boys lost to Williamsburg.

Boxing and wrestling on Monday and Wednesday nights did not have the pull the outdoor attractions had, although fair crowds were in attendance at each.

The Community Theatre with "The Hurricane" running attracted crowded houses at most of the showings, and those who did not see this wonderful picture have something to regret.

Just how the finances pannec out is something else, again, and will be left for the committees to worry about.

Garden Party and At Home.

Monday afternoon, the Women's Institute held a garden party on the Community Hall grounds for members of the Institute visiting Chesterville for the homecoming and to give an opportunity for all visiting members to meet one another This was followed in the evening by an At Home Many took advantage of the occasion to pay their respects to the committee in charge. The programme following was supplied by Chesterville talent for one hour, and an hour by visiting talent. Mrs. Amelia McMillan Lambkin, author of "Buckskin and Ermine" received an ovation when she appeared with her 'cello and for her voval numbers.

Tuesday evening the hall was crowded to capacity for the concert contributed by the "Stars of Tomorrow" of Ottawa, who made their second appearance before a Chesterville audience. The show put on by the sters was marvellous and the audience youngsters was marvellous and the audience called them back continuously for encores.

Monday forenoon, former pupils of Chesterville Public school gathered in a school room to meet one another when Mr. A .C .Fetterly, a former

Gems Found at Roadside Not Always Diamonds

While rackateers reap a harvest among city people they also clean up in the country.

The rackets are designed in two classes — one classification for urban "victims" and one for rural "suckers." The urban rackets don't work so well out in the country. And, similarly, rackets that thrive on the back concessions wouldn't operate so efficiently in the cities.

Here is a country racket that is being staged in the province now. This is a case history of what was done at a farm north of Toronto.

The farmer noticed a large, expensive car parked at his gate. A well-dressed man was changing a tire. The farmer wandered down to the gate and got in conversation with the man.

Suddenly the man stopped his work on the tire. He made a wiggling motion with the fingers of his left hand as if something was wrong, and his face took on a worried look. Then he started pawing around in the dust and dirt beside the car.

The farmer wanted to know the trouble. The man said he had lost a valuable diamond out of his ring. He showed to the farmer the ring—with an empty setting. The diamond, he said, was worth $2,000 and it wasn't insured.

So he kept on looking, and the farmer started looking, but they couldn't find it. Finally the man gave up and fixed the tire. But just before he drove off he gave the farmer his card and address in Toronto.

"If you ever find that diamond," the motorist said, "it's worth money. Bring it to me at this address and I'll pay you $500 for it. I'd gladly pay that much to get it back."

A week later another car pulled up at the farmer's gate with engine trouble. The driver went in to borrow a wrench, and when he went back to fix the engine the farmer accompanied him.

The motorist dropped the wrench and other tools on the shoulder of the road. Later, when he was gathering them, he exclaimed: 'Huh, that's a funny thing to find here."

He picked up a chunk of dirt from which was protruding the edge of a gem. As the motorist cleaned off the dirt and revealed a sparkling stone the farmer gaped and said, "Why, that's the missing diamond."

As the farmer was telling what had happened the week before some neighbours came along. They joined in the conversation.

The farmer told them all how the ring's owner would give $500 for the diamond. But the 'finder" said he wasn't going to Toronto. He was on a long trip, bound, eventually, for the United States, he said. And he could not get back to collect the $500.

"But," he said, "since you can get $500 for this, I'll give it to you to take to Toronto." He suggested that he should get a share of the money.

In this case the farmer wasn't the "sucker." But one of the neighbours was. The neighbour rushed away and got $200 and gave it to the motorist for the "diamond."

Thus figuring to make $300 on the deal, the neighbour took the stone to the Toronto address to get the $500 promised. He found that the loser's name, and the address, and the diamond were all fakes.

The racket netted $100 for each of the two motorists—the diamond-loser and the finder. Since then the farmer is suspicious when a car "breaks down" right at his gate.

APPLE CROP CONDITIONS.

In Eastern Ontario the weather has been favourable for the development of tree fruits during the last month. Apples are developing satisfactorily with present size average or better and a vigourous foliage in all well-cared-for orchards. The fruit is quite free from apple scab infection in at least 90 per cent of the commercial orchards. Leaf roller injury is rather severe in a number of orchards near Newcastle and Bowmanville. Codling moth injury is also quite apparent in orchards where this insect has been troublesome in past seasons. The preliminary estimate of total apple production in Eastern Ontario shows a 25 per cent increase over last season.

In Western Ontario weather and moisture conditions have been favourable during the past month for good coluring and sizing of apples. Scab infestation on fruit is fairly well controlled in well-sprayed commercial orchards, and serious side-worm injury is apparent in only a few localities. Practically all varieties of apples show a decrease in estimated production except Spys, where a crop 20 per cent larger than last year is forecast.

ROADSIDE WEEDS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN CONTROL CAMPAIGN

Roads, Show Windows of Farm, Give Bad Impression When Marred by Unsightly Weeds.

FARMERS and city dwellers alike, will agree that country roads are the show windows of Ontario farms and are largely responsible for advertising products of the soil. If roads are marred by an unsightly growth of weeds, tourists get a bad impression and urban residents lose faith in rural Ontario as a producer of agricultural products second to none in the world.

There are seven good reasons why roadside weeds should be wiped out of existence. They—

1. Infest adjoining farm lands.
2. Spread plant diseases,
3. Are dangerous to traffic,
4. Will gather and hold snow,
5. Clog ditches on roadsides and thus hinder the flow of water and proper drainage of the road bed,
6. Are dangerous from a fire standpoint,
7. Are unsightly to residents and tourists alike.

The Weed Control Act of Ontario states roadside weeds must be destroyed before seeds mature. The Municipal Council, through its road authority, is responsible for seeing that this work is done. Proper grading of roadsides and removal of stones, stumps and brush will enable the road authority to do this work quickly and efficiently. A thick seeding of a good grass mixture will make a thick sod which prevents weeds obtaining a foothold.

Chemical weed killers have proved efficient and many municipalities have greatly improved county and township roads in a weed cleanup via the chemical route.

Maybe your municipality has helped you out in this manner. If not, why not?

Don't forget the municipality is responsible for eradication of all noxious weeds within its boundaries.

STREETS OF GOLD.

Interesting Facts About Our Dominion of Canada.

THE Yukon Territory at one time was the scene of great activity and from out of its boundaries have come stories of adventure, heartaches and success. At the time of the famous Klondike gold rush, Dawson became a city of about 40,000 population and we are told that prices rose sky-high, particularly for food. Restaurants were charging "a buck for a bowl of soup" and $2.50 for a bacon and egg "special." Now comes a story of the streets of gold.

After the recovery of the main gold content of gravel originally washed down from high levels above the Klondike Valley by a process of hydraulic operations, hundreds of tons of waste or "tailing" in which a trace of gold still remains were used to grade the roads in and around Dawson. Of course, the actual gold content is exceedingly small, but nevertheless, the streets are literally paved with gold.

Now the population of that famous city has become a town of about a thousand people. But still the search for gold goes on. Instead of pick and shovel used by the early miners, huge dredges are in operation and the obtaining of gold has become an art.

A recent experiment has proved of value in the Klondike area. The big dredges in their digging pick up large quantities of what was once considered junk; bird shot, bullets, cartridges, odd pieces of metal, in addition to the occasional watch, ring, knife, and guns of all shapes and sizes. All this is now being treated to recover any valuable metal. As a result of this experiment, pure gold worth several hundred dollars was recovered.

From out of the Yukon Territory in a recent year, came a shipment of over 50,000 fine ounces of gold. This was an increase of 14,000 unces over the previous year and was the result of expansion in placer mining operations.

The Final Winner.

The local minister and his wife were discussing two ex-parishioners who were in the news.

"Aye," said the minister, "I knew them both as boys. One was a clever, handsome fellow; the other was a a steady, hard worker. The clever lad was left behind in the race of life, but the hard worker—well, he's died and left sixty thousand pounds to his widow. It's a great moral."

"Yes," replied his wife, with a smile. "it is. I heard only this morning that the clever one is going to marry the widow."

BOARD OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

Dundas Courier (Morrisburg)
January 13, 1865.

A meeting of the Board of Instruction for this County was held at Chesterville on Monday and Tuesday last. All the members of the Board were present, and the number of applicants for certificates was about 50. The examinations upon this occasion we understand were more thorough and strict than usual, and many who formerly held first and second class certificates were promoted "backwards," receiving second class A, B and C, respectively. No first class or third class certificates were issued. At the close of the examination on Tuesday, the Secretary, Dr. Williams, made a few appropriate remarks, in which he strongly condemned the too prevalent practice of overlooking the qualities possessed by teachers in the desire to save a few dollars; and remarked that no inducement were held out to teachers to qualify for their important positions. The following is the list of those who received certificates:

Second Class A.

M. A. Wilson, Eliza A. Smith, Geo. Colquhoun, Ellen Thom, Catherine B. Logan, Jan Lang, Susan McGowan, Adaline Weart, Mary McDowell, Margaret McArthur, S. A. Duprau, Elizabeth Cook, Joseph Lane, John Bryan, William Black, Robert King.

BOTTLE WITH $25 REWARD FOUND IN ST. LAWRENCE

Cast into Lake Superior on May 29 this year, a bottle containing a message with a promise of a $25 reward was found floating close to shore in the St. Lawrence river at Morrisburg on Sunday by Ennis McBurnie, of Ottawa.

Mr. McBurnie may receive the reward if he follows the instructions contained in the note, which read:

"This bottle was thrown into Lake Superior on May 29 from the yacht 'Alva' by James R. Coppins, Bank Ohio Corporation, Columbus, Ohio. There will be a $25 reward for the finder who communicates with the above person and states where it was found and on what date."

Mr. McBurnie stated he would write to the United States resident, and trust to luck.

Working to a Climax.

The case seemed pretty clear on the evidence. It was really on a matter of form that the complainant was called into the witness box and took the oath.

"Now, then," asked the Magistrate, "you say that the defendant said that you were a liar and a swindler, and that you had the face of a sick chimpanzee and the habits of a pig. What happened then?'

"Well, sir," came the reply, "then 'e got rude."

THE RURAL HOME AS A BEAUTY SPOT.

From The Farmer's Advocate

Farming is a way of living. Without the home, the farm—as we think of the farm—would not exist.

The farm is not a place where sufficient money can be made to enable the owner later on to travel or live in idleness. But the farm is a place where a comfortable home can be provided for a family, where children can be raised and educated, and it is a business that permits the parents to give the young folk a start in life.

The farm has done this from the start of agriculture in Canada, and no doubt will continue to do so.

Naturally the productiveness of the land and the management determine to some extent the standard of living that may be enjoyed in the farm home but culture, genuine comfort and ideal home life are not always bought with money. On some rough, impoverished farm, one will find a cozy cottage, vine-covered and surrounded by trees and flowers, while the fertile farm may have some structure called a home that stands out bleak and bare, indecent in its nudity.

It is not a question of money or of wealth. It is a state of mind. Unfortunately it is a state of mind, when in reverse, that makes young people dissatisfied with rural life and robs them of those youthful pleasures that boys and girls should derive from the pleasant associations in the home which they admire and adore.

With time, patience and effort the rural home can be made a beauty spot without the outlay of money, and why should it not be attractive, from without as well as within? Nature, with trees and shrubs and flowers will make the home a part of the landscape; something that draws rather than repels.

The tidy, well-kept home adds value to the property, but important still it stimulates the pride, self-respect and inward satisfaction of those who dwell within. Not only does it enable its occupants to live, but it makes life really worth living.

HILLSIDE DAIRY
Pure Whole Milk.
Nothing Added, Nothing Taken Away.

Milk is the most important of all foods.

It is indispensibe to the infant, essential to the proper development of the child and always valuable for the adult.

Unlike any other simple food, pure whole milk contains all the essentials of a balanced diet. If you give your child four glasses of milk a day you need not fear that he will lack any of the bone and muscle building materials so necessary to his growth.

This security can be provided more cheaply from milk than any other source.

Hillside Dairy is authorized to sell milk under Milk Distributors' License No. PD 452. You do not risk your family's health when you use Hillside Dairy Pure Whole Milk.—W. A. McELROY, Chesterville. 33

Band Music Entertains Many During Celebration

The rally of the bands of the Eastern Ontario Amateur Bands Association on Sunday afternoon was a thrill for the huge crowd lining the route of march and at the Fair Grounds where a splendid programme was given by the grouped musicians and by three of the visiting bands.

The bands in attendance were: The Smiths Falls Municipal band under J. Giovanucci; Kemptville Citizens' Band, bandmaster J. Tobin; Prescott Citizens' Band, bandmaster J. A. Frattura; Winchester Citizens' Band, under J. H. Larue; Carleton Place Citizens' Band, with Bandmaster W. J. Hagar; Finch Boys' Band, under A. Crighton, and the Chesterville Citizens' Band, with Jack Morris, bandmaster.

A number of prominent local and district men addressed the gathering with Walter A. Carr as chairman. W. O. Dixon, president of the Old Home Week Association, welcomed the visitors and Lieut.-Col. A. C. Casselman, M.P. paid tribute to the men who fell in the Great War. Preston Elliott spoke in praise of the pioneers of the township and village, and others on the platform were Geo. H. Chailies, M.L.A.; Rev. Father P. J. Keaney; Wesley Hamilton, Reeve W. H. Casselman; Arthur Flynn, O. D. Casselman, J. Roger McLachlan, Wallace Gallinger, Warden of the United Counties; Charles F. Marselis, and E .A. McGillivray, M.L.A. for Glengarry.

One of the features of the programme was the conducting of the overture "Old Ireland" by John C. Fulton who organized the Chesterville band in 1880, is now 85 years of age and is perhaps one of the oldest bandsmen in the province.

Selections were given by the Prescott, Smiths Falls and Carleton Place bands, and a number was played by the Finch Boys' Band which was the guest of the association.

Starting off with "O Canada," the massed band was led in the several numbers by the bandmasters of the visiting bands and received fine applause from the crowd estimated at over 4,000.

Following the concert, the musicians were entertained in the Community Hall where lunch was served by the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts. The bandsmen were thanked by President P. S. Boyd and short speeches were given by representatives of the bands. Regret was expressed that several of the bands of the association were unable to be present on account of playing engagements in their own towns on that day.

The Carleton Place Band stayed for the evening and led the I.O.O.F. to the United church and back to the hall after the service. They were entertained by the local bandsmen and then stayed to listen to the concert played by the Citizens' Band on the United Church lawn which was listened to by a very large crowd.

The Citizens' Band played a big part in the Old Home entertainment as the members were out again Monday afternoon to head the parade of floats, old-time- conveyances, decorated cars and bicycles, from the Fair Grounds, through the main streets on both sides of the river and back again to the Fair Grounds. There the rain held up the parade of prize winners so the bandsmen took cover on the grandstand and played several stirring marches to keep up the crowd's spirits. After the rain they marched downtown and played several more numbers.

That evening the band played before boxing programme at the rink and between bouts, and again on Tuesday afternoon, while the noon hour programme was rained out, the band turned out after the showers at three o'clock and gave an hour's programme on the Post Office Square.

Heading Monday's parade, the Band numbered 30 musicians, with the Winchester bandsmen and three members of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps Band of Ottawa, by permission of B.M. A. M. Croasdale, helping out.

Homecomers Are Guests At Rotary Luncheon, Tuesday

Several old-time Chesterville boys were guests of the Rotary Club at the Tuesday evening luncheon, and the speaker, Allan Fraser, Secretary-Manager of the National Dairy Council of Canada, told of his very enjoyable friendships with former local families during his lifetime in the West, the Carlyles and Christies of Calgary. The speaker's topic was "Canadian Inspirations," in which he dealt with the reasons why families went to the West and why they remained there.

L. A. Zufelt, of Kingston; Leonard Thomas, Ottawa; Graham Weegar, of Montreal, and Frank Jones, manager of the Ottawa Dairy, Ottawa, were guests of the Rotarians.

Communications have been received by the club from Holland with a message of congratulations, and Adrien Newans, new governor of this Rotary district, announced his official visit would be on Tuesday, August 30. He also stated in his letter that Lorne Reddick, president of the Kemptville club, has asked the assistance of Chesterville in the formation of a new club in Maxville. "Bill" Abra, of Ottawa, wrote stating that with the guest speaker for next week he was bringing a number of bowling Rotarians and games have been arranged with bowlers of the local club.

Anouncement was made that preparations were going forward satisfactorily for the sending to the Christie Lake Boys' Camp of 20 boys of town on Saturday, Aug. 6, for a couple of weeks in the open air.

The speaker told of the wonderful inspirations in the Canadian West he believes are the reason for holding the people out there. For the old-timers, he said, the thought that they had carved hamlets, villages and cities out of the prairie was a wonderful incentive, and an example for the younger generations. The flat prairies, the foothills, and the magnificent, rugged scenery of British Columbia, each has its particular appeal. Nowhere had he seen such glorious sunsets as on the prairies. One winter's afternoon, he stated, he was riding on a train with a passenger from Toronto who wanted to know why people came to such a country and why they remained. The sun was just setting, and, glancing out at the marvellous view, Mr. Fraser pointed to it and said: "There's the reason."

"Why, what's that?" asked the Torontonian.

Told that it was a sunset, he exclaimed: "Why, my God, man, we never have anything like that in Toronto!"

O. L. King thanked Mr. Fraser for his fine speech and assured him that the East was proud to have played the part of developing the West and setting a standard of living for the betterment of those who came to the farm lands from the European countries.

POLICE HAVE FINE RECORD IN HANDLING BIG CROWDS

The fact that Old Home Week has passed without a serious accident is a tribute to the ability of local and outside police in handling the severe traffic jams. People and autos jammed Main street, the Square and bridge time and again but citizens cooperated and the law enforcement staff did a remarkable job.

AUTO MALICIOUSLY DAMAGED.

Allan Moran suffered around $100 damage to his auto some time last night when some miscreant maliciously broke the handles off the doors and, apparently with a razor blade, slit the upholstery of both front and rear seats to shreds. The car stood just to the rear of Moran's Billiard Parlor, and it is not known what the motive could have been.

Local Man Robbed of $106 In Darkened Hotel Yard

Wm. J. Nash, former cerk of Chesterville, was robbed of $106 on Saturday night at 10 o'clock in the yard of Flynn's Hotel by two men who escaped in an automobile.

He had just come from the back door of the hotel and was crossing the yard when he noticed the men, one of whom greeted him with "Good night."

"One walked ahead of me and one behind me," Mr. Nash said. "I suspected nothing, but when we came to a dark part of the yard the man behind pinioned my arms, and the other took a roll of notes from my trousers pocket. Then they jumped into a sedan parked in the yard and drove away."

THE SMALL TOWN.

The Financial Post.

PUBLICIST Roger Babson got his name spread across the newspapers of the continent the other day by advising university graduates not to get married hastily but to get a job in a small town and to put their savings into a small farm. "Your real hope," he said, "is in getting a small business of your own. Try to get a job in a small town."

Henry Ford is equally enthusiastic about the small town as a place to work and live. His spokesman, W. J. Cameron, made some pertinent remarks about the matter not many weeks ago. "Nowadays," he said, "no one need go to the city for a career. Big things can be done in smaller places. Towns and villages are even coming to be preferred for many types of enterprise."

The small town has always been a good place to live. Today, any disadvantages it may have had as to distance or isolation have disappeared. Traditional qualities of friendliness, freedom and fresh air have been enhanced by most of the amenities of "city" life.

Good Things To Eat

Conducted By MISS HELEN LACEY, B.H.Sc.

WHEN YOUR FISHERMAN FRIEND IS LUCKY.

PERHAPS you have a friend who is a lucky fisherman and who frequently proudly presents you with a sizable pike or bass or "muskie." If so, do you know how to clean and cook it so you can truthfully tell the fisherman that you never tasted a nicer piece of fish? But perhaps you are not so lucky and have to buy your fish or depend on the canned variety to satisfy your appetite. Anyway, here are some good fish recipes.

TO PREPARE A FISH FOR COOKING.

Remove the scales, using a dull knife or a fish scaler. Hold the fish by the tail during scaling and keep the knife or scaler close against the fish to prevent the scales from flying. Remove fins, tail and head. Slit down the middle on the underside and remove internal organs. Wash thoroughly inside and out, being sure to remove small clots of blood adhering to the backbone. Rinse, dry and sprinkle with salt. Keep on ice until ready to cook.

FRIED PICKEREL.

Clean and salt fish as directed above. Cut fish into pieces of uniform size. Roll in finely rolled cracker crumbs, flour or cornmeal. (Personally I prefer cracker crumbs as they make the nicest crust after frying. Cornmeal is apt to be hard, but some people prefer its flavour.) Melt a generous quantity of butter or butter and lard in a frying pan. Place pieces of fish in a pan and fry—turning only once during cooking.

FISH COOKED IN DEEP FAT.

Wipe pieces of fish dry with a cloth. Roll in fine bread or cracker crumbs, dip in beaten egg and roll in crumbs again. Cook in a pot of hot fat until tender and a golden brown.

BROILED FISH.

Many varieties of fish are suitable for broiling as Black Bass, Mackerel, Salmon, Swordfish, Cod and Flounder.

Split the fish down the back and leave whole or cut in suitable pieces. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and lemon juice if desired. Place fish on a well-greased wire broiler. Sear the flesh side first. Cook with a moderate heat, turning three or four times. Broil six to 10 minutes, depending on the thickness of the pieces. Large fish are cut in slices of one-inch thickness and broiled on both sides evenly.

BAKED FISH.

Prepare fish for cooking (leave tail on). Sprinkle inside with salt. Fill with fish dressing, sew edges together. Skewer into shape; wrap tail in greased paper. Place in a greased baking pan. If a white or medium fat fish is used, lay strips of fat pork over the fish. If a fat fish is used, omit the salt pork. Dredge with flour. Bake 10 minutes for every pound and 10 minutes extra. Baste every 10 minutes. Lift out carefully, remove skewers and paper. Garnish with parsley and lemon. Serve with a fish sauce.

FISH DRESSING.

1 cup stale bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
few grains cayenne
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon chopped pickles or capers
2 tablespoons melted butter

Mix crumbs and seasonings. Add melted butter; stir well with a fork.

FRIED FROGS' LEGS.

To be sure, it isn't a regular thing for many of us to need to know how to cook frogs' legs, but once in a while some friend is sure to come along with a few pairs and offer them as a great treat. And then what a pity if you don't know how to cook them. . .

First of all, they must be cleaned—which is easy. Remove the skin by pulling off like a glove. Wash in cold water. Dry well; season with salt. Now you can take your choice and simply fry in butter or roll in crumbs, eggs and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve on toast for breakfast or with a fish sauce for lunch or supper. You will be surprised how much they taste like chicken.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE.

½ cup fat
yolks of three eggs
juice of ½ lemon
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup boiling water

This is one of the best sauces to serve with fish. Beat the fat to a cream, add egg yolks, one at a time and beat well, then add lemon juice, salt and pepper. About five minutes before serving, add boiling water, a little at a time, stirring well. Place dish over hot water and stir quickly until the sauce thickens.

TARTARE SAUCE.

1 cup mayonnaise dressing
½ tablespoon chopped olives
½ tablespoon chopped pickles
½ tablespoon capers
½ tablespoon finely chopped parsley few drops onion juice

To the mayonnaise add remaining ingredients. Serve with fish.

As a tissue and bone building food, fish is cheaper than meat. Serve once or twice a week.

* * * *

The eyes of a fresh fish should be bulgy, bright and shiney. The flesh should be firm and the gills reddish in colour.

* * * *

When fish comes from the market, remove from the paper, and if not cleaned, do so at once. Wash, salt and place in a tightly covered dish in the refrigerator.

* * * *

Do not keep fish any longer than possible after it comes from the market.

* * * *

Fish is easily digested, and it is well-suited to persons who do not get sufficient exercise to digest more hearty food.

* * * *

If fish is frozen hard when it comes from the market, thaw gradually, but do not soak in water as this will spoil the texture.

* * * *

Your fisherman friend is apt to tell you that fish should swim twice — once in water and once in butter.— Try it and see how correct he is.

WATCHFUL SCOUTS TREAT ZOO BITES AND SCRATCHES

Consistently for the past two seasons on all week-ends and holidays from May until September (quoting The Calgary Herald), a group of Boy Scouts have been performing a fine piece of community service, perhaps little realized by many visitors to St. George's Island who may have noticed four or five neatly uniformed lads around the Old Log House at this popular park. But let lack of caution in placing hands or fingers within reach of the Zoo animals result in bites or scratches — and the toll is many throughout the summer — let any accident occur on the grounds or lost children need assistance in finding their parents, this squad of Scouts is ready to render aid.

Little to Say.

The Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir will travel from Quebec by special railway car, arriving at Brockville in time to board the private yacht, "Moby Dick," owned by George T. Fulford, former M.P.P. and wealthy Brockville manufacturer, which will carry them up the St. Lawrence to the scene of the ceremonies. Prime Minister King will be aboard with the vice-regal party, sailing under the Canadian channel-crossing of the new five-span structure. Plans call for the arrival of President Roosevelt at Wellesley Island at 3.00 p.m. near the 90-foot span crossing the U.S.-Canadian boundary, where the actual dedication will take place. With a 21-gun salute as the signal, the King's representative in Canada and other Canadian officials will proceed to the centre of the bridge under military escort.

CANADIAN RADIO ARTIST JOINS BEN BERNIE

Ben Bernie, United States dance band leader, is another famous radio personality who realizes the wealth of talent existing in Canada.

Last week, from the ranks of hundreds of aspirants from many parts of the United States, he selected a young Canadian girl as featured vocalist for his orchestra. She was Lila Deane, of Montreal, who for some time was a member of "These Four," a quartette of singers presented from CBM over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Bernie's representative, a visitor to Montreal, heard Miss Deane singing from the local CBC station while driving in his automobile. Following the broadcast he suggested that she leave for New York, there to take part in auditions. When Bernie heard her sing he dismissed the other aspirants and offered her an attractive contract. She had the particular style and personality for which he was seeking.

Chesterville Fair of 1865 Had Many Exhibits.

Dundas Courier, Morrisburg,
October 20, 1865.

The annual exhibition of the Township of Winchester Agricultural Society was held at the Village of Chesterville on Wednesday, the 11th inst. Having a desire to see the show and report thereon, we left Morrisburgh at an early hour with a good "turn-out" and a genial companion. The morning was a most delightful one for driving —a refreshing breeze and a cloudless sky—and after getting over the gravel road we were enabled to mak very good time. Noon found us safely at "mine host," Stallmayer's, in Chesterville, with an appetite sharpened by exposure to the pure and bracing air. After the usual recuperating process, we prepared to "do" the Exhibition. . .

The weather being pleasant secured a large attendance of visitors from Winchester and adjoining townships, and the attendance would have been much larger had it not been for the alarming prevalence of typhoid fever, which has during the past few weeks visited nearly every family in the village, causing grief to many an anxious heart and mourning in many a household. As it was, however, there were probably not less than 1400 or 1500 persons present, comprising all sorts and conditions of men, women and children. The show was good, and reflected great credit on the enterprise and industry of the farmers. In stock, the show was ahead of the County Fair, both in the number, variety and superiority of the animals exhibited.

Of horses, there was a very fair show, both of young animals, brood mares, stallions, and carriage and draught horses. Mr. Charles Fox's handsome span of carriage horses took first prize, of which they were well deserving. There were some two or three good saddle beasts also on exhibition. In fact we were somewhat surprised to see so much good horseflesh in Winchester.

The display of cattle was very superior, and would have done credit to any show in the Province. Two handsome bulls—an Ayrshire and a Galloway—the property of the Society, were universally admired. To comment upon the excellent points of many of the animals on the ground, were a task requiring more time than we have at present to devote to it. Suffice it to say that Ayrshires, Durhams, Galloways, Natives and Grades were well represented, and that the farmers of Winchester deserve credit for their enterprise in stock-raising.

There was a good show of Sheep, both as regards quality and numbers, Leicester and Cheviot being the principal breeds exhibited.

The show of grain was excellent, which seems to be the unanimous verdict at all shows this year. Of spring wheat there were ten samples on exhibition, and four of fall wheat, all good. Barley, 12 entries, and very good. Pease good, but scarce, there being only three entries. Oats, only one sample, and that very poor.

The display of Roots and Vegetables was also very good both in quality and quantity. Beets and Carrots were represented hugely. Of Turnips, we only saw two specimens. Cabbage, very good and in abundance, superior to the best shown in Morrisburgh. The same may to a certain extent be said of Potatoes, of which there were some 30 entries. Corn in ear, 13 samples, and 2 of Grass-seed.

In the Ladies' Department the show was rather meagre. Stretched along the length of the building was a cord or pole on which were suspended innumerable coverlets, quilts, blankets, shawls, socks, &c., suggestive of warmth and comfort during the approaching winter months. We noticed a number of pieces of home-made cloth, some of which were of a superior quality. There were a few specimens of embroidery, raised and crochet work, one of hair work, and a handsome pair of slippers, on which the writer cast fond glances, in the hope that the fair owner might find it in her heart to present them to us a souvenir of the Fair. The aforesaid slippers, however, were "engaged" by "a gay cavalier" who doubtless was in the same situation.

The Dairy department was very fully represented, there being some 16 entries. It has always been a difficult matter for us to decide upon the merits of this commodity, where there is always such excellence in the various samples exhibited. There was but one Cheese exhibited, and one or two samples of Maple Sugar.

Implements were scarce, but there were some fine carriages on exhibition. Taken altogether, the Exhibition was a decided success, and marked improvement on all former shows held in the Township. The total number of entries was 450.

The following is the Prize List:

CLASS A—CATTLE.

Bred Ayrshire.

PERENNIAL WEED CONTROL

WHEN the infestation of perennial weeds has spread over a large area, cultural and cropping methods have to be relied upon for their eradication. It is advisable, however, to use sodium chlorate for the eradication of small patches of perennials.

The latter half of the growing season is a good time to make an attack on perennial weeds. There is not quite the same rush of work then, as in the spring of the year, and the weather is usually more favourable for the destruction of perennials, particularly couch grass. The roots of this weed are killed by a few days' exposure during warm weather and since couch grass is a shallow-rooted weed, a large percentage of its roots can be brought to the surface by cultivation.

Another advantage in favour of killing weeds in the latter half of the growing season, is that it permits the growth of an early crop such as hay or oats cut for green feed, before the treatment commences; or the land may be used for pasture during the time of the year when pasture is most productive.

A partial summer-fallow consists of ploughing in mid-summer followed by cultivation to keep down weed growth during the remainder of the growing season. This treatment should not be commenced later than August 1, because it takes about three months of cultivation each time any top-growth appears to exhaust food reserves stored in roots of such weeds as perennial sow thistle, Canada thistle and chicory.

There is, however, considerable variation in the number of cultivations required to kill perennial weeds and it should be remembered that an old established stand of perennials is more difficul to kill than a youthful growth of the same species.

Keeping down all top growth from July 15 to the end of the growing season will greatly reduce the stand of perennial weeds but for complete eradication of a persistent weed like couch grass, this treatment should be followed up in the next year by a hoed crop, such as corn or potatoes.

After having slaved all his life to keep his head and wife's head above water, a poor man hit upon an invention, patented it and sold it for a large sum. "At last, my dear," he cried to his wife, "you will be able to buy yourself some decent clothes!"

"I'll do nothing of the kind," retorted his wife. "I'll buy just the same as other women are wearing."
