Chesterville Hydro is in An Enviable Position

Local Commission is "Out of Debt," With Total of $44,831 in Reserves and Surplus.—Fine History Trac- Since Connecting in 1914.

(By E. George Smith.)

Chesterville's total of Hydro reserves and surplus is now $44,831, its reserve for equity in the Hydro system $18,262, and there are now 303 Chesterville Hydro consumers.

With local, liquid Hydro assets in excess of liabilities Chesterville has joined the growing list of Hydro municipalities which are considered "out of debt."

This total of $44,831 in reserves and surplus, which compares with a reserves and surplus total of but $389 in 1915, the second year of Hydro operation in Chesterville, is itemized as follows in Hydro accounts:

Reserves for equity in Hydro system $18,262;

Depreciation on local plant $7,876;

Debentures paid $5,577, and

Operating surplus $13,115.

Chesterville's total of 303 Hydro consumers constitutes a growth from 134 in 1915;

Horsepower used in 1934 according to the latest report statistics was 172 as contrasted with 40 in 1915;

Total revenues last year were $10,693, as against $2,795 in 1915;

Domestic and commercial revenues last year were $7,817 as compared with $2,106 in 1915;

Kilowatt hours sold for lighting were 311,516 as compared with 24,767 in 1915;

Plant capital is now valued at $16,822 as compared with but $7,296 in 1915.

With domestic and commercial lighting rates last year of 2.3 and 3.1 cents per kilowatt hour respectively, Chesterville enjoyed the low average cost to lighting consumers of 2.51 cents per kilowatt hour.

The rate is less than half the average rates prevailing in even the larger United States cities. It has been calculated that the application to Ontario of United States private power rates would add over $40,000,000 annually to Ontario's electricity bills.

In its efforts to extend throughout all Ontario the advantages of cheap publicly owned power, the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission last year instituted special rate inducements including "free power" on certain electrical conveniences, to rural Ontario.

As a result, rural Ontario is becoming "hitched to Hydro" with increased rapidity. An estimated 470 miles of new rural power line is to be built this year; about 300 miles of this total already has been designated and approved. At this time last year only 190 miles of new rural line had been sanctioned.

About 4,000 additional rural customers in all are being added to the Hydro service in 1935.

CHESTERVILLE'S NERVES JARRED MONDAY MORNING

THE NERVES of our residents were put on edge early Monday morning, about two o'clock, when the condensery whistle emitted a blast loud and long. Heads popped out of windows and many scantily-clad forms appeared on balcony and verandah to find the cause of the alarm, with visions of the town going up in smoke. Nothing happened except to the whistle, which had gone "blooey" and it blew, and it blew.

Large Crowd Attends Morewood Anniversary

Rev. Russell C. Archer, B.A., Cardinal is Special Preacher at Presbyterian Services.

The anniversary services of Morewood Presbyterian church last Sunday were attended by large congregations both morning and evening when Rev. Russell C. Archer, B.A., of Cardinal, was the special preacher of the day, with Rev. G. H Smith of the local United church taking part in the evening service. Rev. Mr. Archer preached very forceful and eloquent sermons, taking for his evening discourse the 43rd and 44th verses of the 27th chapter of Acts, urging his hearers to hold fast to the broken pieces of their shipwrecked careers, particular stress being laid on financial, mental, moral and spirtual aspects of the situation in which a great many people find themselves at the present time. Special music was rendered by the choir under the leadership of Miss Belle Moffat. The givings for the day amounted to more than $260.

Doran---Lowery

At the residence of Rev. J. E. Reid, in Toronto, a quiet wedding took place on the evening of Saturday, July 20th, when Hazel Gladys Doran, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Doran of Mountain, became the bride of Cecil Cuthbert Lowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowery, of Marmora, Ont. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warren of Toronto.

The bride wore a very becoming white French crêpe dress with touches of blue, matching accessories, and carried an armful of Talisman roses.

After the wedding a quiet dinner was served at the home of Miss Dorothy Jensen where friends of the young couple were gathered for the evening. Later the bridal couple left for a short trip to Marmora, the home of the groom's parents. The bride travelled in a blue suit with white felt hat and white accesories.

The young couple will leave shortly for Kapuskasing where they will reside, and where the groom will be located in business since his promotion in Toronto.

Severe Injuries Sustained By Melvins Farmhand

Alex Kerr, 20, Falls While Climbing to Peak of Interior of Barn, Has Broken Arm and Internal Injuries

Thursday afternoon last, when Alex Kerr, 20, was working at the haying on the farm of Mrs Samuel Greer in the Melvin Settlement, he met with an accident which resulted in a compound fracture of the left arm at the wrist as well as severe internal injuries. He had ascended a ladder to place a rope through a pulley at the peak of the barn, inside, and, releasing his grip on the latter, took hold of a board which broke under his weight and he fell to the floor, about 15 feet below. Friday he was taken to the Civic hospital, Ottawa, where he is doing nicely.

W. A. Societies Entertained by Morewood United Ladies

Chesterville, Russell and Berwick Members Take Part in Interesting Programme.

The Women's Association of Morewood church entertained sister societies of Chesterville, Russell, Berwick at a special meeting and programme held in the church which was followed by a supper served in the dining hall.

The many guests were received by Mrs. Orrin Dillabough and Mrs. A. W. Reveler, while the opening devotional exercises, conducted by the president of the Morewood society assisted by Miss Ellice Smith, commemorated the anniversary of ten years of union.

After the president's address of welcome, a programme of instrumental and vocal numbers was presented, a feature of which was a vocal solo by Mrs. Simeon Hutt of Berwick, the oldest guest present. The following other ladies took part in the programme: Mrs. Wesley N. Fulton, Mrs. Percy G. Hewitt, Miss Addie Campderros, Mrs. Duncan McElheran and Mrs. A. B. Clayton, of Chesterville; Mrs. Emerson Kyle, Mrs. Henry Tweed and Miss Ella Yorke, of Russell; Mrs. Henry Steen, of Morewood; Mrs. Adan Casselman and a ladies' quartette of Berwick.

For supper the tables were arranged in a circle, while in the centre was a table on which a birthday cake with ten lighted candles rested. The cake was cut by Mrs. Dillabough after which Mrs. A. B. Allison, of Morewood, proposed a toast to the United Church of Canada. Thanks to the Morewood Society for the hospitality were voiced by Mrs. H. Sheppard of Russell, Mrs. W. O. Dixon of Chesterville, and Mrs. Dingwall, Berwick.

Rev. A. Nimmo of Morewood Announces His Resignation

Congregation Shocked to Learn of Pastor's Decision.—Will Preach Farewell Sermons on Sunday.

At the evening services in Morewood Presbyterian church last Sunday the congregation was astounded to hear from Rev. A. Nimmo that he had accepted a call to Athelstan and Elgin, Que., in the Montreal presbytery, and that he will preach his farewell sermons next Sunday. Mr. Nimmo has served faithfully and well for eight years in the Morewood charge. After serving for two years as a student he was ordained at Morewood in 1929 where he has made a host of friends in all denominations and walks of life. Rev. W. D. Turner of Winchester has been appointed interim moderator to the Morewood congregation until a new pastor is chosen.

BOY'S LEG IS BROKEN BICYCLE AND AUTO COLLIDE

Winston Montroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Montroy, of Berwick, while riding his bicycle collided with a car owned by Carl McRae of Finch on Wednesday morning last and was thrown to the pavement with such force that his leg was broken above the knee. He was taken to Dr. Gormley's office at Crysler and later to the General Hospital, Cornwall, where X-ray photographs were made. The young boy is resting nicely.

FARMERS MUST KEEP CATTLE OFF HIGHWAYS

NOTICE has been received from the Department of Highways that under the Highway Improvement Act, farmers are prohibited from pasturing any livestock, either loose or tethered, on provincial highways. Traffic Officer Eugene Rose, of Morrisburg, said owners of cattle which were left on highways would be prosecuted.

Angus McGillis Renominated By Glengarry Conservatives

Glengarry Delegates Unanimous in Choice of Member to Hold Their Riding in Forthcoming Election.

Angus McGillis, M.P., was unanimously selected candidate by Glengarry Conservatives last night. One hundred and sixty delegates were present. No ballot was taken. In accepting the nomination, Mr. McGillis spoke briefly, stating more effective legislation had been enacted during the past five years for the benefit of the farmers than had previously been done since Confederation.

He also favoured amendments to the constitution, giving wider powers to the Parliament.

Denton Massey spoke on the enthusiasm and interest being taken throughout Ontario and stated the Conservative party could face the electors with a clear presentation of the facts as set out by Premier Bennett.

S. Gobeil, M.P., Compton, spoke in French, and F. Shaver, M.P., Stormont, gave a short address. The meeting was held in St. Anlexander hall, which was filled to capacity and many were unable to get inside.

Counterfeit Passer Arrested After Visit to Morrisburg

Toronto Man Has Pockets Loaded Wi h Spurious 50-cent Coins As Provincial Police Pick Him Up.

His pockets loaded with bogus 50-cent coins, Joseph Roy, 33, of Toronto, was arrested by provincial police at Santa Cruz, east of Aultsville, yesterday afternoon. Hhe was taken to Cornwall by Provincial Constable Frank Rose, of Morrisburg, and appeared before Magistrate D. G. McDonell on a charge of being in possession of counterfeit coins. He was remanded until August 6th.

Having been notified that morning that bogus 50-cent pieces had been passed in Morrisburg, Constable Rose made a check-up along the highway and found Roy pedalling leisurely eastward on his bicycle. Provided with a good description of the coin-passer, Constable Rose took Roy into custody. A search of his pockets revealed a supply of more than 100 half dollars. The coins, all of which bore the date 1929, were exceptionally good counterfeits but slightly under weight. Bogus 25- and 50-cent pieces have been widely circulated in sections of Eastern Ontario recently.

PRELIMINARY CLEAN UP UNDER WAY FOR NEW HALL

Yesterday several men were engaged around the ruins of the Community Hall in cleaning up and sorting the piles of brick and retrieving as much material as possible, anticipating an early start on the construction of the new building. The delay in starting re-building since the over-whelming vote in its favour is said to be occasioned by the formalities which have had to be attended to and could not be hurried on account of the law requiring an elapse of a certain period between each step.

Quintuplets Now Performing Four Times Daily For Crowds

Audience of Four Thousand Sees the Sunday Show at Callander.—Appearances Last But 10 Minutes.

Callander.—The Dionne sisters' act is on the four-a-day now and in the language of show business "wowing 'em" at every turn.

Fourteen months old to-day, Marie, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Yvonne are on the stage but that doesn't mean they have deserted their north country birthplace for a spot on a vaudeville bill.

Their stage is the front porch of their home. These remarkable young ladies have such a crowd appeal their audiences make their way to the Dionne doorstep from all parts of America to watch them stage their show.

Sunday, 4,000 persons came in more than 1,000 motor cars to the famous youngsters perform. Two-thirds of them arrived in cars with United States license plates.

The Dionne girls work from the front porch of their home (13 rooms, 3 baths, every day at 8 and 11 o'clock in the morning and at 1 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It's a great show, everyone who has been there will tell you.

The curtain rises on the hour when the nurses wheel the quint prams to the porch.

Then, one by one, the sisters are carried out. The nurse takes a reassuring peek at the identifying bracelet and selects a large card announcing which of the five is making her appearance first.

Then she is raised high above the nurse's head to giggle and laugh for the delighted crowd, held at an hygienic distance by a six-foot fence. All five are good show girls. They know they are appearing before admirers and react like real troupers.

Yvonne puts on the best act. She waves her arms and legs wildly and at the nurse's whispered suggestion brings her palms together with a clap loud enough to be heard by the audience 20 feet away. "Patty-cake," those in the crowd who have children exclaim.

Yvonne is certainly the best patty-caker but Annette runs her a close second. She gets quite as may chuckles from the visitors and Cecile plays to thousands who find her appeal irresistible. Emilie and Marie are rather shy and sometimes need a tickle or two from the nurses before they smile and "make up."

Audiences invariably turn away from the performance satisfied. The show lasts only 10 minutes yet those who have come hundreds of miles go away talking excitedly about it. Some wait two or three hours for another appearance and others return several times.

And it's all free. The babies' guardians turned down many thousands of dollars when they decided to make no charge.

They would rather have the good will, they say and besides they cannot guarantee illness will not prevent the babies' appearance. However, the quints are in show business now, the show must go on, etc., and it is unlikely they will fail to take their bows every day this summer.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, quint physician, thinks the whole business—the babies and the crowds, too—a great show although he finds the daily contact with so many persons tiring.

He reported his little charges are in excellent health. They all gained weight during the past month despite the warm weather, Yvonne hitting the 20-pound mark. She is the first quint to weigh that much.

Dr. Dafoe finds the diet he set three months ago agrees with them and is changing only the volume. They eat almost everything in the fruit, vegetable and cereal line but have not yet reached the stage when they will be given meat.

Judge (sentencing man to ten years): "Have you anything to say?"

"No, except that it strikes me you are pretty liberal with other people's time."

The junior partner burst into the senior partner's room and banged angrily on the desk.

"Our showroom manager has gone raving mad," he cried. "We must dismiss him at once."

"Calm yourself. What's happened?'

"He has put in the showroom window a testimonial praising our typewriters, and it's written with a fountain pen."

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture

Canadian cattle exported to the United States from January 1st to June 6th, 1935, totalled 79,295 together with 1,630 calves. The number of cattle thus exported to the United States during this time is approximately 8,000 more than the total export of cattle from Canada during the whole of 1934 to all countries.

The number of inspected shipments of poultry from Canada from January 1st to May 31st, 1935, comprised 4,487 boxes of turkeys; 33,145 boxes of chickens; 323 boxes of fowl; 25 boxes of geese; 955 boxes of ducks, and one box of pigeons—in all approximately 2,280,000 pounds. During the corresponding period of 1934 the total amount exported was 11,831 boxes.

Water For Poultry.

An abundant supply of clean, fresh water should be available at all times to the growing and laying flock. Since water makes up 66 per cent of an egg, it is imperative to high egg production and it helps greatly in the assimilation of poultry feeds. Clean water is necessary, not only from a sanitation standpoint, but also to help control egg flavour.

The Importance of a Polific Queen Bee.

The foundation for next year's honey crop is laid by making sure that every colony is headed by a young and vigourous queen early in August so that she has sufficient time to produce a large force of bees before the end of the brood rearing season. To perform the duties expected of her, the queen must have ample room for maximum egg production and there must always be an adequate supply of food available for the brood she produces. Other conditions being satisfactory, strong colonies headed by young vigourous queens in the fall are the best assurance of strong colonies in the following spring and of a strong force of field bees in time for harvest.

Couch Grass Eradication.

Couch grass is probably the most prevalent and most pernicious weed in Eastern Canada. It is a perennial, propagated to some extent by seed but more especially by underground root stalks. and is consequently extremely difficult to eradicate. Few people realize the enormous quantity of couch grass root stalks which may be found in the soil. According to investigations conducted at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, the weight of roots has ranged from 1,531 pounds to 6,997 pounds per acre. This weight is equal to that of a very heavy crop of hay and helps to explain why it is so difficult to remove or kill all the roots. A booklet on the subject has been prepared by D. E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman, and is issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. to those who desire it. In it the eradication of couch grass is thoroughly dealt with, the priciples underlying the methods of attack and the methods being explained in detail, as for example (1) in removing the roots from the soil by cultivation and removing from the field. (2) Starving the plant by removal of top growth, (3) Smothering the growth of the weed by a smother crop, (4) Drying the roots on the surface of the soil, and (5) Using chemicals to kill the plant. Ineffective methods are also described.

Variety in Feeding Stuffs.

Canadian live stock and poultry feeders have a wide range of commercial mixed feeds from which to select their requirements. For the year ended September 30th, 1934, there were 1,301 brands of mixed feed registered under the Feeding Stuffs Act.

Poultry feeds are much more numerous than feeds for other classes of stock and account for 935 brands, or nearly 72 per cent of the total. Dairy feeds follow with 129 brands, calf meals with 64 and hog feeds with 43.

The increased production of high protein and mineral mixtures to supplement and balance rather than to replace farm grown feeds has been a notable development in recent years. A few years ago such preparations were rare, while in the year under review they amounted to 108 brands. This trend is in keeping with the teachings of agricultural leaders and recognize the farmers' need to balance rations with the minimum cash outlay for purchased feeds.

In addition to these mixed feeds, there were also registered some 278 brands of single feed materials such as tankage, meat scrap, fish meal, powdered milk and buttermilk, gluten feed hominy feed, brewers' and distillers' dried grains, etc.

Only Clean Crops Worth Saving For Seed

Due to the abundance of moisture this season, weeds have been making record growth in clover and timothy fields. Without extra precautions, observers predict a dirtier crop than usual. This is particularly unfortunate this year, it is stated, because all indications point to a fall market for high class seed only. Mixed or dirty seed will be practicany unsareable.

Seed authorities state that the situation has materially changed from a year ago. Then due to the severe mid-western drought in the United States there was only a fraction of the normal timothy seed crop and other lines were short. Timothy was exported from Canada in considerable volume and at high prices. In the mid-western States there is a promising crop of timothy this year and the prices have fallen already to a point where it will be unprofitable to export over the duty even the highest grade of Canadian timothy. Indications point to a domestic market only for Canadian timothy and seed laws here are so stringent that only clean seed can be sold. Where a field cannot be cleaned by pulling the weeds now before the crop is mature, seedsmen advise cutting the field for hay purposes.

The same advice holds good for all dirty fields of red clover, alfalfa or alsike. There is a good deal of sweet clover sprinkled through these crops and sweet clover is a decidedly bad weed when mixed with others. Clean seed of red clover or alfalfa, it is expected will command ready sale and should be handled carefully. Pulling any sweet clover plants or other weeds is recommended before these go to seed.

The first growth of alfalfa, it is reported, set very little seed and growers will have to depend on the second. Alsike is showing fair promise but the acreage is far below normal.

The outlook for sweet clover seed is described as distinctly poor. Carryover seed is already offered at prices which are not profitable to growers. There is no export market. Western Canada grows more clover seed than it can use. As a result farmers are advised to cut practically everything for hay or to pasture it.

''Ere you are, ladies and gentlemen," shouted the racuous-voiced tipster. "What did I tell you yesterday?'

Nobody answered the question, and the tipster resumed his shouting.

"Didn't I say 'Broad Bean' wasn't a runner?" he yelled. "And didn't I say 'Water Tap' would still be running, and that 'Dusty Carpet' would take a lot of beating?"

Still there was no answer. But the powerful-voiced man was not dismayed. "Now," he cried, "I've got a certainty for the next race. Back 'Loose Button;' it's sure to come off."

Visitors to the house in the daytime made so much noise that the night nurse could not get sufficient rest.

One day she mentioned this to the doctor, who wrote a large notice bearing the words: "Please remember the night nurse," and placed it on the hall table.

Next evening when she came on duty she found, beneath the notice, a shilling, a sixpence, and a few coppers.

Rubini, an Italian singer who won fame and fortune during the second quarter of the nineteenth century, was not unlike some of the latter-day singers and actors in one respect—that of making repeated "farewell" appearances.

An acquaintance made bold to ask him how it happened that he took leave of the public so often, yet always returned.

He replied with great candor: "I find it a most difficult thing to take leave of a hundred pounds a night."

GLEANINGS FROM THE GREENS

By The Secretary.

July 24th.—Prize night had to be postponed to Wednesday on account of rain, but the lads were there full force for the fray. Jim Hanna was back looking somewhat tanned after the holidays and decided as he had missed some of the bowling it was his turn for the prize. Bill Dixon made a bid to blank Ham but Ham got the last end of the last game. C. L. isn't over it yet. Doc Hutt and Jim Hanna went into the last game tied with 11 points each and Doc looked like a winner when he took the first two ends for four points, but Jim pulled out and passed him to win 5-3.

The score:

Robertson, Merkley, Woods, Hanna skip .....7 4 5—16

David, Doering, W. Harper, Hutt skip..... 6 5 3—14

M. Harper, Plantz, Hess, Dixon skip.....1 3 7—11

Alguire, Dumouchel, Clayton, Hamlen skip.....2 4 1— 7

July 25th.—Last Thursday brought out five men to a rink and the boys put on a battle royal which Doc Hutt won after breaking the tie in an extra end with Hanna.

Going into the last game bunched, Hutt with 10 points, Lacey 9 and Hanna 8, it was any man's game but Bill Dixon ruined Geo. Lacey's chances when Bill took the long end of a 7 to 1 score, while Jim Hanna overcame Doc Hutt's lead of two and tied in points, Doc winning the extra end.

The going was tough all night, all the games being close, and Doc deserved the win pulling in two beautiful bowls for two shots in the tie-breaker.

The score:

Merkley, Marcellus, Waldorf, Woods and Hutt skip.....5 5 3 1—14

Jr. Hamlen, Flynn, Lloyd, Clayton and Hanna skip.....6 2 5 0—13

Plantz, W. Harper, David, Doering and Dixon skip..... 2 3 7—12

M. Harper, Dumouchel, Alguire, Hamlen and Lacey skip....3 6 1—10

July 26.—Friday night this club visited Iroquois to play the St. Lawrence League fixture and netted two points for the night when Doc Hutt won handily. Clayton went down badly and Hamlen and Robertson lost by four and three shots respectively. The Iroquois greens are not all that could be wished for as they were rebuilt last fall and have some bare patches. They have, however, good banks at each end now when the grass comes along should be greatly improved over the old ones.

..July 29.—Chesterville travelled to Winchester to play the game Monday night postponed from July 12th in the Caldwell Trophy schedule, and split the points even with the Winchester boys when Hamlen and Robertson won their games and Casselman and Clayton went down.

Ham and Art had no trouble with their opponents, the games being closely contested with this club getting the best of the breaks, Ham winning his game 14 up and Art with a lead of 7.

Eric lost out in the last end which he went into one up. He was lying shot when Singleton got a wick playing an overdraw, ending up near the jack. At that Eric had two seconds and took a run. He made the shot all right but when the smoke had cleared away it was seen he had cleaned out his seconds as well and Winchester was lying two. It was a tough break for Eric, but then that's what makes the game of bowls what it is.

Clayton won the first end and then Bill Johnston took him for a ride. Doc was never in striking distance after that, Johnston being 10 up at the end of the game. Tom Flynn rode up to root for our side.

Macphail Charges Unfounded is Verdict of Judge Daly

Statement to Minister of Justice Clears Penitentiary Inspector Dawson of Charges.

Ottawa.—No abusive or profane words were uttered by Penitentiary Inspector J. D. Dawson about Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., in his conversation with A. G. Hall, a convict in Kingston Penitentiary, on April 9th, 1934, Judge E. J. Daly stated in his report to Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice.

Judge Daly was a royal commissioner appointed to investigate the charge that Dawson said "Aggie made a god damned fool of herself in the House, but when we are finished with her she won't be able to lift her head in the House again." His report was made public Saturday by Mr. Guthrie.

The judge's report fills 27 typewritten pages and concludes as follows:

"On the whole, having carefully considered all the evidence, having given attention to the demeanor of the several witnesses in the witness box and having considered Dr. Hall's past record and the many misstatements of fact in his evidence, I have come to the conclusion that on April 9, 1934, at an interview in the administration building of Kingston Penitentiary or at any other time, Inspector Dawson did not say to Dr. Hall, in referring to Miss Macphail: 'Aggie made a god damned fool of herself..'

"It is my opinion that no language was used by Inspector Dawson which could bear any such interpretation, and that, in fact, the name of Miss Macphail was never mentioned in the interview. In other words, I find that Dr. Hall's statement as to this portion of the interview is false and that Inspector Dawson's version of it is true."

50 Years History Reviewed at Harmony United Church

Rev. John McKay of Ottawa, Late Pastor, Delivered Sermon Sunday Afternoon.—Social Evening Held.

Members of Harmony United church marked the fiftieth anniversary of the building of their edifice with a special service on Sunday afternoon followed by a social evening and programme on Monday.

Rev. John McKay, of McKay street United, Ottawa, preached the sermon on Sunday, while the minister, Rev. W. S. Atchison, assisted in the opening devotional exercises. The choir was under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Henry W. Cinnamon, while a trio, made up of Robert Carkner, George Goodman and Thomas Reid, sang a special number. Summer flowers were used to decorate the church and many worshippers attended.

On Monday evening, Rev. Mr. Atchison was chairman, welcoming a capacity audience, and thanking all those who had assisted in making the anniversary a success. Aaron Sweet, of Winchester, the recording steward of Winchester United for more than half a century, gave a history of the Harmony church.

Of the 15 ministers who have been on the circuit the following five are living: Rev. J. H. Miller, Rev. J. K. Curtis, Rev. J. A. Waddell, Rev. John McKay, while Rev. W. S. Atchison of Winchester is the present minister.

An address was also given by Mr. Robert Carkner, a member of the church for nearly 50 years, who told of the activities of the church during later years. Numbers by a quarttette composed of Chester B. Timmins, George Goodman, E. M. Shaver and J. D. Stewart, with Miss Helen Timmins at the piano, completed the programme. Luncheon was served by the ladies of the church.

We Go A-Visiting.

The editor had the pleasure during the week end of renewing friendships at Tweed which in the stress of the past few years had lain dormant. We motored by way of No. 2 highway going, and returned over the recently constructed No. 7 by way of Actinolite, Perth and Smiths Falls, which route is some 40 miles shorter than the other way, besides giving a delightful change of scenery of rivers, lakes, rock and uplands. The road is gravel, well maintained, smooth and easy to drive on, up hill and down dale, reminding one of a drive through the Adirondacks with the difference that the view is far reaching in contrast to the closed-in feeling where the forest edges the road for mile after mile in the New York mountains. If that piece of rock and rubble between Smiths Falls and Merrickville, designated as a road, were put in any reasonable shape for motoring, it would connect with the eastern roads through Kemptville, Chesterville, Alexandria and on to Montreal, making a through highway and open up a tourist country north of Kingston and Belleville to this portion of the province, which is now almost exclusively monoplized by our friends from across the border.

Sunday evening at Tweed we had the pleasure of listening to an open-air band concert in the Community Camp by the newly organized band of that hustling town. The band has been in existence but four months, but under the leadership of Mr. Dark, formerly of the celebrated concert band of Huntsville, which many no doubt, have heard at the Toronto exhibition. Mr. Dark is an outstanding cornetist, but on this occasion confined his assistance to conducting, and from our limited musical ability, we have never heard a better effect than that rendered by his youthful players, only five of whom are said to have had other leadership than during the past four months. A pleasing feature was the rendition of "Abide With Me," vocally, by Miss Seegar, with the accompaniment by the band. Tweed is evidently very proud of its band when the park was thronged by motor cars and pedestrians who listened in a downpour of rain to the first outdoor effort of its new musical organization.

Well-Drilling

For thirty-five years I've had something to tell
About the merits of a good drilled well,
My wells are made good and tight,
Cased with the best of standard pipe,
No surface water can enter there,
That gathers filth from everywhere;
Secure from rats, toads and snakes,
Which often cause pains and aches.
Don't be afraid a few dollars to spend—
The best is the cheapest in the end.
My terms are easy and my prices are low,
So don't hesitate, I can please you, I know.
When once it's done it always will last,
And you will be happier than you were in the past.
Stock well watered will do with less feed;
Let me drill your well and you'll have more'n you need.
You may say what you will, but this I do think,
Your health will be better if pure water you drink.
So take my advice of a very good plan,
And write me as soon as you can.

While Chief of Police Herbert C. Helmer of Winchester guarded a car driver in the town jail Tuesday night, thieves broke into a booth owned by Reeve T. O. Keyes situated around the corner of the next block, and got away with more than $50 worth of goods. Breaking a lock on the door, they took a bunch of bananas, overalls, underwear and sundries. Constable Helmer and Provinciail Constable Frank Rose upon investigation found marks of tires where a motor vehicle had been backed into the door.

Notes on Conservation

By
THE DEPARTMENT OF GAME AND FISHERIES

NOW that the angling season is in full swing, and thousands of enthusiasts are daily combing our lakes and streams for the fighting fish for which our waters are famous, it is perhaps an opportune time to draw the attention of the public to the necessity for a policy of conservation in connection with our game fish and other natural wild life resources. Such a policy is essential in order that we may continue to enjoy, without undue restrictions, the recreational pleasures of hunting and fishing which mean so much, both physically and materially to the people of the province.

Conservation, like many other important subjects, is widely misunderstood. The commonest form of misunderstanding is the belief that it is something for the government to worry about, something with which the individual need not greatly concern himself. This is an unfortunate idea, because, no matter what conservational measures the Government may introduce these will prove ineffective without the support of the public.

You probably have not given the subject a great deal of thought so it may not be out of place to remind you that the Game and Fishery Laws are conservation measures of the greatest importance. There are, for example, laws limiting the season during which certain fish and game may be legally taken. These are necessary, in order that natural propagation may not be disturbed. There are laws regulating the size limits of fish, and the bag and creel limits of game and fish. The reasons for these are obvious. There are many others which demand our attention, but all of them have one purpose in mind, namely, the preservation of our natural wild life resources, mammals, birds and fish, while permitting the greatest amount of liberty to the individual to indulge his hobby. Waste, extravagance and illegal practices over a long period of years have reduced the various species in forest, lake and stream, and only by public support of a programme of conservation, can we hope to build up once more these depleted resources.

The greatest contribution the individual can make to the preservation and restoration of our fish and game resources is a strict obedience of the laws himself, and a deeper sense of his own responsibility to see that others do not break them.

The ethics of sportsmanship are involved in law observance. We quote from an editorial in Rod and Gun: "The angler who is fair and square to the game-fish regulations is a true conservationist. Spawning bass have no worries when he is around. Small trout can take his fly in safety. He does no illegal netting or spearing. By being perfectly content to do what is right he helps to preserve the fish of our lakes and streams. Maintaining our game-fish supply is not merely a case of planting waters with the product of our hatcheries, it is instilling in the minds of our sportsmen that they, and they alone, can make or mar the future of fishing."

Fish primarily for recreation, and limit your catches. To feel the rod bending to the strain of a fighting bass or to hear the reel singing its accompaniment to the fighting efforts of a gamey fish are incomparable thrills from a sporting standpoint. Remember, however, that a fish in the boat is but a prospective meal, while a fish in the water offers unlimited thrills.

May we point out that bag limits are not something to be aimed at, but are rather a regulatory measure of protection beyond which it is illegal to go. As a measure of conservation, therefore, do not take more fish than you can use, within the limit set by law. Those you release uninjured to-day will be available for to-morrow's catch, and it is of to-morrow that we are most concerned. To-day there is a sufficiency, to-morrow's pleasures will depend upon how we use or abuse our privileges of to-day

Let your neighbour do his own fishing. He'll probably enjoy the sport just as much as you, once he becomes interested, and you will be conserving the supply.

Organized effort along conservational lines is the best method of preserving our natural wild life resources. If there is a Fish and Game Protective Association in your community, and you are not yet a member, join it; if there is no association at present, plan to form one. We shall be glad to assist you to organize if you will write us—Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

UNWARRANTED ATTACK.

Prescott Journal.

Saturday's Ottawa Citizen under the heading "Preston Elliott's Prospects" made some remarks about our member, A. C. Casselman, which many of us, although of a different stripe, consider are quite uncalled for. We are forced to inform the Citizen that Casselman is not of the wind-bag type of politician and that during his terms on Parliament Hill this constituency has received more attention than any time since Confederation. Previous to Casselman's term of office this constituency was "Old South Grenville" and like Ivory Soap was 99.44 per cent pure Conservative and the member of those times was always "sitting pretty" and never needed to worry about his constituents. While Elliott's prospects may be bright in the eyes of many electors to-day, there are still a great number in this town and throughout the whole constituency of both political faiths who consider that "a man's a man for a' that" and Casselman deserves a whole lot of credit for what he has done for this constituency.

Last Man is Named In Labatt Kidnapping Case

Ontario Police Issue Warrant for Russell Knowles, Detroit Hoodlum—Now Being Sought With Pegram.

London, Ont.—Police admitted today that the warrant issued here last week in the Labatt kidnapping and placed for execution in the hands of U.S. "G" men is for Russell Knowles, alias Rogers, a notorious Detroit hoodlum and gangster who was questioned by Detroit police a few days after Labatt was released last August.

Knowles, like his friend, Albert Pegram, is "on the lam" since he learned that police have been searching for him around his old Detroit haunts. This rounds out the list of six police alleged were directly concerned in the execution of the crime: David Meisner, Covington, Kentucky, gambler, and native of Ashfield, Huron county, who is in Kingston penitentiary; "Piccolo Pete" Murray, Covington, Kentucky, awaiting trial here; Michael McCardell, Chicago, a native of Beachwood, Ontario, who was arrested recently in Crown Point, native of Perth county, Ontario, awaiting trial here; Albert Pegram and Russell Knowles, Detroit, still at large.

Police officials under Crown Attorney Norman Newton were again in conference but refused to disclose anything. It is reported they have received some important information bearing on the early coming to London of McCardell.

Thrill Seekers Have Innings At This Year's Ottawa Ex.

Automobile Races Two Afternoons at Ottawa Exhibition.—Creatore and His Band Daily.

Thrill seekers will have their innings at the Ottawa exhibition from August 19th to August 24th, inclusive. For the last two afternoons of the week, Hankinson Speedways of New York will present a six-event automobile racing programme under the sanction of the contest board of the American Automobile Association.

Twenty or more drivers, representing the cream of the crop of foremost speed talent, will figure in the programme which has been definitely linked with two championship circuit 1935 contests. The first titular honours will be awarded for the eastern district by the A.A.A. while the second, the Hankinson circuit championship, involves a much wider territory and brings to the winning driver the most coveted of all diadem awards annually.

The Hankinson organization, headed by Ralph A. Hankinson, silver thachted veteran, is the oldest and largest promotional company in America sponsoring recognized automobile races, and this year is observing its silver anniversary. Hankinson activities this year extend from Ottawa to Florida, and from the Atlantic seaboard to the Mississippi river. The wide scope of activities makes possible the securing of the best drivers in the country and brings assurance of keen rivalry in every event. Last year's races showed that the Ottawa track is safe and fast, and several improvements have been made to enhance the races for this year.

For the first four days of the week there will be horse races in addition to the programme of high-class vaudeville offerings, replete with thrills and novelty.

A hundred and one other attractions simply scream their invitation to the Capital for a memorable week. Creatore and his band in two free concerts daily, one of the most elaborate out-of-door song and dance revues topping the evening programme elaborate fireworks, a new and better midway with fun and surprises for young and old, government displays, dog show, automobile show, free horse show, livestock, poultry and pets and scores of other factors will combine to make the 1935 Ottawa exhibition the best ever assembled. Prize lists and literature are available on application.

THE COST.

IF WE MET with no opposition, life would be monotonous. Some opposition is not only justifiable but is desirable because it stimulates thought and prevents our being rushed, by the enthusiast, into ventures which are based upon good intentions rather than scientific knowledge.

Ignorance is responsible for most of the opposition to public health progress. The pity of it is that such opposition may mean that children will pay the cost of it with their llves.

It is an appalling reflection upon our intelligence that even when there is no active opposition, apathy, indifference and procrastination combine to prevent progress in the war against disease.

Day by day, we fail to make use of the means that are at our disposal for the prevention of disease. This results in much needless suffering and many deaths from preventable causes. It appears almost ridiculous for us to search for new knowledge on the prevention of disease when we do not use what knowledge we now have.

Everyone knows from his own observation that those who recover from one attack of most of the communicable diseases do not again fall victim to the same disease. They have developed an immunity or resistance to the particular disease from which they have suffered.

This might be called nature's way of securing immunity. This would be quite satisfactory if it were not for the fact that while the vast majority become immune, neverthless, there is much illness and many deaths. Fortunately for us, it has been possible to modify nature's method in several instances and to secure immunity against certain diseases without causing suffering or endangering life.

The first disease controlled in this way was small-pox, through vaccination. The Great War demonstrated how effectively immunity against typhoid fever could be developed by the use of typhoid vaccine. Since that time, we have been given the knowledge which enables us to stamp out diphtheria.

There is no excuse for diphtheria's continuing to occur. In several Canadian cities, they have had the remarkable experience of going for a year and more without a single diphtheria death. If it can be done in one place, it can be done throughout Canada, and it will be done just as soon as every child is immunized against diphtheria The time to do it is now. The cost of delay is sickness, suffering and, possibly, death.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

Conducted By
MISS HELEN LACEY, B. H. Sc.

USING THE LEFT-OVERS.

TO PROVIDE MEALS with the utmost economy, nothing must be thrown away that is edible. To do this often requires careful and skillful planning. Whole meals and dishes prepared from left-overs can be as attractive and tasty as the originals.

FISH AND RICE CASSEROLE.

2 cups cooked flaked fish
¼ cup soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon grated onion
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons milk
1 egg
2½ cups cooked rice

Mix fish, crumbs and seasonings. Add butter, milk, lemon juice and egg, well beaten. Butter a mould; line with rice. Pack centre with fish mixture; cover with rice. Cover, steam 45 minutes. Turn out and serve with egg sauce.

EGG SAUCE.

2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup boiling water
½ tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 egg yolk beaten

Melt butter and blend in flour and seasonings. Add boiling water slowly and stir until thickened. Add beaten egg yolk and vinegar or lemon juice.

BROWNED HASH.

1 cup minced cooked meat
2 cups mashed potatoes
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 egg
Stock, gravy or strained tomato to moisten
½ tablespoon fat, for pan

Mix ingredients thoroughly. Heat a frying pan; put in fat Spread mixture evening in the pan and reduce heat. Cook slowly to brown mixture evenly. Fold as an omelet and garnish with parsley. Serve with Tomato Catsup.

This hash may be served on toast with a tomato sauce. It makes a very tasty supper dish.

VEAL CALLOPS.

These are prepared from cold roast veal. Cut the collops into slices one-half inch thick and about two inches wide. Flatten with a potato masher, after freeing from gristle and fat. Toss in a frying pan with a little hot butter until brown on both sides. Stir a teaspoon of flour into the butter in the saucepan after removing the collops. Add a cup and a half of brown gravy and a little minced parsley and onion or other desired seasoning. Allow gravy to boil five minutes before pouring over collops. Serve at once, very hot.

SOUR CREAM COOKIES.

During the hot weather, milk and cream sour readily and in this form can be used in many recipes.

1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup shortening
1 egg
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream the shortening and sugar together. Add beaten egg and nuts. Sift together all the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the sour cream. Mix well and drop by teaspoons on to a greased baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven 15 mintues.

When canning fruits, if you have extra juice, save it and combine with orange and lemon juice to make a cooling summer drink.

Two or three varieties of left-over vegetables can be arranged in layers in a scalloping dish with buttered crumbs Add a medium white sauce; top with crumbs and small pieces of bacon. Brown in the oven and serve as the main supper or luncheon dish. To add interest to the meal, serve tasty pickles or a nippy relish.

THE LAST OF THE MAYNARDS

TO BE AN ONLY DAUGHTER with five older brothers, all of them eagerly ready to serve you, ought to be pleasant enough. Yet Alice Maynard often wished that she had been born a boy. Her brothers, however, had little sympathy with her wish.

"If there'd been six more of us, so we could have had a football team right in the family, Allie," said John, "I am not saying we mightn't have regretted your being a girl. But as it is, you're the finest thing that ever happened."

John was a junior at Denham and would be captain of the college eleven next year; so his thoughts naturally ran on football.

So, too, for that matter, did Alice's, and that was the secret of her dissatisfaction. Not only was she fond of all games, and football in particular, but she was a Maynard. And at Denham the Maynard boys had successively distinguished themselves in athletics, like the Poes at Princeton and the Pratts at Amherst. Since Harry had entered college fifteen years before, at least one Maynard had played on every Denham football team except two.

"What shall we do when the Maynards are all used up?" the college asked. Denham was coeducational and Alice herself was to enter in the fall. She did not resent the form of the question; she only resented being a girl.

The triumphs of Harry and Alfred were too far back for her to remember; but fresh in her mind were the occasions when Paul had beaten Burford by a drop kick, and when Matt had taken the ball on a fumble and run a hundred yards for a touchdown and victory. And last year John's impressive line-smashing had not only won the Burford game but had caused him to be mentioned for the all-American eleven. No such honour could she ever earn for old Denham!

To make matters worse, the coming football season promised none too well. Even John himself pessimistically declared that Denham's chances were small against Burrord 'If we only had some one who could kick!" That was the burden of his complaint and Alice took it personally to heart. Had she been a boy, she knew that she could have kicked!

But she could not stay really downhearted for long this June, for she was to spend the summer with her Aunt Rebecca at Lake Oconomowoc. Aunt Rebecca's house at Oconomowoc was not imposing; but Aunt Rebecca knew everyone, did everything, and had a knack of making the days go by so rapidly that the time spent with her seemed as short as it was delightful.

"You've worked hard, and in the fall you'll begin to work hard again," Aunt Rebecca said to her the first day at the lake. "Now I want you to enjoy yourself."

This Alice gratefully did. Tennis and boat races, canoeing and swimming and horseback riding filled the days.

Aunt Rebecca's cottage had a small garden; and before long Alice's attention was attracted to the young man who took care of it. He seemed hardly older than she, but he was as tall as John, and it was easy to see that he was strong. He was almost comically plain, with big green eyes, "like an owl's," Alice thought. But in the first day or two, when Alice asked him some question, he answered so clearly that she wondered why he was only a man of all work, and asked Aunt Rebecca about him.

"His name is Bartlett," her aunt said. "He lives near here, and brought excellent recommendations; and unless I'm mistaken, he'll have still better ones when he leaves."

"But who is he?" Alice asked.

"I believe," said Aunt Rebecca, "his father is the head porter at the hotel."

"Oh!" said Alice; and her voice showed that she was disappointed.

But the next day, when she saw Ted Lake talking earnestly with the young gardener, her curiosity was aroused again. Ted's answer to her inquiry was quite different from Aunt Rebecca's.

"Why, he's Sam Bartlett, the full back on the high-school team here. They say he's a wonder—punts like a demon. He's going to college this fall and I was just putting in a good word for Yale."

"I wish he'd go to Denham," Alice exclaimed eagerly.

"He's booked for the state university. But if you undertook to change him, Miss Maynard, I shouldn't wonder if you could do it."

"I wish I could!" answered the girl.

That afternoon, finding the young gardener at work, she spoke to him. "Mr. Lake says you're going to college this fall."

He nodded. "Yes, ma'am."

"I'm going myself," she explained. "I'm going to Denham."

"I thought of going there myself," he said. "I want to be a mechanical engineer, and the course is first-class there."

"Why don't you, then?"

"I can't afford it," he replied simply.

"But lots of boys work their way through," she said eagerly.

"It's the tuition, you see," he explained. "The state university gives free tuition."

"But you could get a scholarship."

He laughed. "I guess not, ma'am."

"Why, it's not hard. I've got one myself."

"That's different from me getting it," he said respectfully. She made no answer, and after a moment he bent again to his work.

To Aunt Rebecca that evening Alice confided her desire. If she could only get the services of Sam Bartlett for Denham! "He really wants to go," she explained, "but he can't pay the tuition."

"That seems to settle it," said Aunt Rebecca. "He wouldn't let anyone pay it for him, and you could hardly give him your scholarship."

"Of course not. But I was thinking—do you suppose I could tutor him this summer, and maybe he could win one in the fall?"

Aunt Rebecca smiled. "It would take a great deal of your time, and there is the chance he would not win the scholarship after all."

"They give two to every state each year, and I don't believe many people would try, from Wisconsin—would they? And he's bright."

Aunt Rebecca pondered. It took a week and permission from home to win her doubtful consent.

Young Bartlett hesitated at first. But Alice's own enthusiasm and the manifest advantages of the scholarship if he should get it won him; and presently the tutoring began.

It was not easy. Bartlett was embarrassed at first, although Alice's simplicity and determination soon overcame that. He had never before worked at his books in the summer, and he was frequently restless. Only his own very real desire to have the advantages of Denham's famous engineering school and the respect he soon came to have for his teacher's earnestness and self-sacrifice kept him at the work. As for Alice, she soon found that she had undertaken a big task. Although she worked with him only an hour and a half a day, she had to spend a good deal of time in preparation. She had to deny herself engagement after engagement that she longed to make. Aunt Rebecca pitied her, and after two weeks proposed that she get another tutor for young Bartlett. But at that suggestion Alice shook her head firmly.

"That would be paying to get him in," she said "It wouldn't be quite fair, would it? And, anyway, Aunt Rebecca it wouldn't be me doing it, and I want to do what I can."

As the summer went on, Aunt Rebecca worried less and less about Alice. The girl showed no signs of getting tired. On the contrary, she grew browner and stronger and more lively every week. But she permitted nothing to interfere with the tutoring of her "protégé," not even the laughter of the other girls.

"But I'm awfully glad he's so homely!" she confided one day to her Aunt Rebecca. "They'd have so much more to laugh at if he was good-looking."

The Labour Day sports, at which Alice had a chance to see young Bartlett's ability as an athlete, brought her first reward. For Bartlett won the two-hundred-and-twenty-yard dash and the twelve-pound shot put, and in the drop kick for distance sent the ball a hundred and seventy-six feet.

"Great Scott!" remarked Ted Lawe, "I'll bet they'd hear from that boy, even at Yale!" Higher praise he could not offer.

Soon after Labour Day Alice went home. Before she left she had a long talk with her pupil. The examinations for Denham were to be held at Milwaukee some two weeks later, and she gave him minute instructions.

"I shan't forget what you've done for me, Miss Maynard, and I know why you've done it," he said bashfully. "I hope I get to Denham, for a school that has as much spirit as you've shown must be first-class."

"I hope, I do so hope, you win!" she said.

"If I do," he answered, "I'll make good afterwards—see if I don't, Miss Maynard."

She told none of her family except her mother the whole story of the summer. "If I've failed," she said, "I don't want people to laugh at me, mother."

It was three weeks later that John came jubilantly into the house one day.

"Hi, Matt!" he cried. "It looks better for Denham! You know that young fellow, Bartlett, I told you of, from Wisconsin? He's coming here—got a scholarship."

"How'd he get it?" demanded Paul.

"Examination — competitive. I Shouldn't wonder if that filled our back field. He lives up in Oconomowoc, sis. You didn't run across him, did you?"

"I heard about him," admitted Alice discreetly. "Oh, isn't it fine, fine, he's coming!"

"Well, you needn't be setting off any rockets and pin wheels until we see what he's like," commented the startled John.

Alice only laughed and made no explanation.

this way and that. Late in the first quarter a long punt from Bartlett sent the ball over the Burford goal line, and a half back foolishly tried to run it out. Two yards from the line he met the overwhelming charge of Jack Maynard and was borne back for a safety. The Denham stands roared; the Burfordites sat in stricken silence.

Those two points were all that either side scored during the first two quarters. Burford smashed and smashed desperately. Then Denham would get the ball somehow, Bartlett would send away a long kick, and the men from Burford had it all to do over. Between halves it was jubilantly or gloomily predicted that those two points would decide the game.

But the third quarter had not been under way more than nve minutes when the fortunes of the game shifted suddenly. Burford punted, and Bartlett, set to receive the ball, buffed it squarely. A Burford end snatched at it, missed it, snatched again, had it, and was off for the goal with Bartlett after him. Almost to the line they sped, when Bartlett downed him just in front of the goal posts. Two plunges failed to force back the desparate Denham defence. Then the Burford quarter back dropped the ball squarely over the bar. Three to two the score stood, against Denham.

Denham must take the offensive now; punts were no longer enough. The men toiled, panted, struggling desperately. The third quarter ended; the fourth was well under way, but still they had made no headway.

At last, when the last quarter was almost over, Denham had the ball on the Burford twenty-five-yard line, at the extreme right of the field. In the stand, sitting between Alice and his mother, Matt stared sadly at his watch.

"They haven't more than a minute to play," he said. "Their only chance is a drop. Three points would win it. The idiots!"

The team had lined up in regular formation. The ball was snapped to John Maynard, and, with Bartlett interfering, he tore for the middle of the field, then turned straight in. A long sigh rose from the Denham stands—he was down! He had gained three yards, but what were three yards then?

The referee blew his whistle and shouted to the timekeepers; time had to be taken out for something. A man was down, and the crowd strained its eyes and buzzed. "Who's hurt? It's young Bartlett!" The buzz sank into silence, for if Bartlett dropped out Denham's last faint chance was gone.

But he got up and hobbled to his place, amid yells of applause from both sides.

"It's a matter of seconds now," said Matt softly. "They're in th middle of the field, though, see?"

Denham lined up for a drop kick, and a tense hush held the stands. If the kick failed, Denham was beaten.

Even as Bartlett stood, alone, nine yards behind the quarter, the spectators could see that all was not right with him. He tossed away his headgear and nose guard; they were of no use to him now. A thousand field glasses saw that his face was white and queer.

"He'll never make it!" said Matt.

The ball came back straight and true. Bartlett caught it, took a limping step forward, dropped it, seemed to fling himself sidewise at it, and sent it soaring end over end, true as a die. The moment it left his toe, the Denham stands began to shiver with the cheering, for the goal was a foregone conclusion. Those who watched only the ball saw it clear the bar by ten feet. A few saw the kicker sink upon his left leg, roll over, and lie face down on the grass.

Denham always celebrated great victories in the same way—a huge bonfire, a torchlight procession and speeches. The speakers, by immemorial custom, stood upon a barrel in the light of the flames, and the students and townspeople in the background cheered. To-night, as usual, the first man on the barrel was the captain of the eleven, John Maynard. He congratulated the college on the victory, and when they would let him added:

"You'll be glad to get news of the freshman. His ankle's broken, but he is all right, the doctor says." He held up his hand presently for silence. "Look here, fellows," he said, "I want to tell you a little story. The boy's ankle went in that last scrimmage; he got it twisted. But he said he could make that kick, and there was nobody else, so we had to let him try."

Again the cheers went up.

"Hold on. I saw him after the game in the infirmary and I told him what Denham thinks of his pluck. And then he told me something. It seems he didn't mean to come here at all—he meant to go to his state university. But this summer there was a Denham girl out where he lives."

Alice, back in the crowd, between Matt and Harry, began to shake.

"She thought he'd be a good man for us, and what do you suppose she did? Spent part of every day, all summer, tutoring young Bartlett so that he could win a scholarship to do it 'I tell you,' Bartlett said to me, 'she had the spirit! The more I saw of her the more I thought of the colleg that would make a girl work like that over a school kid like me!' That's what he said, you understand!"

When the laughter had died out, John went on: "Well! Bartlett says, when Denham was so nearly licked to-day, and especially after he missed that punt, he kept thinking of how disappointed that girl would be. 'And so you see,' he ended up, 'when I had a chance, I had to make good, didn't I?'"

"Name! Name! We want name!" chanted the crowd, and Alice choked. But John's first words relieved her.

"He didn't say who she was, and it makes no difference. She was a Denham girl, and he had the Denham spirit; and so when you fellows are cheering for the college you're really cheering for her So now—the old yell, and let it out!"

They let it out. Under cover, Matt bent down to Alice.

"Well, little one?"

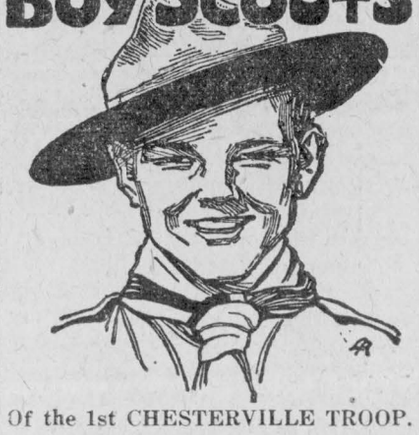

"Sh!" she whispered.

"The last of the Maynards, and, by jiminy, the best of the bunch!" he whispered back, patting her shoulders in the darkness.

A GLASS-STREWN BEACH.

TEN BAGS of broken glass was the product of a day's clean-up of the bathing beach at Cadboro Bay, B.C., by the local Sea Scouts. The explanation: A popular picnic pastime of throwing stones at floating bottle targets. Many small children had suffered severe cuts.

AUSTRALIA'S MINISTER OF EDUCATION ON SCOUTING

The Australian Minister for Education, speaking at the opening of a Rover Scout den at Watson's Bay, N.S.W.: "The Scout Movement is making a long-range contribution towards a better international feeling. If the Western World is not to dissolve in blood and misery there must be an awakening of ideals, which are of more value than material possessions The Scout Movement has those ideals which make for international co-operation, understanding and responsibility."

NEW COMMISSIONER FOR WALES

Mr. and Mrs. Binks were discussing an arrangement which implied the exercise of the "give-and-take" theory.

"Yes," said Mrs. Binks, "but only one of them get it."

Twins Married to Twins Confound Their Acquaintances

Colorado Couples Amaze Bystanders When They Walk Streets Together.—Even Buy Same Cars.

"As alike as two peas in a pod," is more than a saying as far as Mr. and Mrs. Herman Loveless and Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Loveless of Pueblo, Colo., are concerned. Herman and Harmon Loveless are twins. They are married to Lela and Lole Loveless, also twins. The resemblance between the two women and the two men is so great that even their close friends are unable to tell them apart. And to make the puzzle more difficult—they dress alike to the smallest detail. When the two couples walk down the street, passers-by stop and gaze in amazement. Their tastes are alike in every respect—even to automobiles. When one couple buys a new automobile, the other couple must have one exactly like it. There must not be a hairline difference in the cars. It was about 15 years ago—when they were first married—that the Lovelesses bought their first cars. And from that time, they have stuck steadfastly to buying in pairs.
