Chesterville, March 16, '08.

Editor Record:

Dear Sir,—I wish to take advantage of your offer in last week's issue, to correct over my own signature the item referred to. You were correct in saying I was displeased at the report of the case—Hamilton vs. Robinson. It was incomplete and gave a very wrong impression of the facts of the case. The wording was such as to lead your readers to believe that I was unseated on account of bribery and corruption, as well as for irregularities on the part of the returning officer. Such was not the case. It was proven at the trial that the charges of bribery and corruption were unfounded and that the only reason for my being unseated was on account of irregularities on the part of the clerk.

I cannot believe, Mr. Editor, that you were not aware of the facts of the case and the points on which the judgment was given. They were well known to you and to Mr. Hamilton, as well as to myself, and were common knowledge about the town before your paper was issued. The Winchester Press, printed on the same date, came out with a report in which it stated fairly that "the bribery charges were not proven."

The Montreal Herald, which came out with a report very similar to your own, on February 29th, corrected that report on March 6th—which, to date, and for reasons best known to yourself you have not yet seen fit to do. If the Cornwall Freeholder had a similar report I have reasons to believe it came from the same source as the first report in the Montreal Herald.

As a matter of fact you do not fight fair. You come out with a report calculated to injure me and shelter yourself behind another's paper. Had you wished to be fair, you might have printed that report and credited it to the Cornwall Freeholder, and then explained how it did not do me justice.

I wish also to say that myself and friends conducted a fair election and that there was no bribery or corruption or any unfair means used to defeat Mr. Hamilton.

If the Returning Officer failed to comply with all the requirements of the Election Act, it was not my fault, nor was it done with my knowledge, and I considered the decision, saddling me with the costs, so unfair that I appealed the case. On the appeal I was successful in every point except the numbering of the ballots, so that the decision of Judge O'Reilly has been confirmed and a new election necessary.

Had Mr. Hamilton been elected instead of myself he could have been unseated for the same reason.

I intend running again for reeve and wish only a fair field and no favor. If the votes of the people show that they do not want me for reeve, then there will be no squealing from me, nor will I require to be shown more than once.

VENE ROBINSON.

[With reference to the above letter of Mr. Robinson, we might have a good deal to say, but it is not our intention to prolong this matter He has much to say about the item that appeared in the issue of the RECORD of March 5th last, and seems to be rather more bigoted, than broad minded. We tried to explain to him how we came into possession of the item, and to be impartial in the case, but he still persists in saying that we knowingly did insert something that was false. As yet we are in the dark as to the result of the decision of Judge O'Reilly or from the appeal (only from newspaper reports and talk around our town) only we know that Mr. Robinson was unseated with costs. Mr. Robinson seems to rely a good deal on his word of honor, but we believe there are others in Chesterville who might be placed on the same basis. We will agree with Mr. Robinson that the item appearing in the RECORD should have been credited to the Cornwall Freeholder, and last week we took occasion to inform the public from whence it was procured, but still he persists in saying we knew it was false. Would it not be a good thing to have the judge's decision printed? As far as we are concerned, it is immaterial, but perhaps the public would like to read it..

Why didn't Mr. Robinson, as soon as he found the item was in error, correct the same in the following issue? He knows as well as he is alive, that the RECORD would not refuse him. Also, why don't he have it corrected in the Cornwall papers? He says we do not fight fair and inserted something with intent to injure him. Pretty strong language, but I guess we can bear it. Mr. Robinson must not think that he is the only pebble on the beach. There are others.] Ed.

PERSONAL.

Messrs. Patrick Kirby and J. P. Burns were in Montreal last week.

Mrs. McQueen is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. John Foster this week.

Mrs. T. Nash of Ottawa, is visiting at her parental home, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Forward.

Miss Cairns, daughter Rev. H. Cairns of Napanee is a guest at the Methodist parsonage.

The editor of the RECORD is attending the Grand Lodge meeting of the A. O. U. W. in Toronto this week.

Mr. Wm. Smith who has been employed in the store of Mr. Chester Casselman for several months, left on Monday for Ottawa, where he intends to reside in future.

Cornwall Factory Collapsed.

Without a moment's warning part of the new factory built at Cornwall last summer by the Modern Beadstead Company, collapsed yesterday afternoon. The wrecked section includes the tower which contained the elevator, and was surmounted by a 30,000 gallon tank filled with water. The fall of the tower, which, with the tank, rose 76 feet above the ground, carried out the wall of the front of the building, making a gap about 60 feet wide through the two storeys. Much damage was done to the stock with which the second storey was filled. The factory cost about $25,000 and was almost ready to start operations.

McMillan—McMillan.

On Monday forenoon at the manse Mr. Simon C. McMillan and Miss Edith G. McMillan were united in the bonds of wedlock. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. W. F. Crawford. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left on the noon train for Edmonton their future home. On the way they intend to stop at Chicago and other points of interest. THE RECORD unites with their many friends in wishing them a long and a happy wedded life.

A Narrow Escape.

Rev. J. Webster of Winchester, had a narrow escape from serious injury a few days ago. He was driving scross the C.P.R. track when his horse shied and upset the cutter just as it crossed the rails. He was thrown out and drugged up the bank at the other side. One of the reins slipped from his hand and the horse was pulled to one side just as the Perth local whizzed by. Mr. Webster was trampled on by the horse but beyond a severe shaking up was not seriously injured.

Mrs. C. W. Casselman's Spring Millinery Opening will take place April 1st, 2nd and 3rd. See next week's RECORD for announcement.

A Pleasant Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Foward's home was the scene of a very pleasant gathering last evening, where about seventy of the members of the Epworth League gathered for a social time.

A program had been planned by the social committee which made the evening pass all too quickly. Refreshments were served after which the evenings enjoyment was brought to a close by prayer and the national anthem. Every Leaguer went home with feelings of intense gratitude to the Forward Family for their kindness in opening their home.

Many expressions of regret were heard because of the illness and abscence of Miss McGee, the President.

Death of Wm. Ferguson.

William Ferguson, second concession of Roxborough, died at the residence of his son-in law, Charles McNaughton, Maxville, on Tuesday ot last week. He was seventy-nine years of age. The funeral took place on Thursday to Gravel Hill cemetery. Rev. James Hastie officiated.

Grand Concert to be held in Foster's Hall, Friday evening, Mar. 20th The services of Miss Cairns of Napanee, and Miss Wright of Ottawa, have been secured and an enjoyable time is expected. Plan of hall at Bolster's Drug Store. Admission 25c, reserved seats 35c.

$100.00 paid by Dr. Shoop for any recent case of Grippe or acute Cold that a 25 cent box of Preventics will not break. How is this for an offer? The doctor's supreme confidence in these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets—Preventics—is certainly complete. It's a $1.00. against 25 cents—pretty big odds. And Preventics, remember, contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Pneumonia wond never appear if early colds were always broken. Safe and sure for feverish children, 48 preventics 25c. Walter G. Bolster.

NORTHLANDS OF CANADA

The West Could Produce 1,300 Million Bushels of Wheat.

A despatch from Ottawa says: In the Agricultural Committee the other day, R. E. Young, Superintendent of the railway and swamp lands' branch of the Department of Interior, gave some most interesting figures and estimates in regard to the possibilities of grain-growing in the Canadian West. If the wheat crop of 1906 totalled one hundred million bushels on a settled area of 86,000,000 acres, it was, he claimed, no stretch of imagination to look in the future for a wheat production of 1,300,000 bushels, worth practically three times the total foreign trade of Canada at the present time. Of the 86,000,000 acres referred to above, only 5,000,000 acres are under wheat. One farm of 375 acres, with which he was acquainted, near Saskatoon, had given a net return last season of $14.33 an acre. The latitude did not govern the climate in Canada. In summer it was just as warm in Fort Simpson, on the Mackenzie River, as it was in Winnipeg or Ottawa. Vegetables such as cabbage, lettuce, and potatoes had been successfully grown as far north as Fort Good Hope, within 14 miles of the Arctic circle. Last summer Mr. Conway, inspector of Indian Affairs, saw as fine vegetables at Fort Good Hope as ever were grown anywhere in Canada. The growth in the far north, owing to the long days, was rapid beyond belief. Wheat of good quality there ran 62 pounds to the bushel, grown at Fort Simpson, in latitude 62. A good many statements had been made as to the available area of agricultural land in the remote northwest. One gentleman, who had traveled over a great portion of this country, declared that there was 100,000,000 miles west and north of the Athabasca. Another competent witness had said there was as much available land in that region as was now settled west of Winnipeg. The southern boundary of the Province of Tokolsk in Siberia was a hundred miles further north than Edmonton, yet in 1900 Tokolsk had a population of 1,500,000, and produced 64,000,000 bushels of wheat alone, and over 10,000,000 bushels of oats. If this was so, why should we not derive an equal profit from the portions of our Northwest Territories, which at present are remote from settlement.

But in addition to its agricultural possibilities, enough was known about the mineral resources of the northern country to prove that it was possessed of untold wealth of gold, silver, copper, iron, and many other minerals.

BUFFALO MARKETS.

Buffalo, March 17.—Wheat — Spring lower; No. 1 Northern, $1.07½; No. 2 red, $1.02; Winter easier. Corn—Firmer, No. 2 yellow, 69¾c. Oats—Steady; No. 2 mixed, 54c; No. 2 white, 57½c. Barley—91c to $1.04. Rye—No. 1 track, 89c.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Toronto, March 17.—The exporters offered were very few, but among them were several exceptionally choice steers, which brought $5.25. One load of heavy bulls sold for export at $3.75 to $4.12½.

Common and medium butchers' sold very slowly at Tuesday's lowest prices. One fair load of butchers' cattle brought only $3.50 to $4.30 per cwt., while last week it could have sold easily for $4 to $4.50.

Good butchers' cows were in fair demand, but were also very scarce. Fair and common cows sold at low prices.

Not many stockers were on the market, but, as there was little demand, most of what there were sold round 3c per pound.

Calves were slow and prices ranged from $3 to $6 per cwt. The average price per calf was about $6.50, so they were not very heavy. The trade in sheep was fairly steady, and prices held up. There was a good demand for the best grade of grain-fed lambs, which made the price go a little higher. But common lambs sold slowly at former prices.

The price of hogs is unchanged. Offerings have been light, but a fairly large run of hogs to-day kept the prices from going up.

SHOT WIFE AFTER QUARREL.

Elderly Couple of Fort William Victims of a Tragedy.

A despatch from Fort William, Ont., says: After living together for over twenty years, a petty quarrel of an old couple of this city ended in a terrible tragedy Saturday afternoon, Mr. Wm. Garton being dead by his own hand and his wife lying in the McKellar Hospital in a critical condition, as the result of a bullet wound in her head, the wound having been inflicted by Garton before he turned the weapon on himself. The couple were in the back yard at the time, and the tragedy was started by a war of words, which was suddenly ended by Garton whipping out a revolver and committing the insane deed. Neighbors who were attracted by the shots found both lying apparently lifeless on the ground, but a closer examination showed that Mrs. Garton was still alive, and she was hurried off to the hospital, where medical aid has, so far, been able to keep life in her, although the final outcome is very doubtful. No reason for the rash act is known. Garton was apparently sane, and was not a user of liquor. The couple have resided here for many years, and have a family of grown-up children.

JUMPED FROM WINDOWS.

A despatch from Quebec says: The cry of fire in the King Edward Hotel, a small hostelry situated on Garden street, near the City Hall, created a scene of considerable excitement on Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. The fire took place in the basement, and in a few moments the entire premises were filled with dense smoke. The guests, to the number of about thirty-five, including members of the Aborn Opera Company, performing at the Auditorium, were awakened from their slumbers, and some of the women became so excited that they jumped from a second story window into the yard, partially dressed. The firemen, in the meantime, were quickly on the spot, and very soon extinguished the flames before they reached any dangerous proportions. The damage was insignificant.

DETERMINED TO DIE.

Montreal Woman's Three Attempts at Suicide.

A despatch from Montreal says: Mrs. Foran, a middle-aged woman, attempted suicide by three different means on Sunday morning: First, by throwing herself in front of a street car; second, by drinking benzine, and, finally, by stabbing. The woman, who resides at 100 Bleury street, had been in a fit of despondency concerning family matters. Rushing out of the house, she lay down in front of an Outremont car, and was within an inch of being crushed by the wheels when the motorman brought the car to a standstill. She was removed to her home, where she immediately lifted a large bottle of benzine and swallowed the contents. This, however, did not immediately disable her, and she seized a pair of scissors and stabbed herself. She will probably die.

FOUR HUNDRED SLAIN.

Battle Between Italians and Tribesmen in Somaliland.

A despatch from Rome says: News has been received here from Italian Somaliland to the effect that a local tribe, helped by soldiers of the Mullah, attacked another tribe under the protection of Italy and killed thirty of their opponents. They then drove off a quantity of cattle. Italian troops were then sent in to the disturbed section to punish the raiders. In this they were successful, for in one engagement they killed four hundred of the tribesmen and sixty of the Mullah's soldiers. The Italians had one man killed and two wounded.

MUST PRODUCE CERTIFICATES.

Order-in-Council Passed to Check Influx of Undesirables.

A despatch from Ottawa says: An order-in-Council has been passed which prohibits from and after April 15th next the landing in Canada of any person whose passage has been paid wholly or in part by any charitable organization out of public moneys, unless it is shown that the authority in writing of the Assistant Superintendent of Emigration for Canada in London has been obtained for the emigration of such person, and that such authority has been acted upon within a period of 60 days. Mr. Oliver in his report, upon which the minute of Council is based, pointed out that a considerable number of undesirable immigrants arrived in Canada last year from the British Isles, of whom 141 were rejected and 441 deported.

ENGINE AND CARS DITCPED

Scores of Passengers Hurt on Newfoundland Railway.

A despatch from Halifax, N. S., says: The steamer Bruce, arriving at North Sydney on Friday, had over one hundred passengers, the majority of whom were suffering from injuries received on the Newfoundland Railway on Thursday, in one of the worst accidents in the history of the Reid road. Many passengers were obliged to remain at Port Aux Basque, with injuries so serious as not to permit of their continuing their journey.

The accident occurred six and a half miles from Port Aux Basque, when most of the passengers were asleep. The train was moving rapidly along when the engine and forward cars rolled over and over, hurling men, women and children from their berths in the tangled wreckage. None were killed outright, although the cook on the train received injuries which are likely to prove fatal.

Wm. Babcock, going to Alliston, Mass., had his head badly cut, and his wife and child were also severely injured. One girl, bound for Vancouver, had her face covered with bandages, her teeth having penetrated her lips. Andrew Snow, en route to Fernie, B. C., had his arm badly dislocated. In fact, all the passengers sustained more or less serious injuries.

Heavy banks of snow near where the wreck occurred, added to the suddenness of the catastrophe, rendered the work of rescue difficult, and for nearly six hours the injured passengers were obliged to do the best they could until a wrecking train reached the scene. During this time many pitiful scenes were enacted, distracted parents fearing that their children were buried under the wreckage.

The place where the cars rolled over was fortunately level ground. Had it occurred where the road was rocky or mountainous, there is no doubt many, if not all, would have been killed.

DISGUISED FOR LIFE.

Citizens of Canary Islands Have Tattooed Faces.

A cable despatch to The New York Herald from Madrid says: Reports from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, tell of an amusing case. Eighty persons have brought suits for damages against a chemist named Alonso. It appears that during the carnival a man applied for a novel kind of facial disguise, and the chemist painted on the man's face a large green fly. This carnival decoration proved a popular success and many other revellers called and had their foreheads, cheeks and noses adorned with green images of birds, flies and rabbits. After the carnival ended the wearers of these decorations discovered that there was no soap strong enough to remove the paint, and complained to the authorities. A local expert declares the method employed is the same used by the Indians for tattooing purposes, and that these citizens of the Canary Islands will have to wear the green pictures for the rest of their lives. Alonso barely escaped lynching.

EXPERIMENTS WITH VEGETABLES.

Under the Direction of the Ontario Agricultural College.

The practical educational work carried on by the Ontario Agricultural College, through the Experimental Union, is now well known throughout Ontario. Thousands of people in both town and country interested in farming, fruit-growing or gardening are carrying on experiments under the direction of the College and are profiting by the experience.

The seeds or plants for these experiments and full instructions for conducting them are furnished free on the understanding that each experimenter will report the results of his experiment at the end of the season.

Owing to the great demand for the experiments with fruits and the limited funds for the purchase of plants for this purpose, the supply of these for this year is already exhausted. But we have on hand a good supply of seeds for the experiments with vegetables and hope to be able to furnish these to all interested in the growing of the best kind of garden vegetables.

Three of the leading varieties of each of the following kinds of vegetables are offered for testing this spring, viz.: beets, carrots, onions, lettuce, early tomatoes, and later tomatoes.

The early tomatoes are best for northern sections where the later and better varieties cannot be depended upon to ripen.

Any person in Ontario who wishes to join in this co-operative testing may choose any one of the experiments above mentioned and send in his application for the seeds and instructions for conducting the same. These will be sent by mail free of charge, but each applicant must agree to follow the directions furnished, and report the results at the end of the season, whether successful or not.

Applications will be filed in the order they are received until the supply of seeds is exhausted. Address all applications to,

SIZE OF THE LEGISLATURE

More Than One Hundred Seats Are Provided For.

A despatch from Toronto says: In accordance with the plan suggested by Hon. Mr. Whitney, the bill respecting representation to the Legislative Assembly, the redistribution measure, was read a second time on Thursday and referred to a special committee. The duty of that body will be "to prepare schedules containing and describing the electoral districts entitled to return members to the House." It is composed of five Conservative members, Hon. Messrs. Whitney, Matheson and Hanna, and Messrs. Dargavel (Leeds) and McDiarmid (West Elgin), and three Opposition members, Messrs. C. M. Bowman, S. Clarke (Northumberland) and May (Ottawa). In speaking of the bill the Prime Minister quoted precedents for the method of procedure adopted. In his address he did not add materially to the knowledge of the House as to the changes to be made in the representation reiterating that the schedules were to be prepared by the committee. He asserted that the membership of the Legislature would be increased to a little over 100, and that the northern Ontario and the City of Toronto would be given additional representatives. He repeated that county lines would be adhered to and that inequalities of population introduced by former Governments would be corrected.

The chief point of importance in the remarks of the leader of the Opposition was his reference to Toronto. He distinctly opposed the fixing of the number of members to be elected in the city at eight. In view of the number of Cabinet Ministers residing in Toronto its maximum representation should be six.

USED NEW ANÆSTHETIC

Doctors Hope for Good Results From the Experiment.

A despatch from Toronto says: The other day at the General Hospital, an anaesthetic, named Fotvaine, which had never before been used in Canada, was tried on a man who had to be operated on for a serious injury to his bowels.

Frank Simpson was taken to the hospital some time ago suffering from a terrible laceration of the bowels through being kicked by a horse. Three times had the man been operated on, the ordinary anaesthetic being used. Another operation was considered necessary, but it was found he could not survive an application of the same anaesthetic and still live.

Dr. Norman Anderson, of the surgical staff, then decided to try the preparation discovered by Fourneau, a Parisian chemist, which contains no cocaine, yet deprives the person of any sensation of pain, although they are still in full possession of their senses.

Dr. Anderson made an injection of fluid into the sac covering the patient's spinal cord and successfully united several portions of the bowels. Simpson afterwards said he felt no pain whatever, although he had been conscious all the time.

This preparation had been used by Prof. Barker, of University College, London, England, and out of two hundred cases only eight had failed. This new anaesthetic does away with the ill effects of the unconscious producing kind.

BRIGHT EYES, ROSY CHEEKS.

Every Girl Can Have Them by Keeping Her Blood Rich and Red With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

In the early days of her womanhood every girl—no matter what her station in life—should be bright, active, cheerful and happy. Her steps should be light, her eye bright and her cheeks rosy with the glow of health. But the reverse is the condition of thousands of young girls throughout Canada. They drag along, always tired, suffer from headaches, breathless and with palpitating heart after slight exercise, so that merely to go up stairs is exhausting. This is the condition doctors call anaemia, which means weak, watery blood. In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only safe and reliable medicine. These pills actually make the new, rich, red blood which can alone give health and strength, and thus make weak, listless, pale-faced girls bright, active and strong. Miss Albina St. Andre, Joliette, Que., says:—"I am more grateful than I can say for the benefit I have found in the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was weak, run down and very miserable. I suffered from severe pains in my back and chest; had a bad cough; no appetite and would lay awake most of the night, and what sleep I did get did not refresh me. I tried several remedies, but they did not help me, and I, as well as my friends, feared I was going into decline. At this stage a friend who came to see me strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and providentially I acted upon the advice. After using a few boxes my appetite improved and I began to sleep much better at night. This greatly cheered me and I continued taking the pills for some time longer, when the change in my condition was really marvellous. I was feeling as well as I ever had done. I could sleep soundly at night; the pains and cough had disappeared and I felt an altogether different girl. I am so grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me that I cheerfully give you permission to publish this in the hope that it may point the way to health to some other weak and despondent girl."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are good for all diseases due to weak, watery blood. That is why this medicine cures rheumatism, indigestion neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, and the sideaches, backaches and headaches caused by the troubles women alone suffer from. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FIFTY YEARS OF CRIME.

A Vast Improvement in the Last Half Century.

An interesting comparison given in the criminal statistics for England and Wales for the year 1906, issued recently, enables a contrast to be made for the first time of the prevalence of crime today with fifty years age. Generally speaking, it may be said that a vast improvement has taken place. The number of persons tried on indictable offences—that is to say, the more serious crimes—totalled 59,079 in 1906, as compared with 54,667 in 1857. There is thus a slight increase in the number of criminals, but when it is remembered that the population has increased from nineteen and a quarter millions to thirty-four and a half millions in the fifty years, it becomes evident that, proportionately to the population, serious crime has decreased by some 40 per cent. The chief comparisons are as follows:—

Serious offences	113,330	82,264
Drunkenness	75,859	211,493
Education offences	None	53,399
Police regulations	38,633	132,504

TRIBE OF CRIMINALS.

The Maghaya's Greatest Pride is Successful Burglary.

The Maghaya is born in an arhar field and schooled to theft from his infancy, says the Bengal Gazetter. He lives without shelter or food for the morrow, perpetually moving from encampment to encampment, chased by the police and execrated by the villagers. His greatest pride is a successful burglary, and a prolonged drinking bout his most coveted reward.

Jail offers no terrors to the Dom; it is merely the result of being a bungler at his trade. The first attempt to reclaim the Maghaya Doms in Champarun was made by Mr. (now Sir E.) Henry. He found the greater number of the adult members of the tribe were in jail. Every police officer was held responsible if any Doms were found in his jurisdiction, with the result that as soon as a Dom was released from jail he was usually returned thither under the bad livelihood sections.

Agricultural settlements were established for the tribe, but they do not seem to have been very successful as civilizing agencies. The settlements serve as houses for the women and children, but the men are seldom found in them. The females generally hawk stolen property in the villages and act as spies.

BRITISH CROWN JEWELS.

Are Carefully Guarded in the Wakefield Tower.

Apropos of the scandal in Dublin over the disappearance of the regalia from the castle, it is interesting to know what precautions are taken to guard the Crown jewels in the Tower of London. A correspondent of The London Daily Graphic, who has been investigating the matter, has discovered that during the day there are always three Yeomen of the Guard (Beefeaters, they are familiarly called), or two yeomen and a sergeant on duty, in the room in the Wakefield Tower, where the treasure is kept.

Electric bells communicate with the guard-room, which is immediately outside the Wakefield Tower. If any attempt were made on the jewels—as once was made by the notorious Colonel Blood two and a half centuries ago—the alarm would at once be given to the guard-room and the guard would be called. If by any mischance the guard did not instantly respond, another bell can be rung which alarms the whole of the garrison of the tower. Minor precautions are the posting of a Beefeater at the entrance to the stairway of the tower, while a sentry always paces just opposite night and day. At night every lock is inspected by the keeper of the regalia, General Sir Hugh Gough, and all are locked by him, and the only keys to them are taken by him and kept in his own private apartments at the tower. Besides this watch is kept by sentries at the only entrance to the Wakefield Tower, and every door and every gate are protected by specially designed electric burglar alarms.

WEIGHED FOUR POUNDS WHEN FOUR MONTHS OLD

Most of the sickness that comes to babies and young children is due to the stomach or bowels being out of condition. It is then that they are cross, peevish and upset the whole household. These are troubles that Baby's Own Tablets always cure promptly. Here is proof: Mrs. J. Stewart, Everton, Ont., says: "My little girl thrived so badly that at the age of four months she weighed four and a half pounds. Her stomach was badly out of order, and although the doctor treated her he did not help her. Then I got Baby's Own Tablets and right from the first they helped her and now she enjoys perfect health." If your little one is ailing try Baby's Own Tablets—always do good; cannot do harm. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHEN THE EARTH QUAKES.

Some idea of the stupendous power of the subterranean forces exerted by earthquakes is shown in the physical changes effected by them. Mountains have been obliterated or new ones formed, islands have been made or destroyed, and whole stretches of coastline wiped out. For instance, in September, 1759, on the lofty tableland about 150 miles south-west of the city of Mexico, a piece of land four square miles in area was suddenly raised 550 feet., and numerous cones appeared—one of them, the volcano of Jorullo, being nearly 1,700 feet high. Java, in 1772, suffered in the opposite way, for a tract of country fifteen miles long by six miles broad was swallowed up entirely—a mountain of 9,000 feet being reduced to 5,000 feet only in the process.

AUSTRIAN JURY ACQUITS GIRL.

Tried to Kill a Russian Governor With a Bomb.

The existing tension between Russia and Austria is not likely to be improved by the remarkable acquittal by an Austrian jury, of a Russian girl revolutionary who tried to assassinate General Skallon, Governor-General of Warsaw, in August, 1906.

Wanda Dobrozdicka, the prisoner, is 21 years old, and was formerly a student at Warsaw University. While General Skallon was driving in his carriage she threw four bombs at him, but only succeeded in wounding some Cossacks.

She succeeded in escaping to Trieste, and afterward settled in Galicia, where she married an Austrian painter. The Russian Government finally ascertained her residence and demanded her extradition. As she had become an Austrian subject, however, she could not be extradited, and her trial took place at Wadowice, Galicia.

The prisoner gloried in her attempt, which she described fully in court. She stated that she had been designated by the Revolutionary party in Warsaw to carry out the "sentence of death" on the Governor-General, and an elaborate conspiracy was organized by the leaders of the Terrorist group.

In a self-possessed manner she informed the court that she was guilty of throwing bombs, and added that she considered herself as a soldier who gave his life for his country and was not a murderer. She never expected to escape, thinking she would be killed by the explosion or shot in the subsequent confusion.

Military officers were forbidden to attend the court, which was crowded when the jury returned, after fifteen minutes' retirement, a unanimous verdict of acquittal. The public cheered loudly and the women in the gallery showered flowers on the young woman.

4 YEAR OLD BOY COULDN'T STAND!

Limbs Weakened by La Grippe

Made Strong by Zam-Buk.

Mrs. T. Brixton, of 5 Woodworth Ave., St. Thomas, Ont., says: "I had had some experience as to the efficacy of Zam-Buk in healing sores, cuts, etc., and had heard good reports from friends who also tried this balm, so when a year ago my little lad, four years of age, was left weak in the limbs as the result of a severe attack of influenza, I began rubbing in the Zam-Buk. His legs were so weak he would tremble and shake and was unable to stand for any length of time. Frequent applications of this ointment well rubbed in, seemed to strengthen him daily, and in a very short time the shaking and trembling in his limbs had been banished and he soon got strong and able to run about, thanks to Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk is a splendid embrocation for rheumatism, sciatica, etc., and is without equal as a healing balm.

TOO KNOWING.

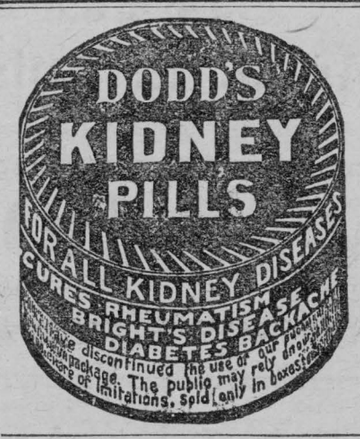

"Why not set your cap for that young fellow? He's single and well off."

"Yes, he's single; but he knows he's well off."

ANSWERED.

"I'm afraid I'm catching a cold," said Klosman, trying to get some medical advice free. "Every once in a while I sneeze. What would you do in a case like that, doctor?"

"Well," replied Dr. Sharpe. "I guess I'd sneeze, too."

ISSUE NO. 12—08.

DEFINITIONS BY SMALL WILLIAM.

Dust—Mud with the juice squeezed out.

Ice—Water that stayed out too late and went to sleep.

Stomach—The home of the swallow.

Salt—That what makes your potatoes taste bad if you don't put some in.

Junction—A place where two railroads separate.

Wakefulness—When your eyes are all the time coming unbuttoned.

Responsibility—What would be on one button if the other one should come off my trousers.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protuding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

The number of deaths that occurs on the globe amount to 67 a minute, and the births to about 69 or 70 a minute.

If a cough makes your nights sleepless and weary, it will worry you a good deal, and with good cause. To dispel the worry and give yourself rest try Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It exerts a soothing influence on the air passages and allays the irritation that leads to inflammation. It will subdue the most stubborn cough or cold, and eventually eradicate it from the system, as a trial of it will prove to you.

The title "Reverend" was not usually granted to the clergy until the middle of the seventeenth century.

Spots and blotches on the face and neck are often merely signs of foul blood. Apply Weaver's Cerate to obtain immediate relief and take Weaver's Syrup to rid the blood of pollution.

We never know what a good time we are having till it is over.

Worms derange the whole system. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator deranges worms and gives rest to the sufferer. It only costs 25 cents to try it and be convinced.

If ugliness was only skin deep lots of women would try to shed their skins.

When You Have a Cold, the air cells are clogged with mucous or phlegm. Allen's Lung Balsam, in curing a cold, clears the tiny air passages and heals the bronchial tubes.

RUNNING HIM DOWN.

Hitter—"This paper states that it is only a matter of time when the automobile will reach the poor man."

Upp—"You bet it will reach him if he don't get out of the road as soon as he hears the first 'honk, honk'!"

A WISH.

"De bes' wish you kin make foh a nachelly lazy man dat has curly hair an' plays de guitar," said Uncle Eben, "is dat he'll git bald young an' hab rheumatism in his fingers."

People can do more help growing old than they can help growing fat.

"Every One Thought I Had Consumption. Pe-ru-na Saved Me."

"I THANK DR. HARTMAN FOR PE-RU-NA."

MRS. MOIS PARIZEAU.

"I hardly know how to thank you for the good Peruna has done me.

"I suffered five years with pain in the stomach. About a year ago it became so bad I could hardly bear it. I coughed day and night and grew weaker and weaker. The pain extended through my body and I also had difficulty in breathing, which made me cough. Everyone thought I had consumption.

"My husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles. This treatment virtually cured me and now I recommend Peruna to every one who is suffering.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for this excellent remedy."

Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada. —Mrs. Mois Parizeau.

NEGLECTED cold is generally the first cause of catarrh.

Women are especially liable to colds. These colds occur more frequently during the wet, sloppy weather of winter and spring than any other time of the year. Often they are not considered serious and are allowed to run on, or they are treated in such a way as to only palliate the symptoms, while the cold becomes more deep-seated and the patient finally awakens to the fact that she has a well-developed case of catarrh.

WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF CATCHING COLD.

By reason of their delicate structure, the lungs are frequently the seat of a cold, especially if there is the slightest weakness of these organs. The treatment of catarrh of the lungs is also more difficult and discouraging than catarrh of any other organ of the body.

It would be wise therefore, to guard against it by every precaution possible.

Peruna has been found the most reliable of all remedies for coughs, colds and catarrh, by reason of the fact that it goes at once to the very seat of the trouble.

It searches out every crevice, every duct of the body. It quickens and equalizes the circulation of the blood, thus relieving the congested mucous membranes. It exercises a healing and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes, no matter whether they are the more exposed membranes of the head and throat, or whether they line the remotest cells of the lungs.

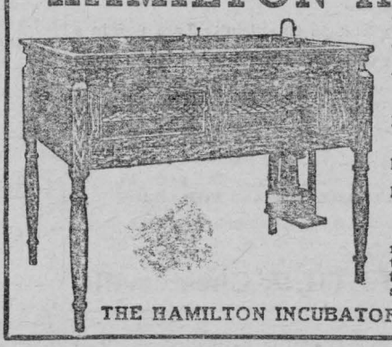

PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY FOR CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

Mrs. Jaschob, 1631 Hicks St., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"When I wrote to you for advice, I had been sick for three years. I had trouble with by throat. Often I could not breathe through my nose. I also had pains in my chest and a cough. I took Peruna according to directions and it has cured me."

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS.

Mr. H. Beaucage has opened a tailor shop in the building just west of the Dominion House.

Mr. Nelson Dixon of this place, is confined to his bed with an attack of inflammation of the lungs.

Whittaker, the Optician, will be at Chesterville on April 15th and Finch on April 16th.

Mrs. Sarah McMahon has purchased the stock of the late Mr. M. J. Halliday, and is at present renovating the premises.

Pembroke is to have a Carnegie library the council having accepted an offer of $12,000 from the great philanthropist. The town will furnish the site but it has not yet been decided upon.

Trinity (Anglican) Church, Merrickville, one of the oldest in the district, is to be taken down to make way for a handsome new structure which is to be erected on the site. The church was built seventy one years ago.

James Black, of Winchester, has purchased that great little trotting stallion, "DeVeras,' which recently won the five-mile trotting race at Montreal. He was at one time owned by Antoine Wendling, of Brockville, and has a mark of 2.11¼.

Messrs. Berry & Wood, carpenters and general contractors of this place are now open for contracts for work. Mr Berry has been a resident of this place for several months and his partner, Mr. Wood, will arrive here about first of April. They are prepared to submit estimates, prepare plans, etc.

At a joint meeting of the Official and Trustee Boards of the Methodist church Smith's Falls, Monday night a unamous invitation was extended to the pastor, Rev. W. J. Wood, to continue his work here and as an evidence of the evidence of the appreciation of his labors the stipend was increased from $1200 to $1300 the increase to apply to the past year.

The appeal of Mr. Robinson re the case of Hamilton vs. Robinson was heard in Ottawa on Saturday. The case was dismissed with costs. We did not ask Mr. Robinson if such was the result, but it has been rumored around town that such a judgement was handed out, and in his letter in another column he states that that should be an authority for publishing it.

April 5th is the 20th anniversary of the opening of the Presbyterian church here. On that day special services will he held to mark the occasion on the Monday following the men of the congregation are going to have a Leap Year At Home. Every department of the Social is in the hands of the men of the congregation and a good time is expected.

Special services are being conducted in the Presbyterian church here. To-night and to-morrow night the Rev. Mr. Yule, Winchester, will conduct the meetings. On Friday night the service will be from 7.30 to 8.30. On Sabbath Mr. Yule will preach three times; in the morning at 11, afternoon at 2.30, and evening at 7. The afternoon service will be for the children and their parents.

Mr. C. M. Willard, of Oakland, Cal., is in town in the interest of an electric railroad which it is proposed to erect between Morrisburg and Ottawa. An application is being made to parliament for the same, as will be seen by advertisement elsewhere. Mr. Willard has purchased property in Morewood, where his wife was a former resident, being a daughter of Mr. Robert L Marcellus.—Morrisburg Leader.

Preparations are being made for a large mass-meeting of men to be held in the Methodist Church on Sunday, March the 29th, at 3 o'clock p.m. This gathering will be strictly for men A choir of male voices will lead a song service. Mr. G. F. Jonnston, one of Montreal's leading business men will be the principal speaker. The hope is entertained that as a result of this gathering the young men of the church may be organized into a brotherhood. The RECORD of next week will give full paticulars.

Medical Science Advancing Fast.

Formerly doctors prescribed stomach treatment for Catarrh and bronchitis. They seldom cured and catarrh has become a national disease. To-day the advanced physician fights Catarrh by medicated air. He fills the lungs, nose and throat with the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. Cure then is certain. Easy for Catarrhozone to cure. It contains the essences of pure pine balsams, reaches all the germs and destroys the disease. Every case of Catarrh, Bronchitis and sore throat can be cured by Catarrhozone. 25c.

Have a good Complexion.

First of all you need plenty of blood—the red kind. Have it pure, or otherwise blotches and pimples will render your natural charms unaviling. Nothing can equal Ferozone, either as a former of rich blood or as a skin purifier. By driving out humors, Ferrozone cleanses inside just as water does outside. Because of the nourishment and building properties it contains, Ferozone, brings the system to a high point of vigor, from which shines vim, ambition, good spirits. For good looks, good health, take Ferrozone, all dealers in 50c. boxes.

Chesterville Defeated.

The team of Chesterville Public School went to Morrisburg on Saturday and played agaist the junior team of the Collegiate Institute there. Although the ice was soft and covered with water the boys provided a most interesting and exciting game for the couple of hundred spectators who were present. The result was 3-2 in favor of the Morrisburg boys. The teams were:—

Death of George Wert.

After a brief illness an old and highly respected resident near Wales George Wert, died of heart failure early on Sunday morning, March 8, aged 74 years. The deceased was decended from the old United Empire Loyalist, and had been a life-long resident on the old homestead where he died. He was a man of quiet genial, disposition, and was held in very warm regard by his many friends. The funeral took place on Tuesday morning to St. Davids Church, where Rev. C. O. Carson, M. A, conducted the funeral services. The pall-bearers were James Connelley, Charles Baker, Edgar Fetterly, Edgar Markell, J. R. Manning and W. J. Ransom.

The deceased is survived by his wife, three sons, Charles, Corrie and Garret Wert, and one daughter. Mrs. Fred. Warren; also by thre sisters, Mrs. Gordon Eamon, Mrs. Sydney Campbell and Mrs. Richardson Moss, all of this section, and one brother, brother, William S. Wert of Prescott. The relatives have the sympathy of the community in their berravement.

Nessie—Wert.

A pretty wedding took place in the Anglican Church, Avonmore, at high noon on Wednesday, March 11, when Miss Cassie Wert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wert of Avonmore, became the bride of Oliver Nessie of Dakota. The bride, who wore a cream lustre gown, with a white chiffon hat, was attended by Miss Alguire, who was similarly attired. Walter Wert of Lachine was groomsman. The wedding march was played by Miss Annie Fulton. Rev. S. D. Hague of Newington officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Nessie will leave about the end of this month for Dakota.

Mr. R. Tivey of Peterboro, aged 42 years died of blood poisoning on Monday, resulting from a bite in a finger by a pet kitten ten days ago.

CURED PAINFUL IRREGULARITIES.

Strong Testimony From a Lady Resident of Clarksburg, Proving that Ferrozone Surpasses all Other Remedies.

The health of many women is constantly imperilled through failure of certain organs to work according to nature's requirements.

Where this condition occurs there is no safer remedy to employ than Ferrozone which has a specific action in female troubles.

Not only does it act directly on the organs, ensuring regularity and freedom from pain, but by forming rich red blood fortifies the system against weakening drains.

Ferrozone Makes Strong Women

Ferrozone possesses a volume of merit totally absent in the ordinary medicine, and its superiority is proclaimed by thousands of women it has restored to vigorous health. From Mrs. F. G. Caldwell comes the following endorsement, written from her home in clarksburg: "I went through a most trying experience with what is commonly known as 'female Trouble'. It is'nt necessary to state my symptoms, but I suffered a great deal. My health was well nigh ruined, and I got into such a condition that I could'nt even sleep. I was dreadfully nervous, weak and pale. Different prescriptions were recommended and I tried them. But ferrozone was the first to help. I improved steadily under ferrozone, and normal conditions were finally established. I gained weight, my color and spirits improved, and my former health was restoted. ferrozone cured me, and with a full heart I recommend this good medicine to all other women."

Beware of imitations—don't allow a druggist to palm off anything else for ferrozone, which costs 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

William Green and family moved last week to their farm at Osnabruck Centre. John Dawson and family of Finch are taking possession of the house and lot Mr. Dawson purchased from Mr. Green.

One of the oldest residents of this section, William Milligan, died on Saturday at his home here. He was 89 years of age, having been born at Dumfriesshire, Scotland, Dec. 25, 1819. The family moved a year or so later to Londonderry, Ireland, and Mr. Milligan came to Canada in 1842. Setting at Newington in 1844, he resided here ever since. He was a man of sterling character and was held in high esteem throughout the whole county. In politics he was a life-long Conservative and in religion a staunch Presbyterian.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, James A. Milligan, Alexander Milligan of Newington, John C. Milligan of Cornwall, and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Carson of Avonmore, and eight grandchildren. One brother, Sandy Milligan, lives at Sawanee, Ill.

The funeral took place at the homestead on Monday and was largely attended. The pall-bearers were his two sons, Alexander Milligan, John C. Milligan, R. N. Tinkess, James MacPherson, Robert Carson, and Francis Hoople. Rev. George Mingie of North Lunenburg conducted the service.

Question For Every Reader.

If you could find a simple vegetable remedy for keeping all organs healthy and strong—would'nt you use it? Most pills are harsh, cause pain, and sick stomach. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are different—they regulate and cleanse the system, so gently, act so silently you scarcely realize you've taken medicine. You are cleansed—appetite improves—color clears—sleep is restored. Every man, woman and child is helped by Dr Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c box.

FINCH.

It is evident that the council of the Township of Finch mean business and are determined to stop the wanton distruction of shade trees along the public highway. At a late meeting of the council of the township of Finch, the following resolution was passed: "That owing to repeated complaints of various rate payers of the township of Finch complaining of parties cutting and taking away from the highways of the township shade trees, without any authority whatsoever, that this council take steps to stop this destroying of shade and ornamental trees, and that the clerk be instructed to notify all pathmasters of this action of the council and instruct them to keep their attention on shade trees in their several divisions, and report any destruction of trees to the township clerk." The council evidently believe "that a thing of beauty is a joy for ever," and are determined to act accordingly. It would be well for other municipalities do do likewise, and in this way at least preserve shade trees along the public highways of our province.

A public meeting will be held in the Oddfellows' Hall on Thursday, March 24th, at 2 o'clock, p.m., for the purpose of organizing the Finch Cheese Board for the coming season. All salesmen and buyers are invited to attend as questions of interest to dairymen will be discussed.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

How the Poodle Got Away

"WILL you provide me with dinner and lodging for the night?"

The landlord of the Black Poodle Inn looked doubtfully at the speaker, imagining, from the shabby appearance of the traveler, that he was without money, and therefore was asking charity. But the sharp innkeeper also observed that the stranger carried a palette and artist's materials; so he made answer in this wise:

"That I will do, but in return you must paint a new black poodle on my sign."

For a moment the artist seemed about to laugh. He struggled to compose his features, however, and gravely nodded his willingness to carry out his part of the agreement.

Ascending a ladder, the artist was soon busy with his brush. An hour later he leaned back to critically survey the completed painting. Then an idea came to him.

"Ho, landlord!" he called, "I shall paint your dog a chain, too, if you will give me breakfast tomorrow morning."

But the avaricious man did not care to lose the price of another meal and he was quite satisfied with the handsome picture which now appeared on the sign. He shook his head surlily.

A modest meal was placed before the artist and a very modest room was given him for the night.

Next morning the innkeeper went to the door with his guest, not so much to wish the stranger godspeed and a pleasant journey as to proudly examine his new sign in the light of morning.

No sooner did he lift his eyes than he staggered back a pace, and then stammered:

"Wh-a-t has become of the poodle?"

"You would not have me paint a chain," calmly replied the artist; "I fear your dog has escaped!"

As you will probably surmise, the artist had quietly arisen during the night, stolen outdoors, and painted the sign blank. So, through meanness, the innkeeper lost a most valuable painting, for the stranger was the best-known and wealthiest artist of the time.

MICHAEL'S WISH: A STORY OF ST. PATRICK'S DAY

"AN', as I was sayin', darlint, whin the blessed St. Pathrick druv the snakes from the Imerald Isle, he sez to himself thot he would hev to sind away the ghosts and the goblins and the banshees, bekase for Christhians to be pothered by sich wouldn't do at all. Accordin'ly, most of the ghosts an' the goblins an' the good banshees took to their heels at wunst; but minny a bad banshee paid no notice o' what the saint hod ordthered, but stayed an' brought minny a body to their death.

"Sure, I mustn't be a-tellin' to you sich things, that's not for the likes o' you to hear. But, faith, me head's full of thim, since tomorrow's St. Patrick's Day." Here Bridget closed her lips resolutely, nor could she be beguiled into parting with more of her wonderful stock of folk-lore.

However, Michael had heard enough to put his head in a whirl. Material he had gained enough for a dozen day-dreams. Dreaming, you know, occupied a large part of the lad's time. In fact, when your father's a captain in the army, and you live at a lonely army post out on the plains, there frequently isn't very much else to do. There were no other little boys to play with. Michael would have been forlorn, indeed, had there been no Bridget to spin fanciful tales for him.

So full was his head with banshees and fairies that Michael was unable to sleep that night. So you can see, can't you, that what happened him surely must have been "real"? Michael would have told you that, as he lay upon his little cot, he slept not one wink.

A SPLENDID BANSHEE

The banshee came just after the prolonged cry of "All's well!" from the guard on Number One post. It was a splendid banshee—not at all like the shriveled, old hags which Bridget had told him were the wicked ones. No, indeed, this was a good banshee, like a beautiful fairy princess. Quite trustingly he put his hand in hers when she sweetly bade him prepare for their journey. Then together they flew over hill and dale, streams and rivers, until at last they crossed the broad ocean.

Speeding swiftly above Ireland, the two finally alighted in a wild mountain glen. Although it was quite dark, Michael found that he could see very well. He, therefore, had ample opportunity to admire the marvelous scenery round about him.

The boy was led by the banshee up the mountain slope into an immense cavern. Here was assembled a great company of banshees.

"Welcome!" they cried, one and all, upon beholding the lad.

Michael's guide whispered to him that once a year the banshees were permitted to return to the earth, and that upon such occasions they always met in this place. What astonished the lad most was to find among the gathering several little banshee boys. He quickly made their acquaintance, and with one in particular he became quite chummy.

So pleased was Michael with his new friend that when the banshee fairy came to him and told him that soon she must take him home he pleaded with her to let the little banshee boy come with him.

"No one but St. Patrick himself could grant such permission," said the fairy, shaking her head regretfully.

At this very moment who should enter the cavern but St. Patrick himself! At first one could see nothing but a bright light, so brilliant was the halo about the good saint, but after a while one could distinguish a kind, smiling face that made you wish to worship him all the more.

WONDERFUL TALES ABOUT BANSHEES

The banshees bowed humbly before the saint. He asked them different questions, and hoped they were passing the evening pleasantly. Turning to Michael, he asked:

"How came this mortal among you?"

The good banshee fairy promptly told St. Patrick how lonely Michael had been, and that he had been brought in order to give him a little enjoyment for the evening. She went on to tell of the lad's request that the little banshee be allowed to accompany him home as a playfellow.

"Well," said the saint, reflectively; "I am of a mind to grant this request. But, remember, my little friend; when daylight comes you'll see nothing of your playmate but a shadow; and when the sun doesn't shine you'll see him not at all."

Michael was overjoyed. He gratefully murmured his thanks, whereupon St. Patrick mysteriously disappeared and so did the cavern, and the banshees—and Ireland. Michael found himself in his little cot at home.

But somehow he felt that his friend, the banshee boy, was with him. He spoke, and, yes! there came a soft reply. He didn't have to speak out loud, you know. He merely "thought" it; always there was a whispered answer.

From that day Michael played and played with his shadow companion. Every one about the fort wondered why the boy suddenly should have become so contented and happy. Once—and once only—he told his secret. But Sergeant Kelley laughed at him and declared he was playing with his own shadow. Michael knew better, however, though he never breathed his secret again, not even to Bridget.

Thereafter whenever Bridget talked about St. Patrick or banshees, Michael looked at her in the wise way which only those have who know all about such things. Of course, he had a perfect right to assume such an air; for who knew better than he?

What They Want to Become

NOT long ago a class of boys was requested to write essays on the interesting subject, "What I should like to be when I am a man, and why."

One boy wrote that he would like to be on a newspaper, his chief reason being that "I would be in the office most of the time and could keep warm." He adds: "What is required is some paper and a pen."

Another wished to be a policeman. "A policeman gets plenty of air," wrote he, "and he must be brave and strong. When people don't behave he is allowed to whack them."

A boy is desirous of being a teacher "because they have plenty of holidays. It is easy work. The things required are blackboard, chalk, maps and books."

One youngster intends to be a coachman so he can wear top boots, a top hat and big coat; and another a baker, in order that he may always have lots to eat.

Only one wishes to be a barber and "use scissors and a razor, and wear a white jacket and apron."

Many desire to be soldiers and sailors, for various reasons.

Couldn't Fool Him.

"William," asked the teacher, "if seven sheep are on one side of the fence, and one jumps over it, how many will there be left?"

"None," was William's prompt reply.

"Why not?"

"There wouldn't be none left," confidently repeated William; "'cause if one bolted all the rest would follow."

Later in the lesson William again distinguished himself by defining a "buttress" as a "nanny-goat." The teacher's good opinion of Willie's cleverness seems to be justified.

Highly Probable.

School Director (reading)—"She threw herself into the river. Her husband, horror-stricken, rushed to the bank——" Now, can any boy tell me what the husband rushed to the bank for?

Bright Boy (in rear of room)—To get the insurance money, sir.

Gift To Make the Baby Tsarevitch Happy

ISN'T this a splendid toy? But it really isn't a toy. Though just the right size for the little son of the tsar of Russia, the locomotive is as real and complete as the biggest engine ever made. The little station you see is an exact model of the Imperial Railway Station at Tsarskoe Selo, built by the First Railway Battalion. It is completely furnished and fitted, and lighted by electricity. All of six months was required for the construction of the locomotive, the value of which exceeds $3000. Miniature guards are stationed round about the station, lending to the air of reality.

This present came from the tsar several months ago. You wouldn't mind being the tsarevitch for a time, would you, if you would receive such handsome gifts as these? Think of all the fun you could have, running your engine round and round the circle of gleaming track!

A LUCKY FIND

"THEY PLAYED SEE-SAW"

"I ONLY wish we had as much money as those rich Americans," sighed Carmina, casting envious eyes at the handsome villa owned by the Americans.

Brother Pietro said nothing as he raised great clouds of dust with his bare feet, but his wistful look gave assurance that he shared the sentiment.

They were right in front of the villa when suddenly Pietro darted forward to pick up something he had kicked. It proved to be a big silver coin, which, the lad was sure, had come from America.

Pietro was sorely tempted to keep the coin, but as both his conscience and his sister advised otherwise, he strode toward the house of the Americans.

The beautiful American lady seemed greatly surprised when Pietro stated his errand. Without hesitation she bade him keep the coin. And then, as though seized with an afterthought, she asked him his name, of which she made careful note in a little book.

No sooner did he reach home than Pietro dutifully gave the coin to his mother. She made no comment, but when the father came home that afternoon the two had a long talk together, at the end of which Pietro's father said:

"Children, there is a holiday in the city tomorrow. You have been a good boy, Pietro; you have been a good little daughter, Carmina. Both of you have worked faithfully, gathering fagots and taking them to town on the back of the donkey. And it has been long, too, since either of you have had a holiday. So tomorrow I want you to betake yourselves to the city and enjoy yourselves there as best you may."

Pietro and Carmina were filled with joy. The family were so very poor, you know, that such pleasures as these could ill be afforded. It was kind, indeed, of their father to so reward their faithfulness.

Arrayed in their very best garments, the boy and girl joined the holiday throngs in Rome the following day. What fun it was to watch the merry crowds!

In the afternoon they went to a pleasure garden, where they swayed to and fro in a lovely swing and played "see-saw" on the nicest kind of a machine. Then they bought some sweetmeats. These they devoured on the way home.

Never before had they had such a glorious time.

And, best of all, the very next day the beautiful American lady sent for Pietro and Carmina and gave both of them employment about the villa. She was such a good, kind mistress, and the hire was so generous that they were able to assist their father greatly.

So, in time, the family became quite prosperous—and all because of the honesty of Pietro in one little thing.

Discovered it Wouldn't Keep.

Harold—Mother, I bought sister's birthday gift today.

Mother—What did you buy?

Harold—A cream puff.

Mother—A cream puff? Why, the birthday won't be here until next week.

Harold—Yes'm; I found that the cream puff wouldn't keep all that time, so I had to eat it myself. But sister'll 'preciate it just the same, won't she, mother?

A Difficult Feat.

Ask two persons to kneel, and have each of them hold up his right foot by means of his right hand. This will necessitate careful balancing on the left knee.

Then have one hold in his left hand a goblet filled with water, and have the other hold in his left hand an empty glass. Tell them to face each other and to pour the water from one glass into the other. Simple as this may sound, they will find it a feat exceedingly difficult of accomplishment.

Unexcusable Carelessness.

Teacher—Remember, Isaac, I started with one dollar. I spent 15 cents for fruit and 10 cents for candy. How much had I left?

Isaac (in disgust)—Well, why didn't you count your change, teacher?

Desired Information.

William (aged 7)—Father, what did the Dead sea die of?

WHAT queer and puzzling sorts of things
These girls are, anyway;
I seem to hurt their feelings
In all I do and say.

They don't at all enjoy my games,
They say I am too rough!
And should I chance to test their strength,
They soon cry out "enough!"

They much prefer to sit aside
And nurse a foolish doll,
And if I sneer and laugh, I'm called
A brute—it does beat all!

When I asked my big brother why
'Tis so, he shook his head.
"You'll find the puzzle harder still
As you grow up," he said.

WHAT rough and silly animals
These boys all seem to be!
Why they should so delight to tease,
I really cannot see!

They're never happy or conten
Unless they're playing games
That put their valor to the test,
And only failure tames.

Then at our peaceful play with dolls
They love to jest and sneer;
In fact, they always ridicule
The things we hold most dear.

I asked my grown-up sister why
The boys are fashioned so.
"You'll find the men are still more queer,"
She smiled, "as old you grow!"

WONDERFUL ESCAPE OF SAILOR JACK

WOUNDED HEART SEWN UP.

Remarkable Operation Performed by a German Surgeon.

An astounding surgical operation is reported to Prof. Sultan in The German Medical Weekly. The heart of a person who attempted suicide and fired a bullet into it was taken out and sewn up and the patient discharged from hospital six weeks later absolutely cured.

Professor Sultan gives the following account of the operation, which is believed to be without parallel:—

"On June 24 last the patient, a cabinetmaker, 38 years old, fired at his heart with a small-calibre revolver. Examination showed a small powder-blackened hole in the heart through which hardly any blood issued. Late in the evening of the second day, thirty hours after the shooting, we decided to operate, and made an incision in the sternum.

"As soon as the cardial sac was opened a great quantity of dark blood oozed forth. The heart, lying quite free for its entire length, was carefully lifted up. Upon the frontal appeared only a small extravasation the size of a lentil, but as soon as the heart was turned towards the right there appeared a small wound with ragged edges about half a centimetre in diameter. With three stitches of fine silk thread the edges of the wound were neatly joined, while for safety's sake another seam was made at the extravasation.

"To hold the strongly-beating heart while sewing was in progress required considerable force. Every time the heart was turned to the right in order to make a stitch the pulse was diminished until it was scarcely audible, but when the heart was turned round the beats again became normal. After all the blood had been drained from the sac the entrance-hole of the bullet became visible, and it was immediately closed by catgut. When the chest incision had been repaired breathing and pulse became entirely normal."

A DRAMA IN REAL LIFE.

"Do you want to draw or deposit?" asked the post-office clerk.

"No, Oi don't. Oi want to put in."

"Sing your name here," he said, pointing to the exact spot.

"The whool name?"

"Yes."

"Oi can't wroite."

A SHADOWED PATH;

Or, The Curse Of The Family

The clergyman used to turn away from the casement with a perplexed sigh, for the young beauty was far too good to style a mere tool of the Evil One, being almost as perfect mentally, as might have proved the case had she been plain as his own wife, and seamed with the smallpox into the bargain. Judith Renelle was an exception to every unpleasant rule—she puzzled everybody, and no wonder. So liberal and frank-hearted, albeit the daughter of Mr. Henry Renelle; so active and healthy, and yet the sister of a delicate cripple; so gay, although born in that desolate, gloomy mansion, on a night when all the storm-fiends held jubilee together; so clever and accomplished, notwithstanding she had never crossed the mountains, nor been to school, nor journeyed thirty miles from home in her life; so capable of winning affection; so cheerful and light-hearted and loveable, and still the same of whom it had been prophesied by one, whose word had never before been uttered in vain, that her life would be a hard and weary struggle; that with hands upraised against every one, with sorrow, and grief dogging her footsteps, she should pass to an early grave, battling her way.

She puzzled everybody; even the old crone who had croaked forth her note of ill-omen over the unconscious infant, that night when a fresh soul was born into the world—Judith puzzled even her.

"It is before her yet," she would say to those who rejoiced over the failure of the prediction; shaking her head mysteriously, and looking away with bleared eyes into the distance of time, as though the future had been a sort of flat landscape, over which she could gaze and track out the route of each individual across it. "It is before her yet—let her beware!"

And the old woman repeated this caution so often to Judith, that the girl grew weary of it.

"But what am I to take such care of?" demanded the young lady, upon one occasion.

"Of what you are doing," replied the other. "Look for once fairly into your own heart, and learn what is in it, and then do right. I know you don't like to hear about what you call superstition, Miss Judith," the woman continued, throwing aside her mysticism, as she beheld a richer color than usual mantling in the girl's cheek: "and perhaps if I tell you the truth in a different way you will listen to me. Some people like to take it out of one glass, and some out of another, so I will speak plainly, and say there was a look in your face the night you came into this world, just like what four sisters I once knew bore in theirs, all through their infancy. Yes, four of them, and you have them in you they had in them. I have watched you day by day, and I know it."

"And if I have, what then?" demanded Judith; who, conscious, perhaps, of the weak spot, felt no inclination to press for a clearer explanation.

"Root it out, as you would some poisonous plant; if you have any fear in you—any dread of a wretched future—any desire for peace and happiness, root it out!"

"Why should I?" persisted the other.

"That your life may in no single respect resemble theirs," was the reply.

"What happened them?" asked Judith.

"What happened them!" repeated the old woman, pressing her skinny hands almost convulsively together; "years upon years of misery, shame, humiliation. What happened them!—oh, the stories of those women's lives, of the way their haughty spirits were bent, their strong hearts broken, might wring tears from stone. They could love, and they did so, with the whole force of their souls, and yet not one of them married for it. The eldest and the handsomest vowed before Heaven to honor and obey a man she hated—a cold, heartless, selfish creature, who treated her like a slave, till the day of her death, which came not an hour too soon. The next first jilted a poor suitor, then married a rich one, and finally separated from him; she brought sorrow and agony to more hearts than her own—made more unhappiness in more homes than could well be believed. She is dead now, so I will talk no more about her to you, for it is a story I do not care to think of. The third of these sisters never wedded at all—why, she knew best—and the fourth——"

The woman paused, and Judith impatiently demanded, "Well?"

"The fourth," she pursued, "had her fate thrust upon her by her own character, rather than by her own actions, and yet still she made a good deal of it for herself, and a great deal was made for her by the other sisters. She found her fate: some say because of home harshness; others, because of a love cross; a few, because she wanted to better her condition; let that be as it will, one thing is certain, she married a jealous miser, who brought her away to a lonely house, and crushed her spirit, and broke her heart and killed her. It was so fated for all of them; and yet still, I repeat, they all, excepting, perhaps, the youngest, made their fates entirely for themselves. Take care, Miss Judith, I say again, for the same thing which crushed their lives is in you also. The last of the four was your own mother—the other three your aunts. There is a future before you, which you would not go forth to meet if you could read it as I can, unless you take heed in time. Don't remember my words when it is too late, but lay them to heart now."

And judging by the girl's face she did lay them to heart just then, but it was merely for the moment; for it seemed impossible to the gay, buoyant spirit that she should ever be stricken by care; that with upraised hands, with faces averted from her, and a home difficult to find, she should ever go battling through life—she who had always found a welcome and a smile whithersoever she turned, and had never had a quarrel with living mortal, save perhaps her own brother, Stephen;—with whom she had indeed battled and fought verbally, and by might of hand, since the day she first flew at him, when only four years of age, and twisted her fingers in his hair, and pulled it, spite of kicks and thumps, till the lad of ten absolutely yelled with pain.

Since then, up to her seventeenth winter there had been a perpetual series of petty skirmishes betwixt the pair; for the warm, daring generous nature of the sister, and the mean, suspicious sneaking character of the brother, agreed like fire and water; they never came into contact with one another without a terrific hiss and a splutter ensuing.

"I wish I had the strength to beat you well, Stephen," she said, one day, after some controversy, more violent than usual when both had arrived at what might have been considered years of discretion.

"I am sure you don't want the will," he retorted; "but I cannot see what good it would do you."

"It might not do me any good, nor you any good," she replied, "but still I would do it for the mere pleasure. I am sure, if I had been a man, I should have killed you long ago."

"It is fortunate, then, you are not," replied Stephen, who, whilst his sister's eyes were sparkling, and her cheeks crimsoned with anger, could outwardly remain quite calm, with a sneer on his lips, and without a trace of heightened color in his face.

"Fortunately for myself, perhaps, but not for the world at large," said Judith, flouncing suddenly out of the room, to end a contest in which she felt she should be certain to come off second best.

"It is of no use quarrelling with Stephen, papa," she was wont to say; "because I cannot hurt him either bodily or mentally, and he comes out so quietly with speeches that make me perfectly wild, and stays quite calm no matter what answers I make. It is of no manner of use quarrelling with him."

"Then why do you quarrel with him, my dear?"

"Because I cannot help myself; if we could once have it fairly out—a real war of words or hands—if I could nip and pinch and box him now as I did when I was a little girl, I think I should feel the better for it."

"Judith, Judith," said her father, shaking his head.

"Only once, papa; but if I could overthrow his imperturable composure, even for an instant—take him out of himself, and make him look like anybody else—it would satisfy me for ever after."

"If you are quite sure of that, Judith, it is a pity you do not declare war at once, in order that we may have a speedy peace."

"And so I would this minute, only that he is twice as strong as I am, and I should be sure to get the worst of the battle."

"In that case then, had you not better yield?"

"Yield, sir!" she repeated; "yield!—I would die sooner;" and then, when the old man looked sorrowfully at her, she would fling her arms about his neck and call him her own dear, good father, and push the grey hairs back from his forehead, and kiss his thin cheeks, and remind him Stephen was the only person she ever did quarrel with, and finish by putting her hand on his shoulder, and taking him out for a ramble over the hills.

And Mr. Renelle was satisfied, for he loved his daughter, and he did not love his son—he clung to the impulsive being who so little resembled himself; and turned coldly from the lad who was his fac-simile, only with the darker lines more strongly traced, with every bad and unamiable characteristic more intensely developed, more mournfully apparent. He did not love his second self—but he idolized Judith with the whole strength of his nature; and Judith, though she saw his faults—though she knew he could not bear to part with a shilling, and was perfectly conscious of his failings of temper, and errors of judgment—would have laid down her life for him.

And Judith understood him; for she had such a simple, childish manner, and such an earnest woman's heart, that she could do with him what she chose, even to the extent of making the reserved man communicative; and so, sitting together on the summit of one of the steepest of the neighboring hills, gazing away over the landscape lying below, she got him, one lovely summer's day, to tell her his history, to tell her all which he had never mentioned before to mortal.

There was not much in it, merely an unsatisfactory catalogue of misfortunes and disappointments; he had not the art of making a story out of it; he repeated facts, but never attempted scenes; there was no enlargement, nor demand for sympathy. The tale resembled evidence given to a jury by a witness on the table of a county court; he had not been accustomed to talk about himself, and the effort seemed strange to him; but still, at her request, he cast back his eyes to his boyhood, and stated every circumstance of his existence, just as it happened; and Judith with her usual quickness fitted the fragments together, and made a life out of them; and when at last, being near the end, he said how his wife had never cared for him, there was such a touch of nature about his trembling voice, that Judith, forgetting all his faults, and thinking only of his lonely, desolate unhappy existence, fairly covered her face with her hands and wept.

"If my mother were here now," she sobbed, "she would love you; but as she is not, I will love you enough for both, enough to make up for all the long weary time when you had nobody to care for you."

Would any one have known Henry Renelle then, as he clasped the speaker to his heart, and murmured forth a broken sentence to the effect that the only portion of happiness he had ever felt, had been conferred upon him by her, his Judith, his own dear, darling beautiful child?

What a power she had over him! And as she advanced to the frontier lands of womanhood, she began to take an active share in domestic matters, and, like all very new and fresh, and good brooms, she swept remarkably clean.

She carried the moth-eaten draperies away from her father's rooms, she saved up the money her aunt from time to time gave her, and bought white muslin and glazed calico, and put up snowy curtains in lieu of the old, faded damask, and made his bed-chamber really look quite cheerful with some bright carpeting and fresh hangings.

She would sit sewing for the length of a day, looking so gay and happy, that you would have imagined it the most amusing occupation in the world; she washed the old portraits, frames and painting, and all, and if she did nothing else, cleared the soot and smoke and dust effectually off them; she put flowers in the cracked china vases; she discovered a chest of ancient brocade dresses, some of which she altered for herself and Lillian, others whereof she tore up into covers for the old gilded chairs; she discarded hosts of useless rubbish, and had rooms washed and floors scoured, and tables polished, till Llandyl Hall really put on an agreeable face once more. She got her father to help her in the garden, and together they cleared away brambles, and trained roses, and grubbed down among dandelions and thistles and weeds of all sorts, and they raked, and dug, and delved, till Judith looked as brown as a berry and Mr. Renelle became quite a practical gardener; and in the winter evenings, she darned his clothes, and manufactured all sorts of garments for him; her fingers were never idle, mending, making, patching, sewing on buttons and inspecting holes, arranging sofas, and easy chairs and footstools in comfortable positions for poor lame Lillian; trimming lamps, that Lillian might see to read easily; singing old ballads for her, talking to her aunt, and trying to cook little dainties for all three. Judith Renelle never had a single unoccupied moment. She was as gay as a lark, and as busy as a bee.

And her aunt, as she gazed upon her, trusted that the ban of their race was lifted off the girl. She hoped, living in that quiet country place, temptation would for ever be kept from her; and night and morning she prayed that sorrow might be long a stranger to the gay young heart.

CHAPTER VIII.

Mr. Renelle was not the only person in existence who considered Judith "perfect." There were others in the world who had long previously arrived at the same extravagant conclusion; and among those who admired her more than he ever previously admired any of Eve's fair daughters, and who loved her about as well as he was capable of loving any woman, which, to say truth, happened to be very badly indeed—was Mr. Lewis Mazingford, her godfather.

During the years it had required to convert Judith from a helpless infant into a very beautiful girl, time and death had done him the good service of removing Mrs. Mazingford from earth, and leaving him free once again. When Judith was almost sixteen, he became a widower of over forty summers, left by a generous wife in affluent circumstances—at liberty to marry a second time for love, or beauty, or connection, or anything he chose; but Mr. Mazingford was not to be ensnared, even by manœuvring mothers; or papas who vainly poured out wine for him. He spent a deal of his time at Llandyl Hall, and tried to establish a closer connexion betwixt himself and Judith than that of godfather and god-daughter. She was the handsomest creature he had ever seen—handsomer than her mother—handsomer than anybody. Dressed in the height of the fashion, and glittering with diamonds, there would not be such another wife in England. He fancied her sitting at the head of his table—imagined the sensation she would produce in London; scrutinized her manners, accent, carriage; and determined she should be his wife.

About the Farm

VETERINARY WORK FOR DAIRYMEN

If a man is going to raise animals and keep animals he needs to know something about ailments of animals. He must not think he is a veterinary simply because he has this knowledge and a few instruments. He won't be within five hundred miles of being one but he may be enabled to save himself a lot of money loss in live stock yearly by owning the instruments I will briefly mention, says Dr. C. D. Smead.

A horse or cow may be bloated. If taken in time by simply using a rectal syringe made for horses and cattle a valuable animal's life may be saved. If the veterinary is depended upon it would be dead long before the veterinary could be had.

Cows may have an attack of parturient apoplexy (milk fever) and die before a veterinary could be had when if the farmer has an air syringe milk fever device he can use it himself just as well as the veterinary and save his cow and the veterinary bills also.

Cows will occasionally injure a quarter of an udder and some thick or stringy milk may be the result. Unless this can be milked out or got out of the udder in some way the result will be the loss of the quarter either by garget or caseous hardening of the quarter. Had the farmer a modern teat syringe to wash out the milk cistern of the udder with warm water, with some common baking soda dissolved in it the quarter could have been saved.

A cow may have clover bloat and die before the veterinary surgeon can get there, when if the farmer had had a trocar he could save her life. A hard milking cow in many instances can be made to milk easily by a little slit made with an injured or lacerated teat loses it simply because the farmer has not a milk tube and a knowledge of how to use it.

The treatment of parturient apoplexy of tapping a cow, is no more of a skilful operation than the hoeing of a hill of cucumbers, and you might with just as much sense send to town for a man to come to hoe your peas and cucumbers simply because you had no garden hoe as to send for a veterinary to tap a bloated cow or treat a cow for parturient apoplexy simply because you had no tools. The whole kit can be bought for $12 and $10 and that is about what a veterinary has to charge you for two visits if he has to go five miles to make them.

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Mr. Edward Brown, secretary of the National Poultry Organization Society, of England, has prepared an exhaustive review of the work of his Society, and of the poultry-keeping pursuit generally, during 1907. His remarks, on the whole, are encouraging, the year, in the Old Country, in spite of the cold and wet spring and summer, having witnessed greater progress in the development of the pursuit than any preceding 12 months since the Society was established. He states that on all hands there is evidence that more and better fowls are kept than ever before, and that farmers are paying more attention to this branch of live stock, that there is an increasing number of specialists taking up the business on progressive lines, and that the demand for eggs and poultry increases rapidly, to an even greater extent than the supply. Steady increase in the number of fowls is anticipated wherever small holdings are formed. To obtain the best results of such development, however, the need for co-operative marketing will be increasingly manifest, and, therefore, every effort should be made to extend the co-operative system where the conditions are favorable. Mr. Brown gives interesting figures, showing the consumption of poultry and eggs in the United Kingdom, and the sources whence the supplies are drawn. Of the total of fifteen million pounds' worth of eggs, nearly one-half is imported; but, of the four and a half million pounds' worth of poultry, less than a million pounds' worth comes from abroad, or, taking the aggregate of poultry and eggs, which amounts to about twenty million pounds' worth sterling, eleven and a half million pounds' worth is produced at home, as against little more than eight million pounds' worth imported from the colonies and foreign countries.

FARM NOTES.

The farmer is truly a philosopher, since during the financial flurry he refused to become panic-stricken, arguing, as he did, that the soil remains, fertility remains, the railroads still carry on transportation, and, therefore, he sees no reason why civilization should lapse.

We would not have the milkhouse larger than is really necessary for the successful handling of milk and butter. Nothing but the utensils used in connection with the milk and butter should find a place in the milkroom. By having just the room we need, the work of keeping in order will be less and we are not tempted to give place to things which should find room elsewhere.

We keep a layer of coal ashes, dry earth or sand, on the floor under the perches. We prefer the ashes; each day a panful is taken from the stove and spread evenly over the floor. Before putting on fresh ashes take a rake and stir up the old ones and the droppings, then throw the new ashes over. This is repeated until three panfuls of ashes have been used; then the mixture is swept out of the house and stored in a bin where it will keep perfectly dry. In this way each fowl will make at least 50 cents' worth of valuable fertilizer during the winter.

Whoever would have sweet and wholesome butter must skim the milk early after setting, and churn often. There is a great quantity of good butter in these two rules, as there is poor stuff in their neglect. The keeping of milk till it sours arises from a desire on the part of the economical buttermaker, to get all the cream, forgetting that as soon as coagulation begins, the rising of the butter globules ceases, as they cannot force their way up through the thickened milk. They can barely lift themselves, and they cannot do this when the milk is thick or viscid (sticky), as it is in the autumn and winter. The souring or coagulation of the milk begins at the bottom, and so we are worse deceived, and give more time for greater fermentation of the cream.

CATS AS PLAGUE FIGHTERS.

Success of Salvation Army's Rat War in the Far East.

A few months ago a small but determined detachment of English cats sailed from London for India to wage war against the rats which are regarded as constituting one of the most serious factors in the spreading of the plague in that country. It was the Salvation Army that made the experiment, and now the first satisfactory results have become known.

Colonel Kitching, of the army's headquarters, states that although only a comparatively small number of cats have been sent out it certainly looks as if the scheme would be a great success.

Commissioner Booth-Tucker reports that already every branch of the Salvation Army has been provided with cats, and individual members have been instructed to distribute the animals among the native population.

The inspector-general of hospitals in the Punjab has stated that the Indian Government views the army's experiment with great satisfaction, though he added, "We must not restrict ourselves to this. Traps and poison must be used. The rats must be fought by every means."

It is worthy of remark that in Ceylon where the plague is unknown, cats are to be found in practically every household.

MAKES LIFE MISERABLE

Troubles that Keep Half the Chesterville Doctors Busy.

For the sake of your personal welfare, just think a moment about the process of digesting food.

There are certain secretions called gastric juices that act upon the food after it is swallowed and change all the nutrition in it into life giving blood.

Anything that interferes with the secretion of these juices causes indigestion and makes a chronic state of stomach weakness inevitable.

From now on build up the strength and health of the stomach with Mi-o-na tablets. You will soon find yourself strong and never know the meaning of indigestion.

Half of the prescriptions the Chesterville doctors write are for troubles that result directly from a weakened stomach. Strengthen the stomach muscles, increase the secretion of gastric juices, and you will find that common afflictions—indigestion, with its headaches, dizziness depression of spirits, spots before the eyes, nervousness, sleeplessness and general debility—have been overcome.

If Mi-o-na did not have an unusally curative effect in stomach disorders, it could not be sold on the guarantee to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-ona, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

Widow Sues Hotelkeeper.

Toronto, March 13.—A writ was issued today by Mrs. William Castleton Gray of Toronto, against Jeremiah E. Morrison, a hotelkeeper of Orangeville, claiming $10,000 for the death of her husband through the unlawful act of the defendant. The unlawful act, it appears, was the striking by Morrison of Cray over the head with a billy, as a result of which, it is alleged, that the latter died. Gray, who was a farmer near Orangeville, had some trouble with Morrison, and on August 14 last went into the latter's bar. He was ordered out, and, not going fast enough was struck by Morrison, it is alleged. He died in December.

Death of Mr. W. Milligan.

Mr William Milligan, an old and highly esteemed resident of the Township of Osnabruck, passed away on Saturday, the 7th inst., aged 89 years. He was born in Draperstown, Londonderry County, Ireland, and came to this county in 1842. settling on the homestead near Newington, where he spent the rest of his life, in 1844. He had not been in good health for some time, but was not seriously ill until about five days before his death. He is survived by his wife and three sons and one daughter, Messrs. James A. and Alexander Milligan of Newington; Mr. John C. Milligan, barrister, of Cornwall; and Mrs. Thomas Carson, of Avonmore. The funeral took place on Monday last, the service being conducted at the house by Rev. Mr. Mingie of Lunenburg. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John C. and Alexander Milligan, Thomas Carson, James McPherson, of Lunenburg, Frank Hoople and John McIntyre, of Cornwall. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved wife and family.

Have You a Horse.

If you want to keep him in shape, never let him suffer pain. Rub on "Nerviline"—it is noted for curing strains, swellings and stiffness and sore muscles. For internal use in curing cramps and colic, Nerviline is a perfect marvel. In every good training stable you'll find Nerviline because it keeps horses in trim and reduces the veterinary bill. Farmers Stockmen and all horse owners should buy Nerviline and prove how invaluable it is. Good for man or beast. 25c. bottle at all dealers.

PRESBYTERY TAKES ACTION.

Want Weak Methodist Charges to Unite.

The regular meeting of Brockville Presbytery was held in St. John's church, on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 3 and 4. Rev. C. A. Ferguson, of South Mountain, Moderator, presided.

As this meeting of Presbytery was the last before the meeting of the General Assembly in June, the court heard reports from the standing commiteees. The principal reports are those for Sabbath school work, young people's societies, church life and work, and that of the augmented charges which the Presbytery bounds.

Rev. G. A. Ferguson reported for Sabbath schools. This report showed a fair increase in the number of scholars enrolled and was looked upon as very encouraging with reference to the substantial results achieved. A specially gratifying feature was the large number of scholars reported as memorizing the prescribed scripture selections and the catechism of the church. The Presbytery, however, recommended greater accuracy on the part of those in charge of Sabbath schools in reporting the work under their supervision.

Rev. Mr. Mason of Dunbar, presented an excellent report on Young People's Societies. The report indicated very clearly the prevalence of a feeling amongst the congregations that the multiplication of organizations is not desirable In a number of fields the weekly prayer meetings, Christian Endeavor meetings, Bible study meeting, etc., have been merged into one organization. Mr. Mason's report showed increase and enlargement in the work of the line, financially, numerically, educationally, and as regards spiritual life and power.

On Tuesday evening an open session of the court was held in the Sunday school rooms of St. John's. After devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Mr. Sadler of Cardinal, the subject of church life and work was proceeded with. Rev. A. Lundy, of Williamsburg, reported for the committee. The questions to which answers had been sent in by sessions of congregations covered such matter as the growth of the commercial and speculative spirit in the community, the extension of church influence amongst persons not connected with Christian work, the relation of the church to political life, to the fraternal societies and to the recreations of her people.

Mr. Lundy's report was followed by a discussion in which Rev. Mr. Strachan, Rev. Mr. McDougall, Rev. Mr. Howard, Rev. A. G. Rodeau, Mr. J. Cummings, Rev. I. N. Beckstedt and Rev. Mr. Yule took part.

The main feature of the discussion was Rev. D. Strachan's animated speech on fraternalism in relation to the work of the church. It was pointed out that the church must combat the notion that because a man belongs to a fraternal society he is thereby absolved from the duty of connecting himself definitely with the church, as the institution which especially represents religion and meets the religious needs of men. A result of the discussion was to impress the duty of church members to promote by all means in their power the growth of purity in Municipal, Provincial and Dominion politics.

At Wednesday morning's session of the court Rev. D. Strachan reported for the augmentation committee. The report called attention to congregational weakness in the augmented charges caused by the influx of people to the west It was urged that the time had come for the adoption of some measure to stop the wasteful drain of money spent in maintaining some especially weak charges

The Presbytery took action upon the report to the extent of authorizing Messrs. Strachan and Jas. Cummings to confer with the district conference of the Methodist Church on the question of uniting weak congregations of Methodists and Presbyterians in the localities referred to.

The remaining business of the court was largely of a routine nature, and although the docket was a long one the items were all cleared by half-past two. The Presbyters, unlike parliamentarians, are not paid for their deliberations and therefore could not afford to indulgence in extended discussions.

A gratifying feature of this Presbytery meeting was the attendance of a considerable number of elders. Among the elders present were Mr. Cumming of Lyn, Mr. Grant of St. John's, Brockville; Mr. Taber of Morton, and E. A. Buckman of First Church.

The delegates to the Assembly which is to be held at Winnipeg this year was appointed as follows: Ministers, Revs. W F. Crawford, Chesterville, R. Lundy, Williamsburg; M. H. Wilson, Mountain; Geo. Yule, Winchester; and Elders, Messrs. Chas. Grant, Adam Carlyle, N. Hunter and S. Martin.

One of the interesting surprises that was sprung on the Presbytery, was a telegram from Ottawa Presbytery announcing a call from East Gloucester to Rev. J. A. McDonald, of Morton and Lyndhurst. The congregations interested were cited to appear at an adjourned meeting on March 17th.

Another important item was the resolution passed anent the death of Rev. Dr. Stuart. Rev. Hugh Cameron read the resolution which he had prepared and it was ordered to have it engrossed and transmitted to Mrs. Stuart. Rev. D. Strachan was appointed interim moderator, and he asked and received permission to moderate in a call when the congregation are ready. Many touching references were made by the brethren present and all testified to the great loss sustained by the community and the church.

Rev. Dr. James Carmichael of King, was nominated as moderator of Assembly, and Mr. Walter Paul as moderator of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa.

The next meeting of Presbytery will be held the first Tuesday in July, at Kemptville.—Brockville Times.

GOES AFTER GERMS.

How Hyomei Does its Work in Curing Catarrh.

Nature's remedy for catarrhal troubles is the oils and balsams found in Hyomei. It is a specific, not a cure all. It has but one mission, the cure of catarrh.

The natural way of curing a disease is always the scientific way and the scientific way is the simple way, with Hyomei.

Catarrh is a germ disease and can be cured only by using Hyomei, the treatment that reaches and destroys all catarrhal germs.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, Hyomei's medication reaches the most remote air cells of the nose, throat and lungs, going after the disease germs wherever present, destroying them and preventing their growth, thus making catarrhal troubles impossible.

There is no dangerous stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. It is solely an inhalation treatment, prepared specially to kill the catarrhal germs.

Begin its use at once and see how quickly it gives relief and lasting cure.

We positively guarantee Hyomei, for should you buy a complete outfit, price $1.00, and and be dissatisfied with results your money will be refunded. Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere. Write for literature. Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Express Messenger Sentenced.

Martin J. Grace, express messenger between Montreal and Ottawa, arrested about a week ago for shortage in money refused to be tried summarily. Police Magistrate Thistlewaite gave him preliminary examination and the trial came before Judge Johnston at Vankleek. He pleaded guilty and was committed to jail at L'Orignal for six months with hard labor.

Have you Ugly Warts?

Cure them with Putman's Painless Corn and wart Extractor. Fifty years success is a guarantee of its merit. Beware of substitutes.

The following nugget of good advice should be framed and kept in a conspicuous place in every household:—"Never forget you are a report of the town, and that your own deportment helps to make up the stranger's estimate of the place. Sell all you can and buy all you can at home. Every dollar that is sent or carried away from home makes the town that much poorer. If you have the means invest in something that will give so nebody employment. Do not kick at a proposed improvement simply because it is not at your own door."

Rev. A. G. Robertson Dead.

Brockville, Ont., March 12.—Rev. A. G. Robertson, one of the most brilliant of the Methodist ministers of the Montreal Conference of the Methodist Church, died in a Brockville asylum today. He was a native of Almonte, and forty years of age. His last station was North Augusta. Rev. Mr. Robertson, a few years ago was resident minister at Morewood.

To relieve the worst forms of Rheutism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription, states a well-known authority in a Cleveland morning paper, forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce, indeed, and when you need it, you want it badly. Our druggists here say they will either supply these ingredients or make the mixture ready to take, if any or our readers so prefer.

A litte boy only seven years of age started on Tuesday on his long trip from St. Catharines to San Francisco, which he will make all alone. The poor little urchin went all prepared for his long journey of nearly four thousand miles for he had a box of provisions for each day of his long journey of nearly four thousand miles, each neatly dated and numbered. The lad had a card tied around his neck, with a ribbon bearing the legend 'Lawrence Bassett, aged seven years, travelling from St. Catharines, Canada, to Pasadena California. Conductors of trains will please forward him.'
