BERWICK MAN UNDER ARREST

CHARGE OF CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE FOLLOWS SERIOUS MOTOR ACCIDENT

In the arrest of Bernie Dutt, 21, widely known amateur hockey player, at his home at Berwick at nine o'clock Sunday night, provincial police terminated a 24-hour search for the alleged hit and run driver whose car crashed into a buggy on a sideroad south of Chesterville Saturday night, seriously injuring Herbert Irving, a farmer. Irving is in Brockville General Hospital, and is reported to have but a slim chance for recovery, his injuries consisting of a fractured skull, concussion of the brain, a fractured shoulder and internal injuries.

Irving, with his 12 year old son, Arnold, had just turned his buggy off the Chesterville-Dunbar county highway onto a sideroad, when it was struck by an automobile turning onto the same road. The buggy was demolished and Irving and his son were hurled to the road.

The boy told police that the car stopped for a moment farther along the sideroad, immediately after the accident, and then continued on his way. He said that his father lay unconscious on the road for some mniutes until two motorists, Jake Steen and Arthur Ringrow, Morewood, came along and took the injured man to the office of Dr. W. H. Lloyd, Chesterville. Irving was subsequently taken to the Brockville hospital.

Headlight Clue

Constable Garnet McLean, Chesterville, was notified of the accident and, after preliminary investigation, called Constable Frank Rose, of Morrisburg. Visiting the scene of the accident, Constable McLean found a broken automobile headlight which served as a valuable aid in tracing the motorist involved in the smash-up. Sergeant R. P. Labelle and Constable Ward H. Kennedy, of Cornwall headquarters of the provincial police, joined Constables McLean and Rose in the search, which continued throughout the night and on Sunday.

Sunday evening Sergeant Labelle and Constable Kennedy took Dutt into custody at his home, and brought him to Cornwall. He appeared in police court Monday morning, charged with criminal negligence, and was remanded to jail for one week. No application for bail was made.

Police said that when they visited Dutt's home, they found that he was changing headlights on his car, and that the fender and windshield of the car were broken.

Dr. W. J. Gibson, Brockville, who is attending Irving at the Brockville hospital, said yesterday that there was a slight improvement in his condition.

Splendid Program

VIRGINIA JUBILEE SINGERS DELIGHT LARGE AUDIENCE

The auditorium of the United Church was filled to capacity last evening, when the widely-known Virginia Jubilee Singers presented a splendid vocal program. Coming to Winchester with glowing testimonials, the seven artists more than lived up to advance notices, and rendered the old negro spirituals and folk songs in such a manner as to draw enthusiastic applause from the large audience.

Filled with delightful harmony and tone, each number seemed to be more pleasing than the previous one to the conclusion of the program. The wide range of voice and clearness of note were outstanding features of the singing. Variety played a large part in the excellence of the program and their rendition of such old favourites as "Golden Slippers," "Big Trials," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariots," and numerous others was indeed a treat.

Individual numbers were much enjoyed and every member of the company pleased those in attendance with special solo efforts.

Following a short intermission the Singers gave an interesting group of old Southern melodies that were well-known to all and thoroughly appreciated. Rev. John McKay acted as chairman for the occasion, which will long be remembered by those who were privileged to attend.

ANNUAL BANQUET WELL ATTENDED

WAR VETERANS FROM VARIOUS CENTRES JOIN IN BIG REUNION HELD HERE LAST FRIDAY

Utilizing every inch of space in the Town Hall, the Great War veterans of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry gathered here on Friday evening last at their annual reunion banquet. The hall was taxed to its limit to provide seating capacity for the veterans who lined both sides of five long banquet tables. The local members of the Legion, this year's hosts, were highly pleased at the large turnout, for it greatly exceeded their fondest expectations. Ex-service men were present from nearly every centre in the Counties, while grace and charm were added to the occasion by the presence of two ex-Nursing Sisters who were received most heartily.

The veterans from Morrisburg travelled to Winchester in a bus which was chartered by the Hon. George H. Challies, while the representation from Stormont county journeyed here in a body, accompanied by a pipe band, which led the parade from the Legion club rooms to the town hall prior to the banquet. At the club rooms the veterans were greeted by the local president, Arnold Casselman, and at the banquet hall by N. H. Dixon and E. R. Summers, who were on the receiving committee. The hall was decorated for the occasion with colorful streamers, clusters of flags and bunting, with a large Union Jack, on which was inscribed the names of all those who had answered the call from Winchester, being prominently placed at the back of the stage.

During the dinner, musical selections were rendered by a trio from Chesterville, composed of Miss Ella McCloskey, pianist; Miss Marion Casselman, violinist, and Mrs. Amelia Lambkin, 'cellist.

Silence Observed

Following the repast, two minutes silence was observed in memory of those brave lads who had paid the supreme sacrifice during the Great War, after which, "In Flanders Fields," was recited by Perley Boyd, of Chesterville, and "Have Ye Kept Faith," by F. Erle Helmer, of Winchester.

The toastmaster for the evening was Arnold Casselman, president of the local branch of the Legion, while the song leader for the community singing, which interspersed the speeches, was Alex Stephen, of Vernon.

The toast to the King was proposed by Dr. C. Homer Meredith, followed by the address of welcome which was given by Reeve James H. Ross. Other toasts were as follows: "Canada," proposed by Hon. Geo. H. Challies, M.L.A.; responded to by Lieut. Bert McKercher, of the Grenville Regiment; "The Allies," proposed by Erle Helmer and responded to by Lawrence Doering, of Chesterville, a veteran of the South African War; "The Canadian Expeditionary Force," proposed by Howard H. Nesbitt, reeve of Winchester township, and responded to by Leroy E. Strader, of Ottawa; "The Nursing Sisters," proposed by Rev. R. C. Tate, of Chesterville, and responded to by Nursing Sister Mrs. W. H. Lloyd, of Chesterville; "The Navy," proposed by Aaron Sweet, Winchester, and responded to by E. J. Spinks, principal of the local High School.

Urges League Support

The main address during the meeting was given by Col. A. C. Casselman, M.P., of Prescott. In his opening remarks, the speaker expressed his sincere pleasure at being present on this occasion, and thought that all members of the Legion should notify Dominion headquarters that when it comes to putting on a celebration, this was one Legion in the province that could teach them how to do it. He also complimented the ladies of the Mission Circle Circle of the United Church, for the splendid service they had rendered during the serving of the dinner.

Among other things, Col. Casselman urged the veterans to give the League of Nations their wholehearted support in its efforts to bring peace among the different countries. He gave a review of the legislation that had been dealt with in Parliament during the period from 1918 to 1933, as regards to pensions, veterans' allowances, employment, etc., anl stated that one sixth of all the revenue collected by the government is being paid to war veterans in increased pensions. He felt that the governments in power since the war had done all they possibly could to assist ex-service men.

Challies Speaks

Hon. George H. Challies, in his address, paid tributes to both the Canadian government and the British government, stating that they were the soundest in the world. He also pointed to the stability of our banks and to the fact that to-day the Canadian dollar was enjoying a margin of exchange over any other currency in the world. In closing his address, Mr. Challies said that Canada was one country where a man could worship God in his own way.

During the program, greetings were brought from other branches of the Legion by C. C. Campbell, of Morrisburg; Henry Nugent, Finch; Perley Boyd, of Chesterville, and Lorne Hutt, Berwick.

Among other enjoyable features of the program was an exhibition of tap-dancing by Francis Foley, of Chesterville, and a dramatization of the poem, "Young Fellow, My Lad," presented by W. A. Rowat, assisted by Dixon Hutt, both of Winchester. Special lighting effects during this feature were controlled by E. R. Summers. A vocal solo: "The Rose of No. Man's Land," was feelingly rendered by Miss Marion Casselman, of Chesterville.

At the close of the program a vote of thanks was extended to all those who had assisted, by F. Erle Helmer, the local secretary, who also read messages from Father Ewan McDonald, of Alexandria, and Father J. H. Bougie, of Crysler, who expressed their regret on not being able to be present on this occasion.

Nursing Sisters who attended the banquet were Mrs. R. P. McIntosh, Winchester Springs, and Mrs. W. H. Lloyd, of Chesterville; while veterans of the South African War were represented by A. R. W. McDonald, of Brantford; Lawrence Doering of Chesterville, and W. E. Barnard, of Winchester, who also saw service in France during the Great War.

Following the banquet and program the veterans paraded to the Legion club rooms, from where they departed for their homes.

After a brief meeting of the district executive, which met following the banquet, it was decided to accept Chesterville's invitation to hold next year's reunion in that village.

The committee in charge of this year's reunion was as follows: E. J. Spinks, Arnold Casselman, E. R. Summers, C. H. Meredith, Nelson Dixon, F. Erle Helmer, all of Winchester; Bert McKercher, Vernon; Walter Kerr, Gordon C. Senn and Arnold Jennings, Chesterville.

CHESTERVILLE HALL DESTROYED BY FIRE

NEW COMMUNITY HALL WAS NEAR COMPLETION. INVESTIGATION BEING HELD AS TO CAUSE OF BLAZE

Fire broke out with lightning rapidity in the new Community Hall at Chesterville about 2 p.m. Sunday and in two hours the fine brick veneer building, which was to have been formally opened on November 27th, was a mass of blazing ruins.

The fire was first noticed by Mrs. Jas. Hughes, who resides across the street and who promptly turned in an alarm. The Chesterville brigade responded and fought in vain to save the two-storey structure, which was to have been one of the finest community halls in this district. When it was seen that the building was doomed, the firemen concentrated their efforts on preventing the spread of the blaze, as nearby buildings were seriously threatened. A call was sent to the Winchester fire department, who responded with a chemical truck, although it was not pressed into service.

Mystery surrounds the sudden outbreak. Harry Hummel, overseer of the building, stated that he was the last to leave the building on Saturday night and at that time all the windows were locked and the doors padlocked. He also stated that the furnace in the building had been out since three o'clock on Saturday afternoon and that the fire could not have started from defective wiring as the Hydro current in Chesterville was off from one to four o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

A rigid investigation by County Constable Garnet McLean is underway, as residents of the district stated that the flames were first noticed, following an explosion in the building. It was only partly covered by insurance.

The building when completed would have housed the local Hydro office, which was also to have been used as the council chamber, a public library and Women's Institute rooms and dining room, while the top floor was to have been a community auditorium with seating capacity for 500 persons.

Added to the fire loss was the loss of the tools of workmen from the district. All the tools of the carpenters and painters were in the building when it was destroyed.

WILL REBUILD HALL

More than 250 citizens of Chesterville village who attended a public meeting at the Town Hall on Tuesday night, voted almost unanimously in favor of construction of the community hall which was burned to the ground Sunday afternoon. Although keenly disappointed as a result of the destruction of the splendid building, which was to have been opened formally on November 27, citizens strongly favored rebuilding of an even larger and better hall.

The matter of financing and other details were left in the hands of the Community Hall Board, which functioned in connection with the erection of the hall burned Sunday.

It was expected that a representative of the Ontario fire marshall will arrive some time this week to conduct an investigation into the cause of the fire, which still remains a mystery to local residents.

HOME DESTROYED

Two women and five children were driven from their home in night clothing by fire which destroyed their house, two and a half miles west of Williamsburg, about 9 p.m. Saturday evening last. The loss was about $2,500, covered with $500 insurance.

Mrs. Mary Patrick, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. D'Arcy Patrick, and the latter's five children were forced out by the fire. D'Arcy Patrick was away at the time.

The cause of the fire was believed to have been overheated stovepipes. Volunteer firemen managed to save an adjacent cheese factory.

METCALFE ROAD TO BE PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

According to press despatches the Carleton county council was informed on Tuesday that the Ontario Department of highways intends to take over a certain portion of the Metcalfe road as a provincial highway. The 22 miles of the road now under the jurisdiction of the Ottawa Suburban Road Commission will then come under the direction of the Ontario department.

The warden of the county told the council that this had been promised by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, minister of highways.

WEDDING

INTERESTING DOUBLE WEDDING

A most interesting double wedding ceremony was performed on Saturday last by Rev. A. J. Wilson, at the Manse, Napanee, Ont., when Doris Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bowles, of Morewood, Ontario, was united in marriage to Herbert H. Watson, eldest son of Mrs. H. Watson and the late Mr. Watson, of Winchester; and Gladys, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Casselman, of Williamsburg, became the bride of Alton H. Bolton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bolton, of Winchester. They were unattended.

The both brides were charmingly gowned in powder blue silk crepe, designed on long, graceful lines with shoes, hats and gloves in matching tones. Each carried a bridal bouquet of Talisman roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the happy young couples left on a motor trip to Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo. While at Northbrook, Ontario, the couples were guests of Mrs. S. A. Both at a delightful wedding dinner in honour of the occasion.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Bolton will take up residence in Avonmore, Ontario, while Mr. and Mrs. Watson will reside in Winchester. where Mr. Watson is a member of the staff of the local Hydro Electric Commission.

Ungrateful Transient Gets Thirty Days

Joseph Messler, 30, giving his address as Winnipeg, Man., appeared before Magistrate John McCormick in court on Tuesday morning to answer to a charge of unlawfully and wilfully causing damage. The man had asked for a night's lodging and had been directed to the town hall where he was given quarters. He was supplied with a meal ticket by the clerk of the municipality and apparently was quite satisfied.

Upon visiting the quarters, Mr. Quart, caretaker of the town hall, discovered that the lock on the door leading into the furnace room had been smashed beyond repair and the place entered. He notified County Constable Herbert Helmer at once.

After examining three other transients who had also occupied the cells the previous night, Constable Helmer learned that Missler had complained during the night that it was not warm enough. He then proceeded to smash the lock from the door and entered the furnace rooms. His three companions agreed they had been quite warm and not at all uncomfortable from lack of heat.

Missler was immediately placed under arrest and after pleading guilty to the charge, was sentenced to pay a five dollar fine and costs of 2.50. Failure to pay this amount necessitated him being taken to Cornwall jail, where he will reside for the next thirty days.

WASHING OLD LACE

The fortunate bride who has heirloom family lace with which to adorn her wedding dress may be interested in the following French recipe handed down through generations for washing old lace. First wind your lace very carefully round a glass bottle. When this has been done cover the lace with a final layer of thin muslin, which you pin here and there to the lace to keep it in place. Then place the bottle in a receptacle containing cold water and a handful of the purest soap flakes you can find. Bring the water to the boil and leave it there for a good hour. Pour away the dirty water, add plenty of fresh warm water, and finally rinse in cold. If the lace is very old and stiff it is advisable to soak it in pure olive oil for an hour or so before washing.

It is being recalled that Major W. W. Kennedy, K.C., M.P., now serving as chairman of the Price Spreads Commission at Ottawa, succeeding Hon. H. H. Mr. Kennedy's introduction to Western Canada came after he met a stock man in his native Westport and travelled to Alberta tending a carload of cattle.

HOW THE DEPRESSION ENDS

(Ottawa Journal)

Mr. Henry Ford has announced that so far as his company is concerned the depression no longer exists. The same might be said by many other companies and great numbers of individuals—by the Gatineau employes of the Canadian International Paper Company, for example, their wages raised 20 per cent. in the past year.

That is the way the depression is ending. It does not happen over-night; we shall not open the morning paper some day to read that at four o'clock the previous afternoon the world went back to full activity at post-war wages. The process is gradual, largely individual. One by one industries revive and their employes go back to work; ships are put back into service to carry the goods the nations are demanding in greater quantities; railway locomotives and cars are taken from the melancholy lines of dead equipment; factories call for coal or electric power; retail establishments need more people to serve more customers with more money to spend. And the circle, once started, grows larger and more potent as its rays of influence spread.

Those who sit back to wait for orders or a job from a benevolent government, who looks hopefully in the newspapers for word that the depression is over and we are "back to normal," are likely to be the last to find places in the procession. Prosperity does not just come, but is achieved by effort.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

AN OLD-TIME FRIEND

The fall of the year is the season when elimination, so important in the human system, may become seriously interfered with, due to changes in the weather. Obstructed elimination is generally announced by feelings of overfulness, lassitude and other warnings which generally announce acute toxaemia. Then, there are apt to be eruptions on the skin, unsightly and disagreeable, and which suggest the old friend mentioned in the heading; I refer to the old family medicine, SULPHUR.

Sulphur has been a "family remedy" well back through the ages. I can recall it far back into childhood, when health was much less costly than it is now. Most of the old boys and girls remember the sulphur and molasses, which were supposed to "clean and purify the blood."

There is no more honest, dependable stimulant for the elimination than the old-fashioned sulphur and cream of tartar mixed equal parts; the dose of the compound being a heaped teaspoonful in a half glass of water, at bed-time for a few nights until the bad feelings disappear. Your family doctor will agree with me.

And, remember sulphur ointment for those ugly, obnoxious skin blotches? What a friend is sulphur ointment! I just prescribed an ounce to-day, for a young man whose skin eruption I was not able to diagnose. This brings to mind a noted skin specialist, who told me some years ago that, if a doctor prescribed sulphur for every skin disease, he would probably be right over half the time. Don't forget the packet of sulphur for your household medicine chest.

NEWLYWEDS HONORED AT NORTH MOUNTAIN

On Friday evening last a number of neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hyndman of North Mountain, who were married recently, to extend to them their heartiest wishes and present them with a beautiful dinner and tea service. The bride, nee Miss Bertha Clarke, of Reid's Mills, has many friends in the community, having attended high school at North Mountain, while Mr. Hyndman, who has always resided in the community and taken a keen interest in the young people's work of St. Andrew's United Church, is highl yesteemed.

A program of games, music and contests were carried out, with Mrs. Thos. Coleman in charge.

After a few hours of enjoyment Mr. and Mrs. Hyndman were asked to come forward to the spacious dining room and there awaited them a lovely surprise. Miss Louise Curry, of the teaching staff of North Mountain Consolidated school, read an appropriate and complimentary address and Mr. Stanley Coleman wheeled in the beautiful gift of dinner-ware on the bride's dinner-wagon. Mr. and Mrs. Hyndman expressed their high appreciation in a few well chosen words.

Later a buffet lunch was served by the ladies of the party. Mr. and Mrs. Hynman were the guests of honor.

William R. Roach, prominent member of the Morrisburg municipal council, will be unable to walk for several days due to a painful leg injury he sustained on Monday. Councillor Roach tripped and fell down a flight of steps in his garage, catching his leg between two steps and wrenching it badly. Dr. E. F. McIntosh was called to attend him.

VERNON PRESBYTERIAN L. A.

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church held their regular meeting in the vestry on Tuesday afternoon with good attendance. Mrs. Ed. Kennedy presided. After some business items had been dealt with the members did some work in connection with the bazaar. Mrs. Kennedy conducted a contest which was won by Mrs. W. G. Porteous.

WOMEN ATTEND CLASS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE

The domestic science class, which was held in the North Mountain Consolidated School on Wednesday evening last under the direction of Miss Marjorie Young, domestic science teacher of the school, was attended by sixty women from Hallville and the surrounding community. Miss Young demonstrated how to prepare the cheaper cuts of meat and other food material and derive the same nutrition as from the more expensive materials. The class will close on Wednesdday, November 21st, when a tea will be served by Miss Young to the members of the association. Miss Young will be assisted by Miss Freda Beggs, of Hallville, who has been her assistant at all the demonstrations and lectures.

NESBITT—CHICK

A quiet wedding ceremony was solemnized Saturday, October 27, at the United Church parsonage, Brockville, when Rev. W. E. Donnelly united in matrimony Miss Emma Ruth Chick, third daughter of Mrs. Bertha Chick, and the late Frank Lorne Chick, of Mallorytown, and Thomas John Nesbitt, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nesbitt, formerly of Winchester Springs, now of Kingston.

The bride was gowned in triple sheer crepe with gold and chiffon velvet trimmings. She wore a chiffon velvet hat and matching accessories.

The young couple left on a motor trip through the province of Quebec. On their return they will reside near Mallorytown.

ST. ANDREW'S L. A.

The Ladies' Association of St. Andrew's United Church of Hallville, held a well-attended quilting and social on Wednesday last, with the president, Mrs. Russell Thompson, in the chair. Thirty-five members were present and two quilts were completed.

A short business meeting was held and arrangements were competed for the annual chicken supper which will be held in the church hall on Monday evening, November 12th. Following the supper an Armistice concert will be presented in the church auditorium.

Tea was served by the members and later in the evening all attended the domestic science class held in North Mountain consolidated school, under the supervision of Miss Marjorie Young.

FARLINGER—MARCELLUS

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church, Williamsburg, at high noon on Thursday when Maud Marcellus, daughter of Mrs. Charles Marcellus and the late Mr. Marcellus, of Williamsburg, was united in marriage to Allan Augustus Farlinger, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ernest Farlinger of Morrisburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. A. Adey, pastor of the Williamsburg United Church, Mrs. Adey layed the wedding march.

The bride wore a gown of midnight blue velvet. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Arthur Casselman of Morrisburg. The groomsman was Mr. A. C. Casselman.

Following the marriage ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Farlinger left on a motor trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other Western points in Ontario. On their return they will reside at "Earnscliffe," River Road West, Morrisburg.

TEETHING FEVER Relieved/

Mrs. Edward James' baby had two teeth when less than three months old. She writes: "He has 18 now and I can truthfully say that giving him Baby's Own Tablets while cutting his teeth kept him fit and well". Teething is a restless feverish time for babies but the little one can always be soothed and the fever reduced by giving sweet, safe Baby's Own Tablets. Very easy to take, no after effects. Price 25c everywhere.

HUNTERS CLOSE CALL

A miss is as good as a mile, at least in the opinion of friends of Joseph Dougherty, farmer of Oxford township. They received word Saturday last from a hunting expedition in Marlborough township of which Mr. Dougherty is a member, that while going through the bush, the button in the center of his cap at the top of his head was shot away, apparently by someone who mistook him for a deer. Other members of the party are Police Chief Jos. McIntyre, Kemptville, and Robert Dougherty, a brotheer.

10-YEAR-OLD GIRL DROWNS

Disconsolate because she had failed for the first time to lead her class at school, 10-year-old Doris McDonald, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDonald, of Little Current, Ont., drowned herself near the government dock at that place.

Learning that she had placed second, Doris told a playmate that she was going to drown herself. She kissed her young mother good-by and departed, apparently for school. It was later in the day that the teacher revealed to Mrs. McDonald that Doris had not returned to school. A diver recovered the body.

THE UNITED CHURCH

Reverently with bowed heads, the large morning congregation stood to observe the two minutes of silence in remembrance of those who had given their lives in the Great War.

The Church was fittingly decorated with flags, the large Memorial Flag, designed by the local W. C. T. U. containing the names of the Veterans from this locality, hung in the front of the church, and the Veterans' Wreath of poppies and ferns, presented to them some time ago by the Ontario Government, was placed in front of the pulpit. The hymns and special music were in keeping with the occasion. Mrs. P. Durant sang: "He follows in their train," and the choir sang Kipling's Recessional, with solo parts taken by Mrs. Harold Lannin.

Rev. John McKay took for his text, Rom. 14:19. He spoke of the feelings of animosity and ill will breaking down and said that the returned soldiers were the strongest proponents of peace today. The call of Remembrance Day is that all who name the name of Christ should join in the interests of peace. More has been done in the last 16 years in the interests of world peace than at any time before. The majority of people are becoming convinced that war is a sin. World peace is becoming part of the creed of the Church of Jesus Christ. The torch of Peace has been handed to us to enlist ourselves in that great peace parade—the religion of Jesus—and only in this way can we be true to those who laid down their lives for us.

Rev. J. C. Eastcott of Avonmore, spoke on the 6th of Isa. at the evening service, presenting a picture of the life-work and prophecy of Isaiah, who was called to be a statesman.

He longed to save his country from the doom that awaited her if she did not change her ways. Isaiah heard the call of God in the temple. What we get out of a service depends on what we bring there. Divine vision comes to a man who sees a human need. When we look into the face of God, we are immediately obsessed with our inadequacy.

The choir sang: "O God give peace again."

Next Sunday morning Rev. G. H. Smith. of Morewood, will exchange with Rev. J. McKay.

W. C. T. U. SOCIAL AND PUBLICITY MEETING

A wonderful privilege was enjoyed last Friday afternoon by those interested enough to be present at the annual W. C. T. U. Social Meeting, to hear the inspiring address given by Mrs. T. T. George, who is one of the Provincial Field Secretarys, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. McKendry.

Mrs. George said she was proud to belong to an organization that has always stood for equal rights for women and men, and that has advocated world peace and sobriety. Canada, she said, is the only country in the world that has the co-operation of every Protestant denomination in Temperance education. Preceding legislation there must be education. The Brewers' Association is a strong world organization. We have to waken up and ever be on our guard against wicked and powerful foe.

She showed alcohol to be a racial poison and anaesthetic. There has been 2 1-2 millions profit on the sale of beer and wine in the past 4 months. There is a growing public revulsion against the sale of beer and wine in our beverage rooms. Several posters made by children were exhibited by Mrs. George. These can be effectively used to teach the children the disastrous effects of alcohol. Reference was made to the redemptive work being done by God through the Oxford Group.

The president, of the local Union, Mrs. Levi Levere, resided at this meeting, coming from Shanly to be present and bringing with her from there some musical talent that added to the interest of the meeting.

"The Victory may depend on you," was sung as a duet by Mrs. Gamble and Mrs. Fred Johnston of Shanly. Another Mrs. T. Johnston from the same place sang as a solo: "My Captain never lost a battle." Mrs. Percy Durant sang: "A million boys are needed," and Mrs. John McKay contributed an instrumental solo on the piano. These musical numbers were very much enjoyed. The accompanists were Mrs. McKay, Miss Empey, Mrs. Levere and Mrs. McKendry.

Opening devotions were taken by Mrs. J. I. Johnston, who read portions of Luke 13 and John 3 and spoke on repentance, regeneration, and obedience. Mrs. N. W. Beach and Mrs. John Miller led in prayer.

A good report of the County Convention held at Lancaster on June 14th, was given by the delegate, Mrs. N. W. Beach. A vote of thanks by Mrs. Will Johnston was given all those who assisted in the programme, after which all joined in singing: "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

A committee under the convenorship of Mrs. Duncan served delicious refreshments to which all did ample justice.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The November meeting was held on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 8th, in the Sunday School rooms of the United Church with the president, Mrs. K. Helmer, presiding and read the call to worship, and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. R. Crowder, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. K. Helmer reported three bales sent to the West valued at $25.

A nominating committee was appointed to secure officers for the coming year. Mrs. S. Christie, Temperance Secretary, gave a report of the annual meeting of the Dominion Temperance Federation that was held in Williard Hall, Toronto, on September the 11th. Can we talk lightly of drunkenness? Surely drunkenness is one of the great sins, for God has said, No drunkard shall inherit the Kingdom of God.

Mrs. Rowat and Mrs. Sweet, convenors of the November group, had charge of the program. The devotional leaflet taken from Matthew 13th chapter and 33rd verse, was read by Mrs. Rowat, "Hopeful friends." The Kingdom of God is like onto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till the whole was leavened. Mrs. McKay offered prayer that we may come to see that the only way to peace is to live Jesus' way of love and brotherhood. A beautifully rendered duet by Mrs. E. Steele and Mrs. J. Moffatt, accompanied by Mrs. J. McKay, was much appreciated.

The subject, Study Builders of the Indian Church, the third chapter, was explained by Mesdames Helmer, Suffel, Scott, McVey, Crowder and Nesbitt. The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

You cannot make good citizens without making good men. The State is the individual writ large. And the finest wealth consists in those things which are increased by sharing; where one man's gain is not another man's loss.—Dean Inge.

RAMBLING 'ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

The Metropolitan Opera House, built in the early '80s, has been bathed (with a sand-blast), primped and dressed for its audience, this year. And the seats have had the squeaks eliminated, which is as it should be, for the Metropolitan still ranks among the highest halls in New York for its excellent acoustics.

Some hundreds of dissatisfied tenants of Knickerbocker Village, that ten million dollar apartment house project replacing some of the worst of New York's slums, find that living in apartments at $12.50 a room is not, as yet, quite utopian. They've drawn up a petition listing a series of grievances and voting to refuse to pay their rent until they are satisfied. Eight of the ten millions were borrowed from the RFC.

Keepers in charge of feeding the animals in Bronx Park are looking with anxious eyes to the skies each morning, fearing that great flocks of ducks will be added to the two hundred already wintering there. The food budget is limited, and a thousand ducks last year chose the park for its relative warmth and food.

"Neighbors"' in New York are only the people who live in the same building or the same block. Live two or three years in one house, and you might know many of them by sight without knowing anyone but the door man to speak to.

Brownstone houses in New York are strange neighbors. Across the street, Mrs. X, whose name you may never know, keeps careful watch of all the doings of our house, and frequently her husband joins her at the window, idly looking at pedestrians. We don't even nod, though we've seen each other for years.

An advertisement in New York personal columns recently asked for 25 of the meanest, orneriest, most cantankerous, sourest, evil dispositioned men in the city for part time work at one dollar an hour . . . The story goes that they were asked to listen to a proposed new radio program of a couple of comedians, and that they were all fired after an hour for laughing so much.

PEDESTRIAN STRUCK

George Lefevre, Berwick, escaped serious injury when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Brown who was returning to his home at Finch on Saturday evening last. Lefevre was walking to Berwick and was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the accident. Despite the fact that one of the front lights of the car was smashed Lefevre's injuries were slight. He was driven to Berwick by Mr. Brown.

WEATHER SIGNS

Here are a few extracts from The Weather Book by Admiral Fitz Roy which are useful to seamen, farmers and gardeners.

Whether clear or cloudy, a rosy sky at sunset means fair weather. A sickly looking, greenish hue, means wind and rain. In the morning a red sky means bads weather, or much wind with perhaps rain. A gray sky means fine weather.

A high dawn means wind. A low dawn means fair weather (a high dawn is when the first indications of daylight are seen above a bank of clouds. A low dawn is when the day breaks on or near the horizon.)

Soft looking or delicate clouds foretell fine weather with moderate or light breezes.

Nutria farming is proving successful in Surrey, nutria being a species of swamp beaver from South America, resembling a cross between a large rat and a porcupine, and highly valued for its fur.

LARGE TIME WAS HAD BY ALL

MUST SELL BUTTER BY NET WEIGHT

Recently inspectors of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have been been making a closer check up of the weights of prints of butter in order to insure that the consumer is receiving full weight. This had disclosed that the legal requirements concerning the sale of butter are not being strictly observed by some vendors.

These regulations provide in Sub-section 3 (a' of Section 6 of Part 1 of The Dairy Industry Act) that any butter intended for sale that has been moulded or cut into prints, blocks, squares or pats must be: "of the full net weight of one-quarter pound, one-half pound, one pound or two pounds, but nothing in this paragraph shall be held to apply to butter in rolls or lumps, of indiscriminate weight, as sold by farmers."

The inspectors will continue to check up throughout Canada in order to see that consumers receive full net weight.

RAISING CALVES

Farmers who sell whole milk will find the following sugestions helpful:

1. Leave the calf with its mother for one to three days after birth.
2. Feed whole milk during the first two or three weeks. Be careful not to overfeed.
3. It is best to feed the milk directly after milking, and always from clean utensils. Milk that has been allowed to cool should be warmed to 95 degrees F.
4. Start feeding powdered skim-milk or powdered buttermilk mixed with warm water at the rate of one part powder to nine parts water, as a substitute for whole milk. Make all changes in feed gradually.
5. Semi-solid or condensed buttermilk may be used as a substitute for whole milk. This should be mixed with about three times their weight of warm water to a feeding.
6. Feed the prepared milk mixtures to calves in the same way and in the same amounts as ordinary skim milk.
7. Calves may be weaned from milk when about 70 days old, although better results are secured from feeding longer.
8. There are several satisfactory prepared calf meals on the market.

FUN TO MAKE DRESSES

Strange as it may seem a lot of rural girls say it's fun to make their own clothes. They admit it's work, of course, but it's work to an end that brings them much happiness. The reason is that the dresses are made the 4-H way. That is, the girls learn to make them by a system which cuts out the troublesome details and uncertainty. They complete simple projects in sewing and designing first and work up to the more difficult dress. Along with this training in what you might call the ABC's of dress making, they learn what is correct in color combinations and all about materials and what is the best for their own particular "type of beauty."

This season's dresses and costumes of 4-H girl's making are now being exhibited and county and state winning outfits are being selected. They range from practical every day school and street dresses to the party dress of informal type. Visitors to these exhibits remark with enthusiasm at the attractiveness of the outfits, the fine style and handiwork, and it is not uncommon to hear it said that they compare with the prettiest they see in store show windows.

In fact, a girl who has made the most of her 4-H training in learning how to dress herself hardly knows there are hard times. Take the case of an 18-year old Arkansas lass, Miss Bernice Houston of Paragould. She made and modeled a woolen suit for school which with all accessories cost her $16.07. It won county championship and then the state championship and now the girl is preparing to show it in the National 4-H Style Revue in Chicago December 4.

Marian Nielsen of Bruce, South Dakota, is the state champion style girl of the year. She will model her winning dress in the national contest which is a school wash creation. With all accessories this outfit cost the low sum of $6.42, and this included $1.00 hose and $1.98 oxfords.

Maine 4-H girls will be represented in the national revue by Adena Smith of Hollis Center, 17, now in her fifth year of clothing work. Her entry is a wash school dress of Irish linen and flat crepe trimming. With thread and buttons the dress cost $2.27. These girls will be among the 40 or more state champions whose expenses to the national revue will be paid by the Chicago Mail Order company, which sponsors the contest.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Rust

Rust on tableware can often be removed very successfully with onion juice.

Eat Onions

Cultivate the habit of eating raw onions. They have a very beneficial effect on the liver.

Table Oilcloth

Spread a few layers of newspapers under the kitchen table oilcloth and it will give much longer life to the cloth.

White Spots on Furniture

White spots on furniture, caused by hot dishes or water, can be removed by rubbing the spots with a mixture of cannot be pulled out.

Remove Shiny Parts

To remove the shiny parts of a garment sponge it with a solution of one teaspoonful of ammonia to one quart of water. Then press on the wrong side.

Crocheting

Before laying down the crocheting or knitting put a large safety pin through the last loop. If this is done the work cannot bepulled out.

Leftover Starch

If starch is left over, pour it into a glass jar and cover with a lid. Place the jar in the refrigerator and when ready to use dilute with boiling water.

Whipped Cream Substitute

Grate one apple, add two or three tablespoons of sugar and one egg white, then beat until light. This makes an excellent substitute for whipped cream.

Baking Apples

When baking green peppers, apples or tomatoes, put them in muffin pans. They are easy to remove and will keep their shape better than if cooked close together in a baking tin.

Try It

After pans have been used for strong smelling vegetables, such as onions and cabbage, place a little salt on the hot range and turn the pans upside down over the burning salt. The odor will disappear.

Separating Glasses

To separate a water glass when it gets stuck in another pour cold water in the upper one to contract it, and then immerse the lower one in warm water to expand it. They can then be easily separated.

Don't Balk at Milk

The plump darling may balk at milk, but they needn't. Milk contains only a small quantity of fat; it won't add to the weight. Halibut liver oil is an aid to the mouth pearls. The usual dose is fifteen drops a day. Add it to the second cup of coffee you have for breakfast.

After Washing Corduroys

Wash the corduroys carefully then rinse until the water is clear. Do not squeeze out the water at last rinsing, but throw the garment over the line in a shady place while dripping wet. This keeps the material soft and fluffy.

Fresh Ham

To test the freshness of ham, run a clean knife into it, close to the centre knuckles. The ham is good if the knife comes out sweet and odorless, but it is not fit for use if the knife is smeary and has a strong odor.

Paper Patterns

When buying a pattern that is to be used a number of times, make any necessary alterations after the first cutting and you will not have to figure out just that was done to that pattern to make it correct.

Marking Linen

When using indelible ink for marking linen, or clothing of any kind, stretch the material in embroidery hoops. The work will be done better as this gives a firm, smooth surface on which to work.

To Brighten Windows

A spoonful of kerosene added to a kettle of hot water makes windows bright and clear. Use a small clean cloth. Wring it dry and rub it over the glass after wiping down the glass with an oiled cloth. No polishing is required.

Wet Fur

If the fur neckpiece or coat has become wet, do not dry it by the heat of a fire as this causes the skin to become brittle and the hair to fall out. Shake the fur thoroughly to get out the moisture, then hang up to dry.

Chopped Ham Sandwich

To make a good sandwich filling of ham, add to 1 cup of chopped ham enough vinegar to moisten, and a tablespoon of peanut butter. Add celery salt and pepper as seasoning. Mix well before spreading between slices of bread.

Nature's Tints

Finger nails are colorless. The pink glow is provided by capillaries in the flesh under the nail. When nails are blue, circulation is poor; when they are rosy-red blood streams are travelling normally. No varnish can provide a tint as lovely as nature produces when the body is healthy and vitality topnotch.

Soap For Shampooing

When the hair is dry a strong alkaline soap should not be used. The preparation given here is a good soap to use for dry hair. Shave eight ounces of good castile soap, add ten ounces (one and one quarter cups) of water and two ounces of bicarbonate of baking soda. Bring it to a boil and stir until the soap is dissolved. Keep in a covered jar. This will form a soft jelly.

ESSAY ON SILENCE

Few of us live long enough to learn the virtue of being silent. Silence is an art that must be learned by practice and, once learned, becomes a valuable accomplishment. It is vastly more important in company to be a good listener than to be a good talker. Remember that anybody can talk, but that the greatest talkers say the least.

There are many occasions when silence is more eloquent than speech. The silent man learns much and teaches more.

The owl has a reputation of being wise. Why? Because he keeps his mouth shut and wears an air of intelligence.

As a matter of fact, an owl hasn't enough sense to come in out of the rain, but the world doesn't suspect that fact, because the owl saws wood and looks the part of a sage and philosopher. He does not betray how little he knows by shooting off his mouth.

If you will listen attentively to a man talking volubly for five minutes, you will be able to appraise him at his exact value. The reason for this is that he cannot open his mouth without putting his foot in it. It is only the silent people who baffle us.

The tongue is a reflector of the mind. It you let it chatter, it will reveal you to the world for what you are. If, on the other hand, you curb and train it to silence, you will get credit for being a savant, although you may have only a common, average one-cylinder brain.

Someone has said that "Silence is golden," and that is true. Never speak unless you have something to say—and then think twice before saying it. Another reason why you should listen instead of talking is that you can't learn anything while your own tongue is running.

Cultivate a sleeping tongue and a receptive auditory nerve. Learn to listen.—P. H. in The Bowmanville Statesman.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW

That Mayor Jack McKiee of Simcoe is a hockey player for the Toronto Maple Leafs and Premier Hepburn "the man who votes for married women to work" were but a few of the many astonishing results of a current events test given pupils of the south public school entrance class by Principal Donald Kennedy, at Simcoe. Hon. H. H. Stevens was variously called premier of England, president of Canada, and control of the Liberals, while John McCormick, the noted singer, was a cake maker.

Among some of the confused identities were Mickey Cochrane as a Hollywood actor, Kingsford-Smith as a hockey or rugby player, Scott and Black as a radio team, "Schoolboy" Rowe as a radio play, Mahatma Ghandi as "the man who lived for two years without talking," and Premier Bennett as governor of Canada.

CRANKING AN AUTO

(Stratford Beacon-Herald

A report which comes from Pontiac, Mich., tells about a gentleman of seventy years who started in his car to visit his brother who lived on a farm a few miles out. He ran into a piece of bad road and his car stuck. He worked for a time trying to push it, and then found it necessary to crank the engine. Later he was found sitting in the car—dead.

A doctor who was called said that the reason of the heart attack, which caused death, was too much exertion trying to get the engine started. He gave it as his opinon that only a man in fine physical condition should ever try to crank an engine. The effort was too great for a man of seventy and even for a man of lesser years it was dangerous.

One does not see so much of this now as during the winter when a number of cars are hard to start. Cranking an engine, particularly in a heavy car, is exhausting work and the man who has any reason to suspect that his heart is not the best should never try it.

MY HOME TOWN

"My town is the place where my home is founded; where my business is situated; where my vote is cast; where my children are educated; where my life is chiefly lived. It is the home spot for me. My town has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I must support it. My town wants my citizenship, not partisanship; friendliness, not offishness; cooperation, not dissension; sympathy, not criticism; my intelligent support, not indifference. My town supplies me with law and order, trade friends, education, morals, recreation and the rights of a freeborn citizen. I should believe in my town and work for it."

If everyone followed the above creed, the mail-order houses and bell-ringers would have a hard time.—Exchange.

POTATO HARVEST OF 1934

According to the preliminary estimate recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the total production of potatoes in Canada in 1934 will be 47,241,000 cwt. from 568,800 acres, or 83 cwt. per acre, as compared with a revised estimate of 42,745,000 cwt. from 527,700 acres, or 81 cwt. per acre in 1933, and 46,017,000 cwt. from 564,000 acres or 82 cwt. per acre, the average for the five years, 1928-1932. By provinces, the yields in cwt. per acre are, in order, as follows, with last year's figures within brackets: New Brunswick 128 (115); Prince Edward Island 120 (100); British Columbia 113 (96); Nova Scotia 112 (91); Quebec 97.7 (101.0); Ontario 69.6 (64.2); Manitoba 50 (63); Alberta 53 (58); Saskatchewan 31.4 (50.0).

There is an increase of 7.8 per cent. in the 1934 potato acreage over that of 1933. In addition, the yield per acre in Canada was 2.5 per cent. higher in 1934 than in 1933, so that the total production is placed at 10.5 per cent above the 1933 level.

HONEY

Honey absorbs moisture from the air and loses aroma and flavour rapidly. Therefore, it should not be left uncovered any longer than necessary. Extracted honey should be kept in a cool, dry place, but honey in comb should be stored in a warm and dry place.

THE SPORTMAN'S SAFETY CODE

With the hunting season already in progress, the Ontario Safety League makes a timely contribution in a code for sportsmen which, if obeyed, will remove many of the hazards which accompany hunting, a diversion which continues to claim numerous lives annually. The following are the articles in this code:—

1. I will never allow my gun to point at anything that I do not intend to shoot.
2. I will make sure when loading my gun that the muzzle is not pointed at any part of my body or at any person. I will not stand in front of another who is loading a gun.
3. I will never cock my gun or pull the trigger "just for fun."
4. I will never shoot directly at a flat, hard surface, a bottle or similar object, as the bullet is liable to glance from it and may hit someone.
5. I will never handle a gun without first opening the breech to make sure the gun is empty and looking through the bore to see that it is clean.
6. I will never carry my gun loaded except when hunting and will then make sure it is locked in the safe position.
7. I will never shoot at a song-bird or harmless animal for sport and will always be sure that no wounded game is left to suffer.
8. I will always remember that a .22 calibre bullet will travel three-quarters of a mile, or through nine inches of ordinary board and will glance a long way across water.
9. I will always put my gun muzzle first through the fence, before I climb the fence, and then I will climb over between the next two posts.
10. I will be careful not to fire at any moving object in the bushes until I make sure of what it is. Too many hunters have been killed through having been mistaken for a deer.
11. I will give my gun a thorough cleaning as soon as I am through firing.

Like nearly all other accidents, those that take place in the woods each year during the hunting season are preventable and in numerous cases attributable to human carelessness. All sportsmen will be well advised if they value their own lives and those of others who may be in the vicinity of their operations to take to heart the simple rules which have been defined by the Safety League. The charge that kills a deer or moose is equally capable of taking human life.

EVERYBODY'S APPETITE

On an average, a woman eats one-fifth less than a man. People who eat highly-seasoned foods regularly are usually irritable. Those who never touch cruets are frequently lacking in "pep." Fish and fruit are gradually ousting beef. Mr. Bernard Shaw has said that in beef we get nourishment second-hand; the beast first enjoys the vitamins of the pasture. There's all the wealth of the sea in fish. Fruit eaters usually have sweet tempers and sunny dispositions—since their food is largely concentrated sunshine. If it were not for the age-old custom of feasting we should find two good meals a day ample sustenance. A normal man of fifty has in his life consumed twenty-five tons of food, and a hearty eater, between fifty and sixty tons; but the former has the better expectation of life. As a nation, the Romans were big eaters. They made gluttony a pastime. That was one cause of the collapse of the Roman Empire.

Although the mineral content of honey is very small, it is worth noting, says the Dominion Apiarist, that such elements as lime and iron, necessary to the well-being of the human body, are present.

OUR NEIGHBOURING VILLAGE'S LOSS

To the village of Chesterville, and those who were so earnestly engaged and interested in the erection and completion of their new Community Hall, is extended the sympathy of the surrounding villages and countryside in the loss they suffered on Sunday last when the almost completed building was totally destroyed by fire. Winchester knows from experience what a disastrous fire means to a community, and while the Community Hall did not class as an industry, it was intended to be used as its name implies, a community hall, in which was to be housed a library, the Hydro office, the council chamber, a Women's Institute room, a dining hall, and a public hall that would accommodate the needs of that village for years to come. It is a severe blow to its promoters, and will no doubt be a severe financial loss to the municipality.

TREATMENT OF POLITICAL LEADERS

The following paragraph taken from an editorial in a recent issue of the Brockville Recorder-Times, a paper owned and controlled by Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, Senator, is somewhat interesting in view of the facts of recent Ontario politics. The paragraph reads:

"The Conservative party in Ontario has never been noted for the kindness of the treatment that it has meted out to defeated leaders. After Sir William Hearst went down before the united and determined assault of the U. F. O.'s and Liberals in 1919, he was retired to political oblivion. The same thing is very apt to happen to Mr. Henry, who, however, will probably be very glad to withdraw from the hurly-burly of politics after his extended service in behalf of the people and the many evidences that the Conservative party is none too grateful for his direction of its destinies in this province."

Now one has not to be so very old to recall many cases, and particularly in the Liberal ranks in Ontario, of leaders, or would-be leaders, having been unceremoniously, and in a recent case, very unfairly and discourteously dismissed and without undue ceremony. Human nature is not changed much by the political label it carries, and if the R. & T. would but consult its files of the past few months it would find that a Liberal leader in the Ontario house was most unceremoniously, and in a most questionable and almost brutal manner, kicked out of the party leadership. In fact he was, figuratively speaking, thrown out and then mud thrown on him, by the Liberal Party, or those who call themselves the representatives of the Liberal Party in Ontario. Senator Graham knows enough of Ontario Liberalism to know that there is not much consideration shown the political leader who fails, because he has had some experience.

ABOUT GOSSIPS

Women are not the only ones who indulge in that pernicious habit, or vice, commonly known as gossip. Men gossip, and their gossip is oftentimes more damaging to character, reputation and prospects than the somewhat petty gossip that has become so common over the afternoon tea-cups or games of bridge. Men will make statements of a most slanderous character about other men, and too frequently about other men's wives, or of young girls, that are only the result of their evil imagining. We all know how an evil, vile, damaging story, told sometimes without a thought of it being repeated, will spread, and grow in its vileness as it spreads, while the subject of such gossip, in perfect innocence and unsuspecting, wonders why some people turn the cold shoulder, treat him or her as though they were almost a criminal, or one who was unfit to associate with. We do not know what can be done to help put a stop to this very vile and evil practice. The editor of a newspaper in a small town hears much of it in his quest for news, and if he is the right kind of a newspaper man he usually traces such gossip to as near its source as he can, and generally finds that, to use our old expression, "a mountain has been made out of a mole heap." Of course, the right and proper way to do is to ask the person who makes a damaging and slanderous statement about another, to repeat that statement in the presence of two or three others, and then acquaint the accused with the facts. We have known such a course to have a very salutary effect. Even though a thing may be true, or well founded, to repeat it in the presence of others is libellous, and punishable by law.

Winchester, as a community, is no worse and no better than other places, and we have noticed that in a small town not far distant a lawsuit has been started as the result of idle gossip. It is hard to imagine the evil, and the utterly vile workings of the mind and tongue of the man, young or old, who, even with some evidence, indulges in the pastime of reflecting on the moral character of some young girl or married woman. The haw, haw, that too frequently accompanies such a story is but an effort to brazen out an act that the author is himself ashamed of having repeated. Shun as you would a deadly poisonous viper, the confidence or friendship of the gossiper. As a well known author has said "Confidence in another man's virtue is no slight evidence of a man's own."

PAYING TAXES

There seems, and without reason, an aversion to paying taxes. We suppose it is because taxes are imposed, and in this free country we are so accustomed to paying for what we want, what we can handle, wear, eat, or enjoy, that when it comes to paying out hard cash for something called "taxes," but a something that we do not seem to get value for, or do not understand, we do it grudgingly.

At the present time, many municipalities, or those who are the representatives of those municipalities, are experiencing anything but a pleasant time in trying to do their duty, and at the same time avoid offending those who have neglected to pay their taxes. Because of laxity on the part of collectors, in many cases, taxes have been allowed to remain recorded against properties and individuals as "unpaid," year after year until the amount has become beyond their ability to settle at once. But the representatives of the municipality have no alternative, and if they do their duty, they will instruct their tax collector to seize and sell, or take such other legal action, provided by statutes, to secure the payment of the taxes due. Thus very often municipal representatives, as well as the collector, come in for some very unfair and unjustifiable criticism.

No intelligent person can claim to be ignorant of what must result in case they default in paying their taxes. They are given every opportunity to appeal, ask for a reduction or make necessary provision to settle their tax bill. In many cases inability to pay is the cause, and for those who find themselves thus situated there is public sympathy. There are many cases where properties once rated valuable, have remained untenanted or unoccupied, and thus have become more of a burden than an asset to the owner. In such cases the municipality will in the course of time, be required to offer that property for sale to pay the taxes. If sold, the owner has the right to redeem within a certain length of time.

There are other taxes, however, that are just as annoying to the municipal authorities. We refer to the Poll Tax and the Dog Tax. They are more annoying in the smaller town and villages than any other tax, and we would not like to repeat what Mayors, Reeves and Councillors have been called by some disputers and delinquents of poll and dog taxes.

However, it is very seldom that either the assessor, tax collector or municipal authorities are in the wrong. Proper and plainly worded notices are served on all parties appearing on the assessment roll, and the ones receiving same are not only given plenty of time to show reason why they should not be taxed, but are warned to do so within a limited time. Taxes are to many an odious obligation that is not only necessarily imposed but must be met. The best way is to pay your taxes as soon as you receive your notice. You are thus helping your municipality and saving yourself much annoyance.

LIQUOR, BEASTILITY, CRIME AND CORRUPTION

The inquiry now being made by the Hepburn Government into certain transactions involving the late Ontario Liquor Commission, certain politicians and the liquor interests, must make some of the prominent clergymen and public men reflect with shame that they ever allowed their name to be attached to the election manifesto issued in 1925 by G. Howard Ferguson, then leader of the Conservative party in Ontario. Ever and always has liquor been associated with brutality, crime and political corruption; and those who manufacture it, and are financially interested in its sale, do not stop at any obstacle. They never cease working until their object is obtained, and then they begin to reach out for more. When the liquor interests induced G. Howard Ferguson to take up their cause, and he in turn induced his Conservative supporters to adopt the so-called policy of Liquor Control, the cause of prohibition suffered a set-back from which it has not recovered, and from which we have to-day a system that is even worse than the days before prohibition was introduced. Not only that, but it is becoming clear from the evidence already brought out, that the liquor barons worked through political friends close to the Liquor Board, and the result was that the usual bribes had to be forthcoming, and in order to introduce certain brands of liquor, the consent of the Liquor Board had to be gained. To gain that consent the party in power had to be used, and to gain the favor of the right ones, there had to be the so-called contributions to campaign funds, and other extras that will probably be revealed as the investigation proceeds. It is impossible to dissociate the Liquor Board from politics. The store keepers, and all others employed in connection with the sale of liquor in Ontario, are political appointments. It requires no special qualifications, either educational or moral, to be a dispenser of liquor. All that is required under present conditions is the printed label on the bottle. And the store keeper who can dispose of a large quantity of whiskey, brandy or beer, will no doubt be remembered by the manufacturers in due time. You cannot separate liquor and graft.

Memorial Service

The residents of the community of Nation Valley, S. S. No. 5, Winchester, assembled to commemorate the cessation of active hostilities of the Great War by observing the sixteenth anniversary. A memorial service was held in the school room on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 11th, at 2.30, in honour of those who lost their lives in the conflict.

The school was decorated with flags and on the desk was a magnificent bouquet of double white "mums." The painting entitled "Their names liveth forever," of a field in Flanders, was reproduced on the blackboard by Miss Helen Merkley.

Mr. Malcolm Rae acted as chairman for the service in the school. After a few remarks the service opened with the National Anthem followed by international prayer. "O God Our Help in Ages Past," was then sung, followed by scripture reading from Romans. A poem by Bruce Barton entitled" Armistice," was given by the chairman.

The singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," was followed by McCraes' immortal "In Flanders Fields," recited by Master Roy Robinson, whose uncle laid down his life in France.

The guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Tait, of Chesterville, who gave the memorial address, was introduced by the chairman. Mr. Tait's impressive address will long be remembered in the vicinity. He was alive to his subject and painted vivid word pictures of War at its worst as he saw it first hand at Halifax as the battleships plied to and fro across the Atlantic as they went with Canada's best and returned with the wounded. He also saw war as chaplain on board ship's hospital, and battleships being sunk with all on board. He pointed out the great work being done by the League of Nations, and impressed it on their minds the real cost of war otherwise than gold and closed by saying he prayed and hoped that for the good of humanity the Leauge of Nations would never fail in its high and lofty purpose of banishing all wars. "Abide With Me," was sung as the closing hymn, after which the families of the fallen heroes proceeded from the school to the grounds where stands the cenotaph erected to their memory, followed by their neighbours in reverend mood and sympathy, where Mr. Preston McIntosh was in charge of condolences. He remarked that the boys who had made the supreme sacrifice and whose names were inscribed on the monument of remembrance, had been well known, loved and highly respected by the community. When they had given their lives they had given all. Special mention was made of those boys who returned broken in body and mind, but still courageously carrying on, to whom we must also pay tribute. He referred to another returned boy who passed away a few short weeks ago as a result of the war, the late Sapper Warren Rae.

The observing of the two minutes in hushed silence invaded by loyal hearts in prayer, proceeded the laying of the wreaths. Mrs. Geo. A. Merkley, mother of a fallen hero, was asked to place the Provincial Government wreath. Mr. Chas. Gray, ex-service man, laid reverently the wreath from the community. Mr. Lloyd Merkley placed the family wreath.

Having crossed the threshold of memories' wondrous realm, there comes to us from out the hidden vista familiar faces to greet us. They stand before us a living presence, all that we should not see is hidden from our eyes leaving only cherished hope when soul shall meet soul and there shall be no more strife nor separation. There should be no tears now except thankfulness that our dead heroes thought a righteous cause worth fighting for, worth dying for.

Rev. Mr. Tait pronounced the benediction.

The fallen heroes are: Sgt. Harold A. Merkley, Corp. Wm. B. C. Moodie, Pte. Howard R. Hess, Pte. Henry Coughlar.

LIVE FOR TO-DAY

It is a blessed secret, this of living by the day. Anyone can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall. Any one can do his work, however hard, for one day. Any one can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, and purely till the sun goes down. And this is all that life ever really means to us—just one little day.

Do to-day's duty, fight to-day's temptations, and do not weaken and distract yourself by looking forward to things you cannot see, and could not understand if you saw them. God gives nights to shut down the curtain of darkness on our little days. We cannot see beyond. Short horizons make life easier, and give us one of the blessed secrets of brave, true, holy living.—Bertha N. Kraybill.

AN INCORRIGIBLE POET

The father of Isaac Watts was determined that his boy should not become a poet, and when he caught him making rhymes, after tiring of remonstrating with him, he flogged him. As he applied the whip, young Isaac cried.

O father, do some pity take,
And another rhyme I shall never make."

This provoking the father still more, he applied the lash with more severity, and young Watts again cried out:

"O, my father, do spare my back from pain,
And I shall never make a rhyme again."

The father, thoroughly discouraged in his vain attempt to beat the poetry out of the boy, sent him away to school with a special request that the principal flog the boy if he caught him making rhymes. The first morning at the chapel exercise the boy, Watts, looking up at the ceiling during prayers, saw a rat coming down the bell rope. He laughed so loudly that the teacher, stopping in prayer, demanded why he laughed. The boy trembling answered:

"Well, teacher, as there were no stairs,
The rat came down the rope to say his prayers."

The teacher discovered the genius of the boy and encouraged his rhyme-making, and his hymns to this day are sung the world around.—The Canadian School Journal.

CHRONIC BORROWERS

Chronic borrowers seem to get through life very easily because they have no scruples about asking others to share their burdens. But things get harder for them as they go along.

We are glad to oblige others, until we feel we are being imposed upon. Then we make excuses, or we refuse their requests, depending upon the way in which we meet our problems.

And when the chronic borrower needs help the most, she may find she has exhausted the indulgence of all her friends. And she has to get through the ordeal alone.

If you are a borrower, make it a point to correct that weakness in your character, for it is weakness. You borrow money because you don't look ahead and forsee your needs. You didn't plan. Instead of allowing yourself to borrow, punish yourself by doing without.

There are few persons who are capable of such friendship that it will not be sapped by constant borrowings.—Picton Gazette.

NORTH MOUNTAIN

Rev. Donald Morrison returned home after spending the past few days with his mother who is ill.

Mrs. Clarke Hyndman left for Ottawa on Tuesday and intends, with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Scott, to leave for California on Thursday.

A very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr .and Mrs. Bert Hyndman on Friday evening last when a number of their neighbours gathered to wish them much happiness. Games and music formed part of the program after which Miss Louisa Curry read a beautifully worded address and Mr. Stanley Coleman presented a very pretty dinner set of dishes to the bride and groom. Mr. Hyndman replied after a dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Broder Scarlett and son, Ralph, also Mrs. I. W. Scarlett and Mrs. W. Cooper spent Sunday in Cornwall where Mr. Broder Scarlett is a patient.

A very pleasant time was held in the basement of the Church on Wednesday afternoon when the members of the Women's Association gathered for a social hour with Mrs. Forsythe who is leaving shortly for Ireland. A short program of music was enjoyed. The ladies presented the guest with an overnight bag, just as a slight remembrance of friends here. Lunch was then served.

Miss Florence Thompson of Montreal, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson.

Mrs. Jamieson is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hyndman.

Miss Corriene Hyndman spent Wednesday night with Mrs. Andrew Logan.

The Armistice Supper held in the church on Monday night was well attended. A good program was enjoyed. Mr .and Mrs. Friend, of Kemptville, were listened to with keen enjoyment. The speaker of the evening, Mr. Tom Moore, of Ottawa, was listened to with interest.

Several from this vicinity attended a farewell party at the home of Mr. Alex Porteous, Mountain. An address and a purse were given Mr. and Mrs. Porteous who are leaving to take up their residence at Ventnor. Mr. and Mrs. Porteous thanked their friends and neighbors for their kindness to them and invited them all to visit them in their new home.

The Y. P. S. of the Presbyterian church held its first meeting in the vestry on Friday night and was well attended. Mrs. Porteous, president, gave the opening address. Mrs. Elmer Campbell, convener of the meeting, then took charge and a splendid program of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc., was given. Mr. Lloyd Lemoine gave an excellent paper on Vernon school since it was built, and the teachers who had taught in the school, and other interesting items. Contests were put on by Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Bowman. Luncheon was served and a very pleasant time enjoyed.

We are pleased to congratulate Mr. Stewart Fisher upon his marriage to Miss M. Munroe, of Lancaster.

NEW RULES GOVERNING EXPORT

Important amendments to the Live-stock Products Act affecting the grading and marking of dressed poultry have been approved by the Governor-in-Council and will become effective as soon as they have been published twice in the Canada Gazette. The original regulations under the act passed in 1928 have been changed to make compulsory the grading and inspection of dressed poultry for export.

In addition to being inspected at point of shipment as to grading and packing, very definite regulations have been formulated regarding the marking of containers, and the tagging of each individual bird with its class and grade. Boxes containing dressed poultry for export or any for which inspection is requested must be legibly stencilled on one end in block letters not less than three-quarters of an inch in height, to show in the upper left corner the number of birds in the box; in the lower left corner the word "tagged" if all the birds in the box are tagged, also the gross weight; in the lower right corner the net weight; and in the center the kind and sub-kind on the first line and the class and grade on the second line. Another important clause in the amended regulations provides that upon the end of the box bearing these stencilled directions no mark or other trade designation is allowed.

Unless shippers follow the regulations in all particulars, the government mark of approval cannot be placed on the boxes, nor can the poultry be exported.

NO WONDER HE FELT AND LOOKED SO MUCH BETTER

Half in fun and half because he occasionally "felt punk", a college chap joined 39 other students to form a test class or clinic. It was desired to test on this class the recuperative power of a certain tonic preparation, the formula of which was known to have blood-building qualities.

Like the other 39, this young man's blood was tested and the "count" of red corpuscles and red colouring matter was found well below normal. No wonder he "felt punk" at times. He was given the tonic and returned in thirty days to have his blood tested again. There was no doubt about improved health. He looked it and felt it. His blood test showed that red corpuscles and red colouring matter had strikingly increased. No wonder he felt and looked so much better.

Would you like to feel better, too? Would you like to be keen again about study or work or play? Then take this "tested tonic" which proved such a benefit to the forty college students. It restores well-being by increasing the red corpuscles and red colouring matter of the blood—those carriers in the blood stream which must be kept up to normal numbers if the person is to possess health and vitality. This tested tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Easy to take whether at home, at college or at business. Recommended for all who feel run-down, over-tired, nervous or "low", or are under-weight.. Your druggist has this tested tonic—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, price 50c.

WHEN EXPERIENCE DIDN'T COUNT

A motor car had just knocked down a man, fortunately without injuring him. The young woman driver faced him determinedly.

"I am sorry it happened," she said. "You should take more care when you are walking. I am an experienced driver. I have been driving a car for seven years.

"Well," replied the victim, "I'm not a novice myself. I've been walking for fifty-seven years."

HOW TO BUILD

"Build it well, whate'er you do,
Build it straight and strong and true
Build it clean and high and broad,
Build it for the eye of God."

NOVEMBER

Hidden, the frolic and singing,
Hidden, the colorsome sway,
Dignity steps from her cloister—
Silent, with garments of grey—
Walks down a field way of tatters,
Echoes and memories of play—
Frowning, she beckons to Winter.
Hastens the Wind on his way.
—Rena Chandler.

FRIENDSHIP

If you haven't a faithful friend,
On whom you can depend;
If you haven't a loyal pal,
Your love to whom you send;
If you've lost the perfect thrill
Of telling just to "one"
The secrets closest to your heart,
And then when that is done,
To sit in peace in evening light,
And thank the God above you,
That you are blessed as no one else,
With a friend who'll always love you;
Then you haven't the only thing
You need in your life kit.
It's hard to get and hard to keep—
That is—true friendship.

PROVERBS OF ALPHABETICAL RHYME

A friend in need is a friend indeed,
A bird in the hand is worth two on the reed,
Birds of a feather flock together,
Better be late than never, never.
Climb not too high lest the fall be great,
Catch not a straw or you'll suffer fate.
Diseases are the interest paid for pleasure,
Drunkenness reduces a man beyond measure.
Enough, they say, is as good as a feast,
Empty vessels make a sound, at least,
Fall not with a friend for 'a song,'
Forgive and forget is seldom wrong.
Give the devil his due we often hear,
Good counsel we should hold most dear.

"IF" KIPLING HAD WRITTEN IT LIKE THIS

"If you can see what some folks call 'depression,'
As nothing but a spin of Fortune's wheel;
If you can keep your poise and self-possession,
No matter what you think or how you feel
If you can view a stupid situation
All cluttered up with 'ifs' and 'aws' and 'buts'
And take it at its proper valuation—
A challenge to your common sense and 'guts';
If you can rise above the mess and muddle,
If you can glimpse a rainbow through the clouds,
When Doubt anl Dread and Fear are in a huddle
And hope is being measured for a shroud;
If you can keep a saving sense of humour,
For stories that are slightly inexact;
If you can disregard Report and Rumor
And not accept a statement as a fact;
If you can spread the gospel of successes,
If you can stir the spirit that instills
The latent lift in lathes and looms and presses
And lift the stream above a thousand mills;
If, briefly you can spend an extra dollar;
If you can pry the sacred Roll apart
And buy another shirt or shoe or collar,
And act as if it didn't break your heart;
If you have faith in those with whom you labor;
And trust in those with whom you make a trade;
If you believe in friend and next-door neighbour,
And heed examples pioneers have made;
If you expect the sun to rise to-morrow
If you are sure that somewhere skies are blue—
Wake up and pack away the futile sorrow,
For better days are largely up to YOU!"
—Author Unknown.

THE UNDEMONSTRATIVE HUSBAND

He never says, "I love you so,"
As I somehow thought he would,
But, if I ask, he says: "You know
I do; that's understood."

He never says he likes my dress,
Or likes the tune I'm playing,
But if I ask he answers: "Yes,
That goes without my saying."

I ask him: "Will your love for me
Be always true and steady?"
He sighs, and soys, so wearily:
"I've told you that already."

"For better or for worse," and more,
The kind old parson chanted.
I don't know what I took John for,
But he took me for granted.
—H. A., in Pearson's Magazine.

LET THE SUNSHINE IN

It pays to wear a smiling face,
And laugh our troubles down,
For all little trials wait,
Our laughter or our frown.
Beneath the magic of a smile,
Our doubts will fade away,
As melts the frost in early spring
Beneath the sunny ray.

It pays to make a worthy cause,
By helping it, our own
To give the current of our lives,
A true and nobler tone.
It pays to comfort heavy hearts,
Oppressed with dull despair
And leave in sorrow-darkened lives
A gleam of brightness there.

It pays to give a helping hand,
To eager, earnest youth
To note, with all their waywardness
Their courage and their truth;
To strive with sympathy and love
Their confidence to win.
It pays to open wide the heart
And let the sunshine in.

COMMUNITY

We build our house unalike, and so we build our lives,
And yet our common brotherhood each difference survives.
For man is, after all, a man, beneath the thatch or dome,
And every house, although great or small, is after all a home.

For, if that house is not a home, is but a place to dwell,
Then high or low, or rich or poor, your house is but a shell;
And you, yourself, however great the eminence you plan,
Must still remain beneath it all the brother and the man.

For so we build communities, with houses great and small,
And so we make the nation of the individual.
But if you live your life alone, no fellowship to give,
Then you are dead and turned to dust, however long you live.
—Dominion Oddfellow.

THE MAN WHO WINS

The test of a man is the fight he makes
The grit that he daily shows,
The way he stands on his feet and takes
Fate's numerous bumps and blows,
A coward can smile when there's nought to fear,
When nothing his progress bars,
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.

It isn't the victory after all,
But the fight that a brother makes;
The man who, driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
Is the man who will win in the by and by,
For he isn't afraid to fail.

It's the bumps you get and the jolts you get
And the shocks that your courage stands
The hours of sorrow and vain regret,
The prize that escapes your hands.
That test your mettle and prove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows that you take on this good old earth,
That shows if your stuff is real.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE BARTON

OTHERS TAKE UP THE PEN

THE Epistle to the Hebrews, which in our Bible is attributed to Paul, was almost certainly not written by him. The style is very different from his, and it does not seem likely that he would have addressed a letter particularly to Jews. The best Greek composition in the New Testament is in this letter, and so delicate and persuasive is it that there are those who think they detect a woman's hand. Some have conjectured that Priscilla (Acts 18:1) might have been the writer. In her home Paul had a lodging, and she and Aquila, her husband, were among his very best friends.

Bruce Barton

The letter is general, but its definite purpose is to convince thoughtful Jews that they will lose nothing by embracing the new faith but, on the contrary, will gain. It says: "You can have all that you cherish most and even more in the Christian faith. Do you love your Law? Well you may, but here is the same law written more beautifully. Do you love your temple, your priesthood, your traditions? Everything you have cared for is here, and all the better."

It is noble in its conception of the basic principle of all heroism—faith. Read this grand roll call in chapter eleven:

> They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword: they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented; . . .
> . . . they wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth. . . .
> Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us.

Others of the apostles now began to write. James, the brother of Jesus, had never felt wholly satisfied with Paul's doctrine of faith; he wrote a letter, a strange one for a man of such devotion to the law, of which one might almost say that it was not religious at all, so little did it regard form or ceremony.

> Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

A younger brother of Jesus, named Jude, also wrote a short letter. It was rather an apology for not writing a longer one which he had in mind to write on "our common Christianity."

John, the son of Zebedee, also wrote, though later, three letters, one a remarkably sweet and beautiful letter addressed to no one in particular, and two short ones. Peter, also, wrote two letters and rather fine ones, as might have been expected of this blunt courageous man. But no one employed this method to the extent that Paul did. His letters were copied and lent and read and became a kind of unofficial manual for the administration of the churches.

The Small Town Editor

HE PUTS YOU ON THE MAP.

Perhaps you were lucky enough to have been born in a small town. If so, you had hardly let out your first yell on this terrestrial sphere before the local editor ordered the fact of your arrival announced to a baby-loving world.

When you reached the age of three or four and had your first real birthday party with invited guests, your friend, the editor, told all and sundry who was there and what a fuss they made over you.

When you got to the honor roll at grade school he let all your admiring friends and neighbors know about it. If you got into any minor scrapes he apparently forgot about them as soon as he was told for he wanted to play up the things which might make you great.

All through your high school course he was keenly watching to see if you did anything worthy of note in athletics, letters or debate. And when you finally graduated he again seized upon the opportunity to put your name in print.

If you decided to go to work then instead of going on to college he heralded the fact in such a manner that made any prospective employers realize that here was an ambitious lad who wasn't leaning unnecessarily on the folks. He wanted all whom it might concern to know that if work was to be done, here was a live-wire all set.

When the supreme object of your heart's desire was won your editor-friend seemed to know about it almost as soon as the "lucky" girl and warned all other aspirants to her sole-attention to lay off as he printed the announcement of your engagement. Once more you were the conquering hero, or thought so. The girl may have had other ideas on that subject.

If after that you accomplished anything worthy of note the world was told in letters bold: 'Small Town Boy Makes Good'

When those near and dear to you were, by death, taken out on "The Great Adventure," the Chief of the Columns, apparently forgot their vices, and proceeded to laud their virtues and remind the world of their fine family connections—including you.

When illness overtook you he let all the neighbours know so that mayhap the power of their prayers could be added to the forces of medicine.

And someday (should he perchance out-live you as he has so many others) he, being kind and faithful unto the end, will once more use good paper and ink for you. He will probably tell mankind far and wide that one has passed who was a useful and worthwhile addition to

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Stephen A. Douglas, famous American statesman, paved the way for the establishment of the state of Nebraska by sponsoring the Kansas-Nebraska bill, of which he was author, and by which the Territory of Nebraska was organized.

Douglas, an author and chief proponent of the bill, came to be the unofficial "father" of the territory, and in 1857, before Nebraska became a state, the territorial legislature sought to honor him by naming their new capital city Douglas City. It was the plan to remove the capital from Omaha to the present site of Lincoln. The bill failed when the governor vetoed it.

Ten years later when a similar removal bill was passed, an Omaha senator attempted to disgust rabid Democrats by moving that the new capital be called Lncoln instead of Douglas City. The strategy failed because enthusiastic removalists were ready to forget the debt of gratitude owed to Douglas; they voted for removal anyway. Thus the honor that was meant to go to Stephen A. Douglas really went to his bitterest political rival, Abraham Lincoln.

Glenn Cunningham, world famous mile runner, was severely burned on the legs in a school house fire when he was seven years old. It seemed then that his childhood ambition to be a great runner could never be realized. For four years he was compelled to hobble about on crutches. Then he was able to walk again—his running instinct returned and he began setting one record after another until he came to be one of the most famous runners of all time.

His Bread Returned

A Interesting Short Story

He had kept the country store for twenty years. The sign read, "C. P. Jones," but he was "Uncle Charley" to everybody. It was the only store at the village crossroads, and he prospered in a modest way. After the bad accounts were deducted his profits were small, but he was able to support his family comfortably. They had a pretty little cottage with some fruit trees in the lot, kept some pigs, a cow, and a horse and buggy. They had enough, and were contented with that and their good name.

Then the old man took his nephew in as partner. They built an addition to the store and bought a big bill of new goods. It pnt them in debt quite heavily; but their trade increased, annd at the end of three years, when the farmers had brought in their wheat, they had enough to pay all their debts and a thousand dollars over.

The nephew took the money, three thousand dollars in all, and went to St. Louis to pay off the debts and buy new goods for the fall and winter trade.

The good came promptly but the nephew did not return. He was called South, he wrote. One afternoon, a few days later, the old man received a letter from the wholesale house, expressing surprise that he had not remitted for the past due account, and stating, that unless such remittance was received by the tenth they would draw on him for the full amount, the new bill included.

The supper-bell rang three times before the old man stirred. As he came down the walk his wife saw there was something the matter and met him in the yard.

"We are ruined." he said, in a lifeless tone, handing her the letter.

"Oh, not ruined. You can raise it, can't you!" she asked, hopefully.

"No," he replied listlessly.

"Surely there will be some way out," she urged.

"There is no way out," he repeated, in a monotonous tone. "That money was all I could raise; it was everything I have made in twenty years."

"But surely our neighbours will help us raise it. You have always been good to them," encouraged his wife, trying to cover her own anxiety.

"No," said the old man bitterly, "people never lend you money or go on your note because you have been good to them."

The next day he made the only effort that seemed to offer any hope. He went to Adams, the money lender of the community, and offered to mortgage everything.

"No," said Adams, "Your stuff isn't worth it. It isn't in my line, anyway. Get some good men who own land on your note, and I can let you have what you need."

The old man went home, a forlorn figure, bent, gray, hopeless, and sat down to wait dully for the end.

They sat in the shade in front of the blacksmith shop. It was an informal gathering of farmers, who, on hearing the news, had ridden in to learn the particulars.

"Too bad for Uncle Charlie!" said a farmer, digging at the grass beside him with his pocket-knife. "Too bad!" and they all shook their heads.

"He's been a great help to this community," said another.

"There never lived a more accommodatin' man," added a third.

And then they talked of how they had always distrusted the nephew, and how soon the old man would be closed out, and wondered what he would then do for a living.

There was one, the poorest and most shiftless man in the neighbourhood, who had not spoken.

"Something out to be done, men. "It'll be a lowdown shame to let Uncle Charley be sold out."

"What can we do?" asked Jones, idly.

"I don't know exactly what we can do" continued Todd, "but let me tell you what he has done for me. When I came here I didn't have a red cent, and he trusted me for a whole year's living, and never asked me for it once. I got ashamed and wouldn't buy any more. Well, the next fall when I took down with the fever there wasn't a thing in the house to go on. I tell you, we were in a mighty bad shape, and didn't know what in the world would become of us, until one evening Mr. Johns came over and brought the doctor. Says he, 'Doc and I just thought we'd drop in.' And while the doctor was fixin' me up some medicine, he called my wife to one side and says "Mrs. Todd, you send one of the boys down to the store and get what you need, and Jim can pay for it when he gets well."

No one spoke for some time. "Now see here," continued Todd, "I'm a mighty poor man, but Bill says he will give me a hundred dollars for my bay mare, and I'm going to sell her and give the money to Uncle Charley to help pay off the debt." Several others volunteered help.

"I don't think," said Mingus, "that it would be best to give him the money. He wouldn't feel right about it, you know. It ain't so much the loss of the money; he can make that back in three or four years, but it's just taken all stiffening out of the old man, and he's lost all heart. If we could fix it some way so he could go on with the store and see some way to pay out, it would be just the boost he needs."

"Say, don't you suppose Adams would loan him the money?" asked one.

"Oh, Adams would loan it to him quick enough, if he can get security; but how is he going to get it?" said Willis.

"Well, I never went on a note in my life," said Haney, "But I'll be one to go on old man Johns' note for three thousand."

And so said every man there.

A note was made out and put in the the race, that you have gone to join the glorious company who have become the "guests of God."

Yes, from the cradle of birth to the casket of death, the small town editor is your friend. He puts you on the map. hands of Haney. The word was quickly passed around, and for two or three days men kept coming in at all hours to sign that note.

'He lent me fifty dollars when I was hard up," said one.

"He helped Tom get through school when I was too poor to help myself," said a father who was now well to do.

"After working all day, many's the time he came over to my house and sat up with me when I was down with the slow fever," said a neighbour.

"Fifteen years ago," remarked a prosperous young man, as he sat down to sign the paper, "I was too worthless to kill. But Uncle Charley called me into the store one day and persuaded me to go on and sold me clothes on credit. Nobody thought he would ever get a cent for it."

"I want to put my name on that note," said a poor widow. "I know it's not worth anything, but I want it there. Nobody knows, Mr. Haney, how kind Uncle Charley has been to us. The winter after Jim died Lizzie went up to the store one day almost barefooted. He pretended to have her help him count some eggs, and then he gave her a pair of shoes. He's done lots of things like that."

"He is always so jolly and wholesouled you can't help but feel that he is interested in you and wants you to be happy," was another's tribute.

There was but four more days of grace. The old man sat crouching in his chair as if shrinking from the coming blow. The whimsical humor, the independence, the courage were all gone. He was a poor, hopeless old man, down never to rise again.

Two or three farmers came in and sat on the edge of the porch. He tried to be sociable, but made a pitiful failure of it. Others came in, and then more until there were two or three dozen seated on the porch, The old man knew they had come to sympathize with him, but he could not bring up the subject of his loss.

There was an awkward half-hour in which nobody talked of the important matter. At last Haney nudged Todd, and urged him to speak. Todd shifted his position once or twice, got up awkwardly, and stood before Johns, trying to speak, but the words stuck in his throat. Then he fumbled in his pocket, drew out a paper, held it out to the old man and managed to say "Maybe it'll help you."

The old man looked at the paper. It was a note for three thousand dollars, due in three years, all ready for his signature. Below was the name of almost every man in the community as security.

Th old man tried to speak but could only call:

"Mary!"

His wife came quickly and looked at the paper.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev Charles E. Dunn

The Christian as Church Member
Lesson for November 18th.
Matt. 5:13-16.
Golden Text: Ephesians 5:30.

The average layman does not take his religion very seriously. Church membership is often little more than a badge of respectability. It represents little appreciation of the Christian Society as a world brotherhood permeated with the spirit of the Cross. Too many Christians think of their church as a club of congenial folk safely distant from the firing line.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Much of the weakness of our church life is due to the absence of sturdy, intelligent laymen and laywomen willing to shoulder burdens instead of pressing them upon the frail body of the minister. Too often the poor clergyman is compelled to play a lone hand.

It goes without saying that Christians should attend public worship, not expecting always to be inspired, but eager, by their personal presence, to strengthen the cause of organized religion. John Adams felt that four institutions are indispensable to a people's liberty, the town, the church, the school and the militia.

In addition the Christian should enter into common worship with genuine heartiness. Many attend their church with no thought of the contribution they can make to the beauty and inspiration of the service. They go simply to be helped themselves, and are aggrieved if the minister has an off day. What a different atmosphere would be created if folk entered God's house not simply to be fed, but to feed!

Then the Christian should give generously of his means toward the support of the Master's work. How many of the laity are thoughtless and parsimonious in their stewardship? Seldom indeed do they sacrifice something they ardently desire in order to help their church. A good working rule is to give 10% of one's income to church. To do this requires careful planning, but it is rich in intangible reward.

"Thank 'em ma, I can't," said the old man, with a sob in his voice. The tears were running down her face as she turned toward the men. They were all looking away.

"I can't either," she said, as she slipped down beside her husband, with her arm round his neck, "but they know."

"Looks sorter like rain over in the southwest," said Todd. "Guess we'd better be going, boys."

TWIN CALVES BORN

Twin calves were born to a cow on the farm of Harry Vanexan, in Leeds county a few miles from Smiths Falls. The event caused much interest to the cattle raisers of the district. The cow and her offsprings are reported as progressing favorably.

4-H CLUB NEWS

NEGRO 4-H HAS MEET

Negro boys and girls of Virginia are provided with the same chance to learn vital things of life through 4-H training that whites enjoy, and the results may be seen in the reports and activities of the twelfth annual state short course for Negro members and leaders. Delegates to the number of 368 signed the register, which represented 33 of the state's 100 counties. Boys and girls were almost equally divided. The event was held at the State College at Blacksburg.

The program followed out pretty much that of all annual meets. Outstanding features were the judging contests to create standards and ideals for products and handiwork essential to attain the best results. Speaking and "growth work" contests were also on the program. Girls received special instruction in poultry and gardening and dyeing.

The dress parade was the spectacular feature, the girls being costumed in green uniforms, and the boys in white suits with black ties. So well had the outfits been made or worn the judges worked overtime to reach a decision.

A gardening specialist gave the delegates instruction in planning the fall garden, and in grading and storing vegetables. Another specialist of the college told them how to feed poultry for winter egg production and how to judge and select profitable fowls. Every boy had a chance to try his hand at handicraft work. Games and setting-up exercises were a regular part of the program.

A historical sketch of Negro land ownership in Virginia was a special feature. Another lecture was on vocational guidance and advice to the boys on how to choose a career and the part education of the right sort plays in making one's life a success.

YOUNG AND OLD OF IT

Gananoque claims to have the youngest hotelkeeper in Canada in the person of Jack McCarney, aged 21, and the oldest driver of an automobile in the person of Captain D. J. Kenney, aged 86. It remained for Miss Anna Shortall, however, to give the town the distinction of having the youngest coal and wood merchant probably in the whole of Canada.

Miss Shortall took over the business at the time of her father's death a few months ago and had conducted it successfully since that time. Miss Shortall was born in Gananoque and educated in the local separate and high school, later graduating from the Brockville Business College. She is 20 years of age.

IT PAYS ALL RIGHT

Last week three articles were advertised in the Winchester Press in the "For Sale" columns. Friday evening the advertiser informed us that all three articles had been sold, and that from the number of inquiries, the Winchester Press must have a lot of readers. COMMENCE WORK ON NEW DOCKS AT MORRISBURG

Work got under way on Monday morning last on the construction of the new docks being built at Morrisburg by the federal government for use in connection with the present system of piers already in use there. A government dredge, tug and mud-scow are busy today deepening and cleaning out the large basin east of the present harbor and removing three piers used in years gone by as bases for an old wooden dock.

The new docks, to be 80 by 100 feet, will be of pile construction, at an approximate cost of $25,000. A road will lead from them to the Customs building and the docks will give the ferryboats many conveniences, as well as shorten their running-time.

EUCHER AND DANCE

The Catholic Women's League of St. Daniel's parish of South Mountain held a successful eucher and dance in aid of the society at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hall. Over 80 guests enjoyed a pleasant evening. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hall, assisted by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Hall.

Progressive eucher was played at fifteen tables. Mrs. Dave Kerr, of Mount Pain, scored the highest number of games winning the ladies' prize, a beautiful hand painted bon-bon dish. Mr. Robert Grant of Shanly won the gentleman's prize, a pack of bridge cards in case.

A delightful lunch was served by the ladies of the society, with the hostess assisting. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed.

The card game was in charge of Mrs. H. E. Barry, Mrs. T. B. Lunny, and Mrs. James Hall. The money donations were in charge of the president, Mrs. J. A. Troy.

TOM MOORE IS SPEAKER AT HALLVILLE FUNCTION

On Monday evening the annual Armistice chicken supper, held in aid of St. Andrew's United Church, Hallville, was attended by almost 200 persons. The church hall was packed to overflowing and a delightful supper was served by the ladies of the parish.

After the supper the gathering assembled in the main body of the church, where all enjoyed a well planned program suitable for the occasion.

Several soprano solos were rendered by Miss Carrie Stewart with Mrs. Andrew Logan accompanist. Mr. and Mrs. Friend, of Kemptville, delighted the audience with a number of vocal selections, accompanied by Miss Weedmark, of Oxford Mills.

The audience had the privilege of having as the guest speaker of the evening Thomas Moore, of Ottawa, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and member of the international organization of the League of Nations. Mr. Moore was introduced by Rod Plant, alderman of Rideau ward, Ottawa. Mr. Moore gave a brief outline of the world's situation with regard to peace. His address was very appropriate and much appreciated by the audience.

Rev. Donald Morrison, pastor of St. Andrew's church, was chairman for the evening.

The money donations were in charge of Mrs. S. S. Fetterly, treasurer of the Ladies' Association.

NO JOB, TEACHER OPENS OWN SCHOOL

A school that operates without the services of a school board, official trustees or a government grant has been discovered by the Manitoba Department of Education.

Irvine Somerville, a qualified teacher, arrived in Spearhill last July in search of employment. None was to be had, so he started his own school. Now, when there is a vacancy at Mulvihill school nearby, he cannot accept it because his pupils refuse to release him.

Somerville started a night school at Spearhill, charging a moderate tuition fee. He now has twenty-two pupils, including a time-keeper in the Spearhill quarries, engineers, quarry workers, farmers, their sons, carpenters, domestic servants and high school students.

The attendants range in age from 17 to 60 years and are of seven nationali- and each supplied his own chair and ties. The scholars provided the school desk.

HAD SLIPPERY TIME

Constable Helmer had a slippery time when taking a prisoner to Cornwall jail on Tuesday, and only by a hair's breadth escaped being smashed up, and likely killed. There were four accidents on the highway between Aultsville and Cornwall, and the one in which Constable Helmer so narrowly escaped was when a big truck, in trying to avoid a head-on collision, went into the ditch and struck a pole head on, smashing radiator and fenders. Another car was up against a tree, and Herb said it was an altogether too slippery a ride to take often. Fortunately no person was badly hurt, but even the Constable and his prisoner got a bad scare.

NEWLYWEDS HONORED

Following the return from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Summers were tendered a reception last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Almon G. Summers, Nation Valley. There was a large number of neighbors and friends present. The evening was spent in music and contests of different kinds.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers were presented with a beautiful upholstered chair by Karl Bell and Claire Carkner, while an address was read by Miss Jean Summers. The groom replied thanking those present for the kindness extended to him and his bride. Following the presentation, refreshments were served by Mrs. Karl Bell, Mrs. Thomas Johnston, Miss Jean Summers and Karl Bell, William Carkner and Claire Carkner. MINOR CASES HEARD IN WINCHESTER COURT

Jack Steen of Morewood, charged with common assault against John Smith of the same village, on Hallowe'en night, appeared before Magistrate John McCormick in police court here Monday. The accused was defended by W. J. Cass, K.C., of Winchester, while A. Flynn, of Morrisburg, acted as counsel for Mr. Smith. After hearing the facts of the case argued for over three hours, the magistrate decided that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the charge against Steen, and dismissed the case.

A counter charge was at once laid against Steen by Smith for raising a disturbance by using profane language and being drunk on the same night. After hearing several witnesses, Magistrate McCormick convicted Steen on the charge of raising a disturbance, but delayed judgment until he reviewed the evidence submitted.

Lorne Marcellus, also of Morewood, was acquitted of a charge of doing damage to property on Hallowe'en night.

The court sat from two o'clock in the afternoon until ten o'clock in the evening, and the courtroom was crowded with spectators during the entire session. Two other cases are still to be dealt with and will be heard in the future.

HOLD FAST

A young lady related at Cliff College gathering, a good story which evoked loud approval. She told of an unemployed man whose wife purchased for him a pair of old trousers for half-a-crown. The garment had seen better days, and had only one button left. This solitary button, however, proved worth a great deal. On it were inscribed the words, "Hold Fast." The man had almost givnig up his faith in religion, but on seeing and "held fast." Now he carries the those words on the button, to took heart button in his pocket, and if he is tempted to doubt he takes a look at the button—and "holds fast."

In friendship, as in most matters, it is the little things that count. Not promises of eternal fidelity, but thoughtfulness about trifles assure us that our friend really cares for us. The one who knows instinctively what we would like for a gift, what subjects of conversation may be unpleasant to us, what subject we do not like to hear jested, about—who knowing, too, when we wish to be silent, humours us in our wish—that is the one with whom we love to associate. We can never retain a friend long if we are not willing to take pains to find out his peculiarities and respect them.—
