Iroquois' Neighbourhood Watch gets provincial award

by Pat Hare
Chieftain Staff Reporter

(CORNWALL) - Two local crime prevention groups received prestigious provincial awards Monday at a seminar here.

Accepting the award on behalf of Iroquois' Neighborhood Watch from Ontario's solicitor general, Ken Keyes, was Leona McIntosh. "It was such a thrilling moment", said McIntosh. Morrisburg's PAID also was honored by Keyes and Vivienne Mackenzie accepted its award.

The presentation coincided with Ontario's Crime prevention week, scheduled for Nov. 3 to Nov. 9. The two local organizations were among 25 Eastern Ontario groups which received awards Monday.

Members of the community make a great contribution to the community when they volunteer enormous amounts of their time and energy to crime prevention, said Keyes, and these awards recognize that contribution. He also pointed out that coast-to-coast Canadian apathy to crime has been greatly diminished since 1981, and this is particularly true in Ontario. The beneficial results are beyond all expectations, he said.

Iroquois was chosen for an award, said Keyes, because it is one of the communities in which crime has been reduced since Neighborhood Watch was introduced, only one short year ago.

The group was formed, said McIntosh Oct. 16, 1985. There are 30 block captains and each one is responsible for six neighbors. This means there is a watcher for every ten houses in the village. The block captains remain anonymous, but from results to date it seems they are conscientiously applying themselves.

Baed on some trial runs, McIntosh said, the whole village can be alerted to danger within half an hour. This, she explained, is achieved by her calling six numbers. Those she calls, telephone six more people, and in a very short time the information is relaved throughout the village.

An interesting example of Neighborhood Watch at work took place last summer, she said. The police called to say a particular car was cruising around the village and there was concern for the safety of the children. The telephone network got busy, and shortly thereafter women were sitting on the lawns on deck chairs watching over the little ones. This exercise lasted for three days she said, until the police called to say all was well.

Neighborhood Watch, McIntosh stressed, is watching and reporting. At no time should they accost the suspect. That is a job for the police. The police have made it clear they would rather have a number of false alarms based on perceived suspicious behavior than face the tragic or costly effects of a crime, she added.

Most organizations require funding but McIntosh pointed out that only minimal amounts are needed from time to time for items such as printing. To date, local businesses have helped with that, and the only cost to the community was $50 each for two signs at the village borders.

Parents Against Impaired Drivers (PAID) was also recognized by the solicitor general for its impact on the community. This group too has been in existence for approximately a year and in that short time has managed to get its message across to many. The message is not temperance, said MacKenzie, rather it is the need to recognize that driving and social drinking are not compatible. Enjoy a drink if you wish, she added, but ensure you leave the car at home, or have made arrangements for an abstainer to transport you safely.

The provincial office of the attorney general states the case graphically in its brochure on the subject of drinking and driving. A road scene depicting a fatal accident, a distraught driver and the words "First, he killed the bottle".

St. Lawrence safe, but contaminated, concludes water quality conference

by Judy Racine
Chieftain News Editor

(MORRISBURG)—"Are you sure your drinking water is pure?" asks an ad for a water purification system.

For residents along the St. Lawrence River in communities such as Iroquois and Morrisburg, the question is whether water from that river is suitable for drinking. About 80 people who attended a conference on water quality in the St. Lawrence at the Upper Canada Restaurant near here last Friday learned the answer is two-fold.

Yes, the local water supply is safe to drink, said representatives of government, industry and environmental groups at the one-day conference which was sponsored by the St. Lawrence Valley Council. But the river is contaminated by at least 1,000 identified pollutants, and the effect of many of them isn't known.

There are still many questions to be answered about the quantity and effect of contaminants, said Dr. David Villeneuve, who has been researching the effects of pesticides and other chemicals for 20 years. Although he said the pollutants "do not pose any immediate threat to human health," no one knows their eventual effect so more research is necessary.

"...this is not a time for complacency or weakened efforts to clean up and protect the lakes," said the head of the environmental contaminants branch of Health and Welfare Canada and member of the International Joint Commission's water quality board.

Yet even analyzing the extent of the problem has proved a formidable task, said a staff member of Environment Canada's national research institute who just completed a three-week research cruise on the St. Lawrence.

"We know these chemicals are there, but it's terribly difficult and terribly expensive to measure them," said Murray Charlton. "As we develop technology, we'll probably have more scare stories."

Such "scare stories" include autopsies showing high levels of PCBs in the brain of an owl and high levels of mercury in herons

Lots of interest in advance polls

If advance polls are any indication, voter turnout for this year's municipal elections should be high.

In Matilda Township, 105 people voted in the advance poll Saturday, compared to 18 voters in 1982's advance poll. The number of people who voted in Iroquois' advance poll doubled from 1982, with 25 people voting Saturday while 12 voted early in the last election.

There was a large increase in Morrisburg too -- 84 voters Saturday compared to about 30 in 1982's advance poll.

Usually, municipal elections are best remembered for the apathy with which the general public views them. In 1982 only 49 per cent of Matilda Township's eligible voters exercised their rights while 60 per cent of Iroquois voters did so. In Morrisburg 71 per cent of those eligible voted.

The preliminary polls indicate there may be great interest in this year's election, and this probably reflects the number of candidates this year. While acclamation has become a common way of attaining office, its incidence is rare this year.

Iroquois reeve Frank Rooney has been acclaimed as has his Morrisburg counterpart Bill Dillabough. Bill Shearing has been acclaimed as deputy-reeve of Morrisburg.

Fire destroys old schoolhouse

There were plenty of fire bugs out last Thursday, "celebrating" Hallowe'en by setting fires. Of 22 occurences handled by the Morrisburg detachment of the OPP from 4 p.m. Oct. 31 to the early hours of Nov. 1 several dealt with fires.

In Matilda Township, fire destroyed an old school house that was being used to store hay. The Iroquois Fire Department responded to a call to Lot 25, Concession 6 of Matilda Township at 3:11 a.m., Nov. 1.

By the time 11 members of Iroquois' department arrived, the building -- owned by the Ault brothers of Matilda Township—was already engulfed in flames. Although the cause of the fire isn't known, Iroquois fire department chief Willard Duncan said vandals probably set it.

"We can only assume since there was no electricity in the building, it must have been vandals," said Duncan. "There was no reason for it to burn."

Other than the fire in Matilda Township, Duncan said this Hallowe'en was "pretty quiet" compared to other years. There were two leaves and grass fires set Wed., Oct. 30 and five similar fires "of a minor nature" set on Hallowe'en, said Duncan. Sun., Nov 3, vandals set bags of garbage on fire at St. Cecilia's Separate School.

Two advertising signs at Iroquois' Thompson Lumber Yard were broken at 10:11 p.m. Hallowe'en, according to the Morrisburg OPP.

In neighboring Morrisburg, a large pile of old car tires were set on fire around 11:30 p.m. at Beaver Lumber Yard. The Morrisburg fire department quickly extinguished the flames there.

Williamsburg Township proved to be the hot spot Hallowe'en. Action started at 6:52 p.m. when hay bales were set on fire on Hwy. 31. Another fire in the police village occurred around 10:23 p.m. and was put out by the

Stranger on the bench

If you were passing by the Senior Citizens apartments in Cardinal last week you would have seen a stranger sitting on the bench. Mrs. Eileen Marlatt of the Senior Citizens apartments thought it was time to get into the spirit of Hallowe'en. She took some leaves and made herself a man. It was quite a conversation piece, especially with the trick or treaters on Hallowe'en.

Iroquois residents asked to give some holiday cheer

(IROQUOIS)—It's hard to explain the importance of the annual Christmas parties held by a local development aid group for Costa Rican children, says organizer George Jackson. But they're important nonetheless.

"When you watch 14-year-old children cry because it's the first time they've seen Santa Claus, it's something" he said.

For the fourth year, Iroquois-based charity Partners for Children in Development -- which was founded by Jackson and his wife Irma are asking area residents for donations to help make Christmas a happier one for abandoned Latin American children. People have been generous in the past, said Jackson, adding he expects this year's response to be "excellent" too.

Partners is asking for donations of items such as toys, toothpaste, shampoo and soap. Luxuries such as costume jewellery are rare for these children, and Jackson said they're pleased with small baubles.

Partners has a home for orphans in the village of Coronada and plans to open another one there next month as part of its project, Casa Blanca. Then it will provide a home for approximately 18 children who are "social orphans", more commonly known as street children.

But Partners doesn't restrict its work to these children. It donates cleansers, eyeglasses and books to other village children and the elderly.

At Christmas, the Jacksons try to bring gifts for as many village children as they can on their trip to Costa Rica. Last year, three Christmas parties attended by 183 children were sponsored by Partners.

In addition to toys and other items, Partners would appreciate any cash donations, which would be earmarked for shipping charges. The group is registered as a federal charity and can issue receipts for income tax purposes.

Partners is also holding a raffle for a porcelain doll valued at $150, made and donated by Myra Marchand of Smith's Studios. Tickets are available from the Jacksons and at Iroquois Enterprises.

Besides its work in Costa Rica, Jackson said Partners will soon be working in Honduras, building another project for orphans to give them a decent home and education.

More ice costly, Morrisburg told (MORRISBURG)—A preliminary estimate on improving the ice plant at the arena here is $203,800.

"We may need another study on cost and what's feasible, but it's not going to be cheap," said councillor Karen Gorrell at Monday night's council meeting.

One of the main issues in the municipal election campaign has been the need to upgrade or replace the arena's existing ice plant. The current system has a capacity of 50 h.p. and suggestions include boosting it to 85 h.p. or 100 h.p.

If capacity were increased to 100 h.p., arena manager Don Smithson said the village would have to hire a stationary engineer to operate it. In a letter tabled at Monday's meeting, he outlined one proposal for improving the ice plant.

"To summarize, we have a price on equipment of $115,000, an estimate for a new floor of $78,800 and my guess at a price of $10,000 to install a header trench and raise the boards for a total cost of $203,800."

Groups such as minor hockey and the junior B club here have been lobbying for ice earlier in the season for the last couple of years, and all candidates for the Nov. 12 election have agreed the issue must be addressed. The arena has had ice for about two and a half weeks this year, forcing many village clubs to rent ice time at other area rinks.

When the plant was installed in 1961, said reeve Bill Dillabough Monday, it was only guaranteed there would be ice from Nov. 1 to Apr. 30.

Special enrichment classes

by Pat Hare
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Special Enrichment Classes (SPEC) are being provided to students of Iroquois Public School this year, says Brooke Leightizer, principal. SPEC students are not necessarily the students in the class with the highest marks or the hardest workers, he noted. The program is for those who have shown though testing that they have some advance thinking abilities.

One day a week the eligible children from the various grades throughout Dundas county are being transportated by bus to Elma Public School, Chesterville, where Irene McLean supplies special training.

The process, Leighizer said, is intended to stimulate the advance thinking abilities of this group of students. They will be exposed to research and independent learning skills, and critical, creative and evaluative thinking. Production skills will also be developed in the areas of charting and graphing, report writing, interviewing, debating and possibly filming.

The training, Leightizer emphasized, will increase their self awareness and self understanding and introduce them to skills such as group participation and leadership.

Fifteen students of Iroquois Public School commenced the special training during the week of October 28. Classes for grades 3 and 4 are on Monday's 5 & 6 on Tuesdays, 6 & 7 on Thursdays and grade 8 on Fridays. Wednesdays are used by the special teacher for visiting schools to deal with any problems which might arise and to speak with teachers and parents.

EBI showcase

Eastern Breeders Inc. (EBI) are planning a new method of marketing their products. EBI is a farmer-owned co-operative providing artificial insemination service for the sixteen counties of Eastern Ontario. They have over 5,000 active members in this area stretching from Oshawa to the Quebec border. The Holstein sires in stud at EBI have worldwide respect for their superior genetics. Frozen semen from their stud has been exported to 36 countries in recent years. Semex Canada is the official exporting agent for EBI sires and has marketing representatives around the world.

Eastern Breeders Inc. and Semex Canada are co-sponsoring Canada's first-ever Progeny Showcase to exhibit groups of daughters from each of their top nine proven sires. This program is designed for both international and domestic Holstein breeders who like to reinforce the statistical proof information of a sire with actual visual inspection of his daughters. Fifty-two milking cows from some fifty herds have been chosen to represent those top nine sires at the Showcase.

In addition, the program will recognize embryos as another product Eastern Breeders' market. The EBI membership have many donor cows that meet theproduction, type and health standards required by most importing countries. Through Semex Canada, Eastern Breeders can offer the technical expertise to make the export of frozen embryos a reality. A catalogue listing of these donor cows will be available at the Showcase. Donor cows mated to the sires visitors will see in the Showcase can provide a leading genetic package for the future.

The Progeny Showcase will be held Saturday, November 9th. The Canadian pioneer event will take place at the A.M. Barr Arena, Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology, Kemptville, Ontario.

Bird Notes

by E. G. AVERY

November, with its unpredictable weather and its reputation for dreary days is with us once again, but it does have a few good points; leafless trees make a lacy pattern against the sky, and birds we have not seen for months are gradually moving into town. The time has come for laying in a supply of bird feed. We usually start off with mixed seed, and just one feeder. First visitors are always Sparrows which do not really need a great deal of extra food yet, but they attract other birds which might other-wise pass by. Sparrows love to drink and splash in the bath, often four or five at once. It was amusing to watch them one morning when there was a film of ice on the water. Sparrows are not very good skaters.

Downy Woodpeckers are coming back now. We watched a pair chasing in and out of the trees near the park. Now and then they stopped to eat insects hidden in the bark, and one set up a loud squeaking which seemed to mean "Come over here", I've found something good." A huge Crow flew by the same area, perhaps one of the group that stayed all winter last year.

Chipmunks are making news around town just now, the first time they have been reported as regular visitors. They hoard food for the cold days ahead, and apples are among their staple items. Friendly and entertaining to watch, it is little wonder that they inspired the popular cartoon characters.

Just when we think we have seen everything in the way of novel advertising, an new angle appears. A supermarket display of various types of bird-seed had a small tray-full beside each one labelled "Free sample - for the birds".

Chickadees and Juncos in flocks, and a few Robins who can't bear to leave Seaway Valley complete the list of sightings during the past week.

Craft show a success

by Joan Grant
Chieftain Special Correspondent

The 3rd Annual Craft Sale sponsored by the Iroquois Summer Festival '85 was held Sat. Nov. 2, at the Iroquois Civic Centre.

"I am very pleased with the crowd this year, it was bigger and a steadier crowd," said Lorraine Fader, chairman of Summer Festival.

There were 26 booths and 28 craft people displaying and selling a variety of Christmas crafts Christmas gift ideas and bake goods.

The Iroquois Brownies and Guides had a very successful bake sale, selling out early in the afternoon.

The proceeds will help defray the cost of bands and trophies for next year's Summer Festival parade, said Lorraine.

Helping Lorraine at the craft sale were: Brenda Loucks, Pat Levere, Donna McCasalin and Sandy Decker.

There is never much need to advertise to have people purchase a booth, said Lorraine and some of the exhibitors have already booked their booth for next year.

Spartan Speaks

by Shannon Dea,
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Before I do anything else this week, I must dispel the confusion that resulted unintentionally from my last column.

Last week, caught in the raptures of fall and some of the long weekends we have had recently with which to enjoy the season, I referred to the number of Professional Development Days that seem inherent with autumn. This subject is, apparently, a touchy one with many members of Seaway's teaching staff, several of whom pointed out to me that, of the two long-weekends we had recently, only one was a PD day. The other was, in fact, the result of a holiday -- Thanksgiving.

Since they have taught me for three years now, the teachers, of course, know that the slip-up was due to my tendency towards sarcasm, as well as a little short-sightedness, rather than maliciousness. However, they were concerned that my comments would be misleading to any community members who already take a dim view of the PD days now present in the system. I apologize for my blunder.

ATHLETICS

This week, congratulations go out to the junior girls basketball team on their great victory over Rothwell-Osnabruck. The combination of excellent teamwork, solid defense and pin-point passing helped the girls to net a final score of 40-16.

The seniors, however, were slightly less fortunate in their battle against the same school, as they lost by a score of 67-27.

The games were played on Hallowe'en.

THE ARTS

The dramatic arts class, now fully recovered from last week's comical performance of "The singing Bone" are presently beginning work on their Christmas play, "A Ghostly Christmas". The play, which features the attempts of a friendly ghost named Smedley to liberate the poor children of the Happy Dale Orphan Asylum, and, at the same time, graduate from ghost school, will be performed for various businesses and organizations in the community.

Senior band members are still canvassing steadily for support on this year's citrus drive. The proceeds from this campaign will go towards the financing of this year's trip. Presently, several locations in the United States are under consideration for their destination.

ODDS 'N' ENDS

School spirit (no pun intended) flourished at last Thursday's dress-up day, with appearances being made by vampires, rock stars, hobos, and something with orange hair, to name a few. Glad to see such excellent participation. P.S. Miss Decker looked stunning as a pink elephant.

More next week!

Students to be recognized

by Pat Hare
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Students of South Grenville District High School who participate in volunteer work will be eligible for recognition of their contribution to the community again this year, says George Lamacraft, principal.

He explained that the pilot project of the Student Volunteer Award was introduced in eastern Ontario two years ago by the Toronto-Dominion Bank and The Recorder & Times, Brockville. The participating schools are Thousand Islands Secondary School, Brockville Collegiate & Vocational School and South Grenville District High School.

The award honours students who give their time, talent and energy to public service such as candy stripers, nursing home volunteers, sports coaching, community theatre, orchestras, tutoring, youth work, church activities and environmental interests. Any kind of volunteer work which deserves consideration.

Beverly Toyne, recreation leadership teacher, is responsible for administration of the Student Volunteer Award program at South Grenville District High School, Lamacraft said. Using a student committee, he added, all nominees credentials are examined without knowledge of the name of the person under consideration. This is to ensure the committee is not influenced by any criteria other than the facts on the nomination forms.

Each winner of the Student Volunteer Award will receive a permanent trophy and be featured in a special newspaper article. At the end of the school year, the winners will be honoured at a Student Volunteer Award testimonial dinner.

Nomination forms are available through The Recorder & Times and the deadline for receipt of nominations is November 14, 1985.

Fashion Show a a success

The Fashion Show sponsored by Cardinal's Anglican Church Women, and held in the Anglican Church Hall on Monday November was a success.

The fashions from MacDonalds of Cardinal were modeled by Cindy Levere, Debbie Adams, Betty Donaldson, Bea Laming, and Lisa Earl. They wore a vareity of winter and holiday fashions.

The models wore hats from Louise's Hat Store of North Augusta which complimented the outfits.

The children's fashion from the Chldren's Boo-Teek in Prescott were modeled by Charity Guy, Allison Price and Sarah Penney.

Remembrance Day

The annual Remembrance Day service in Cardinal will be held Mon. Nov. 11, at the Cardinal Cenotaph.

The Legion members are asked to form up at the Benson School at 10:30 a.m. to parade tothe cenotaph for the services.

Cribbage Club

The Cardinal and District Cribbage Club began Mon., Oct. 28 with the backing of the New Horizons group -- the Senior Friends of the Cardinal and District Resource Centre.

The cribbage club will meet each Monday between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. at the Anglican Church hall in Cardinal. Mon., Oct. 28, they had 20 people who enjoyed playing cribbage.

The resource centre director and New Horizons committee member Larry Dishaw said the activities are open to all seniors and are part of the centre's drive to offer more programs for seniors in the village.

Water

of the St. Lawrence Valley, said Richard Grover. The chemicals used in daily life are "slowly poisoning this planet," added the acting director of Save The River, an environmental group based in Clayton, N.Y. and serving both sides of the river.

"Wildlife is our indicator of environmental quality and how well we're doing and by that indication, we're not doing very well at all," said Grover.

To ensure government introduces and enforces laws to protect and clean up the environment, Grover said people have to pressure legislators. They, in turn, have to crack down on industry and other polluters, he continued.

As a representative of industry, Milt May said there is a price for every product manufactured. The plant manager at Du Pont Canada Inc.'s Maitland plant, May said chemical plants aren't the only villains in environmental pollution.

"When the social system has a demand for your product without regard for how it is made, we're creating the results that we have today," said May.

Environmentalist Bill Borger, head of the geography department at South Grenville District High School, agreed everyone is responsible for contaminating the environment, if only through the use of products such as cars. But he took exception to May's inference that his chemical plant had a negligible effect on the environment until 1983. In that year, high levels of lead were found in fish caught near the Maitland plant which produces lead as a waste product of its manufacturing process.

"When I drive down here in my van, I have an environmental impact," said Borger. "I'm part of the problem. You're part of the problem."

As noted by Villeneuve, pollution arising in the immediate area shouldn't be the only concern of those living along the St. Lawrence. Chemicals released in the more industrialized areas such as Toronto find their way downstream, he said.

The health of wildlife provides a measure of how healthy the environment is, said Dr. Ronald Sloan, senior scientist for New York State's department of environmental conservation. But measures need to be taken before the wildlife is affected, he added.

The most obvious way to keep the environment clean is to stop dumping toxics, he said. Although conventional pollutants like phosphorus can be removed, no system of eliminating toxic wastes has been developed yet. Thus, any measures taken now are temporary solutions until a better means of disposal is developed and found practical, said Sloan.

Although animals often suffer from the effects of chemicals — evidence includes tumors and ulcers — Sloan said the public is rarely outraged by this. One way to make people more aware of environmental problems, said Borger, is through the education system.

However, Ontario's ministry of environment has no guidelines for environmental studies. If it is taught, it is studied as a science, rather than concentrating on the social consequences.

Despite an apathy on the part of many people, Save The River's Grover said people are becoming more concerned about their environment.

"We are just seeing this toxic pollution problem emerge in a way that the public becomes alarmed about it and something is done about it," he said.

Iroquois reeve Frank Rooney, who attended the conference along with councillor John Haldane, said most people aren't concerned about the environment until damage is already done.

"If something happened to the river like an oil spill, everybody gets upset," he said. "It's too damn late then. You want to be concerned about things before it can happen."

VOTE ON ELECTION DAY

X JOHNNY S. HALDANE

To the Electors of
The Village of Iroquois:

After careful consideration I have decided to run again, and ask you the electors, for your support, by voting for me as a Councillor on Tuesday November 12.

As a partner in a busy variety store "Johnny's Spot", I do not have the time to visit you personally, and therefore must depend on the media of the press, to appeal to you for support. The fact that I cannot visit you personally does not mean that I think I can get along without your support.

I NEED YOUR VOTE

I have served as your councillor for the past five years and I feel this position, along with my interest in the continuous growth and expansion of our village qualifies me to represent you.

I feel we should enter the years ahead together, with a positive plan for our future. The really important issues facing our municipal government will have to show a heavier load and grasp every opportunity to voice our views and make our problems known so that we will have a common objective and a healthy municipal government, that will exercise real power.

For - ACTION, FAIRNESS, INTEGRITY, EXPERIENCE

VOTE - JOHNNY S. HALDANE

FOR COUNCILLOR on November 12, 1985

Re-elect Lorne Strader for REEVE of Matilda

I have represented the ratepayers of Matilda Township for the past eleven years:

2 Years as Councillor
6 Years as Deputy Reeve
3 Years as Reeve

- South Nation River Conservation Authority Member since 1977.
- Chairman 1983 - 84 - 85
- 6 Year Member of Cornwall and S.D. & G. Children's Aid Society.
- Member of Stormont Dundas and Glengarry Agriculture and Reforestation 1985 Planning Committee.

I remain approachable, experienced and committed to the responsibilities of the township.

On November 12 RE-ELECT
LORNE STRADER for REEVE

- Anyone in need of assistance call 652-2260.

Re-elect
STRADER, LORNE X

TO THE VOTERS OF MATILDA TOWNSHIP

As a candidate for the office of Reeve of Matilda Township, I earnestly request you consider me for this position when you come to the polls on November 12/85.

My many years of experience working for and with the ratepayers will provide me with the strong leadership needed for council to deal with the many unresolved issues that presently exist.

For a Reeve, with a keen desire to provide you with the best possible return for your tax dollars. VOTE

Lorne Mellan For Reeve X

Anyone in need of assistance to attend the polls on November 12, 1985 call 989-5480 or 652-4363.

For thousands of Canadians, arthritis research is paying off.

ELECT GARRY MURPHY COUNCILLOR MATILDA TOWNSHIP

To the Voters of Matilda Township

In the past two weeks I have attempted to visit many of you to find out your concerns about the township and to gain your support. For those that I missed or was unable to visit with, I apologize.

I will be at the All Candidates Meeting to be held tonight, Wednesday, November 6, at the Matilda Hall in Dixons Corners.

If you have any issues of which you would like to discuss with me please come.

There are many issues within the township which conern me. Amongst these are the conditions of the roads within the township, the poor road drainage and the poor communication between the council and the municipal employees.

On November 12, if elected, I will do my best to represent your views and thus make our township a better place to live.

If you are unable to attend the All Candidates Meeting and would like to know my stand on a particular issue, please feel free to call me. If I can be of any further assistance or if you require a ride on election day, feel free to contact me at 652-2319 (home) or 652-4802 (office).

Thank You

X MURPHY GARRY P.

Boundary changes should not be made

by Noble Villeneuve
M.P.P. Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry

The Legislature reconvened for its Fall session on Tuesday, October 15th. The debate in the legislature on redistribution started on Thursday, October 17th at which time I personally addressed the subject of redistribution and on record as very much supporting the status quo retaining the Township of Charlottenburg withing the rural riding of Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry and attempt to not split the County of Grenville as suggested by the Ontario Electoral Boundaries Commission.

I recently had occasion to visit the Ottawa Winter Fair and I wish to congratulate all 4-Hs who participated with their calves or other projects which were worthy of being brought to the Ottawa Winter Fair.

I was most pleased to welcome the Honourable John Crosbie, Minister of Justice and Attorney General with the Federal Government. Mr. Crosbie attended the Priest's Mill in Alexandria and was at his usual oratorical best.

I wish to congratulate the Kenyon Volunteer Fire Department on the opening of their new fire hall in Apple Hill. They now have excellent facilities and equipments and a volunteer fire brigade of 15 men. Congratulations and good luck! You can be justly proud of your achievements.

On Saturday evening, October 19th, Elaine and I were most pleased to join all of the volunteer Fire Departments within Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry for the Annual Mutual Aid banquet. Bill Smirle was at his usual best as the Master of Ceremonies and I wish to congratulate, in particular, the Newington Volunteer Fire Department for winning a number of awards as did the Volunteer Fire Departments of Ingleside and Chesterville. Acting O.P.P. Corporal Bernie Gadbois was Guest Speaker and as Bernie always is, was most interesting and informative.

I wish to personally congratulate and thank Mr. Ken Kirk for having presented Chief Benoit of the Chrysler Volunteer Fire Department a cheque for $7,824.00 which is the amount required to purchase the Jaws of Life. Mr. Kirk made this donation on behalf of his late wife, Tiny Blair Kirk, and I assure you, Mr. Kirk, that this donation is most appreciated by the Volunteer Fire Department of Chrysler and other Department in the area. This life saving eqiupment is a most fitting memento to the late Mrs. Kirk. Sincere thanks!

PROMISES ARE COMMITMENTS WHICH MUST BE KEPT

After Premier David Peterson recessed the Legislature for the summer he went on at length about what his government had achieved in 'two short weeks'.

Let's take a look at the overall picture of promises made by the Liberals during the election, and later reaffirmed in the accord signed by Liberal Leader David Peterson and NDP Leader Bob Rae.

Rent review guidelines were decreased from six per cent to four per cent, and were to have covered all residential buildings in the province. But the government is now waffling on putting an end to the $750-a-month exemption from rent review as well as the exemption for post - 1976 buildings. The Housing Minister recently said the rent

Democracy at work

Elections give the populace an opportunity to place in office those people they feel will do the job they want done during their term of office. It is always imperative that enough peole are interested in serving their fellow man and woman to seek office, whether it be municipally, provincial or federally. this year is municipal election year in Ontario, including school board trustee elections.

This year sees an election in almost every area community and it is anyone's guess who the winners will be.

In Cardinal there has been some bitterness the past year or so between several individuals over Council operations and village management and the air should be cleared after the elction.

In Matilda Township every office is being contested and while no major issues have seemingly developed, it is evident by the number of people seeking election that there is keen interst in operating the township. Again, knowing the personalities involved, it will be difficult determining winners prior to voting day next Tuesday.

Iroquois Village again has more than usual interest, with a number of issues which have surfaced in the past couple of years, among them housing, the sewage treatment plant, parkland designations, and others. The reeve has been acclaimed but three ladies and two men are seeking the four council seats. Again it is a tossup as to who will form the next Council, although many feel they know the results ahead of time.

This editorial is not intended for speculation, just a perusual of the situation and a request that all voters take time next Tuesday to voice their opinion at the ballot box instead of the street corner.

It is, after all, the democratic way of doing things in this country. K.K.

100 LINES

By J.M.

If you have much opportunity to talk to kids on the phone, you will know what kind of experience that can be. It might be comical, touching or frustrating but you won't likely soon forget the experience. Having just returned from a week in California I had a few opportunities to reach out and touch the long distance way. I seem to have developed the knack of calling at precisely the wrong time, and managed to hit them one night last week when Garfield the cat was having his moment on the small screen. A call from Daddy was not the major event of the evening when Garfield was discovering the delights of Hallowe'en. The conversation took on a pronounced one-sided tone. It got worse when son munber two suggested I might like to talk to the cat. He lifted her up to the phone and told me to talk to her, so there I stand at a public phone 3000 miles away (in earshot of anyone who cared to listen) saying "Hi Muffy, how are you"? to the cat.

A commercial break saved the whole affair and I managed to get in a few fairly intelligent lines with human beings. The report of their trip to the city brought out the completely spontaneous remark that Mommy only had to squeal the tires twice. That raises all kinds of questions about how and where Mommy squeals the tires, but we'll go into that another time.

With only a few days left before we all head off to the polls to elect our municpal government for the next three years, you're sure to notice plenty of last-minute pleas for your vote in this week's Chieftain. Regardless of the outcome, for those who permit their names to stand, it is a thankless task. If you run for office and fail to get elected, you have at least allowed yourself to provide fuel for a month's worth of coffee break conversations. All your family skeletons have been trotted out for a breath of fresh air and you have helped liven up the lives of at least a few hundred people. If you run for office and get elected, all of the above holds true, but that's just the beginning. You will continue to provide, at best a bit of light entertainment for the community, or at worst, a slow moving target waiting to be hit with complaints, insults and grumblings. Still, the field of municipal politics has its own rewards, despite the pitfalls. It's particularly exciting in a small community where you can have almost instant access to the decision makers and where they can't hide from the people who know them all. To all those who are running next week -- take a bow. You've earned it.

And while we're on the subject of the elections, don't forget to come out and take part in the all-candidates meetings being hosted by the Iroquois-Matilda Lions. Wednesday night in Matilda and Thursday night in Iroquois.

The bottom line: The new cars sure are great to look at, but did you ever really think you'd end up paying $22,000. for something that didn't have a doorbell.

Christmas Seal Campaign

The Lung Association's Christmas Seal campaign kicks off Nov. 1. Organizers are hoping people in this area will continue their generous support and help them achieve their goal of $62,000 in Lanark, Leeds and Grenville.

Christmas Seals have been the main source of funding for the Lung Association and its predecessor, the Tuberculosis Association, since 1927. And this year, the need is as great as ever.

The Association says diseases of the respiratory system, including cancer, are the leading cause of death in Canada. In 1982, 23,000 Canadians -- almost one-third of that number in Ontario -- died of respiratory diseases.

One in five Canadians suffer a chronic breathing problem caused by asthma, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, tuberculosis and pneumonia. And it's estimated another 500,000 cases of lung disease will be diagnosed this year.

The association's main weapons in the war against lung ailments are education programs and research. There are support groups for children with asthma and their families, including summer day camps, to help them cope with the condition.

The association also runs Freedom from Smoking self-help seminars for people who want to quit smoking. School programs, aimed at kids from Kindergarten to Grade 13, focus attention on the dangers of smoking and the need for healthy lungs.

There are also seminars and workshops for health-care professionals, and the Ontario Thoracic Society, the association's medical branch, is doing world-class research into diseases such as emphysema. No cure has been found yet, but the effort must continue.

You can help by giving generously to the campaign and using Christmas Seals on your cards and letters during the holiday season. As the association's slogan says: Lungs are for life -- your life. J.L.

The crime of apartheid

Webster's Dictionary describes the word apartheid as follows: Racial segregation; a policy of segregation and political and economic discrimination against non-European groups in South Africa.

The dictionary definition is very clear. Apartheid, says the dictionary, is "racial segregation" pure and simple. There are no qualifying statements.

The South African government cloaks its apartheid policy in qualifying statements, but there can be no doubt about what apartheid really means. It is the outright oppression of the majority black population by the minority white population in South Africa.

Apartheid means segregated beach and recreation areas for whites only. Apartheid means no right of franchise for black men and women. Apartheid means economic disparity. Apartheid means blood will flow in South Africa until the black man and black woman has equality with their white neighbours.

The system of apartheid, which is in essence a patronizing form of slavery without visible shackles, is extremely abhorrent to right-thinking human beings around the world.

It is barely believable in this day and age that such a system continues to exist and that South African leaders are unwilling to compromise.

It is obvious the South African government will not give blacks the right to vote in the near future. The white minority, after years of reaping economic gain due to the availability of a cheap black work force, is still unprepared to afford equal status to the blacks.

Major governments, it appears, are unwilling to enforce strict economic sanctions against South Africa as witnessed by the attitude of British leader Margaret Thatcher at the recent Commonwealth Conference.

If the South African government is unwilling to budge and the international community is only making a half-hearted effort, there is only one unfortunate answer to the policy of apartheid -- a continued bloody rising up of the black populace.

Guest Editorial

"When...you have succeeded in dehumanizing the Negro; when you have put him down and made it impossible for him to be but as the beasts of the field; when you have extinguished his soul in this world and placed him where the ray of hope is blown out as in the darkness of the damned, are you quite sure that the demon you have roused will not turn and rend you?" -- Abraham Lincoln, September 11, 1858.

The Perth Courier

Readers have their say

Bill Smiley

TIME some of my readers had a go at me: good, bad or indifferent. To tell the truth, most of them are indifferent, but I still have hopes of building my fan mail from three or four a week to maybe ten.

I'll just take them as I pick them off the pile. Way back, a chap called Jeff Elliott wrote to the Belle River North Essex News. It goes away back to a Father's Day column, written with tongue in cheek. I guess it was too far in for Mr. Elliott. Anyway, I'll quote bits: "... obviously he is a chauvinistic fool." He goes on to say that without women in the labour force Toronto would financially collapse. So? Let it collapse. It wouldn't be the end of civilization, as we know it. He also accuses me of attacking the Queen and the family. I have never attacked the Queen in my life.

Here's a cute little note from Mary Shantz (I think), but I've lost the address:

"As a rule, a man's a fool
When it's hot, he wants it cool.
When it's cool, he wants it hot,
Always wanting what is not."

I don't know what triggered that one, but I agree, wholeheartedly.

A loverly letter from Lilian Bumford of Sheffield, England, who reads me in the Georgetown Independent, a senior citizen: "When I come at Christmas, come to dinner and I'll get Pat to make you a Yorkshire Pudd." Bless you, Lilian. I presume Pat is your daughter. Maybe I should check with her. Can we have Brussell Sprouts?

Here's another lady so mad she didn't even sign her name, just "I am an insulted reader." Apparently I had made some remarks about today's loose morals. Her letter is long and indignant, but I'll quote just a bit: "Maybe there were a few who indulged in pre-marital sex. BUT the girls in those days had the strength of character to say NO to the boyfriends and mean it."

You're right, lady. They not only had strength of character, but they could almost break your wrist before dropping it back in your lap.

Here's a nice change. It's signed: "Gentle reader," Stonewall, Manitoba. He (or she) wants me to stir things up. Again, it's a long letter, but thoughtful and intelligent: "Why aren't young children still taught at an early age the precepts and homilies we were taught... if good, like evil, grows with a small first step shouldn't our children be presented with small and gentle choices early in their schooling? Is there any reason why this is avoided in schools?"

And a little further on: "Is there some reason why this is so carefully avoided in our schools?" No wonder you didn't sign the letter, Jack. You sound like that idiot in Alberta.

In the first place, it is not the job of the teacher to teach morals. He/she teaches a subject and at the same time tries to pass along a certain standard of ethics, decent manners and how to avoid stinking in public. Morals are for parents. And they, being what they are, are noticeably lacking in training. Don't lay it on the teachers.

And whose morals are we discussing? Maybe mine aren't so great, but they're mine, not somebody else's. And the kids know it. I never tried to impose some "morals" belonging to someone else.

Enough. I could go on about that for hours. Here's a sweet letter from Ingrid Bassett of Georgetown who assures me that they have none of that new-fangled stuff (videos, microwaves, etc.) and has asked me for dinner or breakfast or lunch: "Your thoughts are echoes. Life is so simple, yet so complicated. I used to work for Peter Newman, but your philosophy is simple." Well, thanks a lot, Ingrid.

Here's another one from Bob Love, Clive, Alta. He lost his wife, too, and urges me to marry again, as he had, and have a happy life. Bless you, Bob, and may you be happy. I couldn't. You've earned it, with all those tough years farming.

And another from Bill Baird, Petersfield, Man. He's 78. "A good column is next to a good editorial. Sure, there's lots of news columns. We read, or let them go by. Facts have an uncanny way of being wrong a couple of years later... At 78 I feel I've been through it all ... from bush clearing, the horse age, hundreds of good beef cattle, then dairy cattle." Good health, Bill.

Sweetest letter of all came from the Amherstburg Echo, signed by Andrea D'Angelo (reporter, 27 years old) and Anne Eldracher (secretary, 19 years old). It was so nice that I can't quote it or I'd go all red. In short, it accused me of having morals and principles. Such an accusation makes me break out in bumps. Thanks, kids.

And the most frightening missive of the past few months has been one from my daughter. Get this: "Nikov said he necked with a girl before leaving Bracebridge. Not just a good night kiss, but an actual necking session! If he's doing that at 11..."

Well, it's better than dope, I guess. The only reason I didn't do it was that I didn't have the nerve.

the bottom line

FOR THE LAST FEW WEEKS, scoreboard watching - the nightly agony or ecstasy of checking the progress of the "other guys" in the major league pennant drives - has been a priority for many of us. It's a preoccupation that's taken on new significance for Canadian fans this year, given the unprecedented success of this country's teams.

BUT THIS PASTIME IS NOT UNIQUE TO BASEBALL, not even to sport. The Economist, the respected British publication, has established its own scoreboard which bears watching. The editors have totted up all the world's governments and judged whether or not they are democratic.

THEIR SUM TOTALS GIVE REASON for some hope for this imperfect yet admirable form of government. And they add perspective to those who can't see the enchanted forest in which we live for the trees of petty politics. The Economist's admittedly simplified tally classifies 57 states as democracies, 27 as partial democracies and 83 as non-democracies.

THOSE MAY NOT SEEM LIKE PENNANT-WINNING NUMBERS, but since 1975, democracy has acted more like the Blue Jays than, say, the Cleveland Indians. Since that year, 16 states have moved toward democracy while only six have moved in the opposite direction.

FURTHER, THE COMBINED POPULATION OF THE STATES that advanced was much greater than that of the backsliders. Of course, the statistics in this world series scoreboard are not as cut and dried as ERA or RBIs. After all, most rulers claim their states are democracies.

BUT THE MAGAZINE HARKS BACK to the Greek origins of the word for its standards: demos, the people and kratos, rule. Starting with that, the magazine says any state in its list must pass a primary test before being called democratic. It must be possible to change government by a peaceful election in which rival parties can compete for the votes of virtually all adult citizens.

PARTIAL DEMOCRACIES, IT SAYS, fall short in some aspect. For example, Kuwait and South Africa miss because they strictly limit those who can vote. Likewise Mexico, which in the editors' judgment would not allow an opposition party to come to power, and Egypt, where free elections are effectively restricted by a non-elected establishment.

THIS IS NOT A USELESS EXERCISE in pigeon-holing. Rather it is one way to establish a yard-stick to measure how well the institutions we cherish are doing. It serves, too, in this season of thanksgiving, to remind us how furtunate we are to be able to change governments through the ballot box.

TO BE ABLE TO CRITICIZE OPENLY the people who are charged with shaping our policy is a privilege denied to many millions around the world. Couple that political freedom with the many individual advantages the great majority of Canadians enjoy and it is obvious that we are among the luckiest people in the world.

BUT JUST AS BASEBALL PEOPLE SAY you have to make your own luck, so too, we must be vigilant in guarding our own good future. For that reason, Thanksgiving should be more than a day off work.

Trip to McDonald's

Donald O'Brien, President of the Cardinal Fire Department, Randy Douglas, Brian Dale Prosser, Billy Mills, Joey Biscope, Jessie Dillon (who will be fire chief for a day) and George Mallett, Fire Prevention Officer of the Cardinal Fire Department travelled to McDonalds of Brockville Tues., Oct. 29 as part of their prize in the McDonald's safety contest.

Fire dept. winners to McDonalds

Donald O'Brien, president of the Cardinal fire department, and George Mallett, fire prevention officer took winners of the recent safety contest to McDonalds Restaurant in Brockville, Tues., Oct. 29. The lucky children were Randy Douglas, Brian Dale Prosser, Billy Mills, Joey Biscope and Jellie Dillon (who will be Fire Chief for a day).

They were the guest of McDonald's of Brockville as part of their prizes in the McDonald's Safety contest.

They enjoyed playing in the play area and a variety of foods (everyone had all they could eat) compliments of McDonalds.

Elaine Steele, public relations hostess for McDonalds of Brockville took the group on a tour of their kitchen, and the lockers where they keep the food. She also showed them how to cook a Big Mac and McNuggets.

She informed them McDonald's of Brockville has about 100 employees now, but during the summer they employ about 120, mostly high school students.

Each child was given a "Fast Mac" compliments of the Cardinal Fire Department.

controls could be ended as early as 1986!

Equal pay legislation for both the private and public sectors was promised. This high priority items has already been shunted around the government; and its status questionable at best.

Denticare for children and the elderly was another Liberal campaign promise. But according to the Premier it will have to wait. So will the abolition of OHIP premiums, and funding for day-care facilities.

Extra-billing by doctors was to be banned. Premier Peterson initially said it would be done through negotiation with members of the medical profession. When the OMA indicated that it was not willing to negotiate, the Premier said he would enact legislation to end the practice. He now says hearings will take place to determine how the public feels on the matter, and what measures should be taken.

At first-contract law was to be included in Ontario labour legislation. This is a very important piece of legislation to Bob Rae and members of the New Democratic Party. But quite recently Raw indicated that the Liberal's suggestion of a qualifier clause being contained in the legislation may render it useless.

Then there is the promise of an "accountable government" and one "without walls" made by David Peterson when he was sworn in as Premier of Ontario.

Since that time letters of invitation have gone out to select special interest groups suggesting that, for a given sum, they can rent the ear of the Premier or members of his Cabinet. This certainly shoots holes in the promise of an open government accessible to all.

Early in September, 120 political aides spent a weekend at a luxury resort in Collingwood learning different aspects of the political process. The $30,000 bill was charged up to taxpayers. It should have come out of Liberal coffers which have been receiving funds from the "rent-an-ear program". I have to question this in light of the Premier's promise of accountability.

To make matters worse, the six page memo to participants was sent from the Premier's Office and marked "confidential". The matter only came to light through the diligence of a newspaper reporter. Again, I question the Premier's sincerity in having promised a government "without walls".

David Peterson and his Cabinet made promises to the people of Ontario during the election campaign, in signing the accord with the New Democrats and again on the day they were sworn into power. Since that time they have broken almost as many as they have kept. Do Ontarians not deserve better?

SDHS girls win in basketball

(IROQUOIS) - Seaway District High School's junior girls' basketball team overcame its Rothwell-Osnabruck opponents 40-15 last Thursday here.

Leading Seaway's team with 20 points was Kim Bucking. Other scorers were Lisa Van Hoof with six points and Kathy Byvelds and Krista Duncan with four each. Kathryn Houze and Jennifer Rice each added a basket.

The juniors got off to a slow start, trailing R-O 4-0 after the first quarter. But the team rallied in the second quarter, getting 12 points to move into a four-point lead.

In the second half, Seaway's strength increased with 18 points in the third quarter and 20 points in the fourth quarter. R-? only managed seven points in the two final quarters.

Unfortunately for Seaway's senior girls' basketball team, it was on the wrong side of a similarly lopsided game R-O beat it 67-27.

Don't come any closer

Lisa Van Hoof of Seaway District High School's junior basketball team looks like she's practising martial arts, but she's trying to guard a Rothwell-Osnabruck School player. Last Thursday, the Seaway team beat R-O in a lopsided 40-15 contest.

Lions win, lose and tie this week

The Morrisburg Lions Junior B hockey team came out even after three games this weekend, with a one draw-win-loss record.

Fri., Nov. 1, The Lions skated to a 4-4 tie with the Brockville Tikis. Bobby Deleavey scored twice for Morrisburg, while Scott Robinson and Kyle Zach each found the net once.

Sat., Nov. 2 the Lions edged out its Rideau-St. Lawrence league rival, the Cardinal Broncos, winning 7-6. High scorers for the game were Cardinal's Jeff Scott with three goals and Morrisburg's Andy Brown with two goals.

John Morrow, Tod Prieur, Lyle Schell, Tim Patterson and Mike Branchaud each scored once for Morrisburg, while Ron Musshafen, Doug Veltkamp and Brent Murray found the net once for Cardinal.

The Lions had another close game Sun., Nov. 3, this time being edged out by the Westport Rideaus by a 6-5 score. Mike Casselman and Donald Black led the Lions with two goals each, and Lyle Schell added a single.

Fri., Nov. 8, the Lions will face Kemptville at the Morrisburg Arena at 8:30 p.m. Prescott will travel to Morrisburg for 8 p.m. Sat. Nov. 9. Then, Sun., Nov. 10, Morrisburg will visit Kemptville for a 7:30 p.m. game.

For the Cardinal Broncos, action next weekend starts Sat., Nov. 9 when Brockville visits Cardinal for a 7:30 p.m. game. Sun., Nov. 10, Cardinal will face Athens.

The Winchester Hawks Junior B hockey club played two lopsided games this past weekend, defeating Alexandria 13-2 befor losing to Char Lan 14-6.

The Hawks are now in third place in the Alex English division, with a total of seven points. The team trails Clarence by one point and Navan by three points.

The game against Alexandria was played last Friday, while the Char Lan contest was last Saturday. The win and loss boosts Wnchester's record to three wins and three losses.

The Hawks played again Fri., Nov. 8 at 8:30 p.m. at Alexandria. It also sees action Sun., Nov. 10 at Vanier at 8:30 p.m.

It was my intention to call on you, the Voters, to ask your continued support in the upcoming election on Nov. 12th. Due to a very serious illness in my family, all my spare moments have been spent in Ottawa.

Over the past 3 terms of council I believe I have served the Village honestly and conscientiously, all my decisions were for the betterment of all the citizens of Iroquois, although some certainly were not popular.

We need new Industry, housing is a priority without it no Industry would be too interested in coming here.

Your taxes have been kept at a bare minimum, which helps both owner and tenant, and if elected I will work to make sure this policy remains. Our budget was very tight but we balanced it, there has been no deficit for the past five years.

Once again I ask for your support
Best Wishes to all candidates

Broomball executive chosen

Approximately 25 men attended the Cardinal Men's Broomball league meeting held Sunday Nov. 3 at the Cardinal and District Community Centre.

These officers for the coming year were chosen: Terry Colligan - president, and Dave Patrick - secretary - treasurer.

There are five teams in the league this year, the Legion, Angels, Red Devils, Caldwells, and Philips Cable. IF any team is still interested in playing broomball, they should contact Terry Colligan at 657-3481 or Dave Patrick at 657-3105 before Sun. Nov. 17.

The regular season games will start Sun., Nov. 17 at 10 a.m. at the Cardinal and District Community Centre.

Volleyball schedule

The Iroquois Community Recreational Volleyball League, now into their second month of play, meet this Thurs., Nov. 7, and the following, the 14, for their usual rousing athletics.

Tommorow night at 7 p.m. teams one and six will come together, while teams two and three battle it out in the adjacent gymnasium. Then, at 8 p.m., teams four and five will meet.

The following week, teams five and six, and teams one and two will play at 7 p.m., with teams three and four competing at eight.

Students may be Quebec bound

by Pat Hare
Chieftain Staff Reporter

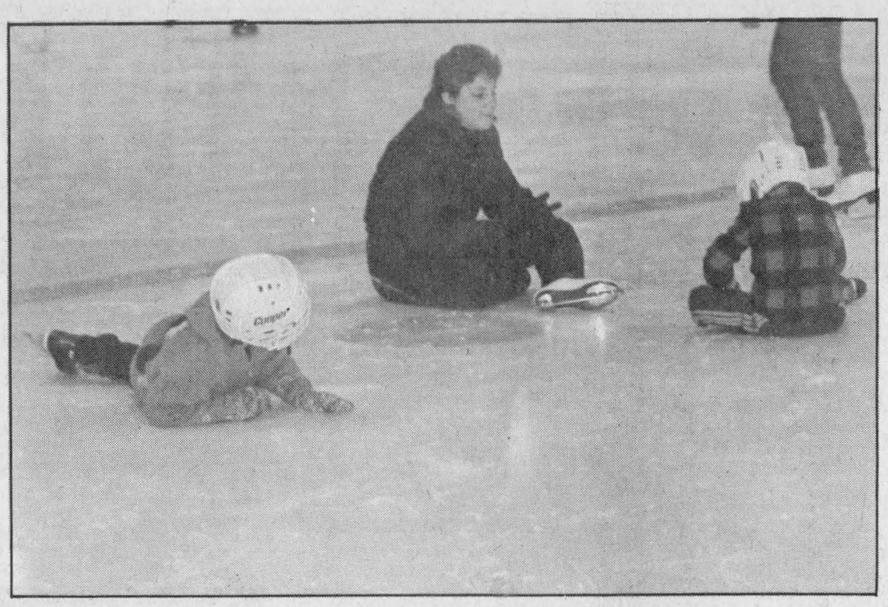
Seaway District High School students presently studying French as a second language will have an opportunity in the new year of participating in a one-week exchange in the province of Quebec, says John McAllister, French department head. Up to 25 students will be accepted, with priority given to those in the immersion and senior French classes. Other interested students may also apply.

The Society for Educational Visits and Exchanges (SEVEC) is searching for a twin school in Quebec and the exchange will probably take place in April or May.

Transportation costs will be provided by Open House Canada, an umbrella program of the Office of the Secretary of State. It supports programs which promote Canadianism and foster inter-provincial understanding. For example, Open House Canada supplied the transportation to Vancouver when Seaway's school band performed there in November 1983.

In addition to the improvement of their language skills, McAllister believes the students will benefit in other ways. Temporary removal from the artificiality of the classroom and meeting teenagers from Quebec will be an adventure. Also, encouragement to use the language will naturally emanate from living with a French family and being within the French milieu for a time.

This is the first group exchange from Seaway District High School, says McAllister, and it is the first time the students have made the trip during the school term. Some students have participated in summer exchange programs in the past, but on an individual basis.



Learning to fall

Skating lessons got underway at the Morrisburg Arena last Tuesday, but these little tykes were having a bit of trouble mastering the new ground last Wednesday. That must be why the instructor decided to join them in the centre of the ice. Chieftain photo

Lions Hallowe'en Party

The Lions Club Hallowe'en party Oct. 31 drew a good crowd as children, teens and parents joined in the spirit of the evening.

Judges Sally Billings, Carol Brouse and Ronald Fader had a difficult task in deciding the winners in each category. Presentations were made by the clown, later identified as Dan Hoffman, to those judged to be wearing the most original, the scariest or the funniest costumes. The winners in each category were:

Ages 2 and 3—Ashley Zewuster, Brian Law, Jennifer Eamon; 4 and 5—Sarah Charbot, Michael Couglar, Greg Miller; 6, 7 and 8—Brian Fawcett, Mathew Charbot, Barbie Law; 9, 10 and 11—Kirk Rumble, Michael DeBellefeuille, Greg Pietersma; 12, 13 and 14—Ginette Orlicky, Greg Barnhardt, Kim Bucking; more than 14—Denis McKee, Chris Arsenault, Warren Robertson.

All participants were winners really, since they all appeared to thoroughly enjoy the event.

Moonlight Lodge officers

Moonlight chapter 224 Order of Eastern Star held its annual installation of Officers for 1986-1987 on Thursday October 24, 1985 in the fraternal hall with visitors from Kingston, Brockville, Fulton, Watertown New York State U.S.A., Prescott and Morrisburg.

We are a community service organization. Some of its principles woke both curiosity and criticism from those unfamiliar with the order.

Individual chapters contribute to charity organizations, support medical research, help young people who are in training for christian education to become a minister or deacon and hospital equipment and support the needy.

This past year $60,000.00 equipment was put in Winchester Hospital, Collingwood General and Marine Hospital, a blood analyser which save value time on analysing the blood.

The officers of Moonlight chapter are Worthy Matron - Ann Banford, Worthy Patron - Ambert Brown; Associate Matron - Verla Perrin, Associate Patron - Bill Schorlimer, Secretary - Vi Hare, Treasurer - Julia Sunderland. Organist - Ethel McInnis, Chaplain - Edna Bebee, Marshall - Estella Seely, Ada - Nelda Brown. Conductress - Mary Whittiker; Associate Conductress - Irene Haldane, Ruth - Kay Brown, Esther - Judy Corry, Martha - Ida Palmer, Elector - Eva Smith, Warder - Leona Schorlemer, Sentinel - Clara Brown. Trustees - Bill Schorlema, Edna Bebee, Nelda Brown, Auditors - Eva Smith, Irene Haldane, Clare Brown.

Cutlers celebrate 50th

John & Vi Cutler of R.R. 2, Iroquois capped off 50 years of marriage with a renewal of their vows at Knox Presbyterian Church, Iroquois on Saturday, October 26. Reverend Theijsmeijer officiated. A reception in the church hall followed and Open House later at the Legion Hall, Iroquois. All arrangements were made by their four children who surprised them with the news of the planned celebrations just about a week ago, said Mrs. Cutler. Chieftain Photo - P. Hare

Cards Of Thanks

I would like to thank all my friends, neighbours and family, Lodge 440 I.O.O.F. Brinston, Dr. Prins, Dr. Scott and nursing staff for their wonderful care I received while in hospital.

Kenneth H. Barber 23-1p

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all the family, friends and co-workers who came to visit us, sent flowers, cards or gifts while we were in hospital. A very special thank-you for the excellent care we received from all the nurses on the maternity staff, and Jan Cross and a special thank-you to Dr. Prins.

Janice & Richard Banford 23-1p

We wish to express sincere thanks for our 50th Anniversary gifts of flowers, plaques, many cards and three dinner parties held in our honor.

Jennie and Bill McQuaig. 22-1p

Sincere thanks to our friends, neighbours and family for the cards, phone calls and gifts we received on our 50th Wedding Anniversary. They were deeply appreciated. We are also grateful to our family for the lovely party and also to those who took the time to attend at this very busy time.

Thanks again, Marjorie and David Scott 23-1p

In Memoriams

CASSELMAN - In loving memory of my dear husband, Carl G., who passed away Nov. 12, 1982.
Dearer to me than words can tell,
Was the husband I lost
That I loved so well,
Wherever I go, whatever I do,
Always Carl I am thinking of you,
Watch over me from up above,
Protect me here below
Guide me always on the path,
That you would have me go.
Take my hand when days are dark.
Comfort me when I cry.
Walk beside me every day.
Until the day I die.

Sadly missed and always loved and remembered by wife Marion.

Ministers meet

Iroquois United Church minister Herb Klaehn poses with the Very Reverend Robert Smith, moderator of the United Church of Canada. Smith was in Williamsburg last Friday to speak to the Seaway Valley presbytery.

United Church Moderator speaks at Williamsburg

(WILLIAMSBURG) - The United Church of Canada's moderator, the Very Reverend Robert Smith, spoke to a crowded audience at Williamsburg's United Church last Friday evening.

As part of a cross country speaking tour, Smith addressed issues such as ecumenicalism, apartheid in South Africa and the famine in Ethiopia.

Although Smith said he is sometimes saddened by the apathy of the church and its concern with its own problems rather than issues, he said he is hopeful presbyteries such as Seaway Valley will translate apathy into action.

The church must be willing to take risks, accept challenges and deal with pain to progress, he said.

Although he lives in Vancouver, Smith has links to this area since his father once served as the church's minister in Morrisburg.

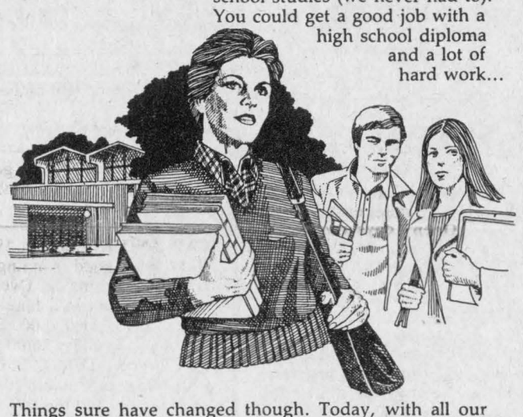
I REMEMBER
WHEN I FINISHED HIGH SCHOOL...

Times were different then.
Most people never went on past high school studies (we never had to). You could get a good job with a high school diploma and a lot of hard work...



Things sure have changed though. Today, with all our modern equipment and new techniques, kids sometimes need more than a good high school education to get started in their career.

That's why it's a good thing we have colleges. By giving young people and old an advanced, modern education, colleges are giving people a better chance at the kind of tomorrow they deserve.

Nowadays, continuing your education at a college just makes good sense.

This message has been brought to you by the people at ST. LAWRENCE COLLEGE SAINT-LAURENT because,

WE SUCCEED WHEN OUR STUDENTS SUCCEED

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF MATILDA

As a Councillor for Matilda township for the past 5 years, I have considered it a privelege and an honour to represent and work for everyone in regards to the problems and questions that have occured during this time.

The time has come when I have decided I can do the same and maybe better from the position of Deputy-Reeve of the township.

Some of the issues I would like to see addressed by the new council are (1) Development of property, west of Iroquois Village known as "Race track property" and (2) A strong look and a revised edition of our house-trailer by-law in the township and (3) Our road maintenance and construction, as every resident knows roads are a priority in a rural township such as ours. I have said from the time I came on council that we need a program for a 3-year period, so the people are aware of the direction council is moving in regards to our road system.

In closing I ask for your support at the polls on election day. If you, the people, support me on Nov. 12th, the only promise I make to you is this:

If I am fortunate enough to be elected Deputy-Reeve, I will continue, as in the past, to meet oncoming problems with prompt, honest action.

During the last week and this week, I will be trying to meet each and everyone of you. If I fail to do this, and any of you have a problem or question, pleae phone me at any time at 652-4053.

Sincerely yours,
Charles A. Barkley

On election day if anybody has any problems or needs a ride to the polls, please feel free to call 658-4053 or 652-4949

Generous hockey club

The now defunct Glen Becker hockey club showed its generosity last Friday when it formally presented the Dundas County Association for the Mentally Retarded with $800 worth of gifts. A computer, tape recorder, weights, tea kettle and hand tools are just some of the results of a game played between the team and CKBY in March, 1984. On hand for the presentation at Morrisburg's DCAMR workshop were: (l. to r.) Doreen Bedard, a life skills client; Graham Stewart,a life skills client; Sandra Burchell, life skills manager; Bill O'Neil, workshop manager; Mike Van Allen, who refereed the game; Don Lewis, a defenceman for Glen Becker; Dale Lewis, an organizer of the charity game; Linda Brown, a work skills client; and Evelyn Campbell, a work skills client.

Two seek school board seat

Mike McInnis, a municipal politician for 20 years is seeking to fill the seat on the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry board of education vacated by outgoing Williamsburg-Morrisburg trustee Gerry Rosenquist, as is Susan Adams. In neighbouring Matilda Township - Iroquois, Dale Beckstead has been acclaimed for the position previously held by Danny Robertson.

McInnis says he has always been interested in education and thinks he would like to serve the community in this capacity. He added that 60 per cent of every tax dollar goes to the school board and, because of his municipal experience, he believes he can contribute to this vital area.

Susan Adams is a newcomer to municipal politics, but says she has a personal and public concern for educational matters. As a parent of small children and as an interested observer of the school system, she sees shortcomings in the curriculum which are creating confusion for the students in setting and achieving their career goals. She added that we seem to have become infatuated with the computer sciences and are almost disregarding the arts. While acknowledging the importance of the computer age, she believes the artistic talents of young people should not be forgotten. Gifted children are neither recognized nor encouraged to the degree necessary, she says.

Adams is also concerned about the lack of remedial programs in the schools, contending that in many cases the children need additional assistance for a short time while overcoming family or other problems. Once they have been sent to another school, it is difficult to return them to their own school without stigma.

Adams stressed her concern for situations such as the one faced by Iroquois parents with respect to bussing of 4 kindergarten children to Morrisburg. It appears that financial concerns took precedence over the needs of the children, she said. Dale Beckstead shares this view.

Dale Beckstead brings 15 years of board of education experience with him upon his return to the board. He last held office in 1974. He has a very real interest in the educational needs of the area and always found work on the board stimulating, he says.

All acclaimed and contending candidates share similar views on the subject of full funding of separate schools: They will have to live with the decision reached by the province and the courts.

McInnis says the effect of full funding is still very much an unknown factor and, based on some preliminary reports from Toronto, the anticipated effects may have been overestimated.

Budgets have not been adequate for the school systems under the status quo and the board members have a real responsibility to ensure that public schools are not the losers in the reallocation of resources, said Beckstead.

McInnis said putting the concerns of Morrisburg area residents on the board's agenda is an important element of the job. It is essential the needs of the community become priorities for the board, which is often seen in rural areas as catering to Cornwall concerns, he said. A priority item, for example, might be something like the present efforts to upgrade the track at Seaway District High School.

Listen to the music

(IROQUOIS) - Listen to the music is the message from the Iroquois-Matilda Lions Club as it presents an evening of entertainment at Seaway District High School Sat., Nov. 23.

And there will be plenty to capture the ear of music lovers. The evening includes performances by the Iroquois Public School Choir, sections of Seaway District High School's band and a Latin dance group from Ottawa.

"This is not only a fundraising project but also a chance for the local people to get some public exposure," said Lions spokesman George Jackson.

The evening gets under way at 8 p.m. in the school's auditorium. Tickets are available from all Lions Club members and at Beaupre Jewellers Store.

Veterans have lots to remember

by Pat Hare
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The veterans who march through the streets of Iroquois Sun. Nov. 10, and those who can no longer be that active, have much to remember and much they would prefer to forget. "We did what we had to do" said Percy Roberts, one of six brothers from Iroquois who joined the Canadian forces. This sentiment was echoed by brother Len who added "nobody wants war but somebody has to go when there is one."

Percy was a gunner with the 3rd Anti-tank Regiment. Len and his brother, the late Ted Roberts, were both with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and were in the thick of D-day action and afterwards, as the allied troops marched through France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. Len said the battle exhaustion took its toll on him after several months at the front line, but after a rest he was back again for the forward thrust which finally led them into Germany and ultimate victory. One of Len's most frightening experiences, he said, was seeing his brother Ted carried from the battlefield without any knowledge of the extent of his injuries. It was some time before the battle pressure lessened and he was able to obtain a favourable report on Ted through his Commanding Officer.

Dan was with the Royal Canadian Service Corps. Three and a half of his more than five years in the military were spent in northern England where, he says, he didn't see much of the war. On leave, however, was a different matter when a bomb dropped nearby. Meanwhile, Dan's wife Kay joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps (CWAC) and was stationed in Kingston, Cornwall and Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec.

Joe and Charlie joined the Royal Canadian Air Force together. After a few months at Manning depot, Dorval and at Valleyfield, Que., they were recalled to the Caldwell Mill. With important government contracts, their special skills were required in industry.

Ross Haley also went to war "because the job had to be done". Haley spent five years in the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, and was with the 1st Division as they fought their way through Sicily and Italy.

Among those who will be remembering also is Jim Fenton. A veteran of World War I, he enlisted in 1915 and saw service in France and Germany. Wounded in Sommes, France in 1916, he said he was actually reported missing and presumed dead. It all came about, he recounted, when he and nine other of his comrades were heavily shelled while moving through the trenches. He was the only survivor. Fortunately, he added, he was picked up by the Royal Scots regiment which was following behind and passed through their lines, to a hospital in France. Once recovered he returned to the trenches to continue the battle.

There are other memories too, such as those of Dr. Peter Playfair and Wilma Playfair. Playfair, a Surgeon-Lieutenant on the HMCS Royalmount, and other ships, spent several years escorting convoys between Newfoundland and Londonderry, Ireland. When his services were required on another ship, he was passed across on a rope to which he was strapped in a special harness. Occasionally, the sailors would "dunk" him during the operation, he said.

Playfair's bride-to-be Wilma, was a Lieutenant Nursing Sister with a Canadian Army Hospital in Sussex, England. The buzz bombs were terrifying, said Wilma. Imagine an object with the sound of a giant cement mixer and a tail of fire, hovering above you. If the sound stopped, you knew you were in imminent danger, she added.

The veterans are those who know the past, survived the horrors of war, and came back to build strong communities such as Iroquois. But time passes and the torch must be held high by those who come after. Many of our young people are showing an acute awareness of the sacrifices of their grandparents, parents, aunts, uncles and others. The winners of the posters and literary contests are most representative of the serious thought and effort put into the contests administered by Branch 370, Iroquois Legion. The following excerpts prove the message is not lost, even on the youngest contestants.

In the poster contest for 1985, some of the themes were "I Will Never Forget", "Tears of Remembrance" and "Jour de Souvenir".

Exerpts from the essays and poems in 1984 show the same degree of understanding.

"And on this November 11th, again I will take a moment of silence with many others to remember, not only my grandfather, whom I had never met, but also the many others who gave their lives for the freedom I enjoy today."

Tammy McEwen, Age 11
Iroquois Public School

"Canada's war memorials, whether statues, cenotaphs or graveyards, all share a common bond. They all pay homage to the tens of thousands of young Canadian men and women who fought and died for the principle in which they believed, and the nation that they loved."

Dan Noakes,
Seaway District High School

"Side by side the wreaths we lay and then we pause a while and pray
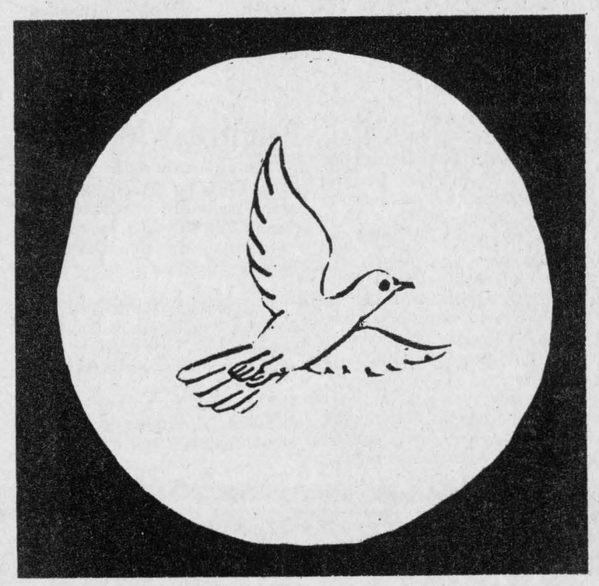
It's good for us the eleventh November
To join our friends, and just remember."

Steven Serviss, Grade 5,
St. Cecilia School

And then there are the grieving silver cross mothers whom Linda Burgess remembers thusly.

"As a silver cross mother while laying the wreath
My memory was vivid of my loving son Keith
Like thousands of others who are not here today
I pay tribute to those who so dearly did pay.

Linda Burgess,
Seaway District High School



Remembrance Day Ceremonies will take place at Iroquois' civic centre's auditorium at 2:00 p.m., Sun. Nov. 10. The parade falls in at Iroquois Legion at 1:30 p.m.

Talking puppets

Dorothy Kliedon of Pocket Full O' Puppets presented Three Little Pigs at the Civic Centre last Tuesday to an enraptured audience of more than 30 children. Before the show, which was sponsored by the Iroquois Library Board in conjunction with Ontario Library Services, Kliedon showed the children how easy it is to make their own puppets.

Museum gets funds

Iroquois' Carman House Museum was one of 201 museums which received funding for 1985 from the provincipal ministry of citizenship and culture.

Although Carman House received only $541, the museums across the province received a total allocation of more than $2.5 million.

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry United Counties Museum in Cornwall received $4,023.

Pre arranging, and sometimes prepaying, a funeral is simply a method chosen by some people to assist their survivors after a death occurs. By doing so, the major decisions involved in arranging a funeral can be made in an atmosphere that does not involve emotional upset which follows the death of a family member.

Polls

But there's a race for all other area positions, including four Iroquois council positions and three in Morrisburg. Candidates in Iroquois include Lorraine Fader, Joyce Fader, John Haldane, Rick Leroy and Joan Saver. In Morrisburg, those vying for a position are Al Belanger, Bill Dillabough Jr., Jim Langabeer, Peter McCooeye and Gerry Rosenquist.

Every position is being contested in Matilda Township for the first time in more than a decade. Deputy-reeve Lorne Mellan is challenging reeve Lorne Strader for the top position. For deputy-reeve, councillors Charles Barkley and Sandra Lee Johnston are both running.

An unprecedented eight candidates are running for three council chairs. They are Mike Ault, Doug Irvine, Garry Murphy, Harvey Plante, Lorna Seibert, Peter Swank, Norman Tinkler and Bill Zandbergen.

Fires

fire department with help from local residents.

At 7:51 p.m., a house in Glen Becker, owned by Mrs. Hector Brown of Riverside Heights, burned. The police are investigating that fire, and charges may be laid.

Around 9:15 p.m., the two outhouses at Williamsburg ball park were set on fire and, again the township fire department was called to extinguish the flames.

At about 10:28 p.m., a report of more vandalism in Williamsburg Township was received by the Morrisburg OPP. Someone poured gasoline around John Hutt's house on County Road 8 and tried to set a fire. The police are still investigating that incident too.

A barn north of Dundela, used to store hay, was destroyed Hallowe'en evening too. The police and fire deparmtent were called at approximately 10:35 p.m., but the fire was left to burn itself out.

In Brinston, Hallowe'en usually gets rowdy, but tricksters restricted themselves to blocking the road leading west from the hamlet with the ball park's bleachers.

Likewise, Cardinal had a quiet Hallowe'en. Although several street fires were set, village police chief Dwight McLaughlin said they were brought under control with a police fire extinguisher.

As usual, egg peltings were commonplace throughout the area on Hallowe'en, with pumpkin throwing also a pastime for some troublemakers.

Gifts

from Honduras will be visiting Iroquois to study various shops at Seaway District High School for six months. To put their training to practical use, they will work at Craig Packaging part-time. Thev will then return to Honduras to train others.

A shipment of clothes from Iroquois will probably leave for Honduras early in the new year. Currently, however, Partners is concentrating on Christmas in Costa Rica.

As its advertising says, "For many children in developing countries, Christmas will just be another day of not enough to eat, and the drudgery of poverty."

By their generosity, Jackson said area residents can change the situation for at least a few children in Costa Rica.

Euchre winners

The winners of the Sacred Heart euchre held on Tuesday Otober 22 were: Ladies first was won by Bea Smith with 80 points. Second prize was won by Muriel Cooper with 74 points.

Their was a tie for the men's first between Reg Baynham and Steve Brady with 77 points. The door prize was won by Nellie Rayneau.

The next euchre will be on Tuesday November 5, at the church hall at 7:30 p.m.
