Are You Able To Walk 20?

Last week was bad enough but this week has been "one of those weeks" in the newspaper business. Talking to other publishers in the area it appears we are all in the same "boat" and the darned thing's sprung a large sized leak. The leak of course is the lack of news copy coming in from around the area because of the mail strike. On top of that we can't get in our national ad. copy or insertion orders and our church page advt., or Sugar and Spice or the many other columns and items that come in to us each week. Even our comics, national news pictures and crossword puzzles and such are lost to us for a while.

Organizations call off for the summer months as well and this helps cut us down to size. The smaller the town the bigger the problem it seems because all of the papers are about the same size except that the bigger the community the more there is going on to write about to fill up. It's a sad state of affairs.

But that's not all. We are busier than ever with job printing from all over the area and as far away as Toronto and Montreal. We're getting the work out all right but we can't send them a bill! And no doubt they'll all, take the customary "thirty-days" even after we can get a bill to them. The staff have to get paid, the federal and provincial tax people say they're coming around to pick up their money (even though we can't collect it from customer), the paper house will find a way to get their dough from us . . . and the friendly bank manager down the street is just sitting there wringing his hands waiting for us to have to go to him to borrow money to keep going. At the rate of interest he's going to ask us, we could afford to wring our hands too!

You notice we haven't written anything to subject you to our opinion on the strike, as yet. But we're warming up to it as each little inconvenience arises . . . and when we make up our mind you won't have to read between the lines.

Local Couple's Son Passed Away

John Hastings Perry, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Spence Perry, Church Street, Iroquois, was buried from Scotland Funeral Home, Elgin, Ont., August 6th.

He is survived by his wife Sylvia Neadow and children Deborah, Jeffrey, Roger, Alan and Nora; also sisters, Mrs. John Conant of Nicaragua, Central America, and Mrs. O. Whitwell, of New Jersey.

There will be many people who will find they aren't in as good physical shape as they think when they try to walk the 20-mile route mapped out for the Walkathon on Saturday, August 17th. The walk is being sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 370, Iroquois, seeking funds to build an addition to the village Legion Hall. The extension is to enable the organizations to better cater to events in the community as well as for Legion activities.

All the service stations in Iroquois, Morrisburg and Cardinal and The Iroquois Post have entry forms for those wishing to join in the march. The idea is to get other people to sponsor the walkers at so many cents per mile, the sponsor paying on the number of miles walked. There will be an official starter to record those entering and an official checking in station on their return.

Already, one young man has over 30 sponsors. If he finishes the walk and each one sponsored at 10c per mile, the cash donation to the building fund amount to $60.00. With dozens entering the walk as a community effort, the Legion Ladies Auxiliary hopes to raise several thousand dollars from the Walkathon.

The walk is from Iroquois to Dixon's Corners, west to Hanesville, and South to Iroquois. Starting time is 9 a.m. Saturday morning, August 17th.

Meet To Discuss Nation Plans

A meeting has been called for Thursday, August 8th in Memorial Hall, Brinston, at which every person in Matilda interested in the problems of water control should attend.

The South Nation River Conservation Authority has called the meeting for 8 p.m. and issued an invitation to all interested parties to attend. It will give all an opportunity to learn more about present and projected plans and hopes for the Nation River and perhaps a better insight into the problems being encountered will be forthcoming. The control of the Nation River has plagued many people for dozens of years and this year's flooding in July brought it again to the forefront of problems facing area farmers, and more especially those with farms adjoining the river banks.

The date is August 8th, the time 8 p.m., and the place the Memorial Hall, at Brinston. Make an effort to attend.

LADIES NIGHT

Legion Ladies Auxiliary announce a Ladies Night will be held at the Legion Hall, Iroquois, Saturday, August 10th. Dancing, refreshments. Everyone welcome. Admission $2. couple.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnston Wed at St. John's Church

White summer flowers formed a beautiful setting in St. John's Anglican Church for the marriage of Sandra Lee, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shaver of Iroquois, to Roger Wayne, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnston of Dixon's Corners.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of French taffeta and Guipre lace, featuring a roll collar encircled with seed pearls and a redingote effect falling into a train at the rear. Her pillbox hat was topped by a satin rose and held the short illusion veil in place. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis and gold sweetheart roses.

Enjoy Visiting Iroquois

Last week a Scarboro family spent the day at the newly established Iroquois trailer park. Mr. R. Harte, his wife, and son are heading east to spend their vacation in Nova Scotia. This travelling family, as well as a goodly number of other vacationers who have stayed at the park, have remarked that it is ideally situated near such recreational facilities as the golf course, the beach, and the tennis court, and the Seaway Locks.

Fly-in This Sunday At Village Airstrip

Plans are being laid to welcome an expected 200 visitors to Iroquois this weekend. For the most part they will come by plane, bringing their tents, and stay for the weekend. The first such event was held here last year on the official opening of the Iroquois Municipal Airstrip.

Since last year a building has been erected, with washrooms, showers and other facilities for the benefit of visitors who comewith trailers or tents.

TO DEDICATE PLAQUE FOUNDING OF MERRICKVILLE

On August 7th there will be a ceremony in Merrickville marking the founding of that community, with provincial and federal representatives, as well as a descendant of the Merrick family taking part in the ceremony. The event is sponsored by the Merrickville District Historical Society under President Col. Duncan Douglas as program chairman for the day's events. Others invited are Dr. H. Douglas Wise, Reeve of Merrickville, F. M. Cass MPP of Chesterville, Gordon Blair, MP, Ottawa, and Wm. Merrick, of Montreal.

The public has been cordially invited to attend the 3 o'clock celebration.

Interested citizens in the village are organizing breakfast at $1.00 and are inviting

Those Days Are Gone But Not Forgotten

Gazing alongside our storage shed at the cottage the other day we spied four bamboo fishing poles, darkened by the weather and with a little of their spring gone, but other than rotten line seemed to be in fair shape. They date back about four or five years to the day they were bought in a sudden splurge of wanting to do things we did in the good old days . . . like fishing for mudpout. Seely's Hardware in the old village used to sell a heap of them each spring. They came out, along with the plants and flowers in most towns and signalled the fact that spring had arrived.

We haven't any idea where you can pick them up now, but as a youth it never ceased to amaze us that those 20 to 40 cent poles had come all the way from China just to give us the best danged fishing outfit you could find for mudcats. Once the end got busted off, you would still take the end piece if it was long enough and use it to fish suckers from a boat. With black thread doubled or tripled and minnow hooks, you could find a deep hole where the suckers lurked and they gave you about as enjoyable a tussle as you could find in any fish.

Today, you head into the hardware store and they have the most splendid display of steel and plastic and glass rods, flashing reels and all kinds of delicate lures you can lay your eyes on. The prices are rather delicate too!

One of the best ways of saving money for tackle, as lad of ten or so, was to go down to the blacksmith shop and you'd find enough material around to make a dozen sinkers in his forge and the odd nut and bolt as well.

As long as you pumped those bel lows for half an hour the "smithy" would help with the sinkers. That odour in the shop of new and old leather, or the shoes sizzling in the tepid (and most times stagnant) water, along with the bits of hooves that flew into the fire, can almost touch our nostrils even yet.

Thinking back, too, we think of the odours of the hardware store and the grocery store. They were peculiar in themselves . . . not obnoxious, either, just peculiar.

It was a favorite sport and a necessity as well, to head for the bowling greens after dark to get a supply of dew worms. The fellow who kept the greens always had it well watered and those dew worms just loved the place. Finally, they used some kind of chemical and we never found the place the same afterwards.

The odd time a tourist, all the way from Morrisburg or Winchester would pay a quarter for a couple dozen or so. A few days in an old Lipton's tea tin full of earth but left in the sun and you could smell those danged things a block away. Many the time we had to go out and bury the whole shebang when the cook of the house found a can of "high" contents in the woodshed. At the time it didn't seem right, somehow. The other night we plucked out a couple dozen dew worms for the youngest and found after an hour bent over that the old back has gotten a little out of shape in the past few weeks. And the worms seem to be a mite faster on the retreat than those we remember 20 years ago. But then, everything is moving faster these days and it's getting harder to keep up with many things we used to do.

Crabs and small frogs were the kind of bait that spelled success along any river bank, but those crabs were especially no fools. You had to outguess which way they were going to dart, always of course shooting off with their tail leading the way. The Nation dried up fairly well in the village area down home in the early summer and by moving rocks along the old dam near Barrie's mill you could usually pick up a few. Frogs were a different matter. You found someone who had just dug another large hole to be used as a carry-to septic tank, and a bit of water in it worked wonders. A day or so and you could harvest a dozen or more.

Kids are fiendish little devils actually and it's a wonder the SPCA or some other band didn't find out about these goings on. One businessman in town paid a whole dollar for a dozen frogs! Still think we had more sense than he; he could have dug his own hole and saved a buck!

Times were tough one year. Money wasn't too easy to come by and most people had their own kids to mow the lawns and weed the gardens . . . and they did it too. We even got down to using safety pins, bent back and cut off, to use as hooks. A few too many bends and off they snapped though and there was always the thought of losing a fish because of it.

Fishing was good in the small streams then. Fifty to a hundred moutpout wasn't exceptional but if too many went fishing you cleaned them on the bank, washed them in a spring on the other shore just above Kirby's Creek, and rushed home to sell them to one of the restaurants or a native hungry for a "feed". A little over a cent each was top price and they had to be good ones or you had to make it a "baker's dozen".

Towards the end of the thirties things picked up a bit, we got a little older and got into woodpiling instead of fishing to keep those chocolate bars, "rocks" and gum coming from Labre's little store. It was strategically located right on the way to school and they had the greatest assortment of candy anybody ever saw. A paper bagful of those black rocks lasted all day and only cost a nickel.

The time consuming job was making up one's mind as to which you could get the most of, or the decision to take small taffy ones which were rich or that puffy fudge candy in big nickel blocks.

Those were days of weighty decisions!

Of Rail and Mail And Truck and Stuff!

One thing the mail strike has done is to remind us that there are still other means of communication in this world and some of them still operate pretty efficiently despite their handicaps and our having for the most part placed them on the shelf.

Take for instance the bus lines that operate throughout the country. Here we were riding along nicely putting our stamps on small parcels and whisking them over to the post office from which place they would soon ship off and be delivered two days later in Toronto, Montreal or Timbuctoo, or maybe even Winnipeg. A letter was pretty sure to be 300 miles away the next day and if it happened to get space on a plane could be 3000 miles away by the next afternoon.

Along came the strike and lo and behold the bus lines were still in business doing a great job.

The railways haven't been all that good in the last few years with many things and while we're not sure we wanted to see us lose our passenger service, there weren't too many people using it and down it came. Now the entire local operation is headed for the ash can. But even the railways are picking up their socks and a piece of the new business. Especially the telegram part of the operation. It has boomed in most communities and is doing a bangup job.

Truck service has come a long way in the past ten years and it didn't seem much of a strain for them to get in the swing of increased business. It was "business as usual" with them. They've pretty well handled speedy shipments to everyone's satisfaction.

The heading reads of Rail and Mail, Trucks and Stuff. So now we come to stuff. That's the third rate pieces of literature we used to get out of our bulging mail box each morning. It filled it to overflowing, caused us a few years back to get a bigger box to hold more of it, and fills our waste box to the top once a week. And the box measured about two feet all the way around. That's a lot of wasted three cent stamps but they weren't ours so we didn't much worry. The box this week had little more than enough to cover the bottom and it didn't faze us one little bit. We missed taking the time to pop them open, but that's all.

So the strike has affected us in other ways than those which make us miserable and it's nice to be able to look at the lighter side of this whole miserable mess!

Government urges full use of Canada's communications

The government was urged yesterday to make full use of Canada's telecommunications companies as the most economic and effective way of implementing a Canadian satellite communications system.

The recommendation was made in a brief presented to Postmaster General Eric Kierans, Minister-designate of the proposed federal department of communications, by the Trans-Canada Telephone System and CN-CP Telecommunications. The brief was in response to a Government White Paper on satellite communications issued in March.

The telecommunications companies said that if the government decided to establish a satellite corporation and participate in its ownership, "we are prepared to cooperate fully, and place our experience and resources at the service of the Canadian public."

Public interest demands that Canada's limited technical manpower and finances be used with the greatest possible economy and efficiency in developing a satellite system and assuring its proper integration with the terrestrial communications network, the brief continued. It stated that the telecommunications companies were able to make "a unique and valuable contribution in terms of experience, available facilities and skilled workers, together with specialized knowledge of requirements and technology."

It maintained, however, that the telecommunications companies' original proposal of May, 1967 to finance, build and operate a satellite system remained sound and economical, meeting the "test of public interest" without any expenditure of public funds.

Should the government decide on a joint satellite corporation, the brief recommended:

1. The corporation should be established under joint financial ownership, on an all-equity basis, with principal share allotments assigned to the government and the telecommunications companies. The general public might eventually be offered shares, but it should be recognized it might be many years before the corporation became a profitable entity.

2. Management of the corporation should rest with a board of directors selected on the basis of equity ownership.

3. The corporation should function as a wholesaler of satellite channels to the telecommunications companies and other major regulated users, using a full satellite channel as the basic unit for rent.

4. Ownership of the system's facilities should be shared by the corporation and the principal users. The corporation would own the satellites and those earth stations directly associated with broadcasting would be owned by the broadcasters or the government department involved.

5. The terrestrial communications network, including connecting equipment in the principal earth stations, should continue to be owned and operated by the telecommunications companies.

6. The telecommunications companies should co-ordinate the planning for provision and utilization of facilities since the public already looks to them for over-all quality of communications services.

The brief stated that the telecommunications companies already have a $4 billion network in operation with facilities being added to the value of $500 million annually. They have the trained manpower and the research and manufacturing know-how which have provided Canadians with telecommunications services unsurpassed in the world in terms of quality, scope, value and innovation.

It pointed out that the economic justification for a domestic satellite system is its long-haul voice and data telecommunications capabilities together with TV distribution. But solely as a solution to the problem of arctic communications or of TV distribution to remote areas, it would not be economically viable for many years.

"It is essential that the satellite and microwave systems be fully integrated," the brief stated.

Mark as ring-bearer and page respectively. Her attendants were gowning in identical gowns of mint green and lilac, with nosegays of gold rosebuds and baby's breath. Miss Valerie Adams was the maid of honor, with Barbara Johnston, Christine Davis, Joyce McCaslin and Jane Schaefer as bridesmaids. The bride's cousin, Gwendolyn Shaver, as flower girl, was gowning in gold taffeta with white lace overlay and carried a smaller version of the bridesmaid's bouquets. The groom was aided by his brother Sidney as best man, and George Watson, Paul Barclay, Doug Mel-lard and Steven Shaver as ushers.

At the reception which followed in the church hall, the guests were received by Mrs. Shaver in a mauve gown with lace overlay and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow carnations. The groom's mother was dressed in an aqua gown with lace jacket and beige accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

For a honeymoon trip to Cape Cod and other points the bride wore a beige sheath dress with green lace coat and hat with beige accessories, a corsage of stephanotis centered with an orchid completed her outfit.

Of particular interest was the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Seeley of Prescott, attended, they being the bride's great grandparents.

Other guests were present from Ottawa, Montreal, Sarnia, Cornwall and neighbouring towns.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored at showers given by Miss Valerie Adams and the bridesmaids, and a community shower hosted by Linda Thompson (which was attended by 160 guests).

We'll start off by thanking the club members who came out last Wednesday evening to work up the sandtraps and spread the new sand traps. The rough was cut along the river's edge at No. 1 tee and along the ditch on No. 1 hole.

We hope to have a work party out this Wednesday to finish cutting the rough at No. 8 ditch to fix the ditch at No. 7 and to spread the sand which will be delivered so we can finish the work on all the old traps.

The course is shaping up very well, with the fine weather we have been having and the good work of our greenskeepers.

Now he comes out, gets back in his car, more determined to get nowhere all the faster. So he pulls out onto the road—doesn't stop. He could care less about the other cars on the road because he's in a hurry to get there.

Where? In a hurry to hit a woman crossing the road, or may be the young boy riding down the side of the road on his bike! Or is it the big tree just outside of town? Well, this time it won't happen, as the driver was just stopped by a policeman. This time there won't be an accident. But what about the next time, or the time after that? Will this be a story about YOU?

qualifying rounds are finished and the 2nd 18 holes will be finished on Saturday, August 10.

Low scores after the first holes with a 76 by Ken Meloney, followed by Len Scott with a 80 followed by 3 players at 82's, but as there are 3 classes every body has a chance.

To those members who read this paper in time, come out tonight with a rake, shovel and some power mowers of you are able, and we will be able to finish off the fine work started last week by the other 14 volunteers.

REUNITED WITH FAMILY PET
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Shaw, and daughter Phyllis, Delhi, N.Y., are shown a few moments after they were reunited with their family pet "Rusty". The dog was lost near Spencerville and two weeks later was back with its owners.

Lost Dog Reunited With Owners

There are many people who have a love for animals that forces them to extend a friendly and helping hand to another pet lover when the need arises. Such was the case over a week ago when The Post learned that a lost dog had wandered into the yard at H. E. Fawcett's, up the Broken Second, and the finder reported the animal was tagged. The events leading up to the finding of the owner and the happiness shown on his face, was worth every bit of time and effort we put into a telephone search that covered two days' time and a lot of help from a number of people, including a kindly Bell Canada operator at Brockville.

In July, a Delhi, N.Y. couple left their home for a camping trip into Canada's north country, some five or six hundred miles north of Hull, Quebec. They spent their first night at a campsite not far from Spencerville, on No. 16 Highway, having crossed into Canada over the International Bridge at Johnstown. As it is necessary with pets, the couple let their dog out for a run but in a few minutes it was realized that the dog had vanished into the bush and despite repeated efforts to find him, the dog seemed lost for good. A heart-broken American couple took their leave of the campsite, leaving their name, and address, and headed on their journey, feeling that the dog had probably been hit by a car on the highway and was dead.

Several days later and after a good number of miles, the dog appeared in the Iroquois area, gaunt and hungry. The Post was notified when it was found and the search began. We felt a phone call to the dog licence people in Albany, N.Y. where the dog appeared to be from by the tag, would solve the problem. Such was not the case, however. The newspaper fraternity has a way of looking after itself, so we first contacted the "Times" in Albany, asking that they try to locate the address of the owner.

D. O'Shaughnessy died Saturday

by James Woodford

The robin on your lawn sings a far different song from the one you hear. The gap between human reception and the content in bird song applies to all species of birds. For bird songs are intended for rather than human ears.

For some time, ornithologists have known that in many bird songs there existed a concurrent melody pitched too high for the human ear to receive it. The application of modern electronics has pried further unsuspected information from the spring song.

No one, except birds, knows precisely how rapidly birds can decipher a song of their species. It is assumed that they can, in effect, "hear 10 times as fast as a human." Another way of putting it would be that the hearing of birds is 10 times as sensitive in picking up the inflections in a bird song.

Working on this assumption, ornithologists have recorded wild bird songs, then played them back at a reduced speed one-tenth as fast as the original song. They also analyse them through electronic machines that reduce sound to a pen-line graph.

Such research discloses that even the rough "churrs" commonly uttered by birds hold considerable content. Slowed down to a tenth of a second, or one-tenth speed, the "churr" no longer is a blur of sound. It is an intricate pattern of modulations. So intricate that each bird has certain individual twists to the pattern, individual enough to identify them not only as a member of a species, but also as a particular member of the species.

Thus, the most melodious bird song that we hear is actually received by us as a distorted blur of what the bird is actually singing.

Robins throughout Ontario now are at some stage of nesting, according to the Federation of Ontario Naturalists.

Iroquois Legion Moves Into Second Place

The Iroquois Legion Intermediate Fastball Team took over sole possession of 2nd place over Brinston Bears by defeating Cardinal 13 to 0 in Iroquois.

Iroquois took over a 3 to 0 lead in the first inning on runs by Alex Ousa, Bill Duvall and Randy Thompson. The Legionaires scored one run by Jim Scott in the second inning, this was followed by a towering bases empty home run by Bill Duvall. After 3 complete innings of play, Iroquois lead 5-0.

The fourth inning proved to be Cardinal's downfall as the Legion team scored 6 unanswered runs — scoring for Iroquois were Summers, Potvin, Roy Lapier, Bill Duvall, Thompson and finally Jack Coulter with a grand slam home run.

Iroquois completed the scoring in the fifth inning with 2 runs by Potvin and Ray Lapier.

Iroquois went scoreless in their half of the 6th inning.

Summers and Thompson and Ray Papier were the Legion battery.

The first half of the 1968 schedule was completed with Iroquois ending up with 6 wins and 6 losses for 12 points and 2nd place.

Following is the second half of the 1968 schedule of the Dundas Intermediate Fastball league for the local Iroquois Legion team.

Wed., Aug. 7 — Brinston at Iroquois — 7:00 p.m.

Friday, Aug. 9 — Chesterville at Iroquois — 7:00 p.m.

Mon., Aug. 12 — Iroquois at Cardinal, 7:00 p.m.

Wed., Aug. 14 — Iroquois at Brinston — 7:30 p.m.

Friday, Aug. 16 — Cardinal at Iroquois — 7:00 p.m.

Monday, Aug. 19 — Iroquois at Chesterville — 7:30 p.m.

The playoffs are due to commence on or about Wednesday, August 21st. Semi-finals are to be a 3 out of 5 series with the finals to be a 4 out of 7 series for the league championship.

The local team management were pleased to see a large turnout of the Cardinal game and do hope even more will turn out for the above listed home games.

The Iroquois team is currently conducting a raffle to defray operating expenses which will be conducted at a team benefit dance scheduled for Saturday, September 7th at Branch 370 Royal Canadian Legion Auditorium.

Dance and Raffle Tickets may be purchased from any member of the ball club or at the Legion.

How About A Little Moral Support For The Softball Team?

In the article above is a list of the games to be played in the coming few days by the softball league, in which the Iroquois Legion Team is plying. After seeing a game on Tuesday night between Iroquois and Cardinal, it prompts us to enlist all the aid we can muster in support of the local boys. And that support means only one thing: the boys could use your moral support not only at home games but at the games away from home.

Every few years a community comes up with a team which is putting its every effort into winning. Many teams never develop a "team spirit" and usually the results are quite evident by their standing in the league. Iroquois has now moved into second place and have done so by playing the game as hard as they could. To get where they did meant a great deal of sacrifice in time and energy, not only by the players, but by the coach and his helpers.

The least we can do is to pick up a lawn chair and go to the game. Don't forget to take along a little change to help out also.

MAKE-IT-YOURSELF

WINE

The do-it-yourself trend is alive and well — especially in wine making. John Millyard writes in The Financial Post. More than 33 per cent of all the wine Canadians drink (equivalent to $60 million retail) is home brewed. You can make a drinkable bottle of table wine for 25c to 40c. The Financial Post says. It takes an outlay of only $10 for equipment to get started. Ingredients for a 5-gal batch cost about $6. They can be grape and other fruit concentrates, or unpressed grapes for persons who use the more traditional method.

Rev. John Hardwick Dies of Heart Seizure

His very many friends in Morrisburg and throughout the area and indeed, around the world, will learn with most sincere regret of the sudden death of Rev. John Hardwick, D.D., beloved former pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, Morrisburg from April, 1951 to June of 1960.

Dr. Hardwick died unexpectedly on Sunday night from a heart attack, shortly after returning to his home at Monkton, Ont., following a visit with old friends in Morrisburg.

Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian Church in Monkton on Wednesday, with interment at Elmira, Ont.

Following the death of his first wife in 1962, Dr. Hardwick went on a trip to New Zealand, where he was persuaded to become the minister to a large congregation in that country, a position which he ably fulfilled for nearly two years. After returning to Canada, Dr. Hardwick married the former Miss Lyle Erskine of Monkton. For the past several years, Dr. and Mrs. Hardwick have travelled extensively to many parts of the world. Last winter, he spent in Spain, and on his last visit here only a few days ago, he expressed the intention of returning to that country again this winter.

During a visit to Rome, he attended High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, and, with thousands of others, he received the papal blessing. Dr. Hardwick spoke with amusement to us the other day of the manner in which the Roman populace, out of deference to his clerical collar, addressed him as "Father".

Dr. Hardwick is survived by his second wife; three sons, Dr. David Hardwick and James Hardwick of Ottawa, John Hardwick in England and a daughter Janet in Winnipeg.

Perhaps a small measure of the esteem in which he was held, may be gleaned from a couple of quotations from the files of The Leader.

REV. JOHN HARDWICK, D.D.
On the occasion of his induction on March 31, 1961, the editor (The Leader) after a brief introductory meeting with the late Dr. Hardwick, was sufficiently impressed to comment "The entire town should benefit from the choice of such an able man".

Some nine years later, on Dr. Hardwick's departure from Morrisburg, our good first impression of this reverend gentleman had been confirmed, so that we stated editorially: "There is widespread regret in Morrisburg and district at the imminent departure from our town of Rev. John Hardwick, D.D., pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church here, since 1951. Dr. Hardwick will conduct his last services at Knox this Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. During the years of his pastorate in Morrisburg, Dr. Hardwick has endeared himself to villagers both within and outside of his immediate congregation. All will join with us in wishing good health and many more successful years in the ministry to this good man of God, and his equally esteemed wife, in their new charge at Monkton, Ont."

Witnesses meeting in Ottawa this week

Thousands of people are streaming to Ottawa this week, and seven Iroquois and Prescott families are among them.

The attraction is a four day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses being held at the Ottawa Civic Centre (Lansdowne Park) the week expected to draw 13,000 delegates.

Purpose of the mammoth gathering according to the local presiding minister, Mr. Albert Bryenton, is "to give impetus to the current public-ministry program of Witnesses, to encourage the building of happy family units determined to follow wisdom, and to provide an example of Christian unity in a mixed-up world."

The exodus from this area — and more than 250 other communities of Ontario and Quebec — includes many young faces. "Family unity and respect for the family head are better taught when 'dad' takes his family with him, especially where Bible instruction is involved," says Mr. Bryenton.

Delegates are not headed for a vacation, rather to work and learn, he said. Twenty-two hours of instruction are involved in the four-day program. In addition, one in four will work in a service department such as the convention cafeteria which will turn out 5,000 meals an hour.

Part of the instruction explains methods of teaching youth and adults how to show concern for affairs about them in a constructive, upbuilding way, he said.

"Adults want to see teen-agers take a responsible interest in the affairs of life. But prejudice and injustice are so entrenched in most social systems that youths become frustrated and turn to negative, destructive methods of forcing reforms, such as civil disobedience and rioting. However, there is a scriptural way to help our neighbour, and the rewards are success and satisfaction," Mr. Bryenton contended.

He explained, "The Bible outlines a two-fold program. First, work on the basic unit of society — the individual — helping him to align his conduct with the high standards of true Christianity, building in each such qualities as unselfishness, gentleness and humility before God and men. Second, but most important, help him to see and support God's kingdom government as the real solution to social inequities. The days of man's independence are numbered. The Bible marks this generation as the time when God will rip rulership away from man."

Several dramatic presentations being staged separately in English, French and Italian include as part of the casts upwards of one hundred teen-age Witnesses. Rehearsals have been going on for the last two months in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto.

INSURANCE TROUBLES HIT BUSINESS

It's getting tougher for businessmen to buy all the fire and liability insurance they want, Robert Catherwood writes in The Financial Post. This kind of insurance protects their buildings and equipment, and insures them against claims by third parties for bodily injury or property damage. Some corporate insurance buyers, Catherwood says, are having to wait for weeks before their agent or broker can confirm that their insurance has all been placed. And almost every business is faced with paying higher premiums. In some cases rates have been doubled. "We have just gone through a really trying period in arranging the renewal of our fire insurance," one big industrial insurance buyer told The Financial Post.

Notes From Our Country Correspondents

Local Couple Mark 25th Wedding Anniversary

Friends and neighbours from a wide area gathered with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Banford to celebrate with them on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary, Wednesday, July 24th. They came from Kingston, Peterborough, Prescott, Brinston, Dixon's Corners and the surrounding area, as well as the village with an "At Home" from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9, giving everyone an opportunity to renew old acquaintances and honor the village couple on their anniversary.

Rev. Lloyd Lake, supply minister at St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, led in prayer to open the "At Home" early in the afternoon.

The couple recalled their wedding 25 years ago, when Rev. John Hutton, United Church Minister, united them in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Banford, Iroquois. They went on a honeymoon to Hamilton, but the groom had little time for an official honeymoon, being in the Army at the time.

They have resided in Iroquois since their marriage in 1943. Mr. Banford operating a plumbing business.

During the afternoon and evening ladies of the community poured and assisted in the kitchen, including Misses Mary Lynn Caldwell, Nancy and Kathy Andrew, Bonnie Thompson and Joanne Banford, Mrs. Albert English, Mrs. Arthur Ban-

This proved negative. Next a phone call to Albany city hall's dog registration branch. The dog hadn't been licensed by them but they finally suggested the Department of Agriculture for the State of New York in another community. Within a few minutes they had the name of the dog (it was "Rusty"), it was a Brittany Spaniel, reddish-brown with white spots, a three year old male. And it was owned by a Mr. Charles Shaw, 9 Orchard Street, Delhi, N.Y. They even had the telephone number. From here on we felt it would be clear sailing.

For two days we kept trying the number with no response, and kept thinking the family was probably on a holiday and of course didn't know how long it would be before they arrived home. The second night we decided to try the number again, and a daughter answered. Her mother had called home to say the dog was lost and the entire family was in despair. It was as though a member of the family had passed on. The joy of hearing of the animal's safety gave us a feeling that the small effort we had put into it had been worth while. To save the couple a trip back to Iroquois we offered to call the owners in a Quebec town. The name of the community escapes us now, but it sounded familiar at the time and we thought of it as being about 100 miles north of Montreal. We called the number and it was busy. It was still busy the next day, so we asked the Brockville ford, Mrs. Ronald Fader, Mrs. C. Greaves, Mrs. Harold Dunbar, Mrs. Graham Caldwell and Mrs. Donald Hare.

The couple received many lovely gifts, cards and phone calls during the day, including the gift of a money tree from the neighbours.

The Post joins with the community in extending sincere good wishes to the couple and hope they have many more anniversary celebrations in future years.

operator to check it out. She asked the name of the village but we couldn't think of it by name. So she started a check through Montreal operator. She didn't know, Montreal dialed the number and after the busy signal, called the operator on that exchange and a male operator answered. The line only had a few numbers apparently and it was out of order. No way of reaching them but we did find out that the town was way north. We placed a call to the Quebec Provincial Police who agreed with so few tourists in their part of the country they shouldn't be difficult to locate at one of the lodges in the area. The area was large, however, and only one policeman.

We decided to have the QPP have the man call home in Albany and we called the daughter again to tell her we couldn't reach them. That was Friday, July 26. The mother had called before we did and said she wouldn't be calling again until the middle of the next week. When she finally called on Tuesday, the daughter told her the dog was found and gave her our phone number. She called us and a long and happy conversation ensued.

The husband was away at another lake on a fishing trip and couldn't be reached for several days. When he called in or got home the couple would be leaving to come for their pet. They expected to arrive late Friday night or Saturday.

U.S. payments crisis earlier this year and triggered Congress into finally passing the 10 per cent increase and the Administration to cutting back on its expenditures. The result, The Financial Post says, Washington sincerely hopes, will be a marked cooling of imports during the second half. That will be felt directly in Canada.
