Elementary teachers, board request mediator

CORNWALL (Staff) - With three major issues yet to be resolved, the Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry County Board of Education and its elementary school teachers have requested an outside mediator to help end their negotiations.

The two parties requested at their latest meeting that the Education Relations Commission appoint a mediator to help resolve the dispute. The three major issues still to be settled are noon-hour supervision, pay and administrative release time for principals, said Bob Whittaker, manager of employee relations for the board, Tuesday.

The two parties have reached further agreements since a fact finder's report was completed in January and have few issues left to resolve, he said.

Fact Finder Carol Beatty was appointed Dec. 4. She said in her report, publicly released Jan. 28, that although there were many items remaining in dispute the two parties have a "cordial" relationship and are confident the differences can be resolved.

Beatty set six priority issues for the teachers and board to focus on -- two have yet to be resolved. The teachers want a six per cent increase in salary and allowance for all positions, including principals, consultants and co-ordinators, as well as extra degree and special education allowances.

The board is requesting a 3.6 per cent salary increase for principals and vice-principals, no increase to any other allowances and the removal of the special education allowance for the teachers.

The other issue given priority by Beatty is administrative release time for principals. The teachers want the time granted according to the number of teachers supervised by the principal. They are requesting five days of release time (for four teachers) to 20 half-days (for 25 or more).

The board, Beatty said, is willing to grant administrative time on a similar sliding scale, but only for a range of two half-days to a 16-day maximum.

Noon-hour supervision, one issue not set as priority by Beatty, is also considered major and has yet to be resolved, Whittaker said. Beatty recommended that it and several other items be withdrawn from the current round of negotiations as they were not deemed as priority during negotiations.

"Pretty well everything, else has been resolved," Whittaker said yesterday. "I wouldn't predict any problems at this point in time."

"Although there were a number of items remaining in dispute, the parties seemed close to a settlement," said Beatty in her closing remarks. "They have traditionally enjoyed a good relationship, and their slowness to reach a settlement this year does not appear to have strained their relationship to any significant extent."

The 350 elementary teachers have been without a contract since Aug. 31.

Although she gave an upbeat report concerning the elementary teachers negotiations, her report concerning the secondary teachers dispute was less optimistic.

There are "serious differences" between the two parties "which, if not resolved, could lead to a breakdown of negotiations and consequent sanctions," she said. "It is against a history of mistrust that the present negotiations must be interpreted. The relationship in the past has been characterized by conflict and distrust."

"Neither party accepts the solutions of the other to the educational problems experienced in the Counties, and both see the other party as looking out for its own interests at the other's expense."

Beatty recommended the two parties focus on the two major issues -- component staffing and workload. The board wishes to use component staffing formulae only as guidelines, "not as hard, fast and grievable rules," she said.

The component staffing clause was inserted into the Collective Agreement four years ago and was the first of its kind negotiated by a teachers' group.

Component staffing is a way of deciding upon the required number of staff and their allocating to schools and programs. The board wants to use a pupil-teacher ratio figure instead to determine staff number each spring.

The second major issue in contention is teacher workload, Beatty said. The board wants to change the existing maximum teaching assignment guidelines, but the teachers want them to remain the same, she said.

"It's tough going," said Whittaker about the present state of negotiations, but added optimistically the two parties haven't reached a standstill. "We are still meeting."

As long as the parties can overcome the two major stumbling blocks, "everything else should fall into place", he said. "If we can resolve them, then we can get to work on the others."

Another meeting will be held Tuesday to seek an end to the negotiations, he said. The parties have not requested a mediator but may need one yet, he said.

Newsbriefs

FINCH (Staff) - A snowmobiler is missing his machine. A 1986 Yamaha was stolen from the Finch arena last weekend and was reported to Long Sault OPP shortly after midnight Sunday. Police have no suspects yet.

Minimal injuries

INGLESIDE (Staff) - A Woodbridge, Ont. man escaped with only minimal injuries from an accident on Highway 401 near Aultsville Road last Sunday night. His 1985 Cherokee received damage estimated at $700. No charges were laid in connection with the accident.

NDP to meet

FINCH (Staff) - Mel Swart, MPP for Welland-Thorold, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the provincial NDP riding association next Wednesday night. Swart will talk about the NDP's plans for automobile insurance in Ontario.

Also on slate for the meeting, which begins at 8 p.m. at the Legion Hall west of Finch, is the selection of officers for the enlarged provincial riding, which encompasses SD&G and eastern Grenville.

Second vice-pres

Inquest called

WINCHESTER (Staff) - An inquest has been called into the death of James Barclay, a Stittsville man killed Nov. 17 in Winchester. Barclay, 48, was unloading a large underground fuel tank off a truck at 668 St. Lawrence St. when it rolled onto him, crushing him. The inquest will be held March 5 at the Winchester municipal building, beginning at 2 p.m.

Heartfelt

CRYSLER (Staff) - Organizers of Finch Township's campaign for the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation hope to surpass last year's canvass of almost $3,200. "Given the generosity of the people in our area, I don't think we should have any trouble meeting our goal," said a confident campaign chairman Lorraine Bourdeau Monday.

Bourdeau is also captain of the Crysler canvass. Shelagh MacDougall and Eleanor MacLean will organize the Finch Village campaign and Barbara Ann-Glaude is Berwick's captain.

Gauthier fit to stand trial

CORNWALL (Staff) - A 36-year-old city man charged with first degree murder in the slaying of his estranged wife and three-year-old son in December has been declared fit to stand trial.

Robert Gauthier was ruled mentally competent in provincial court here Wednesday and was remanded in custody to today (Feb. 11)to set a date for a preliminary trail. Gauthier had just finished a 30-day observation period at the Ontario Mental Health Centre in Penetanguishene.

Gauthier was arrested in the parking lot of his Laflin Street address Dec. 14, carrying his wounded son Robbie in his arms. The boy died shortly after his arrival at Hotel Dieu Hospital here from a gunshot wound to the chest.

His estranged wife, Janice, 30, was killed a few hours earlier by two shots to the chest from a .38 calibre handgun, police said. She was killed as she came out of her parents farmhouse just north of Ingleside. Gauthier was charged Dec. 14 in connection with the two deaths.

Gauthier spent several weeks, following his arrest in Ottawa's Civic hospital recuperating from a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head. He lost his left eye as a result of the wound.

The shooting occurred when Gauthier was returning their son from a weekend to the farmhouse, where his estranged wife was staying.

The investigation was handled by Const. J.M. Laframboise of the Long Sault OPP, assisted by Detective Sergeant Vic Burns of the district crime unit and Detective Inspector S.J. Raybould of the OPP's criminal investigation branch.

Police found a revolver in a snow-covered ditch near the farmhouse a day after the shooting.

American recognition for local cashcropper

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Chesterville cashcropper Stan Vanden Bosch is in a unique group.

In recognition of his use of forages in crop rotation, he was recently awarded a certificate from the American Forage and Grassland Council -- only one of two Ontario farmers the council has honored.

He learned of the award about three weeks ago and was presented with the certificate at the annual meeting of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association. The association, which is a member of the American council, submitted the names of Vanden Bosch and an Elora farmer for the award.

Vanden Bosch said Ontario farmers have been eligible for it, but this is the first year the Ontario association has taken advantage of the opportunity to nominate someone.

For the last five years, Vanden Bosch has been on a crop rotation which he says has replenished the soil and fought weeds, as well as providing an income.

About 420 acres of the farm are planted in corn, 110 in soybeans, 110 in barley and 110 in forages, a mixture of 80 per cent alfalfa and 20 per cent timothy hay.

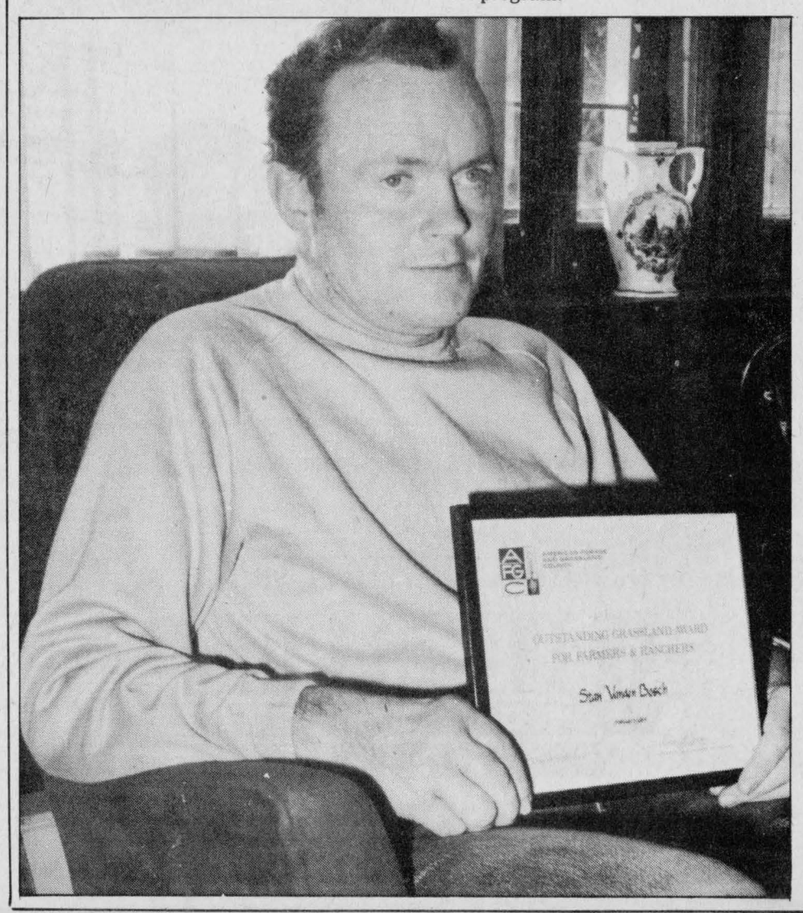
Each year, 55 acres are seeded down in forages, which is harvested as baled hay for two years. The acreage is then plowed up and returned to corn.

Hay has proven to be one of the farm's most reliable cash crops, escaping the price fluctuations that strike corn and soybeans.

"The returns have been good from it, but that's maybe secondary to the fact we're trying to maintain a proper organic matter level in our soils."

Forage rotation has brought tangible results. Vanden Bosch first brought forages to the farm in 1973, five years after he'd begun cashcropping, to combat the crusting of the heavier clay soil in some areas.

He's also achieved some degree of control over milkweed and horse tail, which he described as "nightmares" prior to the program.



Fort Wellington weaponry

The Grade 4 classroom at St. Mary's was transformed into an eighteenth century battlefield last Friday when Ron Dale, interpretation officer at Prescott's Fort Wellington, described Ontario's military past. The students learned a Loyalist soldier's life wasn't pleasant by contemporary standards. For story, see page 9.

Semester system given failing grade

A meeting with Rosaire Leger, director of education, has been scheduled for Feb. 25 to discuss a proposed scheme to reorganize the school's schedule.

Under the proposal presented to about 40 parents, teachers and students attending a school committee meeting last Thursday night, the high school would switch from a rotating nine-class schedule to two semesters. Periods would be one hour in length, but in-class instructional time per course over the year would drop from 110 hours to 92, with an additional 18 hours spent in independent study in supervised halls.

"A semestered high school system is pushing our children into specialization," said Dirk Seeleman," vice-chairman of the school committee. He said it was one of the reasons he left high school teaching.

He feared it would lead to "the creation of Alpha pluses and D-minuses. Of course, the Alpha pluses have all and the D-minuses have nothing."

North Dundas principal Don McGahan defended the proposal in the face of complaints about the loss of in-class time and the potential lapse of up to one year between courses.

"The proposal that you have in front of you appears to be the best system we could come up, given the criteria we had to work with," he said.

In an interview Tuesday, Leger said the board was forced by declining enrollment to re-examine the organization .

"We have to look at the system, the whole system, as a system of small schools." With 850 students, North Dundas is currently the second largest school in the three counties.

It's also one of only three high schools on a non-semestered system. (Seaway District High School in Iroquois and Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School also aren't on semestering.) By next fall, Leger predicted that all schools would have made the switch to two terms.

"Whether we like it or not, if we're going to deliver quality programs, in depth and breadth, we have to really look at our delivery system.

Semestering offers the chance to co-ordinate special programs in business, arts and technology with Seaway, he said.

And under a provincial policy that permits students to graduate with what he says is the equivalent of Grade 13 in four, four and a half, or five years, Leger said the majority of schools across the province is moving to semestering.

In a small school, where particular courses may be offered only once, he said students are lucky if they escape conflicting timetables. Semestering offers ten time slots for eight courses over the year.

Nick Gruich, school committee chairman, said there are advantages to semestering. The longer periods are preferred by technical teachers, for example, because students lose less time setting up and putting away supplies. Some schools have been on the semestered system for years, he added.

"It does have good points but it does have a negative side," he said.

A student learning to play the clarinet may study music the first semester of Grade 9 and not return to music classes until the second term of Grade 10. "He forgets which end of the clarinet to blow into," Gruich said.

Leger admitted the lapse between courses a problem. "It's a problem and I don't want to belittle it. There's no such thing as a perfect system."

"Semestering solves some problems but it doesn't solve others."

At a meeting, a teacher commented that many of the courses are accumulative over four years or more. While the loss of 18 hours in one year may not seem great, he said that time could add up to 72 hours in four years.

But Leger disagreed that a study period would be a loss of learning time. "Learning is a personal thing. We don't only learn when we're seated in straight rows in a classroom."

He said business and post-secondary institutions are demanding that students learn to organize their time to work on their own. He also countered concerns that a study hall supervisor wouldn't be able to help a student with a problem in a specific course.

"When we're talking about independent study, a teacher is a teacher is a teacher." He said any teacher can instruct in work skills and a supervisor could give a student permission to seek extra help.

Under the proposed scheme, approximately one-fifth of North Dundas students would be in study periods at any one time. Leger said study halls of about 30 students grouped at the same grade level would be arranged.

You gotta have heart

Morewood Public School students proved last week they had heart, when they gave the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation $100 raised through a vote for a king and queen to reign over the school's carnival. Presenting the cheque to Rick Mattice, right, captain of Morewood's canvass, on Wednesday morning were their royal highnesses Derek Merkley, left, 12, and Kiley Lacelle, 11.

Crysler carnival kicks off today

CRYSLER (Staff) - With a little co-operation from the weatherman, there should be a good turnout for the Crylser Winter Carnival starting today, said event organizer Martine Forgues.

She's hoping for nice weather throughout the five-day carnival, and she's expecting a good turnout, especially for the "grease" dance to be held Saturday night.

The annual carnival begins today (Feb. 11) at 7:30 p.m. with a bingo game. Thursday starts with card games at 1 p.m. organized by Club 60. There will be a lunch and there'll also be prizes.

An amateur night is planned for 8 p.m. Thursday night with the admission being one dollar. The show will be opened by the carnival's 1986 couple Jacques and Celine Yelle and the "Bonhomme" or carnival snow man.

After showing opening, the audience will get to see the couples for 1987: Marcel and Noella C. Benoit, Pierre and JoAnne LaPensee, and Claude and Nicole Lauzon. There will then be performances by singers, dancers and sketches followed by the crowning of the '87 couple to top off the evening.

The grease dance starts at 9 p.m., playing music of the 50's, '60's and '70's until 1 a.m. Music will be provided by J.P. and Co. and there will be "Bobby Socks and Brylcreem", "Rock and Roll", and "Twist" contests. Admission is $5.

Starting at 1 p.m. Saturday, there'll be a baby show with children up to two years of age eligible to enter. There'll be a prize for every baby.

There'll be football on ice at 1:30, a clown at 2:30 and ice activities will be held from 3-4 p.m. for children between the ages of five and 14 years. The activities are being organized by the Scouts and Guides and there'll be prizes and ribbons handed-out. Topping off the day Saturday will be a Valentine dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Carnival week wraps up Sunday with a brunch being held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Customers will be served by the Crysler firemen and the Knights of Columbus. At 1:30 p.m. the football-on-ice final will be held and there'll be card games inside for those who don't like the cold.

A Canadian Old Time Supper will begin Sunday at 5 p.m. and will be served by L'UCFQ de Crysler. After the supper wraps up at 7:30 p.m., the day, and carnival will come to a close with a 50-50 draw at 8 p.m.

Rabies cases on the rise in Dundas

BROCKVILLE (Staff) - The long expected outbreak of rabies may slowly be reaching Dundas.

So far this year, there have been eight confirmed cases of rabies, in the county, affecting five foxes, one dog, one skunk and even one wolf. In 1986, there were 36 incidents of the disease.

So far, some domestic dogs and cats and cattle which may have come into contact with the wolf have been quarantined.

But Dr. J.A. McKenzie, district veterinarian with Agriculture Canada for the counties of Leeds, Grenville and Dundas, doesn't think the numbers are too great yet.

He said Tuesday the number of cases is up considerably in his two western counties and assumes numbers will rise in Dundas later in the year.

There was a very large fox population last year, he said, which is usually followed by an increase in the outbreak of the disease.

Of the 36 cases last year, 31 were reported in the last six months of the year. During all of 1985, there were only 19 in all of Dundas, Leeds and Grenville.

It was predicted late last year that SD&G, Ottawa-Carleton and the southwestern counties of Wellington, Waterloo, Huron, Perth, Oxford, Brant and Elgin would be Ontario's rabies hot spots.

In the first ten months of the year, more than 2,900 cases of rabies were reported in wild and domestic animals across the province, up 78 per cent from the year before.

In the same period, more than 3,400 people were treated for rabies, almost double the number who required treatment the previous year.

Nationally, McKenzie said the bulk of cases is traditionally reported in Ontario. In the 1986-87 fiscal year, he said there have been almost 4,000 cases, the largest ever reported since 1958 when records were first kept.

Any animals suspected of carrying rabies or pets and livestock that have been exposed to the disease should be quarantined. McKenzie said his office, at 342-3682, should be contacted immediately.

If the incident happens on the weekend, he said the police and local veterinarian should be contacted and they could in turn reach him.

If there's any danger an animal, suspected of carrying rabies could come into contact with humans or domestic animals, he said it should be shot.

"Don't take any chances that way," he warned.

February Fantasy aimed at promotion

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - The steering committee drumming up support for a community hall hopes it has the answer to the February blahs.

February Fantasy makes its debut Sun., Feb. 22 with an afternoon of games and winter activity for the whole family.

Tom Lee, Chesterville's recreation director, said the steering committee had hoped to organize the snow golf and earth ball games for the winter carnival but couldn't get it scheduled in time.

The timing may have worked out for the best. "February is a quiet month anyway," Lee said Monday.

The fundraiser kicks off at noon with a nine-hold golf course set up at the fairgrounds. Registration is limited to 100 persons and the fee is $10 per peron, which includes dinner. Prizes will be awarded.

For non-golfers, the committee has borrowed an earth ball from an Ottawa business. Games will begin at 1 p.m., 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. with teams formed according to the age of the participants.

After a couple of hours of outdoor recreation, participants can move indoors to the community hall for a chili dinner.

The events will be the committee's third fundraising effort. The committee was established last month after a consultant's study concluded the construction of a hall would be feasible for the village.

The study recommended that the hall be built by the arena and the proposed $800,000 facility would include twin halls with a capacity for up to 500 people, kitchen and bar facilities, a meeting room and space for the village library and agricultural society.

The committee must raise about $200,000 or 25 per cent of the total estimated cost.

The proceeds from a dance last fall and the recent winter carnival, have gone into the carnival, both sponsored by the committee, have gone into the building fund.

Scouting around

A ticket meant a new television for Chesterville resident Suzanne Coyle and a trip to Australia for scouts Ivan Bowman, left, Dean Hillis and David Bowman. The Chesterville scouts are three of ten from the St. Lawrence District who will attend the world jamboree in Australia at the end of the year. Money from the draw will be split among them to defray the trip's cost of $3,000 per person.

Housing corporation to be formed

CRYSLER (Staff) - Finch Township council will form a non-profit housing corporation to construct a senior citizens' apartment building here.

At a meeting last week, council opted to include as members of the corporation all members of council and two representatives from each of Crysler's seniors' organizations.

A provincial grant of $1,000 is available to help set up a non-profit corporation.

Council could have chosen to continue using the existing board, which had worked on Finchview Villa, and added new members as necessary.

But even if the nonprofit corporation is established quickly, the Crysler project is on hold for at least a year.

Karen Hobbs, acting eastern region housing analyst with the Ontario Housing Corporation, said all provincial money for seniors housing has been allocated for this year.

She wasn't certain when Crysler would be eligible for funding. "That's really hard to say. It really depends on the need in the area."

The earliest funding could be offered Crysler is 1988.

At present, a survey of the arean's demand for senior citizens' rental units stands at 18 with rent geared to income and 12 to be made available at market rents. But the largest building which the province will fund for that degree of need is 27 units, Hobbs said.

Hobbs said she continues to receive completed survey forms. "Actually I received one yesterday morning (Wednesday). We will continue to put them in the file so we have an updated need and demand in the area."

So far, 155 of 243 surveys have been returned to the office, for a return rate of almost 64 per cent. Hobbs described such a rate as "excellent".

Lives of the Inuit shown to local UCW

CHESTERVILLE (Special) - Nineteen members attended the February meeting of the Evening Unit of the U.C.W. of Trinity United. The meeting was held in the dining hall, which was beautifully decorated on a Valentine theme and opened with New Year Thoughts.

Evelyn Gillard and Lois Smith conducted the business period during which a recommendation was made to send a donation to Rideau Hill Camp. Dates to remember are the executive meeting in Finch on Feb. 10 and the World Day of Prayer at St. Mary's church on March 6 at 7:30pm.

"A little bending, a little stretching" was the theme of a meaningful worship service presented by Evelyn Gillard, Virginia Ferguson and Isabel Conley.

Isabel introduced the guest speaker, Judith Welland, who with her husband Tony worked with the Inuit people, in the Keewatin district between 1970 and 1974. Judith showed slides and told of the loving and sharing spirit of the Inuits.

Judith was thanked by Evelyn and lunch was served.

Inspection director man of many hats

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Quality extension is far more effective in ensuring quality milk for Ontario consumers than the enforcement of regulations, Dundas dairy farmers were told Thursday.

In a presentation at the annual meeting of the Dundas milk committee here, Dr. Jim Ashman, director of the Dairy Inspection Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, outlined the role of the inspection branch in providing a quality product.

Appointed as director last January, Ashman said he is forced to wear many "hats" in the course of representing the interests of consumers as well as producers, processors and transporters of milk. With a background in the OMAF animal care program, Ashman said his past experience in enforcing regulations still applies in his new job.

With a staff of 105 and an annual budget of $4.6 million, the Dairy Inspection Branch operates the central milk testing laboratory. The lab carries out composition, quality and finished product testing, performing a quarter of a million individual tests every month. "It's a high-volume laboratory," said Ashman.

Composition testing of milk includes testing for protein, lactose, solids, butter fat and excess water. Quality testing involves checking for bacteria, somatic cell count, inhibitors and brucellosis.

Ashman stressed the important role of the bulk tank milk grader, and advised producers to encourage the milk graders to follow proper procedures. "Without a doubt the most important person in milk testing in this province right now is the fellow who comes in with the truck," Ashman said. "Ninety-nine point nine per cent of these fellows are doing an excellent job and they deserve to be complimented."

Because such a large volume of test results have to be produced at the Central Milk Testing Laboratory each month, said Ashman, sophisticated equipment has to be used. The system is geared to prevent samples from getting mixed up. "There's a whole bunch of checks and balances in the system to make sure that the right producer and the right producers milk," Ashman said.

A new type of vial developed especially for the central laboratory is now being used for testing. The new vials, which cost about 10 times as much as the old type, will not crack under normal wear, according to Ashman. To illustrate his point, he put one of the vials on the floor and stepped on it -- which shouldn't be considered normal wear, he added.

Ashman said he believes his branch should be serving the dairy industry rather than regulating the industry. Comparing the goal of high-quality milk production to the campaigning against drunk driving, he said education is more effective than law enforcement alone.

Jack of all trades

Middletons to do sequel

CRYSLER (Staff) - Crysler farmers Roy and Dorothy Middleton will be making a second appearance on TVOntario Feb. 23 in a documentary on the care of the elderly.

Love's Labor, to air on Vista at 8 p.m., questions who should care for the growing number of elderly Canadians, patricularly now that more women, the traditional care givers, are in the work force.

The Middletons provide support for Gran, who lives in a trailer next to their farm house. In a press release, TVOntario staff note the multigenerational family arrangement typical in the past is less common today, partly because of the increased demands on the farm wife.

The Crysler couple and several other Stormont and Dundas farm families were recently featured on a three-part TVO series looking at the problems of Eastern Ontario agriculture.

Also to be presented on Love's Labor is the story of an 82-year-old woman who has cared for her bedridden husband at home for 17 years and now is struggling to meet the household's needs.

In a Montreal hospital, two families discuss whether they should bring their elderly mothers home or find alternative care arrangements.

Love's Labor was written by William Whitehead and directed by Helene Klodawsky.

Education, cultural affairs theme of Avonmore W.I.

AVONMORE (Special) - On Jan. 19, twelve ladies of Avonmore W.I. met at the home of Hilda Meldrum. The motto for the evening was: a new year gives everyone a second chance. The attendance was taken with the members answering to the roll call: "What, to you, makes an educated man or woman."

In the business part of the meeting a letter was read concerning the ninetieth anniversary of the founding of Women's Institute. It was also mentioned that the Provincial Convention of W.I. will be held at North Bay on July 6-9.

The theme of the program was Education and Cultural Affairs. Laura Gaudine gave an informative talk, with the help of slides, of Harrington Harbour, Chevery and Aylmer Sound. She mentioned the many changes that have taken place in the education of the people and their way of life. It was also brought to our attention that the late Bessie Banfill, a highly respected citizen of Avonmore, worked in that area.

$1 BILLION SPECIAL CANADIAN GRAINS PROGRAM.

A Helping Hand for Grain Farmers

The Special Canadian Grains Program is assisting farmers with $1 billion. This initiative, announced by Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, is the largest of its kind ever undertaken by any Canadian government on behalf of farmers.

It is a national program that responds to a national need. It will help offset low grain and oilseed prices resulting from the subsidy war between the European Community and the United States.

The first $300 million will be in the hands of grain and oilseed farmers this winter. Another $700 million will be paid out in the spring.

The details of this historic program are as follows:

1. You will benefit if, in 1986, you grew wheat, barley, oats, rye, mixed grains, corn, soybeans, canola, sunflower seeds for crushing or flax. Pedigreed seed, high moisture corn, high moisture barley and farm fed grain are also covered.

2. The first cheques are being mailed directly to Western farmers based on Canadian Wheat Board permit book data.

3. If your crops are not included in permit book data, or if you are a qualifying producer who doesn't receive a cheque, you can pick up an application at the following places:

- Offices of Members of Parliament
- Grain elevators
- Grain producer organizations
- Agriculture Canada offices and research stations
- Farm Credit Corporation Offices.

You can also have forms mailed to you by contacting the Administrator, Special Canadian Grains Program, Agriculture Canada, Ottawa K1A 1J3. Phone (613) 957-7078.

APPLICATION DEADLINE IS MARCH 31st, 1987.

The Government of Canada is committed to ensuring that agriculture remains a strong and vibrant part of our country's economy. The Special Canadian Grains Program is a part of that commitment.

Drive with us first and escape
A head-on collision happens in a split second.
There's no time to think. Only enough time to react.
But how?
If you've taken the Young Drivers of Canada course, you'll know how to react to avoid a head-on collision. And how to use available space to escape serious injury or even death.
Through exclusive classroom instruction, we train our students how to form defensive driving habits. We then train each student to apply these defensive driving habits instinctively when confronted with a life and death situation.
This year, over 30,000 new drivers will learn how to avoid a head-on collision through our course.

Cigarettes not welcome

On Wednesday, Alan Sharkey, president of the Dundas chapter of the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation, presented Morewood Public School principal Ted Brydges with a plaque recognizing Morewood as a smoke-free school. Three other Dundas elementary schools will be receiving plaques. Under the county school board's policy, Brydges explained, each school must set aside a smoke-free area. "We decided the smoke-free area should be the school." The ban applies for all staff and for any events held at the school.

Liquor robberies unsolved

(Special) - Twice, unwanted persons went to the Liquor Store on Maloney Blvd, in Gatineau, not to quench their thirst, but to line their pockets.

On Nov. 28, an armed robbery took place with an earlier one occurring March 14. In the latter case, the manager was just about to leave his office, when a masked man ran into the store. The bandit jumped over a railing and came face to face with the manager. He pointed his gun at him and demanded the money, motioning towards a floor safe. The manager explained that he could not get into it, which resulted in the bandit pushing the manager further into the office.

Other clerks and customers in the store were spellbound at what they were witnessing. The gunman became very nervous and unpredictable so when he again demanded money, the manager opened a safe which had petty cash. He handed the thief a couple of packages of bills in one and two dollar denominations. Once in possession of this large quantity of small bills, the man then ran from the store.

Description of Suspect: French-speaking male, approximately 20 years of age, 5'5", 140 lbs., wearing a blue nylon jacket, jeans, and a white balaclava. This person is armed with a sawed off rifle.

Gas disaster averted

During the evening of Dec. 22 someone prowling around the Aylmer Marina on the Ottawa River discovered that the gasoline pump was insecure. Employees had failed to disconnect the pump during the seasonal shut down of the facility.

Once the hose was removal from the pump the culprits found they were able to spray gasoline around the docking area. They then decided to pollute the river by emptying gas into the water. They obtained some yellow nylon cord from the area and tied the hose to the wharf. The flow of gasoline was then put on automatic and approximately 11,250 litres flowed into the water.

Persons living in the area of the marina smelled the gasoline and immediately notified authorites, who by quick action avoided an ecological disaster, and an imminent fire hazard. The damage was estimated to be in excess of $10,000.

Merkleys honored at DMC annual

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Chesterville dairy farmers Claire and Graham Merkley were given top honors for quality milk production at the annual Dundas County Milk Committee annual meeting here last Thursday.

The Merkleys achieved the distinction this year of being among the 0.44 per cent of Ontario producers to receive a gold seal certificate. In order to be eligible for the certificate, the producers' premises must be Grade A standard and score at least 90 points on inspection. The yearly plate loop average must be less than 5,000 per ml. with the worst and best tests being discarded. The best and worst somatic cell counts are discarded with the average of the remaining tests not to exceed 200,000 per ml. All tests for inhibitors and added water must be negative.

The county's dairy producers also elected nine representatives to serve on the milk committee for 1987-88 at Thursday's meeting. Although the slate of officers will not be chosen until a committee meeting Mon., Feb. 16, the nine successful candidates for this year's committee are Lorna Driscoll, Donald Johnston, Stan Baldwin, Richard Gilmer, Dean Keyes, Wilmer Porteous, Ted Ceelen and Gordon Smith.

The 1986-87 chairman, Stan Baldwin, presided over the annual meeting. He noted highlights of the past year included participation in a health fair organized by Seaway District High School. "This enabled us to put forth the importance of milk and milk products in the daily diet, along with its excellent source of vitamin C as it relates to osteoporosis," he said. "Our dairy princess and the Ontario dairy princess participated in this event helping to make it very worthwhile."

The annual dairy princess competition was a success once again despite a change in coordinators as Betty Milne was replaced by Mary Fisher, Baldwin noted.

Early in the year Dundas milk committee received a request from Russell County seeking support for efforts to obtain extra quota for the St. Albert Cheese Co-op, allowing them to sell more fresh cheese over the counter. As a result of support from Dundas, said Baldwin, St. Albert's representatives were given a chance to present their case before the Ontario Milk Marketing Board and were granted an increase in quota of 1,300,000 litres.

Other highlights of the year included the committee's participation in the Harvest Showcase held at Kemptville College, and attendance by the executive at the Geneva Park Conference.

One "bright spot" for Dundas this year, according to OMAF fieldman Bill Groot Nibbelink, was that the county has consistently been running below the provincial average for somatic cell counts, despite the fact the cell counts on average have risen this year for the first time since the method of testing was introduced.

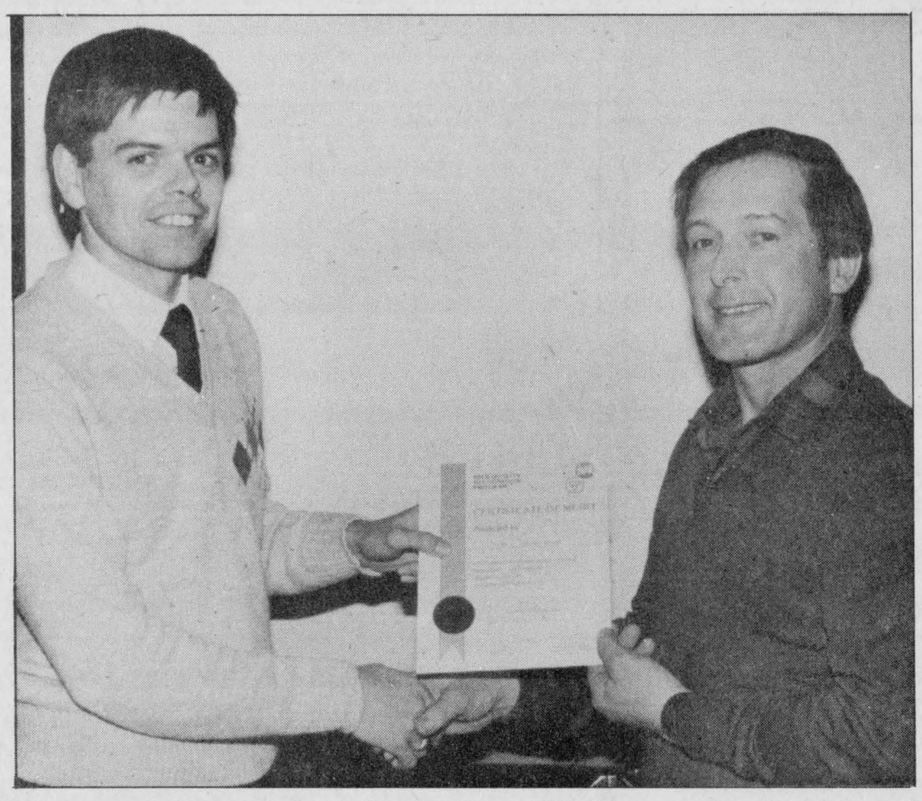
Producers should continue to use antibiotics with extreme caution, Nibbelink advised, because 19 cases of inhibitor contamination of regular milk shipments were reported last year out of close to 8,000 samples tested. "Regardless of this low incidence, the ramifications of even one positive case can end up costing producers tens of thousands of dollars should a silo of milk end up being contaminated," said Nibbelink.

Ontario Milk Marketing Board fieldman Ken Crozier reported that Dundas County had 377 licenced milk producers as of January, 1986. In November, 1986 the number of producers had declined to 372. In Ontario in each of the past two years, said Crozier, approximately 100 new producers have entered the industry. About 400 producers have left for a net loss of about 300 producers per year.

One development of significant interest to dairy farmers last year, said Crozier, was the Oleomargarine Act of Dec. 18. It is now illegal to sell butter-colored margarine in Ontario, and the maximum fine for this practice is $10,000. Butter manufacturers account for up to 50 per cent of the available industrial milk in Ontario, Crozier noted.

Having completed his first year as a member of the OMMB for Region 2, Paul Henderson of Spencerville outlined some other developments within the Ontario dairy industry. Last year, he noted, federal agriculture minister John Wise announced a five-year plan for the industry. "This initiative helped to create a stable environment for our industry with a system of support prices, import controls and a direct payment program,"

In addition to the gold seal certificate presented to Claire and Graham Merkley, 72 general certificates for production quality were also awarded.



Gold seal winner

Claire Merkley accepted this gold seal certificate for quality milk production on behalf of himself and Graham Merkley, RR2 Chesterville dairy farmers. The certificate was presented by OMAF fieldman Bill Groot Nibbelink at the annual Dundas milk committee meeting Thursday.

Jobs plus academics co-operatively

Co-op education and chance for work experience attracting interest

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Returning to the classroom after being out of school for a couple of years is a hard decision to make.

But for Pauline Dillabough and Linda Toonen, two students enrolled in the co-operative education program at North Dundas District High School, the decision has offered a chance to combine academics with work experience -- and get an inside track on a job.

About 30 students are registered this year in the co-op program, which is open to students currently attending high school, graduates who want to sample different occupations and young people who haven't completed high school.

"Co-op is really a different mode of learning," said Lois Smith, North Dundas' teacher-co-ordinator of the program.

"Most of them are just interested in getting work experience. It's a good opportunity for them to work with people older than themselves," she said. "That's really just a benefit in itself."

Smith had great praise for the employers who volunteer their time to train the students. Students are not expected to be paid, although some employers do pay them something. In return, employers are helping to guarantee a trained work force.

When Dillabough, now 22, left high school, she was just two credits short of her Grade 12 diploma. By the end of June, she'll have her diploma and is considering attending college to become a qualified teacher's aide.

Since last fall, she's been spending half her days at St. Mary's school in Chesterville, where she assists Grade 1 teacher Donna McMartin.

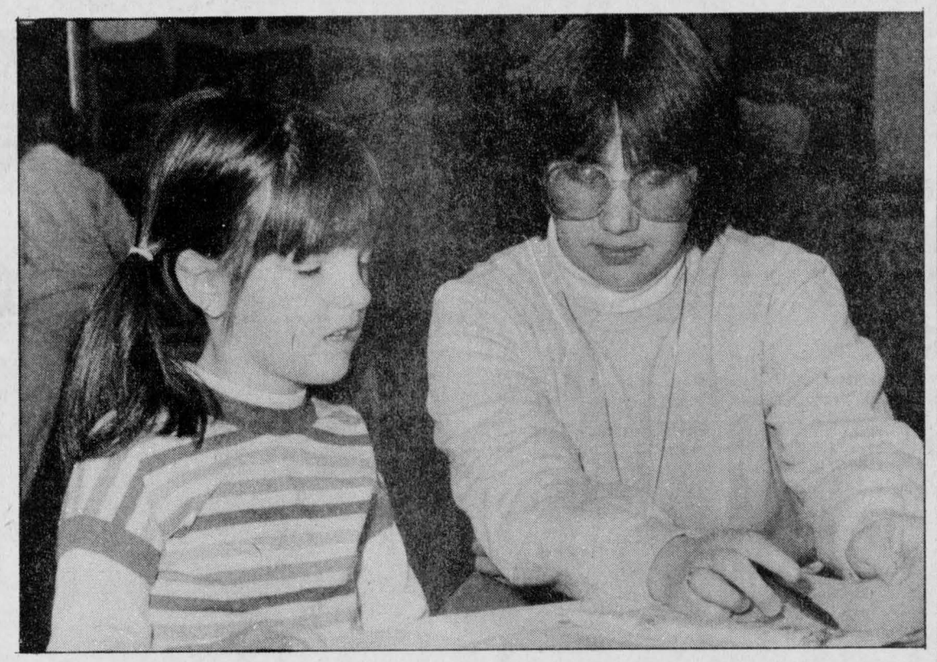
Dillabough had hesitated before signing up for the co-op program. "I said to Mom, 'I don't know if I can put up with all the homework and everything,' " she recalled.

But she's found both her school work and teaching experience "very interesting".

Toonen, 21, admitted returning to school "was a little strange". Since September, she's worked for printer Robert Boulanger and at the Toronto Dominion bank. Last week, she started working as a clerk at The Co-operators Insurance Services. She's also been taking classes in accounting and computers at the high school.



Pauline Dillabough, right, helps Grade 1 student at St. Mary's

She decided to enter the co-op program last fall after hearing her sister's good reports of it. "I can't get a job without experience so I thought I better do something."

She graduated from Grade 12 in 1983 but her work experience had been limited to summer jobs and babysitting. She now has children of her own and they're part of the reason she made the move to co-op.

When they're away, she said, she wanted something to do. And your sense of self-esteem is boosted when you can help support your family, she added.

The program has paid for Heather Walker, Toonen's co-worker. She worked at the insurance office as co-op student in the 1984-85 school year and began a permanent job there after graduating.

The time it takes to train a student balances out "pretty well even" she said with the advantage of having an extra person around the office.

"(Training) is not as hard as I thought it would be. Sometimes I think I had a harder time than Linda does now."

Toonen is the third co-op student the office has trained and insurance agent Sandra Smith praised the program as a means for students to get that valuable job experience.

Although students are permitted up to three different placements over the year, she prefers they remain there during the entire year because it takes a couple of months for them to become familiar with the office.

She said the students are told it may be best to sit quietly back and observe when the office gets busy, rather than trying to help. "We use our spare time to work with them," she said.

The program also benefits the employer. When a vacancy on staff does come up, Smith said they have a list of people they know. "It keeps doors open."

Audrey Zeron, 16, works as a receptionist at Labelle's Beauty Salon Saturdays and Thursday evenings.

'Extra credit'

"It was great for an extra credit. I always like working out in the field."

Among the skills she's picked up are better communication and handling cash transactions. "I've learned how to handle the public a bit better."

Now in Grade 11, she hopes to complete a college course in secretarial skills.

Co-op education is catching on across the United Counties, said Yvon Mayer, resource person for the county board of education's program.

More than 300 students this year are enrolled in co-op, up from 125 last year and only 42 in the 1984-85 school year. All secondary schools in the board now offer co-op programs.

Mayer said the current emphasis on co-op education is partly a reflection of the employment crisis faced by young people trying to enter the job market.

But even more importantly, he said, a co-op program helps a student see the practical value of what he's learning in school.

"And once they see the value of education, they see that... there's also a definite need for that in business."

It appears to be working. At Rothwell-Osnabruck in Ingleside, which has a strong co-op program, there's been a substantial increase in the number of students who complete Grade 12.

Last year, 68 per cent of the students who had entered the Grade 9 general level course of study graduated. Provincially, that figure was only 38 per cent.

Principal Doug Murray attributes the school's success rate in a large degree to co-op education. Last year, more than half the school's 110 Grade 11 and 12 students were enrolled in co-op -- the highest proportion reported by any high school in SD&G.

Mayer said co-op education also offers students the chance to try different types of work before discovering too late at college or university they hadn't made the right choice.

"Before spending that much money, it's a good idea to have a fairly solid idea as to what one would like to do later on."

Life of Loyalist soldier lacked glory

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Dirt, lice and an unvarying diet of beef stew - the life of the typical eighteenth century soldier in Upper Canada wasn't pleasant by today's standards.

But in response to the grimaces and cries of "gross", Ron Dale, an interpretation officer at Prescott's Fort Wellington, urged St. Mary's Grade 4 class "to think the way they thought."

"For the people at the time, having stew every day wasn't so bad. Living in crowded conditions wasn't so bad. People didn't notice the smell because they were used to it."

Dressed in the uniform of the Loyalist soldier, Dale visited the school Friday with a flintlock musket and wooden mock equivalents to let students re-enact Ontario's military past.

But as he detailed how they fought back charges of the enemy on foot or cavalry attacks with muskets and bayonets, he cautioned them, "Warfare then and warfare now is not nice. War is bad."

The tactics and weapons of 200 years ago bear little resemblance to contemporary warfare. While today's armies are armed with guns that can shoot the length of ten football fields and fire up to 1,000 bullets a minute, he said Loyalist soldiers' muskets were often inaccurate at even short ranges and could fire only three shots per minute.

"If you fire at them and miss, by the time you get this thing reloaded, they'll be right on you."

Desertion in the face of an army's charge or an advancing cavalry was common and sometimes brought fatal consequences.

"If a man was going to run away, you would shoot him dead with your pistol and that might make other soldiers think twice before running away themselves," Dale told the enthralled class.

The families of militiamen or part-time soldiers would remain at home on the farms. But the families of full-time soldiers would live with them in the barracks and accompany them on campaigns.

The soldiers of the late 1700s weren't of the spit and polish variety. "Clothes were issued only once a year. The coats were not washed and neither were the pants."

Bedding was laundered once a month and new straw replaced the mattress stuffing. But even with monthly haircuts, he said little could keep down "the light troops" or "light dragoons" -- lice and fleas.

At night, a bucket was used as a latrine. "The same bucket in the morning was emptied and filled with water for everyone to wash in," he said.

It wasn't until the mid-1800s that the British military decided to issue everyone with individual washbasins to fight rampant eye infections and general illness.

THE CHESTERVILLE Record Editorial / Opinion

Free trade wind

The evidence that should discourage Canada from pursuing any free or freer trade arrangement with the United States keeps piling up.

Last week's comments by Clayton Yeutter, one of the Americans' trade negotiators, should have been final proof that a trade agreement wouldn't be in Canadians' best interests.

Perhaps it was sarcasm, perhaps it was utter ignorance, or perhaps it was a subtle means of discouraging the federal government from the free trade trail. But whatever his motivation, Yeutter's statement that he was willing to include American cultural matters on the negotiation agenda -- and risk their being influenced by Canadian culture -- should make free trade supporters seriously reconsider the issue.

It's ludicrous to even suggest that the cultural export of a nation of 25 million people (who routinely ridicule their own native music and film projects) could compete with - let alone damage - the billion-dollar popular culture industry of its southern neighbor.

The situation must remind agricultural leaders of the oft-repeated phrase that the Canadian treasury can't compete with those of the U.S. and the European Economic Community.

The government's great free trade initiative, which it had hoped would breathe new life into both the Canadian economy and its own political well-being, will soon come under more fire.

Interest groups ranging from labor to agricultural sectors have opposed the proposal. The provinces, which in the past may have been wary and demanded input into the discussions, may become downright hostile with some prodding from Newfoundland premier Brian Peckford, angry at the fish agreement struck with France.

But such internal wrangling shouldn't be feared; it may only be a sign Canada is returning to her normal condition of federal-provincial conflict.

The provinces like fed-bashing and Ottawa in its turn can always blame slow progress on provincial opposition.

When historians reflect on the latest round of free trade talks, the events probably won't be seen as particularly notable in themselves.

Instead, the negotiations, claims, counter claims and long-winded diatribes on both sides of the issue may fade into Canada's historical landscape.

And Clayton Yeutter will have played his part.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

As I said last week, February is a fascinating month. There is the shortfall of days, the numerous feast days and birthdays - the most notable of which are Lincoln's on Feb. 12 and Washington's on Feb. 16 - and a Friday the 13th with which to deal in this the shortest month of the year.

Are you superstitious about the 13th? Well, you are not alone, and it appears that this superstition is very real. Of course, it's significance is lost on some people who do not appreciate ancient customs or superstitious ideas.

However, I have found that the more lively souls believe. And, indeed, this belief is as old as the calendar itself, and it is of interest, not necessarily because one believes in it, but it adds spice to life.

The term that describes the fear of the thirteenth is a mouthful it is "triakaiddekaphobia." I checked on it when I was doing my research for this column, but that doesn't mean I can pronounce it nor, indeed spell it without the aid of my trusty dictionary.

In 1987 we are in for a real treat for there are three months with a Friday the 13th, February, March and November while in 1986 there was only one Friday 13th in June.

Why does so much doubt surround the number 13? Well, it's hard to tell but a few reasons for its unpopularity jump quickly to mind - 13 steps on a stairway, thirteen candles lit at one time in the home, almost anything made up of 13 is not to be trusted.

An old name for 13 was the "devil's dozen" which appears to be sufficient reason to steer clear of it, whereas the "baker's dozen", also 13 and an added bonus, is not viewed with superstition, but is seldom seen today.

As far back as Roman times thirteen was believed to be unlucky, so it is with a great deal of curiousity I cogitate their naming of Friday after the goddess Venus, the epitome of feminine beauty.

Friday in English is based on similar ideas, except it was during the Norse invasion that the English adopted the names of Scandinavian gods and goddesses for the days of the week, thus Friday was known as Frigga's day.

Frigga was the wife of Woden, the All-Father, who, it was believed created the World. She was also the chief goddess of love, marriage and fertility and the popular belief was that she travelled about in a chariot pulled by two cats.

Of course, the most recent story is that 13 became a bad luck omen when 13 persons sat down at the Last Supper Feast previous to the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

Belief in bad luck being associated with the number 13 persists to this day. Hotels will not put that number on doors of floors nor seat 13 people at a table.

Some airlines, I am told, leave out thirteen when numbering their seats and for years steamship lines avoided Friday sailing schedules at passengers' requests.

Firm believers in bad luck scrupulously avoid any risky ventures on Friday the 13th and one man I heard of simply stays in bed that day. What if the plaster on the ceiling should lossen and fall, I wonder, as happened to friend's of ours in a top of the line London, England hotel.

Now, I find, there are people who flaunt such superstitious nonsense - their reference, not mine. I would not tempt fate by such blasphemy.

Apparently Switzerland has gone so far as to name a hotel, "Hotel 13" in which all the rooms are numbered 13, plus a Romand numeral to distinguish them.

Superstitions add spice to life, as I said before, and can surely do no harm if one remembers to always knock on wood and keep your fingers crossed as you sail happily toward the 14th, Valentine's Day, named after St. Valentine.

St. Valentine is credited with assisting the Christians during their persecution by the Roman Emperor Claudius 11. The Romans at that time made it a crime to provide aid to the Christians.

So, St. Valentine got into all kinds of trouble as he went about his work and finally was executed on Feb. 14, 270 A.D. On the eve of this dire event he wrote a farewell message to the jailer's daughter whom he had cured of blindness and converted to Christianity, and signed it "From your Valentine."

Thus the phrase, "From your Valentine", became the eternal symbol of friendship, love and sharing, which is practised by young and old alike on the day of St. Valentine's execution.

Christian priests, in efforts to overcome the pagan Roman practices, were successful in changing the name of the pagan festival of Lupercalia to St. Valentine's Day.

Be that as it may - Cupid - the naked pagan cherub armed with bow and arrow - became the symbol for those who celebrate each Feb. 14 with gifts and messages of love.

The light falls slanting across the bush nearby. Color is deeper now in February, the stems of bushes I shall never know begin to glow with deeper tones of garnet and green.

It is still winter, we shall have heavy snow before this month is out. There will be bitter weather, dark days, for March has lots of winter in it here in Eastern Ontario.

But the sky has a different look. A softer, gentler look. And any day now the imperative steps of spring will fall on the snowy ground. And winter will be thrust away.

Chesterville's Past

07 From the Record Thurs., Feb. 14, 1907

Mr. J.C. Simser's many friends in this district will be pleased to know that the International Harvester Company has found out his ability as an agent, and have appointed him as blockman for the St. Lawrence district.

Mr. Michael Moore of this place, has purchased from Messrs. Hamilton and Hawthorne of Simcoe, Ont., a fine specimen of a Percheron Stallion, directly imported from France. Mr. Moore is to be congratulated on the purchase of this fine specimen of horse flesh and no doubt the farmers of this district will appreciate his efforts and look this fine animal over before making further arrangements. This Percheron weighs 1,750 lbs.

On Friday night a number of representative citizens assembled in the dining room of the McCloskey House bid farewell to Mr. A.M. Fulton on the eve of his departure for Lindsay, where he has entered into partnership with the leading legal firm of that town.

Rev. A.E. Runnells visited Renfrew this week to get ideas for the new church.

27 From the Record Thurs., Feb. 17, 1927

The second annual "Father and Son" banquet of Chesterville United Church was held on Tuesday evening in the Sunday School room. A very attractive bill of fare had been provided by the ladies, and during supper music was supplied by the S.S. orchestra under the direction of Mr. Hewitt.

Monday evening, the last scheduled game in the Central Ottawa Valley circuit was played on Chesterville ice when the home team went on a scoring rampage against their old rivals from Finch, who put a very weak team on the ice. During the sixty minutes of play the home team gathered no less than fourteen counters to three by the visitors.

Uncle Sam will serve Washington Pie, Lincoln Crisps, Doughnuts and Coffee at the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, February 23.

A large crowd attended the Chesterville-Russell hockey game at Russell hockey game at Russell last week. They reported a clean, fast game with Chesterville fading during the last period and allowing Russell to defeat them.

47 From the Record Thurs., Feb. 13, 1947

Russell Froats, Chesterville farmer, escaped serious injury this morning when his sleigh and hay rack were in collision with Howard Hough's car near Pitcher's Corner and he was rolled beneath the sleigh. His team of fiery horses stopped when he shouted to them and he suffered only bruises to his back and leg, and did not require medical attention.

Proof of the oft-repeated statement that February is the roughest month of our Canadian winter was recorded over the week-end when a howling blizzard came tearing in from New York State and westerly winds heaped highways full of snow, forcing cancellation of church services on Sunday, marooning many motorists and curtailing railway traffic.

Mr. Larry Runions of Niagara Falls, N.Y., spent the past two weeks with his aunt, Miss Katie Harper. Mr. and Mrs. P.J. Carley and little daughter Terryl of Ottawa, were week-end guests of Mrs. Carley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Colquhoun.

67 From the Record Thurs., Feb. 16, 1967

Eric Casselman was tapped as president of the Chesterville Fair for the new year. Allan McRoberts, last year's president, felt his time would not allow him another term. First vice-president will be Carl Smith, Chesterville and second vice is to be Wilburn Robinson, Chesterville.

The Life of Riley

by Wayne Riley

"Heidi, I love you. I want you to know that. If anything happens to me, everything goes to you. Well, everything but the pencil collection. That should go back to work."

Heidi rolled her eyes. "Wayne, you're being overdramatic."

"Overdramatic? Is it being overdramatic to show how much I care for you, to open up as a man and admit that I might be a little scared, to admit that I'm just a mortal?"

"It is when you're going out to shovel the driveway," she said. "Don't forget your gloves."

"Wouldn't a knife be faster?"

"Well, you know how those life insurance people are. Look, don't be such a crybaby. Just go out and do it. Or do you want me to do it?"

I gasped. "Heidi, c'mon, don't be silly. You know I don't want that."

"I wonder sometimes."

"It's broad daylight. Suppose someone saw you and thought that I was sitting in the house while you were doing the work?"

"Well, they'd be right, wouldn't they?"

A short, soft whine escaped from me before I realized it and pulled it back in. "Look, just forget it. I'll do it myself. And maybe after I finish this driveway I'll go to all the neighbors and ask if I can shovel theirs."

I angrily reached for the toque the cat was sleeping on and found the cat wouldn't budge. After two tugs I yanked. The cat rolled off the divider and fell with a thump on the rug.

"I'll be seeing you," I said evenly as I pulled the hat down over my forehead. Cat hairs tickled my face.

"Right," my wife said. "Try to be quiet when you come back in. The kids and I will be taking a nap." I just saw her smile through the open door before the wind swept everything away in a sea of white.

So this, I thought, is what Sir Edmund Hillary must have felt when he looked up at Mount Everest. A sense of wonder. A sense of awe. A sense of helplessness.

I scaled the drift beside the step and repeatedly poked my hand through the snow until I found the handle of the shovel.

The snow had drifted in against the car in high, rolling crests but the worst piece of work had been created by the snowplow. Mistakenly believing that my driveway was zoned ski slope residential, the driver had collected the entire neighborhood's snow and dumped it in front of my house.

Ice began to form on my face as I hyperventilated. I tried to calm myself. Remember the news story about the men who drive snowplows and the kind of verbal abuse they have to take for doing a valuable and important job.

And then I imagined that one of the snow boulders that had been pushed into my driveway was a snowplow and hammered it with my shovel until it was powder.

Feeling a little better, I analyzed the situation.

Fact 1. There is a lot snow in this driveway.

Fact 2. I do not have a bulldozer. I have only a little shovel.

Fact 3. If I move the snow from the driveway to the front lawn I will block the view.

Fact 4. It will only snow again.

Fact 5. The snow will eventually melt.

Having rationalized that it was pointless to even start this job, I considered dropping the shovel and going back in the house. That's when I saw my wife staring at me through the livingroom window.

I began to shovel.

It was like carrying water with a pail that has a hole in it. I pushed the shovel deep into the snow, grunted, and picked up a heaping shovelful of powder. I then carried it over to the driveway where, dumping it, I watched a sprinkle come down.

Fifteen minutes went by. Half an hour. Forty-five minutes.

Exhausted and cold, I lay down in the snowbank I had created to rest. Four tonnes moved, six tonnes to go. I smiled and began to hallucinate.

I saw myself with a flamethrower, clearing out my driveway in under 15 seconds.

I saw my neighbor coming over and apologizing for allowing his snow to blow over into my yard. "Geez," he says, "this isn't fair. Next year I'll put up a snow fence. For now let me get a shovel and take my half back over to my driveway."

I saw a snowplow turn off the street and into my driveway to clear it out. The driver taps his hat as he leaves. "Sorry about any inconvenience in the past."

A small avalanche broke away from the top of the pile of snow and rolled down into the back of my coat and snapped me out of my daydreams. I looked at the snow still to be shovelled away.

"And miles to go before I sleep," I said softly.

Minutes, hours, days later -- I was no longer sure anymore -- I threw over the last shovel of snow. The driveway was clear. The car was free.

Back in the house later that day, warm and fed, I felt a warm glow in my body that some doctors might have mistaken for muscle strain.

"You know, Heidi, shovelling out a driveway is really good exercise. I really feel good."

The sound was unmistakable, a scratchy rumbling sound like somebody dragging a metal garbage can.

I didn't see the snowplow lift a ridge of snow across the lip of the driveway.

I was pounding my fists on the floor.

More stop signs urged for Morewood

MOREWOOD (Staff) - Traffic is getting a little too fast for Art Koolwine and other residents of this tiny town and he wants something done about it.

Koolwine and two other residents were here last week to inform Winchester township council they want two more stop signs erected in the town. Although the exact location of the signs wasn't decided, Koolwine told councillors they definitely are needed.

"If you give people a home, you've got to protect them when they're on the road," he told councillors. "With the stop signs there's a little chance you could avoid something."

Residents there are prepared to make a petition and even send a delegation to counties council to get the signs, council was told.

Truck traffic is the biggest problem, the three men said. "If there are children on the street, they'll get it. And it's too late if someone gets run over."

Councillors told the men the quickest way to get the signs would be to prove there'll be children crossing the street frequently. "They're crossing every week -- twice a week," added deputy reeve Claude Cousineau.

"There's nothing wrong with the idea," said Reeve Gerald Holmes, but he cautioned that county engineers may not approve of the idea. But even though "politics overrule" in certain issues sometimes, council should have people's concerns "at heart", he said.

Holmes told the men it would be a slow process getting the signs and suggested that council leave the placement of them up to the counties should they approve them.

"I don't think we should even discuss it (sign placement)."

Holmes said he'd bring up the request at a county council meeting which was to be held last week.

Ombudsman rep to visit Winchester, Cornwall in March

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Anyone with a beef about the provincial government or its agencies will have a chance to discuss it next month.

Klaas Bylsma, district officer for the office of the Ombudsman in Ottawa and Eastern Ontario, will be at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital March 10 from 10:30 a.m. to noon and in Cornwall at the Children's Aid Society from 9 to 11 a.m. March 11.

The Ombudsman can help resolve complaints with the provincial government's ministries, agencies, boards or commissions, including the Workers' Compensation Board or the review board hearing welfare appeals.

As part of a public education process, the Ombudsman's office also meets with community groups to discuss its role.

In Winchester, Bylsma will meet in the afternoon with social workers and other professionals in the hospital's boardroom at 1 p.m. At 3 p.m. he'll meet with the staff of the Cornwall branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association at 29 Second St. E. The District Health Council of Eastern Ontario at 340 Pitt St. is on his agenda at 7 p.m.

The next day, he'll meet with the staff of the Cornwall Chamber of Commerce's Information Centre, at 11 a.m.

Local residents can contact the regional office of the ombudsman at 151 Slater St., Suite 702, Ottawa, K1P 5H3, or calling 234-6421.

The Winchester and Cornwall visits are the latest in a series of two-day visits Bylsma has undertaken since last fall. Between September and November, he visited Kingston, Brockville, Cornwall, Pembroke, Renfrew, Smiths Falls, Perth, Cardinal, Alexandria and Barry's Bay. Meetings with more than 30 organizations and social service agencies and 70 individuals have been held.

Appeal to the Ombudsman should be an applicant's last resort, the office advises. Any complaint should be first taken to the individual or group involved. If unresolved, the applicant should bring the matter to the local MPP or a special board or appeal system (for issues of land severance, taxes or racial discrimation, for example).

The provincial Ombudsman since March of 1984 has been Daniel G. Hill, the first director of the Ontario Human Rights commission and its chairman from 1971 to 1973. Hill received his PhD in sociology from the University of Toronto and has written extensively on both human rights and black history in Canada.

Long Sault OPP Cont. Bernie Gadbois explains some aspects of the VIP (Values, Influences, Peers) program to Newington Public School Grade 6 students. Gadbois will be teaching the program in various schools in the area this year. The program was first started in 1985. Record Photo - Kielec

Responsibility stressed in Newington VIP program

NEWINGTON (Staff) - "For every action taken there are consequences."

Those are the words Long Sault OPP Const. Bernie Gadbois will be driving home during this year's VIP (Values, Influences, Peers) program he will be teaching at various area schools.

The five-year-old program will help the children "learn to accept responsibility for their own actions", and show them both the positive and negative influences of peer pressure, Gadbois said.

Speaking to a Grade 6 class at Newington Public School last week, Gadbois explained to the children how every action a person takes has its consequences -- whether good or bad.

What are the consequences if you throw a snowball in the schoolyard, he asked the class. Whether the person was hit or not, he was told, throwing a snowball could have many implications including hurting someone, or starting a fight.

"I haven't heard too many good consequences," he said, after hearing the reactions of some of the classmates.

Don't let friends pressure or intimidate you into doing something you don't want to do, he told them. "How many of you have been called a chicken," he asked them, adding that he was also called names when he was younger and knows how it feels.

"How do I feel when I'm called a French frog?"

The students he speaks to are held accountable for their actions, Gadbois said later on. The VIP program helps them discuss the consequences of bad actions and helps the kids make the right decisions, he explained.

Some of the aims of the VIP program include helping children become aware of the basic values of Canadian society essential to the well-being of both the individual and society. Teaching them to accept responsibility for their own actions. Having them understand the influence of peer pressure. Making them aware of the importance of self-respect and self-confidence. Giving them insight to assist them in decision-making and have them develop a respect for the rights of the law and others.

Topics the program will be covering range from values and standards and creating impressions, to the dangers of drugs, vandalism, and destructive behavior.

"We're not going to make angels out of anyone," said Gadbois but acknowledged he felt it is a "worthwhile" program.

Grade 6 teacher Judy Hart said because her students attend Rothwell-Osnabruck School for grades 7 and 8, she doesn't see the results of the program.

Peer pressure is "a real problem", she said, and teaching the program to pre-teenage children it should meet with success. By the time the kids reach grades 7 and 8, they are not as willing to listen, she said. But the younger ones, she said, "love having a policeman come to class."

This is the second year NPS will be taking part in the VIP program. Although the school first participated in 1985. A communications mix-up between the school and Long Sault OPP in 1986 caused the program to be shelved that year. The VIP program is a joint project, started by the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of the Solicitor General in 1982.

Thieves wanted for lugging away tires

(Special) - Thieves working in the Nepean Business Park took the motto "Go With Michelin" to heart. During the past couple of months several trucks have had tires stolen.

During the night of Jan. 9-10, someone cut a lock off a gate to the yard of Dalmacija Forming at 11 Gifford St. They then cut a hole in the wire fence separating this yard and that of the Freightliner Company of Bentley Avenue. They then jacked up two new trucks, and used blocks of wood they brought along to prop the vehicles up while they removed the wheels.

Stolen were eight Michelin XDA, 275-80R x 24.5 ply tires and rims, and two Goodyear UniSteel, 11 x 22.5, 14 ply tires on rims. Total value $5,000.00.

A similar theft occurred at the Eastway Tank Co. 1995 Merivale Rd. on Dec. 12, 1986. Again in this case a new truck was jacked up, blocked with wood, and again eight Michelin 225 Tubeless Lug Tread tires on rims, plus four other rims were stolen, value: $5000.00. Several other similar thefts have been reported from around the area.

Nepean Police are attempting to locate a suspect vehicle: 1 1971-72 Chev or GMC 4x4 half ton truck. It has a plow harness on the front, and is red with primer paint on the front fender.

Crime Stoppers will pay $1,000.00 for information, that if received this week leads to the arrest of the persons responsible for these thefts. If you have information about these, or any other serious crime, call Crime Stoppers at 233-8477 or 1-800-267-8477. You don't have to reveal your identity, and should your tip lead to an arrest, you qualify for an award.

EOJCHL adds program to publicity campaign

FINCH (Staff) - The Eastern Ontario Jr. C League is hoping a 50-cent program launched here Thursday night will boost the profile of the league in the region.

The program, which contains 16 pages of statistics and information from player rosters to team histories, will be sold during league games.

Half of the purchase price will go to the team selling the programs and the other half will go to the league. Production costs of the program were paid by local businesses.

"The purpose of this program is public relations," said Dan Roy, public relations officer for the league. "The key thing is to make the league known to all of eastern Ontario."

If the program is successful, Roy said, the league will look at a glossier follow-up to this year's photo-copied booklet.

"This is a test in terms of what we can do next year," he said. "If it goes well we'll look at a more comprehensive booklet that could include team and player pictures."

The program is the latest in a series of public relations ventures the league has launched this season to spruce up its image.

And according to Roy, who handled publicity for the Embrun 72s last year and offered his services to the league free of charge this season, the work is paying off.

The league is now covered in six newspapers, including two dailies, and teams are now finding they are getting as much ink as their Junior B counterparts.

"I think one of the things we had to do and did do was get up-to-date stats," said Roy.

What the league also had to do and accomplished, he added, was clean up its act.

"There was a time when one team had a goon and so another team would have a goon," said Roy. "Now you don't see these goons on any of our six teams. It's good competitive hockey."

The league will wrap up its publicity campaign this season with a first annual banquet March 6 .

Jr. C Flyers still struggling, lose to Embrun 72s

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Things are going from bad to worse for the struggling Jr. C. Flyers.

After being blanked 4-0 in Embrun by the 72s Feb. 1, the Flyers watched a 4-3 second period lead slip away as the 72s came back to win 5-4 in a re-match played here last Tuesday.

Embrun, in a rebuilding year is currently in fourth place in the standings.

Embrun's Alain Lapointe opened the scoring on the powerplay at 7:38 of the first period, beating goalie Mike Fawcett with a shot set up by Ivan Clement.

With the game tied 1-1 on Mark Guy's twelfth goal of the season, Gary Klein-Swormink put the Flyers ahead 2-1 with an unassisted goal at 1:01.

But the 72s snuck out of the period with a tie as Ivan Clement scored just two seconds before the buzzer.

After trading goals in the second period, Marc Godard for Embrun and John Guy for Chesterville, Mark Guy put the Flyers ahead 4-3 with his second goal of the game at 4:32.

The lead held until 11:59 of the third period when Louis Lafortune took a feed from Brent Gilliland to score.

Ivan Clement scored the winning goal on the powerplay at 6:16 of the third period, taking the pass from Norm Brisson and Alaine Lapointe.

A Flyers' attempt to tie the game was hurt by minor penalties that left the club in a short-handed position for nearly two minutes.

The Flyers outshot the 72s 33-24 in the game.

Embrun captain Ivan Clement, with two goals and an assist, was named the Labatt's star of the game. Team-mate Claude LaForest was the second star.

Chesterville's Chris Lynch, who picked up two assists in the game for 30 points (17-13) on the season, was named the third star of the game.

The victory lifted the rebuilding Embrun 72s into a tie for fourth place, five points behind the Flyers.

NG-S Peewees win local B tourney

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - North-Glen-Stor scored once in each period to blank Chesterville 2-0 and win the A championship of an eight-team Peewee B tournament held here Sunday.

Winchester scored four unanswered goals to defeat Brockville 5-2 and win the B side.

North Glen-Stor advanced to the A side by blasting Richmond 8-1 in the opening round and continued to the final with a 6-1 game against Osgoode.

Chesterville's path to a berth in the tournament final included a 4-3 win over Winchester and a 3-0 shutout against Spencerville.

In thhe championship game, Chris Leroux scored the winning goal at 2:54 of the first period. Leroux, who picked up three points in the game and in the tournament (six goals, three assists) was named the team's most valuable player.

Kevin Lalonde, assisted by Leroux and Paul Jackson, scored the insurance goal midway through the second period.

Leroux capped the scoring at 3:20 of the third period on a spectacular play, scoring with a backhander while on his back after being knocked down on a breakaway.

The score might have been 6-0 if it were not for the play of Chesterville goalie Brad Pringle.

Pringle, who was named Chesterville's most valuable player in the tournament, robbed North Glen-Stor's Marc Hebert on two breakaways in the third period and stopped Kevin Lalonde right in front of the crease.

Kevin Lalonde and Paul Jackson led North Glen-Stor's offence in the tournament with nine points each, Jackson with four goals and Lalonde with three.

In the consolation final, Winchester held Brockville to a pair of first period goals to easily win 5-2.

Trailing 2-1, Winchester tied the game at 9:20 of the second period on a goal by Shawn Backes.

Kevin Williams and Jason Ouellette completed the scoring with goals late in the third period.

Winchester had advanced to the B final with a 4-1 victory over Cardinal.

Eagles dominate early to defeat North Stormont

FINCH (Staff) - The North Stormont 86s may have known they were in for a bad night against the league's front-running St. Isidore Eagles Thursday night when the Eagles scored 37 seconds into the game on a deflection.

Or it might have been when Steve Tait, Finch's second highest scorer and the league's player of the month for January, took the first of four penalties on the night.

When it was over St. Isidore had a 6-3 victory over North Stormont.

"Some sloppy playing and some stupid goals," said 86s' coach Steve McRae after the game. "We just couldn't get the shots on the net."

The loss prevented the fourth-place 86s from gaining on the struggling Chesterville Flyers who lost 5-4 to Embrun.

St. Isidore dominated the first two periods with the quick, aggressive style that has become the club's trademark this season. Leading 1-0 on a deflection, Guy Quesnel made it 2-0 late in the first period with a 10-foot shot after eluding a hip check.

The Eagles needed only 35 seconds late in the second period to double their lead, Joel Lalonde following Jean Lauzon's power-play goal with a slapshot released at the top of the circle.

The 86s bounced back in the third period with some inspired play as George Michels held onto the puck after being dumped and passed it on his back to Greg Mesich, who lifted it upstairs for his thirteenth goal of the season.

After St. Isidore had made it 5-1, Finch struck again as Denis Landry slid one under a diving Martin Renaud. The goal, assisted by Michels, was Landry's tenth of the season.

Joel Lalonde scored his second of the game to complete the scoring for St. Isidore but North Stormont got that one back 21 seconds later as Mike Van Delst pulled the goalie out and shoved the puck around him.

The last two goals were scored while both teams were playing four men aside.

St. Isidore captain Jean Maisonneuve was chosen the first star of the game. Team-mate Joel Lalonde was the second star.

North Stormont's Denis Landry was the third star.

Midgets split pair

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - The Winchester-Chesterville Midget A Flyers split a pair of games last week, easily beating a South Grenville B squad 8-1 in Spencerville and losing to Prescott 5-3.

In the loss on Chesterville ice Feb. 5, the Flyers were down 4-0 early in the second period before Jason Smith scored at 13:43. Prescott got that one back and another before the period was over.

The Flyers won the third period, outscoring Prescott 2-0 with goals in the final two minutes. Dan Dubois and Scott Barkley were the scorers.

"Prescott outplayed us for the win," said coach Kevin Mackler. "We now have a one point lead over Prescott for second place."

Despite the loss, Mackler said he was impressed with the play of netminder Ben Henry.

In Spencerville Feb. 9, the Flyers held South Grenville 2 to a single second period goal in a game Mackler called "good, clean fun."

Jeff Countryman scored a hat trick for the Flyers and John Mackler and Dan Dubois each added a pair. Derek Hyndman had the single.

Kevin Eamon took the win in net.

FINCH (Staff) - The Avonmore Aces took a 4-0 lead in the first period on their way to a 6-1 win over Ingleside to stay in front in the North Stormont Intermediate Men's Hockey League standings.

In other weekend games, Finch defeated Newington twice with scores of 7-5 and 5-3 and Crysler and Lakeside tied 3-3.

Johnston completed his hat trick and the Aces' scoring at 6:19 on a play set up by Brent Theede, who picked up three assists on the night.

In Winchester's last three games Smith has scored three goals and assisted eight others. Only team-mate Trevor McClatchie, with 45 goals and 45 assists, has scored more for the Hawks this year.

Tait named January MVP

FINCH (Staff) - North Stormont 86s right-winger Steve Tait has been named the Labatt's Star of the Month for January.

Tait, the Jr. C club's second best scorer with 13 goals and 13 assists this season, was presented with a hockey bag by league public relations officer Dan Roy in a centre ice ceremony prior to Thursday night's game between North Stormont and St. Isidore.

Tait won the honor with two first star and two second star selections during January games.

Runner-up in January was Benoit Boulerice of Casselman-Cambridge who had three first star selections.

While a top offensive threat, Tait also leads his team in penalty minutes with 62. He picked up another eight minutes in Thursday's game.

Previous players of the month were Stephane Lacoursiere (November) and Sylvain Richer (December), both from the Casselman-Cambridge Stars.

The Labatt's Stars were introduced in the Jr. C league this season.
