$200,000 for village

(Staff) - The village of Chesterville has been awarded a $200,000 Ontario Neighborhood Improvement Program (ONIP) grant. The money was sought by Chesterville village council several months ago.

The Ontario municipal affairs and housing ministry is spending a total $20 million which will benefit 91 municipalities across the province.

Members of Chesterville council said they were delighted at word the money would allocated to the village and said a main priority for the funding was street paving in the coming months. Hopes were high, too, that the first instalment of money would be made available in 1985.

The ministry said the current grants cover a four year period with money available in instalments as work progresses.

Awarded under the PRIDE initiative, the grant is geared for community renewal projects.

PRIDE -- Programs for Renewal, Improvement and Development -- was launched in 1983 to revitalize Ontario's commercial and residential areas.

The PRIDE group includes the Ontario Neighborhood Improvement Program, the Commercial Area Improvement Program, and the Business Improvement Area concept.

The Ontario Neighborhood Improvement is designed to assist municipalities to upgrade older, predominantly residential neighborhoods occupied by low and moderate-income households.

Under the program, the province contributes a grant equal to 50 per cent of the cost of the improvement project, with the municipality providing the remainder.

Public school taxes to rise 5%, raising tax bill by $29

CORNWALL (Staff) - The average public school supporter will have to shell out an extra $29 in school taxes this year.

A five per cent tax hike was given the nod by the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry county school board last week when ratification of the $61.5 budget was given approval.

Board chairman Art Buckland justified the increase on the basis of an essentially "maintenance" budget. He pointed out the 1985 increase is lower than last year's 7.5 per cent.

The new budget means the average taxpayer assessed at $5,000 will pay $19.85 more for the secondary level and $9.70 for the elementary level. Last year's increase was an average $40. The increase work out to roughly seven per cent at the secondary level and around three per cent at the elementary level.

Included in some new programs slated for next year is a junior kindergarten program. The Board members said although their budgetary increase was modest they had managed to introduce some new programs for the forthcoming year as well as salt away some money for the reserved fund. Advertisements for junior kindergarten registration will be appearing soon.,

The board has slotted $400,000 to be placed in its reserve fund. This brings the working reserve to a total of about $900,000. Asked why he did not use the reserve to lower taxes education director Rosaire Leger said a reserve meant stability and stability meant good budgeting. He noted that even in a year when provincial grants are falling it was not necessary to restrict programming.

One of the major "one-time only" expenses to be introduced by the board this year is the purchase of 180 ICON computers in to the school system. The cost will be $298,000. Trustees said this investment should equip the schools with the ministry-developed computers for the next five years.

Other expenses are a review of technical and commercial programs at a cost of $23,000 and another $11,000 for curriculum guidelines as well as $5,000 for the Vocational Education Liaison Committee.

The board has indicated a math and science consultant will be hired. This person will advise both the elementary and secondary panels of the board.

When the budget was passed trustee Sarsfield O'Connor said he wondered where trustees Danny Robertson, Lucien Chenier, Lise Benoit-Leger, Jean Lecompte and Roy Hastings were at that time. He added budget was an important matter which should have input from all trustees..

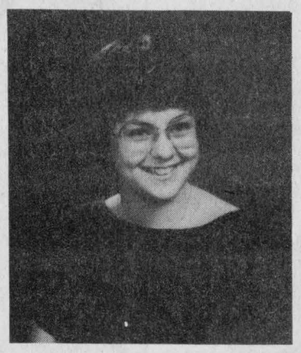
Super RO contestant to join international computer quiz

INGLESIDE (Staff) - One of Rothwell-Osnabruck School's students is heading for the big time. Michelle Renaud will be participating in an International computer quiz sponsored by Parks Canada.

Miss Renaud, 18, a grade 13 student, will answer questions with other students linked up by computer to Washington, Rome, Oslo, London, Bonn and Amsterdam. The computers will be plugged into satellite hook-ups.

A Newington resident, Miss Renaud is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Renaud. She will be joining the Ottawa team. Another Ontario team will be fielded by students from the Toronto area.

The young people from all over the world will be answering a set of questions about UNESCO's heritage sites around the world. UNESCO stands for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organizations. The questions will concern the functions, locations and purposes of the heritage sites.



Michelle Renaud

Parks Canada is sponsoring this international quiz as part of its month-long festival in July. The quiz will take place July 20 and 21 at Toronto's Harborfront.

Coaching Michell's team will be Roger Taguchi of Ottawa's Hillcrest High School.

Hillcrest defeated Rothwell-Osnabruck by a narrow margin during the semi-finals of the Reach for the Top television contest. At that time the RO team was coached by librarian Fran Laflamme.

RO principal Doug Murray said "the entire school is proud of Michelle and the staff and students want to wish her good luck in her first international quiz."

Little boy lost goes home

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - A young boy found in the woods after 100 people searched four hours Tuesday night has "forgotten" the whole incident his mother said Friday.

Three-year-old Luc Delhey was found at 11:30pm three-quarters of a mile from his home hanging onto a tree about 10 feet from his year-old dog Dixie whose barks alerted searchers.

Cecile Delhey, Luc's mother, said the only thing Luc has said about the evening was that Dixie his dog, was giving him kisses. He also has pointed to the bush where he was found and said, "I'm not going to go there again, Mommy.'

Luc didn't cry when he was in the bush, his mother said. She added that he was just cold and slightly stunned by the whole event when they found him.

Mrs. Delhey said her husband Adriaan was fertilizing the lawn while Luc was playing with the dog at about 7:30pm when all of a sudden the boy and the dog had disappeared. She said the boys must have followed the dog off the property. "He does that all the time," she said. "You have to watch them."

Delhey said that Luc crossed several ditches, field, and a railway crossing before he was found in the woods with his part Collie and part Samoyed dog which has been with the family for one month.

About 100 local volunteers, the fire department, OPP officers and an OPP canine team helped locate the lost boy.

Light voting at advance polls

(Staff) - After the eighth day of advance voting, 509 ballots have been cast in the Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry riding, with most votes coming from the Alexandria area.

Fay Shaver, Returning Officer for SD&G, said Tuesday before press time this was not a high advanced voting rate for the riding, but eligible electors still had until 8pm to cast a ballot before election day May 2.

In the 1983 by-election, 688 SD&G votes were cast in advance versus 860 in the 1981 provincial election.

By late Monday night 221 people had voted at the Alexandria poll, 148 at the Williamsburg poll, 102 at the Chesterville poll, and 64 at the Newington polling station.

SD&G had nine polling days scheduled though some ridings had only eight. With the deadline for nominations Thursday April 18 at 2pm some ridings were unable to get ballots printed before the April 20 polling date.

Mr. Shaver said that he was reasonable sure who was going to be running in the area so ballots were ready in advance. Because a printer was located nearby also helped get the ballots prepared by Saturday.

This year 35,424 people are eligible to vote in SD&G. In 1983, 34,406 were eligible, and in 1981, 33,024 were on the voters' list.

Politician's HQ picketed

About 25 protestors picketed MPP Noble Villeneuve's Morrisburg office demanding a washroom for a sick man who couldn't afford to install running water in his house. Rev. Allen Tysick, who organized the demonstration, led the people in their chants of "we want water" and "help the poor" last Thursday morning.

Protesters picket PC office to demand plumbing for pensioner

BRINSTON - An ill Brinston pensioner needs hot baths for therapy but he has no running water. Protesters went to the government last week to get him a washroom.

With shouts of "we want water' and "help the poor", more than 20 placard-carrying Matilda Township residents picketed Conservative MPP Noble Villeneuve's Morrisburg office last Thursday morning. The secretary was the only person in the Conservative campaign during the demonstration.

The busload of protesters picketed half an hour in front of newspaper photographers to publicize the government's decision not to install an $8,000 washroom in the Brinston home of Robert Markell.

Mr. Markell, an unemployed man living on a disability pension, needs hot baths for his back and without running water in his house this isn't possible. He has been taken to the hospital many times over the last year for week-long visits of warm baths which relieve his back pain. Twice an ambulance was used to transport him.

The Community and Social Services Ministry announced last Monday that a washroom would not be installed in Markell's home because renovations would cost more than the market value of his house.

Pat Fardy, Income Maintenance Supervisor in Cornwall, said that under government regulations money won't be spent on home improvements when the market value doesn't warrant repairs.

He said the Markell home is worth $5,000 to $6,000 and this is for the land only. Mr. Fardy said the house isn't worth anything.

"I don't feel that it's worth $9,000 or $10,000 to spend on a house worth $5,000 to $6,000," said Mr. Fardy.

He argued that if the banks wouldn't offer a loan for this renovation, then the government shouldn't waste its money either. He said the government would offer financial assistance "if your house is worth repairing."

"The Catch 22," said protest organizer Rev. Allen Tysick, "is that when the house is more expensive then you can got out and get a mortgage."

Rev. Tysick, a United Church Minister in Brinston, said that Noble Villeneuve has done many good things for the people, "but I'm still not happy with the government system."

He argued that the government gives money for tax incentives, for big business, for new schools, and much more, "And we're talking about a toilet."

But it's not just a toilet they're asking for.

The Markell house is too small to install a washroom inside so a whole new building would have to be built and attached to the house. The wall at the base of the stairs would be knocked down to attach the extra room just off the kitchen.

A nine foot by five foot building, a septic system, a hot water pump, and electricity hooking up to the Markell's existing electric wiring would have to be added before the first hot bath could be taken.

Two estimates of the costs were $8,000 and $10,000 and this doesn't include the cost of hooking up a newly drilled well that would be needed for the new plumbing. Mrs. Hellen Markell said they would be able to pay for the new well in monthly installments.

The well that the Markell family uses now is only 15 feet deep. Mr. Markell said that sometimes the shallow well runs dry and he has to take a tin can with him on a search for another water source.

Rev. Tysick said that if the water from the well was tested, he wouldn't be surprised if it was contaminated.

Mr. Markell's doctor wrote a letter earlier this month to the government explaining that Mr. Markell has had several admissions to the hospital recently because of chest, shoulder, and back pains.

"It was found that he suffers from fibro myositis, which was easily resolved in hospital with hot baths and showers," wrote Dr. H. Prins. "It is my recommendation that in the future he be treated in a similar manner at home to defray hospital costs."

But not everybody in the Brinston area agrees that the Markells should get a bathroom installed free by the government as some are afraid it may set a standard for all area homes to receive free washrooms.

There are a number of Brinston homes that don't have running water and this includes both homes of people on welfare and people who work for low wages who can't afford it.

One Brinston resident said that because Mr. Markell is sick their house should get a washroom, but the other families without running water who live off welfare or have other government incomes collected from working people's taxes shouldn't get free washrooms. The Brinston resident questioned where the line would be drawn if the Markell's got what they wanted.

But the argument still remains that "we don't want to dump $10,000 into property that isn't worth it," said Mr. Villeneuve in an interview Saturday.

"We'll subsidize his rent (if he moves into a nearby house) but you're not going to get $10,000 to add some bathroom," he said. "I'd like the government to spend money on my home too."

Mr. Villeneuve said the government has to be careful about setting standards when money is pumped into privately owned property.

"$10,000 may just be the beginning," he said. "Where will it stop?"

He added that a new Williamsburg senior citizen's home of 34 units was opening on the weekend and that would cause vacancies in the stress, thus providing housing space for the Markell family if they wanted to move.

Mr. Villeneuve said he had not spoken to the family and didn't know that they owned a telephone.

The second generation of Markells is now living on the Brinston land. It took 35 years to pay for the land, the house, and the outhouse in the back.

Mrs. Markell said that if the government doesn't install the running water it will never be installed as they can't afford it. She said that without the new washroom she will just continue her routine of heating some water on the woodstove when her husband gets sore. She said she takes the heated water and pours it into a wash dish for her husband to soak his feet in. She said she rubs his back with a heating lotion, but the pain and soreness comes back after five minutes and then she has to rub some more in again.

"really full of pain" she called the doctor who had him hospitalized.

Mrs. Markell has now driven her husband to the hospital on various occasions in her car, though twice he was taken by ambulance at a cost of $23 to the Markell family each time.

She said the family was willing to move to a house with running water if they could keep their land in case their new landlords decided to evict them.

"If he (Mr. Markell) starts renting he's afraid that they might want the place for someone else and they'd put us out with no place to go," she said. "If he could keep his land he'd move to another place though it's got to be in this area 'cause he's lived here all his life."

Mr. and Mrs. Markell, both in their 60s, live in a small house with their 18-year-old son Lorn, their daughter Joyce and her nine-month-old Annabelle, and two grandchildren from their daughter Goldie who died of a heart attack two years ago five-year-old Maryanne and two-year-old Amy.

Mr. Markell collects a disability pension of $1,000 a month while Mrs. Markell receives $62 a month as a family allowance for the two grandchildren. Their daughter Joyce receives a mother's allowance of $243 with $75 of this going to Mr. Markell for living expenses.

Right of way disputed

(Staff) - John VanBruinessen, proprietor of Durant's Flowers, has been informed by Chesterville council the right of way beside the entrance to the new fire hall no longer belongs to his property. Council recently decided to seek a court order to that effect.

Rezoning

A property belonging to Gar-Eden Heights Ltd. located north west of the Flower Shop will be rezoned from R2 to M1. Some difficulty exists, though in obtaining a zone change for another property located at King and Queen Streets. Garnet Droppo has requested a change from C1 to R2. Because the property is currently considered a non-conforming use it would have to conform to all zoning regulations if it were to be changed. These include all regulations pertaining to R2 properties such as setbacks and parking. The only alternative, council was informed, would be a file a site plan control agreement or spot zone an agreement. This would include detailed plans of additions and parking and would be drawn up before any official zoning change approval.

Winter costs

Town foreman Jack Smith told council there has been a saving of $3000 for the winter control costs over the 1984 season up to the month of March, 1985.

Arena

Jack Durant, representing the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society, informed council of his proposal to build a 10 seat mobile sanitary accommodation with urinals and basins. It is thought such a unit would meet the new policies laid down by the Public Health Board regarding the number of persons allowed to use the arena during dances. Council indicated they consider the project useful but will require exact figures from the Eastern Ontario Health Unit. Mr. Durant will obtain the necessary details.

Fair board

Council has authorized an annual grant of $1500 for the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society for this year's fair.

Standards by-law

A standards by-law for the village of Chesterville has been drawn up. The document has been read a first and second time. Before third reading takes place council wants to have input from members of the public. There have been advertisements to the effect that copies of the law are available at the town office. As well, the ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing in Toronto has been sent a copy so this many be reviewed by ministry authorities.

Fishing season

Council wants to make sure the chairman of the South Nation River Conservation Authority remembers his promise to have the stone dam at Clement's Feeds properly marked, the dam gates installed and the water three feet above the rocks by May 11. That date marks the opening day of fishing above the rocks by May 11. That date marks the opening day of fishing on the river.

Scout donation

Council has donated $500 to Boy Scouts of Canada for Camp Earle Eaton, a "wilderness" camp.

Fire department

Council has agreed to increase the firemen's salaries .50 cents per man for fire-fighting and the standby per man to $60. This rate is retroactive to January 1, 1985.

Stipends

Councillors will be paid $63 per meeting attended and the stipends are increased by five per cent retroactive to January 1, 1985.

Dog control

Council has indicated Carmen Langabeer should be hired as dog by-law enforcement officer effective May 1 on a month to month basis.

A grass fire at the home of Gary Dillabough in the Beckstead area south of Chesterville threatened the farm in two places, one patch near the house and another near the barn where several cattle gave loud voice to the smoke near their housing. The fire, which occurred last Friday morning, was of unknown origin. Members of the Chesterville volunteer fire department had the blaze under control immediately.

It's now up to voters in SD&G

(Staff) - Rudi Derstroff, Bill Dillabough, or Noble Villeneuve?

In Ontario's 33rd election, 35,424 people from SD&G can make that decision.

Voting at SD&G's 120 polls will run from 9am to 8pm Thursday May 2.

There are 13,788 voters on the Dundas list eligible to cast a vote at one of 46 polls. Fifty-one polls in Glengarry County will be ready to receive their 14,789 enumerated voters. In Stormont, 6,847 eligible electors will have 23 polls to go to.

Revisions to the list of electors can be made in the office of the returning officer in Chesterville until 8pm May 1.

Rural electors not on the list may still vote, provided they are identified and vouched for on polling day by another qualified elector who is on the list at that polling place.

If an elector is unable to cast a ballot on advanced polling days or on election day, he may vote by proxy.

Proxy voting is applicable to electors who are employed in long distance transportation, committed to business activities under an employer's direction, a member or spouse or child of a member of the Canadian Forces on active duty, away from home attending an educational institute, an inmate in a penal or correctional institute not under sentence of imprisonment, or those who are incapable, either through handicap or illness, of attending a polling place.

To vote by proxy, a completed form must be certified by the returning officer in the electoral district where the vote will be cast. It must be presented by the person chosen to act as proxy no later than 7pm May 1, the day before the election.

A qualified elector may act as proxy for only two electors.

Approximately six million residents within Ontario's 125 electoral districts are eligible to vote in this election.

To be eligible to vote, you must be at least 18 years of age on polling day, a Canadian citizen or British subject, and a resident of Ontario for at least the 12-month period before election day.

Electors will receive a folded ballot from the deputy returning officer. In private the elector indicates preference, refolds the ballot, and returns it to the DRO who will deposit the ballot in the sealed ballot box.

Each ballot must be marked with a cross or other mark in only one circle. Any ballot having a mark in more than one circle or containing an identifiable mark will be rejected.

Tourists increase

If early indications are correct, 1985 should be another banner year for tourism in Eastern Ontario, according to Seaway Valley Tourist Council (SVTC) manager Terri Lalonde.

Her report to the tourist council's directors at a meeting in Prescott last Wednesday show the number of inquiries for information on the Seaway Valley's tourist attractions and accommodations are running at almost half again the number received by the council's Cornwall office last year.

A breakdown of the origin of the inquiries and type of information being sought shows that in the first three months of 1985, the office handled 322 requests for information. In the first three months of 1984, there were 228 inquiries.

Surveys of tourism operators in the Seaway Valley - which stretches from Maitland to the Quebec border - showed a 10-percent increase in visitor numbers in 1984 and Mrs. Lalonde said the trend is continuing.

"Maybe the (Ontario) Bicentennial paved the way," she said.

Directors were so impressed with her statistical breakdown that it will become a regular feature of tourist council meetings.

They also felt that being armed with this information would permit them to make a stronger case when applying for funding from the various municipal councils that supply grants to the SVTC.

Mrs. Lalonde's figures showed the greatest increase in inquiries is from Canadians, with 132 requesting information as opposed to 78 in the first quarter of 1984.

American inquiries increased from 145 to 190 in the same period.

The greatest number were for hotel and motel accommodations with camping information a distant second. There was a surprise doubling of questions on destination resort hotels, she said.

The tourist council will once again receive federal and provincial funding to staff tourist information booths throughout the Seaway Valley.

A federal Canada Works grant will employ five students and a provincial Experience '85 grant, to be administered by the Eastern Ontario Travel Association, will permit the council to hire a further 11 students to staff its seven information centres.

In addition to this, Prescott and Iroquois will each hire additional students to staff their centres.

Karen Roberts, a grade 12 student at Rothwell Osnabruck School, was the winner of the OCEA Eastern Ontario Award in recognition of her hard work in the co-op marketing course at the school. She combined a grade 13 12 course as well as a marketing component working on a job station at Coles Bookstore at Cornwall Square. Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roberts, Ingleside. The award covers competition from other students from the Kingston to Ottawa area. In the photo is R-O principal Bill Murray congratulating Karen.

Student wins OCEA award

INGLESIDE (Staff) - Rothwell-Osnabruck student Karen Roberts is the recipient of a major prize, the Ontario Co-operative Education Association award in recognition of her hard work in the co-op marketing course at school.

Miss Roberts, a grade 12 student who is also taking one grade 13 subject, participated in a job-station project by working at Coles Bookstore, Cornwall Square on weekends during the school year.

Her teacher, Mike Lewis, said Karen was the "hardest working student in all the co-op programs in which I have ever been involved and earned the highest mark in the program."

"She not only worked diligently on the in-school portion of the program but also received high acclaim for her efforts on the job station," he added.

Miss Roberts began her co-op out-of-school component at the book store where manager Lyn Wilson was highly impressed with the quality and standard of her work. Ms. Wilson said Karen showed a great deal of confidence and poise in her job and was willing to do anything asked, ranging from vacuuming the floor to handling customer complaints. She worked a nine or ten hour shift while doing her co-op duties and also drove the 20 miles to and from work.

Rotary

By C.A. Graham

Another delicious meal was produced by Mrs. Espinoza and a sing-song was led by Chuck with some assistance from charter member Leon and Joanne Saunders at the piano. President John was apparently too busy farming to get to the meeting on time. Vice-president Chuck presided until the arrival of the president.

President John reported the group of six Scottish Farmers would be touring the Chesterville area on Tuesday and Stan Vanden Bosch's farm and Nestle's would be the local establishments visited.

The financial situation of the Computer Den at Winchester was discussed but because of our shortage of funds no action was taken to hep out.

Dr. Ken Wells, former Veterinary Director General of Canada was our speaker. He was introduced by Rotarian Bob Saunders. Dr. Wells discussed the role of veterinary medicine in the world, past and present. When man was no longer self-sufficient and the production of food for sale or trade became an occupation the health of animals became important. The first commercial production of livestock began about 4000 BC.

The first veterinary college in the world was built in France in 1763. The first one in Canada was established in Ontario in 1863 and another in Quebec in 1866. Canada now has three veterinary colleges located at Guelph, St. Hyacinthe and Saskatoon. At present another is being built at Charlottetown and Dr. Wells

The Very Effective People representing a series of delightful skits and songs last Thursday under the direction of teacher Rosemary Rutley, entertained the audience of friends and family. The students were all members of the grade six class and had participated for many weeks in the demanding program which they combined with school work.

Very Effective People graduate

INGELSIDE (Staff) - The first ever graduation class in the Very Effective People program within the jurisdiction of the SD&G county school board has graduated with flying honors. Last Thursday evening a large group of parents and friends was entertained with songs and skits presented by Rothwell-Osnabruck School's grade six class.

Under the direction of teacher Rosemary Rutley and the assistance of OPP Constable Ernie Gadbois, the youngsters learned how to become more assertive, more confident, and more sure of their own self-esteem.

They learned about such difficult concepts as image, self-esteem and techniques for withstanding negative pressure placed on them by their peers.

They participated in role-playing skits and presented some ideas everyone in the audience could find useful.

Mrs. Rutley told parents "we tend to neglect the inside (of children). We attend to their health but we should also pay attention to their mental health and social development."

The program has been brought to Ontario by Rotary and was first formulated in the United States. The ideas are being given voice currently in the Renfrew area and this was a first for SD&G.

Principal Doug Murray congratulated the children for their performance saying they "showed a lot of maturity, as much as many high school students." "I only wish the program had come into Ontario schools 150 years ago," he added, "and this came not from educators but from a service club."

Corporal Al Guy spoke to the children on behalf of the local OPP detachment which contributed a great deal of time and effort to make the program work.

Rotary was represented by Roger Crites who handed out souvenir T-shirts to the children. Other Rotary members were spotted in the audience.

Constable Bernie Gadbois came in for a lot of praise both from teachers and from the children who appreciated his efforts on their behalf. All the children received certificates presented to them by the constable.

WI forms plans to beautify village

NEWINGTON (Special) - Newington Women's Institute sat down to nicely decorated tea tables to enjoy their delicious pot luck dinner at the home of Mrs. Gerald Duvall. Fifteen members and nine guests answered roll call telling where they attended their first WI meeting.

Gladys McLean welcomed everyone and yearly reports were presented. Mrs. John Simpson gave the public relations report for Elsie Snetsinger, proving we had a very successful year. Mrs. Charles Tait presented new slate of officers and installed them.

Newly elected president Mrs. Russell Presley presided for the new business. Delegates were chosen for the district annual May 21.

Plants are to be purchased later to be planted at entrance to village. Council has been approached about repairing the street signs. Money was voted to Mrs. Duvall to cover cost of bringing the Tweedsmuir history book up to date. Mr. and Mrs. Duvall and their committee were warmly thanked for the work that was involved in putting the book in order.

A lively and fun-filled hour was enjoyed, arranged by the social committee with several members taking part. Mrs. Lottie McLeod gave us several selections on the accodrian with a sing-a-long.

Mrs. Duvall was thanked for her part in making the evening so enjoyable.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Cameron.

Top speakers

Rothwell-Osnabruck's public speaking contest brought forth its 1985 winners last week. In the photograph the intermediate winners (for grades 7 and 8) were from left: Michael Colebrook and Troy Gaylord, grade seven. Michael, a grade eight student, is the first to have his name on the trophy twice in the 19 years the honor has been given.

Government rejects tennis co-ordinator post

(Staff) - Chesterville recreation department's request to the provincial government for funding for the position of tennis co-ordinator has been turned down, council was informed last week. Recreation director Dave Arnold said, though, he has applied for a Challenge '85 grant from the federal government and has received authorization for two positions.

For these jobs the village will be receiving $3,538 towards a summer program co-ordinator and one summer day camp counsellor. The cost to the municipality for these two positions will be approximately $1,500. The input from the government funding for this program is 75 per cent. Mr. Arnold told council members he has applied for two more day camp counsellors through the provincial Experience '85 programs which provide 100 per cent of the salaries.

Arena inspection

The arena inspection indicated only two or three minor repairs need attention and nor further inspection will be required for the next three years. The village fire chief issued council an inspection report. The report cites five areas including exit doors, hardware for doors and fire extinguishers.

Tombstone replacement

Town foreman Jack Smith advised council he has spoken to Gladys Smith about the tombstone behind St. Mary's School. The Women's Institute will donate $500 for this cause and the village will contribute the remaining $500. Dale Crowder has offered to donate the stone and the village will put in the concrete pad.

Nelson LaPrade Centre

Mr. Smith advised council cleanup of the Nelson LaPrade Centre is taking longer than normal. He noted a window was broken at the facility the weekend before last.

WDMH wants more beds

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Hospital administrator Bert Stel is hoping to double the number of chronic beds. This would mean nearly half the beds at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital would be used for chronic patients.

The number of old people admitted into the hospital has been increasing over the years causing an ocasional shortage of chronic beds and an overspill of chronic patients onto beds reserved for other purposes.

Thirty-five of the hospital's 118 beds are certified for the chronic unit.

Up to 12 extra chronic patients are now being admitted into the hospital at one time causing both medical and surgical beds to be used. Mr. Stel said this makes it difficult to look after those in active treatment and has caused an occasional problem for scheduling surgery.

Mr. Stel said that the problem of having too many chronic patients for the chronic ward is often aggravated by a lack of beds in nursing homes. This lack of nursing home beds forces patients who could live in nursing homes to remain in the chronic ward. He added that none of the chronic patients in the WDMH Tuesday were transferable to nursing homes.

Mr. Stel said these occasional shortages have been happening for years, but it was never more than four or six beds borrowed. Now that the numbers have reached 12, Mr. Stel said something should be done.

Out of 118 beds, 35 are chronic, 32 are medical, 30 are surgical, nine are pediatrics, eight are obstetrics, and four are intensive care beds.

Mr. Stel said that either more nursing home beds would have to be added to the area or more chronic beds would have to be bought.

When asked how long ago this problem of bed shortages started Mr. Stel said, "It's the same thing as asking about when the aging of Dundas county started."

He added that the number of people over 65 in Dundas county is increasing.

Mr. Stel said he hoped to get 24 to 30 new chronic beds to make a separate viable nursing unit in the hospital.

But the solution is more complicated than just adding beds. Mr. Stel said that if 30 beds were added some departments, like the dietary department, would have to be extended to provide for the extra patients.

The hospital board has agreed that adding beds would be advantageous, but no outside firm has yet been hired to study this idea.

Cornwall, Ottawa, and Brockville hospitals also have chronic wards.

Up in smoke

No one likes to think of having to face a fire but if you're on the scene soon enough you might stop it early. The Dundas Farm Safety Association held an information day last week where 28 local women got a chance to use extinguishers, an experience that might pay off in an emergency. A trough was filled with gas and oil and the ladies took turns putting out the fire.

Farm women get safety lesson

WINCHESTER (Staff) - It's a fact of life that accidents are going to happen on the farm and about all we can do is be prepared for and do our best to prevent them.

The Dundas County Farm Safety Association has long been working toward that end and last week 28 local ladies took part in a day-long program designed to give them some knowledge of procedures to deal with emergency situations.

With an agenda of films, talks and hands-on demonstrations, the ladies saw what can happen on the farm and what can be done in most situations.

"Most of the ladies were pleased with the program and we were pleased with the turnout," said Alida Scheepers, who along with Mary Ellen Garlough organized the event.

"It's good to make people aware of the accidents that happen and how to cope."

Farm safety consultant Harold Morphy was on hand to show films before a lecture by a St. John's Ambulance specialist. The group was told that at least one person in each farm family should be qualified in first aid and the safety association is planning to offer the course this fall if enough interest is shown.

Bert Blom of Eagle Farm Equipment volunteered his mechanics and equipment for a demonstration with tractors and the ladies kept notes

Capping the program was a demonstration with fire extinguishers where many of the participants took turns putting out test fires. Tony Millerwood, a fire specialist from Carp, spoke to the group on the types of fires and extinguishers before setting a gas-filled trough ablaze for the women to test their skills.

The number of participants in the program was up eight from last year's 20.

Careless driving charge laid following April 21st accident

MOREWOOD (Staff) - A Morewood area resident, Terry Willaims, 19, has been charged with careless driving following an incident April 21.

At 4:40am, an accident occurred, resulting in $3500 damage to Mr. Williams 1977 Buick. The vehicle, according to a police spokesman, slid across county road 13, 6.4 kilometres west of county road 12, into the south ditch. The car struck a culvert, became airborne and came to rest facing east.

Mr. Williams, suffering from what were described as major injuries, was taken to Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

A telephone call was received by police soon after the accident, from Romeo Bourgeois, indicating a sum of money, approximately $240, was missing from his farm. The farm is located near the village of Crysler in Finch township. Mr. Williams has been charged with break and enter in that matter. He will appear in Cornwall provincial court May 30.

Parents of children eligible to attend Junior Kindergarten for September 4, 1985 are requested to contact the school between Monday, May 6 and Friday, May 10 in order to arrange an appointment for registration.

CHILDREN ARE REQUIRED TO BE FOUR YEARS OF AGE ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 31, 1985 FOR ADMISSION TO JUNIOR KINDERGARTEN.

Hospital faces shortage of chronic care beds

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Some surgical cases had to be postponed because of a severe shortage of beds at Winchester District Memorial Hospital during the month of March, hospital staff have indicated. According to a hospital spokesman part of this shortage is caused by the increasing number of chronic patients occupying active treatment beds.

In a recent report to the hospital's board of directors medical chief of staff Dr. D.W. Justus said this number averaged six patients last year but now is approaching 12. Dr. Justus told the board both the patient care committee and the medical advisory committee had studied this problem. Although the situation improved during the last half of April staff felt the problem should be studied in depth in an effort to reach a satisfactory conclusion.

In other hospital business there has been one new employee hired, Gary Beishem of the dietary department. There were no resignations during the month of April.

An award in recognition of 20 years service was made to Moira MacLeod.

Economically, the financial statement shows a deficit of $33,345 before building depreciation, although further adjustment will be made to the statement because of the year-end audit which will be started soon. The hospital's capital investments as a whole are approximately $150,000 higher than at the beginning of the 1984-85 fiscal year.

The hospital's budget for this year has been delayed because final budget increase information has not yet been received from the health ministry.

Several donations were made to the hospital last month. Mr. and Mrs. W.C. MacDonald donated $1000. Winchester chapter no. 310, Order of the Eastern Star contributed $1,025 for a geri-chaise. Dundas Rebekah Lodge No. 387 of Chesterville donated $420 for a feeder chair. Mr. and Mrs. James Hesson donated $200. Winchester village gave the second instalment amounting to $2,500 of a promised $5,000 grant for the new laboratory.

The hospital's window replacement program was reviewed. This calls for the replacement of nine windows on the north, south and west sides of the second floor at a cost of $6,676. This project will be going ahead soon

WI to raise funds

INGLESIDE (Staff) - The Rotary Club of Ingleside-Osnabruck is asking people of all ages to get some exercise while raising money for community projects.

A 10 kilometre track has been mapped for a bike-a-thon Saturday, May 4, with a maximum of four laps allowed to be recorded on each pledge sheet.

Half of the proceeds will go to community projects and the other half will go to the Rotel project (accomodations for outpatients in Ottawa).

Two years ago $3,400 was raised and last year $1,000 was raised by this event. Organizers hope that this Saturday more than last year will be raised.

The bike-a-thon starts at the west entrance to Long Sault Parkway 9am Saturday May 4 and will run till 1pm. If it rains, the bike-a-thon will take place Sunday May 5 at the same time.

Another starting point is the East end opposite entrance to Island 17. The east and west starting points will also be used as check points where refreshments and washrooms will be provided.

If you're not going to sit down on your cycle and pedal at least part of the distance, sit down and sign your name to a pledge sheet or two.

Pledge sheets for riders will be available from Newington Public School, Rothwell-Osnabruck School, Merkley's Big M, Lefebvre's M&M, Mel Waldroff, and Dalton Cleary.

Bikers needing transportation from the Newington and Lunenburg areas can contact Melvin Waldroff or Dalton Cleary before the day of the bike-a-thon.

The Rotel project being sponsored by this event is a motel-type unit designed to provide overnight accommodation for the use of out-patients for diagnosis or treatment and visitors to in-patients at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario, Crippled Children's Treatment Centre, National Defence Medical Centre, Ottawa General Hospital, Ontario Cancer Foundation, Rideau Veteran's Home and Royal Ottawa Rehabilitation Centre. The accommocation will be within walking distance of all these facilities.

Minding our business

When the Irish prime minister visits Ottawa May 6-8 he hopes to recruit the support of Brian Mulroney in the Anglo-Irish attempts to find an accord to the political problems in the north.

In effect Prime Minister Garret Fitzgerald wants Mr. Mulrony's support for an all-Ireland solution to the problems on Ulster.

However, northern unionists identify strongly with protestant Irish communities in Canada, particularly those located in Ontario.

This is a battle the Canadian PM should avoid like the plague. To export bigotry and secular factionalism to this country is something we can do without.

Mr. Fitzgerald has indicated he does not want to dictate what the Canadian prime minister should say in the matter. Good. It's really none of our business.

Logic behind a logo

To avoid purchasing your favorite toothpaste or shampoo because the graphic artist who first designed Procter and Gamble's logo drew a design some people think resembles the facial features of Satan is really not necessary.

At the risk of being an apologist for that giant corporation, suffice to say that such claims are patently nonsense.

The rumor about the portrait of the devil contained on the company's packaging falls into the realm of the urban myth. In recent years many of these myths have been circulated.

Although Procter and Gamble has fought back with half a dozen lawsuits over the years, the firm's officers announced last week they are withdrawing the controversial logo from their products.

The company wants to eliminate consumer confusion where products are on sale in retail outlets but will continue to use the logo on its stationery, reports and corporate buildings.

Taking issue with issues

With the campaign for power in Ontario all over but the shouting a few observations about the whole process may be in order.

First, what happened to the issues? Although rallies and meetings were scheduled all over the province a wholesale discussion of the whole spectrum of issues that matter to the people of this province was glossed over once very lightly.

Most conspicuous by its almost complete absence was the matter of agriculture. Hardly a word about this vital area was gleaned from the media, both print and electronic, over the few weeks the campaign has been in progress.

Second, a major issue -- the funding of separate schools -- became a non-issue as far as the leaders were concerned despite the efforts of pressure groups and individuals to explore the matter and obtain some answers.

Hardly any of us knows what we're voting for this time around and such a state of affairs is hardly the fault of the general public. The issues have been kept under wraps and none of the leaders succeeded in adding much fire to the proceedings.

However, it's all over and we go to the polls tomorrow. Should the Tories obtain only a minority mandate, though, we can expect another provincial election in two or three years. If they perform better than the most recent polls predict, it's Miller country all the way and a renewed lease of life for the Ontario Tories.

A largely attended meeting of Fenian raid veterans and other residents of Glengarry was held at Williamstown last week when it was decided to petition the Ontario legislature directing attention to the military land grant act of 1901. It was generally understood that a grant was being made by the government to those who served in the Fenian raids and in South Africa. In looking into the act it is now found that such is not the case and instead of a grant only a temporary loan is provided, burdened with conditions which are impossible of performance.

The Old Maid's Convention at Crysler, on Wednesday evening, April 26, 1905, passed off as a great success, Page and Landry's Hall being filled to overflowing in order to accommodate the large crowd which gathered to witness the convention and the transformation of the old maids by Professor Makeover. The affair throughout was characterized by the great desire of the old maids to secure husbands, the different addresses, remarks, etc., by each one being varied and interesting.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening of last week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Salter, St. Lawrence Street, Winchester when Pearle M., their eldest daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. William Smith of that place. The bride was able supported by Miss Nina Coons, of Brinstons Corners, cousin of the bride, while Mr. Leslie Quart looked after the interests of the groom. At the strains of Mendelson's wedding march, ably played by Miss Carrie Quart, the bride beautifully gowned in white organdie over white taffeta trimmed with chiffon and valenciennes insertion and carrying orange blossoms, entered the room on the arm of her father.

The active housing problem is not being helped particularly by the Federal Munitions Department which has ruled that licenses for the construction of homes are being granted only on the basis of essentiality and that construction licenses are being distributed equitably throughout Canada by geographical areas. Because of the shortage of materials, appeal is made to the public to defer building any homes that are not essentially required and can be deferred.

We've looked forward a long time to celebrating the installation of our millionth telephone. Now the great day has come and gone, with only a brief press notice to mark its passing. It may surprise you that 215,000 more Bell telephones are in service now than when war began.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

Last week I told about our experience with kiting. Do you know who the most famous of all kiters was? Benjamin Franklin. As a boy he used to pull himself across a pond, and theorized that a similar trip could be made across the English channel. Franklin's curiosity about the nature of lightning caused him to undertake his famous kite experiment, we are told.

He flew a kite in a thunderstorm, fastened a key to the wireline, and attached a silk ribbon to protect himself from shock. The lightning in the form of static electricity travelled down the line and created a spark and crackle in a popular scientific device called a Legden jar.

He announced his discovery to the Royal Society and was ridiculed. They finally admitted he was correct and his conclusions were true. Out of the experiment, Franklin invented the lightning conductor in 1753 to protect buildings from the destructive force of lightning.

But Franklin was not alone in his experiment for Alexander Graham Bell also experiencing with them as did Homan Wash who sailed a kite across the Niagara Falls chasm to make possible the transferring of thick lines and eventually a cable to begin construction of the first railroad suspension bridge between the United States and Canada.

Marconi used the kite to hoist the antenna for the first wireless transmission across the Atlantic Ocean in 1901. The Wright brothers tested glider kites before making their historic flight at Kitty Hawk. Although kiting is 2000 years old, it remains a popular and frustrating hobby to this day, a fact attended to by hundreds of people plying their craft along the Grand Strand.

On a splendid sunny, day in which the dogwood trees burst into full bloom, we drove south a few miles to Brookgreen Gardens. Here we found a blending of the perfection of American sculpture, the beauty of native wildlife of the Southeast, and the historical romance of low country South Carolina.

Over 400 works of art are exhibited on the grounds of a colonial rice plantation while plantation remnants its former glory - ancient moss-hung live oaks, boxwood, magnolias, camelias - provide breathtaking showcases for 19th and 20th century sculpture.

The development of Brookgreen Gardens began in 1930 although the plantation grounds on which the Gardens are built date back to the mid-1700's. Archer and Anna Huntington's original plan was to build a winter home here but, inspired by the overwhelming natural beauty of the site, they decided to create a sanctuary for living and growing things.

A winding, open-work brick wall was constructed to define the grounds without setting up too great a barrier between the gardens and the landscape. The plan of the garden walks, drawn by Anna Huntington, took the shape of a butterfly with outspread wings. All the walkways converge at the central space that was the original homesite. Anna's many fine sculptures grace the gardens.

Only one building, the kitchen, remains of the original plantation structures which stood in the vicinity of the rear of the garden. The six large millstones placed in the Gardens were once used for hulling rice on nearby plantations. They reflect part of the history of Brookgreen, so rice was the main crop of the plantation during the 19th century.

We ate our lunch under a giant oak and reflected on the Inscription for a Garden Gate found within:

"Pause friend, and read before you enter here
This vine-clad wall encloses holy ground.
Herein a mellowed garden dreams away the years.
Steeped in serene, sweet light and muted sound.
Herein tranquility and peace abide,
For God walks here at cool of evening-tide.
Pause friends, and strip from out your heart
All vanity, all bitterness, all hate:
Quench for this hour, the fever of your fears.
Then treading softly, pass within this gate.
There, where the ancient trees wait, hushed and dim.
May you find God, and walk ahile with him."

-Pearl Hiatt

It was indeed a place of peace and tranquility, we decided, as we returned to our home away from home refreshed from a day's outings in a mellowed garden.

The low country south is home to the majestic live oaks, many of which are 100 years old. Draped from the limbs and branches are trails of grey Spanish moss. It is neither Spanish, nor moss, nor a parasite as some think. It is an epiphyte, a plant that takes its nourishment from the air. It thrives in warm, humid areas along the coast and all it needs from the tree is support and shade. Strangely enough it is closely related to a pineapple.

Clinging to the bark of the trees can be seen clumps of curled, brown leaves. Look again after a rain. The same leaves have opened and are a vibrant green - thus the name resurrection fern.

As we ate our evening meal, we talked about the new sculpture acquisition at Brookgreen, Carol Milles' "Fountain of the Muses." It is one of the largest and most important sculpture groups created in the 20th century, and includes 12 bronze figures from Greek mythology in and around a large rectangular fountain pool. A smaller circular fountain attracts visitors through an arched entryway into the garden, where they may sit or stroll around the main pool. We had set a spell and marvelled at the talent of the artist who produced them.

They had previously been displayed in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art and were made available to Brookgreen Gardens after curators decided that the massive weight of the pool posed a structural hazard to the new museum construction on the level below.

"I can certainly see why," concluded the Farmer.

Monkland memories gathered by MDHS

MONKLAND (Special) - The committee of the Monkland and District Historical Society has been instrumental in preparing a centennial book, "Reflections on Monkland and District." Under the presidency of Bernard F. Barker, with Margaret Maloney as editor, and a very active team of support staff, a multitude of local early history was assembled by residents and former residents of the area.

Persons responsible for the selection of material for the book spent many hours in deciding what should be included in the final draft. This research has resulted in lengthy document of over three hundred pages. The book sports a black cloth cover on which the title stands out in gold letter. Measuring about 10" x 12" the book was printed in a limited edition of 1,000 copies.

Located in the south portion of Roxborough township this village dates back to the 1880's and is this year celebrating its centennial at the end of June. The publication co-incides with this celebration.

The contributions of historical date are many and varied but special mention must be made of Keith MacIntosh, a descendant of some of the early settlers, and Vera Campbell Reid, who along with Herbert Hill comprised the research team.

As well as giving the early history of the village itself, the Churches, schools and various sports are reviewed over the year. Family accounts are arranged alphabetically. The accounts are accompanied by photographs.

Dairy instruction for 4-H group focuses on digestion

By Julie van Wylick

On April 18, 1985 the East Dundas Dairy Calf Club held its first meeting at the home of Bruce Porteous. Patricia, our president, opened the meeting and lead in the recital of the 4-H pledge. Ian, our secretary, took the roll call and read the minutes of the last meeting with the request of our president. The meeting was then turned over to the leaders.

Neil Kittle took the junior members and showed them the parts of a cow and then handed each member a hand-out entitled "Why Judging Is Important" which they read together.

Alvin Runnals and Dale Enright showed the intermediate and senior members the parts of a cow. They were then asked to judge a class of 4 cows and give their reasons.

After this was completed the two groups joined together and listened to the abomasum through a stethoscope. The members then went to the house where Carol Johnson gave a presentation on the handout "Ruminant Digestion".

Patricia adjourned the meeting after Pam Porteous thanked the Porteous' for the use of their barn and house. We were then served refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of John Melenhorst May 9 at 8pm.

Young vets discuss anatomy

(Special) - On Tuesday, April 16, the second meeting of the Dundas Veterinary Club was held at the home of Gordon Johnson, Chesterville. The meeting opened at 8:30pm with the 4-H pledge. The roll call was taken and the minutes of the previous meeting read by secretary Heather Thom.

"The Normal Animal" was the main topic of the meeting, with information on temperature, pulse, and respiration rates for both animal and human. For 28 days, members are to take the temperature, pulse (optional), and respiration rate of one animal, be it cat, dog, cow, or horse. Thermometers were supplied by Dr. Brian Kennedy.

The meeting was adjourned and a light snack served. Mike Farlinger thanked the Johnson's for the use of their home.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 21, at the home of Robert Byvelds, Boucks Hill.

Bridge highlighted

(Special) - Twenty bridge players spent an enjoyable evening, April 22, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulton. The bridge marathon for the Chesterville unit of the hospital auxiliary consisted of three tables of afternoon players and two tables of evening players, concluding with a pot-luck supper.

After a few rounds of cards, prizes were awarded to Hazel Jarvis, Jean McMahon, Edith Fulton and Eileen MacMillan for the fall session and to Cora Droppo, Ann Craig, Evelyn Gillard and Helen Hughson for the winter session.

Four donated prizes were won by Marion Droppo, Orlean Shaver, Melva McIntosh and Mariette Little for lucky scores.

Audrey Butcher reported $551 was realized from the marathons, $29 from the wind-up party and $75 was donated by the euchre players of Smith Road making a total of $655 for the auxiliary coffers.

Before dispensing Marion Droppo expressed the appreciation of the group to Edie, the hostess.

NDDHS Report

By Danielle Gryspeerdt
and
Karen Wu

Friday was Slob Day - a chance for NDDHS students to show their true colors and dress down for a day. There were those who went all-out complete with curlers, hair clips, holes and more holes in strange places, evidence of last night's supper and an overall frumpiness beyond description. Of course, it took a real diplomat to see who dressed down and who meant to dress down. And then again there were those rebels who, not wishing to be mistaken for the riff-raff of slobdom, decided to dress up for the occasion. In any case the ultimates were portrayed by Marc Desormeaux and Julie Van Wylick who won first places for their respective categories.

The North Dundas Senior Canada Quiz team composed of Mike Matthew, Steve Molloy, Hugh Craig and Angus Craig and coached by Mr. Graham lost a narrow decision to Rothwell-Osnabruck for first place in the competition winding up a very respectable second. Congratulations go the team from all trivia enthusiasts for their fine overall performance.

The senior Math tests - the Descartes and the Euclid - have come and gone and those students who wrote the tests are anxiously awaiting the outcomes as is Mr. Sherwood who teaches the senior grades. The tests, especially the grade 13 Descartes, could open the door to a better university for those who do well.

As April winds down and the prospects of May are appearing, it is time again for the senior band to take a trip off to somewhere where it can strut its stuff. This year, Norm St. Louis and his budding musicians are headed for Arnprior. Though not so far away as last year's trip the band is left undaunted.

More money for student loans

TORONTO (Staff) - Students will benefit this year from an increase in the Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP) when $7.5 more than last year becomes available.

Colleges and universities mister Keith Norton said the personal and living allowances will be increased to $95 a week from the present $90 and the local transportation allowance will be increased by one dollar to eight dollars a week.

Government sources indicate the loan money will offset the recently announced five per cent hike in tuition fees and other costs faced by students.

The Ontario Student Assistance Program provides grants and loans to students attending approved post-secondary colleges, universities and private vocational schools. It is composed of six plans, four of which are provincially funded. The remaining two plans are funded under the Canada Student Loans Program by the federal government.

It is expected that 112,000 students will receive assistance from OSAP this year.

Applications for the 1985-86 academic year are available now. They may be obtained from secondary schools, Financial Aid Offices at all colleges and universities in Ontario or from the Student Awards Branch, Ministry of Colleges and Universities, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario, M7A 2B4, telephone (416) 965-5241.

Lumley named director

CORNWALL (Staff) - Former Stormont-Dundas MP Ed Lumley has been appointed as director of Gendis Inc., a Winnipeg-based company involved in oil and gas, real estate, electronics and retailing.

Mr. Lumley will sit as a director on the 13-member board of the company that last year had sales of more than $600 million.

The company's retail division includes the Saan, Greenberg and Metropolitan chain stores.

Mr. Lumley, a former federal Industry Minister and of the so-called "super ministers" of the short-lived John Turner government, was defeated after 10 years in office by Conservative Norm Warner.

Computer Corner

Welcome to the Computer Corner - a new column devoted to current happenings at the Winchester and District Computer Den. It will keep you informed as to the latest coming events, schedule updates, software reviews and general information of interest to the members.

I would like to thank all the organizations and businesses, including Ward Mallette Chartered Accountants and the Seaway Valley Pharmacy (Chesterville), that have so generously donated to the Den. Their support for this community project has shown encouragement for the computer interest in the Winchester and the District area.

Last week the scouts paid their first visit to the Den and enjoyed using the different types of software available. This week the cubs are booked into the Den for one hour of their regular meeting time. During the hour, I will be discussing the requirements for the new cub computer badge - one that many of the cubs are eager to work towards.

The Den has now set up a partitioned area to allow members to use the computers with privacy.

SCHEDULE UP-DATE

The schedule for the week of May 6 to 11 will be as follows: Tues., 1-3pm and 7-9pm; Wed., 7-9pm; Fri., 7-9p,; Sat., 9am-4pm. Monday and Thursday evenings have scheduled workshops.

SUMMER COURSE

Summer is almost here: For the month of July, the Den will be holding two computer summer courses for students who are in grades six, seven and eight. The course is being run through the Ministry of Education. There will be two two-week courses through the week from approximately 8:30am to 1pm.

No fee will be charged, but the enrolment is limited to 20 per session. For more information and-or a registration form please contact your local school or the Den.

CLEAR UP THE MYTHS

In the fast paced world of computers, it is quite easy to find myths floating around that are both unfounded and even destructive to a technology that is here to stay. These myths have either scared people away from using them or made people come to resent them. Here are a few ideas that make computers seem more manageable in today's world.

1. No knowledge of computers is needed to utilize the personal computers.
2. Today computers work with simple English language commands.
3. No knowledge of mathematics is necessary.
4. Without you to work the computer, it may as well be a door stop!
5. The computer doesn't control you - you control what it does.
6. Computers do not make mistakes. It is the person putting the information into the computer who makes the error. Remember, whatever you tell the computer to do it will obey, as long as it is logical request.

KOALA PAINTER

In the Den you may have noticed a square pad with two black buttons attached by a cord to the computer. This pad is called a Koala Pad. It is a small version of a graphics tablet which is used to draw pictures or graphics. A plastic "pencil" is moved across the pad to allow you to draw.

To use the koala pad is a program called koala painter. Koala painter is a versatile drawing program that allows you to:

- draw freehand using several different brushes and colors;
- design geometric shapes

THE CHESTERVILLE
RECORD

Lack of support could end local minor hockey

(Staff) - An executive member of the Chesterville and District Minor Hockey Association says the 10-team league will fold next year unless it receives more volunteer help from the community.

League treasurer Corrine Cotnam told the Record Sunday that increasing costs and apathy have placed the league on the brink of folding and that only a major commitment from the community will save the association.

League treasurer Corrine Cotnam told the Record Sunday that increasing costs and apathy have placed the league on the brink of folding and that only a major commitment from the community will save the association.

During 1984-85 season, the league was forced to run the complicated schedule with a bare-bones executive of four people, less than a fifth of the 30-person executive used to run the neighboring Winchester and District Minor Hockey Association.

The shortage of help meant that the association had to organize its season this past year without division convenors, managers and a referee-in-chief.

Chesterville's staffing became severe enough this year, said league president Ed Decooman, that the association approached Winchester near the end of the season to discuss the possibility of amalgamating the two associations.

In a special meeting of the association's executives last week, Winchester turned down the proposal because it would have raised the average cost of getting their players on the ice from $169 to about $230.

Minor hockey currently costs the Chesterville association about $235 a child.

In turning down the proposal, Winchester association president Bryan Helmer agreed that a merger could produce better teams and schedules on both sides but said the loss of money to the Winchester system was the determining factor in the vote.

With that vote, Decooman said the Chesterville association has no choice now but to find more volunteers or shut down its doors.

Despite a $10,000 grant from the Village of Chesterville and an $80-a-head registration, DeCooman said the association will still have to raise about $4,000 in fundraising events to cover costs for the next season.

The association is already a couple of hundred dollars in the red" on its budget for the '85-86 season, he said.

According to Deecooman, a five-year veteran on the association's executive, frustration among executive members has reached a critical stage. It was particularly grating, when more than 30 people turned out to vote on the Chesterville-Winchester amalgamation proposal.

"It was the most people we've had at a meeting since I've been in minor hockey," DeCooman said. "If those 30 people are that interested, why haven't they been involved before? This goes beyond one meeting. There's a dollar and cents thing to look after and we need more than four people to look after it.

"We've been going on this way too long. Something's got to be done now or this league will fold and spoil it for the kids."

Because of a manpower shortage, the Chesterville association has been forced to work without convenors, ice time and equipment managers and a referee-in-chief.

DeCooman, who volunteered his own time to act as a convenor for the entire league while at the same time trying to carry out the duties of president, said hockey parents in Chesterville have unfairly forced executive members to take on too great a burden.

And that burden, he admits, has led to some mistakes in the organization of the league, including equipment losses.

In pressing for amalgamation with Winchester, DeCooman said the merger would have produced more competition, a more stable financial base and better organization.

The Chesterville Minor Hockey Association will discuss its future at a 7:30pm meeting May 13 at the municipal building in Chesterville.

Kenny Holland has fame in sight

Avonmore marksman shoots for international success

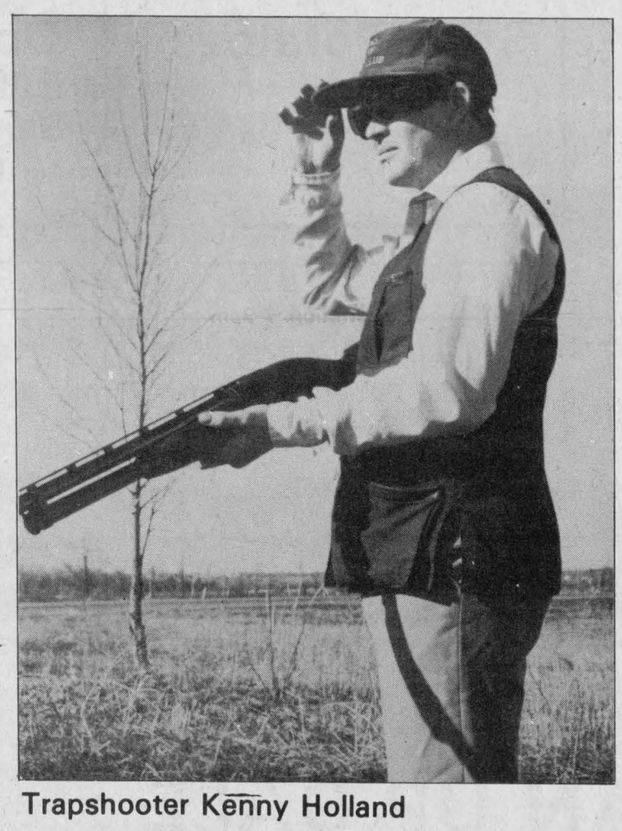
(Staff) - The survival instinct that is within every man or woman surfaced in Kenny Holland ten years ago, as he started trapshooting. The only difference is that the weapon is much more complex and the prey is not a living bird but a clay disc and it's done as a sport and not for survival.

Trapshooting is a target sport in which a 12 gauge gun is used to fire at a clay disc also referred to as a bird. The bird is flung into the air by a machine called a trap which is located in the house with each participant shooting at least 25 shots to complete a round. After completing the round the score is calculated by the number of hits made out of the 25 shots taken at the bird.

On Hollands first time out he hit nine out of the 25 birds but the ten-year veteran makes scores of 97 out of 100 birds now.

Last summer Holland became a serious competitor going to competitions held in places such a Reno, Nevada in the United States, where he marked his first big shoot. He won the D class doubles (shooting two birds at once) with a score of 261 out of 300 and B class singles with a score of 197 out of 200. For this he received two stirling silver belt buckles with gold inscriptions on them, and a purse totalling up to $1,300 U.S.

In Valleyfield, Quebec last June he earned a score of 94 out of 100. He didn't win the competition but he received $200.



Trapshooter Kenny Holland

Holland went down to the States again in Las Vegas where he said he didn't do well but received $650 U.S.

In a competition held at Lac a Dee, Quebec he shot a score of 50 out of 50 and received $200 for his efforts. Holland has also made his mark in area clubs winning the best average of the year last summer at Alexandria.

This summer Holland hopes to go the one of the largest competions held in Vandalia, Ohio in the States where about 4,000 competitors shoot each day.

Holland belongs to the Beagle Club in Bonville and usually practices every Sunday. In the last few years Holland's wife, Linda, and son, Kevin have become involved in the sport, but not competitively and both are improving increasingly each year through practice.

"The secret behind my success is due mainly to a combination of natural instinct for the sport after years of practice, a great deal of concentration and a touch of luck," said Holland.

"Stance and follow through are second nature to me. "A key factor is concentration in which I feel I excell in. It takes only one second to concentrate on each shot. That one second can be disturbed by many factors such as the bird not going off after you call pull. It throws you off kilter. Or if I miss a shot previously I can't think about the last shot Ive made I have to concentrate only on the shot I will be making next. It's a mind game for me," said Holland.

Holland is not yet perfected in the sport and he can make mistakes. One of his small problems is kick-back after the shot has been fired, the gun moves and the shot can be spoiled by the movement. Weather conditions contribute some difficulty along with various other things to go wrong but Holland seems to be battling the odds quite nicely.

Summer play to cost Rec boards $10,000

(Staff) - Recreation funding for Chesterville and Osnabruck will be $10,200 this year. Minor ball in the two areas will have $3500 to work with and Osnabruck will be using the remaining $6,700 for a new fence for their ball diamond. The diamonds lights that were put up last year are being allocated at a cost of $17,850.

Finch has not yet settled upon their budget for this year but is hoping for the same funding as last year.

Most of the funding is taken from registration fees that the players have paid, and put back into the minor league. The money is used to pay for balls for all the teams home games, the upkeep of the diamond and any equipment that is necessary.

Osnabruck will also be having Red Cross Swimming courses starting from June 1 to mid-August. There will be four two week sessions within that time. Registration fees for the classes should cover the expenses. "Also Osnabruck will be starting up soccer teams and the expenses for the sport will be covered hopefully all by registration," said Osnabruck recreational director Marion Avery. "Any expenses not covered by registration will be covered by grants and funding from area clubs and tax subsidies."

Sports flashback

Goldfield softball team was the talk of 1940s

GOLDFIELD (Staff) - Softball for area residents in the 1940s was like today's major league. There was no fancy equipment and no paid athletes. But in the heat of those summer nights the boys of the Goldfield Men's Softball team could wow a crowd like no other.

During the post-war years they owned the North Stormont Softball League trophy, winning five straight pennants between 1947 and 1951.

Players like Ray Thompson and the late Tippy Thompson created magic with $1.25 softballs, knocking down teams from Berwick, Avonmore, Newington, Chesterville, Moose Creek and Wales (it disappeared with the Seaway).

They played on grass mounds with $2.75 Louisville Sluggers and gold and blue sweaters and rushed their evening games to beat out the setting sun. Small, glossy leather gloves were standard equipment for first basemen and catchers. Everyone else played bare-handed.

It's been more than 30 years since the team coached by Father O'Brien has taken to the fields and heard the cheers of more than 1,000 fans who had paid 10 cents to see some home runs and double plays.

But even today the players can remember those days when they could work a diamond like no other team around.

"We didn't realize at the time that this was such a big thing for more than 1,000 fans to turn up at a game, that people thought we were so great," said Joe Droppo, who played centre field and captained the team. "The only thing we were thinking about was winning a game."

Droppo, who later went on to coach minor softball, said the years before TV and a proliferation of sporting events made it easy for young men to get totally absorbed in the game.

"It was the only league in the area and I guess we took it pretty seriously, he said. "It was really the only sport around in the summer and we really concentrated on doing well at it."

Formed in 1944 by nine players who each chipped in a quarter to buy a softball, the Goldfield Men's Softball team stuck to practices and exhibition games for two years before venturing into big league play.

They joined the Dundas Softball League in 1946 and played better than .500 ball but fell short of the playoffs.

The following year they switched over to the North Stormont league and the pieces suddenly came together as beautifully as a triple play.

They took the pennant that year and went on to the Eastern Ontario semi-finals against Cornwall. Despite losing the series, Goldfield won the hearts of fans, attracting 1,100 to one game.

They defended their title four more times before age and family commitments brought the team to an end in 1951.

"Looking back now, I realize it was a pretty great team," said Droppo. "Today there are so many teams that it's hard for anyone to really concentrate on one. I guess we didn't appreciate that we had something special then with the fans and the players."

Passing the bar

The public schools in the area participated in a gymnastics meet held at NDDHS on Thursday. There were ten schools in the meet showing off their talents. Pictured here is Dean Elliot, age 10, from Chesterville Public School who seemed to be a bit too short for the horizontal bar and received some help from one of his fellow gym-mates. It was up-up-up- and over after that. Record Photo - Beckstead
