The Morrisburg Leader

LXXVII, NO. 42 — MORRISBURG, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25th, 1940. — 1.50 PER YEAR.

Brooklyn, N.Y., Man Donates Generously to Local Red Cross

While a great many communities have not yet attained the objectives set for them in the latest Red Cross Drive for funds, Morrisburg is well out ahead of its objective.

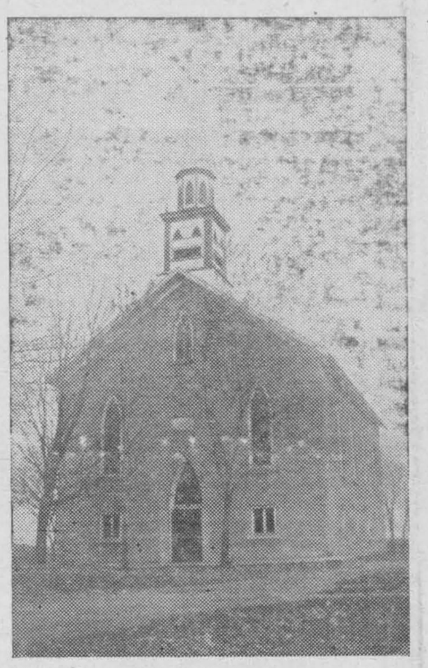

One of the chief reasons for this is the generosity with which former residents of the town are meeting the appeal to help the unfortunate.

One of the largest and latest of these donations has come from Mr. George A. Smith, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Smith, a former resident of Mariatown and well known locally, recently forwarded to Mr. Frank Lyle, K. C., the sum of $500, to be given to the Morrisburg branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Needless to say, the local executive appreciates Mr. Smith's generosity, and patriotism.

WILLIAMSBURG CHURCH TO CELEBRATE SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

HISTORY OF CONGREGATION DATES BACK TO 1826

On Sunday and Monday, October 27th and 28th, St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williasmburg will celebrate the 75th Anniversary of the present Church and also the 114th Anniversary of the Lutheran Congregation at Williamsburg.

The special speaker for the occasion will be Rev. A. L. Keller, D.D., of Utica, N.Y. Mr. Keller's subject at the Sunday morning Service at 10.30 a.m. will be "Whose Church," and at the evening service at 7.30 p.m: "Why is a Lutheran?" Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, pastor, and Rev. A. Buehlow, Morrisburg, will assist with the services.

The history of St. Peter's Congregation dates back to 1826 and that of the present Church to 1865. Organizer and first pastor was Rev. H. Hayunga, in 1826.

The present church building was not the first in which the Lutherans of that district worshipped. Many of them, went on foot to attend service in the mother Church, at Riverside, a distance of ten miles.

In 1827, a Union Church, sponsored by the Lutherans and Presbyterians, was erected on the site now occupied by the cemetery. Seventeen years later, in 1844, the Lutheran people were already planning to build a new Lutheran Church. The purchase of a parsonage property took place in 1860 and in 1864, during the pastorate of Rev. J. Fishburn final steps were taken for the erection of the Church. The corner stone was laid on March 2nd, 1865, and the completed Church was dedicated on the 10th day of December of the same year.

Many additions and improvements have been made since 1865. A complete and very interesting history of the organization of Lutheranism at Williamsburg has been compiled by the present pastor, Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, and printed in the form of a souvenir book.

The Anniversary Banquet will be held on Monday night. Neighboring pastors and former pastors of St. Peter's will bring greetings and congratulations. A fine proramme of musical and vocal selections has also been arranged.

REV. C. R. CRONMILLER

Rev. C. R. Cronmiller was born in Port Colbourne, Ontario, and received his preliminary education there and in Welland, Ontario. After he graduated he entered the Lutheran Seminary at Waterloo and was ordained when 23 years of age, the first member of his family to enter the ministry.

He received and accepted a call from St. Mathew's Church at Brantford, and served that community for three years.

He came to Williamsburg in 1927, and for the past thirteen years has served the profession he chose to enter and the congregation he heads with adrimable thoroughness. His willingness at all times to sacrifice his time and himself is a trait, which, when possessed by a man of his profession can do a world of good and at the same time set a fine example for the members of his followers.

Rev. Cronmiller is a member of the Canadian Lutheran Commission for War Service. This Commission deals with the religious life of the Land, Sea and Air Forces on Active Service.

1940 marks the fourth consecutive year that Rev. Cronmiller has been elected to the post of vice-president of the Lutheran Synod of Canada.

We pay a just tribute to Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, on his success, and hope he may serve the congregation in Williamsburg for many years to come. A man with such a congenial nature is a benefit to any community.

Farewell Party For Miss E. McQuaig

A nicely arranged farewell surprise was tendered Miss Evah McQuaig on Friday evening last when about 25 of her friends gathered at her home to pay her a tribute of honor and to express regret at her leaving town soon.

During the evening, a kindly worded address was read by Miss Vivien Barclay and at the same time a presentation of a handsome travelling bag was made. Miss McQuaig, although taken completely by surprise, in her mild and pleasant manner expressed in a few words of acceptance her deep appreciation of the thoughtfulness behind the gift.

All joined in singing, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Games and contests were enjoyed for a time, after which a dainty lunch was served by the ladies.

Tupper-Becksted

An interesting marriage took place yesterday, at the United Church Parsonage, Dundela, at 2 p.m., when Miss Lorraine Luella Becksted, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Becksted, of Rowena, became the bride of Mr. Jacob Tupper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tupper of Williamsburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm Lister, the Pastor. The young couple were attended by Miss Evelyn Byrd, of Cornwall, and Mr. William Tupper, of Williamsburg, a cousin of the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Quebec. On their return, they will reside on the groom's farm at Williamsburg.

Mr. Arnold Stoddart

There passed away at London, Ont. on Wednesday, October 6th, 1940, Mr. Arnold Stoddart, in his 34th year. Born at Magog, Que., the son of Christina and the late John Stoddart, he moved with his parents while still quite young to Morrisburg.

On April 11th, 1936, he was united in marriage to Miss Olive Bowman, who with a young daughter, Marjorie, are left to mourn his loss. Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Christina Stoddart, three brothers, and one sister.

Mr. Stoddart was admired by all who knew him for his kind and cheerful disposition, and the patience with which he bore his prolonged sickness.

Funeral services which were conducted by Rev. Davies, of Morrisburg, took place from his home at Aultsville, on Friday, October 18, 1940, to Trinity Memorial Church, Riverside. The hymns were sung at the house and the Church by Mack Edwards and Lawrence Morgan. Pallbearers were: Jack Edwards, Mack Edwards, Lloyd Wells, Walter Wells, Harry Casselman and Warner Casselman.

Deer Hunting Season Opens November 4th

With the opening of the deer hunting season just a few days off, local and district sportsmen are oiling and cleaning up their trusty rifles, and overhauling their equipment, preparatory totaking their annual jaunt into the hinterland.

For most of Ontario, the season will open on the 4th of November, and will remain open for two weeks. There is no open season in the counties of Leeds, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry. The resident license fee is $4, and it is unlawful for any person to hunt deer without a license.

NO. 13
LARGE MOUTH BASS

While the small mouth black bass is the fish that most anglers want to catch there is another bass in our waters that is sought by many. In fact, some anglers prefer the large mouth black bass and others do not distinguish between the two, lumping them all as bass. However, there are two kinds, each living in its own habitat and each readily recognized once the identifying features are known.

The large mouth bass likes marshy lakes and slow-flowing rivers. It prefers warmer waters than does the small mouth, being found through to Florida and Lousiana, it is typically a fish of the lakes, frequenting the soft-bottomed portions where there is a large amount of aquatic vegetation, stumps, logs and brush. I have taken them in numbers in the Rideau canal above Kingston, where the old stumps of the drowned lands stick above the water, and I have taken them in the shore swamps and the little lily-pond lakes of the Georgian Bay region.

THEY EAT SMALL FISH

This bass clears a spawning bed over the roots of the vegetation and here the female deposits her eggs when she is driven over the nest by the male. He guards the bed and keeps the water in circulation with his fins, sweeping away the sediment until the eggs are hatched. Then he accompanies the swarm of tiny bass for several weeks, protecting them against the ravages of larger fish.

For the first few weeks of life these bass live on the minute water fleas but when they reach a length of an inch they turn to other tiny fish for their food. The adult large mouth eats fishes almost exclusively, though they have been known to take frogs, snakes and other water creatures. In the Rideau waters I have observed this species considerably, they feed on sunfish to a great extent. I have taken a bluegill as large as the palm of my hand from an old timer that I caught near Washburn.

We can best conserve these fish by protecting the adults until after July 1st in our waters. I have often thought that we should not fish at all before this date, for even if we put back the bass we may catch when we are after sunfish and crappies, we are disturbing the nests, allowing hungry enemies to make away with the young fry. When this happens many times in a season the future supply of bass may be endangered.

SCOUTING . . .

The Boy Scouts of Canada have been given a new wartime service job. This is the collecting of used medicine bottles to augment the supplies at military hospitals. The collection is being made at the request of Lt.-Col. J. S. Jenkins of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, at Ottawa. Many thousands of bottles already have been collected at Saint John, N.B., London, Ont., Calgary, and Victoria, B.C.

When a train was wrecked near Blue River, B.C., and a number of soldiers and others injured, two Boy Scout passengers were promptly on the job rendering first aid. The boys, Scouts Jerry Asmussen and "Scotty" Buchanan of North Battleford, Sask., were themselves slightly injured, but this did not prevent them going at once to the aid of their fellow travelers.

That the Boy Scout Association does a bigger work at less expense than that of any other organization was the declaration of Mayor Morrison of Hamilton, Ont., at a meeting of the Hamilton Board of Control at which the co-ordination of all local social services was discussed. Said the Mayor, "In my opinion the Boy Scouts are doing a bigger and better work than any other organization, and at less expense."

In connection with the news of fighting and air raids along the borders of Kenya Colony in East Africa there has been some concern regarding the safety of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, the World Chief Scout and Chief Guide, in retirement on their ranch near Nairobi. Answering this question in a recent issue, the magazine "The Scout" states: "Kenya is an enormous stretch of territory, and as the Chief is residing in the south of the Colony he is hundreds of miles from the scene of fighting. The Chief is in good health, and we are receiving copy and sketches for his page regularly."

THE WAR-WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

Will Russian Moves Stop Hitler's Drive To East?

Large concentrations of German and Russian troops faced each other across the Danube last week near the Rumanian port of Galatz as one of the tensest situations yet to develop during the war neared its crisis. Germany feared bombing by Britons, or Russians, of Rumanian oil fields; Moscow felt increasing alarm over reported German plans for a Near East drive across the Dardanelles; Turkey and the other Balkan States, Bulgaria, Greece and Yugoslavia, trembled at the fate that would be theirs when next Germany and Italy decided to march.

Hitler Flouts Stalin?

It was difficult to gauge from this distance exactly what was happening in the Black Sea and the eastern Mediterranean. Rumors flew thick and fast: that Russia was quietly seizing the Danube ports; that Britain, Russia, Turkey and Greece were joining together to stop further German penetration eastward; that Bulgaria was rapidly going Nazi; that Turkey and Russia were near agreement on a military alliance to oppose the Axis in the Near East.

Whether these reports were to be given credence or not, one thing was becoming increasingly obvious—that the non-agression pact between Germany and the Soviet Union soon might not be worth the paper it was written on, now that Hitler had, in his march to the Black Sea, openly flouted Stalin.

Germany Takes Risks

Would it come to war between the two countries? In the opinion of this column it would not. Germany on the one hand, could not afford to take on another major power at such a moment in the Battle of Britain. (Associated Press' Kirke L. Simpson expressed the opinion that "while any doubt of Russia's attitude exists, the Axis mates dare risk no aggressive push eastward from the Balkans to threaten Britain's hold on the eastern Mediterranean . . . Germany cannot overlook the fact that the Russian Air Force would be in a position to batter at the Rumanian oilfields from many close-up bases if present tension results in Russo-Rumanian hostilities. Even an anti-Axis attitude of watchful waiting on Russia's part would free Turkey to invite British help in repelling a German invasion").

Russia's Alternatives

Russia, on the other hand, had three alternatives: she could encourage Turkey to resist and offer her all aid short of war; she could divide Turkey and the other Balkan states with Germany taking the half she wanted; or she could counter-invade Rumania at the risk of war with Germany. (The Soviet Army publication Red Star declared that Russia's armies must be kept in "constant mobilized preparedness" because of the "tense international situation").

New Nazi Strategy

Authoritative circles in London last week said that Hitler's latest plan seemed to be: to deliver the main punch into Mussolini's faltering invasion of Egypt (a telling blow had been dealt the Italian fleet in the Mediterranean by the British cruiser, Ajax, which sank three destroyers in a victorious naval angagement); to harrass the British Isles with raiders as often and as powerfully as the weather and British defenses permitted; to attempt to weaken the flood of war materials from the United States to Britain by getting the United States embroiled in war with Japan.

"Time" Newsmagazine, October 14, said: "It seemed certain last week that the war's centre of gravity was tending south; that Germany would soon play some taking cards in the Mediterranean area. The worst that could happen would be everything at once: invasion of Britain, a Spanish-based blow at Gibraltar, a German-supported Blitzkrieg across Egypt to the Suez Canal, an Italian drive down the Nile, turbulence in the Balkans and a diversion through Turkey, blasts here and there at Perim, Dakar, perhaps at Singapore with the help of the eager little Japanese."

To End War This Year?

It was by no means certain that Adolf Hitler had abandoned his plans to invade the British Isles. Total air war against the British people had already begun, and if Hitler were, as most experts believed, making one grand effort to win the war this year, the invasion attempt would have to come before winter closed down.

Roosevelt Defies Axis

Was Hitler not afraid of the entrance into the war of Britain's non-belligerent ally, the United States? He might have decided, as the Kaiser did, that America's participation, owing to lack of preparedness, would have small effect. But what would he make of the transfer of U. S. "flying fortresses" to Britain, plus torpedo boats plus financial aid for London? Did he think the elections would hold the U. S. back? Perhaps it was a question of "now or never" with Hitler.

In a momentous speech at Dayton, Ohio, last week, President Roosevelt defied the three powers, Germany, Italy and Japan. He pledged a total defense for the Americas, and announced in the boldest terms continued support for Great Britain.

Far East Naval Bases

As part of its "stop Hitler" program the Administration at Washington was working to secure naval and airbase facilities in South America . . . as part of a "stop Japan" program, U. S. diplomats were believed to be negotiating with Britain for a string of Far Eastern naval bases from New Zealand to Singapore, in exchange for further war aid.

Playing Politics?

A three-day sensation was created in Canada by the Charlottetown speech of Conservative House Leader R. B. Hanson who let slip the secret information that 10,000 more R. A. F. men (aside from the Commonwealth Air Training Plan) were on their way to Canada. Premier King was outraged and quite a storm blew up over the incident.

Canada's Week

During the week the Prime Minister announced that the House of Commons when it reconvened November 5 would be allowed a debate on international affairs . . . the Government created a Pacific Coast Command under Major-General Alexander to co-ordinate west coast defenses in the face of the greater Japanese menace . . . it was announced that immediate steps were being taken jointly by Canada and the United States toward construction of the international section of the St. Lawrence seaway, to assure adequate power for defense production in both countries . . . Government circles expressed confidence that there would be a big increase, perhaps of forty per cent, in the amount of bacon purchased here by Great Britain, although the price might fall thereby . . . representatives from every province came to Ottawa to co-ordinate Canada's drive for more tourists . . .

Major Warfare Looms in Africa

The clouds of major warfare which have been hovering over Africa for several weeks are quickly lowering as General Maxime Weygand (1) is busily engaged in attempting to solidify the French colonies on the side of the Vichy government. General Charles de Gaulle who has landed at Duala (2) and taken over Cameroons for Free France is likewise engaged. With the Italians stalled at Sidi Barrani (3) the British have bombed the Italian base at Tobruk. They also bombed the Assab and Djibuti-Addis Ababa railway (4). The Italians retaliated by raiding Aden (5). The island of Madagascar, which has thrown in its lot with the Vichy government, is being blockaded by the British navy (6).

WOMEN ON THE JURY

Admission of women to jury duty in Ontario is favored by the Attorney General and in this Mr. Conant will likely find general support. They are not many valid reasons why women should not perform this duty and there are many good reasons for their doing so. Serving on juries is one of the responsibilities that goes with the franchise, and since women in Ontario secured the right to vote in 1917 it is time that the question of jury duty was favorably settled.

Four-Legged Whales

The whale is a mammal, not a fish. This is proved by the hairs round the muzzle — something no fish can possess—and also by the fact that its paddle is quite unlike the fin of a fish; indeed its more like the human hand with rows of bones like those of our fingers and thumbs. At one time whales had four legs, but gradually the hind two disappeared completely and the front ones turned into paddles.

Andy HARDY MEETS DEBUTANTE

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

By

Beatrice Faber

CHAPTER TWO

That afternoon the business of the "Carvel High Olympian," got under way. None of its staff, consisting of Andy, Polly and Beezy Atwood, were not on very good speaking terms. Breezy was still sore at Andy for not lending him his botany book and Andy was sore at Breezy because the latter wanted to put Cynthia Potter's picture on the cover of the "Olympain". Polly was irritated at them both for quarreling on her time.

"Now who in the world," Andy demanded, "would call Cynthia the most beautiful girl in the world?" Privately, he coddled the lovely vision of Daphne Fowler.

"Andy Please," Breezy cried wildly, "I practically promised Cynthia she'd be on the cover." He looked at them both tensely. "All in favor of Cyntha's picture, say 'aye'."

There were two "no's" from the rest of the committee. To settle the matter, Polly made a suggestion that they use a cover with the most interesting achievement of the month by a student. Much as he hated to agree with her, Andy seconded the motion.

INVITED TO DAPHENE'S DEBUT

The meeting was adjourned when all of a sudden Beezy seized Andy's scrapbook, disguised as a botany tome. "Thanks Andy," he gloated, "I'll give this back Monday."

In cold fury Andy said, "Put that book down. It's my property."

But already Beezy had flipped open the cover and now he howled with fiendish glee. "Polly, will you lok at this? Ha, ha! Ho, ho! The whole thing's just filled with pictures of Daphne Fowler." He began to chant, "Andy's got a crush on Daphne Fowler. Andy's got a crush on Daphne Fowler. And he's never even seen her."

Polly was just looking her scorn and Andy spoke up desperately. "I have too seen her." Inspiration came to him. "I—I met her in Detroit nearly two years ago and at first sight she liked me far more than she ought."

Loftily, insultingly, Polly retorted, "Why Daphne Fowler goes around with grown men. She wouldn't look twice at a small-town schoolboy."

"Yeah?" Andy began to invent rapidly. "Well, she's crazy about me, she wants me to come and have the first dance with her when she makes her debut." Polly sniffed. "I been begging my father to let me go to New York." He was warming up. "I begged and pleaded on my bended knees but he says I got to keep on with school."

A CROSS TO BEAR

Openly skeptical Polly suggested, "You could always run away from home."

Andy drew himself up and went to the door, not, however, without snatching his precious book from Beezy first. "Maybe you'd want to break your mother's heart that way but I been brought up better. Furthermore I don't even know if I could get away from New York without having to — marry her." The silence was impressive. "It'd sure be terrific if I could only get to New York." He shrugged with martydom. "But I guess we all got our crosses to bear in this unhappy world."

TABLE TALKS

HERE'S TO HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en is coming and on that night of nights let us have a lot of fun. Right away I can hear some dissenting voices, for a day or so ago whilst admiring some Hallowe'en decorations in a store window, I overheard the remarks "we should have none of these frolics this year"—and right here I am going to answer back with the reply: "We certainly should have all the gaiety possible."

This is children's and youth's night, and who of the older folks does not like to be in all the proceedings? Then we will have others listening in, we have our little English visitors anticipating our celebration of the witches' night. Some years ago it was my good pleasure to spend a Hallowe'en in old England. I was staying at Shrewsbury at "The Raven" — the village inn. The setting seemed perfect, England with her history and tradition, her village life, a dark dismal day it was, with flickering candles —one could imagine fairies and witches popping from every corner, with a few howling cats, bats and goblins too. So in these days of sadness and apprehension let's help to keep the youthful spirit alive, that they may build a character to face the future full of optimism and cheer possessed by all true British subjects.

Whether a family supper a buffet luncheon or a lunch for the kiddies, these recipes should solve the problem.

Scalloped Salmon

1 pound salmon
2 cups medium white sauce
¼ teasp. salt
¼ teasp. pepper
¼ cup diced bacon
½ tsp. chopped parsley
1 teasp. chopped onion

Remove the skin from the salmon, retain the liquid and crush and add the bones; flake the salmon coarsely and add with liquid and crushed bones to white sauce. Season to taste with salt, pepper, scraped onion and parsley. Place a layer of breadcrumbs in a greased baking dish and add half fish mixture; sprinkle with bacon and add second layer of crumbs. — add remaining solution, cover with rest of crumbs and bacon. Bake in moderate oven until crumbs are browned.

Ginger Shortbread

1 1-3 cups pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
8 tablespoons butter
2-3 cup brown sugar
1 egg yolk

Measure all dry ingredients and sift. Cream butter and blend in gradually the brown sugar. Beat and add egg yolk. Gradually work in flour mixture to make a soft dough, which may be handled in the floured-portion of the hands. Shape as balls the size of walnuts. Place one inch apart on a greased pan. Flatten with the floured tines of a fork. Bake 7 minutes in a hot oven.

Chocolate Fudge

2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
1 cup rich milk
1 cup granulated sugar
2-3 cup brown sugar
Pinch salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup pecans

Cream Nut Fudge

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup thick sour cream
pinch salt
1 teasp. pure vanilla
½ cup walnuts.

Stir sugar, sour cream and salt over low heat until sugar dissolves. Cover; bring to boil and cook for 3 minutes. Uncover and stir only to prevent burning. When a few drops will form a soft ball in cold water, cool partially, add vanilla, beat until mixture begins to thicken. Add nuts and beat until thick and creamy. Turn quickly with greased pan. Cut in squares.

Dictatorship Seen In Stars

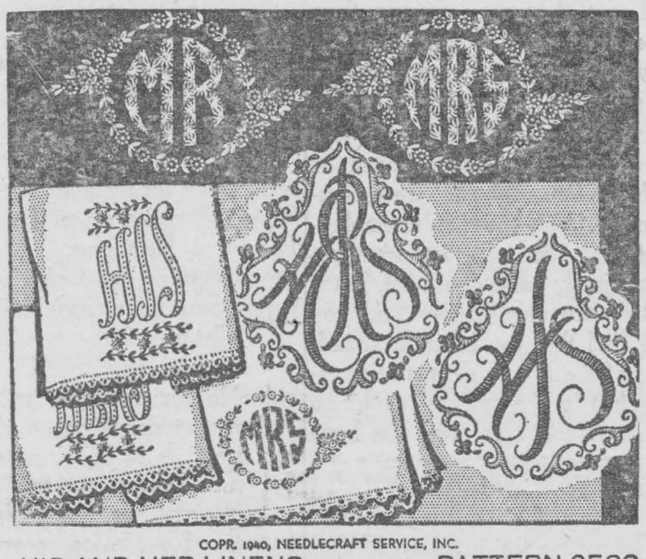

Astronomer Says the Large Systems 'Capture' Small Ones Out In Space

Dr. Erik Holmberg advances a theory that just as large countries are taking over smaller ones in Europe, so large star systems far out in space are "capturing" smaller ones and forming double and multiple nebulae.

Astronomers are trying to determine whether the universe is stationary or, as some contend, is expanding at an explosive rate which eventually would bring its destruction.

Dr. Holmberg reported that several of the results of his investigation "furnish strong support for the assumption of a stationary nebular universe."

Will Dolls Have Effect On Styles?

Permission to Copy Costumes of British Princesses' French Dolls Granted Canadian Designers

Indications are that forthcoming fashions of Canadian women will be considerably influenced by two little French dolls now touring the Dominion. They are "Marianne" and "France" and permission to copy their clothes has been granted Canadian designers.

As it happens the dolls' hats and gowns were created in 1938. But the thing to remember is that one hat doesn't make a fashion and only one of everything in the extensive wardrobes of Marianne and France was made.

50 OR 60 HATS

The dolls, presented by the children of France to Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, are on tour of the Dominion under the auspices of the Canadian national committee on refugees.

A forecast of what Canadian women will wear this winter and next spring may be found in in the clothes assembled for Marianne and France by Parisian designers who held undisputed sway over fashion for centuries.

PLENTY OF CREATIVE FANCY

In the wardrobes are to be found full and straight skirts, box and fitted coats, puffed and simple sleeves, large hats, small hats, crownless hats and tricorns.

There are 50 or 60 hats. Yet each in a distinct model, any one of which might be worn as well today as in 1938. If chosen, reproduced and publicized it might spread as the "hat of the season."

Once questioned on the subject Paris' dean of couturier houses Worth, said, "Fashion can regulate the length of a skirt, where the waistline shall be and the season's most popular colors — but nothing can regulate creative fancy."

Report Cold Germ Dives On Victims

The Air Hygiene Foundation reported last week from Pittsburgh that common cold germs, propelled by a sneeze, hunt new victims at a speed of better than 100 miles an hour. "An unstifled sneeze sprays the air with thousands of droplets, some of which travel 12 feet and at a rate as high as 150 feet per second," said a foundation bulletin. It warned the so-called "common cold" was the greatest health problem in industry.

Mr. Caffeine-Nerves Quits School

TEACHER: I've simply come to the end of my rope with this class, Mr. Brown — They're so unruly they're driving me almost frantic!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: That's telling him! Those kids should be in reform school!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: Pipe down, Brown — this is a school, not a hospital!

PRINCIPAL: Now — now — It's just that your nerves are upset—I had the same trouble and found it was caused by drinking too much tea and coffee. Switching to Postum fixed me up!

TEACHER: Thanks indeed for telling me about Postum, Mr. Brown. I've been drinking it regularly and the things I worried about a month ago seem silly now!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: School's out for me! — Postum and caffeine-nerves just don't get along!

• Many people can safely drink tea and coffee. Many others — and all children — should never drink them. If you are one of these, try Postum's 30-day test. Buy Postum and drink it instead of tea and coffee for one month. Then, if you do not feel better, return the container top to General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ontario, and we'll gladly refund full purchase price, plus postage. Postum is delicious, economical, easy to prepare, and contains no caffeine.

DON'T LET OUR ENGLAND DIE.

From the cloistered quiet of her cell, a little Ottawa nun the other day sent out a little verse --- a verse that was a poignant prayer to God: "Don't Let Our England Die." And her simply-worded little message came from a lovely heart. For, more effectively than tomes and White Papers and documents, she told us the things for which England is fighting, told us of the glories of the past, glories that were all the more glorious because they had erected a spiritual edifice that would never die.

And in all the glories which she pictured are none which so moves the soul as the glory of England as she is today, beset by the most fiendishly contrived trial that the world has ever known --- and every one of her millions of souls showing to the world a heroism that brings one's heart to his throat and holds it there, while he joins in prayer with the little nun that God will not permit such a nation of heroes to ever die.

England today fights alone, her armies are carrying the burden, but her heroism is winning potential allies all throughout the world. As the raiding 'planes of the R.A.F. return from devastating forays on German objectives, they are saluted by waving handkerchiefs, and cheers come to the ears of their pilots as they fly over Belgium and Holland and France. And thousands of people in these countries are being rushed to concentration camps because they show too much enthusiasm for Britain. Moving-picture houses have had to be closed in Belgium, because German war-pictures were thrown on the screen, and the audiences cheered when British 'planes flashed into the picture. Roumanians are clashing with the Huns on the streets in Roumania. All is not quiet along the German held territory for in the hearts of the people of Europe is the prayer, "Don't Let Our England Die." Because England has become "Our England" to all the world. --- Carleton Place Canadian.

"FOR MEN MUST WORK"

Canada's unemployment insurance program began to take shape last month with the appointment of three able and well-qualified Commissioners. As they proceed to put their operative machinery together, business hopes they will be able to avoid the many pitfalls that checker their path.

The Government, for instance, has labelled the scheme not only a means of stabilizing employment but also a helpful phase of the national war effort. But we hope that officialdom's concern about the 4 million dollar monthly income will not blind it to the fact that the coverage of 2,000,000 workers against the misfortunes of unemployment is primarily a social measure, not merely a new means of extracting money for the State.

Nor should unemployment insurance become a new name for relief. Administrators of similar schemes in other countries have too often answered or been told to answer the tug of political influence until the insurance fund became a sort of "over-all" for idle workers irrespective of their insurance rights. Only bankruptcy could follow. Insurance benefits must differ from relief payments and the point where insurance ends and relief begins, must be respected.

Nor should it be forgotten that the successful operation of this social measure hinges upon adherence to insurance principles which we are assured, are all laid down in Ottawa's actuarial tables. Within a few months Canada is likely to reach a position where all employables will be employed. Contributions under such a state of full employment will, no doubt, reach a maximum as benefits become negligible. The scheme will then yield, temporarily at least, funds greatly in excess of requirements for benefits under the present Act. When that situation occurred in the United States, for instance, social workers, labor union officials and members of the Security Board began to urge either the payment of more liberal benefits or an extension in employee coverage. Hasty action from political pressure in this direction without proper study of the resulting effects, might easily pave the way for depleting the fund at a future date when deficits would have to be made up by borrowing or raised through ordinary taxes. Scientific operation of unemployment insurance might, under certain conditions, even call for a decrease in the rate of contributions.

We suggest, moreover, that some chief official with the power of a general manager might advisably be appointed and charged with the responsibility of carrying out the policy laid down by the Commission. The estimated 3,500 employees --- who incidentally must satisify the standards of the Civil Service Commission at the outset -- should be carefully selected and kept to the minimum consistent with efficiency. Wherever possible, existing private facilities and agencies should be used without setting up new complementary departments of government As one example, the extensive network of Canadian branch banks could be of use in the sale of "employment stamps."

Then, too, as existing provincial Employment Bureaux are revamped, they must be developed into real, effective centres of employment, where men can be directed to jobs worthy of their ability and where management can conveniently draw upon the range of labor reserve. The superintendents of these Bureaux, with whatever zeal and tact they may assume their jobs, must guard against the arbitrary attitude of a bureaucrat

It was to assure by thorough planning and intensive study, the introduction and maintenance of such fundamentals that we recommended last July that unemployment insurance be enacted but not immediately made operative. Trace British economy history and you will find that the inherent soundness of the British democratic system lies in the gradual evolution of constructive reform. We have only to glance at the current economic chaos in the Soviet Union to see the effect of too rapid and extreme changes in the social and economic field. Close to home, we have had pointed out for us admitted weak spots in the American New Deal, many of them resulting from hasty planning and execution.

The operation of unemployment insurance will require clear thinking and application of sound judgment. It can lead to a deadly bureaucracy or it can make for social progress. Canada's scheme is at the crossroads. --- Canadian Business.

BACON FUTURES

Canada's hog production in 1940 will be the greatest ever recorded. This year's spring pig crop was greater by 39 per cent. that that of 1937 and an increase of 27 per cent. in the number of sows expected to farrow this fall has been reported. The increase in the spring pig crop resulted in a gain of 37 per cent. in the number of hogs on farms at June 1st, 1940, which, amounting to 5,882,000, was the highest ever recorded

The increase in 1940 is a continuance of the upward trend in hog production which began in the spring of 1939. Two years of relatively favorable prices for hogs and an abundance of low priced feed have stimulated hog raising.

As a result of the large pig crop, marketings will reach new highs during the remainder of the year and the early months of 1941. An increase of over 40 per cent. is expected.

JOB INSURANCE TRIUMVIRATE

Plenty of work awaits the three men who will head up Canada's new social experiment --- national unemployment insurance. Their immediate task is to organize the 3-4000 Commission employees --- setting up headquarters staff in Ottawa, courts of referees and offices throughout the Dominion.

The Chairman is Dr. Joseph Sirois, known for his guidance of the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations. The two years spent on this socio-economic survey must have given him a first-class picture of the needs of labor, business and government, invaluable for any man taking on such a responsible post. His new job promises to be even tougher, for he will never lack free advice, criticism and suggestions from all manner of actuaries, economists, sociologists and plain worried taxpayers.

Representing the employees is Allan M. Mitchell, who has capably filled a chair on the National Labor Supply Council. First as president, and later as chairman of the board of the Robert Mitchell Co. (steel works, plumbing, architectural iron, etc) he has had twenty years of close contact directly or indirectly with all kinds of Canadian business from Halifax to Vancouver. Previously he was chairman of the Quebec branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, and is on the board of directors of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. He is a great personal believer in compulsory insurance, and is pledged to make it work efficiently.

The choice of labor's representative could not have been more logical. Robert J. Tallon has at his fingertips the views of the workers of Canada, as secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress, and is moreover the president of that transcontinental organization that touches almost every community in Canada --- the Railway Brotherhood. He has long been associated with trade unions and has attended meetings of the International Labor Office in Geneva as a Canadian delegate.

These men have a gigantic assignment. But each of them has a fine record and the broad outlook needed to administer this law that affects some two million wage earners in Canada. More important still, each has the confidence of his confreres and the country. According to the provisions of parliament's legislation, the chairman will hold his post for ten years and the other two members for five. They are to have the guidance of an advisory committee, as yet unnamed, and can call for financial counsel upon the Bank of Canada which will act as banker for the unemployment insurance fund.

One of the best features of the proposed deepening of the St. Lawrence, and one feature which seems to have been overlooked, is that one of the worst sections of road in the provincial highway system will be flooded, and have to be rebuilt. Let us hope it will be built on a safer, saner plan.

The Brockville R. and T. says: "The new motor markers go on sale December 1st, a date, which, unfortunately coincides with the beginning of the annual coal bills." How we pity the poor R. and T. printers. If they have to wait until Dec. 1 to enjoy the warmth of a coal fire while they work, there will surely be plenty of transposed letters in the daily journal from Prescott's western suburb.

HITLER'S DREAM

(Contributed)

Here is a story, strange as it seems,
Of Hitler, the Nazi and his terrible dreams:
Worn out by the Allies he lay down in bed,
And amongst other things, he dreamt he was dead.

He was all straightened out and lying in state,
And his little moustache was frozen with hate
And when he was dead, he found to his cost
His plans and his passport to the next world were lost.

He left the earth, and to heaven went straight
And marched proudly up to the big Golden Gate;
St. Peter looked out ,and in a voice loud and clear
Said: Hitler the Nazi you can't get in here.

Then Hitler turned back and away he did go,
With the greatest of ease to the regions below,
But the lock-out angel was well worth his hire
And he flew straight to Satan and gave him the 'wire'.

So Satan said: Fellows, I'll give you a warning—
I'm expecting old Hitler down here in the morning."
Now I'll tell you straight, and I'll tell you clear,
We're too blasted good for that fellow down here.

"O, Satan, O, Satan", old Hitler cried
"I heard what you said whilst waiting outside
O, give me a corner—I've nowhere to go!"
But Satan said: "No! A thousand times no!"

He kicked Adolf in the pants—then vanished in smoke,
And right at that moment, old Hitler awoke;
He hollered for Goebbels in a lather of sweat,
Saying: I'll ask no more, back to the Reich we'll get.

Heaven won't have me—I know that full well,
But it's a damned awful thing to be kicked out of hell!

Williamsburg Luther League

On Sunday night, October 20th, owing to the absence of the pastor, Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, who was in Montreal dedicating a new pipe organ and other improvements in one of the Lutheran Churches, the young people's Luther League of St. Peter's Lutheran Church took charge of the service which was in the form of an open league meeting. Dale Beckstead, as Chairman, opened the meeting with Scripture reading and all joined in singing the hymn. (The Life of Moses.)

The topic was presented by three different members, Miss Meda Whitteker gave a paper on Life Before and during the Life of Christ, dwelling on the Life of Moses with the children of Israel.

Harold Cronmiller presented a short paper on leadership and Ernest Merrican in his very eloquent manner gave some poems on Moses, concluding with the Burial of Moses and then led in a discussion, after which everyone could carry home a thorough outline of the Life of Moses.

Prayer was led by Mrs. G. L. Barclay and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON IV
CHRISTIAN MOTIVES FOR ABSTINENCE
(International Temperance Sunday)
Luke 1: 13-16; 2 : 40; 4 :4; 6 : 21, 25, 43-45.

GOLDEN TEXT—For the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. Rom. 14:17.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—The announcement of the angel concerning the birth of John the Baptist took place approximately 6 B.C.; our Lord's temptation occurred in January or February, A.D. 27; the teaching of Christ recorded in Luke 6 was given in the early summer of A.D. 28.

Place—The annunciation to Zacharias was in the temple in Jerusalem; the temptation of our Lord occurred in a wilderness, possibly on the east bank of the Jordan River; the Sermon on the Mount was delivered not far from the city of Capernaum.

In this lesson we have an opportunity for thoroughly considering what might be called a life of self-discipline, a life in which the will of God is allowed to have first place. Few today are called upon to live ascetically, as did John the Baptist; yet we are called upon to live in the power of the Holy Spirit, to grow not only in body and mind, but in the grace of God as well, to be so filled with the things that are good and noble and true that our lives will indeed bear abundant fruit.

The Angelic Announcement

Luke 1: 13. But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: because thy supplication is heard, and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John. 14. And thou shalt have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth. 15. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and he shall drink no wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Spirit, even from his mother's womb. 16. And many of the children of Israel shall he turn unto the Lord their God. It is of holy parents that God would take a holy child. The double lesson for every parent, and specially for every mother, is of the deepest interest. Study the story of John's birth. Study it in connection with the story of Jesus' birth. The Baptist is to drink neither wine nor any intoxicating liquor other than wine. He is to be a Nazirite not only for a time as was usual, but for all his life as Samuel and Samson. In place of the excitement of strong drink he is to have the supernatural inspiration of the Holy Spirit.

The Perfect Boy

Luke 2: 40. And the child grew, and waxed strong, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him. Luke alone records these words regarding the Lord's childhood—he has told us the essential things and not the incidental. Jesus is presented in the things that are common to all childhood, and not in the things which separate one child from another. Jesus grew in body, mind and personality.

Luke 4: 4. And Jesus answered unto him, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone. There is nothing in which man is so vitally interested, if he is at all intelligent and sane, as the subject of life, his own life, richness of life, fullness of life, satisfaction in life, abundant life, as summed up in the commonly used, often-abused phrase, "This is life." Now it should be carefully observed that the Lord Jesus himself continually talked to men about this very subject of life—life now, and life to come, abundance of life. He came that men might have life, and no teacher ever appeared on earth who taught men how they ought really to live to get out of life all that is in it as did the Lord Jesus. Physical life is sustained by bread, as he recognizes, but physical life is not all there is to life. A man has more than a body; he has a soul. Bread will never meet the needs of the soul. The word of God alone is able to meet the needs of a man's soul, strengthening him, guiding him, filling him with hope, energizing him for service, delivering him from the power of sin.

Hunger or Fullness?

Luke 2: 21. Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled. There is no hunger without food to match it; no soul hungering and thirsting after the righteousness of God without God to meet and match it. Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh. Blessed, in other words, are the men who are deeply touched by the sorrow and pain of life, whose ear is ever open to the cry of the fallen by the way; who have a wide and active sympathy with all who are distressed in mind, body and estate. These people are the salt of the earth.

25. Woe unto you, ye that are full now! For ye shall hunger. All those worldly things that satisfy now will prove an absolute disappointment in the end. Woe unto you, ye that laugh now! for ye shall mourn and weep. Jesus warns these people whose sole delight is in the things of this world, chasing pleasure after pleasure. Their gospel is that the future and eternity will take care of themselves. Jesus warns them that they will mourn and weep when it is too late.

Good and Evil

Luke 6: 43. For there is no good tree that bringeth forth corrupt fruit; nor again a corrupt tree that bringeth forth good fruit. 44. For each tree is known by its own fruit. For of thorns men do not gather figs, nor of a bramble bush gather they grapes. Good deeds can only come from a good heart. It is often said that Christ's teaching is unlike that of his apostles in that he puts stress on works and says little of faith, but how does he regard works? As fruits, that is to say, they are of value in his eyes only as being products and manifestations of character. Here is sufficiently set forth the great central truth of Christian ethics—that this inward disposition is the one important thing, and that deeds are determined as to their moral quality by the character from which they have proceeded. 45. The good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and the evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth that which is evil; for out of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.

RADIO REPORTER

By DAVE ROBBINS

Canadian radio stations operate on daylight time)

ON CURRENT EVENTS

The popularity of Prof. E. T. Salmon's Sunday talks on International Affairs have resulted in that capable gentleman being moved to a nightly spot on CKOC —to bring to Canadian radio listeners a comprehensive picture of the daily happenings in all parts of the world, in the struggle of right against might!

Prof. Salmon is a member of the faculty of McMaster University, and served for a number of years with the British diplomatic service in Central Europe, as a King's Messenger. Speaking the languages of a number of Central European countries and having had direct contact with their political leaders for some years, Prof. Salmon understands their outlook and ambitions and is particularly authorized to analyze the activities in that part of the world at this critical time.

Every Canadian will have a better understanding of the moves on the European checker-board by listening to Prof. Salmon from CKOC — 1120 on the dial —each weeknight at 7.15 (daylight).

AROUND THE DIAL

Bob Crosby and his Dixieland Music Shop is introducing a number of smart new tunes on the Caravan show Thursday evenings —tunes that will be heard in Crosby's latest picture, "Let's Make Music". Two of the tunes, "You Forgot Me" and "Dry Bones," have plenty of public appeal.

The Caravan is heard over WBEN Thursdays at 7.30 p.m. (standard).

On Friday nights the Canadian chain now offers a series of radio dramas that make good listening. The program is known as Canadian Theatre of the Air — and goes out of the CBC network at 10.30 (daylight).

And don't forget that Edward G. Robinson and Ona Munson are back with the Big Town show on Wednesday nights at nine (daylight). This pair of gangbusters can always be depended on for a good half-hour of entertainment.

Big Town is heard in Ontario from CFRB.

Sunday Symphony

The New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, under the baton of John Barbirolli is back again for their Sunday afternoon concerts—concerts that are without peer on the air. A feature of this year's series will be guest soloists that will include Jose Iturbi, Nathan Milstein and other outstanding artists. Classics by the masters is an apt description of this enjoyable program. This feature is heard Sundays at 4 p.m. (daylight) from CKOC.

News Tip

Don't be surprised to hear any day that the NBC and Columbia chains have recalled their representatives from Germany. The lies foisted on United States newsmen by the Reich propaganda chief are entirely too tall to expect anyone to believe, so the network heads on this side are plotting a general recall from Hitlerland.

More Good Music

For the folks who like good music the CBC chain has several class programs on the fall schedule. Among the features listed is the Salonaires, presenting a half-hour of cafe music on Saturday evenings at 9 — the Toronto Symphony is heard on Friday nights at 8.30 — Grenadier Guards band from Montreal Mondays at 9.30 p.m. — and the CBC String ensemble will take the air lanes henceforth on Thursday evenings at eight.

Burn Weed Seeds After Threshing

John D. MacLeod, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture, outlines safe methods in disposing of weed seeds.

The main objective in the control of noxious weeds should be to prevent reinfestation, states John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

Immediately after the threshing operation has been completed all refuse containing weed seeds should be placed in tightly woven sacks and disposed of in such a manner as will destroy the germinating power of all seed. This may be accomplished by rotting, burning or chopping. A hole may be dug in the ground and all refuse buried deeply. A pit may be dug from 3 to 4 feet deep with a board enclosure around it 3 to 4 feet high. Weed seeds may be dumped into this pit which should be covered with chicken wire or screen to prevent birds from gaining an entrance. Weed seeds will be thoroughly soaked by fall rains, and the heating and rotting process which will take place will destroy all weed seeds.

Home-Made Incinerator

A home made incinerator may be constructed by removing the top from an oil drum and providing a draught door and grate at the bottom. Waste oil poured on weed seeds and light bulky refuse will permit air to enter and help the burning process. A large tile, part of a smoke stack or any container which will stand lots of heat could also be used.

Larger Ones for Food

All weed seeds which will pass through a weed screen with a perforation of one-fourteenth of an inch in diameter should be removed from the grain with the threshing and fanning mill before the grain is chopped, rolled or fed whole. Many of these small weed seeds are harmful to livestock and difficult to chop and should be destroyed by a rotting process as has been previously outlined. Weed seeds included in this group are Wild Mustard, Worm Seed Mustard, Small Seeded False Flax, Pigweed, Plantain, Lamb Quarters, Bladder Campion, Chicory, Ohite Cockle, Catch Fly, Cinquefoil, Ribgrass, and Ox-eye Daisy.

Some of the larger weed seeds such as Wild Buckwheat, Wild Oats and Wild Vetches have a certain amount of food value and may be used for the feeding of livestock providing they are chopped fine. The plates of the chopper should be in good condition and set close. Choppers of the hammer mill type will make a more thorough job when chopping grains containing weed seeds.

POP — Well, Shut the Door

R.A.F. EXPERTS LEARN GERMAN AIR SECRETS

Many of the German planes shot down in the Battle of Britain have not been total losses. This one, LEFT, was repaired by Royal Air Force experts and flown by R.A.F. test pilots to get valuable data on these planes. This one is a Messerschmitt 110, Germany's best fighting plane. It mounts four machine-guns in the nose and a cannon under the cockpit. The British Spitfire mounting eight machine-guns in the wings which deliver deadly cross-fire, are said to be more than a match for the Messerschmitt in sky fighting. A Royal Air Force expert is shown, RIGHT, examining the gas tank from a German JU-88 bombing plane brought down in a raid on England. The tank is of the self-sealing kind that may be shot through with bullets and still retain the fuel. Various layers of vulcanized rubber, self-sealing rubber, chrome leather and fibre make up the tank. R.A.F. experts declared this one is a complicated affair and less efficient than the self-sealers used by the R.A.F.

Chief Manganese Sources Here?

Nova Scotia Field May Have To Supply Empire's Need of This War Material Now That Dakar is Gone

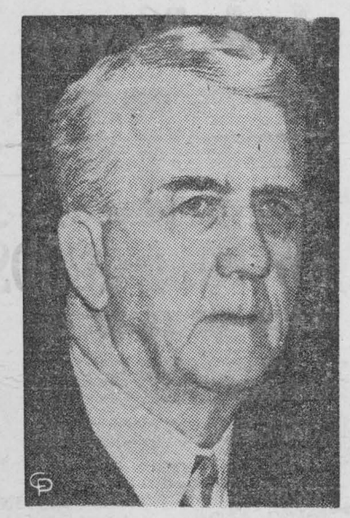

Possibility Nova Scotia may replace Dakar as the Empire's source of maganese essential war metal, was seen last week as the Nova Scotia Mines Minister, Hon. L. D. Currie, announced a Toronto company (Springer Exploration) was surveying manganese deposits in the province. Manganese was mined in Nova Scotia during the first Great War.

NOW CARRY OUT RESEARCH

A month's survey of the field will be made by a geologist who will report the extent of the manganese deposits to the provincial government.

Exploratory work on manganese deposits at Bourlardarie, Loch Lomond, Tennycape and East Mountain has been carried out for more than a year by the provincial government.

R. F. McWilliams, of Winnipeg, has been named lieutenant-governor of Manitoba to succeed Hon. W. J. Tupper. Mr. McWilliams will take office on Nov. 1.

World's Best Soil

On some of the Black Earth region of Southern Russia wheat has been grown for seventy years on end without fertilizer. This is the richest soil in the world, and it covers an area of nearly 150,000,000 acres. It stretches from the Carpathians to the Ural Mountains, and is bounded on the north by the Pinsk Marshes.

Towards the Black Sea its thickness diminishes, but in the centre of this great tract the top three feet of the soil contain as much as 40,000 lb. of nitrogen to the acre. The best soil in England has little more than a quarter of this nitrogen content.

There are patches of prairie land in Manitoba which are almost equally fertile; while the depth of rich soil in the valley of the lower Mississippi makes this one of the most fertile regions on earth.

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

1. Should the host and hostess always supply new decks of cards for a bridge party?
2. When a player makes a mistake in a bridge game, is it permissable for another player to call his attention to it?
3. Please name six or seven things that a person may eat with the fingers?
4. On what social occasions is a man privileged to wear a business suit?
5. Is it all right for a hostsess to serve her guests with the same dish she has served them on a former occasion?
6. Is a man permitted to "cut in" at a dance when he has never been introduced to the girl?

Answers

1. Yes, always, and for a poker party too. To throw out a soiled dilapidated deck of cards would be about the same as if the host were unshaven and wearing a soiled, wrinkled shirt. 2. No. Criticism by one player of another, in any game, is not good sportsmanship. 3. Bread, crackers, cookies, candy, salted nuts, olives, celery. 4. He may wear a business suit to any informal occasion before 6 p.m., an informal luncheon breakfast, etc. 5. Yes, and particularly if she knows they enjoyed it. 6. No.

What Science Is Doing

X-RAY COST REDUCED

A new "candid" X-ray camera which can photograph the chest and other parts of the body on a small film will be used in U. S. army physical examinations during the coming draft. The machine reduces the picture through a special fast lens from the usual 14 inch by 17 inch full size negative to one only four inches long.

With it ten times the number of men can be examined at the same cost now required with the larger film.

LIQUEFIED NATURAL GAS

A method to liquefy natural gas and store it as a water-colored fluid at 250 below zero was reported last week to the American Gas Association.

The liquid gas means doing away with the huge gas tanks that dot the horizon of great cities. A tank 13 feet square holds as much liquified gas as a big dome of 15,000,000 cubic feet.

The liquid gas serves the same heating and cooking purposes as ordinary natural gas, merely being warmed up to flow into the mains in its natural state.

CAN DETECT RICKETS

A new test to detect rickets even in newborn babies was described before the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association.

The disease, due to too little vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, causes malformation of all the bones of the body and results in retardation of growth.

FEMALE PAIN

Women who suffer painful, irregular periods with nervous, moody spells due to functional cause should find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound simply marvelous to relieve such distress. Pinkham's Compound is made especially to help weak, tired women to go smiling thru difficult days. Over 1,000,000 women have reported amazing benefits. WELL WORTH TRYING!

This Is Season Of Barn Fires

Their Prevention Is Essential—Here's How To Go About Avoiding Them

Advice on how to prevent barn fires during threshing time, was given last week by Prof. William C. Blackwood, head of the department of agriculture engineering at the O.A.C.

SPRAY THE STRAW

Electric sparks in a threshing machine can cause fire on striking the right proportion of dust and air, he said. This danger can be avoided by grounding the machine, said Prof. Blackwood, who also said blower fires can be avoided by spraying about five gallons of water to every ton of straw. This amount of water will not harm the straw, nor cause spontaneous combustion, he said.

He thought is a wise practice to insist that men who work in barns or on stacks do not carry matches in their pockets and no one should be allowed to smoke near the barn.

HEALTH TOPICS

Whole Wheat Bread Is More Nourishing

That most of the bread consumed in Canadian cities is capable of considerable improvement in the interests of war-time health and efficiency is indicated by an article appearing in the current issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal over the signature of E. W. McHenry, Ph. D., of the University of Toronto.

It is, of course, generally known that whole-wheat bread is of greater nutritional value than white bread, but the fact has not made the darker colored loaf popular. Dr. McHenry therefore proposes that the value of white flour be raised by adding wheat germ or yeast of high vitamin content. This can be done without affecting the color of the resultant loaf, he declares.

Special Nutritive Quality

The special nutritive quality of whole wheat bread lies in the fact that it retains vitamin and mineral contents which, to a very large extent, are removed by modern milling processes. Vitamin B complex, which is absolutely essential to health is reduced to about one third of its original quality in the course of milling, for instance.

A survey of 100 families of low incomes in Toronto, he says, reveals that even the best fed members fall far below the satisfactory margin in their daily intake of Vitamin B1, a condition which he finds reason to believe is general.

Dr. McHenry repeates that the intake of Vitamin B1 would be increased if people ate whole wheat bread, but since they decline to do so other methods must be found, and experiments have shown that bread containing five per-cent wheat germ has noticeable effect on growth and nutrition.

High Cost of Killing

It cost about 75 cents to kill a man in Caesar's time. The price rose to about $3000 per man during the Napoleonic wars; to $5000 in the American Civil War; and then to $21,000 per man in the World War. Estimates for the present war indicate that it may cost the warring countries not less than $50,000 for each man killed.

Mother: "Yes, the electric light meter."

There are several distinct things
girls dislike about men,
But most is their characteristic
tendency to remark, "I hope
I'll see you again"—
Without saying when.

Standard Potato Bags

Now that the height of the season for potato grading, packing and shipping, is here, the fruit and vegetable division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture offers the reminder that a change in standard potato bag sizes became effective last season. It became illegal to use the old 80 and 90 pound bags. Standard potato bag weights are now 100 pounds, 75 pounds, 50 pounds, 25 pounds and 15 pounds.

When potatoes are packed in paper bags in retail stores for sale convenience, they should be packed in multiples o ffive pounds, that is to say, five ten or fifteen pounds.

All potato bags must be properly marked to indicate the name and address of the packer, the proper designation of the grade, and the net weight when packed.

Should Ride Free

(Stirling News-Argus)

Free transportation for members of the Active Service Force is being advocated by the press and various organizations in different parts of the province. Although hitch-hiking is against the Highway Traffic law of the province, each week end finds the main highways lined with soldiers thumbing their way either to their homes or back to camp. When one considers the great sacrifices being made by these boys in giving up their various occupations to go to the defence of their country, it does seem that they should be given free rides at least, on our nationally owned railway. The Stirling village Council unanimously endorsed a resolution at their meeting recently asking the Dominion Government to take the mater under consideration. In doing so, we feel they were but reflecting the opinion of a great majority of the Stirling citizens.

The 'b' in debt is silent, and was undoubtedly put there for the sole purpose of suplying the sting.

C.N.E. WINNER GIVES HER RECIPE FOR Rolls

MRS. W. NORRIS, BOLTON, ONT.

The first prize for the best plate of rolls (8 in assorted shapes) at the 1940 Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, went to Mrs. Wardlaw Norris, R.R. 3, Bolton, Ontario. And every woman will want to know how she made her rolls. Here's her advice and recipe:

"One secret of making good rolls or bread is to keep the temperature right while the dough is rising. Then to regulate the oven so they bake to an even golden colour. Another important point is to use Robin Hood Flour. I have used Robin Hood for four years and I find it is always of the same high quality. Robin Hood Flour makes the dough very elastic and easy to shape into fancy designs. It also makes the rolls very white and fine of texture. Tempting to look at and delicious to eat. Another great advantage of using Robin Hood Flour is that you are always delighted with all the baking you turn out."

PRIZEWINNING RECIPE
USED BY MRS. NORRIS

1½ cups milk, scalded and cooled to 90° F.
1 tbsp. sugar
1 yeast cake broken into milk (Compressed or Quick yeast)
Make into sponge, and set away until risen to double its bulk.
Add ¼ cup granulated sugar
1 tbsp. salt
4 tbsps. shortening
1 egg white and ¼ cup luke warm water
Mix thoroughly and add to sponge
Work in enough Robin Hood Flour to handle easily; knead well
Let rise to double in bulk
Shape into buns and let rise until light
Bake in a moderate oven 350°

If you haven't been using Robin Hood Flour here's your chance to try it with this prize-winning recipe. You will realize right from the start that Robin Hood is away ahead of ordinary flours. Everything you bake will look nicer, taste better and your Robin Hood Flour will go farther too!

IN MEMORIAM

CASSELMAN—In sad and loving memory of a dear husband and father, Michael G. Casselman, who passed away October 27, 1939.

One year hath passed away dear,
Since you were called away;
How well do we remember that sad
and weary day.
You suffered much, you murmered not.
We watched you day by day,
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

HURT IN COLLISION

Donald Crawford of Kemptville, received cuts and abrasions on his knees and nose when the car in which he was a passenger collided with a Colonial Coach bus at the north end of Kemptville on Tuesday night, as it was coming out of a side road on to the highway. W. A. Perry of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, driver of the car, received a bruise on the head. Robert Graham of Kemptville, another passenger was unhurt. The car which struck the bus near the front door was quite badly damaged.

IDEALS

Behind the symbol lies the soul of things,
The unseen pattern, first formed in the mind,
We can't express the highest life contains,
If to the perfect pattern we are blind.

We cannot burn ideals at the stake,
Nor can they be immuned within the tomb,
Disturbers of man's peace—they do not die,
But in the awakened mind, usurp the room.

The surf of phantom ships, forever beat
Upon the shadowy shores of seeking mind,
The vital tide, on which forever floats
Thoughts, too profound for simple words to find.

For after sight of sea, the river palls,
A Divine discontent, our comfort mars,
Between the morn of joy, and night of tears,
We see a living fountain reach the stars.

—Dorothy Sproule.

Mrs. George Foster

On Sunday, October 20th, there passed away at her home at Strader's Hill, Mrs. George E. Foster, in her 75th year. The deceased was born in Elizabeth Township Leeds Co., a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foxton.

The late Mrs. Foster was a very devoted mother and had many personal friends, who will regret to learn of her passing. She is survived by her husband and one son, Alonzo, on the homestead; one brother, Alonzo Foxton, of Elizabeth Township. The funeral service was held at her late residence on Tuesday. Rev. G. O. Davies of St. James Church, Morrisburg, being in charge. Interment was made in Brinston cemetery. The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers:

Messrs. Herb. Hanson, J. F. Casselman, Esley Pitt, Bernice Strader, Wilbert Strader and Thomas Cunningham. Many beautiful floral pieces were received from friends of the deceased.

Mr. Lyell D. Robinson

A large and representative gathering from Williamsburg, Ottawa, Hull and Buckingham paid tribute to the memory of Lyell D. Robinson, well-known Buckingham resident and business man, at the funeral last Sunday afternoon. Proceeding from his residence, the lengthy cortege travelled to St. Andrew's United Church, where service was conducted by Rev. R. C. Eakin, pastor, assisted by Rev. Donald Nicholson, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Burial was made in the Church Cemetery.

Mr. Robinson was popular in Buckingham, having been the destributing agent for Producer's Dairy, Ltd., Ottawa, for the past eleven years.

Born in Williamsburg on April 2, 1882, he was the eldest son of the late George Robinson, and Marcella Loucks. His early life was given to farming. He was later a cheesemaker in Quebec and Ontario.

He married the former Rhoda Smith, daughter of the late Daniel Smith, of Buckingham, on June 8, 1904.

Besides his widow he is survived by one daughter (Ella) Mrs. Charles McDonald, of Buckingham; one sister, Mrs. Wilbert Strader, of Williamsburg and two grandchildren.

Included in the many floral offerings were pieces from the staff of Producer's Dairy and Producer's Dairy, Ltd., Ottawa.
