Rural expression takes root in artistic passions

Lapp following dad's footsteps

RUSSELL — Like father like son.

When Mike Lapp, 45, was a teen, his father was the art teacher at the high school he attended. And according to Lapp, when a parent taught at your school, you didn't take that course.

"It was one of those unwritten rules," he admits.

So it went, that through most of his teen years Lapp only satisfied his artist curiosity by using dad's stuff when dad wasn't around.

"But then one day I finally told him. I told him I always wanted to try that," said Lapp. "So he went and got his stuff and that was it. That was my formal education, and everything he taught me was true.

After high school, Lapp went on to study art and literature at Western University in London, Ontario.

"I wasn't the greatest student," Lapp said. "I started working in art while I was in university, so I'd leave school then go back and try to be square, and then I'd leave again. But eventually it all added up to a degree."

After graduation Lapp became the art teacher at Osgoode Township High School, where he taught all grades for six years. Lapp left teaching to pursue a full-time art career.

Lapp describes his oil paintings as telling a story, but not simply through illustration. "My work uses the importance of time and light to gel together and become like a story."

Though he continues to paint figures and landscapes, he has also taken to photography in the last few years. He says sometimes while he paints, he feels life passes by too quickly while he concentrates on the moment he is working on. He finds with photography he is able to capture many moments and enjoys the immediacy of photographs.

Lapp made his start in photography two years ago for the advancement of his art. He found that while living in Crysler he was distanced from contacts who could help him to exhibit his work. And so he felt the need to do as most artists do and decided he should document himself and his work through a biography and pictures.

"When I first got my camera, I had never owned a camera before in my life," said Lapp. "And for awhile I really screwed up. My pictures would come back orange and all off-centre. It was bad."

Then one day while at the Ottawa School of Art, Lapp saw a flyer for a workshop on 'How to Document Your Art.' The workshop was given by one of Ottawa's premiere art photographers, Justin Wonnacott.

"Seeing his stuff and watching him work was just the opposite of the technical nightmare I had been experiencing."

He went on to learn more from Wonnacott and has become quite accomplished with his camera since, but admits that he has not yet documented his paintings.

Lapp participated in Russell Artists Co-Operative's recent Autumn in the Country art show where he featured some of his paintings, life drawings and photographs.

Dream realized after 10 years

by Michele Sherren
Special to the Press

OSGOODE — Margaret Bremner finally closed a chapter that began 10 years ago.

Bremner, illustrator of the children's book The Quest, finally saw published pen and ink drawings on a project which was originally supposed to be released almost a decade previously.

''Another publishing company wanted to publish it, and then decided they weren't going to,'' said Bremner.

''Then, Nine Pines Publishing heard of this project that was sort of half finished, and they decided to take it up.''

Nine Pines Publishing, a Manotick company, released The Quest just last week. It is authored by children's writer Gail Radley, who lives in Florida.

The 55-page spiritual fantasy features 20 full-page pen and ink illustrations. It tells of a heroine, Lona, who seeks truth and enlightenment through her search for ''the Friend.''

''Since the book was for young people, I tried to make the illustrations co-ordinate with something on the facing page,'' said Bremner. ''I think it generally worked out very well.''

She said her biggest difficulty was trying to match her drawing style of 10 years ago.

''I reworked some of the old drawings,'' said Bremner. ''I put some of the new style in the old drawings, and some of the old style in the new drawings.

''It was interesting to see how much my style had changed, actually.''

This is Bremner's first book, though she has created artwork for several magazines, including Canadian Forum, Working Mother, and several Canadian literary magazines.

''Usually with a magazine, it is a single image. But there has to be continuity with a book.''

Bremner is a member of the Manotick Art Association, and participates in the local Dam Art Show.

She graduated from the University of Saskatchewan with a Bachelor of Fine Arts in 1977. During that time, she discovered the Baha'i faith, which plays a part in her art.

''I drew a picture of different buildings in the world in one image, to signify that the world is one place,'' she said.

''I guess I like universal themes rather than localities.''

Bremner says she works with circles a lot, for they are a universal symbol of wholeness and unity.

With the last of her three daughters having just entered Junior Kindergarten, Bremner says she is trying to make art as much of a full-time job as she can.

While she has no special projects with other authors, she is planning on conducting art classes for local children this year. For more information on her art classes, please call 826-0597.

The Quest is available for $12.95 at Nine Pines Publishing.

Artist uses Russell exhibition to receive feedback on paintings

Anne Craig
Special to the Press

RUSSELL— Boats mooring at a dock, the water an azure blue. A tree lost in the middle of nowhere. Pink petunias crowding each other, reaching for the sun. An old brick building in the middle of a quaint, sunwashed village. These are just some of the images captured by local artist Pina Rennick.

First-time exhibitor Rennick was admittedly nervous about displaying her art at Autumn in the Country Russell's annual art show and sale, but says she wanted to get feedback on her work.

Rennick has been painting since childhood. Her father used to draw and Rennick then found that she had artistic talent of her own. Growing up in Italy, one of her favorite memories is working on a map in geography class and having to draw little churches on it. That is where her skill for drawing first became noticeable.

Now Rennick works in watercolor and also in oils. She mainly paints landscapes and flowers but is taking classes to improve her drawings and paintings of the human form and buildings.

"There was always something missing in my life," Rennick admits. "This is something that I could do every day."

It takes her about one afternoon to complete a watercolor but a great deal of time is spent before she starts painting, setting up the picture and determining the best angle to paint it from.

She also says there are times when she could be driving somewhere and sees something that she really wants to paint. A lot of the time, this becomes her next project.

Sometimes Rennick will receive postcards or photographs from friends and this will become her next landscape painting. A lot of her landscapes were painted this way. She admits that she usually paints whatever captures her fancy.

"My dream is to earn a living painting," Rennick explains, "and I would also like to have my own studio." Painting is a way of escape for her and also is a big stress reliever.

Both of her sons also share artistic talent. Seventeen-year-old Mark and Jonathan, 13, have "always liked art," Rennick says but she would never push her sons into it. "They should discover it on their own."

She had never before this first show, let anyone see her work except her family and close friends. This was her first test. But she says that criticism and compliments from other artists are very necessary for improving her work.

"There is a piece of myself in every one of these paintings," says Rennick. "It is going to be hard to sell some of them because they are a part of me."

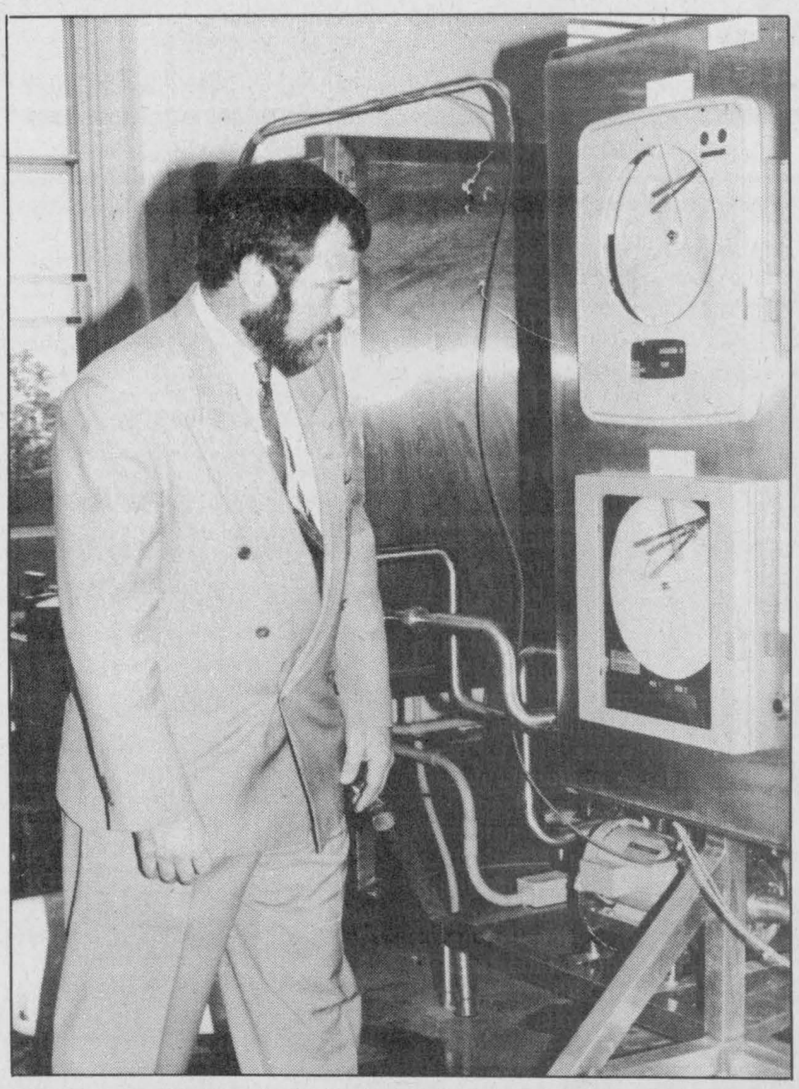
Minister of Agriculture opens KCAT expansion



Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food, Elmer Buchanan takes a closer look at the HTST pasteurizer.

KEMPTVILLE — Ontario's Minister of Agriculture and Food Elmer Buchanan visited Kemptville College Oct. 1 to officially open four new and expanded facilities at the college.

Approximately $15,000 from jobsOntario capital funds was received to renovate the former Dairy Herd Improvement Lab, to establish the Food and Dairy Industry Training Lab and to fund the installation of a High Temperature, Short Time (HTST) pasteurizer in the college's Gibson Hall dairy plant. The HTST pasteurizer was funded by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and TetraPac, a Canadian processing company, donated a state-of-the-art magflow metering system.

The Food and Dairy Industry Training Lab, the pasteurizer and dairy plant are used by the dairy industry, the Food Science Section at Kemptville College and the Dairy, Fruit and Vegetable Industries Inspection Branch of OMAF for training purposes.

"This is a prime example of what can be achieved with co- operative efforts among the dairy industry, government, and private industry in their continued support for training and research for the benefit of the dairy industry in Ontario," said Buchanan about the training lab and dairy plant.

The main building of the college's Power and Equipment Centre has been expanded to include a 1,750 square foot workshop extension and 8,000 square feet of office and classroom space at a cost of approximately $1 million provided through Ontario Government capital funds.

The Power and Equipment Centre provides specialized training for equipment mechanics and users of power equipment found in rural Ontario. The addition expands on the number and variety of skills upgrading courses offered.

A new Agroforestry Educational Centre has been constructed at a cost of approximately $200,000 from jobsOntario capital funds. The 2,500 square foot centre, situated in a maple sugar bush, features maple syrup production facilities, meeting rooms and kitchen and washroom facilities.

The centre will provide a focus and a base of operations for continuing education and diploma programs in agroforestry as well as to provide educational programs to rural landowners in Eastern Ontario.

"The new facilities unveiled today will undoubtedly add to Kemptville College's reputation as a leader in agricultural training, education and research in Eastern Ontario," said Buchanan during the official opening ceremonies.

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies and tours were held at each facility with the official opening ceremonies and reception held at the W.B. George Centre at noon.

Taking part in one of four ribbon cutting ceremonies were: Linda Reesbeck, Head of Food Sciences; John Curtis, former KCAT Director; Doug Jamieson, education programs General Manager; Elmer Buchanan, Minister; Noble Villeneuve, MPP SD&G and east Grenville; and Richard Bird, Dairy Plant Inspection program manager. Cut Waste, Save Jobs

Everyone knows that there is waste and duplication in government, particularly public servants who face this fact each day. But if we cut waste, we don't have to cut public service jobs. The Tory economic plan works for Canadians, not against them.

Gordon Johnson

Chesterville man contests OMMB seat

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

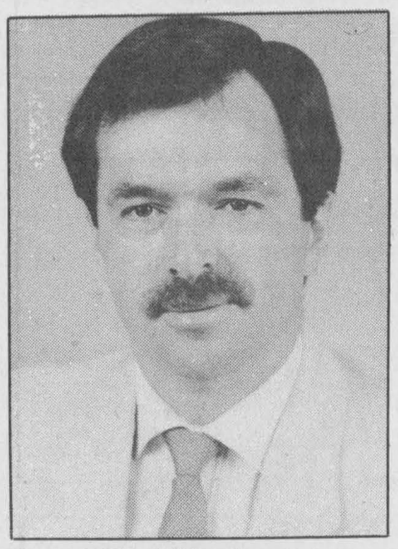
CHESTERVILLE — Chesterville-area dairy farmer Gordon Johnson is contesting the position of Ontario Milk Marketing Board member for Region 2, currently held by Grenville County farmer, Paul Henderson.

Involved with the Dundas Milk Committee in various capacities since 1981, Johnson says he feels he could make a contribution to the dairy industry as a director. He is currently operating a 440-acre, 60-cow dairy farm with his son, Chris and adds he wants to ensure the industry remains intact for his son and his family.

With his son now working full-time on the farm, it gives Johnson more opportunity and time to become involved in the OMMB, he added.

Besides having been both chairman and vice-chairman of the Dundas County Milk Committee in the past, Johnson was also chairman of the now defunct Eastern Ontario Milk Committee (a promotional group). He is currently secretary-treasurer of the Dundas Milk Committee and a member of Winchester Township council.

Paul Henderson, who operates a 350-acre, 58-cow farm in the Spencerville area with his brother and father, has been the Region 2 board member for two terms. He says he is seeking a third term because he finds the job a challenge and likes to be of assistance to local producers. He also says he feels he's helping the industry work better.



Paul Henderson

The board member for Region 2 represents the milk producers of the four counties of Dundas, Grenville, Leeds and Frontenac. The job includes two monthly board meetings in Mississauga as well as attending monthly county milk committee meetings and OMMB committee meetings.

Henderson is currently serving on the board's metering and quota committees.

Ballots to vote for OMMB Region 2 board member will be mailed out to approximately 830 licensed dairy producers this month.

The position is for a four year term.

School Bus Safety Week

October 18-22, 1993

School's back in session and in the excitement of the new school year, many school-age children, especially the young ones, may forget to look both ways when crossing the street or exiting the school bus.

That leaves it up to you as a driver to be extra careful around schoolyards, neighborhood play areas, and departing school buses.

Iroquois woman one of thirty enrolled in fifth AALP classes

Corry Martens

GUELPH — 'Responsibility and accountability'. According to Murray Stewart, chairman of the Agricultural Leadership Trust, "These are essential for leadership in rural Ontario today." Stewart, in his address to the fifth class of the Advanced Agricultural Leadership Program, stressed the need for leaders who are willing to accept the challenge.

Corry Martens, RR 1, Iroquois was one of 30 men and women selected from across Ontario to take part in the Advanced Agricultural Leadership Program, who met in Guelph, Sept. 27-29 to begin their leadership training. They represent a broad spectrum of agricultural backgrounds — farming, agri-business, farm finance and education.

Over the next 18 months these individuals, who hold various leadership positions in their communities, will learn the skills referred to by Stewart and examine issues of concern to agriculture and Canadian society. They will be involved in seminars in several locations throughout Ontario, and participate in both a North American and international study tour, observing a wide variety of issues and leadership styles.

The purpose of the Advanced Agricultural Leadership Program is to develop leaders who will work to maintain the strength of Ontario's agri-food industry. The program is administered by the Agricultural Leadership Trust — a partnership of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, University of Guelph, Ontario Federation of Agriculture, and Foundation for Rural Living.

Funding is provided by the trust, rural and agricultural organizations, and participant tuition fees.

Workshop participants update screening criteria

AVONMORE — About 40 people gathered Sat., Oct. 2 to discuss what's important in landfill siting for SD&G.

The workshop, on screening criteria for a landfill site, was the third in a series of full-day public workshops held by the SD&G Waste Management Master Plan (WMMP).

The group is a co-operative planning effort undertaken by SD&G's 20 municipalities to determine how to divert and dispose of waste in SD&G over the next 40 years. It is looking for a site of approximately 100 acres.

Workshop participants came from Bainsville, Morrisburg, Iroquois, Finch, Moose Creek, Chesterville, Monkland, Winchester, Kenyon and more.

"We were pleased to see people from all over the counties," says study co-ordinator Anne MacGillivray. "We just wish there would have been more in attendance. Several who pre-registered just couldn't make it at the last minute, but we'll continue to keep people informed with the help of our local media."

Comment sheets from the workshop indicate that everyone who attended found the workshop useful and interesting.

The participants discussed and made changes to the draft screening criteria for landfill site selection — the criteria that are used as guides in looking for candidate areas for landfill.

Matters discussed included: protection of groundwater, agricultural land, wetlands, municipal drains and soil quality, community resources, mapping accuracy and more. There was a consensus on changes to several of the soil criteria, and many suggestions for more data sources that will be useful in a more detailed site search.

The criteria will be revised, based on the public input, and will be used as guides in searching for suitable candidate areas for landfill. Many participants pointed out that they wanted a more exact definition of protective setback distances, and a more exact definition of what Ministry of Environment and Energy guidelines must be followed, as well as guidelines from other Ministries.

"What we lacked in numbers was partly made up for by the great level of participation," says MacGillivray. "We hope that as we proceed in this plan we'll continue to see more and more people coming out. In any case, we'll keep people posted on what's happening, and our regular Steering and Public Liaison Committee meetings are advertised and are open to anyone who wishes to attend."

The revised criteria should be ready by November, according to the study consultant, Paul Rennick of MacViro Consultants, and will be presented for comment to the study so that the search for candidate areas for landfill can continue.

Region could assume control of Nixon Drive

OSGOODE - The township says turning Osgoode village's Nixon Drive into a regional road would better serve the needs of the residents who live there, especially in the winter months.

"People use Nixon Drive in the early morning hours to commute to Ottawa," said township works superintendent Arie Bakker.

"In the winter, sometimes we don't get out there early enough to plow the roads."

Regional plows have a turnaround time of about three hours, compared to the township's time of eight, which means the region might be better equipped to service the road for residents who drive to work in the morning. The region also plows through the night.

"During the summer, there wouldn't be a difference in service," said Bakker. "We service the road in the summer as well as anybody could."

Bakker made a presentation to the region about two years ago. The proposal has been neither rejected nor accepted by the region at this point.

Nixon Drive was a regional road until the early 1980s, says Bakker, when the township and the region swapped roads to create regional roads 114, 25 and 6.

The road meets all the criteria for becoming a regional road. It links Osgoode and Rideau (Roger Stevens Drive) townships.

Protection of Mineral Resources in Ottawa-Carleton
Future growth and change in the Ottawa-Carleton region requires access to locally-available construction materials, such as sand, gravel, and stone. The official plans of the Region and local municipalities contain policies to protect these resources, primarily by prohibiting development on them until after the resources are exhausted and the site rehabilitated.
It is now time for a review of these policies. The study has been underway for several months. The consultant and staff have proposals for the criteria for determining which resources should be protected vs. which should be eliminated. These criteria include such constraints as: the depth of overburden, the type or quality of material, environmental values, and proximity of existing or planned development. The study's final report, which will include identification of aggregate areas recommended for protection, will be the subject of another round of meetings in early 1994. Official plan amendments will be drafted later for further public consultation.
In order to meet the public, to share information collected to date, and to discuss proposed criteria, the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton and the various area municipalities are holding three Public Open Houses:
East - Navan Arena, 1295 Colonnial Road, Navan
Monday, October 18 - 6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Central - Manotick Arena, 5572 Dr. Leach Drive, Manotick
Wednesday, October 20 - 6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
West - W. Erskine Johnson Arena, 3928 Carp Road, Carp
Thursday, October 21 - 6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Those attending will be able to talk with consultants and staff, including those of the Ministry of Natural Resources, and to provide information and ideas. Copies of the Interim Report will also may be requested. Those not able to attend can call their area municipal planning department or Carol Christensen or Frank Kumapley, Regional Planning Department at 560-2053 or Community Relations 560-1229 (24-hours voice mail).

Years of expertise brought to eatery

by Michelle Valiquet
Press News Editor

WINCHESTER — Winchester's newest restaurant, Ryan's Restaurant, is a family affair.

Located on Hwy. 31, across from Rideau Auctions, Ryan's is run by the Bajraktari family. "We had several restaurants in Ottawa for many years," explains Lule Bajraktari, who shares in the operation with her parents and two sisters. "But when this property became available, we all thought it would be a nice area to work in."

Bajraktari says the building, which had formerly housed a restaurant and then a furniture store, was in need of renovations before the family could open its doors.

"We wanted to make it a warm and inviting place to come so the first thing we did was paint the whole inside," she says.

Along with a fresh coat of paint, Bajraktari added pastel floral curtains, attractive framed prints and comfortable chairs around well-spaced tables. Seating for 25 is available as well as a bar area.

Although the restaurant specializes in steak, seafood, Italian cuisine and pizza, the eatery, which opened Sept. 18, is also making a name for itself by offering an old-fashioned ice cream parlor and a wide range of homemade pies and cakes.

Bajraktari has been surprised by the response to her family's new venture.

"People have been so pleasant. I've been a little overwhelmed with the support we've had already," she explains. "Especially from the seniors, they've been about 40 per cent of our business so far. They seem to appreciate coming to a nice place where they can dress up or come casually dressed."

Working in close quarters with family hasn't created any problems, says Bajraktari. "We do everything together and it gets done quicker."

Open from 6am to 10pm Monday to Friday, and from 7am to 10pm Saturday and Sunday, Ryan's Restaurant also offers a take-out service by calling 774-0544. Senior citizens receive a 15 per cent discount on all meals excluding liquor.

Lule and her father Dod Bajraktari stand in the newly renovated building which houses Ryan's Restaurant on Hwy. 31, near Winchester.

New mammography Unit operative by November

WINCHESTER— The strategic planning process is moving into high gear again. Two sessions are scheduled and the final plan will be formed shortly thereafter.

Planning is important at any time but, with the rapid changes in health care these days, strategic planning is vital. With the Social Contract affecting hospital budgets, a clear direction is imperative.

Winchester District Memorial Hospital has a great team and strategic planning ensures all team members are pulling in the same direction.

On Sat., Sept. 11, the hospital opened its door to the public to show off the newly renovated building. It was a huge success; staff said they counted more than 500 people during the two hours of the open house.

Thank you to all the hospital and medical staff and volunteers who gave of their time to make the day such a success. Thank you also to all the people who attended to view the finished product which their donations made possible.

The fast pace around the hospital will certainly continue with accreditation just around the corner on Nov. 18 and 19.

The new mammography unit has arrived at the hospital and we are now waiting for some of the accessory equipment before testing begins. The unit should be in operation by the middle to the end of November.

We are pleased to be able to offer this service to the community.

Optical scanning is about to start up again in the Health Records Department for patient records. The hospital will be offering the scanning service to the public, for a fee, in the near future.

The scanner is an excellent way of transferring typed documents into the computer in word processed format. Anyone wishing more information should contact the hospital at 774-2420, ext. 250.

Visitors and people waiting for relatives or friends to be seen and treated by a physician or other care giver should note that the cafeteria is open to the public.

The cafeteria is located on the first floor south and is open from 7:30am to 6pm, Monday to Friday, and 11am to 6pm Saturday, Sunday and holidays. Selections available each day are outlined on several menu boards inside and outside the cafeteria.

Pay Cheques, Not Welfare Cheques

The Liberals have promised to increase the deficit. High interest rates will hurt small business and create further unemployment. Reform's idea for deficit reduction will cost jobs and devastate social programs. The Tory economic plan works for Canadians, not against them.

People come first.

Cooks whip up fall fare

METCALFE — Delicious was the word for what area celebrities produced when they were asked to offer an example of their culinary talents at the 137th annual Metcalfe Fair.

Five local 'celebrity cooks' put on their aprons for a celebrity cook-off in the curling club and kept everyone entertained.

Vera Mitchell

Some even dressed for the occasion. Joyce Trask, pastor at Osgoode Baptist United Church in Vernon, sported an apron decorated with tiny handprints, all autographed, from the Sunday school group and dubbed 'Joyce's Helping Hands'.

Joining her in the cook-off were Osgoode Township Councillor Vera Mitchell, Carleton-Gloucester Progressive Conservative candidate Therese McKellar, Metcalfe Curling Club president Colleen Krummins and Rev. Carol Hotte.

The 'cooks' were supposed to demonstrate the preparation of an easy quick meal or dish, something to lend itself to our fast-paced lifestyles.

Vera Mitchell had a fast, simple casserole recipe combining potato chips, canned flakes of chicken and cream of mushroom soup.

Rev. Trask had a wonderful salad to demonstrate and both Krummins and McKellar brought along their favorite stir-fry recipes, chicken and vegetables.

McKellar, a true politician, kept everyone guessing when she was finished.

Carol Hotte, the Anglican rector at Metcalfe and Vernon parishes, admitted to being a "virtual cooking illiterate", but tackled a blueberry waffle recipe supplied by her husband Allan.

The cooks were forced to deal with intermittent power shortages which meant the beaters didn't always work. Hotte's waffler had heating problems but eventually her husband got things back on track, producing beautiful, tasty results.

The popularity of the event obviously proved the way to Metcalfe Fair goers is through their stomachs.

Tommy Hunter wows Maturity Show crowds

Garnet Quail
News Correspondent

The "Fifty Plus" crowd was out in its thousands, yes, tens of thousands, last Thursday and Friday to take in The Great Canadian Maturity Show at Ottawa's Congress Centre. They came from the length and breadth of the Ottawa Valley and beyond to be entertained and advised on topics pertinent to their needs.

Organizers from Today's Seniors, Canada's newspaper for the over 50 group, were amazed and perhaps more than a little overwhelmed by the crowds, especially on Thursday. One of them told me, "We expected large numbers, we always do, but the addition of Tommy Hunter (the day's special guest) to our list has brought them out in numbers far exceeding our expectations:- not our wishes, mind you but certainly our expectations."

The Congress Centre exhibition area was jam-packed with more than 150 booths set up by companies involved with insurance geared to seniors, travel geared to seniors and everything from computer designed insoles to therapeutic, energizing gloves designed to ease the pain associated with arthritis, rheumatism or repetitive movements.

Seniors were afforded an opportunity to meet and discuss the works of 10 well-known local authors from the same age group and to get an insight as to what drives these people.

On the show's main stage there were fashion shows and variety entertainment, all being taken in and enjoyed with polite attention.

It wasn't until 2:45 p.m. that the buzz really started. Shortly after that appointed hour, Master of Ceremonies, Gord Atkinson approached the microphone to introduce Mark Papousek and JoAnne Polak of CKBY's morning show. Their task, as far as the audience was concerned, was even more important. They were there to introduce Canada's long, tall gentleman, Tommy Hunter.

Thunderous applause greeted him as he came on stage and went about doing what he has done for years to endear himself to Canadians from coast to coast; entertain. In his sincere, homey fashion, he soon had them settled into that relaxed toe-tapping, hand-clapping, finger snapping mode, the same one he was capable of placing his audiences in in his many years on television. They loved him and it was quite apparent that he has lost none of the zeal he brings to his chosen profession.

The seniors may have gone to collect information pertinent to their next trip or investment or whatever but ask any one of them who were there what really stands out in their minds. It will very likely be a two word answer. Tommy Hunter.

Woolford nurtures Oak Valley Conservation Area

MOUNTAIN — The September 29 meeting of the Mountain Township seniors was opened by president Herman Jansen with singing O Canada and repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Doris Scharfe read the minutes and Evelyn Francis gave the treasurer's report.

Doris Hyndman gave final information in regards to the trips: Oct. 8 to Buckingham for leaf trip; Nov. 6 to Ottawa for the play You Got To Have Heart; Nov. 16 to Bayshore Shopping Centre.

The zone rally will be Oct. 20 at Matilda Hall at Dixons Corners. It will be pot luck dinner. Remember to take your own dishes and cutlery.

Doris and Mavis gave an interesting detailed report of their trip to the U.S.C.O. convention in August at Sault Ste. Marie.

It was approved to give $200 toward the trip expense. Birthdays and anniversaries were acknowledged. A minute of silence was observed in memory of Nancy Hyndman and Stanley Coleman who recently passed away.

Grace was sung and a delicious dinner was enjoyed by all. The Mountain ladies provided the program. The program opened with two short poems by Orma.

Irene Woolford was introduced. She gave a very interesting talk about a conservation area she has planted and been nurturing at Oak Valley for the past few years.

This was followed with a short question period. She was thanked and a token of appreciation given.

The meeting closed with the reading of a Thanksgiving poem.

The next meeting is Oct. 27 with the South Mountain ladies responsible for the program.

Harvex accepting pesticide containers

GUELPH — Fifty-one sites across Southern Ontario, including locations in Crysler and Kemptville, will accept empty agricultural and commercial pesticide containers for recycling during the weeks of Oct. 12-15 and Oct. 18-22. The collections are part of a joint industry-government program to recycle the empty containers.

Contractor personnel will be on-site at Harvex Agromart locations in both Crysler and Kemptville to inspect and receive clean, triple-rinsed or jet-rinsed and emptied agricultural and commercial pesticide containers, up to 23 litres capacity, during normal business hours, on Oct. 12, 13, 14, and 15.

The collection sites were also open during two weeks in June. "Farmers delivered over 104,000 containers during the June collections," stated Dave Latter, chairman of the Ontario Pesticide Container Management Committee. The Petrolia, Dresden, Ilderton, Holmesville, and Tilbury sites collected over 5,000 containers each. Twenty-six of the 51 sites each collected at least 1,000 containers.

"Farmers are obviously taking their responsiblity to triple- or jet-rinse pesticide containers seriously," said Jeff Wilson, AGCare Chairman. "Just over one per cent of the containers delivered in June were turned away because they were not properly cleaned."

Only clean, triple or jet-rinsed and emptied plastic and metal agricultural and commercial containers will pass inspection and be accepted at the sites. A properly rinsed container contains no visible residue. Clean containers meet Ontario standards for non-hazardous waste, and reduce the cost of recycling.

Rinsing pesticide containers while mixing in the spray tank saves farmers money, and protects the environment. The rinsate is added to the spray tank, so that it will be applied on the field.

Triple or jet-rinsing removes over 99 per cent of the pesticide residue in a container. Without proper rinsing, pesticide containers are classified as hazardous waste, and are unacceptable for recycling.

United Agri-Products of Dorchester, Ontario is the 1993 contractor responsible for operating the sites, and inspecting and transporting the empty pesticide containers.

Plastic containers, up to 23 litres, will be chipped, and metal containers, 20 litres or less, will be crushed for recycling. The containers will be shipped for processing into rural end-use products, such as plastic fence posts.

A 1992 pilot collection project formed the basis for this program.

Congratulations to the winners of our draws at the Metcalfe Fair
