25 Year Service Presentation

Aircraft Accident Averted at Municipal Airstrip

An almost certain accident was averted on the night of December 21st, when a Cessna 150 single engine aircraft made a forced landing at the Iroquois airstrip.

Flying from the Toronto area to Montreal with two adults and a child aboard, the pilot realized that the fuel was low - too low to return west to Brockville or continue east to Summerstown where their fueling stop was scheduled.

Locating Iroquois on their airmap the pilot checked his Airport Directory only to find it listed as open in summer and fall only with no snow clearance during the winter months. However, with the fuel gauge reading empty, a forced landing was a necessity even at the risk of an accident.

Using the lights from the town to pinpoint the location of the airstrip, the plane made four passes and succesfully landed on the fourth attempt.

Fuel was not the only problem for this family that night.

On hearing the low-flying aircraft, John Ross of Elizabeth Drive, tried to radio on the municipal aircraft radio in his home but recieved no reply as a fuse had blown in the plane's radio.

With the aid of their own landing light and Mr. Ross's flashlight, a safe landing was accomplished.

It was a happy coincidence that the strip had been plowed two days earlier - the first time in its history.

The grateful thanks of the pilot and his family has been passed on to municipal authorities.

Tribute Paid to Retiring Reeve

With well over three decades of municipal service under his belt, Mahlon Zeron retired as Reeve of Matilda Township at year's end. On Saturday night the Matilda Council, headed by Reeve George Cooper, and joined by a number of friends from around the area paid tribute to the retiring reeve at a dinner held at Treasure Island Restaurant, Ingleside.

Reeve Cooper recalled the many years of devoted service given by Mr. Zeron, recounting some of the memorable highlights of his long and distinguished career on behalf of the people of Matilda and of the Counties. Mr. Zeron had served as Councillor, Reeve and had been Warden of the Counties.

Warden Harold Brown brought greetings and best wishes from Counties Council and spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Zeron had been held by members of that municipal body for many years. Incoming Warden John Whitteker, of Williamsburg, reiterated the same sentiments and wished Mr. and Mrs. Zeron all the best in their future years.

C. F. McInnis, a former Warden and a native of Matilda recounted some of his memories of Mr. Zeron's lifetime, including not only his municipal affiliations, but his career in farming and as an outstanding auctioneer as well.

When Mr. Zeron replied to the gathering he recalled the many happy hours he had spent in municipal politics in his lifetime and spoke highly of the township staff both present and past. He thanked the gathering for their kindness in attending the function and for the splendid gift of a beautiful clock.

"For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" seemed a fitting manner of bringing to a close a memorable evening for all those attending the dinner.

Top Scouter Surrenders Jamboree Trip

Pictures appearing recently in a number of papers showed Scout Commissioner Allan Thom of Prescott with a group of Boy Scouts, with a caption such as "Norway bound".

At the Scouter's meeting held at the United Church hall in Iroquois on December 5th, he announced his decision to surrender his place on the World Jamboree team in favour of an extra Scout from the St. Lawrence District. The meeting, held in the shadow of an impressive totem pole produced by 1st Iroquois Troop, was opened with prayer offered by the Reverand E. Earle Eaton of Chesterville District Public Relations representative, and Chaplain of 1st Chester ville Scouts and Cubs. Bill Sheldrick of Morrisburg, Council Chairman, presided.

Sectional meetings followed, with Scout leaders in charge of Assistant Commissioner George Lewis of Morrisburg, and Cub leaders chaired by Assistant Commissioner Bob Bryden of Spencerville. Subjects discussed included fund-raising, "Klondike" derby for Scouts and mini-Klondike for Cubs, Bowlarama, dinner-dance for leaders, Spring camp-out, Scout talent night, bus trip to pro. hockey game, etc.

The meeting concluded with delicious refreshments served by the hospitality committee.

Parliament and the pay Raise

Report by: Walter Baker, M.P. for Grenville-Carleton and Deputy Opposition House Leader

WALTER BAKER

The events of the last week of the First Session of the 30th Parliament caused me more anger than any other period of my life as an M.P. The housewives who write and telephone about the inflation that they feel each day in the stores, the farmer who is being pushed to his wall by falling prices for his produce, the old age pensioner, the Public Servant who is expected to accept cheerfully salary settlements that do not relate to the cost of living, the renter facing rising rents, the homeowner facing rising taxes and mortgage rates - all of these and many more were in mind as I listed, dumbfounded, to the proposal of the Trudeau Government for salary increases and allowances for M.P.'s. At the first opportunity I spoke to the Members of my Caucus as did others, and said that the 50% increase was simply not supportable. As a result of the justifiable public uproar what support there was in the House for the initial proposals began to melt away and Mitchell Sharp beat a hasty retreat - so did others. A compromise of sorts has now been proposed and though there are differences in detail and approach, the debates will show that even the New Democrats have taken the position that Members should have an increase. The big question is, how much. The question will not be answered for some time -- if at all. Whatever legislation is eventually presented to Parliament, if indeed there is any at all, will receive second reading and go to a Standing Committee of the House where it will be discussed, dissected, examined, perhaps amended and returned to the House. This process will not happen over night.

I want to make one thing very clear - there was no formal discussion by Mitchell Sharp or anyone else with M.P.'s and no one knew the amount of increase proposed until the Bill was introduced - Mr. Sharp and others have called it "Parliament's Bill" and have tried to leave the impression it was initiated by the House of Commons itself - that impression is false. This not to say that there was not some prestigious support for the original proposal, because there was, but the proposal was inspired and proposed by the Government. The Rules of the House do not allow Private Members to introduce "money bills".

Mr. Sharp will not be fondly remembered by M.P.'s on either side of the House for his bungling. Whatever the amount M.P.'s should be paid, Parliament has been dealt a body-blow and those who want to believe that M.P.'s are a greedy, grasping group of men and women who put their own interests before the interests of the country may think they have some ammunition. I do not like to see this happen to this institution.

M.P.'s have their personal faults and all of the strengths and weaknesses of every other Canadian - there is nothing to set us apart except the privilege of public trust. The proposal of 50% rise has betrayed the trust and the people know it - the Government knows it too.

We will hear many different kinds of proposals for an increase of salary and allowances and I have had the benefit of some constructive advice from my own constituents for which I am grateful. Howsoever the issue is resolved, there is more at stake than the M.P.'s interest - there is the public interest as well. The public interest was not served by Mr. Sharp's proposal which was neither equitable or related to any rational principle. The challenge in this issue is to find the point where pay and allowances are neither the attraction to public life, on the one hand, or the deterrent on the other. That challenge lies before us.

My family joins me in extending every good wish to you for 1975 and I thank you for the privilege of representing you in Parliament.

Much effort was shown by these students and they deserve a great deal of credit for their achievement.

The purpose of the programme is to afford an opportunity for students to gain an insight into the way in which different industries operate. Some of the industry stories included are: salt, skates, oil, grain, motor car, dairy farming, rubber, tea, etc.

One representative only from any one particular product classification, sponsors the story of their product or service. Career stories are also carried. The programme fits principally into the social studies areas although handwriting plays an important part. All work is sent in as possible prize winners.

The Educational ABC's of Industry is designed completely for use in school and is available only to teachers. A teacher orders a free book for each pupil in the class. Those industries sponsoring pages make the programme possible.

A great deal of enjoyment and real opportunity "to learn by doing" is possible for these students who participate. Thousands of entries are sent in from every province.

In many instances this programme provides the only opportunity for a great many young students to really become acquainted with our leading industries and their operations from raw materials on through to finished products and marketing.

Iroquois Care Units Hold Year End Meeting at Knox

Representatives of various care-groups in the Village met at the home of the Rev. John Hibbs, Elizabeth Drive, Tuesday evening, December 17th, for the year-end meeting of the Iroquois Care Units----a gathering of concerned and informed people of the community who have undergirded the "Meals on Wheels" program of the area, and who share ideas to improve this service and possibly offer other services to citizens of the community.

The host welcomed those in attendance, and gave an overhead-projector report on happenings since the last getogether. Supplementing a report from Miss Anne Yee, manager of the "Meals on Wheels" program, and from Mrs. Cathy DeBellefeuille, co-ordinator of the drivers and visitors of this program, the Rev. Hibbs outlined the up-to-date results of the financial appeal to enable food subsidy and miscellaneous expenses, and noted certain requests having been made to the L.I.P. and New Horizons governmental agencies for support of the program during the winter months. Support from L.I.P. was not available this year, but members were hopeful of support through the Department of Health request. An immediate need was for a cook and assistant-cook to enable the program through the winter months, and to secure this temporary staff by government grant for honorariums. The kitchen of Knox Church is again being used for the coming season, and the temporary staff secured since December 1st. Thanks had been extended to the Local Union at Caldwell's for the purchase of a seven cubic foot freezer to allow the storage of two weeks of food at a time on the premises.

A hearty vote of appreciation was extended by those in attendance toward all the driver/visitor volunteers of the past year, "Meals on Wheels" is entering its second year in January. The host noted that these people were the "back-bone" of the program. New names were submitted to Mrs. DeBellefeuille, to assist as volunteers, following notices in all of the local churches on December 15th. At present from 10-12 recipients receive a hot, home-cooked noon-hour meal in their homes, between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 noon, Monday through Friday, each week. Christmas treats to be delivered to all and any who have been on "Meals on Wheels" as senior citizens, disabled or post-operative folk during the past year.

Men Of Dedication

There are at times people who come into our lives who are hard to forget as the years pass; men who have given their share and more to the community in which they live. Mahlon Zeron is one such man. Retiring from municipal politics after 22 years as Reeve of Matilda and many more years added by service on that Council, Mr. Zeron has had a most rewarding and distinguished career in the field of municipal service.

On the last day of his official service as Reeve of Matilda we wish to pay high tribute to the dedication he has given his fellowman. There have surely been many trying days in the well over 30 years he had served his fellow residents, yet at a recent retirement party he remarked that he had "enjoyed every minute of it". Knowing Mr. Zeron as we do. we know that he meant it sincerely.

Mr. Zeron, we thank you for the great effort you have put into your life, for what this effort has done for the betterment of the immediate community and the community at large, because your personal achievements have helped us all in many ways. You have given freely of your time and talents, and for those who have worked with you, have added a great deal of your wisdom of the years in making many other lives more fruitful and rewarding.

In your retirement from municipal politics you can take heart in the fact that you leave with a job well done.

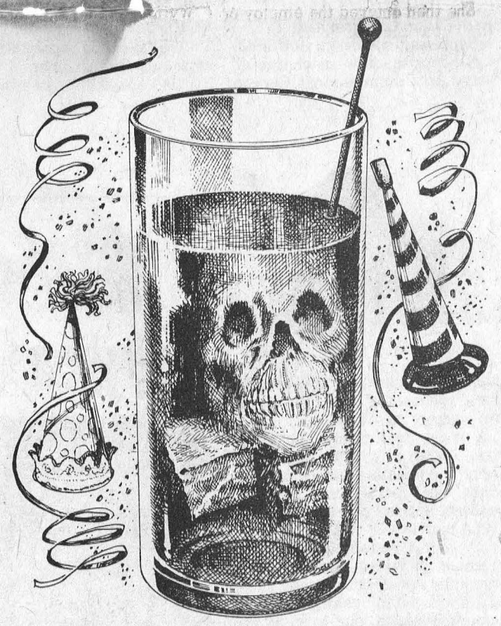
A Feeling Of Security

Ontario, a tourist guide was once heard to say, has the best road system in North America. From observation, the maintenance must not be far behind. One has only to drive to the Quebec border, after even a light snowfall, to see the difference.

It is seldom a pleasure to travel any distance at this time of the year but it eases one's mind to see the number of OPP cars out on patrol.

Having recently moved to Ontario, there is a difference. Long time residents may not fully appreciate it —but it's there.

One For The Road ...



. . . a popular invitation, especially at this time of the year when good cheer often means one too many. There are many stock phrases or statistics we could quote but the picture above says it best—it is not a cartoon—it's deadly serious.

If you must drink and drive adopt "moderation" as your motto not the picture as your crest.

Thoughts for the season

By BILL SMILEY

AND the same to you! I probably should have sent off a Merry Christmas column to all my readers about the first of November, to make sure it was received by December 25th.

I know this won't be. But it's not your faithful chronicler's fault, nor the fault of your favourite weekly newspaper. The entire blame must rest on the broad shoulders — they have to be broad — of that modern phenomenon of efficiency, Canada Post.

People in that august institution must be afraid of getting their hands soiled by handling the average weekly newspaper, full of violence, rape, murder and muggings. They probably use a shovel. Shovel it into a corner until some day, between coffee breaks, they are so bored that they resort to sorting and sending the weekly paper.

When I was in the business, we used to mail the paper on Thursday, and people in Ohio or Texas would receive it on Monday. Nowadays, I count on my weekly paper being a week late in arriving. Time after time, I've been tempted to take up my typewriter and dash off an encouraging note to a weekly editor who has written a particularly pungent editorial, only to pause in the certainty that by the time I'd received his paper, and the time he'd received my letter, the hot issue he'd attacked or defended would be three weeks old, and as cold as a corpse.

Well, we mustn't be mean at Christmas, must we? Although I don't see why not. The same miserable sods are going to be around on Boxing Day, and the same inefficient, insolent institutions will be back in business on Jan. 1.

Since it's too late to wish everyone a Merry, I'll put everything in the past tense.

I hope you got exactly what you wanted for Christmas, whether it was a baby or a kazoo or a sober husband.

I hope you got Joy. And if you didn't, I hope you were happy with Myrtle or Hazel or Pearl or Genevieve.

If you wanted a pair of those foam-rubber kneepads for scrubbing, I hope you got them. And if you wanted a mink wrap, I hope you didn't.

I hope you were not pregnant if you didn't want to be, and were if you wanted to be.

I hope you didn't bust your bum on those new down-hill skiis, or bust your heart on those new cross-country skiis, both of which you are too young or too old to be doing anything with except feeding the living-room fire.

If you are old and lonely, I hope you received a warm telephone call — about 15 minutes worth, and not collect — from someone who is young and loves you. And if you are young and lonely, I hope you got a long telephone call, collect, from someone who is old and loves you.

If you are a farmer, I hope you slept on Christmas Eve with visions of sugarplums and reindeer fast in your head. Jeez, a guy can't make any money on beef these days. Might as well get into reindeer.

If you are a schoolteacher, I hope you remembered at Christmas that you too were once a fat and ugly duckling, riddled with pimples, shy to the point of fainting if asked a question, lazy as a cut cat, sort of dirty, really, and yet a striving, yearning, beseeching human bean.

If you were a mother at Christmas — well, all I can say is that I hope you believe in a life after death.

And if you were a father, well, all I can say is that I hope you, too, believe in a world in the hereafter. Preferably segregated.

If you are a business tycoon, a union leader, or anyone in the upper echelons of education, I hope your ulcer ruined your Christmas dinner.

If you are an old maid, and have been lurking these many years in the fold of your "sick" mother's nighty-gown, I hope you decided at Christmas to unlurk. Same for old male spinsters. Unlurk. Boy, that almost sounds like a dirty word, if you practise. Try it. Unlurk!

Whatever happened at Christmas, hang in there. We need you. We hewers of wood and drawers of water, as Canadians are known, have to stick together and keep on hewing drawers.

Every time there comes a crack about hewers and drawers, I burst into a hue and cry. Bursting into a hue is fairly simple. I can turn purple on very little provocation, as my family will tell.

Almost anybody can hew or hue. But the drawers are the problem. Nobody wears drawers any more. How can you cry them when there ain't none. This is a problem that Canadians are going to have to give a good deal of thought to in the coming year.

Well, those are my season's greetings to Awl and Sundry (my legal representatives), as well as to all you faithful readers.

And lang may your lum reek, on New Year's Eve.

A NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE

Pierre Elliott Trudeau
Prime Minister

When we exchange gifts during the holiday season, we are expressing our feelings of affection, esteem and gratitude. We are moving closer together, and showing more openly than usual, our mutual goodwill. We are confirming, in a concrete and friendly way – perhaps a small way, but nonetheless real – the ties that unite us with those near and dear to us.

But the presents we give to one another have a further significance: they are as well the symbol of a universal sharing, and a reminder of what is a basic necessity to all forms of life.

In effect, no living thing can survive without sharing. This is true of nature; it is true of human society. All forms of life have an indispensable ability to give or to receive. What is ecology, if not the science of natural sharing? And what is ecological balance, if not the result of an equitable sharing among all elements of our environment, including human beings? To live is to share.

In primitive societies, there was no alternative but to share. In advanced societies, sharing is the subject of legislation because the very abundance of goods weakens natural restraints and increases the likelihood of unfair shares. Even in such a privileged country as Canada, we have had to legislate against inequality in its various forms as severely as would be necessary in countries much less privileged than ours.

I invite my fellow citizens to rejoice in what has been given to us as Canadians: the good fortune to be united in a federation, a system of government whose most distinct attribute is the sharing of wealth.

In future, Canadians are going to be forced by circumstances into even greater sharing, and this will not be easy; but I know that we will be equal to the challenge facing the entire country, and thus each one of us.

It will not be easy, either, to share more, as we have promised, with less favoured nations, the millions of men, women and children in the Third World who face hunger and starvation; but I am sure that our generosity will be worthy of our abundance.

I trust that our longstanding traditions and our present attitudes will prepare us for these far more pressing demands that will be made on us in the future, and on which depend – as we have already seen – the salvation of the human race and the survival of life on this planet.

We must, nevertheless, be open to the joys of the season. Our joy, I am sure, will not be superficial, for it is sustained and kindled by hopes that are bright. It is in this spirit that I extend to you my wishes for health and happiness during the new year.

Not many people will see a mistake you make.

Almost everyone in town sees ours!

Your local newspaper's prime function is to present the news . . . honestly and fully. That's all. However, sometimes the reporting goes astray, when the news is printed. Some of our friends think this is amusing. Some don't. We at your local newspaper don't laugh easily when a mistake is made in your local paper.

But in spite of our best efforts, it does happen occasionally. Even the editor had to smile when this caption appeared in his newspaper under the picture of a fallen tree:

The tree downed at this home damaged spouting and shingles . . . it was snapped by a violent guest.

In another newspaper, the coronation of a high school beauty queen took an unusual turn when the proofreaders overlooked this one:

Queen Margie White was escorted to her throne by co-captains Jim Black and Frank Gruff. There she was presented with roses and drowned.

Sometimes the classified ads are full of surprises, too. The young lady who ran this advertisement is still wishing that her friends would let her forget it:

Wanted: Large well-furnished room by young woman about fifteen feet square.

Then there was the time one of our nice Iowa ladies, trying to do her part to add to the Christmas spirit of her home city, found her efforts recorded thus:

Mrs. X set up a still life composition of angel figurines and greenery entitled, "Hark the Herald Angels Sin."

So, when you see one like this:

The Rotary male quartet will sing, "I need three every hour . . ."

Or this:

I am now in position to hatch your eggs at five cents per egg . . .

please remember that local newspapers are regarded by readers as a friend they can't do without, and even a good friend is bound to make a mistake once in a while.

When you stop to consider that over a million inches of news are reported each week in hundreds of weekly newspapers throughout Canada, a mistake here and there doesn't sound too bad to some people, But a misspelled name of a local citizen in a news story is no laughing matter . . . if it's about you.

Canada Farm Show Tractor-Pull offers $18,000 in prize money

Cash prizes totalling $18,800 will be awarded winners in Canada's only indoor Tractor-Pull at the 1975 Canada Farm Show, January 28 to 31, at the Coliseum, Exhibition Park, Toronto, Robert M. Gowdy, the show's general manager, has announced.

"Purses have been increased by $4,800 over the $14,000 in prize money awarded at the first indoor Tractor-Pull at the 1974 show," he said. "Purses for the 1975 events are the largest offered to date in the growing sport of Tractor-Pulling in Canada."

Tractor-Pulling events will be held each night during the four day show, instead of only three nights as was the case at the 1974 show, and a new class of competition for mini-tractors will be introduced next year, Gowdy said.

Farm tractor drivers from both Canada and the United states will compete on the first two nights of the show in a total of six events sanctioned by the U.S. National Tractor Pullers Association. Total prize money for each event is $2,000. Classes of competition include super stock and modified tractors in three weight classifications.

Only Canadian tractor pullers will be eligible for events on Thursday and Friday, January 30 and 31. Six events sanctioned by the Canadian Tractor Pullers Association will each award purses totalling $1,000 to winning drivers of tractors in four weight classifications.

In addition, two competitions will be held for drivers of mini-tractors in two weight classifications. On Thursday, January 30, mini-tractors weighing 1,500 lbs. will compete for a $400 purse. Mini-tractors weighing 1,700 lbs. will compete on Friday, Januaary 31, also for a purse of $1,400.

Tractor-Pull reserved seats, which will be allocated on a first come basis, are available for all nights through local farm equipment dealers and co-ops or by writing the Canada Farm Show, 20 Butterick Road, Toronto, M8W 3Z8, said show manager Gowdy.

"Along with the tractor-pull events, the 1975 show will again feature a championship draft horse pull and sale organized by the Ontario Belgian Horse Association," he said. "And there'll be live entertainment every afternoon by the Cross Country Jamboree, a talented group of country and western performers from Prince Edward County, as well as daily attendance draws and a farm film festival showing latest agricultural techniques."

The feature events will be staged in conjunction with big displays of latest farm equipment, including exhibits by major tractor manufacturers. More than 200 exhibitors representing over 400 companies will take part. Sponsored by the Ontario Retail Farm Equipment Dealers Association, the show is Canada's largest indoor agricultural equipment exhibition.

Gardening Hints

There's not time to yearn for the day when outside gardening can begin. Your houseplants need all the time you can give them now.

"Prune back weak growth on houseplants," advises Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist R.F. Gomme. "This will encourage bushier development."

Repot rootbound plants. To decide if a plant needs to be repotted, check the pot's drainage hole. If many roots are protruding from it, the plant should be transplanted to a larger container.

Inspect your houseplants for insects. If any are present, place the pots in large plastic bags and spray the plants with a houseplant insecticide. To destroy all insects, close the bags and leave the plants inside for a few hours. Follow package instructions exactly when using insecticides, and keep them away from children and pets.

There is one outdoor gardening chore you can do in January. "Winter is an ideal time to remove dead and dying trees," says Mr. Gomme. "Remove small trees yourself, but get an experienced person to cut trees that are brittle because they have been dead a long time, large trees, and those near buildings. These should be taken down with great care."

Because ice-melting chemicals sometimes damage plants, do not spread them near gardens, shrubs, trees and lawns. Use sand instead.

In Memorium

WYATT - In loving memory of a dear husband, father, and grandfather, Connell F. Wyatt who was accidentally killed December 27th 1955.
This is the day of remembrance
Sad and bitter to recall
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from his home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
As angels keep their watch up there,
Please God, just let him know
That we down here do not forget
We love and miss him so.
Sadly missed by his wife and family. 28-1p

In fond memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Reuben Carkner, who passed away January 5, 1972.
From our happy home and circle,
God has taken one we love,
Borne away from sin and sorrow,
To a better home above.
Wife and family 28-1p

OPP Urges Caution

In recent weeks operators of several small businesses have reported that they formed the definite impression that the Ontario Provincial Police endorsed a publication in which they had been asked to purchase advertising space.

The Community Services Branch of the OPP reminds you that the force does not solicit funds or advertisements for any purpose. Nor does the force support the solicitation of funds or advertisements for any publication or campaign.

The OPP reminds all businesses, people and residents to ensure the validity of all requests for charitable donations or solicitation for advertisements in public services publications.

At this time of year many Christmas-related undertakings are promoted which, in order to stay within the law, provide a nominal service for a few individuals while producing an exhorbitant profit for the promoter.

No one wants to restrict donations to legitimate and worthy charities or causes. However, neither does one want to donate freely to the pockets of those who take advantage of this goodwill and use the funds to their own advantage. Be sure you know who you are giving to and where your money is going. Honest charities need your support.

Memory of Full LifeShared

Miss Cora Smith, who resided on Church Street, Iroquois for several years, passed away at her home December 21, 1974. She had been in apparent good health and passed away unexpectedly.

Cora was born March 10, 1897 in the Township of Edwardsburg, a daughter of John B. Smith and his wife Eliza Bass. Left to mourn her passing are one brother, Merton J. Smith of Brockville and three nephews, Carl Smith of Kensington, P.E.I. and Ronald and Basil Smith, both of Cardinal.

Cora was a school teacher by profession and began her teaching career in Shanly where she spent eight years. Feeling the call of the church she attended the Church Training School and went to China in 1921 to teach in a school for young Chinese ladies having first mastered their language. She returned to Canada only when the Missionaries were forced to leave China.

She then entered the employ of the Department of Social Service for the city of Toronto in which position she remained until retirement. She then came to Iroquois to make her home with her sister Mrs. Maud Bolton who predeceased her in March 1970. Cora took an active part in the church life of Iroquois United Church where she was an Honourary Elder and a Life Member of the United Church Women.

Funeral services were held in W. E. Fitzsimmons Chapel on Monday afternoon December 23rd, Rev. Brian Gee officiating. Sermon notes followed the text: "Look, I send you out like sheep among wolves; be wary as serpents, innocent as doves."

Mr. Gee spoke of Cora's Christian life which had taken her far and wide, of her ability to bridge gaps this world finds hard to bridge - those of culture, race, language and age. She was possessed of a strong personality as is required by those who go out to do the Lord's work.

Those who served as pallbearers were: Ambert Brown, Clarence Carter, Mack Fetterly, Don Hare, Clint Stewart, John Wylie. The remains were entombed at the vault, Point Iroquois where interment will take place in the spring.

Pupils Gain 2 Courses

Grade 8 and special education students at St. Cecilia separate school in Iroquois will be taking home economics and industrial arts beginning in February.

The decision was reached at the SD and G Roman Catholic separate school board meeting Tuesday.

Under a recommendation from Percy Beaudette classes will start at Seaway District High School Feb. 1 and will cost $1,055 for all students for the full semester.

The move followed a request from Trustee Sarsfield O'Connor that students be allowed to take the subjects in the Iroquois High school as public school students do.

Parents in the area wanted the courses made available for students in Grades 7 and 8 but Mr. Beaudette reported the public schools only send Grade 8 students.

About 20 Grade 8 students and six special education students are involved from St. Cecilia school. The school is only a short distance from the high school.

A committee is also to be formed to look into the possibility of extending home economics and industrial arts to all board schools.

Mr. Beaudette said the money to pay for the courses will not be coming from special grants but will come under ordinary expenditure grants.

Trustee O'Connor agreed the committee should look into extending the service to other board schools but cautioned it may not be as practical as at St. Cecilia.

Board schools with Grades 7 and 8 that currently offer home economics and industrial arts are Bishop Macdonell, Iona Academy, Jean XXIII and Rouleau.

Snowmobile Trail Assistance Money Expected Soon

Eastern Ontario snowmobile clubs and municipalities who have qualified for provincial funds to groom and improve their trails may have their money in hand as early as the second week in January.

James Keenan, executive director of natural resource's parks branch-the coordinating and delivery agency for the trails assistance program-said applications have to be gathered, reviewed by management board of Cabinet in Toronto, decisions on grants relayed back to district natural resources offices and formal agreements signed before the cheque issuing stage can begin.

"We're trying to complete all these steps as soon as possible. If the Christmas holidays don't bring some unforeseen delays we should meet our target," he said.

The $1,000,000 program announced Nov. 7 is an interim measure for this winter only. A new provincial recreational trails council will soon be set up and will take over all trail extension and construction coordination. This will include snowmobile trails, but also cross-country skiing, snowshoeing, canoeing, hiking and horseback riding trails.

Response to the trails assistance program has been heavy. Total money requested across the province is two-and-a-half times the amount available.

"Some organizations may not receive everything they asked for this year," said Mr. Keenan. "Obviously, adjustments have to be made." He said there were no high hopes that the Ontario government would increase the interim project's budget.

By providing assistance, the government was also able to compile an inventory of existing trails and organized clubs and estimate the extent of provincial snowmobiling.

However, that estimate may soon be out of date. The assistance program has had a coagulating effect on individual snowmobilers, many of whom are now busily organizing, electing officers and planning trails. Too late for assistance this year, these clubs will qualify for any programs devised by the trails council next year.

Forty-one clubs applied for money to groom trails in eastern Ontario, but many other clubs held back at the last minute. Some who had agreements with landowners over whose property their trail ran did so because the landowners were not willing to open their land to the general public. Trails groomed with public funds are immediately open to the public. Other clubs who held back were not prepared to pay for insurance on their trails $100,000 worth of third party liability and $20,000 accident insurance.

In each of the six natural resources districts in eastern Ontario at least seven or eight clubs applied for funds. Around Napanee 27 clubs enquired, but only seven or eight clubs applied for funds. Around Napanee 27 clubs enquired, but only seven applied. In Lanark County several enquired but no one took the government up on their offer.

The ministry of natural resources, including conservation authorities and the St. Lawrence Parks Commission already administer 455 miles of snowmobile trail in eastern Ontario. Larose Forest in Prescott and Russell Counties and the Lanark County Forest each provide 100 miles of trail. In Grenville County, Limerick Forest offers 88 miles of trail.

Ontario Government Grants For Day Care Reach $8 Million Mark

Rene Brunelle, Minister of Community and Social Services, today announced approval of another 30 proposed grants for children's day care centres throughout Ontario.

Today's announcement of 30 grants amounts to an expenditure of over $2,250,000 and will provide 617 places for children.

In total, the Ministry has approved approximately $8 million in day care grants to provide for the placement of about 2,300 children since approvals in the $15 million program were first announced in mid-October. The majority of the grants are for the renovation and conversion of existing facilities.

Applications continue to be received by the Ministry from municipalities, Indian Bands and charitable and co-operative organizations.

Mr. Brunelle said that while he recognized an increasing need for facilities that will accommodate children of working parents, first priorities are for the establishment and delivery of day care services for handicapped children, for children from low-income families and for native Indian children.

Municipalities receiving approvals today are Elliot Lake, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Wingham, County of Essex and Metro Toronto, the latter receiving grants for the Rawlinson Day Care Centre and Thomas Berry Centre. The Sabaskong Indian Band of Nestor Falls also received a grant.

Ten of the 22 grants announced today for charitable and co-operative organizations go to Associations for the Mentally Retarded. These include grants to Metro Toronto Association, for three centres; Chatham-Kent & District Association, Dresden; Collingwood & District Association; Dufferin Association, Orangeville; Peace Bridge Association, Fort Erie; Sarnia & District Association; Ottawa & District Association and London & District Association.

Charitable and co-operative organizations in Metro Toronto to receive approvals are Ward Nine Co-Operative Play School; Ossington Day Care Centre; Children's Circle Day Care Centre; Kennedy Road Co-Operative Day School Inc.; McCowan Road Co-Operative Nursery School Inc.; Centro-Clinton Day Care Centre; Salvation Army Bethany Home and Lawrence Heights Community Day Care Centre.

Other Ontario organizations receiving grants are Rosalind Blauer Centre for Child Care, Brock University campus, St. Catharines; Great Beginnings Child Centre Co-Operative Inc., University of Windsor campus, Windsor and Centre D'Activities Francaises, Penetanguishine.

Nursing Home Care Program

Ontario's nursing home care programs will benefit substantially from supplementary estimates approved by Parliament, according to an announcement by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Mr. Lalonde said that $58,200,000 of the supplementary amount approved for welfare activities will enable his department to enter into formal cost-sharing agreements with provinces which have introduced universally available nursing home care programs.

Provinces eligible are Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta.

The agreements will provide for federal payments to replace Canada Assistance Plan revenues lost because the programs are now universal, rather than available only on the basis of a test of need.

As well, $12,500,000 will permit the department to enter into formal arrangements to share the costs of services provided by New Brunswick and Ontario in regards to young persons in conflict with the law.

Under the Canada Assistance Plan, costs of these services are shared when provided by provicial welfare ministeries. However, in New Brunswick and Ontario, these services are provided through their correctional authorities. As a result, the costs have not been eligible for sharing under the Canada Assistance Plan and this has been a major concern of the current federal-provincial review of young persons in conflict with the law which is examining the question of funding of services of this nature.

In the meantime, Mr. Lalonde explained that the federal government would share the costs of the New Brunswick and Ontario programs since it is sharing the costs of similar programs in all other provinces.

Mr. Lalonde expressed the hope that these additional monies would assist the provinces involved in their provision of services in these two areas.

The health portion of the supplementary estimates includes a $2.5 million transfer previously announced which will increase the Medical Research Council's budget for grants and scholarships in aid of research to $42,860,000 during the 1974-75 fiscal year.

OPP SEEKS INFO

An Ontario Provincial Police investigation under detective inspector R.M. Waddell of the Criminal Investications Branch has established a connection between illicit drugs and the shotgun slaying of Douglas Harold Renaud, 20, of Windsor.

The youth was killed at about 3:40 in the afternoon of December 17th. His body was discovered the same day on the 7th concession of Maidstone Township in Essex County.

Police are looking for a cream-coloured G.M.C. pick-up truck driven by a youth with long blonde hair, that was reported in the vicinity about the time of the death. No definite connection has been established between the vehicle and the shooting.

Investigators want to talk with anyone with information about the incident. All discussions will be kept confidential. Anyone who can help is asked to telephone Essex Detachment at: 1-519-256-5491.

Review of Gillin Report on the Teaching of French

The French Ad Hoc Committee of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education met Wednesday, November 13, 1974. The purpose was to review the Gillin Report on the teaching of French in this province and submit recommendations to the Board of Education and the Deputy Minister of Education.

The Board approved the following recommendations:

1. That the present policy re the French Intensive Programme at the Kindergarten level be maintained: i.e.
   a) Optionality
   b) Indication of interest on the part of parents
   c) Availability of qualified and certification personnel.
   d) Available accommodations.
2. That a 40 minute programme of French be phased in at the Grade 1 and 2 levels, in those schools where the Intensive programme at the Kindergarten level is available, as a logical sequence to that program.
3. Maintain the present core programme of 20 minutes from Grade 3 to 8 and, after consultation involving parents, teachers, and principals, provide the opportunity to students at the Grade 7 and 8 levels, to opt out of the programme.
4. That each school be assigned one full time teacher of French, who would assume the teaching of French from Grades 1 to 8
5. With respect to Curriculm Development and Evaluation, that we endorse the formation of a sub-committee under the aegis of the Communications Task Force.
6. That Administration make ever effort to provide instruction to the Grade 1 and 2 students who have not received French Instruction at the Kindergarten level.
7. That the French Liaison and Finance Committees study the feasibility of a special leave to allow English speaking teachers to take courses to qualify for teaching in the immersion programme.

REPORT OF THE ADMISSIONS POLICY AND KINDERGARTEN COMMITTEE

The Committee met with representatives of the Principals of Elementary schools, and the teachers of Kindergarten classes. The following recommendations were presented to the Board:

1. There be no change in the admissions policy for Kindergarten classes at this time.
2. An appropriate system of staggered entry be permitted and encouraged for all Kindergarten classes.
3. Teachers of Kindergarten classes be encouraged to arrange meetings with parents, either in the home, or in very small groups at schools, in order to discuss the child and the Kindergarten programme.
4. The Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry County Board of Education support the concept of parity funding.
5. The Administration be requested to consider provisions for establishing Kindergarten classes of twenty and Primary classes of twenty-five pupils, and that such considerations be reported to the Board.
6. There be no movement towards the imposition of a single standard approach to the organization of Kindergarten classes at this time.

The Board recommended that Administration receive the recommendations of the Kindergarten Committee, and incorporate them in the 1975 Priorities. and That Administration provide, at the time of the Priorities Statement, all relevant information regarding the implications of these recommendations.

Red Cross reminds you: If someone should break through an ice covered pond, lake or river, you help best by staying back from the hole and extending a reaching assist. A tree branch, a hockey stick or two windbreakers tied together can make an efficient emergency reaching assist. Lie flat. Encourage the victim to kick with his feet to get his body horizontal so he can slide out.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Jamie has just turned 10. He's slender and healthy with brown hair, blue eyes and fair skin. He needs glasses for astigmatism and far-sightedness but doesn't like wearing them, so they are often conveniently forgotten.

This lad likes grown up company but isn't a good mixer with children. Part of the problem is that he is poorly co-ordinated so that some activities, especially sports, are hard for him. He tends to be a loner, preferring crafts or reading or television to games.

Jamie is in a class for children with perceptual problems. He enjoys school and tackles his work with enthusiasm. Academically, he is at the Grade two to four level but in a recent verbal test he ranked with some 11-year-olds.

Warm, firm, understanding parents and some teenagers to take an interest in him will be an ideal family for Jamie. To inquire about adopting Jamie, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, consult your local Children's Aid Society.

Dollars & Good Sense

A rewarding and healthy way to fight the high cost of food is to grow your own salad!

In a recent column I discussed an old-fashioned principle of personal economics—self-reliance—and how it can help us outsmart inflation. Growing your own vegetables can actually save you about $200 on a year's grocery bill.

It's not too early to begin thinking about next spring's garden. You should select a location and work natural fertilizers into the soil now. Certain vegetables should be planted in winter, asparagus, for example. At the first crack of spring you can go to work planting corn, snap beans, tomatoes, radishes and squash—all good crops for beginners.

You may already own the few tools that are necessary for gardening—a spade, a hoe, an iron rake and a spading fork. If you don't have all the necessary tools—check with a neighbor.

Your local nursery or green-thumbed friend are good sources for information. Also, the government has published a helpful series of "Home and Garden Bulletins" available from your county extension office of the Department of Agriculture or the U. S. Government Printing office in Washington, D.C.

Readers' questions are welcome and should be sent to Box 5875, London, Ontario.

CARE UNITS

Prescott, and for the communities of Prescott, Cardinal and Iroquois was also announced, with Mrs. Marjorie Pope as a home-enabler in Iroquois, providing in-home light housekeeping, washing and care, and errand-hospital-clinic needs. The possibility of an Iroquois "Welcome Wagon" service to newcomers was discussed, making new residents feel-at-home in the community; including the possibility of a one-day or weekend "think-tank" conference on community care in the new year. A visitation program to inform the various organizations of the village about "Meals on Wheels" and relative care-concerns was suggested for the new year.

An informative and well-shared meeting concluded with the host providing a Christmas luncheon, being thanked by Mrs. Edythe Norton on behalf of all present.

"Meals on Wheels" extends Seasons Greetings to all who have supported, in any way, this needed service in the community.

TODAY'S HEALTH

"Diseases of choice" are eating up health budget

by David Woods

We have heard much in recent months about the runaway costs of health care. Ontario Minister of Health, Frank Miller, warned in October that costs are increasing by about 16 per cent a year in this province — and that the total health bill could reach $11 billion by 1984, approximately the figure for the whole of Canada in 1974.

Much of this expenditure is on what Miller and others have called "diseases of choice." In other words, we're increasingly using medical and hospital services to treat diseases we could avoid in the first place.

Since this is a time of year for stocktaking and new resolutions, let's look at some of these diseases of choice and how they can be avoided.

Obesity — Earlier this year, a Nutrition Canada survey reported that more than half of all Canadians are overweight. For some people — very few — the problem is not avoidable; but for most, it is. Resolve to get back to your ideal weight through proper diet and regular exercise.

Heart Disease — The incidence of heart attacks has increased by 60 per cent over the past 15 years. And it's still rising. Heart disease is the major cause of death in adults — and is largely a disease of choice, or lifestyle. Here again, diet and exercise, properly conducted, is the answer. And so is quitting the cigarette habit, so strongly implicated in heart disease.

Alcoholism — In Ontario, alcohol plays a part in half of all auto accidents, accounts for hundreds of thousands of man-hours a year in absenteeism from work, and for more than 10 per cent of all hospital costs. It is estimated that close to 300,000 Ontarians drink enough alcohol to endanger their health. If you think you're one of these, resolve to drink only in moderation, but if you can't do that, you'd be better to quit altogether.

Stress and Anxiety — Inevitabilities of modern living they may be, but too much of either is dangerous. Resolve to recognize your boiling point, and to cool things off not by popping tranquilizers, but by getting involved in some activity that will counterbalance the pressures. Exercise, relaxing hobbies and yoga are all good antidotes.

Resolutions are easy to make and difficult to keep. As far as your health is concerned, nothing could be more worthwhile than consciously choosing not to risk getting "diseases of choice". But don't attempt to do it all at once. It may be very noble to try to replace all your health vices with virtues in one fell swoop, but it's almost impossible.

Make your resolutions one by one — and stick to them. And have a happy, healthy New Year.
