Jaime home from Baltimore back on the road to recovery

BONNIE MCNAIRN
Leader staff

IROQUOIS — Rest and relaxation are the order of the day for 12-year-old Jaime Adams who has just returned from the John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland where she underwent two operations on her hips and lower legs.

The only real problem now is that Jaime and her mom, Lorraine, can't quite agree on whether rest and relaxation means television and video games or school work and exercise.

Jaime suffers from morquio, an incurable genetic disease which results from an enzyme deficiency and affects all body organs. It is particularly noticeable due to bone abnormalities.

An operation in August 1986 straightened Jaime's spinal cord and left her in a body cast for four months. This time around, Dr. Steven Kopitis, who specializes in the disease, performed two operations to straighten and strengthen her hips and ankles.

"Jaime is doing really well and is feeling great," says Lorraine. "Her great sense of humour has returned and she is now patiently recovering."

Legs immobile

Like her first recovery period, Jaime is again encased in a cast, this time from her chest to the tip of her toes with her legs spread open by a bar.

She spends her day in a specially adapted side-wheel chair which allows her some mobility throughout her home and enables her to be wheeled outside.

Jaime was admitted to the John Hopkins September 7th and underwent the first operation on the 8th for the reconstruction of her hips.

Then on the 15th the second operation was performed to straighten her knees and ankles.

"After the first operation she experienced very little pain," said Lorraine, "and her coloring came back really fast."

"There was quite a bit more discomfort after the second operation, but she tolerated the pain really well."

"The nurses, who provided excellent care, couldn't believe how well she bounced back," says Lorraine.

Months of recovery and rehabilitation

Jaime will be in the cast for eight-10 weeks and is scheduled for x-rays at Winchester Memorial Hospital on November 15. The x-rays will be sent to Baltimore and if Dr. Kopitis feels the heeling is complete she will return there to have the cast removed.

After that there will be up to two months of therapy, during which time Jaime will relearn to walk.

"We have exercises to do with her in the cast to shorten the rehabilitation period," says Lorraine. "They range from wiggling her toes to tightening her muscles within the cast."

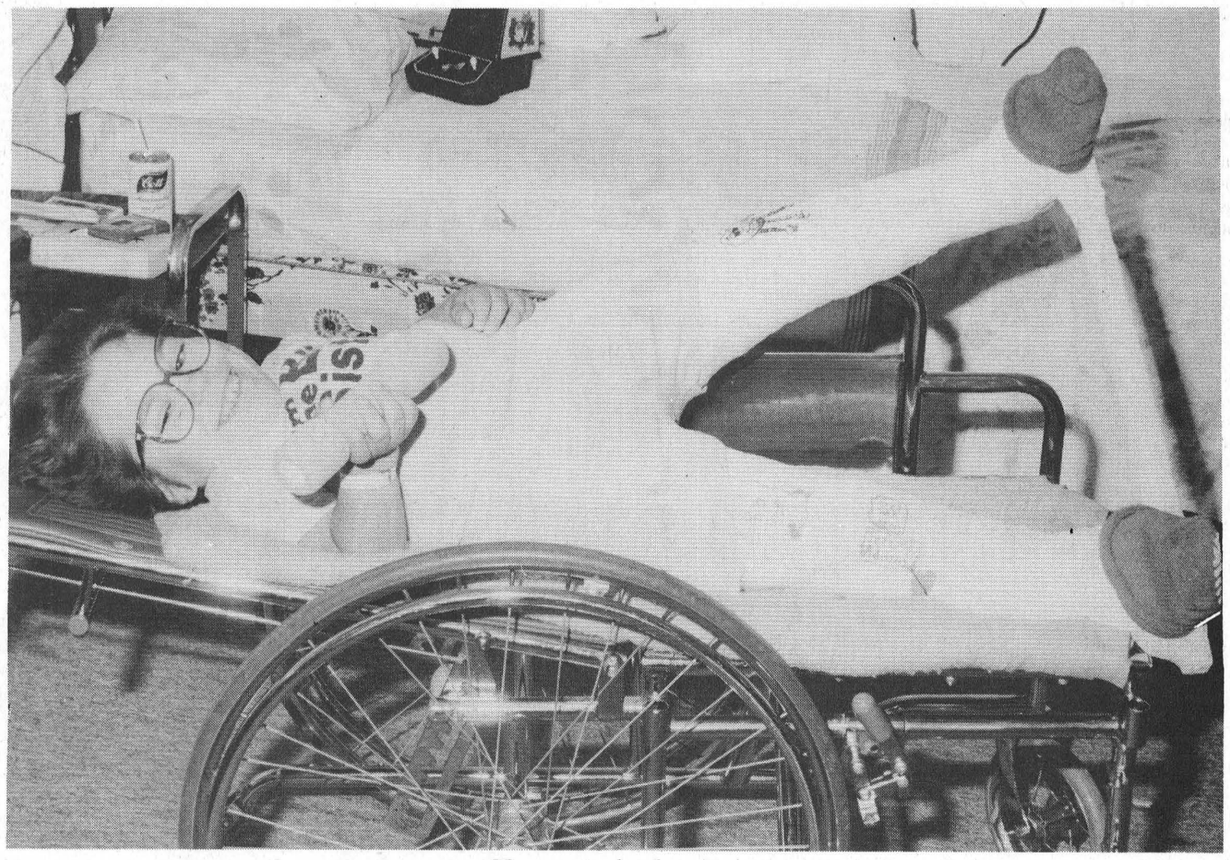
Jaime is attended at home by a home care worker and within the next few weeks she will be tutored in her grade 7 schoolwork. Currently she is keeping busy with television and video games whcih she indicates, she likes just fine.

Although the Adams had been worried, prior to the operation about their OHIP coverage, the problem was worked out says Lorraine.

An orthopedic specialist in Toronto took an interest in our problem and wrote a letter of referral to OHIP," says Lorraine. "OHIP accepted it and gave us the coverage."

"She was a beautiful person," says Lorraine. "She understood the confidence and trust Jaime has in Dr. Kopitis and she couldn't see money preventing us from continuing Jaime's treatment."

"Our main concern now is getting Jaime heeled," says Lorraine. "Dr. Kopitis told us her legs are perfectly straight and we're all anxiously waiting for the cast to come off."



Happy to be home

Lack of American visitors affects tourism across Eastern Ontario

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — The news from the Seaway Valley Tourist Council is finally in.

But many are now wondering if it was worth waiting for.

The council, which assembles attendance figures from Prescott to the Quebec border said that tourism across Eastern Ontario was down by two per cent over last year.

However, many directors seriously questioned if the news wasn't, in fact, more bleak.

"I don't know about the other businesses or restaurants this summer but I do know that if it wasn't for the conventions this year, we'd be down dramatically," said Roger Croxall, owner of the Best Western Parkway Inn in Cornwall.

According to council statistics, hotel/motel business was down anywhere from two to 20 per cent, while many of the area restaurants, especially the larger ones, show an increase of eight to 25 per cent.

Business at Upper Canada Village showed a healthy increase of three per cent over 1988.

SVTC executive manager Terri Lalonde suggested the figures indicate that people are taking shorter holidays.

"The trend now seems to be a one or two-day trip rather than going for a week or two," she said.

However, one thing was apparently very clear.

"The number of American tourists was seriously down this summer and we obviously felt that," she said.

Croxall tried to explain why that was.

"I think it's our current economy. Americans have been telling me for years that our accommodations are more expensive, our gas is more expensive and our food is more expensive and the only break they got was the exchange on their U.S. dollar," he said.

"But now that's shrinking and as a result we're less attractive," he added.

Almost all types of attractions were affected by the lack of American visitors this summer.

Attendance at the provincial campgrounds was down slightly but Lalonde said that was expected because many of the parks had their season shortened this year.

Marinas were two per cent busier than they were last year, according to statistics.

But six of the seven SVTC information booths reported a significant decrease.

Still, Lalonde said comments from campground attendants, restaurant owners and information officers echoed that "there simply wasn't as many from the U.S. this year."

Figures from both international bridges were also rather poor.

Traffic at the Ogdensburg-Prescott bridge was down 41 per cent over last year with only 64,839 vehicles as compared to 110,876 in 1988.

The Seaway International Bridge in Cornwall was up 16 per cent but Lalonde said many of them were simply visiting the bingo halls and returning home.

Many council members said that the federally proposed Goods and Services Tax would only further hinder tourism in the area.

"This tax is not only going to hurt our domestic business but it will also kill those people working directly in tourism and I think we should write a letter or something vehemently opposing it," said Croxall.

Cornwall city alderman Ray Lalonde agreed.

"I think we better let our federal politicians know that we don't support the new tax," he said.

The council agreed and Lalonde said a copy of the letter would be sent to Finance Minister Michael Wilson's office and the offices of all local MPs.

Hot time in the old town tonight

Freshmart employee Tracy O'Brien, right, is adding final touches to Chester Cheetah of Frito Lay, alias Nikil Chande. "I'm here to create a feeling of good warmth in the show, and I'm feeling pretty warm too," he said with mild discomfort. The imported cheetah was one of many attractions at the Morrisburg Home and Trade Show, and a hit with the children.

Two old rivals get senior services

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

CORNWALL—County Council unanimously passed a motion Monday to approve two large projects for outreach seniors services, to be placed in the Village of Williamsburg, and the Village of Ingleside.

Chairman of the Williamsburg Non-profit Housing Corporation, Ann Barkley is jubilant.

"We're really pleased it got through, and we're optimistic it will greatly improve things for seniors in the area."

"The project is a community-based pilot project intended to help seniors stay at home," explained Barkley. "It should provide outreach services for people in the surrounding area, and there'll be a co-ordinator to identify and address needs."

"We've been working towards this for a number of years, and the non-profit corporation has submitted a number of proposals to the Ministry of Community and Social Services," she added.

Last year, a study called the DPA report was completed by ministry consultants, and a number of recommendations made, including the hiring of a co-ordiator for outreach services.

County council hired Debbie St. John-de Wit as project officer.

"Non-profit housing has been working with her, and we've also been in consultation with seniors," says Barkley.

The Williamsburg Non-Profit Housing Corporation and the Township of Osnabruck submitted proposals for community-based senior centres, and de Witt recommended Ingleside and Williamsburg as pilot projects, at County Council's September meeting.

Proposals for both projects include a dining area with meal programs, a co-ordinator's office area plus secretarial space, and a clinic support area for visiting professionals.

The Williamsburg facility would be an extension of Park Drive Villa, and the Elderly Person's Center in Ingleside would be located in Memorial Square. Total cost for both projects will be about $1.3 million, leaving $1.7 out of a promised $3 million in Ministry funding in the kitty for other senior outreach services.

The Williamsburg facility, which is to be an extension of non-profit housing at Park DRive

The Williamsburg facility, which is to be an extension of non-profit housing at Park Drive Villa, is estimated at $1 million, while the seniors centre in Ingleside would cost $300,000.

Capital funding for both projects has been promised to the tune of 80 per cent by MCSS and 20 per cent by the Counties. This would add up to $800,000 in a captial grant for Williamsburg, with $200,000 from the counties, while Ingleside would receive $262,000 from the ministry, and $65,000 from the counties.

Osnabruck turns audit to police

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

OSNABRUCK CTR—Osnabruck Township has turned over an ongoing investigation of their road books from 1986 to 1989 (to date), to the supervision of the Long Sault OPP Detachment.

Gwen Rombough, an accountant who has been working part-time for the township, will continue the audit, and refer any perceived descrepancies to the police.

Deputy reeve Carson Elliott who was concerned about initial discrepancies, brought the matter to the attention of his personal lawyer September 5, to the attention of township clerk and the township treasurer on September 6 and 7, and council held an emergency meeting on the 7th.

On the advice of Elliott's personal solicitor, and the township lawyer, council in a recorded unanimous vote, decided to have an internal audit.

On September 13, council made another recorded unanimous decision to turn the matter over to the OPP.

"To protect council, I have to be accountable. I'm the deputy-reeve, and I sign the cheques. Ratepayers are asking a lot of questions, and the responsibility is on us as elected politicians," said Elliott.

"People are prepared to go to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs to get it straightened out. With only 50 signatures, they could demand an audit by the ministry, involving council," he added.

In an interview with The Leader at Osnabruck Council evening, ratepayer Joe Carboni stated that he and other taxpayers would be organizing a petition that all township books be audited, to present to John Sweeney, the Minister of Housing and Municipal Affairs.

Reeve and Counties Warden Stewart declined to comment, since the investigation is now under police supervision.

Township road superintendent Blair Watson resigned his position August 28, citing personal reasons. He had been a township employee since 1966, and was promoted to road superintendent in 1982.

Area's heritage can generate a wealth of economic opportunity

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — South Dundas' rich heritage could play a major role in the development of the area's economic future, says Paul Deault, manager of Upper Canada Village.

Deault spoke to members of the South Dundas Economic Development Commission last Wednesday and said marketing the area's colorful history could easily lead to "big business".

"There's wealth of heritage along this highway corridor that could be developed endlessly," he said.

Deault explained that with a little creativity and research, South Dundas could become a legitimate tourist area rather than a stop-over destination.

"Instead of people just dropping by the (Upper Canada) Village we could offer them a series of things to do here," he said.

Deault's suggestions were somewhat familiar to commission members, who recently heard a consultant's report stating that South Dundas' most viable economic pursuits lie in the tourism industry.

"I understand that one of the recommendations in your report suggested that we try to keep tourists in our area a little longer and this, of course, is something the St. Lawrence Parks Commission has been trying to do for years," said Deault.

Deault suggested that this could be achieved by focusing on South Dundas' established tourism facilities and historical heritage.

"We must strive to set our area apart from all others, make our region as distinct as possible, and make sure we offer visitors something they can't get anywhere else," he said.

"We, at the commission, know what works and I think we should use the area's heritage and history to generate a wealth of economic opportunity."

Deault added that once a specific theme has been established its important to maintain it.

"That's why we never compromise with our product. We often resist suggestions made by our visitors, like numbering the houses or cutting the grass because they simply didn't do those things in the 1860's."

He also suggested that the area's heritage be coupled with the river as an additional selling point to prospective tourists.

"The river provides endless enjoyment and we try to incorporate it into our operations," he said.

Deault said the commission plans to increase the river's profile at the village as well as continue to augment the level of animation and personal interaction at both the village and Fort Henry.

"We're always trying new things to see what works and as a result we're in the process of making some rather difficult decisions but we don't mind because, like you, we're forced to make important decisions all the time."

In fact, the commission has recently completed an eight-page report, entitled Vision 2000, which lists the general direction the commission intends to pursue over the next decade.

Among some of the initiatives is a specific plan to increase communication and co-operation between commission attractions and surrounding communities.

"For some unknown reason there appears to have been a sort of resentment between the commission and the local residents. But for whatever reason, the St. Lawrence Parks Commission wants to be integral part of their neighboring communities and help them whichever way they can."

Boy Scouts organization getting ready for new year

MORRISBURG — The Boy Scouts organization in St. Lawrence District is once again back "on line" as the various Groups in the 11 communities within our boundaries are busy handling registrations.

Started in 1907 by Lord Baden-Powell in England, the movement has stood the test of time, as indicated by some 13 million members world-wide.

Last year there were approximately 700 members in this District, which includes Prescott, Johnstown, Cardinal, Iroquois, Morrisburg, Williamsburg, Chesterville, Winchester, Kemptville, South Mountain and Spencerville.

Boy Scouts offer wide ranging programs for Boys aged 5-14, and both genders from 15-25. Beavers are the youngest section from 5-7, followed by Cubs between 8-10. Scouts are next for the 11-14 age group. The next two sections are Venturers and Rovers with ages being 15-17 for the former and 18-25 for the latter. These two sections are offered as co-ed programs.

In addition to youth programs, the opportunity is present for adults age 18 and over to become involved as leaders, assistants, helpers or to serve on the Parents Committee which oversees the operation of the local Group. No prior experience is required as resource material and on the job training is available.

If anyone has a desire to join the organization at any level, contact your local Scout leaders or call District Commissioner, Jack Tennant at 925-4179, or District President Mike O'Brien at 258-7765 for Scouting information pertaining to your community.

O.P.P. Report

MORRISBURG — A 1987 Toyota Camry was completely demolished after it literally flew into the median on Highway 401 Thursday afternoon, just one kilometer west of Highway 31.

The driver, Blake Ward, 26, of Sackville, New Brunswick, was in the westbound passing lane when his vehicle wandered into the median and headed directly into the emergency cross-over road.

The car was propelled into the air and landed on its roof.

The driver was uninjured but is charged with careless driving.

WILLIAMSBURG — An Osgoode woman suffered minor injuries after her car skidded off Highway 31 Friday night.

Police say Kimberley Armstrong, 29, was northbound on the highway about half-a-kilometer north of the Hess Bridge, when she failed to negotiate a curve, then over-corrected and sent her vehicle across both lanes.

The 1987 Mazda was later found in a nearby field and sustained extensive damage.

Armstrong was taken to the Winchester Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Charges are pending.

WILLIAMSBURG — Two South Mountain youths suffered minor injuries when their car skidded off County Road 18, early Sunday morning.

The driver, Oliver Hurler, 17, apparently lost control of a 1988 Charger, just east of Lightning Street.

The vehicle struck the north shoulder, when the driver over-corrected and sent it across both lanes.

The car they drove onto a private lane and eventually stopped after hitting a tree.

The passenger, Corey Coons, 17, and Hurler sustained minor injuries but did not require any medical assistance.

Crimestoppers

NEPEAN — Thieves had a purpose in mind late Tuesday evening March 7, or early Wednesday morning March 7, 1989, when they drove into the Rideau Heights Industrial Park, just off of Highway 16 near the Hunt Club Bridge in Nepean.

They parked near Paquin Sales, which is a sign maker and silkscreening company at 22 Antares Drive.

The crooks went to the east side of the building and forced the door with a pry bar. Once inside they glanced around for a moment, and entered different offices, emptying boxes, opening drawers and rummaging through file cabinets and business papers.

The robbers went to the work area in the building, and removed a signmaker, several boxes of clothing and computer cards.

They worked quickly and took the articles to their vehicle, placing them inside and leaving the scene. The goods taken were:

1) A Graphic 1V-G.P.S. computerized signmaker, serial No. 25015. It was approximately 1½ X 2', blue/white in color with 2 rollers on top of a computer keyboard. The initials "T.P.C." are engraved on the circuit board under the service panel.

2) Several boxes of silk-screen shirts, and sweat shirts with the name "Paquin" on the label.

Three weeks later there was a similar break-in and the same type of machine was taken. The loss has been estimated at $45,000. A sophisticated alarm system has since been installed.

Your tip could lead to the arrest of the persons responsible for this break, enter and theft, and if your information is received this week, you could qualify for an award of $1,000. from Crime Stoppers. Call the Crime Line at 233-TIPS. That's 233-8477. If you live outside the capital area call free at 1-800-267-8477. You don't have to reveal your identity to solve a crime. Call Crime Stoppers.

"Bonjour campaign not very funny"

SLPC memo irks COR party leaders

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Another move towardss the implementation of French services in the St. Lawrence Parks Commission has aroused the ire of English rights advocates.

The issue is an internal memo the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation has sent to all of its regional offices and agencies including 125 commission employees, to prepare employees for the implementation of the French Language Services Act, November 19.

Dated September 13, the notice entitled "Bonjour Campaign" requests those who answer the telephone on September 20 add the greeting "bonjour" to their normal introduction, for example, "Ministry of Tourism and Recreation, bonjour."

Some stock responses are also provided to the receptionist, if the caller continues in French, such as "en reunion" (at a meeting), "en vacances" (on vacation) etc.

An information sheet distributed in August reminds employees the bilingual format is mandatory as of November 19 or sooner.

Supplied with the memo by an unnamed source, Gord McGregor, a director of Confederations of Regions (COR) said, "It's a joke, but not a very funny joke."

As part of its platform, the party holds that English should be the only official language in Canada, and has promised to compete among other provincial political parties following a meeting in Cornwall last Monday.

In an interview last Wednesday, McGregor stated he would bring this and other issues to the attention of a National Association for English Rights meeting here Monday.

"We'll explain to people how ridiculous it is for the government to force people to speak French, if they can't speak it. If people want French services, they should ask for them," he said.

McGregor stated that if the caller continues in French after hearing 'bonjour', a unilingual English person may not be able to pick out a suitable French response from the list. "A more natural thing to do would be to answer, 'Excuse me, I'll get someone who can converse in the language."

"They could always find someone in the office to speak French, but now they've gone one step further, and they're making it a prerequisite in institutions and departments," complained Owen Mekitarian, vice-president of COR for the Eastern Ontario region.

SLPC Human Resources Officer Mike Hart says the French Language Services Office has already called the commission, talking to people in finance and administration, personnel, marketing and communications.

"We've always been answering this way, and doing it regularly, even before we had secretaries who were bilingual. It's a service we've provided for years," he said.

Of the 700 plus employees at the Parks Commission, only four positions including two receptionists jobs are designated bilingual.

"Under Bill 8, we are required to provide services, because we do serve designated areas. We as a regional centre are required to do it, but Upper Canada Village doesn't have to do it," says Hart.

When asked if had received any complaints about the procedure, he replied, "We've had a few rumbles of discontent, but no one's said anything to my face."

"The memo is to convey a welcoming and an indication that someone in the office can speak French," said French Language Services Co-ordinator media contact for the Ministry of Tourism, Brian Cranley.

"It isn't mandatory for the person who answered the phone to continue in French, but it indicates that someone in the organization would be able to address the caller's needs in that language," he explained.

Although Cranley admits this is an issue, he is counting the promotion campaign a success so far. "Perhaps the Toronto area isn't the best target market, but there've been no complaints back to the Office of French Language Services yet."

Executive director of the Office of Francophone Affairs, Remy Beauregard says that all 33 Ontario ministries are required to do something to prepare employees for the implementation of Bill 8. "But the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation is doing an elaborate promotion campaign."

He added most offices in designated areas are already answering 'Ministry of Tourism and Recreation, bonjour.'

SDEDC – a sign of the times

Some of the area's leading business people, industry leaders and tourism professionals informally gathered at Upper Canada Village last Wednesday.

The occasion was a splendid luncheon inside Willard's Hotel, hosted by the South Dundas Economic Development Commission.

Still in its infancy, the commission meets regularly to discuss the development potential of South Dundas.

Representatives from the area's business sector, tourism attractions, surrounding municipalities and ministry officials exchanged points of view as well as shared interesting information.

The commission, however, is by no means a pretentious clique but rather a beast of necessity.

It wasn't so long ago that the motels along Highway 2, between Cornwall and Brockville were regularly filled. At that time, tourism was not only alive and well but thriving.

In fact, during the 1970's, attendance figures at Upper Canada Village commonly surpassed the 350,000 mark. Nowadays, it seldom reaches 250,000.

But times have obviously changed.

Completion of Highway 401 meant that vacationers from Toronto could reach Montreal in the same amount of time it used to take them to get here.

And attracting tourists has evolved into a complex and competitive game with municipalities, provinces and countries all vying for those limited vacation dollars.

As a result, South Dundas has suffered greatly, not only economically but spiritually.

Older residents fondly recall the old village of Morrisburg, before the Seaway, as a hustling-bustling little community with a dance hall second to none, a bowling alley, and a movie theatre.

But all that is gone now, but not forgotten.

Surely we have learned from that experience and now it is up to us to develop this area as much or as little as we wish.

That's right, we are captains of our own destiny.

And this is why groups like the economic development commission are so important.

Granted, the more this area grows the more they stand to gain, but so do the rest of us.

Some of the area's most-respected individuals have already brought legitimacy and stability to the commission.

Their intentions are noble and furthermore they have the presence of mind to realize that the key to our success is easier to achieve through co-operation rather than isolation.

God and geography has made us neighbors, so it seems only right that we ll work towards a common goal.

The economic commission has as its mandate, to act as a catalyst, in support of all endeavours that promote South Dundas.

It also provides a proper forum fo all segments of the economy to gather to trade thoughts and ideas to advance us towards these common goals.

You would be surprised at what can be achieved during a luncheon.

By the way, could you please pass the mashed potatoes.

— Mike Thompson

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles
by Bonnie McNairn

The September 26th, 1979 issue of The Leader reported the Morrisburg and District Lions club had presented its first ever Honorary Life Membership to 36-year Lion Gord Walroth.

Mr. Walroth had been a member of the Morrisburg club for over 21 years and prior to that was a member of the Verona Club, north of Kingston. Mr. Walroth had filled all capacities of Lionism and was proud to be part of the 52-member organization.

Morrisburg council was being criticized for the lifting of the convenant protecting the village's waterfront park in an effort to provide a permanent structure in the beach area.

Jim Whelan received a superlative backup from the other eight players on his team, as he pitched Roy's Boys to a 3-1 semi-final Ontario fastball playdown championship against Minesing. The win advanced the Williamsburg-based team to the Ontario finals against Jordan.

The Morrisburg Golf Club held its annual awards night banquet in its new clubhouse under the direction of president Nick Lee. The Club Championship trophies were awarded to Fred Harper and Barb Sheridan and to junior champ Richard Gaiser.

After two years with The Morrisburg Leader, reporter Neil Cameron was heading for Cornwall and employment with the Standard Freeholder. Cameron started with The Leader as a cartoonist and eventually turned his attention to writing and photography.

John Allison Real Estate had a three bedroom side split home in Morrisburg listed for sale for $68,000. The home included a large family kitchen, separate dining room, fieldstone fireplace in living room, large family room with workshop and 1½ baths.

Headlines in the September 26, 1969 issue of The Leader read Pat Beavers Heads Liberal Association. Beavers was elected president of the association when the provincial Liberal Association for Grenville held its annual meeting in Cardinal.

The Williamsburg Pioneers accomplished an almost impossible feat when they won the Dundas Fastball League finals. The Cardinal Pats had held a 3-1 series lead when the Pioneers came back with 4-1 and 4-2 wins to force a seventh and deciding contest. The final game went 16 innings before the Pioneers were able to claim the championship with a 2-1 win. Big Doug Casselman went the distance with a five-hitter, three walks and 22 strike outs while Ted Hoy handled the loss. Gerry Morrell producing the game winning RBI.

Residents of Winchester were gearing to raise the few remaining thousands necessary to provide a modern community centre.

At the Dominion, a seven-pound bag of Dominion all-purpose flour was 69 cents and chicken breasts were 49 cents a pound.

1959

The September 25, 1959 issue of The Leader reported that the tremendous transformation that two years of hard work and expenditure of a million dollars could do for a 60-mile stretch of farmland along the fabled St. Lawrence Seaway was shown to a group of distinguished visitors and press reporters. The highlight of the tour was a visit to Chrysler Park and the Pioneer Village where several century-old homes had been reconstructed and other buildings recreated. Chief points of interest were the Lutheran Pastor's home, a school teacher's home and a doctor's home completely furnished as they were in their heyday. Across a ravine from the Pioneer Village was a loyalist cemetery with centuries-old headstones embedded in wall of brick taken from demolished homes along the now drowned seaway. Still farther west was a mound, consisting of 250,000 cubic yards of earth scraped from the Chrysler Farm battlefield. The Pioneer Village was to be open to the public in 1961.

Morrisburg United Church Parsonage was the scene of a pretty wedding when Mary Charlene Hamill became the bride of Gerald Raymond Baker.

Acceptance of a tender from Angus L. MacDonald Construction Co. of Cornwall for construction of a two-roomed addition to Morrisburg High School, was announced by the South Dundas District High School Board. The amount of the MacDonald bid, the lowest of nine tenders received, was $42,813. The new structure, was to be connected to the existing building at the north west corner and was to provide classrooms for Industrial Arts and Commercial. Enrollment for 1959 was 230 students compared 210 the year before.

A Barkley's Meat Market Ad in the September 22, 1939 issue of The Leader reads: This is not Hitler. We tell the truth about our merchandise.

Women of the day were being warned that they must give attention to a new posture or carriage so that the flat stomach that made the bustle profile look right could be achieved.

Adventure in the Sahara starring Paul Kelly and Lucille Ball was playing at the Cameo Theatre.

The September 27, 1929 issue of The Leader reported that millions of eels were infesting the St. Lawrence River east of Prescott. It was believed that food for ducks, placed there by sportsmen, attracted swarms of eels last season and that it had become a breeding place for them.

The Prohibition Union of the County of Dundas had chosen Mr. N.W. Beach of Winchester as their candidate in the coming provincial election. Mr. Beach was well-known throughout the county as a strong advocate and worker for prohibition.

At the Dominion, assorted chocolate bars were six for 25 cents and Kraft Canadian cheese was 40 cents a pound.

The Marine Grocer located on Locke Street in Morrisburg was listed for sale.

Agri-Food Week gears up for 1989 harvest

TORONTO — Harvest time is celebration time in Ontario.

A province-wide network representing nearly everyone involved with food — those who grow it, those who prepare it for market, those who sell it and those who eat it — is gearing up for a special harvest celebration, Agri-Food Week, from October 2-8, 1989.

Agri-Food Week is the combined effort of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA), the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and many of Ontario's commodity boards and organizations.

"Agri-Food Week celebrates the hard work of everyone involved in the food chain — from grower to food processor, laboratory researcher to retailer, said Minister of Agriculture and Food David Ramsey.

"'It's important that Ontarians appreciate the sophisticated network of people involved in bringing good food to our tables.'

"Agriculture and food is truly a 'growth' industry in Ontario, not just because it provides an enormous selection of high quality food, but because it contributes a large percentage of income to the provincial economy," Ramsay added.

At $16 billion, the agriculture and food industry is Ontario's second largest, following the automotive industry, totalling $5.5 billion in farm cash receipts.

It employs 20 per cent of the Ontario work force, in jobs such as farming, transportation, food processing and the restaurant and retail trade.

"Buy the food Ontario grows' is the message we want to send out this week," said OFA President Brigid Pyke.

"When consumers buy Ontario food products, they're not only assured they're getting superior quality food, but they can also feel good knowing they're helping sustain, and even create, jobs right here in the province," Pyke said.

During Agri-Food Week, hundreds of farmers-volunteers from the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, as well as from the different organizations which help farmers market their products, go out of their way to reach consumers.

"This year is shaping up to be one of the best yet for Agri-Food Week," said Carolyn Fuerth, Agri-Food Week committee chairperson.

Events are being planned in nearly 30 towns and cities, she said.

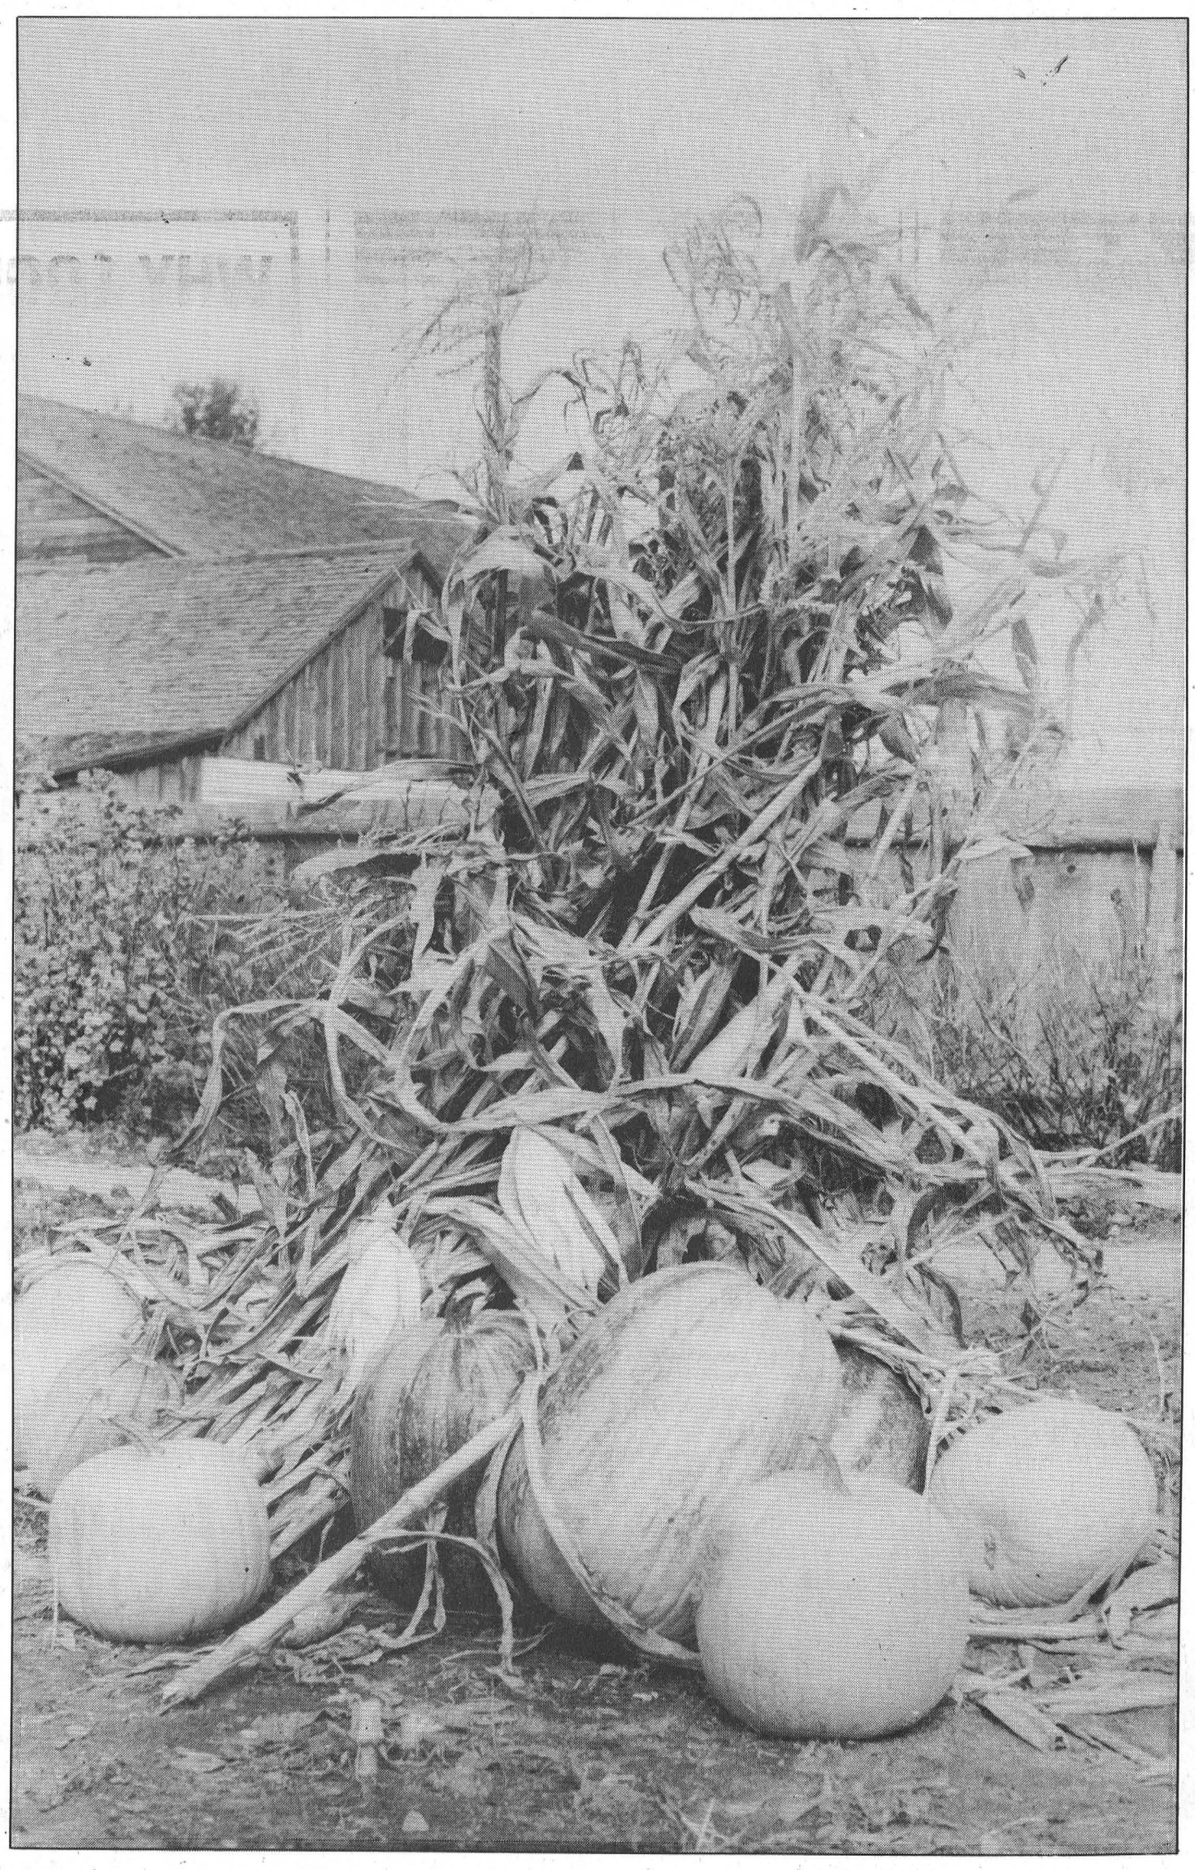
"Many counties favor mall displays, setting up a booth in the local shopping centre and chatting with consumers about the business of growing food. This gives both rural and urban consumers a chance to meet farmers in person, ask a few questions and perhaps sample some of their products," Fuerth said.

In addition to displays in mall displays and at country fairs planned for cities and towns across Ontario, from the Rainy River District in the North of Prescott and Russell in Eastern Ontario and down to Essex and Kent Counties in the southwest, there are a variety of activities planned for Agri-Food Week.

For instance:

— In Chatham, urban and rural folk will be introduced to contemporary farming during a bus tour of local farms. They'll end their tour with a taste of country hospitality at a corn roast.

— In Woodstock, Agri-Food Week placemats, printed with interesting tidbits of information on the agri-food industry, will be used by about 20 local restaurants.



LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

The Brownies, Guides, Pathfinders and Sparks appreciated the article in The Leader concerning their desperate need for new leaders. We are pleased to report, that as a result of this publicity, we now have two new Guiders and a Junior Leader, and the Guiding Program will thus be able to continue.

We are grateful to the Leader for their promotion of the Guiding Program and helping keep it a vital group in our community.

Also, we wish to thank Crowder Monuments for sponsoring our booth at the Trade Show.

Yours truly,
Morrisburg Guiders

Dear Sir:

Have we got our priorities mixed up?

To a handful of scientists it must seem like a dream come true when they view the pictures of Neptune which Voyager 2 has sent back to earth. But it is of little if any interest to millions of people who would rather view a picture of an official printed on a small piece of paper (currency) which they can exchange for food for their starving babies, or medicine for their pain and suffering, or even a shelter for those without homes.

Yahweh (our Maker) must be very angry when He sees man attempting to invade His domain. The Bible says that Heaven is Yahweh's home — the earth He created for man (Psa. 115:16). Could this be one of the reasons why we are experiencing the disasters which are happening in the skys today? Wouldn't it be more admirable, more humane, if we cleaned up and brought some semblance of law and order to our diseased, crime-ridden planet before embarking on a probe of planets which were nor meant for habitation? Maybe we would be wise to follow the admonition found in scripture, namely — to live a quiet life, work with our own hands, and mind our own business (1 Thess. 4:11).

Shalom,

Dear Sir:

The following is a copy of a letter sent to the Parks Commission concerning the early closure of some of the local parks to traffic. Just as hunting season opened, the gates were re-opened for the hunters. But many of us do not understand, or take kindly to being "shut-out" for a large part of the season.

St. Lawrence Parks Commission,
Morrisburg, Ontario
KOC IXO

Once upon a time — just over 30 years ago — people living in this area could come and go on the St. Lawrence River as they wished. It was a big part of their lives — swimming, fishing, boating or just "river watching."

Ah, but now for a fee of $50, they can still do that — for 3 months of a year! This is disgraceful! We have paid increasingly high fees for entrance to the parks, our taxes go towards their maintenance, yet our wishes are the last thing to be considered when policies are made!

We are protesting the Labor Day closing of several area parks, most particularly Farran in Ingleside. A gate has been locked across the entrance and there is no access to the river at all!

While we understand the cost — cutting value of not having an attendance on duty after Labor Day — we question the logic of locking the shoreline away from the local citizens for three-quarters of the year. If the intent is to prevent vandalism, we doubt very much that anyone bent on destroying public property would be deterred by the gate. It merely prevents anyone from driving in "for free" — but what about those who bought season passes! An ever-shrinking season!

We ask that the gates be opened — that we be allowed entrance to launch our boats, to fish, or just drive in to "river watch" — This is the people's land, not a private estate — which is the way it is being treated. The public should have access to the parks as long as the roads are passable.

Sincerely,
Wayne Froats

Hospital care a priority for new Anglican pastor

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Although Morrisburg's new Anglican minister, Reverend Harry Brown and his wife Grace have only been in the village for two weeks, they already have many plans afoot for their new parish.

"We've always had a love for small communities, and there are needs here that may perhaps benefit from the skills I could bring," Brown explained.

"I would like to see a build-up of a sense of community, and along with that an expanded vision of service to the needs of the community," he said.

Referring to signs of poverty just outside the Village of Morrisburg, Brown believes this is something the church should be concerned with.

"At our doorstep we have a retirement home, and homes for the retarded, I've done some work in that area too," he said.

And Brown has a wide field of experience to draw on counting prison work, hospital ministry and regular parish work in his portfolio.

Brown's introduction to the ministry came many years ago in the Church Army, an Anglican church order, as he took on prison rehabilitation work in Ottawa and Toronto.

The army was founded in the late 1800's at about the same time as the Salvation Army, and for many of the same reasons, but remained within the Anglican Church.

The organization trains lay officers to work in evangelistic outreach and social services. From 1957 to 1967, Brown ran a half-way house in Toronto for youths coming out of prison, but left the church army to study theology at McGill University during 1966 and 1967.

He was ordained in 1968, and since then has served 22 years as a priest in the Diocese of Ottawa.

His last assignment was at the Church of the Resurrection in Ottawa, previously, he held office six and a half years at St. Paul's Church in Almonte.

Over and above the call of regular parish duty, he has become involved in another related field, hospital ministry.

He sat on the Almonte Hospital Board for eight years, on the pastoral care committee of the Riverside Hospital in Ottawa for three to four years, and helped lay the groundwork on the ethics committee of the Riverside Hospital during its first year.

The committee was established to identify and examine ethical issues like like support systems, and who should decide to stop using them.

Continuing the renewal movement

Other than expanding the church's present role of community service, Brown has another goal for his parish — the continuation of the renewal movement.

"It's a spiritual movement where people are drawn into fellowship with Christ within the church, and has been ongoing in the parish for two to three years," Brown explained.

The renewal may contain elements of the "charismatic" movement, but other factors such as the "Cursillo" movement are a part of it too, he added.

According to Webster's Dictionary 1985 edition, "charismatic" is an adjective describing powers given a Christian by the Holy Spirit for the good of the church.

The "Cursillo" movement had its roots beginning in Spain following the Civil War, when the Roman Catholic Church attempted to restore a devastated family life by means of a weekend retreat, or "cursillo," meaning "short course".

"It's a time of concentrated thinking and experiencing of what it means to be a Christian. The end result is a spiritual growth in many people's hearts, and hence in many parishioners' lives," said Brown.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to extend sincere thanks and appreciation to all my family and friends who have been so kind to me while I was in hospital and since my return home. My gratitude also to doctors and nurses at Connell 10, Kingston General Hospital, and to ambulance personnel.
Art Laurin
39pd

I would like to thank Baker Construction for the excellent job and professional workmanship which they did in building my new home in Morrisburg. Your work in my books is second to none. Many thanks people. Special thanks to Brian Baker (no relation) for his meticulous complacency to detail and the correspondence.
Richard W. Baker

May I take this opportunity to say thanks for all that was done for me while I was a patient in the Ottawa Civic Hospital and since returning home. Flowers, cards, treats, phone calls and visits all meant a lot to me. Special thanks to those who brought Merle in to see me, also to Rev. Sandy McPherson and Rev. John Niles. Thanks again from the bottom of my heart. These kindnesses will always be remembered.

IN MEMORIAM

BLAIR — In loving memory of dear father and grandfather.
Along the road to yesterday.
That leads us straight to you.
Memories of those happy days.
That we all once knew.
Always in our memories.
We seem to find a way.
To wander back to meet you there.
On the road to yesterday.
Lovingly remembered by your family,
Patricia, George, Shawn,
Coleen and Kent Holder
39pd

BLAIR — In loving memory of a dear husband John, passed away, 16 years ago September 27, 1973.
Some things in life, you cannot buy.
A gift that is rare and true
A gift of a wonderful husband.
Like the one, I had in you.
Today again, I walk with you
To the years gone by.
Though unseen, I feel you near,
and ever by my side.
Your Loving Wife
Jennie

Women's Institute

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS — Irene Standring was hostess of a September 12 meeting of the Riverside Heights Women's Institute, convening resolutions, and roll call.

Seven members volunteered resolutions they would like to see carried out: for example, that more humour should be injected into our daily lives, that midwives be trained and legislated, that the Goods and Services Tax should be abolished or modified.

Irene had a test on our knowledge of recycling, and displayed some of her crafts. A new member, Muriel Gow, was welcomed, and the meeting ended with a tasty lunch.

Riverside Heights members are invited to a Women's Institute meeting in Osnabruck Centre, at 1:30 p.m. October 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sanger

Champagne-Sanger vows heard

A lovely summer wedding was held at Seaway Christian Church, Prescott on August 5, 1989 when Pastor Terry Grimes united Lori Elizbeth and Andrew Paul in marriage.

Lori is the daughter of Leslie and Katherine Champagne of Prescott and Andrew the son of Arthur Jr. and Caroline Sanger of Prescott. Andrew is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Billings and Mr. and Mrs. Omer Rutherford of Morrisburg and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sanger, Sr. of Prescott.

The maid of honour was Stacey Lockett, niece of the bride, and attending as best man was Evan Cowan. Ushers were Dale Sanger, cousin of the groom, and two of the bride's nephews David Lockett and Michael Moffatt. Flower girl was Tracy-Lynn Grimes and Davie Grimes was ring bearer. Mrs. Judy Grimes and Mr. Peter Ericson sang. The organist was Mrs. Cowan.

Andrew and Lori honeymooned in Cobourg and Niagara Falls. They now reside at R.R.2, Prescott.

Educational conservation series offered locally

Area teachers and school children who are dreading the confines of the classroom may want to answer the call of the wild this fall by attending the St. Lawrence Parks Commission's outdoor educational series.

Offered at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary, the program will cover a wide variety of nature-related topics, including "Trees and Their Friends", "Winter Survival of Plants and Animals", "Soil", and "The Wet World".

To find out more about the conservation education series, why not come out to the Sanctuary's popular goose feeding program which will take place daily at 2:30 p.m. until November 15th.

Near the feeding area there will be a display emphasizing the educational aspects of the Sanctuary, games and puzzles will be available for children and buttons will be awarded to young participants.

All visitors are welcome to enter a draw for a Canada Goose painting.

The Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary covers 9,000 hectares of wooded uplands, crop land and goose pasture and wetland. Eight kilometres of nature trails wind through this varied habitat.

Euchre winners

Winners of the euchre held at the I.O.O.F. Hall September 13th were Alice Crowder, Keziah Wells, Clifford Seeley and Myles Casselman.

Door prize winners were Helen Gillespie and Clarence Levere.

Half and half draw winners were Doug Gow, Edith Baker, Garnet Prunner, Mr. Harper, Bill Godkin and George Barkley.

The next euchre is September 27.

Williamsburg Seniors meet

At the Senior Citizens' meeting recently, 57 members and three visitors enjoyed a tasty noon meal.

President Thompson opened the meeting with everyone singing "O Canada", and then welcomed everyone present. "Happy Birthday" was sung to all with September birthdays. Membership fees were paid by 63 members.

Hilda Garlough was in charge of the program, and she introduced Gordon and Gladys Garlough. They had recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversry and had taken a trip west and north to the Yukon and Alaska, by air to Calgary, then by bus to Dawson City, Fairbanks, Anchorage, and other points. They gave a most interesting and educational slide presentation and commentary.

Following the program, during the business, the bus trip scheduled for Sept. 28th was finalized and the fares collected.

The annual bazaar and tea will be held on Saturday, October 14 from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. and the same committees will work again this year. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Margaret Barkley reported that Beatrice had sent three cards.

Doris Hill reported for the nominating committee as follows, Past President Ed Thompson; President Ruth Casselman; Secretary Jean Casselman; Treasurer Ruth Hogaboam; Card Secretary Beatrice Saddlemire.

Following the meeting the remainder of the afternoon was enjoyed by playing cards and visitation.

Winners at the Wednesday night Williamsburg Seniors euchre were Norma Brown, Muriel Miller, Muriel Gow, Lorna Hoy, David Brown and Doris Hill.

Door prize winners were Mabel Prieur and Emil Olsen.

Draw winners were Wray McPherson, Dwain Harper with two, Doug Gow, Harlan Helmer and Bertha Christie.

The next euchre will be held on October 4. Everyone is welcome.

Head coach settling in, big decisions still to come

MORRISBURG — Junior B Lions head coach, Dennis Casselman, says he is down to 21 players and by the time the Lions hit the ice for the first home game October 6, he'll have 19 players on the bench.

"We've a high rate of return from last year's players with the exception of Randy Mullin who has moved up to Central Junior," says Casselman.

"We've definitely lost some scoring punch but as for defense we are in fine shape."

"Our goaltending situation is also in very good shape and we've had some tough decisions," he says. "We started with five goaltenders in camp and are now down to three. We'll probably make our final goaltending cut this Sunday when we play Winchester."

The Lions under the new coaching staff of Casselman, Ralph Luimes and Leo Lafortune opened their training camp on September 10th.

Since that time they've played three exhibition games picking up a 4-2 win over Brockville, tying Alexandria 4-4 and losing to them 8-5 in a return match.

"It wasn't an overly large camp at the outset but to date we've released 15 players and still have 21 in camp," says Casselman. "So it worked out that it was fairly large."

The Lions are expecting to be on home ice next week and they'll kick off the season Friday, October 6th when the Kemptville 73s come to town.

Casselman says he is looking at three overage players, Sean Baker, Sean Lapier and Rod Lemieux although the latter has not indicated his intentions for the season.

He has two veteran defencemen back, Jim Bennis and Yvon Besner and veteran forwards include Ernie Beckstead, Greg Wells, Johnny Morrow and Jason Smith.

"Our defense looks good," says Casselman. "Along with the veterans we have a 16-year-old and an 18-year-old who look very promising."

As for goaltending neither Andy Cummins nor Kevin Eamon have returned. Still in the lineup are Bob Warford, a 20-year-old who hales from Boston and came to the Lions through the Smiths Falls Bears, Mike Barclay a graduate of the Morrisburg minor system, and Daryl Kivaho of Cornwall. "All three have looked good and the final cut Sunday will be a tough one," says Casselman.

Also still in camp are Jeremy Morrow and Tim Casselman, both of whom are midget age and play out of Morrisburg and Rob Casselman and Jamie Smith who are local midget graduates.

"We've had good spirit to date and everybody is getting along," says Casselman. "Training camp can be difficult when you have so many veterans and new players."

"But all have shown their desire to play hockey so that's a good starting point."

Casselman says that he and his new coaching staff are also working well together.

"We're all on the same wave length and we all agree on how we want the team to play."

Jr. B Lions meet Glens head on in exhibition action

CORNWALL — The Morrisburg Junior B Lions and the Alexandria Glens kicked off weekend exhibition play with a rough and tumble 4-4 tie Saturday and then toned it down considerably in a rematch Sunday, which ended with an 8-5 Glen's win.

Saturday's game saw 132 minutes in penalties assessed, the Glens taking the bigger portion with 81. While the Lions failed to take advantage of their power play opportunities the Glens came up with two goals while the Lions were short-handed to salvage the 4-4 tie.

The Glens were first on the scoreboard with Benoit Gauthier's first of two powerplay tallies at 4:15 of the first period.

Four minutes later the Lions evened it, David Serviss doing the counting with help from Greg Wells.

The Glens got the jump in the first 10 minutes of the second period with goals from Martin D'Amour and Andrew Lapensee.

Then it was back in the Lions' court, in particular in the control of veteran centreman Johnny Morrow.

Morrow turned it on for a pair of tallies in the last two minutes of the second frame and at 9:18 of the third he gave the Lions a 4-3 lead with an unassisted marker.

Picking up assists on his first two goals was veteran winger Jason Smith while Chad Samson helped out on the first and veteran defenseman Yvonne Besner assisted on the second.

Unfortunately the Lions were unable to hang on to the lead. A Lions' elbowing penalty at 15:18 of the third resulted in Gauthier's second powerplay goal and ended the game in a 4-4 tie.

Glens strong offensively

Sunday in Cornwall neither team was able to get on the scoreboard in the first period but in the second the Glens claimed a 3-1 lead on goals by Marc Bernique, Gauthier and Trevor Clark. Scoring for the Lions was Jamie Smith with help from Johnny Morrow.

Less than a minute into the third the Lions tightened the gap with a goal from Lance Markell, assisted by Greg Wells and Ernie Beckstead, but they were unable to catch up.

The Glens worked their way to another five goals from Clark, Marco Labonte, Andrew Sauve, Gauthier and Mike Sauver while the Lions had counters from Perry Brunt, Ernie Beckstead and Johnny Morrow.

In the penalty department the Lions drew 12 minors and the Glens were assessed nine.

In other exhibition play the Lions downed the Brockville Tikis 4-2 last Sunday.

Scoring for the Lions were Jim Bennis, Johnny Morrow, Yvone Besner and Jason Smith.

The Lions open the 1989-90 season on home ice Friday, October 6 when they host the Kemptville 73s.

Pros in place

Registration up for figure skating club

MORRISBURG — With the skating season now just a little over a week away, Morrisburg figure skating club registrar, Barb Robertson says there are still a few outstanding registrations which, when in, will bring the club to its highest enrollment in several years.

Currently the club is standing at 93 skaters, up from the 74 reported at registrations last year and 72 in 1987.

The biggest growth is in the lower end of the club where the Canskaters increased from 56 last year to 69 and the Canfigureskaters went from three to 10.

The C.F.S.A. skaters remained constant with about 14 enrolled.

"It was a very good registration," says Robertson. "We've picked up quite a few new members, with the younger ones being up about five per cent."

"There seemed to be a lot of new people I hadn't seen before," she said. "In fact, judging by the various questions they asked it seemed they were new to the area, not just the club."

Pros in place

Expecting to be on the ice October 2, the club now has its professionals in place and is pretty well ready to go, says president Sandra Scott.

The biggest problem of finding a male dance pro has been solved with Glen Kenny now on board.

"Kenny will work with the girls who are on their senior silver dances only," says Scott. "And we are now 90 per cent sure that we have a second male pro who will work with the girls who are on their lower dances."

Returning to the club's coaching lineup are Jill Jonkman, Barb Marriner and Karyn Disheau and joining them for the first time this year are Juli McDonald and Cindy Cassell.

"With the large Canfigureskate group along with our senior skaters, we have a lot of girls booking lessons this year," says Scott. "So all of the coaches should be busy."

Arena ready to roll this Sunday

MORRISBURG — The countdown is on and barring any unforeseen problems the arena will be in full swing Sunday.

"We expect to have the full schedule running Sunday October 1," says arena manager Don Smithson. "With the plant and floor we have now, ice for early October is no longer a problem."

The Sunday opening will be the earliest ever for the Morrisburg arena. Last year, Smithson was ready for the first of October but a Zamboni break down postponed the opening.

Monday arena staff members, Junior Perrault and Lee Kelly were busy mopping the floor and at noon the plant was turned on.

Smithson expected to start flooding last night (Tuesday) around 8 p.m. providing the floor was at the required 18 degrees F temperature.

"The weather forecast, with the cold nights, is perfect right now," said Smithson.

Flooding was to continue today (Wednesday) and Smithson expected to have enough ice to whitewash Thursday.

On Friday the lines will be put in place and Saturday flooding will build up the ice thickness in preparation for the Sunday opening.

Other than annual maintenance no major work was done in the arena in the off season and the Zamboni has undergone its annual maintenance.

Smithson is hoping the Zamboni will keep going until the village comes up with funds for the purchase of a new one.

As for the ice schedule, the arena continues to be a busy spot with the ice booked to its fullest for the 1989-90 season.

Minor hockey is the biggest user with 18-20 hours weekly depending on the Junior B schedule.

The Morrisburg and District Figure Skating Club is next with 12 hours a week followed by the Junior B Lions and town league.

Curling Club temperature rising

MORRISBURG — The Morrisburg Curling Club is going to be a much warmer spot this winter, thanks to a recent decision which will see heaters installed in the rink area.

"We have many senior curlers who complain of the cold and we thought it wise to look into making the rink more comfortable," says club treasurer Lauren Locke.

"Many other curling clubs have heat and as a result you'll see some people curling in their shirt sleeves," she said.

Although Locke is not certain of the temperature the heaters will provide, it will be comfortable and hopefully at the same time will remove some of the moisture.

"It won't be tropical by any means but we think it will allow everyone to enjoy the game much more."

The first step to installing the two heaters, which will be located at either end of the rink, is an increase to the building's electrical capacity.

At the same time, electrical work will be done in other areas, including the bar and kitchen facilities.

"We certainly won't have heat for the October 14 opening but it should be in by Christmas," says Locke.

The gas heaters will be equipped with fans which will circulate the warmth throughout the ice arena, and Locke says the club is looking at an expenditure of about $5,000.

"There are a lot of people who would be curling but they just can't stand the cold," says Locke, indicating an increased membership as a result of the heat would help offset the cost.

Ice going in

Although the club executive is studying the new heating system, the present situation is cold and that's the way they want it to stay.

New sand was put in place and levelled last week and on Friday the ice plant was turned on. Sunday night saw the sand frozen and flooding began late Monday.

"Our new ice chairman, Steve Byvelds, had set a target date of October 14 for the ice, but as it stands now we could get going a bit earlier," says Locke.

Membership registration is scheduled for this Thursday and Friday night at the club from 7-9 p.m.

"We are hoping to get everyone registered this week, so that if the ice is ready early, we'll be in a position to get things going," says Locke.

Closing in

There was plenty of action at the Morrisburg Public School soccer field Monday afternoon as a large number of athletes tryed out for this year's junior soccer team coached by Sandra Woolridge. Throughout the county, students are heading to the playing field after school as they try out for their respective teams in preparation for the upcoming tournaments. — McNairn photo

Curling Chatter

MORRISBURG — The ice plant is on, and flooding is now underway as we quickly approach the start of another season at the Morrisburg Curling Club.

Officially our ice chairman, Steve Byvelds, has set October 14 as the target date for ice, but if all goes well we could get going a little earlier.

Something new for our members to consider this year is a Sunday night fixed team league. All members are invited to enter a team (four curlers) which will curl together for the entire year.

You may enter mixed, men's or ladies' team...whatever suits you best. We ask only that you indicate your desire to enter a team when you register your membership this week.

For anyone who can not enter a full team we will take your name and hopefully teams can be arranged in this way as well.

The league will fill up the Sunday night time slot which has been empty for years and will afford our members the opportunity to work on teams that can participate more effectively in competitive bonspiels.

A reminder that this Thursday and Friday nights have been set aside for registration in the clubroom from 7-9 p.m.

We hope the majority of our members will register at this time so we can be prepared when the ice is ready within the next few weeks.

Also a reminder that our general fall meeting is slated for October 10 and the garage sale for October 14. Donations will be accepted in the clubroom on October 13 from 7-9 p.m.

It is also our pleasure to report the club has decided to go ahead with a heating system in the rink area, which will make for a much more pleasureable game.

The project will begin with work on our present electrical system and hopefully before Christmas the system will be in place...just in time for the dreaded January deep-freeze.

As well the interior of the rink has been completely painted in the off-season and we know you'll all appreciate the difference.

However, now when a shot is missed the curler won't be able to blame poor visibility or frozen toes.

See you all soon.

Legion Bowling

INGLESIDE — Linda Stata was right back in form for the first night of Legion Mixed Bowling League action at the lanes here Thursday.

Stata crossed a 725 on single games of 275-223-227 to lead team two to a four point night over team one and a early lead in the league standings.

Answering for team one was George Baker with a 678 cross (213-265-200).

Also having a good night was Larry Stata with a 641 cross (198-173-270) for team four but it wasn't quite enough. A solid team effort from team three resulted in a 3-1 point win for the evening.

Team six had three 600 plus performances to claim three points from team five who managed their lone point in the second game of the night thanks to a 235 single from Hubert Massie.

For team six Vicki Boivin had a 636 (247-177-212), Lynn Dillabough a 615 (195-186-234), and Paul Lacombe a 604 (238-197-169).

Masssie led team five with a 634 (238-235-161).

Ministry attempts fairer practice

Hunting points must be vacated

MORRISBURG — The Ministry of Natural Resources has announced some changes to the organization of the controlled waterfowl hunt in Lake St. Lawrence to increase opportunities for hunters by making the allocation of blinds fairer.

Starting in 1989 hunters will have to vacate the hunting access points by three hours after sunset each night. Those hunters wishing to camp overnight on St. Lawrence Park Commission campgrounds will be required to camp in designated sections of Riverside-Cedars, Farran's Point and MacLaren's Campsites.

Hunters may obtain a blind location for the day by parking in the access points but not before three hours before sunrise.

For the opening day of the waterfowl season only, hunters were able to obtain a blind location by being present in their access point of choice between 10:00 a.m. and 12:00 a.m. on the day before the season opened. Blinds were assigned by random draw for opening day only, during that two hour period.

Hunters who were successful in the draw were issued a letter of Authority to occupy the blind on opening day. Any blinds not assigned to a hunter during the draw, were available on a first-come basis on the opening day.

Camping fees will apply at McLaren's Campground until October 8 but no camping fees will be charged at Riverside, Cedars or Farran's Point campground as regular services will not be provided in these two areas.

Ed McGregor Fish and Wildwife Supervisor for Cornwall District of the Ministry of Natural Resources said that "these changes are necessary to ensure that access to the various blind locations is done in a fairer way" by ensuring that more hunters have a chance at obtaining a blind over the course of the hunting season.

Hunters should also note that a world Scouting Jamboree will be held at the Riverside-Cedars campground and no hunting will be permitted in Blinds 21 to 28 between September 28, 1989 and October 2, 1989 inclusive.

For those whose recreation is entertaining friends

Dinner Club to provide assistance

TORONTO — McCormick Canada Inc., importers of fine herbs and spices from around the world, has introduced the Dinner Club, an exciting new free membership club to help consumers get more enjoyment, pleasure and satisfaction out of their home dining and entertaining.

Gord Tompkins, Director of Marketing for McCormick Canada, says, "We know that consumers like to experiment with new food ideas but hesitate to venture out of their traditional 'comfort' zone of reliable recipes. The Dinner Club will provide the knowledge and tools our consumers need to become more adventurous and have more fun in their everyday cooking. We've developed exciting, convenient, easy-to-prepare recipes to help spice up every meal."

According to Tompkins, membership in the Dinner Club provides consumers practical information they'll find useful in their day-to-day food preparation as well as unique tips and ideas for entertaining and special occasions. Tompkins says, "We've assembled a group of experts to help develop a wide range of useful information our members will want to keep on hand."

This includes tested recipes by McCormick Canada home economists, spice tips and information from the experts, informative newsletters, excellent savings on spices, special product offers and much more.

Members receive regular mailings containing the Dinner Club Edition, a colorful newsletter featuring new recipes and entertaining ideas; collectible recipe and tip cards; current nutrition news and information from well-respected dietitians; microwave tips from authorities in the field; kid tested recipes and entertaining ideas; product samples and special discount offers on useful cooking and entertaining items. The introductory package even includes a handy spice chart and Dinner Club fridge magnet.

In addition, McCormick Canada has set up a special hotline for Dinner Club members, manned by bilingual operators, and promises to provide personalized responses to your queries immediately or in writing as quickly as possible. Through the hotline members have access to cooking tips, recipes, and spice usage tips.

"We're very excited about the Dinner Club", says Tompkins, "and are encouraging consumers to take advantage of the resource it has to offer to make their food preparation and entertaining more fun."

Membership in the unique new club is free. Call the Dinner Club Hot Line at 1-800-265-2600

Seaway High News

BY CINDY LAURIN

Hello everyone, especially those of you in minor niner land. Are you still alive? Keep wearing those signs and gathering points and you'll survive the week.

Here's a rundown of the events that the grade 13's have planned for the grade nines. Monday was Woodstock day with a dance at noon. I'm proud to say all the 13's dressed up but not all the grade nines. Tuesday was backwards day in which they had to wear their clothes backwards or inside out. Also, at noon, there was a relay race on the track.

Wednesday is noser hoser garbage bag day where niners have to wear a cup on their nose and a garbage bag. Noon events include a find-a-jellybean in whipped cream, and pushing ping-pong balls with their nose.

Thursday is bed head day. Everyone has to come looking like they just rolled out of bed. Yes, that means no hairspray or makeup girls! That day there is a clothesline on the track. Finally, to finish out the week, Friday is mystery day, and following that the dance-a-thon starting at 2:00 and ending at midnight.

At least $20 in sponsorships is needed to enter the dance-a-thon, but you can just come to the dance starting at 8:30 if you don't want to enter.

That's it for orientation week this year, hope you have fun!

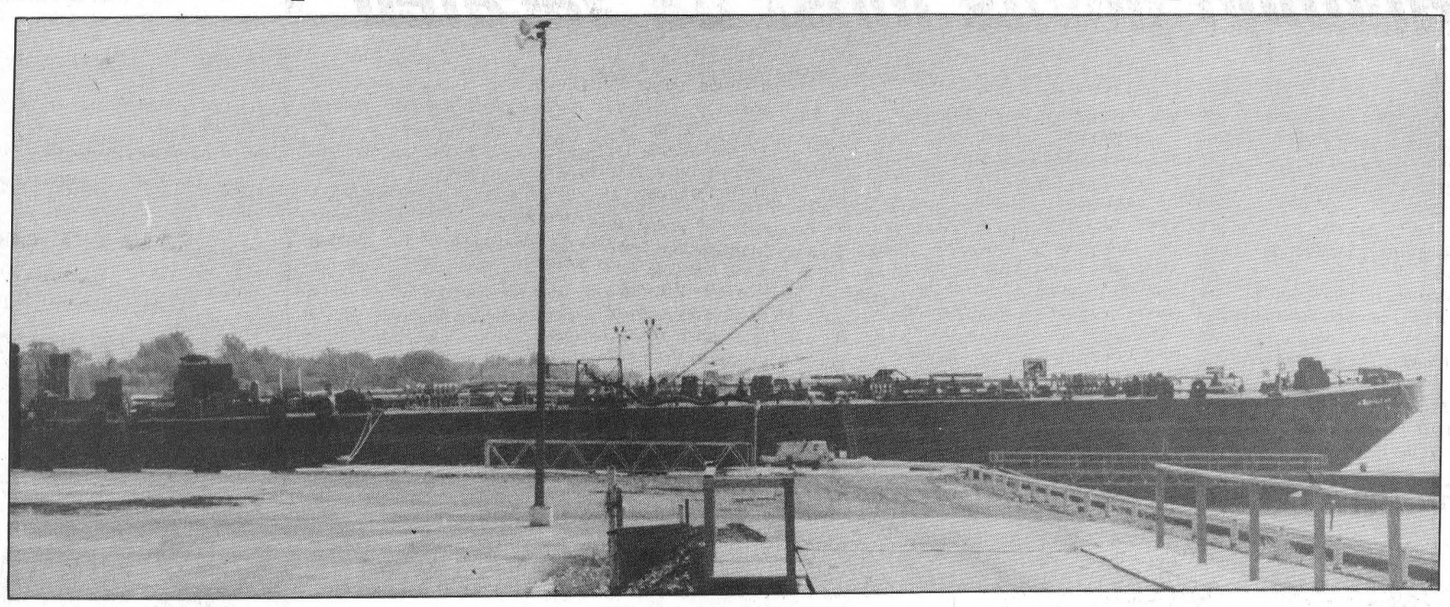
Barge remains a practical method of transportation



The McAsphalt 401

Many fuel distributors and industries continue to receive their combustible fuel from a barge and tug boat. Combined, the tug and barge measure over 420 feet long and has visited ports all along the St. Lawrence Seaway, including Sarnia, Hamilton, Detroit and Halifax, among others. Although privately-owned, the vessel regularly transports fuel for oil refineries like Ultramar and Esso. The McAsphalt 401 unloaded bunker C oil at the Universal Terminals dock here.

MATILDA TWP — The ugly monstrosity quietly chugs along the water and eventually comes to rest at the Universal Terminals dock just west of Mariatown.

She is, by no means, a beauty. She is however, extremely practical.

The barge, The 401, is almost one football field long and 60 feet wide. Its tug, the Point Carroll, somewhat dwarfed by the carrier, is 126 feet long and 32 feet in width.

This is definitely no luxury cruiser but the most cost-efficient way of transporting materials like Bunker "C" oil, hot asphalt and "cat feed" — an unrefined form of diesel oil.

On this trip, the barge is carrying 6,437 metric tons of Bunker oil to the Universal Terminals depot, although its capacity is 42,000 barrels.

Elie Cholette, terminal manager, says the oil is sold primarily to industries, although very few of the local companies use it.

"We ship all over the place, to the paper mill in Cornwall, to Kingston and anywhere else they want it," he says.

Cholette says many of the area's older schools still use the bunker oil to heat their buildings.

Considerably cheaper than heating oil, Cholette says many hospitals and other establishments also continue to use it.

He says the only real problem with it, however, is that is has to reach 130 F. before it can be pumped, unlike standard heating oil.

A fact the crew aboard the barge and tug are only too aware of.

"Somedays, you can barely stand it," says barge hand Jim Flynn, a native Newfoundlander.

"But this stuff isn't too bad, it gets a lot worse when we're carrying asphalt."

Flynn says the asphalt is usually loaded at over 300 F and must be kept at that temperature to prevent it from solidifying.

"And that can be pretty hard to take, especially when we have to make a long trip."

Flynn works for the barge owners, McAsphalt Industries, and begins all of his trips from Clarkson, Ontario, and some take up to four days to complete.

This particular voyage, however, lasted only a day-and-a-half.

"It's not too bad," he says. "I work six and get three weeks off."

During the winter months, Flynn is usually working on the barge, which regularly sustains minor damage during the season's more turbulent storms.

But today, Flynn is more concerned with unloading the cargo.

It will take most of the day for Flynn to pump over 6,000 tons from the barge's 10 tanks and by the time he's done, the vessel's draft will have risen almost 12 inches.

"Then it's back to Clarkson for another trip," says Flynn.

Although McAsphalt owns the barge, it has to charter the tug, which belongs to Eastern Canada Towing from Halifax.

Surprising, the captain entrusted with this huge and expensive cargo is only 26-years-old.

But despite his age, Jeff Butler is a knowledgeable and seasoned seafarer.

"I've sailed under a lot of men but Jeff's the best I've ever worked with," summarized Flynn.

Butler, a native of Port Dover, Ont., has an amazing amount of experience as a captain.

"I've been around ships all my life and it's really the only thing I wanted to do," he says.

Butler has worked aboard numerous ships for the past seven years and received his "captain's papers" more than five years ago.

"Most of the crew is young and I think that obviously helps us work together."

Butler's crew has been together for about two years and all parties hope that's the way it will stay.

"It takes people a little while to get accustomed to each other and I don't think they'll want to separate this team," says Butler.

"Afterall, we sort have become a family."

Outreach services . . .

In Williamsburg there will be an additional four supported-housing, one bedroom apartment units including a handicapped apartment to be built on a second floor. There should also be a respite convalescent unit consisting of a two-bedroom apartment to provide care for seniors recuperating from illness or hospital stays, which will be located close to the clinic area for medical care, and also close to the co-ordinator's office.

Barkley says the dining room should accommodate 70, and a van is ready to bring seniors to the facility for meals on wheels, or wheels to meals arrangements. Meals would be served seven days a week, starting at noon.

Discontent among council

The project was not accepted without murmers from councillors whose municipalities were not so fortunate. Reeve of Charlottenburg Township Carol Ann Ross was concerned that Glengarry County was being ignored.

But according to de-Witt, little mention was made of Glengarry County in the DPA study, because of an outstanding array of services at Maxville Manor, the Glengarry Interagency Group, and a seniors residence at Lancaster.

"It's good for Williamsburg but what will it do for people in Iroquois?" asked Iroquois deputy reeve Ed Thompson, adding it was unfeasible to transport seniors on a daily basis to the centre.

"It's a pilot project. If the ministry sees it works, they'll back it up," said de Witt. She stressed that services in the new centre would be available to seniors over S.D.&G. allotted on a needs basis.

"It's our intent to do something for all the areas," she added.

Winchester reeve Larry Gray asked whether there would be enough money left for the rest of the counties, if $1 million was spent on Williamsburg, and $300,000 on Ingleside.

"This is a pilot project, and the $3 million is also pilot funding," de Witt explained. She noted that after adding the county contribution, over $2 million would be left for other areas.

"Time is of the essence, to get two projects approved and underway, and get needs of seniors across the counties met," she said.

According to de Witt, if the Ministry of Community and Social Services approves these projects, the next focus will be a service delivery centre for the Town of Finch.

"All areas have needs," said de Witt. "Some are very small, and can be met without any cost, so that money will not necessarily run out. Lots of programs we're looking at are purely volunteer implemented."

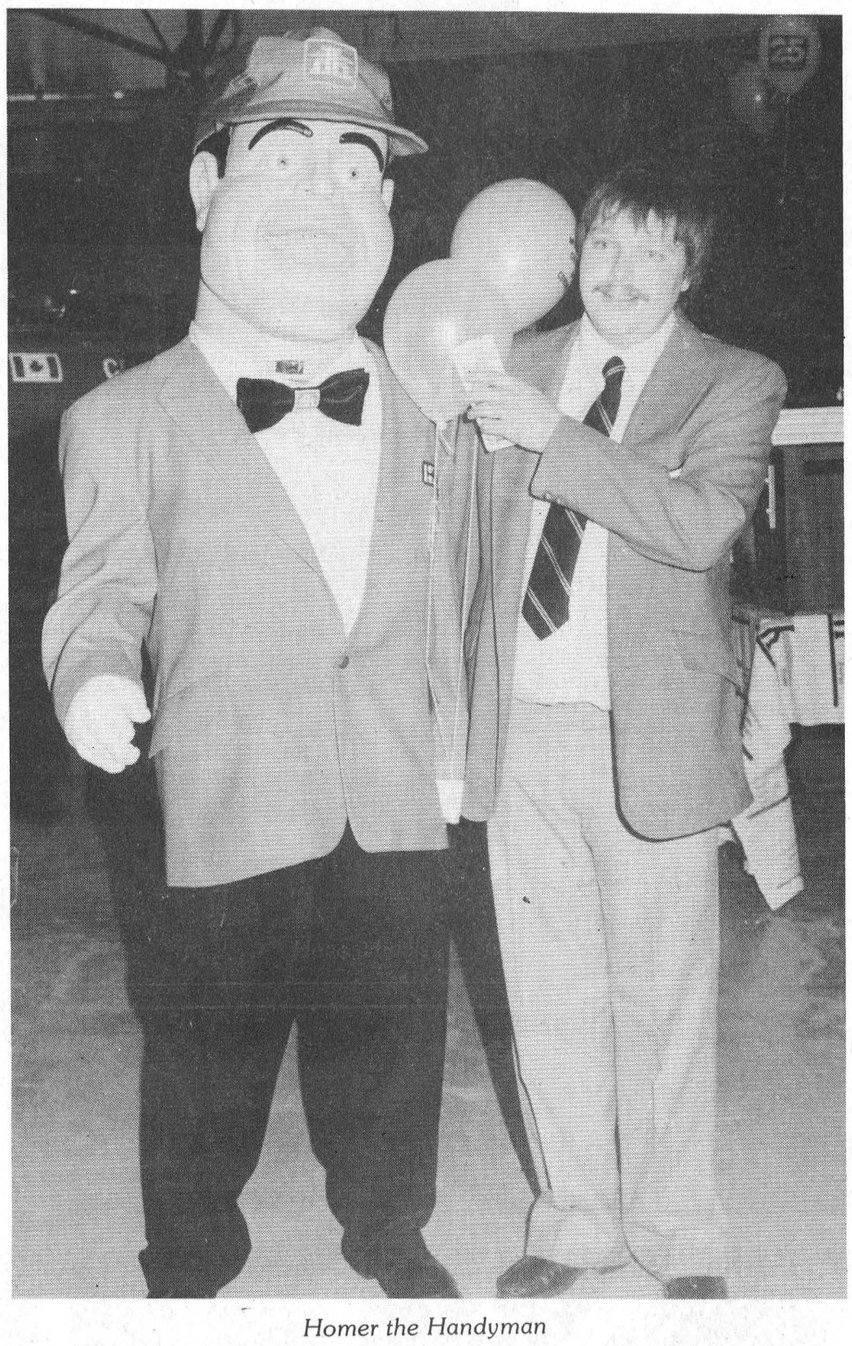
Morrisburg Home & Trade Show a success



Homer the Handyman

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Attendance at this year's Morrisburg Home and Trade Show was slightly down compared to previous years but the organizers aren't sulking.

Sponsored by the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce, the event was rejuvenated after a six-year absence, much to the pleasure of those attending.

"Many of those who dropped by told us that they really enjoyed the show and thanked us for bringing it back," says Linda Bowers, one of the organizers.

Overall attendance reached a respectable level of close to 1,200 over the three nights.

"The exhibitors obviously put a lot of thought and hard work into their displays, which brought a certain professional quality to the entire show," says Bowers.

"There was also a wide variety of displays and product lines."

A series of door prizes were raffled each night including two cash prizes and a weekend vacation.

Winning the $100 cash prizes were Ed Munro, Janice Gillard and Sandra Brunt.

Taking the Children's $25 cash draws were Joseph Jansen, Joel O'Brien and Phillip Bing.

The three winners for the weekend in Ottawa for two were Carole Miklian, Bill Bennett and Albert de Witt.

Bowers says the shows success can also be measured by the "tremendous level of co-operation displayed throughout the entire community."

"A few of the local organizations sponsored display booths for three non-profit groups: Brister Insurance paid for the Morrisburg Fire Department, the Morrisburg Legion paid for Seaway High and Crowder Monuments covered the cost for the local Brownies, Guides and Pathfinders," explains Bowers.

"And if that's not co-operation, I don't know what is," she adds.

Along with the private displays were also community and educational exhibits.

"Upstairs were the Alternative School, the Educational Foundation for Foreign Students and the Morrisburg Block Parents' displays," she says.

Bowers says the committee is already looking at ways to improve next year's show.

"Obviously judging by the comments we received there would be no reason why we wouldn't try this again," she says.

"I think with a little more publicity and additional displays from local arts and crafts people we should be able to surpass this year's numbers."

Tax assessor speaks at Osnabruck

OSNABRUCK CTR — Concerned taxpayers once again crowded council chambers here Monday, in an effort to find out answers to pressing tax concerns.

The Townships of Osnabruck and Williamsburg in S.D.&G. and four municipalities in Prescott-Russell have consented to a complete reassessment of all properties based on 1984 market values, which should be complete around November.

When the study is complete, council may approve the reassessment, or return to the old system based on a 1940 assessment.

The study is to update inaccuracies by noting renovations, demolitions, improvements to properties, indicating 1984 market values, and Denis Gagnon, regional assessment commissioners, was on hand to answer questions.

Township resident Harold Robinson was upset by a large tax hike this year on a field he had divided by severances which had nothing to do with the new reassessment. His taxes rose from $22 a year for a field of six acres to $34 a lot for five unimproved lots, and taxes on a boggy area outside the lots had also gone up.

He complained he was paying taxes on services he wasn't receiving on unimproved lots. Although he had attempted to get information from the assessment office, he claimed he could receive little or no information.

Gagnon explained that sewer and water service taxes were under municipal jurisdiction, not under the regional assessment office and that Robinson was not being taxed for these. His increases had come about because of the severances, and the greater burden of taxes the province had put on municipalities this year.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Gagnon said that if there was a mechanical error, it could be corrected. However, inequities due to the old system of taxation could only be corrected under new assessment.

Unfortunately, the complainant had missed open houses to appeal his assessment, which are held in a 35-day period between the time of receipt of notices and the last day of appeal.

Another resident had been mistakenly assessed for extra square footage on his house for a number of years, and was told that under the Municipal Act, the mistake could be corrected back for one year.

Some councillors were also concerned whether higher real estate values could affect market value assessment. Gagnon explained that when reassessment is based on 1984 values, it is frozen at that level until the next assessment, despite renovations.

"If there is enough activity to need an update, your township can have an update. But market values will not change, unless the municipality requests an update," Gagnon said.

Matilda Township has chosen to do an update reflecting property renovations every four years.

Gagnon admitted the new sysyem could be unpopular when first brought in. "The ratepayer may not like when his taxes go up, but the system says you should have paid it all along."

But when asked how the majority of municipalities react to the reassessment, he replied they react positively. Although some areas across Ontario have opted to go back to the old system, none in this area have.

He added cottage properties and vacant lots historically receive the highest increase.

"Municipalities will not gain any more taxes from the reassessment, but there will be an equalizing effect which should do away with present inequities," said Gagnon.

Elliott disciplined for outburst

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Osnabruck's Deputy-reeve Carson Elliott had his knuckles wrapped at a Seaway Valley Tourist Council meeting last Wednesday.

During the meeting held inside the Morrisburg Civic Centre, Elliott began to severely criticize the "terrible state" of the local provincial parks.

"I know for a fact that a number of people were very upset that the campgrounds weren't open," he stated.

"I spoke to them myself and I told them that I refuse to go to a provincial campground until they clean up their act."

Elliott added that visitors were particularly upset at the parks long grass and closed beaches.

"I told them that it was just simple mismanagement."

Immediately, Elliott's speech offended certain members of the tourist council, particularly executive manager Terri Lalonde.

"Mr. Elliott, I really don't think that those types of comments are appropriate here (during a SVTC meeting), especially when you know that certain members of the local media are present," Lalonde said.

"Furthermore, I think it is our job, as a tourist council, to accentuate the positive and not destructively criticize our own area," she added.

Terming Elliott's criticism as "detremental" Lalonde asked that the Deputy-reeve cease his complaining.

Obviously embarrassed by all this, Elliott attempted to apologize.

"I didn't mean to be critical and there's always next year," he said.

Jim Saunders, an information officer with the St. Lawrence Parks Commission lightly resented Elliott's comments on the closed beaches, which were shut down by the Eastern Ontario Health Unit because of high bacteria levels.

"There's not much we could have done about the beaches. I mean, beaches all across the area, especially in Ottawa, were closed for most of the summer because of the contamination," explained Saunders.

"And as far as the grass being too high, we did start to cut a little later than usual but that's because many of the parks opened later this year."

Many members agreed with Saunders' concern over the poor water quality in the area and suggested that further steps be taken.

"We've got to protect what we've got now or else it'll be too late," said Cornwall city alderman Ray Lalonde.

Denis Laverty, a SVTC director, wondered how effective the weed harvesting program was in the eastern part of the St. Lawrence.

However, Lalonde assured them that Lee Cassidy, the SVTC project manager, was participating in the St. Lawrence Remedial Action Plan.

"She attends all the meetings and will keep us up-to-date on what's happening," Lalonde said.
