Fair play

Eight members of the New Democratic Party's Quebec wing shocked fellow politicians and many Canadians last week by announcing a new policy, further restricting the rights of anglophones in the province.

The policy, which supposedly is supported by the NDP and its leader Ed Broadbent, states that The Charter of Rights and Freedoms would be subservient to the Meech Lake constitutional accord which recognizes Quebec as a distinct society.

Another proposal says only Quebec should be able to invoke the ''notwithstanding'' clause in the constitution that can be used to override the charter. Quebec would be able to use the clause to restrict the rights of non-francophones.

The language debate is getting out of hand.

Since the Parti Quebecois took power in 1976, Quebec's English population has shrunk from 20 per cent to 12. Those who remained behind have learned to speak French and are sending their children to French immersion or French schools.

Two years ago Ontario passed a bill providing extended services in French to areas where numbers warrant. Manitoba has agreed to translate its laws into French.

While not universally accepted, many people in English Canada are trying hard to make their French-speaking counterparts feel at home across the country.

Nationalists in Quebec must do the same for the English. Accepting and helping minorities in each of Canada's 10 provinces should be fair. French is already accepted as the language of the workplace in Quebec, as it should be.

If Ed Broadbent allows eight candidates to practice blatant discrimination to win the Quebec vote, he is as guilty as they are. And the situation only provides further ammunition for those who oppose French as an official language of the country.

Rene Levesque once said a government is judged by how it treats its minorities. How will the NDP, or any federal party for that matter, be judged if it allows a handful of extremists to set language issues back 100 years?

Vote for progress

The Editor:

On Nov. 14 village residents will vote on the question: ''Are you in favor of the Village of Winchester spending municipal funds for the purpose of implementing services in both English and French languages?''

I urge local residents to vote yes. The referendum is an opportunity to build on a strong tradition of tolerance and progress:

1. Seventy-six per cent of Winchester residents voted in the 1987 provincial election for the three major parties which are committed to a fair deal for Ontario residents of both language groups.

2. Seventy-five per cent of the parents of students attending Maple Ridge Senior Public School have year-after-year enrolled voluntarily in the bilingual immersion program and the successful initiative is continuing at North Dundas District High School.

3. The hospital and many local businesses including the drug store, food store, insurance, real estate and other services, provide bilingual services. They know it makes good sense and good business.

It's time for the village to get on board. The cost will be minimal. When the next vacancy occurs in village staff, a bilingual candidate should be considered provided they meet all other qualifications.

One of our children, after graduating from local schools, might be that person.

Let's give a positive answer to a question that in the past has unfortunately smeared this region with the black brush of intolerance.

Please vote yes for bilingual services in Winchester.

Yours truly
Bert Hill

Guides were there

The Editor:

In Frank Morgan's column last week mention was made of Scouts and Cubs selling poppies last Saturday. Even though the Guide troop is small, it participates in such community functions as poppy sales and Remembrance Day parades. Please don't forget about us!

English first, please

The Editor:

The single most important educational goal for almost any student in Canada, if he/she is to have a chance of achieving his/her goals in life, should be to master the English language. English is now the number one language of the world. The French language (proper or Parisienne) is very much lower rated and worldwide, it is declining in use; French, as spoken in Quebec, is a variant of proper French.

It seems a crime against English-speaking students in Canada that they are being coerced or forced to learn French in school rather than being able to concentrate on mastering the English language and grammar — a task sufficiently difficult that even few university graduates can claim to have totally mastered. Just one reason that learning English and French at the same time is particularly difficult for these students is that many words in French are similar yet different in spelling, pronunciation and/or meaning to English words. The danger of not mastering English first is that the student may well end up being incompetent in both languages.

My advice to English-speaking parents is: Think long and hard before putting your child into a French immersion program; soon enough to learn French after English has been mastered. To jeopardize your child's chance of mastering the number one language of the world in order to gain limited fluency in a much lower-rated language, makes no sense.

Not even a Canadian federal election could have created greater interest in the cities and towns of Canada, than did the election for President of the United States on Tuesday this week. To many, in Ontario at least, it was a life grip between the ''drys'' and the ''wets'' and had the election gone to Governor Smith, the cause of prohibition of the liquor traffic would have received a setback that would have taken many years to overcome. The election of Herbert Hoover is a complete triumph for the continuation of national prohibition in the United States.

At a meeting of Winchester Post 108 of the Canadian Legion, held last Thursday evening, it was decided to interview the local municipal council regarding the enlargement of the present town hall.

The Legion has a fund in excess of $5,000, raised for the purpose of erecting a new club hall. The members are willing to place this amount at the disposal of the municipal council, if the town is willing to undertake to enlarge the town hall and provide a portion of the building for the Legion Clubrooms.

All was not quiet in Williamsburg on Halloween night. Sometime during the wee hours, a group of thoughtless individuals let loose with the wrong kind of steam and peppered several Williamsburg windows with bb shot. Damaged in the outbreak of rowdyism were windows at Pat Henophy's Canadian Tire store, Ross Wingard's store and other business places.

Startling new developments in the community centre scene this week were revealed at the first November meeting of council held Monday night. Winchester Community Centre Board, in a letter to council has recommended that the community centre be closed immediately.

Decision on the crucial recommendation was made at a community centre meeting last week when members again thoroughly inspected the rink premises and decided that they could no longer take the responsibility of keeping the community centre open under the existing conditions.

Let peace on earth reign

by Gordon C. Smyth

Remembrance Day should be a time of conviction. I want to set forth three.

The first conviction is that the threat of nuclear war is the greatest spiritual problem of our time. I mean that this cloud of possible destruction which hangs over us constantly is the deepest source of despair, the most powerful destroyer of faith, the worst killer of meaning in life — this life at least — that the world has ever known.

The lesson of the dinosaurs, for example, is surely that a species of living ''matter'' that does not have the brain to cope with its environment will perish from the earth, no matter how big it is, no matter how strong. The same undoubtedly applies to a species that has a brain which is adequate to cope with its environment, but does not use it. Man might be such a case.

Fortunately, however, there is a second conviction that rises in answer to the first, in reaction to the threat, and it is this: something can be done about it.

Many are apt to say, ''Well, there have always been wars in the past, will there not always be wars in the future?'' It may be that this is so. But there are some new facts in our time that make it possible at least to believe that nuclear war can be avoided.

First is the awfulness of the danger. Nobody wins an atomic war; everybody loses. This should act as a deterrent.

Second is the fact that this is the first time in history when it may be technologically possible to provide the minimum essentials of life for all people, and thus alleviate some of the most serious motivations towards war.

Third is the great advance in the means of communication. A well-informed, worldwide, public opinion is now possible. Obviously it remains for peace-loving people to see that this new ability of communication is put to beneficial use. The global dimension of the ecumenical movement is a good reason for taking Christian unity more seriously.

Now the third conviction is this: In all the world, though we are different men and nations, we can learn to live together. And we are starting to learn! We are fed with the same food, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same summer and winter.

On April 11, 1963, Pope John XXIII, knowing that he had only a few weeks to live, issued his last encyclical letter. It was entitled ''Pacem in Terris'', which is Latin for ''Peace on Earth.'' It was the first papal encyclical in history to be addressed not just to Roman Catholics but to all people of good-will.

It comes to its close with words that I hope we all will allow to set the direction of our minds and hearts. The words include these, ''Finally, may Christ enkindle the wills of all so that they may overcome the barriers that divide and pardon those who have done them wrong. By virtue of this action, may all peoples become as brothers and may the longed-for peace blossom forth and reign always between them.''

Seventh Column

by Joe Rowan

There's good news to report this week. Former editor and publisher of this newspaper (and very-longtime 7th columnist) Reg Workman is expected back home today. Two weeks ago he underwent major surgery at Kingston General Hospital and we join a host of friends in wishing him a speedy and complete recovery.

The media (excluding columnists of course) has a nasty habit of searching for the shady side of life while completely ignoring very obvious and very deserving points of merit. How many times have we seen those in the teaching profession regaled for their inadequacies by a media that 'just doesn't have the space' to recognize meritorious accomplishments. Often, many deserving accolades for their unselfishness and dedication, are right in our midst...and we fail to notice. Maybe you already knew, but we didn't until we spotted a brief mention in Dave Brown's Ottawa Citizen column last week, that Osgoode Township High School teacher John Ross had been honored in recognition of excellency in his chosen profession. The award was from General Motors Canada and Canadore College of Applied Arts and Technology. Naturally, since he's been in his classroom across from the fairgrounds for a quarter-century, several members of our family benefitted from his teaching skills, and over the years we've heard much (and all good too) about ''Mr. Ross''. Congratulations John.

While on the subject of long, efficient, dedicated service, it seems only natural to 'mention in passing' others who have earned merit points on the road of life. Over at Vernon the blinds are drawn and doors locked at the familiar gift shop on the main street. Ill health has forced Glen Lougheed into early retirement, and the genial gentleman, who for nearly three decades has welcomed customers with a friendly smile, will be missed not only by village residents, but by the countless travellers who made a practice of ''stopping on the way through to pick up a Winchester Press.'' Thanks Glen for all those cheerful greetings, and we wish you improved health in the years ahead.

We're not finished recognizing stamina, determination and darn good service yet. If the Clelands (Stuart and Pearl) aren't already on their way to New Zealand, they soon will be...and man, have they earned a long and exciting retirement vacation! Delivering the 'Mail' has been their business (both inside and outside the Post Office at Osgoode), and Stuart ended 26 years of stopping every day at every mailbox when he packed it in two weeks ago. Happy retirement friends.

Monday evening Osgoode Community Centre played host to the annual meeting of Township of Osgoode Care Centre — and the board's capable and extremely efficient secretary wasn't there. Those of us who know Kay Johnston are well aware nothing trivial could possibly deter her when her services are required for any community-involved endeavour. And we wouldn't have been at all surprised if she had showed up for the meeting...despite having had the misfortune to fracture both legs in a nasty fall at her home. Please heal quickly Kay — you're the type that can't easily be replaced.

More than 40 years have passed since our country was at war, but for those of us who remember, it seems like only yesterday. Friday we will pause briefly and remember gallant men and women — but especially those who never returned from fields of battle. Pilot Officer John Gillespie Magee was a 19-year-old RCAF flyer when he was killed in action in 1941. John McCrae immortalized ''In Flanders Fields'' during World War I. ''High Flight'' was the heritage left us by the World War II airmen:

Oh, I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds — and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of — wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there,
I've chased the shouting wind along and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.
Up, up the long delirious, burning blue
I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace,
Where never lark, or even eagle flew;
And while with silent, lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space,
Put out my hand, and touched the face of God.

At the going down of the sun, and in the morning, we will remember them.

Clergy abuse — a study

The Editor:
The media has been fair and balanced in its excellent coverage of the issue of homosexual ordination in the United Church. Recently, the debate took a new and dangerous spin downward. A top church official has called for the disciplining of some ministers. The potential punishment of clergy who oppose the policy will be devastating to the already damaged peace and welfare of our church. Our conciliar system of church government could be transformed into a system of inquisition by his memo. A few scores will get settled along the way.

The Rev. H. Mills is our church's most powerful official in terms of procedural expertise, church law, and bureaucratic influence. Yet the statements upon which his position paper on punishment rests are inadequate, vague and so open-ended that it may harm the church. Therefore, it should be rejected in its present form, the Rev. Mills called to account for the damage done to the peace and welfare of our church, and to the tradition of free speech within our church.

How are his statements inadequate?

One: He claims he was asked to take this action by a number of unnamed persons and church courts. This could be true but where is the evidence? I doubt these mysterious requests were mandated by anyone nor did they come through official channels.

Two: Rev. Mills claims some clergy who oppose gay ordination seem to misrepresent church policy. Evidently they promote disrespect and stir up fear. Again, no hard evidence of any kind except a veiled reference to the media. Who are these clergy, what media, when, where?

Three: He wants church courts to discipline but offers no criteria or definition of how the church will decide who is in need of punishment. Why involve over 100 church courts wasting our time and creative energy persecuting our fellow ministers. With a change here and there, the paper could well have been sent to clergy in Korea, Chile or South Africa by those in power.

In my view, there are two primary dangers for clergy and their families in Mills' memo. I hope he will clarify or correct them.

First: Not only does Mills want clergy disciplined for their stand on the gay issue, he wants much more. The courts are to extend their oversight to the person's lifestyle and total ministry. In addition, he offers the full resources and support of the national church in this potential inquisition. I assume he is offering the church's stable of Bay Street lawyers, the national bank account and his own procedural expertise. Does Mills not realize some will hear "sic em Fido!"

Second: The section on complaints should frighten every pastor who reads it. It sounds pastoral, caring, Christian, but it assumes far too much. Get a complaint — talk to the minister. Here is a classic example of our church's historic blindness in the way it manages conflict. It assumes the validity of any complaint — so the process is started.

It assumes the complaint is true, not trivial and has been through proper channels. It assumes a screening process to handle complaints is in place. The complaint may be coming from some pew potatoes or presbytery jock with an axe to grind. Who would know?

The conflict management system, says Mills, is designed to guarantee fairness and safeguard the minister and employee from abusing each other. As proof he offers Section 74 of the church bylaws. In the context of this debate, the system in place wouldn't protect anyone from the conflict caused by Mills' memo. It is an illusion to think otherwise. It is an example of Rev. Mills' 1950's thinking in that it asks us to trust a system that is growing more adversarial every day. Silence on the part of clergy here becomes collusion and consent.

Past experience tells clergy that if any church court acts along the lines outlined by Rev. Mills there will be more stupid, unnecessary pain, division and conflict. Some clergy and their families will be destroyed. We will lose more good members and loyal ministers will follow them.

I have studied many hundreds of congregational conflicts in the past decade. Clergy at the local level are removed for failing to maintain the peace and welfare of the congregation. If conflict breaks out for whatever reason, the minister is history. None, in my view, has caused the division that Mills' letter is causing in the national congregation.

Perception is the reality in this context. It is not what Mills says but how it will be perceived and acted upon that scares me. Sending a signal of this kind to an already confused and conflicted church will have the same effect as releasing a vicious pit bull terrier in the Sunday school room. Many will be hurt, some will escape, all will be terrorized.

Mills' paper demonstrates that the church now has a policy but it has no peace. It is a small but slippery step from disciplining a few who distort, to disciplining all who disagree.

Environment or trade deal

The Editor:
As Canadians prepare for this critical election, we are faced with a fundamental choice in direction. Do we choose to restore our balance with the natural world, or are we going to commit our future to the powerful stimulant of market economics.

From the perspective of this writer, we cannot do both.

In many respects, the growth of a society follows the patterns of growth of a single human individual. And growing is very important to us as children since we cannot function effectively without a full-sized body. However, somewhere in our late teens our physical growth stops. Any additional muscle we grow or reserves of calories we might accumulate after age 20 is insignificant in comparison to the successive doublings of childhood. This is a good thing since we couldn't survive many more doublings in our basic size.

Similarly, a few hundred years ago, we discovered that industrial production could be done by machines powered from inanimate energy sources. By reinvesting the profits in more of the same, the effects could be multiplied and our material growth was stimulated dramatically. This procedure has produced a miracle of abundance and it is no wonder many people see it as the ultimate good for society.

The size of our economic activity has doubled and doubled again ever since. This has always seemed for the better, until now as a new element enters the picture. Today our societies are so big and so powerful that we are overwhelming the life- supporting processes of our planet. Our waters are increasingly polluted, the atmosphere is changing with potentially disastrous results, forests and the fertility of agricultural land are disappearing at an alarming rate. How many more doublings of economic activity can we survive?

The complexity of the situation is further clarified with the analogy. When we achieve mature size as individuals, we don't stop growing, we just change the nature of our growth. We learn to use what we have in more and more effective ways, by developing our understanding and skills. It can be the same with society. When you hear that we must control growth, it doesn't mean stagnation, just that our planet can only tolerate a certain amount of humanity's material activities. Further development must be sustainable within that capacity.

How does this relate to the Canada-U.S. trade deal?

Market economics is like the growth hormone produced by children. The deal is a major commitment, binding us to follow the United States in its faith that economic growth comes first and all else will follow. Unfortunately, even with supply lines to extract resources from much of the world, the United States has lost its economic vitality. They are very much in favor of the trade deal because it will give their powerful industrial system access to another half-continent of resources with which to continue their material growth. For this reason alone, we would do the U.S. and the world as a whole, a favor by saying no to the trade deal. Otherwise, they would not face up to the limits of the earth for another decade or two and by then, it could well be too late to reverse the degradation of the world's environment.

Canada is in a position to choose. Do we support the goal of sustaining the environment, or do we support growth for growth's sake? The time to decide is Nov. 21. It is important for us to take our voting seriously.

Abortion is election issue

The Editor:
This is the most important election ever for the future of reproductive freedom in this country. (For pro-choice women and men, the abortion issue is an issue of freedom. Any law restricting your — or any woman's — access to a safe, legal abortion is not only an infringement of your civil liberties, but is a statement of a basic lack of trust in your capacity to exercise sound judgement in the control of your own reproduction.)

Dr. D. Maguire who earned his Doctor of Sacred Theology degree from Gregorian University, Rome, was the president of the Society of Christian Ethics in 1981-82. He presents a pro-choice viewpoint in a booklet published by the 'Catholics for a Free Choice'. The following quotations are from this booklet entitled, "Abortion: A Guide to Making Ethical Choices."

(i) "The Catholic Church is composed of many people with differing views on the morality of abortion."

(ii) "Thus, the Catholic Church, when considered in its rich diversity, teaches that some abortions can be moral and that conscience is the final arbiter of any abortion decision."

(iii) "Moreover, most theologians in the Church agree that no Pope ever issued an infallible teaching on any specific area of morality. Many even say that it would be almost impossible for him to do so because morality involves circumstances and no one can know all the circumstances of each and every person in the world."

(iv) "There is no Church teaching stating when ensoulment and personhood occur."

(v) "Even many good religious people believe that prenatal life has to go through various stages of development until it more resembles born persons, or that the woman has to welcome the life in her womb and consent to the pregnancy, before God considers it a human person... Before that it is a precious and beautiful form of life but it is not a person."

(vi) "The majority of people in our society believe that while it is important to value life in the womb from its earliest stages, it is wrong to attach a value to prenatal life that is equal or even superior to the personhood and sacred character of the woman who is pregnant."

The anti-choice candidates do not trust women to make responsible decisions about their own reproduction. They think they have the right to impose their personal views on others through legislation. They think that they should have the right to freedom of conscience on abortion but their constituents should not.

In the recent House of Commons vote on abortion, no woman MP voted to prohibit abortion. Women do not approach abortion as a means of birth control. As Dr. Marion Powell's 1987 study for the Ontario government confirmed, the majority of girls and women seeking abortion become pregnant while using contraceptives.

Despite the public's perception, contraceptives are not 100% effective, nor are they easily available for the poor, the young, or people in isolated or rural areas of Canada.

The polls consistently show (Gallup, October '88: 71%) that Canadians agree that abortion is a medical decision that should rest with the woman in consultation with her doctor. These Canadians realize that recriminalization will not reduce the number of abortions. For example, Ireland, which has banned abortion, has a higher abortion rate than Holland which has easy access to safe, legal abortion. Preaching does not prevent abortions, teaching does.

No one likes abortions. The United Church of Canada emphasizes in its pamphlet We are pro-choice...not pro-abortion, the fact that contraception prevents abortion.

Pro-choice people support and encourage the wide availability of contraceptive information and materials, the teaching of healthy sexuality in the schools as the only effective way to reduce the need for abortions.

CYES reaches unemployed throughout Grenville-Dundas

WINCHESTER — The Cardinal Youth Employment Services Centre completed its fiscal year Sept. 30, serving a total of 102 people.

During the past year, 41 people found jobs, 34 opted for training programs, 10 chose to return to school and 14 had other outcomes, such as moved out of the area or lack of interest in the programs.

Of the young people who sought services, 72 per cent had less than a Grade 12 education. The group consisted of an even split between men and women. Twenty-two per cent were dependent on government services for an income.

CYES has served 346 people since its inception in Cardinal, Winchester Village and Township, Mountain Township, Williamsburg Township, Matilda Township, Morrisburg, Iroquois and Edwardsburgh Township.

The largest and most active area has been Winchester Township serving 100 people to date, with Cardinal in second place followed by Edwardsburgh, Iroquois, Morrisburg and Matilda.

CYES relies heavily on satellite offices to reach unemployed youth throughout the Dundas and Grenville areas. Space is provided in municipal offices in Winchester, Chesterville, Morrisburg, Iroquois, Brinston and Spencerville.

Osgoode remembers war dead

OSGOODE — Surprisingly balmy weather saw record numbers of children and adults participate in ceremonies of remembrance here on Sunday afternoon.

Local residents and visiting dignitaries filled St. Paul's Anglican Church to share in remembrance of Canada's sons and daughters who lost their lives to ensure freedom and peace for others.

Rev. Susan Lackie led the service, assisted by Rev. David Chesney of St. James United Church and members of St. Paul's Church.

About 75 Scouts, Guides, Cubs, Brownies, Beavers and Pathfinders joined members of Osgoode's Royal Canadian Legion Branch 589 parading into the church where color parties from each group placed their flags before the congregation.

Following the service, the sun shone on the lengthy line of marchers as the flags were borne aloft through the village streets to the grounds of the Osgoode Legion on Stewart Street. Here, the numbers swelled to almost 200.

Legion president Raymond McSheffery, conducted a brief service wherein wreaths of tribute and remembrance were placed on the Cenotaph by representatives of all levels of government and by local organizations and individuals.

Isobel Cleland placed a wreath on behalf of the bereaved mothers of the village.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Osgoode Legion served hot refreshments and cookies to the participants during a period of fellowship following the ceremonies.

Members of Osgoode Legion will meet on the Legion grounds at 9:15am on Fri., Nov. 11, to proceed together to Metcalfe for joint Remembrance Day services which begin at Trinity Anglican Church at 10am.

"In Flanders Fields"

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Osgoode High teacher receives national award of excellence

OSGOODE — A teacher has more shoes to fill these days, says an Osgoode Township High School teacher for more than two decades.

"The teacher today is doing a lot more than just teaching subject matter," said John Ross, who recently received the 1988 General Motors of Canada and Canadore College of Applied Arts and Technology Excellent Teacher Recognition Award.

"We quite often have to be more aware of students' needs," he said.

Ross, 47, has taught history, geography and physical education at OTHS for 23 years. During the past decade, Ross said teachers have been forced to fill more roles.

"We are role models," he said. "The expectation of the public is so much greater. In the last 10 years, there has been more of a shift to multi-facet roles."

He said teachers today must have a lot of patience and they must be understanding towards students.

"I have enjoyed the students at Osgoode as being particularly caring individuals," he said.

John Ross

Ross is one of 75 winners across Canada to receive the award which was set up to give students the opportunity to acknowledge outstanding high school teachers.

Former Osgoode graduate Marcel Vriend nominated Ross for the award.

"John Ross has dedicated 20 years to Osgoode High, and has influenced many students," said Vriend. "I give him credit for how friendly he is towards his students and the way he related his subject material to them — an excellent educator and a very fine person."

Another strong vote of confidence was offered by the high school's vice-principal, Ms. L. Brookes.

"Mr. Ross is an outstanding geography teacher," she wrote in a letter to Canadore College. "He has a good rapport with his students, coaches the school hockey team, and is always willing to do any job. I'm impressed with the way he handles general level students."

Ross said becoming involved in extra-curricular activities, such as coaching hockey, can give teachers a different insight into their students.

"It reveals parts of their character you don't see in class," said Ross. "You see various talents outside of the classroom."

Counties negotiate Glen-Stor-Dun sale

CORNWALL — United Counties council has agreed to sell the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge to the City of Cornwall if the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services provides the counties with satisfactory outreach programs for seniors.

The city offered to purchase the property for its new home for the aged for $573,000 including $29,000 for the existing chapel.

But counties clerk-treasurer Raymond Lapointe said the offer will only be finalized if MCSS meets certain conditions.

The province will have to provide a "satisfactory and acceptable means" of implementing outreach programs and group home services for extended care needs within the three counties.

"There is a concern among members of county council that the implementation plan being developed by the D.P.A. Group Inc. of Toronto as community based alternatives to long term care is not adequately addressing the needs of the counties elderly population with respect to extended care services," he said.

Lapointe added that a need is particularly evident in south Dundas. The consultants' final report will be made public later this month.

The city's purchase offer is acceptable to counties council provided it reflects the land and buildings only. Council also wants the existing chapel to remain for the ongoing use and enjoyment of residents of the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge.

Council's position also states that 50 per cent of the bed capacity be made available to county residents.

The counties will assume financial responsibility for its share of the construction cost of the replacement home. The replacement home will be administered by a committee of management composed of equal representation between city and county with chairmanship alternated annually between county and city.

Lapointe said negotiations for agreement between the counties and city for replacement of the counties' existing home are advancing in a positive way.

Regional forage masters to contest championship

TORONTO — Top forage crop managers from across Ontario are vying for the title of Grand Champion Forage Master.

Winners have been selected from each of the 13 counties represented in the competition, co-sponsored by the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association and C-I-L Inc.

The contest recognizes excellence in forage management and promotes sound livestock feeding programs.

Yvon Proulx of Cumberland was selected as the winner from Russell County, Randy Moke of Newington in Stormont and Donald Crook of Dalkeith in Glengarry.

They will travel to Toronto with the 10 other provincial winners where a single Grand Champion Forage Master will be announced at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Nov. 15.

The contest is designed to promote forage management among those who participate and the general farming public.

"We're showing people that the ability to grow and manage excellent forage is a valuable skill," said Glenn McCann, agronomist with C-I-L Inc. "It's an achievement that deserves more recognition among farmers. Quality forages are the basis of a sound feeding program and an important part of Ontario agriculture as a cash crop, as part of a sound crop rotation and for soil structure."

Road reports available Nov. 14

TORONTO — The Ontario Ministry of Transportation has announced that its winter road reporting service for the public will go into operation on Mon., Nov. 14.

The Road Information Centre at Toronto and the ministry's offices throughout the province have up-to-date information on the condition of all provincial and secondary highways 24 hours a day, seven days a week during the winter months.

Information on winter road conditions may be obtained around the clock by telephoning (613) 933-4012 or 1-800-267-0284.

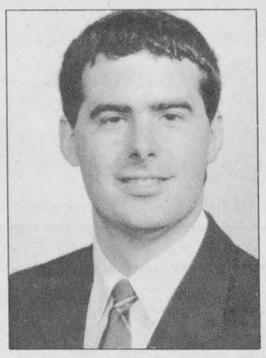
Stormont-Dundas — Election '88

Regional development in riding

This week the Winchester Press asked each of the four candidates seeking to represent the federal riding of Stormont- Dundas if he supports further industrial expansion in the riding and if elected, how he would encourage development.



Eric Cameron

CORNWALL — Conservative candidate Eric Cameron said he doesn't believe the government should give hand-outs to encourage industries to locate in Stormont-Dundas.

"It's not up to the government to create jobs," he said. "It's up to private industry. The government's job is to stimulate the economy."

Cameron said representatives from several firms, including Domtar, have told him they will need to expand their operations in Cornwall if the free trade deal with the United States is approved.

"Our unemployment rate was very high four or five years ago and as such, we were classified as an area that needed some help," he said. "Since then our unemployment rate has improved somewhat. Offering incentives is an important part of industrial expansion but we have enough to sell ourselves, without waving cash around."

Cameron said retraining programs will play an important part in expansion of this area. He said the municipal, provincial and federal governments need to pull together so industry will know about Stormont-Dundas.

Steve Corrie

CORNWALL — NDP candidate Steve Corrie believes industrial expansion in Dundas should be tied into the agricultural industry.

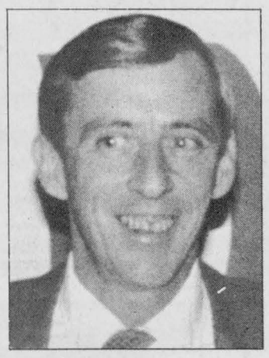
"The area of agriculture is one I haven't completely explored yet because there are so many facets," he said. "There are so many export possibilities."

Corrie also said the area could use a small agricultural college like the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

"Because this is an agricultural area we could have some industries like food processing," he said. "We have to try and get away from manufacturing, low skilled jobs and move towards higher skilled jobs."

Corrie said encouraging the creation of higher skilled jobs opens up a whole new area of training and education for Canadians.

"Canada must get back into apprenticeship and training programs and provide incentives to employers to train people," he said. "Then we can hire our own people for higher skilled jobs. Otherwise we will remain hewers of wood and drawers of water."



Bob Noble

CORNWALL — Confederation of Regions candidate Bob Noble said he believes in further industrial expansion for Stormont-Dundas and promotion of the area should be undertaken by the government.

"The government must realize we are in a depressed area," said Noble. "We require more industry and higher paying industry."

Noble stressed, however, that new industry should not be a major pollutor.

Cornwall already has a broad industrial base compared to Dundas County said Noble, and the county needs more growth.

"Dundas is a friendly, warm place for new families," he said. "We need to promote what we have to offer. Certainly our location is a saleable factor."

If elected on Nov. 21, Noble said he would work with developers of industry on a one-to-one basis to promote Stormont- Dundas as a good location for industrial expansion.

Bob Kilger

CORNWALL — Liberal candidate Bob Kilger said industry has long been a major contributor to the local economy and this has resulted in Cornwall being referred to as the industrial centre of eastern Ontario.

"In this light I am strongly in favor of efforts to increase industrial development in Stormont-Dundas," he said.

Kilger said the riding should be able to capture a considerable share of growth and investment now that the booming economy in central and southwestern Ontario has caused real estate and labor costs to rise.

"Labor is available as is lower-cost land," he said.

Kilger said Stormont-Dundas can learn a great deal from the long-term development plan which the City of Cornwall has pursued. He said the success Cornwall has enjoyed is due to an ongoing process of ensuring requirements, such as appropriately- zoned industrial land, available services and pertinent economic data, are available to industries.

"It would be my goal to provide whatever assistance I, and the federal department of industry, science and technology, could provide in developing an effective strategy towards industrial development in our riding," he said.

Parents see need for teen activities

GREELY — Some local parents are hoping to enlist the services of area youth to help form a youth group for residents aged 14 to 20 years old.

Cynthia Pohran, one of the organizers of the Greely Preschool Co-operative Playgroup, said last week that there is a definite need for community recreation and educational services for teenaged youth.

She points out that a township recreation master plan, drawn up between 1978 and 1980, called for greater emphasis on recreation programs for local youth, but few substantial activities or organizations have grown out of the study.

"We're looking for young people between the ages of 14 and 20 to help us plan a youth program, possibly including an after-four program or summer programs," said Pohran.

The interested youth would get together with similarly- interested adults to organize a group that would plan things for young people in the community to get involved in. This might include after-school activities, or special events for the summer months. Pohran said leadership or business programs might be included with recreation activities planned by the group.

The organizers are hoping to have the details of such a program assembled in time for a December meeting with the Greely Lions Club.

Pohran said she and Osgoode CBE trustee Carole Parker will do the initial work rounding up interested residents for the project and they hope to have some ideas and volunteers ready for their meeting with the Lions Club.

Pohran may be reached at 821-2016, while Parker is available at 821-3313.

Mountain Musings

by Shirley Mills

An exciting art and craft show will be held in Inkerman on Nov. 19, from 9am until 5pm. This will showcase many beautiful items from local craftspeople, and is being held in the RA Hall, across from the public school. There are 30 tables booked and on display will be examples of crafts of all descriptions including jewellery, wooden goods, Nordic sweaters and leather items, etc. Lynn Edwards, who was instrumental in arranging the show said a great many people had applied, and they had reluctantly been forced to limit the number of tables. A show well worth visiting.

How about doing something a little bit different? Did you know there is a fledgling darts league now in South Mountain? The darts players gather at the South Mountain Restaurant on Tuesday nights and games usually begin about 7:30. New members are welcome regardless of their level of expertise. If you would like more information, call John or Lucy at 989-3141 or drop in on Tuesday evenings.

A reminder about the South Mountain UCW Victorian Christmas Fair and Tea in the IOOF Hall in South Mountain on Nov. 12 from 11am-1pm. There will be crafts, baking, mincemeat and other goodies, and you won't want to miss it.

Posthumous award

Russell Lions Club president Bernie Doiron and secretary Jack McLaren were in Metcalfe Monday evening on a very special mission. Russell Phail, who died earlier this year, was one of the last surviving Charter members of the service club, founded in 1947, and his widow posthumously accepted an award recognizing her late husband's sterling contribution over a period of 41 years. In accompanying photo Mrs. Phair, now a Stanley Apartments' resident, receives the plaque and accompanying scroll from Lions president Bernie, right, and Lions secretary Jack. NOTE: Dr. Frank Kinnaird, who no longer resides in Russell, is now the only surviving Charter member of the Russell service club.

Russell group forms to preserve heritage

RUSSELL — Motivated out of a concern for the preservation of village history, seven local residents met last week to form the Russell Heritage and Core Development Committee.

Co-chairman Richard Creamer says the group, which will function as an umbrella group of the Russell Community Association, is concerned with "preserving our heritage before it falls by the wayside."

The group's mandate includes working to preserve historic buildings in the core of the village. "We'd like developers and the township to keep heritage in mind regarding new building projects," said Creamer. "We think it's important to preserve the village atmosphere."

Creamer says that Russell Township council has responded to the formation of the committee in a "very receptive" manner. "We think the formation of a core committee is long overdue," he added.

While the group will have no official powers of decision, it intends to get involved in situations "where the village atmosphere may be threatened." Creamer says the committee, in such situations, will simply attempt to talk to those involved.

Committee members include Jim Callon, Ken Ion, Daniel Kennedy, Peter Robertson, Ann Tjepkema and Tom Van Dusen Jr. Gerry Heymans is chairing the committee and Marie Creamer is the group's secretary.

According to Richard Creamer, concern for the village's heritage will help boost civic pride in Russell. "It's funny," he said, "but once someone, or a group of people, start doing something, it tends to snowball from there. The downtown beautification project in Winchester, for example, has done a lot to boost pride in that village."

Creamer also points to the construction of a park in Metcalfe as an example of furthering civic pride. "We'd like to greatly enhance the appearance of Russell," he said. "We hope to work with the parks' association, to enhance and develop more parks here."

The committee also intends to look into the possibility of creating a walkway along the Castor River, and long-range plans include working with the township on the creation of a heritage zoning for the downtown core of the village.

The group would also like to see the Russell library located in the Russell Hotel (should it be restored), but as Creamer says, "we've really got no authority to tell the library what to do."

"Basically, we're in the planning stages right now," he said. "We'd like to be open to those who wish to lend their ideas and support and we have another meeting scheduled for November."

Creamer says the importance of village history cannot be underestimated. "Russell was a great place in the past," he said, "with woolen mills, lumber mills, the brick industry and other businesses. There are people that lived here for many generations. It would be nice for children to be able to say — this is the way it was when mom and dad, and grandpa and grandma lived here."

According to Creamer, "Russell's historic past should not be lost to 20th century progress."

The group has also developed a logo for Russell, which includes symbols relating to industries and wildlife which have been part of village character over the years.

CHANGE
TAX ACCOUNTABILITY
FAIR PLANNING PRACTICES

THE PRESENT:

1) Taxes: Osgoode taxpayers pay, per capita, 27% more property taxes than do those of Winchester Township and, even worse, they pay a whopping 33% more than do the taxpayers of neighboring Russell Township. I'm bothered by Mayor Bouwers being quoted that we pay less than Russell and more that Winchester. I say to both the newspapers and to caring citizens: "Check the figures. Ask the Treasurers of the three mentioned townships what the total property taxes were in each, then ask them the population in each and divide the first by the second to get 1988 taxes per capita. You'll find my figures to be exact. Belonging to the Region has its benefits, but at these prices they should be more than just a few extra roads - I aim to strike a better bargain.

2) Fair Planning: We need far more open and clearly explained planning. With such planning we'd know what's going on, as opposed to present 'black box' planning. To illustrate how the present practices give us nothing in the way of information, ask if you know the answers to the following: Of all the other land available around Metcalfe, why did municipal government of Osgoode see fit to put the new shopping centre directly on its present mayor's land? (Tile drained arable land, at that)? He says that he'd originally promised not to develop this land for ten years. Why for ten years? Why not until after he ceases being in a position to influence the development? Just whose best interests are being served here? Were other landowners around Metcalfe approached for ideas on putting the shopping centre on their land?

Are there alternatives? Yes. There could be understandable and up-to-date information dissemination before decisions are made. Referendums on contentious issues. Open planning with input by whomever so chooses, with opportunites for severances open to all who are thereto entitled in accordance with well set out rules.

3) Negotiating with the Region: The incumbent mayor preaches much of his contribution to managing the Township's interests on Regional government. I agree that it's a crucial area.

But, I'd say it's time someone else gave it a shot. He's been there for a dozen years to ensure we pay and get our just shares and what do we get ---

Let's look at Metcalfe's proposed communal water system. Metcalfe has a problem with a higher than average level of fecal coliform and nitrates, especially during wet weather. Studies at considerable cost have determined that a communal water system is the best solution. Two suitable test wells have been drilled. This solution is fairly common across the regions.

In neighboring Russell village they have similiar problems and the same solution. They're presently installing communal water. This will cost each taxpayer there $21.88 per foot of lot frontage plus roughly $300 per house for hook-up.

I phoned Osgoode Township hall for details on Metcalfe's. I was kindly passed on to a Mr. Gordon Rose of the Regional Works Department (728-3220) to get the details. This gentleman quite freely discloses to all who ask that Metcalfe residents will be paying between $8,000 and $11,000 per house - almost three times as much as Russell! Why? Because a by-law passed under Mayor Bouwers' nose, has decreed that those substantial provincial grants received to decrease the direct costs to affected homes will be used instead as general revenues to the Region - they will not be used to lower the shock to individual affected owners - unbelievable, but true! Furthermore, whereas Russell will allow the payment of the much lower communal water to be stretched over several years, the Region - again under Mayor Bouwers' watchful eyes - has decided that in Osgoode it'll be full cash as part of your property taxes. Your taxes increase next year, or the year after by $8,000 to $11,000. Joy!

THE FUTURE:

As the new mayor, what sort of office would I strive for? I'd work hard to make it a more open place. A place where new and innovative ideas would be the norm - not only those of elected officials but also those of the many whose conserns and talents are freely available. I'd want to see that the growth that seems now to be on our doorstep is handled with flair and competency to give us an exciting lifestyle with opportunity for all.

I'll make a darn good mayor. I think it's an interesting job. Even more than this - and this may sound corny - but it's an important job handling our tax dollars. I have no personal ax to grind in this undertaking. I simply have three boys to raise here and I want to make it a decent, fair and just place to raise children.

Each November the poppy blooms

WINCHESTER — Each November more than 10 million poppies bloom in Canada. Dotting the lapels of half of Canada's population, this symbol of remembrance makes its annual appearance as it has done each year since 1926.

Although everyone knows what the poppy means, nobody is certain of how it all began — how the poppy became so closely associated with remembrance of the men and women lost at war.

The association with the poppy was not new when the poppy was adopted in Canada in 1921. At least 110 years before that time, a correspondent wrote of how thickly poppies grew over the graves of the dead. He was speaking of the Napoleonic War and its campaigns in Flanders.

A Canadian medical officer was chiefly responsible for this association, more so than any other single known factor.

John McCrae was a tall, boyish 43-year-old member of the Canadian Medical Corps from Guelph, Ontario. An artillery veteran of the Boer War, he had the eye of a gunner, the hand of a surgeon and the soul of a poet, when he went into the line at Ypres on April 22, 1915.

That was the afternoon the enemy first used poison gas.

The first attack failed. So did the next and the next. For 17 days and nights the allies repulsed wave after wave of attackers.

Working from a dressing station on the bank of the Yser Canal, McCrae dressed hundreds of wounded, never taking off his clothes for the entire 17 days. Sometimes the dead or wounded actually rolled down the bank from above into his dugout. Sometimes, while awaiting the arrival of batches of wounded, he would watch the men at work in the burial plots which were quickly filling up.

McCrae came out of Ypres with 13 lines scrawled on a scrap of paper. The lines were a poem which began: "In Flanders fields the poppies blow..."

These were the lines which are enshrined in the hearts of all soldiers who heard in them their innermost thoughts. McCrae was their voice. The poem circulated as a folk song circulates, by living word of mouth. Men learned it with their hearts.

In Canada, the poppy was officially adopted by the Great War Veterans Association in 1921. There is little doubt that the impact of McCrae's poem influenced this decision.

The poem speaks of Flanders fields, but the subject is universal: the fear of the dead that they will be forgotten, that their death will have been in vain.

The spirit of true Remembrance, as symbolized by the poppy, is the eternal answer which belies those fears.

Winchester reeve Dr. Larry Gray lays a wreath at the cenotaph on behalf of the municipality during Remembrance Day ceremonies last weekend.

Environmental activist contests reeve's seat

EMBRUN — Environmental activist Jackie Stewart of Russell will run against incumbent Gaston Patenaude for the reeve's seat in Russell Township, it was announced at Monday's nomination meeting here.

Stewart, who has run a hairdressing business in Russell for the past 12 years, filed her nomination papers just before the Oct. 17 deadline.

Concern for the quality of village life is a priority for Stewart, who was actively involved in a campaign last year against a proposed regional dump site in Russell Township.

Stewart, who is fluently bilingual, is also concerned with responsible planning for the agricultural, residential, and commercial/industrial sectors, as well as cautious fiscal policies.

Concern for the safety and well-being of the township's seniors and children makes sidewalks in the village a priority, she says. Her environmental priorities include park improvement, careful planning for the location of new industry, and the preservation of agricultural land.

Jackie Stewart

According to Stewart, a time has come for a change in township management after 13 years of "Patenaude Power".

Patenaude will run on municipal record

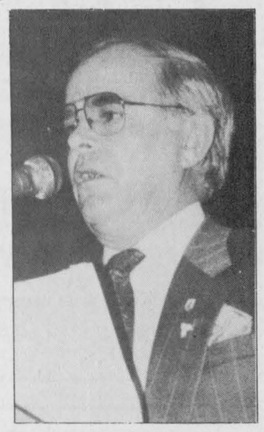
EMBRUN — With 14 years of service as reeve under his belt, Gaston Patenaude is feeling very confident of his chances in the upcoming municipal elections.

"I'm going to run on my record," he said in a Wednesday interview. "All people have to do is look around and see the progress that's been made here in the last 10 years."

According to Patenaude, taxes have never risen more than five per cent per year since he has been reeve. He is also proud of his record with respect to supporting water and sewer services in Russell.

"Over $12 million was spent servicing Embrun, and we'll be sinking $8 million into Russell this year for water service," he said.

Patenaude also says water service is planned for Marionville in the next few years, and he plans to continue to try and attract business to the township.



Gaston Patenaude

Patenaude pointed to an industrial park near Vars as an example of new businesses setting up here, to create jobs and broaden the tax base.

CARD OF THANKS — Many thanks to management, salaried staff, and union for cards, messages and gifts we received, on our 42-year retirement party from Ault Foods. Special thanks to Linda McMahon for her efforts in making this such a special evening and thanks to Mrs. Derue for her lovely roast beef dinner that she served.
—George and Audrey Bell 31

CARD OF THANKS — For cards and personal visits received while a patient in the Winchester District Memorial Hospital and at home during my convalescence, as well as the special visits and prayers of Rev. Dr. Walker and Laurie McKnight Walker. I would like to express my very warm and heartfelt thanks in appreciation of your thoughtfulness.
—Lois Bell 31

CARD OF THANKS — I wish to thank the residents of Mountain Township for your continued support through acclamation. I shall try to justify your confidence by continuing to serve your interests on the SD&G County Board of Education, to the best of my ability.
—Roy Hastings 31-32

CARD OF THANKS — The family of the late Raymond J. Gunn, would like to sincerely thank all their kind neighbors, friends and relatives who were so thoughtful during his brief illness and death. For their many phone calls and all who came to the funeral home, for sympathy cards, all who sent flowers, charitable donations. We especially want to thank the ambulance drivers, township men, for their efficient care and to Dr. J. Burke and Winchester hospital. We do not forget all who so kindly brought food to our homes and to the Henderson Hall, and helped so willingly after the funeral. Thanks to the pallbearers, J.R. Vice Funeral Home and especially Jim Daniels. We are grateful beyond words to all of you.
—Vashti and family
Gordon and Luella Cumming 31

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS — I would like to take this opportunity to thank the nurses on first floor, also the OR staff for their wonderful care and kindness while I was a patient in WDMH. Also a special thanks to Dr. Peters and Dr. Rosenquist.
—Beatrice McKay 31

CARD OF THANKS — We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for mass cards, floral tributes, donations to the Heart and Stroke Foundation, Cancer Society, Winchester hospital, and cards of sympathy during the recent bereavement in the loss of our dear mother and grandmother. Thanks to St. Patrick's Home for the excellent care she received throughout her years there. Special thanks to Rev. Father W. Lynett, parish clergy, the pallbearers, the altar boys and the CWL. These many acts of kindness were deeply appreciated and will long be remembered.
—The Cameron Family 31

CARD OF THANKS — I wish to thank all my wonderful friends and neighbors for all their cards, letters, flowers and also the nurses in ITC unit of Winchester hospital, Dr. Justus and all the nurses who cared for me. These acts of kindness to me will never be forgotten. Thank you all for caring.
—Sincerely Jean Thompson 31

CARD OF THANKS — The family of the late Harry Strader would like to express their heartfelt appreciation for all the floral tributes, charitable contributions and messages of sympathy which helped lighten the burden of loss of a husband and father. Special thanks to the friends and relatives who made the long journey for the funeral service in Peterborough. Your kindnesses will always be remembered.
—Sincerely, Vivian Strader, Lynda and Michael Thompson, Kathryn and John McEwen 31

In Memoriam

FAWCETT — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Earl Fawcett, who passed away Nov. 9, 1978.
We were not there to see you die
To hold your hands and say good-bye,
But we will always remember our whole life through
The last few words we had with you.
Some may forget you, now that you're gone,
But we will remember you, no matter how long.
—Sadly missed by mother Emma and sister Jean 31

PUDDY — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Dennis W.R. Puddy, who passed away Nov. 14, 1987.
Never more than a thought away
Quietly remembered every day
No need for words, except to say
Still loved and missed in every way
—Wife Betty, children Valerie, Walter, Denis, Gail, Victor and families 31

Forestry Apprentices

These positions will be of interest to men and women seeking a challenging outdoor career.

The main responsibilities of this trade are to ensure vegetation does not interfere with the constant supply of power to our customer and to clear wooded areas designated as corridors for lines carrying this power. This involves the felling and pruning of trees as well as the application of herbicides to control brush and unwanted vegetation. Such work is performed outdoors in all types of weather and is physically demanding.

Qualifications:

Minimum education requirements are Grade 12 including Level 4 courses in math, English and science. An automotive or small engine course would be an asset.

On-the-job training is augmented throughout a 4-year apprenticeship program by formal classroom training conducted annually at our central training centre.

During your apprenticeship you may be placed at various locations throughout Eastern Ontario for work programs and development. Final placement in one of the following locations will depend on training and workload requirements.

Work Locations:

Arnprior, Brockville, Cobden, Kingston, Perth, Vankleek Hill, Winchester.

Please indicate your work location preference in order, example, first, second, third, fourth, etc. If you have no preference and, therefore, are willing to work in any location in Eastern Region, please indicate "no preference".

A willingness and ability to learn while working outdoors at appreciable heights (3-30 metres) is necessary in considering this training and career opportunity. Applicants must have or be able to acquire and maintain a valid Class "A" driver's licence.

Ontario Hydro offers a comprehensive benefit package.

To apply, please submit a detailed resume outlining:

- work experience
- educational background (high school transcript)
- experience at heights
- mechanical interest and aptitude
- experience performing physical work and interest in out-of-door activities
- involvement in teams, crews or other groups

by November 23, 1988 to:
Ontario Hydro
Attn.: Human Resources Department
File No. 88-43
420 Dundas Street East
Belleville, Ont., K8N 5C3

We thank all applicants, however, only those selected for an interview will be contacted.

Cancer patient's handiwork nets Civic Hospital $1,500

RUSSELL — The draw for a beautiful handmade quilt Oct. 21 has capped a remarkable story of a local woman's courage and thoughtfulness.

Mrs. Bertha Smith of Russell fell ill last November and while at the Civic Hospital in Ottawa discovered she had cancer. But the 90-year-old Mrs. Smith refused to let the news get her down, and she immediately began work on a special project.

Russell's Bertha Smith, above, displayed her courage and thoughtfulness through the making of a special quilt, which was raffled off to raise $1,500 for the Ottawa Civic Hospital. The quilt was won by an eight-year-old Nepean girl.

Mrs. Smith began work on a quilt, the pattern and material of which belonged to her mother, to help raise money for the radiation oncology unit of the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

And with the assistance of the Ladies of Russell Senior Citizens, the quilt was finished and raffled off, raising a total of $1,500.00 for the Civic Hospital. The quilt was won by eight-year-old Kellie Graves of Nepean, the granddaughter of Russell's Hester Graves.

The Oct. 21 draw was attended by Civic Hospital doctors Nair and Danjoux, both of whom have become dear friends to Mrs. Smith. Flowers were presented to the doctors by Patricia McDonald, and Ann Archibald. Mrs. Irene Cochrane presented the cheque, which was accepted by Dr. Nair with many thanks.

The ceremony also featured kind words from Russell Reeve Gaston Patenaude, William Stanley, Senior Citizens representative Maurice Berthieume, and Margery Lonsdale.

Mrs. Smith first moved to Russell in 1968, and is a past president of the Russell Senior Citizens group. The pattern of the quilt she worked so hard on is known as 'Mexican Basket' and the color is red and white.

Common sense helps prevent accidents

TORONTO — For many Ontarians, the hunting season represents a challenging time of the year spent in the great outdoors.

The most common hunting accidents involve the careless use of firearms and getting lost in the bush. Both can be avoided by taking the following precautions:

— Treat every firearm as if it is loaded.

— Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to kill.

— Never fire from a vehicle.

— Never carry loaded guns in vehicles. Unload guns before climbing fences, jumping ditches or walking through dense bush.

— Unload all guns after returning to camp.

— If hunting with a partner, always know where the other person is.

— Never overload a boat, and ensure weight is evenly distributed even it means more trips back and forth. Life jackets should be worn by everyone in the boat.

— Wear flourescent orange or red clothing, not camouflage gear, so that you are highly visible in the bush.

— Have a map of the area and a compass at all times.

— Establish a timetable with a friend or relative, so they'll know when to expect you back from your trip.

— Take extra clothing that is warm and waterproof to protect yourself from hypothermia.

Happy Birthday Mom
