OBITUARY

THE LATE NANCY HUTT

The death occurred on Monday, April 30th, at Grande Prairie, Alberta, of a former resident of Winchester Springs, in the person of Mrs. Nancy Hutt in her 85th year. The deceased had been the victim of a lingering illness and while her passing was not unexpected, it came as a great shock to her many relatives and friends. Her husband, Jerry Hutt, predeceased her in 1904.

THE LATE MRS. ANSON W. BEACH

There passed away on Thursday, May 17th, 1934, at her late residence, 6 Thornhill Ave., Toronto, a former well-known resident of this district in the person of Maude Morgan, wife of Dr. Anson W. Beach, in her 56th year.

The late Mrs. Beach had been in ill-health for some time past, although only recently was her condition found to be serious. Her passing occasioned sincere regret among her numerous friends in this district.

The deceased was born in Metcalfe, Ont., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, and spent her girlhood in that community. Thirty-six years ago she married Anson W. Beach of Winchester, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. F .Beach, and for six years resided with her husband in Winchester. They later moved to the South Mountain district where Dr. Beach established a practice as veterinary surgeon. Some years ago she took up residene with her family in Toronto where she continued to reside until her death.

The funeral took place on Monday last from the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. N. W. Beach, to the United Church, where service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. John McKay. Interment was made in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

The late Mrs. Beach is survived by her husband ,two sons, Olin and Arnold, of Toronto; two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Timmins, of Rideau Ferry, and Miss Laura Morgan, of Toronto; two brothers, Fred, of Ottawa, and George, of Edmonton, Alberta.

METCALFE MOURNS THE LOSS OF MR. T. A. HICKS

During the past week the village of Metcalfe has lost one of its most valuable citizens in the passing of Mr. T. A. Hicks. Although he had not been in the best of health for some time past none thought that he would be called away so suddenly. A week ago last Monday he went to the hospital for an operation and after the operation he gradually weakened and passed away on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Hicks spent most of his life in the Township of Osgoode. His boyhood days were spent near to Osgoode Station. About thirty-five years ago he moved into the Village of Metcalfe. During the larger part of that time he carried on the business of Tailor and the work of Notary Public. He was a man of a quiet and retiring nature, but during his life here he won a place in the hearts of the people and the life of the community such as is given to but few men to win. He was a keen musician, and probably the work that was nearest to his heart was that which he did as Choirmaster in the United Church.

We have only to mention some of the offices which he held at the time of his death to realize the very large place he filled in the life of the comunity. In the United Church he was Choirmaster, Trustee, and Treasurer of the Cemetery Committee. He was for twenty-seven years Treasurer of the local Court of the Independent Order of Forresters from which he recently received a very treasured Jewel in recognition of his long and faithful services. For years he has been a very active member of the Metcalfe Agricultural Society in which he held the onerous office of Secretary. He was a charter member and Treasurer of the Metcalfe Curling Club; he held the depository of the British and Foreign Bible Society; he was a member of the Winchester Masonic Lodge; and he was Clerk of the Divisional Court. In addition to the many offices he held he was friend and confidant to a great host of people who sought his advice and help in their personal affairs. So many vacancies have been made by his death that they will be very hard to fill.

The funeral was held from the home of his brother, George, to the United Church at Osgoode Station and it was attended by a very large number of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. Dr. G. C. Gaukrodger, assisted by the Rev. T. P. Shaver, of Richmond, and the Rev. C. M. Stewart, of Kenmore. The music for the service was provided by the Choir of the Metcalfe United Church, of which he had been the efficient and beloved leader. Mrs. A. C. Blair sang the solo: "I have Christ, I need no More," a favourite piece of the deceased, and the Choir sang the last anthem that Mr. Hicks had started to teach them, "Deep Down in His Love." In addition to the floral tributes of his relatives, there were wreaths from his Metcalfe friends, Miss Ida McLauren, The United Church, the Choir and Sunday School of the United Church, the Metcalfe Curling Club, and the Metcalfe Agricultural Society. Mr. Hicks leaves to mourn his passing three brothers and two sister, and a host of friends who cannot yet think of Metcalfe village without him.

The funeral was under the direction of Mr. E. H. Rolston and was one of the largest ever seen in this township. Six friends of the deceased acted as pallbearers, namely, J. E. Woods, R. A. F. Blair, J. P. Grant, A. Dennison, J. H. Craig and E. Stanley. Interment was in the family plot at Kars. Next Sunday, May 27, there will be a Memorial Service to the deceased in the Metcalfe United Church at 7.30 P. M. Standard Time.

CONTRACTS LET FOR DRAINAGE SCHEME

WORK ON PETITE-CASTORE AND ANNABLE CREEK DRAIN TO COMMENCE SHORTLY

At a closed meeting of the Council of the Township of Winchester, at which the township solicitor, Mr. Lawson, was present, the various tenders for the re-digging of what is known as the Petite-Castore and Annble Creek Drain, which extends from the township of Mountain through the Village of Winchester and on to Russell, of which there were over a dozen, were considered, and that of Mr. Honsberger, of St. Catharines, at $42,053.25 was accepted, after due and careful consideration being given all. Some of the tenders were considerably lower and some higher, but after careful inquiry into the reliability of those tendering, and their ability to carry out the work in a satisfactory manner, the above tender was accepted by an unanimous vote of the council. It is likely that work on this much delayed drain will begin in a few weeks, or just as soon as the contractor can get the necessary machinery here. It will mean the hiring of considerable local help. The work on this drain has been dragging for some years, and as it is absolutely necessary that it be built, it is a good thing that the contract has been let to a reliable firm and the work pushed forward at once.

The building of this drain will also mean considerable expense to the municipality of Winchester, as next year they will probably have to do their portion, and it cannot be properly done without considerable expense. It will be up to the ratepayers of the town to see that the council of 1935 is composed of men who will be able and willing to grapple with the problem, and see that no unnecessary expense is incurred.

The work will likely begin at the Russell end, where there is considerable rock to be taken out.

The new drain when completed will mean much to Winchester Village as it will take off the water that now lies stagnant at the east end, and give us better drainage for all the year.

ROAD WORK COMMENCED

The Harvey Construction Company has commenced operations on Highway 31 south of the C. P. R. tracks, and machines are busy scarifying the surface in preparation for laying the concrete. At the same time gangs of men are at work in the gravel pits at Maple Ridge loading trucks with sand which is being washed at Cass Bridge.

The actual work of paving will commence in about a week's time and under the able guidance of Mr. Harold Harvey, a fine piece of work is assured.

FINE PORTRAIT PUBLISHED

Miss Isabel Gemeroy, R. N., was honoured recently by the Arless Studios, of Montreal, when she was selected as the "loveliest sitter of the year," and an exceptionally fine portrait published in the Montreal Herald of May 7th. The portrait of Miss Gemeroy is one of a series supplied to the Herald by leading photographers of Montreal, each studio choosing its most beautiful subject of 1934.

Miss Gemeroy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gemeroy of Winchester and was a popular member of the younger set prior to her taking up residence in in Montreal.

MRS. BEACH TAKEN SUDDENLY AND SERIOUSLY ILL

Just after breaking up her home at Iroquois, and on the eve of moving to their new home in Winchester, Mrs. Fred Beach was taken seriously ill on Friday last and taken to the Brockville Hospital, where she is still a patient, suffering from an obstruction of the bowel. At first it was feared that an operation would be necessary, but at the present time Mrs. Beach is showing signs of recovery, and in conversation with the Press Mr. Beach says he hopes that his wife will now make rapid recovery and they become settled in their new home in Winchester. Mr. Beach has leased the Cameron property on Cameron Ave., and expected to be settled there this week, but the sudden illness of his wife has delayed his moving. Mr. and Mrs. Beach and family will receive a cordial welcome in Winchester, and the deepest sympathy is expressed for them in their present affliction.

ONTARIO GOV'T MAKES PROPOSALS

HIGHLIGHTS OF ELECTION MANIFESTO

Following are the highlights of the Ontario government election manifesto:

The government proposes to assume 90 per cent. of highway costs including construction and maintenance, leaving the counties to carry only 10 per cent.

The government is ready to co-operate with the Dominion in providing unemployment insurance.

The government favors a minimum wage for men and will confer with the Dominon and Quebec governments with this in view.

The manifesto suggests amendments to the British North America Act would eliminate difficulties and duplication of services.

Settlement Scheme

It is proposed to start a land settlement scheme, placing families on Crown lands in the North and giving a bonus to old and new settlers for clearing and plowing the lands.

Land settlement activities will be transferred to the agricultural department.

A revenue of $1,600,000 is expected from the Northern Ontario properties of the Hydro system next year.

The Mothers' Allowance Act will be amended to permit the board dealing with cases where a widow has only one child under 16 years.

It is proposed to reduce the interest rate on loans from the agricultural development board from 5 1-2 to five per cent.

FINED $100 AND COSTS ON A LIQUOR CHARGE

In police court on Wednesday last before Magistrate C. A. Adams, Angus McGovern of South Gower, was fined $100 and costs amounting $9.25 for having liquor in his possession contrary to the Liquor Control Act, says the Kemptville Advance. He pleaded guilty to the charge and the fine was paid in court by his lawyer, Mr. T. K. Allen. Provincial Constable McLeod laid the charge. The alternative was three months in jail. His place of residence was made a public place within the meaning of the Liquor Control Act, the liquor found forfeited and his permit also suspended.

DUNDAS - GRENVILLE PRESBYTERY Y. P. S. CONTEST

The first series of one-act plays in the dramatic competition by the members of the Young People's Societies of the United Church in Dundas-Grenville presbytery was completed in the I. O. O. F. hall, Mountain Station, on Friday evening last, when groups from Spencerville, South Mountain and Prescott competed.

The Spencerville group, who presented "The Eyes That See," was declared the winner. The South Mountain group, with its production of "D. 298," was placed second, and "The Passing of Mr. Peel," by Prescott young people, third.

Nine young people's groups have presented plays in this competition. At Spencerville, Tuesday, evening, May 15, Merrickville, Hallville and Easton's Corners groups competed, with Merrickville winners in their presentation of "The Eyes That See." VanCamp, Mountain and Ventnor presented their plays at Winchester on Thursday evening last and VanCamp and Ventnor were tied for first place. The winners of each tied for first place.

IMPROVING PREMISES

Mr. C. R. Robinson has had carpenters engaged during the past week in making extensive repairs and improvements on the front of his store, and a real job is being done.

CALLED TO MILLBROOK

Rev. A. L. Sisco, pastor of the United Church at Cardinal for the past five years, has accepted an invitation to take charge of the congregation at Millbrook, Ontario, making an exchange with Rev. W. W. Jones.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTIONS

The Conservative Convention for Dundas-Grenville is announced to be held at Hallville on Wednesday, May 30th, when a candidate for the party will be selected. The Convention for the Conservative party in Carleton county is to be held on Tuesday next, and it is reported that there are five names to go before the party, and each candidate is sure of being the favourite. The County is now being represented by Mr. Acres .

In Russell, Mr. Seguin, the former member is sure to be the selection, as there is no active opposition in the Conservative ranks.

Premier Henry says that he will have a candidate in every riding, and while there are only 90 seats, it is said there will be over 200 candidates in the field. In many ridings independent temperance candidates are being put up for nomination, so that on the whole it will make the election somewhat of a puzzle.

Hon. G. H. Challies is actively at work this week, and there seems little doubt as to his receiving the nomination. In fact it cannot be conceived, under the circumstances, how it could be otherwise, as he not only represents all that is desirable in a candidate, but actually represents Premier Henry in this election.

BUTTER-FAT-PER-ACRE COMPETITION

Through the kindness of the Honourable Geo. H. The following are the regulations of the contest.

2. As this contest is primarily for the purpose of assisting and encouraging the farmer with the average grade herd, farmers who have 50 per cent. or more of purebred females in their herd are debarred.

3. The contest shall include the production for the months of May to October inclusive.

4. Original statements for each month from factory condensary or creamery must be submitted before November 10th to any one of the following persons: J. Bolton, Instructor, Winchester; J. E. Cobey, Instructor, Morrisburg; J. A. Simpson, Agricultural Representative, Morrisburg.

COURT OF REVISION

The local Court of Revision was held in the Council Chamber on Friday night last. There were in all five appeals, and all were disallowed except one put in by Wilbert O'Neil against a business tax for keeping a horse. There was some talk on the part of Mr. J. F. Ault, of Morrisburg, appealing to the County Judge with reference to the assessment against what is known as the Parker Estate.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE IN STORMONT

Mr. D. N. McNaughton, of Cornwall, has received the unanimous nomination for the County of Stormont, which includes the town of Cornwall. Mr. McNaughton has represented that riding for two sessions and is ever active in the interests of his constituency. He is young vigorous, has a pleasing personality and makes a good representative. He will likely have a lively election but there is little doubt as to the result. Mr. McNaughton works quietly but effectively in elections.

They will envolve enterprises affecting 7,700 local congregations located in all parts of Canada, urban and rural, and according to information gathered at Montreal headquarters of the conference in the preliminary arrangements for the gatherings there is an element of optimism. IF 'TWAS TOLD ON YOU

Just a little bit of slander started in a thoughtless way
May put a blight upon a person that quite likely long may stay.
Or, the thing may have been started as some sort of foolish joke,
But think how you'd be insulted if 'twas told on your own folk.
Slander moves in vicious circles seemingly without an end.
And like all the slimy reptiles is a thing without a friend.
He or she that spreads the story that should not have been unloosed,
May be certain in the future it will sure come home to roost.

TODAY

Let me today do something that shall take
A little sadness from the world's vast store,
And may I be so favoured as to make
Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.

Let me not hurt by any selfish deed,
Or thoughtless word, the heart of foe or friend,
Nor would I pass, unseeing, worthy need,
Or sin by silence where I should defend.

Let me tonight look back across the span
'Twixt dawn and dark and to my conscience say:
Because of some good act to beast or man,
The world is better that I lived today.

CANADIANS TALK A LOT

Canadians make more use of the telephone than any other people. In 1932, Canadians held 224.5 telephone conversations per capita. New Zealand with a comparable figure of 205.8 and the United States with 204.6, were the only other countries in which telephone talks per person exceeded the 200 mark. Denmark led Europe in this connection with 151.8, followed by Sweden with 137.6. Canadians made almost seven times more use of the telephone than the British who reported 33.0 calls per capita, the same figure as given by Germany, and more than eleven times more than the people of France who made 20.5 calls per capita.

GOOD OLD DAYS

The Good Old Days we sing about
Were wondrous good, beyond a doubt.

Some men drank deep, played games and swore,
Fantastic clothes they often wore;
And some worked hard and paid their way,
And went to church each Sabbath day.
Some men made money by control
That let them claim a mighty toll.
'Twas hard to raise the price, no doubt,
And those who couldn't went without.

The statesman spoke; the people cheered
When Fame grew fickle, people jeered,
While arguments were set afloat
About the way they ought to vote.

The Good Old Days we sing about
Were much like these beyond a doubt.

FORMER KEMPTVILLE MAN DIES

E. L. Christie, 70, head of a school book supply house at Brandon and at Regina, is dead at Brandon, a victim of heart failure. He was born in Kemptville and went west from Ottawa in 1881. He was once a member of the Brandon city council.

FARM AND GARDEN INFORMATION

FARM PLANS

Draw a plan of the farm marking on each field the kind of crop grown this year, the variety, rate of seeding, application of manure and fertilizer, and any other information that may be of use. If a record of this kind is made each year it will be found of great value in the future.

PERCHERONS IN DEMAND

Sales of Percheron pure bred stock this spring have been very heavy, the demand is much greater than the supply, and it is only those who are willing to pay good prices that are able to buy at all. Breeders are reaping a really good harvest, from those who want to get Percherons these days. Prices are at least $200.00 per head higher than they were a year ago, and the demand for two-year old stallions, because they do not cost just as much as the more matured horse, is tremendous.

GRAIN PAMPHLET OFFERED

A new pamphlet bearing on the best varieties of grain and prepared by the Central Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Branch, is now ready for distribution. This pamphlet lists the varieties which are recommended, province by province, across Canada in the case of wheat, oats, barley, peas and flax for seed. A separate pamphlet prepared jointly by the Central Division and the Ontario Agricultural College, dealing with both spring and winter wheat in Ontario, is also available.

OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING FOR POULTRY FARMERS

According to reports received at the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, there has been considerable indication of much poorer hatching results than were ordinarily obtained in previous years. These comparatively small hatches will undoubtedly leave their impression on the supply of dressed poultry and eggs available in Canada this coming autumn. With these results in mind it should be safe to forecast that farmers throughout Canada should receive comparatively good prices for poultry produce in the coming fall and winter.

PROGRESS IN BREEDING RUST RESISTANT WHEATS

A study of the data accumulated by the Experimental Farms Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Grain Research Laboratory at Winnipeg and the Universities of Saskatchewan and Alberta in connection with field and laboratory tests of a group of the most promising rust resistant varieties of spring wheat clearly indicates that certain varieties are quite outstanding. About a half dozen of these will be increased immediately, although probably not more than one or two will be released ultimately. As to which of these will be the final choice will depend upon the results obtained in the next couple of years' tests.

SUCCESSIONAL SOWINGS OF SEEDS

Growers of vegetables should plan to have a succession of crops. Successional sowings of seed for the second early and main crop of cabbage and cauliflower should be made. April is the time to sow the seed for the second crop in a cold frame using Copenhagen Market or Enkhuizen Glory cabbage and Snowball cauliflower and about the middle of May the seed for the main or late crop should be sown thinly in a broad row in the garden using Danish Ballhead (shortstem) cabbage and Snowball cauliflower or Autumn Giant (Veitch).

The late or main crop celery plants should be started in a mild hotbed any time in April. Sow the seed reasonably thin to allow for proper development of the plants. To avoid plants going to seed or bolting maintain the temperature in the beds at 65 degrees to 70 degrees F. The best results are obtained from plants grown steadily. The best varieties to use are Golden Plume and Phenomenal.

HAVE STERILIZED 219

Calgary—First Canadian province to institute legislation permitting sterilization, Alberta has spent more than the sum of $25,000 in three years administration of the Act. Operations have been performed on 219 patients.

VALUABLE CRITICISM

Criticism is of little value—in fact it is usually harmful—unless it is constructive in nature. Tearing down something requires few tools and little intelligence. Constructive effort is the real test in life. Let's build and leave the wrecking to others.—Grit.

JUST PLANTING SEEDS

Neighbor P.—What are you burying in your back yard?

Neighbor H.—Just replanting some of my garden seeds—if it's any of your business.

Neighbor P.—It looks more like one of my chickens than seeds.

Neighbor H.—Well, the seeds are inside the chickens.

Unemployment in this province is falling rapidly. Since the first of the year no less than seventeen thousand names have been dropped from the lists of the Employment Service of Canada. Prior to this the list stood at forty-two thousand.

Cheese Board Located At Finch, Ont.

Strong demand on the part of farmers in the northern part of Stormont and Dundas Counties and the Southern part of Russell to have a Cheese Board located conveniently, reached a definite conclusion on Saturday night, May 12th, when at a meeting called in the Community Hall, Finch, the Finch Cheese and Butter Board was organized. Approximately 40 farmers were in attendance representing 12 factories, all of which designated their intention of boarding their cheese at Finch and several of those present expressed the opinion that at least 20 more factories would join as soon as these factories were ready to sell cheese. Officers elected were as follows:

President—A. W. McIntyre, Finch.

1st V. Pres.—J. V. Bourbeneau, Casselman.

2nd V. Pres.—John Ault, Winchester.

Secretary-Treasurer—C. E. Gourlay of Finch.

Directors—Robert Smith, Newington; I. Chapagne, Marionville; Felix Benoit, Casselman.

Auditors—S. Delaney, Crysler, and F. Legault, Crysler.

Messrs. Wert and Lawson, cheese buyers were in attendance and ready to buy cheese. Only two factories yet had any cheese to offer, and a bid of 9c was made by Mr. Lawson on the cheese offered. The salemen of the factories concerned decided to hold until the next week when it was expected most of the factories in the district would have cheese ready for sale.

According to a resolution passed at the meeting the Board will meet Saturday evenings at 8 p. m.

CHEESE FACTORY FOR 63 YEARS

What is believed to be a Canadian record was set last week by the cheese factory at Enterprise when it began operations for its 63rd consecutive season.

Built in 1871 by the late Thomas Clancy, it has been under the management of the same family since that time. The present manager, P. J. Murphy, is a son-in-law of the late Mr. Clancy.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett has intimated his acceptance of the rectorship of Queen's University. He was elected to the office by acclamation by the Alma Mater Society of the University. He succeeds Dr. O. D. Skelton, Under Secretary of State for External Affairs. Queen's is the only university in Canada which has a rector.

DECISION

A man can't spend all his time making up his mind what to do. Life is short and the time a man takes to make up his mind what to do is subtracted from the time he has to do it in. It is no sign of great intelligence to be forever hesitating and swinging from one foot to the other without taking a step forward. Sometime, and the sooner the better, a man needs to start for one goal, needs to have one purpose big enough to make it easy to let go all the rest.—From the Halifax Chronicle.

A prominent doctor of New York says one-third of the people in the world are insane. Another headline says "insane persons sometimes have high intelligence." It's enough to make you look around and wonder who should be in the asylums, says an exchange.

If we want to get back to the simple living of our fathers, we've first got to alter a lot of our notions and get rid of a lot of our debts. The idea of looking to the state for this, that and everything, has got to be revised. Heavy interest charges and social services and a complicated economic organism don't mix well with simple living.—Ottawa Journal.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Four-H club members in many states are making a fine showing in practical forestry work. The projects range all the way from growing and planting trees to woodlot improvement and exhibits. The scope of planting if continued will aggregate a large acreage in five years. In other words, what the 4-H "kids" are doing in forestry is not to be sneezed at, as some might think. For example, a report just at hand from a New York county states that 87,000 pines and other trees have been planted this spring in that area. The number is twice over a year ago. Multiply that by hundreds of counties and the importance of the work may be seen.

Both girls and boys are doing forestry projects. A fine illustration of the results which may be attained in a practical way is the record of the Tolland club in Massachusetts. For the second consecutive year this group has been awarded the American Forestry Association plaque for the most outstanding work in the state.

Lawrence Phills, the boy honored, started several years ago making collections and exhibits of wood samples, shrubs, leaves and flowers. These things help to create interest in forestry, since each has many interesting stories to tell. They whet the knowledge for more about trees and growing things. The boy has made a "hypsometer," a device for measuring height, and a Biltmore measuring stick for taking other dimensions of growing timber. He also has drawn to scale a map of a farm showing timber areas.

The girl, Barbara Whitman, has been a successful organizer and leader of forestry clubs, organized exhibits, helped create public interest in the subject, and completed roadside beautification projects of value. Members of these clubs have done fine work improving woodlots and eradicating currant and gooseberry bushes which are a host to blister rust, an enemy of useful growth.

No Drafts in the New Ford V-8

Clear-vision ventilation with no exterior parts to obstruct view

A new, better system of ventilation to prevent drafts, with many advantages over old-fashioned types.

No exterior parts to obstruct vision. No fogging of windshield and windows. No "roar" of air. No splash from rain. Effective at all speeds and temperatures—winter and summer.

Here's another big point—You can open the windshield and cowl ventilator in the New Ford V-8 to get fresh air as needed. That means cooler driving than with ventilation systems that won't let you open the windshield.

What Another War Would Mean To Lives, Wealth And Civilization

(From the Rotarian Magazine)

Anyone who believes from the beginning of time the World War was fated to come, is in an illogical position even to hope for a warless world. But he who regards all wars as a direct consummation of policies of participating nations can build an optimism around a conviction that men, being thinking animals, need not forever blunder into bloodshed but some day will consciously choose courses of action that prolong peace. Wars do not happen suddenly. They are made in time of peace. Then popular desires are shaped into national policies which conflict and eventually clash with those of other countries.

It is interesting to conjecture what might have happened if, say in 1900, peoples of the twenty-seven nations that were drawn into the halocaust of 1914—18 had clearly realized that the policies then being born would lead to that conflict. Perhaps, in considering whether the national aims should be pursued unmodified, far-seeing leaders might have stated the case thus:

"These policies will lead to war. That war will take 30 million lives, cost 400 billion dollars, snap the morals of civilization, precipitate a world-wide depression.

"If these policies are not pursued, 30 million lives will be saved, civilization will proceed without interruption. And with the 400 billions we shall be able to give a $2,500 house, furnished with $1,000 worth of furniture, and five $100—acres to every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, Great Britain, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia; to put a $5,000,000 library and a $10,000,000 university in every city over 20,000 population in the countries named; and, furthermore, establish a fund which at five per cent. interest will for all time pay a $1,000 annual salary to 125,000 teachers and 125,000 nurses."

With the question so posed, it would seem to us certain that the nations of 1900 would have been willing to sacrifice even cherished national aims for the benefits of peace. But would they? With thousands of maimed men yet living and fleets of merchant vessels rusting in harbours to remind us the cost of the last war, we of 1934 persist in desires which are crystalizing into national aims that can but lead to conflict. Realistic newspaper correspondents each morning scan dispatches, ready to hasten to the cradle of the "next war"—a war that admittedly will bankrupt civilization.

It can, of course, be avoided—at a price. The price is that nations learn how to live and to let live, even though it involves relinquishing of what in an early day of relations between individuals was called "rights." Men of goodwill will continue to believe that some day governments, having weighed the case, will elect to do this.

SANDWICHES AGAIN

Whatever its present position may be, the sandwich is of noble origin. We are told that it was the Earl of Sandwich who first sponsored the custom of serving meat between two slices of bread. This idea marks the Earl as a fastidious, as well as practical man. The sandwich was a forward step in improving both table manners and convenience in dining. For in the Earl's day, roast meat was a big part of the menue and forks had not come into general use.

Some of the sanwiches we see to-day give no hint of nobility. However, even the humblest one can be a noble work if it is fresh and trim. And some of the very elaborate ones often are tawdry and unappetizing in spite of the good ingredients which go into their making.

The whole is no better than its parts. A good sandwich starts with good materials. First of all, there must be bread. It can be almost any kind. It should be moist and fresh, but several hours or a day old so that it is easy to cut and handle. If the crust is very crisp, wrap the loaf in a damp towel for a few minutes. It can then be cut without breaking and crumbing.

Of course, for cutting, a sharp knife is needed. Select one that is thin-bladed and flexible, but strong. It should be long enough to cut a loaf the long way, when needed. A knife with tiny, sharp, saw-teeth on the cutting edge is good. An advantage of the saw-tooth knife is that it is not very good for cutting other foods and you will keep it especially for bread.

It will save time and materials if you will cut the bread to get the largest possible slices. Whenever practical, slice the bread the long way of the loaf. Spread and make the sandwiches in long slabs and when finished cut them into the sizes you like. If you are using nut bread or any rich bread that crumbles easily, it is better to cut small slices. Sometimes it helps to cut the loaf in half down the centre the long way, then slice.

Thin, smooth mixtures can be spread onto the cut surface of the loaf before cutting each slice. This will prevent tearing the slices. Another precaution is to have the butter at room temperature and to cream it thoroughly before spreading the bread. Cheese and paste mixtures can be thinned with liquids, such as cream or milk, fruit juices or salad dressings, according to seasoning and flavoring desired.

Fillings should be finely chopped, thinly sliced or in pieces which will stay in or on the sandwich when it is being eaten. It should not be necessary to eat a sandwich with knife and fork. If you like sandwiches in mountainous or haystack formation, it is helpful to arrange them so that they can be taken off in layers for eating.

Vegetables and fruits for sandwiches should be crisp, firm and dry. Cut or chop them finely, but do not crush. Some spreads are made by mashing vegetables. In this case, mash the vegetables thoroughly and moisten with butter, cream, oil or mayonnaise to form a smooth paste.

Chill the fillings for cold sandwiches. If the sandwich is to be served hot, be sure the filling that goes into it is hot. For the most part, simple fillings well seasoned make the best sandwiches. Often a spread of creamed butter is sufficient. With plain breads, add something to give flavor, such as chopped parsley and onion juice, horseradish, chutney, choped ginger or other highly flavored ingredients.

Bran breads make unusually good sandwiches. Bran has the property of absorbing and holding moisture. The bread itself will keep nicely for several days. Even very thin bran bread sandwiches do not dry out quickly. Bran is healthful too. It adds bulk which mosts of us need in our diets. Many of the bran breads are rich in flavor and you can make bran bread sandwiches with very simple spreads or just butter.

Banana Bran Nut Bread

1-4 cup shortening, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 egg (well beaten), 1 1-2 cups mashed bananas, 2 tbsps. water, 1 cup bran, 1 1-2 cups flour, 2 tbsps. baking powder, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1-2 tsp. soda, 1-2 cup chopped nut meats, 1 tsp. vanilla extract.

Cream shortening and sugar well. Add egg, mashed bananas, water and bran. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda. Mix nuts with flour and add gradually to the first mixture. Stir in vanilla. Pour into greased loaf tin. Let stand 30 minutes and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) one hour. Let cool before cutting.

Yield: I loaf (8 1-2x4 1-2 inches.)

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Even if a jelly will not set, it can be made into a delicious table cream.

Bring a pint of milk to the boil, then sprinkle in three tablespoons of quick-cooking tapioca and sugar to taste. Cook and stir for three minutes. Pour in jelly, stir well and leave to set.

Smear a little butter under the spout of the cream jug. This prevents drips on the tablecloth after the cream has been poured out.

When beating cream add the white of a new-laid egg. This makes it go further.

Chocolate Cake

The traditional "devil's food cake usually is made with a cooked sort of custard which is added to the dry ingredients. This produces a black cake of spongy texture that is inclined to dry out quicker than the cakes mixed by other methods.

Chocolate cakes made with yolks of eggs remain moist despite a cooked mixture being added to the batter. In the following recipe only the yolks are used. The whites are used for the frosting, which is in turn colored with melted chocolate. The chocolate forms a hard crust over the icing which tends to keep it soft and creamy and makes an exceedingly delicious whole.

Chocolate Cake Recipe

Two squares bitter chocolate, 1 cup milk, half cup butter and lard combined, 1 cup of granulated sugar, 2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt, yolks of 2 eggs.

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add half cup milk and cook until thoroughly blended and smooth, but not a minute longer. Cream shortening and beat in sugar. Add cooked mixture. Beat egg yolks with remaining half cup of milk and add alternately with flour. Mix well and add soda dissolved in a little warm water. Add vanilla and salt and beat well. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for thirty minutes. This cake may be baked in two layers or in a dripping pan.

THE EDITOR'S DREAM

The editor, after working over his list of delinquent subsribers until he was weary, fell asleep. He dreamed that he was a boy again back in the district school, that they were having an entertainment and that his part was to recite "The Old Oaken Bucket."

When it came his turn he spoke out in his sleep but this is what the stenographer heard him say:

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber,
Who pays in advance at the birth of each year,
Who lays down the money and does it quite gladly,
And casts 'round the office a halo of cheer.
He never says "Stop it, I cannot afford it;
I'm getting more magazines now than I read."
But always says "Send it; I read it; I like it;
The fact is I think it a help and a need."
How welcome his cheque when it reaches our sanctum,
How it makes our pulse throb; how it makes our heart dance!
We outwardly thank him, we inwardly bless him—
The steady subscriber who pays in advance.

SOW THISTLE MENACE

Determined that sow thistle be stamped out within the confines of its area, the Council of the County of Kent have had a conference with Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture.

Colonel Kennedy has offered his assistance and has promised to prepare revisions to The Weed Act, enabling local weed inspectors to administer weed control measures more effectively. A definite organized campaign is now being prepared, consisting of newspaper publicity, special sow thistle lessons in all schools of the county, and a stringent clean-up of all waste and cultivated land during the growing season.

EQUALIZED ASSESSMENT

When Mr. J. W. Ault, of Morrisburg, appeared before the Court of Revision on Friday night last to press his appeal against the assessment on what is known as the Parker Estate, he said that what Winchester wanted was an independent and equalized assessment. In the past five years there have not been more than a dozen appeals against assessed property, which would indicate that on the whole the property owners of the town do not consider that they are over assessed. Furthermore, when comparisons were made by the Court of Revision, it was found that there was little or no discrepancies, that values were fairly well equalized, and on the whole it was concluded that no property was assessed unduly high. In a community like Winchester property values do not vary much and if our tax rate is to be kept within reasonable bounds, the assessment cannot be lowered. Outside fixed expenditures the council has very little to control, and the little they have they try to make meet all necessary requirements. Town property must be kept in repair, our fire fighting apparatus kept in good condition, and certain repairs made to the streets, sidewalks and drains. Since 1929 the tax rate has been lowered from 52 to 44 mills on the dollar, but in a very few cases has there been any new assessments made. Every year for the past five years the expenditures have been kept within the limits, and each annual statement has shown a neat surplus of assets over expenditures. During the past two years the arrears of taxes on certain properties compelled the council to borrow money from the bank to meet current expenses, such as the demands for school purposes, our electric lighting, etc. A big drive is now being made to have those arrears collected, and in some cases it will have to be paid in monthly installments, or returned against the properties. Every consideration will be extended those who make an earnest endeavour to clear up their arrears, but they must be cleared up or the ordinary process of law followed. The fact that there has been so few appeals is evidence that on the whole our ratepayers are satisfied, and there does not appear to be much demand for an expensive re-valuation of town property.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN GRENVILLE-DUNDAS

The announcement has been publicly made that Mr. James Sanderson, late M. L. A. for Grenville, will oppose Hon. Geo. H. Challies, in convention, as the representative of the Conservative party in the new riding of Grenville-Dundas. That Hon. Mr. Challies will be a nominee of that Convention there is no shadow of doubt.

The situation is one that is likely to create some friction, and while it was thought that because the County of Grenville already had a representative in the Dominion House, there would be an amicable arrangement whereby the Dundas representative in the coming Conservative Convention would not be opposed by an aspirant from Grenville, but such has not seemed to be the case.

This is a free country, however, and there is nothing to prevent the late representative for Grenville from going before that Convention if he so wishes. It is not usual, however, that a Minister of the Crown, and one who has gained such eminence in the esteem of the province, meets opposition in the party convention he represents. Mr. Sanderson is said to be popular in his late riding of Grenville, but he is only one of twenty-two members who has found his riding merged with another by the re-distribution, which reduces the number of representatives in the Ontario Legislature from 112 to 90, and when it is taken into consideration that the new riding of Grenville-Dundas has a cabinet minister of such ability and influence as Hon. G. H. Challies, and really the only member of the Government in Eastern Ontario, it would have been a gracious act on the part of Mr. Sanderson to have withdrawn from the contest, and entered whole-heartedly into the fight to re-elect Hon. Mr. Challies, and especially so in view of the fact that Grenville has their representative in the Dominion House.

EAGER FOR WORK

The writer has had considerable to do with unemployed, and trying to secure employment, for those who have been idle most of the winter. One very satisfactory feature is the eagerness of the unemployed to get something to do so that they can earn with their own hands the requirements of their homes. In fact so eager have been those men (many of them who are really too old to handle a pick and shovel) to get employment, that they have reported for work long before the hour required, and start in with an alertness and vigor that is evidence of their determination to make good at their job.

That is the Canadian, patriotic, loyal spirit that has enabled Canada to pull out of the past four years of world wide depression with a buoyancy and a hopeful cheerfulness that means so much to a nation. Canadians are an energetic and aggressive people. They do not shirk hard work, neither do they try to avoid the obstacles that confront them. That is the spirit we find in our local men, and it makes a man's heart glad to feel that he is a Canadian and one of the race that knows how to meet and grapple with hardships, and when opportunity offers, tackle the work that is set before them, and forgetting the past, press forward to achieve.

TAXING IMPROVED PROPERTY

Assessor Empey showed himself a man of good common sense when at the Court of Revision held on Friday night last, he stated that he did not raise the assessment on a house because its owner made some improvement on it, or kept it in good repair. Why should any man be taxed for keeping up-to-date, while his less enterprising and indolent neighbour allows his property to go into decay. Rather should it be the reverse. The man who does not improve his property should be taxed for his indolence. We hope that more assessors throughout the country will become imbued with the same sensible idea.

PICKING UP TRANSIENTS

Two incidents have occurred in the neighbourhood of Perth, Ontario, during the past week which should prove a warning to motorists against picking up transients on the road, however heartless it may seem. One night last week, between Perth and Innisville, a transient made the customary sign that he wanted a lift as he saw an automobile approaching. He had no sooner seated himself in the car than he pressed a revolver against the driver, demanded his money ($15.), and then he got out and told the driver to beat it as fast as he could. The same week two Perth ladies returning from Smith Falls, were signalled to stop, but they refused, and a little further they found some fence rails across the road. They were plucky as well as sensible girls and took no chances, and made a quick dash for the obstructing rails, jumping them safely, and leaving a man waving wildly on the road behind them. Both incidents were reported to the Perth police, but on their arrival on the different scenes, there was no trace of man, or clue to his whereabouts. One dislikes passing a man on the road who looks as though he really wanted a lift, but only when a driver has one or two male companions, and then with due precaution, should a transient be given a lift. Perhaps if there were fewer motorists willing to give the hitch-hiker a lift, there would be fewer hitch-hikers. Anyway, you are always within the law, and certainly more safe if you make it a practice to never pick up a stranger on the road, man or woman.

WHY THE RIFLES?

The Bowmanville Statesman in making reference to a recent annual inspection of the School Cadets of that town, asks the question "Are Cadets Military?" The training of the boys in their various exercises, and in their military uniforms, is a good thing, but when the world is crying Peace! Peace!, there can be no peace on earth so long as the military spirit is encouraged, and the use of rifles taught our boys at school. The Statesman, in its article, quotes from the now well-known publication "Cry Havoc," by Beverley Nichols who says: "When I see a rifle I see something which is designed for one purpose and only one purpose—to kill. To propel a bullet into the heart, lungs, eyes or any other portion of the anatomy you may choose, with fatal results. A rifle, to me, is not a pretty piece of wood and steel, a jolly thing to toss over a boy's shoulder on a summer afternoon, a hearty emblem of patriotism. It is simply and solely a method of killing."

There is so much truth and so much force in the above statement that to a lover of peace and humanity the very sight of a rifle is hateful. The carrying of rifles by the cadets does not in any way add to their physical well-being or mental outlook, and let us pray that the day will soon come when all instruments of war will cease to be manufactured, and if nations want to fight, let them go out in the good old British way and fight it out with their fists.

FINDING THEM OUT

Mayor Williams of Collingwood is finding out a great deal more of the cussedness of human nature than Editor Williams of the Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin ever dreamed. We quote from a recent issue of Editor Williams' excellent newspaper as expressing the further matured views of Mayor Williams of Collingwood. He says: "Because you are able to point out real faults and shortcomings in the life of your friend or neighbour, that is no proof that you are profitably or helpfully engaged when you are doing so. It may be, for instance, that he knows as much about them as you do, and is even more concerned for elimination or improvement than you can possibly be. For instance, we have found that the man who spends a great deal of his time criticising the morals, manners or public acts of others, is almost sure to neglect his own to some extent. At best that is the only explanation we have been able to find for the well-known fact that most strenuous and persistent fault-finders usually have as many and as serious faults as ordinary people, with a few added. We have about concluded that to find fault with other people helpfully, and without neglecting ourselves or getting into the habit of a fault-finder, is one of the hardest things for any man to do."

PROFANITY

The use of profanity by mere children is becoming so common on our streets that the ears of the elders will have to either become accustomed to the profanity or some extreme measure taken to stop it. There was a time when a boy or girl who told a lie, or used a profane word, had their mouth washed with soap to take the uncleanliness from their tongues. Modern literature is full of profanity, and even some of our so-called eminent and well-known authors use language that a quarter of a century ago would have condemned their novel. Some of our magazines are too free in the use of profanity in some of the short stories they publish, and often the "hero" is one who can fight and swear. Some publications are advocating that steps be taken to prevent profanity in public places. If profanity is a sin, and obnoxious to the ears of decent people, it is just as hateful in a book, in a private gathering as in a public place. There are some of the old customs and habits that present day civilization cannot afford to allow to go into disuse, and profane and obscene language by children should be severely corrected. In this respect the Press is very old-fashioned.

WANTS B. N. A. ACT AMENDED

Sir Henry Drayton, who has been addressing audiences in Western Canada on various subjects, and who is a man of wide political experience and keen observation, in addressing the Canadian Men's Trust Association at a gathering in Toronto, dwelt on the folly of the slavish party system in Canada, and how it worked against our best interests. He stressed the necessity of having the British North America Act amended; of having the representation in the House of Commons reduced by at least one-third or more; and to quote from this eminent statesman:

"In my judgment," he continued, "the underlying principles of Confederation have never yet been put into effect in this country. Patronage, I am aware, stands in the way—as also do the strain-jacket clauses of the B. N. A. Act."

"Among those 246 members in the House of Commons," Sir Henry declared, " you will see a collection of 'No' men behind the leader of the Opposition, and a collection of 'Yes' men behind the Premier."

GOES FISHING AT 91

Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario and now in his 91st year, was one of the first to go fishing on May first. "It would be interesting to know what bait he uses in order to catch so much of continued health and juvenility at his great age," says an exchange. The bait of such continued good health has been made public by Sir William several times. It is "good living," observing the rules of health and decency. Not over-eating, not over-drinking, not over-working, keeping oneself in good physical condition and going to bed early. Any person, using this bait, will live many years of useful life.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Evidently the Liberal leader, Mr. Hepburn, likes the dough like other ordinary persons. The Alliston Herald thus sizes him up:

"Mitch (as he likes to be called) Hepburn has been flaying some of the public officials whom he accuses of feeding at the public trough. Mitch has been pretty fortunate himself. He has been at Ottawa for eight years during which time he has drawn $32,000 of the public's money and so far as we can recollect has done nothing more consequential than to deliver a characteristically venomous attack on the Sun Life Assurance Co. which reacted to the detriment of insurance generally and drew complaints from other companies."

The doctors say that by keeping your mouth shut you will avoid taking a cold. At this time, when the provincial elections are on, by keeping your mouth shut you will not only avoid trouble, but will also avoid making a "jimmy" of yourself. Mr. Hepburn should have learned to obey the doctor in his youth, for his he-haws have done more to injure the Liberal party in Ontario than any mistakes Premier Henry ever made did to injure the Conservative cause.

That weather prophet in Western Ontario that promised us warm weather in early May, made a bad guess. These periodical weather predictions seem to be just as much good as a snowball in a furnace.

LUTHERANS TO CELEBRATE FOUNDING OF CHURCH

The Lutheran parishes of St. Paul's in Morrisburg, St. John's at Riverside, St. Peter's at Williamsburg and St. Luke's at Dunbar, are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the month of June, during which this section of Ontario will celebrate the founding of the Lutheran church here by the United Empire Loyalists and a memorial cairn will be unveiled at Riverside, near Morrisburg. Work has almost been completed on the concrete base for this cairn at present.

A brief outline of the program for the Jubilee Celebration taking place from June 5 to 10 is as follows:

The Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Canada will convene at St. Paul's, St. John's, St. Peter's and St. Luke's from the 5th to the 10th of June, 1934. On Tuesday, June 5th, the standing committees will meet in the Casselman Memorial Parish Hall in Morrisburg. The opening session of the Synod convention will be held at 7 p. m. in St. John's at Riverside. The service will be of confession and Holy Communion, Rev. L. M. McCreery, of Ottawa, taking charge of the first part of the service and Rev. J. Mauer, of Kitchener, preaching the Synod sermon. Liturgists will be Rev. Professor Little, S. T. D., and Rev. W. A. Mehlenbacher, pastor of St. Paul's Morrisburg.

The Wednesday session opens in the morning at St. John's with routine business being gone over. At 7.30 p. m. the evening of June 6th, the annual laymen's meeting will take place at St. John's. On Thursday, the sessions will be held in Morrisburg at St. John's, with tthe Alumni Association of Waterloo Seminary holding their banquet that evening in Castleman Memorial Hall.

A business session will be held in St. Peter's Church, Williamsburg, on Friday, June 8th, and during the day, a presentation will be made of the work of the United Lutheran Church of America by representatives from that body. The Saturday session will be held in St. Luke's at Dunbar.

An ordination service will be conducted at St. John's on Sunday, and the 150th jubilee celebration will be observed. The sermon will be preached by Rev. F. H. Knubel, D.D., Ll. D., S.T.D., president of United Lutheran Church in America. Liturgists will be the officers of the Synod.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, there will take place the unveiling of the memorial cairn at St. John's Riverside Church, to the pioneer pastors Swerdfeger and Hayunga and the United Empire Loyalists who were the founders of St. John's Church.

On Friday afternoon the Canadian Survey Committee will meet and confer with Rev. Knubel. This committee is preparing an outline of the possibility of an all-Canadian Lutheran church. President Thomas Hartig of the Manitoba Synod and resident Luther F. Hartzell of the Nova Scotia Synod will also be present and confer.

WILLIAMSBURG W. I. PROSPERS

At the recent annual meeting of the Williamsburg Women's Institute, the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Claude Casselman; 1st vice president, Mrs. M. W. Locke; secretary, Mrs. Jas. Macdonald; treasurer, Mrs. J. O'Brien; district director, Mrs. M. W. Locke; executive committee, Mrs. Alfred Casselman, Mrs. Robert and Miss Drake; cemetery committee, Miss Violet Trickey and Mrs. Axworthy; sick visiting, Mrs. M. O. Trickey and Mrs. J. Marcellus. Mrs. Duggan, convenor of the program committee, read over the outline for the year which proved to be well made up. It was decided to have benches built and placed in various places in the village so that patients of Dr. Locke attending the clinic may be able to sit down and rest while going to and from the clinic.

It was also decided to send two delegates to the district annual, Mrs. Augustus Whitteker and Mrs. Duggan being appointed. The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. Challies in regard to signs on our highway.

The financial statement showed the Institute in good standing.

For selling eggs unfit for human consumption in Toronto, an Ontario dealer was fined 25 dollars and costs. The eggs were incubator eggs showing advanced stages of incubation.

MANY CATTLE PURCHASED

Messrs. Paul Bean and F. F. Fuller, cattle buyers, of Waterbury, N. Y., have been in this district during the past week purchasing cattle for exportation to the United States. The men were successful in their efforts and 49 fine head were loaded at the local C. P. R. stock yards on Monday.

THE UNITED CHURCH

A most suitable subject for spring time was chosen by Rev. J. McKay for last Sunday morning's service when he spoke from Matt. 24:32 on the May morning of life. He said that Jesus enjoyed the glory of May morning's when there came to him great joy and rejoicing. In reference to our own life, we may have had the radiance of a May morning experience when Jesus came into our lives ,also when we decided to give our lives in some definite Christian service ,and when we are used as instruments in God's hands to bring some one else to Jesus. It will be a bright May morning, when some of the rampant evils of the land are put down, such as the liquor traffic, social injustice, and unemployment.

The chief function of the individual Christian is to exist for the purpose of bringing May morning experiences in the lives of others.

Ontario's Dilemma, was the evening subject. From Isa. 5:13 he spoke of Israel's captivity, showing they were to blame, because they refused to listen to warnings which came to them and treated as fanatics their spiritual leaders. Ever since there have been other captivities. The liquor interests have led people into captivitiy and they are leading Ontario there now, and we seem to be closing our eyes to the dangers and enemies. The church has never put this question into politics. It is a moral question and the Church has to take its stand on the issue.

Mr. McKay stated that the brewer and the distiller are anxious to promote drinking on a larger scale. This is dangerous legislation. It provides for a wider sale of intoxicants, for the return of legal public drinking, the re-establishment of private profit in the retail of intoxicants, and for the strangling of representative Government.

We must seek to protect the youth of Ontario. We can assert ourselves and save the situation for our fair province and make our decisions known in no uncertain way. A choir of men led the evening singing and contributed three special numbers which were well received. One number was a duet by two yong men from Harmony. Next unday there will also be a male choir.

UNITED STATES TO RETURN MACE

As an act of courtesy between the two nations, President Roosevelt has asked the United States Congress to return the mace of the Parliament of Ontario, captured during the war of 1812 and now held at the Annapolis Naval Academy. It is probable that the mace will be formally returned on July 4th when a memorial tablet to the United States forces killed in action will be unveiled in Toronto.

Such acts between the two countries are the best means of assuring real bonds of friendship and good-will and the return of the mace, while of no intrinsic value, will be much appreciated by Canadians resident in the province of Ontario.

SEQUEL TO ACCIDENT

As a sequel to an automobile accident near Spencerville on October 10, 1932, Edith Wilson and William Wilson are plaintiffs in an action for damages for injuries said to have been received, which will be tried before a jury at the spring assizes in Ottawa this week. William Cleary is the defendant. Larmonth, Baker & Gibson, Ottawa, are for the plaintiffs, while Casselman & Beaumont, Prescott, are for the defendant.

CAUSE OF SCHOOL FAILURES LACK

Toronto Mail & Empire: Thoughtful parents and teachers will find themselves in agreement with a prominent medical health authority who contends that a large percentage of failures among our public school pupils is due to a lack of sleep. Children in general, he believes, are allowed to remain up too late at night and to indulge themselves in too many exciting and distracting amusements. Obviously, what is more urgently needed than anything else in the home is a proper regulation of the children's conduct and less dependence upon outside influences in shaping the pupil's habits. Such a practice, if generally adopted, would materially assist the teacher and give the child a fair opportunity to progress in its studies. No instructor, no matter how well trained, or how zealous, can do much with a sleepy or undernourished child, and it is not fair to ask him tor her to try.

THE STORY SO FAR

Nancy Gordon trades herself in marriage for fifteen thousand dollars—the price of her family honor—and the freedom of her brother, Roddy, who stole, for a woman, that amount from the bank in which he works. Nancy, desperately in love with young Page Roemer, nevertheless agrees to a secret elopement with Dr. Richard Morgan, and with the money he loans her prevents Roddy's arrest. Dr. Morgan is loved by Helena Haddon, a sophisticated young married woman, but he adores Nancy and hopes to win her after marriage. In Washington they are married. Nancy is Richard's bride—and afraid of him.

Now go on with the story.

"Nancy," again he took a step toward her, "what is it? What has happened? You got my letter? You ——"

She waved him back and, unable to speak, sank weakly into his swivel-chair and burst into wild and passionate tears.

The storm of Nancy's passionate grief spent itself slowly. She lay helplessly in the old chair, her face hidden in her hands, and her whole slight frame shaken by her sobs.

"Nancy, what is it? Tell me——". he pleaded. "I know you've been away, your mother told me so. You're in trouble—what can it be? Let me help you!"

She lifted her head slowly at that and looked at him. "You can't help me—ever again!" she said in a choked voice.

He caught at her cold hands and held them.

"You love me, Nancy?"

Her white lips moved without words. She disengaged her left hand from his and held it out. On the third finger the new gold of her wedding-ring caught the light. He stared at it, uncomprehending, then something changed sharply in his look.

"Nancy, what do you mean?"

"It's—my wedding-ring."

He rose slowly to his feet, staring at her, his young face turning from red to white. He had never looked more boyish, more as she had always known him. Nancy's lips twitched and she set her white teeth hard on them, winking back fresh tears.

"Are you crazy, Nancy?" he gasped.

She began to move her hands restlessly, pleating the fold of her skirt and pressing it down.

"Do you remember where you went Saturday morning, Page?"

He frowned. "What on earth has that to do with it?"

"You went to see Richard Morgan—about half-past eight o'clock in the morning, didn't you?"

He tried to collect his thoughts, still dumfounded.

"I suppose I did. Yes, I did!"

"I was there, Page. I heard your voice—it—it was after that——"

"Good Lord, have you married Morgan?"

She nodded, without looking toward him.

There was a terrible pause. She did not lift her eyes to Roemer's face, but she was aware of it. She could feel his eyes on her.

Then he walked across the room, drew forward a chair and sat down. He sat there for a while before he spoke. His voice was hoarse and changed.

"There's no one on earth to force you to do anything, Nancy," he said slowly, "there's no reason on earth, that I can see either, unless you wanted to do it. Morgan's a rich successful man—I congratulate you."

She had not expected this. The irony in his tone cut her to the heart. Here, too, she was to meet, not sympathy, but condemnation; here, too, she would get—not bread but a stone! He had hit the nail on the head, too, hit it most horribly. Money, money—how they flung it at her!

He caught her look of misery, of appeal, and sprang to his feet. "Nancy, you don't love him—you never did!"

She did not answer that. She wavered, standing weakly, not looking toward him.

"You love me!" Page Roemer cried, and caught her violently in his arms.

She swayed, her first impulse to resist overwhelmed, beaten down by her weakness, her head dropped back on his shoulder and her eyes closed. She felt his kisses on her face and she had no strength to resist them.

"You love me," he repeated hoarsely, "and you've married him. Why—why? I can't understand—Nancy, tell me—you must tell me the truth!"

"I can't tell you," she whispered brokenly, "don't ask me, Page, I—can't!"

His face flushed darkly. "You can't tell me why you married Morgan? What can you mean?"

She stirred, trying to disengage herself. "Let me go, Page, it's—oh, I can't tell you!"

But his arms tightened around her. He saw her misery, he was determined to wring a confession from her.

"Page, I've—I've got to go home!" she gasped.

"You're not going home to that man's house!" he answered hoarsely. "You've come to me for help and I'm going to help you, Nancy."

She shook her head weakly, trying

There was a terrible pause. She did not lift her eyes to Roemer's face.

to take a step toward the door, but he still held her. He was holding her when they heard a step in the hall and the door—half ajar—was thrown wide open. Page's arm fell from Nancy's waist, he straightened himself and looked around.

Richard Morgan stood on the threshold.

The two men faced each other, then Richard's glance swept from Page to Nancy. It seemed to ignore Page as unworthy of any consideration and fixed itself upon her. Richard came quietly into the room.

"Nancy," he said, "I've come to take you home."

Page turned on Richard. "What does this mean? What have you done to her? She says you've married her—look at her; she's wretched!"

Morgan was startled; she had told Roemer of her marriage then; what else had she told him?

"I've come for my wife," he said sharply, "and what I've done—or what she does—is no concern of yours."

Page Roemer's face blazed with anger. "It's this much my concern—she came to me for help!"

Richard's thin lips tightened, he turned his eyes on Nancy, met hers and held them.

"Is that so?" he asked her in a low voice, "did you come to this man for help?"

Nancy, still leaning on the table, swayed a little.

"I don't know—why I came," she replied at last, faintly.

Richard ignored him and went to her.

"Nancy, I've come for you," he repeated in his low deep voice, his eyes searching her face.

She met them and her face quivered like a child's. She lifted her hands from the table slowly, gropingly, and tried to walk toward the door, but her steps faltered and she swayed. Richard put an arm around her, guiding her.

"Nancy," cried Page, "I won't let you go like this! It's got to be explained; you're too wretched. Look at her, Morgan, does she look like a bride? What have you done? If you're a man you'll let her go."

Richard stopped, turned slowly and measured him.

"This is no affair of yours, Roemer," Richard said shortly, "neither you nor any other man will interfere between me and my wife. Come, Nancy."

Without another word Nancy turned weakly and went out with her husband.

It had turned cold; a February wind touched her face like an icy hand. She stood waiting on the curb while Richard whistled up a taxi and helped her into it. She leaned back in the corner and shut her eyes. She felt weak and ill and, when her eyes closed, she seemed to behold visions. She saw Roddy's blank face and open mouth when she gave him the money, and her father! Then she felt Page Roemer's kisses on her face, and the hot blushes burning her own cheeks. A newly wedded wife in another man's arms! Nancy groaned suddenly and hid her face in her hands.

The taxi stopped and Nancy stirred and looked up.

"Be careful of the step," said Richard calmly, holding out his hands.

He held her firmly, keeping his hand on her arm, while he paid and dismissed the man. Then they went up the path together. Not a word was said, but Nancy found it difficult to walk alone. He opened the door and she walked unsteadily into the house. She had no other place to go.

"I'll telephone to your mother at once," said Richard, "they're anxious. Sit down here, Nancy, until I come."

He pushed a chair forward and she sank into it. She was lying back in the chair with her eyes closed when she heard Richard's quick step in the hall.

"You will be my guest, Nancy, until you can decide what you wish to do," Richard's voice said gravely. "It's the best way to avoid scandal. I"—he hesitated—"I can send a marriage notice to the newspapers. Afterwards it will be as you wish. I——" he stopped again.

She was leaning back on the pillows, her face averted.

She drew a long breath. "Thank you," she said simply.

Then she arose, passed him, and went to the door. She put out a steady hand now and opened it, looking into the front hall. It was empty. She was going without a word, but Richard reached her. He caught her in his arms, pressed her close to his heart.

"Nancy," he said hoarsely, passionately, "my wife—stay with me—don't go—stay, I'll make you love me, I'll win you. Nancy, give me my chance! Stay with me, dear," he urged her almost violently; his love had broken down his pride.

She broke away shaking all over; anger and shame and fear held her.

"You promised to let me go—you said you didn't want a wife who didn't love you—I don't, you know I don't! Father will pay it back—let me go!"

He let her go and stood like a man turned suddenly to stone.

"Good-bye, Richard — forgive me, goodbye!"

He was silent and she ran out of his house into the night.

Angie Fuller kept house for her uncle. Major Lomax had never married. There had been an early and a tragic love affair. Diana Aylett had accidentally shot herself on the eve of their marriage. It was hard to associate romance with the old major. Yet there had been a love affair that seared.

When the smoke of that tragedy cleared away, Lomax found it had killed the power to love another woman. And once, in the Gordons' garden, he had caught Nancy Virginia reaching high for a sprig of lilac. She looked for just one minute as Diana had looked the day she died. Nancy did not know why the old man stared at her. She tossed her sprig of lilac to him.

The old man put it in his buttonhole, patted her hand, and went on. Nancy had no idea that she had won a champion for all time.

The morning after Nancy's return, Angie had to get the breakfast. She came into the dining room, her face rosy from the fire.

She set the plate of rusk down in front of her uncle and retired behind the old silver coffe-pot. She was thinking of Rod Gordon.

The two men faced each other.

It was the first time he had ever been in town without coming to see her. They were old neighbors; they had been boy and girl sweethearts. He had walked straight by the house and never looked at it, and Nancy had said nothing about his visit home! What did it mean?

Major Lomax ate a piece of rusk with an audible crunch and turned over his newspaper.

"Hello!" he exclaimed, stopping to read an advertisement more carefully. "The Gordon house for sale—whole outfit—furniture and all!"

Angie was astonished. A shaft of terror shot through her. Had something happened to Roddy? "Why, uncle, it just can't be true—they love the old house so!"

He shoved the paper across the table. "Read that!" he said crossly.

He was cross because, like Angie, a shaft of alarm had shot through him. He had heard something from a cousin of his in New York, old Beaver, accountant in the Greenough Trust Company. Old Beaver said Roddy was running after a fast woman and was in debt. Lomax knew that William Gordon's resources were narrow. Trouble somewhere? The major's old mouth hardened.

"Gordon called me up late last night—wanted to know about selling some securities," he ruminated aloud, more to himself than to Angie. "He had about five thousand in Liberty bonds."

THE ART OF PUBLIC SPEAKING

(Bowmanville Statesman)

Last Friday night pupils of the junior and senior fourth forms of Central Public School staged a very creditable oratorical contest under the auspices of School Club. The encouragement of that fine organization, the Home and public speaking is a worthwhile endeavour, but only when it covers the field in a thorough manner. In these days of broadened living it is almost an absolute necessity to be able to constructively place ones thoughts before others, if you are to keep abreast of the times and of currrent thought and opinion. Silence may be golden, but the man or woman who sits back and never says anything seldom gets anywhere in this world.

There is far more to public speaking than the average person realizes. Grenville Kleiser in his book on the Art of Public Speaking tells of the attainments that must go with a successful speaker. Many of us will be surprised to find that perfect health is the first and most important need of those who would attain some success in oratory. Mr. Kleiser advises a regular course of morning exercises to expand the lungs, produce regularity of breathing, and ease of appearance.

Few of us realize that behind every successful speaker is considerable training other than the clever composition of words, phrases and sentences. He must be able to breathe in a manner which will make his flow of speech easy. He must stand in a position of ease, which really gives him poise and appearance, so that the utterance of vital facts will be emphasized by the bodily stand.

We recently heard a Toronto University professor lecture on Public Speaking and he enumerated the many obviously nervous things an untrained speaker does. Some place their hands in their pockets, others throughout the course of an address play with something on the table before them, while many others constantly run their hands through their hair, or some other such unconscious act, which denotes the speaker who lacks training. Public speaking then, is more than just a matter of being able to express oneself in words, it is a healthy exercise, the preparation for which embodies many principles involved in the proper nurture of the human body.

RAMBLING 'ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

Ramblings: Someone's always caught when it rains in New York. . . . There's a sixteen year old girl ambling along slowly with long, flowing hair the only thing to protect her thin dress from the drenching rain . . . A dignified dowager walking along as though it weren't raining at all . . . That girl wouldn't look at me seated beside me in the bus, but now that I'm off on the sidewalk she glances with an enchanting smile—the vixen . . . Kids on the street glancing around automobiles and yelling "bang"—those wooden pistols in the hands of children give me the willies . . . Wonder what they'll be when they grow up . . . There's a window full of nothing but "tricks" for sound slumber . . . a special reading lamp that shines a spot of light on your book without disturbing the wife in the other bed . . . A back and arms like the top of an overstuffed chair for reading and breakfasting in bed . . . A studio couch with a small circular table top attached to one end like a typewriter on a pivoted shelf at the side of a desk . . . A light and noise eliminator and air cleaner that you attach to the window casing . . . And black felt blinds like goggles to shut out the light . . . Silly, and yet they sell them . . . Wonder why so many of the women workers of the garment district wear nothing but black . . . Occasionally you see one in mourning, of course, but these are just black dresses, hats, shoes and stockings—nothing that suggests mourning but the color—or lack of it . . . The subway at rush hour is a most convincing object lesson in the survival of the fittest . . . So far I've survived—but not without casualty . . . Phew—that was a close one! His rubber heels skidded on the wet pavement and landed him sitting 10 feet in front of a five ton truck coming around the corner. The driver stopped like a bee on your windshield, smiled and went on. Hard boiled? I'll bet he had the jitters five minutes later . . . That restaurant at 39th Street and Seventh has more good looking girls to the square foot than any in town. They're models from the garment district salesrooms . . . Union Square on Saturday afternoon—just a mass of seething humanity. I'll go home another way on Saturdays.

IMPROVE YOUR PROPERTY AND CREATE EMPLOYMENT

The coming of spring means that many householders are laying plans for improving and beautifying their property. This year is a particularly opportune time to undertake alterations, additions and the many little jobs that should be done, both because materials are lower in price this year and because the program will afford employment to men who possibly have been out of work for the past few months. Every citizen who is in a position to create work even at some personal sacrifice in undertaking new burdens, should do so. In this way an enormous amount of money will be released for circulation among those who need it.

Just look over the home and grounds, check the services available, see what is missing and then decide to make your home a more pleasant and healthful place in which to live. Check this list.

Plumbing.

Electric wiring for greater use of electric appliances.

Electric appliances needed to lighten work.

Utilization of waste space—attic or basement.

Building verandah, porch or sun-room

Heating: substitution of a furnace for stoves; of a new furnace for the old coal-hog which has outlived its usefulness.

Wallpaper—a room or so that needs doing over.

Painting—interior and exterior.

Roofing renewal.

Eavetrough overhaul.

Hardwood floors in the most used rooms of the house.

Insulation to keep out the summer heat and the winter cold.

Construction of convenient clothes or linen closets, or built-in cedar chests.

Built-in bookcases.

Arbors or trellises for the garden.

Awnings for the summer sun.

Additional electric outlets by way of plug-ins in the baseboard, of overhead drops in closets, etc.

Power wire service for heavier electrical appliances.

Garage.

New furniture for one or more rooms.

And do not forget that when you not only gain intrinsically, but you make life more worthwhile, and the same thing, resounding to the benefit of town and county as a whole.

RETURN TO THE HORSE

(Winnipeg Tribune)

What is one industry's poison may be another industry's meat. It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good. A return just issued by the Dominion Government shows that the number of horse collars made in Canada in 1931 was 64928, and in 1932 it was 93278, an increase of almost 50 per cent.

The figures for 1933, it is anticipated will show a further increase. The demand for sweat pads more than doubled during the same period and the production of double hames almost trebled.

All of which denotes that the horse is winning his way back. In order to work horses must have collars; if the demand for collars goes up it follows that more horse work is being done.

HAD NO FEAR OF GOD DESERTING HIM

A workman, retiring at sixty-five, received from his workmates a framed picture of himself and seven pound notes, as a mark of their esteem. The next day he took the money to his minister for the missionary cause. "But I don't think you ought to give it all," said the reverend gentleman. "Look here," said the donor, "that money was a testimonial of my workmates' regard for me; and I give it to God as a proof of my love for Him. He has cared for me sixty-five years; He will not desert me now, or see me wanting bread."

EVERY TOWN HAS THEM

When you hear a man running down his home town or city or business or industry in it, or his home newspaper, take a good look at him. Ten to one he will have a chin as long as a rail, an eye as restless as a horse-thief; and he will hitch around in his chair as though he had a touch of St. Anthony's dance. Talk with him awhile and you will discover that he has made a failure of everything he has ever tried (except being disagreeable).

THOSE BAD BOYS

People are frequently heard to remark that a boy who is a continual trial to his teacher in school is doomed to something worse later in life. It does not always work out that way. The Toronto Star points out that in a school in that city Sammy McBride's name is enrolled as having been punished for scrapping on the way home from school. So was little Alfie Maguire, while George Henry got into trouble for being disobedient and chewing gum. The boys grew up, and the former two have served as mayor of Toronto, while the latter is premier of Ontario.—Carleton Place Canadian.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Strange as it seems, the African lungfish can live longer out of water than it can in it. It must have air to breathe, and therefore cannot live any great length of time completely submerged: Ordinarily the fish comes to the surface every 15 minutes for air.

When there is a shortage of water, as in the dry season in Africa, the fishes simply dig holes in the mud and go to sleep. As the mud dries out it sometimes becomes hard as brick encasing the fish. The only opening is a small hole through which the lungfish breathes.

When the wet season comes around again the water softens the mud bricks and the fish come out to resume their normal active life.

Lungfish, because of their strange habits and organs, are of great importance in the study of animal evolution. Some are under observation at New York University where they have lived for more than a year in hard balls of mud, emerging at the end of that time as good as new. Scientists believe that a lungfish could live five years out of water, and with nothing to eat or drink.

WOMAN MAY RUN IN BRUCE AS PROHIBITION CANDIDATE

Commenting on the political situation in Bruce, the Tara Leader says:

"Prohibitionists in the riding of Bruce are not taking kindly to the policies of Liberal or Conservative parties in the sale of beer by the glass and last Thursday night the first outward sign of protest was in evidence when representatives from Chesley, Port Elgin, Allenford, Park Head and Hepworth came to Tara and in conclave voiced their opposition to the platforms of both parties. Several speeches were made and we understand that Mrs. Davey, a strong temperance advocate and a resident of Chesley, stated that she would be willing to enter the fight as a prohibition candidate which would mean a three-cornered fight. Undoubtedly there would be a considerable following favorable to a prohibition candidate in this riding and the advent of a third party would make the election very uncertain."

WOULD MAKE A POOR GOLF BALL

Persons living in the vicinity of Franklin street, Ogdensburg, heard faint cries of a child one afternoon last week but no one was in sight. A coupe was standing at the curb and it was finally determined that the cries were coming from it. It was found that a little girl was imprisoned in the rumble seat. She had crawled through the golf bag door, which another girl had closed after her. The girl was badly frightened but uninjured when released after being couped in for over an hour.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE (PAS) BARTON

A GREAT IDEA IS BORN

IT was assumed that when a woman married she took the gods of her husband; if he died and she must go back to her own people, she abandoned her husband's gods and took theirs again. But when the ten tribes of Israel split away from the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, Jehovah did not go to either one or the other, but remained with both. His worship was often neglected, but in their hearts the people knew that He was still their God and always at the time of tribulation they threw down their idols and returned to Him.

Bruce Barton

The idea of One God—unseen and not to be worshipped in visible form—had been born in the world, and had taken firm hold upon human minds. This is the outstanding achievement of the Hebrews, the thing which gives the Old Testament eternal truth and inspiration.

In its total effect the Old Testament is a record of God's progressive revelation of Himself to men. This is the second element in its greatness. Steadily from Genesis to Micah the conception of His nature and quality grows clearer, bigger, finer.

We have referred already to Amos, who was not a priest and had nothing but scorn for the formulae and ritual of the established religion. He saw the temple courtyards red with blood and men seeking through sacrifices to buy the right to be iniquitous, and he cried out: "God cares nothing for sacrifice; He is a God of Justice."

> I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies.
> Though ye offer me burnt offerings and your meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts.
> But let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream.

As a conception of the Almighty this represented a vast step upward. In those same days another preacher, Hosea, was adding another item to the expanding fund of truth. Hosea was a married man, and his wife was a flirt. So much so that Hosea was compelled finally to put her away. His friends said "good riddance," but Hosea was torn by lonesomeness, sorrow and regret. This woman who had wronged him—he still loved her. Pocketing his pride he went to her with forgiveness and took her back to his home.

And out of that domestic tragedy there came to Hosea a great new truth. "If I, being only a man, can love so much and forgive so much, surely God must be capable of even more," he said. Amos had told the world that God is just; Hosea added, "and kind."

NO POLICE COURTS

Under the provisions of an Act passed at the last session of the Legislature "Police Courts" in the province of Ontario pass out of existence and are now to be known as "magistrate's courts." The change was brought about by the old appellation being misleading, in that the police do not try the cases.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

The Last Judgement.
Lesson for May 27th. Matt. 25:31-46.
Golden Text: 2 Corinthians 5:10.

Note the principle of separation in this wonderful parable of the final judgement. The saved and the unsaved are not selected on the basis of creed, or race, or church affiliation, but by the criterion of neighborly kindness. Those who have fed the hungry and thirsty, who have housed the stranger, clothed the naked, and visited the sick and imprisoned, are welcomed into eternal life. But all who have neglected these fundamental obligations are condemned.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

This test is made very graphic by Tolstoi's story, "Where Love Is, God Is." Martin, a devout cobbler, lived in a basement room with only one window. In his old age he thought much about his soul. One night he sat up late reading the gospel until he fell asleep. A voice called to him, "Martin, Martin! Look out into the street tomorrow, for I shall come."

The next day an old, broken down soldier came to Martin's window, and cleared away the snow with his spade. "What if I called him in?" thought Martin. They had tea together.

Then later a strange woman, with shabby clothes, and a crying baby passed Martin's window. Martin invited her in, fed her, gave her an old cloak, and played with the baby until it laughed.

Later still an apple-woman stopped in front of Martin's window. A boy snatched an apple, and tried to steal away. The woman seized him and scolded. Martin came out and pleaded for forgiveness.

That night Martin again opened the New Testament. He seemed to hear footsteps. Sure enough, there was the old soldier, the woman and her baby, and the apple-woman and boy.

And Martin's soul was glad. He put on his spectacles, and this is what he read: "I was a hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in . . . Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

PREVAILING TROUBLES

I DO NOT remember within my more than forty years of practice, when so many patients came to me with ailments of the NERVOUS SYSTEM. Many have been honestly alarmed at threats of paralysis. The great cause of these complaints and "breakdowns" is—the awful, nation-wide depression.

Now, nervous disorders are either ORGANIC or FUNCTIONAL; bear that in mind,—for there is all the difference in the world between the two. An organic disease is always the more serious. Functional nerve-disorders, give rise to many disturbing symptoms, but they are most generally curable, if the patient can avail himself of the measures necessary for a cure.

Sometimes REST is a very expensive treatment. I meet heads of families, broken down from worry over the mortgage. This sole wage-earner of the family is down and out from simple exhaustion. The income stops when he stops; unless he rests his worries continue.

No matter what your symptoms, CONSULT YOUR PHYSICIAN. Let me say here: in most functional nerve-diseases the chief agency for producing a cure is REST; not necessarily a long course of medicine—just mental and physical rest. A vacation, that takes you away from the arena that holds your over-taxing worries. Go on the creek and fish with a pin-hook. Get out among the birds and wild flowers. If you have been an office-man, get out of doors—work in the garden; any of these things are as good for you as a trip that costs many times more.

Organic diseases have definite symptoms. They have been well studied in long years past. Your functional flurries are often not nearly so severe as they seem.

Electricity!

No tale of wonders and enchantments has ever been written that excelled the actual reality which is today at mankind's fingertips in the wonders and magic of electricity. Step by step the intelligence of man leads him on through the ages of civilization until to-day our most common utility is in fact far beyond the mere comprehension of even the dreams of our forefathers. The Hydro System brings all of this to the citizens of Winchester. There is no new development or equipment in the fields that is not available to the life and business of local citizens. The drudgery can be taken out of housework if you let electric energy be the slave.

Possibly your home needs re-wiring or the present wiring a little overhauling. If so let us know about it. We are here to see that you get the best possible results from Hydro Light and Power.

Our Column

Young people are never right in the eyes of their elders.

The man who delivers the goods is the one who usually collects.

Strange as it may seem, you can save yourself a lot of trouble by not borrowing any.

The man who needs $10,000 to get him out of a hole must envy the fellow who needs only $5.00

If you want something very much, keep asking—it's the squeaking wheel that gets the grease.

Next to making mistakes, the easiest thing in the world is to criticise the mistakes of others.

A lot of people are like furnace fires. They only show a little warmth when you feed them.

A contemporary says it doesn't know whether the election will go over with a bang or a bung.

Everyone should co-operate in making Winchester more beautiful and attractive in 1934 than ever.

A little oil on the rain barrel or cistern won't hurt the water, and may dispose of a big crop of mosquitoes.

It is not good luck that makes a good business. It is intelligent, hard, continuous, everyday work.

Have you cleaned the leaves out of the eavetroughs of your home? If not, the mosquitoes may be breeding there.

When you're down in the mouth, think of the Prophet Jonah. He came out all right.—American Business Motto.

When the clock says "tick! tick!" it keeps going. When the customers say "tick! tick!" they make it hard for the business man to keep going.

It is surprising how busy some people are with their own affairs, or how deaf they are to the call, when their are some public duties to perform.

'Tis one of human nature's laws
To see ourselves without our flaws,
O wad some power the giftie gie us
To make our friends the same way see us!

Billy Sunday says: "Out of every dollar spent last year only four cents went for religion and education." And more was spent on lipstick and chewing gum than on all missionary efforts.

If a man thinks every one is against him he will soon begin to treat them so they will be. If he thinks every one is his friend, he will unconsciously treat them as such and they will soon be his friends.

Tulip beds about town are blossoming forth in a beautiful array of colours, adding much to the beauty of the various premises and bringing a great deal of satisfaction to the growers.

Whistle more and whine less—hustle more and holler less—work more and worry less—boost more and beef less—give more and grab less, is the advice of the Kiwanis magazine.

Over six hundred babies are born every day in Canada; twenty-five new babies arrive every hour of the day and night, which means that we can boast of one new Canadian every four or five minutes.

The world is a looking glass and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and in turn it will look sourly upon you; laugh at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion.—William Makepeace Thackeray.

The English language is a funny thing. Tell a girl that time stands still as you gaze into her eyes, and she'll adore you. But just see what happens when you say her face would stop a clock.

To screen that unsightly back fence, or to cover the view of a weed-overgrown garden lying next door to you, plant plenty of morning glory seeds along it, and lo, on those bright summer mornings, that unsightly mean old fence is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

The most dangerous drivers are those who cut in too sharply in front of a car which he is passing and those who drive too close to the centre line of the highway. The police cannot stop it and only the survivor of an accident is in a position to report it.

Canada now has the champion marathon runner and the champion walker of this continent. With a world on wheels, it is interesting as well as gratifying to learn that young Canadians are not forgetting how to make fast time in the original method of locomotion.—Toronto Globe.

The recent decision of the Ontario Hydro Commission to extend better terms to rural consumers of Hydro is to be commended. This great public utility should be made as easy as possible for all the public to share in the benefits derived from its use. The reduction of the term of tthe contract will no doubt give impetus to Hydro extension says the Acton Free Press.

DON'T FORGET TO SMILE

You would not think of going to school without a collar and a necktie. You wash your face and comb your hair before you leave for your work, whatever that may be. Take a look in the mirror before you leave the house, also, to be sure that your smile is on straight. You are not properly dressed until that is in place.

The rains during the past few days have been worth much to the field crops and gardens throughout this district.

The very first automobiles were cars copied so closely after buggies that the first one is said to have been equipped with a whip socket. Some cars should be so equipped to-day, and the whip used for the reckless driver.

Kincardine business men have sent a petition to the Government regarding the taxing of mail-order houses which do business in all the towns of the country. The point is that a local business man has to pay a business tax for the pleasure of doing business in a town or city while the mail order house merely rents a building in Toronto or Montreal and does business with people in every municipality while only paying a small tax to the big city. His Majesty's Mail service which is maintained by public funds makes it possible for this kind of competition to tnrive.

McGhie, Deputy Minister, visited Smiths Falls last week in connection with the possible erection of a $1,000,000 hospital for mental defectives. IMPROVEMENTS

Back yard as well as front yard improvements are being made all over town and some of them are very noticeable. The paint brush is also busy about many homes and it is evident that the "Old Home Week" spirit is being shown by every citizen. It is the Winchester spirit anyway to keep everything up-to-date and attractive, and this extra touch will prove an added attraction.

ONTARIO PASTURES

Over 23 per cent. or one acre out of every four of the improved lands in Ontario is in pasture. The estimated total returns on pasture in the form of live stock products from June to October yearly is approximately $40,000,000. Of this $34,000,000 is derived from dairy produce. Results from experiments have shown that by proper management and improving fertility of the soil returns could be increased from 100 to 200 per cent. on a very large proportion of pasture.

The Shelbourne Economist very aptly says: "One of these days maybe some enterprising manufacturer will turn out a new watch for summer use that will show both 'new' and 'old time.' Then all that would be needed as additional help to the traveller would be a sign on the outskirts of every place telling whether daylight is being 'saved' or not."
