Newsbriefs

Ombudsman visits

CORNWALL — The annual book fair, sponsored by the Cornwall branch of the Canadian Federation of University Women will take place again this year on Nov. 10 and 11 at St. John's Presbyterian Church on Second Street in Cornwall. The books sold are donated by members of the community and anyone who has used books in good shape can donate them to the women's group. The money received at the sale goes toward bursaries in area high schools. The scholarship fund is a registered charity and receipts are available for cash donations. People can bring books to St. John's Thursday between 6 and 8 p.m. and unable to bring them to St. John's can call at 537-8525 to arrange for pickup of the books.

Annual book fair

MORRISBURG — The district officer for the office of the Ombudsman for Ottawa and Eastern Ontario will be in the Morrisburg and Cornwall areas tomorrow and Friday to hear complaints from the public concerning all provincial departments, agencies and institutions. People from Dundas County with complaints can meet with Klaas Bylsma from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the Morrisburg Municipal Office. Bylsma will also be available in Cornwall from 1 to 3 p.m. on Friday at the Children's Aid Society office at 27 York St., Cornwall. No appointments are necessary. Inquiries from the public can be made by phoning 234-6421; collect calls are accepted.

Request denied

CHESTERVILLE — A request by the Chesterville's Women's Institute (WI) to remove the Mock Orange trees in front of the community hall in favour of Pyramid Cedars was turned down by council Oct. 24. The written request said the substitution of the Mock Orange trees with Cedars would improve the look of the community hall property. The WI also had asked for the village to buy tulip bulbs and to have them planted in front of the community hall. Councillors felt the grounds would be too difficult to maintain with tulip bulbs in it. However, they did instruct the village foreman Jack Smith to have the trees trimmed.

Street construction

CHESTERVILLE — Council has come up with a list of streets it wants reconstructed with the aid of a provincial grant. Following consultation with village foreman Jack Smith, council members decided Tuesday, Oct. 24 to have Queen Street East, from Main to Albert, Water Street, Casselman Street and Howard Street, be put on the list for the 1990-91 allocation of the grant. The PRIDE grant will cover 50 per cent of the cost of reconstruction.

In camera

CHESTERVILLE — Council closed its doors to the public for about 40 minutes at its regular meeting Oct. 24. According to Reeve Jim Cook council was looking at 26 applications for the position of clerk-treasurer. The new clerk will replace Mary McDonell, who is leaving for a new job.

Poppy Day

CHESTERVILLE — Chesterville and area Cubs and Beavers will be soliciting the support of residents here and in Morewood Saturday morning during their annual Poppy Day. Proceeds from the sales are to go to the Royal Canadian Legion. People are urged to wear a poppy and remember the service of our veterans.

St. Albert cheesemakers facing OPP investigation

ST. ALBERT — A group of St. Albert cheesemakers are facing an OPP investigation into their seizure of two milk trucks Oct. 11.

The Ontario Milk Marketing Board's (OMMB) board of directors decided on Thursday, Oct. 26 in Mississauga, not to press charges against the cheesemakers. But they have requested the Ontario Provincial Police conduct an investigation into the incident, said Bill Mitchell.

Mitchell, who is the board's assistant director of board-industrial relations, said Friday, the board has sent a letter to the board of directors of St. Albert Cheese Co-op notifying them of the request.

A spokesperson at OPP District Headquarters in Long Sault was unable to confirm Monday if an investigation had been started.

Mitchell said it was necessary for the board to take action on the hijacking.

"The members of the board view the incident very seriously. Essentially the board made it clear it can't tolerate that sort of action," he said.

The two OMMB milk trucks which were seized by the cheesemaking plant's board of directors and a group of St. Albert area farmers to protest for bigger milk quotas while the trucks were doing their milk runs on Oct. 11.

A third truck was to be seized the same day near Berwick, but the Co-op board members were stymied by the truck driver and resulting three hour standoff in which the police were also involved.

Earlier in the week, Mitchell had said that cheesemakers faced a possible loss of their production license because their actions violated the province's milk act.

Claude Genier, one of the co-op's board of directors, said he hasn't yet been contacted by the Dairy Inspection Branch, which is responsible for enforcing the milk act.

A spokesperson for the Dairy Inspection Branch, acting director Glenn Ward had no comment Oct. 24 on the St. Albert incident. But he said license revocation was one of a number of ways the Dairy Inspection Branch can enforce the milk act.

Genier, who took part in the truck seizures, said the OMMB's decision to call in the police to investigate the incident is an "intimidation" tactic on their part. "They're only trying to dramatize the situation," he said.

He noted that none of the truck drivers pressed charges. One truck driver, was held without being permitted to call anyone for an hour and a half when his truck was seized, an action Genier admitted to in an earlier interview.

Genier also said that the milk, which was removed from the two trucks, will be paid for as soon as the co-op gets the bill, which is expected in November.

Genier was also unhappy with the OMMB's decisions on co-op's request to have their quota increased and to have their cheese reclassified.

In both cases the OMMB said they didn't have the mandate to deal with those issues. Mitchell said the mandate on those matters rests with the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Commission.

Genier said he was surprised the OMMB couldn't deal with those issues. He insisted the OMMB should be more supportive to the co-op's needs.

About 92 per cent of the cheese produced at the St. Albert co-op is a mild curd cheddar. Genier said the co-op wants to exploit a market for that cheese but is unable to do so because of it's plant supply quota.

One way to increase the quota would be to create a new class of cheese, which would, according to Genier, allow a more favorable quota for the St. Albert Co-op.

The co-op, which has been fighting the OMMB for a larger quota for seven years, isn't getting support from any other producers, because the St. Albert plant is the only one that produces a large amount of mild curd cheddar. "We have a unique problem in the province," he said.

The OMMB ruled out any possibility of granting the co-op any special treatment on its quotas because it has to treat all producers equally under its mandate, said Mitchell.

If the board started making exceptions in its quota distribution, there would be justifiable repercussions from other producers in the province, he said.

Mitchell said he didn't understand why the co-op made requests to the OMMB for something that should have been dealt with by the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Commission.

Of the five issues the co-op asked the OMMB to consider, the board of directors were only able to deal with one of them. The OMMB agreed to consider the co-op's request to allow quotas to be bought through auctions so that the quotas would be available to all Ontario producers.

Genier said he wouldn't mind paying extra money for more quotas. The co-op's next step is to take their grievances to the Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food, David Ramsey.

Contestants wore Halloween costumes, which were judged, then jumped into the sticky gelatine quagmire in search of a hockey puck. There was one for each of the 30 contestants at the bottom of the pool, which they had to find in order to earn a prize.

Dundas Heart and Stroke in top four for funds

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The Dundas Chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario has once again come out near the top among Eastern Ontario heart and stroke chapters.

The local chapter placed fourth out of 16 chapters for the 1988-89 fundraising year, raising $68,400, a 25 per cent increase in the amount of funds they raised over the previous year. The chapter was also the second highest in Eastern Ontario for memorial donations.

Fundraising for the chapter was up in almost every area for the year. Residential fundraising was up 14 per cent, fundraising from special events was up 214 per cent, and business donations were up by 978 per cent.

Some areas of the campaign were down, including residential fundraising in Winchester, South Mountain, Morrisburg and south of Chesterville, dropping the total increase lower than it might have been.

But Janie MacDiarmid, area co-ordinator for the foundation, said the increase, despite shortfalls in some areas, is the largest she has seen for the county.

"That's an excellent figure," she said of the $68,000 raised by local volunteers. For a county with a population of less than 20,000 it is an excellent amount per capita, she said.

The money comes from the canvassing of homes and businesses in the county, donations from clubs, from memorial gifts and from special events such as Dance for Heart and Jump Rope for Heart. "We have a lot of sources of revenue," MacDiarmid said.

The large increase didn't come as a complete surprise to the foundation because of the county's consistency in raising funds. "They have traditionally been a strong chapter," she said.

"They just did a wonderful job," she said of the estimated 450 volunteers in the county. "I think that's the largest that they have ever experienced."

Residential donations were up in four areas in the county for the 1988-89 year. Dunbar was up by 1,088 per cent, Morewood was up by 336 per cent, Inkerman was up by 70 per cent and Williamsburg was up 72 per cent.

The gains offset slight losses south of Chesterville and in Winchester, South Mountain and Morrisburg. The area south of Chesterville was down 100 per cent, Winchester was down 38 per cent, South Mountain was down 30 per cent and Morrisburg was down 14 per cent.

The chapter will be canvassing residents and businesses again for donations this year and will also receive money from a number of special events.

Special events include a Curling Bonspiel at Winchester Curling Club Feb. 3 and Dance for Heart with Power by Jennifer in Chesterville and Morrisburg and Marie's Aerobics in Winchester. Other events include Jump Rope for Heart, Square Dance for Heart and Roses for Heart.

The foundation is hoping for a five per cent increase in the amount of funds collected at the end of the 1989-90 fundraising year next summer. MacDiarmid anticipates the increase shouldn't be much of a problem for Dundas County.

Some chapters are setting goals as high as 15 per cent, but it is because they haven't done as well per capita in fundraising as other chapters have, she said. Because Dundas usually donates so generously, the foundation has only set a five per cent target increase for the county.

MacDiarmid said the key to a successful fundraising campaign is good volunteers, something that Dundas has plenty of. "To achieve results like they've received, it takes a lot of people working together," she said.

But she added, there always is a need for more volunteers whether it be for special events such as Jump Rope for Heart, or for education programs. "There always is a job for everyone."

The more volunteers the foundation can attract, the more programs and activities it can do, MacDiarmid said. There are programs the foundations would like to do but can't because there aren't enough volunteers.

"We need these people," MacDiarmid said. People interested in volunteering can call Dundas chapter president Mary Steele at 774-5053, Janie Acres at 774-2748 or the Cornwall office of the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

The money raised by the foundation goes into research and education in the area. Seventy cents of every fundraising dollar goes to research and 8 to 10 cents goes to education. The remainder is used for administration.

Crash inquest to be held

CHESTERVILLE — An inquest has been called into the death of three Avonmore area teenagers involved in a single car accident on County Road 15 north of Avonmore July 30.

The office of Dr. Gabriel Slowey, coroner for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, confirmed Tuesday an inquest will be held Nov. 22 at 1 p.m. at Tagwi Secondary School, east of Avonmore.

Daniel Villeneuve, 17, of Dunvegan; Christine Cameron, 17, of Finch; and Jose Patenaude, 15, of RR1 Moose Creek, were killed when the car they were in went into a ditch and struck a tree.

The three were among five teenagers in the car heading south on County Road 15 north of Avonmore, when the vehicle approached a curve too fast, went out of control and into a ditch.

Two teenagers survived the crash: Michael Villeneuve, 18, of Maxville; and Claude Plouffe, 16. Villeneuve received severe head injuries in the

Roxborough Township to review staff, finances

MOOSE CREEK — Roxborough Township Council has asked the Ontario Ministry of Municipal Affairs to review its financial situation to determine how capable it is of supporting two proposed water and sewer projects in the municipality.

The financial analysis, something "quite common" for municipalities entering into large expenditures, will be done for free by the Ontario Ministry of Municipal Affairs, and will make short-term and long-term recommendations concerning the township's finances, said Councillor Gerald Montcalm.

Township council made the decision to go ahead with the review after a 160 minute in-camera session last Tuesday which was closed to the public.

Council also passed a resolution after the in-camera session asking that the field branch of the MMA conduct a study of township administrative and drainage personnel. The report, to be done by James Wood of the MMA, is to be presented to council no later than Jan. 1, 1990.

Chesterville development held...again

CHESTERVILLE — The Ministry of Environment (MOE) has surprised both council and developers by withholding approval for planned subdivisions in the village at least until the spring of 1990.

Council announced MOE's decision at a council meeting Oct. 24 via a press release.

Reeve Jim Cook said he was surprised when he was informed of the change by MOE in a meeting mid-October. We were "a little taken aback. We thought we were in good shape," he said Thursday.

Initially council and developers hoped two subdivisions would be under construction sometime next year, but the ministry wants to await the results of the village's Lifelines study before it proceeds with any approvals.

The village is having a study of its water and sewer infrastructure done with the help of a provincial grant through the Lifelines program. The study is to be completed by the spring of 1990.

But even if the findings turn out favorable MOE is only prepared to approve about 40 lots for development until the capacity of the sewage pumping station is upgraded.

Although Cook was unable to say when the proposed subdivisions would be realized he predicted that once council had the opportunity to meet with the developers things would work out.

"They (subdivisions) may not go as quickly as we like, that's the problem, but we're pushing as hard as we can to get things in place," he said.

The aspect of the decision which surprised council was the MOE's concern that the lagoon pumping station and lagoon stabilization pond might have reached capacity and would not be able to handle additional residents tapping into the system. If the MOE's concern is confirmed all but 40 lots will have development held up until the problems can be rectified.

When the pumping station was last expanded eight years ago, the study done at the time showed the pumping station capable of handling 1,800 residents. The population of Chesterville is just over 1,400.

Council has asked the engineering firm J.L. Richards to investigate the pumping station and lagoon stabilization pond to see what has to be done to upgrade them. Council expects the estimated $4,000 study to be done early next year.

Two of the four subdivisions proposed were well into their planning stages and together they account for the development of 125 lots, well above the number MOE is prepared to approve in the spring.

One of the developers, Martin Derks, of Derks Equipment, appeared to be surprised by the MOE's decision. "Well, I guess that puts everything on hold," he said Monday morning.

He wasn't prepared to make any further comment until he got official word from council that approval for the subdivisions would be delayed. The only prior knowledge he had of the MOE's decision was through a "rumor" he heard late Sunday evening, he said.

Cook had said that council would try to arrange a meeting with the developers before Sunday, because he would be away this week on a business trip. However he expressed some doubt whether a meeting could be arranged on such short notice.

Derks and two other village businessmen, Dale McNaughton and Erik Thompson want to develop a 100-lot subdivision west of Highway 43, between Forward Road and the south bank of the South Nation River.

They bought the land together last December, but have expressed frustration over the slow pace of overcoming the bureaucratic hurdles that have stood in the way of development.

There was an angry exchange between Derks and Cook at a meeting last June when Derk's questioned the way council was handling a proposed amendment to the evillage's by-law to accommodate the proposed subdivision. The by-law has since been passed but without MOE approval the Ministry of Municipal Affairs won't permit the construction of the subdivision.

The other subdivision in advanced planning stage is the one proposed by Peter St. Germain and councillor Peter Van Kessel, both of Chesterville. Van Kessel citing conflict of interest guidelines, said Monday afternoon he hasn't discussed the matter with council, and said his business partner, as far as he knew, hasn't either.

Their 21-lot subdivision is to be located south of South Street.

A third and fourth subdivision, 150 lots in all, are still in the early stages of planning.

Sheep breeders want price control

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

MAPLE RIDGE — Local sheep breeders want more control over the price of lamb, they said at an annual meeting at North Dundas District High School Friday night.

District 10 members of the Ontario Sheep Marketing Agency (OSMA) voted in favor of establishing a single desk electronic auction for sheep breeders in Ontario.

District 10 represents sheep breeders in the eastern counties including the region of Ottawa-Carleton and Grenville County. About 25 breeders attended the meeting, Friday night.

The auction is seen as a long-term solution to combat low lamb prices that have plagued the sheep industry the last few years, said Jean-Marc Leclerc, the meeting's chairperson.

The resolution passed Friday night will be tabled at the provincial annual meeting in Peterborough Nov. 24 and 25.

However, there is no guarantee that the delegates there will approve it then. "Something this dramatic does not get unanimous support," Leclerc said.

The deciding factor in the issue could be continuing low lamb prices in a market that is controlled by meat buyers. "Prices are extremely low. Producers are suffering and when producers are suffering they tend to make radical decisions," he said.

Leclerc, who has a sheep farm near Embrun, said his operation is only a secondary occupation for him because he can't make much money from it.

He sold 37 light lambs last month for a total of $51, "well, well below my cost of production," he said. By comparison, he sold a similar number of sheep a few years ago for $137 and made a profit.

Leclerc, an Agriculture Canada engineering technologist, said he stays in the sheep industry because the market is cyclic. What's needed is more control by the sheep breeders, he said.

Under a single electronic auction, a cartel would be formed on a "coercive basis" to ensure all Ontario sheep farmers take part. A voluntary program attempted two years ago didn't work because not enough farmers took part to sustain the cost of having such a system, Leclerc said.

"Prices are extremely low. Producers are suffering and when producers are suffering they tend to make radical decisions."

Jean-Marc Leclerc
Embrun sheep breeder

However, other aspects of the system worked out fine and buyers were satisfied with the sheep they got, he said.

With the auction system, sheep breeders would be able to enter a reserve bid under which the auctioneer won't be able to sell a breeder's lamb. "The beauty of this system is that farmers retain their live lambs on their farms until they're sold," Leclerc said.

The breeder who introduced the resolution proposing the single desk auction, was John MacAngus of Ashton. He saw the auction as a means of organizing the producers.

Sheep breeders are in the same position hog breeders were some years ago until they set up a single desk auction through which all hogs are now marketed in Ontario, he said.

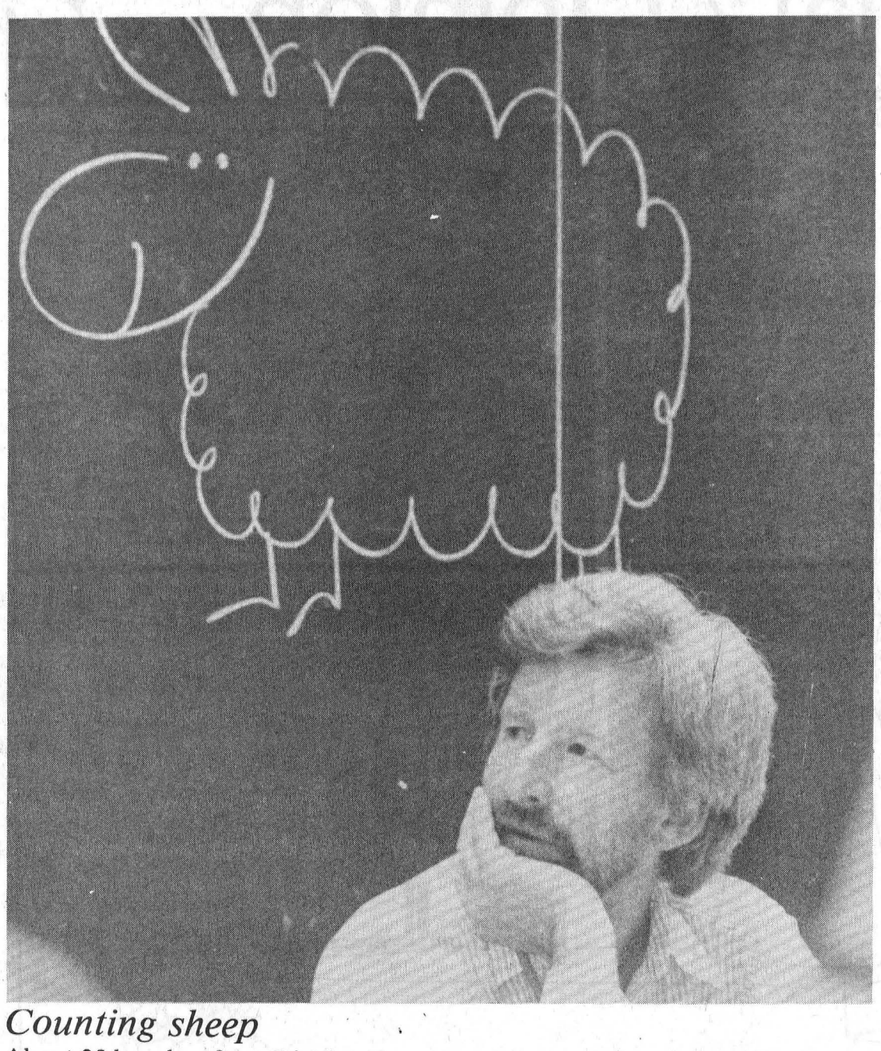
The purpose of a single desk auction for sheep breeders is "to give the producers a fair shake against the meat packers," MacAngus said.

He cited other organizational problems sheep breeders have. There are very few large sheep breeders in Ontario and no real standards for classifying sheep, he said.

Another problem Ontario sheep breeders face is that many butchers don't carry fresh locally produced lamb meat. Instead they prefer to buy imported meat from New Zealand and the United States. Less than 40 per cent of Canadian produced lamb satisfies domestic demand, MacAngus said.

Before the District 10 members debated the pros and cons of a single desk auction, five new district directors were elected. The producers also selected nine voting delegates to the annual provincial meeting this month.

Members will be closely monitoring the single desk electronic auction that was introduced for sheep breeders in Quebec earlier this fall, said Leclerc.



Counting sheep

About 25 breeders from District 10, an area that covers all the eastern counties including Grenville and the region of Ottawa-Carleton, attended a local sheep breeders' meeting on Oct. 27 at North Dundas District High School. Fred Baker, the provincial director from District 10 sat beneath an improvised logo at the meeting taking nominations for five new district directors and delegates to the annual provincial meeting this month.

Township unites rec. boards

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

BERWICK — Finch Township has decided to go for quality instead of quantity and amalgamate two Berwick recreation boards into one.

The township previously had one board to run the Berwick ball diamond and a separate board to look after the village's community hall. But at a recent meeting council decided it would be better to combine the two boards into one.

The two boards were created at different times because of the different construction dates of the hall and ball park. The hall was built in 1928 but the ball park wasn't built until the 1950s. The two have always been operated by two separate boards.

"It doesn't really matter to the township," said Clerk Treasurer Arnott Empey of the change. The only advatage for the township is it would have to give money to one board instead of two.

Having the one board will make it easier for the members. With the one board, less members will have to attend meetings to tend to the same amount of work. More work can then be delegated to subcommittees.

The board will have seven members, including representatives from council and from the local Women's Institute which provides funding for the hall.

Township Reeve Donald Shane said the job of running the hall and ball diamond isn't big enough to require two committees. He hopes the one committee will be able to effectively take care of both jobs.

"We hope everything goes together," he said. Members of the board are supposed to meet to pick committee members to help with work.

He said there wasn't much sense in having two boards to look after the hall and ball diamond. And having just one board may make it easier for funding, he said.

The ball park board looked after maintenance of the park while the hall board previously maintained the hall, rented it out and made arrangements for events.

THE CHESTERVILLE Record Editorial / Opinion

It seems the hue and cry over double digit municipal tax increases earlier this year have not fallen on deaf ears. Municipal councils throughout the area are continuing to tighten their figurative belts, looking for any way to cut costs for ratepayers.

There has never been such an interest in the actions of local municipal governments over the past few years as there has been this year. And the municipal council members can thank the province, the county school boards and the county councils for imposing tax levies which helped generate that interest.

The levies imposed by the school boards and county councils suffering from funding cutbacks themselves from the province, gave municipal councils no choice but to raise taxes anywhere from the low teens right to 17 per cent.

But the funding shortfalls have brought about a little bit of good along with the headaches they presented to area politicians. The cutbacks, along with the grim warning that the funding situation isn't going to get any better, have spurned municipal governments to keep a tighter hold than ever on their purse strings.

The new wave of consciousness in municipal accountability was seen at Chesterville Council last week when members refused another large increase for the cost of snow removal in the village. Instead of reluctantly approving the increase and justifying it by saying it was helping a local business, council bargained with the company providing the service, ending up with a six per cent, instead of nine per cent increase for taxpayers to foot.

At Osnabruck Township, council members have taken the previously unthought of step of getting price quotes from area accountants for their annual audit as well as quotes from banks for their services.

The move by council, a seemingly logical way to cut down on expenses, would have been unheard of in previous years where loyalty to one company would take precendence over cost cutting.

The township also underwent a staffing review this year to help cut costs by eliminating unnecessary jobs and to help the municipality run smoother and more efficiently. In previous years, streamlining their municipality would likely be one of the last things on a council's wish list.

Not to be outdone, Roxborough Township has also decided to embark on a personnel review and also have a review done of the township's financial situation.

No one is willing to say what spurred council to decide on the two reviews, but their outcomes are sure to have a positive effect on the township, whether they be recommendations for staffing changes or proposals to help the township manage its money better.

It is obvious that increased public scrutiny after the tax hikes of this spring has brought a new financial consciousness to area municipal governments. And new consciousness is something that will likely remain as the province continues to cutback on funding for schools, county governments and municipal governments.

The cutbacks and the resulting tax increases have also brought a new consciousness to members of the public in area municipalities; ratepayers burned by the tax hike of the spring who want to ensure their money is spent wisely to help soften the tax increase of the next year.

Accountability in municipal government is one thing the province has stressed it wants as it outlines reforms it wants made to county governments throughout the province.

It is certain that the message of accountability will also be passed on via their county council representatives to township and village councils as well. And at the least, the county governments will be an example to municipal governments.

It is evident that the way our municipal governments are run will change, and will have to continue to change, in order to cope with the increased pressures being placed on them, coupled with decreased provincial funding.

And the changes will inevitably bring about increased accountability to ensure each ratepayer's dollar is spent the best way possible. Ratepayers can ensure that their government be accountable to some degree, but ultimately it is up to the province to ensure municipalities are accountable to the public.

Any changes made to county and municipal governments should give openness and accountability high priority. They are two ingredients that are essential to operate an effective and efficient government.

09 From the Record Nov. 4, 1909

The Crown produced 13 witnesses and the defence 12 in the case of Isaac Garlough, charged with the murder of Ross Beckstead, near Dunbar, on May 13, at the assizes at Cornwall. The jury was out 15 minutes and returned a verdict of not guilty.

Beckstead's body was found in a field near the road, some distance from Garlough's house. The post-mortem showed that death was due to gunshot wounds to the head.

Struck by a freight train running 20 miles an hour, picked up on the cowcatcher, and carried 150 yards or so, without any further hurt than a shaking up, was the experience of Howard Grant on the C.P.R. near Apple Hill, the other day. Grant, stepping out of the way of a ballast train on one track, found himself in front of a through freight on the other. He did the only possible thing, and threw himself on the pilot. He was unconscious from the shock, but otherwise little injured when found by the engineer who stopped his train with the air brakes and reversed the engine.

United States Congress will be asked at the next session to investigate the rottenness of the customs service in New York.

29 From the Record Oct. 31, 1929

In giving the Ferguson government a mandate to administer the affairs for a third consecutive term, the people of Ontario gave the administration the strongest legislative representation ever accorded a government in the province. The sweeping victory, which exceeded the hopes of the most optimistic government supporters, was a ringing answer to the Prime Minister's declaration that he was willing to stake his political life on the government's policy of control and sale of liquor by the government -- the issue on which he was returned to power in the 1926 general election.

Last Thursday at the noon hour the large frame barn, 40 by 100 feet together with a shed 24 by 48 feet, and a large silo belonging to Mr. W.C. Glasgow, four miles west of Morewood, was totally destroyed by fire together with the season's crops and a number of fowl. The loss is estimated at over ten thousand dollars with $2,000 of insurance on the contents and an unstated amount on the buildings. All the stock was in the fields with the exception of one team of horses which was safely taken out.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held Tuesday afternoon in the Library Hall, a day earlier than usual on account of the room being used for a polling booth on Wednesday.

49 From the Record Nov. 3, 1949

One of the largest crowds yet to attend turned out for the annual meeting of the Chesterville Concentrated Milk Producers Association in the Community Hall, Wednesday night. Many questions were discussed dealing with the problem of the producers, excellent talks were listened to with good attention and the election of officers took place.

Fire of unknown origin late Saturday night destroyed buildings on the farm of Charles Shortt, four miles south-west of Chesterville. The loss was estimated at $4,000, only partially covered by insurance. Destroyed were a large frame barn and milk house and their contents: the season's hay, six hens, a set of harness and a milking machine. Also levelled was the small structure that housed a buggy, which was saved.

In celebration of Armistice Day next Friday, Nov. 11, members of the town and community are taking fitting steps to recall the debt we owe to our soldiers, living and dead.

The Chesterville W.I. is grateful to the general public for the generous support given the appeal for the blind on the occasion of the annual Tag Day and to the Editor of the Record for donation of advertisement.

69 From the Record Oct. 9, 1969

The regular meeting of the municipal council of the Township of Williamsburg was held Oct. 4 in the IOOF hall with all members present. Upon a motion of Hugh McMillan and Hubert Casselman the term for council was extended from two to three yeas, but will again in three years revert back to the two-year term. This was done to make the municipal elections fall due on the same years as the school elections.

Nearly 3000 walkers will set out on Saturday, Oct. 11, between the hours of 8 and 10 to walk for the new Finch arena. The Finch Lions Club is spearheading the walk along with many other interested groups and citizens as well as local high and public schools. Interest is very high for the important project. Walkers were asked to bring pledge sheets to Finch Community Hall where they will get their final instructions. The route will be marked out there and the finishing point is also back at the hall.

For the Record

Trick or treat

It's Lucky for us adults that children don costumes about once a year to scour their neighborhoods for a trick or a treat.

It's lucky, because in most cases the children are out seeking treats and if they did this all year, dentistry would be the most sought after profession.

What is unlucky for most adults is that while children don their masks once a year many of the goblins and witches of the political world like to have Halloween all year playing charades and coming up with ghoulish tricks like slashing Via rail or spooking the public with GST.

It almost sounds like a horror show, like the growing trend of releasing movies in the horror genre during the Halloween season.

When our public leaders hit the campaign trail we're always tricked into playing along with their masquerades and we're stuck with trying to find out who they really are or what they really represent.

Case in point, a shining knight in white armor in British Columbia who professes to be a man with Christian values, loving his fellow man. Then he drops his armored mask and he says something really shocking, a racist joke. It was so shocking that one caucus member felt she was grossed out by what was said and left. Another caucus member, whose race was the subject of this ghastly humour quit the party.

Closer to home, a closet (reading cabinet) full of goblins in Toronto have unleashed such fiendish acts of mayhem like budget cuts in education and health care.

Some of those goblins were embroiled in an eerie seance with the shining star of charitable organizations for less than Kosher reasons.

Over in Quebec, Count Bourassa is causing a fright, threatening to suck the life blood out of a nation over a witches brew called Meech Lake.

And the witches who concocted the wicked brew are casting spells on each other in a bid to change the recipe into the flavor of their choice.

With Canadians in general shaking off that nasty spell cast upon them by the first witches of the country it is quite possible that they may be able to avoid swallowing the bitter Meech Lake brew.

While the adult version of Halloween seems abundant on tricks and short on treats, the goblins, witches and counts of the political world do have to offer treats sometimes, even when they are not on the campaign trail. Those treats help re-enforce our conviction that they're not all bad.

Still, Halloween kids' style is a lot more fun, perhaps because it only comes once a year.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

November 1, All Saints' Day. November was the ninth month of the old Roman year, which began with March. And the 11th of November was held to mark the beginning of winter.

This thought is usually still uppermost in the minds of many who shiver noticeably through the Armstice Service each November 11th. It is rare year, indeed, that one has on that particular day one of those still sunny, Eastern Ontario hours when one is so glad of being alive.

The Anglo-Saxon name for November was 'Blotmonath' (blood month), the name alluding to the custom of slaughtering cattle about Martimas for winter consumption. As a rule this was a chore reserved for the same period on many Eastern Ontario farms, as well.

In fact, it was during that period, usually the coldest day of which, we undertook to kill and dress for the freezer the year-old hens who had ceased laying. This same type of fowl is now advertised in the supermarket as being excellent roasting fowl. And they are!

I decided over coffee at breakfast time that it was the day to prune some vines that threatened to choke the east side of the house. It was so cold, at first, that I wore my old duffel coat and thick gloves, with my toque pulled down over my forehead and close about my ears.

But, by the middle of the afternoon the sun shone warm, and the flies were flying about the brick wall, making a pleasant, sonorous hum that I enjoy hearing.

While I was at work a flock of sparrows came to rest in the hedge, very sociable and saucy, and later, two fat, weary-looking crows flew over, high up in the sky, complaining in a half-hearted sort of way.

About the same time, my neighbour Sam appeared, or I should say exclaimed for I heard him before I laid eyes on him,

"If there's ice in November that will bear a duck, There'll be nothing but sludge and muck."

I looked around and there he was perched on the bottom step of the ladder I had been using a short while ago. "Oh, Sam," I replied, "what a miserable thought...I don't like it."

"Don't care much one way or another," he continued, "I just came to borrow the wedge for chopping wood."

I wasn't sure, in fact I never was with Sam, whether he didn't care much what I thought, or whether he didn't care much whether his particular prophesy of the day came true. With the warm sun now on my back, I was willing to give him the benefit of the doubt.

"I'm just stopping for a coffee, so is the Farmer, he is working in the garage and will get you a wedge while I get the coffee."

We sat on three backless, old chairs in the garage, coffee mugs between our legs, eating extra-large muffins I had made before breakfast, quite as placid as the barn cats dozing in the sun.

"Been splittin' wood all morning," he said, between mouthfuls.

"What'd you use for a wedge then," I questioned. "Bet you got your own stuck in a big maple block and can't get it out," I laughed.

He didn't grace my needling with an answer, but took another muffin. When he finished it, a kind of stillness came over him: rest after labour. He has a kind, serene face, I thought.

He rose, picked up the wedge, and said to the Farmer, "I won't get it stuck in a block." At me, he glowered a bit, sucked in his breath and grinned and left.

"I can't figure out which of you is the worst," said the Farmer, returning to his work.

I went back outside to cut off the last rose I own. It must be a hardy one for the others have all given in to our fluctuating temperatures even though I winterized all of them in the same manner.

I like such days as these, good quiet days, simple things. I was reminded of a golden autumn day we spent recently following the trails at the G. Howard Ferguson Forest Station on the northern edge of the town of Kemptville.

This station was established in 1945 and honours a late Premier of Ontario and Kemptville resident, for his achievements in starting programs for forest conservation.

As we ate our lunch at one of the picnic tables provided for this purpose, we talked of how vital forest conservation is today, particularly in the light of our present day concerns with our environment.

We wondered, also, of how we could have lived in Eastern Ontario all our lives and never visited the station or enjoyed these lovel trails.

It was almost dark when we came home, and we were tired. We smelled the supper cooking, thanks to an oven timer, as soon as we opened the door - surely one of the good moments of life.

Afterwards I spent the evening reading as a large pile of papers and some magazines were piled by my chair. In the Farm Show tabloid, I came upon the following few paragraphs.

"You may have heard of the Tate family. They're in every organization.

There is Dic Tate who wants to run everything, Ro Tate is always trying the change things. Agi Tate stirs up trouble whenever possible with the help of Irri Tate who is always there to lend a hand every time a new idea is suggested.

Hesi Tate and Vegi Tate are there to say they can't possibly work but are more than willing to watch everybody else. Imi Tate just wants to copy other organizations and refuses to try anything new. Devas Tate loves to be interruptive and Potent Tate wants to be a big shot.

Thank goodness for Facili Tate, Cogi Tate and Medi Tate who always save the day and get everyone pulling together."

"Seasons of mists and mellow fruitfulness," Keats called autumn, "Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun," and so it is.

WDMH in sickly shape, says consultants

WINCHESTER — Winchester District Memorial Hospital is in sickly shape, and will need to raise about $2 million independently for a two-year general overhaul of the building's physical plant.

The bulk of funding for repairs, about $4 million, is expected to come from the Ministry of Health.

Consultants from the MOH and the private sector were brought in to diagnose the hospital's condition, and though one report is still out, James Egan, WDMH's exeuctive director, admitted the 41-year-old structure is largely unfit.

The building's ailments include:

- An out-of-date fire alarm and detection system, whose parts, though in working order, are obsolete and fail to comply with the Ontario Fire Code.

- Poor air filtration. The filtration unit in the operating rooms needs replacement, as does the hospital's general air handling ventilation unit.

- A rotting roof over the hospital's penthouse, which leaks into the mechanical room underneath. As well, repairs are needed to the centre core roof.

- A out-of-date mechanical gas system which transfers gases throughout the hospital (the location of shut-off valves, the size of lines and the length of areas where the lines are unaccessible, do not meet present guidelines).

- The plumbing system is in poor condition.

- The elevators need replacement parts, including new motors, new controllers and new door operators and fixtures.

- Separate lines for sanitary drainage and storm sewer drainage are needed to prevent leakage.

Egan would not say the $2 million could be raised, stating, "the hospital will have to be very innovative, so we're looking at as many groups, as many governments, as many individuals as possible."

Egan said the hospital has also been undergoing "remedial" repairs which could not wait the expected three to six months for guarantees of provincial funding.

Among work already completed is the installation of a temporary electrical line, the replacement of portable x-ray circuits in operating rooms, and the elimination of flooding in the x-ray room.

During the summer, one of the x-ray rooms was closed for two weeks to repair constant flooding. Dr. Ray Dawes, vice-president of the medical staff, admitted some x-ray procedures had to be delayed.

But Egan stressed, the hospital's condition and current repairs do not inconvenience or endanger patients, staff or visitors.

Repairs to be complete within the next two months include the replacement and rewiring of sump pumps and feed water pumps, the replacement of a 1,500 litre hot water heater for the dietary department, and an installation of a temporary filter box in the operating rooms.

Egan said the costs of all remedial action is being covered by the hospital's capital account and no money was being transferred from the operating budget.

In order to avoid future deteriorations, Egan said the hospital has taken a number of steps, including developing a preventative maintenance program, the recruitment of a fully qualified electrician, greater use of consultants and increased communication with MOH officials.

Egan said the MOH does not normally reimburse work already completed by the hospital, but he is hoping for an exception in WDMH's case.

Though the list of repairs is extensive, Egan said in his opinion, there is no chance the hospital would be closed down. However, there is no guarantee the MOH will agree to pay for any or all repairs.

"I can only say that I am extremely optimistic that we are going to have (the project) accepted," commented Egan.

Egan would not say whether any of the hospital's problems could have been avoided, stating, "the hospital's focus is on the present and on the future."

Dawes, however pointed out, "hospital budgets have always been a problem." He said poor funding, "perhaps made it necessary to repair things in a way that was not long lasting."

Egan said he began a standard review of the hospital when he took over as administrator in February. He said concerns were brought forward in an internal report, then tabled in front of the hospital's board of governors. The board agreed to commission consultants this June at a cost of about $55,000.

Financial review routine

reviews was routine and were not prompted by personnel problems or financial problems. Neither decision was made because of any "possible wrongdoing", Montcalm said Tuesday.

He said the financial review may determine if the township can acquire a PRIDE government grant it is hoping for. And the review will let the township know its financial situation before the next budget. "Our next budget is going to be very important."

He said the personnel review is being undertaken to determine if the township needs extra staff with upcoming expansion in the municipality. "Do we need extra staff or do we not?"

He said Ron Symington, township bylaw enforcement officer, has resigned his petition, keeping only his job as drainage superintendent and building official.

But he stressed once again personnel problems weren't the reason for the review. "There are no personnel problems in Roxborough Township."

He said council had their discussions in private because there have been no public meetings on the Moose Creek and Monkland water projects, nor has an engineers report been presented yet.

"I think it's a step within the process with these mega projects," he said.

Reeve Donald Cumming said neither the personnel review or the financial review are unusual steps for a municipality to take. The personnel study is to determine with "we are within our bounds" for staffing, he said. And the financial review "is just an update to see how we're coming in the years."

He said the reviews were requested by the municipality, not ordered by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs.

Township Clerk Treasurer Eddie Wright said Monday he didn't know why council decided on a personnel review. "I don't know where that came from. They (Council members) just passed a resolution. I don't have any idea of what that's going to be doing."

He said he assumed the review would examine the workload of employees, but said that was only an assumption. "They certainly haven't told me what it is."

He said he was a little more clear on the reason for the financial review. In "a round about way" the review is to determine how much money the township can borrow for the Moose Creek water and sewer project, he said.

Inquest

accident while Plouffe received minor injuries.

A sample of blood taken from Villeneuve, the driver of the car, revealed he had been drinking the night of the accident but was not over the legal limit. The wrecked car also checked by the Ministry of Transportation for mechanical failure.

The fatal crash spurred calls by one resident living near the curve for more safety measures. Stan Goodman said shortly after the accident that improved warning signs and guard rails could have prevented the accident as well as others that have occurred in the past.

The Ontario Provincial Police have conceded the curve does need a driver's "full attention" but have maintained the curve was not the cause of the crash.

The five youths had left Avonmore and were heading back to Moose Creek, but turned and headed back to Avonmore just before the accident early on the Sunday morning.

IN MEMORIAMS

IN MEMORIAM

MERKLEY — In loving memory of my dear wife Florence Barkley, who passed away Oct. 22, 1988.

When I am sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong.
I seem to hear you whisper
Cheer up and carry on.
Each time I look at your picture
You seem to smile and say,
Don't cry I'm only sleeping
We'll meet again someday.

Sadly missed and always remembered by husband
Geo. Arthur Merkley
11

IN MEMORIAM

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear father Lorne.

We wish so much that life could be
Just as it were before.
That you'd be in your favorite chair
When we came through the door.
But since these special dreams of ours
Can never now come true.
We'll just be grateful for the years
We had a Dad like you.

Remembered always by,
Lynda and Mike

Osnabruck votes down Ingleside development proposal

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — A Newington man has been refused permission to purchase land to build a truck stop, motel and freight yard in Osnabruck Township's industrial park.

At a meeting last Monday, council voted down a proposal by three votes to two to sell approximately four acres of the commercially zoned land north of Ingleside to Ray Smith for $3,000 an acre. Township Reeve Stewart Hart cast the deciding vote against the proposal.

The offer was the same price as one accepted by council earlier in the month from David Brown Environmental Services to establish a hazardous waste storage site in the park. Council rescinded the motion approving the proposal under pressure from about 150 ratepayers, at a meeting last Monday night.

Smith said the rejection of his proposal by council came as a surprise. He said he was put off by the setback, but added he will look for land elsehwere for the development.

"I'm not disappointed. I'm surprised, but not disappointed," he said after council's decision.

Smith told council his development would generate jobs for the township and also add to the commercial tax base, putting more money in the township coffers.

But the benefits of the development weren't enough to convince all council members it was a good proposal.

"I'm not disappointed. I'm surprised, but not disappointed."

Ray Smith
Newington resident

Township Reeve Stewart Hart said he would want $20,000 for it but wouldn't want a truck stop at the industrial park for any price. He said a truck stop would generate too much traffic coming into the village and could increae traffic accidents.

"The traffic will be hazardous there," he said. "I just can't see it."

Smith contended his development wouldn't increase traffic coming into the village, just capitalize on traffic already there. His business will use increased truck traffic from a planned expansion at Kraft Foods Ltd. and will also draw trucks from the nearby Thompson Transport Ltd. trucking company.

"You can't legislate life or dangerous circumstances, because it happens," he told council. He added his offer was being turned down not on fact but because of the personal preferences of council.

He told council the land is already zoned for his type of development and questioned that if it had such a zoning why would council reject such a proposal.

Councillor Donald McElheran said although the land is zoned for commercial development, it is to be developed at the discretion of council. He reminded Smith that Brown's hazardous waste site proposal also fell under the lands zoning bylaws but was rejected by council.

Smith replied if council could get 200 people in the townshp chambers voicing opposition to his proposal, he would then drop the issue.

Township Deputy Reeve Carson Elliott said council's inability to find the right type of development for the lands shows clear guidelines need to be set for potential developments. Developers need to know what type of propositions the land is open for and at what price, he told council.

"We have nothing to sell when we stop and think of it," he said.

But Councillor Jim Bancroft said he disagreed with Elliott's proposal. There is already a list of purposes designated for the land in the industrial park but it is ultimately up to council to decide if it wants a development, he said.

Asked by Elliott what type of development he would like to see in the industrial park, Bancroft would only say he wanted to see proposals put forward at the council table. But he added, he wasn't in favor of a truck stop.

The township has 200 acres of industrial land zoned for industrial and commercial use and it should make use of it, Smith said.

"Any commercial property is going to generate traffic. Any industrial park is going to generate traffic," he said.

Councillor Donald McElheran said that the price offered was just too low for such a valuable property. "I really feel that at that price, we may as well give it away," he told Smith.

But Smith said council should be almost willing to give the land away in order to get industry. Some municipalities located in less favorable locations are making major concessions on their industrial land in order to attract industry, he said.

"I really feel that at that price, we may as well give it away."

Donald McElheran
Osnabruck Township Councillor

He told council he was given the impression at a previous meeting that if he had a proposal which fit the members' guidelines, it would be approved. "If I misunderstood, I'd like to know about it," he said.

Councillor Gordon Ross said he "could live with" Smith's proposal of roughly $3,000 an acre, provided council only pay for the survey of the lots and the severance of the land.

Smith ran unsuccessfully for a position as councillor on township council last fall. He is also one of two township residents involved with a petition requesting a full audit be done on township spending.

The call for an audit was made after an audit of township road department budgets discovered discrepanices which are now being investigated by the OPP.

The township road superintendent Blair Watson resigned Aug. 28 and the audit was called Sept. 7. The OPP began investigating the alleged discrepancies Sept. 13.

Agricultural zoning opposed

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

MAPLE RIDGE — A delegation of seven Ormond residents have voiced their opposition to an amendment to the proposed Winchester Township official plan which could affect development of their hamlet.

The planners J.L. Richards and Associates, put in the amendment to keep a portion of the hamlet zoned for agricultural use based on the recommendations of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF). Although it was just a recommendation, OMAF recommendations carry a lot of weight, said Bruce Finlay, a consultant for J.L. Richards.

The delegation, led by Ormond resident Ken Straby, told council at a public meeting Monday night, that the hamlet's residents want the zoning amendment changed back to the way it was in the plan's first draft.

The township is having an official plan drawn up to act as a blueprint for the township's future development. At the same time the plan carries provisions that protect agricultural land and conserve wetlands.

The residents of the tiny hamlet north of Winchester were upset by the Ministry of Agriculture and Food's objection to the plan to designate land in the hamlet's southwest corner for residential development. The land, which is now zoned rural is considered by the ministry as prime agricultural land.

However, residents disputed this claim saying the land isn't even fit to grow trees. "We tried it, but they died. They won't live," said Straby. The owner himself, Tony Tun, confirmed at the meeting that his land was strewn with rocks.

According to Straby the land is being leased to a farmer who has unsuccessfully tried to grow corn there. "None of the land is terrific around here. It's thin soil," he said.

Winchester Township Reeve Claude Cousineau suggested to the delegation that representatives from OMAF should be called in to meet with the delegates at the next meeting and to give them a chance to look at the land in question.

Cousineau stressed that council didn't like the amendment to the plan either. "We were just as surprised as you were when we got the comments (from OMAF)" he said.

After the meeting Straby expressed satisfaction with Cousineau's suggestion. "They're listening," he said.

During the meeting he made it clear that the Ormond residents weren't opposed to development in Ormond. "We're in favor of that. We expect it to grow, but we want some say in it," he said.

When the first draft of the township's official plan was put together in the summer it included a provision that would allow residential development in the hamlet's southwest corner.

Bruce Finlay, the consultant who is with J.L. Richards and Associates Limited, the firm that is preparing the township's official plan, stood by his preference to have the hamlet's zoning remain as it was designated in the original draft.

Finlay argued that allowing residential development in Ormond's southwest would keep the hamlet compact and square shaped at the intersection of the two roads that pass through it.

He conceded that OMAF's counter-proposal to have the hamlet's boundary extended eastward for residential development sounded like a good trade off considering it was twice the size of the area in the hamlet's southwest corner.

But Straby and the other residents argued in favor of a hamlet that would be compactly developed as was proposed in the plan's official draft.

The Ormond residents were also unhappy with the way they found out about the change to the plan. It was revealed during the last planning meeting Oct. 4. "It was dragged out quietly," said Straby.

But Cousineau maintained that both previous public meetings were advertised in local newspapers.

Cousineau promised that the public would be informed of any new developments in the plan but at the same time he complained that not enough people were showing interest in the planning meetings. "We want the public here, we tried to drag them out, but they won't come," he said.

FCC lowering interest rates

OTTAWA — Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) Friday announced lower interest rates on most of its loans. Lower funding costs for these types of loans enables FCC to pass on the benefits of reduced interest rates to its farming clientele.

The rate on loans with a fixed five-year term has declined a quarter of a percentage point, from 12.25 to 12 per cent. The rates on loans with terms of 10 and 15 years or more, have fallen a quarter of a point, from 12 to 11.75 per cent. Farm Syndicate Loans, which have a term of five years and are used for the joint purchase of machinery and buildings, have also declined a quarter of a point, from 12.25 to 12 per cent.

Because of the continuing high cost of short-term borrowing, the rate for FCC's Shared-Risk Mortgage (SRM) has increased a quarter point, from 12.75 to 13 per cent. However, the SRM permits the borrower to share equally with the Corporation the benefits and costs related to fluctuating interest rates.

As of October 27, 1989, the following rates apply: Shared-Risk Mortgage, 13 per cent; Five-year fixed term, 12 per cent; 10-year fixed term, 11.75 per cent; 15-year fixed term, 11.75 per cent; Farm Syndicate Loans, 12 per cent.

Bazaar fiddlers

Former Canadian fiddle champion Roma MacMillan, right, was joined by The Mostly Bows at Saturday's hospital Auxiliary bazaar that raised more than $5,000 for the health care facility's needed renovations. MacMillan and her group entertained the audience throughout the afternoon with their unique country sound.

Hospital bazaar nets $5,000

MAPLE RIDGE — What a difference a year makes.

The Winchester Hospital Auxiliary's bazaar, Saturday was blessed with summer-like temperatures to make organizers forget the winter storm that kept visitors away from the annual affair a year ago.

Auxiliary president Gail Van Noy estimated more than 500 people walked through the doors at North Dundas District High School to take in the country fair atmosphere.

Van Noy estimated more than $5,000 was raised Saturday, up from last year's $4,300, for the hospital's renovation fund.

"It was very successful," she said. "I was overwhelmed by the tremendous co-operation received from everyone involved."

In keeping with tradition this year's version adopted a "country fair" teme.

Roma MacMillan and The Mostly Bows entertained the bargain seekers throughout the afternoon with their unique country sound. MacMillan, who was an earlier hospital office manager, was also a Canadian fiddle champion and her band featured several former students.

The school's gymnasium was packed with booths featuring crafts, baked goods and used books. Muriel's Flowers were back again this year with their demonstrations and Dundas Dairy Princess, Debbie Cooper, was on hand to promote various dairy products.

The money was raised for the auxiliary through the sale of the baked goods and crafts. A 50-50 draw, which netted the auxiliary $700, was won by Winchester's Eletha Williams.

Van Noy noted that the unsold craft items from the bazaar are now on sale at the hospital's gift shop.

East Ont. WI attracts 255 to convention

OTTAWA — A total of 255 women attended the Eastern Ontario Women's Institute seventy-fourth annual convention held at the Talisman Hotel, Ottawa, Oct. 16, 17. The theme of the convention was Women and Environment.

The following ladies attended from Stormont: Irene Casselman, Lois Dillabough, Jessie Ouderkirk, Joan Poapst, Mary Nugent, Betty Neville, Leitha Casselman, Rita Gallinger, Merle Dame, Rhea Terhorst, Luella Robinson and Ivy Langston.

The following resolutions were passed: 1. destroying PCB's; 2. more legible print be used by pharmacists when they fill prescriptions; and 3. more funding for social agencies to help child abuse children and to educate the public in all elements of child abuse.

Other resolutions were: 4. more health support persons for hospital patients; 5. reduction in packaging; 6. to stop the use of styrofoam and plastic containers for meats and vegetables sold in stores.

The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario consider themselves a driving force to clean up the environment, soil depletion and erosion, acid precipitation, chlorfluorcarbons, depletion of natural resources, water quality, wilful destruction of trees, loss of habitat are their voiced concerns are all problems.

They feel action should be taken to treat soil as a living system, to reduce nitrogen-oxide emissions, to work to ban chlorofluorcarbon, to use efficient home appliances, check quality of water, plant trees and help create a safe environment. As a result the institutes would share the following benefits: sustainable agriculture, clean air, safe ozone layer, limited use of non-renewable resources, and clean water for all.

The banquet guest speaker gave a very interesting and practical talk on positive thinking. By being positive one's body works better, thinks better, memory improves, while negative thinking cripples.

To develop healthy minds you should like yourself, forget the negative and dwell on the positive, respect themselves as uch as they respect their best friend, surround themselves with "green light" people not "red light", laugh at themselves and things around them, get involved in crafts, music, etc., live life as if it were your last day, enjoy what you're doing when doing it.

Sharing is key to water and sewer project

CRYSLER — Finch Township is hoping a little neighborly sharing could work to its advantage for a water and sewage project in Crysler.

Township council recently met with representatives from neighboring Cambridge Township which is embarking on a similar project for the town of St. Albert, near Crysler.

The two township councils hope that their location and timing of their water and sewage projects could mean some saved money through shared services.

The sewage lagoons for the two municipalities projects will be directly across from each other, adjacent to a boundary road running between the two townships.

Finch Township Reeve Donald Shane said the location of the two lagoons could mean the cost of upkeep of road running to the lagoons could be shared. The two townships also may be able to share contractors for the pumping out of the lagoons to further cut costs.

"Other than that, that will be it," Shane said. "I don't think that'll be that big of a saving," he added. But he said it will cut some costs.

Engineers working on the project are hoping construction to be completed on the water and sewer project in 1991. Shane said that although the project has been slow to come to fruition, it is starting to move along quicker.

"We'd like to see it go faster," he said. But he added: "It seems to be improving very good now."

George Assaff of Kostuch Engineering, said the firm is nearly finished with the environmental study report for the lagoon. After the report is complete, there will be a 30 day public review. The report will be accepted after the review provided there are no "serious concerns", he said.

If there is a major concern stated by an agency or person about the report, "this has to be addressed", he said. But it generally is the job of the report to address all the public concerns before it is completed. The firm hopes to have the report completed by February.

Assaff said he hopes to have the project design done in 1990 with actual construction beginning in 1991. "It's been a lengthy project. A lot longer than we would have expected it to take," he said.

But he said the main reason for the delays is a large number of procedural steps that have to be taken for the project. "They are a lengthy process," he said. "There are a lot of procedures."

What make the projects so time consuming is the amount of review that goes into each stage, with the submission of each report to the Ministry of Environment.

"You have to go step by step. You're not allowed to go ahead of yourselves," he said.

Shane said a public meeting will likely be held to discuss the project either in December or the first of next year.

He said the lagoon for the sewage project was held up temporarily while the township searched for more land. More land was needed for another "cell" for the lagoon to increase its capacity.

The capacity of the lagoon needed to be increased because of new rules allowing them to be pumped out only once a year instead of twice a year. But the township is getting more land and it appears the lagoon will receive ministry approval, Shane said.

Township Clerk Treasurer Arnott Empey said it is normal for water and sewer projects such as Crysler's to take six to seven years for completion. "They're all the same."

A good water source has already been found for a communal well for the village, and the township has taken an option out on the land for the lagoon, he said.

CLASS ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT for SEWERAGE WORKS AND TREATMENT LAGOON

Including:
• New Sanitary Sewers in the Village of Moose Creek
• Outfall Sewer to Pump Station and Lagoon

M.O.E. Project 3-0531
PUBLIC COMMENT NOW BEING ACCEPTED
Notification Date: November 1, 1989

As a requirement under Ontario's Environmental Assessment Act, the Township of Roxborough hereby notifies all interested individuals and parties that subject to the comments received as a result of this Notice and the receipt of other approvals as necessary, the Township of Roxborough intends to proceed with the planning, design and construction of the above-mentioned project.

The main purpose of the Sewerage Works and Treatment Lagoon Project is to correct pollution problems with existing individual sewage disposed systems. The works include:

• Construction of sanitary sewers in existing streets in the Village of Moose Creek
• Construction of an outfall sewer and pumping station south of the Village
• Construction of a new Treatment Lagoon and outlet to Moose Creek

The total cost of the proposed project is estimated at 2.75 million. Construction is tentatively scheduled for 1990 and 1991 as is dependent on Ministry funding. The project is eligible for 85% subsidy.

An engineering report on the Sewerage Works and Treatment Lagoon for the Village of Moose Creek, was completed in October, 1989.

The report summarizes background data, the results of field investigations, assesses alternatives for a communal sewage collection system and recommends an appropriate work programme. A schedule and capital plan is presented; both approved and supported by Township Council.

To see a copy of the October, 1989, Engineering and Environmental Assessment Report, or for further information, contact:

The Corporation of the Township of Roxborough
P.O. Box 189
MOOSE CREEK, Ontario, K0C 1W0
Office Hours: 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., 1:00 to 4:30 p.m.
Telephone: (613) 538-2531

A Public Information Session will be held at the Moose Creek Community Hall on Wednesday, November 15, 1989, between 3:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m., regarding the above mentioned project.

Interested individuals and parties have until Thursday, November 30, 1989 to comment on these proposals. Comments must be made in writing and must be received at the Municipal Office by 4:00 p.m. on the above date.

If any concerns regarding this project cannot be resolved, a person/party may request that the Minister of the Environment "bump-up" the projects to an individual environmental assessment. Bump-up requests must be received by the above date and submitted to the address below. If there are no concerns expressed by the above date, the proposed undertakings will proceed.

Kilger's GST protest gathering steam

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — A four-town name gathering drive against the federal government's proposed nine per cent Goods and Services Tax netted 540 signatures in Dundas County Friday.

But organizers of the drive which wrapped up in Chesterville Friday afternoon say what was even more reassuring was the small number of people who actually refused to sign a petition.

In Chesterville, the drive, organized by Stormont-Dundas federal Liberal MP Bob Kilger, only received three or four negative reactions, according to Glenn Bradbury, Kilger's parliamentary assistant.

In three other towns in the country, Morrisburg, Winchester and Iroquois, the positive reaction to the petition similarly outweighed the negative reaction.

Bradbury said he feels the number of names garnered against the GST Friday accurately reflects strong negative reaction in the country to the government's proposed tax.

The tax, if approved by the government, would apply to most goods and services used by Canadians. The present manufacturers sales tax, although higher, applies to a smaller amount of goods.

Bradbury said contact with residents Friday show they are well informed about the proposed tax, and they don't like it. "They sign it because they feel like they're against it," he said.

"They're fed up with it basically. They don't like the idea of taxing just about everything that walks and moves."

But although the Liberals say they want the tax scrapped, some residents are hoping the government will compromise on the issue instead.

"With everyone wanting the services, they've got to get the money," Marion Lynch told Kilger Friday. She said maybe if the government dropped the tax down to eight per cent, more people would be in favor of it.

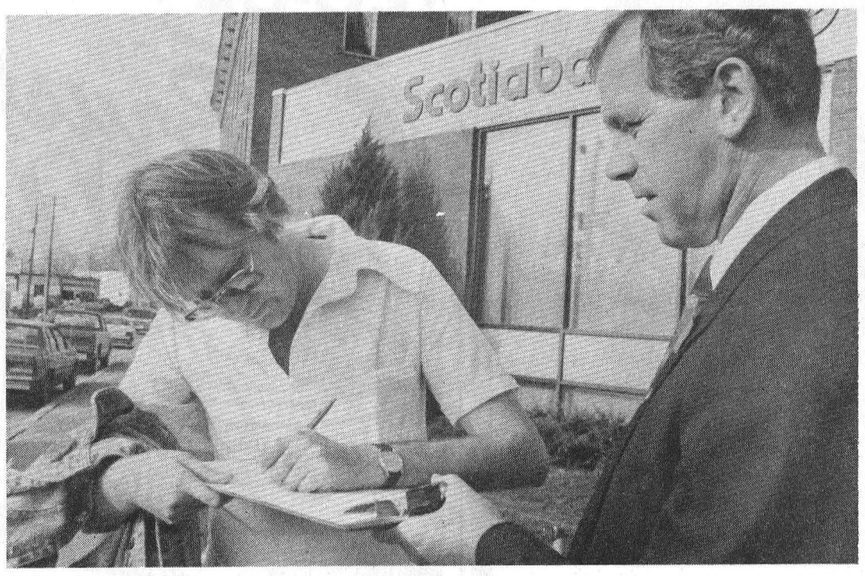
Kilger said he was pleased with the reaction to the petition drive, adding residents appreciated getting a chance to voice their concerns.

He said although there were some people who differed on the issue, most were "far from reluctant" to sign the petitions.

And if there is enough interest, a public meeting, similar to a town hall meeting on the tax in Cornwall Monday night, may be held, Kilger said.

"It's only the beginning, if you will, sort of thing," he said. When the legislation is actually introduced into Parliament, there will be even more reaction, he said.

The "fundamental objective" of the petition drive is to give people a chance to express their concerns about the tax, he said. After that, the ball will be in the Conservative government's court.



No to GST

David Lapierre of Chesterville, (left) was one of 540 Dundas County residents who put their name on a petition against the federal government's proposed Goods and Service tax Friday. Kilger and two staff members were in Chesterville, Winchester, Morrisburg and Iroquois gathering names against the proposed tax. Kilger said he is pleased with the reaction against the tax he received in the county.

The Conservatives can easily pass the legislation with their majority government, but Kilger hopes party members will heed concerns voiced about the tax.

If enough pressure is put on the government, it may decide to back down from its proposal, like it did during its first term when it tried to de-index seniors pensions. "That's the best we can hope for sort of thing," he said.

The Liberals, as well as people across Canada, are opposed to the tax for a number of reasons, Kilger said. The main concern is that low income and middle income families will be hard hit with the tax.

A nine per cent tax on almost all goods and services in the country will provide "a sizeable chunk of dough," he said. "They (Canadian residents; are going to be left with less disposable income," he said.

It has been estimated the tax will increase inflation by two points, causing more unemployment and affecting interest rates. And the tax will also cause more paperwork for farmers and small business, he said.

Osnabruck hires auditor to trim township expenses

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Osnabruck Township Council has hired itself a new auditing firm in an effort to trim expenses.

Council hired Morrisburg accounting firm Blakely, Craig and Company as its auditor at a meeting last Monday night for a saving of about $10,000.

Osnabruck Deputy Reeve Carson Elliott said council had examined the option of tendering for an auditing firm in discussions about six months ago. Requesting price quotes from different auditors and banks were two things discussed to save money for the township, Elliott said.

The last audit of the municipality cost ratepayers $21,000. Under the firm of Blakely and Craig, the annual audits will cost between $7,900 and $11,000 each year for the next three years, roughly half the cost of previous audits.

The Morrisburg firm replaces the previous firm Touche Ross, of Cornwall, which the township has used as auditors for the past number of years.

Council made the decision to change auditors despite a warning from councillor Gordon Ross that it may be interpreted by the public as a sign the previous auditors weren't doing their job properly.

And Councillor Donald McElheran said with all the negative publicity and lack of faith in accountability in the township, it may be better not to have an auditor at all.

But Elliott said Sunday night he believed the council decision to be a good one. "I think it probably was a wise move," he said.

A shortfall in provincial funding, coupled with increased county government and school levies this year spurred council to look for ways to cut costs, Elliott said.

No snow job for village

CHESTERVILLE — When it came to bargaining, Chesterville councillors were no pushovers last Tuesday night.

Council renewed a snow removal contract with Jack Durant Farm Services approving a six per cent hike in equipment rental fees, at the Oct. 24 meeting.

But the approval came only after some tough bargaining between Deputy Reeve Roger Cole and Dennis Fife of Jack Durant Farm Services.

The firm, which was responsible for snow removal in Chesterville last winter, initially submitted a contract proposal two weeks ago with rental rate increases averaging nine per cent.

Last year the village paid about $3,200 for snow removal. Council decided at the Oct. 10 meeting that this year's increases were too high and had Fife attend last Tuesday's meeting.

Fife agreed to lower the rental increases on most of the nine pieces of equipment that will be available for snow removal.

Reeve Jim Cook told Fife at the meeting that the proposed nine per cent increase coupled with last year's 10 per cent increase amounted to a 19 per cent hike over two years. He added that he thought this year's proposed increase was too high.

Cook later was pleased that council was able to bring the increase down to six per cent. "I'm satisfied with the negotiation. If we hadn't been satisfied, we could have gone to tender," he said.

The contract for snow removal wasn't tendered this year because only Fife's firm had submitted a tender last year which was renewable this year.

This year's contract, which will be renewable again next year also included an increase in the minimum number of hours to four, for the use of some pieces of equipment can be used for.

Fife justified the increase saying that it wasn't worthwhile for the operators to get up in the middle of the night to go plowing for just a couple of hours.

The four hour minimum will be in effect for the rental of four pieces of equipment. There is a three hour and two hour minimum for the other snow removal equipment.

The retainer fee for one piece of equipment went up by more than 50 per cent while another remained the same as last year.

The bargaining session was relaxed, and with Cole handling the calculator, council was able to settle on increases that were close to the rate of inflation.

Both sides seemed to take the bargaining in stride. At one point Cole said to Fife, "I'm not trying to drive a hard bargain." Then after a moment's hesitation he added, "well, yes I am."

Village gets efficient lights

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The final hurdle to installing energy efficient streetlights in Chesterville was overcome Oct. 24 when council approved borrowing money to pay for the installation.

The village's 189 existing mercury vapour lights are to be replaced with high pressure sodium lights next month, said Reeve Jim Cook.

The new sodium lights are expected to save the village $4,000 in hydro bills annually because they use less electricity than the mercury vapour lights.

Replacing the lights will cost the village $36,000, but with the annual savings, the cost will be payed back just under 7 years, according to village estimates.

The streetlight conversion program is being promoted by the Ontario Ministry of Energy and Hydro Ontario as part of a pilot project to have municipalities in Eastern Ontario convert to energy efficient streetlighting.

Under the program, municipalities are offered incentives to take part in the program. Chesterville is borrowing $36,000, interest free, to pay for the conversion. That money will be repaid over seven years with the annual savings of $4,000, while the Ministry of Energy picks up the interest.

The contract to install the lights was awarded in July to HDR Power Ltd., a firm based in Greely.

Cook anticipates the hydro firm will begin replacing the lights within the next two weeks. "We have given them the green light to go ahead with it," said Cook.

However, he wasn't sure when the replacement would be finished. It depends on how many work crews they use, he said.

Initially Cook predicted the new lights would be installed in September, but the paperwork involved in getting the project under way took longer than he thought.

Approval from both the Ministry of Energy and the Ontario Municipal Board was needed and the village was also involved in negotiating the loan with a bank, he said.

"We were ready to go as soon as all the paper work was in place," he added.

The new lights, when installed, will be orange in color, as opposed to white, the color of the mercury vapour lights. The Ministry of Energy is spending $1.5 million to implement the pilot project.

The project, which is being undertaken in selected areas of northeastern and eastern Ontario, could result in the conversion of 25,000 streetlights.

The ministry estimates that 4 megawatts of electricity, roughly the equivalent of the annual electrical consumption in Chesterville, could be saved with the conversions.

Local Liberals undecided on leader

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

WINCHESTER — The jury is still out among local Liberal supporters on the prospects of Lasalle-Emard MP Paul Martin junior for head of the federal Liberal party.

Local Liberal supporters at a recent Stormont-Dundas Liberal Association meeting in which Martin headlined as speaker, say they like what they heard from the leadership hopeful, but they are still uncertain on whether he is leadership material.

"I like him. He is certainly a new face," said association vice-president Jack McIntosh of Winchester. He said he was mostly impressed by Martin's speaking style. "I think he was very emotional. I was pleased."

But he said it is still too far from the party leadership convention to decide who he wants as leader. He has been the area's voting delegate at conventions the past three times and may represent the area again for this convention.

He said Martin had "a lot of good things" to say at the fund-raising dinner, especially on the environment. He agreed it is time politicians got tough on cleaning up the environment.

"We've got to face it. We can't hide our faces in the sand," he said.

"I like him. He is certainly a new face."
Jack McIntosh
Vice-president of the Stormont-Dundas Liberal Assocation

He also agreed with Martin's claim there is a desperate need for unity in Canada. The east and west are being paid back for not voting Conservative and all the government's attention instead is being placed on Ontario and Quebec, he said.

But Martin could get a run for his money if former Pierre Trudeau supporter Jean Chretien also enters the race, he said. Chretien, slated to speak in Cornwall Dec. 1, has a lot of charisma and may garner a lot of support in bilingual areas such as the city of Cornwall.

"I think it will be a good race," he said, adding he thinks both Martin and Chretien will wait to the very last minute to officially enter the race.

McIntosh said he isn't a "Chretien supporter as such", but added he does have an "open mind" about potential leadership candidates.

Robert Lamb of Winchester, who was also at the recent Martin speech, said he is impressed with any person who steps out of the business world to get into politics. But he wasn't sure if Martin would be his number one choice for new party leader.

"I don't know if he's my number one choice. I guess I always hope someone will sort of fall out of the sky," he said.

But anyone who leaves the business world to take the abuse, the hours and the frustration of Canadian politics, must be sincere about his efforts. "You know he's certainly not in it for the dollars."

Another asset Martin has is he is bilingual, but is a Franco-Ontarian, not a Quebec francophone, which may garner him more support in Ontario, Lamb said.

He said Martin has good ideas. But he added: "You know everyone's got ideas. You can't change ideas overnight."

Marcel Legault of Moose Creek, said he was impressed with Martin's speech, but he isn't ready to endorse the 51-year-old Windsor native as his favorite for leadership of the party yet.

He said one thing that impressed him about Martin was he was honest about what he would do if he became party leader. But he added, if he does become leader, "I hope he lives up to what he said."

He was also impressed with Martin's speaking ability. "He is alright," he said. "I find the more he talks in public, the better he is getting."

If the Lasalle-Emard MP is actually going to run for the party leadership, area Liberal supporters will likely have more than just this one speaking opportunity to judge him on, he said. If he is running, area supporters will hear much more from him in the future.

Chesterville 4-H meets for fall project

CHESTERVILLE — On September 19, the Chesterville 4-H club met for its first meeting of its fall project -- Good Foods Fast. The club was on preparing good nutritious meals and snacks quickly with the emphasis on the use of the microwave.

Mrs. Szini and Mrs. Hoople welcomed us to 4-H and, following the recital of the 4-H pledge, all 15 members introduced themselves. After playing a game using the four food groups the club picked its officers: President, Karen Parker; Vice-President, Rhonda McMillan; Secretary, Theresa St. Denis and News Reporter, Carolyn Smirle.

The name selected for the club was Neat Nukers. After preparing popcorn with sour cream and taco flavorings members enjoyed eating it and closed the meeting.

The second meeting, on Sept. 26, was held at Mrs. Szini's home. After opening with the 4-H pledge, members compared the advantages and disadvantages of convenience foods versus home-made foods. Dividing into groups, members made macaroni and cheese, biscuits and easy pancakes.

Members also tried vegetable chowder which had been prepared ahead in addition to the food they had made. Plans were made to hold future meetings at the Legion Hall and the United Church Hall.

The 4-H pledge opened the third meeting, held in the Legion Hall. "Taking the Mystery Out of Microwaving" was the topic of this meeting. The S'mores, Spudweisers and Meatloaf in a Nug that members prepared in the microwave were enjoyed when the bookwork was finished. Following cleanup the meeting was closed.

The fourth meeting of the Neat Nukers was held in the United Church Hall. Members' book work on "Make it Snappy" was about meal planning. Members split into three groups of five each to prepare Pizza Style Frittata, Fast Fixin' Salad and Thousand Island Dressing. Mrs Szini brought the Make Ahead Meat Sauce which members used in the Tex-Mex Chili. Members enjoyed the food and the clean-up crew did a good job.

The club's fifth meeting, on Oct. 17 at the Legion Hall, opened with the 4-H pledge. Members learned the proper dishes to use in the microwave and compared three samples of cooking utensils.

After learning about reheating, defrosting and other facts members prepared foods for the evening; Parmesan Chicken, Frozen Vegetables and Quick Rice Pudding. Final plans were made for our party in meeting six and members closed our meeting.

Meeting six was the last meeting and members had planned a pot-luck party which required each member to bring a prepared dish including salads, main dishes and desserts. As well, each member was asked to invite a friend. After eating and the cleanup was finished members played games for an hour before closing the meeting.

Where: Skyline Hotel, 101 Lyon Street, Ottawa
When: Saturday, November 18, 1989 - 9:30 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
Program: "Siblings Without Rivalry"

One of the greatest sources of stress in families is the on-going bickering among children. The constant teasing, tattling, and battling take a terrible toll on family life. In a desperate attempt to restore peace, parents plead, yell, ignore, forbid, take sides and punish; yet nothing seems to help. In this workshop, Adele Faber will show how to promote cooperation rather than competition, how to treat children unequally and still be fair and how to reduce anger between battling siblings and motivate them to work out their own solutions.

Flyers win two of three in EOJCHL

CHESTERVILLE — What a difference a few games can make.

The last time the Chesterville Junior C Flyers and Casselman Stars met, the Flyers came out on the short end of an 8-2 score.

Monday night the Flyers gave the Stars a lesson in forechecking and aggressive hockey, defeating the high flying visitors 7-4 despite taking 13 of the game's 21 penalties.

Monday's victory was the second in as many nights for the Flyers who Sunday night doubled Clarence Creek Beavers 6-3. It turned out to be a .666 week for the Flyers after they folded in the third period in dropping an 8-6 decision to Embrun 72s Friday night.

After an 0-3 start, the Flyers have now improved their record to 2-3 and the return of Scott Bell, back after a suspension levied in the pre-season, has bolstered the Flyers' scoring punch.

Bell registered a pair of goals in each of Sunday's and Monday's games.

The Flyers also welcomed back Don Marcellus on Sunday after his three-game suspension but are still missing Ian Jean who was served with a three-game holiday for spearing Friday night in Embrun.

Monday night the Flyers took the lead on Ray Sherrer's low shot from the top of the slot at 6:39 of the first and extended their lead to 2-0 57 seconds into the second when Dan Dubois whipped a quick high shot past Mario Laroche.

Marc Cholette upped it to 3-0 at 16:49 and Charles Cusson finally got the visitors on the board with the first of his pair, at 11:25.

Bell then went to work for the Flyers, scoring consecutive power play goals, at 9:40 and 1:17, as Chesterville's relentless pressure inside the blue line paid dividends.

Unfamiliar with being behind, the Stars started getting chippy, taking six minors in the second period after serving only one in the first.

Their own power play clicked with 19 seconds left in the period with Cusson getting his second while Denis Ouellette sat out a double minor.

Leading 5-2 going into the final period, the Flyers sat back on their heels and let the Stars come to them. Matthew Berthiaume took advantage of the sudden increase in skating room to make it 5-3 at 13:18.

The Flyers adjusted quickly and Dubois got his second of the night at 4:18 to kill the rally, with Sherrer getting his second of the game with 3:11 remaining as he whipped Bell's pass back into the slot past Stephane Rochon, who had replaced Laroche in the Casselman net at the start of the third.

Sylvio Ranger closed out the scoring at 1:23, tapping in Hughes' pass while Ken Byers and Marcellus sat out minors.

Flyers 6, Beavers 3

Sunday night in Clarence Creek the Flyers scored three unanswered third-period goals to double the Beavers 6-3.

Bell opened the scoring, at 14:22 of the first but the Beavers went up 2-1 early in the second on goals by Paul Beauregard and Phil Gaudreau. The see-saw continued throughout the second with Chris Holmes evening it at 12:49 and captain Dhris Leblanc putting Chesterville up by one less than a minute later.

Clarence Creek struck back with 4:07 left in the period to deadlock it once again but the Flyers turned on their jets in the third.

Bell got his second of the night, and the eventual winner, at 14:10; Dubois got the insurance marker at 13:22 and Sherrer closed out the scoring with 4:14 on the clock.

72s 8, Flyers 6

Friday night in Embrun a three-goal performance by Kevin Byers wasn't enough as the Flyers lost their third straight.

Chesterville's special teams turned into a spectacular effort, scoring five times on the power-play and giving up only one short handed goal despite being penalized 12 times.

The 72s gave the Flyers power play ample opportunity to practise their skills as Embrun took 21 penalties, including a 10-minute and game misconduct, fight instigation minor and fighting major.

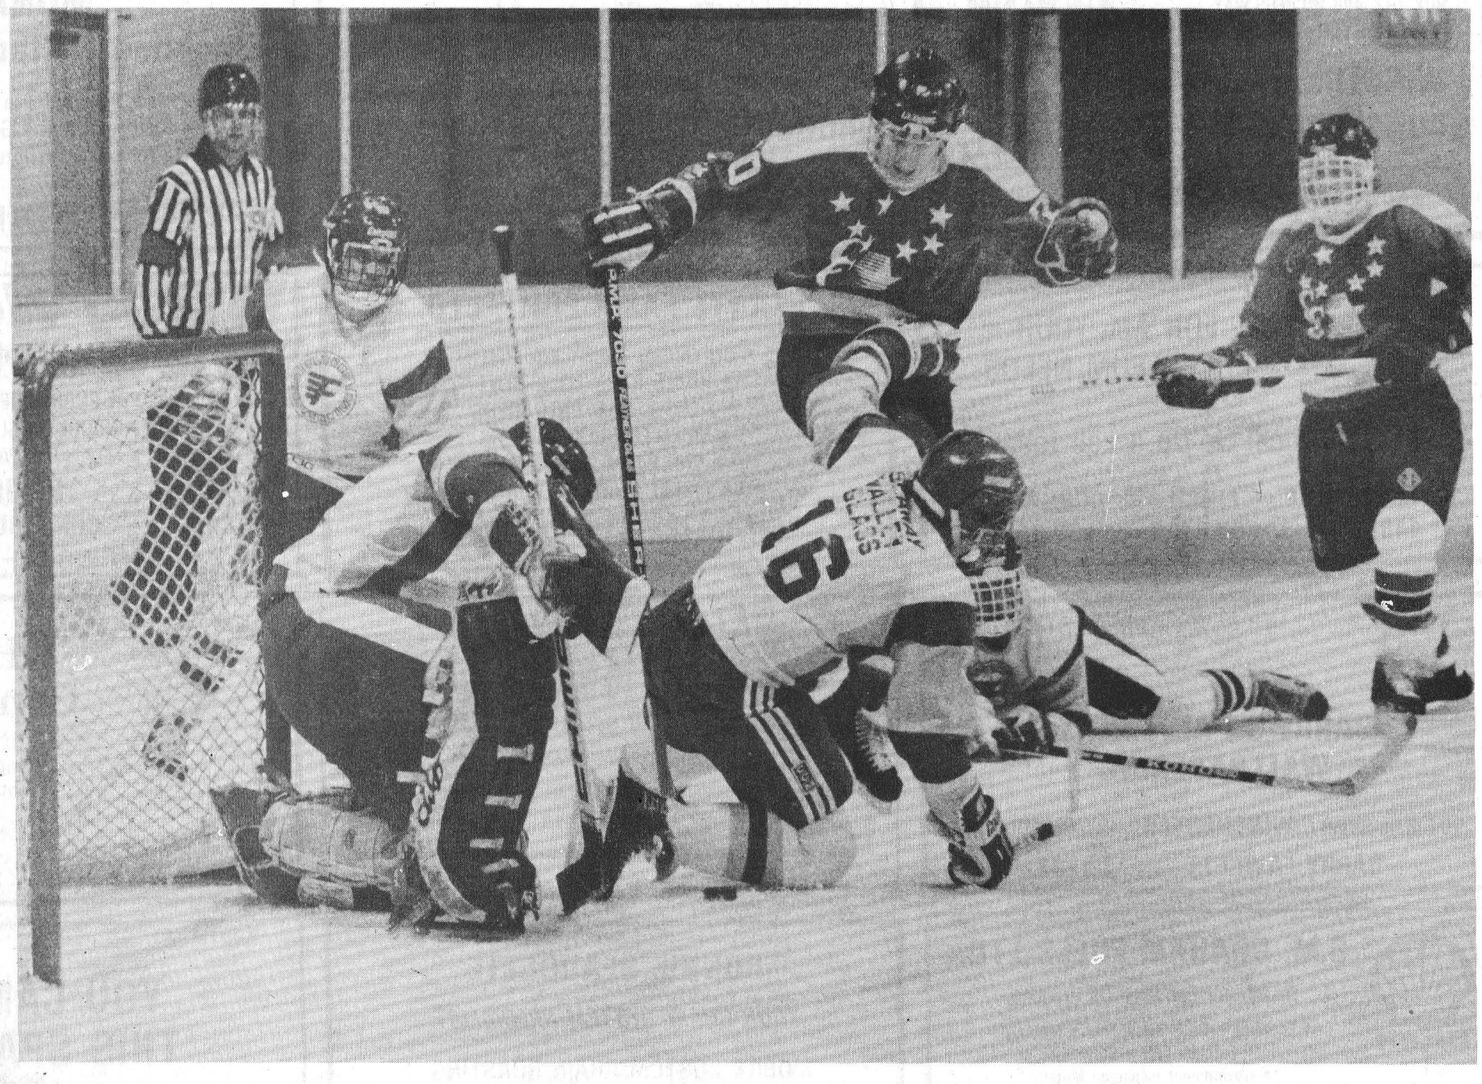
Embrun built a 3-1 first period lead and extended it to 4-1 in the early going of the second before the Flyers power play went to work.

After Byers got his first of the night at 8:10 of the first, the Flyers scored four second-period power play goals to trail only 6-5 going into the final frame.

Scoring in the second were Shawn Taggard, Byers with his second and third, and Denis Ouellette.

Eric Paquette tied the game at 6-6 with 43 seconds gone in the third, but Dan Savage, with his second, put the 72s back on top to stay at 17:01 and Dave Kimbers got the insurance goal with 3:39 left to play.

This Thursday night the Flyers visit the North Stormont 86ers in Finch for an 8:30 game; Sunday night they travel to St. Isidore and Monday night Casselman is back for the rubber match at the Chesterville arena in an 8 p.m. game.



Flyers Don Marcellus goes down to help goaltender Marc Saucier block this third-period shot in Chesterville's 7-4 victory over Casselman Stars Monday night in Chesterville. Casselman's Charles Cusson, who had taken the original shot on the play, attempts to vault his way back in front of the net in hopes of picking up a rebound. Cusson scored twice for Casselman but the Flyers got two-goal performances from Scot Bell, Dan Dubois and Ray Sherrer as they recorded their second win in as many nights.

Maroon keeps record perfect

CHESTERVILLE — Maroon rolled to its second win in as many games last Wednesday night as they edged White 4-3 in Chesterville Men's Town Hockey League action.

In the night's other game, Green improved its record to a win and a tie as they doubled winless Blue 6-3.

White dropped to 0-0-1 while Blue is at the bottom of the young season's standings at 0-2-0.

Don Imrie staked Maroon to a 1-0 first period lead, scoring from Brad Hanes and Ken Rose, but Wade Levere drew White even at 8:53 of the second with assists going to Vince Cousineau and Dean Williams.

Kevin Moore fired the first of his pair at 6:30, from Dave Cross and Ron Richards, to restore Maroon's lead and he made it 3-1 with only 24 seconds left in the period, this time on a set-up from Richards.

Pat Kelly made it 4-1 at 14:24 of the third but White rallied with two goals just a minute part, from Kevin Boyce at 10:24, and Terry Barkley, at 9:24.

The game ended on a sour note with Maroon's Imrie and White's Rene Boulanger each sitting out three-minute roughing minors.

Jerrold Boulanger scored two first period goals to put Blue up 2-0 but Green stormed back with three in the second and three more in the third to win 6-3.

Boulanger opened the scoring at 12:24, on a solo effort, and made it 2-0 at 4:25 with assists going to Steve Sullivan and Lonnie McIntosh.

Green got on the board at 14:02 of the second as Jamie Utman scored from Mark Smith and George Michels and Keith Moore drew them even at 5:04, with Smith and Michels again picking up the helpers.

Darrel Shelp put Green ahead to stay less than two minutes later and John Guy, who assisted on Shelp's go-ahead goal, made it 4-2 at 12:31 of the third.

Smith picked up a goal for a three-point night, to make it 5-2, at 10:01, and Rob Saunders scored within 7:10 left.

Curtis McMillan scored Blue's final goal, at 4:02, with Darren Kirkwood getting the assist.

Vikes back, Russell forceful

WINCHESTER — Morewood Vikings bounced back Sunday night from their first setback of the season as they steamrolled Winchester Raiders 9-0 and Russell displayed its Magnum Force for the sixth consecutive game, whitewashing hapless Manotick 6-0 in Winchester and District Broomball League games.

In Sunday's other action, Ormond hammered Newington 9-1 and Prescott Road edged the Boys from Toyes 3-2 in overtime.

Captain Gerald Eby took over the league goal-scoring lead with a four-goal performance for Morewood. Eby added a pair of assists and is in third place in the league scoring race, behind teammates Guy Marion, who had a five-point game against Winchester, and Brian Como, who had seven points, including three goals, against the Raiders.

Como opened the scoring at 14:38 of the first and Eby scored the first of his four at 4:14 as Morewood took a 2-0 lead into the second half.

Scoring for the Vikings in the final half were Como with two; Eby with three; Marion and Brian Thatcher.

Steve Bekkers led the Russell romp over Manotick as he fired three goals and added an assist. Bekkers is now in fifth place in the league scoring parade, one point behind teammate Frank Bols, who had a goal and an assist.

Lucien Proulx opened the scoring at 13:23 of the first and Steve Henley made it 2-0 with 8:09 left in the half.

Bekkers got the first of his troika at 21:52 of the second, on a set-up from Bols, who scored himself just over five minutes later.

Bekkers rounded out the scoring with his second and third of the game, at 8:22 and 5:44. John Corvinelli assisted on both.

Dave Hess fired a pair of goals and added an assist as he helped lead Ormond to its lopsided victory over shorthanded Newington, who iced only seven players for the game.

Brian Wiggins added a pair and singles went to Bill Livingston, Doug Sloan, Bill Robinson, Dan McDirmid and John Velthuis.

Mike Allard got the only goal, an unassisted effort, for Newington, who trailed 5-1 after one.

In the overtime game, Ted Bonger's pair wasn't enough for Toyes Hill as they succumbed 3-2.

Dave Holmes led the way for Prescott Road, scoring the overtime winner at 1:54 of the three-minute stop time extra period and assisting on his team's other two goals.

Reg Fisher got the first one for Prescott Road and Glenn Peterson scored the second.

Fittingly enough, the two teams were tied 1-1 after one.

86ers earn split with St. Isidore, Russell

FINCH — North Stormont 86ers split their EOJCHL games last week, losing 8-4 to St. Isidore in a penalty-filled game in front of a home crowd last Thursday and rebounding on the road for a 4-2 win over struggling Russell Lions Sunday.

St. Isidore, at 5-2-0, jumped on the 86ers for a 4-1 lead after one and added one in the second to take a 5-1 lead into the third. The teams each scored three times in the final period.

Daniel Vinette did most of the damage for the visitors as he recorded the hat trick and picked up an assist.

St. Isidore scored just 43 seconds into the game, with Stephane Chollette getting the first of his pair, but Tim Ouderkirk made it 1-1 at 8:52. St. Isidore then turned up their game several notches, getting three more in the final 7:20 of the period.

First it was Vinette, unassisted, at 7:20, Pablo Urbany, at 4:58, and finally Marc Lalonde, with 59 seconds left in the period.

Yves Parthenais scored the lone second-period goal as St. Isidore took a 5-1 lead.

Kevin Villeneuve brought North Stormont to within three at 15:43 of the third but Chalette restored the visitors' four-goal lead two minutes later and Vinette made it 7-2 at 10:04. Chris Leroux scored for Finch at 5:53 and Todd Blaine scored for the 86ers with one second left on the clock.

Each team took 20 penalties in the fight-filled game.

It was a different story for the 86ers Sunday in Russell as they scored twice in the second and twice in the third to double the winless Lions 4-2.

After a scoreless first period, John Mackler scored at 15:25 of the second and Kevin Villeneuve made it 2-0 at 9:36.

Paul Scofield got Russell on the board at 18:46 of the third but Todd Blaine scored on an unassisted effort just over a minute later to restore North Stormont's two-goal lead.

Marc Gosselin made it 3-2 with 4:10 left in the game before Ouderkirk iced the win for the 86ers with 44 seconds left on the clock.

North Stormont's next game is Thursday night when they host the Chesterville Flyers. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

On Sunday the 86ers travel to Clarence Creek for a 2:15 p.m. start and on Thurs., Nov. 9 they host Embrun 72s.

Dunbar forced to settle for tie

EMBRUN — After registering their first victory of the campaign a week earlier, Dunbar Panthers had to settle for a tie against Embrun Blackhawks in Embrun Broomball League action here Thursday night.

With the tie, the Panthers, last year's Winchester league champions, saw their season record drop to 1-2-1.

In other league games last week, Embrun Plumbing humbled Coors Lite 7-1 and Independent Radiator edged St. Albert 2-1.

Ray Fontaine opened the scoring for Dunbar at 1:05 of the first on a feed from Roch Seguin but the Hawks evened it at 9:30 of the second with Mario Quenville scoring from Bernie Phillips.

The Panthers went back up by one just over a minute later when Pierre Lafrance hit for an unassisted score but Phillips got his second point of the night as he scored with just 58 seconds left in regulation time.

Embrun Plumbing built up a 4-0 first period lead and coasted to a 7-1 win over Coors Lite in a game which saw each team assessed seven minor penalties. The Silver Bullets had four roughing minors while the Plumbers had three for roughing.

Independent Rad scored once in each period to post the close 2-1 victory over St. Albert.

Avonmore aces NSIHL games

FINCH — Avonmore Aces chalked up a pair of North Stormont Intermediate Hockey League (NSIHL) last week, dumping Berwick 8-5 Friday and humbling Crysler 5-1 Sunday.

In Friday's other game Finch tripped Crysler 5-4 and Sunday Berwick and Finch skated to a 6-6 saw-off.

Friday, Randy McRae had three goals to lead the Aces, who also got a two-goal performance from Blair Henderson. Getting aces for the Aces were Jamie Robertson, Steve Grant and Bruce Casselman.

Scoring for Berwick were Paul Beehler, with a pair, Frank Landry, Barrie Smith and Dwayne Backes.

In the nightcap Friday, Guy Ireland paved the way for Finch with two goals as they fought back from a 4-2 first period deficit. Getting singles for Finch were Ed Dewit, Houghie Coleman and Bill Dewit.

Paul Farley led Crysler with two goals and an assist while David Mason and Albert Herfkens each had singles.

Henderson had another two-goal performance Sunday as the Aces dropped Crysler 5-1. Singles went to Steve Grant, Brent Theede and Jamie Robertson.

Albert Herfkens scored for Crysler with only 1:45 left in the game to avoid the whitewash.

Dwayne Backes scored four for Berwick as they overcame a 2-1 first-period deficit to earn the 6-6 tie with Finch.

Barrie Smith and Mike Vandelst chipped in singles.

Scoring for the Merchants were Coleman, Ed Dewit and Gordie MacDonell, each with a pair.

Berwick's George Michels was tagged with a game misconduct for being the aggressor in a fight with 3:51 left in the first.

Friday night Finch takes on Avonmore at 8 and Berwick plays Crysler at 9:30.

Sunday night it is Berwick against Finch at 7 and Crysler against Avonmore in the 9 p.m. nightcap.

Bantams dump Metcalfe 5-1

CHESTERVILLE — Glenn Meeks and Shawn Steinberg each scored twice to lead the North Dundas Bantam C Demons to a 5-1 exhibition win over Metcalfe here Tues., Oct. 24.

The teams played a scoreless first period and the Demons finally broke the ice at 13:29 with Meeks getting the first of his pair, from Tom Cinnamon.

Dave McCall replied for Metcalfe 3:07 later but Tyler Johanson, from Meeks, restored the Demons' lead less than a minute later.

Steinburg, from Johanson and Jason Coons, put the Demons up 3-1, with 2:16 left in the period, and he made it 4-1 at 9:59 of the third, again with Coons assisting. Meeks rounded out the scoring at 6:11 with Coons picking up his third of the night on the assist.

The Demons open their UCMHL regular season in Prescott against South Grenville at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Their home opener will be at the Winchester Arena at 6 p.m. Saturday. The Bantam C Demons will play all their home games at the Winchester Arena.

A little help from his friends

Chesterville goaltender Marc Saucier had to come well out of his net to stop this third-period effort by Casselman Stars' Matthew Berthiaume, who was partially tied up by an unidentified Flyer defender. The Flyers won their EOJCHL game 7-4 over Casselman and the Stars will be back in town Monday night for a rematch.

Kemptville Royals dumps midgets

CHESTERVILLE — Kemptville Royals dumped the North Dundas Midget A Demons 3-1 in an Upper Canada Minor Hockey League exhibition tune-up here Oct. 20.

Kemptville took a 2-0 lead after one with Dean Tataryn opening the scoring at 11:41 and Angelo Tsarouhas beating Bill Zrymiak with just five seconds left in the period. Pat Poirier made it 3-0 for the visitors on the power play at 4:56 of the second, with Tataryn getting his second point of the night on the set-up.

Scott Francis spoiled Dave Alguire's shut-out bid with 3:14 left in the second, scoring from assistant captain Tony Holmes.

The Midget Demons opened their regular season last night (Tuesday) in Prescott against South Grenville.

The Demons' home opener will be played in Chesterville this Friday night against Metcalfe. Face-off time is 8:30.

Cornwall tops NGS bantoms

FINCH — Pat St. Pierre had North Glen-Stor's only goal, with only 1:05 left in the contest as Cornwall skated to a 3-1 Lower St. Lawrence Minor Hockey League Bantam victory here Sunday.

The visitors' Lyle Sprool opened the scoring at 1:03 of the first and Marco Bellemare made it 2-0 with 2:29 left in the second. Sprool got his second of the game on an unassisted effort with five minutes left before St. Pierre spoiled the shut-out hopes of Matthew Grant with 1:05 left.

Cornwall took 11 of the game's 18 penalties.

SOME COLD FACTS

It's that time of year again! From now till New Year's is the traditional peak time for catching colds. This happens because you're in crowded rooms with poor circulation and because your're under stress, which helps increase your susceptibility.

Try to get as much rest as possible. It's also possible, to get an annual cold. You might want to bear in mind that 10 to 20 per cent of doctor visits are made by people with simple upper respiratory infections (colds), for which he-she can do little. Even though your doctor may prescribe antibiotics to help, there's no real cure for the common cold.

Consumers spend well over $1.5-billion a year on non-prescription drugs to relieve colds, allergies, and asthma. Advertisers spend $150-million persuading them to do it.

No matter what Mom told you, colds don't come automatically from sitting in drafts, not dressing warmly, or going out with set hair (although when any of these lowers your body temperature, germs may more successfully attack). You get colds in winter because you're inside, and poor air circulation helps the transmission of viruses.

Naturally, you'll want to check with your doctor when you feel ill, but, if it IS a cold, there are some steps you can take. Of course, the cheapest, best way to treat a cold is just to let it run its course. But if you want to relieve a particular symptom, don't buy the more expensive preparations designed to relieve several symptoms. Buy generic products when possible.

Some of the ingredients may be: An antihistamine to relieve sneezing, and watery, itchy eyes; A nasal decongestant that will open clogged nasal passages. Antitussivs suppress coughs. If a cough prevents you from sleeping, you might try a product with dextromethorphan. Expectorants will loosen mucous to be coughed up. A bronchodilator will enlarge bronchial passages, making it easier for an asthma sufferer to breathe. Anticholinergics dry up watery secretions in the nose and eyes.

If you can stand it, a runny nose is best left untreated. It helps promote draining, which allows your body to get rid of the virus. DO blow your nose gently and often. You'll clear the mucous out. DON'T stop up one nostril and blow through the other. You may force mucous up the eustachian tubes and cause an ear infection. You could try this: Squeeze a lemon, add eight ounces of water, and sweeten with honey. Then add ice and sip through a straw. Or, if you're congested, drink it hot.

Mom was right; take chicken soup when you've got a cold -- or any hot liquid. Researchers have found that hot liquids increase mucous flow, which helps end the infection more quickly. Or try something really hot. Eat horseradish, chili, mustard, pepper, or gargle with 10 to 20 drops of Tabasco sauce in a glass of water. Hot foods help clear out the respiratory tract.

Washing your hands often may keep you free of sniffles, since colds may be contracted by touching the skin of an infected person. So keep your hands clean and avoid rubbing your eyes and nose.

Feed your face a pickle, some lemon -- anything acidic. Acids help promote the flow of saliva and that helps the cough. And drink lots of water. It helps liquefy phlegm, making it easier to cough up.

Studies have shown that even a short period of bed rest can cause dramatic deconditioning. Muscles start to atrophy, bones lose calcium, your blood pressure goes down, and dehydration occurs. So even if you're not feeling your best, don't jump into bed. Stay as active as you can. Of course, if you're not feeling ill, do go to bed. But you'll be back to your old self more quickly if you get up as soon as possible.

My Silent Achievers this week are all the Instructors at P.B.J. who did so very well on their C.P.R. recertification last weekend; and Dennis McMahon, who refused to be bribed EVEN with the enticement of free aerobics classes for the rest of his life!

Well Done, All!

Bass season delayed for 1990

The Ministry of Natural Resources has confirmed that the opening day of bass season on the St. Lawrence River has been moved to the last Saturday in June.

The new regulation, which includes both largemouth and smallmouth bass, will be in effect for the 1990 fishing season.

According to Steve Kerr, the Eastern Region fisheries biologist, the decision to delay the opening of the season was based on an increased understanding of the bass fishery of the river from assessment programs conducted by the St. Lawrence River Fisheries Management Unit and from advances in Provincial research into the biology and spawning behaviour of bass.

"Our 1988 angler survey indicated that the St. Lawrence River does offer very good bass fishing, right now", Kerr said. "However, the age distribution of the angler's catch confirmed our netting assessment conclusion that the fishery is being supported by an exceptionally strong 1983 year class of fish. As this year class declines, so too will angling success." Assessments indicate that the bass population in the river has declined, in some areas up to 50 per cent, and this decline is attributed to lack of recruitment of young fish."

The delay in the opening of the bass season to improve recruitment to the fishery is a management action based on the spawning behavior of male bass.

Male bass aggressively guard incubating eggs and newly hatched fry and as such are extremely susceptible to being caught by anglers. Removal of the guard male, even for a short time, exposes the eggs or fry to predators and can quickly result in complete mortality. In addition, research suggests guard males often do not return to the nest, particularly if they are moved away from the area.

Of particular concern is the increasing number of anglers participating in catch and release fishing activity for bass prior to the season opening and the impact this can have on the survival of fry, Kerr said.

Water temperatures regulate the timing of spawning and duration of the incubation period and the colder water temperatures of the St. Lawrence mean bass are generally guarding nests when the season opens. By moving the opening day to the end of June it is hoped that survival of eggs and fry will increase through protection provided by the guarding male.

"This change in the opening date was identified during the public consultation phases of the District Fisheries Management Plans of both Brockville and Cornwall and the majority of respondents supported the change.

NGS midgets coast to 4-1 win

FINCH — North Glen-Stor Midgets scored twice in each of the first two periods then coasted to a 4-1 win over Cornwall in a penalty-filled Lower St. Lawrence Minor Hockey League game here Sunday.

North Glen-Stor got goals from John Grady and Chris Leroux to build a 2-0 first period lead and Anson Acres and Tim McRae scored in the second to make it 4-0 before Cornwall's Derek Ryan scored with 1:13 left in the middle frame to ruin Richard Paquette's shut-out bid.

Each team took 11 penalties in the chippy contest.

Leroux and McRae each had assists while Paul Jackson, and Sean Blaine each had helpers. Dan McMillan had assists on both North Glen-Stor's second-period goals.

Embrun doubles Pee Wee Demons

CHESTERVILLE — Embrun Panthers doubled North Dundas Pee Wee A Demons 4-2 in a North Dundas and District Minor Hockey League exhibition tilt here Friday.

Martin Gignac showed why he wears the "C" on his sweater as he paced the visitors with two goals, including the winner on an unassisted effort.

Assistant captain Eric Lalonde also scored two for the visitors, including an unassisted goal with 4:50 left in the contest.

The Demons had a short-lived lead in the first period with Wally Cinnamon scoring at 4:37 but Embrun struck seven seconds later with Gignac getting his first. Lalonde scored with 2:03 left in the period to give the Panthers a 2-1 lead.

Matthew Robinson tied it for North Dundas at 9:24 of the second but Gignac got his second with 1:57 left in the period and Lalonde potted his second at 4:50 of the third.

Cinnamon also had an assist for the Demons and Jason Desormeaux had assists on both North Dundas goals.

The Demons open their regular season Thursday night at the Brockville Youth Arena and their first home game of the 1989-90 UCMHL regular season is Friday when they host South Grenville. Game time at the Chesterville and District Arena is 7:30 p.m.

Koekkoek powers ND Jrs. to 35 - 25 win over GVSS

CORNWALL — Brenda Koekkoek poured in a game-high 14 points here at GVSS last week powering the North Dundas District High School Junior Devils to their second SD&G basketball victory of the season.

Devils' coach Patti Milne said it was a relief, "to finally win again."

Her senior counterpart, Deanna Corbett White, didn't get the same relief. Her senior squad lost a low-scoring affair, 35-25 to the Senior Vikings. It was the senior's sixth loss in seven starts.

The Junior Devils started their game exactly the way coach Milne doesn't like to see, giving up a quick lead to the other team.

"We were down 4-0 right away. If we get that first basket the girls usually play a better game. But this time we came back from 4-0 and led 10-4 after the first quarter," she explained.

"After we got the lead we played really well. The team goes from one extreme to the other,but if they get ahead they can run away with the game," Milne added.

North Dundas led 10-4 after a quarter and 18-13 at the half. They were up 34-20 after three quarters and won for the second time in seven starts, 38-24.

Brenda Koekkoek led the Devils with 14 points. Ellen Constaple shot six points, while Sherri James, Marilyn Wade and Tracey Holiday all hit for four. Marg Link, Tonya Foley and Laura Zrymiak drained a duce each.

Senior mentor Deanna Corbett White said her squad was stagnent for their match with the Vikings.

"Really no one did anything. They didn't come to play. GV didn't play a great game either. We couldn't do anything offensively. We forced turnovers but couldn't convert them," she explained.

Connie Armstrong led the scoring, hooping 11 points in the Devils' 35-25 loss. Stacey Berry added eight and Vick Gryspeerdt completed the picture with six points.

Corbett White said her girls held the Vikings to three points in the third quarter with some good defence, but managed just three of their own.

North Dundas played the deadly Lori Dupuis to six points in the first half with their box-plus-one defence. They had to adjust to a two - three when the Vikes start hitting from the outside.

Dupuis finished with 15 points (24-per-game average) and Tobi Betard nailed 14 from the outside.

North Dundas plays La Citadelle in Cornwall this week and then hosts CCVS at NDDHS this Fri., Nov. 3.
