High School Stadents Make Merry

A very enjoyable time was spent by the High School boys and girls in the Music Hall on Hallowe'en. Many and varied were the beautiful costumes worn by the masqueraders, there being many surprises when the masks were removed. The entertainment consisted of Hallowe'en games, guessing contest's and music, ending up with excellent sandwiches, cake, doughnuts and coffee. The guests were the High School Board and the local clergy with their wives. The prizes for the best costumes were won by Hazel Droppo and Willie Tate. The evening closed with the National Anthem.

COMMUNICATION
The Adolescent School Act

To The Record:—

A Committee was appointed to memorialize the Ontario Govt. with a view to having the Adolescent Act repealed. Such was one of the items of business(?) which was put through at the last session of the Counties Council of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry. If this act was repealed the country would return to the operation of the Act which permits boys and girls to cease attendance at school at the age of 14, instead of attending two more years. Surely it will be a surprise to the educationists and all educated men and women of the province, that such a body of intelligent men should take snch a retrograde step. The United Counties hold no mean place as being the birth place of a great number of the big men of not only the Province but of the Dominion, and yet the present representatives of these counties it would seem favor the eliminatian of education—of any standard above a Public school education, 14 years being the average age at which pupils enter the High school. The amount of education our fathers received, if it were only a Public school education, is not sufficient for the boy or girl of today if he is to take his or her proper place in the community. We need not less education but more, even if we are to have only as much influence as is weilded by a county councillor. We don't doubt that the United Counties elected the best men that offered as councillors and they are all good men; many of them are also successful men—but judging from their action in this matter—some of them have never appreciated the pleasure, power and profit of secondary education. To be perfectly frank—some of them would be far better councillors and possibly great leaders in the development of Canada had they a little more education. What do these men desire? The closing of the High schools and hence the closing of our colleges, so as to reduce taxes? If so, it is a selffsh interest which would sacrifice the future of our boys and girls and thus, of our conntry in order that the individuals of today may add field to field, bond to bond and live a little more luxuriously, rather than this Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry should be in the van for the advancement of learning—for education is knowledge, knowledge is power, and power is ability to do work. Don't expect the boys and girls to work unless they are given the ability.

Moffatt—Robinson

The marriage of Mrs. Christie Robinson and Mr. John Moffatt, took place at the latter's residence, Saturday, Oct. 21st. at high noon, in the presence of only their immediate relatives. The Rev. J. K. Curtis assisted by Rev. Mr. Glassford officiated at the ceremony. Miss Ida Annable played the wedding march.

Unattended the bride was gowned in navy canton crepe with bead trimmings and wore a large picture hat of black panne velvet with veil and silver-ornament, her corsage bouquet being of violets and roses.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served. The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and autumn flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Moffatt left by motor for New York City, the bride wearing a navy blue tricotine suit and mink choker, the gift of the groom. The bride received many beautiful gifts among them being a number of cheques.

On Thursday evening last a miscellaneous shower was given Mrs. Robinson at the home of Mrs. Chester Timmins. The choir of the Methodist church also presented Mrs. Robinson with a Pyrex casserole set in silver—Mountain Herald.

A High Priced Hen

Two thousand dollars looks like a big price for a hen. That is said to be the value of a White Wyandotte owned by an Ontario man. She is seven years old, and is said to have laid 1,090 eggs in six years and nine months. Her first year was 260 eggs: her last nine months ending with July 31st, she gave 88 eggs. The results are by trapnest records; and it is claimed for her that she probably laid twenty eggs that are not accounted for.

When she was a pullet her owner discarded her because of a slight blemish—a little green patch on one leg—which according to the Standard of Perfection, the Toronto Globe says wouldn't disqualify her but persistency counts even with pullets; and her owner recognized merit in laying eggs, which, after all, is the best recommendation of a hen. The blemished pullet was found to be insistent in laying eggs; and gained the distinction of the trapnest, and ultimately the honor so it is said, of being the greatest hen ever bred in Canada, and one of very few on the continent with a distinguished record of laying. These are claims made on her behalf—but possibly there are more obscure fowls doing just as good work. This one is still going strong as a layer.

The Can Trick

Q—I have heard that it is possible for a person to measure out exactly four gallons—say of water from a lake—using only a five-gallon can and a three gallon can (without marks on them). Is this true? If true, how can it be done? —Perplexed.

A—This trick may be performed in the following manner: Fill the three-gallon can. Empty the three-gallon can into the five-gallon can. Fill the three-gallon can again. Fill the five-gallon can from the three-gallon can. One gallon is left in the three-gallon can. Empty the five-gallon can. Pour the contents of the three-gallon can into the five-gallon can. Fill the three-gallon can again, and pour the contents into the five-gallon can. This gives you four gallons in the five-gallon can.

Broke His Agreement Is Given a Jail Te m

Thomas Collison, a young man of Hulbert, Dundas county, who was convicted of committing an assault on the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thorpe near that place a couple of months ago, and who was placed under a bond to leave the district and reside for a year in the west, returned to his home, and complaint was made by J. G. Harkness, county Crown attorney, who sent Provincial Officer Wetheral back to arrest him. Collison was brought to Cornwall, and appeared before Judge O'Reilly, who sentenced him to not less than three months or more than two years less one day in the reformatory for breaking his part of the agreement which would have given him his liberty.

The Ideals of a Great Journal

From the day of its inception fifty years ago the aim of its publishers has been to make of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal a great paper, securing for it's fame and character, so that it would be looked upon as a national journal for all Canada; a paper instructive and pleasing, but not just a money-making project. As a matter of fact, there has been no studied calculation about dividends or any kind of monetary gain, so long as the interests of the subscribers were cared for, Competent judges declare that there is no paper published in the English language that gives such superb value as the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. The subscription price is only $2.00 per year.

Eyes Blackened For Wife Beating

A man charged with wife beating had both eyes blackened last week by a Pennsylvania magistrate, who ended the incident by imposing a $10 fine. The magistrate, Alderman Edward Burke of Pittston, had heard only part of the wife's testimony when he shouted; "I'm going to see how he likes it," and jumping over his desk, ordered Anthony Azakas, the defendant, to stand up. As Azakas rose, the magistrate hit him a blow over the left eye. The defendant fell, but was ordered up again and received another judicial punch over the other eye which once more sent him to the floor. Azakas promised never to strike his wife again.

These Know Canada

Canada is not without friends and acquaintances in the Bonar Law ministry. The Prime Minister is a native of Canada. The secretary for the colonies is a recent Governor General. His wife is the daughter of another Governor General who has thus spent two terms in this country. The minister of war lived in Canada as secretary to his father, who was also a Governor General. The first lord of the admiralty has been a frequent visitor to Canada and his wife is a Canadian, a sister to Sir Hamar Greenwood, who is a Liberal and out of office. The wife of the secretary for Scotland is a daughter of Lord Dufferin.

Buying An Old Engine

A second hand engine is generally a "bargain" for either buyer or seller; the question is, Which? Anyone buying an engine without a reliable guarantee would be justified in asking a number of questions, such as "Why is it being sold?" If too light what did it fail to do? What could it do? In what condition of wear are the bearings, the connecting rod, the cams and their rollers Test the compression. If it is weak find the reason. How is the lubricant working? Are the valves pitted? Have they been reground? In what shape are the coils and batteries? Examine the cylinder and the water jacket Test for cracks with gasoline under pressure or get a statement from the owner if he is dependable. The honesty of the seller and the practical knowledge of the buyer are important elements in the transaction, as well as the true condition of the machine. The owner probably understands the engine pretty well; but, if the purchaser is an expert and the engine will run at all, he will likely get value out of it.

After buying comes the repairs or rebuilding. Get all the information possible from the manufacturers. Get their catalogues and their advice. It may have to be sent to the shop for overhauling and it may pay to have this done. Do not let the agent persuade you to send it to the junk pile and buy a new one until you have fully investigated the possibilities of using the greater part of the engine after reasonable repair.

Happy Release?

Convict—I don't know.

Lady—You don't know. Why?

Convict.—I'm in for life.

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. Liberals Decide To Contest Lanark

The Liberals of Lanark county have decided to contest that riding in the coming by-election to fill the vacancy in Parliament caused by the death of Hon. T. A. Stewart. K. C. Hon. T. A. Low, Minister without Portfollio, attended the meeting in Perth on Monday and it is understood that the Liberals intend making every effort to place one of their number in the vacant seat at Ottawa. Mr. David Finlay, of Carleton Place, a stove manufacturer, is spoken of as the man most likely to meet with the approval of the Liberal convention, which meets on November 8 In the general elections last December the Liberals did not run a candidate in Lanark county.

"You leave that door open too much," said an excitable father to his son.

"Well, how far open shall I leave it?" asked the boy.

"I mean you leave it open too often," was the reply.

How often would you like it left open, sir?"

Then the father removed his slipper and the son disappeared.

One Way To Get An Education

Some time ago, writes a subscriber to The Youth's Companion, I was traveling in Europe with a young lady who lived in a small town way Down East in Maine and who was more generally informed in the history, literature, art and music of the countries we visited than those who had lived in and had the advantages of a large city. "Where were you educated?" I asked. I was brought up in my home town and on The Youth's Companion," was her reply. And this same liberal education is in the Companion for anyone who will seek it. What Are Boy Scouts?

Any boy, of any nationality, of any creed, twelve years of age or older may become a Boy Scout if he has the permission of his parents and binds himself to keep the Scout Promise and Scout Law and prepares himself for simple tests on the composition and history of the Union Jack, learns the Scout signs and demonstrates his ability to tie half a dozen knots.

The Boy Scout Movement is in no sense a secret organization.

The plan is to group a number of boys (preferably not more than 32 in any one "troop," as they are designated) under the leadership of a "Scoutmaster"—a carefully selected, clean, intelligent, boy-loving, volunteer leader—always a man of stirling character and mature judgment. Each Troop and Scoutmaster are under the supervision of a "Troop Committee" of responsible citizens, usually officials of the church, school or club with which the troop is connected.

Through such leadership the boys of the troops are kept interested in a programme of play-activities that are health-giving and educational. They take long tramps, studying nature in all its forms. They learn woodcraft, and how to take care of themselves in the open. They have troop meetings each week for study, handicraft, experiments demonstrations, etc., and go into camp every summer under trained directors.

In a hundred ways the boy's time is occupied. The programme is so varied and so fascinating to the boy that he simply hasn't time or opportunity to trail with an idle gang or to turn into the evils that beset the path of the idle boy.

The Boy Scout is taught courtesy, honor, humanity, kindliness, chivalry, and service, and to exercise them at home, in school and outside, and such practical activities as first aid, life-saving, cooking, swimming, etc.

The Boy Scout must do a "good turn" daily.

There is no membership cost other than the small fees each troop decides it needs for its local purposes and the amount of these is fixed by resolution of the boys themselves. The Boy Scout is taught thrift. He must earn the money for his own Scout expenses.

And every patriotic man who thinks about this remarkable movement should think of it also—indeed, he should think of it primarily—as a splendid and easy opportunity for him to do his part toward improving the characters of the men of to-morrow, the men in whose hands will rest the fate of this nation and its ideals.

Easy Plucking Method

One of the most heart-breaking jobs in the farm is picking ducks and geese. We have a method of doing this work which removes the objectionable features and makes it comparatively easy.

We first scald the birds in hot water at a temperature of about 160 deg. F. A minute or two at this temperature is all that is required. The skin and flesh must not be scalded or cooked or they will be torn. The bird is then taken from the water and quickly wrapped in a burlap sack, or similar covering, leaving only the head and part of the neck exposed. This effects a thorough steaming.

The feathers are removed by rubbing instead of picking, starting from the head and work back. The burlap sack is pushed back as the work proceeds. Care is used not to push the sack away too far, as the feathers must be steaming while being rubbed off.

It never requires longer than ten minutes to clean a goose or duck completely by this process, and the feathers can be removed from a chicken in three or four minutes.

The Man From Glengarry

"The Man From Glengarry" as everyone in this part of Canada knows, was written by C. W. Gordon, now of Winnipeg, and is without doubt his masterpiece, its earlier scenes centering about St. Elmo, in the Indian Lands Kenyon township, where the father of the author was in charge of the Presbyterian congregation many years ago. To suit the exigencies of film production, the story is considerably curtailed, the action being confined to the Ottawa Valley, but the main facts are adhered to. The book covers a period of at least 30 years, but the film story tells of a few weeks only. The pictures are very realistic, as the scenes were filmed as nearly possible where they took place in the book, and represent faithfully the actual conditions of lumbering in the early days. While the leading characters were impersonated by actors of international reputation, and their work was exceptionally good, there was much that could be done only by real lumber jacks, and a host of them was enlisted in Ottawa, who entered thoroughly into the spirit of the game.

First there is shown a beautiful vista on the upper Ottawa, and soon the river drivers are seen at work—breaking a log jam, one of the most dangerous experiences in a lumber jacks work. The logs are seen coming down the mighty river slowly and separately, but soon enter a heavy rapid, tumbling and tossing until a jam occurred. With the daring of their kind the drivers swarm on the tangled mass of logs and attack it with pike poles and cant hooks, vainly endeavoring to break the jam. Then dynamite is resorted to, a lusty driver climbs over the logs and places a pole on which are tied several cartridges, under the key log. He scrambles to shore the rest of the men scatter to safety, an explosion takes place and the logs float away down the river. As they go the men jump on them and one's heart almost stills as one thinks they are riding to sure death.

The operations so far have been on the drive of the St. Clair Co., for whom the Glengarry men are working but there is another drive on the way to Ottawa, that of the Thorpe Company, a rival concern. Between the men of these two companies there is a long standing feud, and fights are an inevitable sequence whenever they meet. Big MacDonald, father of Ranald MacDonald, "The Man from Glengarry," is a typical boss lumberman, with the exception that he has been toned down by the associations in his Glengarry home and will stand for no "rough stuff" among his men, though he is a terror when aroused. His son, Ranald is likewise seriously-minded. The Glengarrymen are taunted by Louis Lenoir, "best bully of de reever Ottawa," but hostilities are avoided in the meantime. Soon afterwards, when a dance was in progress, Big MacDonald was killed by Lenoir, and Ranald swore to be avenged.

One of the river camps is visited by two girls, Majmie, niece of Rev. Alex. Murray of the Indian Lands (Ranald's sweetheart from girlhood) and Kate, daughter of Mr. St. Clair, president of Ranald's company Maimie was Ranald's sweetheart and Kate was in a manner jealous of his attentions to her chum.

The drive finally reaches Ottawa and a vast expanse of logs completely fills the river. These are the logs of the rival concern, and Ranald, now in the command of the drive, demands of Lenoir that he allow the logs of his company to go through. Lenoir laughs at him scornfully and a fight ensues on the logs between him and Ranald. The bully is finally beaten and pushed into the water, but is dragged to shore by Ranald, who in spite of his vow of vengeance, recalls his home teaching and presses his advantage no further, though he has his enemy in his power.

In the meantime, St. Clair and a friend and two girls came out to see the drive and witness the fight. Maimie, afraid that her lover will kill the Frenchman, skips out on the logs, but falls into the river. Ranald having finished with Lenoir, sees the girl struggling with the flood and rushing out, saves her from drowning or being carried out into the boiling rapid below. These two scenes are undoubtedly the most powerful in the entire film, and are such to make a sensation everywhere. Maimie's adventure certainly demanded great bravery on the part of the actress who impersonated her, and it is little wonder that when she reached Ottawa, so we are told, she was a mass of bruises. It would seem as if no part is refused by a movie artist because of its danger to life and limb.

Thorpe, the rival lumberman, wants to buy a part of the St. Clair limits, and agrees to accept Ranald MacDonald's report on their value. St. Clair endeavors to bribe Ranald to make a favorable report, but the Man from Glengarry refuses indignantly.

As a contrast to the woods and river life, there is a ball room scene in Ottawa, a very brilliant society function, filmed at the Chateau Laurier. Ranald comes in his lumberman's raiment and though his rough garb exposed him to snubs and sneers, he deported himself like the natnre's gentleman that he is.

There is also a picture of the Dominion Parliament in session, which was not obtained without a good deal of trouble before the powers would consent to the august premises being used for such a purpose.

The upshot of the whole business was that Ranald is let out of the St Clair company and is engaged by Thorpe as his manager, the interview taking place on the bank of the river, between Thorpe and Ranald and Maimie, Lenoir contributing to clear up a misunderstanding between the Glengarryman and his girl. Thorpe makes it a condition that his manager should be a married man and suggests that the present is a good time for a wedding, which it is to be presumed took place, as the young people show happy faces through the rear window of an automobile, as they drive off, and the end appears on the screen.

Bank Accounts for Farmers

Farmers find that doing business through The Bank of Nova Scotia has many advantages. It enables a farmer to keep track of all his dealings. His bank book is a handy record of all moneys received or paid out.

By depositing milk, grain and other produce cheques he has a complete record of receipts.

By paying all bills by cheque he has a record of all payments and runs no risk of loss by carrying money in his pocket or keeping it in the house.

In short, a Bank Account is a necessity in the conduct of farming operations on a business basis.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Matilda District, met in convention in Trinity Methodist Church, Chesterville, on Friday October 27th, with a high percentage of delegates present from the auxiliaries, circles and bands of the district. At the opening session forty delegates responded to roll call and during the day this number was almost doubled. The large number of visitors also in attendance from all parts of the district showed a very live interest in the missionary cause.

The morning and afternoon sessions were presided over in a most capable manner by the President Mrs. W. S. L. Merrill of Ottawa. A very interesting and instructive programme dealing with the three branches of the work was carried through with enthusiasm. Excellent addresses on the young people's work being given by Mrs. John Beggs of Heckston, Miss Edith Rose of Vancamp and Mrs. I. Hall of Iroquois, followed by a lively discussion of this phase of the work. Mrs. Gardinir of Cornwall, in a very clearly prepared paper compared missionary work to a Family Tree, the trunk, branches and twigs corresponding to the auxiliaries, circles and bands and the whole drawing inspiration and life through being rooted and grounded in Jesus Christ.

In the afternoon addresses were given by Miss Georgie Earle of Winchester, Mrs. J. I. Murdocke of Cardinal and Mrs. I. Hilliard of Morrisburg, Some 'Puzzling Problems" were solved under the skilful leadership of Mrs. A. Hinton of S. Mountain.

A solo was very sweetly rendered by Mrs. W. N. Fulton,

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of Mrs. Merrill as President, with Mrs. Murdock, assistant and Mrs. James Nash, Secretary-Treasurer.

Rev. W. T. Brown presided at the evening session. A duett by Mrs. Cass and Mr. Bolster delighted the audience as did also a male quartette by Messrs. Bolster, Seymour, Forward and Cass.

A pleasing feature at this session was a pageant called "Choice" given by the "Cheerful Toilers" an organized Sunday School class who were trained by their teacher, Mrs. W. N. Fulton. The excellent manner in which each took her part showed that much time and care had been devoted to it and the serious nature of this number left a deep impression not only on the minds of the girls themselves but upon all the young people who heard it.

A most interesting address was given by Miss Margaret Armstrong, Missionary at Kolokreeka, Alberta, on the work among the Ruthenians and Ukranians. The task of making worthy Canadian citizens of these people calls forth the best efforts of our missionaries and teachers who should be ably supported by our prayers and our offerings.

The local W. M. S. entertained the delegates to luncheon and tea and wish to gratefully thank all who helped in any way to add to the success of this part of the convention. Thanks are due also to the Epworth League for their kindness in voluntarily undertaking the serving of these meals with that ease and facility for which they have become noted.

At the tea table greetings were extended from the local W. M S. of the Methodist church, the Presbyterian W. M. S. through Mrs. Saucier, also from the Reeve, Rev. A. J. Sinclair and Rev. W. T. Brown.

Deer Hunters off to Woods

The first bunch to secure their licenses from W. M. Saucier were the Finch Hunt Club consisting of Allan Cameron, W. Henophy, W. Marselis, John McMillan, E. Beckstead, Saxon Casselman and D. Beckstead, who go to the Chalk River country.

The Ontario Game and Fisheries Act operates in a curious manner this year. The season for deer and partridge officially opens on November 5, yet if anyone is found by a game warden shooting on that date he is liable to a fine of $50. It happens this year that the date of the official opening of the hunting season falls on a Sunday and section 12 of the Game and Fisheries Act says "No person on the Lord's Day shall hunt, take, kill or destroy any game, or use any gun, or other engine for that purpose."

Trying Not To

A small boy stood in front of a grocery store one day looking at a display of apples and pears. He moved toward the fruit, then back again several times.

At last the grocer went outside and said to the youngster, "Are you trying to steal something, son?"

"No, mister, I ain't trying to steal anything. I'm trying not to."

Why France Forgave the U. S. Her Debts

In the International discussion now going on as to whether or not the United States shall nail the European countries to the cross and demand the last five cent piece, with interest, due for money loaned for war purposes, it is interesting to look back as to what happened between the United States and France in the early years of the American Republic. In addition to such help as was rendered the revolting colonies by France on sea and land, from the years 1776 to 1782, a considerable sum of money was also loaned to that government by the French King. So it was that in 1782 the United States made a treaty with France regarding the repayment of 18,000,000 livres which had been loaned the new Republic. One section of the treaty dwelt particularly on the fact that on account of the financial condition of the United States the repayment of the principal sum could not be made within the period stipulated when the advances were granted. More important still was the matter of the payment of interest on the sum borrowed, and this is particularly significant in view of the recent statements of Herbert Hoover, who as a good business man is out for the last dollar owing to the United States, he being apparently no believer in sentimentality nor does he consider whose skin was being saved "over there" in 1914-15-16.

In this connection the treaty read as follows: His Majesty, being willing to give the said United States a new proof of his affection and friendship, has been pleased to make a present of, and to forgive the whole arrears of interest to this day, and from thence to the date of the treaty of peace; a favor which the Minister of the Congress of the United States acknowledges to flow from the pure bounty of the King, and which he accepts in the name of the said United States with profound and lively acknowledgements."

As the treaty was signed in the year 1783, and as the interest on the sums borrowed had run from the year 1778, it was a concession of no small value to the then struggling Republic. It might also be further pointed out that so poor did the United States continue to be that there was no payment of either interest or principal for seven years after the signing of the treaty. Thus France not only gave outright the unpaid interest for a period of five years, but went without interest or principal for a further period of seven years, or until Alexander Hamilton had reorganized the country's finances.

The Gasoline Fire Menace

Many people are using gasoline today who do not know much about it—hence the danger of fire and of explosion. Gasoline Fires are comparatively common, but they would not be so dangerous if users knew how to deal with them. Every percaution should be taken to prevent fires from this source, but if by pure accident an outbreak occurs the best thing to do is shut off the supply of the liquid and to smother the flames by cutting off the supply of air.

Sand and sawdust are two of the best fire extinguishers to use on gasoline flames. But if the fire is in or near the engine use sawdust in preference to sand as the sand might get into the cylinder of the machine and cut and ruin it. On a wooden floor sand might be best if there is plenty of it to smother the blaze. A few pails or bags of saw dust near a gasoline engine or storage plant should be as much a part of the equipment as buckets of water are around steam boilers. Dry sawdust will absorb the gasoline and prevent its spreading. A small proportion of coarse salt, mixed in sand or sawdust, is said to make them more effective. Water should never be used to extinguish a fire caused by gasoline or kerosene. It will only cause the fire to spread. If sawdust or sand are not available the flames may be smothered with old coats, blankets, carpets. quilts, canvas or other similiar articles. Earth will have the same effect as sand, where machinery is not concerned.

Chemical extinguishers are easily made and are quite effective. One of the best is made by mixing common salt and sal-ammoniac in equal parts, and adding to the mixture two-thirds of its bulk of bicarbonate of soda. Mix and screen thoroughly, then bottle and keep in a convenient place for use in an emergency.

Electrical Development

Canada has a long lead on the United States in the relative use of water-powers for power purposes. Per captia, our electrical water-power establishment is three or four times as much as in the United States. But to keep that lead, we shall have to make quick progress. Last year, the light and power companies of the United States spent $750,000,000 in new development. In the next six years they will spend according to an authority, about four billion dollars to extend service to homes and factories. Eight million homes in the United States are wired for electricity now. Six million are not. Half of these will, it is expected be wired in this six years. This means of course, that rural power distribution will have to become very general. The farm houses are the chief group retaining the old oil lamp or candle. In various well settled agricultural areas of the United States small local companies have been formed to distribute power to the farmers, and the wonderful advantages conferred by this power have almost revolutionized farm life. Farmers' wives have found their work reduced by one-half, through the use of common electrical appliances, and the operations of the farmer himself have been made much easier. In one district in Kansas electrical power for threshing was used at a cost of from 6 to 10 cents a bushel, whereas the threshing machine gangs had charged $100 a day in 1919 and 1920 or about 40 cents a bushel. The new era is one of "electricity for everyone," and despite the great initial cost of generating and distributing plants, the public will not be denied.

The Flight Of The House Fly

To obtain accurate data on the spread of flyborne diseases expert government entomologists marked and released 234,000 house flies. The experiment, according to the Scientific American, is one of the most remarkable undertakings of recent years.

The flies were first captured in large conical traps and were sprinked with finely powdered red chalk or paint pigment. Then they were released. Within twenty-four hours, sixty-four per cent of them were caught in a large number of traps placed at varying distances and in different directions from the point of liberation.

House flies may travel anywhere from one mile to fifty or one hundred miles. Most of the flies that were captured had flown at right angles to a wind the velocity of which was thirteen to twenty four miles an hour. Twenty-seven per cent of them had flown west; for some unexplained reason fewer went south than in any other direction. The insects covered the first thousand feet from their place of release in a few minutes and seemed on an average to fly from five to nine miles in the two days immediately following their release.

Bennett's Rules For Success

Before Mr. A. B. Farquhar had started upon his successful career as a manufacturer of agricultural machinery he came to New York to discover how the great business men of the last generation had made their millions. Many of them gave the boy sound advice, but that of James Gordon Bennett, publisher of the Herald, especially impressed him. It was early in the morning when young Farquhar found Mr. Bennett alone in a little office. The boy had scarcely spoken a dozen words when the keen eyed journalist interrupted him.

"Look here young man, you look as though you had not eaten breakfast. Whenever you see anyone you should be at your best. You cannot be at your best if you are hungry. Go out and get your breakfast and then come back."

After the boy had breakfasted heartily at the Astor House as Mr. Bennett's guest, Mr. Bennett told him his receipt for success:

"The really important thing for you to know as a young man is that you must bank up a health account. Look at me; I am never sick. I never take a vacation. I am here at the office early in the morning and sometimes late at night. But I always try to be in bed early enough to get a good night's sleep. If you get plenty of sleep and are careful of your diet, you will never be sick."

A Hungry Pup

"What can I do for you, my man?"

"I'm an old sea-dog. Let me have a couple of bones."

Railway News

Montreal—It was announced at the head office of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Windsor Street Station here, that free transportation would be granted by that Company to all relief supplies for the sufferers from forest fires in Northern Ontario when consigned to the Cobalt Relief Commission, at Cobalt, Ontario. These supplies will be accepted by the railway at any point on the Canadian Pacific system, and will be rushed forward without delay.

Winnipeg—From September 1 to October 5, the C.P.R. has marketed 68,272,864 bushels of grain, according to a statement issued at the local offices. During the same period 35,484 cars were loaded, which is the equivalent to 51,180,789 bushels. The previous highest figures recorded were in 1915, when the company marketed 32,023,000 bushels and loaded 22,472 cars, which is equal to 29,887,760 bushels.

Penticton—After more than a quarter of a century of service on Canadian Pacific boats on British Columbia inland waters, Capt. George Robertson made his last trip on Saturday, and when the Sicamous tied up at the Penticton dock that evening the captain passed down the gangplank for the last time in an official capacity.

Captain Robertson is from now on a fruit rancher, and he proposes to lead the simple life on the ten-acre property which he purchased on The Bench three or four years ago.

His career in marine circles in British Columbia is a lengthy and honorable one and dates back nearly forty years.

Halifax—The many friends in Halifax and Dartmouth will be pleased to learn of the success of Edward Everett Beck, formerly of Dartmouth, but now residing in Vancouver. He has just been appointed manager to the Hotel Vancouver. Mr. Beck is a son of Mrs. Beck-Lydiard, Dartmouth. He has three brothers, Charles A., Dartmouth; Harry, Middle Musquodoboit, and Archibald in Winnipeg.

Going to Vancouver from Halifax, where he was a stockbroker, Mr. Beck has seen the Hotel Vancouver grow from a small brick building to the present fifteen storey fireproof structure.

Famous men and women from all parts of the world have been cared for by the smiling official during his service with the company.

Winnipeg—September records of the handling of the season's crop afford a remarkable demonstration of efficiency in grain handling by railroads, elevators and by the human element that plans and directs. Compared with other years the September movement far surpasses all previous records. All over the west long trains are carrying the current of wheat to the lake front and thence to the markets of the world.

Feeding the transportation routes are thousands of threshing outfits which during the recent fine weather have been operating in every district from early morning until dark.

A summary of the Winnipeg inspections shows the magnitude of the movement as compared with 1921:

	Sept. 1922	Sept. 1921
Corn of wheat.....	36,344	26,756
Oats	910	1,590
Barley	1,081	1,633
Flax	52	82
Rye	2,827	469
Total	44,456	30,463

Calgary, Alta.—Many farmers in the irrigated districts in southern Alberta have every reason to be satisfied with the result of their season's work, according to G. H. Hutton, superintendent of the agricultural and animal industry branch of the Canadian Pacific Department of Natural Resources in Calgary, who has returned after a visit to that section of the province. The yield of wheat has turned out most satisfactory, in some cases averaging thirty-seven bushels to the acre. One man in the Coaldale district had realized a net profit of $6,000 from 425 acres.

In the Vauxhall district one of the farmers had informed Mr. Hutton that he purposed finishing with 100 steers, 5,000 lambs and from twenty-five to thirty dairy cattle, and that he would have even then 200 tons of hay for sale from one section of land. Incidentally Mr. Hutton mentioned that the feeding of the lambs under contract in the irrigated districts was being considerably extended this year. The business promised to provide a most satisfactory market for alfalfa hay and coarse grain, and to involve a relatively small risk, inasmuch as it was possible to contract lambs now for spring delivery. The profits from that line of work, he said, were in marked contrast to those which were realized even under the best of conditions in the growing of grain alone on irrigated land.

Grenville Boys Ship Carload of Hogs To Toronto

The Grenville Boys' Pig Club, organized by the Ontario and Dominion Departments of Agriculture, shipped a carload of select bacon hogs to Toronto from Merrickville on Monday, Oct. 16th, in charge of Agricultural representative W. M. Croskery. The Grenville carlot was entered in Competition and judged against carloads of hogs shipped in by Boys' Clubs in seven other counties of Ontario on Wednesday, October 18th. The awards made are as follows:

1st, Halton County, prize $100, 2nd, York county, prize $90; 3rd, Huron county, prize $80; 4th, Victoria county, prize $75; 5th, Grenville county, prize $70; 6th, Wentworth county, prize $65; 7th. Peel county, prize $60; 8th, Lennox & Addington, prize $55.

The prize money will be divided among the boys shipping according to the number each shipped.

In addition to the carlot competition a judging competition was held for the boys from the different clubs who followed their hogs to market. Owing to the fact that the Grenville boys were so much farther away than the boys in the other clubs competing there were no entries in this competition. The boys were given a class of bacon and a class of brood sows to judge. Twenty-five cash prizes ranging from $25 down to $1 were awarded. The boys were entertained and banqueted by the Packers and were afterward shown through the Swift Canadian Co., Gunns Ltd., and the Harris plants. The experience will be something the boys will never forget.

After the carload lots were judged they were sold by auction. The Grenville load brought $12.25 per cwt., which is $1.25 more per cwt. than the top price ruling on the market on the day sold. There was very keen competition among the different packers for the boy's hogs. Gunns Ltd. secured the first prize carload at $14.10 with the intention of making a special advertising feature in their city stores. The different lots sold very much according to quality. The Grenville bunch while they were a nice lot and sold well, were lacking in uniformity of type and were not so uniform in weight as could be desired.

It is expected that next year this carlot competition among the various Boys' Pig Clubs throughout Ontario will be very keen. If the Grenville boys want to try it again expecting to stand high in the competition and have their hogs sell well they will have to secure and breed a more uniform type of bacon hog. It is not too early now to be on the lookout for well-bred type sows which should be bred to farrow late in April or early in May, so as to have a uniform lot of hogs to ship early in October next year.

The object in promoting work of this kind among boys is:

1. To stimulate greater interest in swine-raising amongst boys and girls and to develop a more general knowledge of swine marketing methods in Ontario.
2. To give boys and girls practical instruction in swine judging, so that they have sufficient knowledge of the desirable market type to enable them to select breeding stock intelligently.
3. To develop the community principle of breeding swine.
4. To demonstrate the value of producing a superior type of hog and marketing it to the best advantage.
5. To create a closer study of production costs and bring about improved methods of feeding and management.

"Well, yesterday I put on an old waistcoat that I hadn't worn for years and what do you think I fouud in the pocket?

"Your watch, let me congratulate you"

"No, I found the hole I must have lost through."

Protection Of Fruit Trees From Mice and Rabbits

(Experimental Farms Note)

While the depredations from mice and rabbits in winter vary from one year to another, depending on the scarcity or abundance of food, the number of mice which are in the vicinity and the character of the winter, the injury is always greatest when the orchard is in sod, and when there is rubbish lying about; hence the latter should be removed before the winter sets in. In most cases it is not necessary nor advisable to have the orchard in sod, particularly when the trees are young, although it is highly important to have a cover crop, which also may sometimes become a harbour for mice. As mice may be expected in greater or less numbers every winter, young trees should be regularly protected against their ravages. Mice usually begin working on the ground under the snow, and when they come to a tree they will begin to gnaw it if it is not protected. A small mound of soil from eight to twelve inches in height raised about the base of the tree will often prevent their injuring the tree, and even snow tramped about the tree has been quite effective, but the cheapest and surest practice is to wrap the tree with ordinary building paper, the price of which is merely nominal. Tar paper is also effective, but trees have been injured by using it, and it is well to guard against this when building paper will do as well. After the paper is wrapped around the tree and tied, a little earth should be put around the lower end to prevent the mice from beginning to work there, as if they get a start the paper will not stand in their way. It may be stated, however, that among several thousand young trees which have been wrapped with building paper for years at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, there have been practically no instances where the mice have gnawed through the paper to get at the tree. The use of a wire protector, or one made of tin or galvanized iron is economical in the end, as they are durable.

There are a number of washes and poisons recommended for the protection of fruit trees and the destruction of the mice and rabbits, but none of these is very satisfactory, as if the mice or rabbits are numerous the poison has not sufficient effect upon them to prevent injury altogether. The following method of poisoning has been found fairly successful for mice, but rabbits are very difficult to deal with.

Make a mixture of one part by weight of arsenic with three parts of corn meal. Nail two pieces of board each six feet long and six inches wide together so as to make a trough. Invert this near the trees to be protected and place about a tablespoonful of the poison on a shingle and put it near the middle of the run, renewing the poison as of en as is necessary.

A Quick Irish Tongue

The Irish are said to be lucky. Perhaps their luck is owing, in part at least, to their quick wits and quick tongues. At any rate a quick Irish tongue has many a time saved its owner much embarrassment. Sometimes indeed a quick tongue will save other things, more substantial than embarrassment. For example, Mrs. Flaherty—who certainly is Irish—was leaning against her gatepost when a borrowing neighbor approached her and suavely inquired, "Will ye be using your wash boiler this morning Mrs. Flaherty?"

In a tone and manner entirely polite, but no less decisive Mrs. Flaherty replied "I will not; nor you ayther!"

Years ago two boys, one of whom was quite as Irish as Mrs. Flaherty, accompanied a neighbor on a wagon trip to a town that neither boy had ever visited. Upon arriving, the two walked about the streets shyly until they finally found courage to enter a store. Only two persons, both salesmen, were inside.

Seeing few objects that were familiar, one of the boys inquired awkwardly, "What do you sell here?"

"Fools," replied one of the salesmen.

"Well," remarked the Irish boy cheerfully, "ye must have been having a big sale lately, for I see ye have only two left."

Sciatica

Sciatica is really an aggregation of diseases having the one symptom, pain, in common. The pain is situated either along the course of the sciatic nerve in the back of the thigh or along one of its branches or in its terminal nerves in the muscles of the leg or of the foot. The pain varies in intensity; sometimes it is only a little soreness or discomfort, sometimes it is of such excruciating intenseness as to cause the patient to cry out with agony and to cripple him so that he cannot move.

There are two or possibly three forms of sciatica. The first is a simple neuralgia affecting the sciatic nerve; the pain, although possibly severe, is of moderately short duration, and the patient probably will get well without any treatment beyond rest and gentle rubbing with some counterirritant such as capsicum or mustard embrocation. Of course massage and the application of heat—either hot-water bottles along the leg when in bed or baking or even "ironing" very gently over a layer of flannel—are also of great help.

A second form is a true neuritis, or inflammation of the sciatic nerve or one or more of its branches. That condition is much more serious, for although as in most cases of simple neuritis, the patient if properly cared for probably will get well eventually, the period of recovery will be long; weeks and months may pass before he obtains complete relief.

Still another affection that often is mistaken for sciatica and is so called is not sciatica at all, but really is muscular rheumatism confined to the back of the thigh. The pain, fortunately, is usually not severe; the chief difficulty is that any movement of the affected leg causes great distress. The affection usually does not last long; and massage and a few doses of a solution of bicarbonate of soda, citrate of potash or some other alkaline potion will help it.

It is always necessary or at least it is best to discover the cause of continuous pain in the area of the sciatic nerve, for the pain may not be sciatica at all but may be owing to disease of the hip or to a tumor's pressing on the nerve somewhere along its course from the origin of fibres in the spinal cord to their distribution in the leg or in the foot.

Fire Protection Without Fire Fighters?

This week work has been commenced on Queen street for the purpose of extending better fire protection to the business section and to the eastern side of the village, in the laying of additional water mains, with the intention of placing hydrants at several different points. With what appears a very ready willingness to spend the ratepayer's money in a work of this kind on the threshold of winter, when the costs incurred by lessened daylight and bad working conditions are materially increased it is passing strange that no step has been taken by the Council to bring into being any organization for getting an adequate service out of this expenditure after the system is installed.

There is no fire-fighting organization of any description in Chesterville; neither was the formation of one even discussed at last meeting of Council, notwithstanding that at least one member of the Council was aware that a competent, experienced man was ready with the assistance of enough other willing men to go ahead and organize and train a volunteer fire brigade for Chesterville. These men who are willing to go ahead, giving their time and service, for the protection of this town can do nothing unless the Council accepts of their services and places at their disposal for training purposes the fire fighting appliances now owned by the village.

On the other hand, the ratepayers may be willing that their money be expended in the manner it is being spent, and would sooner have the so called protection of insurance than the saving of their property from distruction by a competent company of volunteer fire fighters.

The indifference of all classes of the community, except those who are willing to volunteer for this service passeth all understanding.

Mr. "Johnnie" Sorrell leaves today for Rosetown, Sask., to join his hockey team-mate "Bus" Hummel for the winter and do battle on the ice for the honor of the western town. Here's regretting the departure of these boys, but good wishes for their success in notching the counters for their team this season.

The Camrose, Alta, Canadian in reporting the Record Hill School Fair, has this reference to an exhibit by Harold Casselman son of Mr. John Casselman, who moved from the Ninth to the west a few years ago;—"The High school wood work was won by Harold Casselman, a detachable pully. This exhibit won great praise from the Judges and is very cleverly executed. When one considers that the exhibitor made the lathe also on which the pully was turned or machined greater credit is due him."

Mr. Abraham Viner last week had the pleasure of greeting his three daughters on their arrival in Canada after not having seen them for ten years. He has had very considerable difficulty in arranging their departure from Riga, Russia, to join him in his new home in Canada. Before the war it was thought that everything had been made easy for them to come across the ocean, their tickets even having been purchased, but one difficulty after another was experienced until this Fall.

Hallowe'en passed off almost like a midsummer's night dream speaking climatically, otherwise it was somewhat of a night mare. Even at that it was not what was done that was particularly annoying but the nerve wrecking accompaniment until well beyond midnight was somewhat trying to the slumber seeker. The net result of the frolic was a tremendous conglomeration of vehicles of every description piled on the square opposite the post office, requiring considerable patience and labor to sort out the morning after the night before.

Day in and day out, the hard work of cleaning the stable has to be done. Stable cleaning with a wheelbarrow is a monotonous, hard, disagreeable chore. It is hard to wheel a heavy wheelbarrow load through a muddy yard and up a slippery plank. And the worst of it is, this hard, disagreeable chore has to be done every day.

It is practically an impossibility to get the manure far enough away from the stable. The conditions in the yard make it impossible. Manure piles right up close to the stable give off ammonia fumes that spoil paint and woodwork, rot harness and at the first opportunity breed flies.

A wheelbarrow does not hold much at a load, which means many trips before the work is done. The BT Carrier holds three times as much as a wheelbarrow. It will tackle 800 lbs. in one load.

The hard work of cleaning the stable is cut in two with a manure carrier. It runs on overhead track so it does not matter about the state of the yard. No planks to lay; no snow to shovel; no more pushing to the top of the pile with a wheelbarrow.
