The Market continues strong with a further advance of two cents per dozen during the last week. We strongly advise to market your eggs when fresh—not to sell them as seconds, when they should have gone extras; there is a big premium on good fresh eggs.

Millfeed

The Millfeed situation is acute—very little Middlings to be had, and no prospect of coming down until wheat reaches such a level as to enable Europe to buy flour.

What VALSPAR Is Doing IN OTHER HOMES

Making the woodwork, furniture and floors absolutely waterproof and spot-proof—it will do in your home also. Try it on some place that is shabby or spotty. You can do the varnishing yourself, because Valspar is very easy to apply, and it dries quickly—perfectly hard in 24 hours. VALSPAR is a remarkable varnish.

Neither boiling water nor spilled liquids can turn it white or in any way mar its beautiful surface.

It protects and preserves woodwork and furniture of all kinds.

You should use it everywhere in the home, indoors and out, to get the very best results.

With VALSPAR on your floors, the living room, dining room, bed rooms, kitchen—every room in the house—will always look bright and fresh. You can wash them as often as you like, for soap and water, either hot or cold, will never harm Valspar. No polishing oils are necessary.

Wet shoes and dripping umbrellas will leave no mark on the Valspar in your hall.

Wherever you have Linoleum, Congoleum or Oilcloth in your home, varnish it with VALSPAR after it has been on the floor three or four months. The Valspar will not only brighten it, but will make it last a great deal longer because Valspar will protect the surface from wear and absolutely prevent the penetration of moisture.

Outside, on your door and porch, Valspar laughs at rain, snow and sun.

Beyond all question, Valspar is the most efficient household varnish in the world. Don't rest content merely with reading about Valspar. Use it. See what it will do in your home.

VALSPAR costs a little more than cheap varnish, but Oh My. It looks so much better, and wears so long. It is really much cheaper in the end. Have you tried it?

WHEN C. N. E. WAS KNOWN AS TORONTO FAIR

(J. Smyth Carter in Willison's Monthly)

Human interest in city, town, and village lends to life a charm and fascination. Morrisburg, the old home town of the late Sir James Whitney, is no exception to the rule. The village possesses an historical, social, and political background abundantly replete with incident and anecdote of refreshing interest. It was while listening to Mr. J. P. Gormley, the popular postmaster, relate some of these unpublished dramas that our conversation turned to wider fields.

For Toronto, the Queen City, Mr. Gormley has a very high regard. Besides the city's place in the sun as an educational and intellectual centre the two outstanding features according to Mr. Gormley, are the Canadian National Exhibition and the Mendelssohn Choir. The first of these holds a very firm place in the affections and memory of the Morrisburg postmaster, as evidenced by his recital of this most unique experience.

One Arrest

"My introduction to the Toronto Fair, more than twenty-five years ago," remarked Mr. Gormley, "resulted in my arrest."

Knowing the peaceable and law abiding character of Mr. Gormley and the hospitality of Toronto, I treated him to relate the circumstances under which the arm of the law intervened.

"For many years," began Mr. Gormley, "there went forth annually from Morrisburg, Mr. William Denesha, who conducted a grocery and refreshment centre at the Toronto Fair. Previous to the particular occasion to which I now refer, I had been with some friends in New York and had come across a novelty in the form of an advertising button, then a new idea. The thought flashed to me, why not have a button designed for the Toronto Fair, visit the exhibition, and make my fortune?"

The spirit of adventure sealed the suggestion. The order was given and some weeks before the exhibition date, the future postmaster had secured his stock in this commercial venture Mr. Denesha was his chief adviser. With the approach of the exhibition, Mr. Denesha and his Morrisburg helpers went to Toronto, Mr. Gormley following a day or two later.

"I took the night train," said Mr. Gormley, "and arriving at the exhibition proudly presented my pass which had been given to me by my friend Denesha. The pass on its first appearance was duly earmarked by the gate-keeper; and with my two suit-cases filled with those beautiful buttons, with attached ribbons, I made my way across the grounds. Passing a booth where novelties were being sold, somewhat similar to mine, I engaged in friendly conversation with the proprietor, who showed me his wares. In the happy belief that my buttons were far superior to the ones shown me, I brought to view my product, which my competitor, who was paying well for the privilege of selling, acknowledged to be very fine."

"Proceeding on my way toward the Denesha tent, I was soon accosted by a burly policeman, who after briefly questioning me as to the contents of the suit-cases and my ideas of disposal, said, 'Young man, you had better come with me.'"

"At that particular moment I was so shocked that I couldn't go with any person. Recovering consciousness, however, I asked if I might be permitted to visit a friend on the grounds. This request was granted, and in company with my policeman friend, I marched toward the Denesha tent. My Morrisburg neighbors seeing me approach waved and shouted. But I could not respond as I was under arrest."

"Have you sold any of these buttons," said Mr. Denesha, who was alert in sizing up the situation. 'No,'

CHILD CAUGHT IN BINDER

On Monday afternoon little Elsie Bell, for year old twin and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bell of Irena, had her one leg severed three quarters of the way off in the knives of a binder which her father was driving.

The child with her twin brother had taken some apples to her father and was sent home. Childlike, she returned and hid in the tall grain with the sad results.

BEACH FACTORY BURNS

Fire breaking out in the boiler room of the sash, door and furniture factory of the M. F. Beach Co. at Winchester, did damage estimated at $200,000. The fire started before the factory was opened Monday morning and soon the entire place was in flames. It is believed to have spread from one of the boilers. Winchester and Chesterville firemen fought the flames and were able to save the Beach furniture, flour and feed shops adjacent by dynamiting the passageway connecting with the factory. The factory building, which in some parts was two storeys and some parts three storeys was completely destroyed.

MISS JENNIE SKINNER

Iroquois, Sept. 11th.—It was with great regret the community learned of the death of Miss Jennie Skinner, which took place in the General Hospital, Brockville, where she had been for the past five weeks. Miss Skinner was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner, River Road East, and a young woman of exemplary character; was brought up in the Anglican faith to which she always adhered, taking an active part in church work—the Woman's Auxiliary, Sabbath School, etc., all of which have suffered a great loss by her decease. Suffering from an incurable trouble, part of the last year was spent in the hospital where she died. Left to mourn were Mary, a sister, and brother Edward at home; John, a brother in Iroquois, and an uncle, Mr. John Griffith, who made his home at the Skinner Homestead. Rev. J. Lionel Homer, rector of St. John's Anglican Church conducted the funeral services, paying due respect to her memory.

MRS. TOUSAW

Iroquois, Sept. 11.—The death occurred of Mrs. Tousaw, relict of the late Alexander Tousaw, who predeceased her several years ago. Born in the state of Illinois, she married Mr. Tousaw there and coming to Canada at that time, they settled on a farm in Matilda Township. On the death of her husband, Mrs. Tousaw went to Brockville where she resided for a lengthy period, the remainder of her life being spent in Iroquois and vicinity. Some weeks ago she sustained injuries from a fall down stairs, never fully recovering from the shock.

The funeral was conducted by her pastor Rev. M. I. Robinson from the home of her great-niece, whom she had adopted when a child, to the United Church, thence to Point Iroquois cemetery. An adopted son, Mr. W. Johnston of Chicago, Ill., was present at the funeral.

not any," I replied.

"Turning to the officer, Denesha thundered 'Why did you arrest this young man? He has not been selling these goods.'"

"It was a statement of fact; no sale had been made, and the policeman and informant soon moved away."

Placing a couple of dozen of the buttons in his pocket, Mr. Denesha invited me to come with him. We visited the Administration Building and approaching the door of a certain room we were told that we could not enter as the directors were

Farm Notes

HULLESS OATS FOR POULTRY.

Hulless oats, that is varieties of oats that thresh out clear of the hulls, are particularly useful for the feeding of poultry. Experiments carried on at one Manitoba and one Saskatchewan Experimental Farm with laying pullets showed profits of about twenty-five cents per bird in favor of the hulless oats. In the tests made pens receiving hulless oats in both grain and mash, were compared with pens receiving common oats fed in the same manner. Cracked hulless oats are particularly useful for young chicks. This test and many others are reported in the 1926 annual report of the Poultry Division of the Experimental Farms, distributed by the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, which gives the results of much experimental work carried on at the Central Farm and at the branch Farms and Stations over Canada in all phases of poultry raising.

LIVE STOCK TOTALS.

It is interesting to note from the very comprehensive report of the Director of the Experimental Farm system of Canada for the year ending March 31st, 1927, that the rapid progress of motive power has not made any material difference during the last five years in the number of horses in the country. As a matter of fact there appears to have been more horses in Canada in 1926 than there were last year or in 1923, but in 1922 and 1924 the totals ran somewhat higher. Milk cows show an increase in 1926 over every other year, but other cattle show a decrease, the difference between 1922 and last year being no less than 766,150. Sheep show an increase in 1927 over the three preceding years, although fewer than in 1922. Swine are greater in number than in any other year excepting only 1924.

A LATE BLOOMING LILAC.

Come lovely new hybrid lilacs are the latest achievement of the Horticultural Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms. These new lilacs bloomed in all their beauty at the Central Farm last June and excited a great deal of favorable comment.

Some of the officials of the Arnold Arboretum, at Harvard University, were particularly impressed by their good points and at their suggestion this group will be named Syringa Prætorius, in honor of Miss Isabella Preston, specialist in Ornamental Gardening at the Central Farm.

The hybrid is a cross between two Chinese species, the old Syringa villosa frequently seen in shrubberies and the comparatively new Syringa reflexa. It is late flowering and very hardy. The bushes in bloom are laden with blossoms, pale pink to deep rose like in color, some of the varieties being exceptionally attractive. The flower clusters vary considerably in shape, size and appearance.

HARDY GARDEN ROSES.

The revised edition of the bulletin "Hardy Roses" as issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, first issued contains very useful information for those who are undertaking rose growing in their home gardens. Besides long lists of Hybrid Teas and Hybrid Perpetuals and Climbing Roses that have done at least moderately well at Ottawa, certain of them are recommended as being especially suited for the small garden. In Hybrid Perpetuals seven varieties in different colors are especially recommended for their hardiness, beautiful flowers, and cropping qualities. Those include: Frau Karl Druschki, white; General Jacqueminet, scarlet crimson; Her Majesty, pink; Hugh Dickson, crimson; Mrs. Sharman Crawford, pink; and Ulrich Brunner, cherry red. If the list is to be still further reduced, Mr. W. T. Macoun and Miss Isabella Preston, the authors of the bulletin, would confine their selection to Frau Karl Druschki, Mrs. John Laing, and Hugh Dickson. Of the Hybrid Teas which are not quite so hardy but more constant bloomers, the recommendations include Caroline Testout, pink; General McArthur, crimson; Gruss en Tepitz, crimson; Lady Ashdown, pink; Lady Pirrie, pink; La Tosca, pink; Mme. Edouard Herriot, coral red; Souvenir de Claudius Pernet, yellow; Willowmere, shrimp pink.

The bulletin, which is No. 17, New Series, and is available at the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, covers the whole subject of rose growing in Canada in such popular language as to be a safe and easy guide either for the beginner or the rose grower of experience.

IMPROVEMENT OF HOG PRODUCTS.

In the report for the year ending March 31st, 1927, of the Director of the Dominion Experimental Farms, just issued by the Dept. of Agriculture at Ottawa, particulars are given of certain work carried on regarding the improvement of hog products and the animal itself. Investigation of the causes of soft pork is not considered complete except so far as that softness of side appears very closely linked with unfinished hogs. In an experiment relative to the methods of feeding with economy of gains one lot of pigs was normally hand-fed, another lot self fed, a third lot heavily hand fed, and the fourth and last lot lightly hand fed. The self fed lot made the largest daily gains at a cost of 6.6 cents per pound and the lightly fed lot the slowest at a cost of 5.9 cents per pound. The heavily fed lot made gains at a cost of 6 cents per pound and the normally fed lot gains at a cost of 6.1 cents per pound. A test in the use of chopped alfalfa to improve the winter ration of pigs tends to show that three per cent. of chopped alfalfa of good quality increases the value of the ration for market hogs.

A litter of seven from a cross-bred Tamworth-Berkshire sow by a Berkshire boar was used to determine the feed cost of producing pork from weaning to marketable age and weight. The pigs averaged 34.5 pounds at the start of the test and weighed an average of 188 pounds when marketed. They consumed an average of 2.47 pounds of meal and 5.27 pounds of milk per pound of gain. The meal mixture was worth $35 per ton, and valuing the milk at 25 cents per hundred pounds would indicate that the feed cost per pound of gain was 5.66 cents.

ILLUSTRATION STATIONS.

The Experimental Farms System operates nine Illustration Stations in the Province of Ontario. Five are located in the eastern part of the province and the other four in North-western Ontario, otherwise known as New Ontario. At all these Stations methods of stock improvement and the introduction of improved varieties of seed are stressed. At each Station pure bred sires are maintained. Milk scales are used for ascertaining the productive qualities of the dairy herds, enabling the operators to weed out the low producing stock. A flock of brood-to-lay Barred Rock poultry is maintained at each Station, and eggs from these are distributed to farmers in the district. Seed potatoes and seed grain are produced and sold within the neighborhood of the Station. A report of the work done at these Stations last year is published along with corresponding accounts for Quebec and the Maritime Provinces in a volume prepared by the late Mr. John Fixter, the Chief Supervisor of these Stations in Canada. This report, as well as a corresponding volume for the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia, is ready for distribution at the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

MOTHER INTERFERES

Pauline Herr Thomas

"Let's play wash-day," said Jeanne. "Oh, yes, let's! I'll wash and you iron," said Arlene.

"No, I want to wash."

"No, you won't, either. Then I won't play. I'm going right home."

I tried to close my ears to this continual disagreement between my little girl and her playmate. I was reminded of a crowd of boys in the back lot trying to organize a ball game without a captain. The two children disagreed so much that they could not accomplish their ends in play.

I had heard so much about the error of interfering in children's arguments that I had steadfastly refused to do so. Yet, I felt that I could discriminate here. The children were not just quarrelling—they were refusing to recognize one or the other as leader and so failing to organize their play. It seemed to me that they fairly cried out for a captain, so I decided to act in that capacity.

Whenever a disagreement arose which promised to be of sufficient consequence to break up a play, but which was not of a personal nature such as a test of strength or ability, I would step by and inquire what seemed to be the trouble; I would suggest that each tell her side of the argument and, together, we would weigh the advantages and disadvantages of each, after which I would suggest a plan of procedure. After they had given it a trial, I would inquire how the plan worked. Of course, it justified itself, and they would be enthusiastic.

After a period of such procedure, I began to withdraw my own personality in the decision, leaving suggestions and plans entirely to them. In this way it was not long before I needed "to interfere" no longer—they came to me, instead of my going to them. I found their judgment to be much better than I suspected, and they were solving their problems as well as learning valuable lessons in judgment and decision.

I still remain the kindly monitor who they know will listen and even suggest, if they wish, but for the most part, I have dropped out of the picture. They settle their disputes "out of court," as it were.

"Let's play house," says Jeanne. "Oh, yes, let's," says Arlene.

"I want the dishes and you can have the washing set."

"Oh, no, I want the dishes."

"I said I wanted them first."

"Then I won't play!"

"Oh, yes, come on, Arlene, I'll tell you what let's do—I'll be the mother and have all the things in the house, and you'll be the lady that comes to see and then—"

"Oh, yes, then I'll be the mother and you'll be the lady."

"Won't that be a good plan?"

"Then we'll each have them both to play with," say both at once.

So the play goes on to a finish, Jeanne and Arlene are happy, and Mother is happy, too!

Royal Smile is Bestowed Upon the Veterans

His Royal Highness plainly showed his pleasure at meeting his war-time friends in his smiling salute as the warriors "marched past" at C.N.E. on Tuesday last.

Fresh Tomatoes, Cold or Hot

Fresh tomatoes are on the market practically all summer long, giving the homemaker plenty of chances to exhaust all the ways of serving the vegetable that she knows about. Here are some splendid recipes for dishes that are easily prepared and will be welcome on the days—whether hot or cold—when one wants something a little different on the menu.

Shrimp Tomato Salad

Wash medium-sized ripe tomatoes, cut off the stem-ends and scoop out the pulp to form shells. Sprinkle lightly with salt inside, and invert to drain in a cold place until ready to be stuffed. For the filling of 6 such shells, allow 6 shrimps or anchovies, 2 cold hard-boiled eggs, and 1 teaspoonful each of minced olives and capers. Mix these with $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cupful of stiff cooked salad dressing, and chill. At serving time, lay each shell on a chilled leaf of head lettuce, or in a nest of leaf lettuce shredded by cutting with the scissors, fill with the fish mixture, garnish with mayonnaise diluted with whipped cream and serve immediately.

Tomatoes with Horseradish Salad Dressing

To 4 tablespoonfuls of grated horseradish, add 1 tablespoonful of clear vinegar, $\frac{1}{4}$ of a teaspoonful of salt, 1 teaspoonful of sugar and $\frac{1}{2}$ of a teaspoonful of paprika or 1 teaspoonful of grated canned pineapple. Prepare $\frac{1}{2}$ of a cupful of stiffly-whipped cream. Scald a fresh ripe tomato for each person to be served, cover with cold water, remove the stem end and peel. Set aside with the cream to become cold. At serving time, make nests on individual serving plates from leaves of head lettuce or shredded leaf lettuce, place on each a tomato cut into quarters lengthwise and beat the horseradish mixture into the whipped cream. Pour the dressing over the tomatoes and serve immediately.

If prepared horseradish is used, drain thoroughly from the vinegar and omit vinegar in the recipe.

Tomato Sandwiches

Peel and chill small firm tomatoes. Into $\frac{1}{2}$ of a cupful of thick cooked salad dressing mix $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cupful of finely-chopped green pepper and $\frac{1}{2}$ of a teaspoonful of chopped onion. At serving time, spread buttered slices of bread liberally with the pepper mixture, and on half the slices lay thin slices of tomato. Cover with the remaining slices and serve immediately.

If the bread is buttered well so the moisture cannot get through and make it soggy, these sandwiches may be made before they will be needed, placed in piles in the refrigerator and left slightly weighted down with a plate until serving time.

Red and Yellow Tomato Salad

Scald and peel 1 ripe red tomato and 1 ripe yellow tomato for each person to be served and set aside to chill. At serving time, slice each red tomato crosswise on a bed of lettuce, add a layer of crisp cucumber cubes, then 4 wafer-thin slices of green onion and a yellow tomato, quartered lengthwise, on top. Pour French dressing over all and serve immediately.

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes

Allow 1 large fresh tomato for each person to be served. Slice off the stem end, scoop out the pulp, dust inside the shell with salt and leave inverted to drain until ready for the filling. Fill the cavity with the stuffing, sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and bake, covered, in a brisk oven, until the tomatoes are tender. How long this will require depends upon the size of the tomato, large one needing about 25 minutes. Remove the cover and brown lightly before serving. Most of these are liked best when hot, but some people cool them, then place them in the refrigerator to become thoroughly chilled before serving time.

Ham Filling

Mix together equal parts of chopped tomato pulp drained from the juice, finely-minced ham, and bread crumbs seasoned well with salt, pepper and butter. Beat an egg well, stir through the mixture and use as filling for tomato shells.

Beef Filling

Mix together equal parts of chopped cooked beef and bread crumbs seasoned to taste with salt, pepper and butter. Add 1 teaspoonful of chopped onion and enough cold beef gravy to bind the ingredients together.

Clam Filling

Chop 1 can of clams drained from the juice, add an equal amount of bread crumbs, $\frac{1}{2}$ of a teaspoonful of salt and $\frac{1}{4}$ of a teaspoonful of paprika. Mix the clam juice with 1 well-beaten egg and add to the fish mixture. Fill the tomato shells and bake an hour. Serve immediately.

Tomato Croquettes

Chop fine 3 hard-boiled eggs and add to the drained pulp of 2 large fresh, ripe tomatoes, 1 tablespoonful of chopped parsley, 1 teaspoonful of powdered herbs, 1 cupful of hot mashed potatoes, $\frac{1}{2}$ of a teaspoonful each of salt and chopped onion, a few drops of lemon juice and the yolks of 2 eggs. Mix and shape into croquettes. Roll in finely-sifted bread crumbs, white of egg diluted with 1 tablespoonful of water and lightly beaten together, then in crumbs again. Set aside to dry slightly before frying. At serving time, fry golden brown in deep hot fat and serve immediately.

Tomato Timbales

Simmer together for 15 minutes: $\frac{1}{4}$ cupfuls of tomatoes cut into small pieces, juice and all, 2 slices of onion, 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoonful of pepper. Rub through a sieve and add to the puree $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cupful of cracker crumbs and 2 slightly-beaten eggs. Pour into greased timbale molds, or cups, and bake in a moderate oven until they are firm. Turn out carefully on a platter and pour cheese sauce around them.

Cheese Sauce

Melt 1 tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and blend well with it 1 tablespoonful of flour. When foamy, add slowly, stirring constantly, 1 cupful of milk. Bring to a boil and cook and stir until the mixture is smooth and thick. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ of a cupful of cheese cut into bits and $\frac{1}{4}$ of a teaspoonful each of salt and paprika. Stir, and when the cheese is melted pour the sauce around the timbales. Serve immediately.

Prof. Dewey Also Butter and Egg Man

The greatest philosopher of the U.S., Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University is also something of a butter and egg man. He raises chickens and sells eggs on a rather large scale.

"Not long ago," says "The Bookman" of September, "the man who takes the orders and delivers the eggs was ill and Professor Dewey took an order over the phone from a lady and delivered the eggs in person."

"The mistress of the house appeared, asked him if he was sure the eggs were fresh, and upon getting his word that they were, paid him; and professor Dewey went away."

"Shortly after that the lady heard that a tea was being given with Professor Dewey as the guest of honor, and, being anxious to meet the philosopher, she pulled wires to get an invitation."

"When she arrived all a flutter she asked to have the guest of honor pointed out to her. Over in the corner Professor Dewey sat hunched in a chair. He was pointed out to the lady."

"My word!" she said, "A philosopher! Of all things! He looks just like the man who delivers my eggs."

Basis of Health Is Agriculture

Belgian Director-General Stresses Importance of Rural Prosperity

That development of agriculture is a necessity, that country life must be emphasized, that an association of members of Parliament whose sole aim is to interest individuals in agriculture be created, and that the home-training of children be improved, was urged by Paul Devuyt, Director-General of the Department of Agriculture in Belgium, and Belgian delegate to the International Institute of Agriculture of Rome, to newspaper representatives in Montreal, recently.

Mr. Devuyt has just returned from a congress of agriculturists in the United States, and is en route home to Belgium. He will stop over for a few days in Quebec, the guest of Hon. J. A. Caron, Minister of Agriculture for Quebec.

Discussing the sending of Belgians to Canada, Mr. Devuyt declared that at the present time in that country, this was not being encouraged. "Belgium needs her countrymen more than other countries need them. We are encouraging our people to take to the soil, for in agriculture lies a nation's wealth. And so the Belgian farmer stays in Belgium."

Mr. Devuyt declared that Belgium produced more produce on her farms per acre than Canada, owing, he pointed out, to a more intensive form of cultivation, and also to the greater number of farmers per acre in that country. "Since the ravages of the Great War," he declared, "Belgium has been in a difficult financial position, and therefore to stabilize our affairs we are growing as much agricultural produce as possible."

"We have had a century's progress in various things," said Mr. Devuyt. "Certain centuries have become known for progress in art, in literature, in science, in mechanics, and the like. What we must have in the future is a better comprehension of the duty of parents towards their children. And to encourage the best methods for the home training of children there has been started in Belgium an international institute. A Melotte, the inventor of the Melotte cream separator, has given the first donation, and within a few years the institution will be international."

Canadian Youth

It speaks volumes for the courage and hardihood of the youth of Canada that five lads, whose ages range from sixteen years to eight, should be lost in the Laurentian woods for three days and come through their experience with spirit unbroken and nervous system unharmed, suffering only from hunger and exhaustion which a good night's rest put right. "We had no trouble at all. We walked a lot and we ate berries and we drank water. We were lost, but none of us were frightened." This is what one of the smaller boys said when the lads had been rescued and brought safely back to camp. And having said it, he fell asleep. There have been instances when five men, finding themselves in similar circumstances, lost in the Laurentian woods, have been considerably scared and have worried far more than these youngsters seem to have done. One particularly interesting feature of their adventure is the fact that the oldest lad on more than one occasion covered the body of the youngest with his own in order that he might not suffer from cold while sleeping—sixteen years protecting eight while lost in the forest. It is a thing to make parents proud.

But all Canadians should find in this event something to thrill them. It shows of what stuff our youngest generation is made. It shows how these boys' camps harden youngsters and teach them self-reliance, courage and self-sacrifice. And those are excellent lessons for youth to learn. The woodcraft revealed by the leader of the five appears to have been sound at all times. Incidentally, the limitations of search by aeroplane are indicated by the fact that though at one point the boys were in an open space waving their hats, an aviator passed close by them, flying low, and never saw them. The outstanding feature of the whole affair, however, is the fine example it affords of the mettle of Canadian boys. So long as they maintain that, there need be little fear for the rising generation.—Montreal Star.

Most Too Good.

He—"I have got to go. Let me kiss you good-bye until Sunday, dear."

She—"No, I couldn't think of it. That would be too long a kiss."

England, according to the latest figures, has 1,677,000 more females than males. No wonder the Prince of Wales retreats to Canada.

OWL-LAFFS

The Rockefeller Foundation announces that sleeping sickness can be cured. Yes, easily, by moving into the modern apartment house.

Every now and then the average wife meets a hatchet-faced woman she'd just love to have her husband live with for a while and get what was coming to him.

"Have you seen my fiancé, cook?" "No ma'am, but it's probably at the wash, as I sent all yer 'undies!"

"It always makes me glad to see a woman acting silly over a poodle." "Why?"

"Because it shows what a bad bring-up some lucky baby escaped."

"Father has given you the door, you must not see me any more." The maiden cried in fright.

"I won't," she heard the youth remark. "I cannot see you in the dark, so I'll turn out the light."

Foreman—"Pat, you had no right to touch that wire. Don't you know you might have been killed by the shock?" Pat—"Sure, I felt it carefully before I took hold of it."

Scientists say they know the moon has nothing to do with rain fall and old people say they know better.

"She was a manicurist in a barber shop and wanted to get ahead." Well, most of 'em need one.

Little Joan—"What do the angels do in heaven, mummy?" Mother—"They sing and play harps."

Little Joan—"Haven't they any radios?"

GIRLHOOD DANGERS

Come Through a Weakening of the Blood—A Tonic is Needed.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time. It is when the strength is sapped by rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation become apparent, with low spirits and depression.

Neglected anaemia often leads to a decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched, there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood-builder ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They will build up your girl's health and ensure for her healthy womanhood. In proof of this Mrs. George Justason, Black's Harbor, N.B., says:—"I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a wonderful medicine. My daughter, Margaret, was in such a badly run down condition that we feared she was going into a decline. Her face was pale, the least exertion would leave her breathless and she suffered from headaches. She had no appetite and lost in weight. Up to the time we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, no treatment had helped her. But thanks to the use of this wonderful medicine she is again well and strong, showing no signs of the trouble that had so weakened her."

In all troubles due to weak, watery blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found a reliable remedy. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PREMIER INTERVIEWS CAR INSPECTOR

When Premier Stanley Baldwin was travelling through the Maritime Provinces over the lines of the Canadian National Railways he evinced keen interest in all matters concerning transportation. At Truro, N.S., Mr. Baldwin asked D. A. McKay, Car Inspector, "Did you examine the wheels of my car?" "Yes sir. They are all right," answered the Inspector. Mr. Baldwin then asked a number of questions about the work of inspectors, remarking that in England they were called "car tappers," and noting the longer hammer used in Canada. "Yours is a responsible work" commented Mr. Baldwin as the train drew out.

Albania Employs Veteran Fighter

British Soldier of Fortune Remodeling Army

Scutari, Albania.—The "Albanian question" is now largely in the hands of Gen. Sir Jocelyn Percy, a veteran of the South African war, of several Indian expeditions, and of the great war.

Gen. Percy came here to reorganize the gendarmery and was appointed by Ahmed Bey Zogu to command the military and civil administrations of all Albania north of the Matir River. He expects to pacify the turbulent region of the Malissore tribes and thus put a stop to the continual agitation along the frontier between Albania and Yugoslavia.

Gen. Percy's policy is that of the "square deal."

The tribesmen of the region under my command," he says, "can come to me and pour out their grievances with confidence that they will be heard and dealt with fairly."

Gen. Percy, after leaving the British Army as major general in 1919, went to South Russia with a British mission attached to Gen. Denikin's army. He was later with Gen. Wrangell in the Crimea. He enjoyed three years of rest and quiet on a ranch in British Columbia. Desiring active life, he put on the harness again in November last and undertook the task of reforming and reorganizing the Albanian gendarmery.

27,000 Americans Kiss Blarney Stone

Cork, Ireland.—More than 27,000 American tourists have kissed the famous Blarney Stone this year.

The curators of Blarney Castle are considering limiting the number of "kissing visitors" in the future because of the danger, they point out, that the kissers must climb to the wall and then be lowered down head first, with another person holding on to the feet, and that, should the hold relax, a serious fall might result.

The Blarney Stone is gradually wearing away, partly by the action of the elements and partly by the damage done by tourists in their effort to kiss the stone. Its potency, however, according to the common belief, remains the same. This has been described by one Irish writer in the following words:

"The touch of Blarney Stone creates smooth and graceful liars of the first magnitude with a sweet, persuasive tongue with women, full of guile, blandishment and potent flattery."

Paint Saves Lost Tools

If you paint the tools and other garden equipment about the place, bright red with a trim of blue, yellow or green, their gay appearance will be a gentle but incessant reminder to all careless ones who borrow or use them to promptly return the into their proper niche in the tool house. Incidentally they are more easily found if mislaid.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS HELP A PRIZE WINNER

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for little ones. From the newborn babe to the growing child they are an absolute safeguard to health. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Thousands of mothers always keep them on hand.

Among the mothers who state that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones that they know of is Mrs. Russell Hill, of Norwood, Ont. Her experience with the Tablets should be of great benefit to any mother who has not already given the Tablets a trial. Mrs. Hill says:—"I have five fine healthy children, and from the youngest to the oldest they get no other medicine but Baby's Own Tablets. When our baby girl was eleven months old she won second prize at the Norwood Fair, and when she was a year older she won first prize in competition with twenty-eight other babies. It was the Tablets that gave her the health and development to carry off these prizes. I always delight in telling other mothers what the Tablets have done for my children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canadian Research

London Free Press (Cons.): Mr. Malcolm is acting wisely in proposing a plan of co-operation between the Dominion and the provinces. In the past there has been too little co-ordination between Provincial and Federal Governments in various departments. There has been much needless overlapping. It would be foolishness, for instance, for the Dominion to start on scientific research and then for Ontario to proceed to duplicate its efforts. Each province has its own peculiar problems, and the only way is for the Provincial and Federal Governments to co-ordinate their efforts.

It won't be so long now before a popular trans-atlantic expression may be, "Oh, say, can you see the floating landing stage?"

Too American To Suit Stephen

Prof. Leacock Criticizes the U.S. and We Can't Follow Their Lead

Montreal—Too great a tendency exists in Canada to copy what is done in the United States, said Professor Stephen Leacock of McGill University in addressing the party of visiting British journalists touring Canada. The party was entertained at Macdonald Agricultural College, a Faculty of McGill.

"There are some false theories held in regard to immigration," said Professor Leacock. "The United States, which we are so much inclined to copy, has got hold of a set of ideas about immigration which may suit that country but does not suit us. There is too great a tendency in this country to copy what is done by the American republic regardless of the fact that their industrial system is older than ours and their population a dozen times greater, while their ideas are very often mistaken."

"When it comes to the question of immigration the last thing we want to do is to follow their example. They have their foolish and misguided quota law, a law which places varying nations, a Turk and a Scot, on the same footing, disregarding the fact that the language of their country, after all, is English, that their laws and institutions rest upon British foundations and that in history and literature we have a common tradition."

Minard's Liniment relieves backache.

Far North Station Nears Completion

One of the three stations to be erected in the Hudson Strait district before Winter is now nearing completion. With the mast going up, the survey party for the Canadian Government on the Hudson Bay railway scheme will soon be in direct touch with Ottawa. The dispatch, arriving through Port Nelson, states that much survey work has been done with the assistance of the seven airplanes carried by the expedition, which has been in the district since the middle of July. Short-wave radio communication was had with the expedition on its way north, and soon all the apparatus carried for land, ship and airplane will be functioning, supplying commercial and amateur operators with a Far North system of radio stations to communicate with for the next year.

TO WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot speak too highly of it as I was at the Change of Life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and sick, and the pains in my back were so bad I could hardly move. I got very sad at times and thought I had not a friend on earth. I did not care if I lived or died. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I did. I am a farmer's wife, and always worked hard until lately, and was in bed for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicines, as I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. EMMA WILSON, 471 Wilson Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

in session. That's just the reason I want to go in," said my friend Denesha, pushing his way through.

"Mr. Denesha's long business association with the exhibition brought him a friendly reception. 'Gentlemen' he said, 'this young man is from my home town. He is selling an attractive little article which advertises your exhibition (meanwhile throwing one of the buttons on the table in front of each of the directors), and I want you to protect him from police interference.' The request was not denied, and we made our way out.

"Now," said Denesha, "you can go ahead with your sales, John."

"Not on your life," I replied, "one arrest is sufficient. I can dispose of these buttons in the lake if in no other way." Entreaty on the part of Mr. Denesha failed to convince me that all was well.

"How much did you pay for these goods?" inquired Denesha. Fishing from my pockets the invoices and information I soon announced the capital investment, whereupon my friend Denesha bought the entire stock at par and later sold it to the exhibition crowds from his grocery counters during the days following. After spending a day or two viewing the Fair and the city, I returned to Morrisburg rich in experience, if in nothing else."

And Two More

"And is that the final Act in the drama," I inquired. "No, there is a sequel. A friend of mine was going to Toronto to attend school. I proffered him my exhibition pass, which was good for the entire period of the Fair. He accepted with thanks."

"Now the pass had thereon a mysterious row of letters, custom which has followed down through the years. These letters are, presumably: T for tall, S for short, Y for young, O for old, M for middle-aged, etc. I was tall; my friend was shorter. You will recall my pass had been punched on my first visit. My friend presented the pass. 'You are not Gormley,' shouted the gatekeeper. Whereupon my friend was placed under arrest for impersonation."

"That surely was a series of holdups," I remarked. "Yes," replied the Morrisburg postmaster, "but there is another link to this chain of facts."

"My friend Denesha had his bicycle stolen one day from the front of a downtown Toronto office. He saw it disappear and gave chase. After running for a block or two, the offender-on-wheels slipped on the pavement. The delay was sufficient to bring him within the grasp of Denesha, who, taking his prisoner with him, located an officer and had the man arrested. On leaving the police office when the affair was over, the chief said to Denesha, 'Don't you want a place on our force? You are just the kind of metal we want. A man who can arrest his own prisoners would be a valuable acquisition to the Toronto force.'"

Who is away from home?

Keep the family united. If some are away from home, the easiest and quickest way is of course by a Long Distance call. The young people nowadays put up a very brave front of wishing to appear independent and self-reliant, but their hearts still thump faster when they hear Dad's or Mother's voice over the wire.

Even when they go into business, perhaps in distant cities, their nature does not change with their habitation. The tie still holds. The dear familiar voices are just as potent.

Have a regular time to call up the absent ones by Long Distance. The service was never so rapid. The cost of Interurban Service to nearby towns—within a radius of say 25 miles—is very low.

Enduring Quality at LOWER PRICES

Makes Pontiac Six the Best
Investment Value

MEN who look upon an automobile from a hard, dollar-and-cents standpoint are just as emphatic in their praise of Pontiac Six as those who seek primarily the beauty, smoothness and comfort which Pontiac provides.

The enduring quality of Pontiac Six—its ruggedness and staying power—gives it the lowest depreciation and the highest resale value of any six-cylinder car in its price class.

From a business standpoint, the New and Finer Pontiac Six represents a sound investment in reliable, comfortable, economical automobile transportation—protected by the lasting quality of the car and the staunch integrity of its makers.

And the New, Low Prices make Pontiac Six a more attractive investment than ever.

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS OF CANADA, LIMITED

They bridge the gap between town and country

Improved highways make for a better understanding on both sides

Hard, smooth roads, stretching in all directions over Ontario, have helped rural and town people to appreciate one another's problems. Mutual understanding is taking the place of misunderstanding.

Easy communication has brought communities closer together. It has widened personal and business acquaintance. It has opened up new markets, has saved time and effort. Rural Ontario does not need to be isolated.

No one wants to return to the old days when it was impossible to drive to town because of bad roads, or when town people could not visit the country.

Use the highways. But use them sanely. Avoid excessive speeds and careless driving. With the faster moving traffic under the new speed laws, drivers must exercise every precaution. Watch the road warnings. Take no chances at intersections, railway crossings and curves, near schools, or when passing pedestrians.

See to your brakes. Your life or the lives of others may depend upon your control of your car.

Watch your headlights. They must not glare. A glaring headlight is a positive menace on the highways. Simple instructions, sent free by this Department, show how headlights should be adjusted.

Obey the rules of the road. Be patient. BE COURTEOUS. Do not enforce your rights in traffic if others are inconvenienced or placed in danger.

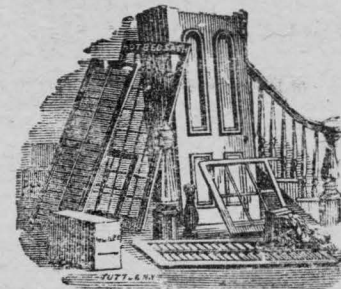

Always have your Motor Vehicle Operator's
License with you

A common courtesy on Ontario's highways will help to bring country and town still closer together for the well-being and prosperity of both.

To Obtain Relief From Neuritis

The nervous system must be thoroughly restored. Here is a case which illustrates this point.

The twitching of nerves and muscles warned Mrs. Mapletoft of the exhausted condition of her nervous system. She also had frequent nervous headaches and persistent neuritis in her right side.

Only temporary relief came from external applications for neuritis. To really get rid of the cause of trouble it is necessary to thoroughly restore the exhausted nerves by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. Wm. Mapletoft, Mount Forest, Ont., writes:

"For about three years I suffered from neuritis in my right side. I had pains through my back and twitching of the nerves and muscles. I had also been operated on for appendicitis, and it left me a nervous wreck. I was very restless and uneasy, and bothered with frequent neuralgic headaches. My appetite was poor and I sometimes took weak spells. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and in a very short time I found relief. This medicine has done me the world of good and I can recommend it to all suffering as I was."

MR. & MRS. REGINALD BARKLEY HONORED

On Monday evening, Sept. 12th, about seventy friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Beckstead, at Beckstead, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Barkley. Games and music were indulged in until about eleven o'clock when the bride and groom were asked to come forward, where a very appropriate address was read by Miss Alice D. Beckstead. and the presentation of a silver tea set was made by Miss Jessie R. MacLean. Following is the address:

"Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Barkley. Dear Ada and Reginald:

We your friends have assembled here this evening to congratulate you on your recent marriage.

You, Mrs. Barkley (but more familiarly known to us as Miss Baker) have proved efficient, willing and an ever faithful worker in our community.

We also wish to thank you on the splendid teaching you demonstrated in our school for the past four years.

Thus we extend to you both, our heartiest congratulations and wish you many happy and prosperous years of wedded life.

We feel we could not let this the most auspicious event of your lives pass without manifesting in some tangible way our love and esteem.

We are asking you to accept this gift and as you use it may it off bring kind remembrances of the ones present here tonight, who all join in wishing you God Speed, Health and Prosperity in the years that lie before you with richest of Divine Blessings.

Signed on behalf of Beckstead School Section,

JESSIE R. MACLEAN,
ALICE D. BECKSTEAD.

Mrs. Barkley responded, thanking all very kindly for the lovely gift and cordially invited one and all to visit them in the near future.

All joined in singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows," after which dainty refreshments were served and the evening was brought to a close.

The Most Amazing Quality in Chevrolet History

QUALITY in design. Quality in construction. Quality in appearance. Quality in performance. Never before has any low-priced car possessed them to such an amazing degree—because no other low-priced car combines the progressiveness of Chevrolet and the diversified experience, the vast resources and the matchless facilities of General Motors.

Study today's Chevrolet. Mark well the aristocratic beauty of its lines—the superbly executed details of its Fisher-built bodies.

Then go for a ride. Revel in the thrilling spurt when you "step on the gas." Delight in the smooth operation—the swift sweep of the passing miles. Marvel at the way the car hugs the road, the ease with which it obeys the steering wheel, the promptness with which it responds to the brakes.

Here is quality expressed in terms that millions now can understand and enjoy. Here is quality obtainable at New, Lower Prices, which reflect the savings of tremendous production and which demonstrate the willingness to share these savings with the public. Here is a car of amazing quality... for everybody, everywhere.

The Low-Swung Body with no loss of headroom or road clearance

THE dream of every automobile manufacturer—to build a body low swung for beauty and for roadability, without loss of head-room or road-clearance—has become reality in McLaughlin-Buick for 1928.

McLaughlin-Buick engineers achieved this lower effect, not by the makeshift of smaller wheels with their increased tire wear, but by a complete re-designing of bodies, and by an entirely new and exclusive principle, the double-drop frame. The tallest McLaughlin-Buick now stands but 70 inches high, yet McLaughlin bodies are roomier than ever before.

See the low-swung body as McLaughlin-Buick builds it, and you will see at once why McLaughlin-Buick is the industry's accepted leader in beauty, luxury, performance—and especially in value.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Death strikes Garrett Folsom while bathing at Ocean Town, N.J. After being perfunctorily examined by a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Majusaca, where an inquiry is started.

Folsom's bathing companions had been Roger Neville, Mrs. Helen Barnaby, and Carmelita Valdon. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to Ned Barron, known as the copper king.

Then the startling announcement is made that Folsom had been stabbed to death in the water. Ross, his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

Anastasia Folsom, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a piquet, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is also brought out in the inquest that Folsom's fortune is to be divided between his sister, Roger Neville and a nephew, Daniel Pelton. Anastasia announces she will engage a private detective.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

The coroner glared at her, but as she, of course, had a right to engage a private detective if she chose, he made no response to her irritating speech.

"I would like to hear from those who were in conversation with Mr. Folsom just before he went into the ocean," said Hubbard. "Mr. Neville, you were in his party?"

"Yes," Neville said, stepping forward. "We went in the water together."

"There were others with you?"

"Two ladies, Mrs. Barnaby and Mrs. Valdon."

"Yes. And tell me now, did you notice anything unusual about Mr. Folsom's manner? Anything apprehensive?"

"Absolutely nothing of the sort. Mr. Folsom was in the best of spirits and ready to enjoy his ocean dip with the rest of us."

"You and he were business partners, I am told."

"Not partners; we were in the same company."

"What company was that, Mr. Neville?"

"The Royal Realty Company. But Mr. Folsom was president, I am merely vice-president."

"Ah, yes. Real estate?"

"Yes, a Chicago concern. Now that Mr. Folsom is dead, much of the business will devolve on me."

"Naturally. And you are one of Mr. Folsom's intimates?"

"Yes, as Miss Folsom's stated."

"Now, Mr. Neville, will you recount as exactly as you can the circumstances of Mr. Folsom's death. Tell the minutest details as you saw them."

"As a matter of fact, I saw very little. I was at some distance from our party, and whenever I endeavored to speak to them a wave came and either bowled me over or swept away all sound of my voice, so I gave up the attempt and merely swam around in the surf by myself."

"Then what was the first intimation you had of anything having happened to Mr. Folsom?"

"Naturally I glanced toward our own crowd now and then, and as I looked I failed to see Folsom. I thought nothing of that at the moment, as he now and then left the rope, but I next saw one or two life guards come to the rope and then people got between us and I couldn't see what was going on. But then I saw the two guards carrying someone ashore and I recognized at once that it was Garrett Folsom."

"You were near enough to see him then?"

"I didn't see his face, but I recognized his bathing suit, gray with black stripes, and I felt sure it was he. I went immediately to where the ladies of our party stood, holding the rope, and they were almost overcome with fear that Mr. Folsom had suffered a stroke or an attack of some sort. I advised them to go ashore at once, and suggested that we all go to our bathhouses and dress in order to be of any possible assistance to our friend."

"And that is what you did?"

"Yes. That agreed that was the best thing to do, and we were soon ed with the tolerance one might show to a small child or an irresponsible mentality.

"Had there been any such," Anastasia Folsom informed him, "I should not now be here listening to this futile quivering, but I should be after the suspect and getting him behind bars! No, I found no letter or paper that gave the least hint of which way to look for his murderer. But that in no way deters me from continuing the search. I shall yet find the villain and shall see to it that justice is done."

"You will hold those papers and letters subject to the investigation of the police, madam. We will send our detectives to examine them shortly."

"You may, sir. No one will be more glad than I if you can find any hint of a way to look for light on the matter."

"Mrs. Barnaby," was the next witness called, and the Duchess, though trembling with nervousness and embarrassment, walked steadily up to the designated chair.

"There is no use in repeating testimony," Coroner Hubbard said, speaking gently, as he noticed her quivering lip and trembling hands. "Just tell me if you noticed anything about Mr. Folsom's manner or speech that was unlike himself, or betrayed fear or nervousness of any sort."

"No, I did not," the Duchess replied, relieved at the easy question. "But I knew Mr. Folsom only slightly, not so well as the other members of our little party. You see, he was a friend of the others. I only met him the night before—before last."

"You stood next him in the ocean?"

"Not at the time he—he went under. I was next him but one, then."

"Who was next him?"

"Mrs. Valdon."

"And on the other side?"

"I am told a Mr. Barron was. But I do not know Mr. Barron."

"That will do, Mrs. Barnaby. Mrs. Valdon next!"

Carmelita came forward, looking so beautiful that many present gave an involuntary gasp of admiration. Though in no way over-dressed, her bright-colored beach cape, falling from her graceful shoulders, gave her the look of a Spanish princess. In-dressed and back to the hotel, where we heard the news of his death and later of his murder."

"Thank you, Mr. Neville. Now, as his business associate and as co-official in his company, are you in charge of Mr. Folsom's papers and letters that are down here with him?"

Before Roger Neville could answer Miss Folsom spoke up.

"Indeed he is not. I am in charge of my brother's effects, including his money, letters, papers and personal belongings."

She sat upright and glowered at the coroner as if he had offered her a deadly insult.

"Oh, I beg pardon, I'm sure. Are you, then, the executor of Mr. Folsom's estate?"

"No, his lawyer in Chicago is his executor. But as nearest of kin, I am in charge of his property, and I propose to remain so."

"You have his rooms at the hotel?"

"I have."

"Has anything been touched?"

She gave him a glance that was almost pitying.

"Everything has been touched," she said. "Last night, before I slept, I went over every one of his letters and papers as well as all his clothes and personal property of all kinds."

"And you found no papers or letters that could in any way give any hint as to the possible identity of the criminal?"

Again that look of utter scorn mixed, the beach cape was made from a Spanish shawl, whose gorgeous embroidered flowers shone out lustreously from a black background.

"Mrs. Valdon, will you add anything you can to the story of Mr. Folsom's death in the ocean yesterday?"

"How can I add anything? I do not even know that he died in the ocean, except by hearsay."

While not exactly flippant, Carmelita's manner was distinctly disinterested, and the coroner was a little at a loss how to treat her.

But he felt it was best to "give it to her straight," as he expressed it to himself, and he said, sternly, "Do not attempt to quibble. You know now how and when Mr. Folsom met his death. Can you tell me anything in the way of detailed description of what you saw during his last moments?"

"No, I can't," said Carmelita, not pertly, but with a look of sadness, as of one thinking back over a harrowing scene.

"Yet you stood next him?"

(To be continued.)

THE FROCK OF TWO MATERIALS IS SMART THIS SEASON

This chic little frock is very modish.

The skirt, having an inverted plait at each side and a box-plait in front and back, is oiled to the bodice over which is arranged a band of contrasting material, the same being repeated in the long sleeves, cuffs on the short sleeves, and the chic bow at the neck.

No. 1566 is in sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch material, or 1 1/2 yards 54-inch, and 3/4 yard 36 inch contrasting. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically, by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out.

Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make without difficulty an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number and address your order to Pattern Dept., Wilson Publishing Co., 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto. Patterns sent by return mail.

Dyed Too Much Now.

"Do you think if I died it would improve my complexion?"

"It's dyed too much now I think."

The Poor Little King

To become a king at five years of age was misfortune enough in the days when infant kings were accepted as natural phenomena and world-wide publicity was unknown. But now the species is so rare that the world contains only one representative, and sob sisters lie in wait to cable his prattlings to the ends of the earth. His case would seem to be hopeless. He might as well be a columnist's child.

From all accounts little King Michael of Rumania, for whom his grandmother is acting as press agent, hasn't a notion yet what it is all about and is treating the fuss made over him much as Lindbergh might. But wait until he learns to read, until he begins to demand his daily batch of clippings. Wait until he hears the echoes of hispert remarks reverberating from a thousand sounding boards of press and motion picture and radio. What will save him then from suffocating spiritually in a sea of applause?

One thing only, and that is such a case-hardened shell of irreverence as our younger generation has developed. With this he might ride the cosmic flood of sentimental acclaim to something new and piquant in the way of royal careers. It would be intensely interesting to see what a true member of what we loosely term the younger generation would do with the job of king. Maybe "Mad Mickey," whose chief joy is still his rubber-tired scooter, will show us. At present we feel sure he is all for fewer spankings and more lolly-pops. "I want to go home, I'm hungry" his first public utterance indicates a Democratic rule. All young Canadians are "for him."

A GHASTLY TOLL OF LIFE FOR NO MATERIAL GAIN

Twenty-three Lives Lost in Useless Effort to Establish Records of Little Use When Established

TIME TO CALL HALT

May 5, 1927, Captain Saint Roman and Commander Moneyres, French aviators, left Senegal, Africa, for Pernambuco, Brazil, in a Goliath biplane. They were reported to have been sighted 200 miles off Brazilian coast, but this was never confirmed, and they made the first toll of the year.

May 8, 1927, Captain Charles M. Nungesser and Captain Francois Coli left Le Bourget, France, for New York in the monomotor biplane, White Bird. It was reported that they were sighted over Newfoundland on May 9, but no trace of them has ever been found, though weeks were spent in futile search and tracing every rumor.

August 17, 1927, John W. Frost, pilot, and Gordon Scott, navigator, left Oakland, Calif., for Hawaii in the airplane, Gold Eagle. J. A. Pedlar, pilot; Lieut. V. D. Knope of United States navy, and Miss Mildred Doran, as passenger, left Oakland, Calif., for Hawaii in the Buhl airplane, Miss Doran.

The search for the above started immediately.

August 19, Captain William Edwin, pilot; A. H. Eichwald, navigator, and a radio operator, in the monoplane, The Dallas Spirit, left Oakland to search for the missing planes, Miss Doran and Golden Eagle. About 600 nautical miles out they put an SOS call on the air and have not been heard of since, though 450,000 square miles of the ocean was combed by the U.S. navy, and over $475,000 was spent in this hopeless task.

August 25, 1927, Paul Redfern left Georgia for a non-stop distance flight to Brazil in the monoplane, Port of Brunswick. Word has since been received that Redfern was seen on Aug. 26th near the Guiana coast. A search for him is under way. He has not yet been given up for lost.

August 31, 1927, Capt. Leslie Hamilton and Lieut.-Col. F. F. Minchin, aviators, with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim as passenger, left Upavon, England, for Ottawa, in the monoplane Saint Raphael. They have not been heard of since they passed over Inveran, Galway, at 12.10 p.m., Aug. 31st. Undoubtedly they have gone to the port of missing planes.

September 6, 1927, The "Old Glory" with Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill as co-pilots and carrying Philip A. Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, left Old Orchard, Maine, bound for Rome. Never heard of after sending SOS from point 500 miles east of Newfoundland at 4.30 a.m. on morning of September 7th.

Sept. 7, 1927, Captains Tully and Medcalf, flying a Detroit-built monoplane the Sir John Carling, left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, for Croydon, England. They, too, it is feared, have flown into the great unknown.

September 8th.—Word comes from Rangoon that the "Round the World" fliers, Brock and Schiller, are reported missing in their monoplane, Pride of Detroit. Some hope is held out for them, though it is feared that outraged nature in the form of complete exhaustion, has claimed her toll.

Surely time to call a halt.

The Latest Tragedy
SIR JOHN CARLING UNREPORTED
Due at Croydon Airdrome, England, at 9 a.m. eastern daylight time September 8, the monoplane Sir John Carling with Capt. Tully (right) and Lieut. Medcalf (left), is now given up as lost.

French Fortify Their Finances

Two Recent Actions Show Consolidation of Position—Loan Contemplated

Paris.—The further consideration of France's financial position as a step leading eventually to the franc's stabilization is seen in two financial actions here. It is announced officially that the yield of the last French internal loan issued in July and amounting to 4,500,000,000 francs has been transferred to the Bank of France, thus permitting a lowering of the maximum of the bank's advances to the state from 36,500,000,000 francs to 32,000,000,000. This is the second reduction of the treasury short-term debt to the Bank of France effected since Raymond Poincare, the Prime Minister, commenced his financial restoration policy. The Government is now financially in a relatively unsalable state.

The other financial step referred to above it is understood is being prepared. It is to raise an $80,000,000 loan in the United States bearing 6 1/2 per cent interest and issued at about 98 to refund the French 8 per cent, 1945 for the same amount. It is not believed here that the American embargo on French loans owing to the non-ratification by France of Mellon-Berenger debt agreement will apply to the new loan project, since it is only a refunding proposition not affecting the total loaned to France by the United States. The cable reports from America received here of more ambitious French loan refunds to the United States are exaggerated.

Politics are warming up. Which means that somebody is going to get burnt.—Wall Street Journal.

Now France Moves

Moves to Abolish Death Penalty in France Wins Support of Prominent Persons

Paris.—Agitation in France in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti has provoked a campaign in certain liberal sections of the press in favor of the abolition of the death penalty as advocated by Pierre Renaudel, Socialist leader and member of the Chamber of Deputies, who has announced that as soon as Parliament convenes for the Fall session he will introduce a bill to eliminate the guillotine and all other forms of capital punishment.

A life sentence would be substituted for the death penalty. Discussing the projected measure, M. Renaudel said: "The Sacco-Vanzetti case, although it had no connection whatsoever with France, demonstrated once more the horror which the death penalty provokes among civilized peoples, especially when justice seems in question and when the partiality of the judges appears to supersede the absolute facts."

"Our own nation for twenty years has been faced with the possibility of an innocent man having been put to death. Civilized nations have no right to run such a terrible risk. We Socialists therefore demand that Parliament abolish the death penalty."

Many persons prominent in French social and political life are giving their support to the movement. Among them is the Countess de Noailles.

"In view of the sadness which many French people feel over the disposition of the famous case, it seems to me that a campaign for the abolition of the death penalty should be a most eloquent response to the Sacco-Vanzetti execution," said the Countess.

World Radio Voting Power To Be Defined

Mr. Hoover Names Board to Consider German Claim to Pre-War Strength

Washington.—Three members of the American delegation to the International Radio Conference which convenes here Oct. 4, have been named by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce and head of the American representatives, to examine the question of how many votes each country attending the gathering shall be allowed. The issue has been raised by the German Government which announced that it would ask for six votes as at the 1912 International Wireless Convention.

Under the terms of the 1912 gathering, Germany, the United States, Russia, Great Britain, and France are entitled to six votes each on behalf of their colonies.

Germany's claim for six votes now, however, officials of the Commerce Department say, is seriously complicated as she no longer has any colonies and had previously given up paying her dues to the International Telegraphic Union for six votes.

Mr. Hoover explained that the issue of voting strength would have to be determined by the conference as a whole. The committee appointed by him to go into the problem is: Wallace H. White Jr. (R.), Representative from Maine; Judge Steven Davis, and William R. Vallance, assistant solicitor of the Department of State.

Russia, it was announced by the State Department, has not been invited to the conference, as the Soviet Government has not been recognized by the United States.

The conference is expected to last for several months. During that period, October and November, international radio interest will be centered in Washington. Mr. Hoover plans to be in the capital during the period and will devote his attention to the problems to be determined. It is expected he will be named chairman of the conference. In addition to the 50 nations represented, all the chief radio, telegraph, cable and telephone companies of the world will have representatives present. These will have full power of discussion, but only the nations will be allowed to ballot on issues.

Wireless Telephone Service To Join Belgium and America

Washington.—Telephone service between the United States and Belgium is expected to be inaugurated within a month, the Department of Commerce has been advised. Since the establishment of telephone service between Great Britain and the United States the Belgian Government has followed the development of transatlantic telephone service with great interest.

An agreement has been concluded recently with the British telephone service which will allow telephone communication between Belgium and the United States over the British-American lines.

Rates will probably be in the neighborhood of 500 Belgian francs per minute (about $20), with a minimum of three minutes.

Communications will be possible from any point in Belgium with Brussels, from where the message will be carried to London over the Brussels-Ghent-La Panne-London route, and from London to the United States by transatlantic wireless telephone. — N. Y. Times.

Woman Motorist Captures Bandit

Threatened to Crush Him Against Wall With Machine

Philadelphia, Pa.—A woman motorist, using her car as a threat, captured a bandit who had held up the employees and customers of a store. When police arrived and took the bandit into custody the woman drove off before her name could be obtained.

The woman's action ended a chase through crowded streets in which the bandit fired several shots at his pursuers. The prisoner gave his name as Edward Blackman, of New York.

Blackman had outdistanced his pursuers when the woman speeded up her car, came abreast of the fugitive and forced him against the wall of a house. She threatened to crush him with her machine if he attempted to use his revolver.

Lady Astor Faces Hard Fight; All 3 Parties Aim to Oust Her

London.—The Plymouth correspondent of The Westminster Gazette says that a determined effort will be made to oust Viscountess Astor at the next general election. The Viscountess represents the Sutton division of Plymouth in Parliament.

Not only have the Liberal and Labor parties selected candidates to oppose her, he says, but the Plymouth Imperial Conservative Association announces that it has obtained a powerful candidate to oppose her. Thus Lady Astor will find opposition in her own party.

Viscountess Astor has held her seat since 1919. She was the first woman to sit in the Imperial Parliament.

Peasants Beat Englishwoman For "Bewitching" With Camera

Belgrade, Yugoslavia—Vreme's correspondent reports from Travnik, Bosnia, that an Englishwoman named Chester was dangerously injured when attacked by a mob of peasant women. Miss Chester was visiting a friend, the wife of a timber merchant named Dickinson, and had made a solitary excursion in the woods to take pictures.

She was seen using the camera by peasant women, who quickly spread a report through the village that she was bewitching children by means of an unknown instrument.

A mob of thirty or more excited and frantic women chased the Englishwoman and severely beat her with switches and clubs. The victim managed to reach Travnik, where she was protected by police and taken to the next village.

She is now in a hospital. Police arrested ten peasant women and opened an investigation.

Britain Excludes Naval Men From Activity in Politics

London.—Naval men will be virtually excluded from active politics by a new order issued by the Admiralty.

The order forbids any naval officer or man to make an address to electors or in any manner allow himself to become a candidate for Parliament. The prohibition applies also to the Parliament of Northern Ireland, the Free State and the Maltese Parliament, and forbids speaking or appearing on the platform at political meetings or serving on election committees.

It is provided that naval officers must seek permission from naval authorities if they wish to enter the political field.

Germany Frowns On Further Hops

Argues That Advertising Stunts Are Against Business Ethics

Berlin.—The uncertain fate of the St. Raphael, coupled with the unsuccessful starts of the French Blue Bird and Canadian planes Sir John Carling and Royal Windsor, coming on top of the failure of the Bremen and Europa to cross the Atlantic, has produced something of a revulsion of feeling in Germany against further trans-oceanic attempts, at least for this year.

Prof. Hugo Junkers' message to the members of the crew of the Bremen pointing out the uncertainty of the trans-oceanic effort so late in the year has provoked wide comment, and leaves newspapers to the regretful conclusion that with the advanced season risks have become too great for the undertaking.

The feeling was epitomized in a caption "non-stop flight with one motorized land machine, east to west, is gamblers' hazard."

Methods of promoting sundry trans-oceanic flights by private interests was severely criticized by the Tageblatt, which said these liberally advertised stunts are becoming a public nuisance, and call for properly constituted authority to supervise flights, insuring all necessary precautions, and that non-stop flights should be officially forbidden.

SPEED BOAT PILOT NEARLY DROWNS

Algonac, Mich.—Gar Wood, internationally famous speed-boat pilot, and holder of the Harmsworth Trophy, which he defended successfully last year, escaped drowning when his hydroplane, Baby America III, capsized in the St. Clair River near here recently. Three girls riding in an outboard motor boat towed the speed-boat king to shore, apparently uninjured except for a small cut in one leg, though partially stunned from the impact with the water.

The boat sank in 50 feet of water and an attempt is being made to float it.

Describing the accident Wood said: "I was speeding along with one hand on the wheel and my other hand holding a stop watch. I was so intent on looking at the watch that I did not notice a passing steamer and the first thing I knew the swell turned the boat sharply and upset it. Out I went and hit the water pretty hard." He was wearing a life saving coat, which kept him afloat until rescued.

Gar Wood is one of eight brothers of Phil Wood, who with Duke Schiller as pilot is attempting a trans-Atlantic flight in the Stinson-Detroit monoplane "Royal Windsor."

Cologne Cathedral Installs Microphone and 22 Speakers

Cologne.—The Cologne Cathedral, one of the greatest and most ancient monuments of medieval architecture, is the first church in the world to be equipped with loud speakers. After successful tests, twenty-two instruments connected with a microphone have been installed in various parts of the enormous building.

The innovation will make the sermons, which formerly were almost unintelligible on account of echoes and poor acoustics, plainly audible in every corner of the huge edifice.

Amateur Gets Radio Message From Liberia

Notifies State Department and Sends Back Its Greeting to Africa

Washington.—Direct radio communication has been established between the United States and the Republic of Liberia on the west coast of Africa, the State Department announced recently, making known that it has exchanged greetings with Foreign Minister Barclay. G. F. Gaede of Paterson, N.J., an amateur radio operator, picked up the Liberian message and after communicating it to the State Department, sent the American reply of greeting. He notified the Department that its communication had been acknowledged.

According to the State Department, Liberia has been engaged in establishing a short wave wireless station for some time. The receipt of the message was taken to indicate that its project was in successful operation.

The Department of Commerce announced that telephone service between the United States and Belgium would be opened within 30 days. Since the establishment of telephone service between Great Britain and the United States, the Belgian Government has followed the development of transatlantic telephone service with great interest. An agreement has been concluded with the British telephone communication between Belgium and the United States over the British-American lines.

No information is available yet as to the cost of such service, but the department anticipates that rates will probably be in the neighborhood of 500 Belgian francs per minute (about $20) with a minimum of three minutes. Communications will be made from any point in Belgium from Brussels, from where the message is carried to London over the Brussels-Ghent-La Panne-London route and from London to the United States by transatlantic wireless telephone.

Poland Will Double Tariff; Ruling Hits Germany Hard

Warsaw.—Customs tariffs will be increased by 100 per cent, effective in four months, to all countries not protected by trade treaty with Poland, an official bulletin announced recently.

The ruling will hit hardest Poland's western neighbor, Germany, with whom negotiations for a commercial accord have been in progress five years without result.

One of the difficulties preventing the conclusion of a Polish-German agreement is Germany's insistence that Poland deport no German citizens now residing on Polish soil.

Several other points, also foreign to trade, are causing delays, though the two Governments are practically agreed as far as commerce itself is concerned.

To Ship Antelope To Texas Banker

Medicine Hat, Alta.—The first shipment of antelope from Canada to the United States will be made at an early date, Charles Blazer, rancher at Lake Newell, announced recently. He has contracted to deliver 22 head of antelope to a Texas banker.

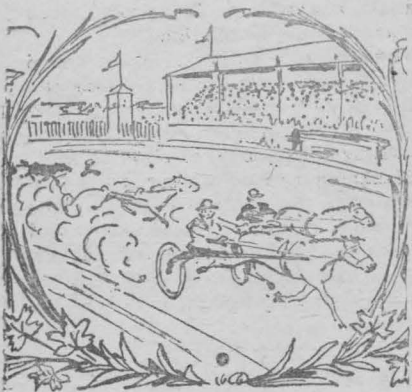

Three More Fliers Listed Among Missing

The toll of death claimed by the Atlantic and Pacific oceans arising from the trans-oceanic flying craze has been increased to 18 since April with the abandonment of hope for "Old Glory," the New York-to-Rome monoplane. From a point 500 miles east of Newfoundland it flashed an S.O.S. and since has not been heard of. The above group shows, left to right, Mrs. Florence Callaghan, mother of Lloyd Bertaud, co-pilot of the plane; J. D. Hill, the other pilot; Bertaud himself; Philip A. Payne, newspaper passenger; and Bertaud's wife.

If a resident of Canada uses an automobile of a non-resident tourist, to whom a permit has been issued, the car involved is subject to seizure by the customs, according to instructions from the Department of National Revenue, received at this and other ports throughout Canada. It is perhaps not generally known that when a person who is really engaged in business pursuits, represents himself as a tourist and obtains a tourist's permit in respect of his automobile, the same can be legally seized also. These are matters which ought to engage the thoughtful attention of those interested, as the regulations call for strict enforcement.
