SUPREME COURT.

McOuat vs. United Counties Wound Up.

The appeal of James McOuat and Thos. H. McOuat from the judgment of the Court of Appeal in the case of McOuot vs. the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, was argued in the Supreme Court at Ottawa on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. This was an appeal from the judgment of the Court of Appeal for Ontario, reversing the decision and report of His Honor J. B. Rankin, Drainage Referee, pronounced on Nov. 28, 1904. The plaintiff's claim was for the negligent, or improper, or insufficient construction of drainage work in the Nation River, authorized by a bylaw passed under special provisions of the Municipal Act relating to drainage resulting in the alleged damages to the appellants, at different times and for an injunction in respect of such drainage work. After argument by the appellants' solicitors and on suggestion of the Court, a consent judgment was drafted, directing that the appeal be dismissed with costs, the respondents undertaking to memorialize the Provincial Legislature of Ontario to pass a special resolution to give relief to the lands effected. This ends the litigation in so far as the United Counties are concerned. E. Douglas Armour, K.C., Toronto, and I. Hilliard, Morrisburg, appeared for the appellants; Matthew Wilson, K.C., Chatham, and Pringle & Cameron, appeared for the respondents.

Plaintiff Gets Damages.

Chief Justice Falconbridge of the King's bench division, handed out a decision at Perth on Monday in the case of Wall vs. Scott. The plaintiff, Ephraim Wall was allowed $1,800 damages. The case arose over Mrs. E. Wall being knocked down and run over and seriously injured by the delivery horse and sleigh of A. B. Scott & Co., of Smith's Falls, on Dec. 22, 1906, through the alleged carelessness and negligence and furious driving of one Stanley Bothwell, a servant in the employ of the defendant. The accident happened at the corner of Main and Beckwith streets, and Mrs. Wall had her leg broken, two ribs fractured, ankle dislocated and sustained other injuries that have left her an invalid ever since. The costs will amount to about $900, which will also be borne by the defendant.

McGill Men.

Among the students and recent graduates at McGill there are few who possess such a large degree of popularity as Mr. Fred W. Bates, general secretary of the McGill Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Bates hails from Easton's Corners, Ont., but received his early education at the Kemptville High School. Later he obtained a teacher's certificate from the Prescott Model School, and entered McGill in the autumn of 1903. From the date of entering he was recognized as a leader, filling the office of president of his class both in the first and second years. He was awarded a bursarship at the beginning of his third year, and graduated B.A. last year, with honors in mathematics and physics

Though applying himself with great diligence to his studies, he always found ample time to take part in the religious and social life of the university, figuring very prominently in the Y. M. C. A. work. His fitness for Christian work received due recognition, and last June he was appointed geaeral secretary of the McGill Y. M. C. A., which position he still occupies.

Mistook Bridge for Platform.

C. B. McDonald, of Carnwall, a mail clerk on the Ottawa and New York railway, had a thrilling experience a few nights ago, and that he escaped injury or death is remarkable. It appears that the train was pulling into Crysler, but stopped just outside to do some shunting. Mr. McDonald, thinking that the station had been reached, stepped off in the darkness to what he supposed was the platform. In place of that he was walking off the bridge over the Nation River, and before he could save himself, had fallen thirty feet to the water below. McDonald immediately cried out for help at the same time striking out for the shore. Baggageman Peters, dived heroically to the rescue, but he could not swim and soon became imperilled himself. Trainman George Bowker by this time had gone to the assistance and managed, with their own assistance, to get the others out. The water was chilly and the three were proctically all in when the shore was reached. They were given dry clothes and got warmed up, and are none the worse for their thrilling experience.

Recipe Mixed Often.

Some remarkable stories are being told about town and among the country people coming in of this simple, home-made mixture curing Rheumatism and Kidney trouble. Here is the recipe and directions for taking: Mix by skaking well in a bottle one-half hunce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Sprup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of water.

This mixture, writes one authority in a leading Philadelphia newspaper, has a peculiar tonic effect upon the kidneys; cleansing the clogged-up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter, overcoming Rhoumatism, Bladder and Urinary troubles in a short while.

A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for these ingredients since the first announcement in the newspapers last October stated that the people who once tried it "swear by it," especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.

The druggists in this neighborhood say they can supply the ingredients, which are easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood-cleansing agent or system tonic known, and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

Moss—Henry.

A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday, Nov. 12, at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Morgan, second concession of Osnabruck, when her eldest daughter, Mrs. Mary J. Henry, was united in marriage to Albert G. Moss of Dickinson's Landing. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. O. Carson, M.A., only the immediate relatives of the families being present. The marriage was very quiet on account of a death in the bride's family a few weeks ago. The happy couple left on the Bound express for Utica and Amsterdam, N.Y., and other points. We join in wishing them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harper of Gouveneur, N.Y., were visiting in town last week.

Mr. Dean H. Pettes, inspector of agencies of the Great-West Life Assurance Co., is in town to-day.

The minister of justice has granted an order for the release on parole of Arza Johnston, a young man tried at Brockville, before Judge Reynolds, on a charge of horse stealing and sentenced to three years in Kinston penitentiary. Johnson had served about 18 months of his term.

Trial catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by Walter G. Bolster.

Dismisses Suit of Widow for $20,000.

Chief Justice Falconbridge has dismissed the action of Annie Fanning, Carleton Place, against the C.P.R. She sued for $20,000 damages for the death of James Fanning, an engineer employed by the C.P.R, and killed on June 14 by his engine turning over at a point on the track where a rail had been removed by the repair gang.

The jury found that the signals had not been set out which the engineer had a right to expect, and that his death was due to no negligence of his own, but Chief Justice Falconbridge says the case should have been non-suited at the close of the evidence and that the answers of the jury are not in accord with the undisputed testimony.

SOME UNSOLVED CRIMES

THREE GENUINE MYSTERIES OF THE TORONTO POLCE.

Perpetrators of Well Known Murders Run to Earth But Not Punished.

During the past twenty years many murders have been committed in Toronto, most of which, however, have been successfully investigated by the detectives and the murderers brought to justice. Of course, there are several cases which have been either unsolved or unpunished, and many of these will be easily recalled by those who read the newspapers closely. In investigating murders and other cases a detective follows every clue possible, and often cases are cleared up to the satisfaction of the department for which no one is ever punished, though it is known who committed the deeds, but a lack of sufficient evidence or the whimsical views of jurors the murderers are allowed their freedom.

THREE GENUINE MYSTERIES.

Thre cases of murder are considered as genuine mysteries by the Toronto police department, and several others have gone unpunished, and a short resume of them may be of interest.

On the morning of the 9th of June, 1890, Mrs. Jane Spears was found lying on the floor of her sitting room in her home at 18 Agnes Street, with her face badly disfigured and a rope tied around her neck. Mrs. Ward, a neighbor, went to Mrs. Spears' home to see the lady and found her in the condition described. The police were at once notified and several detectives were placed on the case. Mrs. Spears was removed to the General Hospital and died there about an hour after admission, without regaining consciousness. Every clue possible was followed, but the mystery was never cleared up. On the 13th of June a satchel was found in the Gladstone Hotel, which had belonged to Mrs. Spears. The side had been cut from the satchel and the money and papers it contained extracted. No other clues were ever cleared up, and the Spears murder has since been considered as the most baffling with which the detectives had to deal.

THE PRIESTMAN CASE.

The murder of Joseph Priestman, jr., in Parkdale, on the night of Aug. 25, 1887, was also a baffling case, and the man and woman who were arrested and charged with the murder were afterwards discharged. Priestman was a real estate and insurance agent and lived with his wife and family at the corner of Dunn and Rose Avenues. On the night of the 25th of August he left his home about nine o'clock, telling his wife that he was going to the subway, but he never returned. Early next morning Constable Alex. Smith was walking near the railway tracks on Dufferin Street, when he found Mr. Priestman's body lying in the field west of Dufferin Street, just below the tracks. He notified Coroner Lynd. The police went to the scene and found a revolver lying on the sidewalk near the dead body. After a careful investigation Smith and his wife were arrested and charged with the murder of Priestman, but were discharged in the Police Court, and the mystery has not been cleared up since that time.

FAMOUS HYAMS TRIAL.

On the 16th of January, 1893, there happened an accident in a warehouse at 28 Colborne Street, which was the commencement of the famous Hyams case. William C. Wells, a bright young man, was found at the bottom of the elevator shaft with his life crushed out. Harry P. and Dallas Hyam owned the warehouse where the accident occurred, and at the time no action was taken by the police, for the general opinion was that the death of Wells was purely accidental. On the 9th of May Harry Hyams was married to Wells' sister Martha, and it was learned then that Wells' life had been insured in favor of the Hyams twins and that Mrs. Harry Hyams was also insured in their favor. The police, therefore, took up the case and on the 12th of January, 1895, the Hyams twins were arrested by Detective Cuddy on a charge of having murdered Willie Wells. They were brought to trial on the 9th of May and on the 24th the jury disagreed and was discharged. On the 5th of November the twins were again brought to trial, and on the last day of the month a verdict of "not guilty" was returned by the jury. The twins were immediately rearrested on a charge of conspiring to murder Harry Hyams' wife, but were discharged.

Later, the twins were placed on trial for forgery and were allowed out on bail. They jumped the bail and left for South America and have not since been heard of.

OLD LADY POISONED.

Mrs. Essie Moore, who was poinoned at her home, 71 Edward Street, on Wednesday, Jan. 6th, 1887, was a quiet old lady who had many friends and few enemies. She died and was buried, and several days afterwards her friends became suspicious and demanded an inquest. The body was therefore exhumed, and at the inquest a verdict was returned by the jury that Mrs. Moors had been poisoned by some party or parties unknown. The police worked hard on the case, but the mystery was never unraveled.

The murder of Frank Westwood at the door of his home in Parkdale on the evening of the 6th of October, 1894, is still fresh in the minds of those who read of the case at the time, and the connection of Clara Ford, the young mulatto woman, with the deed. On the night of the murder, Westwood went to the door of his home and was shot and almost instantly killed. It was learned by the police that Clara Ford was near the Westwood home on that night, dressed in male clothing, and she was therefore arrested. On the 29th of November Clara Ford confessed to Detective Reburn that she shot young Westwood, but at her trial, in the Spring of the next year, the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" and she was released from custody. At the time of the murder an attempt was made to connect Clara Ford with the murder of Priestman, but it was not generally conceded that she was mixed up in the other case.

THE WOODBINE MURDER.

The murder of Joseph Martin at the Woodbine, on April 28th, 1896, is another of the "unpunished crimes" on the police records. Martin was a wealthy horse owner, and had taken his horses to the Woodbine in preparation for the races that year. On the night of his murder he went to the Woodbine Hotel for a few minutes and left alone. A few minutes later a man named Wm. Nichols left the hotel and started for the stables. He saw a man dragging something over the ground, and thinking it was Martin moving some hay, called to him. The man who was carrying the supposed bundle at once dropped it and ran. after being joined by another man. Nichols hastened to the spot and found poor Martin lying on the ground unconscious, and with his face and head terribly beaten. He was removed to the General Hospital and died there from a fractured skull. The men who had assaulted him had stolen four thousand dollars, and it was thus shown that robbery was the motive. No one was ever punished for that crime.

Another "unpunished" crime was the murder of Miss Rachel Ferguson at the gates of the jail on the 5th of January, 1900. A young man going home that evening heard groans emanating from the lawn inside the entrance to the jail grounds, and on investigating found the young lady lying on the ground, with marks on her head showing that she had been sandbagged. The police worked on the case and learned who committed the crime, but, as there was not sufficient evidence to convict the man, as no one saw the crime committed, it was placed on the records as an unpunished crime. The murderer is now in the asylum.

OTHER MYSTERIES.

Various other mysterious cases have been reported to and investigated by the police, such as the death of two young men in the Evans warehouse on Front Street, but there was no mystery in either of the deaths, according to the police. Other mysteries have been unraveled and the guilty parties either hanged or sent to the penitentiary for various terms, and the fact that during the past two decades there have been but three genuine unsolved mysteries, speaks very well for the entire Toronto police force.

A ROYAL NURSERY.

Description of the Home of the Heir to the Spanish Throne.

The little heir to the Spanish throne has begun his babyhood in a suite of rooms arranged entirely after the fancy of his royal mother. Spanish etiquette requires her to conform to ideas other than her own on most points, but in the fitting of the nursery her word is law. The furnishing, decorating and entire arrangement are English, and offer everything that could possibly conduce to a baby's health and happiness.

The suite, directly over the queen's apartments, on the sunny side of the palace, consists of living-room, dining-room, bedrooms for the baby and head nurse, bath and sewing-room.

The living-room is decorated in green and white, with showers of little pink rosettes. The vaulted ceiling is enamelled in white, and round the walls runs a frieze of animals in Noah's-ar-like procession. Light green shades temper the sunshine.

The angles of furniture and walls are all softly rounded; so the approved method of standing a naughty child in the corner face to the wall could hardly be adopted in this case. With the exception of the rose-colored English carpets, everything in the suite is washable.

The wide window-sills are cozily cushioned; an iron lattice, light and lace-like, but very strong, secures the windows from without.

In the bedroom three large paintings represent "Morning," "Noon" and "Night." The first is a sunshiny picture of a baby awakening in his little bed. "Noon" shows him busy with porringer and spoon; and in "Night" he has folded his chubby hands in prayer before going to sleep.

The woodwork is white enamelled, and round the ceiling is a frieze of dancing children charms the eye, as does the exquisite tint and design of the blue and white tiling of the fireplace.

The little prince sleeps in the cradle that rocked father and grandfather before him. It is a stately affair, resting on four Corinthian supports. It was formerly curtained in the richest lace, flowing from beneath a Spanish crown; but the young queen mother had the crown removed, lest it fall and injure the royal sleeper below; and the lace curtains were suppressed to allow freer access of air.

The cradle linen shows embroidery of fairy-like fineness, the outer coverlets sewn with butterflies and roses in white silk.

The dining-room furniture is white mahogany, with the royal arms of Spain skilfully inlaid in each piece. Throughout, simplicity and good taste distinguish this ideal dwelling for a young child.

The rooms are considered the best ventilated in all Madrid, for the young queen inherits her love of fresh air from her illustrious grandmother, the late Queen Victoria of England.

HARD!

"Oh, dear!" sighed Miss Mudd, "I do wish I knew an effective way to preserve my complexion."

"If you keep the box in a cool place it will be all right, won't it?"

A newly married man protects his wife by putting his arm or round her.

BUILT THE DREADNAUGHT

HOW SIR THOMAS MITCHELL, NAVAL CONSTRUCTOR, WON SUCCESS.

Career of the Man Who Constructed the Greatest Battleship in the World.

Sir Thomas Mitchell, whose official career has just been so happily terminated by His Majesty's bestowal of a knighthood in recognition of his long and distinguished service, has a record which will remain for a long time unbroken. This was in connection with the building of the Dreadnought. In order that he might superintend her construction Sir Thomas was specially chosen by Sir John Fisher when he had been barely twelve months Chief Constructor at Chatham Dockyard, and he therefore went to Portsmouth in the same capacity. He received the drawings of the great man-of-war on July 10th, 1905; he laid the keel-plate on October 2nd; and His Majesty the King launched the ship on the following February 10th—only four months and eight days after she had been begun. Within a year of her keel being laid she was at sea.

How great an achievement this was may be seen by comparing the Dreadnought's record with that of another battleship, the Trafalgar, the building of which Sir Thomas superintended on the occasion of his first going to Portsmouth Dockyard as

FOREMAN OF THE YARD.

Before the building of the Trafalgar it was a regularly understood thing that a man-of-war took six years to build and prepare for sea. The Trafalgar, however, was built and in commission in less than four years, thus effecting a great saving in the cost of labor. Sir Thomas's work on her received official recognition by his appointment as a second-class assistant constructor on the Royal Corps of Naval Constructors. It was only a few months, however, before he passed the necessary examination, and thus became a first-class assistant constructor on the Royal Corps.

These facts show what no one needs telling, that Sir Thomas must have had a special aptitude for naval construction. It manifested itself at a very early age and decided his career, although, so far as he is aware, none of his relatives ever had anything to do with shipbuilding. He was, however, brought closely into contact with it through the fact that he was born in Chatham, and he entered that famous dockyard as a shipwright's apprentice, having passed the necessary examination at the top of the list. He remained there five years, when he volunteered to go to sea. On his return from two years' seafaring he was again sent to Chatham as when he was appointed to survey the merchant shipping to see if the steamers selected were fit for transport service.

After having built the Trafalgar and spent a couple of years at Jarrow-on-Tyne as Admiralty overseer, where he superintended the building of two battleships, Sir Thomas was appointed constructor at Hong-Kong, where he so endeared himself to the Chinese, who formed practically the whole of the employes, that when he was leaving to return home, after having been appointed senior constructor at Devonport Dockyard, the men subscribed to present him with an enormous illuminated address. It is made of silk, and is between two and three yards long and over a yard and a half wide. On one side the names of the subscribers are written in English characters, and on the other in their native Chinese. Apart altogether from its sentimental value, it is intrinsically worth a good deal of money by reason of the fine artistry with which it is executed.

In Hong-Kong Sir Thomas had more than one uncomfortable, not to say dangerous, experience. It was the custom at that time for the people to walk out to the Mount Austin Hotel, which was reached by a narrow spiral path up the side of the mountain. One Sunday, as Sir Thomas was going along the path, a gentleman just in front of him stopped suddenly. Sir Thomas stopped too, for immediately in front of them a large cobra was lying across the road.

THE HIGHEST POINT IN THE CITY,

Without a moment's hesitation the gentleman stooped, and the next thing Sir Thomas saw was the cobra raised aloft in his hand. The gentleman had seized it just behind the hood, and, in spite of its squirming and wriggling and the desperate efforts to escape from the firm grip in which it was held, the reptile was carried in that way to the hotel, where it was killed.

The gentleman subsequently explained to Sir Thomas that he had over and over again seized cobras in that manner, for when held just behind the hood it is impossible for the beast to turn round and bite its captor. The attempt to catch it is, however, not without danger, for in the event of its being grasped a little too low down, or not being caught, the creature would be able to strike and inflict a dangerous, if not fatal, wound.

Over and over again, too, in Hong-Kong Sir Thomas found centipedes in his bed. When he did so before turning in it was easy to kill them. Occasionally, however, he would be awakened by feeling one of them

CRAWLING UP HIS LEG.

Had he attempted to brush it off he would have angered the animal, which would have gripped his flesh with its strong nippers, which hold so tightly that a knife would have had to be used to cut them out, though, contrary to popular belief, the bite is not fatal.

Under those circumstances Sir Thomas always adopted a device he learned from a civil engineer. Slowly straightening his leg he would get it out from [illegible] the bedclothes, and then, bending his knee, would start swinging the limb very slowly. This always caused the centipede to turn round and make its way down Sir Thomas's leg to his foot, whence it dropped to the ground, where it need hardly be said it was immediately killed. It, however, always left the marks of its many feet on its victim's flesh.

While in Hong-Kong Sir Thomas had a novel experience in docking a ship, for he had to do so in a mud dock, which, though built in much the same way as an ordinary dock, has to have planks placed against the sides to hold the supports of the ship.

Although he has just retired from His Majesty's service, to the great regret of King Edward and of all those who have been brought in contact with him, Sir Thomas was really retained in the Government employ three years longer than the ordinary regulations allow. It is, however, unlikely that he will be content to spend the rest of his life in idleness, for no one who sees his tall, erect figure and well-preserved appearance could by any possibility call him an old man, though his hair and moustache are almost white.—London Tit-Bits.

WOODEN FORTUNES.

Most Valuable is the Famous Rose Tree of Hildersheim.

When Thwaite's oak, said to be the finest tree in Norfolk, was sold some years ago, the trunk alone fetched £44. The branches sold for £28, while the bark and chips realized another £20. So the whole tree fetched more than £90, a sum which would have been greatly exceeded had the cost of getting such a mass of timber to its destination not been so great. The trunk alone weighed more than 20 tons, and it took a 14 horse-power engine a day and a half to get it to the road, says London Answers.

Oak is the most valuable of any British timber, but its value is small, indeed, compared with that of foreign woods used for veneering and other ornamental work of the kind. About five years ago there were sold in Liverpool two logs of African mahogany, which between them composed the trunk of one tree, for the immense sum of £1,536. The grain of this special tree was extraordinarily fine, and cut into veneers these two mighty logs now grace the dining-room of a Park Lane mansion, being used in place of wall-paper.

The famous rose tree of Hildersheim, in Germany, which has been growing and blooming since the year 1022 against the side of the famous old Church of St. Michael, has the honor of being the tree for which the record sum has been offered. Some years ago an American millionaire offered £4,000 down for the tree as it stood. Phlegmatic as the Germans are, the enterprising Westerner was really rather fortunate in getting off with his life. As a great favor, shoots are sometimes sold, and these realize very large prices.

The average man who sees camellia blossoms in florists' windows at sixpence apiece would not mind owning the camellia tree which grows at Pilnetz, near Dresden, and is one of the sights of the district. It was imported from Japan about the middle of the 18th century, and at present stands just over 50 feet high. It has an annual average of 40,000 blossoms, which, if sold at 6d. apiece, would realize exactly £1,000!

WORRIES WON'T DO IT.

King of Portugal Has His, But He Keeps as Fat as Ever.

Worry is supposed to be a sovereign remedy for obesity. Troubles have reduced many stout folks to the condition of the lean and hungry Cassius. But they have no effect upon the King of Portugal. He has been having a hard time of it lately trying to convince his people that he should be allowed a free hand in running the government. Instead of relieving him of some of his superflous avoirdupois, however, his worries have served only to increase his enormous girth. By the strict orders of his physicians he has now to submit himself to a strict and rigorous course of dieting. He sits down to a sumptuously spread table, but only the most frugal fare, and not much of that is allowed to pass his lips. A physician is in attendance at every meal and watches every mouthful. When he cries stop the King has to obey. The cup that cheers is absolutely forbiddnn him.

It is too early to say whether this Spartan treatment will produce the desired shrinkage in the monarch's bulk, or whether he will have the self-denial to adhere to it long enough to give it a fair chance, but several pairs of royal eyes are now turned toward Portugal, watching the experiment with keen interest for possible future adoption.

Among others who are keeping an eye on the King of Portugal is Prince Gustav of Denmark. He is only 24 years old, but he weighs 336 pounds and is still swelling. He has never tried the effect of worry, for he has nothing to worry about, but he has tried all sorts of other remedies without success. He caught the measles some time ago. That is rather a dangerous disease for adults, but Prince Gustav told a member of the royal household that he was glad he had it because it would pull him down a bit. But it didn't. When he was pronounced convalescent by the doctor he was fatter than when he took to his bed.

NURSERIES OF ROYALTY

CHILDREN IN FOURTEEN OUT OF EIGHTEEN COURTS.

Prince Olaf Stands Up for His Parents' Rights—Infante of Spain Grants a Petition.

Certainly in fourteen and probably in fifteen of the eighteen empires and kingdoms of Europe there are families of young children who are growing up as heirs, direct or presumptive, to the throne. In a few cases they are children of the sovereign; oftener they are grandchildren or nephews. In the case of Sweden there is a great-grandson.

The most pathetic of the childless courts is that of Holland. In Austria and Portugal the ultimate living heirs are young men still unmarried

The doubtful case is Turkey. The "Almanach de Gotha" gives no particulars as to the domestic status of Selim Effendi, the Sultan's eldest son. But he is 37, and it is highly probable that he is childless.

As a rule efforts are made to bring royal children up simply and modestly and to shield their nursery life from the public gaze, but it is inevitable that a great many details leak out.

One little Prince who has been very much before the public in his brief life of four years is Olaf, Crown Prince of Norway. When he visited his grandfather in England a few months ago with his father and mother he attracted little less notice than King Haakon and Queen Maud.

A SELF-WILLED PRINCE.

He is said to be a very self-willed young gentleman, with a large sized idea of his own and his parents' rights. The last story told of him represents him as stamping his foot when a little playmate climbed into a big armchair in one of the private saloons in the palace at Christiana.

"Get out of there!" he ordered, "that is my father's place."

The little visitor looked scared and King Haakon hastened to comfort him. The King picked him up and set him on his knee, but the young Prince Olaf became even more enraged. He stamped his foot again as he fairly shouted:

"Get out of there; I tell you, that is my mother's place!"

The latest arrivals in the rank of heirs direct are the baby Princes of Spain and Germany, both born within a few months, the one as Crown Prince, the other the Crown Prince's son. Both are still in their cradles, so personal anecdotes are lacking, but there are stories about the Spanish heir all the same.

One tells of the appeal of a poor woman, the widow of an officer who fell in Cuba, for an increase of pension. She had repeatedly made application through the ordinary channels, but without result. Then she hit on the device of addressing a memorial to his Royal Highness Alfonso, Infante of Spain. The letter was opened by the Prince's secretary—he has a whole suite of officials and equerries to reinforce his buxom Andalusian nurse—who of course referred the memorial to the King.

THE KING READ IT AND SMILED.

Holding it in his hand he made his way through the corridors of the Escurial, the secretary and a few other attendants tagging on behind him. In the nursery they found the Queen and the baby Prince sitting up in his crib.

The King explained the situation and then with a formal bow returned it to the secretary.

"But what shall I do with it, sire?" the latter asked.

"Why, give it to the Prince, to whom it is directed, of course."

The secretary with his best obeisance laid it on the royal cradle. The baby grabbed at it and smiled.

"Well, what does the Prince say to it?" asked the King after a pause, turning to the nurse.

"Really, your Majesty, he appears to me to say nothing," was the matter of fact reply.

"All right, silence gives consent," said the King. "Mr. Secretary, see that the letter is forwarded to the War Department with the proper endorsement and write to the woman that the Prince grants her request."

The Russian imperial children lead a healthful, outdoor life, for the most part at Tsarskoe-Selo, always with a powerful guard of soldiers and secret police agents just beyond their range of vision. It is a wonder that the poor little Grand Duke, who is the heir to the dignity of Czar, is not already overwhelmed by his title.

TITLES OF A LITTLE GRAND DUKE.

He is now just three years and three months old and he is Hetman of All the Cossacks, Chief of the Regiment of the Guard of Finland, Colonel of the Fifty-first Regiment of Infantry of Zitovsk, of the Twelfth Regiment of Infantry of Eastern Siberia, of the Corps of Cadets of Tashkend, Captain of the Fourth Battery of Horse Artillery of the Guard, Commandant of the Military School at Moscow, of the Forty-fourth Regiment of Dragoons of Nijni-Novgorod and of the Forty-fifth Regiment of Dragoons of Seversk. He is also a Chevalier of the Order of St. Andrew. Notwithstanding these dignities in life is it said that his greatest joy that he a red and blue Punchinello and occasionally scraps with his youngest sister, Princess Anastasia, who is six years old, for possession of it.

Sometimes odd things happen to royal children. Not long ago the carriage in which the youngest daughter of Kaiser Wilhelm was driving with her governess in Berlin ran over a little boy. The Princess, who is fifteen, jumped out and ran after the crowd that was carrying the little chap to a drug store near by. Then a vigilant policeman who formed the idea that she was trying to escape dashed after her and caught her by the arm.

"You must come with me to the police station," he growled. "What is your name and who are your parents?"

"My name is Victoria Louisa," replied the little girl, with a fine air of offended dignity, "and my father is the Kaiser."

Then apologies flowed freely.

PRINCE OF WALES'S CHILDREN

are all animal lovers. Their grandmother, Queen Alexandra, instilled this characteristic into them.

Prince Albert's pony, Midget, is his pet. Prince Edward, the heir presumptive, is devoted to his terrier, Puck. Both boys are good fencers and can go through the manual of arms in good style; but it is said their sister Victoria can give points to either. She can't box, however, and they can and they do. One day when they quarrelled and started to pummel each other there was a rush of governesses and tutors and servants to separate them.

"Oh, nonsense," exclaimed the King, who happened to be looking on, "let them fight it out."

Royal mothers are, in the present day at least good mothers. There is not a single case in which the Queens and Princesses who have children growing up to the honors and responsibilities of royalty do not devote much of their time to directing their education and caring for their health.

The Queen of Spain began by nursing the little Prince, and she planned the nursery for him herself. The Czarina not only directs her children's study but makes herself their playmate.

In other courts conditions are in general the same. The time when etiquette was a barrier between Kings and Queens and their families seems to have completely passed away.

THE MINER'S PERIL.

Great and mystically dreadful is the earth from a mine's depth. Man is in the implicable grasp of Nature. It has only to lighten slightly, and he is crushed like a twig. His loudest shriek of agony would be as impotent as his final moan to bring help from that fair land that lies like heaven over his head. There is an insidious, silent enemy in the gas. If the huge fan-wheel on top of the earth should stop for a moment there is certain death, and down under the tons of rock there ensues a panic more terrible than any occurring on the earth's surface. If a man escapes the gas, the floods, the "squeezes" of falling rock, the cars shooting through little tunnels, the precarious elevators, the hundred perils, there usually comes to him an attack of "miner's asthma," that slowly racks and shakes into his grave.

"Yep."

"De doctor says it's water on de brain."

"Wot's dat? Water on Weary's brain! Say, he must have left his hat off when 'twas rainin'—he never got it no odder way."

WILFRID MALONE.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A terrible accident occurred at 11.45 on Thursday night near Moore Lake, on the C. P. R., 35 miles west of Pembroke. A light engine was proceeding west, and trying to make Moore Lake ahead of the Soo Express coming east to Ottawa. The express was sharp on time, and the two met with fatal results.

Seven people were killed and cremated, and eight others injured, but not seriously, in the affair.

FAILED TO TAKE SIDING.

The big locomotive was running light from Chalk River to North Bay when it met No. 8, the east-bound express from the Soo. The accident is the most serious since that at Azilda. It was apparently due to the engine bound light for North Bay failing to take a siding at the proper place to allow the Soo express to pass. No specific orders were necessary, as No. 8 was on her time, and had the right of way.

It may never be known just how the rule was violated, as the crew of the west-bound engine was killed.

RUN OF LOCOMOTIVE.

The extra locomotive, No. 1715, which figured in the accident, was being transferred from Chalk River to the North Bay division, and was in charge of Engineer Hendrie and Fireman Nadeau. The east-bound Soo train was in charge of Conductor A. E. Wright, of Ottawa, the rest of the crew being Engineer Younge, of North Bay, W. G. Kent, and Baggageman Irvine, of Ottawa.

The Soo train was travelling at a good rate of speed towards Chalk River, the divisional point, while the locomotive, which was on its way, was going equally fast in the opposite direction. At the point of the accident there is a curve, preventing a clear view of any great distance ahead. When the heavy engine met with appalling impact they completely demoralized each other, while the mail and baggage car of No. 8 and part of the forward passenger car were also smashed.

HOW FIRE STARTED.

The crash caused the fire boxes to be emptied, and a moment later the wreckage of the front cars were afire.

Eddie Roberts, the mail clerk, of Ottawa, managed to crawl out, but the fireman of the Soo train and the others on the locomotives, the baggage and mail cars were pinned in the wreckage and before they could be rescued the wreck took fire.

CARS CAUGHT FIRE.

The demolished cars burned up like tinder, while those pinned in them or under the locomotives were either burned to death or cremated after death had resulted from their injuries received in the collision. Those around were powerless to aid. The passengers on the forward car were thrown from their seats while broken doors, windows and roofing resulted from the crash and passengers sustained more or less severe injuries. None are likely to be fatally hurt, however.

Wrecking auxiliaries were sent from Chalk River and North Bay, doctors were hurried from Pembroke and Mattawa; to the latter hospital most of the injured were taken.

PAID WAGES IN NICKELS.

Omaha Street Railway Sent Out 600,000 of Them.

A despatch from Omaha, Neb., says: Six hundred thousand nickels in a bunch were turned loose in Omaha on Sunday when the Omaha Street Railway Company disbursed $30,000 worth of five-cent pieces in meeting the monthly pay roll of the concern. Since the financial stringency began the street railway company has been holding enough cash with which to pay its employees on pay day. When the men lined up for their money it was paid to them all in nickels. By paying out the chicken feed the street railway company has made change very plentiful in the shops, where most of it was spent.

DEER NOT DIMINISHING.

Game May be Going Further North in Ontario.

A despatch from Toronto says: In reference to the reports of great slaughter of deer in the northern districts of Ontario, Mr. Edwin Tinsley, Superintendent of Game and Fisheries, says that not more than 30 or 35 per cent. of the animals killed are does. He does not think the deer are diminishing in number and can see no reason for further restrictions. The game may be going further north, for they are now found 200 or 300 miles further north than the past. The number of deer killed last year was the largest on record and the reports show that many have been taken this season.

A building fund of $100,000 is to be raised in Toronto for a new Knox College.

Mr. Mackenziee King announces that he has adjusted all the Japanese claims arising out of the riots at Vancouver, and the total amount to be paid is $16,775.

BAGPIPES SCARED WOLVES.

A Hunter at Stoney Lake Played Half the Night.

A despatch from Peterborough, Ont., says: Donald McLean, of Warsaw, who recently came to Canada from Scotland, while engaged in deer hunting at the head of Stoney Lake, returned to camp Friday night, only to hear the distant howling of timber wolves; his rifle was found to be useless in the dark against the oncoming pack. McLean, hearing that noises of various descriptions had been effectively used to frighten off wolves, selected the bagpipes, and playing them incessantly, walked constantly around a large tree for several hours. The howling of the wolves grew distant and they finally disappeared. McLean declares that he owes his life to the lively skirling of the bagpipes.

DRANK PARIS GREEN.

Peculiar Accident to Frank Hall of Drumbo While in a Fit.

A despatch from Woodstock says: Frank Hall of Drumbo was the victim of a most peculiar accident the other day. He returned home with some Paris green and was mixing it as a dose for rats. While so engaged he was seized with an epliptic fit. Before anyone had a chance to secure him he grabbed the vessel containing the poison and drank it. A physician was immediately summoned, and, though for a time his life was despaired of, he was finally pulled through and is recovering.

R. H. Gurney is under arest at Hamilton, charged with stealing $15 from his landlady and then paying his arrears of $4 out of it.

A pastoral from Archbishop Bruchesi was read in the Roman Catholic churches at Montreal, on Sunday, forbidding marriages between Catholics and Protestants.

POISON IN CANNED MEATS

One Woman Is Dead, and Two Others Are Ill.

A despatch from London, Ont., says: Mrs. Addie Robinson, of 424 Ontario Street, widow of the late John Robinson, fireman, who died of injuries sustained in the recent locomotive boiler explosion at Newbury, succumbed on Thursday night to apparent ptomaine poisoning. She had eaten some potted chicken at six o'clock, and immediately afterwards was taken with violet convulsions. Medical assistance was summoned, but death resulted at seven o'clock. Coroner McLaren could not say whether a post-mortem examination would be conducted or not.

ATE CANNED SALMON.

A despatch from Hamilton says: Christina Dickie, 204 Gibson Avenue, and Maud Barrett, 49 West Avenue north, employes of the Dominion Belting Co., were taken seriously ill while at work on Thursday afternoon as the result of eating canned salmon. They were taken to the City Hospital and is thought they will recover.

JURY ACQUITS TRAINMEN.

Conductor and Engineed of the Caledon Wreck Go Free.

A despatch from Brampton says: After listening for four days to a mass of technical and other evidence, the jury who have been trying the engineer, George Hodge, and Conductor Matthew Grimes on a charge of negligence in connection with the terrible railway disaster which occurred at the Horseshoe Curve, near Caledon, on September 3rd, returned into court at 8.45 on Saturday night with a verdict of "not guilty" against both defendants. The announcement of their verdict was the occasion for one of the most remarkable outbursts of popular enthusiasm ever witnessed in the old Court House here. Although both of the defendants are strangers in Brampton, there has been marked sympathy shown by people of the town and district on their behalf. They are young men; and both seemed to feel the seriousness of their position. Hodge, especially, was looking pale and worn from the first, and his pallor increased as the trial progressed.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS.

A Woodstock Woman Pays Duty on Her Dress.

A despatch from Woodstock says A local newspaper tells a story of a case in which a woman's conscience awakened after thirty years and she paid into the customs office the duty on a dress which she brought into the country when she came here when a young woman. The dress was worth $30, and the thoughts of defrauding the customs lay heavily on the woman's conscience all these years. She told the customs officials, so she decided to make recompense. She insisted that she be allowed to pay $30, the full value of the dress, but the customs officer would only accept $10.50, which is the amount of the duty according to present rates. The dress was brought here from the old country.

MONTREAL CUSTOMS REVENUE.

Has Trebled in Past Twelve Years, Says Collector.

A despatch from Montreal says: Customs collections continue to show a big increase. "This has been a splendid year up to date," said Collector White, and the revenue shows no recession in trade despite the stringency of the money situation. "During the first half of November our revenue has been $15,000 ahead of the corresponding period last year, and I feel sure that the total collections for the twelve months will approximate, if it does not exceed, $18,000,000, which sum aggregates about three times the amount of yearly collections at the time I assumed office some twelve years ago."

SANDBAGGED AND ROBBED.

Fort William Fireman Victim of Gang of Footpads.

A despatch from Fort William says: Ambrose Kelly, a fireman, is lying in the McKellar Hospital in an unconscious condition with concussion of the brain and several severe frost-bites. He was found on Wednesday morning on Alberta Street by several Finlanders, who were on their way to work. He said that he had been sandbagged and robbed by a gang of five or six men about 12 o'clock the previous night. His watch and cheque for ninety dollars is missing, and it is said that he had a large sum of money in Port Arthur on Tuesday.

GHOULS BUSY IN GLENGARRY.

Several Graves in Kirkhill Cemetery Have Been Robbed.

A despatch from Cornwall, Ont., says: It is reported here that several graves in the cemetry at Kirkhill, Glengarry, have been desecrated lately and the bodies carried off. The blame is laid to medical students of various universities. Two men while hunting in the rear of Lochiel Township found part of a coffin in the woods which looked as if it had been recently disinterred. These grave robberies have been reported to the authorities and an effort will be made to trace the guilty parties.

DEATH-BED MARRIAGE.

Dramatic Ceremony Performed at a Toronto Hospital.

A despatch from Toronto says: On her deathbed in a ward at Grace Hospital on Tuesday Lydia McLean became the wife of William McArthur. When told that she was dying she expressed a wish that she should be united to her lover, and the Rev. C. Ensor Sharpe of St. Thomas' Church performed the ceremony. Conscious through the whole ceremony, the girl passed away only a few hours after her marriage. Before her illness Miss McLean was employed at the Keen Manufacturing Company, but her relatives were at Peterboro. Wednesday morning the remains were taken to St. Catharines, accompanied by the husband, and there were also present at the funeral service about two hundred girls from the Keen factory.

FORMER STEWARDS ARRESTED.

Charged With Smuggling Passengers Across the Ocean.

A despatch from Montreal says: Albert Korff and Samuel Davis, late stewards on the Empress of Britain, were arrested on Tuesday on the charge of defrauding the steamship company. For quite a long time the smuggling of passengers was carried out, not only on C.P.R. liners, but, it is believed, on vessels of other lines as well. It was comparatively simple for the stewards on these vessels to smuggle people aboard at Liverpool, hide them in certain parts of the vessel where they knew they could not be found, and just as easy a matter to provide them with food. Suspicion fell on Korff and Davis, and they deserted some time ago, but were arrested here. They will be taken back to Liverpool to stand their trial.

KAISER'S VISIT TO BRITAIN

Emperor Makes a Happy Speech at the Guildhall.

A despatch from London says: A semi-official pronouncement by the Foreign Office declares the conviction that the Kaiser's visit will materially improve the relations between the two nations. The editorials in the newspapers, which have often been the Kaiser's most captious critics, admit the truth of his claim that he has pursued a policy of peace.

The Emperor made a speech on Wednesday at the Guildhall, where he was entertained by the City of London. He urged the strengthening of the Anglo-German relations and emphasized his unalterable desire to foster the peace of the world. The day passed off without the expected Socialistic demonstration, much less any disorder or rioting.

The reception given Emperor William by the people of London was a very cordial one.

A BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE.

The Emperor and Empress drove several miles, through streets brilliantly decorated with bunting and lined by troops from Paddington railroad station, where they arrived from Windsor, to the city's historic hall, where an assemblage of some eight hundred persons, including members of the Royal family, peers, commoners and naval and military officers, mostly in uniform, and with their breasts glittering with orders, formed a brilliant picture. An address of welcome was presented to the Emperor in a magnificent gold casket. In reply, his Majesty recalled his previous reception at the Guildhall in 1891, and emphasized his unalterable desire to foster the peace of the world. His Majesty, during his remarks, said:

PEACE HIS AIM.

"I said then, on this spot, that my aim is above all the maintenance of peace. History, I venture to hope, will do me justice in that I have pursued this aim unswervingly ever since. The main prop and base for the peace of the world is the maintenance of the good relations between our two countries, and I will further strengthen them in so far as lies in my power.

"The German nation's wishes coincide with mine. The future will then show a bright prospect and commerce may develop among the nations who have learned to trust one another."

The Emperor and Empress, after lunch, returned to Paddington Station on their way back to Windsor by a different route.

Emperor William appeared to be in splendid spirits throughout. He laughed and joked with his immediate neighbors, but he looked haggard. His face was pale, thin and drawn.

PRESS IS GRATEFUL.

There is a chorus of gratification among officials and the newspapers at London's reception of the Kaiser and his Majesty's happy speech.

Prime Minister Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, in a speech at Bristol, rejoiced at the popular expressions of friendship and sympathy with the Kaiser and Kaiserin, hailing them as an indication of the cementing of peace.

BATTLE WITH ARMED GANG.

Montreal Detectives Attack Supposed Bank Robbers.

A despatch from Montreal says: A pitched battle between city detectives and a band of supposed bank-robbing crooks occurred on Sunday evening at St. Lambert's, just across the river from Montreal, which resulted in the arrest of two of the crooks. Although there were six detectives and six crooks, all of whom were busy emptying revolvers at each other, not one of the whole party was injured, and the detectives scored a bloodless victory. Chief Carpenter of the city detective force, was on Sunday evening informed that a band of men, supposed to be robbers, were camped near St. Lambert's, and he despatched half a dozen of his men to gather them in, guided by the man who brought in the information. While on the way the detectives met four men on the road, but passed them, thinking they were not the men they were after. Later they found two of the men sitting by a camp fire. As soon as the detectives appeared the strangers opened fire on them with revolvers, and the detectives pulled their guns and fired back. The shots alarmed the four on the road, who were also members of the gang, and they at once ran back and attacked the detectives from the rear. The latter, however, won out, and the four decamped, leaving the original two to be arrested. The latter gave their names as John Brown and Will Hudson, but their names do not count for much, as yet. It is thought that the gang was composed of the men who have been travelling through the province, burglarizing banks and stores, lately.

BUTTER FROM EUROPE.

Can Be Imported at the Present Prices in Canada.

A despatch from Ottawa says: "The present high price of butter in the cities and towns of Canada is just about the limit which can be charged by the producers in this country," said Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick to a newspaper correspondent on Friday. He explained that any further rise in prices would be met by importations of butter from Denmark or other European sources, which can profitably be placed on the market here at about 30 cents per pound. Consequently the fears of city dwellers that the ruling winter price might be as high as 50 cents per pound are groundless. There is a plentiful supply of dairy products in Europe this year, and the effect of the high prices now prevailing in Canada has already resulted in considerable exportation to Canada. Mr. Ruddick believes that as the season advances imports of butter will increase, and the result will be to effectually prevent any exhorbitant price in Canada during the winter. The ruling price of good butter in London is now about 24 cents per pound. It can be sent across the Atlantic and marketed here with a fair margin of profit at an additional cost of five or six cents per pound.

They will place two 14,000-ton boats on the St. Lawrence service next summer, to sail under the flag of the Dominion Line. The names of the boats are the Alberta and the Albania.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART.

Harry Beuder Kills Himself While Hunting Near Pembroke.

A despatch from Pembroke says: A sad accident occurred in Alice Township, six miles from Pembroke, on Wednesday, when Harry Beuder, aged 22 years, accidentally shot himself through the heart while out hunting. Beuder was an employe of the Stearns Electrical Equipment Company of Buffalo, N.Y., was home on his holidays.

NO CAR SHORTAGE.

Farmers are Loading Grain Direct on to the Cars.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Railroad men claim there is no car congestion in the West and that they have more cars in service than can be filled at this moment. A leading official of the C. P. R. says that the farmers are this year loading their grain in many cases direct to the cars without passing it through the elevators, thus securing, as they suppose, better terms and saving elevator charges, but it ties up many cars, as the loading is very slow. What is worse, many grain men are purposely holding grain for higher prices and thus preventing the movement of the crop before navigation closes.

The new wireless station at Three Rivers, Que., was opened on Thursday.

BANK MANAGER FOUGHT

Daring Robbery of La Banque de St. Jean Napierville, Quebec.

A despatch from Montreal says: Early Thursday morning La Banque de St. Jeane at Napierville, Que., was robbed. Mr. Paul Brault, manager, was sound asleep above the bank, when he was awakened and ordered to come down stairs. He awoke to find three masked men and one unmasked facing him with loaded revolvers. At first the manager thought it must be some nightmare, but the shrieks of his wife, who was also awakened, assured him it was no dream. With oaths the ruffians bade the woman cease her screaming or they would let daylight into her, and, covering Mr. Brault with their revolvers, ordered him to dress as quickly as possible and lead the way to the bank. The unfortunate manager was so taken by surprise that he could scarcely get into his apparel, and one of his assailants struck him a heavy blow in the jaw. This brought Mr. Brault to himself, and the moment he was dressed he struck out at the nearest burglar and knocked him to the ground. The leader of the gang shouted to his comrades not to shoot or they would kill him and spoil the game, as they required the manager's assistance. Mr. Brault put up a brave fight until a heavy blow on the head sent him reeling to the floor. They carried him down stairs and gave him three minutes to open the safe. Mr. Brault fumbled at the combination. Then, making the excuse that the loss of blood prevented him remembering, he was knocked down and carried up stairs again. One man was left to guard him, while the other threw blew open the safe with nitroglycerine and decamped with $2,400 in bills and over $600 in gold. Napierville is midway between Montreal and the United States border, and it is thought the robbers got across the border.

SIX BANK ROBBERS PUT UP A FIGHT.

Montreal Detectives Capture Two at St. Lambert, and Pick Up Revolvers.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—The two suspected bank robbers, who were only captured after a stand-up revolver fight with four city detectives yesterday at St. Lambert, and who are now lodged in jail, the remaining four of the gang having taken to the woods and escaped for the time being at least, are from Ontario. One is John Boevin of Berlin, and the other Thomas Hudson, a Scotchman by birth, who resided in Lindsay up to three yearsago. Both men are evidently desperate characters and were heavily armed when taken. Near the scene of the fray a number of heavy revolvers were picked up and also sufficient nitro-glycerine to blow open several safes. The men captured are presumed to have been connected with the robbing of the bank of Napierville, and also with the attempt on the Lachine Locks branch of the Molsons Bank on Tuesday last.

From Willow Creek, Ont., Miss E. Diegel writes: "A few years ago I was drenched with rain and got lumbago; it was like a steel rod piercing my back. I also had earache and was just wild with pain. LETTER DELIVERED AFTER 25 YEARS

Had Fallen into a Crevice in Toronto Post Office and Lay Undiscovered.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Two years ago a letter sent to an address in the city of Toronto was delivered twenty-five years after it had been mailed.

Back in 1880 a citizen of Toronto, who had been absent in Europe for some months, on arriving in New York wrote to his wife in Toronto that he would be home in two days' time. The letter expressed in affectionate language the delight with which he looked forward to the home coming. By some mischance this letter fell into a crevice behind a large letter rack at the Toronto general post office. About two years during some alterations in the post office the letter was found and forwarded to headquarters at Ottawa. Dr. Coulter read the letter and instituted inquiries with a view to having it redirected and delivered. In Toronto it was learned that the family had removed some years ago to Barrie. An inquiry addressed to Barrie, elicited, the informarion that the daughter of the sender was living in Port Hope. The letter was accordingly forwarded to her there. A few days later Dr. Coulter received a letter from her telling him that her father had been killed in a railway wreck in New York State the day after he wrote the letter. Her mother had since died, and the letter now received after twenty-five years would be kept as a priceless treasure, containing as it did the last message of affection from her father.

Missionary Anniversary.

The Missionary anniversary held in the Methodist church last Sabbath is considered by the officials of the church as the best in history of Methodism in Chesterville.

In the morning the Rev. J. E. Mavety of Centenary Methodist Church, Montreal, preached a very pointed and practical sermon on "the grace of Liberality" and the congregation, went away in a very beautiful spirit. The evening service was in the form of a platform meeting, the pastor acting as chairman, Mr. Hilliard, of Morrisburg, gave a strong address on the missionary movement from the layman's standpoint. Rev. Mr. Mavety also gave an address. Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead sang a beautiful duette "My faith looks up to thee" which was much appreciated. The subscriptions to Missions this year will be largely in advance of the previous year, amounting to about $400. This means that the needs of the heathen world, as well as the needs of our home missions are laying claim to the prayer and possessions of our people. Beside their givings to the general funds of the church and to missions the Methodist people have given this year over nine thousand dollars to the erection of the new church.

Accidentally Hurt.

While securing a load of coal at the C. P. R. yards here on Saturday forenoon last Mr. Allan Ball of the Ridge, met with a very serious accident. It seems that he was in a coal car loading up his wagon, when a train shunting struck the car and frightened the team which started. He caught the lines and was pulled on the wheel and with assistsnce the team was stopped, but not before he was seriously hurt internally. He was at once removed to the residence of Mr. John Notell at the factory and Dr. W. A Brown was called, together with Dr. Reddick of Winchester, and an operation was performed, and the patient is progressing as well as can be expected.

Drowned at Renfrew.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Dr. H. Elliott, dentist, of Cobden, met death by drowning in the lake at Renfrew on Tuesday evening. He had gone out at about 5.30 in the evening on the lake in a new canvas canoe, which he had purchased, and probably not being accustomed to a conoe, he upset. During the evening several people heard cries of distress coming from the lake, but no special attention was given them, and it is supposed that it was the doctor calling for help.

The Magnet Cream Separator.

The Petrie M'fg. Co., Ltd.
Hamilton, Ont.

Gentlemen,—I purchased a Magnet Cream Separator from your agent, C. M. Munro of Chesterville, I saw as soon as I examined it that it had many advantages over any other separator that I had seen. First, the square gear is more durable, second the bowl staid at both ends, third easy to turn and just the right height and easy to wash which I consider is a big saving of time and it skims perfectly clean.

I take pleasure in recommending the Magnet and would advise all dairymen to give it a trial.

I remain yours

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure was Found for Inflamatory Rheumatism.

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs Edw. Warmann, of Kent Jct., N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentle was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone". Consequetly Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excrusciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me.

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferers isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone".

He belonged to a good family, his father in being in his early days a midshipman under Admiral Nelson. He himself was born in the United States, and a good deal of his time had been spent in lumbering, being an expert hewer in his day. He was of a gentle, gindly nature, and much beloved by those who knew him. He leaves behind him children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. His son Eli from Muskoka was among those present at the funeral, which took place in St. John's Church, Crysler, and was conducted by the Rev. G. M. Poole, his pastor, who preached a sermon taking for his text "I am the Resurrection and the Life." Another Triumph in Canada

President Edward Bousquet Lauds in Glowing Words.

Mr. Edward Bousquet, 248 a Panet street, Montreal, Can., president of Barbers International Union, Local 455, writes:

"For several years I have suffered from catarrh. I tried many remedies with little or no results.

"I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, and after using a few bottles, I am much relieved.

"I believe Peruna to be the greatest known catarrh remedy of the age. I cheerfully recommend Peruna for catarrh.'

The truthfulness of Mr. Bousquet's statements cannot be questioned. He has given a clear and frank recital of his experience with chronic catarrh, and how Peruna helped him when all other remedies failed.

RATTLER CRAWLED OVER BODY.

Pennsylvania Mother's Wit Saved Little One From Death.

At Weatherly, near Hazleton, Pa., Mrs. Henry Chamberlain heard her two-year-old baby cry out in fear. She had left the child asleep in the bedroom on the second floor.

The mother sped up the stairs. She flung open the door, to see a rattlesnake already drawing its loathsome form across the body of her child. She stopped only to catch up a stick of wood which, she recalled, had been left in the room.

As she advanced toward the reptile, she bethought herself that an attempt to kill it then, might startle it into striking the nearest living creature—her baby. Every bit of mother love and mother wit came, instinctively to her aid. Approaching within a couple of feet, she pointed the stick at the snake's dully gleaming head.

The rattles clicked slightly as the snake veered toward its foe and her extended weapon. She drew back. The snake writhed forward. Again she retreated; again the snake pursued. Further and further back the mother stepped, until the rattlesnake had dropped to the floor and lay coiled, ready to launch upon her with its venomous fangs.

She made one quick leap towards it, and she struck just once at the upraised neck. The wood struck upon the stiffened backbone and snapped it like a twig. The dangerous snake lay dead before her. Then Mrs. Chamberlain caught up her baby in her arms, and kissed it harder than any baby in Weatherly has been kissed for the last ten years.

Use the safe, pleasant and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

A PROSPEROUS COLONY.

In the State of Victoria, Australia, the railway revenue for 1907 fiscal year was $20,050,000, the highest on record, while the working expenses were less than 52 per cent. of the revenue, the lowest for twenty-eight years. The number of savings bank depositors increased by 25,000. Forty per cent. of the entire population has deposits. The amount at their credit on June 30 last was $64,000,000, an increase for the year of $5,140,000. Overseas exports exclusive of gold, amounted to $62,000,000, an increase of 250 per cent. over 1903. The colony's overseas imports amounted to $75,000,000. The exports to other States were nearly $25,000,000. The Government revenue for the year was $41,565,000, and the expenditure only $37,505,000, creating a surplus of $4,060,000.

HELP YOUR BABY.

No mother can expect her little ones to escape all the minor ailments of childhood, but she can be reasonably sure that her child will be healthy if she gives it an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. And she can feel absolutely safe in giving this medicine, as she has the guarantee of a government analyst that it contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. Uria Cressman, New Hamburg, Ont., says:— "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach troubles and constipation with the greatest success. I always feel safe when I have a box of Tablets in the house.' Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GERMANY NOW REPENTS

HER OPINIONS ON THE SOUTH AFRICAN WAR REVISED.

Remarkable Eulogy of the British Soldier in the German Official Military Organ.

A remarkable eulogy of Great Britain during the Boer war is published in the German official military organ, The Militaer Wochenblatt.

Unqualified admission is made that the British Government was misjudged, and unstinted praise of the British soldiers is freely recorded. The article emanates from the German General Staff and is therefore official.

In the light of the denunciation hitherto invariably showered on Great Britain it is an astonishing production.

It consists of a review of the British official history of the war compiled by General Sir Frederick Maurice, and coming as it does on the eve of the Kaiser's visit to England has

A SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE.

After reviewing the difficulties which the British authorities had to contend with on the outbreak of hostilities, The Wochenblatt continues:—"If the British soldier in the early engagements did not show himself at the height of his fighting capacity when such catastrophes as Nicholson's Nek and Stormberg could occur, we, who now have our own experience of colonial warfare behind us, judge this phenomenon, which at the time evoked such unfriendly comment, all the more mildly, as to-day we ourselves know what acclimatization means in such colonial enterprises.

"Sir Frederick Maurice's masterly description of the fighting during the operations for the relief of Ladysmith, and during the advance on Bloemfontein, shows what devotion the British soldier is capable of, and what high fighting qualities he possesses—qualities which were recently again manifested in a brilliant fashion during the RELENTLESS PURSUIT OF MORENGA.

"The dash and perseverance of General French's cavalry division during the pursuit of General Cronje, the gallant behavior of the Highland Brigade, the heroic attack of the Mounted Infantry under Colonel Hanna at Paardeberg, the tough fight of the Sixth Division at Driefontein, and the splendid stand made by Q Battery at Sanna's Post, are eloquent testimony to the leadership, pluck and willing devotion of the troops."

BADLY RUN DOWN.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to the Rescue After Doctors' Treatment Failed.

The life of any constant traveller is always a hard one, but those whose work compel them to take long tiresome drives over rough roads, exposed to all conditions of weather, are in constant danger of losing their health. The extreme heat of summer or the piercing winds of winter sap their strength, the kidneys become diseased or rheumatism sets in. What is needed to withstand this hardship is rich, red blood—the pure blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone can make. These pills are the travellers never-failing friend. Concerning them Mr. George Dalpe, of St. Eloi, Que., says:—"I am a grain dealer and am obliged to make frequent trips, sometimes very tiring. I returned home from one of these trips last summer very much fatigued. I was overheated and tried to cool and rest myself by lounging on the verandah till late at night. I caught cold, and the next day I did not feel at all well. I had a headache, pains in my stomach and was very weak. I went to see a doctor, but he said I would be alright in a day or so, so I started on another trip. I had not gone far before I felt very ill and had to return home and go to bed. I had chills, headache, pains in my stomach and kidneys. The doctor came to see me and he said I was overworked. He treated me for several months, but instead of improving I continually grew worse. I wasted away almost to a skeleton and really thought I was going to die. One day my wife returned from the village with a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She urged me to take them, as she said they had been very highly recommended to her. I did so, and by the time I had taken four boxes I felt enough benefit to decide me to continue them and I took about a dozen boxes. They fully cured me and to-day I am able to go about, my work without feeling fatigued."

Fatigue, on the least exertion is a sign that the blood is poor. Replace the bad blood with good blood and later will be a pleasure. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make pure, red blood. That is why they cure anæmia, rheumatism, kidney trouble, indigestion, heart palpitation and the nerve-racking ills of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOW THE YOUNG IDEA SHOOTS.

Many children are so crammed with everything that they really know nothing.

In proof of this, read these veritablye specimens of definitions, written by public-school children:

"Stability is taking care of a stable."

"A mosquito is the child of black and white parents."

"Monastery is the place for monsters."

Tocsin is something to do with getting drunk."

"Espostulation is to have the smallpox."

"Cannibal is two brothers who killed each other in the Bible."

"Anatomy is the human body, which consists of three parts, the head, the chist, and the stummick. The head contains the eyes and brains, if any. The chist contains the lungs and a piece of the liver. The stummick is devoted to the bowels, of which there are five, a, e, I, o, u, and sometimes W and y."

A friend in need is a surprise indeed.

AN EASY VICTIM TO CONSUMPTION

The run down system is an inviting field for the germ of Tuberculosis. You cannot avoid breathing in the germs—they are everywhere—but a robust system is immune from their attacks. To rebuild a weakened system there is nothing that contains so much virtue as COD LIVER OIL, but the virtue is not in the grease. In fact the grease retards the beneficial action of the really valuable principles of the OIL by deranging the digestion.

In "BRICK'S TASTELESS" the grease is eliminated. It presents the valuable principles of COD LIVER OIL in a palatable form, combined with phosphorous in the form of the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, the nutritious Liquid Extract of Malt and the Bronchial Tonic and Sedative Fluid Extract of Wild Cherry Bark.

ARM YOURSELF AGAINST CONTAGION.

"BRICK'S TASTELESS" will build up the enervated system and will cure Bronchitis, Pulmonary Affections, and the deranged or disordered nervous system. Make your body healthy and you need have no fear of germs or diseases.

Read Brick's guarantee with each bottle.

"BRICK'S TASTELESS" is put up in eight (8) ounce bottles, retail price fifty (50) cents, and in twenty (20) ounce bottles, retail price one (1) dollar.

Magistrate—"What is your occupation?" Prisoner—"I am an employer of labor, your honor.' Magistrate—"Well, what do you do?' Prisoner—"I find employment for such gentlemen as yourself and prison officials.' Sentence—Six months' hard.

Husband (to wife)—"Do you believe in the theory that the greatness of a father often proves a stumbling-block to the advancement of his son in life?" Wife—"I certainly do. I am thankful, John, our boy will never be handicapped in that way.' Husband—"Oh!"

"I haven't got any case," said the client, "I have money." "How much?" asked the lawyer. "Ten thousand dollars." was the reply. "Phew! You have the best case I ever heard of. I'll see that you never go to prison with that sum," said the lawyer, cheerfully. And he didn't—he went there "broke."

A cough is often the forerunner of serious pulmonary afflictions, yet there is a simple cure within the reach of all in Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, an old-time and widely recognized remedy, which if resorted to at the inception of a cold, will invariably give relief, and by overcoming the trouble, guard the system from any serious consequences. Price 25 cents, at all dealers.

The Servant—"Professor, there's a thief in the dining-room!" The Astronomer (deep in a calculation)—"Tell him I'm too busy to see him!'

BY BRIBING THE NERVES with opium you may stop a cough but the inflammation goes from bad to worse. Allen's Lung Balsam, containing no opium, goes to the root of the trouble and cures deep-seated affections of throat and lungs.

Magistrate—"I hope I shall not see you here again." Old Offender—"Not see me here again! Why you ain't going to resign your office, are you?"

Not a Nauseating Pill.—The excipient of a pill is the substance which enfolds the ingredients and makes up the pill mass. That of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is so compounded as to preserve their moisture, and they can be carried into any latitude without impairing their strength. Many pills, in order to keep them from adhering, are rolled in powders, which prove nauseating to the taste. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so prepared that they are agreeable to the most delicate.

There's more money to be made by humoring people than by instructing them, but money isn't everything.

ITCH, Mange Prairie Scratches and every form of contagious Itch on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Wolford's Sanitary Lotion. It never fails. Sold by all druggists.

Laughter may be beautiful, but it must be a serious matter to be tickled to death.

It Keeps the Muscles Pliant.—Men given to muscular sports and exercises and those who suffer muscular pains from bicycle riding will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil something worth trying. As a lubricant it will keep the muscles pliable and free from pains which often follow constant use of them, without softening or impairing their strength. For bruises, sprains and contusions it is without a peer.

It's almost as easy to lie as it is to lose money.

WE CLAIM that "The D & L" Menthol Plaster will cure Lumbago, Backache, Sciatica or Neuralgia Pains quicker than any other plaster. Recommended by everybody.

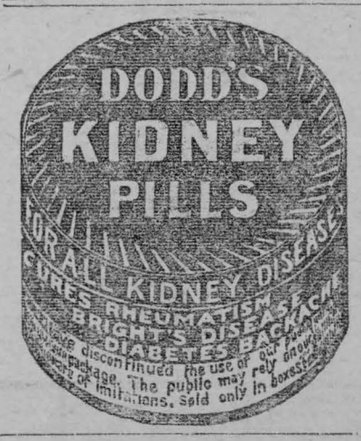

EVIDENCE ENOUGH.

"Tell me, brother, is it possible to let Robert know that I am an heiress?"

"Has he proposed to you?"

"Yes."

"Well, you may be sure he knows it already."

MURDERED FOR A FORTUNE.

Russian Woman Confesses That She Killed Her Sister-in-Law.

Mme. Rastzretoff, the widow of a professor at the university of Moscow, was recently found murdered a short distance from her country residence, a few miles out of Moscow.

Mme. Terpinsky, a sister-in-law, lay in a fainting condition under some bushes not far away. When she had sufficiently recovered she stated that she and Mme. Rastzretoff had been attacked by robbers.

Mme. Rastzretoff, who was enormously wealthy, had died intestate, and as Mme. Terpinsky was her nearest relative suspicions were aroused that she had invented the story of the murderous attack.

Mme. Terpinsky has now confessed that she committed the crime, and is in prison awaiting trial.

FEELING WORDS.

"You can never tell," observed Uncle Allen Sparks, "what lasting results may be accomplished by an earnest word spoken at the right time. Many a man has had the shape of his nose changed for life by calling another man a liar."

MOTHER'S SACRIFICE.

Every mother knows how fretful the little ones are when they develop Mumps, and the many nights rest she is called upon to sacrifice.

Mrs. S. A. Hammond, of Minico, says: "My three children have had the mumps, and I used Zam-Buk for all of them with excellent results. Zam-Buk did my children a world of good, and will always keep it handy as a household remedy. I would recommend it to all mothers, and think that no home should be without it."

Zam-Buk cures Cuts, Burns, Chapped Hands, Ringworm, Sprains, Bad Legs, Boils, Ulcers, Running Sores, Scalp Irritation, Poisoned Wounds, Piles (blind and bleeding), Abscesses, Eczema, etc. Of all stores and druggists 50 cents a box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. 3 boxes for $1.25.

A small boy went to a drug store and asked for five cents' worth of salts. While the man was weighing it he said: "Say, boss, don't give full weight. It's me that has to take it."

How to Cleanse the System.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of scientific study of the effects of extracts of certain roots and herbs upon the digestive organs. Their use has demonstrated in many instances that they regulate the action of the liver and the kidneys, purify the blood, and carry off all morbid accumulations from the system. They are easy to take, and their action is mild and beneficial.

Gunner—"A wireless piano is the latest." Guyer—"H'm! When they invent a soundless one life will be worth living!'

WEAK WATERY BLOOD causes much trouble. That tired feeling and many more symptoms follow in its wake. Try "Ferrovim." It is the best tonic to make you strong and well. All druggists sell it.

COULDN'T GET AT IT.

An Irishman who had just united with the Catholic church in a small town was careless enough to let the priest catch him coming out of a saloon with a jug under his arm. The priest waited for him to come by and said:

"Pat, what is it you have in that jug?"

"Whiskey, sor," answered Pat.

"Whom does it belong to?" asked the good man.

"To me and me brudder Moike, sor."

"Well, say, Pat, pour yours out, and be a good man."

"I can't, sor; mine's on the bottom," answered Pat.

BEER* IS GOOD FOR MOST FOLKS

(HARDLY ANOTHER BEVERAGE FEEDS SO WELL)

BEER really excels milk as a food-drink for most grown people. And many, many people cannot digest milk easily, because it is so lacking in solid food-contents. Moreover, milk is so liable to contagion that it is seldom pure when we get it in the cities. But Ontario-brewed beer is really pure,—brewed in cleanliness, of sound materials, in a sanitary way, and brought to the user in the same fit-to-drink state.

Beer Is No Stimulant

Drink beer with meals and at bedtime, as an item of diet that will help the stomach do its work better, and will feed the body besides. Don't choose beer as a stimulant, though,—it does not contain enough alcohol for that. Use it as a food-drink that induces lazy stomachs to do their work well, and so helps them get more good out of all food.

Beer Makes Better Nerves

Ontario beer is not only deliciously appetising and refreshing, because brewed of pure malt and hops only; but, besides, all the power that hops possess to repair nerve wastes is kept in these brews. That is what makes beer so particularly good for women to drink regularly. Ask your own doctor what he thinks of beer for your household.

* BEER is a term which covers lager, ales, porter and stout; and, in the practise of Ontario brewers, implies beverages made under most hygienic conditions from Ontario barley (the best in the world) malt, hops and pure water. 301

The restaurant-keeper hung out the following sign: "Coffee such as mother used to make." A customer, pointing to the sign, asked: "Is your coffee really such as mother used to make?" "It is," replied the proprietor. "Then," said said the customer, with a reminiscent look, "I'll take a cup of tea."

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excresences as many have testified who have tried it.

Customer—"I want a piece of meat without fat, bone or gristle." Butcher (after having carefully examined his stock)—"You'd better have an egg, ma'am!"

SCALD HEAD is a disgusting and obstinate disease, frequent in children. Treatment: Perfect cleanliness and a generous application of Weaver' Cerate. Mothers will be glad to learn this.

Managing Director—"Well, and what are your qualifications for the post of night watchman?" Applicant—"Well, sir, for one thing, the least noise wakes me up."

It's not the accident of birth but the accident of energy and persistence that makes men rich.

Get Your Roofs Shingled Right

It's Less Money — Tools A-Plenty — A Quicker Job

You can put on a roof that will last a hundred years and be the right kind of a roof every minute. Or you can put on a ten-year roof that will probably leak after the first rain hits it, and keep leaking till it is rotted away.

Either roof will cost you about the same in money at the start.

But the "Oshawa"-shingled roof will be FIRE-PROOF—literally; and wind-proof—actually; and lightning-proof—positively. That's the hundred-year roof!

And that "Oshawa"-shingled roof will be weather-proof for a century. We'll GUARANTEE in every way for a quarter-century—from now till Nineteen-Thirty-Two.

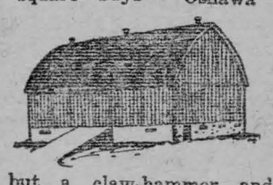

Guaranteed in writing for 25 years—and you needn't ever paint it, even! That's saying something, isn't it?

What would your mill-man say if you asked him to guarantee cedar shingles for even ten years? He certainly would make remarks!

And even the best cedar-shingled roof will be leaking badly inside of ten years. Seven out of ten of them leak the first time it rains. No wood-shingled roof is fire-proof for a minute, and the first high wind that catches a loose shingle—whoosh! goes half your shingled roof over into the next township.

Yet cedar shingles cost you just about the price of these guaranteed "Oshawa" Shingles—28-guage toughened steel, double galvanized—good for a century, guaranteed in writing till 1932,—fire-and-wind-and-weather-proof and lightning-proof.

Four-dollars-and-a-half a square buys "Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles—ten feet by ten feet. Compare that with the present price of cedar shingles—how does it strike you?

And you can put on these "Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles yourself, easily,—with no tools but a claw-hammer and snips. Simplest thing you know—can't get 'em on wrong.

"Oshawa" Shingles lock on all four sides—whole roof is practically one sheet of double-galvanized steel, that never needs painting.

"Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles are GUARANTEED in every way for Twenty-Five Years Ought to Last a Century

And GUARANTEED—don't overlook that. Guaranteed in writing, over the seal of a company with a quarter-million capital,—guaranteed in plain English, without any ifs or buts, for 25 long years.

That's the argument in a nutshell—cost the same as wood-shingles; fire-proof, water-proof, rust-proof, lightning-proof; easier to put on; and GUARANTEED. That's the "Oshawa" proposition!

Tell us the measurement of any roof, and we'll tell you exactly what it will cost to roof it with less work and for less money.

Plenty of facts that concern your pocket-book come to you as soon as you ask for our free book, "Roofing Right." A post card will do to ask on.

Why don't you ask now?

Not Guilty;

Or, A Great Mistake.

CHAPTER XIV.

"My God, yes, she kiled him!" repeated Gaunt, wildly, while Gordon leaned back against the cellar wall, speechless. "But, by heaven, we'll save her yet! You have taken a weight from my mind. You're a gentleman; I took you at first for something very different; you must forgive me. I feared—but what haven't I feared in this devilish cellar? But now that I know you, we'll save her. You and I and Usher. Usher's a good fellow, a splendid fellow! If it had not been for him, what might not have happened! He saved the situation. He got me away and hid me here—of course, they would have looked for us first—and he got her away—but, no, good God, what am I saying! It was you who took her away."

"It was certainly I who got your daughter away from the flat that night. It is true Mr. Usher returned there afterwards," said Gordon; and he related the adventure of his return to the flat, and his first glimpse of Usher. For many reasons he hesitated to speak of the dislike he had taken to the man and the thoughts which had entered his mind concerning him; and Gaunt, though Gordon could see he was thinking deeply, did not give him any opening.

But, truth to tell, George, for some time paid little attention to his companion; his mind was engrossed with the startling and terrible confession which Gaunt had just made to him: Vivienne Gaunt was guilty, she had killed that man, her self accusation had been true, and he himself had been mistaken in her! Those were the thoughts which overwhelmed him; and yet, was it true? Could it be true Was it not still possible that there was some error, some mistake? Yet, on such a question, what error could there be?

Gaunt, who had been watching his face

"I will go at once. There is nothing you want?"

"Nothing but good news," returned Gaunt. "I have everything here which I need. Usher has been very thoughtful."

Gordon nodded and turned away.

"Usher, Usher," he thought, as he made his way down the deserted garden and along Minten Lane. Was Mr. Gaunt right, and had he been wrong about the man. Was it jealousy that was at the bottom of the dislike and suspicion he felt, when he remembered the cold, white, sneering face of the gambler; and was the man honest after all? Yet, if so, how was it that he had mentioned nothing to her father of the young girl's flight from his house, and of his own assistance; how was it that her tone when she had spoken of him expressed his own, and more than his own dislike, or had his ears deceived him?

Yet why should they not? Had he not already been deceived, bitterly deceived in her? "A murderess!" He had heard it from her father's own lips. And yet that strange and now inexplicable instinct which had told him not to credit her guilt that night in the Regent Street flat returned to him again in spite of himself, in spite of everything; as he recalled her pure face, and clear, lovely eyes, which had met his so sadly always, but so frankly; and a hope, which he felt must be vain, but which he did not attempt to resist, rose again in his heart. Had he never seen Usher, he felt he might have believed, in spite of himself, but as he remembered his first sight of him creeping back to the scene of the crime, as he recalled the expression in his cruel green eyes when the knife lay before him on the gambling table; when he thought of his insolence to him in his own house and the tone in which he had spoken of her, Vivienne, he felt that he was right and that the

THOMAS A. EDISON
The World's Greatest Inventor

The eight hundred or more patents credited to Thomas A. Edison means one for every three weeks of his fifty-eight years, and even this calculation is unjust to his mechanical genius, for it does not include his many inventions which never ventured into the publicity that patents demand.

This wizard of invention was a model of precocity. Born at Alva, Ohio, he had only one teacher—his mother; at seven he became a wage-earner; at eleven he was reading Newton's "Principia"; at twelve he was a newsboy on the Grand Trunk Railway, and in an improvised laboratory in the baggage car he began to dabble in chemistry. A broken bottle of sulphuric acid filled the air with an odor that was unspeakable, and the cruel hands of the conductor registered his disapproval by a brutal blow on the ear of the young disciple of science, which made him deaf for life.

He soon learned telegraphy and became so expert that the most rapid operators on the line could not rattle him by their fiercest speed, and all taken down in his small, clear, copper-plate writing. He showed then the remarkable ability to meet any situation instantly and perfectly. When he was in Canada, and the terrible storms cut off all telegraphic communication, and it was necessary to get word to Sarnier, an American town across the border, he mounted a locomotive and "tooted" a telegraphic message again and again until the answer came.

His first patent was for a machine for recording votes for the State Legislature. It worked perfectly, but it was the very thing the Legislature most cordially did not want. In the same year he went to New York friendless, penniless, in debt, hungry, footsore and heart-weary at times, but with eyes wide open for chances. The Laws Gold Reporting Co., that reported stock transactions, had an accident that put all its machinery out of commission. Wall Street patrons fretted, chafed, grew frenzied at the delay. Young Edison diagnosed the difficulty, treated it instantly, and was at once known and recognized. A short time later he had a $40,000 check in his pocket for a stock ticker he invented. Then real life began for him.

To tell of his inventions in a few lines is like seeking to condense a library into an epigram; but mention must be made of multiplex telegraphy, incandescent electric lighting, the phonograph, moving pictures, the microphone, the tasimeter, the odoroscope, electric pen, his storage battery, the megaphone, which list faintly suggests a host of others.

Tying up The Beautiful St. Lawrence.

The power question is the most absorbing topic before the Canadian people but it certainly does not promote the welfare of the country to blot out the beauty of a national river, impede navigation and destroy many small power development and fill the pockets of a few American millionaires and eventually necessitate the expenditure by the Dominion Government of many millions of Canadian money to satisfy the requirements of navigation.

In this age, when Governments are bonusing steamboat companies to increase the speed of their crafts in order that we may have rapid transportation, would it show progressiveness on the part of Canada to permit the damming of our great river and thus militate against navigation by forcing boats to take the canal, where now they have the open course of the St. Lawrence, which saves many hours, yes days, in our already too short season?

Assuming that it might be possible for Americans to dam the St. Lawrence below the Long Sault and control the flow of it as they demand (a proposition which every Canadian with an ounce of sand in him should resent), let us see where the carrying out of this audacious proposal would put the populous district along the river above such works.

In the first place, it is proposed to raise the river level at Barnhart's Island 41 feet, doing which it is estimated would back the water up to such an extent as to raise the level at Dickinson's Landing 5 feet. Anyone who is familiar with this part of the river knows that in the short distance between the above mentioned points the level at Dickinson's Landing would more likely be raised by 15 feet than by 5 feet. It is also known only too well to residents along the St. Lawrence how a change of level of even a few feet in the winter season causes ice jams, and the flooding of practically the entire frontier. The last disastrous flood some two years ago, during which the entire river was blocked with ice for 11 miles, was caused by just such a condition; and if this proposed dam were erected, such would be a yearly occurrence. The river banks on the New York State side being higher than those on the Canadian side, are not affected to so great an extent, although the damage there would would also be very great.

Every Canadian should take immediate action, and more particularly those residing along the St. Lawrence, to prevent Americans (who are owners of the power Co., and who are working a very clever scheme) from getting control of the St. Lawrence River. This matter has been before the International Waterways Commission for nearly two years, and protested against by the Harbor Commission, Board of trade, and various shipping interests in Montreal; but the very slick argument hasbeen put forward to fool the people of Canada, that Canadian people were going to spend five millions on this side. This statement should be investigated by Parliament, as the actual capitalists and promoters of the scheme are Americans most of them residing in and about Pittsburg. Surely the Dominion Government will come to the rescue of the people, since the matter has been called to their attention. If they allow this work to go on, it means the end of our beautiful St. Lawrence River. Every Boat passing up and down will be obliged to go through the canals, and there will be no more open stream accessible to navigators. Every member of Parliament from Halifax to British Columbia should vigorously protest against the giving away to Americans of that most valuable asset, the St. Lawrence River, in which every Canadian is interested. It is also their duty to protect and safeguard the interests of the individuals and municipalities, who have developed water powers along the canals as well as the one hundred and fifty million dollars (more or less) of Canadian money, which has been expended by the Federal Government to build the canals, of which we are all so proud.

The damming of the St. Lawrence River, as proposed by the Americans through their Canadian agents, will seriously, in our opinion, affect every individual, farmer, village town, city, and power plant along the St. Lawrence River between Prescott and Quebec. It will raise the water level above the dam and lower it below, thereby lessening the efficiency of the present power plants also in effect, destroy all undeveloped power propositions within the district above referred to. Every Individual in Canada should join in a petition to the Dominion Government to prevent the American gentleman securing control of the stream. We are informed that they have paid about a million dollars for the controlling stock in the proposed operating company, where as, if this be true, the real investment is but a small fraction of the purchase price.

The reason that the Americans do not have a New York company appear in this deal is because they would require consent of the Utilities Commission, who would then probe the deal to the bottom, and expose the true facts, which, of course, would prevent it going through

Is it reasonable to suppose that the American people would prevent its Government to hand over the control of the Hudson River and Erie Canal to Canadians? Well, No!—Morrisburg Leader,

LEVEL CROSSINGS AND THEIR MAINTENANCE.

C. P. R. Wins in Action of City of Toronto—Privy Council Dismisses Appeal.

London, Nov. 18.—The Privy Council today, in the case of the City of Toronto vs. the Canadian Pacific Railway, dismissed the appeal, the appellants to pay the costs.

The suit involved $6,000, the bill for the last six years for the maintenance of gates of the Canadian Pacific Railway level crossings, but this is only a small proportion of the financial importance to the city of Toronto, as the decision also decides the right of the Grand Trunk Railway to charge a portion of its cost of maintaining level crossings against that city.

Over a year ago the Canadian Pacific Railway brought action to compel the city of Toronto to pay one-third of the cost of the crossings at Dufferin and Bathurst street and Avenue road. These cost one thousand dollars a year each for protecting.

The High Court decided for the company, as did the Court of Appeal, and it was from this decision that the city appealed to the Priy council.

The city also lost in the suits with the Grand Trunk, and the Supreme Court not only decided against the city's claim to pay nothing of the cost, but refused to leave appeal to the Privy Council. Two out of five judges, however, held that the city could not be saddled with any of the cost.

According to an opinion expressed by Mr. William Johnston, the assistant city solicitor, in July, when the case was set down for hearing before the Privy Council, the question affects the whole province.

'It will in fact decide whether the municipalites of Ontario can be compelled to contribute to the cost of the maintenance of level crossings in connection with every railway in the province,' said Mr. Johnston.

Mr Johnston estimated that if the decision was in favor of Toronto it would mean an extra cost of $300,000 to the Grand Trunk for crossings between Toronto and Montreal.

Runaway Boy Found in London.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—James Dean, aged 12 years, dressed in long cowhide boots and blue jeans, wandered about the city streets this morning. When picked up by Truant Officer Wier he told of walking from the other side of Glencoe, over 30 miles, over railway ties, and said he was a runaway from a farmer named Monroe. He had lived on apples for two days, and slept last night with a tramp in a section house. Last winter he says the farmer sent him to school for two months and that he has not been there since. The boy is an orphan, and was at one time in the Protestant Orphans' Home here.

Barely Lived Through It.

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor of Sault Ste Marie. "From boyhood" he writes, "I have been a constant sufferer from asthma and catarrh. My nose and throat was always stopped up and I had droppings in the throat. When attacks came on I thought I could'nt live through the night. I would sit up gasp for breath and endure great distress. Catarrhozone made me entirely well." No stronger proof is required. Asthma is curable, so is catarrh. Use "Catarrhozone" and your recovery is guaranteed. Two sizes, 25c. and $100 at all dealers.

The Railway Commission has given the railways until the first of the year to file new rates on east-bound traffic from Windsor, Sarnia and nearby points.

Mr. Wm. Mitchell of Grimsby was nominated for the Legislature by the Liberals of Lincoln. A strong resolution against the Government's power policy was also passed.
