Double Shooting In Morrisburg Stirs County Arthur Flynn Jr. Critical; Assailant Suicides

With many questions still unanswered, the double shooting that took place on the main street of Morrisburg last Friday morning, is awaiting the reports of the inquest to clean up some of the mystery.

Charles Cramer, 56, a bookeeper in a local plastic factory in the St. Lawrence town shot and critically injured the student son of Arthur Flynn, lawyer, of the same place, then turned the revolver on himself and put a bullet through his head. The shooting took place in a taxi owned by Bruce Casselman and was witnessed by the senior Flynn.

The full story as it has been reconstructed appears to follow this pattern. Cramer hired the taxi on Friday morning and instructed Casselman to drive to Morrisburg Collegiate and call out young Art Flynn, telling him that his father wished to see him. When the lad entered the car, Casselman was ordered to go to the young man's father's office and bring the senior Flynn down to the taxi. This was done. When Flynn entered the machine, he stated that Cramer thrust a paper at him and told him to sign it. Flynn refused and Cramer, who was holding a gun against the boy pulled the trigger, then put the muzzle against his own head and killed himself.

In the investigation that followed Mr. Flynn said that Cramer insisted that he sign a paper having to do with a mortgage held by himself against Cramer. The paper or papers have disappeared and not been recovered as yet.

The condition of young Flynn, in the Civic Hospital is still serious. The near fatal bullet is lodged near his heart.

LARGE POTATOES GROWN IN MATILDA TOWNSHIP

Saturday afternoon, Bruce Barkley of Matilda township, dropped into the Record Office with a very fine large potato in his hand, in fact it measured 22½ inches the long way round and tipped the scales at two pounds eleven ounces. This was not the only big spud Bruce had grown. He had thirty others that filled a bushel hamper. Off of a third of an acre of land he produced 180 bushels, and if that's not a good crop we don't know our potatoes.

Cheesemakers Hold Banquet Hear Dr. H. A. Derby

"We must fight to keep our cheese markets abroad" warned Dr. H. A. Derby of the Dairy Products Board, Dominion Department of Agriculture at the Nation Valley Progressive Cheese Makers banquet held Thursday night in the Morewood United Church dining hall.

Dr. Derby, who recently returned from a tour of European countries, cautioned the gathering of cheese makers, instructors and producers attending the banquet that while Canadian cheese was in good demand in the British Isles, competition was arising from American, Australian and New Zealand cheese.

Dr. Derby advocated a different system of ventilation in the packaging to lessen the danger of mold, and a lighter cube as two steps to hold the Canadian market abroad.

Frank Robinson, Kemptville chief instructor of cheese factories for Eastern Ontario, congratulated the cheese makers of the Nation Valley area on their grades this year. While the season was not finished, figures indicated that 95 percent. of the cheese manufactured was in the first grade, and 73 percent. of all cheese processed to date had commanded a premium.

Elwyn Fowler, of the Grandview factory, Melvin settlement, was awarded the Delaney trophy for having made the greatest number of improvements during the year to his factory, and Daniel Burton, of the Hess factory near Williamsburg, was presented with a smoker stand for having obtained the highest score in the district.

Among the guests who brought greetings were E. B. McMillan, deputy-reeve of Winchester township; W. E. Brennan, Kemptville; George Martin, Hallville, Carleton County instructor, and Charles Shaver, Aultsville, president of the Stormont Cheese Producers' Association. Clifford Butterill, Chesterville, instructor for the Notion Valley district, acted as chairman of the program and among those who entertained with vocal, piano and guitar solos were Mrs. Kay Cutler, Art Greer and Howard Bailey, Cornwall.

With the closing of the deer season yesterday, many of the hunters are home. The overall picture seems to point to much better luck than last year. Harold Windsor has an old bruiser of a buck that tipped the scales at 210 pounds and Ralph McMillan is a close second with a 192 pounder. The largest doe in the group was bag)ged by Dr. D. D. Eric Casselman, President Fed. Of Agriculture Addresses Rotarians On Monday Evening

President Eric Casselman of the Dundas County Federation of Agriculture addressed the Chesterville Rotary Club at last Monday night's meeting. Rotarian E. R. Rae of the Estevan, Sask. Rotary Club and his brother, Cecil Rae of Inkerman, were among the guests who were welcomed by President Howard Fulton. Mr. McLaggen of the Bank of Nova Scotia was again welcomed among the guests.

Richard Wong, proprietor of the Paradise Cafe, came in after the luncheon and approached the Club for support in the construction of a toboggan slide on the north bank of the Nation River. The proposal was received with some favour and due consideration was promised Mr. Wong.

The deer-hunting season took its toll of the usually good attendance of the members when five of the eight missing were listed among the wandering nimrods. They were excused for their absence because the Club usually benefits from it with their annual venison luncheon.

Setting as the theme of his address "Why a Federation of Agriculture" the speaker gave his listeners a clear insight into the benefits as well as the operation of a Federation of Agriculture. It was interesting to learn of the existence of an International Federation of Agriculture embracing 23 nations and that our own Canadian Federation includes a membership of 400,000. These are again divided into the Provincial and smaller units, the County Federation.

The Dundas County Federation was only organized about six years ago of which Eric Casselman is the First President. The purpose of a federation was first intended to regulate the control of price and marketing of all dairy products, but the benefits derived were so strongly favoured that it now covers every form of agricultural activity in the Dominion, including the Western wheat farmers and the fruit belts of Ontario and both coasts.

Mr. Casselman was introduced by C. Allison Graham and the appreciation of the Club was tendered by Melvin Clarke.

C.N.I.B. ADDS NEW SERVICE

For some years the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has been conscious of the needs of the pre-school age blind child, and has been concerned about his development. This year, eight of these children started to school, and thus became subject to the special care and skilful guidance of the teachers at the Ontario School for the Blind at Brantford. This still leaves fifty-eight blind children in Ontario, who are below the age of admission to school.

If these children are to progress and develop, as their sighted brothers and sisters do, they must have special direction. Normally, a child acquires a storehouse full of facts by watching the world around him—what walking is, what a dog is like, the colour of the snow, and so on. All this knowledge comes from sight, but a blind child must learn these things from other sources — from touch, from sound, from the spoken word. In giving these ideas to a blind child, the parents play an extremely important part. All too frequently parents are not equipped to accept their responsibilities.

To assist both parent and child, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has appointed a social worker, who will spend her full time in the training and counselling of the pre-school age blind child, his parents and families. She is Miss Jean Whitelaw, who by her education and training, is well suited to caring for this handicapped group. Miss Whitelaw was first a kindergarten teacher. She then turned to social service, and did settlement house work in both Toronto and New York. Later she joined the staff of the Children's Aid Society, and specialized in the adoption and foster care phases of the work. In all these different positions, children and their parents have been her chief interest. That is why she is particularly suited to deal with the relationship between the pre-school age blind child and his parents, "a relationship which can make or break the blind child", Miss Whitelaw stated.

This week Miss Whitelaw was visiting the Cornwall office of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, preparatory to visiting the homes of the seven pre-school blind children, who live in the five Counties served by the C.N.I.B.'s Cornwall office.

When asked if there were any special theories she used in her work, Miss Whitelaw said, "the main thing is for parents to stop waiting for the restoration of sight, and to accept the handicap. The child has too many other good qualities and talents that are in need of training, to waste long periods regretting the one he has lost." Miss Whitelaw went on to point out that one mother was pleased because her blind child was talking and forming sentences at an earlier age than her neighbour's sighted child. Another was pleased because hers was more robust and had more teeth than the sighted child of the same age next door. "If you concentrate on developing the whole child," she said, "you will find his personality will develop in spite of his blindness. Again it is a question of work with what is there, and not fret about what is not there."

When asked his opinion of the appointment of Miss Whitelaw, Mr. Paul C. O'Neill, Cornwall District Field Secretary to the C.N.I.B. said, "Parents usually feel helpless when they realize their child is going to be without sight, and it is a very fine thing for them to have a trained person to turn to for advice."

Miss Whitelaw expects to call on her fifty-eight families about every five months until the child goes to school. She hopes to continue her visits through the first year's schooling, but after that she will leave the child to the care of the parents and the teachers at the Ontario School for the Blind.

PRISON WITHOUT BARS

A programe called "Prison Without Bars" which dealt with the open prison at Leyhill in Gloucestershire, was the subject of a most unusual BBC broadcast. Home Office permission was given to the BBC to take a recording car inside the prison, but they were not allowed to make recordings of the voices of the actual prisoners. An authentic case history for a prisoner called Reginald Jackson was compiled, and given to an actor to memorise. He became "Reginald Jackson" for the duration of the broadcast and when eleven other new prisoners were admitted to Leyhill, "Jackson" went with them and his progress through the various stages of prison were recorded. With the exception of "Jackson" and his wife "Phyllis," everbody heard in the broadcast. Governor, chaplain, doctor, and officers was doing his own job.

Leyhill prison, fomerly an American camp in beautifully tended grounds, is unique in Britain. Here prisoners are given a chance to reform in good surroundings unembittered by close seclusion in ugly buildings and the constant locking of doors. There are more than three hundred men, the majority of them first offenders and all are very carefully selected before being sent to Leyhill. They have an 8-hour working day and many of them are employed on surrounding farms and are so trusted that they go to work each day on bicycles and return without supervision. Afterwards they are free until nine p. m. to work in their own garden plots, join the prison orchestra, dramatic society, various classes or debates. They can play games, read or write in quiet rooms, or listen to the radio. The prison chaplain is always in attendance in the evening to help men with any personal problems.

The Govenor of Leyhill, Mr. J. E.

The Governor of Leyhill, Mr. J. E. Henderson was formerly Governor of Dartmoor and Wakefield gaols. He allowed such measure of trust as will awaken a sense of personal responsibility in them for he believes that long sentences served in walled prisons can and do breed bitterness and resentment. The number of escapes from Leyhill is small compared to the numbers of offenders held there; in 1948 the gross population was 437 and the escapes only 8. This illuminating broadcast finished with an interview with a convict who had been released from Leyhill only an hour before. In general he praised the enlightened and humane system and admitted that his attitude towards society had changed considerably as a result of the time spent at the prison without bars.

Isn't It So ?

Mean

A business man from Aberdeen was lunching with an English visitor when the Scot, in turning out his pockets, produced a dental plate.

"Bless my soul!" said the Englishman, "why do you carry that about with you? And in any case, it looks too small to be yours."

"It belongs to the wife," explained the Aberdonian. "Ye see, she's contracted the habit o' eating between meals."

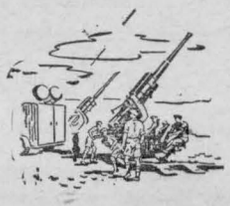
Science turned their backs on the target



Science is playing an increasingly important role in Canada's new Army. In heavy anti-aircraft, for example, complex radar equipment predicts to within a few feet exactly where the target is and will be. The gunners, their backs to the target, fire with amazing accuracy by instrument.

Training men in the use of modern scientific equipment is a major requirement in Canada's new Army. Thousands of young men are attending some of the finest schools in the country, specializing in electronics, radar, radio and telephone. In addition, there are openings for clerks, drivers, mechanics and many other trades.

New higher pay, good food and quarters, trades training and the opportunity for advancement make the Canadian Army Active Force one of the most attractive careers open to young men today. You are eligible if you are 17 or over and can meet Army requirements. Visit your nearest recruiting office soon for full details. Bring certificates of birth and education with you.

I just can't save money!

That's what I used to say, and it was true. Sometimes I'd dream of the day when I'd have time and leisure to do all the things I wanted to do, but I had to admit I wasn't doing anything about it except dream. I never seemed to be able to put anything aside.

Now, I know those dreams will come true. They're guaranteed. Through a simple saving plan which, strangely enough, I've found involves no hardship, I am now saving money for the first time in my life.

MOREWOOD UNITED CHURCH

The service at Morewood United Church was conducted on Sunday morning by the minister, Rev. W. J. Copsey, B.A., who spoke on the theme of Spiritual Imagination based on the text, "Look not every man on his own things; but every man also on the things of others," Phil. 2,4.

The mind of the master is deeply interested in the welfare of others. The Christian is warned by Paul against a self-centred life and challenged to Christian altruism. Ones own things cannot be fully developed beneath the inticement of a self-centered vision. Even genius needs sources of inspiration. Shakespeare, e.g., drew his material and inspiration from many sources. This is true of all genius and even more true of ordinary people. If self is to be fully realized, it must be realized in fellowship with others. No man liveth to himself. No man can find adequate nutriment for his own development within the pale of his own life. There is a challenge to imagine the conditions which prevail within the circle of another man's life. Get his point of view. Look through his windows. Survey his outlook. Inspect his treasure. Realize his life. Take the matter of different religious communions. Each has its treasure; each its defects. How shall each develop its own worthiest life to finest maturity? By a sympathetic imagination, holding fellowship with others. "Look not every sect on its own things alone; but every sect also on the things of others." Sectarianism with no windows opening out into wider fellowship can produce nothing but spiritual dwarfs. All Christians should be united under the highest common denominator—the love of Christ and the salvation of sinners. They may share life in the family of God, that they may understand each other, be patient with each other and be devoted to each other's welfare.

Mrs. Sam Barrington was at the organ. The choir rendered the anthem "Teach Me Thy Will". Mrs. Jean Ballantyne taking the solo part.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT BETHUNE BUSH

The special services in Bethune School are continuing this week, every night except Saturday. Rev. Duncan McIntyre brings deep spiritual messages and there are special numbers in song every night, given by Winchester people. Rev. and Mrs. Mack and family were present last Sunday and assisted in the service.

A Sunday School is being organized to be held in the school every Sunday afternoon under the direction of Rev. Mack. This will be of great benefit, especially to the children who have not had the privilege of attending Sunday School.

FIREWORKS TO PROTECT AIRFIELDS FROM BIRDS

Collisons with birds over Prestwick and Renfrew Airports in Scotland have sometimes caused damage to aircraft, a fact which gives added point to "bird scaring" experients at Prestwick. Tests are being made with "bird scaring" ropes. The Chinese have used fire crackers for thousands of years to scare away evil spirits. In Britain the idea has been taken up to scare birds from orchards, nursery gardens and crops. And now United Kingdom fireworks manufacturers are adopting the idea for airfield use. Lengths of light rope strung between poles on the airfield act as fuses to explode, at preset intervals, a series of crackers strung along the rope. Each cracker gives a loud report which will probably scare off birds up to a distance of 400 yards. A train of crackers can be made up to last eight hours with detonations every fifteen minutes. Materials for this method have the merit of being cheap to manufacture, available in quantity, and requiring very little atneeded.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! The story of the first Christmas is familiar to us all—of the Three Wise Men who same from the East with their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to worship the Christ Child. Legends have sprung un in different regions concerning the Wise Men but little is actually known about them beyond the brief story in the second chapter of St. Matthew. However, we do know they belonged to the "Magi" sect of priests who were noted for their enchantments, knowledge of astrology and wisdom. From the name of this sect comes our modern word "magic" for the art of enchantment.

At this season we wish we possessed more magic art in the selection of Christmas gifts to please our relatives and friends.

TAKE A TIP

1. Paper articles are numerous, attractive and economical—tray covers, place mats, serviettes, wall bracket towels, doilies, dish cloths, etc.
2. Coloured metal pieces in tumblers, trays, coasters, also pots and pans are stainproof and pretty.
3. The market abounds with all kinds of new little gadgets in metal or plastic. For instance, red plastic salad servers fashioned like scissors; different coloured dusters in plastic holders for the assorted polishes you use, variously sized bowl covers in assorted colours.
4. Something new in kitchen equipment is always acceptable—cake tins with depressions and ring bands; stainless steel spoons and spatulas on a hanging bar, a can opener which lifts and holds up the lid; a fruit jar opener; an electric clock; a kitchen fan; a box of stainless steel preparation knives.
5. Attractive serving dishes are a delight to any homemaker. This year, the novel salts and peppers are favoured—such as the goose and golden egg, bride and groom, blossoms, fruit, etc. Aluminum book ends, water pitchers, trays, coffee makers. Glassware, especially flower vases, tumblers and centre pieces.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. P. M.: Would like to know if it is necessary to chill cookie dough?

Answer: If cookie dough is mixed and chilled for a few hours it will be more easily handled when rolling—or you may slice it.

Mrs. G. S. asks: Why are waffles soft and yet dark brown in colour?

Answer: Too much fat may cause them to be soft, and insufficient egg or too much liquid makes them thin. If you separate the eggs and fold in beaten whites before batter is poured on the iron, the waffles will be more crisp and thick.

Mrs. N. B. asks: Why are some apple pie fillings so brown, others such a clear colour?

Answer: Powdered spice turns apples brown while a little lemon juice keeps apple flavour and colour.

Mrs. T. W. asks for the following recipe:

SHORTBREAD

¼ cup mild-flavoured fat
¼ cup butter
¼ cup brown sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
1 egg yolk
2 cups pastry flour

Soften fat and butter slightly but do not allow to become oily. Stir in sugar, egg yolk, and salt, using a wooden spoon. Mix in flour adding a little at a time until mixture is too stiff to work with a spoon. Turn on to a floured board and knead lightly, working in rest of flour as needed until surface of the dough begins to crack. Roll about ¼ inch thick and cut with a small cookie cutter. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) about twenty minutes or until delicate brown. Makes about 4 dozen.
