Barbara Hutt, Patricia Clark Take Legion Speaking Honours

Barbara Hutt, of North Dundas District High School, won the Legion Trophy for public speaking in the Grades eleven to thirteen group. A very small audience watched the speakers compete before a panel of judges consisting of Rev. Wm. J. March of Morrisburg, Rev. Mr. Casemant of Kemptville, and Ormond McConnell of Winchester. Mr. McConnell was a last minute substitute for a judge who was unable to attend.

Winner of the prize for the best speech from Grades nine and ten was Patricia Clark of Mountain District High School. Both winning speakers chose as their topics the late President of the United States, "John Fitzgerald Kennedy." In announcing the decision of the judges Rev. Mr. March assessed all the speakers in the senior group as very good with little difference to distinguish a higher mark. Each contestant was noted to have an excellent speech with the difference in marks coming in the diction, volume and gestures portions of the marking scheme.

Rev. Mr. Casement, in making his report on the junior speakers commented all on their poise and self-control. He suggested that many excellent senior speakers would result from this group in the near future.

Chairman for the evening, Rev. Wm. Sutherland, in making his closing remarks, thanked the judges for their efforts and assured all present that the Legion would sponsor more speaking competitions for the betterment of students. He expressed deep disappointment on behalf of the Legion, Principal R. H. Wilson and himself at the meagre turnout of listeners.

During the judges' recess entertainment was provided by soloist Cathy Aitchison accompanied by Ann Gallaher. Unita Shahan and Eileen Lake offered two selections on the piano.

The Legion trophies for the junior and senior public speaking winners were presented by Archie Rice of the Winchester Legion in the absence of President Harry Mussell.

WINS FIVE ONTARIO AWARDS

Press Judged Best Weekly

Jubilation at the office of The Winchester Press this week with the announcement by the Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association that this newspaper had again been judged, in its class, the best weekly newspaper in Ontario. The win marks the sixth time in the last seven years that The Winchester Press has been awarded first place in the Better Newspapers competition in the province of Ontario.

Illustrating the high calibre of Eastern Ontario weekly newspapers were the results of the various classes which saw no fewer than 16 awards come to this section of the province. In Class Two won by The Press, two other neighbouring papers, The Chesterville Record and The Kemptville Advance placed in that order.

Two Eastern Ontario weeklies, The Perth Courier and The Winchester Press, stole the show, however, each collecting five individual awards. Keith Graham's Chesterville Record picked up a pair of awards, as did The Renfrew Advance. The Prescott Journal and Kemptville Advance cashed in with one each.

For The Press it was a "rewarding" competition to say the least. In addition to being judged best weekly in its class The Press also won second place for best use of pictures, second in the best front page competition, second for typographical excellence, and third for advertising excellence. Publishers Reg and Ron Workman were especially pleased with these awards as they were won in "special" classes open to ALL newspapers in the province regardless of size.

During the last 12 years The Winchester Press has won 18 Ontario awards ranking it among the leaders in the province. The awards this year were particularly outstanding and in the words of the publishers "will be hard to duplicate in future years." Credit for the high rating of this newspaper goes to a conscientious and experienced staff and a continued loyal support of advertisers, subscribers, correspondents and friends.

The Press, with other award winning newspapers, will be honoured at the Royal York Hotel this week in Toronto, scene of the annual newspaper convention. The Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association is composed of more than 200 member newspapers. W. R. Workman of The Press is a member of the Board of Directors.

Everything "GO"

Winter Carnival This Friday Night

Everything is ready. All last minute details have been cleared up. The 1964 Winchester 100 Club Winter Ice Carnival is ready to go. Committee chairman Roy Fawcett and his committee of Ron. Workman, George Elliott, Harvey MacIntosh, Walter Johnson and Frank Morgan had their final meeting Monday evening to discuss final preparations for the biggest event of the winter season, and the report is "we're ready to go, let's hope the weatherman is."

One important change in the personnel to be present at the big ice event has been made. Kaye Vaughan has notified the committee that he has a previous commitment and regrets he and his wife will be unable to attend. Happily, two able replacements have been secured. Big Four Referee Ray Boucher, father of Annabelle who will display some special baton twirling for the audience, will be right in his own field, judging. Although it is certain there will be a distinct absence of any rough play or fumbles, Ray might watch for any interesting motion in the backfield.

Of course, everyone knows CFRA's General Ken Grant of Snake River and the jovial General will be the Master of Ceremonies for the evening. The commanding officer of the General, Mrs. Grant, will be in town Friday to keep her troops under control and while in the area has graciously consented to act as a judge for the Queen Contest. Mr. and Mrs. Whit Tucker will be coming as previously announced.

CFRA's Happy Blunderers broomball team feel that they will have an extremely tough game coming up against the Inkerman Rockets. Rocket officials phoned in to say that they are preparing a special launching for the city slickers. Bookmakers have set the odds at six to five and take your choice.

Beautiful girls will be the order of the night with the 1963 Carnival Queen Linda James (Mrs. Dwight Fisher), Miss Rough Rider Sheira Crepin, Annabelle Boucher, the Minto skaters and the girls of the NDDHS skating drill all being present. A special float has been prepared for the transportation of the Carnival Queens 1963 and 1964 around the arena.

PROGRAM

The program, as it was given to The Press on Tuesday, shapes up with the costume judging events starting things off at 8.00. The Minto Skaters will appear at 8.30 and the races should begin at approximately 9 p.m. General Grant will handle the introduction of the Queen, judges and other personalities present. It is expected that baton twirling featuring Annabelle Boucher should come at 9.15.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the parade of Carnival Queen contestants. More pretty girls follow in the new and expanded NDDHS skating drill. Following the skating drill Miss Ottawa Rough Rider Sheira Crepin will lead her CFRA broomballers on to the rink to do battle with the speedy Rockets. It is surmised the judges will have reached a hard decision at the conclusion of the broomball contest, and the contestants for the Queen title will parade once more before the judges announce their fateful decision. The Carnival Queen and her Court, chaperoned by 100 Club President Walter Johnson, are expected to drive slowly around the rink, on her throne in the grand finale parade at about 10.30 p.m.

The festivities are in the Winchester Community Centre on Friday, February 7th, beginning at 8 p.m. BE THERE! You will enjoy it!

Do It Now!

The old axiom "Never put off until tomorrow what you can do to-day" holds especially true at this time of year. During the winter season for the past few years governments at all levels, and spearheaded by the federal people, have been sponsoring a "Do It Now" program across Canada.

The idea, simply, is to get more people doing more jobs during the "off" winter months. The results generally mean more employment for persons who may otherwise find themselves doing very little at this time of year.

And it is not a bad idea. It applies to every person, every business and every community. Although the unemployment situation in Winchester and district does not offer too much concern there is still a need for some winter jobs. These jobs, at least a great many of them, may be filled if projects are undertaken during the remaining winter months. Labour is more plentiful and, perhaps, a little less costly. If it's a building project tradesmen are generally more plentiful, there is a better than average pick of materials and the job can be done fast and just as efficiently.

The "Do It Now" program applies to the smallest alteration job around the home as well as the largest expansion project in the plant.

In certain municipal projects under the winter works program there is a subsidization for part of the work, making the "Do It Now" program even more attractive.

It makes good sense to have that work done now, not next summer when most everyone will be busy. By doing it now persons who otherwise have fewer jobs in the winter will be kept busier, unemployment will drop and the economic climate of the area will certainly be improved.

What Will Your Number Be?

If your phone rings and a mechanical voice asks "Is this 861-257-943?" it may not be a joke. With the report of the recent Glassco Royal Commission the Federal Government has accepted a plan that the growing pile of records surrounding the individual should be consolidated. In a sense it places every man in a master file. The shiver that runs up and down the spine of the man is due to the fact that he realizes he has been relegated to the position of a number in a massive computer.

Already a majority of people are tagged with numbers by the Unemployment Insurance Commission. But now it appears that everyone will be numbered just as in the United States where it is impossible to survive without a social security number.

When you receive your number and are registered in Ottawa's computers it may seem that all the rights of a private citizen have been denied you. It is limitless what can be stored on that little punch card with the number 861-257-943. Reasonably, it will probably state unemployment insurance records; it may continue legitimately with payments made into a portable pension plan; then perhaps the old age pension; even the status of children for family allowances.

Will it continue? Will the number 861-257-943 have exposed to the genius of the computer its credit rating? Religion? Politics? Diseases? Police Record? Loyalty?

In this free country it will not be so. The Federal Government is not undertaking a tagging of the individual for the uses of government, as wartime national registration was, but for his own benefit, so that he may receive what is, under our system of government, his due.

Sensible and practical Canadians will recognize the necessity and value of the numbering system. Yet, each one may be excused a shiver of doubt when the realization comes that his privacy could be diminished under the keys of a computer. In some remote vault of authority he lies naked, personally exposed to anyone who chooses to feed in not the name John Public but No. 861-257-943.

However, it is not quite as bad as it may seem. The cards are to be issued in triplicate, one copy held by the employer, and two to be given to the employee — who will be asked to carry one and preserve the other in some safe place. The card will list the individual's name, date and place of birth, mother's maiden name and type of employment. It is emphasized that unlike a police identification card it will not include photograph, colour of hair or any other identifying information, such as height or weight.

So who are you right now? 861-257-943?

CONFLICTING EMOTIONS

Intellect and emotion often do battle inside us all. My intellect — what I have of it — tells me that Canada must encourage immigration. We are dreamers if we think we can hold all these fertile acres for ourselves, when so many go hungry. Either we invite others to come and share this land with us, or, one day, they will invite themselves and come in force.

My emotions, however, take a different approach. When I go hunting in Manitoba's beautiful northland, I revel in the spaciousness of the country, and the fact that there aren't too many people around to chew up the landscape. I fully realize that this is a selfish emotion, likely to cloud my thinking on an issue such as immigration, but there it is.

Similar battles go on all the time in the minds of most men, and fuzzy thinking is often the result. Emotions often get the better of intellect.

A case in point, I think, has been the attitude of some toward the efforts of the RCMP to keep track of subversive elements within the country. Our intellects tell us that this must be done and ought to be done. We have had examples only too recently in the UK and in the USA of the tragic results which come when security forces are lax.

Our emotions, however, rebel against any intrusion of privacy. We love freedom, and cherish our rights to do and say what we wish without hindrance. I always find myself on the side of the man who is being investigated, in spite of the fact that my intellect tells me such investigations must take place.

Fathers face this intellect vs. emotion fairly often, dealing with the youngsters. Our emotions tell us nothing is too good for our children; but intellect, darn it, comes along to say that when a youngster steps too far out of line, Dad better exert a bit of discipline. Mighty hard to heed that cold voice of intellect when Christmas songs are in the air, isn't it?

Toronto Report

BY HON. F. M. CASS

The debate on the Throne Speech was in full bloom during the third week of this Session. And again and again the new Members in their maiden speeches showed the new ideas and latent ability which overflows the House back-benches.

The usual steady stream of new legislation began to reach the House for consideration. Among the new legislative enactments, two comprehensive Acts on Industrial Standards and Safety were introduced by Minister of Labour Rowntree. These were stated by the Minister to be the result of several years study in his Department, and included most of the recommendations of two recent Royal Commissions investigating industrial standards and safety. A close perusal of the new labour legislation indicates that once again Ontario is in the lead with far-sighted laws for the protection of its people.

The Honourable John Simonett, Minister of Energy and Resources Development, produced new legislation covering the very broad field of water resources and energy generation and distribution. Upon this there were two full days' debate in the House as members of all parties indicated their keen interest in the best use, as well as preservation, of these tremendous natural resources with which Ontario is blessed.

During the week your member, as Attorney General, was subject to severe questioning in the House with respect to several matters within his Department which had attracted the attention of the Press of Metropolitan Toronto, including the office and person of Chief Metro Coroner. As with other similar matters, the glare of publicity has had the effect of bringing certain official practices and procedures under needed review.

One of the more important annnouncements coming out of Queen's' Park last week was that of the appointment as Chairman of the Ontario Police Commission of Mr. R. Percival Milligan, Q.C., of Cornwall. Mr. Milligan, a native of Cornwall and Crown Attorney there since the last war, had built up a very impressive record as a public prosecutor in our criminial courts, including his successful prosecution of Feeley and McDermott who were central figures in the all too recent "Crime Probe." Mr. Milligan is, therefore, an exceedingly well qualified and much experienced person to fill this important position. The other two members of the Ontario Police Commission, Major General H. A. Sparling and Magistrate Thos. J. Graham, continue on the Commission which is again admirably suited to carry out and exercise the many important tasks and powers which are the Commission's responsibility.

More Light On Reading

My speech was a roaring success. You know, the speech on Good Reading Habits, to our honor students. I mentioned it last week. Yes, it went well! Does anyone know anyone who wants a slightly used ex-school teacher?

* * * *

I haven't received on official communication from the school board yet, but I understand they had an emergency meeting right after my speech and drew up the appropriate charges of mopery, gawk and intellectual malnutrition.

Bill Smiley

When I began to write the speech, I couldn't think of a single Good Reading Habit. Then, dimly, from my old health class in public school, they began to filter back.

* * * *

Rule: When reading, the light should come over your left shoulder. It's very awkward if your left shoulder happens to be higher than your right. Unless, of course, you are an Arab and read from right to left, then I presume it should come over your right shoulder.

* * * *

Rule No. 2: Always read in the bathtub, when possible.

* * * *

Somebody once said that the ideal education would be a boy sitting on one end of a log, and Mark Van Doren, a great American educator, sitting on the other.

* * * *

My notion of a great educational advance would be a classroom with 35 bathtubs, and up on the platform a super-tub, in pink mother-of-pearl, for Mr. Smiley.

* * * *

Think of the realism we could inject when Lady Macbeth says, "A little water will wash us of this deed." Think of the special effects we could obtain while reading Old Man and the Sea, or Typhoon. We'd all be in swim suits, naturally.

Well, from that point, my speech moved effortlessly into the results of Good Reading Habits in history. I reminded the kids of Archimedes. Think what the world would have missed if he hadn't climbed into his bath one day with a copy of Ovid's poems.

* * * *

The minute he sat down, he knew there was something wrong. ""Paprika!" he screamed and leapt out of the tub. Somebody had put paprika instead of bath salts in the water. And thus was born Archimedes Principle, one of our great laws of physics. I'm not quite sure what it is, but I think it's something like "Half a bath is better than none." Anyway, as we all know, it's a very important principle.

I left the kids with this solemn thought. An economic reverse can take away your new car, your split-level mortgage and your wife. Advancing years can take away your teeth, your figure, and your husband. But nothing can take away Good Reading Habits.

* * * *

Many years from now, the matron of the nursing home will point out a desicated old chap sitting in a wheel-chair with a huge book on his knees. "That's Mr. Smiley. Used to be an English teacher. Poor old fellow. He's blind now."

* * * *

And the visitor will say, "It doesn't seem to bother him much. What's the old coot grinning at?"

* * * *

And the matron will replay, "Oh, he went blind when he was 88, and was furious for a while, because he couldn't read, but he learned the Braille system in six weeks, and now he reads everything he can get his hands on. Including the nurses."

Toronto, Ont.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I see by the papers that Ontario is likely to have a health services program. But the plan suggested doesn't seem to be as comprehensive as it should be.

Under Bill 163 it looks as if the only health services insured would be the bills of medical doctors. Even the dentists are excluded according to news reports of the committee studying the proposed plan. I noticed that ophthalmologists are included because they are medical doctors, but optometrists, who take a four-year course at the optometric college, are left out, and yet an optometrist is qualified to do many of the things that an ophthalmologist can do.

The papers reported that there are four or five times as many optometrists practising in Ontario as there are ophthalmologists or oculists. People who do not live close to the larger cities can't go to an oculist, but in most towns of only a few thousand people there are optometrists practising their profession.

I think you will agree, Mr. Editor, that insured health services should be as broad as possible and not set up for the benefit of any one profession. The benefit should be to the public.

A. J. OCKWELL.

The Seventh Column

To-morrow night is Carnival Night in Winchester and district. The 100 Club committee in charge has lined up for the approval of the expected large audience an array of talent unmatched in the history of the Winter Night of Fun. May we take this opportunity to invite you out for an enjoyable evening whether you are one or two hundred and one. Carnival time is 8.00 p.m. in the Community Centre — come and bring a friend or twenty — it will be great having you there. Some of the thrills in store will be the crowning of the Carnival Queen by last year's Queen; Miss Ottawa Rough Rider Miss Sheira Crepin will add her radiant smile, and Annabelle Boucher will demonstrate some of her magic with the baton. Inkerman Rockets Broomball Team will be facing a smooth talking crew from CFRA; however, do not believe that rumor that General Grant is a witch and has a flying broom. The spectacular will be enhanced by the NDDHS skating drill, costume classes and races for young and old. In attendance will be stars of the Ottawa Rough Riders to act as judges for the Queen Contest. A good time is to be had by all at the Winchester 100 Club Winter Carnival February 7 at 8 p.m. in the Winchester Community Centre.

Week of February 2-8 has special significance for the blind and the handicapped. The first full week of February has been designated as White Cane Week and is also the period selected for the annual March of Dimes. Press readers have been fully informed of the objectives and aims of the March of Dimes and suffice to say that collections for this very worthy cause continue for the remainder of the week. During White Cane Week District Field Secretary G. Patrick suggests that we can all help blind people with a few minutes of visual assistance to provide hours of useful activity for blind people. You may read the CNIB talking book catalogue. Since talking book users do not usually read Braille, they require sighted assistance to go over the titles. You can read the catalogue in less than an hour, enabling the blind person to select enough books for many months of reading. A sighted person may always be of assistance in helping the blind person to shop. And there is always the need for the guidance of blind persons across a busy street or to locate a street number. Your sight will mean more to you when it serves someone else.

I DREAMED

I dreamed I reached the rainbow's end
And found the goal, but man,
Across the pot I also found.
The words "Made In Japan."

I dreamed I went outside and shot
An arrow in the air
And told my wife I did it 'cause
It wasn't wash and wear.

I dreamed that there were two of me,
And one of us was rich,
But they forgot to let us know
Which one of us was which.

I dreamed my name was Newton and
An apple hit my head,
And rather than deciding why
I ate it up instead.

For 52 weeks of the year our main objective in publishing this newspaper is to promote Winchester and the area. This week we shall have to be forgiven if our own cup of pride spilleth over just a bit. For we would be in error if we said that we were not proud (and humble too) in learning that The Winchester Press had captured five provincial awards in the annual Ontario Better Newspapers competition. This, we feel, is quite a significant accomplishment for a small town newspaper and we hope our readers, advertisers, correspondents and friends will share with us the honours which are being bestowed upon us in Toronto this week.

The increased "booze tax" by the Ontario government has been received with mixed emotions (probably in more ways than one). Chaps who like a nip now and then feel they are paying too much now. Others who imbibe less think it's a good place for the tax. But let's face it. If you remember back when the sales tax came out there was a loud cry by practically everybody and his dog that the sales tax could have been eliminated if more tax was placed on alcohol. At that time the government, like all governments well versed in the art of double talk, said it couldn't be done; the tax was already too high on liquor. Well, a couple of years later we find that it can be done and the result is more expensive whisky — not to mention an expected increase in the sales tax too! The increased whisky tax isn't going to hurt anyone. The increased sales tax is a different story. True, we need the money, but we're just a little tired of becoming next to full time collecting agents for the government. Surely there are other ways. What!

Wait just a minute now! You say it's okay to criticize the increase in taxes but you don't come up with any suggestions. Well, we leave that to men like Fred Cass, Jimmy Auld, Bill Davis and others. But, if you do want one good way to reduce taxes it's this: Quit demanding so much of the government. If you are ready to do this it's a safe bet that tax increases could be minimized. Well?

The thought just occurred to us that it might not be a bad switch another year for the 100 Club to pick not only a Carnival Queen but a Carnival King. Why not?

At the present time new members will be welcomed into any of the district clubs and anyone interested is asked to contact a club member.

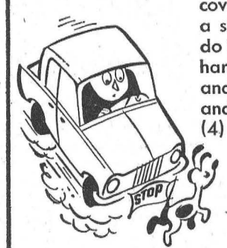
HOW'S YOUR DRIVING IQ?



When you're driving on a snow-covered road and have to make a stop quickly, the best way to do it is to (1) slam the brakes on hard? (2) roll down the window and signal? (3) turn off the ignition and apply the parking brake? (4) pump the brake pedal?

According to the Ontario Safety League, you should pump the brakes in short, rapid jabs (4). Slamming the brakes on could cause a skid.

"Coquetel Abricot...? 'Ello?"

Oui, you have heard what I said: COQUETEL ABRICOT. Qu'est-ce que c'est COQUETEL?

Ah, mon ami, that is the $60 question. It is one of trois COQUETELS which are, en effet après le diner "wine cocktails."

But the taste? Le taste c'est superb, c'est the only way one can describe it!

And this COQUETEL comes in a beautiful decanter for la table. Le price? The acme of modesty for such a wine! C'est formidable!

Essayez-le, this means try it—soon.

Baptist Church Packed To Hear "Three Sons"

Last Sunday night scenes reminiscent of the days of the great revival meetings were produced in the Winchester Baptist Church.

The church, filled to capacity, heard the music of the Three Sons Gospel Team from Ottawa. The trio played western style music with a solid religious impact.

The congregation for this occason was joined by a group of young people from Cornwall and Ingleside who travelled here to hear the message brought by the Three Sons. Rev. G. A. Cawfield, in developing his topic for the evening, underlined the necessity of the role the scriptures must play in the development and upbringing of faith.

The pastor announced that on Sunday evening, February 8th, he would discuss the topic, "Jonah — Fact or Fiction?"

FARM LOANS

With larger farms and more costly equipment needed for farming operations, provision has been made by both federal and provincial governments for financing these operations at reasonable rates and on fairly generous terms.

Three general plans are provided.

Farm Credit Corporation Loans

Long term loans are available through the Federal Farm Credit Act, administered under the Department of Agriculture. There are two types of loans.

A "Standard" loan up to 75% of the appraised value of the farm but not exceeding $20,000.

A "Package Deal" loan up to 75% of the appraised value of farm, livestock and equipment but not exceeding $27,500.

Interest rate of both plans is 5% and repayment may extend up to 30 years.

Loans may be used to:
—buy farm land to erect or modernize farm buildings.
—purchase livestock and equipment.
—provide lime, fertilizer and seed.
—pay operating and living costs during the early period of the loan.
—discharge debts and liabilities.

The Farm Credit Corporation office for this area is in Ottawa. Farm Credit Advisor will assist in obtaining a loan and if requested he will assist in planning farm financing and operation.

Ontario Junior Farmer Loans

Available to full-time Ontario Junior Farmers between 21 and 35 years of age.

The loan may be up to 80% of the appraised value of the farm with a maximum loan of $20,000. The interest rate is 5%—prepayment at any time, up to 30 years.

Purposes for which the loan may be used are:
—purchase of farm land.
—erection and improvement of buildings.
—to pay off mortgages and other debts.

Further details and application form may be obtained at the local Department of Agriculture office.

Farm Improvement Loans

These loans are availablle through the Bank at the same low rate of 5%.

Purpose of this loan is for farm improvements, buildings and machinery.

Suitable arrangements for repayment are made with the Bank at the time the loan is made.

In many cases these government loans are used to good advantage in tidying up finances and providing for expansion. They are becoming a big factor in modern farming operations.

DAIRYMEN
Many fluid milk shippers and other dairy farmers will now have calves from fall freshening cows. Many will be raising their heifer calves as herd replacements.
The feeding and management of these calves today will be an important factor in determining how profitable as units they will be in the milking herd of tomorrow.
We, therefore, recommend two feeds designed to give your calves an economical start to vigorous, thrifty growth. These feeds are part of a program designed to grow cows that will have the capacity to give all the milk that has been bred into them.

When Buick builds a LeSABRE--

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Buick LeSabre 2-door Sport Coupe

Buick builds a high-priced car, and puts a low price on it

Lots of cars are in LeSabre's price class, but that's where the resemblance ends. For instance: Does anybody else in LeSabre's class treat you to that gentle Buick ride or impressive Buick performance and new gas economy? No. And who else gives you 15-inch wheels, finned aluminum front brakes, extra cushioning for middle-seat travelers, and separate heat ducts and controls for the rear seat? Right again: Nobody in LeSabre's field but LeSabre. If all this makes you think a LeSabre would look awfully nice in your garage, you should see how nicely it fits a budget. Who to see about it? Your Buick dealer. Who else?

ERNIE RICHARDSON'S

CURLING CAPSULES

One of the most important requirements for all four members of a curling team, and particularly the skip, is reading the ice correctly. And, the earlier in the game the skip and his players pick up the many tricks of the ice, the more successful the rink will be.

This capability in players gives them an edge early in a game, which can be a deciding factor, especially in major competition where the teams are evenly matched.

All team members should know the ice as well as the skip, and if they do it will make their shots easier. It also serves to give them better judgment on sweeping of shots where weight is important.

The secret of reading the ice is to watch every stone played from the time it leaves the player's hand until it comes to rest. That means watching stones played by your own team and opponents as well.

BEST VIEW

The skip should always stay behind the tee line until the rock comes to a complete stop so that he can obtain a good view and make a complete study of the full course of the stone. It is also wise to watch whether or not the rock has been released on the line of the skip's broom.

Reading the ice is not only essential early in the match but a study must be kept throughout each game. You will find most ice heavier in the early stages, therefore, when hitting it is best to have your players throw more weight than you would ask for in later ends.

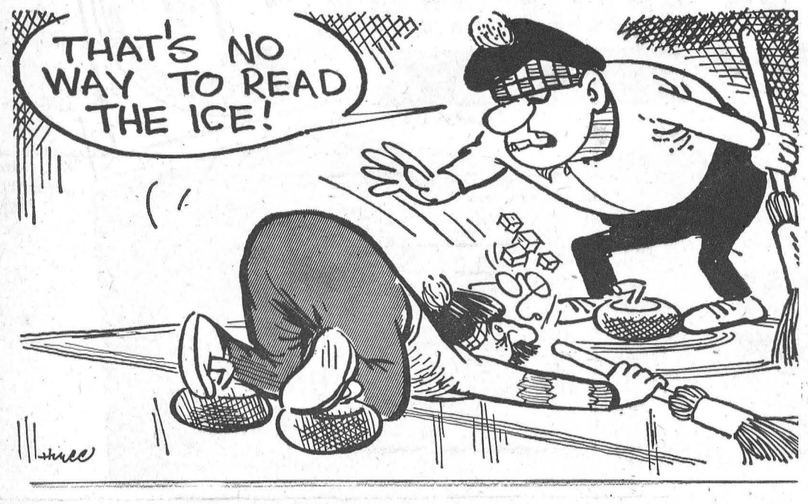
You will also find the rocks will curl more as the game progresses. That is, of course, the usual result when the pebble starts to wear off. There are often runs and falls that do not show up until two or three ends have been played. In these cases the ice generally reacts differently with the variation of weight played.

Getting the weight and the amount of draw in the early ends can mean the difference between victory and failure. You should have your lead man draw to both sides of the house if given the chance by the opponents. And, if he should miss the draw it is best to miss by being heavy. Short rocks can be a serious problem as they are likely to block your chance of getting at an opponent's shot stone.

TRICK RUNS

If there are trick breaks or runs in the ice and you find them early it is possible to use this knowledge to good advantage. Should there be a bad fall that is difficult to judge, try to draw near that run, or try for a takeout and roll to the most difficult spot in the house.

The more difficult you make the job for your opponents, the better chance you have to win, and sometimes the determination to get one particular stone out of the rings can result in your opponent giving up two or more shots on the end.



More Tourist Ideas Voiced By S V T C

An apple festival, a winter carnival, a ski centre and ice fishing were all suggestions offered as means to attract tourists to the Seaway Valley in the autumn and winter seasons.

Thorold Lane, president of the Seaway Valley Travel Council, said "while yet in its infancy the S.V.T.C. has done a great deal to promote tourism in this area." The president reported to the directors' meeting in Morrisburg that a directional sign to draw tourists off 401 at Lancaster had been erected, and it is hoped that another sign of a similar nature may be erected at the junction of Highways 401 and 2 near Brockville.

More than one million place mats were sold to restaurants at cost price. The mats depicted the Seaway area and listed many attractions. Eight thousand bumper stickers and 2500 guide books were distributed.

Patrick Sheehan of Arnprior, tourist and development officer for the Department of Tourism and Information, suggested the invention of a ski centre.

Other ideas brought forward were for an authentic Indian Village, cheese promotions, and expansion of the Nairn Island Bird Sanctuary to possibly include a zoo, bird hatchery and aquarium.

For summer promotion the Council will meet with representatives of Brockville and Cornwall radio stations in an effort to secure a lengthy radio show to acquaint tourists with facilities available. Also planned is a hospitality car to offer information and assistance. Invitations are to be sent to writers of tourist magazines to spend time in the Valley and perhaps use articles in their magazines.

Advanced also was a suggestion that a crest be obtained to stamp products from the Seaway Valley. The Council, with speed and efficiency, will endeavour to make the Seaway Valley a year-round tourist mecca.

DO IT NOW PROCLAMATION

By virtue of the authority vested in me, I earnestly request the citizens of Winchester to whole-heartedly co-operate with the National Employment Service on their "DO IT NOW" campaign, to level out and help eliminate the seasonal employment situation.

Construction projects for the spring and summer are good. Skilled men and labour will be at a premium. Householders by having their repair work, remodelling, done now instead of next spring and summer will be doing their part to give Winchester a balanced economy.

If you delay until spring all these men will be employed, consequently you may suffer serious inconvenience and delay on your own project, while in the meantime they may be employed.

Do your part now in alleviating seasonal unemployment by having that job done now. You will not only help your fellow citizens, but the Village of Winchester as a whole by achieving a more balanced economy.
