No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.
Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

MRS. GEORGE COUNTRYMAN BUSH GLEN

It is with sincere regret we chroniclel the departure of one of our well-known and highly respected residents in the person of Mrs. George Countryman, who passed peacefully away at her home, Bush Glen, on Friday, March 1. Although in poor health for sometime her death came as a great shock to her family and wide circle of friends by whom she will be greatly missed.

The late Mrs. Coutnryman was a woman of sterling character, hospitable and jovial, which ract gained for her a host of friends wherever she went, from the youngest to the oldest. Her presence will be greatly missed in Gallingertown United church, where she was a regular attendant and ardent worker, a member of the choir, and past president of the Ladies' Aid, Gallingertown, her whole soul being put into anything she undertook. The Rev. Mr. Dustin, B.D., in his discourse stated that her life would speak for itself. The deceased, whose maiden name was Melinda Celia Neville, was born in Osnabruck, sixty years ago, a daughter of the late John Neville. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Mason Robinson ,of Grantley; two sons, Clarence and Milton, at home; three grandchildren Mabel, Marion and Wilburn Robinson, of Grantley; five sisters, Mrs. S. Z. Wert, Mrs. Chas. Colquhoun, Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Mrs. Wm. Rombough, Mrs. Frank Bush; three brothers, Isaiah, John and Oliver Neville, all of whom were present at the funeral.

The bearers were—Messrs. W. A. Edwards, Norman Eligh, O. Gallinger, John Brownell.

Friends from a distance were—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Myers, Indian River; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Myers, Iroquois; Mr. Myron Myers, Inkerman; Mr. and Mrs. Smith Baldwin, Mrs. Nathan Murphy, Clifford and Hazel Murphy, all of Cardinal; Mrs. Ed. McIntosh, South Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Myers, Winchester Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Robinson, Chesterville; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Duff, Avonmore; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McIntyre, Finch; Mr. Willard Wert, Avonmore; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cramer, Morrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Warner, Newington; Mr. and Mrs. John Steele, Newington.

The floral tributes received included—Pillow, the family; wreath, sisters; sprays— grandchildren, brothers, Gallingertown Ladies' Aid, Grantley Ladies' Aid; cut flowers, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carr.

The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the sorrowing family.

REV. R. P. STAFFORD, MOREWOOD RECEIVES CALL TO LACHINE

At a special meeting of the Official Board of Morewood United church held yesterday the resignation of the pastor, Rev. R. P. Stafford, was reluctantly accepted. Mr. Stafford has received a unanimous call from Grace United church, Lachine, to become the pastor of that congregation. It is probable that a special meeting of Presbytery will be called to deal with the matter as it is Mr. Stafford's wish to be released from his present charge toward the end of April.

Mr. Stafford has earned the good will of practically all denominations during his pastorate in Morewood where his energetic ministry has borne much fruit, during which time a handsome new church has been erected.

LIVELY EXHIBITION HOCKEY WON BY CHESTERVILLE

For some reason or other the hockey fans of Chesterville refuse to take exhibition hockey games seriously and thereby miss some of the best and most interesting games of the season. Monday night was one of these occasions when a husky team from Brockville came here for a game. It was interesting from more than one angle. Brockville played this season in the O.H.A. and only lost out by one goal in the play-down with Belleville. The game gave a chance for comparison of the calibre of the men individually and of the two separate organizations. Heavy scoring games generally mean listlessness on the part of most of the players, but this was not the case Monday night. Chesterville had three of this year's juniors on the ice and all were out to show what they had. Wes Loughridge caught the eye of the crowd with his three counters, the first coming in the second frame when he took a nice pass from Jarvis and whizzed one into the twine behind McLean. His other pair came in the final period. The first when he hooked the rubber away from Bolte, made a nice pass to Jarvis who again gave it to him for Chesterville's tenth counter. His third of the game came from a sizzler at the blue line close to the right boards. Smith got going early and drew his first tally in senior company in the opening session when he beat the Brockville goalie on a nice shot from well out. "Chuck" Lapierre as a defence man showed that he will wreck the hopes of any forward line coming in when he puts on a little more weight before next season rolls around, and that he is no mean stick handler was shown when he carried the puck up on more than one occasion.

Watt, Jarvis and Plantz played their usual effective games, the former getting three counters, Jarvis one and Plantz three. Mel Harper bore the brunt of the defence when Gamble donned the pads after the first period relieving Hamilton in the nets, who had received the puck on the jaw in practice as the game was about to start.

Of the visitors, Dexter on defence, Levia, the left winger, and Walsh at centre were the most effective with Robinson, Garrand and Bolte doing good work. Dexter grabbed the first counter, to put Brockville even up in the first three minutes of play after Watt scored. Walsh got the second and Garrand the third, Levia taking the fourth in the first period which end Chesterville 5, Brockville 4.

Dexter got his second in the first minute of play in the second and Bolte a minute later put Brockville one up. Chesterville evened when the rubber was found safely in the net after a scramble in front, followed by the visitors again going ahead when Gamble did a fancy step in trying to save. Loughridge tied it up at seven all four minutes before the whistle.

In the final Plantz and Watt netted the visitors' last, Loughridge following with a couple more for Chesterville, setting the figures at 11 to 8.

The teams:

Brockville—Goal, McLean; defence, Dexter and Bolte; centre, Walsh; wings, Garrand and Levia; subs., Robinson, Kennedy and Woodcock.

Chesterville—Goal, Hamilton; defence, Harper and Lapierre; centre, Gamble; wings, Watt and Jarvis; subs., Plantz, Smith, Loughridge and McLean.

Referee—McLean Kelley, Brockville.

SUNDAY NEXT AT ST. ANDREW'S

The services in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Sunday next will be conducted by the minister, Mr. C. Ritchie Bell, he will be assisted by Mr. Russell C. Archer, who will preach at the morning diet of worship.

Mr. Ritchie Bell will arrive from Montreal on Friday evening as he is giving an address in the Presbyterian church at Morewood on "Character Values from Irish Life."

CORNWALL COUNCIL CONSIDERING SEPARATION FROM COUNTY

At a meeting of Cornwall Town Council on Monday night, a committee was appointed to study the question of separation of the town from the United Counties. It seems to be felt that the town would then save much of the taxes now paid to the counties, Councillor Mulhern pointing out that the town was now carrying a mortgage of $150,000 on the counties' road system.

DIED IN SMITHS FALLS

On Monday last Mrs. John Pitcher, nee Sarah Gertrude Pyper, wife of Mr. John Pitcher, formerly of Chesterville, passed away at her home in Smiths Falls. Service was held in Smiths Falls Tuesday night and the remains brought to Chesterville Wednesday morning and placed in the vault at Maple Ridge.

LADIES' AID ST. PAUL'S UNITED CHURCH, BERWICK

The members of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's United church, Berwick, held their annual social afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Elliott. After spending the afternoon in an "old time" visit and games for the younger ladies, all had supper. The tables were in the large diningroom and were arranged very nicely. When the ladies were seated the president, Mrs. Lewis Hutt, spoke a few words, regretting the departure of one of their members, wishing her every success in her new home and, as she had always been an active member, she would be greatly missed, but the Berwick society hoped she would take up the work in her new home in Morrisburg.

Mrs. Bogart replied in just a few words, saying she always enjoyed doing her share of the work and although sorry to leave her friends, she hoped to help in some other society. A supper of pot pie and many other good things was served to over thirty. All enjoyed the afternoon very much and are very grateful to Mrs. Elliott who gave her home to the ladies for the occasion.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

A regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Chesterville United church was held in the S. S. Hall with thirty three members present and the president in the chair.

The meeting was opened by singing a hymn and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Miss MacIntosh, of Montreal, a social service worker under the W. M. S., is invited to be the speaker for the Easter Thankoffering service on the evening of April 7th.

The Devotional part of the meeting was taken by Miss B. Merkley and Mrs. I. Cross the subjects of these papers being "Why we should contribute to our Easter Thankoffering," and "Budget Planning." Both were very helpful.

Mrs. Ttate and Mrs. Reaburn rendered a duet in a very pleasing manner.

Prayers were offered up for the Orientals coming into our land, that they might not feel as strangers but as citizens.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

PRESENTATION BY L.O.L. AND L.O.B.A., BERWICK

The members of the L.O.L., and L.O.B.A., of Berwick, surprised Sister Ruth Bogart by gathering at her home and presenting her with a bronze electric reading lamp. The following address was read by the Past Worthy Mistress, Sister Ruby Inman and the presentation was made by Brother Watson Ouderkirk:

Dear Sister Bogart,—

With mingled feelings of regret we gather in your home this evening as you are about to take your departure from us. You will be greatly missed in this community and in our lodge work, as you were ever ready to do your part and help those in need, and your cheerful disposition and sunny smile has endeared you to each one of us. However, we realize that our loss is another's gain and we trust you will be very happy in your new home but that you will not forget that

New friends can never take the place
Of those proved true by time,
And fresh attractions ne'er efface
The days of Aulde Lang Syne.

As a small token of our esteem and appreciation of your faithfulness, we ask you to accept this gift on behalf of the members of our L.O.B.A. and L.O.L. with our best wishes for your future success and happiness.

Although taken by surprise, Sister Bogart replied very nicely, giving the lodges some very good ideas of how they should keep the members faithful and active. She thanked them for the lovely present and hoped to visit them occasionaly. The ladies then served lunch and all enjoyed games and dancing for the rest of the evening.

Presentation At Sunnyside

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burd on Thursday in honor of their son Walter and his bride, nee Miss Mildred Ouderkirk, who were united in marriage on Wednesday, February 20. About seventy-five friends and neighbors gathered, not to bid them farewell, but to spend a few sociable hours together and present them with a small gift before leaving for their new home near Berwick. About eleven o'clock Walter and his bride were called to the sitting room where Mr. Floyd Feeley read the following address, during which Messrs. Cecil and Basil Baker presented the bride and groom with a handsome golden oak china cabinet and buffet:

Dear Walter and Mildred,—

It is with great pleasure that we, a few of your friends and neighbors, have once more gathered to spend another sociable evening in your home here before taking your departure for your home near Berwick. Now that you are a young couple starting out to take all the responsibilities of life upon your own shoulders, we will ask you to accept this gift, not for its mere value, but as a small token of such and hope that the pleasant memories and associations in connection with it will brighten the coming years of your married life. We have learned that you are not going very far away from us and we do not mean to say farewell, but hope to see you often and be together to enjoy many more pleasant evenings such as this, so we will leave you tonight, trusting in God that you both may be spared to a ripe old age in health and strength, to live together in peace and happiness and enjoy all the pleasures of life to the end.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors—Cecil and Basil Baker.

Walter, although taken by a great surprise, in a few well chosen words thanked his friends on behalf of himself and his bride, for the beautiful gift which had been presented to them and invited all to come and visit them in their new home.

All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," after which a dainty lunch was served, then dancing was kept up until the early hours of the morning. All returned to their homes, after thanking Mrs. Burd for the wonderful time they had spent, although the evening was very stormy and disagreeable.

Romance Still Lives

Every woman capable of strong feeling and endowed with imagination is romantic at heart, disguise it how she will.

This trait not only contributes much to the charm of a woman's character—it imparts something beautiful or thrilling to perhaps quite ordinary characters or incident.

A highly romantic nature is associated by some minds with silliness and folly. Life, to some people, is a mere calculation; expediency is their maxim, propriety their rule, profit, case, or comfort their aim. They have at least one advantage. Minds of a higher tone and hearts of a greater sensibility are harassed, wounded and even withered in their passage through life. Harder and less delicate souls proceed on their way neither chilled by the coldness, nor disillusioned by the meanness and selfishness of the world.

We often hear it said that Romance is dead—that it died, with chivalry, with the passing of the "good old day."

But what nonsense it all is! Once a lady gave her glove to adorn her knight's helmet on the tournament field. Is it less romantic to tie his colours to his cap at a point-to-point race meeting?

Was a gallant who tip-toed towards his inamorata in brocaded waistcoat and silken hose, begging she would do him the favour to step a measure any more romantic a companion than he who has just dropped from the skies, having probed behind clouds, and soared above the birds and the mountains, or he who has mastered the mysteries of the ocean?

Was it more romantic to jog for miles along a country lane behind a lover on a tired horse than it is to fly from the irate parent in a shining thing of aluminum, or tear out into the lovely country places clasping a young man's waist as he sits in front on a motor-bicycle?

No, Romance is not dead, but, for every generation it wears a different garment. We must be on the look out not to miss it.

Attend And Deliver

Amongst old soldiers some of the most amusing of their reminiscences relate to church parades. Why, I have never been able to tell; but it is a fact that if you get an old timer to recalling queer experiences he is certain, sooner or later, to tell a tale about a church parade. But I fancy that few could, for sheer humor, equal one that was told by Sam Steele, who won fame in South Africa as O.C. of the Strathcona Horse, after a lifetime spent as a member of the Red River expedition of 1870, of the garrison in Manitoba, of the Canadian Artillery, and of the North West Mounted Police, of which he was an original. In the winter of 1885, he took command of the mounted police post at Battleford. There an amusing test of discipline occurred.

"The majority of our men were recruits of less than six months' service only partially trained, and I noticed that very few of them attended their churches. There had been no parades for the purpose, the parson of the Church of England having objected to them. Our regulations were very clear on the subject, but only five men attended the morning service in his church, and they were in the choir, when there should have been at least 100. I decided that I would not order church parades if I found all ranks attending the morning service regularly, and to make it easy for them, I gave orders that there would be no noon stable parades on the Sundays. It was cold weather, the horses would not drink until late in the morning, and could be fed by the stable orderlies at noon. I naturally expected something from this arrangement and the next Sunday went to church, confident that there would be a large turnout. I was disappointed, however, on seeing that the number had only increased to 7!

"This settled the matter. Orders were given for all hands to parade and march to their respective places of worship. This filled one side of the Church of England, but the young fellows boycotted the plate when it was passed around for the offertory.

"After this had occurred several times the parson's church warden, late Robert Wylde, an ex-member of the force, made up his mind that they should contribute, and, when the time came, he proceeded with the plate in his left hand to take up the collection. On approaching the first of the obstinate troopers, he made the motion of pointing a revolver at him with his right hand as if to hold him up! That ended the boycott. All were on the broad grin, and the civilians of the congregation were almost convulsed as the men reached in their pockets for silver."

Which was quite a unique example of "Militant Christianity."

NEWS ITEMS APPRECIATED

Last week the Record received a letter from a reader in Western Ontario which stated that she now passed her Record on to a former resident of Aultsville who found much news in it to interest her. The lady referred to is Mrs. Bigelow, whose daughter is the wife of Rev. Mr. Joliffe of Erin, Ont., with whom she lives, and no doubt will be remembered by many in the Aultsville district. Mrs. Bigelow is eighty-four years of age and is enjoying good health.

"I don't know," replid the boy, "but if you will be seated I will enquire at the fire insurance department."

PAST, PRESENT and FUTURE

PROUD of its past record, alert to present opportunities and mindful of the standards it has constantly upheld, the Bank of Montreal is now entering upon the one hundred and twelfth year of its service.

To-day in resources and organization the Bank is better equipped than at any other period in its history to render prompt and efficient service to the people and business interests of Canada.

Is "Mortgaged to the Hilt" Good Business?

Of course it's not, and that is why all the new money needed for expansion of the telephone system cannot be raised by bond issues.

Part of the money will come from bond issues — a new issue has just been announced — but a large part must continue to come from new issues of stock.

If a handicap is placed on telephone expansion the only ultimate sufferers will be those who use, or want, telephones in Ontario and Quebec.

By 1934 Ontario and Quebec will need a million telephones. They cannot be provided without new money to extend the system.

FORMER CHESTERVILLE BOY AT TURNER VALLEY OIL FIELDS

This week the Record had a letter from T. J. Black, formerly of Chesterville, but now of Vulcan, Alta., in which he says: "As we are quite close to the Turner Valley oil fields, everyone here is keenly interested in its development. Vulcan is about forty-five miles south-east of Turner Valley and we frequently drive over to see what is doing. It is very interesting to watch them drilling, but the real interest comes when they strike oil or gas and stocks start to go up. Another oil field is being developed eight miles to the south of Vulcan, which is expected to be as productive as Turner Valley. This summer I shall be pleased to send the Record a number of snaps of the Turner Valley field." The Record will be glad to have them.

HoneybornеRemembered Here

Many hockey enthusiasts around this district were surprised when a report was spread in February after a game between Almonte and Renfrew that Frank Honeyborne, a popular member of Chesterville's 1928 team, had been suspended for unsportsmanlike conduct on the ice. Hereabout Honeyborne is remembered as a very clean player, slow to retaliate in the course of a game, and in fact was ruled off but a couple of times for minor offences during the season. The Almonte Gazette gives the following as the facts of the incident:—

"In the last period of the game Honeyborne went up the ice with the puck. Nearing the Renfrew goal he shot, the puck hit the boards and he followed in behind the Renfrew net line. Dick of Renfrew, got possession and raced away with it. Honeyborne had started after him when Moore flung his arm around him and held him by the sweater. Honeyborne shook himself loose, but Moore grabbed his stick and held on to it. Honeyborne tried to free his stick, but Moore had the hook of it under his arm and he could not do so. Meanwhile Dick was up towards the Almonte goal with the puck.

"The struggle between Moore and Honeyborne continued until the two players were near the Renfrew blue line, the former still hanging on to the latter's stick, thereby keeping him out of the play which apparently was the intention.

"Honeyborne raised his hand to strike Moore but did not do so. It looked as if Moore was inviting him to do it, and he is credited with saying "Hit me." A second time he raised his fist to strike Moore and this time he did so Moore crumpled and fell backward, the back of his head striking the ice. He was knocked unconscious and when he was lifted up his hockey stick was under his head. He was not able to continue the play, but was able to dress himself. He spent several days in the Renfrew Hospital.

"Both players have a high reputation in athletic sports. Moore is the bigger man of the two and is several years older than Honeyborne. Other Almonte players allege that Moore was particularly aggravating in the game in which the incident occurred. Honeyborne is the mildest of young men and very slow to arouse. Moore is the son of a well known Renfrew contractor and Honeyborne is an electrician in the service of the Public Utilities Commission of Almonte."

INTEREST IN DISTRICT HOCKEY SHIFTS TO TORONTO

With Cornwall Colts going down to defeat at the hands of the Shamrocks of Ottawa by a six to two score on the round, and the Junior Shamrocks triumphing over the Pembroke Juniors Tuesday night by 12 to 0 on the round interest will be centered on the showing of the two Shamrock squads when they go up against stiffer opposition in Toronto, where the Seniors will meet Varsity and the Juniors that fast Marlboros on the trail that leads the winners to the Allan and Memorial cups.

Trapping Muskrats

As the muskrat season opens on March 15th and closes on April 21st, the following, by J. Curtis Grigg, taken from the Farmer's Advocate, is timely:

The muskrat is one of the most common fur animals, being found in practically all parts of the United States and Canada. The annual catch of muskrats is greater in number and sells for more dollars and cents than the catch of any other single fur animal.

Muskrats make their home in the rivers, creeks, ponds, lakes and sloughs. They are never found living far from the water's edge, and as a usual thing the entrance to their home is under water. There are two types of muskrat homes: burrows in the banks and "houses" built of flags, grass roots, sticks, etc. We hear trapers speak of "bank rats" and "house rats," and this leads the inexperienced to think that perhaps there are two kinds of muskrats. This is not the case, as "bank rats" and those which build houses are just the same. However, the nature of their surroundings makes their way of building homes different.

In swift flowing rivers they dig burrows into the banks. The entrance to these is often several feet below the water, and leads upward to a dry nest ten or more feet above the water's edge. It is easy to understand why rats never build houses in swift rivers, as floods would destroy them, and besides there is seldom material suitable at hand along swift flowing creeks and rivers. So they dig dens in the bank and are termed "bank rats."

In sloughs, ponds and some lakes the banks are low—not high enough to allow the muskrats to dig such dens as this, so they build houses. But living under different conditions doesn't seem to create a different type, and as far as looks are concerned "bank rats" and "house rats" are the same, although perhaps bank rats run a little darker in the color of fur.

While there is little difference in the looks of these two kinds of rats, there is a lot of difference in trapping them, and a trapper who has mastered the art of trapping rats along a river or creek would find that he had a lot to learn about rats if he should try to trap them in a rat slough where they live in houses.

Most of the rat sloughs are rented nowadays to professional trappers. and farm boys and others who trap for sport and fun and pocket money seldom get a chance to trap in rat sloughs. Most of their trapping is done along creeks and rivers for the so-called "bank rats" so I will tell you of a few successful sets for this kind of trapping.

Most any kind of a trap from No. 0 to a No. 2 is all right for trapping rats, although I think the No. 1½ size is the best. The "Victor Giant" is also very good.

While rats are easy to catch, they will wring or twist off their front feet and escape if not drowned soon after being caught, so it is advisable to lengthen the trap chain with a few feet of wire and anchor out in deep water. In places where this is impossible, set two or three traps close together, so the rat will get caught by more than one foot. This will make it impossible for him to "wring off." It is well to set the trap back in the water a few inches from the water's edge, when setting at "slides," as a rat swims up till his breast touches bottom. Then he puts down his feet, and if you set your trap back out in the stream about where you think his hind feet will come you will be pretty sure to get him by a hind foot, and they seldom escape if caught by the hind leg.

Look under the roots of trees and stumps at the water's edge and you will often find a cavity that the water has washed out back under the bank, and if the rats are using this as a dining room you will see grass roots, etc., lying on the bottom. Now, this is an excellent place to catch Mr. Rat and one trap set in a place like this will often take a rat every night as long as weather is favorable and there are any around. Traps set in trails and slides are all right, but those on "feed beds" back under tree roots, stumps, etc., are better.

Another good set is made by digging a hole in the bank at the water's edge. Dig it about the size of a stove pipe, so the water is about two inches deep at the entrance and stake out in deep water. Be sure and dig it where rats swimming up and down the stream will see it, and every rat that notices this hole will stop and investigate.

Another very successful set is made by driving three or four stakes down flush, or a few inches under water. Drive them in a circle or triangle, so a sod of, say, a foot square can be set on top. This should be just out of water on one side, and, say, an inch under at the other side. Set your trap on the side under water and stake out in deep water. A few drops of oil of catnip is fine scent for the sod, and if you like you can bait with apple, corn, squash, turnip ,carrot or parsnip.

All rat trappers should remember that it is necessary to drown the rats as soon as caught, or to catch them in at least two traps to prevent their escape. Rats are easy to catch and easy to hold if they don't "wring off", and they won't do this if you lengthen all your trap chains with wire and stake or anchor out in deep water. Water 16 or more inches deep will drown a muskrat before he can wring off. This staking out in deep water is the most important thing about rat trapping.

A Story Of The War

The death of Sir Charles Raitt Cleve land who from 1910 was Director of Central Intelligence, and did more to defeat the German spy system than any man in the world, recalls a story which is not generally known. It is sometimes said that Sir Charles so mastered the German spy system that in the end the Germans were paying for the upkeep of the British Service! Here was one way it was done. In 1915 a spy named Muller was run to earth in a North London suburb, and shot in the Tower. His method of sending information to Germany was by marked advertisements in newspapers—codes, of course—which were despatched through Holland. The code was "pierced" after many weeks of work in Whitehall, and this constituting the last link in the chain of evidence, Muller paid the penalty. Officially, Muller continued to exist (spy executions were kept secret for months at that time), but still advertisements purporting to come from him, and containing information—false information, but most calculatingly, brilliantly false—continued to be forwarded through marked English newspapers, and Muller's pay masters gave their agent an increase in salary. In this way the Special Intelligence Branch collected over £400 from the German Secret Service funds before the Germans got tired of finding the facts were just wrong, and sent (in code, of course) the letter dispensing with the services of a man who had lain in a spy's grave for nearly a year. The Intelligence Branch bought a motor-car out of the profits, and up to the last, a few years ago, it was still known as "The Muller." Another ingenious device for making the Germans contribute towards the expenses of the War also employed by the Branch. The spy was almost invariably detected on landing at Newcastle or Hull, but instead of being arrested on the spot, he was allowed to travel to London. He always went first class and after having thus helped the railway revenue he was arrested on arrival in London.

Noble Generosity Of A Poor Woman

One hundred pounds, her savings for twenty years, has been sent to the Worksop Guardians by Miss Ellen Godfrey, an Englishwoman working as a servant in New York. She asked that the money should be invested, and the interests used to provide an annual treat for the workhouse children. Miss Godfrey's letter explains in simple words the motive which prompted her to send the gift. She was born in Worksop fifty-four years ago, and writes:

"I do this because of my great love for little children. I was at school in Worksop until ten years old, then I went out into the world to earn my living. My mother died two years before. We were very poor; my brother was placed in the Union."

"When at school," continued Miss Godfrey, "I made up my mind, as I saw the Poor Law children go by, that if I had enough money when I grew up I would be kind to all poor children. I am only a servant. It took me twenty years of hard work to save up one hundred pounds, but oh the joy it gives me to write this letter knowing my childhood wish has been fulfilled."

"I can recall in her early days," said Mr. A. E. M. Turner, the oldest member of the Board, "that Miss Godfrey would look over the hedge to see the children. They were imprisoned, as it were, in the building. They never went out, even for school. They were educated in dark, sunless rooms. Miss Godfrey wishes other generations of children to be freed from the terrors that surrounded the children in those far-off days." The guardians accepted the generous offer gratefully.

WINTER AND THE COAL BIN

Householders who keep tab on the coal bin year in and year out say that winters average about the same, so far as the buring of fuel is concerned. During some winters the thermometers may drop away below zero half a dozen times and remain down several days at a time. In other winters, like the present one, the mercury may reach the zero mark only a couple of times and shoot up again soon after the sun rises. But it is the average temperature that counts, and as old timers say, winters average about the same so far as temperatures are concerned.

"Do Not touch the Exhibits," runs a notice in a London wax works emporium. Despite this warning there is one effigy of a millionaire so realistic that several Scotchmen have tried to touch it for a liver.

The Week In The Legislature

With a view of curbing the wholesale chicken thieving now prevalent throughout Ontario the Standing Committee on Agriculture of the Legislature is forwarding a recommendation urging the introduction of legislation designed to cope with the situation. The proposed legislation would embody provisions that would make it necessary for all persons transporting fowl to have a license. In addition it is proposed that they carry records showing where the fowl was purchased and to whom it was sold.

During the sessions of the Committee they were informed that the theft of chickens was reaching serious proportions in Ontario and that some adequate check must be designed. The Department of Agriculture, which has been studying the question for some time, suggests that authority be given police officers to make a search of all trucks carrying poultry and, in addition, that they be given the right to examine the records of the transport company to ascertain where the fowl originated and theid destination.

* * * *

Addressing a deputation of women who recently visited the Parliament Buildings, Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, assured them that there would be some form of Old Age Pensions operating in Ontario before the end of the year. For some time the Government has been making a survey prior to the introduction of the necessary legislation. This survey, it is stated, is practically complete, and a draft form of the law has been drawn up by the law clerks.

Following the representations of a deputation which waited on the government this week consideration is being given the suggestion that a 75 foot beacon tower be erected in the Baden Hills as a memorial to the late Sir Adam Beck, the founder of Hydro. Several of the original Hydro municipalities, through their representatives waited on the Cabinet urging that the location was extremely fitting as it overlooked Sir Adam's birthplace. Hon. George S. Henry assured the deputation that their suggestion would receive the serious consideration of the government.

Work of the Ontario Department of Forestry in distributing free of charge trees to residents of the province for planting and windbreak purposes is receiving editorial support from many of the Ontario papers. According to the department 14,000,000 trees are available for free distribution this year. Last year nearly 5,000 persons accepted trees from the government.

Each resident of the province can get 4,000 trees each year by paying the express from the nearest forestry stations which are situated in Norfolk, Simcoe, Prince Edward and Grenville Counties. If the trees are called for there is no expense attached.

According to statistics of the department some 431,793 trees were planted in York county last year. Free allotment of trees numbers 4,000 but additional quantities are supplied at $4 per thousand.

During 1928, or for the first time in history, Ontario's mineral production exceeded $100,000,000 in value, according to a report of the Ontario Department of mines. A jump of $11,000,000 in the production of nickel and copper went a long way to establish the record-breaking production figure. Total production for the year was $100,238,933, or an increase of eleven per cent. above the production of 1927.

Due to a heavier demand for building material structural minerals showed a rise of more than $500,000. having a total value of $14,688,210. Non-metallic minerals with a total of $7,679,133 were only $30,000 higher than in 1927.

In an effort to check the spread of silicosis, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, has introduced in the Legislature a bill to compel all granite workers to wear a mask while engaged in their occupation. In addition the bill, which has received first reading, will provide for the medical examination of all workers as soon as possibe after the bill becomes law. The disease is caused through inhaling stone dust into the lungs. The mask is an invention of Dr. Fred Bulmer of the Ontario Health Department and is operated on an air pressure basis. The mask is light and comfortable and can be worn with ease.

Producing Low Count Milk With The Milking Machine

(Experimental Farms Note.)

A number of farms producing certified milk have used the milking machine for some years with splendid success. On the other hand, machine-drawn milk from the average farm frequently contains enormous numbers of bacteria. Careful investigation has shown this to be largely the result of improper treatment of the rubber parts; where these are not thoroughly washed and sterilized, lurking bacteria find food and moisture inside the tubes to permit rapid growth, and the milk drawn through at the next milking becomes seriously contaminated.

In the belief that methods recommended for cleaning and sterilizing are often too time-consuming and laborious, the Division of Bacterjology, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has studied the problem of developing simpler, yet equally effective methods. Tests have shown the suction method of washing to be quicker, simpler and yet more thorough than the old brush method, while chemical methods of sterilizing the rubber parts have compared very favorably with hot water and steam treatments. During the past summer, the relative values of chemical and hot water treatments for sterilizing were compared in a severe test conducted under practical conditions. Over a six week period (July to September) the average bacterial counts obtained by the machines and by careful hand milking were—Hot water treated machine, 4,484 per c.c.; Chemically treated machine, 4,209 per c.c.; Hand milking, 4,276 per c.c. From these figures it is evident that simple methods, where properly followed, enablethe average farmer to produce milk by machine that will compare most favorably with the product of careful hand milking.

Full details of this experiment and of many others conducted in bacteriological studies of milking machines will shortly be published in bulletin form, and should prove to be of interest to every milk producer.

Farmer Corntassel had just retired and moved to town. In the morning, after spending the first night in the new home, his wife said, "Well, Paw, hain't it about time you was getting up to build the fire?"

"No, siree," replied the old gent. "I'll call the fire department. We might as well get used to these city conveniences right now."
