Council Closes Contract for New Fire Unit Tank Pumper at $11,250 Ordered Monday

Chesterville council signed a contract for a new fire truck Monday night. The contract price is $11,250 and the unit is to be supplied by the LaFrance Foamite Company. Delivery will be in 90 working days if the purchase is approved by the municipal authorities in Toronto.

Monday night found members of Chesterville council busy with the affairs of the corporation at their regular meeting for May. Present were Reeve Chas. McMillan and Councillors C. McMillan, J. Turner, G. Lannin and M. Page. The most important item on the agenda was the final decision regarding a new fire truck for the town to replace the present equipment. Much discussion preceeded the signing of the contract.

Over the past few months specifications have been received and representations made for three different units thought to fit the needs of the town. A storage tank unit with a 500-gal. capacity was considered a necessity, in line with modern fire fighting practice, to get water on a blaze in the shortest possible time under adequate pressure. Fog nozzle apparatus is a must and all units could supply that feature. A heavy truck chassis was needed with a powerful engine for speedy transport and a reserve for adequate pumping capacity. An auxiliary pumping unit was needed to supply water to the storage tank as its contents were used at the fire. Reels of high pressure hose were needed on the truck for instant use in standard 150-foot lengths. Pressures must be supplied up to 400-450 lbs. per sq. inch.

These specifications were met in all units described. Some had further advantages and some had less, but a standard was set by council and a price worked out from there.

Members of the Fire Department were present with council to make suggestions and offer their advice on the equipment. When the advice offered was constructive, it was accepted in full measure. Some distress was registered by members of council on occasion when personalities seemed to become an issue rather than merits of the various types of equipment.

Final decision was made to purchase the LaFrance unit. The price asked by that company was the most favourable of the three submitted. The cost price will be $11,250, tax included. Delivery will be made in about 90 working days from acceptance of the contract.

General business of council was quickly taken care of in spite of a disturbing interruption that followed shortly after the signing of the contract for the fire unit.

Clerk H. C. Hummel notified council of receipt from the Department of Agriculture of a cheque for $1,000, a payment on the grant to the Chesterville Community Centre. The money was earmarked by resolution to be turned over to the Board. $114.50 in fee s and fines were received in the past month as the town's share through the Police Department.

Representatives of the directors of Winchester District Memorial Hospital were present to ask council to consider their usual grant of $500 to that institution.

Reeve McMillan suggested that council sponsor a dance, proceeds of which go to the Boy Scout movement here. It was agreed upon and the date set for June 24th.

A committee was appointed to make some arrangements for observance of Coronation Day in the village on June 2nd. Bunting and decorations will be hung about the town and various festive features planned.

Father S. Lesage Addresses Rotary Monday Night

"Church Discipline" was the subject of a talk given on Monday night to members of Chesterville Rotary by Rev. Simon Lesage, pastor of St. Mary's Church here. Father Lesage was introduced by H. G. Bigelow and thanked by G. H. Barkley.

An outline was given by the speaker of the method used to choose the heads of the Church community. He began with a description of the balloting for choice of Pope and followed the system down to that of the training and appointment of the parish priest.

Father Lesage took his listeners behind the seminary walls for a description of the four years of study and discipline that make the young student able to enter the community as a parish priest. A sound moral character and ability were musts if a student is to succeed in his chosen field. Father Lesage told his listeners some of the amusing things that go to make up the life of the students in the seminaries. He stressed the importance of the rigorous training needed by the young men in spiritual matters so that they can become responsible heads of their parishes.

Sheila Morris of C.H.S. On Citizenship Tour

Sheila Morris, of Chesterville High School, was the student chosen by the Rotary Club here to represent Chesterville in the third "Adventure in Citizenship." Denise Brady and Gordon Giles were chosen in past years.

The third annual Adventure in Citizenship sponsored by the Rotary Club of Ottawa in co-operation with clubs throughout the Dominion brough to the Capital, May 4th, over 160 selected High School students representing all ten provinces for four days of sightseeing.

The young voters of tomorrow visited and observed the Houses of Parliament in session, and later received Certificates of Canadian Citizenship at the hands of the Prime Minister, the Hon. Louis St. Laurent. They also payed a call on His Excellency the Governor General, the Hon. Vincent Massey, at Rideau Hall.

A Know-Your-Capital programme included visits to the National War Memorial, the Memorial Chamber in the clock tower of the Parliament Buildings, the National Art Gallery and Museum, the Royal Mint, the Central Experimental Farm, and other places of national and historical interest. As guests of the Federal District Commission, the young visitors were shown the driveways and other beautification developments in the city and environs. They visited "Moorside," the Kingsmere home of the late Hon. Mackenzie King, now a feature of Gatineau Park's 39,000 acres in the Laurentian Hills of Quebec.

At one o f the several luncheons, Members of Parliament had the opportunity of meeting and sitting with their young constituents. The series of luncheons and dinners concluded with a banquet at which students representing each province addressed a gathering of Rotarians and their wives, and prominent figures in national and municipal affairs and the Capital's business and professional life.

Lady Teacher's Federation Of Dundas Met at Morewood

Inspector T. A. S. McKee, of Ottawa, was the featured speaker at a supper meeting of Dundas Lady Teacher's Federation held in Morewood United Church dining hall last Tuesday night. A bountiful and delicious meal was prepared and served by the ladies of the W.A. of that church.

Mrs. W. W. Steven, president of the Federation, chairmanned the occasion. Entertainment was provided by an Eighth Grade pupil, Gordon Hutchinson, with an excellent piano solo and Mr. J. F. Casselman pleased his audience with two tenor solos. Mrs. S. Barrington was the accompanist.

Miss Margaret Carlyle, formerly of Morewood and a teacher in Ottawa, gave a most interesting talk on her year spent in London last term as an exchange teacher. The picture was reversed when Miss R. Marshall, an exchange teacher from Glasgow, Scotland, and teaching in Ottawa this term, was asked to give some of her impressions of this country and its school system.

Inspector W. J. Stewart introduced the speaker of the evening. Mr. McKee took as his subject, "The Challenge of Modern Trends" and very capably outlined the need for constant updating of knowledge of methods in the teaching profession. His address was accorded close attention and the applause expressed the appreciation of the listeners. R. C. Dillabough ably seconded the feelings of the audience with his words of thanks to Mr. McKee.

'Had No Brakes' Witness Claims Driver Told Him

A witness in the dangerous driving trial of Romulus Clement, of Embrun, at the county courthouse, Cornwall, Tuesday, said that Clement told him he tried to stop his car to avoid hitting six-year-old Peter Matte, of Finch, but he had no brakes.

Younge Matte died from his injuries after being struck on the main street of Finch last Nov. 10.

The testimony was given by Douglas Ouderkirk, of Finch Township. He said he heard a crash when he was in a store and ran out in time to see Clement's car go by "at a moderate rate of speed."

A playmate of the victim, six-year-old Harold Thompson, was led up to the bench by Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan, QC. He told Judge G. E. Brennan that he and Peter were playing with his wagon when Peter decided to cross the street. He said his friend pushed himself into the street from between a parked car and a truck and did not look either way. A car coming from the north ran over Peter, he said.

Eldon Ouderkirk, of Finch, testified his car was parked north-east of where the accident occurred. He noticed that the front and rear fenders of the vehicle were damaged and learned from Clement after the accident that the accused had run into the Ouderkirk car in trying to miss the Matte child.

The witness said the accident occurred at dusk and that the air was "kind of smoky."

Farmer Survey Forms To be Mailed Soon

The annual June survey of farms is about to start. Forms have been, or will be, mailed to reach each farmer about the first of June and all farmers are urged to complete and return these forms without delay. The questionnaires come through the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Agriculture and provide one of the basic methods of obtaining data on year-to-year changes in live stock and crop production by provinces and for Canada as a whole.

Figures on individual reports are kept confidential. When grouped with others they provide the statisticians with data for making the estimates and developing the annual statistics so important to farmers and their organizations, to businesses and services that deal with farmers, to governmental administrative and grading services and to all of us as consumers of agricultural products.

All farmers, therefore, are asked to co-operate in making this survey as complete and accurate as possible. It is in the farmer's interest to assist in providing these assessments on Canadian production for national and international use.

"INTESTINAL FORTITUDE" SAID NEEDED IN DIETING

Two million Canadians are overweight, and those two million will have more illness and die earlier than the rest of the population, warns Dr. Harold V. Cranfield, Toronto specialist in physical medicine. If you are 10 per cent heavier than your ideal weight, you are obese—and no allowance is made for increasing age. The average gets heavier, but the ideal stays the same.

"Frightful term, "obese," admits Dr. Cranfield, "And it's a frightening state to be in. It isn't just the load you carry in that extra poundage that does the harm; but that extra 20 pounds means 12 miles of extra blood vessels added to your system for your poor, tired heart to pump blood through If you have gained 40 pounds, then its 24 miles of added circulation. No wonder that blood pressure rises to keep the parasitic fat nourished."

Among the ever-present dangers of overweight, Dr. Cranfield lists in "Health" magazine increased likelihood of diabetes, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, strokes, heart disease and heart failure, cancer. And he adds, "you won't stand surgery, pneumonia or infection as well."

What to do about it? (1) Go to your doctor. (2) Follow his advice.

The doctor will see that you get enough sugars and starches to burn up your excess fat; that you get the right excercise and in the right amount (exercise alone will only stimulate the appetite and build muscle); and he will tell you there are no such things as "thinning" foods. For the corpulent there are the four "Cs"—Counsel, Caution, Curtailment and Courage.

"And it was most certainly in respect to diet that courage was first referred to as intestinal fortitude," concludes Dr. Cranfield.

SEED TREATMENTS

According to registration records for 1952, 33 brands of seed treatments were registered under the Pest Control Products Act, administered by the Plant Products Division, Department of Agriculture. These products were registered by 16 firms, many of which provided Canadian farmers with other pesticides for the control of diseases and insects affecting agricultural production. More than half of these seed treatments are new products only available to farmers in the last few years. The following is a brief outline of the types of seed treatments available: Fungicidal (Mercurial), 15 preparations; Fungicidal (Non-mercurial), 10 preparations; Insecticidal (Lindane), 4 preparations; Insecticidal-Fungicidal (Lindane plus Mercurial), 4 preparations.

The Fungicidal treatments are designed to disinfect seed and to protect it from soil-borne diseases. The newer formulations contain one of the following ingredients: Phenyl MercuricAcetate (PMA) which is effective against smut (except loose smut), seedling blight and seed rot flax. PMA is toxic to man and therefore should be used with care. Hexachlorobenzene, a chlorinated hydrocarbon, is specific for the control of bunt or stinking smut of wheat. These last two products are of low toxicity to man and have added merit on this account. Lindane, the Gamma Isomer of Benzine Hexachloride, is very effective in soil-borne insect control and the standard rate of one ounce per acre applied on the seed will give nearly complete protection from wireworms.

BALDNESS STILL A PROBLEM NEW DRUGS MAY HELP

It's quite a psychological trick for a woman to keep a cool head when she suddenly discovers that the head is losing so many hairs at a time that the scalp has begun to show through.

In a newspaper feature D. Herman N. Bundesen says that hair can be regrown on a bald head in special cases. But that baldness is due to many different causes and he knows of no single treatment that will help everybody.

And the doctor goes on:

Partial baldness is very common. Complete baldness of the head is less common but not rare. In some cases even the hair throughout the body may be completely lost.

Baldness may follow emotional shock after someone has a frightful experience, or after some great sorrow.

Many times elderly women develop a baldness due to inflammation of the oil glands of the scalp. Usually this involves the front and sides of the head. As a rule the woman has dry, harsh, lustrous hair, and it thins gradually. In a few months, however, the amount of hair loss can show.

In treating baldness due to a definite disease condition, we can sometime s make use of the newer drugs and treatments for this disease. Thus, taking extra thyroid extract is helpful in certain cases where baldness is due to a lack of thyroid.

In others, the cause of baldness is a disease of certain glands of the scalp. Thisisknown as seborrheic dermatitis. Treating the dermatitis may help retard hair loss, but it will not regrow lost har.

Massage of the scalp either with the fingers or a mechanical vibrator is sometimes a little helpful in encouraging hair growth.

In a condition known as alopecia areata, the hair falls out in patches, and sometimes all over the head. The cause of this type of baldness is not known. People with this condition become bald suddenly, usally while still young.

When this occurs in young adults the hair may regrow in time. However, when it affects the hair throughout the body, there is little hope that the hair will grow back. Recently 22 patients with this type of baldness were given doses of cortisone, a newly discovered drug. After taking the drug for 10 weeks or more, 16 of the 22 grew new hair. In a few of the cases the regrowth, though not complete, was thick enough to appear normal.

It seems that in certain cases where baldness is not throughout the body and has not existed too long, cortisone may be helpful in promoting some new hair. However, it can be used only in carefully selected cases under a physician's care.

His Money's Worth

The doctor met Mrs. Brown on the street. "And how is your husband? Did you give him the sleeping powder I prescribed?"

"Yes, doctor," she replied. "You told me to give him the amount I could get on a nickel, but I didn't have a nickel so I used five pennies. He's been asleep for a week now."

Silk For Royal Robes Produced in Britain

When Queen Elizabeth II sent a message to Lady Hart Dyke saying how pleased her Majesty would be if the silk for the Coronation robes could be supplied by the Silk Farm at Lullingstone, another chapter opened in the story of the pioneering, by one indomitable woman, of an entire industry in Britain.

Down the centuries many attempts at rearing silkworms in England had failed. Today, after twenty years of concentrated effort, Lady Hart Dyke has proved that Britain can become a first-class silk-making country, although she began with no skilled knowledge, no machinery, and no source of mulberry leaves (and all feeding substitutes have proved failures). Moreover, she had to contend with an uncertain climate.

Lady Hart Dyke started by experimenting in her own home, 900-year-old Lullingstone Castle, one of the most historic buildings in Britain, nestling in a leafy vale in the English county of Kent. The farm was already well-established by 1937, and in that year she was rewarded for all her hard work when she received the Royal command to provide the silk for King George VI's Coronation robes.

As in 1937, when the silk from cocoons sent by thousands of children in Britain and the Commonwealth was used for King George's robes, those to be worn by the Queen may also be made partly of the silk from cocoons sent by her young subjects. More than 20,000 worms were needed to produce the silk for the delicate net train worn by Queen Elizabeth on her wedding day, but much more silk will be needed for the heavy robes she will wear on the day she is crowned.

The method of rearing the worms from egg to cocoon has changed little since it was perfected by the Chinese over 3,000 years ago, and Lullington Castle has proved an ideal setting for what is called in the East the "Royal Art of Sericulture." Several of the Castle's panelled chambers have been turned into incubation rooms where eggs are kept at "summer heat" for about ten days before being hatched.

After feeding voraciously for several days on the locally-grown mulberry leaves the worms—now the size of large caterpillars—prepare to make their cocoons. Climbing into prepared straw bundles, each worm weaves a small "hammock" of rough silk, then begins to surround itself with two miles (3.2 kilometres) of unbroken silk thread, wound round its body in a figure-eight. When the work is completed the cocoons—looking like hard yellow egg-yolk—are baked to kill the chrysalis, thus preventing it from breaking the precious silk by emerging as a moth.

Up to this stage, with average care, almost anyone can produce silk. In fact, thousands of visitors to the Castle—adults and children—from all parts of the world have taken away samples of silk-worm eggs and mulberry seed to start their own small silk-raising enterprises. But after the cocoon stage the really difficult parts begin and it is for this reason that year after year thousands of packages arrive at the Castle.

These contain cocoons sent by amateur sericulturists to be reeled into the standard two-ounce skein, each containing 30,000 yards of silk thread —the life's work of 250 worms. (But since each silk moth lays up to 500 eggs, and nearly all of them hatch, very large quantities of silk can be made from quite a small start).

Twenty locally-trained girls..plus a number of overseas trainees studying sericulture—unwind the cocoons. A revolving brush finds the end—the "leading thread"— which is taken and twisted with others from four more cocoons, thus automatically forming a single and immensely strong yarn.

Previously all machines for this reeling and twisting operating were made abroad. That was until Sir Oliver Hart Duke, began to take an interest in the problem. Sir Oliver, who is an engineer, redesigned the machinery and even patented some improvements which may well become standard.

Nothing is wasted at Lullingstone. The coarse "hammock" silk is even woven with wool from a local Angora rabbit farm into a silk-and-wool knitting yarn, of which the first garment made, a baby's bonnet, was presented to Princess Elizabeth, as she then was, for Prince Charles.

During the past few years Lullingstone silk has aroused international interest. Governments, private companies and research centres have sought Lady Hart Dyke's advice. She has advised on silk projects in Eire and Cyprus and trained United Kingdom, American and Canadian ex-servicemen in the art, while she and her experts have become familiar figures at international textile conferences.

With ever increasing demands for Kentish silk from all over the world this unique enterprise is daily increasing production. No longer is it regarded merely as a local industry of limited possibilies; Lady Hart Dyke has put British silk on the map.

CORONATION COMPOSERS

To mark the Coronation the CBC has commisioned nine works from Canadian composers, which will have their premieres in network broadcasts in the next few weeks. Among those so honoured are two Torontonians: conductor Godfrey Ridout (left) and the dean of Canadian composers, Dr. Healey Willan, whose impressive five-part suite for chorus and orchestra will have its first performance in a broadcast conducted by the CBC's director of music, Geoffery Waddington, on May 31st at 8.00 p.m. on the CBC Trans-Canada network. Ridout's work, "Coronation Ode," for chorus and orchestra, will be premiered at a later date. Ridout has composed well over 200 musical background scores for the National Film Board and the CBC; his original works include the dramatic symphony "Esther," performed on CBC Wednesday night.

A plumber was charged with an offense of which he was innocent. His defense was excellent, but his lawyer noticed that he seemed very nervous and disturbed as the jurors filed into place. "What's wrong?" the lawyer asked. "You need have no fear of the jurors."

"I'm not so sure," replied the plumber. "There ain't a man there that don't owe me some money."

The minister looked up from his desk, noticed the worried look on his small son's face. "What's the matter, Tim?"

"Well, Dad, last Sunday in church you said the Lord helps you prepare sermons—that He tells you what to write."

"That's right, Son. He does."

"Then why do you all the time keep scratching out and correcting the mistakes?"

Pickerel -- Fisherman's Delight

When the pickerel fishing season opens on May 15, record numbers of resident and non-resident fisherman will set out to lure from lakes and streams throughout Ontario a fish which, though not a great fighter, and relatively easy to catch, is regarded by gourmets as one of Canada's finest table varieties.

A fish of many names, the pickerel of Ontario also is known as doré in Quebec, wall-eye to most United States residents and, to some, pike perch. Actually, the pickerel does not belong to the pike family. The soft doral and spiny dorsal fins and the pectoral and ventral fins indicate that it is allied, rather, to the perch. But, by any name, it provides superlative food.

There's no mistaking the identity of the fish, for being a nocturnal feeder, nature has endowed him with huge "wall eyes" with milky-white rims and enormous capacity for gathering light to enable him to see minnows or other food on the darkest night.

Pickerel is distributed over wide areas of Ontario from the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes to some far northern streams and lakes. One of the best pickerel lakes in the Province, according to officials of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department, is Lake Nipissing.

Nowhere, perhaps, is the fishing keener that at North Bay. There, a dock, only a few blocks from City Hall, is crowded on opening day and for weeks afterwards with fishermen of all ages and varieties. They all catch fish, too.

Usually, there isn't much trick to it. A bamboo pole, short line, single hook and live minnows will take plenty. So will fly-fishing equipment or bait rods using plugs, spoons, spinners or live bait.

Handline fishing is popular on rivers such as the St. Clair, where patient fishermen "chug" for the fish. By this method, a heavy sinker is placed on the bottom of the line with the hook suspended several feet above it. Boats are allowed to drift while the fisherman simply "sounds" the bottom and waits.

While the pickerel may be found in shallow, fast-running streams in some parts of the province, it occasions little surprise when a lake trout fisherman, using copper line and a bait dragging 100 feet down, picks up a pickerel.

The fish i s easily filleted and skinned. Usually fried in deep fat, after being dipped in flour or cornmeal, the white, flaky meat falls apart at the touch of a fork or the fingers.

Size limit on pickerel is 13 inches, measured from the tip of the snout to the centre of the posterior edge of the tail. Anglers are allowed to take six per day with not more than 12 being in his possession at any time.

This limit is regarded as generous enough since the average pickerel caught probably weighs anywhere from a pound and a half to two pounds. One of the largest pickerel ever caught in Ontario reputedly weighed 19¾ pounds. It was taken by Miss Hazel Griffin, Akron, Ohio, in Deep Bay near Parry Sound.

Weekly Farm Report For Dundas County

Cool, wet, weather has hampered field work except for some of the higher regions of the County. Pastures and new seedings need warmth and sunshine in order to begin growth. Orchardists are handicapped, somewhat, in their spraying, due to very soft ground. Trees wintered well and there is no damage, of any account, reported, from mice and rabbits. A delayed dormant spray is being applied by most growers at the present time.

Live stock, particularly milch cows, are all stabled as yet and will be until the weather improves. Cheese factories are running to capacity as more milk has been diverted from condenseries. Cattle buyers have been a little more active in the County this week but prices are far from encouraging. Swinemen are encouraged by the recent strengthening of the hog market but should be cautioned about rushing back into the pig business. Favourable hog prices are not likely to last past September.

The Chesterville Tractor Club was organized with 25 members joining the club. Officers for the club elected for the year are: President, Gerald Fawcett, Winchester; vice-president, Newman Smith, Crysler; secretary-treasurer, Malcolm Arbuthnot, of Russell. The club leader for this club is Carmen Swerdfeger, Morewood. Other 4-H Clubs being organized in the near future are the Dundas Grain Club, which is holding its organization meeting at the Hallville Continuation School on May 7th; the Chestervlle Poultry Club, in the Library, Chesterville, May 11th; Mountain Junior and Senior Calf Clubs and Mountain Swine Club, South Mountain High School, May 12th; the Chesterville Calf Club in the Chesterville High School on May 13th.

District Directors Stormont District W.I. Meet at Finch

The annual district director's meeting of Stormont District Women's Institute was held in Finch Commun ity Hall with all 14 branches of the county represented.

The president, Mrs. E. L. Filion, Avonmore, presided and Mrs. G. MacLean, of Finch, acted as secretary-treasurer. The treasurer's report showed a successful year.

Several resignations were dealt with and the nominating committee prepared a new slate of officers to be installed at the district annual meeting which will be held at Eamer's Corners on May 25. Cornwall Centre Women's Institute will be host to the Stormont district ladies. Dinner will be served in the Cornwall Centre Township Hall. The speaker for the meeting will be Miss Nora Creyke, of the Ontario eDpartment of Agriculture, Toronto.

At the close of the meeting a lunch was served by Mrs. H. MacMonagle, Miss Nell Gillies, Mrs. J. H. Ouderkirk and Mrs. Donald Casselman, of the Finch Women's Institute.

No Wonder

They were discussing girls.

"How is it, Bill, that you on so well with the girls?"

"Easy," was the reply. "Try flattery. For instance, the girl I was with last night got a fly in her eye. I said, 'I can't see how it could miss such big eyes as yours.' After that I had her eating out of my hand."

A few days later—"H'm, I don't think much of your flattery stunt. I tried it, but it didn't come off."

"What happened?"

"Why, the girl I was with got a fly in her mouth."

Stormont H.S. Area Reduces Levy by $30,768

At a special meeting the Stormont District High School Area Board adopted their 1953 budget and levied $98,000 upon the municipalities in their area, as compared with $129, 676 in 1952. An estimated decrease in administration costs, professional fees, and transportation are the reasons for the lower levy.

Tuition fees, transportation and teacher's salaries are the largest items in this year's budget. Tuiton fees were received amounting to $49,644.67 for Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School; $238.78 for Morrisburg High School; $2,129.71 for St. Lawrence High School; 715,367.22 for 1949, 1950 and 1951 for the Glengarry High School Area. The estimate for salaries has been increased while the transportation estimate has been reduced.

The 1953 equalized assessment of the Stormont Area is -8,885,319 as compared with $10,202,910 in 1952. This reduction is caused by the loss of part of Roxborough township to the newly formed Maxville Area.

This year part of the board's legislative grant will go to the Maxville area according to the enrolment of Roxborough pupils in Maxville and the enrolment in the Stormont area.

The estimates are as follows: Instruction, $63,000; instructional supplies, $1,000; administration, $7,360; plant operation, -11,200; repairs and renewals, $3,000; auxiliary agencies, $2,000; transportation, $50,000; tuition fees, 58,000 and capital outlay, $5,000. It is expected that the legislative grant will amount to $100,000; county grant to $660, and other revenue $1,000.

Diking Along Seaway Seen to be Impractible

Prospects of saving villages along the St. Lawrence Seaway by diking were given a sharp set-back last week by Chairman Robert Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Recently Hydro engineers have been studying the possibility of erecting dikes along certain sections of the river bank which have been marked for flooding. This would mean certain towns and villages such as Morrisburg would not have to be destroyed if and when the St. Lawrence project goes through.

The studies haven't been encouraging, however, according to Mr. Saunders. He said that while they are continuing it didn't look as though diking would be feasble.

The proposal for diking goes back as far as 1932. In the agreement signed that year between Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Premier Geo. S. Henry it was provided for. It hasn't been proposed in recent agreements.

Even in 1932 not all communities along the route would have been saved. Iroquois and six other towns would have been completely submerged, as they will under the present plan.

Mr. Saunders wouldn't elaborate, pending a full report, why the diking was impractical but presumably it is because of high cost, for both construction and maintenance.

Upkeep of huge levies, similar to those along the Mississippi, which were envisioned would have been very substantial. They would also be open to flood danger.

The present programme calls for moving whole communities holus-bolus back from the flooded areas to higher ground.

One-third of Morrisburg will be submerged if this plan goes through. The new power pool for the Hydro part of the project will be smack in the centre of the present business district.

Large sections of Highway 2 and the Montreal-Toronto line will also be under water. It is understood both the railway and Ontario Department of Highways have been holding off final plans for new construction pending a final decision on diking.

Under the proposal there would have been a dual-lane highway running along the top of the dikes with much of the railway line protected by them.

What to Look For In Seed Grain

The most essential factors to be looked for in seed grain are adaptability, vitality and purity, advises H. A. Riordon, Assistant Technician, at the Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S.

The variety should be one which is recommended for the district concerned, he says.

It is important to use seed which has high germination, and proper management on the part of the grower is extremely important. Immature grain often heats and moulds in storage, thus lowering germination and such grain should not be used for seed purposes. Underdeveloped, diseased or frosted kernels also germinate poorly and should be removed. Modern seed cleaning equipment is available in most areas and capable of removing most of the undesirable kernels, straw and weeds.

It is a wise practice to select the best area in the field for the next year's seed grain. The shredded seed crop should be given storage preference.

When purchasing seed grain every effort should be made to obtain the best grade available. The small extra cost insures a much higher quality seed.

Wise and experienced growers find little fault with the statement that "The crop which is harvested will be no better than the seed which is sown."

GALLINGERTOWN

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. George Gow, Dawn and Connie, to the vicinity. Mr. Gow has purchased the farm formerly occupied by John McNairn.

Darwin Weegar, Athens, spent Saturday with friends here.

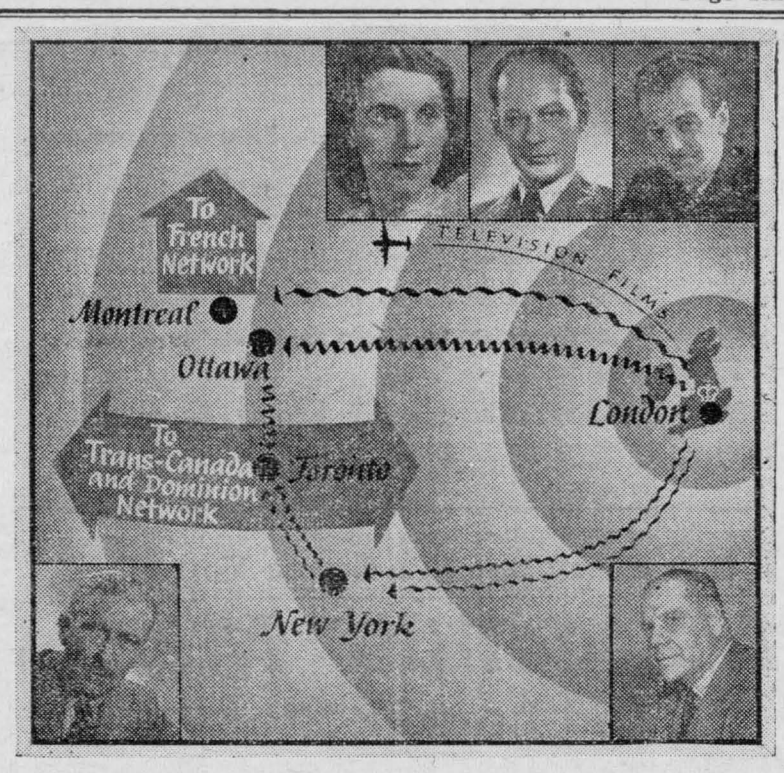
Mr. and Mrs. Olin Ault, Colquhoun, were guests on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. David Alguire.



By means of radio, millions of listeners in Canada will be following the Coronation parade along its route, as well as the service in Westminster Abbey.

Here's how these broadcasts will be relayed to listeners here: Three transmissions of the same programme—but on different frequencies—will be shortwaved by the BBC from London as the historic event takes place. One of these will be picked up by the CBC shortwave receiver near Ottawa, and the other two from New York. They will then be relayed to Toronto, from where the broadcast will be fed to the CBC networks. Toronto will have a choice of using the best of the three transmissions, and can switch from one to the other wave length, thereby assuring best possible reception for listeners in Canada.

In addition, a French-language broadcast of the event will be beamed directly to Montreal for distribution to the CBC's French network; moving picture films will be flown over, to be televised by the Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal TV stations. The upper insets (left to right) the CBC French network commentators, Judith Jasmin, Rene Levesque and Gerard Arthur.

CBC personnel who will help arrange and broadcast the Coronation for English-speaking listeners will be (bottom left and right) A. E. Powley, Supervisor of Special Events and Capt. W. E. S. Briggs, who will do a commentary from inside Westminster Abbey.

MLA SUPPORTS CHEESEMAKERS AT WINCHESTER SPRINGS

Embattled cheesemakers, faced with the closing of the Daisy Cheese Factory, at Winchester Springs, were promised the support of their MLA, Hon. George Challies.

Mr. Challies, MLA for Dundas-Grenville and vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro, told a delegation that he considered "unreasonable" the action of the provincial Department of Health in ordering the factory closed by May 15th.

He promised to do all in his power to prevent the closing.

Cecil McIntosh, spokesman for the cheesemen, pointed out that his production last year had received a high 98.5 per cent rating. He admitted that the factory building was old, but said that its age was not detrimental to the production of cheese there.

Revised regulations of the Department of Health were what led to the closing order issued by Frank Robinson, chief cheese inspector at Kemptville.

The factory's proximity to a barn and some unsatisfactory drainage conditions were among the specific reasons given for the order.

The next move, local cheesemakers expect, will come from Toronto.

JUST A LITTLE LABOUR

By Mrs. R. L. Glass

THE IDLE MAN stands outside
God's plan
Outside of His scheme of things
It's the fellow who works
For his niche in life
Who reaps the reward that it brings.

For idle hands, and idle hearts
Whatever path they have lead
Cannot feel the blessings
That come with the strife
Of earning our daily bread.

So labour long, and labour hard
And when your courage fails
Be sure to remember
God's hand's at the throttle
And His Eye is on the rails.

A poultry specialist who is an instructor in Pennsylvania State College discovered that when turkeys become inexplicably nervous and panicky there will be a storm in from twenty-four to forty-eight hours.

"Well, sir, just anybody but you."

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! Party sandwiches are like spring hats—the prettier they are, the better we like them. Yet, whether plain of fancy they should taste as good as they look—sandwiches, we mean!

You can use you fancy cookie cutters to shape open-face sandwiches. Day-old bread should be sliced about 1-3 inch thick, then spread with moist filling. Butter isn't necessary for such items as diamond shapes covered with creamy, chopped-egg filling and garnished with 3 crisp radish slices. Two toppings for star-shaped pieces are lobster paste with the edges dipped in minced parsley; the second idea might be creamy cheese garnished with a slice of olive. Round pieces of buttered bread usually sport a slice of tomato with a dab of mayonnaise and a tiny sprig of parsley or a slice of cooked egg and then a slice of gherkin. When the club or clover-shaped cutter is used, open a tin of chilled cranberry jelly; slice, and cut jelly with the same cutter, place on bread and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Pinwheels are easy when you slice the loaf lengthwise with a really sharp knife. Place the slice on a steaming hot, moist cloth as it is spread with peanut butter, cheese, egg or ground ham filling. At one end place a row of stuffed olives or a quarter of a banana or small gherkin; then roll up and place each roll in a square of wax paper and wrap. Slice at serving time. Another idea is the placement of carrot or gherkin match-size pieces at 2-inch intervals on the filling, then roll up and chill.

Ever make checkerboards? The best filling is creamy cheese—plain, relish or pimento. Cut day-old bread almost ½-inch thick (two slices white, two slices brown) trim, then put alternate slices of brown and white bread together with cream cheese, to make ribbon sandwiches. For checkerboards, pile 4 ribbon sandwiches together so a brown strip lies over a white one. Spread with cheese filling again. Wrap in wax paper and chill before slicing. These, too, should be sliced just at serving time.

Be sure to make roll-ups which are easily stored in crisping pan and ready to place on serving plate. Start with a thin square of fresh bread, place pieces on steaming, damp cloth and spread each with butter, creamy cheese or margarine. Roll around a stalk of cooked asparagus or a pencil-size piece of tinted pineapple. Secure each with a toothpick. For calla lilies, fold opposite corners over slivers of green pepper. Press overlapping edges firmly together.

Toasted bites are either served on broiled pieces of bread or in bouchee shells. On strips of toast (1"x3") or shells, use creamed shrimp, hot cheese, chopper beans and bacon or chicken a la king filling. Perhaps theplain sandwich of squares of bread with lots of filling is the favourite and of course there's no waste. Even caterers are leaving crusts on rye or caraway seed bread served at parties. Various fillings include grated raw carrot and marmalade, dates and peanut butter, ham tuna, minced weiners, cooked sausages, egg and ripe olives, sardines and cooked liver with chives. All mixtures should be chopped or ground, moistened with mayonnaise or French dressing and seasoned with salt and pepper.

TAKE A TIP

1. If you cannot buy day-old bread for rolled sandwiches, chill the loaves in the refrigerator for 2 hours.
2. Buy well-shaped loaves of bread, slice using see-saw motion.
3. Line up slices of bread, in pairs, on cleared work space. Use butter or margarine that has been creamed well, using a wooden spoon. Spread all slices of bread for one kind of filling at one time.
4. Prepare sandwich fillings in advance. Spread fillings to the edge using a spatula.
5. Stack 2 or 3 sandwiches and cut them all at once with a sharp bread knife.
6. Wrap several sandwiches together but do not mix flavoured ones to prevent odours for mingling.

Favourite Fillings

Chicken Salad: Combine 1 cup of chopped chicken, ¼ cup chopped celery, ¼ tsp. salt and 2½ tbsps. mayonnaise. Makes 1¼ cups.

Pear-Shrimp: Combine 1 cup minced canned pears, 2 cups chopped shrimps, ¼ cup lemon juice and 1 cup mayonnaise. Makes 4 cups.

Apricot-Walnut: Put through food chopper 1 cup dried (pliable) apricots, ½ cup walnuts and moisten with ½ cup mayonnaise. Makes 1½ cups.

Orange Cheese: Mash ½ lb. cottage cheese with ¼ cup orange juice. Add 1 tbsp. grated orange rind and 1 tbsp. slivered, candied peel.

Milk is Essential In Maintaining Health

Do you and your family drink enough milk?

There is evidence that Grade Six students don't, and as that is the age when they tend to change from the pattern of eating used in early life and turn to the foods eaten by their parents, it looks as though the parents are not setting as good an example as they might.

Miss Elaine Found, Home Economist with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, reports that a survey was recently undertaken to study the food intake of Grade Six children in Toronto. As one result, it was discovered that one-quarter of "Grade Sixers" do not get enough milk.

While most adults understand the need for milk during growth in order to form strong bones and teeth, a great many do not realize that adults need calcium too. After bone growth has ceased it is necessary to drink at least one glass of milk a day to keep the bone structure in good healthy condition.

When one considers the enormous amount of other foods that would be required to supply the calcium contained in four glasses of milk—7 pounds of cabbage or carrots, 28 oranges, 39 eggs or 27 pounds of potatoes—it can readily be seen that only an elephant could get its supply of calcium in that manner. Also, consider the difference in price between a quart of milk and 39 eggs!

Children are great imitators, usually liking to eat that for which a parent has an expressed preference. In addition, they often refuse to eat anything that is not enjoyed by the parent.

Canada's Food Rules state that a half pint of milk a day is the minimum for an adult; at least one pint for children under twelve and one and one-half pints for teenagers. So, if parents set a good example, drink their milk and remark on how good it tastes, children will be much more likely to drink at least the required amount without any fuss.

Milk is good and good for you. Make a point of drinking your share daily.

PAINTING WOODWORK

An average room's woodwork if unpainted would require ½ gallon of undercoat with ½ pint of turpentine added. The second coat would take ½ gallon of semi-gloss with ½ pint of boiled linseed oil or ½ pint of good varnish added. If the paint is white, use turpentine in place of varnish or linseed oil. Better than any of the above as a thinner, is enamel oil.

How to Know Good Paint

First deal with a well-advertised brand, one that has established a name for itself. Cheap paint is poor economy. Good paint costs about $6.50 per gallon. It has good body, looks about $5.50 per gallon. Enamels will cost more, from about $8.00 per gallon up.

Equipment You Need

Buy a good horse hair brush. If the job you propose to do includes windows or furniture, buy a one-inch brush, a two-inch and three-inch brush. The toal cost will be six or seven dollars, but you can keep them for the next job.

Prepare the Room

Do a clean job! Start by laying papers or drop sheets around the edges of your room, (if doing woodwork or walls). When you dip your brush in, develop the habit of tapping both sides of the brush on sides of the can, the face of the brush against the side it faces. This is simple and easy and saves drippings all over the floor, and all over you. To paint ceilings and inside top of cupboards, cut an old rubber ball or tennis ball in half and push handle of brush through it, cup side toward the brush. It will catch all the drippings that might land on you.

Preparing Woodwork

Shrunken boards must be replaced, knot holes filled and bad knots covered with white shellac. Projecting nail heads should be driven in flush. Outside woodwork which is badly weathered should be given a coat of raw linseed oil before painting. Inside walls or woodwork which is porous, (new plaster, plaster board, beaver board) needs a coat of size. It is easy to apply and well worth the trouble. Most paint companies also put out a wall sealer which is good. Any loose paint should be removed and all rough or hard surfaces (crystallized varnish) should be removed by sandpapering.

How to Paint a Window

Start at the edge nearest the glass and work toward the casing. Then paint the head and bring paint down casing, doing the apron underneath the window last of all.

Organize Your Painting

Another important tip from our friend the professional painter, is to keep your work organized! If you're doing a baseboard paint it from one end to the other. Don't stop half way and let part of it dry. The join will always show.

CHEAPER CUTS OF MEAT AS GOOD AS STEAKS

There is good news for the budget-minded in the statement that the food value of cheaper cuts of meat is just as high as that of the more expensive ones. Miss Florence Swan, nutritionist in the Maternal and Child Health Division, New Brunswick Department of Health, is authority for the statement. She says that meat offers one of the best opportunities homemakers have of saving pennies by wise shopping.

"All muscle meats have practically the same nourishing qualities, the advantage, if any, being in favour of the less tender cuts," advises Miss Swan. "Such cuts may be made tender and tempting by slow cooking and combining with vegetables and seasonings in casseroles, meat loaves, meat pies, and the like. If cooked in these ways, a small amount of inexpensive meat will satisfy the family appetite and help reduce meat bills."

The New Brunswick nutritionist recommends such cuts as chuck breast of veal, shoulder of lamb, chopped meat, and stew from the neck and shank. With the exception of chopped meat, these all need slow cooking; and this may appear to be a problem to women who work and reach home just before the dinner hour. Miss Swan suggests that in such house holds, provided there is refrigeration, meat requiring longer cooking can be partially cooked the preceding day and then given its final cooking a short time before eating.

"Soups and stews are popular, but while they save time and work, they have disadvantages," adds Miss Swan. "They usually contain meat with considerable fat, and vegetables cooked with fat are not suitable for children. Vegetables cooked in this way are often overcooked with unnecessary destruction of vitamins. And there is the further point that the quantity of vegetables per person is usually less than a serving of vegetables cooked by themselves."

Another way to keep meat bills small is to plan the week's menu with meat on three of four days, fish at least once, and eggs, legumes (beans or peas), or cheese at least once. Nuts also may replace meat to a certain extent.

Final Tribute Paid Late Jeremiah Presley

Mr. Jeremiah Presley, a former resident of the Melvin Settlement, passed away at the Brockville General Hospital on Saturday, in his 84th year. He had been confined to hospital for ten days prior to his death, during which time he underwent a major operation.

Born at Pendleton, Ont., the deceased was a son of the late Samuel Presley and his wife, Mary Storey. As a young man was employed by the CN and for several years was Station Agent at Casselman, Ont. In 1936 he decided to take up farming and, with his family, settled on a farm in the Melvin Settlement, where he remained until eight years ago, when he retired and took up residence in the village of Newington. In religion he was a Presbyterian.

The late Mr. Presley is survived by his wife, the former Martha Baker, whom he married 55 years ago; one brother, Dan, who resides in the U.S.; six sons, Lyle, Nanton, Alta; Willard and Ernest, Newington; Clarence, of Winchester; Clinton, Brockville, and Earl, of Russell; two daughters, Mrs. Johnston Stewart (Mabe), of Massena, N.Y., and Mrs. Bernice Ouderkirk (Myrtle), of Crysler. Another daughter, Mrs. Frank Carruthers (Nelda), predeceased him several years ago.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from the residence to Newington United Church, where service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Smith, assisted by Rev. Mr. McCorriston, of Newington Wesleyan Methodist Church. A solo, "In the Garden," was sung by Mr. Willis Waldroff, with Mr. T. Teddick presiding at the organ. The congregational hymns were "Abide With Me" and "Rock of Ages."

Following the service, interment was made at Hillcrest Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. John Rutley, Kenneth Snetsinger, Gordon McGregor, Melvin Duff, Josh. Rupert and Willard Werely.

The many beautiful floral tributes were evidence of the high esteem and respect in which the late Mr. Presley was held by a wide circle of friends.

OSCULATION LEADS TO PRISON

Emil Benocci, 24, lodged an appeal against the 18 months imprisonment a court gave him for stealing a kiss from a girl in a country lane.

He knew the girl slightly, asked her for a kiss last week, and was refused. He kissed her anyway and she told.

A man should never be ashamed to own he has been wrong, which is but saying that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.—Pope.
