

Library And Community Centre In Arena Being Studied As Centennial Project

Glengarry Gardens, complete with library and other community centre facilities, is being considered as a centennial project for Alexandria by town council.

Information on possible grants under the centennial legislation, the Community Centres Act, the recreation program, the public library legislation and other possible avenues, is now being correlated and Councillor Jean Paul Touchette was authorized at the last meeting of council to investigate further and report back to council.

Visualized is the purchase of the arena from the present owners as a community centre. The area over the front entrance, measuring 110x30 feet, would be transformed into a hall and public library.

Under the plan, too, a qualified recreation director would be engaged on a year-round basis with activities centred in the Gardens through the winter; on the park and in the arena in summer.

Town Council has not yet received an official offer for sale of Glengarry Gardens but we understand the present owners have agreed among themselves to sell to the municipality at a price of $50,000, of which $10,000 would be payable on purchase. The balance might be spread over a period of years and at least partly met through grants. Also unofficially word that after a deficit year the Gardens' directors had definitely decided not to re-open the arena this year.

Representatives of council have conferred with centennial officials and have been assured grants would be available for such a project. Similar clearance has been secured from Toronto, we understand.

Louis Poirier, of Ottawa, area director of the Community Program Branch of the Ontario Government, was here last week to confer with council and members of the Park and Recreation Committee. He outlined grants that would be available under a year-round recreation program and with a community centre set-up.

When all information on grants and estimated costs of operation have been received council will further consider the matter.

Too-Short Shorts Cause Of Complaint

Short shorts worn on Alexandria's streets brought a protest from local citizens who approached town council at last week's meeting. Rolland Lapierre and Bruno Levert were present to protest against the wearing by women of shorts on town streets.

In the resulting discussion some members of council agreed that some of the shorts worn rated a protest. The delegation was told their complaint would be forwarded to the police commission for possible action by that body.

Charlottenburgh To Vote On Sunday Sports

Charlottenburgh Township voters will go to the polls Monday, August 17th to decide the question of Sunday sports.

The necessary by-law was approved by township council at a meeting last night and the question to be decided will read:

"Are you in favor of public games and sports on the Lord's Day, to be regulated by municipal by-law under authority of the Lord's Day (Ontario) Act?"

Sunday movies and other entertainment were legalized in 1961 but the vote did not cover the question of Sunday sports.

At last night's meeting, council also named members of the Charlottenburgh Planning Area Board. Approval has been received from the Department of Municipal Affairs and Dr. E. G. Faludi and associates have been hired as planning consultants.

Named to the board are: MacRae, Williamstown; Herbert Johnston, of the Edo plant; Harold Farlinger, Cornwall; Roger Roy, Glen Roy, Mrs. Dorothy Nicholson, Martintown and Laurent Benoit Summerstown. Representatives from council will be George Shoniker, Raymond Filion and Reeve Archibald MacDonell.

At a recent conference with officials of the Department of Highways, council asked some $25,000 for repair of damage to township roads caused by hauling for Highway 401 construction. Approval is expected for immediate steps to return these roads to "as good or better than they were before 401 construction started."

Home From Hospital

Albert Faubert, 3rd Kenyon farmer and auctioneer, returned home Monday from Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, where he was treated for a badly bruised arm, suffered in a fall on his farm the previous Wednesday.

Mr. Faubert was doing rip-rap work on a culvert over a drain on his farm when he fell six feet while carrying a stone. He was treated at the office of Dr. George V. McDonald, Apple Hill, before being conveyed to hospital.

NEW RESEARCH FARM NEAR ST. JUSTINE — Something new just beyond Glengarry's eastern border is the big Research Farm erected near St. Justine, Que., by Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison, Ltd.

First of a series of buildings eventually to be erected on the Company's holding, this elaborate kennel will house 350 purebred beagles for purposes of research.

As Many As 30 Bands May Be Massing At Maxville For Highland Games

Two Orchestras For Armouries Revival

Dancing in the Alexandria Armouries is being revived with a bang on the eve of the Glengarry Highland Games. Two orchestras will be playing for dancing, one tuned to the twist tempo, the other for the more sedate adults.

Alexandria Board of Trade is sponsoring this revival of the Armouries dances of old. Proceeds are for its hospital fund.

Maxville Sets Tax Rates

Property owners of the Village of Maxville will receive 1964 tax notices before the end of July, based on rates set by Council at a meeting held in June. Taxes are payable in two instalments, due August 31 and December 31, with a discount of 4% allowed if both instalments are paid before August 31.

School rates for high and public schools remain the same as in 1963 while separate school rates are reduced 2 mills from last year. The county rate levy is reduced three-tenths of a mill and the street light levy increased by one-tenth.

The rate to cover general debenture payments is lower by 1.3 mills than last year as final payments on debentures issued in 1953 to pay for fire equipment were made in 1963. However, decreases in other levies were offset by an increase of over 2 mills in the rate to cover general village expenditures. Resulting totals show an increase of one mill in total tax rate for public school supporters and a decrease of one mill for separate school supporters, as compared with 1963 rates.

Tax rates for this year are as follows: Public School Residential—64.2 mills; Public School Commercial, 72.1 mills; Separate School Residential, 66.8 mills and Separate School Commercial, 75.0 mills.

Lawn Parties Drew Many

Lawn parties were popular last week as both Alexandria curlers and Lions held gatherings at area farm homes.

The curlers and friends gathered Wednesday night at the Green Valley home of Past President Jos. Filion and Mrs. Filion for a cook-out and dancing.

Saturday night members of the Lions Club held their annual summer steak dinner at Highland Chief Farm, 3rd Kenyon. Members, their wives and friends, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Angus H. MacDonell.

Toronto Beautician Won $1000.

Miss Leah Lefebvre, a beauty parlor operator in Toronto, won the big prize — $1,000 in cash — at last night's K of C Social which reportedly was most successful. Miss Lefebvre is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lefebvre, Alexandria.

Other major prize winners were: $200 — Miss Norma Henri, Green Valley; $100 — Mrs. Valerie LeCuyer, Dalkeith; $50 — Miss Madeleine Seguin, Dalkeith; Lawn table and umbrella — Adelard Sauve, Alexandria.

Sellers of winning tickets, each netting $25, were Mrs. Dan Lajoie, Alexandria; Mrs. Rheal Henri, Green Valley; R. Seguin, Dalkeith.

Glengarry Survey 'All Lies' Kitchener Hears From Apple Hill

The Ottawa Citizen sent a reporter into Apple Hill last week and its page spread of reaction to the local reference in the agricultural survey tabled in the Commons recently has been picked up by the Canadian Press and given wide notoriety.

A clipping from Saturday's Kitchener Record has reached us. It carries a three-column head "Glengarry Survey 'All Lies'". The story is a summary of The Citizen article which quotes several village and area residents, resentful of the "unprosperous" appellation given their area in the survey.

This is what readers of the Kitchener paper got from the Canadian Press report dated Apple Hill:

A survey on agriculture in Eastern Canada, tabled in the House of Commons recently, described this Glengarry County hamlet as unprosperous, and the 400 citizens of the community don't like it one bit.

"It's a pack of lies," declared Albert Dancause, 70, who is regarded as the village mayor, although he is simply secretary of the governing board of trustees.

"It's nothing but rotten propaganda. They've got their facts all twisted. No prosperity? Well I don't mind telling you my family has been in business here since 1889 and we still have to take the first man before the courts for a bad debt."

A school teacher branded as "ridiculous" the report's statement that "the educational level of many of the people is so low it is doubtful if they could be trained for skilled employment."

"You'd think the government was talking about Dogpatch," the teacher said.

"I'll admit I've had a few dull students. But I've taught school in many rural areas and the children of Apple Hill are no worse than the average."

Old Round Church Gets New Roof

Dalhousie Mills United Church, the old round church, is now in the process of being re-roofed in tin. The contract was let to Jack Gallant, of Cornwall's City Steeplejack, Reg'd.

The old steeple of the church was removed some 10 years ago and the Board of Stewards is planning to put up a new spire.

Accident Victim Died In Hospital

Daniel J. Deduc, 83, of St. Eugene died in Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, of injuries suffered July 17 when he was struck by a car in St. Eugene.

Mr. Deduc sustained a fractured hip and pelvis and severe facial lacerations when knocked down by a car driven by Mrs. Marie Claire Clement of RR 2, St. Eugene.

The accident occurred late in the evening as Mr. Deduc was walking across the highway in front of his home.

TO BE 90 FRIDAY

Mrs. Annie E. Kinkade will celebrate her 90th birthday on July 24. Before coming to live with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Douglas MacMillan, Glen Sandfield, Ont. 16 years ago, she spent her life at Kenmore, Ont., marrying there and raising four sons and a daughter — Wallace of Des Plaines, Illinois, deceased, Edmund of Kenmore, deceased, Charles of Detroit, Morgan and Anne of Glen Sandfield. Her husband died on Oct. 11, 1920. She enjoys very good health for her age, still participating in household chores. Although her hearing and eyesight have failed, she can still read the daily paper and favourite magazines.

Car Wrecked By Big Transport

A 1964 Ford station wagon owned by Michael Barbara was left a complete loss, Tuesday, when struck by a transport on Main Street. There were no injuries.

A Roy Duncan Transport truck was proceeding north on Main about 2.25 during a fall of rain. The empty trailer skidded to the right striking the station wagon which was standing in front of the Barbara store. It was jammed into a telephone post. The truck's undercarriage was also damaged.

Over-80's At Kirk Hill Met

The 83rd birthday of R. J. MacLeod, Kirk Hill, on Monday was the occasion for a gathering of five over-80's who have lived all their lives on the lots where they were born, within a three-mile area in the 7th concession of Lochiel.

A Boer War veteran and a good story-teller, Donald John MacGillivray built a large number of barns in Lochiel and Kenyon in his younger days.

Johnnie Archie MacGillivray, still a football fan, played on the Kirk Hill team for a number of years, was a member in 1926 when they won the Glengarry Cup. He's also a good bass singer in the choir.

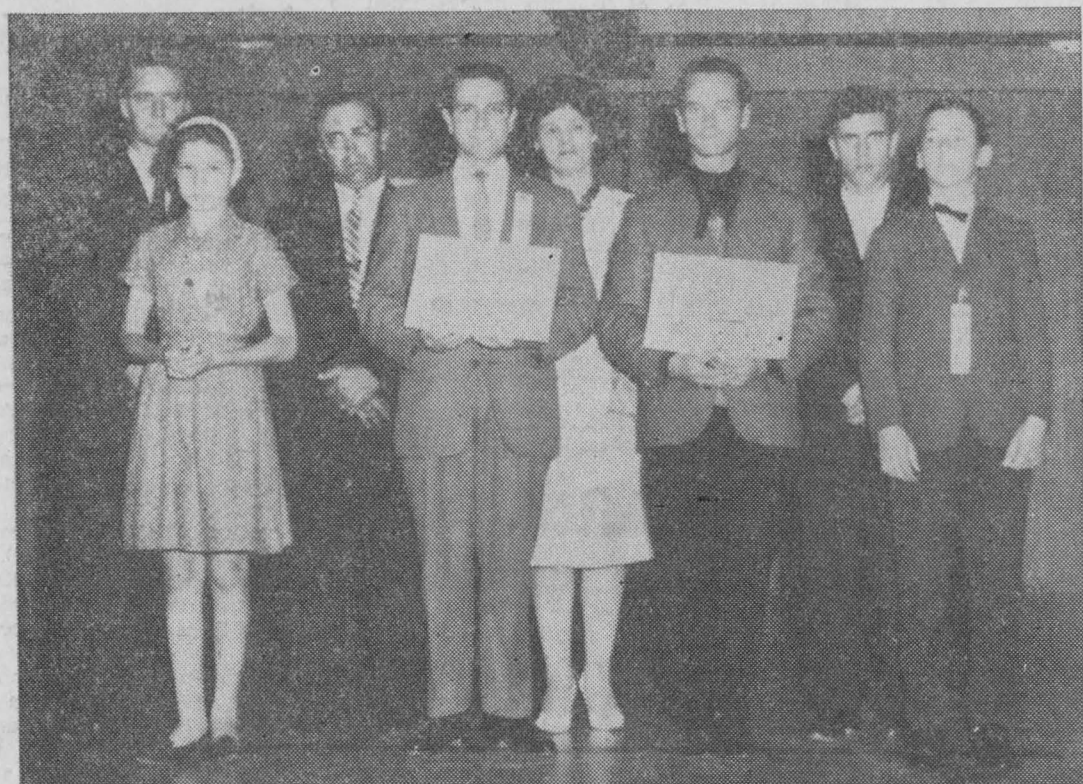

Johnnie Willie MacLeod, who served as township reeve for many years, still keeps in touch with municipal affairs.

Rod M. MacLeod has for years been making a study of the early settlers and the MacLeod clansmen who emigrated from Scotland in the 17th century.

Host R. J. MacLeod was a noted horseman. At the township plowing match in 1942 he took the prize for oldest man plowing and one for the best team.

Refreshments were served the group by Mrs. MacLeod, complete with birthday cake, and Mr. MacLeod was presented with a gift.

LACORDAIRE GROUP MET — Some 200 members of Lacordaire and St. Jeanne d'Arc in this diocese met here Sunday for their 15th annual meeting. At the Mass in Sacred Heart Church, the sermon was preached by Rev. Peter R. Quesnel, O.M.I., of the staff of Ottawa University. At the supper meeting which followed, Wilfrid Michaud, M.P. Hull, was the speaker. Ten-year diplomas were presented to Ronald Goddard, of Cryslar, and Maurice Groleau, Alexandria, centre front. Among initiates were, left to right: Albert Lafamme, Alexandria; Dianne Lafamme, Mr. and Mrs. Rocio Richer, Moose Creek; Maurice Van der Haeghe, Alexandria.

Purebred Beagles Being Raised For Research In New Plant At St Justine

The Ayerst Research Farm, soon to be completed near St. Justine de Newton, will be one of the largest and most unusual research centers of its kind in Canada.

Eventually, the hundred acres of rolling farmland will have several buildings housing a variety of animals, but the immediate objective is to build a colony of 350 dogs — all purebred beagles. The first building, now completed, will be devoted exclusively to developing a strain of animals completely free of parasites, such as intestinal worms. It is estimated that only in the third or fourth generation will the dogs be perfect enough to be moved into one of the special research areas. There they will become a vital part of the complex research program which is the basis for determining the safety of drugs for human use.

The development of a new drug may take several years; never less than two years. Pharmacological research may indicate that the drug under study has definite possibilities in the treatment of a certain condition, but regardless of how effective the drug might be in body's head. Dan Leroux Died

A successful area farmer throughout his lifetime, Daniel Leroux died Saturday, in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall. A resident of the "Little Third" Kenyon, he had been a patient in hospital for the past seven weeks. He was aged 60.

Mr. Leroux was a son of the late Charles Leroux and his wife, Mary Proulx, of the "Little Third" and was a leading Holstein breeder of the area. Active in many farm groups, he was held in high regard and leaves many friends who mourn his passing.

His wife, the former Annette Richer, survives as do one son, Charles Leroux, of Alexandria, and three grandchildren. Four brothers and two sisters also survive. Arthur, Real and Albert, 4th Kenyon; Ernest, of St. Catharines; Alice, Mrs. Neil Driscoll, of Peterborough, and Stella, Mrs. Oral Thompson, Cornwall.

The largely attended funeral was held Tuesday morning from the Marcoux & Morris Funeral Home to Sacred Heart Church and cemetery. Rev. Lionel Bourque chanted the Solemn Mass of Requiem assisted by Rev. J. P. Breton and Rev. Lionel Joyal.

The pall bearers were: Dan Gill, George Dumouchel, Amedee Seguin, Fred Decoste, Lloyd Kennedy and Arthur Carriere.

Relatives and friends were present from Peterborough, St. Catharines, Valleyfield, Kingston, Montreal, Cornwall and area points.

Girl Injured When Cars Crashed

Marian McDonald, 17, of Williamstown, suffered knee and back injuries, not thought serious, when the car in which she was riding struck another on Main Street South, Tuesday evening.

According to Constable Bernard King, the girl's mother, Mrs. Anna M. McDonald, of Williamstown, was driving north when a second car driven by J. Rene Lavigne, RR 1, Lancaster, attempted to turn off the street into the McRae Service Station. Lavigne was not injured in the resulting crash.

Miss McDonald was attended by Dr. J. R. Lacroix in his office before being conveyed to hospital in Cornwall for further treatment.

Some Evidence Of Army Worms

Evidence of army worms in area grain and corn crops is beginning to be seen, according to J. Y. Humphries, ag. rep. Several fields in the Laggan area show signs of infestation, he reports, but not to severe proportions except in one instance.

Farmers should be on the watch for infestation, he warns.

IT'S OUR OPINION

We're Asking For Our Own Goldwater

Nomination of Senator Barry Goldwater to lead the Republican Party into the presidential election, has the U. S. press in something of a tizzy. His nomination is being viewed with alarm, too, throughout the Western democracies and we get the picture of a lightweight who, if he ever reached the White House, would have the world teetering always on the brink of all-out war.

The selection of Senator Goldwater by the GOP convention is seen in the U.S. as marking the capture of control of that party by mid-West and Western elements from the Eastern capitalists who had always dominated. They are reportedly far right in their thinking, cool to civil rights' legislation, against over-centralization of government in Washington, avowed champions of a get-tough policy toward Moscow.

The success of Mr. Goldwater seems to indicate that there is a large body of public opinion in the U.S. that is becoming increasingly disenchanted with give-away government, deficit financing and centralization of too much power in the federal administration.

A similar state of thought might be found widespread in Canada if the people were given a choice at election time; if, for example, the Conservative Party returned to policies less socialist in concept. It may take a Goldwater in Canadian politics to call a halt to give-away government.

Short Shot At Short Shorts

The policeman's lot is not a happy one, according to Gilbert and Sullivan. But they composed their light operas in a day when Victorian ladies went well covered by layers of ankle-length skirts.

They probably did not foresee a day of Long Johns and Slim Jims and short, short shorts, not to mention the threat of a topless bikini. When they wrote of the policeman's lot they probably did not visualize a situation, as in Alexandria today, where our own cops are being asked to check up on too-short shorts.

What an opportunity is being given our constabulary to scan these scanties, to size up thighs; and all in the line of duty. Where the man in the street is supposed to be a gentleman and avert his eyes after but a brief peep at those briefs, our cops are being ordered to take a close-up. Is that not a happy lot of looking?

Some Acres Might Be Better Under Trees

In this issue we reprint a Canadian Press story on the findings of a farm survey by two Winnipeg economists who were commissioned by the former Conservative government to make a study of the Canadian farm economy. It is of special interest in Glengarry due to the fact our own Loch Garry area is one of the examples given of a low-income, depressed area which calls for massive government assistance under such a plan as ARDA.

We have not read the complete report and perhaps a study of it in its entirety would provide a warmer understanding of the thinking of these Winnipeg economists. This interpretation by the Canadian Press gives us the impression of a cold, impersonal scrutiny by efficiency experts, so-called, who are totally lacking in the humanities.

They seem to rate the farm only by its annual monetary earnings; would define any farm grossing less than $2,500 as sub-standard. They see these poorer farms as rural slums of tomorrow, a refuge for people who will not "make the difficult adjustments demanded in industrial employment and urban living." (The quotes are from the Canadian Press story and not necessarily verbatim from the report submitted on the survey.)

There may be a germ of truth in some of these evaluations if one looks at the farm scene from the lofty perch of a planner in government who finds human nature posing obstacles to his nice, neat planning for heaven on earth. This report notes that one farm policy cannot be devised to meet the needs of all and it goes on to say that "the small low-income farmer is frustrating the policies and the programs of the Department of Agriculture that are designed for the commercial farmer."

This is where we gagged, and almost sobbed for the poor, frustrated brain-trusters in the Department of Agriculture, whose plans are being stymied by unco-operative fellow countrymen. This, no doubt, is the verbiage that led Agriculture Minister Harry Hays to emphasize that this was not the view of the present government; that this survey had been instituted by the former Conservative administration. This is a mere political by-play and but points up the fact that no matter the party in power we pawns are being moved by the same set of planners, safely ensconced in their ivory towers at Ottawa and Toronto, far above the madding throng.

The farmer who is not astute enough, or lacking in capital, to earn enough to be classed commercial must be removed from the land, where he complicates farm planning. Let him take his family to the city, even though it add to the relief rolls, be totally unsuited to urban absorption. That may pose a problem for other bureaucrats planning for the age of total employment. But it removes another bit of cloudiness from the picture the farm planners are striving to promote, of Canadian agriculture ever on the move.

The farmer of today must be a businessman if he is to survive and play his part in the planned economy that will furnish tax moneys to the treasury. From there the bureaucrats can take over and fix things so everyone will be almost content, if not happy. Those whom they class as fringe farmers are perhaps taking more in welfare state benefits than they are paying into the public treasury, the source of power for the planners. And most frustrating of all, perhaps, is the fact that the fringe farmer remains a staunch small "C" conservative who values his individual rights much more than mere money.

Herded into a city's slums he may turn into a big "C" Communist. But that will be something for the Police State to cope with when dictatorship from the top has taken over from government of the people, for the people, by the people.

This we believe, and you may place us among these small "C" conservatives, whether they be small farmers, small businessmen or any other category of Canadians whose voice is becoming harder of hearing as governments grow. As we slide toward a steadily more socialist sort of government the more important it becomes that we have a brake such as is furnished by the individualists among us. And you seldom find them in the cities.

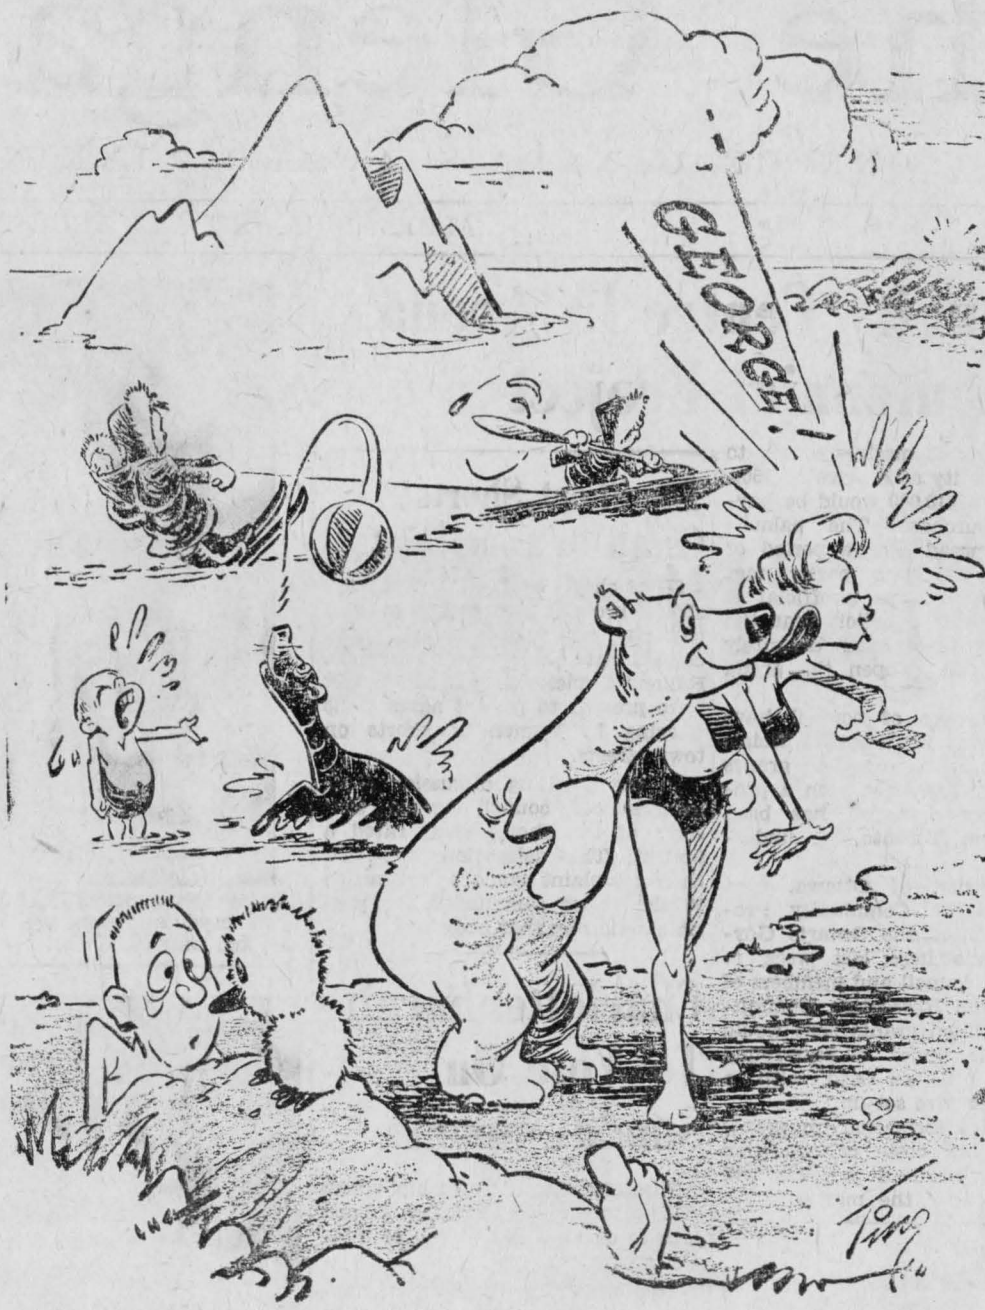

This farm survey we write of may be doing a disservice to solid thinkers in agriculture who have dreamed up the Agricultural and Rehabilitation Act. From what we know of the topography of this county and the present farm economy in much of the Loch Garry area we would agree with the Counties ARDA committee that their plan has merit. There are good farms in the district. We understand ARDA planning, these will be kept under cultivation. There are acres that might be returned to trees as a means of water conservation in an area which supplies all Glengarry's streams.

There are holdings, we hear, being bought up by slick promoters and which could ultimately serve us better if they were publicly owned. There are property owners willing to sell to such a public body as ARDA, and we are assured there will be no compulsion in acquiring lands for this conservation authority.

This being the case, if there is the promise of no compulsion on individual owners, then we favor wholeheartedly the return of unproductive land in the Loch Garry area to trees. If we are to have a summer-long flow of water to feed all of our rivers, it must be retained among the tree roots of the Loch Garry area. Many of these forest tracts fell victims to the days of depression and they should be replaced.

If ARDA is admirably adaptable to the Loch Garry area we should not let local pride or the brain-trusting of Winnipeg economists, deter us from our goal.

IF THE GREAT LAKES GET NORTHERN WATERS —

WITH OUR RAMBLING REPORTER

by Ed.

One of the few things you can still buy with a nickel is a four-cent stamp.

A STAMPEDE TO THE STAMPEDE

Fellow called us up at noon of a recent Friday to ask if we knew when the Stampede was on in Calgary. Happened we had read a few days earlier of Prime Minister Pearson opening the Stampede so we regretfully informed him Calgary's big week was all but over.

So we run in to Wallie Hope at the bank on Friday and he informs us with a grin that he's been and back. A night plane to Edmonton and a drive to Calgary got him there for the afternoon and evening closing shows of the Stampede. Then followed a few days at Edmonton's Fair.

All of which points up the fact that Canada isn't nearly as big today as it was in the horse and buggy days. It's also a reminder of that old saw —

Where there's Hope, there's life.

Kids who make their mark are a comfort to mother, as long as it's not on the parlor wallpaper.

DIN IT IN

Our Rambling, one day last week, took us some 40 miles past Montreal to the fair town of Joliette. That's not too far as the crow flies but Blackie hasn't the two-way traffic to contend with that makes even a trip to Montreal today an adventure.

There's always the chance of a one-way ride to the morgue and we were reminded of this every hour on the hour by the car radio. Seems eight people had been killed near Quebec in a two-car crash over the weekend and that news announcer was a bit short on news so he kept coming back to that ghastly wreck.

Regularly on that trip to Joliette we were reminded of the perils of highway traffic on that car radio. And it was worse on the way home. It was raining, it was dark, and we were hearing a new bit of news about every half-hour — seven more poor unfortunate had died in another two-car crash near Ingleside.

Perhaps these newscasts kept our driver honest — anyway he got us home safe.

And we came home with an idea we offer free, to the insurance companies who claim to be losing more every year on traffic accidents. They and their associates have unlimited cash and credit so it shouldn't be much of a matter for them to buy up all the radio stations.

Almost every car on the road has a radio blaring out the news, interspersed by pop music which has little or no musical merit. So the news broadcasters change the tempo a bit. They concentrate on the current highway slaughter, and once in awhile they let out with a lament or maybe a hymn such as "Nearer My God To Thee".

That way there'll be an end to this outpouring of awful singers one hears all day on the radio. And the accident rate should plummet when drivers get the message accidents are happening all the time.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS

A lady who was greatly overweight went to a doctor for advice. He studied her case and then typed out a rigid diet for her. She read it to herself — Breakfast, one slice dry toast, no butter. One leaf of lettuce, half a grapefruit, no sugar, no milk, etc. The items for lunch and supper were equally frugal, but the lady's face just beamed with pleasure, much to the doctor's surprise.

"Why, Doctor," she exclaimed. "This is simply wonderful. There's not a single item on the list that I dislike. But tell me one thing. Do I eat these before meals or after?"

A teen-age girl telephoned to the director of a summer camp for girls, to ask what activities were available. The director said: "If you give me your address I will be glad to mail you one of my brochures."

"Oh, don't go to that trouble," replied the applicant. "Mother says I'm too young to wear one!"

Afternoon Auxiliary Met

The July meeting of the Afternoon Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Maxville, was held in the schoolroom of the Church, Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Bella MacLeod had charge of the opening devotions. Her most interesting and appropriate address was based on Psalm 72. — "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the Earth."

The name of our Dominion of Canada, was inspired by its founders from this quotation. Miss MacLeod reviewed our country's progress from its days of vast wilderness, to its present greatness.

A country is what its people make it, and the home the important unit in all greatness.

She spoke of the fathers of Confederation, how they enriched the country with their devoted service of Christian Justice.

She concluded with Walter Scott's poem —

Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself has said,

This is my own my native land, etc.

Miss MacLeod then led in prayer.

The mission study lesson was given in the form of dialogue. It related a typical day with a mobile medical unit on service in the Jobat field in India. This was made interesting by the following members taking part — Mrs. McIver, Mrs. Cumming, Mrs. H. Cameron and Mrs. W. S. McLean.

Mrs. W. S. McLean presided for the business portion.

The secretary Mrs. Rod MacRae followed with minutes of previous meeting and correspondence. Members were reminded articles for sale will be received at September meeting.

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. W. S. McLean read Mrs. W. A. McEwen's report.

Lochiel Grabs Top Soccer Spot To Make Four-Team Race Of It

Ray Quesnel booted home two and Kay Hay got another last night as Lochiel beat top dog Glen Sandfield 3-0 and vaulted into first place in the Glengarry Soccer League standings.

Four teams will be fighting down to the wire from here in. Only four points separate fourth-place McCrimmon from the leading Lochiel. Cornwall meets McCrimmon Friday; Greenfield plays Glen Sandfield Saturday and it's Lochiel vs. Cornwall on Tuesday.

In recent games Greenfield beat Lochiel 2-1; McCrimmon and Glen Sandfield played to 1-1 tie; Greenfield won by default Saturday when Cornwall failed to show. Then came last night's big win for Lochiel.

The standing:

	P	W	L	T	F	A	P
Lochiel	11	7	4	0	23	11	14
Glen Sandfield	11	5	3	3	21	14	13
Greenfield	10	6	4	0	10	15	12
McCrimmon	10	4	4	2	19	9	10
Cornwall	10	1	8	1	7	30	3

Local Team Won Legion Golf

A Legion zone golf match on the local course, Saturday, saw only three teams competing when Hawkesbury's entry did not show.

Team honors went to the Alexandria foursome of Dr. Bernard Villeneuve, D. R. McDonald, Lloyd McHugh and Jean Ranger.

Individual winners were low gross: D. R. McDonald; low net: Jock Dalbec, Cornwall; consolation: Vince Barker.

Zone sports' officer H. J. Summers, of Long Sault, was in charge of arrangements.

Fishing Derby Set For Sunday

Alexandria Rod & Gun Club holds its second Fishing Derby on Sunday with weigh-in between 5 and 6 p.m. at Arthur Lauzon's boathouse, Westley's Point. There will be a trophy for largest fish and four cash prizes.

Entries should be made with Sam Brunet. Membership deadline is August 1st.

Winning Golfers

Winners of the ladies Field Day competition at the Glengarry Golf & Country Club on Monday were: Mrs. H. D. MacCuaig, Mrs. Louis Shepherd and Mrs. Lloyd McHugh.

Vankleek Hill In Girls' Softball

The girls' softball loop in Lochiel is going great guns, with an assist from a Vankleek Hill entry. That team dropped a 31-16 game to Lagan-McCrimmon's nine, Monday night, under the Lochiel lights.

Other entries are from Lochiel and Dalkeith.

Vankleek Hill Co-op is donating a trophy for the league championship.

Purebred Beagles

(Continued from Page 1) theory, it must go through lengthy testing with animals before it can be classed as suitable for human use. Selected dogs will be given the drug under carefully controlled conditions, and their reactions will be one of the key factors in determining if the drug is safe to release for clinical use.

The building is truly unique in design. Built in the form of an "H", the four wings are completely separate from each other so that each wing can be operated as an independent unit for research projects. Each wing has 30 indoor kennels with connecting outdoor run; each kennel is designed to accommodate three mature dogs or one female and a litter of pups.

STUBBORN AS A MULE — That's what Alexandria Lions and CJSJ baseballers may learn about donkeys when they try to urge them along the base paths. Don't miss the donkey baseball game in the Park, next Wednesday night.

The design of the individual kennel is the result of lengthy experience (at the Ayerst laboratories in St. Laurent) in the housing of dogs. Meticulous cleanliness being vitally essential, the concrete is specially surfaced to ensure effectiveness in cleaning, and even the sleeping platforms are of polished Arborite raised above the floor. The dogs are assured of drinking water at all times by means of a drinking valve which they themselves can operate. Access to the outside runs is by means of two doors. The inner guillotine-type door is manually operated from the building corridor, and when this inner door is raised the dog can then pass into the outside run at will through a light-weight two-way swinging panel. Heating pipes buried in the concrete floor of the outside run prevent any accumulation of snow or even water, and permit hosing down even in the coldest weather, another factor in ensuring healthy animals.

The central section of the building (the crossbar of the "H") houses the administrative offices, laboratory isolation rooms, extensive refrigeration and deep-freeze equipment, and a food processing area where special rations are blended for well-balanced diets.

All wastes from the kennels are processed through an ultra-modern sewage disposal plant. This elaborate unit has been inspected and given unqualified approval by the Quebec Water Purification Board, so that nothing but clean water escapes from the property.

Because of the vital necessity of keeping these animals free from any contamination from the "outside world", elaborate precautions must be taken. The laboratory staff must observe rigid routines to prevent contamination; just one moment of carelessness, and the introduction of disease could easily jeopardize the work of many months. No one will enter the kennel area in "street wear"; coming in from the outside will entail a change to special clothing and this, unfortunately, necessitates a strict "no visitors" rule.

The first beagles to start the colony moved in early in July and within a year it is expected that the project will be in full operation. Another important step forward in medical research.

The Ayerst Research Farm will be operated by a resident staff under the supervision of Mr. Vern Korths, formerly assistant director of the Children's Zoo in Lafontaine Park, Montreal.

No doubt you are planning financial protection for your bride. We suggest you examine the plans prepared for you by the Metropolitan. You will find them a good way to get started toward Independence.

DUMONT — SARAUULT

The marriage of Cecile Sarault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sarault and Gerard Dumont, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Dumont, all of Alexandria, was solemnized at Sacred Heart Church on July 18th. Rev. L. A. Bourque officiated.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and wore a floor-length gown of white nylon net. The fitted bodice had long sleeves coming to a point over the hands and pearl-embroidered, scooped neckline. The full skirt was styled with four tiers of lace. The shoulder-length veil was held in place by a pearl coronet and she carried a semi-cascade of red roses and white carnations. Her only jewellery was a pearl necklace.

Miss Jeanne Sarault was bridal attendant for her sister and Andre Dumont was best man for the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Alexander Hall and later the young couple left on a trip to points in Northern New York State. For travelling the bride chose a turquoise organza sheath dress and matching duster with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations. They will reside in Alexandria.

SPORTS

in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

This time next week, the red carpet will be rolled out on the travel arteries leading into Maxville. For the 16th consecutive year, the Highland Games will be with again on Saturday, August 1st.

In a sport sense, to be in Glengarry, this is Grey Cup day, the Calgary Stampede or the Stanley Cup finals.

Already the flags, banners and bunting decorate Maxville. The atmosphere oozes with a "Clad Mile Faltie". The grandstands are glimmering brightly as well as adjoining buildings.

The new terraces on the east and north side of the band square have been manicured to match the crew-cut clipped lawns. All is in readiness.

Highway No. 43 is a feeder to the United Counties road and Kenyon Township concession gravel roads, that cut through the "Indian Lands" from the south to Maxville. Guests approaching from the north through Dyer and Ralph Connor's, St. Elmo, will find an equally fine road surface.

Visitors from near and far in Canada and Uncle Sam's domain who check in on Friday, will have the opportunity of pre-games entertainment. On Friday night, July 31, a concert will be held in front of the grandstand.

The CEILIDH (Kaylee) Girls Pipe Band from New Glasgow, N.S. will contribute concert band selections for your entertainment as well as additional numbers of song and reels.

Prominent Glengarry violinists will also be featured on the programme supported by additional vocal and instrumental numbers that could very well include violin solos by that noted musician Mrs. Chafe (Ottawa-Glace Bay).

Early on Saturday, preliminary dancing will hold the spotlight. Frank Ryan, that popular and nationally known C.F.R.A. (M.C.) will unfurl the major programme just before 1 p.m. in order that the massed bands take over as scheduled. There are a number of lunch booths and dining facilities, so be in your seats or on the terraces at one o'clock sharp.

This year, you will see, according to plans and entries at time of writing, the largest number of pipe bands ever assembled at the Glengarry Highland Games.

John Jamieson (Mr. Highland Games) tells us that word is to hand confirming the attendance of the crack Black Watch Pipe Band, 1st Batt. R.H.R., Camp Gagetown, N.B. The competition between this band and the Kiltie Pipers from Worcester, Mass., not to mention the other strong contenders, should make this year's Massed Bands performance the best yet.

Harold McDonald, Williamstown, will be on hand to defend his caber tossing championship. Among those heaving the timber will be Maurice Sauve (Alexandria), that is providing this Guelph A.C. student's knee does not pull a Dickie Moore on him. Ralph (Laggan) MacSweeney is another noted athlete slated to take a whirl at the caber. In the track and field, there are entries in all classes, thus the sports phase of the Games will be of the usual high standard.

There is only one sombre note to record and that is the voice of the popular, congenial, hard working chairman of the dancing classes, Clarence MacGregor, has been still since we last wrote of the Games. No chairman or worker, down through the years, was more devoted to his Games' assignment and executed his chores so flawlessly, than the late Clarence MacGregor. May the sod rest lightly upon him.

The Farms That Progress Has Passed By

Editor's note — The following is a report by The Canadian Press on the findings of a farm survey by economists, tabled in the House of Commons last week by Agriculture Minister Harry Hays. We reprint it for the consideration of our readers in view of the fact the Loch Garry area was one of the areas studied.

Two economists have reported to the Federal Government that about half the farmers in depressed areas of Eastern agriculture could leave the land "to the benefit of themselves and to the net gain of the remaining farm community and the national economy."

"Not only are the poorer farms of today the rural slums of tomorrow but, as the source of a continuous flow of the uneducated and unskilled to the towns, they are the progenitors of future urban slums and the hard core of the industrial unemployed," says the report tabled in the Commons by Agricultural Minister Hays.

The study says Quebec standards of education lagged behind others scrutinized and that Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes "are failing to train their young farm people to fit into the rapidly-changing economic environment of today."

Mr. Hays said the study, ordered by the former Conservative government, doesn't reflect Government views but is an independent appraisal.

The study is based on detailed replies from 643 farmers in 22 zones of Eastern Canada, including Lanark, Glengarry and Pontiac-Temiskaming — approximately 150

MOOSE CREEK

Miss Suzanne Branchard, of Cornwall, spent last week visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Villeneuve.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid and family, of Montreal, visited last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elie Bray.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Heasley, of Cornwall, called at the home of Mrs. Janet Renwick on Sunday.

Congratulations are extended to Gordon MacLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacLean, who was a successful student in his exams at the Ottawa Teacher's College. He will be a teacher in the Public School at Long Sault.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Greer, of Smiths Falls visited on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson and family.

Mrs. Henri Leroux is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Sylvio Sabourin, Mr. Sabourin and family at Hull, Que.

Arthur Buchanan, of Ottawa, and Ronald Buchanan, of Russell, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Raymond and daughter Heather, of Ottawa, visited with Mr. and Mrs. David Ross on Saturday.

John A. MacLean, of Montreal, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacLean and family.

farmers in five areas of Ontario, 300 farmers in 10 zones of Quebec, 90 farmers in three districts of Nova Scotia and 30 in a section of Prince Edward Island.

The report says: "The low-income, small-scale farm provides for the individual concerned a combination of utilities including farming as a preferred way of life, low cost (if often substandard) housing, cheap food, and a refuge against the stern necessity to make the difficult adjustments demanded in industrial employment and urban living. Such 'farmers' cannot be lumped with the large commercial farmers. One farm policy cannot be devised to meet the needs of all."

"Viewed from almost any angle the small, low-income farmer is frustrating the policies and the program of the Department of Agriculture that are designed for the commercial farmer. The commercial farmer might do better, at no increased cost to society, if farm policy was not distorted by the small, low-income farmer. But the commercial farmer can manage even now. The small farmer cannot. In an age of revolutionary technological advances in farming — when the self-propelled combine is an everyday machine and the farm technologists talk of the era of push-button farming — the low-income farmer can only marvel from a distance at the wonderful technological achievements of the scientists and the designers of farm machinery."

"These advances are not for them. For 42.7 per cent of the farmers in the survey area gross farm income per year does not break through $2,500. From this cash income they must meet the costs of farming and must feed and educate their families. For such a family, a self-propelled combine would commit every dollar that they had in prospect for the next four years to buy the one machine."

"The technological revolution in farming is effectively limited to commercial farmers. For the small, low-income farmer it does not exist. He cannot and will likely never be able to afford the implements and techniques of modern technology. His hope lies in leaving the farm. If he is to accomplish this he will require the assistance of enlightened farm and national policy that is directed toward his specific problem and not aimed like a shotgun in the general direction of the county districts."

The report suggests raising the income level for defining a commercial farm to $2,500 annually and "if this is done, a major part of the agricultural policy is by implication redefined as a problem of national economic policy."

"The massive task of re-allocation and re-employment of the human and physical resources on the non-viable farms requires expansionary fiscal and monetary policies; regional, resource, market and industrial development policies; complementary standards of education and extension on the one hand, and Federal efforts in technical and vocational training on the other; and further adjustments in agricultural policies and agricultural rehabilitation and development act programs."

The report found many farms hopelessly non-economic in size and about half the cash receipts for farmers making less than $2,500 came from non-farm sources including other jobs or social welfare payments.

While tourism and woodlot use may help marginal farm income, the benefits will never be substantial and "the real source of income for farmers will continue to be in the traditional products of cereals, dairy, beef and hogs."

A key observation is that there should be a revised definition of what is a commercial farm. The 1961 census, listing 481,000 farms, listed non-commercial farms as those earning less than $1,200 annually. There were about 130,000 such farms in 1961.

The report goes on: "A Crown corporation that would purchase land and either sell it on long-term agreement to farmers who could use it to round out an economic farming operation or divert the land for other purposes such as tourism or recreation, could be a very useful addition to such agricultural adjustment tools as ARDA."

"Such an agency could provide the essential market to take over land that was to be abandoned or sold, and so would give some return to the owner, or equally, it could take land with no potential as a viable farm unit off the market and hold such land pending an opportunity to merge it with other land to create one viable unit out of a number of non-viable farms."

"Provision should be made where appropriate for the operator and his wife to retain the use of the house as a rural residence. An equally important function would be the prevention of a sale of an uneconomic farm for continued farming as a unit, especially when it might otherwise be consolidated with an economic farm enterprise. In essence the task of the agency would be to prevent the continued uneconomic use of land and to plan for the economic integration of the land into larger units."

"The hazard in the land purchase proposal is not an economic one. The major problem in a policy of the kind outlined here is that it flies in the face of the Canadian tradition of maintaining a large farm population. It would obviously face criticism in its formative stages and its introduction would not be effected without some political hazard. Notwithstanding this fact, it is the only obvious economic technique that will effect efficiently and with dispatch the changes that are basic to long-run agricultural adjustment and farm prosperity."
