WIDER BRIDGE ON THE WAY—The piers have all been poured for the new MacPhee's bridge on the Glen Robertson road, east of Alexandria, and the Dominion Bridge Co. of Montreal will move in next week to complete the steel work. Isaac Sauve of Glen Robertson, has the general contract and once steel has been laid he will pour the cement floor and railings. The bridge will be 130 feet long and 30 feet wide, almost double the 16 ft. original which was the scene of several accidents. The bridge is one of several being erected this year by United Counties Council and its floor will be three feet higher than the present roadway. In the plans for this development road are cutting down of the hazardous hill at top of picture and raising of the flat. A temporary crossing of the Delisle River is seen at left. Contractor Sauve expects to see the bridge completed by mid-September.

Hospital Was Ready For Blackout

Glengarry Memorial Hospital had its first opportunity to try out its emergency generator Friday night when power was interrupted by the storm.

Nursing Supervisor Miss Wanda Hitchcock and Administrator Eric Gale were both at the hospital when the generator was called into use and Mr. Gale reports it performed its function well.

They took advantage of the occasion to test the generator's use with various devices such as oxygen tents, suction equipment, etc., and to assure themselves the operating rooms, heat plant and other services were working normally.

The generator runs on gasoline and is designed to kick in automatically during a power interruption.

The hospital is now filled to capacity, except for the maternity section, Mr. Gale reports. The operating room will be in full use by mid-September.

Grass Is Green Again After Weekend Of Storms And Heavy Rain

An estimated 4.22 inches of rain fell on Glengarry over the weekend to ease drought conditions and restore pastures. Also eased by the rains was one of the dairyman's most immediate worries — that of having to provide feed, already in short supply for his herd.

Pastures are turning green again, reports Ag. Rep. Jim Humphries, and the weekend rains should restore growth if we get a few days of hot sun. The problem of feeding should be over at least until winter, he added.

An all-day rain Monday had been preceded by two nights of storm, Friday and Saturday, that were common right across the country. The severe electrical storms were accompanied by welcome rain but they also brought hail and wind which caused minor damage as did the lightning.

Trees and heavy branches were felled right across the county and power and telephone services were knocked out with them. Horses and cows in pasture fell prey to lightning and high winds damaged barns in addition to bringing down trees.

Damage for the most part was minor and there were no reports of fire caused by the lightning.

The unloading shed on Glengarry Commission Auction's barn at Lancaster was blown down but the main buildings were unharmed. The barn roof at Clifford Wightman's was loosened and may have to be replaced. John A. Mitchell, also in the Lancaster area, lost his barn roof ventilator and others lost tin from barn or house roofs.

Among livestock lost to lightning were five cows from the herd of Jos. Legros, Bainsville. Robert MacMillan, Greenfield, lost two cows and Allan MacLeod, Dalkeith, a horse.

There was also some damage to corn crops from wind, Mr. Humphries reports.

Alexandria suffered wind damage Friday night when the first storm struck about 6.30 p.m. Several trees were toppled and a large elm on St. Paul Street brought down with it a telephone cable. Service to more than 200 customers was cut off and a special gang of Bell linemen worked through the weekend to restore the lines. Power was interrupted for some four hours that night as four transformers in town were damaged by lightning.

Successive severe electrical storms struck during the hours up to midnight and heavy rain was almost continuous through those hours.

During the blackout a fire alarm had to be sounded with the old bell and firemen travelled through a very heavy downpour to a call on Elgin Street that proved fruitless. The fire was contained in a covered garbage drum at the Vic McKay home and a neighbor phoned in the alarm under the impression lightning had struck.

Returning thoroughly soaked and disgusted, the brigade stopped at the Royal Bank and used its ladders to stop the burglar alarm which had been set off by the lightning.

Power and telephone services were interrupted in rural areas, too, and the CNR lost its teletype service at the local station for two days. The automatic signal system on the Montreal-Ottawa line was also knocked out and trains were travelling at minimum speed until it could be restored.

Saturday night's electrical storms were a repeat of Friday's, with heavier rainfall but no wind damage here. High winds were a factor in the front of the county that night. A shower Sunday was followed by Monday night and Tuesday all-day rain unaccompanied by thunder or lightning.

Warm, clear weather returned yesterday.

More Water On Weekend Than In Three Months

Those 4.22 inches of rain that fell on Glengarry over the weekend were more than we'd seen in the last three months and almost three times the volume of water April showers had dropped on us.

The Transport Department's weather guage at R. D. MacLeod's, Laggan, measured the rainfall over the past four months as poor and puny: April: 1.5 inches; May: 1.7 inches; June, an awesome .46 of one inch; July at 1.79 inches.

In happy contrast we've seen one inch on Friday, Aug. 6th; 1.14 inches on the 7th; .08 on the 8th; two fruitful inches on the 9th-10th (combined).

Council Supports Move To Have Disposable Glass Containers Prohibited

At a brief meeting, Tuesday night, town council completed purchase of an additional pump for the filtration plant and decided on adoption of a new group insurance plan for town employees.

It also supported a motion by the council of the City of Owen Sound which purposes to petition the Ontario Legislature for prohibition of the use of disposable glass containers in the soft drink industry.

The motion points out that these light glass containers, which are non-returnable, are a cause of littering and as well a hazard on playgrounds, beaches, etc.

In addition to purchase of the additional pump for the filtration plant, council is calling for tenders for its installation and the necessary controls and lead-in pipes to mains. No addition to the filtration plant is required.

Most of the estimated cost will be financed by a $10,400 fund left over from building of the filtration plant and which had been held for waterworks' use.

Major cost will be an estimated $42,000 for replacement of the water line running along the east shore of the lake via Harrison and west on Kenyon to connect with the pipe recently laid from the new industry area. The pipe will be 12 and 10-inch. Tenders for pipe installation will be called after approval has been received from Toronto.

Council approved a changeover in its employees' group insurance plan to a larger one that will be a boon to employees both in premium share and benefits. It was presented by Don Shago, local Metropolitan agent.

James Wightman, counties' weed inspector, complemented council on its efforts and success in weed control. He submitted a short list of properties which demanded attention.

Two Youngsters Won Lions Car

The Alexandria Lions 300-Club draw for a 1965 car was won Saturday night by two young employees of Alexandria IGA.

Old Shaw Place Destroyed By Fire

A spectacular Sunday night fire saw the destruction of the old log house and granary on the one-time Shaw place, just east of Alexandria and north of the former fairgrounds.

Owned by R. J. Graham, the old house had been vacant lately and it is conjectured children may have been smoking to set off the blaze. The alarm was turned in shortly before 10 p.m. and the brigade arrived in time to save the nearby barn.

Campbell Block In Maxville Gutted Store Vacant At Time Of Fire

The Campbell building in Maxville's business section was gutted by fire late Tuesday night which was controlled by three area fire brigades.

Badly damaged by fire, smoke and water was the 35x45 building owned by Garnet Campbell. He estimates loss at $15,000.

His store premises, vacant for the last two months since an auto parts shop quit business, was topped by two apartments in which resided Mr. and Mrs. William McLean and Mr. and Mrs. John Derouchie. Both men are working in the Ottawa area and their wives and a Derouchie child were out when the blaze was discovered about 11.30 p.m.

Mrs. George Colbourne who operates a restaurant across the street noticed the fire and called Maxville's brigade headed by Merton Casey. Apple Hill and St. Isidore brigades also were called under a mutual aid agreement.

The blaze is believed to have started in the south-east quarter.

Flames were brought under control about 2.00 a.m., but two men remained at the scene all night. At one point Mr. and Mrs. John Jamieson, began removing equipment from their general store.

The vacant store had been operated as a hardware business by the MacGregor family and later by Garnet Campbell.

Maxville businessmen and officials were high in their praise of the efforts of the three volunteer brigades in keeping the blaze from spreading through the business area.

IT'S OUR OPINION

The Sound And The Fury - And Rain

As if daring the elements to give us more of the same, the lights flicked on again about 11.30 Friday night after five hours of the most weird and wonderful weather we ever expect to live through.

Mind you, we've weathered a lot of storms in more than 50 years but never can we recall the weatherman in so sustained a rage. For five hours he was flinging hail and wind and rain, thunderous thunder and chain lightning that may be frightening to one who doesn't fancy the elements when they're in their elements.

We respect lightning when we're out in the wide open spaces, such as the golf course. But we think we'd go for a gal named Gail Storm if that was really her name and we were comfortably secluded under the same roof. A storm sends us. Give us our porch chair and send on the pyrotechnics from the sky. We'll relish it until the wind starts driving the rain in on us. Then we may be forced indoors, but we'll still be gone with the wind.

Friday night's show was wonderful as seen from our office window. A succession of storms was rolling in from the West and we could watch their coming, the thunder growling louder by the minute, the lightning flashes ever more frequent and vivid. Then would come the rain and the wind and the blackout as power was interrupted and we reverted to writing by candlelight.

Even the sound effects were thrilling. The swish of the heavy Friday night traffic down the water-filled street, the tinkling of burglar alarms set off by the power interruptions, the feeble clang of the old fire bell, pressed into service while the siren was mute, the dismayed shrieks of people running from shelter to their cars and wading through unseen inches of water.

That was so grand a show we asked the weatherman for a repeat performance Saturday night. And he came through nobly.

In any other year we might not have been so sent by the thunder and lightning. But they have been almost unknown in this summer of drought. We enjoyed the fireworks, but it was the rain we were really keening to. A lot of water went down the drains on two successive nights; But a lot more sank into soil that desperately needed rain.

A few more such midsummer nights by candlelight will be welcome. Then we may be walking in clover again.

A Health Plan That Leaves Us Sick

Isn't it surprising how harmoniously the premiers, federal and provincial, can get along together under some conditions?, suggests the editor of The Ridgetown Dominion. Federal-provincial conferences usually are concerned with what the provinces can get out of each other or the federal money chest; or what Ottawa can get out of them. As a result, the Ridgetown editor avers, such conferences are usually scenes of contentious bickering.

This latest one was different, he notes. It was not so much concerned with what they could get out of each other. It was a consideration of how much more and by what method they could unitedly squeeze out of an unwilling people. The editorial continues:

The principal subject was of course, the proposed medicare legislation which no one has petitioned the various governments to establish but which it is quite definite that we are going to have. It's like the old time sulphur and molasses our parents used to force us to take in the springtime. Today's governments stand in loco parentis as it were and we have to take it whether or not.

The fact that about 90 percent of the people already have medical insurance far more efficiently administered than any government plan is likely to be cuts no ice with our legislators. Whether or not the private insurance agencies will be allowed to carry it is not easy to make out from the published reports.

Mr. Pearson's outline at the conference seems to indicate that a certain amount of option may be granted. The writer notes that Premier Manning of Alberta appears to approve of medical insurance in principle "but is absolutely opposed to the compulsory feature".

The cost of such a scheme is also provocative of thought, he suggests. The government's estimate of $29 per annum, per capita, would mean a yearly cost of $116 for a family of four. Another estimate puts the average taxpayers impost at $190 per year and the Ridgetown editor sees this an injustice to the thousands of people who go year after year without any medical expenses at all. Some families will exceed that sum in some years but he doubts the average taxpayer will average $190 in doctors' fees throughout his estimated 50 years of paying into the medical plan.

Our Ridgetown contemporary dwells mostly on the financial angle, the cost of a national medicare plan to every head of a family. It is a very important angle. When the government puts its estimate at $29 per capita per annum, one can take it for granted that the actual cost will be at least twice as much when it comes time for the taxpayer to foot the bills. When politicians and bureaucrats are busy selling us another step into government give-away they are prone to make cost estimates that may be more palatable than practical.

If we get a national health plan shoved down our throats—and it seems as inevitable as the next election—we the people may as well be prepared to pay more taxes. We will be financing it, one way or the other; whether the added tax is hidden or direct.

Even the thought taxes us; but our objections go further than the mere financing. We feel the nation cannot afford this further step into socialism. We are still trying to digest Ontario's hospital plan and we find not only a shortage of hospital beds and nurses. Doctors are also in very short supply and a medicare plan is calculated to discourage potential medical men at the source, the university classroom.

Only a dedicated youngster will choose that long course of study if the day comes the doctor is bound by the rulings and red tape of government bureaucrats.

We see a national health plan not only totally unneeded but unhealthy for the nation, too. It may flesh out the departments of health in Ottawa and in the provincial capitals. The politician may fatten his vote-appeal come the next election with another promise of pie in the sky the naive elector seems to eat up.

It's only our opinion, but we think most Canadians will be thoroughly sick of a national health plan not many months after they start paying for it. Not only will they gag on the cost. They'll want to throw up the whole thing when they feel bilious and their government can't find them a doctor who'll listen to their wails.

In medical parlance the ill are termed patients today. But how impatient will the entire populace be when the kids look sick and there are even fewer doctors to be had than is the case today? That, almost certainly will be one of the major weaknesses of a national health plan; just as hospital beds are scarce even as we finance free hospital service for all.

If Mr. Pearson calls an election this fall, almost certainly this national health plan will be the bait used to cover all the weaknesses of this sad administration. Just as certainly, the other parties will be claiming credit for this added bit of government generosity.

The voter will have no choice. He could feel so sick of promising politicians he'll visit his doctor instead of going to the polls.

No Mail - No Taxes

The postal strike is over, at least for the moment, and we wonder if Mrs. R. W. Stedman of Montreal, will in time relent from her reported stand. Completely exasperated by the mail tie-up, this daughter of the late C. D. Howe, wartime work horse in Prime Minister King's cabinet, has decided to use "the most potent weapon a private Canadian citizen can have".

She won't pay her income tax next spring on the grounds "that the government is not providing the service for which I am paying".

We've been wondering how long the poor trod-on taxpayer would be able to take the kind of mis-government he's been getting and here is a woman to show the way. Let's all stop paying our taxes as one and watch the politicians panic.

Better still, let's have a strike of all employers from their unpaid and unwanted role of collector of revenue for our free-spending governments. If a few thousands of us decided on a sit-down, think what would happen to all those rosy election plans that win votes and leave us the goats.

Ha! ha! We were only kidding, you nice big bureaucrat. Quit twisting our arm; get off our back. We really didn't mean it. Ouch!

Legroulx was rushed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal. — The electrical storm on Sunday and Monday did much damage to buildings and crops especially in the Glen Robertson area. T. Wylie's new barn was destroyed by lightning, while at Glen Norman the residence of Capt. J. A. Gillies, was also struck but with little resultant damage. — Lieut. Donald J. MacDonald of the Strathcona Horse, son of D. R. MacDonald, Alexandria, was given a send-off Wednesday when he left for the scene of war. Lieut. MacDonald has completely recovered from the many wounds received on the British front. — Some 65 tons of hay were lost when the barn of Norman Campbell, Athol, was destroyed by fire. — The Borden Milk Co., at Maxville is about to place the contract for erection of their modern plant.

SIXTY YEARS AGO—

Friday, August 11, 1905

At the Ursuline Convent in Chatham recently, Sister M. Bernard (Miss Helen McGillis of Alexandria) made her religious profession. — During an electric storm, Sunday evening a barn on the farm of A. R. McDonald, Cashion's Glen, was struck and completely destroyed. — Dr. A. Munroe of Moose Creek is to start a practise at Dalkeith. — The first hay loaders to be purchased in the Glen Roy area, those of Angus J. and D. J. Ross and John A. Munro, were great savers of labor this year. — Misses Christie S. McMillan of Laggan, and Bertha McDougall of Maxville, left for Winnipeg, Man., yesterday. They purpose following the teaching profession in the West. — While loading cars at Vermillion Bay, on July 29th, Rory MacLeod, formerly of 17-7 Kenyon, met with an accident which necessitated amputation of his right arm. — Peter H. McEwen of Maxville, has gone to Cap Rouge, Que., with five teams of horses. He is interested in a railroad contract at that place.

TOOK WRONG PILL

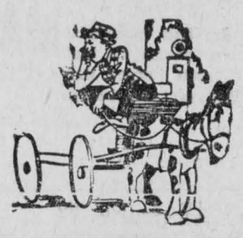

The Editor
Glengarry News,

I wish to take this opportunity to apologize to anyone I may have offended on Saturday, July 31st, at the "Highland Games", Maxville.

Because of a severe headache brought on by a personal problem, plus a "second degree" burn, I took a headache tablet. In error I thought it one grain stronger than a "222". I discovered since it was a "692", six grains stronger and only to be taken on going to bed at night.

This coupled with a drink before going to the Games had the effect of "blacking out". I recall nothing from about 2 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Yours aye,
Hugh MacMillan

RAMBLING REPORTER

Don't know whether those weekend clouds had been seeded; but they certainly produced.

KEEP IT CLOSE

Our new brewery warehouse will be opening soon and we'll be missing some of the six p.m. hustle and bustle as tardy, thirsty motorists speed to the store to beat the closing deadline. I's to be hoped the present premises won't remain vacant too long. An empty business place located as it is at the intersection of two highways could give our town a look of degeneration it doesn't deserve in this day of growth.

We don't much mind the move of the beer store beyond the business section. Most of the customers come in cars and there is a home delivery service for those who don't.

But it would be a different picture if the liquor store were moved to the town's outskirts; as we hear it might. Then what would the poor, dispirited pedestrian do? He'd have two choices—buy it by the case, which would hardly fit in with the liquor control aspect; or hire a taxi to get him a mickey, which would make the cost even more prohibitive than it is now.

Our humble suggestion to the LCBO is that our liquor outlet should remain right in the shopping area where the walking wounded may reach it. Hiring a car to go to the liquor store will only add up to more Main Street traffic.

One thought on this rumored move is that we've seen a lot of people run into the liquor store; but so far we've only seen one car run into it.

Maybe some day we'll want a liquor outlet in the suburbs, but the Liquor Control Board should realize this is still a small town. And rumor has it there are quite a few outlets in our suburbs already.

Isn't it true department—too many of us are like wheelbarrows—useful only when pushed and too easily upset.

BURNING THE CANDLE

We had intended stepping out Saturday night to the Lions 300-Club dance at Green Valley Pavilion but the storm kept storming and the blackout continued through 10 and 11 o'clock and midnight. By the time the hard-pressed PUC boys had restored our lights we had decided that was no time to start rambling and so we headed for bed.

Some time later our reflections led us to the thought that if we're burning the candle at both ends it's partly the fault of hydro. This was a new thought to us and it probably stemmed from the fact we'd been burning the candle at one end while writing through some three hours of storm and darkness.

And here we were comfortably and sensibly stretched between the sheets at a time when maybe we'd have been dancing had hydro not scrambled its lines.

Hydro probably could claim innocence from the fact it didn't invent electricity; but there's always the argument that we in the rural slums might still be without electricity if there were no HEPC.

But that's another argument. Our line of thought was that there'd be no late late show on TV, not even one squawk box in town, if we had no hydro. There'd be no all-night drive-in theatres to lure the kids, and maybe not even a red-light district. (This brought us to a new question, which came first, the light or the red-light?)

You'll note how involved our

(from Ramblin' on the Raisin)

Today we saw a cow give birth
In a field of new mown hay,
Alone, as nature does provide
Her time, her place, her day.

And as she washed that little calf
And pushed it to its feet,
Her eyes were filled with mother pride,
So proud, so rich, so deep.

We felt we were intruders, then,
To share such ecstasy,
And turned and slowly walked away
In deep humility.

thought processes were getting about that time and we musta fallen into the arms of Morpheus before we got the answer to that one.

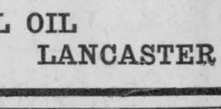

Hydro had given way to the light of day before we started thinking again. But reflecting on the fact that we'd gotten to bed earlier than usual we still had that idea that we might not be burning the candle at both ends so often if we were burning said candle at one end.

Hydro can carry on the argument from there if it wishes.

SPUR TO IMPROVEMENT

Ways and means are being provided (by the Quebec government) to improve farm lands, homes and equipment. With such proposals many a farm can obtain a face lift in a number of ways. Better deals for farmers in the way of prices and assistance should help to improve conditions generally. This in turn should make the farmer more conscious of his farm and surroundings.

NATIONAL CONTRIBUTION

The importance of building better citizens is one of the main facets behind the Air Cadet movement in Canada. It is an importance which nobody can completely assess because the measure of it cannot be truly taken until the lifetime of the boys has been completed. We join many others in congratulating them on their splendid efforts towards the building of better citizens for tomorrow.

Contract For Chapel At Lodge Let By Counties Council Tuesday

The contract for the construction of the United Counties Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge centennial chapel was awarded Tuesday to the firm of Wiseman and Thompson, of Finch.

The decision was made by the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge committee of management at a meeting early that afternoon.

Construction on the $120,000 chapel is expected to begin as soon as possible, with completion hoped for by the end of the year.

The new chapel will be located on a spot at the lodge where an old beach house now stands. It will be torn down to make room for the modern new building.

This centennial project will be linked to the principal buildings of the lodge by a corridor leading from the female ambulatory wing.

The chapel has been designed to sit level on about a 30 degree slope. The resulting room beneath will be fitted as a hobby shop for use by the residents.

The auditorium area of the chapel has been designed as a twelve-sided circle covered by a dome.

The altar will be located at the north end with pews to accommodate approximately 45, clustered about it.

Rooms are planned to one side of the foyer for clergymen of the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches who will serve there.

Cornwall Rotary Club has offered to donate the pews and altar for the project a gift worth approximately $1,600.

An organ for the chapel will be donated by the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge Auxiliary.

About 30 square yards of carpeting will be supplied by Caravelle Carpets Ltd., and Courtaulds (Canada) Ltd.

Money to build the chapel has come from the Ontario Department of Welfare, which will supply about $50,000.

The Centennial Commission has provided approximately $34,000. The remainder will be provided by the members of the United Counties.

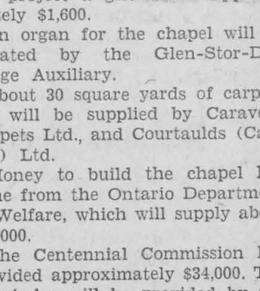

Cornwall's decision not to contribute to the project still rankles. Because the United Counties will own the building out-right, the city, earlier in the year, decided not to contribute.

"They don't seem to realize", county clerk L. C. Kennedy points out, "They have more than 35 per cent of the population of the lodge.

"How they can accept a handout like that is very difficult to understand.

"If the chapel had been built when the original lodge was erected", he continued, "they would have had to pay for it from the start.

"With or without the city", he smiled, "the chapel is going to be built and will be there for the convenience of city and area residents of the home."

Grand Rapids, Michigan, at the time of the American Civil War.

Mrs. MacMillan early showed a great interest in music, studying in Peterborough and Toronto. She became proficient as a pianist and soloist. These talents proved of use after she married the Rev. John A. MacMillan in 1922. Her musical ability was put to good use during the 43 years she served as "minister's wife". Presbyterian churches they served in Ontario were at: Fitzroy Harbor, Ottawa, Campbellford, Kirkfield, Port Perry, Colborne, Foxboro, Cardinal and Lansdowne. In Quebec, they served at Bristol and later Ormstown.

Rev. M. C. Young of Gananoque assisted by Rev. B. S. Black of Oakville, Ontario and Rev. L. R. Renault, moderator of the Presbytery of Brockville, conducted the service. The former two were friends of long standing.

She is survived by her husband, five children, and 15 grandchildren. The children are: Hugh Pearson MacMillan, liaison officer Ontario Archives, Toronto, formerly of Lochiel; Alexander Grant MacMillan, Toronto; Allan Roy MacMillan, second secretary Canadian Embassy, Bonn, Germany; John Stewart MacMillan, London, Ontario, and Marianne Grace (Mrs. E. L. Belser) Lee Summit, Missouri. One son, Peter Claire, predeceased her as an infant.

Many relatives and friends attended from Ottawa, Montreal, Glengarry county, Toronto, Peterborough, Campbellford, Cardinal, Kingston, Brockville, Brighton and Oakville.

Bearers were six elders from Church of the Covenant, Lansdowne and St. Paul's Church, Caintown. Interment was in Lansdowne Cemetery.

GLENGARRY HISTORICAL NOTES

by HUGH MacMILLAN

Glengarry county may have problems, outlined in last year's ARDA report, but it is fortunate in having people of some imagination. This was witnessed recently when Charlottenburgh township council decided on their centennial project. Various ideas have been discussed over the past year. The Sir John Johnson "Manor House", probably the oldest private residence in Ontario, was a possibility. This has been temporarily put in abeyance for a number of sound reasons. The Glengarry Historical Society had discussed, and was working on plans, to acquire the old public school in Williamstown as a museum to depict the history of the North West Company. This could have been done in conjunction with the township's tentative plans for the "Manor House", but would have been a struggle for the Historical Society on its own.

In any case the Council made an excellent decision to take on the restoration of the school as its project, jointly with the Glengarry Historical Society. The objectives for the project read somewhat as follows: "Alteration, restoration and furnishing of former public school building in Williamstown, Ontario, a Georgian style building over 100 years old, into a library and museum, the latter to depict particularly the history of the North West Company, many partners of which, both Scots and French, lived in Williamstown and throughout Glengarry county; also landscaping of grounds to the River aux Raisin."

This project may not be the biggest in terms of dollars spent on centennial projects, but it will certainly be one of the most interesting and informative in illustrating the history of this famous company. It should prove a worthy example to other municipalities which are trying to come up with suitable projects.

In an earlier column I suggested various possible projects for the Williamstown area. It will be gratifying to many readers to see this museum become a reality. This could lead to other worthwhile undertakings for the Williamstown area. A "Glengarry Foundation" to receive money for the purpose of Education and History could soon become a reality.

It is likely that more funds than the Township or Society, has available, will be needed to complete this project. This is where various civic minded clubs and societies can perform a useful service for this Centennial project.

Publicity for the museum will be needed and interesting displays set up. The latter could be achieved in part by centering certain displays around life-sized figures of some of the actual North West Company Partners who came from the County. The talent of Glengarry's artist, Stuart McCormick could be put to use.

An idea has been proposed to send an authentic North West Company canoe brigade, consisting of two authentic fur trade canoes, complete with crews dressed in period costumes, and eating the same type of food, from Lachine to the head of the Great Lakes at Grand Portage, Minnesota. They could be brought back in time for the official opening of the museum. The canoes could be displayed in the museum and re-used for an annual canoe race. I can picture your Editor or Columnist, with aching backs, and arms, voyaging to Grand Portage. The "Voyageurs" could all assume identities of various North West Company partners, with a piper for each canoe. Indians would be needed to build the canoes, costumes and other items would have to be got. The idea would need organization and is possible. What a grand party there could be on their return to Glengarry.

It's Westward Ho! For Our Writer Of Sports In The Glens

(by Angus H. McDonell)

Our favorite subject in the old log, one-room public school was Geography. This wasn't due to being a keen student. It was the result of receiving practical geography, and some history lessons, mainly from ex-Glengarrian holiday visitors hailing from both sides of the Canada-U.S. border here to BC.

For instance, at this time of year, while spending a Sunday afternoon at Loch Garry you were bound to meet Johnnie (Donald Hughie) MacDonald, down from Sudbury. He would be strolling along the lake shore from his old home to the Duncan and Sandy Angus farms with Dannie Sandy Angus MacDonald.

You would listen to an interesting geography and mining expansion lesson on Coniston, Sudbury and Copper Cliff. There would be an added sport talk of the young Sudbury Wolves. Quite logical as Red and Shorty Green's mother was a Duncan Augus. Both later were NHL luminaries.

Another noted Glengarry visitor from the same area would be Archie (Reformatory Farm) MacPhee who was widely known as a superintendent in the Thessalon Lumber Camps.

You leafed through your geography to pinpoint Sudbury and Thessalon, then on to Sault Ste. Marie, "The Soo". At that time "The Soo" was sort of an international gateway in your youthful, imaginative mind because from here Glengarrians headed to the Northern States. Donald Alec (The Wheelwright) MacDonald, was a hotel manager there and via our railway relatives we learned of the Algoma Central connecting "The Soo" with the CP at Franz. Previous to this practical lesson, we thought there were only two railways in Canada — the CPR and the Grand Trunk, the old Canada Atlantic running from Depot Harbor to Coteau Junction.

Referring to our geography, we found, in addition to Franz, both White River and Schreiber. We vividly recall Willie (H. W.) MacDonell tell of his front-end brakeman days in the extreme sub-zero weather at White River. This CP divisional point, we thought, must be in a direct line with the North Pole. Cousin Bill was an excellent practical geography teacher as he took you along the shores of Lake Superior to the Head of the Lakes, and added a sports salad of Pt. Arthur and Ft. William hockey with Frank Nighbor, a youngster out of Pembroke, starring in this Thunder Bay area.

Following your geography map to the West, the older sportsmen never by-passed "Rat Portage", officially known as Kenora, the home of the famed hockey champs "The Little Men of Iron".

In school you were taught that Winnipeg was the wheat key to the West. But outside class you figured there must be a dairy potential as one of Alexandria's prominent citizens, in fact well known in many parts of Glengarry as a cheese inspector, Allan (The Bailiff) Macdonell moved his family to Winnipeg where he joined the milk industry staff. Winnipeg, you also thought, must have had close geographical connections with Iceland, although your map told otherwise.

Yet, the Winnipeg Falcons were giving Allan Cup and Olympic officials due notice of their prowess, principally by players Halderson and Frederickson of Icelandic descent.

A summer call to Highland Chief by the Murphy relatives from Saskatchewan (formerly of Little Ireland west of Laggan) was the means of still another practical geography lesson. We thought the next most important center of Western Canada was Netherhill where D. R. MacDonald (Alexandria and Williamstown D.D.'s) operated several sections of wheat land.

The picture of the Great Divide was always fascinating. From here the waters ran westward, through the Rockies, principally the Thompson River, to join the Fraser, and you already knew that explorer Simon Fraser was buried in St. Andrews' cemetery.

The veteran miners of those days didn't tell of the gold in Kirkland Lake's Lake Shore or the Barry Hollinger of Timmins. But you did hear of BC and Colorado gold mines. This was another practical geography lesson, and our teacher was the late Johnie (Donald Bahn) MacDonell. This great Gaelic singer was the grandfather of Sister Mary Ursula, House of Providence, Kingston, Gerry (Moose Creek) Emberg and Francis (Bryson, Que.) MacDonell. The Bonnie Glen Pavilion is built on the Donald Bahn homestead. On special occasions, such as a St. Andrews concert or a wedding, Johnie Donald Bahn wore a tartan vest with a gold bar watch chain. There was quite a Denver, Colorado, mining legend to the proudly worn gold watch chain.

Heading eastward on your map you observed in school Montana's similarity to Alberta, and wasn't it in Shelby that Tex Ricard's championship boxing bout was one of the few financial flops?

Regardless of what your teacher told you of North Dakota, the imprint on your youthful mind was that the Charlebois family was in Minot, and frequently visited with their Alexandria kinfolk, Peter and George (Adrien) Charlebois. Then there was "Dakota" Dunc MacDonald, the shot putt and caber tosser from Lochiel, whom we presumed earned the Dakota tab while working in that State.

Regardless of what the geography said about Minnesota, your practical lesson sprang from the fabulous Iron Ore Range with Glengarry's Archie Chisholm among the magnates. This executive-type holiday visitor you saw occasionally driving about Ourtown with his brother Jimmy, or his brother-in-law, Eddie Johnie Angus MacDonald.

The trails of this preamble that were pioneered by our forefathers; we hope to travel on during our present holiday. We are even using a covered wagon, but not the canvas top type and squeaky axles that has always been a dramatic part of Western films. This is the modern day trailer covered-wagon, 15 feet in length, weighing 1500 pounds, and tags along behind you like a van on a fast freight.

We have a two-burner gas stove, refrigerator, fresh water supply, wardrobe, food storage locker, dining table that will seat four, small chesterfield in the opposite end and three convertible double bunks for sleeping purposes.

We will hit the open road to Orillia, Sudbury and the "Soo", then thanks to the Ontario Department of Highways, we will travel along to Wawa, White River and the Head of the Lakes, a forbidding route in our forefathers' time. Skipping along to Kenora, swinging around the south of Winnipeg, and on to Regina, Calgary, Banff and Lake Louise.

Following the trail of the early miners, we will head south through Kimberly to Coeur d'Alene in the panhandle of Idaho.

Then head home across Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin, ferry Lake Michigan, pick up the route to Saginaw and Bay City, and back to the Glens.

Besides the co-pilot, I will be well fortified in looking after the covered wagon, as Mrs. James Weir (nee Anna Kennedy), and my sister, Anna, Mrs. Duncan A. MacDonell of St. Catharines, the latter joining us in Orillia, will be our companions.

So next week we will pick you up somewhere along the route, depending on traffic and weather conditions.

LIFELONG PROCESS

Education deserves and requires more than a week, a month or a year of our attention: its demands are lifelong. Education week should not be only the awakening of a moment, a fruitless pause in the continuing quest for knowledge, but a strong reminder that we must — whatever the age-group — keep alive and active a desire to broaden our erudition.

—Humboldt (Sask.) Journal

Milk Strike Is Being Considered

Milk producers and shippers in two western Ontario counties are urging a province-wide strike in an attempt to force an increase in price for milk they ship for manufacturing.

William Chapman of Hanover, Ont., second vice-president of the Ontario Cocentrated Milk Producers Marketing Board, said Monday about 600 shippers in Grey and Bruce counties voted last week for a strike starting Sept. 15.

He said they hope to persuade all the 15,000 farmers who ship milk to processing plants to stop shipments. The plants convert milk into ice cream, cottage cheese, milk powder and evaporated milk.

The cut-off would not involve other farmers who ship milk to dairies and to cheese factories, or those who ship cream for buttermaking, said Mr. Chapman.

The decision to urge the stoppage of shipments came following price cuts by some plants in the countits of five cents for every 100 pounds. Farmers in those areas now receive $3.36.

SET GOOD EXAMPLE

Saskatchewan is one of the few provinces in Canada where one can still get a first-hand account of just what is involved in being a pioneer. These people, though their bodies have suffered the ravages of time, hold their heads erect and await the next challenge that life has to offer. Let us hope we can measure up to the goals they have set us and carry our burden as they have carried theirs.

ANNOUNCEMENT
ONTARIO
Ontario Hospital Insurance will now cover dependent children to 21st birthday

Beginning September 1, 1965, benefits under the Ontario Hospital Insurance "Family" premium will be extended to cover eligible unmarried, unemployed dependent children until they reach their 21st birthday (rather than to the 19th birthday as in the past). This will apply, also, to the supplementary 'semi-private' coverage for which some residents remit additional premiums to private carriers through the Commission.

Separate premiums will be required when such dependants reach age 21, or marry, or become regularly employed. Applications for registration are available in hospitals, banks, Province of Ontario Savings Offices and Commission offices.

The Family premium, however, will cover a person over age 21 who is dependent upon the insured parent or guardian because of physical or mental infirmity, provided he or she was the insured person's dependant before age 21.

Refund of Premiums

An unmarried, unemployed person who will now become eligible as a Family dependant under age 21 because of this new regulation, and for whom separate premiums have already been prepaid beyond September 1, 1965, is entitled to a refund of premiums back to that date. Refunds must be requested as this is the only means of identifying those eligible. The form at the bottom of this announcement is for the convenience of Pay Direct members in claiming this refund. Premiums prepaid through a group (other than as an employee) will be refunded through the group.

Note:

Commission literature is being changed to show the new age limit. In the meantime, please read all references to age 19 in existing pamphlets as "age 21".
