

Maxville Man Died Last Night When Fast Train Struck Car

Philip Michaud, 63, of Maxville, was instantly killed at 6.23 last night when his small English car was struck by the speeding Super Continental at the Maxville crossing.

Parts of the car were carried past the station and the body of Mr. Michaud was badly mangled after he had been thrown clear in the impact. The train, the CNR's No. 1, westbound from Montreal, was brought to a stop west of the station.

Eye-witnesses reported the warning signals were working and they expected the car to stop, but it proceeded onto the crossing in the path of the fast train. It is conjectured the car windows were frosted in the sub-zero weather and Mr. Michaud failed to see the danger. Ernest Besner reportedly saw the crash from the station, while Neil

Scott and Walter Blaney were others who were eye-witnesses.

Provincial Constable Neil Brush investigated and Dr. D. J. Dolan, Alexandria, was called in his capacity as coroner.

A painter and decorator who resided on Marlborough street, Mr. Michaud lost a son, Felix, of Cornwall, in July, 1959, in a drowning in Lake St. Francis, near Dundee, Que.

His wife, the former Annie Le-cuyer, survives with three sons and four daughters. They are: William and Lawrence, of Maxville; Alfred and Noella, Mrs. Cary Dunning, of Cornwall; Mrs. Laurette Cummings and Gloria, Mrs. Lloyd Rolland, Maxville; Jean, Mrs. Bernard Villeneuve, of Moose Creek.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning to St. James Church.

Ottawa Hotel's Owl Got Shot

The owl at the Ottawa Hotel is no more. The report is that he was shot on Tuesday, in time to save him from freezing through yesterday's coldest day of the winter.

For more than two weeks the barn owl had been spending his days on a lofty perch on the front of the hotel. He perched at an air-conditioning vent which apparently provided some warmth, and at night went on his nocturnal prowls.

Husband Heart Victim In Calgary

Mrs. R. M. MacLeod, Bishop street, is in Calgary with her daughter, Mrs. Roy C. Aarsby, whose husband died suddenly on January 7th at his home, 1718 5A St. S.W. Aged 41, Mr. Aarsby succumbed to a heart attack.

Born at Chinook, Alberta, Mr. Aarsby was residing at Carstairs, Alberta, when he joined the Army in 1941 and served overseas until 1945. Returning to Calgary, he had since been in the real estate and insurance business.

To mourn his sudden death he leaves his wife, the former Mona MacLeod, Alexandria; his mother, Mrs. Martin J. Aarsby of Carstairs; four sisters and five brothers.

The funeral service was held at Leyden's Funeral Chapel of Remembrance, with Rev. E. N. P. Orme, M.B.E., conducting the service. Burial was in the Field of Honor, Burnside cemetery.

No Changes On High School Board

Ranald J. McPherson was re-elected chairman of the Alexandria District Area High School Board at its inaugural meeting for 1961 held last week. Lloyd McRae, of Bainsville, was re-elected vice-chairman, and the same chairmen of committees were returned.

Members of the Board are: G. G. Aubry, Dr. J. W. B. Villeneuve, Leo DesGroselliers, Alexandria; Arcade Trotter, Clifford Wightman, Lloyd McRae, Lancaster Township; R. J. McPherson, of Kenyon; John A. Fraser, Hector Perrier and Alex J. MacMillan, Lochiel.

Bainsville Man Hurt When Truck Struck Tree

A Bainsville man suffered severe head lacerations when he was thrown through the windshield of a car after it rammed into a tree on County Road 23, two miles north of Bainsville.

Reported in satisfactory condition in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, is 20-year-old Claude Legroulx. His brother, 18, driver of the car, was not injured in the crash.

The accident occurred at approximately one o'clock Sunday morning. The Legroulx car was proceeding south on the road and Rheel Legroulx had just veered over to the shoulder to clear frost from the windshield when the vehicle slipped and crashed into the tree.

The injured man was treated by Dr. P. A. Tidman in Lancaster and then taken to Hotel Dieu for observation.

Front of the car was smashed in the accident.

Cst. R. H. Graham and Cst. T. Hargreaves, Lancaster detachment of Ontario Provincial Police, investigated.

Another Gaelic Baby In Jasper

The CNR telegraph lines between Jasper, Alberta, and Alexandria were humming in Gaelic again recently as Frank McCormick received word of another grandson, born to Mr. and Mrs. Cameron McCormick on January 12th.

The telegram read:

DIAR - DAOIN AM. FAOIL-EACH 12. RUGADH MAIGH-STIR NAN EILEAN BOGH-ANN STIUHART LEAM SIN MATH AN CEARCALL-MAIRS DEAGH BHEAN - TAIGH DIOCHE MATH DHUIT.

CAMERON.

For those who may not be masters of the Gaelic, we offer this free translation:

Esteemed Resident Glen Nevis, Dies

Mrs. Annie S. McDonald, a lifelong member of Glen Nevis parish, died on Thursday, January 19th, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. McDonald, who was in her 83rd year, was a daughter of Donald Archibald McDonald and Emily Cameron. Her husband, Roderick J. McDonald, predeceased her in 1931. She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters and seven sons: John, on the old homestead in the fourth concession of Lancaster; Donald, of Montreal; Sister Mary Andrew and Sister Mary Francis Clare, of the Sisters of Providence, of Kingston; Dr. Hugh, of Chicago; Angus of Hamilton; Ranald, of the fourth concession; Duncan, of Annapolis, Maryland, and Dr. Alexander McDonald, of Montreal.

In addition to these, she is survived by three brothers: Alex of Schumacher, Ontario; John, of Glen Nevis, and Roderick of Forestville, Connecticut. There are 25 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. McDonald's remains were brought to the home of her son, John, to which she had come as a bride sixty years ago. On Sunday afternoon, the Libera service was held in the Church of St. Margaret of Scotland at Glen Nevis, and this was followed by interment in St. Margaret's cemetery. Rev. Leo MacDonell, P.P., officiated at the service, and five grandsons of Mrs. McDonald — Roderick, Stuart, Charles, Bruce and Kenneth, were the Sanctuary boys.

The pallbearers were: Elwin MacDonell, John McLeod, Archibald McLeod, Angus McLeod, Raymond MacDonell and Bernard MacDonell.

On Tuesday, January 24th, the Funeral Mass was offered by Rev. Leo MacDonell.

The numerous Mass cards, beautiful floral tributes, and messages of sympathy, as well as the large number of relatives, friends and neighbors who came to pay respect, bore eloquent testimony to the high esteem in which the late Mrs. McDonald was held by all who had come under the influence of her gentle, kindly manner and gracious hospitality.

HAD HEART ATTACK — Concern is felt for the condition of Rev. Emilien Houde, popular pastor of Sacred Heart parish, Alexandria, who suffered a severe heart seizure in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, Saturday morning. Science Teachers Held Workshop

Twenty-seven teachers gathered at Glengarry District High School in Alexandria, Saturday for a Science Workshop sponsored by the Educational Development program of District 27, OSSTF.

This district embraces 21 high schools from Iroquois to Hawkesbury. The workshop is designed to provide an opportunity for teachers of physics, chemistry and biology to discuss problems, exchange opinions and become acquainted with new ideas.

The teachers were welcomed by Campbell Fraser, principal of Glengarry District High School. Lorne Whelan, chairman, introduced the topics to be discussed. Mr. Whelan also demonstrated experiments on the reinforcement and interference of sound waves, the distribution of charge on an insulated conductor, half wave rectification of alternating current the operation of the triode tube, and the use and operation of the oscilloscope.

Science Clubs

Clifford Hart, of CCVS, spoke on science clubs, their organization and value. He stated such clubs would stimulate interest in science and lead to the organization of a Science Fair. This would consist of projects carried out by students of various schools in District 27. Entries would be judged and prizes awarded. Mr. Hart participated in a Science Fair last year in Toronto when he and a CCVS pupil demonstrated a rectifier. At present the following schools have science clubs—Morrisburg, Eastview, CCVS and St. Lawrence High School.

Chemistry and biology experiments and discussion were led by John Grant, science teacher at the local school. A new technique of solving mathematical problems pertaining to science was outlined by Mr. Trudel of Eastview.

W. G. Motherwell, head of the science department at Glebe Collegiate, Ottawa, was to address the group and demonstrate experiments. He is an outstanding science teacher in Eastern Ontario and co-author of a laboratory manual. Owing to unforeseen circumstances he was unable to attend.

Since its instigation last year, when the first meeting was held in Cornwall, interest in the educational program has increased to such an extent that these meetings will be an annual event.

A family of 13 was forced to flee into the frigid sub-zero outdoors early Wednesday morning when the house occupied by Wilmer Massia, some two miles north of Dalkeith, was destroyed by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Massia and their 11 children lost everything in the blaze which broke out about 5 a.m., apparently from an overheated stove.

They took refuge at the home of Mr. Massia's father and have been given use of a house on the neighboring farm of Starr Hambleton.

Mr. Massia is employed at the McLennan sawmill at Dalkeith.

Barton Store At Martintown Burgled Again

Thieves who broke into the store of Martintown Feed and Farm Supplies, early Thursday morning of last week, got away with goods valued at more than $2,000. The loot included five new chain saws and one used one, two rifles, a revolver, spark plugs, axes and a variety of hardware.

It was conveyed from the building in the firm's half-tin pickup truck which was found next morning on a sideroad near Martintown. The loot had apparently been transferred to another vehicle.

The store, operated by Ken Barton and son had been broken into several months ago when a smaller quantity of merchandise was taken.

A window on the southwest corner of the plant was broken and a wire screen was pried loose to gain entry to the mill where feed is stored. From there the thieves made their way to the store and office.

They apparently loaded the merchandise onto the truck which was parked in the rear of the building, opened a side door and drove out to make their getaway.

A soft drink vending machine was also cracked and some $1.50 taken.

Provincial Constable Larry Kell, of the Lancaster detachment is investigating.

Phone Book Out

The new edition of the Cornwall directory, in which Alexandria telephone numbers are listed, reached phone users early this week.

The illustration on the front colored cover again represents a sketch of the Ontario Hydro Power Dam on the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall by the well-known Canadian artist, Lorne Bouchard, ARCA, while the back cover shows Bell's colored telephones displayed in all nine shades, and the new Princess telephone.

L. M. Holtby, Bell Telephone manager for this region pointed out that the new volume is to be used immediately and urged telephone subscribers who have received delivery to discard their old directories and use only their new ones.

"By doing so", the manager added, "customers will have an opportunity to bring all personal lists of telephone numbers up to date." He added that Blue Books of Telephone Numbers may be obtained, free of charge, at the company's business office.

More than 20,070 copies of the new volume have been distributed in the region, compared to 21,000 last year. In Alexandria alone, initial distribution amounted to 1,280 against 1,185 in 1960.

Baby Found Dead In His Crib

A Williamstown area baby was found dead in his crib, Monday morning, a victim of asphyxiation. Harold Percy Pitch, born December 1st, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pitch, Gore road, who moved to the Williamstown area recently from Ingleside. Mr. Pitch is employed in the Kraft plant.

Four other children survive.

Dr. D. J. Dolan, coroner, who was called to investigate, reports the child had not been sick. It had its normal feeding at 11 p.m. Sunday night and the parents had no inkling anything was amiss until Monday morning when the mother found her child dead.

Dr. P. A. Tidman, of Lancaster, was called and gave the cause of death as asphyxia.

Lions And Farmer Guests Hear Of Seeds In Agriculture Night Talk

Members of the Lions Club and their farmer guests learned something of seeds and a seed man now resident in Glengarry at their annual Agriculture Night dinner meeting held at the Curling Rink Monday evening.

They heard about seeds from William Ewing who has his seed plant in Vankleek Hill and who now resides on a 300-acre farm east of McCrimmon. And they heard about Mr. Ewing from Lion Jim Humphries, Glengarry ag. rep., who introduced the speaker.

They learned that Mr. Ewing is the third generation of his family in the seed business in Canada, since his grandfather came to Montreal some 90 years ago to found the business. Among other things, they learned that Mr. Ewing has built himself a new home on his farm east of McCrimmon, that he rose to the rank of major in Army service in World War II; that he has a notable collection of old guns, and that he is a sharp shooter. A former member of Canada's Bisley team, he once won the Willingdon Cup, said Mr. Humphries.

"The only seed worth planting is the very best seed which can be had" was Mr. Ewing's message and he coupled it with a reminder that 1961 has been proclaimed World Seed Year by the United Nations

Food and Agriculture Organization. Purpose of the World Seed campaign is to help to increase production of food through the use of better seed and 74 member nations are participating actively in the project.

We in Canada, who know the problem of food surpluses, may fail to see the point of such a worldwide effort to increase production, Mr. Ewing suggested. But are we aware there are hundreds of millions of people throughout the world who are hungry; many millions who are actually starving?

He pointed out that our vast wheat surplus, in the hundreds of millions of bushels, if distributed effectively to those who need food throughout the world would last only about five days.

Food distribution is the problem, rather than over-production, he emphasized. The world population is expected to double by the end of this century and each year is growing at the rate of 45 millions.

The production of food is, of course, the primary function of agriculture and there are many ways in which agricultural production can be increased and much work is being done in the various ways to accomplish this. However, it has been recognized that the use of better seed is a practical, reliable

Horn Toots To Tell Owner Truck On Fire

Wallace MacCallum, RR 1, Vankleek Hill, saw his truck go up in flames. But if it had not been for the tooting of the horn, he might never have noticed it.

It all started as Mr. MacCallum was driving his one-half ton pickup truck south on County Road 24 toward Dalkeith about 10:15 a.m.

He smelled something burning and bent down to investigate.

As he did so, the truck veered to the side of the road and struck a tree, crumpling the fender.

Mr. MacCallum got out of the truck and started down the road to Dalkeith on foot to get a tow truck. The village was about a mile away.

Suddenly the horn began to toot. Mr. MacCallum turned around to see what was happening and saw his truck in flames.

Capacity Audience In Montreal's Victoria Hall Warmly Welcomed Glengarry Talent, Friday

Victoria Hall in Westmount was filled to capacity on Friday night by some 600 Glengarrians and friends who gathered to enjoy Father McPhail's entertainers from Glengarry, and who surely justified their advance billing.

Invited guests included Rev. Dr. D. N. and Mrs. MacMillan, of Montreal Presbyterian College, former minister at Dunvegan, who received a real Glengarry welcome when Henry Duggan, Master of Ceremonies, introduced them to the audience; Mr. and Mrs. A. Archibald, president of St. Andrew's Society of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. John Kelso, president of Caledonian Society; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Darney, chairman of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dunford, president of Montreal Highland Dancing Association; Mr. and Mrs. David Kidd, secretary of the Scottish Schools Club; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Taylor, District Chief of the Sons of Scotland.

Particularly pleasing was the singing of the Rene Roy children, the Howard Morris children and Ronald Macdonald's two daughters, not forgetting the Villeneuve orchestra of four colorful musicians.

Much appreciated was the Highland Fling by champion dancers Mary MacDonell, of St. Andrews, and Marilyn Wheeler, of Montreal. Mrs. Walter Blaney accompanied them on the pipes.

Mrs. Herbert Wheeler, of Montreal, presented a number featuring ten young pupils of Montreal dancing teachers in the Highland Fling, which was very well received.

Solos by Howard Morris, Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald, Mrs. Rene Roy and Innis Campbell brought quick applause from the delighted crowd.

The violins of Little Jack McDonald, Duncan MacDonald (the Farmer), Austin R. MacDonald, Cliff Britton and Father McPhail set feet to tapping and pulses quickening to the Highland tunes beloved by Glengarrians and Scots everywhere.

The crowd quickly showed their delight in the pupils of Mrs. McCulloch's Dancing School, as they tripped gaily through the Shean Triubhas, the Reel of Tulloch, Flora Macdonald's Fancy and the King of Sweden, all seen to advantage in the big concert hall which failed to disturb the clogging of Master Gregory McCulloch.

The Glengarry trio of Dr. Bernard Villeneuve, Howard Morris and land; Father Peter McGlynn, Father Allan MacDonald, Father Eric Robbins, Father C. F. Gauthier and Father J. D. McPhail.

Mrs. Walter Blaney of Maxville, led off with selections on her talented pipes at 8:45 and the entire cast brought the concert to a close with Auld Lang Syne at 11:30. The capacity audience followed the smoothly staged programme with keen interest and pleasure, as pipes gave way to violins and dances succeeded solos, duets and trios of Scottish songs and tunes so dear to the Highland hearts on this night of Bobbie Burns.

The Glengarry trio of Dr. Bernard Villeneuve, Howard Morris and Ronald Macdonald got a big hand from the crowd as well as some vocal assistance in their rendition of My Bonnie Native Glen and The Road to Dalhousie. David Daves, Mrs. D. A. MacPhee, Mrs. Walter McCuaig and Mrs. B. Villeneuve were accompanists for the various numbers.

Ushering was provided by Marion Dale, Jean Hay, Jean MacMillan, Kay McLeister, Heather McDougall and Mrs. Claire Mulhern.

The Glengarry Social Club of Donald MacDonald (the Farmer), John Myles Kennedy, Janet Kennedy, Jean Hay, Marion Dale, Innis Campbell and Henry Duggan entertained the members of the cast following the concert when David Daves took over the piano. Sing songs and close-harmony a la Glengarry ranged from the Gay 90's to the latest hit songs, until French Fries and roast chicken for hungry guests finally won out over the music and provided an opportunity for Montrealers to express once again their pleasure and pride in the performance of Father McPhail's troupe from Glengarry at the Burns' concert in Victoria Hall, Montreal.

Norway Mail Goes Astray, Too

While recently holidaying in Oslo, Norway, Miss Helen Seger on Dec. 22nd mailed a scenic calendar to her sister, Miss Marguerite Seger, here. In an open-flap envelope, the calendar arrived here on January 21st and the envelope's contents included a letter mailed in Oslo to a party in Fredrickstad, Norway.

The letter was turned in at the local Post Office and no doubt will reach its intended destination within a month. The recipients may be wondering how it happens to bear the postal mark "Alexandria, Ontario".

Frozen Body Of Moose Creek Area Farmer Found In His Woodlot

The frozen body of Aime Gauthier, 64, a Moose Creek area farmer, was found in his woodlot last Thursday. He had been dead two days and Dr. A. B. Peachey, coroner, of Cornwall, determined in a post-mortem that death was due to a brain hemorrhage.

Gerald Brunet and Maurice Villeneuve, noticing that the barndoor was open and chores left undone at the Gauthier farm, decided to investigate and discovered the body in the farm woodlots where Mr. Gauthier had been cutting wood with a chain saw.

Mr. Gauthier lived alone on a farm in the Eighth Concession of Roxborough, some four miles from Moose Creek.

Survivors include two sons, Gerald of Brantford and Raymond of Valleyfield, and one daughter, Mrs. Adrienne Dore of Ottawa.

One sister, Mrs. Herma Villeneuve of Moose Creek, also survives. Mr. Gauthier was born at St. Clet, Que., but came to Moose Creek with his parents 60 years ago. He had farmed all his adult life.

He was a son of the late Delphis Gauthier and his wife, Marie Pilon.

He had lived alone for the past several years. His wife, the former Marianne Charette, predeceased him in 1931.

The body rested at the Brazeau and Quessel funeral home at Casselman. Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Monday at Our Lady of the Angels Church, Moose Creek. Burial will be made in the parish cemetery.

IT'S OUR OPINION

Glengarrians Unanimous

From all accounts that was quite a show Glengarry talent put on in Montreal's Victoria Hall, Friday night. The joint was jammed, they tell us; and the crowd lapped up the music, song and dance as might be expected of an audience made up for the most part of former Glengarrians.

Henry Duggan, John Myles Kennedy and those other sparkplugs who keep the Glengarry Club of Montreal a going concern had done a grand job of organizing, it seems. Even the entertainers who went down to entertain were entertained.

Which brings up a brilliant idea. Why don't those organizing geniuses come up with a promotion that will see our Glengarry troupers putting on similar shows wherever there are Glengarrians enough? And where on this hemisphere aren't there Glengarrians enough to fill a hall?

They might call it "Glengarrians Unanimous", a subtle reminder of the Scotch spirit that still pervades the old country. We might even lend them the services of our foreign correspondent, Angus H. McDonnell, who could map out the itineraries from his fund of travel experience.

In this day of jet travel we can see our Glengarry troupe winging into Toronto for a one-night stand with Mayor Nathan Phillips and officials of the Glengarry Club of Toronto waiting at the airport to greet them.

Get Henry Duggan on the long-distance telephone, at a special rate, and he could arrange with Donald Joseph Eddie or Donald McPherson for a Winnipeg stand. There's Alex MacMillan in Saskatoon, Hub Bishop in Regina, John Archie McDonald in Edmonton, Freddie MacLeod in Vancouver. We could name a hundred just aching to bring this Glengarry Merry-Go-Round rolling into the cities of their adoption.

In fact we could even export the show and bring some American money home to help redress Canada's foreign exchange balance. Look at that gang in Detroit waiting to hire Briggs Stadium for the extravaganza. Long Island would be longing for it, Chicago might loop the Loop in welcoming the show. It might even hit Hollywood if our foreign correspondent made the proper contacts while he was out in California.

They also serve, who only sit and wait, somebody once said. We're serving up this hot idea mostly because this is one of those weeks when you sit and wait for ideas that never come.

How Many Are Actually Unemployed?

Bureau of Statistics estimates of 528,000 unemployed in Canada in December make rather dismal reading. But probably the picture is not nearly as bleak as it seems at first glance.

Of that total, 11 percent, or some 60,000, have been unemployed for seven months or more and these are the hard hit who may be missing out on a share of the good life most Canadians enjoy.

Most of the others, we would judge, are seasonal workers who are registered with the Employment Offices primarily so that they can draw Unemployment Insurance. A press release from the Cornwall office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission shows 4,765 were registered for employment last week. The figure for the same week a year ago was 4,763, a difference of but two.

In a year when the employment picture across Canada was a cause for concern, and when Cornwall itself was hard hit by layoffs, the active claimants from the fund are down from 4,331 a year ago to 4,150.

This apparently indicates that the over all unemployment picture is little worse than it was a year ago and possibly even a bit brighter in the area. It also suggests that Bureau of Statistics figures on unemployment do not give a true picture of the state of the economy.

There should be a better method of computing figures for unemployment; one that would provide an accurate picture of how many are jobless and actually seeking work that is not available. The seasonal worker who applies for employment primarily to draw insurance benefits; the fishermen who are cut off from their livelihood because of winter weather; the housewives who are drawing the dole but who have no intention of rejoining the labor pool; the retired who find themselves in the happy position of supplementing their pensions by weekly handouts from the Unemployment trough. None of these should be classed as unemployed.

If they were listed in a special category in their hundreds of thousands we would have a much better picture of the actual jobless who possibly should be getting more help than the Insurance fund now provides.

The fund, in fact, may soon be bankrupt, may be in no position to help the jobless unless a new appraisal of its purpose is boldly taken by the federal government.

The Unemployment Insurance fund was not designed as a bit of saving for a cold day, for people who want to rest and snuggle down for the Winter. The fund is not of their making but has been created by the combined effort of the Government, which is financed by all the taxpayers, the employers and their fellow-workers.

The fund was designed to cover emergencies, not vacations. When it is exhausted, which may be soon, the Government, financed by tax money, will have to contribute millions to maintain the benefits; or raise the levy on employers and employees once more.

The Unemployment Insurance fund should be returned to its original purpose. If the Government wants to continue handing out doles to the seasonal worker, the retired, the newlywed, it should do so under some other label than that of unemployment benefits.

President Kennedy Has Our Good Wishes

It was a great week for the Clan Fitzgerald last week, if a family name with so Irish a ring can be linked with anything as Scottish as a clan. Maxville's reeve, James N. Fitzgerald was chosen Warden of the United Counties and a scion of Fitzgerald stock, one John F. Kennedy, took office as President of the United States.

We have no doubt our new Counties' Warden will capably fill his office and we extend to him our good wishes and those of his many other friends throughout Glengarry.

Our hopes are as high for the term of office of President John F. Kennedy who on Friday took over the leadership not only of the United States but of the democratic world.

Young in years he is, in comparison to most former occupants of the White House; even younger perhaps, in appearance, than any president who preceded him. But he comes to his great office with many advantages other U.S. leaders lacked. He has been independently wealthy, yet never a mere playboy. While enjoying the good life, as Americans of affluence know it so well, he long ago chose to serve his country in the field of politics and his years as Senator from Massachusetts will stand him in good stead now. Few of his countrymen will doubt his political acumen after the winning campaign he waged against odds that were formidable. None doubt his personal courage who know his World War II record.

Now President Kennedy is called on to display characteristics that are less common than personal courage and political astuteness. While keeping his political fences in good repair he must measure up to the role of a world statesman; a diplomat on whose responsible decisions the fate of the free world, the whole world, may depend.

The presidency of the United States in this age of the Cold War is one which calls for almost superhuman qualities. Mr. Kennedy has had at least some of the training the office calls for, and he is at an age (the most productive years of man are between 40 and 50) when the spirit of youth and the voice of experience are best blended for progress.

These are trying times on the world scene, but we have high hopes that President John F. Kennedy and his associates in Washington will furnish the type of leadership that will stop the encroachment of Communism on the international scene while strengthening the democratic idea on the domestic front.

That is a tall order and we, the new President's neighbors to the North, might ease his burden a bit if we collectively removed the chip we seem to be carrying on our shoulder.

May he, his cabinet and his Congress measure up to their tasks. And may they know full co-operation from us in Canada, consonant with our determination to run our own affairs.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

DIRTY ARENA

Alexandria, Jan. 20th, 1961
Editor, Glengarry News:

The first thing I noticed in your paper this week and I quote, "Don't send, take your boy to the Arena". Well, I did just that a couple of weeks ago. The mess of the Arena, dirty dressing rooms, toilets, a disgrace, dim lighting, it costs too much to put all the lights on.

Two years ago it was debated over selling off the Arena. Since that time there has been no talk of selling, as the Arena has been well served by the people of town and surrounding district, even as far as Cornwall.

Hockey, skating, broomball, but what improvements have been made since that time by the owners?

But I suppose on the 28th January I'll be there cheering the youngsters on. I don't think it is lack of enthusiasm on the part of the parents. We all know how important hockey is to them.

Make the Arena a more attractive place, and maybe there'll be more box office attraction.

Yours truly,

A PARENT.

MEDICAL ALLEY

Funny, but it's true. If Dr. Baker had settled into a house on Kenyon street when he came to town more than a decade ago we'd have our entire medical fraternity concentrated on the one street. Then we might rename the street "Doctors' Drive" or "Pillpushers' Parkway", or something.

What other town has three doctors living side by side in one short block, as do Doctors Lacroix and Dolan and Villeneuve, the last a mere dentist, tis true? And only a stone's throw West is Dr. Laberge. And a couple of blocks farther West will be found Dr. Markson.

Not only that but three of 'em have their offices on Kenyon street, Doctors Dolan, Lacroix and Laberge.

And if you want to carry the thing a bit farther, Kenyon street also has the Brown Shoe plant, a company that makes Dr. Locke shoes. And the Brewery Warehouse that takes in dead soldiers and restores to you the proper spirits. It's got both Alexandria's banks, too, and can't they supply a transfusion when your creditors have almost bled you to death? Or can they?

Maybe we should transform Glengarry Gardens into that new hospital we're looking for. Then Kenyon street will be a real medical alley?

Oh yes, we almost forgot your Rambling Reporter is housed on Kenyon, too. And he's got lots of patient people, if they work their way through ramblings like this.

A bachelor never gets over the idea that he is a thing of beauty and a boy forever.

THEIR FIRST HOME

The editor's been welcoming the John F. Kennedys to the White House, so it's only fair your Rambling Reporter should ramble about with the Eisenhowers as they shed themselves of the goldfish bowl and retire to their home in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

Hard to believe that this is the first time Ike and Mamie will be actually living in their own home since they were married, maybe 40 years ago. The Army took care of his housing needs, then Columbia University, until the White House portals beckoned.

Now Ike is relishing a new experience. He is king of his castle, and nary a Secret Service man at his shoulder sniffing for possible assassins. The worries of the world have been transferred to other hands; he can enjoy his golf games and his grandchildren.

We still like Ike, the memoirs of generals and politicians notwithstanding. He wasn't elected President to set the world on fire and he did a capable job of quenching such local conflagrations as in Korea.

We hope he's still enjoying the odd round of golf in that distant day when we find time to ramble down to Gettysburg and size up his game. He must be above par; he encountered a lot of hazards on his course but he has holed out clean in that 19th hole at Gettysburg.

As you get older, work is a lot less fun and fun is a lot more work.

BEWITCHING WITCHES

Probably there's nobody around here so dastardly he'd want to get rid of his wife.

But a man in California filed suit for divorce recently; and his grounds open up a whole new field of speculation, far removed from infidelity and such reputation-ruining charges.

He told the judge he had been deceived into thinking his wife beautiful by her skillful (and generous) use of cosmetics and various other artifices. She should be charged with false pretences, he argued; and he should, presumably, be free to continue his search for real natural beauty.

We haven't heard how sympathetic was the court to his plea. But his argument isn't new. Men have faced this problem for centuries and if the ladies don't soon come to some gentleman's agreement on how falsely gentlemen may be wooed into uttering those fatal proposals, the men may be forced into some drastic defence measures.

Face painting and the like, calculated to put a fresh complexion on the features, was, it seems, so

Undermining Financial Health

(The Printed Word)

A young man on the TV the other evening was predicting, probably with accuracy, that Canada will have a health service shortly. By "health service" is meant not a service to keep one in health, but a service that would pay for doctors, medicines, and maybe wigs.

Every party is for this, apparently. At no point in the TV discussion, however, was there any suggestion that somebody was going to have to pay for these health services. That presumably is a mere detail that the politicians would just as soon the taxpayers didn't think about until it's too late for thought.

It has been said that Canada, a young country with hopes for the future, has a larger and broader welfare program than any other country in the world. What has not been said is that the cost of this welfare program in the aggregate is a high percentage (about a fifth?) of the total revenue of the federal government, plus payments from provincial and municipal governments. There is no suggestion about the cost of health service, but it is safe to predict that it will cost about double the original predictions of those who will advocate it.

Someone has said that the troubles in Belgium are due to the decline in the wealth of that country due to the discontinuance of funds from the Congo. Would Canadians riot if the governments at the various levels suddenly or gradually found that they just couldn't pay the welfare bill? Every political party is in part responsible for the present situation, and that is merely another way of saying that the Canadian people have brought the situation on themselves.

POINTED TOES

Some gentlemen are finding fault with . . . women's shoes with high heels and very pointed toes. This is not on aesthetic grounds. They would like to ask the designers of the pointed toe, "Have you ever been kicked in the shins with one?" — Trenton (Ont.) Trentonian.

INTERACTIN NEEDS

It seems likely that a new type of municipal government will come into being, not just for densely populated metropolitan areas but for groups of communities in which urban and rural needs and services interact. — Cochrane (Ont.) Northland Post.

prevalent back in 1770 that a Bill was introduced into the British Parliament providing that "all women of whatever rank, profession or degree, that shall impose upon, seduce or betray into matrimony, any of His Majesty's subjects by the scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes and bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanours and that the marriage upon conviction shall be null and void".

That Bill didn't pass, back in 1770, girls; probably because most Parliamentarians were paying for the perfumes with which their wives kept them in thrall; and they liked their witches bewitching. But a charge of false pretences might be easier to make stick in this day when even bathing suits may be padded. And in an age when the grounds for divorce need be no more than a little plot.

tively cheap and quick method of attaining an increased agricultural production on a very broad basis, most particularly in the countries of limited development.

Mr. Ewing graphically pictured the development of agriculture in this country over the last 25 years. If a farmer of 5,000 years ago had been brought back to life and set down in a Glengarry field even 25 years ago he could have taken up a familiar tool, though perhaps somewhat improved, and gone about a familiar task in much the same way he would have done it 50 centuries ago.

Not so today, he declared. Our methods of crop production in one generation have altered more than in the previous 5,000 years. Mechanization, better techniques, better management, better plants and seeds, better livestock and land use, have given us an increase in production per man-hour on farms more than four times the pace set on the industrial front.

This is a pretty good record for agriculture, he added.

Farming has changed and these great advances have brought a changed attitude toward farming, Mr. Ewing pointed out. Today the farmer needs cash to buy fuel and machinery, electric power, fertilizer, to meet taxes and interest on large capital investment. He must concentrate on the facet of farming that will bring him the best return in cash for time and energy expended. He must become a specialist.

What of the future?

The one overwhelming fact which presents itself is the need for food and this need will more than double in the next 40 years. Since the farming industry is largely concerned with the production of food, beyond any doubt there will be a market for the whole of the farm production possible. The big problem is distribution and if adequate distribution could be attained throughout the world there would be farm product shortages, not surpluses.

It seems reasonable, he said, that we can have a measure of confidence that within some reasonable length of time a solution to the problem of distribution may be found. Meantime the farming business continues on a very competitive basis and it has become essential for the farmer who is to stay in the business to become as efficient as possible in order to survive, by the most effective use of his land and the largest possible production per man-hour of effort consistent with the full and wise use of capital. Those who do not do this are not staying in the farming business.

Mr. Ewing then turned to his specialty, farm or agricultural seed, and he pointed out that the important thing about seed is what it will produce. "You can't tell that by looking at the seed, except within very broad limits," he stressed; "the seed business is built on faith."

In California's Salinas Valley where they know how to grow lettuce, he instanced, one sack of lettuce seed, 100 pounds, will plant

Isabella Group Had Meeting

Despite the severe cold, a good turnout of members of the Daughters of Isabella, "Our Lady of Fatima Circle", gathered at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 17th, for their first meeting of the new year.

In the absence of the chaplain, prayers were recited by the chancellor, Miss Claire Courville.

Mrs. Germaine Vaillancourt, local regent, welcomed the members, wishing everyone a prosperous and happy New Year and thanking the members for their yuletide greetings.

Thank you notes were received from the numerous school children who benefited by clothing received from the committee in charge. A very appreciative card was received from Mrs. Louise Lalonde, who was the recipient of a lovely birthday greeting recently.

A closed Retreat for members will be held at the Fatima House, March 3rd to 5th, with Miss Claire Courville in charge of recruiting members and Mrs. Isidore Secours in charge for Green Valley.

Each member was asked to assist one morning at Mass during the month of February.

An invitation was extended to the members of the Daughters of Isabella Circle of Cornwall to join us at a dance to be held on Wednesday, Feb. 1st, in the Alexander Hall. Tickets were distributed to the committees in charge. Various prizes will be given throughout the course of the evening, with a raffle of a bridge table and four chairs to be held at the dance.

Mrs. Vaillancourt conducted a quiz forum with questions asked the members and many were capable in answering while the most difficult ones were answered by our provincial trustee, Mrs. Cecile Poirier. It was agreed to serve lunch only on special occasions, thus shortening the length of the meetings.

A get-well card and flowers were sent to our chaplain, Rev. Emilian Houde, who is a patient in the Hotel Dieu, Cornwall.

The attendance prize was won by Mrs. Louise Lalonde.

To Honeymoon In England

McAUSLANE - CROFTS

The marriage of Elizabeth Dorothy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Crofts of Bingham, England, to John Murray McAuslane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm M. McAuslane of Montreal, took place recently in St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Hampstead, the Rev. Stanley Andrews officiating.

The bride, given away by her father, who flew from England to attend the ceremony, was in a gown of white peau de soie fashioned on princess lines, with sleeves ending in points over her hands and a bouffant bell-shaped skirt caught at the back with roses, falling in pleats to the ground. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a single white rose, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations. Her only jewellery was pearl earrings, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Pauline Steinbach of Montreal, as matron of honor, was in a dress of sky-blue peau de soie. She wore a silver blue mink headdress trimmed with matching silk, and her bouquet of pale pink carnations was fastened to her mink muff.

Mrs. Crofts, the bride's mother, was in a gown of avocado green velvet. She wore a matching feathered hat and a corsage of deep pink carnations.

Mrs. McAuslane, mother of the groom, was gowned in deep rose taffeta, worn with a white velour hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the couple's new home, where white and pink carnations were used to decorate. Later Mr. and Mrs. McAuslane left for a honeymoon trip by plane for London, England, the bride travelling in a gray silk damask suit, worn with white silk hat, black Persian lamb coat and a corsage of pink carnations.

They will reside in Montreal.

Miss M. McLeod Died At Ottawa

Following a brief illness, the death occurred in the Civic Hospital, Ottawa, on January 18th, of Miss Mary MacLeod, of Dalkeith.

The daughter of Norman N. MacLeod and his wife, Jessie Dewar, Miss MacLeod was born at Dalkeith in December, 1886. She spent some years in Montreal, Ottawa and Winnipeg before returning to Dalkeith in 1911. Miss MacLeod had been residing in Ottawa with her sister, Mrs. A. K. Stewart, since October and she underwent an operation January 13th, death ensuing five days later.

Two sisters and two brothers survive: Annie, Mrs. A. K. Stewart, Ottawa; Jennie, Mrs. O. W. Erickson, Winnipeg; Angus, of Ottawa, and Alex N., Dalkeith. Two brothers predeceased her — Duncan, of Dixonville, Alberta, and Donald N., in World War II.

The body rested at the A. D. McRae funeral home in Vankleek Hill, where many relatives and friends called to pay their respects. Mr. D. J. Fox, moderator of St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Kirk Hill, conducted the service at the funeral home on Friday, January 20th in the presence of many friends. Burial will be in St. Columba cemetery in the Spring.

Six nephews acted as pallbearers: William Stewart, Alex Stewart, Norman Stewart, Langford MacLeod, Callum MacLeod and J. K. MacLeod.

THIS IS AN OIL FIELD ?

Both whales and man would be in a sorry fix if whales were still the main source of oil.

But man is ingenious, and has developed oil resources from the earth to meet his energy needs. If he hadn't, getting a tankful of fuel for the family car would be one whale of a job!

Here in Canada, where we average almost one automobile for every family, the right quality gasoline must always be available, and at the right price. Over the last 10 years, Imperial has spent $70,000,000 on equipment to improve gasoline quality — while over the same period the amount Imperial receives for a gallon of gasoline has gone down.

Ag-Reps. Review Agricultural Conditions In Counties At January Session Counties' Council

Agriculture in the United Counties had its day before the Counties' Council last week as the agricultural committee met to hear reports from the agricultural representatives and weed inspectors. Reports were on an informal basis, with question periods allowed by committee chairman Charles Blair, reeve of Roxborough.

Edward Pearson of Dundas, was invited to speak first, and commenced his remarks with a description of some of the projects recently started or planned in the near future by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Important among them is the formation of a safety council for farm people. Booklets have been distributed among school children, bulletins or local accidents prepared for Dundas farm families, and a group of 17 suggestions on improvements to safety on county roads prepared for submission to Council at an early date.

An important part of Mr. Pearson's speech occurred when he drew from his brief case two branches from a shrub or small tree, one of them identified as buckthorn, one as the common wild barberry. Holding them up before the assembled councillors, Mr. Pearson challenged them to more activity in grants to assist in eradicating these shrubs.

"There is lots of this in all townships", he remarked, "and I believe there is some in Stormont and Glengarry as well. These shrubs harbor rust spores that affect your crops. The buckthorn (holding up a shrub with black berries) harbors leaf rust of oats; barberry (with small red berries) stem rust of oats, barley and wheat. The rusts live through the winter on these plants and sometimes develop new strains permitting them to attack previously rust-resistant varieties.

Asks Grant

Mr. Pearson asked Council to consider grants to aid in removing a public menace, possibly amounting to $200 in each county. The Ontario Government provides assistance to counties which initiate an anti-rust program.

Speaking on farming in Glengarry, agricultural representative J. Y. Humphries pointed out that local farm income had decreased, partly because of reduction in farm prices and partly because of three or four months of drought, which had limited pastures and water supplies, and increased the cost of doing business.

Mr. Humphries made a formal request that grants-in-aid of transportation of cattle to Ottawa Winter Fair be re-instated. Pointing out that the cattle exhibitors and breed clubs were always substantially out of pocket on such exhibits, Mr. Humphries emphasized that cattle shown at Ottawa were in the "show window of Eastern Ontario" and the reputation built up there aided the whole county and district.

Mr. Humphries mentioned the Soil and Crop Improvement Association program, which, in Glengarry, includes sponsorship of the tree farm movement and a projected land use committee. The Glengarry agricultural representative also mentioned the importance of the drainage program. He also called attention to the 150th anniversary of Williamstown Fair, the longest established fair in Canada. Plans are already being made for a special program on the occasion, in 1962.

Kenneth E. Best, Stormont agricultural representative, reviewed changing trends and prospects in connection with extension service. More attention to farm business and work with young people, as well as continued emphasis on the safety program is proposed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "We're not making the progress we would like to on cutting down on farm accidents", he remarked.

Mr. Best pointed out that aid in marketing would be extended from the point of view of improving quality and efficiency. "Another matter we are called upon to consider although not yet on a definite basis, is this: What will happen to the farms and farm people if World War III breaks out? We will have to give this matter more and more serious attention."

Mr. Best also mentioned the Ottawa Winter Fair and requested reinstatement of the grant-in-aid of transportation. He mentioned the achievements of the Ayrshire Club of Stormont this season, citing the winnings of a cow shown by Donald MacIntyre of Finch in particular. About 75 head of cattle from Dundas and Stormont and about 50 from Glengarry are taken to Ottawa each year, with highly satisfactory results.

Quebec To Get Soulanges Canal?

The Quebec Government is said to be negotiating with the Department of Transport for the Soulanges Canal, and it may be a straight transfer of the area from the government branch to the province.

The unused St. Lawrence Canal is wanted by Quebec for two purposes. First, for a fish hatchery to help keep the province's lakes and streams stocked for sports fishermen, and secondly, so the province can widen and make other improvements on Highway 2, main traffic artery between Toronto and Montreal.

Along with ownership of the 15-mile canal system, the Department of Transport has other obligations including maintenance of bridges, fences and other structures.

It hopes to turn over both property and the obligations.

Should the Province of Quebec agree to this, it would probably get the canal, locks, water, adjoining land and everything for no charge.

Land Survey Shows Some Drainage Need On 60 Percent Glengarry Soil

Much of the swampland in Stormont and Glengarry Counties contains fine-textured and fertile land and can be brought under cultivation if properly drained.

This is one of a number of findings disclosed in a recently-completed survey of the Cornwall area by the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys.

According to the report, 60 percent of the soils in Glengarry and 40 percent of the soils in Stormont "have some drainage problem". Except in areas where the soil is very shallow or where bedrock outcroppings are common, however, all land was described good for agriculture.

The area in question begins at Ingleside, goes east as far as Lake St. Francis and north as far as Lock Garry, near Apple Hill. According to the report, and an accompanying map it was all at one time inundated by the Champlain Sea. Ice moved in from three directions during ice ages many centuries ago, depositing marine clay, glacial till and other types of sub-soil.

According to the report, the marine clay is as much as 30 feet deep in places beneath the alluvial plains. The soft clay is described as an important consideration if the construction of roads and buildings is planned or if sewer or water lines are to be laid.

Marine clay is not uncommon under Cornwall and as a result expensive piling operations have been necessitated at certain locations before heavy structures could be built.

The report indicated the Champlain Sea was filled to its present level some 9,000 years ago.

It said gravel deposits had been found along former shoreline areas and it would be possible to chart out other sources of gravel and sand by following this former shoreline during the years ahead.

With construction expected to expand as Eastern Ontario develops in the years ahead, new sources of sand and gravel are likely to become increasingly important. Many of the older pits were heavily worked providing materials for the seaway and power projects.
