A similar team from the Chesterville Club also participated and placed well up in the final results.

Club members during the season also enjoyed an Educational Tour of Ottawa, and visited such places of interest as the Experimental Farm, the Parliament Buildings and the Museum.

Much valuable assistance throughout the year was rendered by Messrs. Gerald Kittle and Allison Graham. Parents, especially and all those who have co-operated to help the boys and girls in this important work deserve a word of commendment.

To the sponsoring bodies — the Chesterville and Mountain Agricultural Societies and the Ontario and Dominion Department of Agriculture the Club members wish to express their heartiest thanks. The judges at the local fairs held at Chesterville and South Mountain, namely: M. W. McConkey of Peterborough and R. Wilson of Kenmore deserve worthy mention for their part in placing the calves and appraising each contestant for showmanship.

It is the wish of H. W. Graham, Dundas Agricultural Representative and D. W. MacMillan, Assistant, that each member of the two clubs will again take part in the work next year. To those boys and girls who have not been engaged in Club work a hearty invitation is extended for the coming season.

Flying Cheesemaker "Dick" Fawcett Takes Ethiopian Position

After nearly twenty years of flying private and commercial aircraft, in Canada, R. H. Fawcett, "the Flying Cheesemaker" of Dunbar has accepted the position of advisor to the Director of Civilian Aviation of Ethiopia. Mr. Fawcett plans to leave New York by air on the 26th of September, accompanied by his wife and family for Adais Abba.

For the past year, Mr. Fawcett has been operating the R. H. Fawcett Air Services at Cornwall. Approached by representatives of the Ethiopian government regarding the new position, Mr. Fawcett found the proposition attractive enough to accept. With almost a "carte blanche" in the choosing of certain personnel to take with him, "Dick" has had little difficulty in rounding up the nucleus of the staff he will need to carry out his new duties.

In principal importance, the first job awaiting him on his arrival at Haile Salaisse's capital is that of laying out a course of training for the building up of a trained Ethiopian Flying personnel. This will include the setting up of schools of instruction in flying, navigation, observation and the allied crafts necessary to an up-to-date Air Service. With a two-year contract with the Ethiopian government in his pocket Mr. Fawcett has high hopes of a most successful phase to his chosen career.

The Fawcett Air Service will be left in the capable hands of John Carr of Morrisburg, a DFC of the late war.

PENDING MEAT SHORTAGE CAUSES LITTLE WORRY

The prospective meat shortage looming across the Dominion is no doubt causing much concern to many people. In the wide area which makes Chesterville its trading point the buyers apparently have little to worry about. There is plenty of beef and pork on the hoof hereabouts and provision has been made to convert the pork into the choicest bacon, smoked shoulders and tenderized ham for the most critical housewife.

During the past several months there has been established in this village a miniature meat processing plant, where every operation carried on in the big plants is duplicated in sufficient volume to meet all requirements in pork products. It required a large addition to the former building and the installation of much new equipment, all of which appears to be running smoothly.

To the inexperienced it has never caused a thought how come you can step into a meat shop and order tenderized ham and smoked bacon and be served in a very short time. Science has improved on the old hickory chip method of smoking hams and bacon. It is all done now with the aid of electricity so controlled that you have delicate smoke or the smoky flavor more heavily impregnated. The tenderizing is also controlled by electric pumps as the fluid is forced through or between the tissues of meat. To most of us who only know cooking as the way to make meat tender all of this looks like a miracle.

With the processing of the pork and the large cold storage space provided by the meat retailers for the other different kinds of meat, the country wide meat shortage should not cause us much concern.

LIGHT IN DARKNESS

Light is so important in our daily lives that we are paralyzed when a power breakdown occurs. Even a blown fuse stops all activity until candles are lit and the fuse replaced. Yet not many of us truly realize that the blind are always in the dark. Some months ago two blind men were weaving in an exhibit by disabled workers in Toronto. Passersby paused to admire their skill incredulously. Then a fuse blew and the lights in that part of the building went out. The seeing workers all stopped but the blind men went on. Only then was it brought home to the onlookers what working in the dark meant.

Because all our activities are planned with the assumption that we can see, a different technique must be applied to the mechanics of daily living when a person cannot see. And it is not something that the average person can work out for himself.

That is why the work of The Canadian National Institute for the blind is important. For nearly thirty years the C.N.I.B. has been studying the best way to solve the problems of the blind. Its services have been designed by men without sight themselves to light a path for others through a darkened world. Research to improve the present service is continually going on.

Through the training which the Institute offers to those who have lost their sight, the ways of living and moving and working in the dark can be learned. The senses must be reoriented. The emphasis changes from sight to touch and hearing. Four senses must do the work of five. Men and women who cannot see must learn to listen more attentively and to interpret what they hear. Through handicrafts their fingers become more sensitive, more adept at recognizing objects. More important than physical adjustment to lack of sight is its acceptance by the mind and spirit. Only a blind person can lead one who has newly become sightless to a healthy constructive mental attitude towards his handicap.

Through the years many services have been developed by the C.N.I.B. Home teaching, Social Service, the Braille Library, Employment and Placement, (including cafeterias and stands); the supplying of raw materials for homeworkers and of appliances (such as watches, thermometers and games) specially designed for the use of the blind; the operation of sheltered workshops where sightless men and women are employed.

Through these services 14,000 blind people in Canada to-day have learned, in varying degrees, to pass the hours of darkness more constructively, more happily than would have been possible without the C.N.I.B. The annual campaign of the C.N.I.B. is on now. Its work cannot continue without the support of a generous public. You can lend a helping hand to those who cannot see. Give now —give generously.

CIRCUS GOODNESS

In "Capital Times," Madison, Wis.

Jes' afore th' circus comes I'm good as I kin be!
For Pop he sez jes' yesterday in confidence to me:
"I'm thinkin' mebbe that I'll take you all to Ringlings show;
"I've bin a-watchin' you—but I dunno, no, I dunno."

An' so we folks aroun' th' house is shinin' up to Dad,
An' cuttin' out th' stuff that makes the old man good and mad!
Grandma has stopped her cigarettes an' Sis has dropped her skirts;
An' Ma's begun to patch and sew some buttons on his shirts.

When he comes home at night we all run down the walk and shout
While Pop pretends that he don't know jes' what it's all about!
When he's a-lookin' I make out I'm doin' honest toil—
I didn't even make a face when I took castor oil!

I want t' see th' elephants an' all th' circus sights,
While Grandma sez she wants t' see th' latest styles in tights.
An' so you know th' reason why th' entire fam-i-lee
Is jes' afore th' circus comes as good as we kin be!

FIT FOR FUN

A seasonal warning is issued from Ottawa on medical checkups to ensure fitness for fun. Since many young people will be taking up sports and engaging in vigorous recreation programs, with return to classes in the Fall, the medical authorities urge parents, teachers and directors of athletics to insist on physical examinations before they allow the young people to exert themselves. This, it is pointed out, will ensure that there are no hidden factors which would make strenuous play inadvisable.

It does not require great learning to be a Christian; it requires only the honest heart and a willingness to obey God.—Barnes.

TIME FOR DECISION

By George W. James
The Statesman, Bowmanville

(Article No. 17

Article No. 16 of this series opened up the question of immigration as a matter closely related to trade and as such is of much interest to Canadian farmers. It is a question that engaged the attention of a few leaders even during war when it was impossible to admit but very few to this country. The government, engrossed with the national war effort, made little headway in formulating an immigration policy and only recently made its position known.

Public Interest

Since this question of immigration is of vast importance to Canada, and the whole world for that matter, and since it will have to be dealt with by the party returned to power after the next election much more vigorously than at present, the public will wish to know which party, Liberal or Progressive Conservative, is most likely to measure up to our national needs in this matter. As stated before, the contest rests between these two parties.

Two Policies

On the other hand, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, as far back as 1942, announced the clearcut postwar immigration policy of his party, has restated it from time to time and most recently in the House of Commons, Feb. 3, 1947. Prime Minister King deliberated until May 1, before accepting the Bracken challenge that the government should make its stand known in view of both the domestic and world situation at this time.

Which Party

Public interest will centre on what Mr. King and Mr. Bracken have stated as main considerations in respect to bringing in new settlers to Canada. They agree on broad principles. They differ in practical application. As fairly as possible in a brief summary their positions will be stated as we go along. Since Mr. Bracken's views have been frequently set forth they will be dealt with first. Mr. King's statement, May 1, will follow.

Two Factors

Speaking on immigration in the debate on the Speech From The Throne, Feb. 3, Mr. Bracken said: "Surplus of food in some countries and surplus of people in others, raises the question of movement of peoples across international boundaries. Expansion of immigration into Canada is urged by some, feared by others. The question is, shall we continue to limit our population while exporting huge surpluses of food to vast numbers abroad?"

Main Thesis

"Or shall we welcome immigration into Canada of reasonable numbers of healthy, democratically - minded peoples from the more crowded lands Obviously it is the part of wisdom for Canada to help strengthen the economics of food-deficit nations. It is also obvious that thinly populated nations exporting surpluses which may not be paid for, should give thought to redressing these ill balances by admission of desirable people from deficit lands."

From this thesis Mr. Bracken proceeded with argument which will be set forth in our next article.

Four-Bit Foreman

Jeremiah agreed to cut the grass for two dollars, but when Mrs. Stephenson returned home from a shopping tour she found him lolling under a shade tree while another darky was painfully pushing the lawn-mower over the grass.

"Shame on you, Jeremiah," she admonished. "Hiring someone else to do your work for you. How much did you agree to pay him?"

Two dollars and 50 cents, ma'am," was the lackadaisical reply.

"Why, Jeremiah," exclaimed the startled Mrs. Stephenson, "that's 50 cents more than I agreed to pay you!"

"Ah know dat, Miz Stephenson," was the calm rejoinder, "but it am wuth 50 cents to be boss all afternoon."

WHAT MAKES THIS JUMPING BEAN JUMP

A new type of Mexican jumping bean was discovered recently by an inspector of the Plant Protection Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture. A Toronto salesman coming from the United States declared to the Customs Officer at Fort Erie, Ont., a carton he had as "Mexican Jumping Beans." The Plant Protection Division Inspector knew that the Mexican Jumping Beans jumps because it contains the living larva of Carpocapsa saltitans, an insect common in Mexico. As Canada allows the importation of living insects only under permit when considered of practical value, the Mexican Jumping Bean being regarded as a novelty only, is therefore, prohibited.

When the inspector examined the beans in the carton he found instead of the common three celled pods, which provide shelter and food for Carpocapsa saltitans, 1,440 small plastic capsules not much like a bean of any kind in the carton. In each capsule was a small ball bearing that made the capsule jump like a cat on a hot griddle. "The best type of jumping bean I've seen" said the inspector, "because it does not present any pest problem".

As no agricultural or other restrictions applied, the new species of jumping bean is making its gyrations before those who are likely to buy such a novelty.

The "genuine" Mexican jumping bean has for years provided a nice profit for vendors at fairs and sidewalk pitches in the United States.

A sample of the new "bean" has been added to the official collection of "insect" interceptions in Ottawa.

So Dumb

Mother was slow to comprehend what seemed so perfectly clear to little Sue. The pride of the family was talking about a "fedder."

"A 'fedder'," mother questioned.

"Why, you know, Mummy," patiently explained Sue, "it's a leaf from a chicken."

WHEN A MAN accepts his pay does he ever stop to wonder how it got into his hand . . . who hired the accountants, who sells the products, who ordered the machinery, who picked out the site and built the factory, who put up the original money?

Creative Banking probably had a share in making that weekly pay a practical reality in his hand. Creative Bankng plus men of ability with the vision and the courage to borrow money and build it into factories or mines, or buildings.

At The Bank of Nova Scotia we're proud of our share in the development of industry in Canada, proud to have been associated with the men who have made those jobs, those wages and salaries so commonplace they're taken for granted.

Creative Banking helps create more work and better living for Canadians.

Spencerville Town Hall Destroyed, Believed Struck by Lightning During Storm

Edwardsburg Township hall, century-old landmark of Spencerville and for 92 years site of the annual Spencerville Agricultural Fair, was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. Loss is estimated at $30,000, only $4,000 of which is covered by insurance.

The historic old structure was thought to have been set alight by lightning some time during Saturday night or early Sunday morning. A particularly heavy lightning bolt struck in the village at about 2 a.m. and many residents believed it was responsible for the fire.

The blaze was first noticed at about 8 a.m. when smoke issuing from the windows and eaves indicated fire was smouldering inside. A bucket brigade was formed and fire fighting equipment rushed from Kemptville and Prescott, but by the time firemen reached the scene the building was a mass of flames.

Firemen concentrated their efforts to saving the United Church, adjoining the township hall, the United Church and Presbyterian manses, both located nearby.

Had the fire started a day later, it would have destroyed the exhibits for the 1947 agricultural fair which were to be set up Monday in anticipation of the fair opening Tuesday for a two-day run.

The building, an impressive old stone structure, was situated on property donated for the purpose by the late David Spencer, founder of the village.

Twenty years ago an annex was built to it, to house the junior classes of the pubic school. They are now without quarters.

An Odd Rule

It takes but one small step to carry us from the sublime to the ridiculous. But there is a dizzy flight of steps we must climb if we wish to go from the ridiculous to the sublime.

WEED OF THE WEEK

Common Ragweed

Common Ragweed is an annual weed which depends entirely on its seed, which is produced abundantly, for survival from year to year. This weed has two kinds of flowers on two quite separate portions of the plant. The stamens which contain the pollen are found along the spike topping the plant and its branches. The other kind which produce the seed are fewer in number and may be found in the axils of the leaves lower down on the plant.

It has been estimated that twenty per cent of all hay fever cases are caused by Common Ragweed and its allies. Pollen grains are produced abundantly from August to frost and being light in weight, the slightest breeze pollutes the atmosphere making it an easy matter to inhale the offending particles, much to the discomfort of hay fever sufferers.

An average plant may produce 5,000 seeds. These have great vitality and will remain in the soil for several years without injury. It can thus be seen that the prevention of seed production is of vital importance it this menace to health is going to be removed.

When growing in areas which can be cultivated, hand pulling, mowing to prevent seeding and after harvest cultivation are recommended as control measures. When growing in areas which cannot be cultivated, hand pulling, hand mowing and the use of chemical weed killers are recommended. This method of control is practical, effective and cheap. Spray as directed in Extension Circular No. 75 "Chemical Weed Control", obtainable from Agricultural Representatives, County Weed Inspectors or the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Ragweed is a noxious weed under The Weed Control Act. This legislation states that it must be destroyed before seeds mature. Due to the fact that the pollen may be carried long distances by the wind, it is of vital importance that everyone co-operate in cleaning up.

Stirton Phifer, Williamsburg Loses Barn by Fire

Damage amounting to more than $8,000 was caused on the farm of Stirton Phifer at Hess' factory, about two miles north of Williamsburg on Highway 31, at 2.30 Sunday morning when his barn burned after being struck by lightning.

Mr. Phifer and members of his family were slightly stunned by the bolt, but were able to go to the barn. With the help of a neighbor, Howard Merkley, who was the first on the scene, they removed a horse from the building. A sow and 13 pigs were burned, also about 80 tons of hay and some of the machinery.

The house, pigpen, henhouse and other outbuildings were saved with the help of passing motorists and neighbors who gathered in large numbers, and formed a bucket brigade, and the heavy rain which fell during the fire helped control the spread of the flames. It was daylight before the danger to the other buildings was past.

Letters to The Editor

Editor, Chesterville Record:

Slightly over three months ago, the Village Council passed and had approved by the Minister of Highways of Ontario, By-Law No. 706, to regulate traffic and prohibit the parking of vehicles on certain streets and parts of streets in the Village of Chesterville. Since that date "No Parking" signs have been erected at certain points to assist local people and outsiders in becoming familiar with the restricted areas. In addition, it is hoped that, before the end of this week, the remaining areas will be designated by white strips painted on King and Main Streets indicating where vehicles may be lawfully parked.

It is now considered that sufficient time has elapsed to enable those who are sufficiently interested to know where they may park and where they may not park. In spite of this it is noticed that there are still those who, either carelessly or deliberately, persist in violating the law.

For their benefit, therefore, and as a final warning, may it now be noted that instructions have been given the Local Constable to proceed to enforce the provisions of the By-Law. As to how much more pleasant and less expensive it will be for those who think we have no By-Law will depend on how willing each one is to co-operate to the extent that the laying of a charge will ne unnecessary.

P. S. BOYD, Reeve.

POWER OFF TO INSTALL NEW TRANSFORMER

One more prospective source of hydro trouble has been taken care of this morning in the replacing of the transformer on Main Street opposite the Kearns block. The transformer has been running too hot, with a resulting loss of power to the users in the block serviced by that unit. The replacement promises better service, although the Record has a glum face with the power off on Thursday morning and the "pot" slowly reaching the state of Shylock's heart.

W. R. Farrel's Barn Destroyed by Fire

Fire which may have been the result of spontaneous combustion, caused damage amounting to more than $13,000 when it burned the barn of W. R. Farrell, situated about one mile northeast of South Mountain on Saturday night.

Starting shortly after 7 p.m. the flames consumed the large iron roofed structure which was 100 feet long by 80 feet wide in which was the season's crop, about 700 hens, much of the farm machinery, and a quantity of grain and mill feed.

Residents of South Mountain, Winchester, Mountain, Inkerman, and hundreds of others from the rural community fought the blaze and saved the residence which was quite close to the barn.

The heavy rains which accompanied the night's electricical storms were a factor in saving the house and other out-buildings, and it was not until three o'clock in the morning that the volunteers were satisfied that the danger was past.

Mrs. Farrell said that she had only come to the house from the barn for about a half hour, when she heard hens making a noise, and when she went to look the whole of the barn was on fire along it's entire length. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The season's crop which Mr. Phifer had just finished storing in the barn was a complete loss along with part of the farm machinery. Fortunately the cows were in the pasture. Two horses in the barn were saved along with about 75 hens and a sow with nine pigs.

Lightning struck the barn about 2 o'clock and in ten minutes the barn was ablaze. In spite of the heavy rain, the heat was too intense for men to approach the burning building. It is understood insurance was carried.

HANDS AT WORK...

LEARNING TAILORING

ONTARIO'S productive capacity is the measure of her future prosperity. To assure the important tailoring industry a prominent place in the industrial life of the Province, trained hands are needed. Skill is important in the cutting, sewing, finishing and other branches of the industry. That is why veterans are being taught its various requirements ON THE JOB, by experts. The transition from apprenticeship to permanent employment means higher wages, job security and better working conditions.

Through plans sponsored by the Department of Veterans' Affairs and other agencies, hundreds of veterans have been trained in schools and ON THE JOB. They will acquire greater skill with further training and experience. Craftsmen of the future, they will have a share in Ontario's progress—an important part to play in her industrial development.

TAILORING

Leo P. Halloran, 26, of St. Thomas, a veteran of 4½ years' service with the Royal Canadian Navy, is shown here gaining practical experience in the alterations department of a large Toronto tailoring firm.

Basic training in various departments of the industry gives the veteran a background knowledge, essential to sales promotion and executive work within the industry.

GARDEN CHATS: By Mrs. Harry Allison

Hello Neighbour: Remember last week we discussed a method for storing green tomatoes until they ripened? I asked if anyone had tried it to please let me know so I could tell you all about it.

Well, one lady phoned as soon as the Record was out to say that she had tried wrapping the tomatoes in newspapers one year. "How were they?" I asked.

"To tell the truth," she replied, "I haven't any idea. I can't remember if they were good or not. It was a long time ago I did it." So that wasn't much satisfaction, except I know she reads this "stuff" I write.

One good neighbour did take the trouble to phone me, however, and I'll say again "Thank you, Mrs. John Turner." Mrs. Turner says that she and her mother have been storing green tomatoes for years and they are delicious. They have kept as late as January. Here is how it is done.

Just before the frost, pick the nice green tomatoes, wrap each separately in newspaper, place in a box and leave in a cool dry place—as cold as possible without danger of frost. About every second week unwrap them and take out any that are ripe. Re-wrap the green ones and leave them to ripen.

Now doesn't that sound simple? Let's all try it. Just picture sliced ripe tomatoes with the Christmas turkey, and from your own garden too. They would certainly taste good about then.

Then I heard, too, about pulling the tomato plant out by root with the green fruits still on and hanging up the whole plant in the cellar. The ripe ones can be picked off as they ripen. This sounds simple too but I imagine they wouldn't last as long as by Mrs. Turner's method.

Something I would like to know is how early can I make sauer kraut? Some of my cabbages are bursting and I'd love to turn them into that winter favourite, but mother says it's too soon. She thinks it would get too sour. Let us hear again from a "Voice of Experience".

I was just reading recently that now is the time to transplant evergreens. Soak them with water but don't use any fertilizer. You can transplant peonies now too. Two inches of covering is plenty for them they say. In fact, they tell me you can divide and transplant any perenials that are not blooming now. I never feel the urge to do transplanting now, though Spring always seems the more appropriate season.

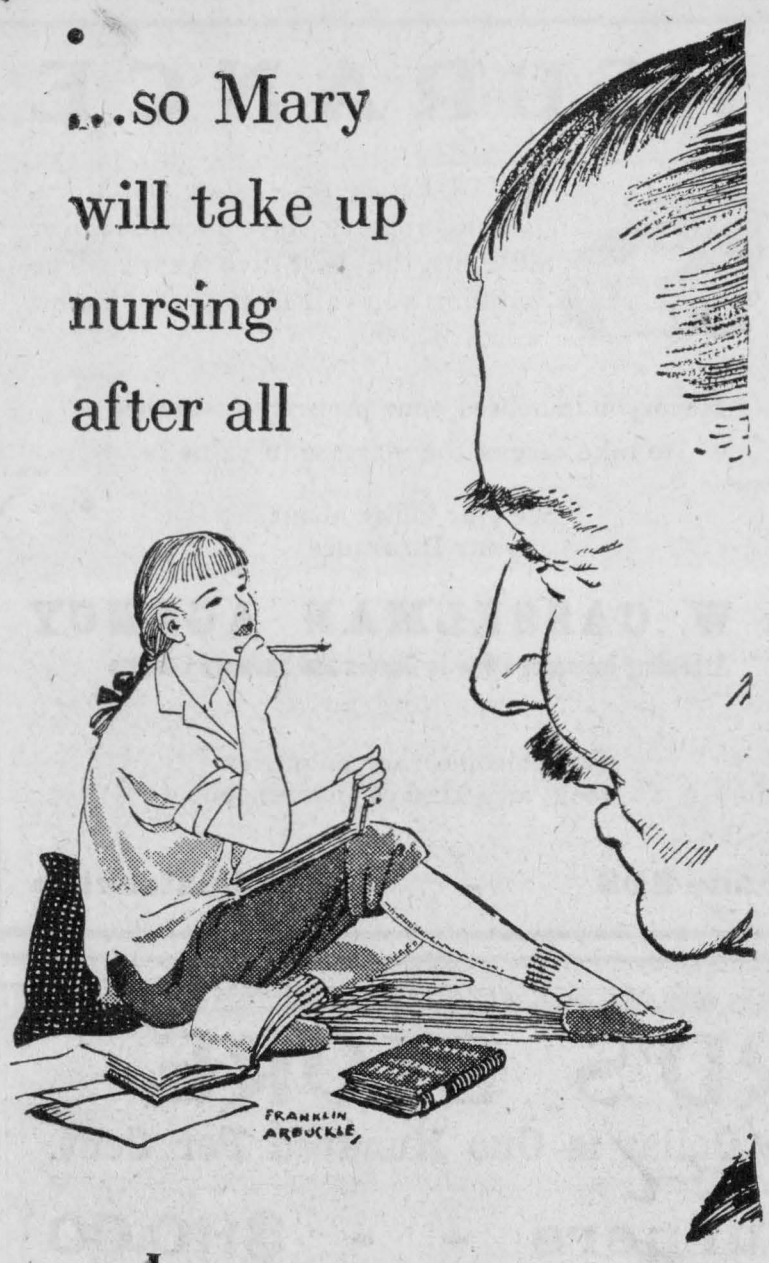
I finally got around to-day to pot my geraniums for winter. Last Spring I got a package of geranium seeds. It cost me 25c and only nine seeds grew. Of these only six withstood transplanting, etc., and these I dug up to-day. They looked so sturdy, I hadn't the heart to break off slips of them. Then further, they haven't bloomed yet and I'm most curious to know what the flowers will be like, so I just dug up each plant and put them in a pot. Here's hoping they grow—and bloom. I'll tell you if I have any unusual flowers.

I got a package of cleame (Spider Plant) in a seed collection last Spring. They have made quite a showing too. From a distance they resemble pink phlox, but at close range they are peculiar-looking things. I've forgotten the botanical term, but they open first at the base of the flower cluster. These go to seed and more flowerettes open higher up on the stalk. This has been going on for over a month and as yet they haven't reached their maximum of growth. I like flowers that bloom for a long time.

Well here's hoping that old Jack Frost keeps away for a while yet. Wouldn't you hate to loose your nice zinnias, asters, marigolds and so on I would. So here's to a "frostless" September.

See you next week.

...so Mary will take up nursing after all



IT LOOKED for a while as if a temporary financial problem in the family might keep Mary from finishing "High". If she had to quit school to help the family income that would have meant good-bye to her hopes of becoming a nurse.

But here she is, starting her final year. Did her Dad suddenly come into some money?

No . . . and yes. He consulted his bank manager, who told him how the bank, through personal loans, often helped people to meet just such situations. Arrangements were made, and now Mary will take up nursing after all.

In 1946 Canada's banks made half a million personal loans to Canadian men and women.

TAKE A TIP

To obtain best results from Pressure Cooker:

1. Keep the cover handle and cooker handle tight.
2. Always keep sealing bands clean and be sure vent pipe is open and clean before each use.
3. Be careful not to drop indicator weight.
4. Never pour cold water into a dry, overheated cooker as this may cause it to crack.
5. Be sure at all times to remove indicator weight before attempting to remove cover. Do not force cover open if it seems to stick or is hard to turn—this means there is still pressure in the cooker and it should be cooled again in a pan of cold water.
6. If the cooker should leak, remove the gasket and turn it over. Insert it again.
7. When cooker is not in use, it is advisable to keep the lid off, or for compact storing, turn cover upside down. Keep it in a dry place.
8. Do not insert indicator weight in water as this will cause the inside of it to rust.
9. Never strike rim of cooker with spoon or knife. This will cause nicks and allow steam to escape.
