VON comes to Visit

Nancy Graham, with the Winchester VON, was checking Morrisburg resident Leland Van Allen's blood pressure last week. Leland has Multiple Sclerosis, and wife Sandra says, "Without the VON, I don't know what I'd do. You can't say enough good things about them." Blood pressure checks, assisting with hygiene, and counselling patient and family in consultation with the patient's physician, are a few of Nancy's duties on a routine visit. VON Awareness Week is January 22-26, and a tea to honor the event will be held January 23 at the Lion's Hall in Winchester. —C. Thompson photo

Garbage costs down

But Township needs co-operation

WILLIAMSBURG TOWNSHIP — There was good news and bad news regarding the garbage agreement between the Village of Morrisburg and Township of Williamsburg at the regular meeting of council here last Tuesday night.

The good news was that the village's share to maintain and operate the jointly-used township dump dropped from $29,000 in 1988 to $25,600 for 1989 based on the agreed upon 60/40 split.

The total operating cost for 1988 was $76,500 and in 1989 this figure dropped to $64,000.

The decrease was due mainly to the closing of the Bouck's Hill dump which resulted in a drop in cost for fill and backhoe.

"It isn't very often anything drops," said Williamsburg Township Reeve Johnny Whitteker.

Township Roads Superintendent, Hugh Garlough, said a (big) area of savings was having a person at the dump fulltime.

"People aren't in there dumping all the time, and with one dump we're better able to control it," he said.

Village not cooperating

On the bad side of the news for the village, Garlough claimed the village is not cooperating in garbage separation.

"Just this week the truck showed up with a half load of Christmas trees and the rest regular garbage," said Garlough.

"They aren't separating their garbage," he said. "They'll separate a little paper, then they just throw everything in together."

"We shouldn't have to tell them every week," said Garlough claiming he has talked to Village Works Superintendent Claire VanAllen.

"It's a shame to see the amount of cardboard they bring in, not separated, that the dozer has to cover up," said Garlough.

"They could have brought the Christmas trees back with their single axle truck," he said. "And the same with their leaves in the fall."

"You can imagine how many leaves come from the village," he said. "They brought one load of leaves back and after that it was all mixed."

Garlough suggested perhaps the village could put a notice in the paper explaining the separation.

"The people would probably try to separate if they knew," he said. "They would probably cooperate and save their papers to be put out on one day."

"We can burn anything that doesn't have plastic in it and the people probably don't realize this," said Whitteker.

"They're paying 40 per cent of the costs, but they are using up our space," said Whitteker. "I think we should send a letter asking for more cooperation."

McInnis resigns

by Mike Thompson
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — The village of Morrisburg will now have to go outside the municipality for its legal advice.

Mike McInnis of the local law firm MacEwen and McInnis submitted his resignation January 8.

The former Morrisburg Reeve and United Counties Warden said "it was nothing personal" but he is "too busy now to contend with all of the responsibilities that come with being solicitor of Morrisburg."

Council has asked McInnis to re-consider but their efforts failed to persuade him.

One other law firm remains in Morrisburg. However it is unlikely that Gorrell and Grenkie will take the vacant position because one of its partners, Peter Remillard is a municipal councillor and he would have to declare Conflict of Interest on all matters requiring a legal opinion.

Traditionally, Morrisburg council has simply appointed a law firm rather than calling for tenders.

Morrisburg clerk-treasurer, Cheryl Tynski, said council will have to select a law firm that best suits the municipality's needs.

She says council intends to appoint a firm before February.

She added that there are a considerable number of reputable firms in the area, including Cornwall and Brockville, however she admitted the municipality will certainly miss the guidance and experience of McInnis.

Black in town

by Mike Thompson
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — Ontario Minister of Tourism and Recreation Ken Black will be in Morrisburg Friday for an informal meeting with the 12 commissioners of the St. Lawrence Parks.

It is also expected that Black will make a major grant announcement for Eastern Ontario as part of the government's commitment to spend $20 million on recreation and tourism this year.

A total of 244 projects, across the province, will receive funding in 1990.

Black, the MPP for Muskoka-Georgian Bay, was appointed minister last summer and replaced Hugh O'Neil, the MPP for Quinte and now the Minister of Mines.

Iroquois opposes French clinic

BY Catherine Thompson
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS — At a regular meeting last Tuesday, Iroquois Council unanimously supported a resolution of the Township of Charlottenburgh, opposing the construction of French only health service projects.

"It's a bit much at this time with the existing situation in health services," said Deputy Reeve Ed Thompson, and Councillor Clare Brown noted the City of Cornwall had also objected to the construction of facilities.

The three-part resolution claims the new health clinic for French speaking residents only amounts to descrimination against English speaking residents. It requests the Premier of Ontario to ensure that new health facilities, including proposed health centres for Cornwall and Alexandria be for all members of the community, and to consider consolidating new facilities within existing health institutions, such as hospitals, to avoid needless duplication in administration.

Canadian Parents for French letter filed

In a similar vein of thought, council voted unanimously to file a letter from Canadian Parents for French (CPF), dated December 5.

CPF is asking councils to ignore a request by the City of Orillia to oppose implementation of the French Language Services act, on grounds that Orillia's claims are based on misinformation.

CPF refutes Orillia's claims that the FLS Act will cause non-Francophone speaking Canadians to lose jobs, and that it forces government employees to learn a second language to qualify for government jobs, stating that in fact no employee has lost a job or been forced to learn French as a result of the Act.

Council had previously supported Orillia's resolution, and was in no mood to change their decision.

"I refute statements by CPF that there aren't times and circumstances where the province abuses the French language requirement," said Councillor Clare Brown.

Brown noted controversy surrounding a recent government advertisement in the Ottawa Citizen for an agricultural representative in Glengarry County, with a necessary qualification as "advanced knowledge of oral and written French, and a good command of English."

He cited similar language qualifications had been placed on an ad for a grain inspector in Napanee, "which isn't even in Eastern Ontario."

Councillor Ron Miller called attention to government funding of Canadian Parents for French. "This isn't a bilingual country. Can I get funding if I am Chinese, or one of the two official languages in the country?" he asked.

"That is the case," replied Reeve John McAllister, who is a member of Canadian Parents for French.

The reeve suggested council should write a letter to CPF or the ministry of state, if they wished to refute the Canadian Parents for French letter.

"If council wishes to react, they should study Bill 8. But we have neither time nor inclination, so I recommend filing it," said Deputy Reeve Ed Thompson.

Bishop found guilty of two assault charges

by Mike Thompson
Leader Staff

CORNWALL — The former owner-operator of the Pinecrest Lodge in Hulbert was found guilty of two charges, and acquitted on a third, in connection with an OPP investigation into abuse and neglect of residents.

District Court Judge Jean A. Forget sentenced Shirley Bishop of Cardinal to 30 days in jail or a $250 fine for assaulting resident Mabel Fawcett and an additional 30 consecutive days or a $350 fine for assaulting another resident Martha Peterson.

Both ladies lived at the Pinecrest Lodge.

Bishop was found not guilty of a subsequent charge of neglect.

Default of payment would result in 30 days in jail for each charge.

It is unclear whether Bishop intends to appeal the verdict.

The three charges are among 24 counts of neglect and abuse filed against Bishop and her husband Roger in October of 1988.

They were laid following a six-month investigation by Morrisburg and Prescott OPP into two resting homes formerly operated by the couple, the Pinecrest Lodge and Riverview Manor in Cardinal.

The nature of the charges range from assault causing bodily harm to failure to provide the necessaries of life.

The investigation was launched in March 1988 after complaints from relatives of residents regarding improper care and unhealthy practices.

There remains a number of outstanding charges against the Bishops, which will be heard in District Court Court in Brockville on January 31 and February 1 and 2 in connection with the Riverview Manor.

New management has since taken over the Lodge in Hulbert while the Bishops continue to live in the Riverview Manor which is no longer in business.

To pass Sunday shopping

WILLIAMSBURG — The issue of Sunday shopping was dealt with very quickly at the regular meeting of Williamsburg Township council here last Tuesday.

In response to a question by Neil Strader of McHaffie's Flea Market, Reeve Johnny Whitteker indicated a public meeting had been set for February 13, and if there were no major objections council would pass the bylaw allowing Sunday and holiday openings.

"When the government first passed the law we felt we didn't have to do anything," said Whitteker. "It involved stores employing more than four employees and over 2400 square feet and really didn't affect us."

"But it's been brought to our attention in the last month that the Ontario Provincial Police have been visiting local business," said Whitteker pointing to The Clothing Barn, The Village Store at Upper Canada Village and McHaffie's Flea Market.

"It is the feeling of council to pass the bylaw," he said. "We're not encouraging the stores to stay open, but we can't have them liable to $50,000 fines either."

Whitteker explained that he had taken it upon himself to visit both the Lutheran and United Church ministers to discuss the issue.

"They were happy I had come to them," said Whitteker.

"Unless we get too many objections or council changes its mind, we will be passing the bylaw after the February 13 meeting."

"I think we have pretty good reason to pass it," he said.

Break/enter in Iroquois

IROQUOIS — The owners of the Red and White grocery store in Iroquois are still assessing the total loss of a break-and-enter sometime Monday night.

Police, investigating the incident, have reported a large quantity of missing cigarette cartons.

Employees arrived early Tuesday morning and discovered the store's window and south-east door smashed.

Manager faces charges

IROQUOIS — The former manager of W.L. Peters Appliance Store in Iroquois is facing eight counts of theft following a five month OPP investigation.

The charges were laid after a number of electronic appliances were reported stolen by store owner Wilfred Peters beginning in September.

Shawn Lapier, 21, of RR2 Iroquois is scheduled to appear in Provincial Criminal Court January 30.

The charges were laid by Morrisburg OPP last week.

Receives autographed jersey

Fan letter pays big dividends

Mike Thompson
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — The Montreal Canadiens are considered by many to be one of the classiest organizations in professional sports.

Last Wednesday's events only added further proof.

That morning, 12-year-old Janet Hartwell was surprised when a parcel, addressed to her school, Morrisburg Public, was delivered to her classroom.

With her teacher, Muriel McIntosh and classmates watching, Hartwell unwrapped the mysterious package.

Much to her surprise, she discovered a Canadiens jersey autographed by her favorite player Patrick Roy, number 33.

"I couldn't believe it," says the smiling Hartwell.

About a month ago Hartwell sent Roy a fan letter and included a drawing of the goaltender, which she made herself.

"Mrs. McIntosh helped me quite a bit with the letter but the picture I did on my own," she says proudly.

Andre Charlebois, another teacher and life-long fan of the Habs, provided the two ladies with the mailing adress.

"All I did was send him a letter before Christmas and told him how much I like to watch him play," says Hartwell.

Like many other fans, Hartwell received a team picture of the Canadiens as well as an individual photo of Roy.

"I was happy with that," she says.

But a few weeks later the jersey arrived and now Hartwell is convinced that Roy "is the best goalie in the world".

Hartwell confesses she rarely watches an entire hockey game.

"I get so tired but from now on I'm going to try and stay up, that's if mom says it's okay," she says.

Charlebois says he isn't surprised by the unusual display of generosity.

"Part of what makes the Canadiens such a great team is what they do off the ice as well as on," he says.

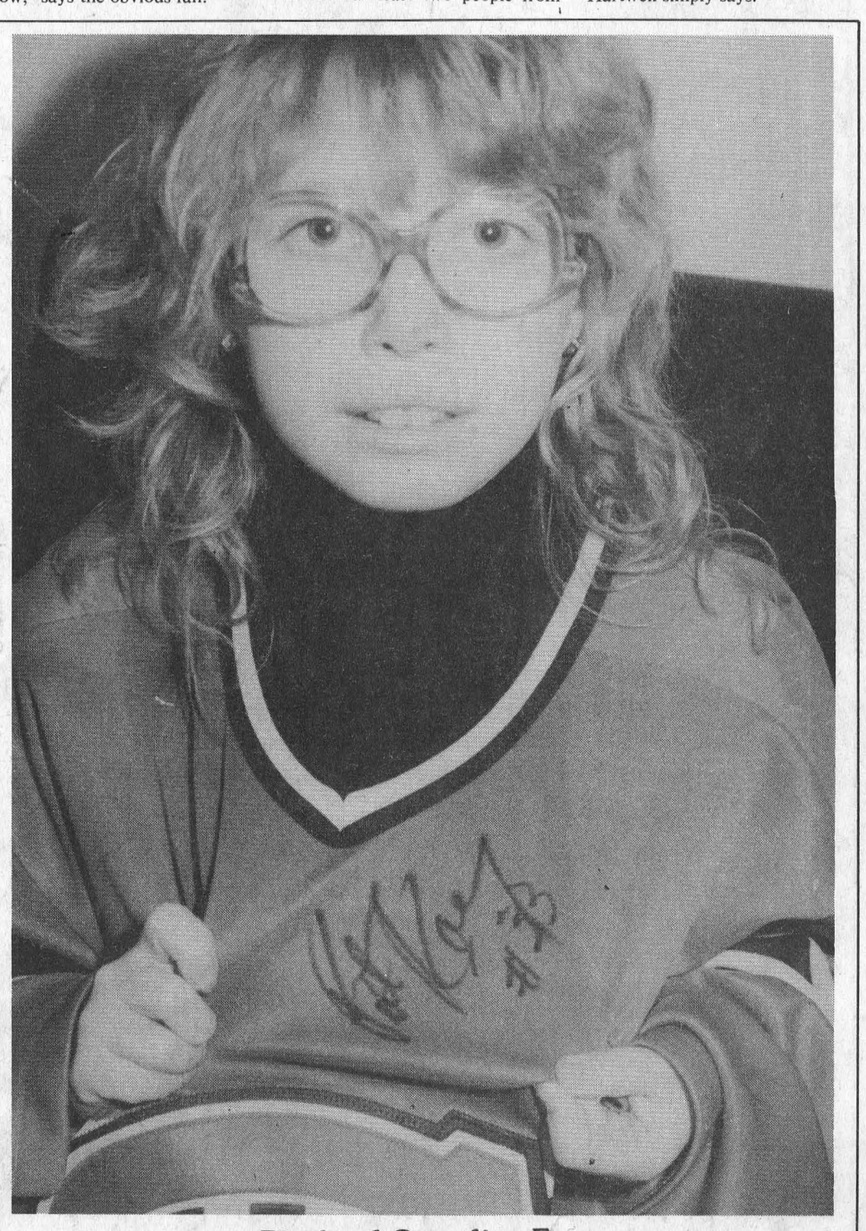
"They've always been a classy organization."

Hartwell says she intends on sending Roy a "Thank You" card for the gifts.

"I might also put in a 'Get Well' card because he's got the flu now," says the obvious fan.

Regardless of whether or not the Canadiens manage to make it to the Stanley Cup, they can rest assured at least two people from Morrisburg Public will be cheering them on.

"They're just awesome," Hartwell simply says.



Die-hard Canadien Fan

Despite her age 12-year old Janet Hartwell has been a fan of the Montreal Canadiens for quite some time. Recently, the Morrisburg Public students sent a fan letter to goal-tender Patrick Roy and last week she received an autographed Canadiens jersey. Hartwell said she intends on sending Roy a Thank You card for the gift. —Staff photo M. Thompson

Township council takes aim on wild dog pack

by Bonnie McNairn
Leader Staff

WILLIAMSBURG TOWNSHIP — Like the notorious beaver, wild dogs are becoming a nusiance here, and township resident Bruce Garlough was at the regular meeting of council last Tuesday asking that something be done.

Wild dogs have been an on-again, off-again problem in the township for several years particularly in the area near the Ostrander junk yard south of the police village of Williamsburg, and the township dump.

Although Frank Ostrander has co-operated, and has given his permission for the township dog catcher to come on to his property, success so far has not been reached.

Recently Bruce Garlough's dog was killed and residents on the road are afraid of attacks, to themselves and their cattle.

Although shooting has been the norm, Garlough claimed it is not solving the problem and he suggested the purchase of a trap at $435.

The type of trap discussed is used by the Ottawa Humane Society. Bait is placed inside and when the animal enters the door closes.

Curently the pack is estimated at about six dogs but Township Roads Superintendent Hugh Garlough said he recently spotted them and he estimated closer to 10 animals. He also claimed four to six of them appeared to be from nine to 10 months old.

Discussion followed on the duplication of services, with both the trap and the dog catcher.

But councillor Trevor Tolley pointed out that the dog catcher could go to the Ostrander property every day for a week and not get them. The cost would easily equal the price of the trap.

Bruce Garlough even agreed that the trap could be left on his property and he could check it regularly.

"People shouldn't have to live in fear," said councillor Rowdy Gillard and Reeve Johnny Whitteker agreed claiming an effort had to be put forward.

"The trap is a humane way of catching them," said Whitteker.

One problem pointed out with eliminating the dogs, and one that won't be solved by the trap, is distinguishing the wild dogs from someone's farm dog or pet.

To prevent having a dog killed, as a wild dog, township residents should ensure their animals are wearing a collar and their tag.

Council moved to purchase the trap, but before the matter was put to rest Whitteker had one further question to put to Garlough.

"It wouldn't work for beavers would it?" he asked.

Williamsburg council briefs

WILLIAMSBURG TOWNSHIP — Council here dealt with correspondence from Bathurst Township concerning recycling last Tuesday.

Bathurst Township is taking the stand that government support for recycling is inadequate.

"They are creating more landfill sites instead of going to incineration or recycling, said Reeve Johnny Whitteker. "I think Bathurst wants to see the amount of garbage cut down."

Council endorsed the letter.

Council also dealt with correspondence from the Township of Charlottenburg regarding the unilingual French health care facility proposed for the City of Cornwall.

Charlottenburg is claiming the facility will be a duplication of services on a linguistic basis, and says it is difficult to preceive why parallel service would be offered in lieu of equal services to all residents.

"I have asked if we wouldn't be further ahead to have bilingual people to deal with everyone," said Whitteker. "I think the right direction is the one the health unit is taking to offer bilingual service."

"I am against duplication of services where one is totally French and the other bilingual," said Whitteker.

The Township of Charlottenburg received 100 per cent support endorsement on its resolution.

Council voted to donate $50 to the Matilda Township Carnival.

"I think we should give a small amount," said Reeve Johnny Whitteker. "I would imagine there are people from Williamsburg Township who compete in some of the events."

The request also led Whitteker to enquire about a Carnival for Williamsburg Township.

"I think it should be discussed," he said. "We used to have a carnival in the Village of Williamsburg and I would like to see something for the whole township."

Clerk Treasurer Mike Waddell read portions of a letter from the Provincial Anti-Drug Secretariat.

Their intent is to reduce the drug problem where it orginates and they are willing to work with community groups.

The brunt of the letter regarded grant programs available to organize and carry out unique programs.

Program grants are available up to $50,000 a year, the amount depending on the program.

The grants are not open to municipalities, but the letter was sent to council with the intent that it be distributed to any community group which might be interested.

High school committee moving ahead

MORRISBURG — Although, for the time being, they have been keeping a low profile the committee organizing the 1992 Morrisburg High School Reunion has been hard at work the last few months, and their efforts are beginning to pay off.

The first major task for the committee, headed by president Barbara Sheridan, was to prepare a list of students who attended Morrisburg Collegiate and Morrisburg High School.

That list has now grown to 2,208 names covering the years from 1931 to 1967.

Eleanor VanAllen, who has been handling the massive task, is now busy trying to find the addresses of those on the lists.

She is confident she has most of the names, but says she is lacking some from the late 40s, for which she was unable to obtain complete records. She has also compiled a small list of those students who attended classes at the first high school which burned in the late 1920s.

Although plans for the reunion, scheduled for the weekend of July 3, 4, 5, 1992, are far from being finalized, the committee is now studying reunions held at other high schools.

Among other events, they are looking at an opening wine and cheese party, a dinner and dance, church services, and a souvenir book.

Letters have been sent to local businesses and industries seeking financial support. They are hoping some money will come in, in the very near future to enable them to pay for the mailing of notices which will be going out to all names on their lists.

The high school building will be 75 years old in 1992, which also marks the 25th anniversary of the final closing of its doors on June 28, 1967.

County Council opposes unilingual clinic, approves recommendations

by Catherine Thompson
Leader Staff

CORNWALL — County Council approved almost unanimously, a three-part resolution supporting a petition by the Alliance for the Preservation of English (APEC) at a regular meeting here yesterday.

Moved by Carol Ann Ross, reeve of Charlottenburg Township, the motion requests the Premier of Ontario to ensure any new health facilities including a $1.2 million center proposed for francophones only, with offices in Cornwall and Alexandria, be organized to serve all members of the community. It requests new facilities be consolidated within existing health institutions to avoid needless duplication.

The second part requests a petition to the province to readvertise a job for a Glengarry agricultural representative, listing French language proficiency as an asset, not a necessary qualification.

The third is that counties council adopt a hiring policy which would list bilingualism as an asset, but not a necessary qualification. However, if a person need be bilingual in a special circumstance, the issue would first be brought to council for approval.

The resolution followed on the heels of an appeal from Don Ross, Cornwall chapter President of Alliance for the Preservation of English, who asked council to address and support the group's position on several controversial items.

Ross said APEC is opposed to the creation of a separate health center on grounds that it is descriminatory to anglophones and causes duplication of administrative costs.

"We ask you to support the Cornwall Academy of Medicine and some of our local municipal councils who have asked the province to reconsider," said Ross. "We ask that the $1.2 million be given to the existing hospitals to expand services for all language groups."

Secondly, APEC protests and asked council to oppose the second-class status given to English in an advertisement in the Ottawa Citizen for an agricultural representative for Glengarry County. The ad called for an applicant with advanced oral and superior written French language skills, and only a good command of English.

"Virtually all of our farmers can speak English as either a first or second language," said Ross. "Why should qualified English speaking people be denied the right to this job?"

After protests by APEC and farm organizations, Cornwall MPP John Cleary announced the ads would be changed to require proficiency in French and English, According to Ross the change is cosmetic, and would still deny a job to an English-speaking person with excellent agricultural skills, on the basis of language.

The third issue concerns hiring by the counties and refers to a case where the county library board advertised for, and hired, an assistant librarian, listing bilingualism as a necessarry qualification.

"I understand there is no such policy that jobs be bilingual and yet it happened," said Rross.

County clerk Ray Lapointe affirmed that the counties do not require bilingualism for positions. But in the above case, a mistake in advertising had been made by library authorities, and was admitted by the County Library Board.

County councillors discussed the issue briefly. Williamsburg reeve Johnny Whitteker said his council has opposed the French only health centre.

"It seems like duplication of services if we're going to serve them at the Eastern Ontario Health Unit in both languages, when they're being served at the unilingual French clinic."

As chairperson of the E.O.H.U., which provides bilingual services, Whitteker believes the government can and should provide services in both languages. He was also disturbed by the controversy the proposed clinic had caused, laying some of the blame for the application for a unilingual center at the door of the Eastern Ontario Health Council.

However, he supported the bilingual requirement for the agricultural representative, because of a large French population in Glengarry County, and congratulated MPP John Cleary for getting the wording of the advertisement changed from "superior French" to proficiency in French and English."

Osnabruck Township deputy reeve Carson Elliott drew attention to a similar resolution opposing the health centre passed by his township last week, on grounds that local hospitals are requesting the municipality, private sector, the counties and the province for funds, to do renovations and that French services can be provided at existing health facilities.

"We're getting tapped four times, and it comes to the fine line. How much more are ratepayers going to pay?" asked Elliott.

After these and other comments, council decided to bring the issue up again Tuesday. The motion was passed and forwarded to the Premier of Ontario, Minister of Health Elinor Caplan, SDG MPP Noble villeneuve and Cornwall MPP John Cleary.

Smoking in work place

by Catherine Thompson
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS — "We're just going from one pickle into another," said Reeve John McAllister as council turned its attention to smoking in the work place here last Tuesday.

Next on the agenda, and just before some councillors "lit up" in customary fashion, was legislation regarding smoking in the workplace, effective January 1, 1990.

According to literature by the Ministry of Labour, The Smoking in the Workplace Act applies to all workplaces under provincial jurisdiction, or about 90 per cent of the Ontario work force, including retail, commercial, manufacturing and mining operations, hospitals, social agencies and educational institutions.

However, areas of a workplace used primarily by the public such as shopping malls are exempt from the Act.

If an employer has decided not to designate a smoking area, smoking is automatically prohibited in that workplace. If he or she designates a smoking area, the maximum size may be only 25 per cent of the total floor area.

Employers convicted of an offence may be subject to a maximum fine of $25,000 and employees to a maximum fine of $500.

Winchester Hospital gets large bequest
Winchester Hospital director, James Egan, left-and Marcia McQuaig of Cornwall are standing beside a plaque commemorating the legacy of Marcia's uncle and aunt, Elgin and Olive McIntosh, of Williamsburg Township. When the couple died in 1988, leaving no heirs, Marcia, a former nurse, says she was partly responsible in influencing her father, the executor, in leaving the entire estate of $304,000 to the hospital. "It will be used in our capital accounts for new equipment," says Egan. —C. Thompson photo

Blame it on the weather

Our moods and our physical well-being vary constantly from day to day. Sometimes, everything looks rosy, and nothing seems impossible. At other times everything seems dark and gloomy, even minor undertakings require a huge effort and mistakes are common, as nothing seems to go right.

People may be inclined to blame these bad days and bad moods on the weather, and they are probably more nearly correct than they realize. For the weather not only affects our health and our disposition, but quite likely our social behaviour as well. Sunny days usually bring forth sunny faces, as the daily task seems lighter and the world looks brighter.

People suffering from sinus trouble, asthma, arthritis or healed bone fractures often experience annoyance from changing weather. Variations in moisture and temperature seem to affect the degree of discomfort. But because the pains are also experienced indoors where the weather has little effect, some experts support the theory that certain types of pressure fluctuations may be at the root of this kind of physical discomfort.

Sudden changes in temperature seem to co-incide with the high frequency of colds in winter, and this has been explained by the sharp contrast between dry, overheated rooms and the cold outdoor temperatures.

Man is likely to be less ambitious, less efficient, during the cold spells of winter, and during the hot, humid days of midsummer, than in the spring and fall, when the weather in most zones is nearly ideal.

So the weather really can have an effect on people's moods as well as on their general health. And since we have not been able, as yet, to do much about the weather, all we can do is persevere, until it becomes more favorable.

Inventions in Canada

From the Stone Age onward, beginning perhaps with the discovery of fire, and then the wheel, invention has been one of the most important occupations of mankind. It has brought us immense benefits, but it has also brought problems in its wake. The question is how to make invention work in our best interests, knowing that it will never cease, nor even falter.

If inventive skill is any measure of national accomplishment, Canada has some justification for a great deal of pride. At least three of the most popular team sports were invented in Canada by Canadians — lacrosse, hockey and basketball. Countless other inventions, too, claim Canadian origin although, of course, many did not stand the rigors of time. In 1889, for instance, a lady in Calgary invented a mechanical skirt lifter, which discreetly raised her hem as she crossed the muddy streets. That one did not prove to be a real winner. The Canadian Patent Office has a list of far more impressive inventions, dating as far back as 1791, when the Governor General in Council granted a whole series of patents on a process for the making of potash.

Since those early efforts, Canadians or Canadian residents have broken new ground in such fields as transportation (with hydrofoils, snowmobiles, STOL aircraft, the Avro Arrow and the Canadarm); food and agriculture (harvesting machines, pre-cooked baby cereals, early and disease-resistant wheat, corn and other cereals); and communications (the telephone, A.C. radio tube and the wirephoto).

Other Canadian inventions which have received less publicity, but have made significant contributions to man's progress are: kerosene, invented in 1846 by Dr. Abraham Gesner of Halifax; the first controllable-pitch propellor in 1927 by Robert Turnbull of Rothesay, N.B.; the first panoramic camera in 1887 by John Connor of Elora, Ontario.

One of the problems which followed the development of every one of the most ingenious inventions of mankind has been the problem of their social acceptance. The Wright brothers were ridiculed after their first attempts to fly heavier-than-air craft.

But such protest, and such stupid reasoning can only be regressive. John Dewey, a noted U.S. philosopher, said nearly half a century ago: "There is no greater sign of paralysis of the imagination than the belief, assiduously propagated by some who pride themselves on superior taste, that the machine is the source of our troubles — it is hard to think of anything more childish than the animism which puts the blame on machinery".

Fairness to all on Sunday

(THE TORONTO STAR)

In his annual public address, Ontario Chief Justice William Howland had some straight talk about the rule of law. "Defiance of the law is not the answer," he said. "The forces of law and order must stand firm".

Although the Chief Justice did not refer to any specific issue, it's reasonable to ask if he was thinking about the widespread violations of Ontario's local-option law on Sunday shopping.

Regardless of what he had in mind, his comment that a law should be changed if it no longer represents the will of the people is relevant to a Sunday shopping law that's a disaster for two main reasons:

First, by letting municipalities decide whether stores will open on Sundays instead of passing a province-wide law, Queen's Park invites a patchwork of shopping laws.

Second, by approving a law full of inconsistencies — such as exemptions for tourist areas or large fruit stores — the government is open to accusations of unfairness.

Yet in the face of these glaring defects, Premier David Peterson relies on courts and police to make the law work. Why won't he summon the will to do what he should have done long ago. Provide a province-wide law that's fair to all retailers? Such a law would command public respect.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles
by Bonnie McNairn

The Morrisburg and District Lions Club decided to turn over the profits from their Winter Carnival to the Disaster Fund at Chaplais, Quebec. That community had witnessed a disastrous New Year's Eve fire in which 45 people died at a party put on by the Lions Club.

It was reported that a new subdivision was being planned adjacent to Westwinds Drive at Morrisburg's western perimeter Thirty-seven serviced lots were being planned in Williamsburg Township on the former Harry Steward property. The new development was to be an extension of West Winds Park. Although agreements were still on a verbal basis, developer Harry Gatward congratulated both councils for their co-operation.

Captain Jeff MacDonald of Morrisburg received his Wings after completion of a pilot's training course at Number Two Canadian Forces Flying Training School at Moose Jaw, Sask. Captain MacDonald joined the services in 1974 after graduating from the University of Guelph. He served as an Air Navigator for three years before commencing pilot training. He was now to transfer to CFB Trenton for further training on the Hercules aircraft.

John Allison Real Estate had an older three-bedroom home on Augusta Street listed for sale for $38,500. The home had a new furnace, roof and aluminum windows, and included a living room, dining room, kitchen, bath, garage and sun porch.

At the Red & White in Iroquois, a 500 gram jar of Skippy peanut butter was 99 cents, and a 198 gram tin of Clover Leaf white tuna was $1.59.

The January 16, 1970 issue of The Leader reported another new industry was coming to Morrisburg. Sapra, of Milan, Italy, manufacturers of lightweight steel frames for industrial, agricultural and commercial buildings, was expected to hire up to 100 employees. The announcement, made at Morrisburg Council indicated an agreement had been negotiated and by-laws passed to accommodate the industry. The company was to operate out of the civic works building on Allison Avenue, until their own plant was completed. The location of the plant was still under consideration.

The Morrisburg Combines took over first place in their league with 5-1 and 2-1 wins over the Kemptville Royals.

Although the Morrisburg Junior B Royals had the top team in the league, they were not receiving fan support. In their most recent win they defeated Winchester 5-2. Scoring for the Royals were Charlie Duval with two, Tom Whelan, Danny Cassell and Don Mabo.

At the Dominion, round steak was $1.09 per pound and Swift's breakfast bacon was 69c for a 1-lb. package.

Charlie Crober's team of Junior Cassell, Floyd Fisher and John McIntosh won the battle for the Calvert Trophy at the Morrisburg Curling Club. For the win, the Crober rink defeated Frank Ellison, Allen Farlinger, G. Hess and Gordon Wells.

Without the services of a covered arena, the village had built a temporary outdoor rink west of the Registry Office.

1950

The January 20th, 1950 issue of The Leader reported that the Morrisburg Fish and Game Club, which claimed to be the oldest organization of its kind in Ontario, was planning to reorganize, after an inactive period of two years.

The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex was coming to the Cameo Theatre with Bette Davis and Errol Flynn in the best performances of their careers.

Roosevelt, after a tour of the upper St. Lawrence, around Brockville, claimed he was convinced of the necessity of establishing an international bridge in Brockville district. Governor Roosevelt had vetoed several bills providing for the construction of a bridge by private companies, and was now instructing the New York State Legislature to appoint a commission to work with an Ontario Commission in laying out the plans.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ontario.

Dear Sir — Thank you so much for drawing the attention of your readers, to this eventful topic of Sunday shopping. It is such a topic as this that stirs the hearts of many, to wonder what it is that our fair country is exactly trying to achieve.

I must commend you for the beginning of the coverage that you have given thus far. Yet such an inadequate demonstration of presenting the whole issue, has definitely been unfair to our town of Morrisburg. You have merely brought forth one side of this proposal that is seemingly breaking up not only workers and store owners, but also families.

Little do people realize as they embark to engage in seeing Sunday shopping brought to our community, all that comes with it. To illustrate, we stand as it were outside the amusement park, looking at the bright lights, the rides, the gaiety of it all, but little do we realize the setup that is involved, the taking down, the machinery and so forth. We must ask ourselves the question, "Why aren't six days of shopping enough? Do store merchants absolutely need another day's income? And yet, there still remain many unanswered questions.

As for our town newspaper, I must say that you have only shown the side in favor of Sunday shopping. I recommend that you be fair to the town of Morrisburg. Take next Wednesday's Leader, and show the opposite side of this issue. Talk to store owners who are opposed. Talk to shift workers who would not prefer another day legislated to their already tiresome schedule. And yes, even talk to children of the community who look forward to those weekends with mom and dad, only to find that yet another day has been robbed from mommy's and daddy's already busy schedule.

Have the peoples considered the churches' standpoint? We who are trying desperately to commit our lives to the betterment of society, seek to have this day one in which people can attend the House of God as a family.

Yes, I feel you have misrepresented this issue. I would wholeheartedly encourage you to take next Wednesday, and print the other side of Sunday shopping. There is much that needs to be uncovered of this whole event.

Concerned ministers,
PASTOR R. BATES,
REV. T. PITT.

Editor's Note; The charge of misrepresentation in the above letter is implicitly denied by The Leader. To date, this paper has advanced no editorial stand on either the morality or desirability of Sunday shopping. Our last issue contained bona fide news reports of the events happening in the field of Sunday shopping in Morrisburg and the surrounding area. The only opinions given were those of a number of responsible residents who were contacted at random in the shopping area by our writer. It is not the function, nor is it the intention of The Leader to conducta comprehensive public opinion poll on the subject. There are many professional organizations who make a regular business of such polls; ours is reporting the news of our area to the very best of our ability. In the meantime, our letters column is open to responsible expressions.

Editor, Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ontario.

Dear Sir — The cares of this world are very heavy on my heart this morning, and I believe I have to write this letter to you.

I ask you sir - I know that you are a "news man", you must listen to the news of the world. The turmoil and the trouble that are in different countries - America has been very fortunate up to this time. It has been spared many things that other countries have suffered, only because of the grace and mercy of God, and people who pray.

But I feel in my heart to tell you, and those that will read and believe, that there is trouble coming to this country like the people have never seen. God's people praying this time will not stop His wrath.

I ask you to please print this letter, and be one of God's warning bells that would ring and forewarn the people — Turn back to God or perish. I am not some great prophet or some plaster saint — just a sinner saved by grace.

Jaime returning to school, another operation ahead

by Bonnie McNairn
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS — Jaime Adams, the 12-year-old Iroquois girl, suffering from the incurable genetic disease morquio, is slowing recovering from her latest round of operations and is ready to return to school.

Last September, Jaime underwent two operations to correct and strengthen her legs, ankles and hips. Her surgery was done a St. Joseph's Hospital in Townson, Maryland by Dr. Kopitis, who specializes in the disease and who performed spinal surgery on Jaime in 1986.

She returned home from the operations in a body cast and in late November, with the healing complete, she returned to Maryland to have the cast removed and begin extensive therapy.

"The operation was a success," says Mom, Lorraine. "But we have now learned that Jaime will need more surgery on her spine."

When Jaime's strength did not return as was expected after the removal of the body cast in November, Dr. Kopitis did some testing and found that the problem was with her spine.

"When he did the first operation in 1986, he fused the first, second and third vertebrae of the upper spine," explained Lorraine. "The testing showed that she is now experiencing compression just under this area and as a result more surgery is needed to fuse the fourth and fifth vertebrae."

Lorraine, however, says she will cross the bridge for yet another operation when the time comes, for now she is happy with the result of the leg surgery.

After the body cast was removed, Jaime's therapy began in water. She worked in water to her neck and as her strength came back the water level was dropped. Once the water level was down to her waist she was moved to parallel bars.

She returned home in time for Christmas and therapy sessions have continued at Winchester District Hospital on a daily basis, until just recently when her improvement allowed her to be cut back to three days a week.

Jaime is also wearing plastic moulded leg braces to support her weakened ankles, and a neck brace. She will continue to wear the neck brace until the next surgery on her spine.

"Her legs are just gorgeous and I am very happy with them," says Lorraine. "At the start she had no confidence in her walking, but now she is up and around and I can really see the improvement."

"She is able to put more weight on her legs," she says. "When she first came home she couldn't walk without tears in her eyes ... it hurt that much."

Morquio results from an enzyme deficiency that affects all body organs and is particularly noticeable because of bone abnormalties.

"Soft bones is a condition of morquio and that combined with the seven weeks in the body cast left Jaime very weak," says Lorraine. "Another condition now requiring attention is hearing loss."

Lorraine says she have been noticing the problem with Jaime's hearing and is now looking into the purchase of a hearing aid.

Jaime is scheduled to return to Maryland, March 16, and at that time she will probably be scheduled for the spinal surgery.

In the meantime, she is eager to return to school within the next couple of weeks, where she will get around using her motorized scooter in the hallways and a walker in the classroom.

Lorraine says she can see Jaime's attitude now beginning to change, mainly she suspects, because she is beginning to see and feel her own progress.

Although none of the operations are cures, Lorraine points out they will make her life a lot easier.

"The war's been won, but the battle's not over," says Lorraine. "The Lord hasn't let us down so far and he's not going to let us down now."

IN MEMORIAM

BURTON—In loving memory of a dear mother, Greta, who passed away January 20, 1989.
There is a gift in life,
That is very rare and true,
It's a gift of a wonderful mom,
Like the one we had in you.
The many things you did for us,
In your kind and loving way,
You gave us years of happiness,
No one can take away.
So many things have happened,
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you,
Had you been left to stay.
So look after her, Lord,
Don't leave her alone,
Cause today is her first year away from home.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Glenda and Richard Lafortune and family and Carl and Gladys Burton 3p

MURPHY—In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Ruby, who passed away January 23, 1989.
God knew that she was suffering
That the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Pringle, and children Stephen, Brenda, Carol and families 3c

VAN ALLEN—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Lloyd, who passed away January 23, 1985.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
We who loved him sadly miss him,
But trust in God to meet again.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife Elsie, Kenneth, Carl, Linda and families 3c

CARD OF THANKS

LOCKE—We wish to express our sincere thanks to all of our friends and neighbours for their many acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, floral tributes, charitable donations and support during the loss of our dear father, Cecil Locke, who passed away January 9, 1990. A special thank you to Dr. D. Justus, Dr. H. Prins, Mrs. MacLeod, Head Nurse, and first floor Nursing Staff at W.D.M.H. for their excellent care. Your thoughtfulness during this difficult time was appreciated and will long be remembered.
—Sincerely Jim, Janice and families 3c

We would like to say "Thank you everyone" for your prayers, cards and help that lightened the load for us during Jaime's last battle. Most important, we thank God. Just knowing His hand is upon Jaime makes things much easier. Without His help or direction we definitely would be lost. This battle has been won, but the war is not over. We know and the Lord has promised to see us through.
—Jaime Adams and family 3p

IROQUOIS — Iroquois Red and White store owner Norm Rolland is optimistic about the outcome of an upcoming appearance January 23, at Provincial Offenses Court in Morrisburg.

Both Rolland Morrisburg's Freshmart owner Brian Wheeler have been charged with not complying with one condition of the province's Retail Business Holiday Act, stating businesses larger than 2400 square feet can not be open Sundays or statutory holidays.

But unlike Morrisburg and Williamsburg Township, the Village of Iroquois will not consider passing a by-law permitting Sunday opening until the court decides whether Rolland meets provincial guidelines.

Rolland presented his case to Iroquois council last Tuesday, in hopes that they would establish a by-law overriding the provincial statute, and permitting legal Sunday shopping.

But instead of taking this course, Iroquois council agreed to let by-law officer Glen Pashak measure the store, to see if it met guidelines. Pashak's measurements found the store to be under the limit by 45 square feet.

"We accepted his recommendation, and will allow the case to proceed without passing a by-law at this time," said reeve John McAllister.

If the court decides Rolland is out of conformance with the provincial statute, council will then proceed with the by-law.

Rolland had told council that different officers had measured the store five times. "The first time they measured, it was over 142 square feet. Two (measurements) got no comment."

Rolland is charged for the first Sunday opening.

Between measurements, Rolland reduced the size of his store. "The next time we were told we were under, but Sergeant Graham wasn't happy and remeasured for himself, with the results we were 34 square feet over."

Rolland says he is quite happy the last measurement by Graham and Lee McCaslin was so close they said it was 'borderline' and consulted with headquarters due to the fact we shrank the store."

But he found the whole situation very confusing, and told council the situation could perhaps best be described in the words of his wife Yvette, who summarized, "It depends on who's holding the tape."

Rolland also finds the definition of areas unclear. "It's complex in terms of accessible areas. Some are working areas, and some are selling areas."

"We were told that the entrance where the shopping carts are kept is designated as a selling area, and I've yet to see us putting shopping carts for sale. It's more or less a storage area."

Council's decision was reached after much discussion. Reeve John McAllister objected to the "hair-splitting" position the province had put both council and the OPP in, giving them the authority to institute Sunday shopping through by-law.

And although he said he personally doesn't favor Sunday shopping, he would be happy to accommodate Rolland's request, given the circumstances presented. He noted the five measurements were to determine whether the store was in conformance with provincial guidelines. "But the status is you don't really know, do you?"

"No, because it's not clear what is measurable and what isn't," Rolland replied.

At this point, Deputy reeve Ed Thompson agreed that it was a difficult matter to determine what was measurable, "when different people have different interpretations."

"It's so sticky, it's not funny," said Rolland, urging council to override the provincial statute and pass a by-law not only on his behalf, but also for others who may wish to institute Sunday shopping in Iroquois.

"It's a delicate situation to pass a by-law to allow any or all businesses to open Sunday," said Councillor Clare Brown, and asked council to have the by-law officer measure the building to see if it met the provincial guideline.

"We have a provincial statute and can use our by-law officer to work towards it.

"If it meets provincial criteria, I don't think we need a by-law but if it doesn't, we should support an application for Sunday opening."

Councillor Ron Miller wanted council to proceed with a public meeting. "If we get a by-law officer in, the provincial overrides the municipal, why have him in?"

"Because they can't agree," stated Brown.

Thompson added if the by-law officer found Rolland to be over the guidelines, "we should be prepared to take action on his behalf. This is a service built up over the years, serving 250 to300, and if it closes, they won't be served."

Rolland was content with council's decision, stating he would let the "good magistrate" decide, but affirmed his intention to stay open each Sunday "till they prove to me what is and what isn't."

Iroquois council briefs

IROQUOIS — Council filed a request from the Ontario Progressive Conservative Caucus regarding the Federal Government's controversial Goods and Services Tax.

The caucus is asking municial support for a meeting of the 10 premiers to determine if agreement can be reached on a joint-federal retail sales tax to replace the federal manufacturers' tax, the establishment of a Tripartite commission on Fiscal Policy and Taxation, and a moratorium on the introduction of the goods and services tax at this time.

Council is investigating Party Alcohol Liability Insurance.

They had received a request from Pafco International Insurance Company, an insurance organization specializing in liquor liability for the hospitality industry.

The company warned council of heavy liability suits that may occur in a case where the community hall is rented for a licensed social function, one of the guests gets drunk, gets behind the wheel and proceeds to kill or injure someone in a car accident.

In liability settlements in drunk driving cases, the driver, the individual who buys the permit, the sponsoring organization and the building owner can be sued and found liable.

Before deciding, council will get quotes from other companies.

Council filed a letter and program application from the Honourable Ken Black, minister responsible for the Provincial Anti-Drug Strategy.

Although they thought the drug problem merited attention, Reeve John McAllister stated there was insufficient municipal staff to implement a program, and Councillor Clare Brown said there were county and provincial grants available for anti-drug programs.

Council allowed Robert Bedard to establish a "Hand" Car Wash at Henry Tibbens garage beside Texaco and an existing self serve car wash on Highway 2. Reeve McAllister said there was no reason to object, since this type of operation would not conflict with existing highway commercial zoning.

Council moved an invoice of $977.48 be paid consultants Totten Sims Hubicki for additional work undertaken, when council delayed a year before applying for a government grant to replace the existing water storage tank.

The Ontario Municipal Board has approved an application by the village to borrow $49,519 to undertake a streetsmart lighting program, in order to upgrade street lighting to high sodium lighting. The amount is to be repaid over seven years.

Council appointed Fred Brouse, Bill Ewing, council liaison Clare Brown and president of Iroquois-Matilda Boating Association Doug Byers, to a marina committee.

Louise Anderson and Howard Linnen were appointed to the Carman House Museum Board and Brenda Millard as past chairperson to the board.

Council will ask the clerk to come up with a proposal for microfilming municipal documents.

The village is obliged to keep records of many items for 10 years, and some items must be kept permanently such as resolutions, by-laws and minutes of meetings.

Microfilming is needed primarily for easy access, since the village has material dating back to the 1800's.

"Every year they ask us to save more," said acting clerk Lorna Siebert, adding that eventually more room would be needed to store the documents.

Matilda Carnival contestants

Canada Post mix-up delays mail

by Mike Thompson
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS — Canada Post was definitely not the most popular Crown Corporation Friday.

More than 7,000 residents from Prescott to Mountain had to wait hours for their mail, while many only received it on Saturday.

The delay was caused when Canada Post officials let a trucking contract lapse Thursday, and a suitable replacement was not found until Friday afternoon.

As a result, residents along the eastern route of the Brockville distribution centre, including Cardinal, Iroquois, Brinston and Inkerman, waited patiently for their mail.

Lazslo Szabo, a spokesman for Canada Post, admitted the contract was only awarded Friday but said there were other "unforeseen circumstances".

"We offered to extend the contract with the former trucking company however for some reason we had to make other arrangements and find a new contractor at the last minute," he said.

Szabo did not wish to elaborate on what the reason was.

"In your region alone, we have over 1,000 contracts for rural route deliveries and it's not suprising that sometimes the mail is delayed ... after all this is a human business," he said.

However, Szabo's explanation held little consolation for at least two residents.

"The price of stamps just went up again but our service keeps getting poorer," said one Brinston resident, who did not wish to be identified.

"I don't blame the small post offices, the people there can only sort the mail if they get it and I think this screw-up is typical of the way our government is running this country," she said.

Meanwhile, Lorne Strader, a courier for Canada Post in the Brinston area, isn't surprised about the mix-up.

"That's they way they run the business now," he said.

"Take me for example, my contract was officially over on December 31 (1989) but two weeks before it ran out they finally extended it for another nine months."

"Why do they always wait until the eleventh hour before they decide these things?" he asked.

Strader had other examples of poor management.

"When I first started delivering mail 22 years ago we seldom had any problems. Nowadays we get mail for people living in Perth, Arnprior, all over the place."

"People just don't care anymore ... for example there families on my run who have mail delivered to their fathers and grandfathers and some of them have been dead for 20 years," he said.

Strader isn't worried that his criticism will result in a reprimand from his superiors.

"I'm not afraid to tell you how things really are," he said.

Other postal employees were not as forthcoming.

"They're worried about their jobs so they won't tell you a thing, but I've only got a few months left," he said.

Strader plans to retire in September.

Seaway News

By Cindy Laurin

IROQUOIS — Well, here we are, the semester is finally almost over at Seaway High, and there's only one more week until exams start. Is the pressure on yet?

This past Saturday there was a bottle drive done by the prom committee to start the fundraising. If you want a decent prom boys and girls, you'd better get out and help. Missy, why didn't you come wake me up?

This Friday night the Matilda Carnival Queen selections take place. This year, the ladies from Seaway vying for the crown are: Kelly Smail, Rhonda Lapier and Amy Smail. Good Luck to all the girls participating in the contest. We'll be rooting for you.

Saturday there will be a car rally, supper and dance so everyone get out your cars and finally your dancin' shoes cause I'll expect to see you all there.

Finally, Happy Birthday Dad! Bet you thought I'd forget, didn't you?

That's it for this week, study hard people. For some students, the exams could make or break the year.

Seaway battles back

The Seaway rink of Jason Ball, Ian Wilson, Darryl Morrell, Nikil Chande and coach Sid Morrell, worked their way to the next leg of the Gore Mutual with three wins Sunday.

Seaway rink wins three to advance in Gore Mutual

MORRISBURG — The Seaway District High rink of Ian Wilson, Jason Ball, Eddie Morrell and Nikil Chande may have chosen the long way around, but Sunday at the Morrisburg Curling Club they reached the finish line first in the Gore Mutual playdown.

The Wilson rink met head on with the Osborne rink of Glengarry High Sunday morning, both needing a win to stay alive in the double knock-out competition.

Last weekend Wilson picked up one win over Craig of Glengarry 9-4 and one loss, and Osborne had one win over Laushway of Prescott 9-2 and one loss.

In the driver's seat for Sunday's action was Martin Noe of South Grenville with opening rounds wins over Laushway of South Grenville and Osborne of Glengarry.

Because of his no-loss record, Noe had to be defeated twice Sunday to be eliminated.

Strong start

It was a long road Sunday for Wilson, who kicked it off with an 11-3 win over Glengarry to earn the right to advance against Noe.

Faced with having to beat Noe twice, the Seaway crew set to work on a 10-3 first game win, and polished it off 8-1 in game two after five ends.

The win gives Seaway the right to advance against the Ottawa Zone champions, in a best of three playoff early in February, and from here the winner advances to the Gore Regional in Kingston, February 11.

This year's provincial championship is set for Huntsville in late February.

Against Glengarry, Wilson started it off with 2-0 and 3-0 leads before Osborne got on board with a point in the third. Wilson pretty well wrapped it up with a four-point fourth end which pointed him toward the win, and the right to advance against Noe.

It was more of the same in game one against Noe, as Wilson collected two points in the first end. Noe got one back in the second but Wilson struck big, for three points in the third to take a 4-1 lead. He added single points in each of the fifth sixth ends for a 6-1 advantage as he headed for the 10-3 win.

Strikes early in final

In the final showdown, Wilson kicked it off with a 3-0 first end lead. He added a single point in the second, and then gave up one in the third for a 4-1 advantage.

Two points in each of the fourth and fifth ends resulted in Noe's decision to concede leaving Wilson with an 8-1 win, and the right to advance to the next leg of the competition.

"Our kids were making every shot today," said Seaway High coach Sid Morrell following the win. "They were shooting well, in both their draws and their takeouts and we kept the other team under pressure at all times."

Morrell also pointed out that in the first round of the competition last Sunday, Seaway was not on its game. Due to problems with the iceplant at the Morrisburg Club they had not been on the ice for two weeks.

"But today they made up their minds," said Morrell. "They were happy and loose and they came up with the three wins they needed."

Morrisburg Figure Skate Club

Meet the Coaches

The amateur coaches play a very important role within the Morrisburg Figure Skating Club, for without their help the professionals would be unable to get to all of the more than 100 CanSkate skaters in the Morrisburg program. Within the next few weeks we will introduce these girls in recognition of the contributions they make to the youth in the community.

Josee Massie

Josee, who lives at RR 1 Morrisburg is 17-years-old and a grade 12 student at St. Joseph's Secondary in Cornwall. Josee has been skating for eight years and coaching for five. She is currently working very hard on her gold freestyle, gold dance set and fourth figure. Josee's favorite skater is Madori Ito and when she's not skating she is enjoying other interests which include downhill skiing, volleyball and water skiing. Josee says her "biggest thrill in skating" hasn't happened yet but it will when she passes her gold freestyle, which she is aiming for by the end of this season. Josee advises young skaters to keep at it and don't give up on anything. "You can do anything you set your mind to," she says. She enjoys coaching because she likes to see the skaters get better and better each day.

Trisha Elliott

Trisha, who lives in Morrisburg is 16-years-old and a grade 11 student at Seaway High. Trisha has been skating since she was three years old and coaching for five years. Her future plans include Queen's University where she will major in English. Trisha's favorite skaters are Scott Hamilton and Toller Cranston and besides skating, she enjoys reading, drawing, playing music and writing poetry. Currently working on her fourth figure, gold dances and senior silver freestyle, Trisha advises young skaters to set their goals and go for them. She warns them not to let anything stand in their way as they can achieve anything if they work hard. Her biggest thrill in skating comes when a person smiles and tells her that her skating has touched them in a special way. Trisha enjoys coaching because she says she likes to see a child's face light up when they are having fun and accomplishing their goals.
