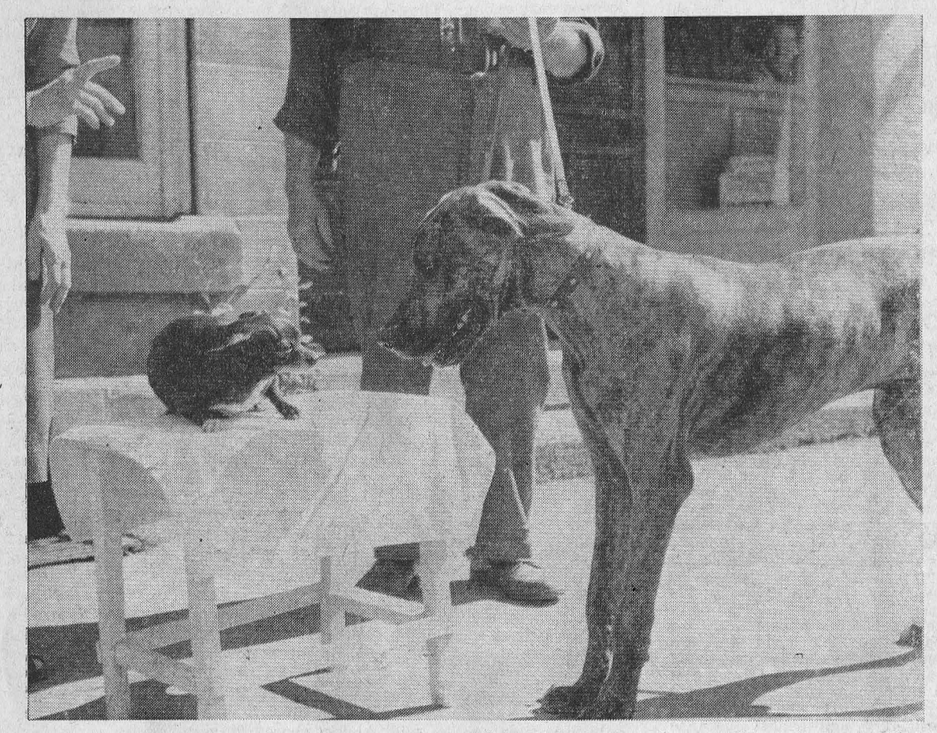
Doggy Contrasts in Size as Dane & Mexican Meet



THE SMALL AND THE LARGE of it in the dog kingdom of Chesterville gathered in front of the Record Office the other day and posed for a picture. The small 5-year-old Chihuahua is the faithful companion of Mrs Helen James, belonging originally to Mr and Mrs Bert Fawcett, Chesterville. The undersized calf-like Great Dane, just five months old, is owned by Wm. Servage, of RR2, Chesterville. —Record Photo.

Wm. Ralph "Bus" Hummel Dies Suddenly

Much regret was felt in the community when word was received of the sudden death of a native of Chesterville in the person of William Ralph "Bus" Hummel. Mr Hummel was returning home to Toronto after spending the weekend at his cottage at Loon Lake near Kaladar when he suddenly slumped over the wheel and was dead when medical help arrived.

Born 54 years ago in Chesterville, Bus Hummel was the son of the late Cephrenus Hummel and his wife, the former Emma Keyes. He was educated in Chesterville schools and worked for many years here and in the West with his only brother, H. C. Hummel, the clerk of Chesterville, as a carpenter.

In his early years he was noted as an athlete. Along with Johnny Sorel he tried out for hockey in the pro ranks. He played for some time with the Quebec Beavers and later returned to amateur standing and played with the Arvida, Que., champions.

Mr Hummel enlisted in the RCAF at the beginning of the last war and rose to the rank of Flying Officer in the construction section of the air force. He was stationed mostly in the north country, spending a great deal of time on airport construction in the Yukon and Alaska and along the Alaska Highway. After the war he settled in Toronto, working as a construction inspector for the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. He was employed by that corporation at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mabel Henderson, Chesterville; one brother, Harry C., two sisters, Mrs Howard Hough (Florence), and Mrs Gordon Cumming (Lucy), all of Chesterville.

A memorial service was conducted in Toronto on Tuesday and the body brought to Chesterville Wednesday to the W. B. Rowe Funeral Home. Interment was made in Maple Ridge Cemetery today, Thursday, at ten o'clock. The Rev E. B. Bugden officiated.

The pall bearers were former hockey teammates of the deceased: Alf Jarvis, Jas. Fyke, Haldane Durant, Melvin Harper, Francis Plantz, Wm. Gamble, Cardinal.

James O. McMillan Passes in 82nd Year

The community of Grantley lost one of its pioneers on Sunday, September 8, in the death of James Osborne McMillan in his 82nd year, the son of the late James J. McMillan and his wife, Sarah E. Adams, of Wales.

Although in frail health, he was able to be around until the Sunday previous when he suffered a stroke. In 1912 he married the former Elva Pearl Shaver, of Morewood, and moved to the farm adjoining his father's which he farmed successfully until a year ago.

He was a long-time school trustee, a life member of the Session of Grantley Church, secretary of the cemetery board and a life member of Chesterville Lodge AF&AM, of which he was the second eldest member.

He is survived by his wife, one son and two daughters—Donald J. McMillan, Ashtabula, Ohio; Mrs Donald Fulton (Lyllis), Ottawa, and Mrs Wm. Fulton (Shirley), of Chesterville. A sister, Mrs Geo. Barkley (Ethel), Chesterville, and seven grandchildren also survive.

Many friends called at the house to express sympathy, and there were many cards, messages and a wealth of beautiful flowers including a wreath from the Session and several from Ohio.

The funeral on Tuesday afternoon, under the Masonic Order, was conducted by the pastor, Rev C. A. Dukelow, who spoke comforting words from the beloved text "Let not your hearts be troubled." The choir under the direction of Mrs Earle Droppo was assisted by Mr and Mrs Wm. Johnston and Phil Casselman, Finch.

Active pall bearers were six nephews, Jack McMillan, Montreal, Glenn, Earle, Grant McMillan, Dwayne Munro and Hubert Quart, Maxville. Members of the Session were honourary bearers.

Burial was made in the family plot beside the church.

New Car Won By Mrs Thos. Klingvall

Mrs Thos. Klingvall won a new 1957 Chevrolet Tuesday night at a Monster Night staged by an Ottawa Lions Club. And therein lies a story.

Mr and Mrs Klingvall have considered trading the old car for some time and finally on Tuesday took the step. They drove to Winchester and traded the old Plymouth for a nice shiny 1953 model. Then to try it out they continued on to Ottawa to the bingo. At 10.30 Mrs Klingvall had the winning combination for a new 1957 Chev. Not having a two-car garage, the Klingvalls are considering selling one of the cars.

New Appointment

Word has just reached F. M. Cass, Q.C., M.L.A., that he has been appointed vice-chairman of the Ontario-St.-Lawrence Development Commission, which has its headquarters in Morrisburg. Mr Cass will take the position made vacant by the death of Mr Jas. Smart.

The Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission is the body set up to handle the development of the waterfront park that is being built in conjunction with the power project. Geo. H. Challies is the chairman of the commission.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs Charles Gray announces the engagement of her daughter, Lois Elizabeth, to Mr Ray Calvin Dillabough, only son of Mr and Mrs Calvin Dillabough. Marriage to take place Saturday, October 5, 1957, at Chesterville.

Lakeland Natural Gas Limited Gets Certificate From O.F.B. To Distribute Product Here

Strong satisfaction that his company had been certificated by the Ontario Fuel Board to distribute natural gas in Chesterville was expressed in Kingston by George R. Gardiner, president of Lakeland Natural Gas Limited. "It will work out to the advantage of both of us," Mr Gardiner said following the hearing by the Board in Toronto.

"In becoming part of our system, Chesterville will share in the benefits of being served by one of the best-integrated natural gas units in Canada.

"What makes possible low-cost gas is a good balance of consumption between residential and commercial users and industry, and the family of South-Eastern Ontario communities that make up our system between Port Hope and Cornwall are fortunate that they provide a fine balance between the two groups of users.

"Natural gas is a wonder fuel anyway. But when it can be sold at low cost, it is a great asset to the community, not only to the residents, but to industrial and commercial development."

Lakeland Natural Gas Limited is looking forward to substantial expansion throughout South-Eastern Ontario, Mr Gardiner said.

"It is a section of Canada that has a great deal to offer," he explained. "It has fine living conditions and recreational opportunities, something on which industry today is putting strong importance. It has a labour force that is made up of well-established and sound people, and it has great geographical and transportation advantages.

"And coming, of course, is the greatest advantage of all," he added. "For I don't think any of us realize as yet just what the St. Lawrence Seaway could mean to the whole community east of Port Hope.

"When it is completed in 1959 it will mean that this area from Port Hope to Cornwall is the seaboard of Ontario, the workshop of the nation. It opens a tremendous opportunity for balanced expansion in the communities in the area."

He hoped Chesterville would find Lakeland Natural Gas Limited a good citizen, Mr Gardiner said further.

It was the company's policy to be active in the affairs of all its franchised municipalities, and to lend a hand wherever its organization could be helpful.

"I think and hope you will find us a good company," he said. "Not too big to be of diligent service. And yet big enough so that we can give you the facilities, services and rates that can be offered in natural gas only with a system of some size and variety."

Lakeland Natural Gas Limited has been certificated by the Ontario Fuel Board as the exclusive natural gas distributor in 21 municipalities between Port Hope and Cornwall, and including both of these cities.

It purchases gas from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, and installs and owns the lines to distribute and sell the gas locally.

It is starting on the construction of its local systems this month.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO ASK FOR WATER

Chesterville Chamber of Commerce met at the regular September meeting on Thursday night in the library. President Howard Hough presided with the secretary, Francis Moriarty, reading the minutes.

After considerable discussion it was decided to ask council to activate the water and sewage report the town had drawn up last year. In the light of the revised assessment, it was felt there might be some hope the plan would be feasible. A committee of three was appointed to wait on council, president Howard Hough, Mel Baker and Keith Graham.

A motion was passed that Chesterville Chamber recommend that H. H. Popham of Ottawa be voted as vice-president of the national chamber.

The Retail Merchants committee was asked to bring in a report on the possibility of staging another promotion day program for the village and district. The report will be completed for the next meeting.

Mrs John Alford

Mrs John Alford, a life-long resident of Chesterville, passed away at the Coleman Nursing Home, Kemptville, in her 95th year. Her husband predeceased her in October, 1933.

The funeral was held from the home of Mrs Gertrude Alford on Saturday, September 14, at 2 p.m. service being conducted by the Rev E. B. Bugden.

Ours and Others

Water and Sewage Here

We risk considerable criticism in raising again the question of water and sewage for Chesterville. But if now is not a good time to raise it, then a better time will never come. The mighty Nation, provided by Nature and used by us as a handy water supply and in the past as a cesspool, has just about dried up again. Every few years the weather is contrary enough to empty the stream and we feel the pinch for water.

Chesterville needs a water and sewage system. In spite of costs and planning, the need gets greater each year it is held over. Each year, if the present boom economy exists, the costs climb too. There is little doubt that if a system is to be installed in the village, these are the prosperous years to do it.

The municipality has seen fit to use the new Ontario Municipal Assessing Manual this year for the first in re-assesing the properties of the village. Included in the new taxation picture is the fact that the assessment of the town has been raised to a figure where provincial statute will allow debentures to be raised to pay for a public works system. Before the new assessment, there just was not enough capital value to allow the town to borrow the necessary funds. Also this year for the first time, the tax bills show a division of taxation style. Businesses now pay extra for the public services provided by the municipality that help them conduct their businesses. Presumably this is to include water and sewage that theoretically is provided to their meters. A lot of business blocks in Chesterville are denied even elemental toilet facilities because of lack of land for weeping tile systems, septic tanks and space for wells. As the Board of Health continues to tighten up restrictions on sewage and other waste disposal, it soon will be more than difficult to even modernize present dwellings without infringing on a new regulation.

It would now seem that our neighbouring town, Winchester, has taken the bull by the horns and passed the necessary water by-laws for consideration by the Municipal Board. Chesterville council would be well advised to dig out the engineering study of Chesterville's problem and see what can be done.

Mr Fleming Sounds Off

In a speech at Montreal, Mr Donald Fleming, the finance minister, made a plea to his countrymen to save more in order to help curb inflation and also to invest in enterprises for the development of Canadian resources. There will be pretty general agreement with these sentiments, says the Ottawa Citizen.

Mr Fleming also said that the new government, for its part, is trying to reduce the burden of federal taxation. That's fine, and there will be a lively interest in the actual measures adopted by the Conservatives to make good their election promises as to lower taxes.

The finance minister did not however let the matter rest there. He spent some time explaining what a shiftless and incompetent lot the Liberals had been while in office, how they "harbored waste and extravagance" in the departments under their care (the Tories are going to change all that, so as "to assure the taxpayer a fair dollar's value for every dollar spent"), and how they allegedly refused to trust the people with the fruits of their own labours but insisted on managing the people's money for them.

Mr Fleming is entitled to his opinions, and no doubt will be prepared to defend them in the House of Commons. Another appropriate place to air such views would be at a political meeting or convention. But the Montreal speech was not delivered to an assembly of Progressive Conservatives; it was made to the Newspaper Advertising Managers Association of Eastern Canada, which is a non-political organization. A strongly partisan address of this kind was entirely out of order before such a gathering.

But Maybe Elephants

After the San Francisco fire and earthquake of 1906 the Post Office Department stretched its regulations to allow messages to be carried out written on shingles, bricks, and strips of wallpaper—postage waived.

The now-thriving town of Vernal, Utah (population 2,119), is said to have built its first modern business block some three decades ago out of bricks mailed in by parcel post.

It remained, however, for that remarkable postal system of Britain to send by mail a pony with 84 cents' worth of stamps affixed to his flank. And for that equally remarkable species, the British postmaster, to walk the pony five miles to the addressee in order to save the sender the almost five dollars more it would have cost him had it been transported by truck.

"A lovely day for a walk," commented Postmaster George Smith, "but (and we echo him sympathetically) I hope nobody gets the idea of mailing an elephant."

LEE QUIT WHIMPERING—PAID THE MORTGAGE

There are many, many people in this world who get a peculiar kind of pleasure out of feeling sorry for themselves. They cringe before life's problems. They whimper and whine and say, "Nobody has it as hard as I do!"

I heard the story about the two buckets that went to the well. One of the buckets sobbed and cried, "No matter how full I go away from the well, I always have to come back empty." The other one laughed and said, "No matter how empty I come to the well, I always go away full."

Lee Braxton, the national radio director of our world-wide broadcast, told me that self-pity almost ruined him. Back when the depression was at its worst he was in hard circumstances. The mortgage people were coming to foreclose on his modest little home. At the same time his small business was about to go under. He walked off and sat down in a room by himself and said, "Why is everybody picking on me?"

Recently he told me what he did that day as he sat in the little room. He said, "I was sitting there with the whole world on my shoulders. I felt so discouraged, so down and out that I knew if I didn't get hold of myself I might do something terrible. I kept wringing my hands and saying, 'Oh, why does everybody have to pick on me? Why does this have to happen to me?' I didn't know where else to turn or who else to see.

"Then it dawned on me that there was One I could go to. So I got down on my knees and while the tears splashed down my cheeks I renewed my covenant with my Maker. When I got through praying I felt like a new man. I got up, squared my shoulders and said, 'I am through with self-pity and feeling sorry for myself. I am going out and by the help of God I am coming out of this.' "

What happened to Lee Braxton after that should happen to everyone. He started using his energies to believe instead of to feel sorry for himself. He became a new man inside and in a matter of days he had persuaded the mortgage people to give him a little more time. He secured credit for his business. He didn't lose his self-respect because when he began to believe, he found that his faith was the most powerful thing in the world. Other people saw he was a new man and they wanted to do business with a man like that.

It is people who resist self-pity, who do not feel sorry for themselves, who will not allow themselves to cringe and whimper before life's struggles, who stand up and say, "I believe God is with me. And if He is with me nothing or nobody can successfully be against me. I will succeed!"

When a storm strikes an eagle he sets his wings in such a way that the winds lift him above the storm by its very fury. This is God's way for us. With the right use of our faith, we will not fear the storms that come our way. It is the set of our faith that causes us to rise above the storms. Have faith in God!

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CYCLIST ON MARATHON

Meet Allan Murphy, undisputed endurance cycling champion of southwest London — four-year-old division.

With the lordly wave of a proven athlete, Allan mounted his new blue tricycle at 10.30 a.m. and told his eight-year-old brother he was going home.

Home was a few blocks away in Camberwell. Allan wheeled on to the main road and pedalled off briskly.

While frogmen searched the canals and policemen honey-combed the district, Allan kept going—main roads all the way and 10 sets of traffic lights, one of them negotiated with the friendly assistance of an incurious constable.

At 10 p.m. someone found him, still in the saddle but fast asleep, 100 yards from the Plumstead police station, 10 miles from his starting point.

"I lost my way," Allan explained to his mother. "There were nice men who helped me. I said I came from my daddy's in Camberwell, but they didn't believe me."

ASKING FOR IT

A woman told police at North Platte, Neb., that she and her husband had an argument while travelling and she had informed him he could just take her bags out of the car and go on without her.

He did just that.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

We were talking last night about some of the messes that ordinary people get into and eventually have to clean up. And it makes a very interesting conversation piece. Everyone is always bursting to tell his own or someone else's experiences.

I told one of the numerous ones I've lived through. It happened quite a few years ago. I was planning to be away one day and had to leave the men's dinner—something that could be prepared with as little effort as possible. Stew seemed easy enough. They had only to heat that up. On the night previous I cooked the beef and last thing before I went to bed I thickened the gravy on it and left the hot, delicious-smelling dish on the electric stove to cool.

When Harry opened the kitchen door next morning he was met by a thick wall of heavy black smoke. The room was full of it. A bulb burning in the chandelier was hardly visible. And what an odor!

He rushed to the stove. My beef stew was the cause of all the trouble. I had left the electric element under the dish on LOW. Harry grabbed the smoking pot and took it outdoors. Then he called me.

The smell in the kitchen was like the smell of burning wool multiplied by ten. I opened all the doors and windows to air it out and went outside to see if the heavy aluminum pot was ruined. The inside of it was lined with a thick, black charcoal. All that remained of the stew was the bones which had turned to hard lumps of bituminous coal. After days of soaking, scrubbing and scouring I managed to reclaim the aluminum dish. And it took days and days to air the smell from the kitchen.

Then Mr G. recalled for us an episode he remembered. It happened a long time ago, he said. And it must have been a long time ago for it was in the days of hired men and coal-oil lamps. Their hired man went somewhere every night then he'd take a lamp to bed when he came home. He broke so many chimneys something had to be done so the boss gave him a lantern to light his way to bed.

One morning just at daybreak Mr G. woke up. The air in his bedroom was thick with tiny flakes of carbon. They hung from the paper on the ceiling and rested on the bed clothes as well. Mr G. got up to investigate. He opened the hired man's door. The carbon flakes were even thicker in there but the hired man slept blissfully, breathing them in and then breathing them out.

And there on the floor sat the smoking lantern. Instead of turning it down and out the sleepy guy had turned it up. Carbon bits had drifted throgh the pipe hole in the wall into Mr G.'s room and on throughout the whole house. It was an oily, black mess to attempt to clean up. He didn't say whether they fired the hired man or not.

But I like the story of the lady who was painting her linen cupboard pink. Perched high on a step-ladder she painted happily in time with the music coming from her new radio nearby. She was listening to a programme from a local station. When the music ended the announcer picked a phone number from the directory and dialed it. The lucky person who answered the call would receive a $250 jackpot, he said. But there was no one home.

He chose another number at random. Immediately the lady recognized it as her's and before the radio station had time to dial it she was getting down off the step-ladder to run to the phone.

But in her haste the ladder slipped and most of the quart of pink paint came streaming down over her head. When the ladder slipped it hit the cord of the radio and the new radio came crashing to the floor beside her.

By this time the phone downstairs was ringing furiously. She managed to wipe up enough of the paint to make a dash for the phone. But just as she reached it it stopped ringing.

When she got the mess cleaned up—including her hair—she sat down to total up what her experience had cost her. Added to the $250 she had lost was the new radio, the quart of pink paint and a couple of quarts of turpentine for cleaning up.

And I'll bet she hopes that never again will she have the misfortune to have her phone number chosen on a radio give-away show.

GOOD SAMARITAN

The story of a Good Samaritan who stopped to help a fellow motorist and was sued for damaging the latter's car was told the other day in the New Brunswick appeal court.

Henri Michaud, of Quebec, appealed against a judgment in the Madawaska County court awarding Roger Daigle damages of $155.57 and costs.

The incident occurred last June near Edmunston. Daigle's small car slid into a ditch and he asked Michaud, driving a five-ton truck, to help. In trying to push the car with his truck, Michaud scraped a side of the stranded vehicle.

Decision was reserved.

THEY PAY NO TAXES

A "CORPORATION TAX" is not a tax on the corporation, but is, rather, a tax on the customers who buy the goods or services it produces.

Taxes are a cost of doing business. They must be included in the price structure along with wages, and the costs of raw materials and supplies.

An increase in corporation taxes, or in any other taxes, is an increase in costs which must ultimately be reflected in prices. Hence a decrease in corporation or other taxes would ease the upward pressure on costs and prices.

Upper Canada Village Gradually Taking Shape Historical, Educationl Monument to Pioneers

Several miles east of Morrisburg a small village is gradually taking shape. The small hamlet contains church, tavern and several houses. There is nothing modern about its design but instead there is the unique attraction of history.

This is Upper Canada Village, the first such restored village in Canada, and it occupies a central portion of the proposed Crysler's Farm Battle Memorial Park.

The village is being built as an historical and educational monument to pioneers in the counties.

It is comprised of some of the oldest buildings and houses in the area. Already in place at the village site is Christ Church, Cook's Tavern, Robertson House and several smaller monuments.

A short distance from the actual village is a small log cabin which should be completed within a few days. The cabin is built of logs taken from demolished buildings in the area. Some are more than 100 years old. Inside the building is an old stone fireplace which was brought to the area from Lanark County.

When this cabin is completed, it, as well as the other buildings in the village, will be furnished with articles now on display in the Ontaro-St. Lawrence Parks Development Commission temporary museum at Morrisburg.

Placing the buildings is only a small part of the job which remains to be done before the historic site is completed. Streets as they were in the pioneer era must be built and landscaping done.

Another portion of the proposed historic site now well underway is the pioneer cemetery.

Several hundred tombstones representing the various pioneer families who originally lived n the area will be placed on the inner walls of a huge cross presently being built several hundred yards away from Upper Canada Village.

Overall measurements of the cross, which when completed will contain 446 monuments, are 289.6 feet by 202.6 feet. Height of the stone walls at the head and foot of the monument is seven and one feet. The side walls are of brick.

Insertion of the tombstones has already begun but it is expected that the overall project will not be completed until late fall.

The tombstones represent persons who were buried in the following cemeteries: Trinity, Riverside United, Aultsville United, Woodlands West, St. David's, Wales, Christ Church, Moulinette and Moulinette United.

OPEN CAR WINDOW NOT COOLING

Think you can cool off on a hot summer day by opening your car windows?

"Not necessarily so," says Dr Cecil Harris, provincial surgeon of St. John Ambulance Association in Quebec. He warns that this kind of air conditioning can induce heat prostration.

A person may feel cool bowling along on a scorching day, he says, but in fact the warm wind evaporates perspiration more quickly, and it must be replaced by drinking much more fluid than usual.

"Always provided, of course, that you don't drink alcohol—plain foolishness. Far from refreshing," says Dr Harris, "it will make you hotter and more sluggish than ever."

United Church Needs More Ministers Speaker Declares

The Dundas-Grenville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada met in Shanly United Church Tuesday, September 10. Rev Dr A. M. J. Gray, president of Montreal and Ottawa Conference, paid his official visit to the Presbytery and spoke of the need for more ministers and missionaries.

"We must never miss an opportunity to challenge our young people to offer themselves for the full-time service of their church," he told the ministers and laymen from the 21 pastoral charges of the Presbytery. Although the United Church has 3,233 ministers, it could use 300 more at this very moment, Dr Gray declared.

The first business of the Presbytery was to elect a chairman to succeed Rev T. N. Mitchell who had moved from Winchester to Toronto. Rev M. B. Jose, B.A., B.D., of Prescott, was elected chairman by acclamation.

Rev Mr Jose, as Presbytery director of the National Evangelistic Mission, announced the completion of plans to have a Presbytery conference on "Christianity and Family Life" in the Prescott United Church on Sunday evening, September 29. This is part of the program of "Depth Evangelism" which is being carried out during the next 12 months under the theme "Calling Canada to Christ." There will be successive emphases on Christian family life, community life, daily work and civic and political life. The purpose is to apply the Gospel to the daily problems and opportunities that face every Christian in these four areas of life. The program will be introduced by Presbytery conferences and then carried out through special week-day meetings and Sunday services in each pastoral charge.

Rev Dr Gordon Porter, superintendent of Home Missions for the conference, informed the Presbytery that the 1958 minimum salary for ministers of the United Church has been set by the General Council at $3,200 a year together with from $400 to $600 for travel depending on the number of miles travelled on Sunday.

Mr Lloyd Earl, Easton's Corners, reporting for the Layman's Association, recommended that there be a Layman's Sunday in each pastoral charge. He urged that lay representatives should be chosen who could attend the meetings of Presbytery and take part in its deliberations. The Layman's Association is continuing its financial support of students for the ministry from the Presbytery.

Rev W. B. F. Corkum, of Kemptville, announced that Dr Allen Knight, an agricultural missionary from Africa, will speak at three missionary rallies starting at Kemptville September 20. Mr Corkum challenged each pastoral charge to increase its missionary givings 15 per cent so that the Presbytery may do its full share in reaching the United Church's 1957 missionary objective of $6,000,000. Noting that only 22 of the 49 churches in the Presbytery conducted "every-person" canvasses last year, Mr Corkum stated that the manual required that a canvass for the local and missionary funds be made each fall.

EX- FOOTBALL PLAYER JOINS MORRISBURG POLICE

A former lineman with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders, Arnie Olson, 26, has become a constable with the Morrisburg police force. The 240-pound native of Winnipeg was employed on Seaway work at Morrisburg before getting his police appointment.

Olson played with Blue Bombers in 1952 and the following year with Saskatchewan. He came East in 1954 and was employed in Cornwall before going to Morrisburg.

Constable Olson was called to duty following the wounding of Constable Ronald Pitt by two gunmen. He is a member of a three-man force headed by Chief Earl McIntyre. He is married and has a six-year-old son.

Overpass Plan Approved By Township Council

At its regular meeting, Williamsburg Township council approved Ontario Hydro plans for construction of an overpass on Crysler Memorial Road.

Council also decided to accept full responsibility for maintenance of street lighting in the East Williamsburg sub-division now in course of establishment.

The clerk was instructed to forward complaints of several ratepayers against the contractor concerning the S. I. Casselman and Saddlemire drains.

Tenders for the maintenance of the Kyle drain were discussed and the Morrison Bros. Construction Co. tender was accepted. The amount was $2,533.

By-laws for the licensing and control of salvage yards, the extension of the time for the return of the 1957 assessment by one month, levying the rates and assessments for the year 1957, and a petition for the Department of Highways for the statutory grant on roads and bridges were passed.

The following accounts were paid: Roads and bridges, $12,216-.94; fox pelts, $18; drains, $1,744-.51; grants, $825; relief, $83.35; indigents, $162.75; salaries, $283.

Use Chute to Pull Cable Through Pipe At Morrisburg

Electricians at the shopping centre site at Morrisburg have discovered a novel method of pulling 210 feet of heavy cable through each of 13 core dent pipe lines. The men accomplished the difficult task by means of a small parachute.

The problem which confronted the men was to pull a cable or underground feeder line through the big underground pipes from the No. 2 transformer substation to block B at the shopping centre, a distance of about 120 feet. The cable to be moved through the pipe weighs about a ton per 1,000 feet.

To do the job, the electricians used a small cloth parachute and compressed air. To the chute was attached a ball of string and chute and string were blown through the length of pipe by use of the air.

Next, a length of haywire was attached to one end of the string, and the wire pulled through the pipes. In the third step, one-quarter inch rope was attached to the wire, and that length, too. was hauled throcgh.

In the final operation, a wire pulling stocking was fastened to one end of the cable, which is 1½ inches in diameter, and this too, was pulled through on the rope. Because of the weight of the cable, a winch truck was called on to pull it through the pipes.

MARY GRANNAN—One thing about Mary Grannan, you can always spot her—even from the back; she wears the biggest hats, and always has, in Canadian radio. She may be better known to the young fry as "Just Mary," that weaver of fascinating tales about people like "Maggie Muggins" and many others.

FORMER PRIME MINISTER TO RETURN TO LAW

Former prime minister Louis St. Laurent's old Quebec City law firm, operated by his sons and others during his last few years in Ottawa, has been dissolved, it was reported recently.

The firm was known as St. Laurent, Letourneau, Johnston, Cantin and Leahy. In its place, Mr St. Laurent's sons, Jean-Paul, Liberal member of Parliament for Temiscouata, and Renaud, are setting up their own firm with the senior St. Laurent listed as counsel.

A family spokesman said the former prime minister plans to return to private law practice as an active, senior partner of the new firm as soon as his parliamentary duties permit.

A reliable informant reported that Mr St. Laurent, who announced plans to retire as Liberal Opposition leader, intends to lead the party at the fall session of Parliament and give up the leadership when the Liberals are able to arrange a national meeting for the choice of a chief.

LAD PULLS PLUG ON TADPOLE HUNT

Thrifty Scots received with mixed emotions the other day the story of a 12-year-old lad who accidentally pulled a plug and drained 150,000 gallons of water from a public reservoir.

They chuckled at his exploit but clucked at the waste of the public's water supply.

The boy. charged with malicious mischief. told Magistrate Miss J. L. Moir that he had gone tadpole fishing in the Rigbon Field reservoir near St. Andrews, Scotland. On the outside, near the base of the reservoir, he saw an interesting plug.

"I pulled it," said the boy.

"What happened?" asked the magistrate.

"Water, gallons of it," said the tadpole hunter.

"It was a foolish and dangerous thing to do," said the magistrate —and dismissed the case.

Telephone Round-up

Every parent knows how easily a two-gun cowboy can lose track of time—especially around mealtime.

But she also knows it's a simple matter to round him up by telephone. And any vague feeling of anxiety about where he is or what he is doing is quickly dispelled by that eager voice at the other end of the line.

Yes, the telephone is a convenience and a comfort, all day long. It means fewer meals grown cold because youngsters or husband are late getting home. It means more security when you're alone at night. It means more things done with less time and effort . . . Yet this endlessly useful servant works for you for just a few cents a day.

FINDS MILK PIPELINE EASILY BUILT

Anyone can have a pipeline milking system if he follows the example of F. Van Wageningen, of Vermilion.

This man has a three-stall milking parlour in which he has installed his homemade pipeline system. It consists of three milking units which he purchased second hand, three scales, 30 feet of 1" plastic hose, plastic hose, plastic couplings, a stainless steel milk pump and 20 feet of ¾" rubber hose for washing purposes.

The milk flows by gravity into the plastic hose and runs to the pump where it is elevated to the separator or cooling tank.

To wash this system, he uses about two gallons of water mixed with detergent and has a completed system using the plastic and rubber hoses with the milk pump pushing it through the hoses. The total cost is about $350.

"There is so little labour involved I will have to do exercises to keep in shape," says Mr Van Wageningen.

MAIL DELIVERY

The address on the envelope was long and contained no names, but Mrs Paul Darner, of Dayton, Ohio, is going to get back the purse she left at an ice cream parlour near Wilmington, Ohio.

Mrs Darner stopped at the store for some ice cream, but drove away without her purse. Undaunted by the fact that she did not know the name of the place, she addressed a letter as follows:

"Ice cream parlour, right of Route 68, going south, on left hand side, going south toward Wilmington, just outside city limits, I think."

Semler's Ice Cream Parlour received the letter and the purse is being returned to Mrs Darner.

GETS THE BIRD

When Henry Gillis found 30 parakeets had been stolen from his home, he also discovered that two prize parakeets belonging to his neighbour had flown away.

The neighbour woman was advised to hang an open cage on her clothes line, and the birds would return to the cage.

The first day two birds flew into the cage. Gillis identified them as his. Five more parakeets returned the next day and they also belonged to Gillis.

"I'm sure getting the birds," the woman sighed, "but not my own."

The grayling, a freshwater fish of the most northern areas, is a relative of the salmon, trout and whitefish families.

JELLY MAKING FOR THE INEXPERIENCED COOK

IF YOU HAVE ALWAYS BEEN AFRAID to tackle jelly making, forget your fears and get yourself a jelly bag, a big stew kettle and some apples or grapes and dig right in. Seriously speaking, though, jelly is not hard to make if you follow directions carefully and give it your undivided attention at the time when the juice is beginning to jelly.

How to Make Jelly

Look over the fruit carefully and remove the blossom ends and any decayed parts. It is not necessary to remove the skins. Most fruits need to be cooked before the juice can be extracted. Cook juicy fruits in a small amount of water. Such fruits as apples should be covered with water.

Cook the fruit until tender, turn into a jelly bag and allow to drip overnight. Do not squeeze bag, for if you do so the jelly will be cloudy.

After the juice has dripped through the pulp may be returned to the preserving kettle, covered with water and heated gently in a simmering temperature for thirty minutes. Turn into jelly bag and allow to drip through without squeezing. Keep this juice separate from the first as jelly made from the second will be cloudy.

The amount of sugar which you must add to the juice is very important. Many failures in jelly-making are caused by adding too much sugar, which will result in a sticky jelly. Such fruits as currants, underripe grapes, green gooseberries and wild grapes are about the only fruits that require an equal measure of sugar. Two-thirds as much sugar as juice is a good proportion for most fruits.

Measure the juice and boil it rapidly for five minutes. Add the sugar and stir the juice until the sugar is dissolved. It is of no particular advantage to heat the sugar as it doesn't improve the quality of the jelly. Cook the juice very rapidly to obtain a bright, clear jelly; long slow cooking gives a dull, dark jelly, inferior in texture.

Testing the jelly is important and should be done frequently in order to be able to remove it from the heat at the proper moment. Take a small amount of the juice in a spoon and allow it to drop from the side of the spoon. When the drops flow together and fall from the spoon in a sheet or blob, the jelly is done and should be removed from the heat at once.

Pour into clean, hot glasses. When the jelly is cool and has set, cover with melted paraffin.

Better results will be obtained if not more than two quarts are made at one time.

A perfect jelly should be clear, bright and tender. When cut, it should have a clear surface and not stick to the knife and spoon. It should hold its shape when turned from the glass and should quiver without breaking.

Jelly can be made by the above method only when the fruit contains pectin, which is the substance which in combination with sugar and acids of the fruit juices, causes jellying. Pectin is contained in juices of the following fruits in quantities sufficient for jellying: Apples, - crabapples, underripe grapes, currants and slightly underripe red raspberries. If you wish to make jelly from fruits other than those mentioned above, you must add commercial pectin which may be obtained bottled at your grocer's. Jelly made with the help of commercial pectin will not be as tender or have as good a flavour as that made without it, although you will have a larger quantity.

Grape Pie

3 cups blue grapes
1 cup sugar
2 level tpsps. flour
½ tsp. grated lemon peel
2 tsps. grated orange peel

Separate skins from pulp of grapes. Heat pulp to boiling; press through sieve to remove seeds; add pulp to skins mixed with sugar, flour, orange and lemon peel. Fill pastry-lined pie pan. Adjust slashed top crust, or weave criss-cross top. Bake in hot oven.

Grape pies freeze well, but do not use criss-cross top and do not cut slits in top till just before baking.

CALLS CANADA SECOND HOME

Close to two years spent in a prisoner of war camp in Canada during the Second World War gave a German sea captain his first knowledge of the country he now calls his "second home."

Captain Karl Heinz Sperling, 40, commanded a German Navy supply tanker. He and his crew were captured by a British destroyer in the south Indian Ocean while en route to a refuelling rendezvous with the pocket batleship Graf Spee.

After stops in Kenya, Egypt and England, Captain Sperling was sent to a camp in Ontario. He still has the heavy, grey shirt with the letters "POW" that was issued to him here.

"I insist on saying I was merely a guest of the Canadian government," he says. "I had a very pleasant time and now consider Canada my second home."

The ex-navy skipper now is captain of the 2,465-ton freighter Transquebec, operated by the Poseidon line. In summer he shuttles between Hamburg, where his wife and twin boys live, and Quebec. Halifax is his ship's Canadian port in winter.

One thing Captain Sperling first heard during his POW days comes in handy now as a navigation aid. He knows he is getting close to Canadian shores "when we hear your wonderful cowboy music" on the ship radio.

Nine Units Represented At Regular Meeting Hospital Auxiliary

The September meeting of Winchester and District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was held in the assembly hall of the hospital, nine units being represented by 30 members. Mrs Roberts presided and extended a welcome to the ladies of Manotick-Greely W.I. who visited the meeting for the first time and who were interested in working for the Auxiliary.

Mrs Mulloy reported that the fans which were purchased earlier in the season had proven very satisfactory, as did the steam iron for the laundry and pop-up toaster for the upstairs kitchen. The latter two were donated by the Jolly Bridge Club. The coffee-maker is on order, and is being purchased by the Melvin-Annable unit.

Miss Elliott reported a substantial balance on hand after paying for linens and fans. The majority of units turned in substantial amounts since the June meeting and other units have their objectives almost completed.

The regional meeting for the Hospital Auxiliaries is to be held in St. Louis de Montfort Hospital, Eastview, on October 7. An interesting program has been planned.

The nominating committee was requested to have the slate of officers ready for the annual meeting in October; the meeting will be held in the assembly hall of the hospital.

The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Rotarians Hear Scout On Overseas Trip

Chesterville Rotarians and guests Monday evening were entertained by a showing of coloured film and a travel talk by Robert Gilroy, Scout of Chesterville who has returned recently from England. He attended the centenary Scout Jamboree at Sutton Coldfield.

The speaker was introduced by Arnold McLaggan, chairman of the Scout committee of Rotary who also had as his guests the parents of the speaker, Mr and Mrs P. J. Gilroy, Cub leader Mrs Gord Lannin, and assistants Mrs Jack Doering, Mrs Doug Stewart and Miss Marion Merkley. Mrs McLaggan was also a guest.

Past president F. M. Cass inducted a new member into the club in the person of Leon McMillan, implement dealer of this town. The new member was wholeheartedly welcomed by all members.

Bob Gilroy spent nearly a month in England. He made an excellent pictorial record of his stay and the many interesting events he saw and took part in. His narrative as the pictures flashed made the scenes come alive.

The speaker was thanked on the club's behalf by G. W. Gilbert. President Hosea Droppo presided.

Born near Montebello, Que., she was the daughter of the late Robert Robinson and Elizabeth Kirkpatrick.

She is survived by one son, Berryl, Hamilton, and one daughter, Mrs Douglas Locke (Opal), Geneva, Ill. There are seven grandchildren.

The funeral service was held in the Armstrong Suneral Home chapel with Rev Gerald Fee officiating. Interment was in United Cemetery, South Mountain.

Sister Mary Dorothy

Sister Mary Dorothy (Mary Agnes Coyne) of the Sisters of Providence died suddenly at the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, August 18.

Born in Chesterville, Sister Mary Dorothy was the daughter of the late Patrick Coyne and Norah Kain, pioneer residents of this locality. In 1906 she entered the Providence Novitiate, and made profession in 1907. She spent several years in the West at Providence Hospital, Daysland, Providence Hospital, Moose Jaw, and as local Superior at St. Joseph's, Winnipeg, and St. Mary's, Edmonton.

For a few years she was Assistant at the House of Providence. Most of her religious life, however, was devoted to the interests of St. Mary's of the Lake. She was one of the four professed Sisters who, in 1910 with 11 novices and 13 postulants, took over the building as novitiate and orphanage. In 1947, a year after St. Mary's was opened as a hospital, she was appointed Assistant Superior, a position she occupied until her death.

Sister Mary Dorothy was intensely interested in the Marian Year addition to the hospital, and though in failing health for many months, she continued, sometimes even from a wheel chair, to direct the landscaping of the grounds. She went to the Mother House at Heathfield for the retreat August 6-15, though she was obliged to follow the exercises from an infirmary room. On the Feast of the Assumption she was persuaded to go to Hotel Dieu for a check-up; three days later, she died, a few hours after receiving the Last Sacraments.

Tuesday morning, August 20, solemn requiem Mass was offered for the repose of her soul in the Chapel of the Immaculate Conception, Providence Motherhouse, Heathfield, by the Rev R. J. Flurey, chaplain, assisted by Rev Harold O'Neill, deacon, and Rev P. H. Murphy, subdeacon of the Mass. Other clergy present were: Rt Rev J. Sullivan, Rev R. Pickett, Rev B. Farrell. Rev B. Walsh, Rev F. Devine, S.J., and Rev A. J. Weiler, C.S.B.

Of her immediate family none survive. Attending the funeral were two cousins of the deceased, the Misses Annie and Catherine Coyne, Montreal.

Burial took place in St. Mary's Cemetery, Rev Father Flurey reciting the prayers at the grave.
