Committees, Officers Appointed For 1947 By Village Council

Appointment of municipal officials, commissions and committees, and the passing of routine bylaws for the borrowing of moneys kept Chesterville's 1947 Council busily engaged at the initial meeting held in the Clerk's office Tuesday evening.

H. C. Hummel was re-appointed Clerk-Treasurer at the inaugural meeting Tuesday morning, when the new Reeve, P. S. Boyd, and Councillors Chas. McMillan, Matthew Flynn, John Turner and Glenn Merkley subscribed to the declarations of office.

R. C. Dillabough and J. A. Morris presented, on behalf of The Chesterville Chamber of Commerce, a request that Council urge upon the Department of Highways the pressing necessity of a new highway bridge over the Nation River in Chesterville. Reeve P. S. Boyd promised the delegation that Council would certainly press the matter, as it was clearly realized the bridge was far from adequate for the heavy and continuous traffic of today.

In this connection, membership in the Ontario Good Roads Association was authorized, and the fee of $5 ordered paid. The Reeve and Clerk were named as delegates on motion by McMillan and Turner, to the convention to be held in Toronto, February 25 and 26, where they will lay the bridge case before the assembly.

Appointments

Passing of Bylaw 700, appointment of officials, was held up until an auditor can be procured to meet the standards demanded by the Department of Municipal Affairs, and the remaining officials were named by resolution. On motion of McMillan and Merkley, the Bank of Nova Scotia was named collector of taxes, in place of the municipal treasurer. The Bank will collect 10 cents on each bill handled, while the accounts will be mailed by the treasurer who will also make entries in the rolls.

E. B. Lynch was re-appointed assessor, at the same salary, on motion of Flynn and McMillan.

Garnet R. McLean was re-appointed village Constable, at the 1946 salary, $365 on motion of Turner and and Merkley.

Sydney Morris was re-appointed Fire Chief at the same salary, $365, on motion of McMillan and Turner.

Councillors Merkley and Turner were named Street Commissioners, on motion by McMillan and Flynn. McMillan and Flynn were appointed Fire and Police Commissioners, by motion of Turner and Merkley.

Appointment of the Community Hall Committee brought forth a bit of good natured jockeying, as Flynn and Merkley moved that McMillan and Turner be the members, and McMillan and Merkley brought in an amendment naming Flynn and Turner. On the vote, Reeve Boyd cast the deciding vote for Flynn and Turner.

H. C. Hummel again becomes Weed Inspector, and also re-appointed are F. K. Smith as sheep valuator, and Broder Bailey as pound keeper.

J. A. Morris was appointed to the Chesterville High School Board for a term of four years, to fill the vacancy created by the completion of his term by H. S. McMurray. On motion of Flynn and Merkley the Clerk was instructed to send a letter of appreciation to Mr. McMurray for the many years of valuable service as the municipal appointee of the school board.

Hall Improvements

Following appointment of the Hall Committee, plans were discussed for improvements to the Community Hall. The Reeve explained that in 1946 the Fire Hall and Department received the most attention, but now that the organization was in good shape, he felt the Community Hall should have its turn this year. Suggested improvements include renovations in the Clerk's office, which serves as Council Chambers; a plate on the door of this office indicating the Clerk's office hours; facilities for storing the chairs in the auditorium under the stage; painting of the auditorium; closer supervision; and a new heating system.

Cars Obstruct Snow Plow

Proper plowing of the streets was seriously obstructed during the recent bad storm by cars parked along the streets, and the Streets Commission was instructed to consult with S. Morris, operator of the snow plow, as to means of overcoming this. It was reported some fire hydrants were buried under the piles of snow thrown back by the plows, and the Fire Comissioners were asked to take the matter up with the Fire Chief.

Councillor Flynn reported two businessmen had complained to him about snow not being removed from in front of their premises, and the matter was turned over to the Street Commissioners. Council was of a mind that snow removal would be carried out as rapidly and thoroughly as is reasonably possible.

The contract for removal of garbage was renewed with Archie Harper on motion of Flynn and Merkley.

Nation Authority Delegate

O. L. King, Superintendent of Nestle's Milk Products (Can.) Ltd., was named representative of Council to the meeting called for February in Ottawa, by the Minister of Public Works to appoint an "Authority" for the Nation River Conservation. Mr. King is given full authority to vote for the municipality.

Appointments to the Chesterville Public Library Board, on motion of Flyn and Turner, were Edwin Hutt, Ronald A. Lynch and Mrs. B. Campbell, who will sit with the Reeve as the municipality's representatives.

No word has been received from the engineer on the re-allocation of assessments on the Church Street sewerage plan, and the Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Magwood. Reeve Boyd was given authority to request an "easement" for the laying of the sewer line through the United Counties' Reforestation Plot when he attends Counties' Council this month.

H. M. Henderson was granted his request for a rebate of taxes on his residence destroyed by fire in February, 1946, on motion of McMillan and Turner.

Council will continue to meet on the first Tuesday of each month at 8.00 p.m.

ST. MARY'S S. S. BOARD MAKES APPOINTMENTS

Walter J. Carr was re-appointed to the Chesterville High School Board by St. Mary's Separate School Board meeting in the school buildings Tuesday night. Mrs. A. Hughson and Francis Moriarty were named members of the new Chesterville Public Library Board. The school board consists of Rev. Father P. J. Keaney, Chairman; Thos. Moran, J. D. Brannen and Wm. McPhail, with Wm. McCloskey as secretary-treasurer.

Learns Value of "Bargain Table" Ads After Buying Trip in Sub-Zero Weather

"It doesn't cost to advertise in The Record—It pays!" works both ways, as one district farmer found out at the week-end after travelling with a horse and sleigh on one of the coldest days in the year in a vain search for pigs.

Milton Stewart, Finch Road, started out Friday morning by horse and sleigh in search of a couple of brood sows, and covered the "pig country" in the Winchester Springs district without success. Returning home in the afternoon "half frozen", as he said, he picked up The Record from the mail box as he entered the yard.

Pulling up his chair in front of the stove to warm his feet he looked over the paper, turning to the "Bargain Table", where those mighty mites of advertising are listed.

There was an ad from his next door neighbour, Allison Graham: "For Sale—Brood Sow, due to farrow soon; also feeder pigs."

Pulling on his boots, he "footed" it down the road and made a deal for two brood sows.

The pigs were brought home on Saturday. Sunday night one litter of 14 pigs was born, and Tuesday night the second litter of 11 future porkers came into the world. And a quick mathematical solution would show 27 pigs in all—the result of a fifty-cent ad.

Appointments Made By Township Council At Inaugural Meeting

The inaugural meeting of Winchester Township council was held in the Town Hall, Winchester, on Monday, January 6th, 1947 at 11.00 o'clock A.M. with Mr. John A. Bogart, reeve; Mr. H. E. Durant, deputy-reeve and Mr. Wm. Brown, Mr. E. B. McMillan and Mr. Basil Dawley, councillors, present and subscribing to the necessary oath of office.

The time for the return of the Collector's Roll was extended to February 1st. and the collector was instructed to try and have all arrears of taxes collected by that date.

A large deputation of rate--payers interviewed council requesting the purchase of a Bulldozer to grade, widen and clean the roads of brush and weeds so that the roads might be the more easily kept open for winter traffic. Many of the farmers where the roads are narrow or where the corners are not suitable, offered the land free for the improvement or same, if one were purchased.

The following accounts were passed and paid:

Roads and bridges	$361.10
Relief and Charity	77.00

Mrs. Amelia MacMillan Lambkin, who has been in Brooklyn for some time, was recently presented with a very fine radio by station W.O.R. for her appreciated help on the "Listener's Reports" broadcast of November 16th. The letter accompanying the gift said "as a special award for your help on the program."

MOREWOOD ELECTS VILLAGE TRUSTEES

In the voting for Village trustees in the Police Village of Morewood Monday, H. R. Faulkner headed the pole with 45 votes, James Cheney, second with 38 and W. J. Stewart thrid with 37. Allan Swerdfeger, the fourth candidate, received 24 votes.

Morewood Presbyterian WMS Had Highly Successful Year

The Women's Missionary Society of the Morewood Presbyterian church held its first meeting of the New Year at the home of Mrs. Weldon Dillabough with sixteen members present, and the president, Mrs. Thos. E. Coulthart, presiding.

Reports from the various departments indicated the work of each one being faithfully carried on during 1946. The Mission Band, under the leadership of Mrs. Harold Heustin, Miss Donelda McLeod and Mrs. Ross Nurse is deserving of special mention, as with a very small membership they increased the work of their department and raised almost $90 during the year.

The members of the W.M.S. were proud to honour two of their faithful "Home Helpers", Mrs. Walter Carruthers and Miss Carrie Hunter, with Life Membership Certificates. These are given as a reward for generous, gracious service in the work of the secretary and also that the recipients become members for life, so that no matter where their paths may lead them, they are lined with the Home Society.

The meeting closed with prayer by the President, voicing the gratitude of the members for the manifold blessings of the past year, and asking that in the year that lies ahead our Heavenly Father would guide and bless the work of our Missionary Society, whose aim it is to spread the light of the Gospel of the Christ to all the dark and unhappy places of the earth—be they far or near.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Dillabough, assisted by some of the members.

IN HOTEL DIEU HOSPITAL

Mrs. Joseph Featherstone of Grantley is a patient in the Hotel Dieu hospital, Cornwall, and is reported to be seriously ill. She was removed to hospital by Henderson's ambulance.

Chamber of Commerce May Hold Slogan Contest To Advertise Village

Possibility of a contest to name a slogan to be used for advertising Chesterville and its industrial advantages, has been discussed following the appointment of an Industrial Committee by The Chesterville Chamber of Commerce at its January session held in the Community Theatre, Thursday evening.

The plan was suggested of adopting a slogan and asking the business places in Chesterville to have it prnted on the back of their envelopes for mail going to out-of-town points. The use of a small map giving Chesterville's location in relation to the larger centres and its transportation facilities of road and rail, in conjunction with the slogan was also discussed. The idea of the contest will be decided upon, it is expected when the Industrial Committee gets underway.

Following an explanation of the organization and duties of this committee by the Secretary, the following were named: E. B. Lynch, Chas. McMillan, F. W. Barker, O. L. King and H. J. Hamilton.

R. C. Dillabough was named chairman of the National Affairs Committee, along with J. Frank Casselman and E. B. McMillan, following the report by E. B. Lynch, member of the Fact-Finding Committee appointed at the last meeting to enquire into the forming of the two new committees. A number of booklets have been ordered, "This Is a Business", for distribution to final year high school students by the National Affairs Committee.

R. C. Dillabough and the Secretary were named a delegation to wait on the Village Council at its first meeting to urge the presentation to the Department of Highways of Chesterville's urgent need for a new highway bridge over the Nation River.

F. W. Barker reported on the progress of his Signs Committee, saying a meeting was called for Friday night and he honed to have something definite following a visit to Smiths Falls the first of the week.

The next meeting of the Chamber will be held on Thursday, February 13th.

RIBS CRACKED THURSDAY IN FIRST HOCKEY GAME

Dwayne Munro, husky defenceman of Chesterville's Legionaires hockey team sustained a couple of fractured ribs in Thursday evening's game with Finch-Berwick at the Legion Memorial Rink, the opening game of the C.O.V. schedule, but few persons in the large audience knew he had been injured as he continued in the game.

TOO FAR FROM HIS WORK

We often hear it commented upon that it is a peculiar situation in this farming community that the representative of the Department of Agriculture should be maintained on the southerly edge of the county instead of in the midst of the farming community. Professedly the District Representative is in the county for the sole and only purpose of rendering assistance to tillers of the soil in all their problems of farming. It might naturally be expected that if he were more centrally located it would make his services more valuable to the community. It is approximately twenty-five miles from the St. Lawrence to the northerly boundary of the county and with the Nestle's plant in Chesterville more farmers would be in close touch with their District Representative, if he were located here, than at any other point in Dundas or West Stormont. Perhaps Hon. T. L. Kennedy might be brought to see the light if he were approached by a committee from the breeders' clubs, the Crop Improvement Association and the milk and cheese producers.

OLD PROBS CHANGES HIS METHODS

The weather has always been a great subject of conversation and while the salutation on meeting a friend may continue to be "Nice Day" or "Cold this Morning", the means of letting you know what to expect have changed a great deal in the last thirty or forty years. The weather predictions on radio are most interesting and very definite, almost certainties as to velocity of winds and temperatures in the different parts of our country. It was not always so.

Do you remember when the probabilities were carried on the sides of baggage cars on local passenger trains during the summer months to help farmers arrange their work during seeding, haying and harvest time. A large white disc about three feet in diameter told all who might notice it that the day would be fine. If half the disc were black rain could be looked for and the cutting or harvesting could be retared or hastened as might be desired.

Another means of spreading the "probs" was by telegraph. A bulletin from the Meteorological Office was sent each morning to all telegraph offices where it was placed in a small frame outside of the office where anyone interested might see it. This feature was more appreciated along the water fronts than inland where very few took much interest in it, going about their work with their own weather eye cocked.

Hon. Mackenzie King is somewhat of a magician, he has made us all Canadians. Of course we were born in Canada and have lived our lives so far in Canada. That hadn't anything to do with in. Now that we are Canadians what some of us would like is for Mr. King to change us back to married men. We have been classed as single men long enough for income tax purposes and it is time for a change.

We've got a great big club waiting for the optimist who says winter's half over with January here. The storms over Sunday and Tuesday were quite successful in tying up traffic on the highways, being reported by highway men as bad as they had ever experienced.

Have you heard the one about the nudists who were planning a costume party. The ladies were worrying about what they would wear. "Well", said Mrs. Pinkus, "with my varicose veins, I think I'll go as a road map."

Tradition Versus New Trends In Our Educational System

By H. G. GILLIES,
Principal of Chesterville High School

A great deal of thought is being given to the changes suggested in our educational system, especially in secondary schools, and in this address to the Rotary Club of Chesterville, Monday evening, Harvey G. Gillies, Principal of Chesterville High School, told of the plans for bettering the system so that our young people may be better fitted to take their place in the community as useful citizens.

I do not hope or intend in this talk to cover many of the multilateral aims and plans of education, nor do I intend to stress any particular viewpoint, but I will have achieved my aim if I can make you realize in a small way the breadth of the subject, the divergence of thought, that to the modern trends and innovations there are two sides—each worthy of due consideration and not to be dismissed lightly because it is new. I realize that in the old conservative Ontario—conservative in more than politics—we are prone to dismiss the new because it breaks with tradition. On the other hand we are sometimes caught by the glitter and tinsel of the new and toss out the old without due regard for its true worth.

There have been many definitions of education and its aims, but fundamentally they are all aiming at the ideal state. To me the ideal state is one where every citizen is determined to be part of the community, to share its burdens, to put its interests before his own; to sacrifice. if need be, his own wishes, convenience, time and money to it. It is a machine of which no part is idle or inefficient, none rusted, broken or ill-fitting, in which every pulley and cog takes up its full share of the load, and plays its part in the swift and smooth running of the whole.

To achieve this Utopia it is very important that every individual be trained and developed to the fullest extent of his innate capacities, individual aptitudes and potential abilities, to take his place as a citizen in this democratic state.

The students in our educational institutions must acquire an understanding of the world today and their place in it, and on the basis of training and knowledge acquired, be prepared to make wise decisions. They must develop the habit of critical thinking to appreciate and desire worthwhile activities, and to gain command of the common integrating knowledges and skills.

Our schools, particularly our secondary schools, must meet the needs of the adolescent. Perhaps the most important of these fundamental needs is that of "emotional security", expressing itself in the need for affection and belonging. Opportunity to establish and develop friendship with their peers is the right of every individual. Some of the other fundamental needs are: (i) self-esteem, (ii) social approval or recognition, (iii) independence, (iv) achievement. Hence any successful educational system will incude in its objectives: (i) self-realization, (ii) human relationships, (iii) economc efficiency, (iv) civic responsibility. Thus four practical aims that any successful secondary educational system must fulfill are to fit its students: (a) to understand and develop themselves, (b) to understand others, (c) to earn a comfortable living, (d) to enjoy a normal existence in their community.

But these practical aims are in themselves insufficient. The citizens of our country must be effective workers; they must be able to enjoy leisure; they must have a high degree of physical well-being, a high standard of moral conduct, right attitudes toward responsibility, co-operation, self-discipline, a realization of their social-civic responsibilities.

But good citizenship goes still further. Civilization is not static; the education of yesterday will not do for the education of today. Security depends upon higher principles—"the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God". "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Love is the fulfilment of the law, the basis of peace and goodwill toward all men—the climax of good citizenship.

Let us consider whether education has achieved its end. There are some who say that our educational system is inadequate and obsolete, and to support their views they point to the rejections by the army. The presence of teen-aged youths in bawdy houses, the increase in juvenile delinquency, the prevalence of social disease, lack of moral training, indicate adequate protection of children especially vulnerable to delinquency, failure to meet the needs of the adolescent, inadequate home life and guidance, lack of training for leisure, lack of sex education and failure to control harmful influences in the community.

Every citizen of a democratic state has a right to an education. One has only to look at his fellow citizens to realize our present system is falling far short of this ideal. Many individuals leave school at the minimum age required by law. Many of those that remain are not having the success in our schools their inherent capacities and potent abilities would lead us to expect. But, what is more important, many of the students who are failing have a rank indifference to present and past failures. Other students are developing an anti-social, cynical attitude toward teachers and schools in general. Many of these individual characteristics make for social unhappiness, irritability at home, in school and in other spheres of life. The number of domestic quarrels and divorces indicate the lack of training in choosing a life partner, and lack of training for successful participation in family life and the rearing of children. The emotional maladjustment of adolescents as shown by bullying, over compensation, aggression following frustration, regression, day-dreaming, rationalization, repression, projection, boisterousness, etc., indicate that the present system has become inadequate and obsolete. They say we have lost our grip on education—that it has an ample body but a will-of-the-wisp spirit.

Now, Gentlemen, that presents a very gloomy picture. But, before we decide to scrap over what we have—throw aside tradition and bring in the new—let us ponder over a little story, or parable, if you like. Once upon a time a little crooked devil lived in a house. After a time the landlord got him out and had the house thoroughly fumigated. But, while he was arguing with the rent controller, there moved in seven little devils that grew up to be big devils!

Have our schools failed? If they have failed as completely as some charge then we have no good lawyers, doctors, teachers or businessmen—in fact, we have no good citizens. It means that you and I are very poor citizens. Is it true?

To me, our schools haven't failed. In fact the very luxuries that we use in our everyday life are an indication of how successful education has been. Yes, I realize we are not making genii of all mama's and papa's little darlings. But, no change in our curriculum or methods, or teachers, will change human nature overnight. If every interest of every pupil were catered to there would still be the indolent, the indifferent, the unco-operative.

To meet the public demand for change, several new methods are being introduced, and not without controversy. The introduction of religious teaching in schools is a very touchy problem in some sections of the province, so I'm going to leave it strictly alone.

A guidance programme, not just vocational guidance but guidance in a much wider field, is being tried. Understanding the child in his environment is basic to guiding him. "The child must be understood before he is taught." Hence it is vitally important that as much accurate information as possible be secured before any individual guidance is given. It is much easier to prevent maladjustment than to cure it. Therefore, it is advisable to secure as much information as possible as soon as possible. A few of the tests prepared for this are achievement tests, intelligence tests, aptitude tests and personality tests.

In addition, there are case study methods, diaries, interviews, and several others.

What is done with the information when acquired?

I'm afraid that all too often it is filed away in an obscure corner of a cupboard in the principal's office where it gathers dust and will in time grow yellow with age.

But it had infinite possibilities if treated wisely by trained personnel. It can be, and should be, a very worthy innovation. It is something that is going to occupy more attention in years to come. At present it consists mainly of an "occupations" course in Grade IX, with a counsellor available for occasional interviews with other students. In a few, a very few, of the larger schools, those interviews are a regular part of the work. In most schools little use of that privilege is made. Some of the reasons for this are: untrained personnel, mistrust of the new, maybe it is at that age we don't want guidance! maybe it is because papa knows best! maybe it is a combination. I am still seeking the answers. In South Africa's schools, psychologists are being added to the teaching staff.

Township School Areas

In Ontario the movement towards larger Public School areas is divided into two parts:

First—The Township Public School Area. I don't know how many township school areas there are in this district, but it is a movement that is spreading rapidly through the province. The rate at which this movement is progressing indicates it has numerous advantages. The following are a few of its advantages.

1. More equal school advantages for rural pupils.

(a) It is easier to engage school nurses and to provide an adequate health programme for rural pupils.

(b) Itinerant teachers of special subjects such as Music, Manual Training, Household Science and Agriculture may be engaged with greater ease.

2. More equitable distribution of school costs.

3. Saving in the purchase of school supplies. Instructional supplies such as books, pencils, etc., may be purchased in larger quantities at wholesale prices.

4. More efficient teaching. Opportunities are provided for the better placement of teachers, for the friendly competition and mutual assistance of rural teachers of the same area.

5. Improved administration.

6. Improved supervision.

The following are a few of the alleged disadvantages:

1. There is a loss of local control. Is this true? The trustees of our schools and the councillors of our municipality are elected. We can replace them.

2. A loss of interest in education and the local school. Gentlemen, I was raised in a rural section and frequently at the annual meeting we had to visit the nearby homes to secure enough ratepayers to hold a meeting. If this is an indication of interest we are losing, is it such a loss? In my experience it is a controversy that stimulates interest, particularly a controversy that touches our wallets such as putting hydro in the schools. I think that the larger area—at least for a time—may stimulate interest.

3. Some of the advantages can be secured without township school areas. Example: A county health scheme whereby several nurses are supplied by the county and they visit the schools regularly. The services of doctors and dentists are also provided when required. (Elgin County is an example).

High School

Now let us consider "the larger High School area." It is a topic—a controversial topic—that is being widely discussed.

What started the movement in Ontario?

I believe it started in the little village of Merlin in Kent County. Merlin had constructed a new school which offered the modern courses. Before they paid much of the debenture, the school burned. It was inadequately insured. They had one debenture on a pile of ashes; they couldn't finance two. Ridgetown, Blenheim and Chatham were not too far distant, but Merlin wanted a school of its own and it had to be a good school to compete with other schools. Merlin couldn't finance it—so after consultation with the Department the idea of the larger High School area was proposed. Merlin got its new school but the debenture was over a greater area.

A similar solution was tried elsewhere and then the Department decided to introduce the idea in six counties. But councillors and other leaders picked up the idea and now the movement is being discussed throughout Ontario.

The following are a few of its advantages:

1. The larger area can finance better buildings, gymnasiums, auditoriums, etc.

2. The larger school can offer a wider variety of courses. Shop work and home economics can be continued in grades XI and XII. Commercial courses can be offered.

3. Better playground facilities will be provided.

4. There will be specialist teachers for each subject.

5. Transportation will be provided and more students will continue beyond the High School Entrance.

6. Better health facilities will be offered.

I would like to cite one school as an example of what may be attained in such a composite high school. It is not yet the centre of a larger High School area. The Ridgetown High School is situated in a fertile agricultural district. It has a splendid gymnasium and an auditorium which serves as a community centre. It has shop and home economics courses (to the end of middle school), a commercial course. There is an agricultural school adjoining. It is fortunate that next door there is an experimental farm. The school has the full use of its facilities — orchards, gardens, greenhouses, pure bred livestock. It has the advice and help of trained and competent personnel. Its work is so highly rated that graduates of the agricultural course may enter O.A.C. to attain the degree of B.S.A. and have credit for the course.

If this can be attained through larger High School areas—can we afford to let it pass?

Some Disadvantages

But let us pause. Is there anything against larger High School Areas?

1. Transportation—Think of Chesterville's main street on December 28th, 1946. How would a bus system work? Are the country roads open yet? But still there are school buses in snow belts serving Mitchell, Goderich, etc. Is the difficulty real?

2. It is proposed to have all specialist teachers. Is it advisable? Someone has said that a specialist is a person who can do only one thing. Don't we need some teachers with a general knowledge to integrate the special skills and sciences?

3. The centres for some of these areas are going to be out in the country away from all towns and villages. The students will leave on the 4 o'clock bus. The doors of the gymnasium will be closed—the playground idle. Would it not be better to have less pretentious buildings and playgrounds that would be close enough to students' homes to be used after 4 p.m.?

How are you going to assure the supplies for Shop and Home Economics courses in schools several miles from the nearest store?

4. Some of the modern new schools with debentures as yet unpaid, are going to be closed. Are those new, good buildings going to be left empty—to decay with the passing of time? Examples: Delaware Continuation School 1938. Stayner Continuation School.

5. New High School Areas come into effect on December 31st—the middle of a school year. Many students would have to change schools and the continuity of the courses would be broken.

6. In larger schools there is a tendency for students who don't excel to be left in the background or left out or extra curricular activities. Is this equal opportunity?

These are a few of the Pros. and Cons of the modern trends in education. Whether their ideas will be adopted permanently or allowed to pass into oblivion—you the citizens of Ontario will be the final arbiters.

Make up your minds, Gentlemen! !

Wanted - Voices Crying in the Wilderness

Every time anyone mentions the word Communism with even a mildly critical inflection a storm of vituperation falls on his unhappy head. It seems that there are people who believe that comment on this subject leaves only these alternatives: accept enthusiastically or leave it alone.

Now this is not a diatribe against Communism or any other ism. In this instance the word is used merely as a peg on which to hang an argument. The gist of this argument is that we and everybody have an inalienable right to sound off on any subject that seems of moment to us, and we believe that the declining urge to do so is a subject for concern.

There are, of course, many well-ordered souls who contend that only constructive criticism is entitled to a voice. For ourselves, in any such argument, we would prefer to line up with Mr. Harold Ickes, who in a recent article, and with customary forthrightness, urged the exact opposite. "I believe", he said, "in totally destructive criticism if the occasion calls for it. If an artist paints a chromo, or an author writes a mess of a book, why should he not be told so, if only to prevent a repetition of the offense? I invite anybody," he adds, "to criticize constructively Hitler or Mussolini or the devil."

It is surely better that a lot of men should talk a lot of nonsense, garbed as criticism, than that they should remain voiceless. It is surely better to have men of opinions of their own, even where they may often be wrong, than to have them waiting around voiceless until someone provides words to which they can say yes.

There would never have been a Magna Charta or an Emancipation Proclamation or a Sermon on the Mount if someone hadn't thought ahead of his fellows and given a voice to his thoughts. We need opinions. We need men with the courage to think, even if they think wrongly. There never was an honest opinion so wrong that other men could not use it as a steppingstone to right thinking.

It would often seem that what we need most in this country is for people to get mad enough about some vital issue to raise their voices in protest.

We need it to give direction to our political thinking. Politicians, as a prominent industrialist has said, are too prone to forget that constitutions were created to regulate government, but politicians have been busy reversing this practice by removing the limitations from themselves and imposing them on the people. We need challenging voices to bring about urgently needed reforms. But mainly we see little men bickering about inconsequential issues, while the great multitude of people look on with a detached complacency and say nothing. We need voices to winnow the right thinking from the wrong, so that this bewildered world may realize whither it is drifting. We need to speak out to maintain our own human dignity.

This is the essence of our argument. Everyone should find a voice—not the politicians and the preachers and publicists alone, but everyone, for words can induce thought. We are not schooled perhaps. We might be wrong. What of it? This is a democracy, and democracy has no other meaning than that the people as a whole, where stirred by their own needs, have the integrity and common sense to select from the choices facing them those in the interests of all. That is what makes the democratic way more worthwhile than anything a police state can offer.

When he arrived home, his clothes were in tatters, his eyes were blackened and several teeth were missing. His wife was horrified, and asked the reason for his condition. Through his swollen lips he said, "I can't understand it. I was in Dominion Square, at a Communist meeting, minding my own business at the top of my voice."

Organization Explained Of New Library Set-up For Chesterville

With appointment of the members of "The Chesterville Public Library Board" made this week by the Municipal Council, Public and Separate Schools, the establishment of the new library in Chesterville comes nearer to a fact, following the passing of a resolution in December by the Council changing the set-up from a Library Association to a Public or 'free' Library, membership of which is open to all residents of the village free of charge.

Revenue for the new library will be raised through a special item in the tax rate, designated as "The Public Library Rate," the amount being that estimated by the Board to meet its requirements, but the rate shall not exceed that which will produce a sum more than fifty cents per capita.

Changed By By-Law

The changeover of the Board was instigated some months ago, and culminated in the presentation to Council of a resolution from the Chesterville Library Association requesting transfer to a Public Library Board. Council then passed the enabling by-law under section 9 of the Public Libraries Act.

The general management, regulation and control of the Library is vested in the new Board, to which the assets and property of the Library Association have been transferred by the bylaw.

Personnel of the Board is composed of the Reeve and three members appointed by Council, three by the Public School Board and two by St. Mary's Separate School Board. Of the three members first appointed by Council and the Public School, one will hold office until the first of February next year, one until February, 1949, and one until February 1950. The Separate School appointees will hold office until February 1948 and 1949 respectively. However, every member continues in office until his or her successor has been appointed. In this manner, three new members are appointed to the Board each year.

Appointments

The first appointment of members of the Board were ordered by the bylaw to be made at the first meeting in the New Year, and the annual appointments in future shall be at the first meetings of Council and the school boards after the first day of the year.

Any member of the Board convicted of an offence aganist Criminal Code of Canada "shall ipso facto vacate his or her seat." The same regulation applies to a member becoming mentally ill, or absenting himself or herself from meetings of the Board for three consecutive months without being authorized by resolution, or who ceases to be a resident of the village.

The bylaw states the Board shall hold regular meetings at least once every month from February to June inclusive, and from September to January inclusive, and at other times as it sees fit. However, in a municipality of the size of Chestervlile, the Board meets on alternate months.

The powers and duties of the Board are set forth in The Public Libraries Act. A penalty of a $20.00 fine, recoverable under the Summary Convictions Act, may be levied against any person creating a nuisance in the Library, or near the Library, such as to disturb persons using the facilities of the Library.

Farm Radio Forum Uuges Compulsory Calf Vaccination

After a three-week holiday, Farm Radio Forums met again last Monday night. An estimated 30,000 farmers, gathered in small groups across Canada, discussed "how risky a business is farming".

S. S. No. 10 Forum met at the home of Oscar Foster with John Sutherland as Convenor. Weeds and animal diseases were the main topics under discussion with T.B. and Contagious Abortion among cattle occupying most of the time. It was agreed among the men present that the sooner calfhood vaccination for the prevention of Bang's Disease was made compulsory, the better it would be for the farmers of the County.

Tre ladies present also made good use of their time. After the broadcast they started a short course in assembling jig-saw puzzles.

Meeting next Monday is at the home of Thos. McCadden with Albert Smith in charge of the activities.

ONE HUNDRED MILLION GLASS BOTTLES!

How many glass bottles do you buy, use, break, or lose every year? No one can answer this question, but the big glassworks know from experience that world requirements are increasing from year to year. One single Scottish glass-bottle factory has now decided to increase its yearly production from 43 to 100 million. This tremendous increase, demanding a capital outlay of £500,000, will require a great deal of effort to achieve. In about 3 years' time, that is before 1950, the firm hopes to reach the one-hundred-million mark.

Legionaires Win and Lose As C.O.V. Schedule Starts Off

With the Central Ottawa Valley Schedule under way one full week it begins to look as though Maxville's Glens will be the team to play for the title, as they took a 6-2 win from Chesterville's Legionaires in the Glengarry town Monday night, and trimmed up Winchester last night 9-1 on the latter's home ice.

Chesterville won the opener of the schedule by defeating the Finch-Berwick "Blue Devils" here 6-3, Thursday night, before one of the largest crowds of fans ever to watch an opening in the Chesterville Rink. The game was fast and full of thrills, but cost the Legionaires the services of Dwayne Munro for a few more games when he suffered some cracked ribs after meeting a knee on one of his rushes. Goals were scored by Claire McMillan and O. Ouderkirk to give a tie in the first period. Lockie Helmer put the Legionaires one up in the second, only to have Helmer of Finch tie it up, but Alford's goal put Chesterville in front, where they remained. In the final, Casselman, notched two and Shane one for the Legionaires, while C. Ouderkirk scored the Blue Devils' third.

Saturday night, Winchester won at Finch 7-4.

Games for the coming week are:

Friday, Finch at Winchester; Saturday, Chesterville at Finch; Wednesday, Chesterville at Winchester; Thursday, Maxville at Chesterville.

Legion Memorial Rink And Hockey Team Discussed by Branch

Discussion of the Legion Memorial Rink and the hockey team took up a great deal of the meeting of Chesterville Branch 434, Canadian Legion, BESL, at Monday evening's session in the club rooms, and the Rink Committee, under Carl G. Merkley, chairman, will take over the duties of the Building Committee, while a special meeting will be called of the Branch and the hockey team players to talk over the financing of the team.

Plans were made for cleaning up the new club rooms, hiring a caretaker, and Donald Curran and Jack MacMillan were added to the club room committee. Accounts totalling $207.22 were passed for the rink fund, and $42.25 for the club room account.

Freeman L. Beckstead, chairman of the Town League Hockey Committee, reported the group hoped to start a schedule shortly, and a meeting was being held in the club rooms Tuesday evening to complete plans.

In the absence of President Lyle E. Alford, Chas. T. Hart, Sergeant-at-Arms, presided over the meeting.

While the canvass for the Legion Memorial Rink Fund, is not yet complete, it is hoped a list of donations can be published in the near future, as soon as books have been turned in to the secretary by the canvassers.

The question of furniture for the club rooms was again brought up, but as the Branch has expended most of its efforts to date on financing the rink there is not a great deal of money for this expenditure and it is hoped some second-hand furniture—chairs, chesterfields, piano and tables may be procured—or donated.

STILL HOSPITAL PATIENT AFTER BEING GORED BY BULL

Round-up Time

By Edna Jaques

We know that in the cattle country "round-up" time comes in the spring. When cattle have been wintering out on the range they tend to get scattered and in stormy weather they go down into the gulleys and ravines for shelter and often stay there for the rest of the winter, pawing the snow away and feeding on the sweet sun-cured grass.

Here the young calves are born and it's the job of the cowboys—as soon as it warms up—to go out and round them up, counting and branding them so the rancher will know how many head he has.

Well—last week we started a little pre-spring "round-up" not with cattle but a round-up of the year's doings around the Prices Board—here are a few things we found.

1.—A few upward adjustments in price ceilings that were necessary in order to get in line with higher production costs and the lifting of subsidies necessary during the war years. In spite of these changes we found that the cost of living has only risen a little over six per cent during the year.

2.—We found that the production of civilian goods showed a nice little increase with many goods in equal quantities—or even more than in pre-war days, although world wide shortages in such necessities as cotton goods, worsteds, oils and sugar had served to restrict our supplies.

3.—We also found that production of manufactured goods in Canada was slowed up by trade disputes in many key industries both at home and in the U.S.A.

4.—That price control was administered in a more flexible way in 1946 than was possible during the war and a sound beginning made on decontrol by the suspension of price ceilings on many articles not vitally important in the cost of living.

5.—Another very important step was the restoration of the good old Canadian dollar to parity with the United States dollar. This was a big step forward to off-set price increases across the line. It also held down the cost of imported goods and relieved the upward pressure on Canadian prices, caused by the rise in the U.S.

6.—Another Board order removed from price control a large number of articles of minor importance thus giving the Prices Board a better chance to set its efforts on the important items that figured high on the family budget.

7.—Subsidies were removed from price control a large number of articles of minor importance thus giving the Prices Board a better chance to set its efforts on the important items that figured high on the family budget.

7.—Subsidies were removed from imported raw wools and on domestic worsted yarns and fabrics—also on imported cotton goods. A few other minor subsidies were adjusted during the year while a number were continued such as on cotton textiles, coal, etc. in order to hold the cost of living within reasonable limits.

8.—As a result of removal of subsidies or other factors, increases had to be granted in iron and steel products, although ceilings were held on the majority of household articles. Furniture prices advanced during the year on account of the increase in lumber, cotton and steel.

9.—Some increases were allowed in the price of certain meats, canned fish, poultry and dried fruits. Small increases were allowed also in rubber footwear, butter, evaporated milk, coal, peanut butter, etc. All in all, the food situation was better, with good crops of fruits, vegetables and grains.

10.—No big change in rationing of foods occurred until December, when canned fruits, cranberry sauce and all baby foods containing sugar were removed from the ration list.

This then is a little round-up of activities in the Prices Board, giving you a chance, as citizens of the country to see where we all stand, and wishing everyone a Happy New Year . . . and good living.

FIRST SEA LORD BROADCASTS

Admiral Sir John Cunningham, K.C.B., M.V.O., First Sea Lord, at the British Broadcasting Corporation micophone.

Before his appointment as First Sea Lord, Admiral Cunningham was Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet, and as Commander-in-Chief, Levant, met the Italian Fleet that surrendered at Alexandria. In the Mediterranean he was popular among officers and rating alike, and stories about him are legion. Typical of his approach is the incident at Alexandria which followed the surrender of the Italian Fleet. Sir John, as Commander-in-Chief, Levant, chose an old "Smokey Joe"—one of the last coal burners of the Royal Navy—in which to meet the Italian ships. The ship had been scrubbed, washed and polished from stem to stern to await the Admiral's arrival. That night, coal dust from the jetty was blown on to the bridge and the Commanding Officer apologized to the Admiral, but he replied, "Don't apologize. This class of ship was my first command."

What Should International Agriculture Do to Promote Farmers' Prosperity?

For twenty years the workers of the world have had an international organization whose main concern is to obtain better conditions for working men, women and children. The International Labour Organization was formed at the demand of organized workers after World War I. Only since last May have farmers had a comparable organiztion in the Interntional Federation of Agricultural Producers (IFAP).

IFAP came into being in London, May 1946, at a conference attended by representatives from 31 nations. The Canadian delegation consisted of 11 men from farm organizations in all parts of Canada and was led by H. H. Hannam, President of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Unlike the International Labour Organization which is financed by Governments but democratically controlled by representatives of employer's and workers' organizations as well as of Governments, IFAP is both financed and controlled by farm organizations and has no connection with Governments. As such it has no power to pass laws or regulations affecting the countries of its members. How then, will it work?

The chief function of IFAP will be to advise and assist the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, which represents the Governments of its member nations. IFAP will be the link between the farmers of the world and FAO in much the same way as the Canadian Federation of Agriculture is the link between the Canadian farmer and the Dominion Government.

An important aim of IFAP is to promote the welfare of farmers and to assure them fair and stable prices for their products. IFAP believes that by helping farmers to improve their methods of production, processing and marketing it will also be helping to bring about a more equitable distribution of food for the people of the world.

The work of IFAP is to be discussed in National Farm Radio Forum on Januyary 13, 1947, under the topil, "What Should the World Federation Do?"

Comrades In Adversity

It was a dark day and rather chilly. Gusts of wind, with a bit of a nip, ruffled the newly-mown grass where late golden daffodills nodded their greeting to the passer-by.

Being a visitor from the far Canadian Rockies, my American cousins were showing me through "Prospect Park." Naturally, I was thrilled with all the beauty of this lovely spot—its avenues of trees which had been imported from many foreign lands, its borders resplendent in flowering shrubs, its indescribable lily-pond, where gorgeous blooms compel attention and admiration.

I was sold on Prospect Park as being one of the most interesting I had seen. I felt I would surely carry back to Canada a picture of all this beauty, and then—my attention was called to something which was to take precedence over all I had seen that day—was to linger in my memory long after the trees had been bared of their leaves, and the lilies had vanished from the pool.

On a bench, a tattered beggar was seated, while all around him, hungry sparrows, quite as unkempt-looking as he, chattered and fought for a few crumbs which the old man scattered among them, his gnarled fingers carefully picking the tiny pieces from the edges of a crust of bread, as he cheerfully shared this meagre morsel with his feathered friends.

As I moved on to join my party, I knew I had been taught a mighty lesson in—sharing.

TRIPLETS AT RED CROSS OUTPOST

Mrs. William Davidson, wife of a trapper, travelled 28 miles through the bush to the Red Cross Outpost Hospital at Bancroft where she gave birth to triplets on New Year's Eve. Her crippled husband brought her 10 miles by sled from their log cabin north of Bancroft to Maynooth, where he received assistance in having her taken 18 more miles to the Red Cross hospital in this community 50 miles north of Belleville. The triplets, two boys and a girl, arrived safely less than an hour after the mother's hazardous journey in stormy weather at 37 degrees below zero.

THE MIXING BOWL

"Health Within—Beauty Without" is a good motto. New year resolutions should include something pertaining to our physical well-being. And that "Something" is food. The protective substances which encourage normal growth and optimum health are found in abundance in Canadian foods.

Science has proved that growth and fitness of the human body depends to a large extent on the food that it consumes. The ability to do good work cheerfully; the pep and energy for fun—all these are dividends which come from a wise choice of foods to make up our three meals a day.

The protective substances in food are the ones which should command the greatest share of attention. They include high quality proteins, minerals and vitamins which contribute to strong bones, straight limbs, firm white teeth, sparkling eyes and smooth complexions. Properly cooked food increases resistance to colds and other ills, by maintaining efficiency and endurance for good work—and most important, buoyant health.

Enough of the right kind of food is the concern of those responsible for meals. This emphasis on quality has been brought about by a knowledge of nutrition. Five groups of foods have been selected to form a complete daily meal plan. May we review these easy-to-remember daily servings.

1. Serve 4 cups milk per child and 2 cups per adult and cheese—to provide protein for body building and repair, calcium for strong bones and teeth and riboflavin for growth and vitality.
   Note: Keep milk clean, cold and covered. Use sour milk in cooking.
2. Serve one citrus fruit or tomatoes, and one other fruit—to provide Vitamin C, other vitamins and minerals.
   Note: Keep citrus fruits cold. Use uncooked frequently and fresh whenever possible.
3. Serve 3 vegetables (do not neglect potatoes) to provide minerals and vitamins in worthwhile amounts. Use one or more leafy, green or yellow vegetable whenever possible.
   Note: Use raw frequently. Cook in small amounts of boiling water. Save cooking water to use in soups and sauces.
4. Serve a whole grain cereal product and about four slices of enriched flour bread to provide energy and extra B vitamins and minerals.
   Note: When using wheat germ with cooked cereal add it just before completion of cooking rather than at the start.
5. Serve meals once a day along with with 3 [illegible]gs weekly. Include liver, h[illegible]dney once a week. These [illegible]eeded to supply prote[illegible]building and repair.
   Note: [illegible]ats at moderate tempera[illegible] retain flavour and food value.

TAKE A TIP

1. Health-wise shoppers buy for food value.
2. Save food values and you save food.
3. The amounts of food needed vary with age, occupation and sex.

Budget Record

Living within your income, living accordng to your actual means is one of the purposes of a budget. A budget should also make for the creation of a "family mind," an understood standard of living and a definite plan for the future. It should promote better understanding and co-operation between husband and wife, and it should help the children to understand that it isn't parental cruelty but the limitation of the family purse which prevent the fulfilment of their every desire.
