Newsbriefs

Minor injuries

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - A cyclist suffered minor injuries when he collided with a truck in the village last Sunday. Derek McWade, 13, of Chesterville was entering Main Street from William on his bicycle when the collision occurred. Tony McCadden, 19, of Chesterville was driving northbound on Main in a truck. No charges were laid.

Sweet tooth

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Cookie fanciers will probably have to wait at least a couple of weeks before they can indulge their sweet tooths with Girl Guide cookies. Although the cookies have arrived in some towns, the Chesterville supply has not been delivered.

Art auction

CORNWALL (Staff) - Art-lovers have a chance Saturday to support a local charity dedicated to helping Third World children. Child Haven International, the Maxville based organization that recently opened a second children's project in India, is sponsoring an auction of the work of local artists at the Brookdale Mall. The auction begins today (Wednesday) and runs until Saturday.

Court dates

MORRISBURG (Staff) - Neil Kelly, 59 one of three Chesterville men charged in connection with a fight following a Junior C hockey game in the village April 3, pleaded not guilty in provincial court here last Tuesday to assaulting a peace officer. A trial date of May 12 has been set.

Ronald Richards, 26, and Donald Richards, 24, also charged with assaulting a peace officer, did not enter pleas and were remanded to April 28.

Garden party

MORRISBURG (Staff) - The Queen Elizabeth Gardens at Upper Canada Village, intended as a gift to the monarch when she visited the tourist attraction three years ago, are scheduled for completion this year. The final additions to the gardens include reflecting pools, fountains and flower plantings.

At a recent meeting in Gananoque, the St. Lawrence Parks Commission also approved the renovation of information buildings at the village, including the modernization of the exterior facade and upgrading of washrooms.

Waste bylaw

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Village council is expected to approve a bylaw at a regular meeting Thursday night that is intended to prevent municipalities backing out of a joint waste disposal study if they are chosen as the location for a central waste disposal site. Deputy-Reeve Bert VanKessel, the village's representative on the study's steering committee, said an April 29 deadline has been set for participating municipalities to pass the bylaw.

The village first looked at a draft bylaw prepared by the study's consultants a month ago then referred it to Steve Workman, the village solicitor, for his opinion. After a quick reading, VanKessel said Workman originally found no problems with the draft bylaw but a closer inspection turned up questions.

All municipalities in Dundas and several in neighboring Grenville County are joining in the study, half the costs of which will be picked up by the province.

Township portion of 1987 tax bill remains unchanged

BERWICK (Staff) - Death and taxes may be inevitable, but Finch Township has managed to avoid an increase in the municipal portion of the tax bill.

At a meeting Monday night, council approved its 1987 budget, anticipating an expenditure of about $1.27 million.

For a township resident paying taxes on farm or residential property assessed at $3,500, the municipal portion of the tax bill will be $189.82. For a commercial property assessed at $3,500, the municipality will take $223.

The levy from the United Counties, which the township must collect, is $123,087, an increase of about 9.9 per cent from last year. The school boards haven't yet approved their budgets and told the municipalities what must be collected on their behalf.

Reeve Ralph MacKenzie was pleased with the township's financial sheet. "When we keep the mill rate the same for township purposes I think we're doing a pretty efficient job," he said. "We're in pretty good financial shape."

The township has carried a surplus of almost $144,000 into the new budget year and its reserves total more than $300,000.

About $431,000 has been budgeted for work on roads and bridges, down from $449,000 in 1986. But the township also received less supplementary funding this year than it had originally requested from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to rebuild the bridge on St. Luke's Road.

Finch had applied for $200,000 in supplementary funds for the bridge but received only $47,000. The township has already spent about $3,700 on the engineering and has been told a few thousand more will complete the engineering and soil testing.

But the remaining isn't enough to complete the bridge, clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey told council. He said it's unknown whether the supplementary funding the township will receive next year would be enough to complete the work.

MacKenzie suggested that council ask SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve to lobby for more funds. Empey said Tuesday the engineering firm will also speak to the minister and request more money.

With talk of an impending provincial election, MacKenzie said more money may be made available.

Of a current roads expenditure of $381,000 (excluding the supplementary funds for the bridge), council will receive a subsidy of $235,600, or on 61 per cent of the total.

The budget contains few new expenditures.

General government expenses are projected at $144,500, up from $130,000 last year.

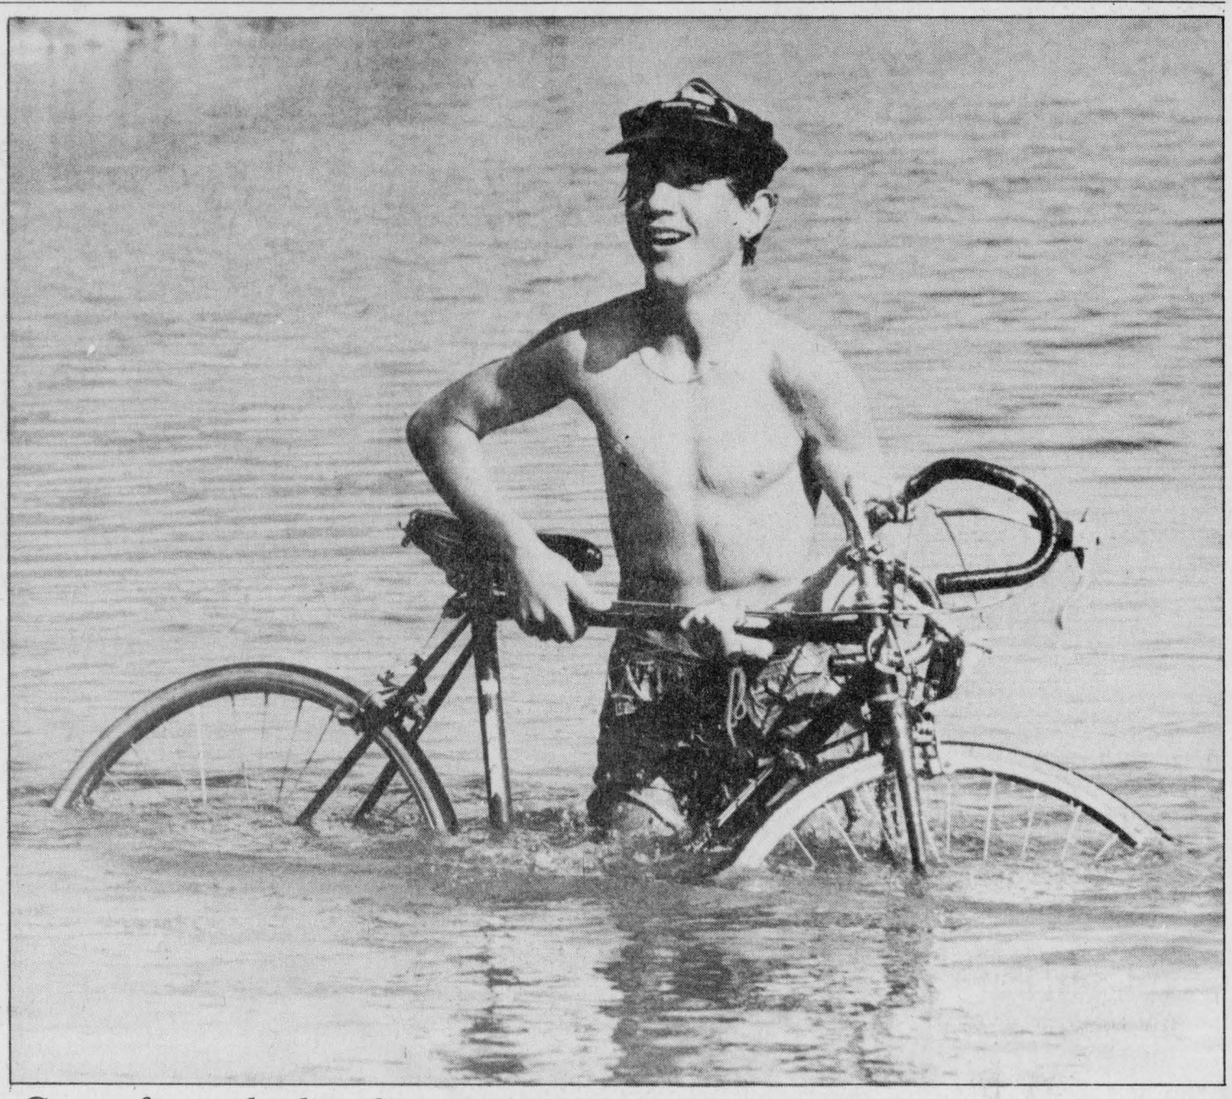
Fire protection has been allowed an additional $8,000, bringing its budgeted expenditure to $40,000. The township has allowed $9,500, up from $4,500 in 1986, for inspection and dog control; Empey explained the increase is due to the hiring mid-way last year of a building inspector.

An extra $8,500 has been set aside for garbage disposal. The township dump is expected this year to incur higher fencing and bulldozing costs.

Numbering of township roads, a new project, has been allocated $3,000 for the purchase of necessary materials.

The recreation budget has been increased from $21,000 to $30,000.

The township has also budgeted $12,030 for a student program, on which it will be reimbursed about 65 per cent.



Crazy from the heat?

With the thermometer hovering around 27 degrees Celsius Monday, a number of local students enjoyed their school holiday looking for various ways to beat the heat. Eddy Galant, 13, of Chesterville added a new dimension to water travel as both he and his bike took a dip in the Nation River. Galant didn't make it very far before he accompanied his ten-speed under the water with a big splash. (See page 11 for more photos).

Osnabruck makes $164,000 land deal

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Township officials here are keeping a step ahead of the game by purchasing a piece of land recommended as the site for a proposed SD&G home for the aged.

Council felt the land should be bought in case Ingleside is chosen as the site for a proposed $5 million home, said reeve Stewart Hart. The land, purchased by the township for $115,000, is the site recommended in a consultant's report completed earlier this year, he said.

The land, located near the senior citizen apartments in Ingleside, could be sold should Ingleside not be chosen as the home's site, Hart said. It is valuable land, he said: "It'll turn over,". The land was purchased from local developer George Haineault.

Township clerk Warren Bethune said council's not jumping the gun by purchasing the land. A decision concerning the site location will be made in June, he said, and should the consultant's recommendation be followed, it will be in Ingleside.

The site, if chosen, would then be under public ownership, he said.

Councillor Jim Bancroft said at the meeting last week although he's in favor of the purchase he doesn't like its timing. Bancroft expressed concern as to where the money would come from, with the township budget not yet being completed.

Bethune told council the money would come out of the township's general revenue and could be spread out over a two-year period.

The township will also be buying a portion of land south of the shopping centre in Ingleside from Ontario Hydro for $49,000.

The township decided to purchase the land so it could keep controlling interest in it, Hart said. Had township not purchased the land, it could've been bought by a developer and an apartment built there. He felt the land would not be right for that type of development, Hart said. The land will remain zoned open space for now.

A new recreation committee formed by council will be looking at open space areas in the township as possible recreation sites, Hart said.

Ross Walker, chairman of a group opposing a proposed $2.8 million township recreation project last year had urged the township to purchase the land. The recommendation was one of several his group made to council late last year concerning township recreation sites.

The land could be used for a community centre with sewer, water and hydro hook-ups being easily accomplished, he said. Policing for vandalism would be simplified, parking would be available and tennis courts and showers are also nearby, he said.

Neither Hart nor Bethune would say whether the land will be used for recreation purposes. "It's one more piece of land they (recreation committee members) can look at," he said.

Council has been working on a deal for the land for over a year, Hart said.

Chesterville may approve new salary rates this week

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Village council may approve new salary rates for its nine full-time employees later this week.

On Monday night, council met in-camera to discuss the salaries. Clerk-treasurer Bob Casselman said Tuesday council hopes the issue will be settled at Thursday's regular council meeting. He also predicted a new budget will be ready soon.

At the last regular council meeting April 9, council approved a fringe benefits package for its full-time employees after an in-camera discussion.

Among the changes, Casselman explained, is the village's adoption of the total cost of long-term disability insurance. He estimated the total cost of the additional benefit at about $900.

Prior to the approval of the current package, the total cost had been paid by the employees through paycheque deductions.

Another personal day with leave was added, bringing to three the number of days employees receive paid leave.

The new package covers one year, with the changes retroactive to Jan. 1.

Royal visit

Two members of royalty visited the Chesterville Women's Institute Monday night. Pictured above, l-r, are Betty Ford, WI president; Thelma Johnston, secretary (standing); Ontario Dairy Princess Gayle Lewis and Dundas Dairy Princess Joanne Albers. Lewis and Albers were to speak to the WI about their roles and responsibilities throughout the year as dairy princesses.

Compulsory vaccination against rabies ordered

CORNWALL (Staff) - Pet owners in SD&G, Prescott and Russell may have to have pets vaccinated against rabies as early as June.

At a meeting last week, the Eastern Ontario Health Unit changed its mind and decided to make the vaccinations compulsory after reviewing statistics showing that the province-wide outbreak of the disease has hit the five counties.

Last fall, Dr. Robert Bourdeau, the unit's medical officer of health, said the figures then didn't warrant the unit's taking action. But in an interview Monday, Bourdeau said the outbreak is no longer confined to Grenville and has moved into Dundas.

"In all likelihood, it will hit us more this year."

He hopes to meet with veterinarians throughout the five counties next month to set up clinics. "We will not be organized, I'm sure, until June sometime," he said.

Although no prices have been set, he said the cost would probably be in the range of $5 per animal.

Last year, there were about 100 confirmed cases of rabies, mainly in foxes, in the unit's jurisdiction. But most of the 50 people treated for exposure to the disease last year, he said, had been in contact with pets that had been exposed.

At $1,200 per treatment, he said the cost of human exposure is "a whole lot of money". The compulsory vaccinations clinics could reduce that cost, he said.

The unit's new ruling also includes barn cats "within reason," Bourdeau explained.

"We're not expecting the farmer to put out traps and hire some people to catch the cats," he said, adding that some barn cats are essentially wild animals.

"If at all possible, we're going to ask them to bring in their cats."

And although costs haven's been discussed, he said the fee per animal would probably be reduced if an individual were to bring in many pets.

He said the municipalities which issue licences for dogs and cats could help enforce the rule by reporting which pets haven't been vaccinated. But he said the unit wouldn't do any "witch hunting" for pets that have not been vaccinated.

He agreed that all pet owners don't buy licences for their pets.

"We can't be everything to everyone. But experience has shown in other areas where compulsory vaccination has been enacted people have been most co-operative."

Rabies capital

Drawing on the experience of other health units of about the same size as Eastern Ontario, he guessed the five counties contain at least 10,000 pets, adding the figure is probably on the low side.

Ontario has the dubious title of being the rabies capital of Canada. In 1985, it accounted for almost 86 per cent of the 2,506 diagnosed incidences of the disease in wildlife.

Nationally, the number of cases in 1986 set a new record by reaching 4,131, an increase of more than 65 per cent.

"Based on years of statistics, we believe 1986 was probably a peak year for rabies across the country. We should see fewer cases in 1987, nation-wide," said David Gregory, of the Animal Health Directorate at Agriculture Canada, in a press release.

"However," he cautioned, "there are significant regional and provincial variations in the rabies cycle. Although 1987 may be a 'good' year for some parts of the country, other areas could actually see a higher incidence."

Organizers hope members flock to Ducks Unlimited In Dundas

MORRISBURG (Staff) - "Hunters, if they feel the way I do, are conservationists as well," says the chairman of the newly formed local chapter of a national conservationist organization.

Ducks Unlimited Canada

Owen Alguire and a handful of interested volunteers in the Williamsburg and Morrisburg area are trying to generate interest in Ducks Unlimited, an organization founded in the United States 50 years ago dedicated to the preservation of waterfowl habitat.

"I am very optimistic it's going to create a lot of interest. There's a lot of conservationists here, there's a lot of naturalists," he said.

In 1987, Ducks Unlimited Canada plans to spend more than $33 million to improve marshlands across the country. About $7.7 million will be raised in Canada through corporate donations and banquets and auctions sponsored by local chapters. The rest of the funding will come from American sonservationists.

Locally, the organization built a structure at the Upper Canada Bird sanctuary to control fluctuating water levels. Alguire said the organization also has projects near Osgoode and Merrickville and he has heard of plans for the Winchester and Williamsburg areas.

A local committee could also fill a gap in the organization: "There is one in Brockville, one in Cornwall, one in Kemptville. This immediate area did not have a committee," Alguire said.

He was contacted by the organization's Kingston representative, biologist Doug Puffer, to see if there was enough local interest to form a group.

Alguire credited Ducks Unlimited for the resurgence of some waterfowl species across the country. And without its continuing efforts, he said the opportunity to see wildfowl in their natural environment will be lost.

Ducks Unlimited fits into "the user pay market" of efforts to preserve wildlife habitat, he said.

Several years ago, he said the federal government introducted hunter conservation stamps at $4 each, which were purchased with hunting licences; the revenue from the $4 stamps was put into wildlife preservation programs.

He noted that money raised from fishing licences, introduced this year, is also earmarked for fish habitat rehabilitation.

"Hunters are the conservationists of our country," he said.

But while he guessed more than half of the organization's national membership is comprised of hunters, Ducks Unlimited also attracts naturalists, wildlife artists and outdoorsmen.

It was formed in the U.S. in 1937 to fight the destruction of wetlands. Alguire said much of the money raised in the U.S. was spent in Canada to prevent prairie marshes from turning into dustbowls.

In this area, he said, preserving wetlands isn't a problem; what may be needed in swamp control.

In some areas, he said the organization and farmers could be at odds. But he doubted there will be any problems between the two groups here.

"I suppose you could run into opposition from the farmers but I have had great co-operation from the farmers in our area with hunting."

He said Dundas farmers' biggest complain about wildlife probably concerns the thousands of Canada geese that descent at times on fields. But that's a concern hunters too understand, he said.

The local committee's work begins soon. "We will be canvassing our area looking for co-operation from local businessmen in the near future in the form of cash donations," Alguire said.

Canadian Tire, he added, has been one of the organization's most active corporate supporter.

The committee's inaugural banquet is scheduled for June 19 in Dixon's Corners. Twenty dollars of the ticket price covers the cost of a year-long membership in the organization.

In a further fund-raising effort, nature-related articles, such as limited edition wildlife prints, will also be raffled off. Alguire said a Ducks Unlimited limited edition rifle first issued in 1937, and worth up to $4,500 will also be auctioned off.

Membership in the local chapter is open to residents of Dundas and beyond.

For more information, interested people may contact Alguire at 543-3267; Lee Hess, vice-chairman, 543-3524, or Rick Kruders, 537-2634.

Waste disposal scheme on hold

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - A waste disposal scheme proposed by a Roxborough Township businessman has been put on hold.

Andre Lafleche, who developed the plan which includes a greenhouse heated by pellets of incinerable waste, said further study of the proposal will "probably" be included in the joint waste management study which Roxborough and other municipalities are participating in.

"I say probably because we're not any further ahead than that right now," he said Tuesday morning.

Lafleche, Roxborough Reeve John McIntyre and Russell Township Reeve Gaston Patenaude met with Ministry of the Environment staff in Toronto Feb. 26. Lafleche requested $200,000 to complete a feasibility study of his proposal, which he said would then be financed by private investors.

McIntyre said the ministry appeared "enthusiastic" about Lafleche's concept but before any funding is approved, he said he believes the ministry wants more information about whether the agricultural component is feasible.

"I think a lot of municipalities are supporting it but it's just to get the proper wheels in motion," McIntyre said.

Lafleche said federal funding may be available through a recently announced $25 million energy program. The federal government may also be able to subsidize some of the construction costs, he said.

"That brings down the risk part," he said, and investors might then be willing to finance part of the study costs. He's heard from an engineer working with a Quebec group of consultants the potential investors continue to be interested in the proposal.

He said he's been contacted by A.G. Robinson and Associates, the consultants working on a waste master plan for Dundas and part of Grenville County, for further information about the scheme to include in their study of the region.

Lafleche presented the United Counties with a rough draft of his scheme last year. Since July, he's been with Municipal Waste Management Inc., a Quebec firm, and now serves as co-ordinator of the $55 million project.

As envisioned by Lafleche, domestic garbage from SD&G, Prescott, Russell and perhaps parts of Ottawa-Carleton and Grenville would be transported to a complex in Roxborough and Cambridge townships.

The garbage would be shredded and then separted into metals, to be sold back to metal products firms; biodegradable wastes, to be combined with sand and sold as topsoil, and incinerable garbage to be pelleted and burned to heat a greenhouse complex.

The program is open to all municipal non-profit, private non-profit and non-profit co-operative organizations.

Local community organizations wishing to sponsor non-profit housing projects can apply for government grants to cover the costs of establishing non-profit housing corporations.

Affordable housing for those in need.
This program helps non-profit agencies to create affordable housing for households in need of housing assistance. These include families, senior citizens or physically, developmentally and psychiatrically handicapped persons able to live independently.

In addition, some of the units will be specifically targetted to low-income singles.

Call now for complete details.
Organizations wishing to sponsor such housing projects must submit their preliminary applications by May 15, 1987.

Solicitor left in dark over ultimatum

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - Council should have informed local solicitor Steve Workman of an ultimatum it made concerning work he was to do for the township, said Winchester Township Reeve Gerald Holmes Tuesday.

Council made the ultimatum at a regular council meeting April 6 and Holmes was to inform Workman of the decision .

Council said Workman had until April 20 to complete the necessary work to restore a land dispute in Winchester Springs. Either the work had to be completed or it would find some other lawyer council members said.

Holmes said he called Workman the day after the meeting but neglected to tell him of the ultimatum after being promised the work would be done.

Workman took issue with both council Monday night and a April 15 Record article stating the council decision.

Workman first criticized the article, but, when told by council the article was correct he lambasted council for making the decision in his absence.

An ultimatum was not necessary, Workman said Tuesday. The issue holding up his work was not of a legal nature but a dispute between local developer Steve Summers and residents neighboring his property, he said.

A compromise between the parties is needed and that is something no legal work can solve, he said. The township didn't understand the reason for the delay, which is probably why they thought a deadline was needed, he explained.

Workman didn't realize there was a ultimatum, said Holmes, and added "there should've been a letter written" informing the solictor of the decision.

"The way it was dragging on, I guess council took that attitude," he said explaining the reason for the decision. "I don't think it's a serious matter anyway," he added.

Had Workman not seen the article in the Record, council would have informed him of the decision, Holmes said.

Summers had complained to council April 6 that the dispute between he and his neighbors was holding his development up. After listening to Summer's concerns council then decided to set the deadline.

Rotary joins international effort

CHESTERVILLE (Special) - As part of an international campaign to immunize the children of the world, Chesterville Rotary has joined in a fundraising effort on behalf of Canada's International Immunization Program.

In the next 24 hours close to 10,000 children in developing nations will die from six infectious diseases, another 10,000 will be permanently disabled.

For most Canadians, immunization is a fact of life, but in developing countries measles, polio, tetanus, whooping cough kills 600,000 children in Third World countries and diphtheria kills 100,000 children. Measles is the biggest killer of the six diseases -- all preventable by immunization.

Canada entered the international immunization crusade with a contribution of $35 million from the Canadian government.

In the initial stages of the program, Canadian contributions are earmarked for Commonwealth and Francophone developing countries, including Togo, Burundi, Swaziland, Zimbabwe, and Botswana.

The Canadian Rotary Committee for International Development is a non-governmental organization instrumental to the Canadian International Immunization Program.

Anyone interested in making a donation to this Rotary International Program can do so through the Chesterville Bank of Nova Scotia, Gerry Vestervelt, Rotary Treasurer.

Counsellor speaks to CWL

CHESTERVILLE (Special) - Alf Lee was the guest speaker at this month's meeting. Mr. Lee, of Cornwall, has spent the last 15 years as a voluntary family counsellor, working mostly with teenagers.

He was recently given the Citizen of the Year award by the city of Cornwall in recognition of his dedication and involvement with the youth of the city. His advice to parents was, hug your children often and tell them you love them. Often, parents feel that teenagers are too old to be hugged and especially fathers, often feel that hugging an older son will make him a sissy.

They need our time. They need to know that they are more important to us than going to the CWL meeting or the curling tournament. They also need to know that we care about them enough to discipline them.

A short meeting was then held with plans for a bake sale on April 26 being discussed. Proceeds to Hope Farm.

The speaker May 6 will be Fr. Moore from Ottawa. Fr. Moore is involved in the ministry for separated and divorced catholics and also in marriage counselling.

Rabies vaccination

Pet owners are being forced to take a step they should voluntarily make on their own.

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit of Eastern Ontario exercised its authority last week and decided that all domestic pets -- including barn cats -- must be vaccinated against rabies. The health unit hopes the compulsory clinics can be organized in the next two months.

Rabies is indeed a killer disease. although it may seem less sinister because of its cyclical outbreaks. And the costs -- of quarantined animals, of treatment for people who have been exposed to the infectious disease, of financial loss if livestock die, of worry and fear -- are high.

What should make the high price of the disease even more difficult to accept is the ease with which the chances of exposing humans to it can be reduced.

Although most diagnosed cases of rabies are found in the wild, most people are exposed to it through their pets; the yearly vaccination of dogs and cats can reduce a family's risk of coming into contact with the disease.

But the health unit's ruling is bound to come up against opposition from pet owners who resent being told they must vaccinate their animals.

The demand that all pets be vaccinated will also run into a practical obstacle. Ironically, the domestic animal most likely to contract the disease is the barn cat, which is also the most difficult to corral for vaccination and the lowest priority on most farmers' list of animals falling under their care.

Enforcement of the ruling will be difficult; municipalities routinely come across pet owners who refuse to invest in a licence. Abandoned cats that roam rural roads and packs of stray dogs that occasionally attack livestock are also evidence of the irresponsibility of some pet owners.

Dr. Robert Bourdeau, the health unit's executive director, is optimistic that most pet owners will comply with the order. But the health unit may be counting too much on pet owners' good faith.

It is stated at the Observatory that the month of April thus far has been the coldest in 58 years , being nearly four degrees below the average daily temperature of April for over half a century, whereas the month of March was below the average established by the past 33 years. There has, however, been comparatively little snow, or rain for April.

The Life of Riley

by Wayne Riley

It was only out of sympathy that I did not simply run over Clyde and end the annoying game of "chicken" played out in the driveway every hot day. The game, which consisted of the cat lying prostrate in the gravel in such a way that it was possible only to drive the car in far enough so that it straddled the sidewalk or take a detour across the lawn, was frustrating. The cat always lost, eventually sauntering away from the oncoming tire, but lately he had been so slow at it that I was convinced he was determinded to stand his ground and win if it killed him.

But today the cat looked so miserably exhausted in the baking gravel that I allowed him the game and parked diagonally. It was as I was stepping out of the car that I noticed what appeared to be a large, grey lump on his side. I bent down and had a look. It was gravel, piled an inch high at the peak over his ribs.

The children, who had recently received plastic shovels and pails as presents, had been playing with the cat again.

"Poor brute," I said, scooping the stones off his fur. The cat, perhaps feeling a great weight had been taken off his shoulders (life as a child's pet is for the dogs), finally opened his eyes and stretched himself slowly into a standing position. He blinked in the heat and dropped back to the ground.

Scars of play

Beyond the cat the driveway bore the scars of a full day's play. I followed the zig zag path of holes to the backyard where I discovered that the children had taken it upon themselves to move the driveway from the side of the house to the back. Practicality in driveway construction hardly matters when you're not even big enough to reach the pedals in a car.

They had made a good start. Five piles similar to the one that had been on the cat rose out of the grass. With two shovels and a plastic wheelbarrow, the work would almost certainly be completed by the fall.

I became aware of the heat again. I hadn't felt this kind of intense heat since the winter when the air register under my desk at the office cranked it out like a desert wind.

Boiling

I walked over to the thermometer on the side of the house. The thermometer, which has never worked properly and insisted that December and January were tropical, read 40 degrees Celcius. Obviously that wasn't right. It had to be at least 100 degrees. I was boiling.

Better, however, than broiling. Earlier I had gotten in the truck after it had sat in the sun for a few hours with the windows rolled up. The truck has vinyl seats. I have shirts that ride up out of my pants and expose a piece of my back when I sit down. I nearly put my head through the roof.

It was a little cooler in the garage where the sun only came in through two windows. Unfortunately, there was enough light to see the bicycle I was supposed to ride last year and didn't. I bought the bike in the belief that I would ride it on hot days and feel the wind in my face. I am so gullible sometimes. I felt winded taking the bicycle out of the car and putting it in the garage.

Over in the corner the paint cans were lined in a neat row, each one color-coded down the side. Beside it was a tin can with three handles sticking out of it. I picked it up and looked inside. I had put the paint brushes in solvent and let them soak over the winter. I could see now that that had been too long.

What to do on a hot day? I left the garage and went into the house where, without the sun, it was hotter. Everyone was out. I plopped myself on the couch and tried to think of something cool. How about the Stanley Cup playoffs? Yes, the ice, the skates, the winter action.

Nah. Even the Toronto Leafs are hot.

Wyn Thompson

With Easter but a breath away, I am savouring still the scrambled eggs flavoured with freshly ground pepper and herbs that I enjoyed at Easter morning breakfast.

Eggs are Mother Nature's original convenience food. They contain high-quality protein, all the vitamins except C, some prepackaged for easy storage, may be prepared in dozens of ways, are economical, and can be cooked in as little as three minutes. Now, what more could one ask for?

It is not hard to guess how people first started eating eggs; and after that first taste how, as people settled into permanent locations, it became advantageous to tend flocks of various kinds of birds in order to have a constant supply of eggs.

Ancient Greeks, Romans, Egyptians and Chinese held eggs in such high esteem that they left detailed descriptions of the dishes they made from the eggs of various birds as well as those of lizards and turtles.

By the time the Colonists came to the New World, hens' eggs were a staple item in every wife's "receipt book" and were used in most of the same ways we use them today.

Versatility of eggs

There is no question about the versatility of eggs. In times when there was not much variety in available ingredients, eggs made it possible for early Canadian homemakers to provide variation in the meals they served their families.

Today, even with supermarkets supplying a large number of products from all over the world, many of the old-fashioned egg dishes our grandmothers used to make have become the stars of the new Canadian cuisine.

As well as serving our Easter guests healthy egg dishes, I tried my hand at dyeing Easter eggs. Immigrants coming to our shores brought with them the local designs and techniques practised in their homelands. One of the most wide-spread methods of dyeing eggs was with onion skins.

My grandmother taught me how to make onion-skin eggs as her mother had taught her - rich mahogany-colored eggs lightly rubbed with oil while they were warm to make them shine. She served them in a pink glass bowl each Easter. Now mine lost a little in the translation, I must say, but I had fun.

I had better luck with my antique blue ones made from blueberries. Next year I plan on pink ones using raw beets, silver-green made with ornamental basil and Robin's-egg blue made with red cabbage. And I will serve them in my Grandmother's pink glass bowl, but I will begin practice a few weeks before the great day as I understand practice makes perfect!

The rich, loamy smell of fallen leaves under the April sun rises from the ground, a fragrance of which I never tire. It is a day for raking, for picking spring flowers and strolling along bush paths. But that will have to wait a bit.

Because to start my April day with zing - I have just fouled the opening of a plastic package of elbow-macaroni, and spilled the contents all over the kitchen floor. There is pasta scattered to the four winds, and I can't find the broom.

Every housewife or househusband knows that when you really need it, the broom goes missing, as though a witch had flown away on it. But, a broom will eventually be found, not in the broom closet, but in an upstairs bedroom, on the porch, in the garage, propped by a fire-place, or even out in the yard. There are reasons for this. A good broom can do so many things.

It can be used to swipe cobwebs from a bedroom corner, tidy up the garage, pry some tendrils of philodendron from the fireplace chimney, shoo a cat from a freshly washed car, and it can be straddled by a child and galloped off across the yard.

And there are those among us who like to sweep. Call it a strange quirk if you will; I call it therapy. Sweeping is a good exercise and the results are most gratifying.

There is much to be said for the vacuum cleaner and the electric broom, but to clean up pasta, I need the plain old corn broom. A good broom is thick and bushy and flexible. It will not shed, and the broom straws are excellent for cake-testing.

Propping doors

A worn-down broom is excellent for propping doors open, making a scarecrow, or fitting out with mane and bridle for a child to ride. In fact give a small child a broom without a mane and bridle and he or she will be happy sweeping for quite a while. I finally find our broom out by the woodpile - someone was sweeping wood chips off the paved driveway.

At last the pasta is swept off the kitchen floor and I go outside to dream of summer flowers that soon will bloom about our lawn. A soft breeze blows and the day is so fine, even our old dogs have spring fever. They bound in and out among the trees and then sprawl in the sun for a snooze.

The rich smell of the quickening earth reminds me of childhood days picking violets and wild iris in the bush near by parent's home. Then come the dandelions. A child knows that dandelions are beautiful and brings you a bouquet to gladden your heart.

The sun rises to its noonday zenith and I know it is time to have lunch on the gallery. Then there will be picnics and camping and...???

Flyers not responsible for fan fight

To the Editor,

It seems to me that if you want to make the front page of your newspaper something bad has to have happened. This is the first time the Junior 'C' Flyers made the front page. We have been Champions for the past two seasons and we didn't make the front page. You blame the hockey club for this incident because of lack of security. I have been involved with hockey in Chesterville for many years and have never seen any fights break out among fans. Therefore we could not foresee any outbreak of this nature and did not provide for security. We will in the future in playoff games because we as a hockey club do not promote violence nor do we condone it. We regret that this incident has happened, but we feel we cannnot be held responsible for this incident. The members of the Junior 'C' Club are made up of law abiding citizens and do not go around town with shame. We hope that it will not deter the fans from coming. The club provides good entertainment.

Yours truly,
Tom VanDellen

Clinic to teach self-examination

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Next year the Canadian Cancer Society (CCS) predicts that 10,400, or one in 11 women in Canada will have breast cancer.

The hard and true fact is that of these women, CCS says a third will not recover from treatment and will probably die.

What's probably more astonishing is that if the cancer is diagnosed at an early stage, before it's been allowed to spread, doctors predict an 85 per cent recovery rate, says Diane Withnall, a registered nurse and past chairman of education in Ontario for CCS.

Many of the early warning signs of breast cancer can be caught by women doing regular breast self-examinations, says Witnall. "Even though 85 per cent of lumps in the breast are cysts or infections, and not cancerous, they should still never be self-diagnosed, she stresses. "Women should always check it out with their doctor".

But self-examination might not be the best preventive measure anymore. Even though a woman might be able to find a lump when it's only the size of a pea, "it's probably been growing there for three to 10 years," says Withnall.

Mamography, a special x-ray for the breast and something that's only used now on women diagnosed with cancer, might become a common means to prevent the deadly disease in the future.

However, Withnall stresses that self-examination is still the best way for women to diagnose cancer in the early stage at present. "Mamography might become more common practice if studies prove that it can catch cancer at an earlier stage, but it's costly and the results of the study won't be complete for another few years," she explains.

To help women who don't already know how to examine their breasts for lumps, Withnall will teach nurses here at the hospital how to teach others at a clinic to be held here on May 6.

The clinic is designed to teach women how to examine themselves. "There won't be any examinations by doctors," says Astrid Bierworth, the organizer of the clinic.

Four registered nurses trained by Withnall, will be available on May 6 from 3-5pm and again from 7 to 9pm in the conference room of the hospital to assist with teaching the technique, says Bierworth.

The technique will be taught in private cubicles set up in the conference room and toys will be available for the children, she says.

"If there's any problem, Winchester physician Dr. Katherin Darbyshire has agreed to assist," Bierworth adds.

Today, between 55 and 60 per cent of breast cancer patients survive five years as compared to 43 per cent in the 1950s, research seems to be paying off.

Withnall, stresses that if women are in a high risk group they should be regularly checking their breasts for lumps and any other unusual changes such as dimpling of the skin.

Women in the high risk category are those with a family history of breast cancer, previous patients disgnosed with cancer elsewhere in the body, older women over 50, women who eat high-fat diets and those who have never had children.

Finch UCW holds meeting

FINCH (Special) - The U.C.W. of Chalmers, Finch United Church met in the hall for the April meeting. Mrs. Ray Larsen, vice president was in charge of the meeting. The devotions were conducted by Mrs. Catherine MacLean.

A reading, What are we doing with our time, was given. Hymn 86, When We Survey the Wondrous Cross, was sung and scripture, John Ch. 15 vs. 1-17, was read. Prayer by Mrs. Irene Nugent was given. The Easter message was read by Catherine. Books recommended for reading were a Readers Digest article by Peter Worthington entitled Looking for Trouble, an article in Canadian Living by Rev. Anne Squires and a book by Catherine Marshall, A Closer Walk. An offering was taken by Mrs. Georgina MacLean.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Avie Docksteader, Winchester, had a lovely selection of books from her shop. She gave a review of a book The Helper by Catherine Marshall. A scripture reading from ch. John 14 and a sheet of Easter messages to be read before Easter were given to members.

Irene Nugent thanked Avie and presented her with a gift from the ladies. The baby spoons were given to four babies at the baptizing service. Bibles were given to the three new members on Sunday from the U.C.W. The treasurer's report was given by Miss Lillian Droppo.

A report from U.C.W. Presbyterial meeting held at Ingleside was given by Lois Dillabough. It was the 25th anniversary of U.C.W. and very well attended by ladies of the Seaway Valley.

The new U.C.W. pins are being ordered, anyone wishing to buy a pin may leave their name with the secretary, Lois Dillabough. Cost is $3.80, including tax. We are also purchasing six bibles for gifts to future members joining the church.

A committee will send food slips to members for the Presbytery supper on April 30 at 4pm to be served in the small hall, Finch.

A gift of a cushion and quilted pictures was presented to Irene Nugent because she has moved to Winchester. She has been a faithful member of our church and community and we wish her well in her new home. We will look forward to her visits in the future.

The gracious hostess and all who had contributed to the program were also thanked.

Third grant application submitted

BERWICK (Staff) - Berwick ball park supporters hope they won't strike out a third time.

At a meeting Monday night, Finch Township council endorsed the group's application -- its third -- for a provincial grant through a program for new recreation facilities.

Two earlier applications for provincial money to construct a building and erect lights at the park were turned down. The latest application covers only a new building and the estimated $32,000 cost, half of which could be covered by a grant, is less than earlier requests.

Second on the township's priority list is an application from a Crysler group, a subcommittee of the community centre, for a grant to cover half the costs to construct a $14,000 permanent outdoor rink in the village park.

Councillor Archie Byers said that if council must rank the two requests, the Berwick proposal should come first because it's tried unsuccessfully for the money twice.

But Reeve Ralph MacKenzie said council may be able to avoid ranking the two projects if the applicants could file separate applications. But clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey said he thinks both applications would have to go through the township.

Reading information accompanying the grant application, he said the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation states it will give highest priority to non-municipal projects supported by a council resolution. The ministry will evaluate the applications after May 1.

Council instructed Empey to get more information from the ministry's local representative to determine if the township must rank the two applications.

Sufferers of little-known Marfan's syndrome find help in area support group

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — Although a little taller and lankier than most boys his age, Jeff looks pretty much like any normal 15-year-old Canadian boy to most people.

He eats the same food as most Canadians and has the same likes and dislikes as most teenagers. He wears blue jeans and sneakers and dreams of a brighter future.

But one day, about three years ago, the dreams of the area teenager were shattered. There's more to Jeff than meets the eye. One special exception puts him in a group with just one in 10,000 other Canadians.

Jeff has Marfan Syndrome, a hidden congenital disorder.

Jeff (not his real name) is still not sure what effect the disease has or could have on him in the future. He was checked by a doctor at the age of five but the doctor couldn't confirm whether he had the rare disorder. At 12 when he learned he did have the disease, he was both surprised and upset.

To help Canadians like Jeff, who have the syndrome but know little about it, a new group has been formed. Founded by Elizabeth McHenry, of Luskville, Que., it is called the Canadian Marfan Association and is the first of its kind in Canada.

The tell tale signs of Marfan Syndrome were found in Jeff by a doctor during a routine appendectomy. He was referred to another doctor and then sent to the Childrens' Hospital in Ottawa where it was finally confirmed, he said.

Marfan Syndrome is an inherited disorder of connective tissue. It affects many organ systems, including the skeleton, lungs, eyes, heart and blood vessels. The condition affects both men and women of any race or ethnic group.

Signs of Marfan Syndrome vary greatly from one person to the next and because there is no specific laboratory test for it, it is difficult to diagnose.

Marfan Syndrome has its most serious effect on the cardiovascular system. One thing it can cause is mitral valve prolapse -- the billowing backwards of the two leaflets of the mitral value during the heart's contraction. This could cause heart failure or irregularities of the heart rhythm.

One other effect the syndrome has is the widening of the aorta artery (the main artery carrying blood away from the heart). As the widening progresses leakage of the aortic valve or tears in the aorta wall may result.

Because of the disorder's effect on the cardiovascular system Jeff is no longer able to play sports or do any type of strenuous physical activity.

"That (loss of sports) made me really upset," Jeff said.

He had been playing a variety of sports since the age of four, hockey and baseball being two of his favorites. Hockey had to be dropped because of the physical nature of the sport. Because he had to wear a chest protector for baseball, he decided it wasn't worth the bother.

No physical activity also means little or no chance for a summer job for the 15-year-old student. "I find summers long," Jeff said. Most of the jobs available for students involve some type of physical labor, he explained.

He wanted to join the militia last summer but couldn't because of its intense physical nature, he said. He also wanted to become a police officer after finishing school but that avenue is now closed.

But what is most discouraging is the fact that he'll probably never be cured of the syndrome. In fact "it could get worse", Jeff said.

Elizabeth McHenry is trying to make what may be a dim future look a little brighter for Marfan victims.

"I feel there's a lot to be done," said McHenry Monday. "I want to help people."

McHenry is a 36-year-old former school teacher and a sufferer of Marfan Syndrome. She quit her teaching job after her cardiologist told her it was too stressful and recommended she look for another line of work, she said.

Since she first learned she had the condition she's been in the hospital a number of times, but has had little or no support, she said.

"I always felt very isolated and confused. There was never any information (about the condition)," she explained.

The lack of information about Marfan Syndrome among both doctors and the public spurred her to create the Canadian Marfan Association.

She's been working for a year trying to get the association off the ground and has received most of her information from groups in both the United States and Britain, she said.

Since its formation Jan. 12, 25 families across Canada have joined the association, seven being in the Ottawa area, she said. The group has held one general meeting and two executive meetings so far. A second general meeting is planned for Mon., April 27.

Through the work of the association, McHenry hopes Canadian awareness of Marfan Syndrome can be increased. "There are people out there who haven't been diagnosed yet," she said. "There are definitely more out there than is realized."

People who have the condition and don't know it could end up with serious problems in the future or even drop dead, she said.

Dr. Kwan Chan, cardiologist at the Ottawa Civic Hospital, said Tuesday it's "high time" an organization to support Marfan victims was formed. "I think it's a very good idea."

Chan, medical advisor for the Canadian Marfan Association, has been a cardiologist at the Civic for two years. He became interested in the disorder after doing a study concerning how Marfan's affects people of various ages.

There's a lack of understanding of the disorder among the public and the medical profession, he said. "It's a pretty serious disease," but a lot of the time, there's not enough information provided to those afflicted with it, he said.

"I think in general, that's true."

Although popular figures cite the number of Marfan cases at 1 in 10,000, Chan believes there are many more people who have the disorder but haven't been diagnosed yet.

"They don't all have this typical Marfan look," he said.

A person with the typical Marfan look may have limbs, fingers, and toes that are long and thin, poor muscle development and an abnormally curved spine.

Chan described two serious complications that can result from Marfan syndrome: the thinning and bursting and the tearing or dissection of the aorta wall. "Both can be deadly," he said.

The third serous complication to the cardiovascular system is the leaking of aortic valve which may compromise heart function and lead to heart failure, Chan said.

Although he doesn't know any well known Canadian athletes who are suffering from or have died from the disease there have been some in the United States, he said.

One such case was American volleyball player Flo Hyman who died Jan. 24, 1986 during a game in Japan. Cited in a Sports Illustrated article as "the best American woman volleyball player ever", Hyman died of a ruptured aorta artery due to Marfan Syndrome.

A tragedy like the Hyman case in Canada may be the only way the rare disorder finally receives some recognition here, he said.

County council system to be reviewed

INKERMAN (Staff) - Neither the current Warden nor his predecessor thinks the county government system in SD&G needs to be reviewed.

"I don't see anything wrong with the present state," Keith Fawcett, Mountain Township reeve and the present Warden of the United Counties, said Monday. Ralph MacKenzie, reeve of Finch Township and former Warden agreed.

But the province believes a review of the county council system is in order. Two months ago, Bernard Grandmaitre, Minister of Municipal Affairs, appointed an advisory committee to undertake a comprehensive review of county councils, ranging from representation to financing.

"The county council system has served Ontario well," the minister said in March. "But it is now time to look at ways of improving and strengthening it."

Solid waste disposal and representation issues have been designated for special attention, with the committee's recommendations on those two areas due by the end of September. A second report on operations and finances is to be submitted by the end of the year.

United Counties council hasn't yet met to decide whether it will submit a brief to the advisory committee.

Fawcett said the present size of council -- 36 members representing 20 municipalities -- is manageable. If it were smaller, he said it couldn't afford the proper staff for a social services department or librarian.

He doubted the city of Cornwall would ever become part of the counties system. "We're 55,000, they're 46,000. We're two different interests," he said.

MacKenzie said that the exclusion of town mayors from county council, an issue included in the advisory committee's terms of reference, must come under review.

Alexandria, he noted, isn't represented on county council by its mayor, its highest elected official, but by its reeve. He himself takes no side on the issue, saying, "it's got to be studied."

Fawcett said some form of regional administration of waste disposal is inevitable.

All eight municipalities in Dundas and several in neighboring Grenville County are involved in a joint waste management study to find a regional solution to the garbage disposal dilemma. Municipalities in Stormont and Glengarry are considering a similar study.

Fawcett said such an approach involving the three counties may have worked but added the proposal didn't come forward until Dundas was already committed to a study with some Grenville municipalities.

Multiple voting systems will also be reviewed. The 36 county council members have a total of 52 votes, with representation determined by population.

Cornwall Township for example is represented by a reeve and deputy-reeve and each has two votes. Finch Village, on the other hand, has no deputy-reeve and its lone representative has a single vote.

Fawcett said such a system offers both advantages and disadvantages but questioned whether a small municipality deserves as great a say as a larger one. MacKenzie also such a system was fair.

The annual selection of a warden will also be examined by the advisory committee. In SD&G, explained MacKenzie, the position has rotated annually among representatives of each county by what he called "a person's agreement".

When a municipal leader has acted as chair of the social services, roads and finance committees respectively, MacKenzie said he is then nominated for Warden.

Host families wanted

NORTH LANCASTER (Special) - ASSE International Student Exchange Programs (ASSE) is seeking local families to host Scandinavian, French, Spanish, German, Dutch, British, Swiss, Australian and American boys and girls, 15 to 18 years of age, coming to this area for the upcoming high school year. These personable and academically select foreign exchange students are bright, curious and anxious to learn about this country through living as part of a family, attending high school and sharing their own culture and language with their newly adopted Canadian family.

The exchange students arrive from their home country in August and return at the end of the school year in June. Each ASSE student is fully insured, brings his or her own personal spending money and expects to bear his or her share of household responsibilities, as well as being included in normal family activities and lifestyles.

The students are fluent in english, well screened and qualified by ASSE. Families may select the youngster of their choice from extensive student applications, family photos and biographical essays. Students and families are encouraged to begin corresponding with one another prior to the students' arrival.

The students are sponsored by ASSE, a non-profit, public benefit organization, affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education and cooperating with the Canadian provincial Ministries of Education.

Families who would like to share their lives with a foreign teenager and experience the rewards of this enriching opportunity should contact ASSE's local representative, Mrs. Dukke Van Der Werf, at 347-3362.

Hare Scramble

The hills are alive with the sound of motocross bikes

LONG SAULT (Staff) - The stage is set for the Hare Scramble Sunday and the stage is made of sand, dirt and bush.

On April 26, between 40 and 50 people will take part in the motocross or ATV race at Gartree Park here.

The ATV (or all-terrain vehicle) drivers will race on a four-kilometre course, wider than the motocross course.

A minimum of four riders is necessary for the race to take place and Tom Irwin an organizer, said there have already been five by the pre-entry registration.

The time of the race is 12 noon and should last one hour.

The top three finishers will receive trophies and all entries will receive a ribbon.

The motocross race will begin at 1 p.m. and should last two hours.

There will be six classes: school boy, for those under 16 years of age; novice (or junior), for those just getting started in motocross; senior, just above the novice classification; expert, for professionals and experienced individuals; ladies, open only to women; and veterans, for those 30 and over.

The course will be basically the same for all classifications with a minor modification for the juniors, said Irwin. The course will be part motocross and part bush.

Irwin said there will also be a "narrow way that you'll have to turn the handlebars sideways to get through."

The course will be 6.5 kilometres long.

As with the ATV race, the top three winners in each category will receive trophies and everyone will get a ribbon.

"We had an excellent year last year," Irwin said. Last year's event attracted 47 participants.

The growing popularity of the sport, he said, is indicated by the increasing number of participants.

Hare Scrambles have their origin in England. Scramble means motocross and the "hare" refers to the hare-hound chase that were first done on horseback and later with motocross bikes.

The sport began to get popular in Canada in 1982, said Irwin, and has been getting more so as years go by.

Irwin said all proceeds will be used to help maintain the Gartree Motorcycle Riders Association, which is holding the Hare Scramble.

Skeet club set to shoot in few weeks

WINCHESTER SPRINGS (Staff) - The Winchester Trap and Skeet Club should begin its season in four weeks, according to its president.

Jake Geertsma said the grounds should be set up this Satuarday and shooting should be able to start in a few weeks.

Geertsma said he has 15 members so far and is expecting to double last year's membership of 36. He said this is because there have been many neighbors who've been wanting to join.

The land, 55 acres leased from the South Nation Conservation Authority, will be their's on the first and third Tuesday of each month.

Although the club will run until the fall, Geertsma said some people will use the land during the winter.

"We have a lot of hunters who just want to shoot the clay birds, and this could be done year round."

Since they have passed the required number of 13 members, the club and its members will be covered by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters for $1 million each for liability insurance.

The club became affiliated with the federation after a vote last year.

Martintown winners of girls basketball

AVONMORE (Staff) - Martintown are the Glengarry elementary senior girls basketball winners for 1987 after play here last Wednesday (April 15).

Martintown, the B-side winners, had a first-half lead of 14-4 over the A-side winners, Roxmore. The game ended in a 24-6 decision for Martintown.

The team advanced to the final after two strong games in its division round robin.

The score after the first half of play with Laggan was 20-2. Martintown scored an extra 26 points while shutting down Laggan's offense and won the game 46-2.

In their other game, Martintown had an 18-6 half-time lead over Williamstown and went on to win 38-10.

In the other game of the B side, Williamstown gave up one basket to Laggan as they went on to win 18-2.

Roxmore advanced to the final after allowing six points against them in the two games of A-side round robin play.

They shut down Lancaster's advances and won 16-0. In their game with Maxville, both teams had their scoring done in the first half and it ended 22-6 in favor of Roxmore.

In the other game of A side, Maxville and Lancaster played a defensive game. Maxville had a 6-2 half-time lead and won the game 8-6.

The senior boys champion was not established as the winners of both sides will play the final game at Maxville during education week, the last week of April.

Maxville was the A-side winner with two strong wins against their opponents.

They had a 23-4 half-time lead on Lancaster and cruised to a 45-10 victory.

The Roxmore-Maxville game was close in the first half with Maxville holding a 12-8 edge. However, Maxville outscored Roxmore 13-2 in the second half to win the game 25-10.

The other game in A side saw a Roxmore and Lancaster match-up. Roxmore shut down Lancaster 10-0 in the first half and went on to win 17-7.

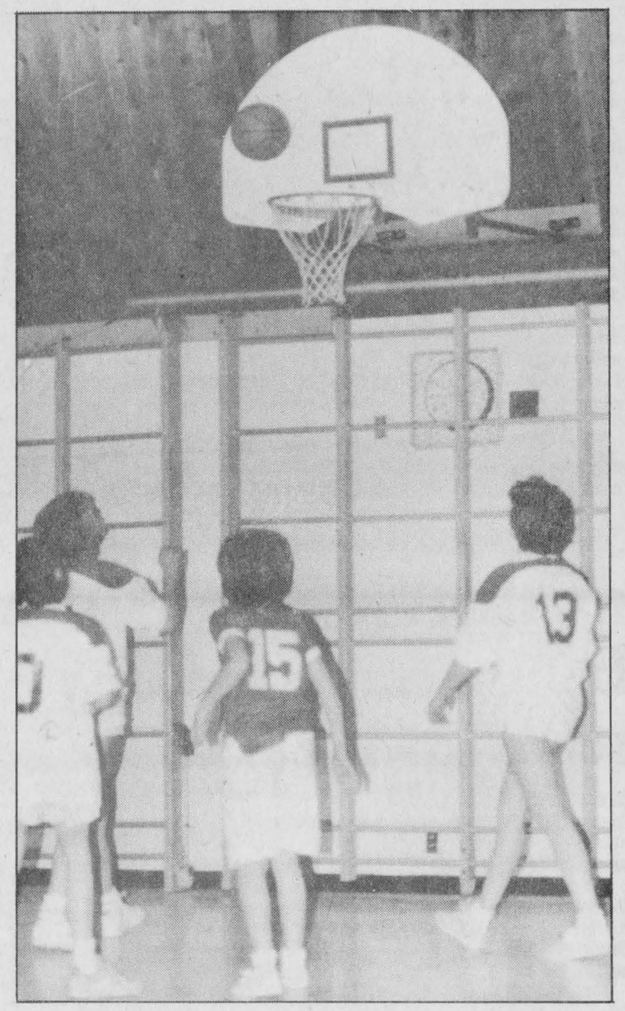
Williamstown was the B-side winners with two wins in its round robin play.

They had a comfortable 10-1 half-time lead over Laggan, going on to win 22-3.

The scoring in the first and second half of the Williamstown-Martintown game was approximately the same. Williamstown had a 11-2 first-half lead and won the game 23-4.

The other game in B side started out as a defensive game between Martintown and Laggan with the score 8-6 for Martintown after the first half. However, Martintown outscored Laggan 10-2 in the second half to win the match up 18-8.

Maxville and Williamstown will meet at Maxville next week for the final.



Will it or won't it?

Martintown and Roxmore basketball players watch to see whether the ball will drop into the net during the final game of the Glengarry senior basketball tournament, April 15. Martintown went on to win the game 24-6 after a 14-4 half-time lead.

Ontario Basketball Association

Player Development Program: basketball in the summer

TORONTO (Staff) - The court is open and they're ready to play.

The Ontario Basketball Association is beginning its 11th year of the Player Development Program (PDP).

This year PDP -- supported by Brooks athletic shoes, Wilson sporting goods and the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation -- is hoping to attract 5,000 athletes (both male and female) province wide.

The program is open to players under the age of 18 as of Jan. 1, 1987, and is split into two age divisions: the Minor Development Program (MDP), aimed toward athletes under the age of 16 as of Jan. 1, 1987; and the Junior Development Program (JDP), aimed toward athletes under the age of 18 as of Jan. 1, 1987.

During April and May, 250 local clinics provinde wide will be conducted, emphasizing skills training and full participation. The fee is $10 and includes a t-shirt, a "basketball Workout" skills booklet, membership affiliation to the Ontario Basketball Association and a skills clinic with potential regional tryout invitation.

Andy Cheam, eastern regional coordinator, said, "Our big philosophy in the program is participation."

Program coordinator Bill Linton agreed adding there are 250 local clinics to "try to give everyone a chance to get to a tryout."

From the local clinics, 50-60 athletes (both male and female in each age division) will advance to the final regional tryouts, held in early June.

Whether an athlete makes the final tryout or not, Cheam said, they will have benefited for trying.

"They will have learned something new."

From the MDP regional tryouts, 72 males and 72 females will be selected to spend a week (July 4 to 10) of basketball training at the MDP Camp at Ridley College in St. Catharines, Ont. The $225 fee includes room and board, a uniform, t-shirt and basketball instruction.

The east region's first local clinic, for males, was held April 11 in Ottawa.

Cheam said there was a good turnout, about 30 athletes, of which 10 were invited to the final tryout.

There are six other male MDP and five female MDP local clinics for the eastern region before the regional tryout.

On April 25, there is both a male and female MDP clinic at Fellows H.S. in Pembroke at 9 a.m.

There will be two male MDP clinics on May 2, both at 9 a.m. One will be held at Frontenac S.S. in Kingston and the other at Moira H.S. in Belleville.

There will be female MDP clinics on May 2 at 1 p.m. at both Frontenac S.S. and Moira H.S.

Smiths Falls C.I. in Smiths Falls will have a male MDP clinic at 9 a.m. May 9.

On May 23, at 9 a.m., Sir Robert Borden H.S. in Ottawa will host an MDP clinic.

Champlian H.S. in Ottawa will host the female MDP on May 23 at 9 a.m.

The Cornwall C.I. in Cornwall will host a local clinic for the male MDP at 1 p.m., and a female MDP at 9 a.m. on May 24.

The east regional tryout for the female MDP will be held June 6 at Champlian H.S. at 10 a.m. The male MDP east regional tryout will be at Bell H.S. in Ottawa June 6 and 7 at 9 a.m.

In the JDP division, 12 athletes will be selected from the regional tryouts to train and represent their region in the JDP tournament held at the University of Waterloo July 9 to 12. The $75 fee includes room and board, uniform and t-shirt.

The first local clinic for the JDP division in the east was held in Ottawa April 11. It was for the males.

Cheam said it didn't attract as many as the NDP clinic but he attributes this to high schools having recently finishing off their basketball programs. He addded, however, "Everything ran smoothly."

There are six male JDP and five female JDP local clinics scheduled for the east region.

The male and female JDP clinics for April 25 are scheduled for the same time, 9 a.m., at Fellows H.S. in Pembroke.

On May 2, there will be four local clinics. The male JDP clinic will be held at both Frontenac S.S. in Kingston and Moira H.S. in Belleville at 9 a.m. The female JDP will be held at the same schools but at 1 p.m.

There will be a male JDP clinic at Smiths Falls C.I. in Smiths Falls at 1 p.m. May 9. Another will be held in Ottawa, at Sir Robert Borden H.S. at 1 p.m. on May 23.

Also on May 23 in Ottawa, at Champlain H.S., there will be a female JDP clinic at 1 p.m.

A female JDP clinic at 9 a.m. and a male JDP clinic at 1 p.m. is scheduled at Cornwall C.I. in Cornwall on May 24.

The regional tryout for the female JDP will be held at the University of Ottawa at 9 a.m. on May 30 and 31. The male JDP regional tryout will be held at Carleton University at 9 a.m. on June 6.

Linton said the program has been getting more athletes involved each year. This year's estimate of 5,000 is up 500 from last year's 4,500. He said this is due to the program itself and the popularity of the sport.

"Basketball is becoming more of a high profile sport."

This popularity is attributed to high schools and the talk of an NBA franchise in Toronto, he said.

Linton said the program was begun because "it was felt that a starting point was needed, to help the players learn about (basketball)."

He added, however, it is not only for the serious minded player but for athletes who want to know what they can accomplish.

District softball readies to throw first pitch of year

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - The softball season is on the ondeck circle.

With many towns beginning their registration for softball, the Osnabruck and District Softball League is nearing its season.

Interested teams must be registered with the proper convenor by May 10 in order to begin the season May 21. This will enable the regular season to finish in late July and the playoffs in August, thereby ending before going back to school, said league president John Ferguson.

Marcel Robinson is the convenor for the squirt boys and girls, those aged 12 and under. League vice-president Bill Woodside is also the convenor for both the boys and girls pee wees, aged 14 and under. Graham Link is the convenor for the bantam girls, aged 16 and under, and the midget girls, aged 18 and under. Colette Lalonde is the convenor for the bantam boys.

There is no convenor yet for the midget boys but they can be referred to either to either Lalonde or league secretary-treasurer Gail Shaver.

Ferguson suggested if there is a limited number of midget boys or girls, they should be incorporated with the bantams.

"This makes a lot of strong teams instead of one team being stronger than the others."

There were 269 registered in the league last year, down 156 from 1985's 425. This created 18 teams in the league.

Ferguson attributes this to soccer being played for the first time and players weren't sure they'd be able to play both.

However, he said if representatives from the areas which attended the O.D.S.A. meeting have made accurate predictions, there should be 24 teams in the league this year.

Ferguson said this is because the players find they can participate in more than one sport.

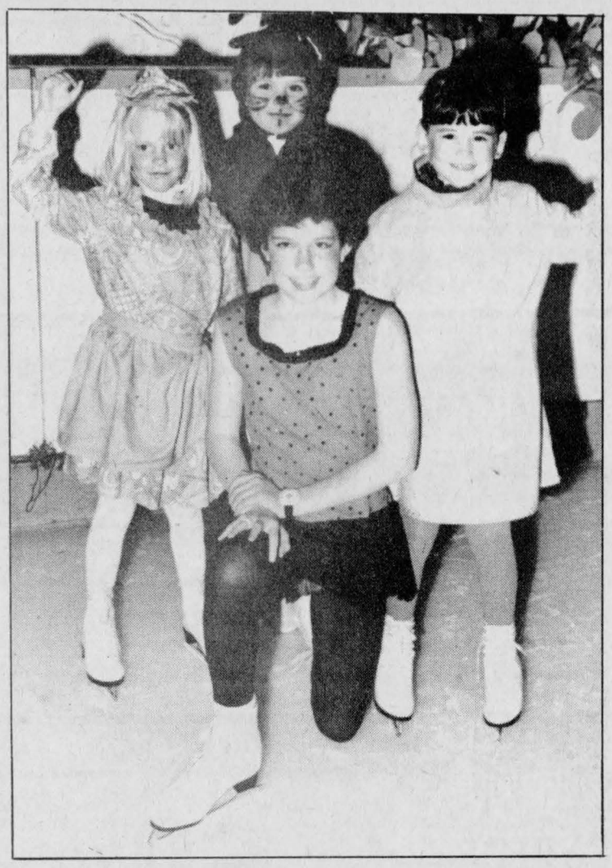
"It's due to the fact kids realized they could play both softball and soccer."

Representatives that attended the meeting were from Chesterville, Finch, Newington, Berwick, Long Sault, Williamsburg and Winchester. Also represented last year was Avonmore-Crysler, Kemptville, Russell and Alexandria.

Along with these travel teams, there are also houseleague.

However, there was no houseleague in Chesterville last year because of the lack of interest. Chesterville Recreation Director Tom Lee said it is doubtful there will be one this year also, but he added, "If there's enough interest, we'll have a houseleague."

Lee said he would like to get more interested in the travel league. Last year Chesterville had a bantam girls team, which this year qualifies as a midget girls division.



Zip-a-dee-doo-dah

The Chesterville skating club wound up its season March 30 with an ice show Disney style. Several skaters were honored for their accomplishments over the year. Front, Kiley Lacelle, most advanced senior; back, at left, Jessica Dillabough, most improved beginner; Ryan Moore, most improved power skater and Melissa St. Denis, most improved intermediate.

Ball hockey leagues ready to begin seasons

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Put away the skates but keep the sticks, ball hockey season is around the corner.

The Chesterville Ball Hockey League is having its registration tonight and next Wednesday at the arena, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., and the fee is $35.

There were six teams last year and it seems there may be the same number this year, if not more, says Terry Barkley, an organizer.

"I've talked to a lot of people and there seems to be a lot of interest anyway."

The season should begin May 6, according to Barkley, with games scheduled every Wednesday.

Since they play Wednesday and the Winchester league has its games on Tuesdays many people will register in both, said Barkley.

"A lot of people played in both last year and they'll probably do the same this year."

However, it was not certain there was going to be a league in Winchester at first since not many showed up for registration in early April.

Mark Guy, an organizer in Winchester, said this was due to the lack of advertising, which he has since rectified and was hoping to get more names with the additional registration date on Monday (April 20).

Guy said he had 37 signed up before Monday's registration and said he was "pretty confident it will be pulled off. She'll be running like always."

Twenty names were needed to prevent the league from folding.

Guy said he should be able to get 50 people signed up, about the usual number every year, which would produce four to five teams.

The teams should be chosen this week and with the games beginning May 5 and continuing every Tuesday.
