

FIRST BABY WAS FIRST IN AREA IN 1961 — The first baby of the New Year in Cornwall and district was Russell Kenneth Barton, of Martintown, born just 23 minutes after 1961 was ushered in. He is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barton, Jr., of Martintown. MRS. BARTON is seen above with her new baby, born at Cornwall General Hospital. Just two minutes later, in Hotel Dieu, another boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Akkerman, of Greenfield. Local doctors report no New Year's babies here.

Legion President Expresses Appreciation To Fund Donors

He also pointed out that efforts are being made to secure a mortgage but that it is proving difficult to raise $10,000 from one source at a reasonable rate of interest.

The Branch sports officer reported that an Alexandria Branch curling four had won the Zone curling honors. Team members were Ben F. Villeneuve, Gerald Blair, Dr. Don Gamble and Hugh Stewart, all of Maxville.

Service Officer Laurent Sicard reported an active month.

Winner of the attendance prize was Ray Watt.

Christmas Birthday Marked By Family

Members of the O'Connor family gathered Christmas day at the home of Mrs. O'Neil Dugas, Cornwall, to fetter their mother, Mrs. Lortie, of Glen Robertson, whose birthday falls on Christmas.

Some 35 sat down to the family dinner, a feature of which was the presentation of an electric fry pan to Mrs. Lortie.

Has Prepared Map Of Loch Garry Area

A new map of the Loch Garry region and the Wildlife Sanctuary in that area was received this week by the editor, compliments of R. J. Fraser of Ottawa, who compiled the map from air photos of the region. Mr. Fraser is a former chief of the technical surveys branch who recently wrote a book on the Frasers of Dundee, Que., and Loch Garry.

The map shows the new Masterson Cottage resort on the lake as well as those on the Vernon, farm and at Auclair's. It also provides the information that Garry Lake is 2 1/4 miles long, one mile wide and has a shoreline stretching 6 1/4 miles. Crane Island, in the lake, is also shown as is the former site of Loch Garry Village.

The map has given us fresh information on this lake which supplies Alexandria with water and we much appreciate Mr. Fraser's thoughtfulness as well as his continuing interest in the home of his ancestors.

New Construction Firm Starts First Contract

Vincent MacIntyre and a group of local men left yesterday for Massey, Ont., where Mr. MacIntyre has taken a sub-contract for rock cuts, his first since forming his own construction company.

The sub-contract is from John Chisholm Construction Co., which has a new bridge contract at Massey.

Wildlife On The War Path

Representatives of the animal kingdom finished out the year in a blaze of glory last week, in at least two instances.

Dan and Real Leroux, who live in the "Little Third" Kenyon, will tell you their dogs lost face. They yelped their ways home with faces full of porcupine quills picked up on a hunting trip.

Porcupine are total strangers to the area and it was some time before the Leroux brothers realized what ailed their dogs. Dr. Abbey had to be called from Lancaster to put the dogs to sleep and remove their barbs.

A polecat won the other round last week. Arthur Thivierge, driving one of Glengarry Transport's big vans, came to a full stop in the Morewood area when he spotted friend skunk holding down the centre of the road.

And hold it Mr. Polecat did, for at least a half-hour, before deciding to yield the right-of-way to his mammoth adversary.

Montrealers To Enjoy Burns' Night Concert

Glengarry's talented dancers, singers and musicians who usually entertain in Alexander Hall on Burns' night, this year will be going through their paces in Montreal.

A general exodus of talent to the big city is planned for Friday night, January 20th, when the Glengarry Club of Montreal is staging a concert in Victoria Hall, Westmount. Henry Duggan and his fellow organizers appear to have missed signing up few of our entertainers, judging by the number listed in their advertisement on another page.

Descendant First Robertsons Dies

It was with sincere regret that his many friends received the news of the death of Alexander Robertson, of Glen Robertson. In failing health since a few years, he passed away in the comforting care of the Sisters of St. Paul's Home in Cornwall, which he had entered just one month ago.

Aged 78, he was born on February 12th, 1882, the son of William (Big Bill) Robertson and Isabella Arnott, being a direct descendant of the ancestral founders of the Glen Robertson community.

He married Hattie Hope of his home town on December 28th, 1909, and returned to Moose Jaw, Sask., where he had been employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway since 1905 as a conductor. His wife predeceased him on August 12th, 1915.

In 1926 he moved to Montreal, where he was employed with the Bristol Aeroplane Engines (Eastern) Ltd. at the time of his retirement some years ago.

Renowned for his recitation of poetry by Burns and Dr. Drummond, he also possessed a fine voice for the old songs and invariably set a happy mood to any gathering with his comical anecdotes and sayings.

He is survived by one son, William E. Robertson of Verdun, P.Q.; two sisters, Miss Georgina Robertson, who was especially dear to him, and Mrs. Lydia Shields of Brockville, Ont.; two grandchildren, Alexander Robertson and Mrs. Kenneth (Florence) Robinson, Verdun, P.Q., and a great-grandchild, Dawn Robinson.

Prayers were said at the Brunet funeral parlor just before the cortege proceeded to Dalhousie Mills United Church, where the service and graveside prayers were conducted by the Rev. G. H. Merkley. The favored hymns of the deceased, "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me", were rendered by the choir.

Pallbearers were: Alexander Robertson, nephews Kenneth MacLennan, Rae MacLennan and Jim Shields, as well as Ronnie Smithers and Carl Rickerd.

Widespread sympathy was evidenced with messages in the form of telegrams, cards and personal expressions as well as the many floral tributes.

Lake Not Safe For Bulldozer Driver Dunked

The Alexandria lake has been ice covered since early December, but the ice is not yet entirely safe, Francois Gagnon, 35, found Monday when his bulldozer broke through into deep water.

Gagnon managed to reach firm ice after a thorough wetting in the cold water, but his dozer stayed down for 24 hours and was finally pulled out with difficulty by a Menard Construction "bull".

Hired by town foreman Dan Lajoie to clear an area on the park for dumping of snow from the streets, Gagnon decided to take a short cut to the playground area. He had travelled only 100 feet on the ice when his caterpillar tractor suddenly plunged through into deep water.

The incident occurred about 2 p.m. Monday.

Priests' Mother Mrs. Bougie Dies

Three sons officiated at the funeral of their mother, Mrs. J. D. Bougie, of Williamstown, held Monday morning at 10 o'clock, to St. Felix de Valois Church, Cornwall. Rev. J. H. Bougie, pastor, chanted the Solemn Mass of Requiem assisted by his brothers, Rev. Raoul Bougie, of Kingston, and Brother Albert Bougie of St. Timothee, Que.

His Excellency, Bishop Rosario Brodeur, D.D., chanted the Libera and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Williamstown, following singing of a Libera by Rev. D. B. McDougall in the parish church there. Mrs. Bougie died Friday at the home of her son, Rev. J. Henri Bougie, in Cornwall. She was in her 87th year.

The former Eulalie Besner, Mrs. Bougie was born at St. Clet, Que., the daughter of Moise Besner and his wife, the former Marie Zoe Lalonde. She had been a resident of the Williamstown area for many years and had been held in high esteem for her many fine qualities.

Ten sons and two daughters mourn her death: Rev. J. Henri Bougie of Cornwall, Rev. Raoul Bougie of Kingston, Brother Albert Bougie of St. Timothee, Que., Julien, Lucien and Leo, all of Williamstown, Victor and Philippe of Cornwall, Levis of Montreal, and Dieudonne of Sudbury; Miss Marie Bougie, Cornwall, and Mrs. Regina Dubois of Montreal.

Three sons were on the altar at her funeral and six other sons acted as pallbearers: Julien, Leo, Lucien, Victor, Philippe and Dieudonne Bougie.

Others assisting at the Mass were Rev. Eucher Lefebvre, superintendent of Bourget College, and Rev. Elie Charlebois, superintendent of the Scholasticate. Rev. Cyrille Contant acted as Master of Ceremonies.

In addition to many of the diocesan clergy there were present in the Sanctuary several military chaplains and other priests from Rigaud and other points.

The large attendance at the funeral included many relatives and friends from outside points as well as from Cornwall and this area. Many floral pieces, Mass offerings and messages of sympathy further evidenced the widespread regret in Mrs. Bougie's death.

Fair Demand For New Plates

The demand for new license plates has been fairly brisk this week, reports Steve O'Connor, local issuer.

First sale was made Monday, and as usual the purchaser was Police Chief Ed Dupuis, who is sporting plate C13001. The 1961 plates are white numerals on a black background.

Ontario Transport Minister Rowntree this week urged motorists to purchase their new 1961 licences early in the New Year to avoid a last minute rush.

Expiry date for 1960 plates will be March 15 after which date all vehicles operating on roads must bear the new 1961 white on black plates.

Mr. Rowntree advised all motorists they must present a certificate of liability insurance when making application for new licences. Failure to produce such a certificate, he said, will result in an additional fee of $5 over the normal registration fee for the vehicle.

Several Glengarry Farmers On Program At Kemptville Soil And Crop Conference

Hitch Old Tractor To The Sleigh

The modern version of "we'll hitch old Dobbin to the shay", apparently reads "we'll hitch old tractor to the sleigh". In this almost horseless day that's what was being done down Glen Roy way on New Year's Day.

As we hear it, snow-blocked roads didn't stop the men of Glen Roy from keeping up the old Scottish custom of "striking the houses" on the first day of '61.

One group travelled by team and sleigh; another pair got the cutter out of storage and there was even one travelling the road on skis.

But the darnedest sight of all, they say, was that cutter being towed by a tractor.

Plan School For Drummers

The Glengarry Highland Games Committee and Glengarry Clan MacLeod have joined forces in a project to furnish drummers for a Glengarry pipe band. Services of an instructor have been secured and applications are now being sought from young men interested in learning the fine points of drumming.

John D. MacLeod, Dunvegan, heads the committee and classes will be held weekly in Maxville Community Hall.

Died Here Christmas Night

Mrs. Napoleon Ranger, 85, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henri Carriere, in Alexandria on Christmas night. The deceased was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Moses St. Denis of St. Eugene. Her husband predeceased her about 15 years ago.

This lady taught school 64 years ago at South Indian (now Lemieux) during the time of the big fire, when Lemieux and Casselman were destroyed by fire.

The solemn requiem Mass was chanted in the St. Eugene Church on Wednesday, December 28th, at 10 a.m., Rt. Rev. Canon A. Duprat officiating, assisted by Rev. Leo Bourgouin as deacon and Rev. L. Cussan as sub-deacon. Interment was in the family plot in the parish cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss, five daughters and one son, Mrs. Eugene Drouin (Marie Anne) of Montreal; Mrs. Ida Guay of Gatinneau Point; Mrs. Donat Carriere (Ermine) of Cornwall; Mrs. Rosaire Diotte (Bertha) of Dorion, and Mrs. Henri Carriere (Yvonne) of Alexandria; Fred Ranger, manager of the Bank of Montreal at Victoriaville. Also surviving are one brother, Joseph St. Denis of Vankleek Hill, and one sister, Mrs. Michael McIntee of Wainwright, Alta.

Angus In Hollywood And Disneyland As Trip Nears End

(By Angus H. McDowell) Some years ago when a radio became part of the kitchen or living room and was no longer a luxury, the voices of Jack Benny and Rochester brought Hollywood closer to home.

Now the TV screens have acquainted us with actors and actresses that in a past era would only be known to those having the privilege of attending theatres in cities and towns, so with this in mind we will take you on a short drive through Hollywood and Beverly Hills.

Leaving downtown Los Angeles we motor northwest on Hollywood Freeway which skirts the eastern fringe of this cinema center with Beverly Hills in the distance. This is slightly comparable to Sherbrooke Street cutting through Westmount, or, to you folks in Vancouver, the Upper Levels road along English Acres.

As you approach this world famous moving picture creative area you see the name Hollywood in huge letters, apparently in floral make-up, adorning the slope of a hill just below the brow, so there is no doubt as to your location.

Among the several studios, we paused briefly near Paramount to see some shooting in operation and we can verify that the backstage

Several Glengarry farmers took part Tuesday in the opening day's program of the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association's annual three-day conference at Kemptville Agricultural School.

J. Y. Humphries, ag. rep., was chairman of a panel discussion, "What About Tile Drainage?" Members of the panel who discussed their experience with tile on their farms were Gordon Ferguson, RR 2, Cornwall; F. C. McLennan, Lancaster; Kenneth McDonald, Dalkeith, and Norman Sinclair of KAS.

Heading the evening program was a talk by Lloyd McRae, Bainsville, on "How We Use Records To Manage Our Farm".

One of Eastern Ontario's most successful farmers and a graduate of KAS, Mr. McRae showed association members how the keeping of records and detailed bookkeeping were the foundation of good farming today.

He pointed out that records, kept over a period of years, of milk production, crop, yields and all phases of farming, were invaluable aids to better farming, and were a necessity to the successful operation of a farm business.

Tuesday's program covered fertilizers, land improvement and the keeping of farm records. The conference Wednesday and Thursday was to cover crop and livestock problems.

Mrs. J. McCormick Dies At 79

A lifelong and respected resident of town and district, Mrs. John R. McCormick died Saturday morning in MacDonell Memorial Hospital, Cornwall, where she had been in failing health for the past two months. Her death on New Year's Eve came 35 years almost to the day after that of her husband who died suddenly at his home here on New Year's day of 1926.

The former Florence McCulloch, Mrs. McCormick was born on lot 12-6th Kenyon, a daughter of the late Ronald McCulloch and his wife, Mary McPhee. Following her marriage she resided at Dornie, and later in Lochiel Township, until the family moved to Alexandria some 40 years ago.

A wide family connection and many friends learned with regret of her passing.

To mourn she leaves two sons, William D. McCormick of O'Brien, Ont., and Ronald M. McCormick of Red Lake, Ont., as well as one daughter, Annie, Mrs. Angus Emberg, of Cornwall.

All were present for the funeral held Tuesday morning from the Marcoux & Morris funeral home to St. Fintin's Cathedral and vault. The Solemn Mass of Requiem was chanted by Rev. J. D. McPhail, rector, assisted by Rev. C. F. Gauthier and Rev. D. B. McDougall. The body was later placed in the vault to await burial in the Spring.

The pallbearers were: Cormic McDonald, Robert McLennan, Paul Carriere, Gerald and A. J. McGillis and Robert McCormick.

Among others present from a distance were Angus Emberg, Ronald, Robert and Sharon Emberg and John McLennan, of Cornwall. Floral tributes, Mass cards and messages of condolence evidenced the widespread regret and sympathy in Mrs. McCormick's death.

Won $100 Draw

Angus, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. A. MacDonald, Bridge End, received an unexpected $100 Christmas present when his name was pulled as winner of a draw for that sum. Organizers were the Alumnae Association of Iona Academy.

Lions Baskets For 51 Needy Families

A record 51 Christmas baskets were packed and distributed to needy families in town and area Christmas eve by the Lions Club.

The club was aided in packing the baskets by members of St. Fintin's Council, CWL, who also contributed, as did members of the Church on the Hill, Kenyon Church, Dunvegan, Glengarry Area High School and several Alexandria businessmen.

A generous share of the financing, too, came from public donations of cash through the jars placed in many town and district business places.

Lions president Duncan A. Macdonell estimated value of the foodstuffs, clothing, candy and toys in each of the 51 baskets at about ten dollars. Committee chairman in charge was Lion Al Malcomson.

Alex McCrimmon Died At 73

A well-known resident of the McCrimmon area, Alexander McCrimmon died Friday evening, December 23rd, in Cornwall General Hospital, where he had been a patient since October 19th.

Born August 17th, 1887, he was the youngest son of the late John Angus McCrimmon and his wife, Penelope McLeod.

Two sisters and one brother mourn his death: Mrs. Rory W. McLeod, Skye; Mrs. Norman J. Morrison, McCrimmon, and Neil McCrimmon of Vermillion, Alberta. The funeral was held at 2 p.m. Monday, December 26th, from McCrae's funeral home, Vankleek Hill, to Kenyon Presbyterian Church. The service was conducted by Rev. Iver D. MacIver of Maxville.

The pallbearers were: Stanford McCrimmon, Angus Neil McLeod, and four nephews — John Mack McCrimmon, Donald Norman McLeod, Benton McCrimmon and John Hugh Morrison.

Interment will be in the United Church cemetery, Kirk Hill, in the Spring.

Many floral tributes were received among other evidences of regret and sympathy in Mr. McCrimmon's passing.

scenes you occasionally see on your own screen are not fiction. Last week we told you of the Capitol Record building Christmas tree and this time we were told by our cab driver, quite boastfully, that this building was the only office building in the world constructed in perfectly circular design. I promptly informed our driver that in Glengarry we had a perfectly round church (old Dalhousie) and it was in use long before the boom hit Hollywood.

We paused briefly at the grave of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., in Hollywood cemetery and then on by Hollywood Bowl and this incidentally is not a football field but an open starlit theatre where you may join 250,000 more classical music fans and listen to the Symphonies. Nearby, marked by a cross on the hill but not as large as that on Mount Royal, is the Pilgrimage Play theatre where the Life of Christ is staged each Summer. It is also an open-air presentation.

Moving along Sunset Blvd., called locally "Sunset Strip" we cross over from Hollywood to Beverly Hills and if you were to cross-cross along the streets, avenues and boulevards up and down in and around real hills like Westmount you would drive some 50 miles viewing in Glamourland the homes of famous as well as lesser-known movie stars. These homes and surroundings are even more impressive and glamorous in real life than shown in magazine picture reviews. This writer was really interested in seeing the home of Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, not only in admiration of their entertaining ability but because this two-storey, white brick, shingle-roof home, 1002 Roxbury Drive, stands out as an exemplary home not pock-marked with divorce records.

Nearby, that old funny guy, Harold Lloyd, owns an estate big enough to fence in and with room to spare for his own private 18-hole golf course. Obviously he has been well paid for the laughs he provoked. We continue on by the homes of that great skating star, Sonja Henie, and neighbour Garry Cooper. You find Bing Crosby at 594 South Mapleton and nearing the coast on Rockingham Road I was pleased to see that 241 sheltered Zazu Pitts, who with that stern look always reminded me of some of our older Glengarry teachers who could swing a hickory pointer with greater vigour than Ted Lindsay a hockey stick when he blew his top. Finally a pause at the home of that grand old actor, the late Will Rogers. No actor in

— IT'S OUR OPINION —

With Malice Toward None

The News marked a milestone last week, the tenth anniversary of the introduction of an editorial page by the present editor. Now entering its 70th year, this paper in its early years boasted a lively page of editorial opinion which was allowed to lapse over a period of several decades.

Our announcement of its revival ten years ago, was captioned "With Malice Toward None". In that lead editorial we wrote, "in our choice of editorial matter we shall strive to quicken public opinion on matters of concern in the community and in the larger sphere of the nation. We shall try to emulate the great Abe Lincoln who wrote, 'with malice toward none; with charity for all'."

We think we have succeeded in keeping malice out of our writings even though we have not hesitated to tread on the odd toe when we deemed it in the best interests of the public. Only recently we were raked over the coals for what the writer termed "our supreme effort to prevent two candidates from being elected."

We can assure him there was nothing personal in the opinions expressed in that editorial, and there certainly was no malice. We still feel anyone aspiring for the top offices of Council should first have obtained some experience at the Council Board. Especially so when the term of office is extended to two years.

It is not with malice that we condemn Council for adopting the two-year term. Many more than the eight members of last year's Council have expressed themselves as against extension of the term of office and we hold that the present Council should give the people the opportunity to either reject or favor so important a change in election policy.

If our writings, especially over the last two years, have won national and provincial recognition, we can assure you our editorials have not been conceived with the idea of winning prizes. A decade ago we set out "to strive to quicken public opinion", both in our own writings and through the opinions of others as expressed on this page.

We hope to continue that striving; with malice toward none.

Another Independent Bites The Dust

A local wholesale firm has been bought out by its big-city competitors and Alexandria will be the loser. Area retailers will now be serviced from the city and ten employees of the firm must seek new jobs.

Another small business has been lost to our town because of the threat of big-time competition; and we don't like it. Smaller centres right across the country are losing small, independent businesses steadily to the big chains, the wholesale houses, the well-heeled corporations. And this trend to centralization appears to be encouraged by our present taxing laws. The small operator finds it difficult to earn enough over taxes to finance improvement or expansion. The big fellows, it seems, can hire tax experts trained in evading the full impact of taxes which the small businessman finds so burdensome.

So the rich get richer, and the poor little fellow in business is prey to the threat from expanding chains; never more so than in these years when several big food chains are engaged in all-out economic war, with seemingly unlimited capital to finance new outlets.

In our view this use of capital to force mergers and destroy the independent small business is an unhealthy aspect of the capitalist system; and one that may some day contribute to its downfall. If it continues unchecked this surge to centralized control will seriously threaten the survival of the small town, at least as we know it today. And our mammoth metropolises will grow even more unhealthily large.

There was brave talk a few years ago of the need for dispersal of industry from the larger centres to the smaller, in face of the atomic bomb threat. It got no further than the talking stage, of course; and the trend since has been for more and more centralization of business and population in the target areas.

How halt this threat to the small independent and the small town? We haven't the answer; but we do have an idea the big fellows would find it more difficult to finance all these raids on the independents if there were fewer loopholes in the tax structures.

It is still lamentably true that the rich get rich while the poor pay taxes.

A Custom We Might Well Revive

Would it not be nice if all of us could wipe the slate clean, erase from our minds all the hurts and misunderstandings we carried into the last days of the year end? If all of us, individually, entered the New Year clear of old resentments what an easing of tensions there would be, both at the personal level and on the national and international scenes if the slate cleaning extended to all mankind.

An old holiday custom in New Orleans, as described by a U.S. writer, might well be revived in that Louisiana city which has recently been in the headlines because of its school integration troubles. As this writer tells it:

"Among the French citizens of New Orleans a century ago, the time between Christmas and New Year's Day was a period for 'clearing the slate', for beginning the new year in a fresh and good way. This was the time when enmities and misunderstandings must end, when those who had had arguments or disagreement were expected to make up . . . openly without reservation.

"New Year's Day, as families held open house, was the climax to the season. In the courtyards and drawing rooms of the French Quarter everyone gathered about the punch bowl and platters of food to exchange season's greetings. Sooner or later someone who had been at odds with someone else at the party would enter the room. As the older guests watched, each of the 'enemies' must move forward and extend a hand or a cheek to be kissed. They always did, for it was the rule.

"Tradition has it that some of the finest friendships dated back to such New Year reunions, when resentment and anger, perhaps even hatred, gave way to an embrace, tears, and the relief of forgiveness. Nor was the possibility of a chance slight or injury allowed to pass uncorrected. The greeting at home, church or social gathering as the new year began was 'If I have done you wrong, forgive me, forgive me for the New Year'."

If such a custom could be revived today, how much more meaning would there be in that familiar salutation "Happy New Year". If all of us were shedding ourselves of our petty grievances how much more lightly and gaily would be the stepping over the threshold of a bright new year.

The world is rife with disagreement, distrust and malice, all of it man made, all of it created by individuals who nurse their resentments, stoke the fires of ill-feeling from year to year.

These first days of 1961 would be much happier days for each of us if with the dawn of the new year we had wiped our personal slate clean as once they did in New Orleans.

Correspondents Please Note!

How could we possibly hope to cover the news of Glengarry without the faithful, volunteer services of a corps of loyal correspondents? That thought is often in our mind and never more so than when this week's mail brought a New Year's wish from one of our more elderly, most faithful correspondents.

She adds:

"I am sending you these few items early in case of a storm as our mail is so irregular lately. Some time I'll be thinking it is about time I quit writing; but no one else will carry on and old friends like to know what is going on when away from here."

There in capsule form is the motivating force that keeps all of our correspondents, some well past the three score and ten mark, faithful to their unsalaried, self-imposed duty. Relatives and friends at a distance are being kept informed on what is happening back home; at the same time they are keeping their communities on the map.

Let their news budgets stop for a few weeks and the editor is soon made aware that some of his readers at a distance want all the news of Glengarry.

The start of a new year is an appropriate time to tell our valued correspondents how much we appreciate their help and how warmly we wish them—

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

RAILWAY PROJECT

Word from Ottawa is that the federal cabinet has the proposed railway to Great Slave Lake under "active consideration". It seems to us that the long-heralded project has been under "active consideration" for years. It's time for a decision, not talk. — Grande Prairie (Alta.) Herald-Tribune.

NATIONAL WEEKS

There is a growing public resistance to the series of national "weeks" commemorating just about everything. Perhaps National Newspaper Week is not subject to criticism since the weekly newspaper particularly has become recognized as a community institution.—Humboldt (Sask.) Journal.

Those on fixed pensions of one kind or another are gradually becoming a larger and therefore a more important element in our society. Is it too much to hope that this fact will be recognized one of these fine days? — Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune.

Low election interest in this country is terrifying. It looks as though too many of us are just satisfied with eating three meals a day and leaving the rest of it up to "the other fellow". — Granby (Que.) Leader-Mail.

SAME TEEN-AGERS

Today's teen-agers different to those of yesterday? Not a bit of it. There's the same high spirit of adventure, the same daring, the same urge to take a chance. Condition and circumstances have changed — not the teen-ager. — Virden (Man.) Empire-Advance.

FAIR REWARD

Part of the opportunity of the individual to develop his potentialities is the assurance of a fair reward for such a development. To the extent that we take away such a reward . . . we infringe on the principle of equality of opportunity. — Stanstead (Que.) Journal.

Riding A Tiger

(The Printed Word)

An old Chinese proverb says: "He who rides a tiger dare not dismount." It is applicable to a good many situations or predicaments in which governments find themselves. Looking at the Ottawa scene alone, an observer might conclude that the government there had a stable of tigers and was ready to adopt more on slight excuse.

As it would be idle to ask the fearful rider of the tiger why he mounted it in the first place, it might be equally idle to inquire into the origins of many governmental troubles. It is fair to say that the bulk of them, such as price supports for farm products, losses of the publicly-owned railway system, the C.B.C. and the various Crown corporations, were legacies from previous holders of office. The present government, in taking power, also had to assume its predecessor's seat on the tiger's back.

Having adopted or inherited the responsibility for keeping groups of citizens happy at the expense of other taxpayers, the government does not dare to abandon it, although other taxpayers, who must pay the bill, may question the advisability of paying indefinitely.

The official opposition, which bred most of the tigers, is unlikely to help in subduing them. The policy of the C.C.F., or the new party it helps to form, is sure to be directed towards keeping the present tigers contented and advocating the breeding of more. The taxpayer's role, as always, will be to provide the fodder.

ranean cruise, including visits to the Holy Land, Rome, the battlefields of France and Belgium, England and Scotland. — Much damage to stock and building was suffered early Christmas morning by fire which broke out in D. E. Markson's Stone Store. — Council Boards in Lancaster Township and Village were elected by acclamation at nomination meetings on Monday. John D. MacDonald is Reeve and Roderick A. McLeod, deputy-reeve of the township, and J. R. McLachlan is Reeve of the village. — Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Urquhart, Maxville, received a Christmas greeting cablegram from their son, Kenneth, in Sydney, Australia. — Glen Sandfield Cheese Factory was razed by fire on Saturday evening. — At Winnipeg, Man., on Wednesday, December 31st, there passed away, Cecilia MacDonald, beloved wife of J. Most interesting of the New Year's honors conferred by His Majesty the King on Canadians, is a Baronetcy for Donald MacMaster, K.C., M.P. for Chertsey Division since 1910, and a native of Williamstown. — Norman J. MacGillivray recently purchased from Mrs. Angus A. MacDonald the commodious dwelling house on Main street north, adjoining Mr. Leduc's store. — Fergus McRae, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McRae, who served with distinction overseas, has been appointed an Excise, Grade 1, in the Department of Inland Revenue. His district will consist of Glengarry and the northern part of Stormont and he will occupy office room in the Custom's Office, Alexandria. — Feature of the closing exercises at the Public School prior to the holidays was the presentation of a gold wrist watch to Miss Helen Hope, daughter of J. T. Hope, M.D., in recognition of her securing highest Entrance marks in the county. — Miss Lillian Dever left on Saturday for Chatham, Ont., where she joins the teaching staff of "The Pines".

SIXTY YEARS AGO

Friday, January 4th, 1901

A new century dawned. — Alexandria will have a new Reeve and four new councillors as a result of the retirement in a body of Reeve Munro and this year's council. Angus MacDonald will be Reeve and the new council members are: Jno. Robertson, J. A. McMillan, J. R. Shaw and P. Dapratto. Kenyon is to have a contest with D. A. Campbell and D. A. MacDonald nominated for Reeve, and F. S. Campbell, M. Dewar, M. Fitzgerald, P. Kippen, D. D. McLeod, J. P. McNaughton and Edward Welsh seeking council seats. — Next Sunday evening a meeting is to be held to form a Young Men's Social Club of young men from town and district. The St. Finnan's C.T. & T.A. Society is fitting out Alexander Hall as recreation rooms with billiard and pool tables, a bowling alley and other games and it will be open to all creeds. Geo. J. Harrison is the new president of the Society. — Misses Florence McDougall of Maxville, and Emma Macdonald of Cornwall, have arrived in town to fill their positions in the Public and Separate Schools. Arch. Cameron, late principal of the Alexandria Separate School, left on Saturday for Edmonton, where he is engaged to teach for the ensuing year. — H. G. Smith, the well-known lumberman of Apple Hill, has purchased the farms of D. McIntyre, 3rd Kenyon, and D. C. MacDonald, 2nd Kenyon. They are valuable tracts of timber land.

A THOUGHT ON FARM SAFETY

Watch your step!
You may be the one who finds the pitchfork in the haystack.

Glengarry Farm Safety Council

WITH OUR RAMBLING REPORTER

by ED.

As one writer puts it—
A HAPPY NEW YEAR to all, and may the mouse never come out of your pantry with a tear in his eye.

GIFT-WRAPPED IN A SMILE
Not necessarily the most expensive, but one of the most valued gifts received by your Rambling Reporter this Christmas was a bottle of ink. It came from one of our young friends and probably that beaming smile that came with it was what gave it special significance.

It seemed to say "more ink for your pen", "more power to your writing hand". And it was blue ink that could be carrying the hope that in the year ahead we'd stay out of the red.

Funny what feelings a simple little present can convey when accompanied by a smile. Or is it all in the smile?

If you see us smiling through '61 it will probably be because we're remembering a bottle of ink we were presented at Christmas — and that certain smile that came with it.

By the time a man gets to the point where he can buy his wife dresses for a fancy figure — she hasn't got it.

OUR FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT

The editor has been enjoying those stories from his special correspondent, Angus H. MacDonald, who's on a safari to the West Coast. But his weekend mail brought him a bit of a shocker.

It was a letter from a reader in British Columbia, but it was addressed to "Angus H. MacDonald, editor, The Glengarry News". The writer sent along an air view of her hometown, not too far from Langley where Angus visited on his tour of the Fraser Valley. She regretted he had not found time to see her town which she claims is "just as beautiful as the Garden of Eden".

The editor liked her hometown spirit; and the picture of Mission City against its mountain backdrop seemed to bear her out. He also was warmed by her statement that "since 33 years we have been reading The Glengarry News and enjoy every line".

But he wants it distinctly understood that Angus H. MacDonald is NOT the editor of The Glengarry News. He's our foreign correspondent.

A dollar may not go as far as it used to but it sure goes a lot faster.

CAR CRAZY
People are funny. We thought so Sunday for the umpteenth time as we rambled to church.

The snow was snowing, as it had been practically all weekend; the roads were heavy and the snow-plows hadn't done too good a job of smoothing the side streets. And there was a guy driving his car to church; a fellow who lives practically around the corner from St. Finnan's.

The parking area at the Hall hadn't been opened and parking space was at a premium along the street. He was just about half way from home to church when he had to park his car and walk all of a hundred yards.

We didn't hang around to see if he had any trouble getting traction after Mass; but we wondered again what this age of automation is going to do to the feet of the nation. Will they eventually fall into complete disuse; and will nature decide they are no longer needed and can be dispensed with entirely from the human frame?

Seems once a guy or gal gets a car in this day and age, walking is out. A trip of two blocks to the post-office involves getting the car out of the garage, impeding Main Street traffic while the mail is being picked up; returning said car to the garage until it is next needed to cover another few hundred yards.

People are funny. But maybe "sad" would be a better word for this penchant for pedal pushing. A lot of people have forgotten the pleasure there is in walking down street and talking to people you meet. It's healthy, too. Your Rambling Reporter is pedestrian; and look what a fine shape he's in.

Seems to us a lot of people are being driven to distraction, who'd be better off if they kept at least one foot on the ground.

Cholera Outbreak Under Control

Canada's worst hog cholera outbreak in years has been brought under control, Department of Agriculture officials believe.

Area Points Hit

Since the disease was first noticed in the Granby area of Quebec last October, a total of 106 premises has been infected, including some in Carleton, Russell, Dundas and Grenville counties.

Glengarry has had no reported cases of cholera.

Authorities have slaughtered 15,726 swine and the government has paid out $376,651 in compensation for lost stock.

According to a spokesman for the department, the latest outbreak is probably the largest Canada has ever had in numbers and statistics.

"We have slaughtered more swine this time," said a veterinarian, "because we have changed our methods of control."

While most of the hogs slaughtered in this epidemic were in Quebec, nine establishments in four Ontario counties were effected.

There were three in Carleton, three in Russell, two in Dundas and one in Grenville for a total of 1,226 hogs.

"We think we've caught up with all the cases," said the veterinarian, "but there may be further extensions from the original outbreak."

The department blamed the origin of the disease on pork scraps from "an American source" in the Granby area. From there it was spread by a dealer's truck to other points in Ontario and Quebec.

Last incidence of hog cholera in Eastern Ontario was in 1941-42 when a total of 6,437 swine were killed.

Different Method

"But we had a different method then," said the department official. "We killed only the sick swine at that time. Now we slaughter all the hogs on an infected premise to make sure there is no further spread."

Couple Wed At Glen Nevis

HOLCOMB - MacDONALD
St. Margaret of Scotland Church, in its lovely Christmas setting, was the scene of the marriage of Sarah Agnes MacDonald, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. MacDonald, Glen Norman, to Warren Smith Holcomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Holcomb, Massena, N.Y., on December 31st, 1960, at 10 a.m.

Rev. Leo MacDonell officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the wedding music was provided by the Maryvale Abbey Choir.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of white peau de sole with long sleeves and portrait collar. The fitted bodice had a lace insert and matching lace appliques adorned the full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a crystal crown and she wore crystal ear rings. The bridal bouquet was of white Spider Chrysanthemums, centred with American Beauty Roses.

The bride's attendants, Misses Anna and Patricia MacDonald, wore identical street-length dresses of Hunter Green velvet with white accessories. They carried bouquets of white mums, feathered carnations and Oregon cedar.

Walter Holcomb acted as best man for his brother and the ushers were Allan and Charles MacDonald.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at Hotel Cornwallis. Later, the young couple left for a wedding trip to Vermont and New York City. For travelling, the bride wore a Blin and Blin walking suit of American Beauty shade, a grey flowered hat, black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Mervyn Daniels and Cornwall friends at the home of Mrs. Daniels, St. Andrews.

TO THINK IT MIGHT HAVE ENDED LIKE THIS

Primitive man had it tough—most of the other animals were bigger and stronger. Fortunately, man had brains... and a wife... or he might have ended up on the wrong side of the plow.

In the early days men competed with earth's other creatures—today men compete with other men to develop energy sources. In the process our standard of living has sky rocketed.

Competition has helped Canadians achieve one of the world's highest living standards. Take the way it works in the oil business—Imperial Oil and hundreds of other companies compete to supply Canadians with oil. As a result, oil is available at reasonable prices wherever it is needed—and Canadians have turned to oil for more than half their energy needs.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED
...for 80 years Canada's leading supplier of energy

Reduce On Three Meals a Day

"My doctor recommended that I lose weight, but it had always been difficult for me to do. I heard of the Naran Plan and am delighted with the results. I have lost weight easily and I don't have to starve. I feel so much better after losing weight. I hope overweight people will try the Naran Plan. I am sure they will be pleased as I am."

MRS. M. LAUGHRAN
Port Arthur

Going without food can be as bad for your health as being overweight. You can reduce in a safe, sensible way which permits you to eat three meals a day and still lose weight. If you wish to reduce easily and sensibly, go to your drug store and ask for the Naran Plan.

for the Three Musketeers but "Zic" MacDonald.

Then the post-war era when Little Archie McMillan's livery horses gave way to cars and on to Detroit. He was anxious to know of The Farmer boys and were they still in the Motor City. Ewen left there in the early thirties to become a valued circulation manager with a Los Angeles daily newspaper and is now retired in his San Bernardino home. As we were departing he inquired of Cleveland McPhee and on to the Alec Willie McPhees at Quigley's, first cousins. Ewen was delighted to learn that his namesake, Ewen McPhee, is carrying on a banking career, presently in New York.

In conclusion of these articles next week besides a summary of Pasadena during New Year's we will try to tell you of a most interesting side trip to the Old Mission at San Juan Capistrano, where the swallows have returned every March 19th, the Feast of St. Joseph, for over half a century.

CANDY by Tom Dorr

ADVERTISE IN "THE GLENGARRY NEWS"

Angus In...

our day will ever again depict the average farmer showing a blue ribbon hog at an exhibition or handling the reins in a sulky pace race like Will Rogers in "State Fair".

Returning from this drive we found a telephone message tucked in our motel door advising that Mr. and Mrs. John Hugh McDonald were calling for us and a few hours later we were in their cosy apartment in Garden Grove.

This was our first pleasant meeting and John Hugh explained that he was formerly from Greenfield; his mother was Donald John McDermid's sister, Sarah, and his dad a brother of Johnnie Allan and Angus Allan (Roy) McDonald of Fassfern. His brother is none other than "Buster" (Lancaster-Montreal) McDonald, the Mr. Kroehler of the Maritimes. John's wife, Mae, is English by birth but obviously a Glengarry by choice and she is an ideal hostess.

After explaining our family background I met with a double-barrelled question: "Does Sandy Dougall McMillan still play the fiddle and did I remember Arthur Shenack calling square dances in Greenfield?" Chuckling, I replied: "In our books Sandy Dougall could still play The Tennessee Waltz as sweetly as Giselle MacKenzie; however, all I remembered of Arthur Shenack were his lingering days in his shoe repair hut near the corner at Johnnie McPhee's and Peter McInneses, north of Greenfield."

John Hugh's early working days were with D. R. MacDonald's railway construction and by coincidence my late father was a C.P. engineer on D.R.'s work train. Our host recalled Ralph Connor's books relative to Glengarry adding that this author was his Winnipeg regiment's padre in World War One. So with such a background we had plenty of fodder to discuss and started at St. Elmo progressing slowly, as the 'crow would fly, over Greenfield, Glen Roy, Williamstown and ending our chattering flight at Les Howard's in Lancaster.

Returning to Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald brought us to Knott's Berry Farm, an interesting show place of California before the turn of the century. We also had the good fortune of seeing Disneyland, a fairly playground where young and old find everything in the line of amusement from a horse drawn street car of yesterday to the nonrail street travel of tomorrow. Mickey Mouse, the Seven Dwarfs and Felix the Cat mingle among the crowd to the children's delight but what really caught my eye was the old Mississippi River steamboat (an actual replica) coming 'round the bend of a man-made river to the dock with the old brass band playing "Cruising Down the River".

We have made a thorough telephone search, unsuccessfully, to contact George Sangster's two sisters; Mrs. Ann Graham and Mrs. Earl Lequesne. The McVichies, of Curry Hill, are not too distant relatives of this writer and I was anxious to meet their neighbours of nearby Bainsville.

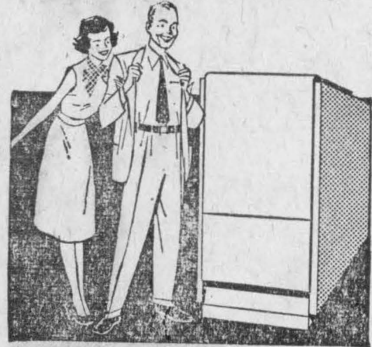

While the Better Half was shopping in Pasadena, I dropped into a record bar (any similarity to a bar of another spelling is purely coincidental) and before browsing around for a pipe band record I asked a clerk where I might find this type of music. I was instructed to look under the name of the country producing such a number. After a lengthy and almost fruitless search I fingered a disc, "The Inverness Gathering" and "Scotland The Brave", recorded by the Edinburgh City Police Band. I would give anything to see the expression of Donald (The Farmer) McDonald when he reads the name of the country heading the file folder of the above named record — Bull-Fighting Spain.

We were again disappointed in calls, this time the home of John H. Whyte of Lancaster, a brother of Mrs. Lee McCormick and Mrs. Archie S. MacDonald of Ottawa. However, this is Christmas holiday week.

Now let us travel by bus to San Bernardino, about 50 miles, and spend a day with Mr. and Mrs. Ewen John McDermid (The Bush), from Greenfield. Ewen John has not been to Glengarry in upwards of 30 years so the question and answer period was lengthy and varied. Ewen's first school days were in the log school, Third Kenyon, and he inquired of school pals, the Hughie William MacDonells, Camerons and O'Briens. He regretted to learn that Angus (H.W.) and Mrs. John Malcolm McDonald (Janet O'Brien) had passed away. From school days we moved on to the enlisting of the Three Musketeers from Greenfield with the 77th Ottawa Regiment. Besides Ewen the other two were Johnnie McIntosh and Angus Archie John McDonald. Then there was the day before returning up front at Ypres, France, when Ewen was called out of ranks and who should be looking
