Combines Going for Broke in Crucial Game Here Tonight

Last week's hockey headline said "Combines Seek Fourth Win in Renfrew Friday". We could have used almost the same heading this week. The Combines are still hunting for that elusive fourth win. But there is one big difference and the local team is betting everything on just that difference; this time the advantage of home ice is with the Combines. There "just ain't no tomorrow" for the losers in tonight's game, and the Combines big scoring guns who have been at or near the top of the scoring list all season, will be zeroed in on the North Stars' net from the opening whistle.

With the intense rivalry which has existed between these clubs for a number of seasons, and with a few personal rivalries having also been exhibited in previous games, there is keen interest in tonight's decisive encounter, which is scheduled to get under way at 8:30. A large crowd is expected for this one, and fans who do not have reserved tickets would be well advised to be at the Community Centre early.

On Friday night last in Renfrew the North Stars spoiled the Combines bid for a clean sweep of the series, when they downed the local team by a 4-1 count.

Playing understaffed, Combines were left further shorthanded as Bryan Armstrong was taken to hospital after colliding with a Stars defenceman. Bryan, a former Cardinal Bronco, was released after treatment. Goalie Bob Carkner who has been a standout with the Combines, pulled a leg muscle, but he gamely stayed in throughout the contest.

Counting for the winners were Kevin Crozier, Brian Currie Mills, Bert Morrow (a former Combine) and Frank Dunnigan. Big Doug Casselman scored the Combines only goal.

Combines took five of a total of 13 minor penalties.

Sunday afternoon at the Community Centre here, the North Stars pulled off another win over the league champions, this time by a 4-2 count. Goalie Carkenr, playing with an injured leg, had 42 shots directed at him by the rampaging Stars, while his mates managed only 21 drives at the visiting goalie.

Paul Beckstead put the Combines on the score sheet early in the game, but Bert Morrow tied it up 10 minutes later. Larry Mick put the Stars in the lead again, but before the end of the first period, Big Doug Casselman had tied the score again 2-2. Jim Cotman gave the Renfrew team their winning margin with a goal in each of the last two periods, but this time the Combines just couldn't come back.

Six minor penalties were assessed against each team.

Playing back in Renfrew on Tuesday, the North Stars kept their winning streak against Combines alive with a 6-2 win to tie the series at three games each.

This game, the Morrisburg team was playing without their starry forward, Mel Tomalty, and their regular goalie Bob Carkner, who sat it out to rest his injured leg. Young Rick Droppo stepped into the breach for Carkner and gave a creditable performance, handling 46 shots against only 27 by the shorthanded league champions.

Renfrew led the game 2-0 at the end of the first canto; boosted the margin to 6-0 at the end of the second, and then were held scoreless in the final frame, while Jack Duncan and Big Doug Casselman finally connected for Combines only two counters of the evening.

Frank Dunnigan and Jim Cotman each had a pair for the Stars with singles by Larry Mick and Reid Mick.

Five minor penalties were handed out during the game, all to the Stars. In the second frame an altercation broke out between Combines Allie Cameron and the Stars Bob Newberry. Each received a major and a match penalty.

Winner of tonight's game will take the series, and the right to engage the Shawville Pontiacs in the final playoff series.

Morrisburg Junior Lions squeaked by Maxville on Monday night, to keep alive in their best of 5 semi final seris, but bowed from contention on Wednesday night, when Maxville won 4-2 to take the series.

Maxville swamped Morrisburg Lions Friday night, 7-2 to take a 2-0 lead in their best of 5 St. Lawrence Jr. B. League Semi-Finals. The winner of this series will face the winner of the Cardinal-Metcalfe series which is tied at one game apiece.

Don Mabo opened the scoring at 18:35 of the 1st period for the Lions. David Clark tied it up at 1:52 of the 2nd period. Some 8 minutes later Mike Haramis give Maxville the lead, and they never looked back. Ron Beausoliel and Myles Harrigan scored to give Maxville 4-1 lead after the 2nd period.

Ken Morrow opened the scoring the 3rd period, but Maxville came back with 3 more goals, Bryce Benton, Raymond Legault and Nick Haramis.

11 minors were handed out, 5 to the Lions. Bill "Cookie" Lawlor was assessed a major for a butt end at 14:44 of the 3rd period.

Morrisburg Pee Wee Hockey team has been winning all competitions in sight. They are champions of the local league, they are winners of two O.D.H.A. playdowns competitions against Maxville and Cornwall and they are winners of the semi-final game with Rockland. Now they are all set to meet Shawville in the finals of the Eastern minor section of ODHA play.

This game will be played at the Morrisburg Community Centre on Saturday, March 15th at 1 p.m.

Gary Duval is the team's coach; Larry Dowell, manager; Paul Osler, trainer.

Members of the team are: Defence, Ricky Brown; Tim Cassell; David Hess; Tom Cordon.

Linemen are: Kevin Duval, Captain Doug McNairn, Bill Veley, Brian Rutley, Kevin Osler, Doug Shultz, Keith Dowell, Paul Doney, Wayne Henophy, David Cassell.

Don McNairn is goalie.

Saturday, March 22 will see a Midget "A" tournament at Morrisburg. Play will begin at 9 a.m. with competition from Morrisburg, Prescott, Cornwall all-stars, Ottawa '67s Brockville and Montreal.

Earn Praises from High Places

During the past few days, M. A. Ball, the Combines manager has received several congratulatory letters on the success of the team at the Kennedy Memorial Internation al Hockey Tournament at Lake Placid, N.Y. First of the letters came from Hon. Lucien Lamoureux M.P. for Stormont-Dundas and Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons. It read:

"Dear Mr. Ball — I read with considerable interest the outstanding success achieved by the Combines in Lake Placid recently.

"Please accept and convey to the members of your team my sincere congratulations for this excellent showing.

My best wishes are extended for a like success in your forthcoming play-offs. Yours Sincerely,

Luicien Lamoureux,
M.P. for Stormont-Dundas".

The second letter came from Earl Dawson, President of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and read:

"Dear Sir — I wish to take this opportunity to congratulate you on your tremendous showing at the first Kennedy Memorial Hockey Tournament held in Lake Placid, New York, on February 21 and 22.

"Mr. Alf Taylor, director of the C.A.H.A. has painted glowing reports of your tremendous team spir it and attitude throughout the tournament, certainly a credit to our country and to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association both on and off the ice. While I realize that it was a tremendous team effort, I want to extend special congratulations to Bob Carkner and Pat Brophy. It is my understanding that both of them played outstanding hockey.

Two of the things needed to be successful are desire and discipline I wish I could honestly say that the attitude exemplified by the Morrisburg Combines at Lake Placid during the tournament was the same attitude all of our teams took with them in international competition.

"Once again, many thanks for a job well done. Yours truly,

Earl Dawson. M.L.A.,
President, C.A.H.A.

The third letter received was from Municipal Clerk Lloyd Barkley and reported on a resolution adopted by Morrisburg Council at the March 3rd meeting. Text of the resolution was as follows:

"Be it Resolved that Council extends to the Morrisburg Combines Hockey Team, heartiest congratulations on their success at the Kenned Tournament at Lake Placid, New York, where they represented this Village and Canada in a highly commendable manner".

New Look for Dundas 4-H Clubs During 1969

By: Gary R. Buck,
Assoc. Agricultural Representative
Dundas and Grenville Counties

Several changes are being incorporated into the Dundas 4-H Program for 1969. The reasons for these changes, perhaps can be better understood if we take a look at the 4-H objectives. The following is a quote from the 4-H member's handbook:

"4-H OBJECTIVES

The chief objective of 4-H Agricultural Club work in Ontario is the development of the club member through training in agriculture and citizenship.

More specific objectives of the 4-H club program are:

To help the 4- member -

1. Acquire knowledge and skills in modern agriculture.
2. Adopt a scientific attitude toward agriculture.
3. Realize the need for continuing education .
4. Develop a sense of responsibility.
5. Develop qualities of leadership
6. Acquire the habits and attitudes necessary for a satisfying home and community life".

From the 4-H objectives we see that primarily we are trying to develop4-H members to make them better citizens.

An interesting statistic is that of every ten (10) 4-H members, only one (1) returns to the farm to make farming his occupation.

It is with these thoughts in mind that we (Dundas 4-H Agricultural Club Leaders and the Extension Branch) have developed the follow ing 1969 Dundas 4-H Club program

ORGANIZATIONAL MEETINGS

Tuesday, March 10th, at 8:00 p. m., in the Winchester Town Hall: Winchester-Chesterville 4-H Calf Club; Williamsburg 4-H Calf Club; Morewood 4-H Calf Club.

Wednesday ,March 19th, at 8:00 p.m. in the Inkerman Public School North Mountain 4-H Calf Club; South Mountain and Brinston 4-H Calf Club.

Thursday, March 27th, at 8:00 p. m. in the Agricultural Office, Winchester: Dundas 4-H Field Crops Club.

Monday, March 31st, at 8:00 p. m. in the Agricultural Office, Winchester: Dundas 4-H Tractor Club.

Wednesday, April 2nd, at 8:00 p. m. in the Agricultural Office, Winchester: Dundas 4-H Swine Club.

To belong to a 4-H Agricultural Club you must be at least 12 years of age as of JJanuary 1st, 1969, and you must not reach your 21st birthday by December 31st, 1969. The minimum age for the Tractor Club is 14 years of age as of January 1st, 1969.

There will be both Junior and Senior calves this year. Junior calves are those from JaJnuary 1st, 1969 to May 1st, 1969. Senior calves are those born between the dates of July 1st, 1968 and December 31st 1968. However, all 12 and 13 year old members must take Junior calves. Members 14 years and over may use either a Junior or Senior Calf for their project. All calves must be sired by a Registered Bull.

Members in the Swine Club will all show 2 gilts sired by a Registered Boar. These gilts must be born between February 1st and March 15th, 1969.

Monthly meetings will be held during the summer months, similar to previous years.

"A 4-H HAPPENING"

The format of the June meeting has been drastically changed. One meeting will be held for all the 4-H Club members in Dundas County The major change is that 4-H members (Executives of each 4-H Club) will plan, organize and conduct their own meeting. Some things that may be part of this program are softball games, 4-H Demonstrations, 4-H Dance, etc. These are only examples of what the program for the June meeting may consist of, but the final decision will be left with the 4-H members. If this meeting is a success, the credit will go to the members, and conversely if it is a failure, the blame will also go on the members.

4-H members during the summer will also be taking part in 4-H Leadership Week (1 boy). 4-H Exchange with either Waterloo or Wellington County (at least 2 4-H members) and the Central Canada Exhibition 4-H Camp (2 4-H members per Club).

Another new feature of 4-H for Dundas members for 1969 is a Regional 4-H Conference. This Conference will be held at some College or University in Eastern Ontario. It will be for selected 15-year old 4-H Club members. We expect that Dundas County's quota will be 6 to 8 4-H Club members.

The emphasis at this conference will be on demonstrations, discussion groups and active member participation.

The Calf Clubs will hold their Achievement Day (Show Day) at South Mountain Fair on Friday, September 5th, 1969 and the Swine Club the following day on Saturday, September 6th, at the same Fair. 4-H Club members will also have the opportunity to take part in the Chesterville Junior Fair, if they so wish. Twenty-six 4-H Calf Club members will be exhibiting their prize calves and gilts at the Easter Ontario 4-H Championship Show held at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

We at the Agricultural Office think that we have very well qualified 4-H Club leaders assisting the 4-H program in Dundas County All we need now is a lot of "keen and active" 4-H Club members.

Institute Met at Riverside Heights

Riverside Heights W.I. with Mrs. Dale Beckstead in the chair, held their March meeting at the home of the convener, Mrs. Lloyd Eadie. The roll call, "A current event" was answered by 17 members. Mrs. Floyd Fisher was the only guest

During the business session, Mrs. Daisy Neilan asked if members would make a quilt and it was agreed a quilting bee would be held in Mrs. Neilan's home, March 24th

Ideas for fund raising was discussed, the matter to be in abeyance until the next meeting.

It was decided to hold another bicycle rodeo this year, plans to be finalized at a later date.

Mr .Deryk Dickinson showed slides of East Pakistan and gave an educational and entertaining description of life there. Underground cables and heavy equipment were a gift from Canada, under the Columbo Plan, for this hydro project. We learned that life is cheap in these over-populated places. Men who had lived abroad and educated in Western ways, soon forgot the better way of life on their return, they felt they had to sink to the native way of life or lose caste. Natives preferred to use rough tools and their hands, the job would last longer, modern machinery decreased the hours and days they could work, forty cents a day meant a lot, often it was the only work available so it was a case of working for this wage or becoming a beggar.

It is difficult to ed ucate these people, they know no other way of life and seem content to live as their forebears did and do not want to progress. This is hard for the Western world to understand, very frustrating for the Canadians working on this project.

Women marry young and are kept in purdah, they wear exquisite silk saris and scarves.

The natives are clever with their uses of bamboo and ca e beautiful dishes, drums, etc. out of wood with inlayed motifs. They also make brass vases and other ornaments.

Mrs. Fred Casselman thanked Mr. Dickinson for visiting the Riverside Heights W.I. and for a very entertaining evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Eadie, assisted by Mrs. Robert Burns, Mrs. Lloyd Smirle, Mrs. Annie Bowman and Mrs Fred Casselman .During this time, Mr. Dickinson entertained us at the piano with jazz and ragtime classics of yesteryear.

LONG WINTER BLUES

By: A. J. Campbell,
Management Forester

Spring is just around the corner. The signs are clear — seed catalogues are all in, describing the newest horticultural greenery, tree applications are moving in greater numbers through our Timber office. Yes, the winter blues make us start dreaming in green — grass, gardens, flowers, even trees and shrubs.

Along with ordering seeds and shrubs we should plan that first spring clean-up to include repairing the havock of winter. The deep snow is of course to our advantage because young trees are protected from wind burn but the ice storms hit rather hard here in Eastern Ontario. The ornamental trees, if not broken, are badly bent. White birch varieties and cedars suffered badly; however, many other species were hit hard as well.

Nature has marvellous means for the recovery of the strong but the weak are not meant to survive.

Now supposing your prize weeping birch had just been planted a year or two ago and was not completely established yet. Severe beinding will have caused some cell separation in the trunk, and therefore the tree cannot completely straighten up this spring. If it is still partly bent when the growing flush begins, it will like have a permanent crook. Therefore we are working against time to beat the first growth with our repairs.

Badly bent trees should be brought up straight by using whatever means are necessary, ropes, poles, pickets, or other trees. They should be held in shape until the leaves have fully developed and the first spring growth is well on its way. This will usually be enough to strengthen injured fibres; however, should the tree still bend a little when supports are removed, it should be re-supported until diameter growth is well on its way in early August.

Branch damage was also severe. Partly broken branches should be pruned clean as soon as possible and the open wounds covered with a tar base tree dressing. This dressing is available at most hardware stores. Make sure a good, thick layer is placed over the branch wound, and remember that it may need another coat next year and the next until the bark has completely closed in.

Examine those exotic species carefully this spring and if they have suffered frost damage and sun scald, take note of what nature is telling you.

The species is not hardy in that location. If you must have a tree there, go to a native, more hardy species. An example is Norway maple which will not survive in an exposed area in Eastern Ontario. Plant a native sugar maple or silver maple in its place. If you insist on having a Norway maple, plant it in a sheltered place to the lee of a building or conifer tree.

Good luck with the repair, and remember, get at it early!

WINTER FISHING PROVES POPULAR

By: G. E. Raine,
Fisheries Biologist

With favourable weather, snow and ice conditions in the Kemptville District, more than the usual number of anglers are trying their luck at winter fishing. Some of the more popular waters include Constance Lake, Lake St. Francis, Cornwall Recreation Area, White Lake and Basin Lake.

In general, winter fishing success has been very good with the Cornwall Recreation Area producing 1 trout for 1 hour's effort. Perch fishing in Lake St. Francis and pike fishing in Constance Lake have also proved very rewarding.

Within a few weeks, winter will be leaving, and with it will go a very pleasant and poular sport for another year. However early March still leaves enough time for the family to venture for a day's outing on one of the many nearby waters. Lists of lakes and streams that have been stocked, summaries of the 1969 fishing regulations and lists of available contour maps of local waters can be obtained by writing to the Department of Lands and Forests, at Kemptville, Ontario.

TAX TIPS

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. Can one return be used for both husband and wife?

A. No. Not in this country. A separate return must be completed for everyone who is required to file.

Q. What is the most common type of improperly completed return?

A. Those that do not provide all the information required by the form. Over 10% of returns filed lack necessary information, mainly concerning personal exemptions claimed. Failure to attack T4 slip is very common. Omission rather than actual errors are our greatest problem.

Q. My employment is such that I earn a portion of my income in the form of tips and gratuities. I understand that I may pay additional Canada Pension Plan contributions on this income so that I may qualify for full pension benefits. Is this correct and if so, how may I make the additional payment?

A. Yes, you may elect to pay 3.6 per cent on this income provided you have not already made the maximum contribution of $81.00 on your other wages. To make such an election you must file a T1 General form and complete the "Canada Pension Plan Contribution on Self-Employed Earnings" area on page 1 of the T1 General.

Q. If I receive an advance from the Canadian Wheat Board, when is this money taxable?

A. You should include it in your income for the year in which you receive it.

Q. My wife and I were married in September. She was working before marriage but has not worked since. Can I claim the full married exemption of $1.000 for her? What does she do about filing a return?

A. Yes, if she received no income after your marriage, you may claim the full married exemption of $1,000. It is only income she received after your marriage that affects your exemptions. If your wife is taxable or had tax deducted from her salary, she must file her own return. Her exemptions are not affected by her marriage.

Q. My wife's uncle is unemployed and is living with us. Can I claim him as a dependent?

A. Not unless he is mentally or physically infirm. If he is, you can claim the amount you actually spend on his support up to $550.

Q. I purchased a rental property part way through the year. Is capital cost allowance restricted to the period in the year during which I owned the property?

A. No. You are entitled to claim full captial cost allowance each year so long as you own the building at the end of the year. The cost of land is not subject to this allowance.

Well, I'm back to normal

Last week I wrote a column which must have made faithful readers believe I was either taken with drink, or breaking down mentally. It was full of joy and good spirits, looking on the bright side, and revealing silver linings.

It's a great relief to me, and it must be to you, to go back to normal. Last week was a brief mental abberration. This week, I'm back to my old sane, snarly, misanthropic self: the man my wife calls "Old Stoneface."

What I propose to do today is act as your alter-ego, the brooding, dark self that is hidden behind your bright, sunny exterior. I'm going to let you take out your aggressions, vicariously, through mine.

I'll list what I despise and detest in our society. Send in your own special beefs, and we'll keep the column going for months. Everybody hates something.

There is no particular order to these items. My venom extends with equal virulence to each.

First. Non-returnable bottles. I know. The old ones were bad enough, cluttering up shelves and basement floors until you had a car-load. It was a half-day's work to take them back to the store and haggle over them, because the store said they didn't sell this brand or that.

But you could get rid of them. And for kids, they were, in many instances, their sole source of income. Many a Saturday I spent as a boy, searching ditches for miles, and coming home with 32 cents for a day's work.

The non-returnable bottle is about as easy to get rid of as chronic arthritis. I demand that their manufacturers give every customer, free, a plastic bucket, filled with a solution which will instantly dissolve the cursed things when they're dropped into it.

The same goes for cans that hold drinks, whether beer or pop. In ten years, you won't be able to step on a piece of nature south of the Arctic Circle without twisting your ankle on an empty beer-can.

Next. Long-distance dial phone calls. A few years you gave your number to old operator, and within a reasonable time, you got your party, or didn't.

On the do-it-yourself plan, with a string of digits as long as your leg, anything can happen. A friend of mine called his son in Montreal the other night. He didn't have his glasses on, and wound up talking to the secretary of the Sheep Breeders' Association in Auckland, New Zealand.

How about zippers? Great invention, but it should have been strangled at birth. What ever happened to the good old button? Every time I tangle with a zipper, whether it's on my galoshes or my fly, there is a moment of sheer, cold apprehension. Often it's justified — and there I am with my galoshes flopping around like a pair of drunken crows.

Politicians. Not all of them. Only those who promise to hold the line on expenses, while providing better services. And then do the opposite.

Taxes. The rich are hit hard, but have enough left to avoid starvation. The poor pay none, or very little. It's the middle-income bird who gets it where it hurts. One of these days, I'm off to Bermuda, where "taxes" is a dirty word.

Social slavery. We know that as individuals, we have free will. But we are strangled with so many regulations and traditions and pressures that our free will becomes a broken-winged bird in a cage tastefully decorated with red tape and ridiculosity.

Love. If there's anything that turns my stomach, it is people who preach love, including hippies, and spend most of their time telling you about all the people and things they hate.

Hate. How can people hate other people? Yet they do. I hate but I can't remember ever hating a person in my life. Lots of people are despicable, contemptible, malicious or just plain boring. But you don't hate them. You pity them. I hate hate, and there's lots of it around.

K, chaps. It's your turn. ear from you. This is

SAFETY

Every year there are more drivers and more cars on the road. The number of accidents keep rising, even though automobiles and roads are now built to be safer than before.

Most accidents are a result of careless driving. Speeding is dangerous but slow drivers are also a hazard. They cause traffic jams and irritate drivers behind them. Even a good driver when irritated, may take a foolish chance and try to pass the slow driver. Accidents are also caused by drivers who fail to signal for a turn or who speed through crossings. Drivers who cut recklessly in and out of traffic cause many serious accidents. And many drivers who forget to watch the road are unpleasantly surprised when they run into someone or something.

Unsafe vehicles are another cause of accidents. Automotive engineers have made many improvements to make to-day's cars safe. Tires have been improved, so that blow-outs are rare. Brakes are more effective. Seat belts have been installed in many cars. These alone have saved thousands of lives. But the owner of the vehicle must make sure his car is in good working order before he uses it. In many places automobiles must pass a safety inspection before they are licenced for use on public roads.

To help control the accident rate many high schools offer driver education classes. Drivers trained in these courses have far fewer acci- As our university is growing in size,

Annual Meeting at Prescott Seaway Presbyterial U.C.W.

"Where there is dedication, things seem to work out and we look forward to a good year," said Mrs. Clifford Larmour, Morrisburg, president of The Seaway Valley Presbyterial, United Church Women, at the first annual meeting at St. Paul's United Church, March 5 She thanked members and officers for their efforts.

Mrs. Dalton Docksteader, Chesterville, finance chairman, requested each group be aware of the rising costs of the church even though the Presbyterial has not been assessed with an increased allocation.

Mrs. C. A. Dawson, Long Sault, spoke about several publications available in the literature room. Mrs. Wilfred MacNaughton, Williamstown, read the nominating committee report prior to elections of officers .

Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, Kemptville, conducted an "In Memoriam" and said the flowers on the altar were a memorial to those members who had gone on to higher service in the past year. Mrs. John Heilgensen, Prescott, was organist.

Mrs. J. M. Harrington, Ottawa, president of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference, U.C.W., presided over the election of officers. She extended an invitation to any member to attend the annual meeting of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference, on March 12 and 13, at Kingsway United Church, Ottawa, when Patricia Clarke, associate editor of The Observer will be one of the speakers. Reference was also made to the Regional Conference to be held at Queen's University, Kingston, on June 20 to 22.

Rev. Gerald Brown, chaplain of Rideau Industrial Farm, and three graduates of the institution, Larry, Len and Doug, dialogued on the rehabilitation of incarcerated individuals at the afternoon session.

"Delinquency is a problem with young people getting into trouble with drugs and the law", said Mr. Brown. "These three men have had some of these difficulties and are trying to live within the boundaries of the law, and doing a very good job at that."

In turn, they shared their experiences in reformatory, the happenings that led up to their incarceration and their feelings upon going back into society.

Where does trouble begin — with the home background — lack of communication?

Rideau Farm is a training school and an industrial farm where individuals who have been sentenced to a term become reoriented. At first they are resentful, but some begin to see the light and attend student's council, group discussions, sports activities and school during the day, if in the training division.

"It is not where a person comes from, but what a person is that counts," said one speaker. A family that took Doug into their home after his release have proved to be a friend, they believe in him and they trust him for what he is now.

Another expressed the extreme loneliness that overwhelms the released prisoner. Mr. Brown claimed there was great need for a Halfway House where a fellow could go while adjusting to society.

In answer to the question, "do they know there is a divine Saviour", each was conscious of God in varying degrees. Mr. Brown said God's love comes to us through people who are understanding.

"Do not be suspicious of the released man," said one speaker. "Applications ask if you have a criminal record. This could be anything from a minor infraction to murder." He felt this information should not be based on a yes and no answer.

One of the graduates told of his hopes for a "Drop-In Centre" in Smith Falls which is in the planning stage. "There are so many dropping out, we thought we would see what we could do with drop-ins."

To avoid delinquents, Mr. Brown felt parents need to realize what kinds of difficulty they may be creating for their children. "Parents must begin to see the blind spots they have." Patience is often required and the Church must be flexible in its program for young people.

JOHN E. MYNARD PASSED AWAY AT WINCHESTER HOSPITAL FRIDAY

One of Morrisburg's most highly respected citizens, John Edwin Mynard, died Friday, March 7 at Winchester Memorial Hospital, following a lengthy illness.

Born at St. Lambert, Quebec, on November 20th, 1900, he was a son of the late Thomas Mynard and his wife Priscilla Wilber. Mr. Mynard was a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America. He was an employee of the Northern Electric Company at Shearer Street, Montreal and at Lachine, Que. In April 1963, after 28 years of service he retired and came to Morrisburg where he has since resided.

He is survived by his wife the former Annie Jean McDonald of Ottawa, whom he married August 16, 1922 at Cornwall. A daughter predeceased him in February 1938. He was the last surviving member of a family of eight children.

Funeral service was conducted Monday, March 10, at 2 p.m. at Fair bairn Funeral Home with Rev. Gar Canfield Bruce of Lakeshore Drive United Church, officiating. The body was placed in the vault to await spring burial in Fairview Cemetery.

Pall bearers were: Tim Lapiere, Lloyd Barkley, Robert Montgomery, Glen Hummell, Harry Hodgkinson, Sam Casselman.

Relatives attending the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sharlow, Mrs. Ken Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Shoen of Massena, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Perry, Mrs. J. A. Simpson, Verdun, Que., Mrs. James Williams, Montreal, Mrs. Agnes Keeting, North Montreal.

Where is old engine 99?

DEAR DORIS — I have been searching the libraries for an ancient reading which starts off, "Yes, she's a good old engine, is Number Ninety-Nine!" My grandfather used to recite it to us with great dramatic feeling.

It seems the engineer is faced with an emergency, since he has to reach a siding and clear the track for an unscheduled train coming toward his train — Number Ninety-Nine. Tension mounts when he learns his beloved wife is on his train.

Could you help me find it?

Enjoying Your Column

DEAR ENJOYING — I remember it — but I don't have a copy. It was a great favorite in our family. He makes the siding by a hair's breadth. And all tense listeners — all ages relax. Can anyone fish it out for us, from a long-unused book of recitations?

DEAR DORIS — The boys in our class won't come near me. They say, "Her again!", or "fleas!" etc., when I come near. It hurts so much that I just hate to go to school.

I don't want boy friends yet but would like to be able to play ball with them like the other girls or discuss school work.

I discuss this with mother and she's so understanding but we thought you might be able to help even more. I'm 13 and an honor student.

Miserable Teen

DEAR MISERABLE — People can be terribly unkind, at 13 — or 30. But you are lucky enough to have an understanding mother. Between you I'll wager you'll find out what goes on.

Three things occur to me:

(1) "Fleas" suggest a hint about something less than the bandbox look. Do you bathe daily, brush your hair until it shines, shampoo it at least weekly?

(2) Has the honor student bit made the others feel a little uncomfortable? Never, simply never, give any reason to think you feel superior about your studies.

(3) Are you cheerful, sunny, ready to laugh merrily? Do you like people or feel suspicious of them?

I have a 10-cent leaflet "Are You Really Growing Up?" which goes into some of these things and gives hints about how to make the most of looks and personality during teenage years. I'll send you one. Get your mother to read it too and help you carry out some of its ideas.

DEAR DORIS — I am single and in my early 30's. I used to go steady with "A" of my own age. I returned his diamond for I was attracted to another guy, "B". "B" left the city. I did too.

Then in a couple of months I heard that "A" had got married. Now I've returned to the city where I lived before. "A" discovered it and has called me on the phone. Just because he is married I don't wish to have anything to do with him. Anyway, at the time of his phone call, I was in a hurry for I was on my way to work.

Upon ending the conversation he said: "I'd sure like to talk to you so maybe I can call you next time I'm in." Being in a hurry as I was I answered, "Sure, do that."

Now I'd certainly like to know what I'm to do if he does call again. Shall I invite him in? Quite often I have thought of him. Shall I go out with him if he does ask? I'm not certain if he is married but I do believe he is. Any questions I should avoid asking or be cautious in answering?

Brown Eyes

DEAR BROWN EYES — Play it straight. Ask him right out if the rumor that he is married is true.

If the answer is yes, invite him — out of your life. If he is still single and fancy-free — invite him in.

Dating a married man can only spell Trouble, with a capital T.

Easter Seal Drive Has No Equal in Rehabilitation

The Easter Seal sponsored district nursing service of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children has no equal in the field of child rehabilitation.

The Society nurses are all experienced public health graduates who have had special training in orthopeadics and have had many months training in working with crippled children before being assigned to one of the eighteen district nursing offices, operated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children through Easter Seal funds From district offices, they completely cover Ontario, working in close co-ordination with district public health offices, doctors, parents and the Easter Seal service clubs. In addition to their nursing duties of attending clinics, treatment centres and hospitals, these highly specialized nurses will make more than 20,000 home visits in a year.

The travelling nurse is a great source of comfort for the parents of crippled children as well as the child. They will demonstrate the correct use of crutches and wheel chairs; adjust braces to release or prevent pressure sores; make certain that the child attends a clinic or treatment centre when necessary and that boys and girls who need a summer vacaion go to one of the Society's five camps.

There is no other Easter Seal organization in the world that has a nursing programme for crippled children such as in Ontario — and this has become possible through the support given by the people of Ontario to the annual Easter Seal Campaign. Every year, hundreds of crippled children are being discovered and many as a result of treatment overcome their physical disability.

This year, not less than $1,500,000 must be raised in Ontario, so please be generous when sending an Easter Seal gift to your local campaign.

Man and His World forever

There's at least one Canadian who won't be cheering when the turnstiles of Man and His World start clicking again this June 2.

Toronto's Mayor William Dennison must be wondering just what brand of magic his opposite number in Montreal is using to charm open the Federal purse once again. Mere weeks ago, Mayor Jean Drapeau was considering stepping down and Man and His World lay under the shadow of the bulldozers. Then came word that Ottawa would allow Montreal a moratorium on its $25 million Expo debt so that the fair could open again.

And how Torontonians fumed! The Canadian National Exhibition has had nothing more than vague promises of a Federal handout since 1965, and when its infant cousin in Montreal landed a fat Federal gift with such seeming effortlessness, who could blame the C.N.E. for being plaintive and even a little resentful.

But if Toronto could see further than its wounded civic pride, it might realize that the Federal Government is, for once, showing good business sense. If tax money is to be put into public exhibitions, then Man and His World is the one to choose.

There are undoubtedly all kinds of reasons for investing in the C.N.E. Paddy Conklin, the Ex's Carny King, could offer a few. Mayor Dennison certainly could. And all the itinerant hamburg pushers and exotic-junk peddlers that swarm back to the Exhibition Park each summer could suggest several more.

But politicking and vested interests apart, there is one final way to assess the value of fairs like Man and His World and the C.N.E. Which one would Joe Public prefer to spend a day visiting?

An unfair question? After all, Expo had millions of dollars, both domestic and imported, to turn it into the greatest world's fair ever. This money was made available on the understanding that it was to be a once-in-a-century event. On the other hand, the good old Toronto "Ex", bearing the slogan "Canada's Oldest Permanent Exhibition", has been playing to tepidly enthusiastic crowds since 1878, and on a shoestring budget, too.

What the C.N.E. would like is an equalization of Federal favors. Yet it must be obvious that the Canadian taxpayer, at both provincial and Federal levels, cannot support two fairs of the magnitude of Expo, or an expanded C.N.E. And Expo simply offers more value for the money. Even last year, when passports cost $2.50, Canadians bought a capsulized world tour and an education on the side when they passed through the turnstile at Place d'Accueil. At the C.N.E. the visitor pays his admission for the privilege of being advertised at. For years, the Ex has been little more than a peddler's paradise. Since Expo, one or two new ideas have sneaked in, but basically, the Ex retains its local-trade-fair flavor.

Man and His World doesn't have to be redesigned, rebuilt or revamped as Toronto's Exhibition soon will. And, bitter pill though it is for Anglophile Toronto to swallow, Man and His World's location in the heart of La Belle Province is a definite selling point for American tourists.

Montreal's fair has proven itself a crowd-getter. With this year's reduced entrance fee, and the shorter season, it will hopefully overcome last year's cold weather bugbear and attract even greater crowds.

If Canada is to have a "National Exhibition," then let it typify the gigantic achievement that was Expo rather than the popcorn-permeated glitter that is the present C.N.E.

Report from the Ontario Legislature

The important event of this 10th week of the present Session of the Legislature was, of course, the presentation of the Budget for the coming year. In the press and on the air, we have all now learned of its salient points and the rather light new taxation imposed. However, the more important and far-reaching part of the Provincial Treasurer's Statement was the White Paper setting out Government plans for many years of Provincial jurisdiction. It is a most intreseting document which I recommend to all citizens interested in the future of our Province. One of the statements in this White Paper which the Minister of Municipal Affairs has announced as now being undertaken is the removal of assessment for local tax purposes to the Province from the Counties, to whom it had only recently been transferred from the local municipalities. This, of course, has been done with a view to obtaining a Province-wide tax base predicated upon the same values and procedures. It does, however, pose a great many other problems which will not be easy of solution.

The Assembly's standing Commit tee on Health at its meeting investigated certain allegations as to irregularities of conduct of staff at Brockville Psychiatric Hospital transmitted by a member of the staff to a Member of the Legislature and by him given much publicity. This was an unusual procedure as the original complainant had declined to appear before the Committee to substantiate his allegations. A Speaker's Warrant was then issued by direction of the House to compel his attendance. By special permission of the House the Committee sat all day Thursday hearing the evidence of this witness and then adjourned to a later date when other and voluntary witnesses will be heard. It will be interesting indeed to learn, when the Committee does report to the House, just how this unfortunate matter will be dealt with.

On the evening before the introduction of the Budget, the Throne Speech Debate concluded with the usual excellent wind-up speeches from leading Members of all three Parties and a recorded vote. This year the official Liberal Opposition joined with the Conservative Government to vote against the New Democratic Party amendment, while both Opposition Parties then joined to vote in favour of the Liberal amendment. However, as was to be expected, the Government majority carried the night, and the Government motion passed with a very substantial majority.

The Thursday of this week saw the beginning of the Debate on the Departmental Estimates with those of the Provincial Treasurer being the first up for consideration. If the Estimates Debate equals that of the last Session, then the Ontar io House will sit well on into the summer as last year. And since there has been no change in the House rules or procedures with respect to Estimates, as there has been in the House of Commons, it would seem that there are still many months at Queen's Park ahead of Ontario Members.

Queen's Park Comment - -

By: Donald C. MacDonald, M.P.P.

Last week, for the first time ever, television cameras were trundling around the floor of the Ontario Legislature. As people all across Ontario watched on their sets the Provincial Treasurer announced the Budget and taxes for 1969-70.

This week, television also covered the replies to that budget made by myself and Robert Nixon.

The idea of permitting TV news cameras into the Assembly has been resisted for many years. About the only time it ha been permitted up to now is during the Speech from the Throne, read by the Lieutenant Governor. A purely formal, ritual occasion, the Throne Speech could never be mistaken for debate.

So, when the cameras trained on Charles McNaughton as for nearly three hours he told Ontario people the bad news for another year, it wa a big step forward.

I hope that, before long, television will be allowed inside the Legislature at any time, not just to record some of the traditional debates live, but to film events we can catch later on the evening news.

The Budget itself was scarcely a match for the occasion. The proposals affecting this year's economic policy came down on the side of "severe restraints and cutbacks" (Mr. MacNaughton's own words), extension of the sales tax, and a balanced budget.

The cut-backs are in areas which give me deep concern: in hospital construction (at a time when the federal government is moving out of this field); in old peoples' homes in treatment centres for emotionally-disturbed children; in subsidies toour hospital insurance scheme in housing construction; in aid to local schoolboards, and so on.

These are all programs affecting people, and they ought to be accelerated, not slowed down.

One department which does lend itself to trimming is highways. We should continue highway programs in the north, and lay more stress on public rapid transit systems like GO transit. But I am sure Ontario people would agree to saving several millions this year by readjusting programs within the department, and foregoing some new construction in southern Ontario.

The corporation tax proposals for this year are light and timid. For the most part, all they do is require somewhat faster payment: the actula rate has not been increased. Eight years ago, corporation taxes carried a quarter of the total Ontario tax burden. Since then their share has slipped to 17%. The new mining tax rates will bring in only $8 millions this year: not much in a total budget of $3 billions.

The proposed tax reforms (which I'll deal with another time) are all in the future. Some observers here are calling them revolutionary. They're not, though, for the most part they are moves in the right direction.

But so far as this year is concerned, there's little to cheer about in Mr. MacNaughton's television debut.

Dear Mr. Laurin — Now that "Heart Month" is over for 1969, may I, on behalf of the Canadian Heart Fund and the Ontario Heart Foundation, thank you most sincerely for your help and co-operation during our campaign month.

The coverage we received from your newspaper has surpassed all expectations, and it is due to this fact that our 1969 campaign has been so successful.

You have enabled us to inform your readers that February was Heart Month in Canada and also what the Ontario Heart Foundation is doing in the field of cardiovascular research which is of benefit to the public.

We have always enjoyed the association with all media representatives in Ontario and it is a pleasure to look forward to this continued association throughout the year.

Once again, our heartfelt thanks for your help during February.

With best wishes,
Yours very truly,
ONTARIO HEART FOUNDATION
Esther M. Richards,

Congratulations! Your furnace just survived another winter.

But how about next year? If you have any doubts, give us a call. If you need a new furnace, we can install it. We can even modernize your present one. Or install an oil-fired water heater. Whatever you need, our easy finance plan will cover the total cost, including labour. Let us rejuvenate your entire heating system. You'll live in total comfort for years to come.

EDITORIAL...

It is an interesting reflection of the times that the publication of a new bill to regulate the procurement and welfare of animals for teaching and research provoked ten times more reaction in ministerial mail than the medicare bill.

This is proper, in than animals, unlike humans, have no way of speaking for themselves. What is regrettable however, is that most of the comment heard to date is clearly based on second-hand and completely inaccurate impressions of the contents of Bill No. 73 — no doubt the result of many misleading statements that have been made by people who should know better.

One example of these is the suggestion that Bill 73 would impose a 48-hour limit on the time that a stray animal could be retained in a pound. In fact, the Bill imposes a MINIMUM period where there was none before. It says: "the redemption period shall be forty-eight hours, or such longer time as the regulations prescribe" and goes on to say that "the operator of a pound . . . may fix a redemption period that is longer . . . upon filing notice in writing".

Another fallack is that the Bill would allot animals to research institutions against the expressed will of their former owners. Instead the Bill states quite clearly that an owner may specify, if he or she wishes, that a pet is to be destroyed. Pounds are also empowered to sell or donate suitable animals to bona fide persons as pets, or for hunting or work.

Then, there is the suggestion that there will be no regulation of animal care in research institutions. This is quite untrue, since the Bill specifies that all such institutions shall be registered, shall employ properly trained personnel and shall be subject to veterinary supervision.

In North America alone there are some millions of diabetics today who owe their survival - their ability to enjoy relatively normal and often very productive lives - in major part to work of Banting and Best and others with animals. We are all taking pills or injections or other forms of medication that have had to be tested for safety and efficacy at some stage on laboratory animals. In the Hospital for Sick Children alone, 600 open heart operations are performed every year, permitting thousands of children to reach maturity and live full, productive lives. The operations could, of course, never have been developed without the help of animals.

An official of the Ontario Humane Society was quoted recently for saying that in Toronto alone, humane societies put to sleep some 25,000 dogs a year. The research and teaching needs of the University of Toronto amount only to about 3,000. It does not seem good sense to raise such animals specifically for this purpose — at a cost to the taxpayer of up to $160 per dog — when so many stray and unwanted dogs are being electrocuted in pounds.

It has been wrongly stated that Bill 73, and its companion, Bill 74, would abolish humane societies in Ontario. They do nothing of the sort.

Everyone knows, however, that the existing situation in the province is unsatisfactory and must be improved. There is no better example than that of a farm in Vaughan Township, where, on Thursday, March 6th, seventeen dogs were found dead and 57 others had to be destroyed because of their poor condition.

Bills 73 and 74 set out to correct this situation by requiring the licensing of pounds, by setting standards for both facilities and staff and by the appointment of properly qualified government inspectors. Those with expert knowledge of this field who have studied the two Bills believe them to be good legislation, representing a sincere attempt to eliminate current abuses and believe that they offer effective controls without infringing on the rights of any member of the community.

Maple Leafs are ready

The Toronto Maple Leafs are finally primed and ready to accelerate into the Stanley Cup playoffs.

General-manager and coach, George "Punch" Imlach, has finally acquired the needed impetus to gain a playoff berth. During the greatest Maple Leaf rebuilding year in a decade or so, Imlach has scrapped his sentimental thinking and become a realist.

When his team was winning and coming close, Imlach defied all the odds by sticking with his leg weary veterans. Unbelievable individual efforts by the oldtimers produced upets and dramatic wins in the Frank Merriwell fashion.

But he can no longer rely on the Sawchucks, Bowers, Stanleys, Kellys, Bauns and Bathgates to make the key play.

Out with the old, in with the new!

Imlach has always been a subscriber to the rough and ready brand of hockey, although his teams have been somewhat handicapped recently with the timid personnel wearing the blue and white. He has preached violence, but often his serfs have been restricted to verbal violence as, perhaps, visions of pensions danced in their heads. When you're 31 going 40 it's a logical conclusion that there's little need to charge recklessly into the corner when you have to barge through a couple of elbow pads and sticks with their butt end pointed at you.

Avoiding this physical contact, many of the Leafs have survived an extra three or four seasons.

But today Imlach doesn't have to contend with skaters waltzing their way to a pension. He has a new breed of hockey players in Toronto, swashbuckling I-don't-give-a-damn performers, ready to engage in any form of violence.

A few games ago Howie Young of the Chicago Black Hawks ran amuck, sending To-ronto players sprawling w... bellike charges. The ... backed off, and lost

A week later Chicago came back.

Late in the second period, Black Hawk coach Billy Reay sent Young out "to stir things up." His team was trailing 2-1.

Imlach didn't have to say a word. His players did the talking on the bench and physically carried out their verbal threats of "let's get him (Young)."

Rugged Pat Quinn, one of Imlach's new breed, met Young face-to-face at the Chicago blueline. They crossed sticks, and Quinn dropped his gloves and stick inviting Young to join him in a bare knuckle battle. Young declined and both players were sent off with minor penalties.

Shortly after leaving the penalty box Young picked up a stray puck in his own end and pivoted to turn toward the Toronto side of centre ice. Quinn took four giant strides and gave Young an Apollo 9 blast-off. Young crumpled and so did the Hawk's hopes. Their giant-killer had been felled.

From that point on the Leafs defied the Hawks to meet them in physical confrontation. The Hawks declined. They lost.

Now Imlach has acquired Brit Selby and Forbes Kennedy from the Philadelphia Flyers for three fringe players. Selby is a determined checker not opposed to a fist-fight. Kennedy is the most penalized forward in the National Hockey League.

These two join the Jim Dorey, Pat Quinn, Mike Pelyk and Larry Mickey gang. Seven tough guys.

Boston Bruins have remained in contention for the league title by intimidating all opposition. They have literally fought their way to victories, including triumphs over the Leafs.

From here on in the Leafs are going to battle their way to a few wins, and woe betide any team which attempts to match them fist for fist.

HOUSING — A MAJOR EXPENSE

There's no doubt about it — the cost of keeping a satisfactory roof over the family takes a large part of the budget. The cost of shelter today is commonly 25 percent of income, or more.

Because the purchase of a house is usually the largest financial investment a family makes, it's important to protect it with up-to-date insurance coverage. Home investments, furniture and appliance purchases over the years, and generally mounting costs increase the value of the property, so it's important for the home-owner to review his insurance policies regularly.
