Climbing rungs

CHESTERVILLE - Chesterville Reeve Jim Cook climbed another rung up the ladder which leads to the county warden's chamber. He was elected chairman of the standing committee for roads and bridges at the SD&G County Council Monday.

Traditionally, members of county council aspiring to become county warden chair three committees before being elected warden. With his election to the chair of the roads and bridges committee, Cook is now chairing his second committee or is on his second rung of a four rung ladder.

He said Tuesday if all goes well, providing he is re-elected as reeve of Chesterville next year, he will advance to the chair of the finance committee and the following year to the final rung, the position of warden.

Carnival meet

CHESTERVILLE - It is nearing the time of year when people begin thinking of ways to liven up the dreary days of winter, and what better way than a carnival. Interested residents and service groups are invited to attend a meeting for the Chesterville winter carnival Dec. 27 at the Nelson Laprade Centre. The carnival, sponsored annually by the Chesterville Recreation Department, needs the help of the community to be a success.

INGLESIDE - A vehicle driven by an RR3 Ingleside man was destroyed when it caught fire on Highway 2 east of Ingleside near Wales Road. Kenny Russell was driving west on Highway 2 when he noticed a burning smell and pulled to the roadside. The 1981 Mustang he was driving was destroyed in the fire.

RIDE checks

LONG SAULT - Long Sault OPP checked 270 vehicles during RIDE spotchecks over the past week. One 12- hour licence suspension was issued and there was one charge of open liquor in a vehicle laid by police. There were no impaired driving charges laid.

MAPLE RIDGE - An Inkerman woman received minor injuries when her Ford Bronco four- by-four was demolished in a collision on Highway 43 at North Dundas District High School Monday afternoon.

Sharon Clermont, 31, the driver of the Ford Bronco was taken to Winchester District Memorial Hospital for treatment for minor injuries, said Winchester OPP Sgt. Jim Irvine.

According to hospital spokesperson, Nancy Sheldrick, Clermont was held overnight at the hospital for observation and released Tuesday.

The accident occurred at 3:15 p.m. when Clermont, driving east from Winchester, turned left into an entrance at North Dundas High School and was hit by an oncoming Mercedes delivery truck.

Irvine said the truck driver had no time to avoid the collision.

The impact of the collision pushed back the Ford Bronco almost 100 meters into a ditch forcing the passenger side of the vehicle halfway into its interior. No one was sitting in the passenger seat.

Clermont was charged with making an improper left turn.

Payment restored for water project work

Yves Cossette

CHESTERVILLE - Village Council has partly reversed an earlier decision to suspend payment to two contractors for work done on Chesterville's troubled water project.

Payment to Markus Construction and another firm had been witheld late last month by council, frustrated with attempts to get the village's new well to pump water into the village.

Council decided to pay Markus Construction Ltd. of Pembroke the $31,000 it still owed the construction firm at its Wednesday meeting.

Reeve Jim Cook said council had reversed its decision to suspend payment to Markus because it had succeeded in drawing attention to its frustration over the delays in getting water flowing to the village.

"We withheld the funds on Markus knowing that they had done their work according to their contract and any benefit that came out of that had already been realized. Withholding their funds any longer would not have been a benefit to anybody," he said.

But council has not backed down from its decision to suspend payments to Totten Sims Hubicki Associates Ltd., the water project's engineers.

Cook wouldn't blame the engineering firm outright for the delays surrounding the water project. But he said the firm was responsible for the project's design and for supervising the installation of the pipeline.

"They are the ones that should be pushing this thing (to completion)," he said.

Since work on the project was completed last spring, the pipeline linking the village's well at Maple Ridge to the village's pumping station at Industrial Park has been plagued by leaks.

A meeting between council and representatives from Totten Sims Hubicki was scheduled for last night (Tuesday) to see if something could be done to finally get Chesterville's water system, which was supposed to have been operational last May, finally working.

"We need to light a little fire under them to get this thing moving along," he said.

Most of council's debate on the water project Wednesday was held behind closed doors. Cook would only say council discussed legal options available to council should talks between the engineering firm and council fail to speed up efforts to fix the pipeline.

Construction began on Chesterville's $2.3 million water project during the summer of 1989. Work was completed April of this year, but 10 days after the new well began pumping water to the village it was shut off because of leaks in the pipeline to the village.

A pipe supplier admitted in August that it had supplied pipes with faulty ends. But the Ministry of Environment believed there was more than one cause of the leaks in the pipeline and hired a private consultant, Environmental Hydraulics, in September to find out what the cause was.

The report by Environmental Hydraulics was inconclusive and recommended further tests.

Monkland fire razes restaurant

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

MONKLAND - The Ontario Fire Marshall's office is investigating an early-morning fire here Saturday which destroyed an abandoned restaurant.

Firefighters from Avonmore, Moose Creek and St. Andrews fought the fire for 12 hours at the building, formerly known as Poppin's Restaurant, just metres away from a McEwen Fuels gas station.

About 40 firefighters fought the blaze at its peak. Fire had burned through the roof and had engulfed the building before firefighters reached the scene, leaving them no chance of saving the building.

Firefighters were called back to the scene four times over the weekend to put out flare-ups of fire in the rubble of the collapsed building, said Avonmore Fire Chief Perry Tinkess.

Fire officials are terming the blaze "suspicious" and are not ruling out the possibility of arson, Tinkess said.

"To the best of my knowledge, there was no power on in the building, without any heat, and a fire started."

"You have to have a reason for a fire to start. You have to have a source of ignition."

The chance of the fire spreading to the nearby gas station was not a concern, he said. A strong wind blowing toward the west, away from the station, ensured the flames were kept away.

The fire is the second major one to occur in the township within the past month. A Moose Creek church was destroyed Nov. 25 in a spectactular weekend blaze. Faulty electrical wiring was cited as a possible cause of the blaze.

Tinkess said the Saturday's fire was the worst the Avonmore fire department has encountered in a number of years. "Not a thing is salvageable," he said.

Although arson is not being ruled out, he said he finds it unlikely that the Ottawa security company trying to sell the building would set the blaze.

Rox. Twp. charged by MOE for improper waste disposal

Greg Kielec

CORNWALL - Court proceedings against Roxborough Township in connection with the operation of the township's landfill site have been adjourned until February.

Bill Shields, investigator with the Ontario Ministry of Environment, said the case has been adjourned for disclosure until February, when the township will have to plead to charges of improperly operating its landfill site.

The MOE discovered in January that the township had been improperly disposing its waste at its 25- year-old site. After an investigation by the ministry's investigative branch, charges were laid.

The township could face a fine of up to $100,000 if convicted on the charge, but the fine will likely be considerably less, Shields said. An area municipality charged witih a similar offence two years ago received a $7,000 fine, he said.

Charges by the ministry claim the township failed to follow ministry conditions set out in an emergency certificate of operation granted in August, 1989 for its site which had reached peak capacity.

Ed Wright, Roxborough Township clerk-treasurer, admitted Monday that the township had been operating the site improperly. He said the problem was the result of a lack of communication between the township and its consultant, which advised it on landfill operations.

Wright said the township had thought its consultant, Walter Earth Sciences Ltd., had addressed the conditions imposed by the MOE. The consulting firm thought the township had taken care of the conditions.

Shields said Monday, someone must take the rap for the mix-up, and that somebody is Roxborough Township.

"Somebody's got to look after it. It's their site and they're the ones responsible for it," he said.

"It's just mismanagement, that's all it is."

And he can only see one way the issue will be resolved. "It will be resolved in court — with a fine —unless they beat it," he said.

To the township's credit, as soon as it learned the site was not being operated according to ministry conditions, it took corrective measures, Shields said.

And, he added, the breach by the township is not a serious one. "It's not a major environmental disaster by any means," he said.

Wright is hoping once the MOE hears its case, it may have some sympathy. "Maybe once it's explained to them, they might understand."

But Shields said it is unlikely the township will get off with just a simple explanation. The township must be used as an example to show other municipalities that they must adhere to ministry guidelines, he said.

Marc Robert, of the MOE in Cornwall, said it is obvious the municipality did not take a close look at its certificate of approval to see what conditions it must adhere to.

He added as well, "it sounds like it comes down to a lack of communication between the township and consultant."

Winchester Township Reeve hands over reins to new warden

MOREWOOD - Claude Cousineau has finished his one-year term as warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

And although he did not accomplish as much as he liked to during his term, the Winchester Township reeve and Morewood businessman is leaving the job with no regrets.

"It was a great experience. It was a fantastic year," Cousineau said Tuesday morning.

But one-year as head of the United Counties was more than enough for him. He doesn't wish his term was longer, "unless I want to declare bankruptcy."

During his tenure as county warden, he attended about 20 meetings a month, plus a variety of other functions, taking valuable time away from his business duties.

And there were disappointments.

He lamented the slow progress on work for the new home for the aged to replace Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge east of Cornwall.

And he had hoped more progress would have been made on the counties waste management issue, the planned takeover of two area waste management plans by the counties.

One the brighter side, it looks like construction may start on the new home for the aged late next year or early the following year.

"We've put everything on a very tight schedule right now," he said.

"It was a great experience. It was a fantastic year."

Claude Cousineau on his year's term as Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry county warden

And he anticipates the counties waste management takeover will be completed next year, "if we can get the rules and they don't change them in mid- stream like they (government ministries) have been all along."

One other disappointment may be yet to come.

Cousineau had helped orchestrate a proposal to cut county council almost in half by eliminating the position of deputy reeve at the council table after the fall, 1991 municipal election.

The move was made to create a more wieldy, effective county council, and also to save money. It is predicted the trimming of the council size from 37 to 20 will save the counties up to $100,000.

But the plan may be sabotaged by intense lobbying by some reeves and deputy reeves on county council who are trying to get the decision reversed before the fall election, Cousineau said.

In a way, Cousineau is fortunate he will not be in the warden's chair next year. It is expected county council will have a more than $50,000 deficit, just in its operation of social services, something likely to raise the ire of municipal ratepayers.

The counties will also be hit hard for waste management. It will cost up to $100,000 for the counties to link the Stormont-Glengarry waste plan with the Grenville Dundas plan.

And it will cost about $1 million to implement the combined plan, half of which will be paid by municipal ratepayers, through the United Counties, he said.

As for his future in politics, Cousineau said he will be content to run again for Winchester Township reeve in next year's municipal election.

And more immediately, if he gets enough business out of the way, he may even have time for some holiday relaxation.

"Next week, I think I'll take a few days off," he said.

Hydro moves into state of the art home

Andy McLeister

WINCHESTER — If you blinked, you would have missed it.

Late in the afternoon Dec. 7, Ontario Hydro's Winchester area office looked much as it has for the past 23 years. Bills were being paid as usual, new customers were scheduling electrical hook-ups, and work crews were being dispatched to jobs throughout the area.

By 8:30 a.m., Dec. 10, Hydro's 113 office and field workers were going about their duties, almost oblivious to their new surroundings. The only detectable change in activities was the lighter step of employees and the smiles on every face.

Over the weekend, Hydro moved its entire operations down the road from their familiar St. Lawrence Street headquarters, lock, stock and barrell.

Furniture, word processors, computers, a fleet of 60 vehicles, reels of electrical wire and the zillion odds and ends that are required to make the utility function efficiently were packed up and carted the short distance to Hydro's spanking new, spacious, $5 -million home.

Hydro's employees had reason to be in high spirits. Their numbers and the services they provide had far outgrown the cramped quarters they previously occupied.

"We have grown to 113 staff and now are serving close to 40,000 customers," observed area manager Dave Harris, while escorting a reporter on a tour of the new building.

When Hydro moved into the old facilities in 1967, it housed a staff of 35 to serve between 13,000 and 14,000 customers.

This year alone, 2,000 new customers began receiving power from Hydro's 3,200 miles of distribution lines in the roughly 1,300-square- mile Winchester area.

"This might very well turn out to be the biggest year (for the area office) on record," Harris said.

Aside from the size of the new building — 25,000 square feet — the new facilities boast a number of features that should make it an easy place to work in.

For starters, there is the three-bay garage that will accommodate the largest of Hydro's trucks, unlike the old place where some of the fleet's vehicles couldn't enter the single bay. These had to be serviced at private garages.

Harris noted that although the fully-equipped garage can handle just about any mechanical job, with just one mechanic on staff, many repairs still will be contracted out to local garages.

There are larger storage facilities, and an expansive loading dock. Much of what had to be piled out of doors is now stored inside.

The office work stations were also designed with efficiency and the comfort of staff in mind. A grey color scheme is softly illuminated by lights that are inset in the ceiling behind grates to cut down the glare on computer screens.

Passersby might wonder at the half-columns that bulge from the south wall of the edifice, and the turret that adorns the main entrance. The turret, explained Harris, was incorporated into the architectural design to reflect the rural characteristics of the area and is intended to remind viewers of a silo.

The smaller, cylindrical columns are as functional as they are decorative. Into one can be rolled a wall that divides a conference room when the extra space is needed. The other will be altered to perform the same task.

Appropriately, inside and out, the complex has been built as a model of energy efficiency, in keeping with Hydro's mandate to promote the practice. High pressure sodium bulbs light the parking lot. The interior is kept warm in winter and cool in summer through a heat-exchange water-pumping system.

The annual energy savings are projected at about 32 kilowatts from the sodium lights and 100 kws from the heat pumps.

The public will be given an opportunity to explore the new building next spring when the area office holds its grand opening and open house, complete with tours of the facilities, electrical displays and exhibits, and presentations on energy-saving ideas and innovations.

Holiday fire safety reminders

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE - The holiday season is a time of joy and of giving. It also is a time where people face even greater home fire risks.

Frayed electric lights, a dry Christmas tree, an unattended candle, an improperly maintained fireplace; all can turn a joyous occasion into tragedy.

Chesterville Fire Chief Ross Casselman, said often because of hectic holiday preparations, fire safety is not a large concern with homeowners.

But it is at holiday time that the most attention should be paid to fire safety because of the increased risk of fire, and also to avoid tragedy during the holiday season.

Unfortunately, because many people are pre- occupied with the holiday season, fire safety is often forgotten.

"I would say yes to that because they are trying to put up extra lights and they're...possibly not thinking of fire safety at that particular time," Casselman said.

"I think they have to be reminded each year because we haven't had any major fires here in the village this year and we're trying to get the year in without one."

"We don't want to have a major fire during the holiday season," he said.

Precautionary steps homeowners can take to ensure their Christmas is a safe one include, ensuring that Christmas lights are in good condition and not frayed, that no more than three sets of lights are used on an extension cord and that electrical bulbs are kept away from curtains or combustible materials.

People should ensure they buy a fresh cut tree. Freshly-cut trees have soft, pliable needles which won't break when bent. Shedding needles are a sign of a dry tree and a fire hazard.

A Christmas tree should be kept outside until it is ready to be decorated. The butt of the tree should be in snow or water until brought indoors.

When ready for decorations, two-to-three inches should be cut diagonally off the tree's base and it should be placed in a stable tree stand. The tree should have a good reservoir which should be kept filled with water at all times.

Christmas trees should be kept from any heat source and out of exit ways. Candles should never be used, either on or near a tree and extension cords should be kept away from the water-filled base and should be CSA approved.

Use weatherproof outdoor lights and cords for exterior decorations. Such sets are not made for prolonged exposure and should be taken down after use.

Unplug all lights before leaving the house or going to sleep and keep all ornaments, candles and cords away from children and pets.

Dry trees should be removed as soon as large amounts of needles fall, to avoid a fire hazard. And trees, decorations, and wrapping paper should never be burned in a fireplace. Wrappings and evergreens burn rapidly and at a high heat, sparks from which can set a house roof on fire.

For regular fire safety, fire officials recommend chimneys be professionally inspected and cleaned at least once a year.

Always use a proper fitting fireplace screen to stop flying sparks from igniting a fire and only burn materials designed for the fireplace.

When cleaning a fireplace, ashes should be placed in metal containers and stored outside the home.

Fire officials also recommend smoke alarms be installed on each level of the home and tested regularly and recommend that a fire extinguisher is kept on hand at an accessible location.

Fire extinguishers and smoke alarms also make great Christmas gifts. "They are really a lifesaver, those things," Casselman said.

Spate of crashes keep area OPP busy

Record Staff

INGLESIDE - Police kept busy Tuesday morning as vehicles slipped and slid their ways on area roads.

Long Sault OPP responded to a number of vehicle mishaps caused by icy roads, including one which resulted in the injury of a Toronto man.

David Mourant, 24, was eastbound on Highway 401 when he lost control of his vehicle, which entered the median and rolled over near Wales Road, east of Ingleside.

Mourant received minor injuries in the crash and his vehicle received severe damage.

Police were so busy, that in Mourants case, the officer did not have time to finish at that accident before he was called to another accident.

The officer attending the scene received a call to a more serious accident in the Morrisburg area and Mourant, still in the police cruiser, went along for the ride.

He met up with an ambulance at the scene of that accident and was taken to hospital in Brockville where he was treated, said Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault OPP.

There were three other accidents reported by police during the past week.

A Newington man received minimal injuries when he was involved in a two-vehicle collision west of the village Monday night.

Nicholas Scott, 28, was injured when the vehicle he was in collided with a vehicle driven by Albert Montgomery, 70, also of Newington, police said.

Both vehicles received moderate damage. Montgomery was charged with a Highway Traffic Act Violation.

A collision east of Moose Creek Dec. 13, resulted in injuries to two people.

Olive McLean, 73, Moose Creek, and Boris Andrushko, 38, Ottawa, were injured in a collision at the intersection of Highway 138 and County Road 15.

McLean was eastbound on County Road 15 and failed to stop at the intersection. Her vehicle was struck by a vehicle driven by Andrushko, who was northbound on Highway 138.

McLean was taken to Cornwall General Hospital by ambulance where she was treated. Andrushko obtained treatment on his own, police said.

There were no injuries in a minor car collision in Chesterville Saturday morning.

The accident occurred when James Behan of Chesterville, northbound on Main Street, made a left hand turn onto South Street and collided with an oncoming car.

Winchester OPP Sgt. Jim Irvine said damage to both cars was light.

Behan was charged with making an improper left turn.

GATT not likely to impact local farmers, says DFA rep.

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE - The calamity which may follow the faltering of negotiations on the General Agreement on Tarriffs and Trade, is greatly exaggerated says an area farmer.

Alvin Runnalls, past president of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture, said last week he does not believe farmers will face dire consequences if GATT talks collapse completely.

Talks to reduce agricultural subsidies in Brussells, recently came to a halt after the European Economic Community refused a United States request to cut subsidies by 75 per cent.

The EEC, representing farmers in its 12 member European countries, offered to slash subsidies by 30 per cent over a 10-year period, beginning in 1986, far less than the U.S. and other GATT countries were willing to accept.

Talks are scheduled to resume at the beginning of the new year, giving GATT members hope that a deal still may reached. If a deal is not reached and the talks collapse, analysts say all Canadian industry could be in for a rough time, including agriculture.

But Runnalls disagrees. It is likely that if the talks collapse, the Canadian farm industry will maintain the "status quo", he said. It will not likely suffer any adverse effects.

"I have a feeling things might kind of perk along the same," he said.

Warnings that Canadian industry will be hard hit, by a heightened subsidy war and increased protectionism should the GATT agricultural talks fail, are more hype than realism, he said.

"I'm beginning to wonder if what they (analysts) are saying is going to happen," Runnalls said last week.

But Terry Daynard of the Ontario Corn Producer Association, one of a number of advisors to the Canadian government at GATT, said Ontario farmers may be hurt if the agricultural talks fail.

"If it does happen. It's pretty scary. Because it's not just agriculture that will collapse, it's everything," he said in a phone interview last week.

"The implications are far bigger than agriculture. But for agriculture, it's quite serious."

Ontario farmers export a lot of pork, wheat, white beans, some corn, and about $400 million of corn products a year, and it is estimated 40 per cent of the income earned by Ontario farmers come from exports, Daynard said.

Canadian farmers are more dependent on exports than farmers in most other countries. If protectionism increases as a result of the failure of the GATT talks, Canadian farmers will suffer, he said.

WSA offering variety of courses to learn about rural living

Rosanna Boersma

KEMPTVILLE - For the past 12 years the Women for the Survival of Agriculture, Winchester chapter, has held courses to increase the participants knowledge of rural living.

This year, just as in the past, the group has put together an interesting list of topics for the seven-week course.

The course, that begins on Jan. 9 is scheduled every Wednesday until Feb. 27. The classes will be held at Kemptville College, in the W.B. George Center.

Each week a different speaker will be on hand to educate the students about farm related topics in which they have accumulated a lot of experience.

Energy conservation, landscaping, controlled grazing, homeopathy (natural healing), finances, animal health, farm promotion and nutrition are just some of the course material on the agenda.

Perhaps the most recognizable speaker is Paul Meldrum, former host of The Valley Farmer. Meldrum is now an Ottawa Valley dairy farmer.

On the morning of Feb. 6, Meldrum will advise his audience on how to promote the agricultural industry.

The course organizer Eda Vander Linden said the WSA changes the course outline every year so the seminars will be more interesting to those partaking in the program.

"We change topics so often. We try to avoid doing the same subject that we have had a few years before," she said.

Although the topics have changed, Vander Linden said that one topic was a repeat from three years ago.

She added that people expressed an interest about the Homeopathy, therefore she booked a speaker on the topic.

"The people were so impressed," she said.

People kept asking for the seminar, but we couldn't get the same person back so we got someone else. Dr. Desmond Payne of Orleans, is the expert on the subject.

Vander Linden stated that she hopes to have 25 participants this year. The cost of the program is $15, with sponsorship coming from the SD&G Alternative School.

"I really think even if you know something about a subject, when you go to it you always learn more. You can always ask questions, you can learn so much by asking questions," she added.

Conflicting standards

Roxborough Township Council will find itself in the unusual position of defending its actions, not to an angry member of public, but to a provincial court judge in February.

The township was charged early this year with operating its landfill site improperly when it failed to comply with Ontario Ministry of Environment conditions. The conditions were imposed in an emergency certification of approval granted in August last year for operation of the site.

So instead of battling it out in the council chambers, council finds itself in unfamiliar chambers, under the jurisdiction of the province's court, courting what could be for council members, a political disaster.

But should the township even be in court? If one were to judge by recent history — an illegal dumping incident involving land owned by the province, under the jurisdiction of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission — Roxborough Township should not even be in court.

The parks commission was accused in June of dumping refuse and allowing others, through negligence, to dump refuse on Milles Roche Island, near Long Sault, the first in a chain of islands in the Long Sault parkway.

A ministry official said the majority of the waste, household garbage and abandoned appliances, was likely dumped there by area residents. None of the dumping of garbage was attributed to the parks commission, even though parks commission waste barrels littered the slope of the dump area leading down to the St. Lawrence River.

Why was the parks commission cleared of wrongdoing, yet Roxborough Township has been charged? Are there two sets of standards where the work of the MOE is concerned, one set for provincial agencies and one, more stringent set for others?

The Roxborough Township landfill site is not even near a large river where a problem of mass contamination could occur. And it is an authorized landfill site, designed for the dumping of waste and monitored by the MOE and township-hired engineers.

The area on Milles Roches Island was not an approved dumping site, and therefore was not monitored for its environmental impact during dumping by the ministry or by engineers.

A ministry official said in October, explaining the MOE decision not to charge the parks commission with dumping of waste on the island, that charges are usually not laid if it is determined no damage has been done to the environment.

That leads to the question that if charges are only laid if there is environmental damage, what damage has Roxborough Township caused by its dumping of waste in an MOE sanctioned landfill site?

The MOE has formulated environmental guidelines for good reason. And municipalities should adhere to the guidelines imposed on the operation of their landfill sites.

But the MOE also has a responsibility; it should be fair and consistent in its policing of the environment. It should be equally tough with everyone who violates the environment, regardless of who they are, how the violation occurred or how much damage was done.

There should not be two sets of rules for environmental violations. We only have one planet. Everyone should be accountable for their conduct toward it.

From Chesterville's Past

Dec. 22, 1910

The annual Christmas Entertainment of the Dunbar Presbyterian Sunday School, will be held in the Presbyterian Church, on Thursday evening, Dec. 29, commencing at 7:30 p.m. The usual program of music, drills, dialogues, etc. will be given. Admission, adults 25 cents, children 15 cents. All welcome.

A successful series of evangelistic services have been closed in the Methodist Church, Brinston in Matilda Township. Evangelist J. Ritchie Bell, of Montreal, manager of the Sailors' Institute, has been in charge, and has been quite successful, both in his singing and preaching. Mr. Bell is a man of splendid all round ability as an evangelist. A beautiful sweet singer and preacher, and above all a most devout student. He has proven to be a blessing to many.

This is a case where mostly Johnstons figure and I presume it was by mutual consent also, for yesterday at the manse at Dunbar, Rev. Geo. Mason united in holy wedlock, Frank K. Johnston of Invernay Sask., son of Mr. Creighton Johnston of this place, to Alice May, daughter of Mrs. Johnston of Dunbar. Congratulations.

Common sense needed

To the Editor:

I read with great interest the decision of the Ontario Agriculture and Food Department stating that the 100 acres of Kanata so-called farmland be kept for farming purposes rather than an NHL hockey franchise.

The previous owner said that all he could raise was weeds, the picture in the Citizen clearly shows that at best it is a few degrees better than a swamp, yet some Ag. and Food inspector in Kemptville maintains that it is prime farm land!

Possibly the same inspector made the same decision on a lot in Winchester Township on which the undersigned wanted to build a retirement home on my own property, in the springtime and after heavy rainfall, I call the proposed one acre lot "my little Lake Ontario," yet our inspector calls it prime farm land.

If it is not too late, I strongly urge that the credibility of said department be given a thorough inspection.

There are many, many good acres of farm land in the Ottawa Valley not being tilled, not for the lack of it's ability to do so, but for the lack of farmers to till it. What we need is good common sense approaches to certain requests and not off- handed decisions being made by so-called inspectors trying to justify their existence.

To add insult to injury, when the OMB finally gets around to meeting some 12 to 16 months later, I am told by the Land Division Committee Clerk that the judge views that the Dept. of Ag. and Food are right and you the appeal person must prove them wrong.

Jim Keegstra, a former Alberta school teacher who taught his students the Holocaust never occurred, lost a five-year legal battle when the Supreme Court of Canada upheld the hate propaganda law which was used to convict Keegstra of wilfully promoting hatred against Jews, last week.

It's hard to feel sorry for a man who is wrong about history. The Holocaust happened and it was well documented. It was documented by the Germans' who kept rather meticulous records of what was going on inside Nazi concentration camps. It was documented by the thousands of survivors who witnessed the atrocities in the camps.

Virtually every serious historian has concluded nearly six million Jews perished in Nazi concentration camps before and during World War II.

But should Keegstra be punished for being wrong? He was rightfully dismissed from his teaching position. He misused his job to preach his views on what he called a Jewish conspiracy. It's all the more revolting when you realize he imposed his views on impressionable children.

Perhaps there should be law against teachers who abuse their positions of trust for their own misguided beliefs.

But to convict Keegstra of wilfully promoting hate propaganda is wrong. The law is vague and open to interpretation. And how do we define hatred? It's an emotion that creeps up on us all.

Keegstra's lawyers used the Charter of Rights and Freedoms to challenge his conviction saying his conviction was an infringement on his right to free speech which is guaranteed by the charter.

The Alberta Court of Appeal agreed with Keegstra in an earlier decision which was overturned by the Supreme Court last week. Three of the Supreme Courts judges went against the majority ruling saying Canada's hate propaganda law is an unreasonable limitation on an individual's right to free speech.

But the Supreme Court's decision last week leaves open the possiblity of more limitations on freedom speech. For now the threat is just implied, but with a law such as the hate propaganda law subject to interpretation, the threat against free speach could become real.

What if someone with less controverisal opinions were charged with wilfully promoting hated?

It's understandable that Jewish groups would be upset with the likes of Keegstra. Many of these groups represent concentration camp survivors or people who lost friends and relatives to the gas chambers. Letting Keegstra speak his views on the holocaust is like letting someone take another stab at an emotional scar that hasn't healed.

No matter how hurtful someone's opinions are, even if it is the misrepresentation of historical fact, the person should be allowed to express them so long its not done in the classroom and its not an advocation of violence.

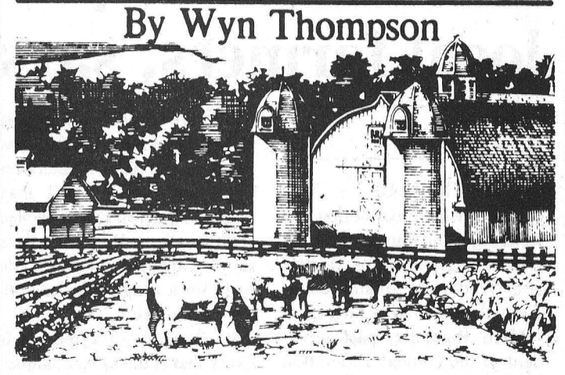
The Farmer's Wife

By Wyn Thompson



"Gosh, I like Christmas," I said to no one in particular as I hung my Christmas stocking by the fireplace with care.

Everyone who can will head home for the Christmas celebrations and the heart's home in the Canadian tradition is still the country —"those happy ways where once we went," the idealized past.

Christmas. Say it. Aloud. Even the sound of it is soft and creamy-smooth as candy. I say it to the accompaniment of a carol, and no matter how "Bah! humbug" I've been feeling, it makes me melt like a snowman on a spring day.

Wouldn't you think that the mother of two adult sons would have outgrown visions of sugarplums dancing in her head? I have not.

Do I welcome the Christmas season each year as a reprieve from the troubles of the world? I think not for life has made me, like many another of my generation, one tough little lady. And a realist, to boot.

Whatever the reason, I have learned not to resist, because Christmas wins every time, even though the battle may be fought right up to the Eve of Christmas.

The winter solstice brings us to this great day. And there is one condition necessary for a perfect Christmas; there must be snow. Having lived in the Northern Hemisphere all my life, it is inconceivable to think of Christmas without it.

Memory does deceive. But when I was young, it always snowed on Christmas Eve, starting at twilight time when darkness crept over our little village.

We would press our noses to the bubbly little window-panes and watch the fat, fluffy flakes tumble from the sky, for every kid knew that Christmas really began out-of-doors.

Out there you could feel Christmas on your face, hear it beneath your feet, taste it on your tongue, although pollution makes it no longer wise or desirable.

Desirable still is to leave at least one "angel print" in the snow on Christmas Eve. This art belongs to the kids for they do it best, hurling themselves backwards into the newly fallen snow and moving arms and legs backward and forward to make an angel with wings and a full skirt.

One rarely sees "angel prints" anymore. Have kids become disinterested or are they just unaware? Maybe "angel printing" has become a lost art.

So Christmas is both in the heavens and of the earth, because on one hand the sun has returned, and on the other, the Christ Child is born.

How far back they go, these days of celebration. The country folk, of Anglo Saxon times, celebrated with great vigour, fires burned brightly; wine and wassail flowed like the St. Lawrence River; this was no time for gloom.

They were country folk. They knew the importance of the weather, they looked to the stars to separate the seasons.

Thus Christmas began with country folk for there were few cities nearly 2000 years ago so, would it not be natural for them to tie in these homey events with the celebration of their Christianity.

It was this combination that forged those wassailing Christmases of the Anglo-Saxons, and we can still view the same constellations recorded by Matthew and Luke.

From the back step of Hill House, on a clear, dark, moonless Christmas Eve, I can easily count a thousand stars.

This immense inverted bowl is witness to the wonders of the universe, the mysteries of the galaxies, the phases of the moon, the certainty of the solstice, the presence of infinity.

In our home, though, the day the tree is brought in and decorated is almost as important as Christmas itself. Carols playing, the mixing of soap flakes into a thick, white scented "snow" for the tree's branches, the tasting of hot mulled cider and ginger cookies have, through the years, spelled Christmas.

The years slip by. Some things change. But always, always, there is music and laughter, fun and friendship.

Our sons are grown now and we celebrate with them on Christmas Eve. As long as there are memories, Christmas lives in the heart.

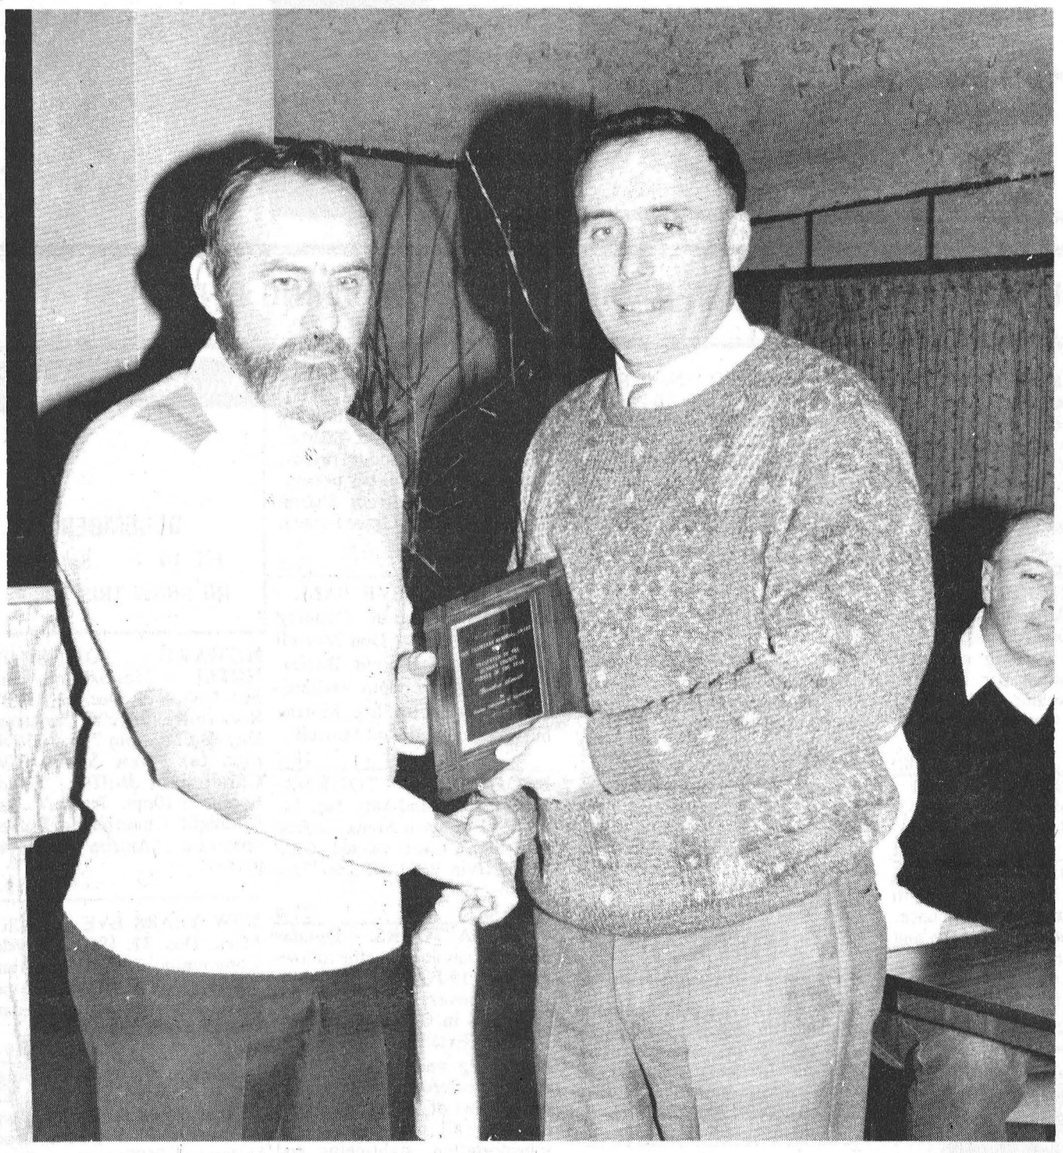
And new memories are born, like the Christmas Eve the Farmer and I returned from one son's home and walked to the barn to check on the animals.

It was nearing midnight as we walked slowly back home. The snow was falling softly, the world was as still as it could be. Stopping in the dooryard, we said not a word as we gazed skyward to see the stars on a midnight clear.

I was a child again, just busting with the Christmas spirit, and I simply had to do something to celebrate.

That night, a big, smooth dooryard snowbank was stamped with a fully grown "angel print." Did I offend the angels in my old age?

I rather doubt it. I like to think that angels understand the magic of Christmas and know it has the ability to bring out the child in each and every one of us.



Farmer of year

Gordon Smith (right) was chosen the 1990 Farmer of the Year by the Dundas Federation of Agriculture. Smith, who operates a dairy farm outside of Chesterville, said he was pleased to be honored with the distinction. Smith accepted the award from Alvin Runnalls, DFA president.

WINCHESTER - A Chesterville-area farmer was named the Dundas Federation of Agriculture's Farmer of the Year for 1990.

Gordon Smith, who operates a 225-acre dairy farm about a mile west of Chesterville village with his wife Margaret, says he was very honored to be chosen for such an award and privileged to be included on a list with past award recipients.

But although Gordon Smith may consider himself honored to receive such a title, DFA president Alvin Runnalls says Smith's contribution to agriculture in the community makes him a worthy candidate.

"Gordon's leadership abilities, his willingness to share ideas and be involved make him a very worthy winner of this award. His valuable contributions of time and ideas have enhanced the programs of the farm and community organizations he has been involved with," said Runnalls upon presenting Smith with the award at the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement annual meeting last Wednesday.

And Smith's contributions to the farming community are extensive.

Besides being a member of the DFA, 49-year-old Smith is vice-chairman of the Dundas Milk Committee, vice-president of the Dundas Farm Safety Association and a director with the Dundas Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

He has also served two terms on the Dundas Dairy Herd Improvement Association and is on the board of directors of the Grenville Patrons Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

As part of a team of county producers, Smith recently made a presentation on the future considerations for the dairy industry to a federal government task force and its five-year dairy policy.

As well, he represented Eastern Ontario at a farm safety conference in Guelph this past summer, which involved a speech on one aspect of farm safety. As part of his role with the county safety association, Smith often sets up safety displays at farm-realted events.

Smith, who was born in Winchester Township, says he derives a certain amount of personal satisfaction from his farm organization work.

He says before he started attending meetings he was never a very outgoing type of person, but found he became more open and learned to express himself better after becoming involved with the groups.

Besides being named Farmer of the Year, Smith has received a few other distinctions since he took over his uncle's farm in 1974 after his uncle, Lloyd Smith's retirement.

Smith was awarded the Bank of Nova Scotia's efficiency award in 1978; the DHI Most Improved Herd Award with the greatest production increase in 1983; and the DHI Breeding Efficiency Award in 1984.

Smith attributes much of the farm's success to his wife Margaret, who he says is always there to take over when he can't. Smith says although their two sons [Jeffrey, 6 and Neil, 3] are still very young to help around the farm, Jeffrey tries by feeding calves and doing odd jobs.

The Smiths have increased the farm's acreage from 90 acres when they purchased it 16 years ago to 225 acres today and have also increased the herd size. They currently have 70 head of purebred Holsteins with 35 milking cows.

All the feed, which includes hay, haylage and high-moisture corn is grown on the farm, while the Smiths buy a soybean supplement. Barkley is grown as a nurse crop for alfalfa reseeding and is sold as a cash crop.

Smith says he likes to keep up with the modern method and does feed analysis to ensure his cows are getting proper balanced rations.

Although Smith grew up in a rural environment and worked summers on his uncle's farm, the family moved to Ottawa when he was a teenager. There he attended high school and college.

After graduating from college in 1965 he took a job with the Hudson Bay Oil and Gas Company and later worked for eight years with Bell Northern Research as a researcher.

During this time Smith received the opportunity to purchase the farm he worked on as a youngster.

Although the decision to leave a secure city job to farm may have been a difficult one, Smith says there comes a time in our lives when we must decide what we want to do and "sometimes we must take it [the opportunity] if we want it."

And judging by the DFA's decision to name Smith Farmer of the Year, it appears Smith's decision to return to the country was a good one.

IN MEMORIAMS

IN MEMORIAM

DILLABOUGH - In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Lois, who passed away Dec. 27, 1983.
Though your smile is gone forever,
And your hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories,
Of you that we loved so much.
Your memory is our keepsake
With which we'll never part,
God has you in His keeping,
We have you in our hearts.
Missed but never forgotten,
Ray and family

Vera and family

Thoughts of you will pass through our minds
You are a special memory.
Always remembered by:
Shirley, Harry,

And all the thousand things so dear
We loved about him while he lived

And watered daily with our tears
To keep them ever fresh and vivid
Through all the coming years.

From our house to yours...

Christmas is a very special occasion at our house.

Steve Summers

We like to decorate with lots of lights outside, we always go to a tree farm to cut down our own tree, and we like to have lots of presents under the tree. Our 4½-year-old son Brentley is very excited and helpful. He is at the perfect age this year. We really believe Christmas is for children.

To all you children who are 95 years or younger — my wife and I and Brentley would like to wish you a Very Merry Christmas and a Safe and Happy New Year.

Shut-ins, Naomi house benefit from Finch WI

FINCH - The Finch Women's Institute held its December meeting in the Community Hall at 10 a.m.

After opening exercises, President Mrs. Corrie Dingemans welcomed all guests and members.

Roll call, which was a Christmas poem, was answered by 11 members and one guest. Motto of the meeting was, The Year's Last Loveliest Smile.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary Mrs. Sandra MacMillan. Treasurer's report was given by Miss Vera MacLean.

Collection and pennies for friendship were taken by Miss Vera MacLean. The program was taken over by Mrs. Mae Price.

Several of the members read Christmas poems. Our guest speaker was Mrs. Margaret Suszcynski who gave us an account of her Christmases in Brazil.

The different ideas were very interesting. There was also some carol singing.

Following the meeting the members enjoyed a pot- luck dinner. After the meal, plates were made up and delivered to several shut ins.

Cards were sent to several whom are patients in the hospital. Articles were also collected and delivered to the Naomi House, Winchester.

The January meeting will be held in Finchview Villa.

CHRISTMAS SAFETY TIPS

Brought To You By

Biccum & McIntosh Ltd.

THEFT:

It is an unfortunate reality that thefts often increase during the holiday season. This is because valuables are being exchanged as gifts, and people are away from their homes more often, visiting family and friends.

Here are some ideas that may help to reduce the chance of theft.

— Ensure that all doors, windows and patio doors are always secured. Deadbolt locks are best. Particular attention should be paid to basement windows.

— Areas where there is shrubbery, or poorly lit areas, can be improved with outside lights.

— Join neighbors in a program where each watches the other's property at all times and particularly when one is away.

— Attempt to minimize that appearance that everyone is away. Newspapers and mail should not be allowed to accumulate. A good practice is to purchase a timer to turn lights on and off at prearranged times.

— Lock your garage at all times. Store valuables such as bicycles, snowblowers and skidoos in the garage and out of sight.

— When purchasing Christmas gifts, lock them in the TRUNK of your car when you are "going back to the store for more". This removes them from sight.

— Valuable gifts should not be displayed under the tree where they can be easily seen from the outside. Bills of sale should be carefully stored, in case a loss should occur.

In reviewing these lists, one can see that the suggestions are generally simple and based on common sense, yet we all still have to be reminded of them on a regular basis. Why not include some whenever you are extending the holiday greetings to your clients? If we can help someone avoid a tragic fire or theft, we are giving them a gift of immeasurable value!

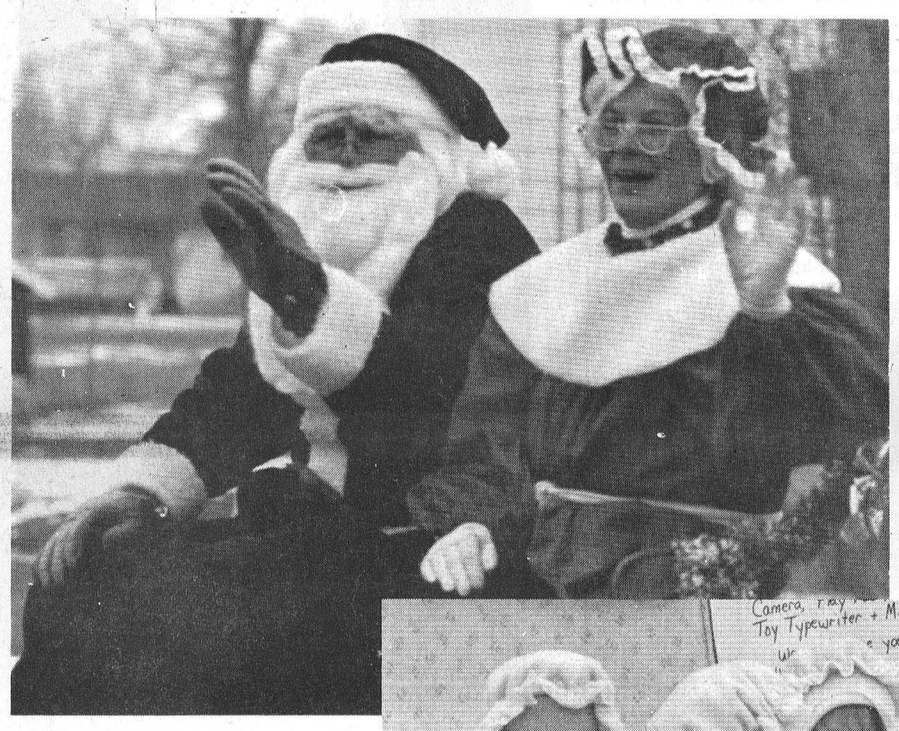
Santa tours Morewood



Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus (left) wave to a crowd of Morewood and area residents during Saturday's parade. The crowd was light but enthusiastic despite a cold, brisk wind.

Three girls (right) snuggle up together on a float in Morewood's Santa Claus parade on Saturday as it wound through the hamlet's streets. (Below) First Chesterville Scouting shows it is capable of roughing it in the cold outdoors.

Prize winners

Organizers of Morewood's Santa Claus parade, held on Saturday, handed out prizes for the best floats. Top honors went to Marion's Winter Wedding (top left and right). First Chesterville Scouting finished in second with the scouting tent (bottom) and Morewood Public School's entry placed third. Trophies were awarded to The Crossover for its Winter Skating float, to Van Gurp's Carpentry for its best out-of-town Waiting for Santa float, and Terry Wagner (Elaine's Hairdressing) for best individual float.

Area councils agree to join forces to recycle waste

Yves Cossette
Record staff

MAPLE RIDGE - Three area municipalities have agreed in principal to merge their garbage collection efforts and to jointly collect recyclable waste.

The councils of Chesterville, Winchester Township and Winchester Village met Dec. 10 to discuss the implementation of a list of ten recommenations to deal with area waste-management.

The recommendations were submitted by members of all three councils which sit on a joint landfill committee and share use of the Boyne Road Dump in Winchester Township.

The agreement between the three municipalities to merge garbage collection efforts was not formally passed as a resolution, but a show of hands by the 12 councillors attending the Dec. 10 meeting signalled agreement.

Reeve Jim Cook called the agreement in principal a significant step towards co-operation in waste- management between the three municipalities.

"What's significant here is that we're going to have to work this all out together and have a common garbage collection system (and) recycling system," he said Monday.

But the municipalities still have to work out how to implement a joint collection system. Winchester Township Deputy Reeve Wyman Barton said the biggest obstacle to a joint collection system is the fact that all three municipalities have different ways of collecting garbage.

Chesterville has contractor picking up garbage door-to-door whereas Winchester Village has its own employees picking up waste door-to door while the township has no door-to-door pick-up.

"(It would be) at least a year before we could ever get that together," he said.

The members of the three councils had a productive evening. They acted on a number of landfill committee's other recommendations as well.

Starting spring 1991 residents of all three municipalities will be able to purchase composting devices at their repsective community halls for just $15 a piece. The composter, which is being manufactured by a Belleville firm, will be subsidized by the province and the municipalities.

The three municipalites have also hired an interim landfill site operator until a permanent supervisor can be found to replace Arden Carruthers who resigned earlier this month from the position.

The three councils could not agree on how to introduce a tipping fee for residents using the dump. A tipping fee of $2 was proposed for residents.

But Winchester Reeve Larry Gray questioned whether a $2 tipping fee would keep residents out of the dump.

"Two dollars just is not going to deter anybody," he said.

Barton said he was opposed to introducing a tipping fee before the township began a garbage pickup.

Although not all recommentations produced decisions at the recent tri-council meeting, Barton was pleased with the outcome.

"I think its really important that...the three municipalities keep meeting like that. It was the first time we got to together and seemed to be making important decisions," he said.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE FROM THE STORMONT, DUNDAS AND GLENGARRY CATHOLIC SCHOOL BOARD

In a Christian society, the Christmas spirit touches everyone. Children and adults alike rejoice at the thought of making others happy through the exchange of good wishes and gifts and by enjoying and participating in familiar seasonal stories and songs.

In the Catholic school system, a special emphasis is placed on the original Christmas story and its significance to mankind. Understandably, children develop deep feelings of well being and personal security at learning how the Child, in spite of such humble circumstances on the first day of Christmas, was truly, and remains King. Our teachers repeat that story with great enthusiasm.

In a world fraught with sadness, conflict and economic turmoil, the Catholic School Board invites you to remember the original Christmas story and to share your good fortunes with those of lesser means. There are various legitimate funds and church charities to which you may contribute in order that all children here and abroad are shown a glimmer of hope for our global society..

Junior Devils lose to Arnprior High in championship final

ARNPRIOR - Strong defence carried the North Dundas Junior Devils to the championship game on Saturday, but let them down in that final confrontation.

The host squad from Arnprior District High used a big second quarter to turn back North Dundas 68- 51.

Devils' coach Deanna Corbett-White said after two strong defensive outings her squad played better offence against Arnprior but the defence wasn't as strong against a solid Arnprior team.

"They [Arnprior] beat us with the fast break, that doesn't usually happen to us," the coach said.

"They beat us in the second quarter, outscored us 23-12, a one quarter let down."

Arnprior led 16-12 after a quarter and were up 30- 24 at the half. It was 52-33 after three periods and 68-51 at the buzzer.

Phil Burns dropped in 12 points shooting 6 of 10 from the floor while Rodney Merkley canned 10. Ryan Buske hooped nine. Jamie Kennedy hit for four. Danny McLeod netted three points and pulled down seven rebounds turning in a big defensive game. Mike Singh bagged a three pointer while Jason Ball and Sean Hachey completed the scoring with a deuce.

In spite of the loss the Devils' mentor was satisfied with the showing because it was a stronger one than the previous year when her Devils were ousted early.

North Dundas' offence wasn't "top draw" in the opening two games but a big effort by the "D" enabled the Devils to post a pair of wins.

The Devils shot a terrible game hitting 12 for 30 from the floor but defeated a highly rated team from Sir Robert Borden 35-32 the first time on the floor.

Sean Salter led the offence with 11 points going 7 of 9 from the line. Rod Merkley was good for nine points. Phil Burns and Ryan Buske each nailed in four. Mike Singh and Jamie Kennedy connected for three, while Chris McDonald made up the scoring list.

"We didn't play well, didn't shoot well but had a great defensive game," offered Corbett-White.

MacKenzie High of Madawaska, defending EOSSAA champs, then fell 35-30 to North Dundas in the semi-finals.

Rod Merkley sparked the North Dundas victory with 10 points, going 5 of 9 from the floor and dragging in nine rebounds.

Phil Burns netted seven points, had eight rebounds and three steals. Ryan Buske hooped six, Sean Salter four, Mike Singh three, Dan McLeod three and Jason Stevens went two for two from the line.

Marcellus laces up for two games with Kanata

KANATA - Education was a factor that kept, Chesterville native, Todd Marcellus in the centre of the Winchester Junior B Hawks front line.

The 17-year-old North Dundas grade 12 student turned down an opportunity to play in the Central Jr. Hockey League at the beginning of the 1990-91 campaign, because his schooling was more important.

"I could have played at the start of the year, but I quit because there was too much driving and I thought it would interfere with school," Marcellus said in an interview on Monday.

Marcellus has been playing with the Hawks, however he is also affiliated with the CJHL Kanata Valley Lazers. And thus far this season he has skated for the club twice.

> "It is nice to have a player (Todd Marcellus) of such high caliber, to walk in and play well when you need him."
> Archie Mulligan
> Kanata Lazers' coach

The Hawks centerman, played for Kanata on Wednesday, Dec. 12 and again on the Thursday, Dec. 13. Kanata won both of the games that Marcellus was involed in.

Perphaps the high-light of Marcellus time spent with the Lazers, was being named the Second All-Star of the game against the Massena Americans. Kanata smashed in a 6-1 victory over their cross- boarder rivals.

Marcellus got three league points in the game against the Americans. He slapped in a goal and two assists to claim the Second All-Star honor.

The Wednesday night 4-3 overtime win against the Ottawa Senators was the first CJHL game that Marcellus played in. He was unable to make any league points in that game, but his effort did not go unreconized by the hockey club.

The Lazers' coach Archie Mulligan said Marcellus was a great asset to the team. "He played well in both games. We were very pleased with his performance."

"It nice to have a player of such high caliber, to walk in and play well when you need him."

Mulligan stated in an interview with the Record on Tuesday, that losing Marcellus to the Hawks was disappointing. When you draft a player in the second round you expect to have him playing for the team.

Marcellus left training camp before the final cuts were made, but Mulligan was confident that he would have made the team it he had stayed.

Marcellus was the selected sixth in the second round of the CJHL player draft last June.

The Lazers' coach said he will be asking Marcellus to play more games for Kanata if it doesn't interfere with the Hawks schedual.

He continues by saying that "he will be very selective" of the game he asks Marcellus to play, "because we might want him in a play-off game."

"After Christmas he (Marcellus) is only allowed to play up to five games," Mulligan said. That's why we have to pick and choose what games he will play.

Marcellus said he would play for Kanata again, as long as it doesn't prevent him for his duties with the Hawks.

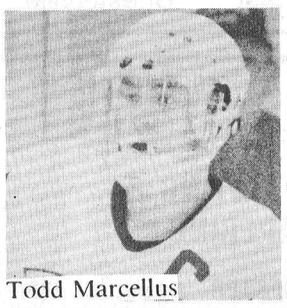
He continues by saying "my commitment will be for Winchester. If I don't have to play for the Hawks, then I'll play in Kanata."

Mulligan stressed an interest in having Marcellus join the Lazers club in the 1991-92 season. However, Marcellus said it was unlikly that he will move up to higher league, because he will oe further is education by taking Ontario Academic Credits at North Dundas.

Playing with Kanata "was a good experience," Marcellus said. The other team player were friendly and the coaching was strong, but there is too much traveling involed.

After High School, Marcellus said he hopes to play University hockey. But untill that time the Winchester Hawks will be extremely fortunate to have him in their line-up.

During his first year of Midget eligibility, Marcellus played for the Winchester Hawks.



Todd Marcellus

In his rookie year, Marcellus was named to the St. Lawrence Division's All-Rookie Team. The All-Star centerman led the Hawks' in scoring to claim Winchester's Team Scoring Leader Trophy, Rookie of the Year Trophy and he shared the team's Most Valuable Player Award with centre Shawn Young.

YOUNGER JOINTS

Keeping your joints young and pain-free requires two kinds of attention: physical and dietary. Let's discuss physical.

It is the large weight bearing joints —knees, hips and spine —that are most vulnerable to arthritis. That means we need to take special care during activities that use those joints, and this should be a focus of our arthritis-prevention efforts.

SITTING places more stress and strain on the back than any other position. The basic law is: we shouldn't sit longer than thirty minutes without getting up and stretching our back and legs. If your work involves sitting for long periods, make sure your chair supports your lower back, has armrests and keeps your knees raised to a level slightly above your hips. You may want to raise your feet on a small wooden box so that your knees are the right height.

STANDING can create joint stress as well. To relieve stress from standing lift one leg so that hip and knee bend, place one foot up on a short step or stool. After a few minutes, put that foot down and raise the other foot.

LIFTING often ignites serious lower-back pain. Always lift by bending your knees and keep your back as straight as possible. Try to lift and carry objects close to your body.

SLEEPING can be the most restful position for various joints if it is done correctly. We should lie on our backs with one to two pillows under your knees so that our hips and knees are bent. Another good position is on our side, with hips bent so that knees are pulled up toward our chest, and with a pillow placed between the knees.

Muscles, ligaments and tendons lose fibers with age, restricting the movement of our joints. One way to avoid damaging those joints is always to begin any exercise with a good warm-up.

Exercise is the vital component to adding years to the life of your joints. If you are not now exercising, you must start gradually. Your goal should be to exercise for an hour or so, at LEAST three times a week. Whether that means a trip to the gym, a brisk after-dinner walk, or a racquetball game with a friend you'll be making an important contribution to your body's longevity.

Remember: Since bone aging means loss of bone strength, rejuvenating your bones effectively makes your entire skeleton younger —and keeps you moving well, easily and safely.

Diet also plays a key role in the joint pain that makes us old and creaky before our time. Our diet can help keep our joints young and supple and is so important that I'll devote an entire future column to it.

My Silent Achievers this week are all those who got exercise and fresh air, enjoying a family outing as well, by cutting down their own Christmas trees this year.

I take this opportunity to wish all my readers the very merriest of Christmases, and a very fit and healthy New Year. It is becoming more important than ever to realize how very lucky we are to be able to do it for ourselves.

Powerful Panthers maul North Dundas Devils

MAPLE RIDGE - In spite of an outstanding 22 point performance by Rodney Merkley the North Dundas Devils absorbed their first defeat of the SD&G junior boys basketball season here last Tuesday.

Merkley was the game's high scorer with 22 points. He was 10 for 20 from the floor, picked off 10 rebounds and blocked five shots in what his coach, Deanna Corbett-White described as, "an amazing game".

But when the final tally was made the prowling St. Joseph's Panthers had dealt the Devils their first defeat of the three week old campaign, a 47-41 decision.

The loss left the Devils and Panthers tied with two wins and a loss each.

The only positive point senior Devil coach Gerry Jean could pick out of his game was the fact that his injury-riddled squad had held the powerful and undefeated Panthers under 100 points.

But in a 95-40 loss it was small consolation for Jean.

He wasn't expecting to knock off the Panthers before the game but he wasn't expecting to lose three front line players through injury either.

The most seriously injured of the three Chad Simpson, a rookie, could be lost for the remainder of the season. Second year man Darren Hutt is also on crutches but could be ready to play early in January. Another rookie Jason "Dr. J" Kennedy injured his knee but limped through the final quarter of the game. He may miss the Devils' next start at CCVS this week.

Simpson and Hutt injured their ankles and left Tuesday's match before the half. With two of his towers gone Jean then lost shooters Ashley Byers and Dave Harper through fouls in the second half.

In spite of having to face a powerful adversary with a depleted bench Jean said his team did as well as they could. More precise shooting would've made it a closer game but won't have changed the outcome he figured.

Considering the injuries Jean commented following the game, "it could be a very long season now."

Sparked by the provincial ranked Clarke Bros. Sean and Mike, who scored 29 and 20 points, respectively the Panthers roared into quarter leads of 25-8, 46-21, 79-33 and 95-40.

Ashley Byers led the Devils' attack with 11 points. He was three for seven from the line.

Chris Van Bridger and Trevor Plumb both sunk eight points. Van Bridger hit four for five from the line while Plumb was 2/5.

Dave Harper nailed seven points including three [for six] on free throws.

Chad Simpson tallied four first quarter points and Darren Hutt dunked a deuce before he was injured.

Panthers 57-Jr. Devils 41

Junior Devil mentor Deanna Corbett-White expected a tough game with the Panthers and she got one.

"We played OK, except the fourth quarter. We really lost it there [Devils were outscored [20- 10]," she explained.

Key to the loss was her team's shooting.

"We shot 18-55. That's brutal, and that's why we lost. Just one of those games when we couldn't put the ball in."

Corbett-White figured St. Joe's and her team are evenly matched but the Panthers were up to avenge that loss to North Dundas in the Devils' Tip Off Tournament.

"We weren't up for it. I don't know why. Just chalk it up to experience, one of those games."

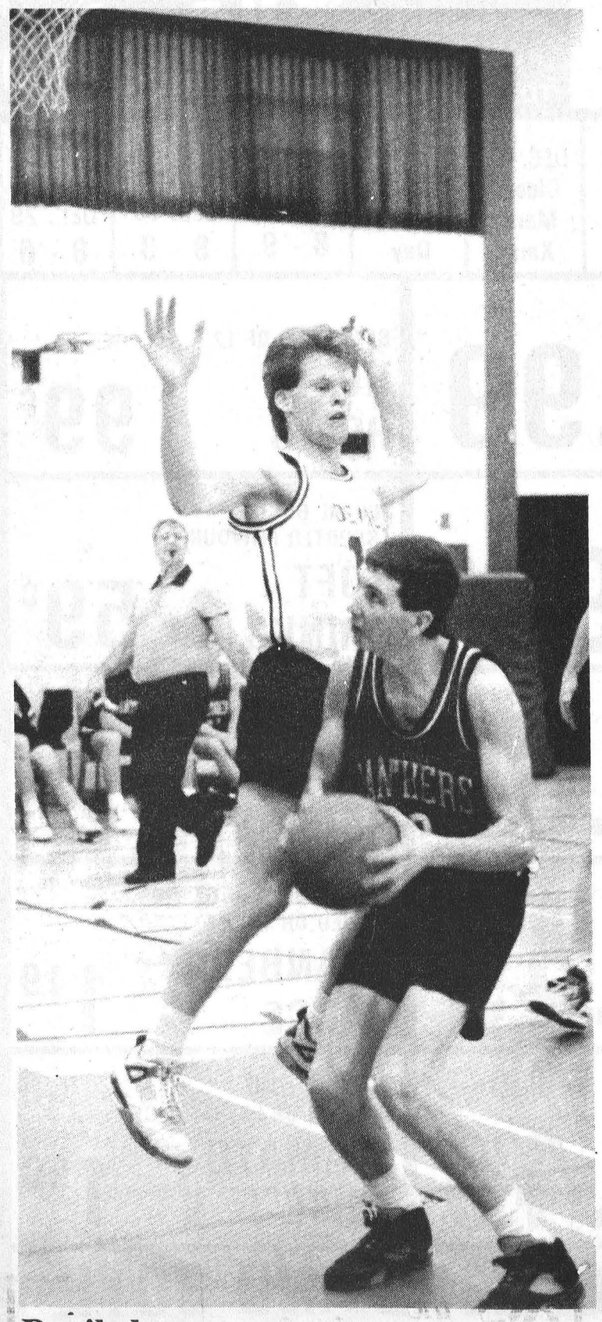
She added, "Im not upset. A loss may not be a bad thing. Better now than later in the season when it really counts."

St. Joe's led 17-8 after a quarter but the game was tied 25-25 at the half. The Panthers were up 37-31 after three periods and won it 57-41.

Marc Poirier potted 16 points for the winners. Grant Fawthrop added 13 and Dave Crenevach dunked a dozen.

Rod "Rodman" Merkley nailed 22 points for North Dundas. Guard Ryan Buske sunk six [seven steals and five assists]. Sean Salter and Jamie Kennedy each filtered five through the twine. Salter had 10 rebounds and Kennedy played well while recovering from a sprained ankle. Phil Burns added four points and played strong defensively. Danny McLeod hooped a free throw.

Corbett-White explained her guards —Buske, Burns, Kennedy and Mike Singh did a fantastic job of playing a post game. They got the ball to Merkley who converted his inside chances but when the ball came back outside the shooters couldn't put their chances through the iron.



Devils lose

The Senior North Dundas Devils Dave Harper attempts to block a St. Joseph's Panthers shot on the hoop. The Panthers tore apart the Devils on Tuesday, Dec. 11 at home. St. Joe's tallied a powerful 95-40 decision.
