ONE OF CANADA'S AWARD-WINNING WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS

VOL. LXXIV — No. 16 * * * ALEXANDRIA, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1965 * * * SINGLE COPY 10c

DONALD RANALD AND EWEN—A picture and progress report on Donald Ranald and Ewen, Nigerian wards of Our Lady's Missionaries, reach us from Brazil where Sr. Mary Michael, Sr. Germain Francis and Sr. M. Elizabeth report they "think, sleep and dream in Portuguese". Perhaps as a result they much appreciate arrival of The News, forwarded by Sr. Elizabeth's mother. The report on the boys follows:

"These two fine Nigerian gentlemen, although they have just begun their first year of school, feel that as far as they themselves and foreign relationships are concerned, their education is quite well advanced already. Not only do they know where Canada is on the map, but they could show you Glengarry too! They know that the missionary sisters, whom they knew so well, lived in Glengarry once and at least once daily they are called on by their townsfolk to recount the story of how they have come to have their "different" names, Donald Ranald and Ewen.

"With Catherine, the middle-aged nanny in charge of them, they live in the sturdy cement-block house which was built for them, by donation from the people of Glengarry. From a fund started by Our Lady's Missionaries for the care of these orphan boys, they are dressed, fed and the first years of school tuition cared for at the estimated cost of $15 a month in Canadian money.

"The boys will be seven years old in April. It is almost six years since their pictures began appearing in The Glengarry News. The fact that these ill, undernourished and abandoned babies appear as they do today, sturdy, growing, rowdy youngsters, is the fruit of the generosity and interest of their many wonderfully christian benefactors. What those who gave to their support was not only the necessary material funds, but a belief in them, in their future and in their country. Towards those Glengarrians who have looked with the same faith and vision that is typified by the noted Glengarrians of whom they are namesakes, these two young lads of Nigeria, turn their most engaging smiles — smiles of faith and vision which they have rightfully inherited."

EDITOR'S NOTE—Now that the boys are in school the expense of their upkeep will bear more heavily on Our Lady's Missionaries. We imagine any donations from Glengarrians will be more than welcome. These may be sent to: Sister Superior, Our Lady's Missionaries, 65 Clarendon Ave., Toronto 7, Ont.

Died 37 Days After Rare Kidney Transplant

Mrs. Paul Dicaire of Alexandria, died Saturday night in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, where 37 days earlier she had undergone a rare kidney transplant operation.

Mrs. Dicaire had come home Friday to spend Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henri G. Dubois. Her condition worsened Saturday and she was rushed back to hospital but succumbed at 10 o'clock that night. She would have marked her 29th birthday on April 27th.

Her death followed two years of treatments from an artificial kidney machine. Mrs. Dicaire's two kidneys were removed in an operation following the birth of her only child two years ago. It was in the hope that she might again lead a normal life that Mrs. Dicaire on March 10th underwent an operation in which a kidney from an unrelated donor was transplanted into her body. ## Might Williamstown Be Restored To Its Early 19th Century Charm?

A Who's Who Of Williamstown In 1858

By Hugh MacMillan

Williamstown along with South Lancaster are the oldest settled areas in Glengarry, Williamstown despite its early history, has grown little in size, since the year 1858 when the following was drawn up. Founded in 1784 by Sir John Johnson and his highland loyalists from the Mohawk Valley, the village has to this day a certain charm not to be found in any other village. This charm is compounded of many fine old homes dating back to the early 1800's and before, set on wide tree-shaded streets. We have two of the finest examples of early church architecture in St. Andrew's United Church, and St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. To name a few of the fine houses, there is the Thompson-Bethune home, Sir John Johnson's "Manor House", "Chattan House", the "Ossian" MacDonald home, the old Presbyterian manse, the McGillis house, and the MacLennan house. There are no other villages of comparable size in Ontario with as many excellent examples of early architecture. In the countryside surrounding the village we have any number of equally excellent examples of early architecture.

With the Canadian centennial drawing close, it would be interesting to see any one or all of these early buildings that are in need of restoring, set back in time to 1858 or earlier. What if some of the earlier places of business could be restored as an attraction for visiting tourists? Supposing some of the town's merchants were willing to refurbish their store fronts, along the lines of the "Norwich Plan", imagine the increase in trade that would result. This has been successfully done in Oakville, Ontario. It would call for active co-operation between our local Historical Society, Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, Service Clubs, interested citizens and the municipality. It could be done, just as Niagara-on-the-Lake is doing it. Using our imagination further, suppose the "Manor House" or the old Public School could be restored. Either building could depict the history of the famed North West Company who explored the Canadian West. What better place to depict their history than in the area from which many of them came?

Suppose this historic area which has never had a university had a bilingual arts college? The area with its historic tradition and mixture of French and English-speaking people could be an ideal place for such a college. With new colleges springing up around the prov-

THE LATEST IN OPERATING TABLES—Evidencing the fact that equipment in the new Glengarry Memorial Hospital is the most modern procurable is this five-section Castle T-5000 operating table, central piece in the main operating theatre. Hospital Administrator Eric Gale describes it as comparable with that of any other hospital in the country. The movable control cluster of the electro-hydraulic system, seen at right, permits the anesthesiologist to control with one hand the height, longitudinal and lateral tilt of the table-top for posturing the patient.

IT'S OUR OPINION

New Industry Spreads The Assessment Load

Word that Dominion Textile Company, Ltd., will build a $14 million plant near Cornwall, is good news not only for residents of the city area. The new plant may not have any appreciable impact on employment in this area but this large new assessment will help carry the increasing costs of counties' government and in that way should benefit municipal taxpayers right across the counties.

News of the acquisition of this new industry, which will locate just west of the Cornwall city limits, came the same week counties' council approved a 1965 budget calling for a $72,799 increase in tax levies over 1964. The budget fixes total levies on counties' property at $858,990, and the appreciable bite this represents on our municipal tax bills is indicated by the fact Alexandria is being called on to raise $38,800 to help meet counties' expenditures. The neighboring townships will pay considerably more, with Charlottenburgh's largest share at nearly $89,000.

This is quite a drain on municipal budgets and it can be expected to get heavier each year as is evidenced by this year's big increase in tax levies by counties' council over 1964.

There is talk now of doing away with counties' councils in favor of a regional type of government which would encompass a larger area. Advantages claimed by a committee of the legislature for the new setup would include more competent police and firefighting services, school, assessment and public works systems.

These, almost certainly, would cost more money than today's less competent services. Municipal taxes would still be required to maintain and improve road systems below the provincial level and these costs are already a major part of counties' spending.

Also being considered now is a counties' assessment commissioner system which would do away with the present "part-time, poorly-qualified assessment officers" in each municipality and replace them with a team of counties' assessors. Proponents of the plan predict great increases in assessment if this system is adopted.

Great increases in assessment, from the government viewpoint may be desirable. And the new system might do away with many of the inequities found under the present method which sees each municipality doing its own assessing. But increased municipal taxation would result unless there was a corresponding drop in the mill rate. This does not always follow.

Our best hope for an easement of the counties' levy on individual properties lies in new industry to the area assuming part of the load now borne by the farmer and the resident of the small town. That is why we welcome word of a big new industry locating anywhere in these United Counties, and outside Cornwall's city limits.

Are We Hyprocrits ?

A great many Canadians are frankly appalled at the fact that so many Negroes in the southern United States have for so long been denied the right to vote.

There is considerable sympathy in this country for the dramatic march on Montgomery, Ala., by civil rights demonstrators, including some Canadians, led by Rev. Martin Luther King.

But is it proper when, as in recent weeks, university students demonstrate outside the U.S. consulate in Toronto and other persons picket the embassy in Ottawa?, suggests an editorial in The Gananoque Reporter.

George Ball, the U.S. undersecretary of state, was asked whether he thought such demonstrations were improper.

"Certainly not", he said. "It is part of our constitutional tradition on both sides of the border".

This rather gracious comment by an American government official doesn't give the full answer, however.

For if we are going to be critical of the way Negroes are treated in the South, we should make sure we are not being hypocritical.

For example, should we not be equally as willing to demonstrate for better treatment of our Indians? And shouldn't we be just as indignant when a case of racial prejudice turns up in our own country?

Some of us tend to be smug about the fact that incidents of discriminations are relatively rare in Canada. But can we be sure this is not merely because there are so few Negroes living here? And can we feel certain that the small Negro population isn't the result of immigration policies that are not in some ways discriminatory?

Another test is whether we could accept in good grace a demonstration by American students of the Canadian Embassy in Washington demanding better treatment by English-speaking Canadians of the French-speaking minority.

In the final analysis, it seems reasonable to say that anyone has the right to object to injustice wherever it may occur, but we must be just as ready to stand and be counted when the injustice, though admittedly less spectacular than in Alabama, takes place at home.

As Easy As Flicking A Watch Hand

We advance our timepieces one hour on retiring Saturday; and that flick of a watch hand provides us with one hour of extra daylight all through the warm months of summer we so look forward to. Remarkable, is it not, what so puny an action can accomplish. But it would not have such beneficent results if, first, all or most of us had not agreed to make the switch to what we term 'daylight or summer time'.

Chaos would be the result if many refused to synchronize their watches and clocks. And therein lies a moral that might apply to many other facets of our day-to day living. If we can so easily make possible the fuller enjoyment of the daylight hours, simply by agreeing to concerted action, how many other advantages are we doing without because most of us are too lackadaisical to try to overcome the objections of a vocal minority.

A glaring example, in our opinion, is the fact so many of our municipal water supplies, including Alexandria's, still lack the benefits of fluoridation.

Daylight Saving Time was introduced despite the valid objections of the farmer who found it an inconvenience. His summer work day is based on the sun and there may be more inconvenience than advantage to him in moving the clock ahead. But he has learned to adapt to 'fast' time which provides an extra hour of daytime relaxation for his urban compatriots.

We see no comparable reason for the loud and sustained objections to introduction of fluoridation of water supplies, designed to reduce tooth decay. All recognized health authorities have endorsed this program which research has shown is scientifically safe and which has been proven in actual practise capable of cutting the incidence of caries in children by more than a half.

Dentists, who might be expected to selfishly deny this benefit, have been urging the fluoridation of water supplies for years. In Brantford and other enlightened cities and towns its benefits have been proven over the past twenty years. Actual experience has shown no ill effects from the addition of fluoride and yet the crackpots and the professional objectors have their say; and too often stymie the efforts of those who should know, the medical profession.

The case for fluoridation in a nutshell, is contained in a current news report datelined Antigo, Wisconsin. It tells us Antigo City councilmen voted 11 to 1 to resume fluoridation of the municipal water supply. First started in Antigo in 1949, fluoridation was stopped in 1960 after a public referendum.

After hearing that the city's school children have 183 per cent more cavities than they had four years ago, the city fathers held another referendum and this time the voters heeded results of a state board of health survey. It showed the alarming increase in dental decay once fluorides were removed from the water supply.

There have been so many proven cases across the continent over two decades one would suppose public opinion should by now be overwhelmingly in favor of fluoridation of every municipal water supply. But public opinion is slow in showing its strength.

Public opinion has to rise to a wave of determination before it will activate our elected. We must rock the boat before they move to deal with the storm.

If we are enjoying an extra hour of daylight next week, it is because 'fast' time was spawned in an all-out effort to win a war. If most Alexandria parents desire to see their children spared much of the pain and inconvenience of prematurely bad teeth (and we think they apathetically do) all they have to do is synchronize their wishes, as they do their watches Saturday night.

If a sufficiency of our citizens ask for fluoridation of our water supply town council and the PUC will be only too ready to oblige, we feel certain.

Kemp's shop is an oil painting from the brush of Henry McDonell. A life size figure of our Saviour following his crucifixtion, the work is an ambitious effort. — Dr. J Howard Munro who has practised his profession in company with his father at Maxville for some time, will shortly remove to Greenfield, where he will open an office. — It is reported Allan J. McDonald will erect a barber shop immediately south of the Grand Union hotel. — Sergeant J. A. McDonald of Kingston, was in town on Wednesday recruiting for the Royal Canadian Artillery.

WHERE BINGO PROFITS GO

Brockville, Ontario

The Editor,
The Glengarry News
Dear Sir:

We are enclosing our advertising copy for the first of eight bingos sponsored by the Brockville Lions Club to be held at the Memorial Centre. The first bingo is May 1, 1965.

Many of our patrons come from your circulation area. This is why we are advertising in your newspaper. For the same reason we respectfully request that this letter be published as a letter to the editor.

We are frequently asked how we spend our money. We welcome the question, and answer it with pride.

While the following items do not represent all our welfare work they will give your readers a general picture of where the money is spent. We have always been interested in the care of the sick and we have, over the years, given numerous pieces of equipment to local hospitals. Last year we bought and presented an Isolet incubator valued at $1,000 for use in a maternity ward. Our interest in young people prompted us to give a $200 Encyclopedia to the Brockville Public Library, $150 to the Police Association Girls' Bugle Band, $30 to help a needy girl complete vocational

FINGERTIP CONTROL

A story out of Ottawa quotes an official of the department of national defence as advocating that all Canadians should be fingerprinted "for their own protection".

He has a plausible argument. "There are probably hundreds of cases every year of persons being buried without ever being identified", he says. "This wouldn't happen if we had a system of fingerprinting and kept them in a central file somewhere."

Our fingerprinting advocate has instances to relate where victims of accidents have been identified solely because their fingerprints happened to be on file. He points out that hundreds of thousands of Canadians already have been fingerprinted; members of the armed services, most civil servants, a lot of people in industry, in addition to those who have been involved with the police. The RCMP already has on file more than 800,000 prints and it has the authority to fingerprint anyone charged with or convicted of a crime.

He feels public reluctance to fingerprinting stems from the fact people associate it with criminals. If they realized how many law-abiding citizens subject themselves to fingerprinting, that aversion might be removed and he sees a country-wide system as providing many benefits.

We still shudder at the thought; and not because we plan to ramble into the world of crime at any future date. It's probably part of our distrust of big government We see lurking dimly in the background, some power-hungry bureaucrat plotting to get us in his toils. Once he has our prints on record we won't feel free to pick up a glass without wondering if one of his henchmen isn't waiting in the wings to grab it for evidence.

And we have a fondness for picking up a glass. It's relaxing, as long as we don't have to worry about who's following us for our fingerprints.

Maybe mass fingerprinting would be a constructive move. Perhaps it's progress when Ottawa assigns one a number that is meant some day to accompany one from the cradle to the grave.

In our view we're being robbed of our identity. We're being reduced to a cipher; and that could be zero.

One arm of government robs you of your identity while another is advocating putting your fingerprints on file so Ottawa can identify you. Big government—it's for the birds. That's probably why they flee the country each winter.

A WOODLAND IN THE SPRING

With the bees among the flowers and the fleas among the bowers, there's nothing like a woodland in the Spring. When there's people of all classes looking through high-powered glasses to observe the different birds upon the wing. Every morn when dawn is breaking and all Nature is awaking — that's the time to start observing Nature's ways, when the forest paths inviting lead one on to scenes exciting in the realm of warblers, flickers, wrens and jays.

Just see those birds a-nesting — ever working, never resting! To observe them is a never-ending joy. It's a pastime most entrancing to be cautiously advancing — if you're middle-aged you'll feel just like a boy. I'd rather be Tom Sawyer than a banker or a lawyer when the brook trout start a-bitin' in the creek. With old clothes and bamboo pole near some silent fishin' hole — or, better still to camp there for a week! Take those bloated millionaires who are loaded down with cares. They simply wouldn't know what real life means. I'd rather be just me with a fishin' pole and free with a sandwich and a tin of pork and beans. Squirrels, chipmunks, birds and flowers — I could live with them for hours — of life I wouldn't ask another thing than just to be akin to young Huckleberry Finn. For there's nothing like a woodland in the Spring.

METHODS MUST CHANGE

. . . A survey carried out in 1963 estimates that about half of the farms in Eastern Canada are uneconomic . . . This does not mean that all farming has gone sour. It does mean that farmers have to up-date their methods of farming because where a farmer before World War II fed 10 to 12 people, he now feeds 30.

We share our bingo profits with the Brockville Memorial Civic Centre to ensure the continuance of the facilities for recreation it provides. In 1946 we turned over $4,500 to the Centre.

Junior Entry In Cornwall Lacrosse To Hold First Practice Saturday

Lacrosse, at the junior level, will return to Alexandria this summer if enough interest is shown by young players and the public.

Decision to enter a Glengarry team in the Cornwall Junior Lacrosse League was taken last night at a meeting in Glengarry Gardens. Officers were elected and arrangements made for a first practice at 7 p.m. this Saturday night in the Gardens.

Coach Cameron McCormick is confident there will be no shortage of talent in the 16 to 21 age group to form a strong junior entry. He hopes to draw players from the entire area and asks anyone interested in playing to turn out Saturday night for a light workout.

Alex McDonald is president of the club and Duncan Macdonell vice-president. Other officers are: Sec.-Treas. — Stewart McDonald; Manager—Norman Laperle; Coach — Cameron McCormick; Assistant Coach — Bob Leroux; Equipment Manager—Shaun McDonald; Transportation—Shaun McDonald.

League play starts May 9th.

Golf Course To Be Featured On TV

A television team from CBOT Ottawa visited the Glengarry Golf & Country Club this week to record a story on the local course which will be seen on May 8th. Past President Lloyd McHugh and C. W. Mutchler were interviewed in front of the cameras.

The course is now almost completely dry and is fast being rounded into shape for season's play. Grounds keeper Conrad Lajoie reports it has wintered well.

The annual meeting was held Tuesday evening when very satisfactory reports were received, and preparations made for Trophy Night next Wednesday. A nominating committee was appointed to prepare a slate of officers for the fall. Members are Mrs. R. J. Graham, Miss Jeannette Crevier and Miss Germaine Lalonde.

Williamstown ....

ince the idea is not impossible. These thoughts are meant to get us back in time to 1858 and see who was doing what. Also to set us thinking of a practical way to preserve what is most valuable in Glengarry County.

Williamstown, Canada West, as it was known before Confederation, was described as a village 12 miles from Cornwall with a population of about 300, doing the following things.

"Wm. Barrett, carriagemaker; Thomas Barry, blacksmith; David Bracklin, tailor; James Brown, carpenter; David Brydon, saddler; Archie Campbell, blacksmith; Lachlan Cattanach, waggonmaker; Sam Christie, weaver; Thomas Dickson, tailor; John Durie, proprietor of the Temperance Hotel (rather an odd choice of name for a hotel, unless he indeed was for temperance); George Ferguson, shoemaker; Wm. Fergusson, teacher; Peter Gadbois, general store; John Hubart, tinsmith; John Kinsmill, shoemaker; Duncan MacDonell, general store; John McDonell, hotelkeeper (no name for the hotel); Miss E. McDonell, milliner; Thomas McDonell, general store; Wm. McDonell, general store; Rev. Francis McDonagh, priest; Angus McGillis, tanner; Donald McGillis, watchmaker; Duncan McGillis, general store; John McGillis, grist and saw mill owner; John McGregor, saddler and harness maker; James McIntyre, grist mill, Duncan McLennan postmaster and general store; John McPherson, hotelkeeper (no name for hotel)?; John McRae, clerk of division court; Richard Morrison, blacksmith; John Robertson, tailor; Timothy Rosseau, joiner; Charles St. Antoine, mason; Andrew Sullivan, tinsmith; Roderick Urquhart, general store; Wm. Warren, tanner; Rev. Peter Watson, Church of Scotland; John Watt, shoemaker.

We can see from the breakdown of occupations that we had a choice of two churches to attend (the same as today), three hotels at one of which we could probably get nothing stronger than ginger beer. The people must have been well dressed as there were three tailors, with one milliner to take care of ladies' hats. No doubt the horses were well cared for with three blacksmiths and two saddlers.

Who among us has any written material relating to these earlier business people, or knows exactly where the various places of business were located? I would like to hear from any who have knowledge of Williamstown in 1858.

Who knows, perhaps we can bring back a touch of 1858 or earlier to Williamstown? It could be a smaller version of Williamsburgh, Virginia, where the past has been recreated, and business goes on as usual, but a greatly increased business. We have no John D. Rockefeller Foundation which poured millions into restoring Williamsburgh. However we do have the history, capable people in the area who are interested in this history, and more than a fair share of ex-Glengarrians with the wealth to put such an ambitious project in motion. It remains for those of us who think such an undertaking worthwhile to interest these ex-Glengarrians in making such a project possible.

Life Membership For Dr. Dolan

Dr. D. J. Dolan who was in Toronto this week in his capacity as a director of the governing council of the English Catholic Education Association, learned that he had been made a life member of the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers Association.

He is a past-president of that body.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

Approaching Toronto last Thursday night Grey Cup weather prevailed. Good Friday morning was still cold climbing the Gardner Expressway ramp to the Q.E. under dull skies. Nearing Hamilton the dark clouds were rolling eastward and the sun broke through as we scaled the crest of Burlington Skyway.

This change prompted my co-pilot to explain, "Just look how bright the Lake Ontario shore line and countryside is in the direction of St. Catharines; even the weatherman must be a Chicago Black Hawk fan". I chuckled at the apt coincidence as I dug in a pocket for bridge toll.

The jubilation was due to Bobby Hull's return to early season form as the Golden Jet led the Black Hawks to a 4-2 win over Detroit in the Olympia the previous night, thus entering the Stanley Cup finals with Canadiens on Saturday at the Forum.

The majority of St. Catharines hockey fans are justified in their loyalty to the Hawks. Twenty-one years ago Rudy Pilous moved into the Garden City to coach the OHA Junior Club, then known as the Tee Pees (Thompson Products Ltd.)

Not only did the erudite and popular coach Pilous send junior graduates all the way to the NHL and intermediate points, but he himself moved up to Chicago, the parent club.

This seemed to be a prudent move by Norris and Ivan, however, despite winning the Stanley Cup, friction and dissension forced Pilous to leave.

The breach wasn't healed overnight; however, Coach Billy Reay has Chicago in the finals, supported by a starry array of St. Catharines' junior grads. They are DeJordy, Pilote, Vasko, Ravlich, Jarrett, Stanfield, Esposito, Maki, McKenzie, Mikita, Bobby and Denis Hull.

Sufficient evidence that St. Catharines is quite a Black Hawk town, and to complete the season on an even happier note is the fine year end Rudy Pilous, the Garden City's favorite adopted son, is having on the West Coast. The "Pilous touch" prevailed in Victoria where the Leafs finished fourth, thus gaining the final playoff berth. Victoria has eliminated Seattle in the first round, and are now playing Portland.

We found St. Kitts' fans that we met quite pleased with hockey matters, even if Canadiens did overshadow the Hawks in the opener 3-2. Losing to Les Habs 2-0 in Tuesday's second Stanley Cup game in Montreal no doubt caused Hawks' fans concern especially with some doubt about the return of Pierre Pilotte although Ken Wharram expects to be back on Thursday (tonight) when Chicago opens their two game home stand.

Play is following the semi-final pattern of winning on home ice. You wouldn't be too presumptuous to concede that the series could be all tied by Sunday night. Then, judging by the way body checks are being handed out, it would be the survival of the fittest in a new series of two games in three to decide the new holder of Lord Stanley's historic silverware.

HITHER AND YON

The Niagara area was an Easter Winter Wonderland . . . Midnight church goers viewed typical Christmas Eve snow scenes that didn't spoil until Monday's higher temperatures . . . King Edward Hotel lobby at noon Monday like a Grey Cup day with Glens' sport fans attending trustee and school board conventions . . . Dr. Dolan looking natty in blue with a matching homburg . . . Dr. Villeneuve, Ken MacLennan, Hector Perrier, Arcade Trottier among the Glengarry delegates we met briefly.

According to a spokesman at the Kress and MacDonald insurance office "Corbett", like Les Habs, is doing all right, which means certain Montreal bettors from the Glens are remitting their wagers promptly and including bank exchange . . . Speaking of Montreal Glens sports' fans, a scout tells us Donnie and Joan McDonald moved into their new home in Pierrefonds, thus adding to the clans already settled, and in keeping with the B & B campaign Pierrefonds should be changed to Petit Glengarry . . . memo to Gordon Ian MacDonald, the Glens' fine young horseman . . . The St. Thomas Times-Journal says that Tom Mix would be horrified at a town council in Texas that has passed a by-law requiring horses to be lighted when ridden on streets after dark . . . don't fear a similar ruling by Mayor Ray Periard . . . should you wish to ride Northern Dancer or one of your ponies in Ourtown after sundown, a "tail light" is available complete with directional signals you can operate from your saddle . . . Doug (Monkland) Britton, quite a hockey and ball player, will soon have a new official calling the household plays . . . Doug walks down the center aisle, June 5, at St. Andrew's United Church, Bainsville . . . the bride elect is Miss Florence Black.

We asked a stout Tie-Cat fan, "What about Bernie Faloney?" The reply, "Don't worry about Faloney; what will Montreal do without him?" A thought-provoking question to a question . . . It was ironic that "Ted" Lindsay had to pick up a misconduct in last Thursday's Chicago game that proved so costly . . . you can be sure Terrible Ted wasn't wishing Skov a Happy Easter.

Memo to "D. A." McPhee somewhere along the MacKenzie River, "Thanks for your financial pee wee support" . . . John Ferguson is a creditable example of determination . . . Les Habs winger was all of 14 before learning to skate as a Vancouver boy . . . he is no Sonja Henie on the blades but knows how to get around even with the dukes, if necessary . . . You wouldn't think Bower and Ferguson were great pals the way Fergie crashed Bower's goal crease at times like Angelo Mosca.

That verbal blast by Andy Bathgate directed at Imlach, we hear, wasn't at all surprising . . . according to early press reports rural township school board trustees attending the Annual OEA Convention feel their future is about as secure as the same Bathgate plus Shack and a few more with the Leaf organization . . . Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell wrote that Imlach was big in the Leaf hour of defeat . . he was among the first to greet Canadiens as they headed to their dressing room . . . A Montreal visiting scribe wonders if Bobby Hull is slated for a movie role with the sideburns . . . Hull's robust style of play in the series indicates he heard of "Leo the Lip" Durocher's famous quip, "Nice guys can't win" . . . Montreal should take a look at Toronto's splendid U.S. Freeway style traffic route in the Gardner Expressway . . . from here you turn off 401 at Woodbine Avenue, then through two traffic lights you zoom non-stop along the Don Valley to Gardner Expressway right to Yonge Street where you swing in any hotel direction.

8—In Memoriam

BRISBOIS—In loving memory of Rene Brisbois accidentally killed on April 23rd, 1958.
His faint last wish
We should like to have heard,
And breathed in his ear
One last parting word.
Only those who have lost
Are able to tell
The pain of the heart
In not saying farewell.
—Sadly missed by mother, father, sisters and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brisbois.
RR 2 Dalkeith, Ont. 16-1p

MacPHEE—In loving memory of a dearly beloved husband and father, Alex William MacPhee, who passed away April 23rd, 1964.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never.
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by wife, Margaret and family. 16-1p
