TEMPORARY SHED IN USE—His modern filter shavings shed destroyed by fire last August, Hubert Sabourin now has a temporary shavings shed in use until summer when he plans to erect a 75-foot concrete building. As seen in the picture the elevated pipe carries dust and shavings from Alexandria Moulding plant, far left, across Sandfield Street South to the temporary shed where air pollution is minimized and shavings are packaged for sale. The permanent building will rise in rear of the temporary shed and its cost, estimated at $88,500, will be partly financed by a $16,850 grant announced last week by the regional economic expansion department at Ottawa. Selection Of Queen Tuesday Night Will Mark Official Opening Of Eventful Carnival

Alexandria's 1972 carnival gets underway Sunday on the curling lanes when the Richelieu and Lions Club members meet in less than mortal combat but official opening of the event comes Tuesday night at the high school.

Crowning of the carnival queen will be the feature attraction and the judges will have to choose between seven talented young beauties. In the race this year are four Alexandria girls, Kim Auld, Patricia Filiatrault, Madeleine Lalonde and Valerie McGillis, as well as Ginette Lajoie, Green Valley; Lucie Poirier, Brown House and Diane Samson, Bainsville.

In addition to the queen, there will be the selection of two princesses to attend her at the various functions. New features this year will include La cave à vin du Richelieu which will be open in the Alexandria Pizzeria Wednesday to Friday nights and Saturday afternoon. It will feature Luc Lafrance and his organ. The drawing for a $1,000 bill will be held at the Saturday night dance at the Bonnie Glen.

Sunday's snowmobile rally will be held on the lake and will include a cross country race.

The Carnival Bingo on Wednesday night will have a $100 jackpot prize and the carnival events will get underway Friday at the Community Centre where teachers and pupils of area schools will be participating in hockey and broomball. At 6 p.m. the carnival Pee-wee tournament will get underway with 10 teams from Eastern Ontario points taking part through Saturday. While youngsters are watching Friday night's hockey their elders will be participating in a Las Vegas night at Alexander Hall.

The carnival parade will head down Main Street at 1 p.m. Saturday.

New School Here To Have A Vice-Principal

At its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night the SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board approved a motion to have a vice-principal at the new Alexandria Senior Separate School.

Advertising for candidates will begin immediately. The vice-principal will officially resume duties in the 1972-73 term, when the school is opened.

Chief Executive Officer C. J. Lamarche said the administration wants to obtain a vice-principal as quickly as possible. He explained the new school will be a new open-concept type and the candidate would need time to attend related meetings.

However, many board members were concerned with additional costs if the vice-principal requested compensation for the extra time put into the planning stages. Others argued that if a person from outside the area was chosen, the board would have to pay transportation costs to the meetings.

"I would hope," countered Mr. Lamarche, "that the chosen person will be interested enough to want to get involved in the early stages. If he is not from the area we will have to pay transportation costs. If he is in our system we would expect him to attend the meeting of his own volition."

"We're limiting ourselves to just this area if we don't wish to pay some costs," added trustee Joseph Donihue, "and we might not get the best people."

Mr. Lamarche assured members that regular board policy would be followed in picking the vice-principal, and that they would accept the best-qualified no matter where he lived.

Start New Business

A new business, G & C Fire Protection, has been started by Gerald Charlebois and Jim Graham, chief and sub-chief of the Alexandria fire brigade. They will sell, repair and refill fire extinguishers from a shop set up in the basement of the White Rock Motel.

Many Guests At Lions' Meeting

President Lyall Costello welcomed 41 guests to Monday's dinner meeting of the Lions Club. They were from Lions clubs at Cornwall, Perth, Almonte and Ottawa West. Among those who spoke were District Governor Mike Sargent of Perth, Carl Sadder of Almonte, Byron Gordon, president of the Cornwall Club who introduced Jerry Grady who is seeking the post of Zone Chairman.

Lion Archie McDougall reported good progress on the Irish play the club will present in the High School auditorium on Sunday, March 26th. Mr. McDougall is author and producer of the play "Trouble in Cork Alex" which will feature 31 members of the club. First practise was held Sunday night and another session is planned for tonight.

Proceeds will go toward the hospital extension fund and the executive is also considering a variety auction sale in the Community Centre in early June for the same cause. Progress was reported in organization of the walkathon to be held May 21st.

Lion Duncan Macdonell reported an outstanding head table in prospect for the Sportsmen's Dinner in May when the guest speaker will be Jake Gaudaur, commissioner of the Canadian Football League.

Girl Uninjured When Hit By Car

A Lancaster girl, Connie MacDougall, 8, escaped injury Monday when struck by a car on County Rd. 17, near Lancaster.

The girl daughter of Mrs. Alice MacDougall, was walking to school at the time. Driver of the car was Wendell MacLeod, 26, of Bainsville. Const. Gerry Gillis of Lancaster provincial police investigated.

Maxville Student, Andrew Duhaime Won Honors In Public Speaking

A Maxville District High School student, Andrew Duhaime, was just a hair's breadth away from competing in Eastern Ontario public speaking contest last winter. A snow storm the night of the contest made it impossible for him to travel to the finals in Ottawa.

This year Andrew gets a second chance to bring back to the United Counties the trophy from the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association Oral Communications Festival. Ontario Hydro is a joint sponsor of the festival.

A prepared speech "The So-called Generation Gap" presented at CCVS Wednesday afternoon won Andrew the trophy for the three counties contest.

He told his audience that the key to real communication between parents and children is a common bond of humility.

The onus was on speakers, for the first time this year, to demonstrate knowledge of their subject matter by answering related questions directed to them by judges. This discussion accounted for 20 per cent of the evaluation.

Train Hit Car

Lloyd Hambleton, 25 of Dalkeith, escaped serious injury Thursday of last week when his car was struck by a freight train at the Dalkeith level crossing.

The car was carried 70 feet down the track and was wrecked, but its driver escaped with a slight concussion, minor abrasions and a bump on the head. He was treated at Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

The train was travelling from Glen Robertson to Hawkesbury when the accident occurred at the noon hour. OPP Constable McClements investigated.

Carnival At Glen A Big Success

Biggest success ever in the way members of the Glen Robertson Recreation Centre describe their annual carnival which closed Saturday night with the crowning of the new queen at a dance attended by some 800.

Destined to reign at next year's carnival is Rhea Deceour, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deceour, who was crowned by Carnival Queen Francine Vachon. She was attended by her princesses, Suzanne Rozon and Diane Sauve.

The new queen earned her crown by selling a record, 2,305 books of tickets on the carnival draw. Her princesses will be Louise Oumet and Diane Quenneville.

A total of 5,493 books of tickets were sold by the five contestants for queen and their supporters to ensure success of the carnival. Winners in the draw were: $200, Leo Therrien, RR2 Williamstown; $50, Pierre Brown, Quebec City; $50, Eric Pilon, St. Raphael's.

Some 135 snowmobiles participated in the trail torch ride the previous Saturday night when another large crowd attended the opening dance.

Blitz Topped $500

A total of $503.70 was raised for the Ability Fund in the blitz carried out Monday, Feb. 7, by the marching mothers of the town. Mrs. Rod MacDonald was general chairman of the drive. Proceeds were almost identical to last year's.

WOLF PELTS BOUNTY-BOUND—Members of the Apple Hill hunt club were in town Monday to apply for the $25 bounty on each of these seven wolves that have fallen to their guns recently. The pelts will also bring another $19, the average price being paid at the North Bay fur auction, reports Bob Ramsbottom, area wildlife supervisor. The Apple Hill nimrods hunt as a gang and as many as 20 area hunters take part in their outings at varying

Lochiel Reeve Gerard Massie Is Chairman Area Planning Board

Acting chairman of the Area Planning Board since it was formed, Gerard Massie, reeve of Lochiel, was confirmed in that post last Thursday night when the board held its first meeting in 1972.

Present were its planning consultants and a budget for 1972 was approved at $16,110. It is made up of:

Cost of official plan $14,005
Consultants 600
Office expenses 1,505
Levies to cover the costs were assigned as follows:

| Municipality | Rate | Amount |
|----------------|--------|------------|
| Alexandria | 29.14% | $4,694.45 |
| Lancaster V. | 3.08% | 496.19 |
| Maxville | 4.76% | 766.84 |
| Lancaster Twp. | 27.64% | 4,452.80 |
| Lochiel | 20.01% | 3,223.61 |
| Kenyon | 15.37% | 2,476.11 |

Each municipality will be represented equally on the board by one council representative to serve for one year, and one representative at large to serve for three years. For the next two years, delegates at large have been designated for one, two and three years.

As the designated municipality, Alexandria's town council passed the necessary by-law at Tuesday's meeting appointing the membership for 1972. In the following list representatives of council are named first and representatives at large are shown with the number of years they will serve:

Lancaster Village: Walter Milnes, Leonard MacLachlan, (1 year).

Maxville: H. A. Quart, W. R. MacEwen (2 years).

Alexandria: Laurier Lefebvre, Bruno Lalonde (3 years).

Kenyon: Albert Faubert, Angus H. McDowell (1 year).

Lancaster Twp.: Lionel Glaude, C. R. Simmons (2 years).

Lochiel: Gerard Massie, Gerard St. Onge (3 years).

and consented to the Company's plan.

Contacted yesterday, Mr. Gaumont stated final plans are being worked out this week at Montreal and the addition may be constructed in one of two locations on the property. He could add only that a new weave-knit operation is contemplated and that some 50 job openings would involve mostly men. Ground would be broken in the spring.

Parent Company officials refused to elaborate in early December when the office of Regional Economic Expansion at Ottawa reported a grant of $222,000 was being made to Square C Textiles. It was based on estimated cost of a $1,404,000 addition to the local plant for processing, dyeing and finishing of woven and knitted synthetic textiles, and 41 new jobs.

Lan-Char Committee Kicks Off Campaign For Medical Clinic Funds

Plans for the proposed new medical clinic to be built at Lancaster by Lan-Char Enterprises Ltd., were shown at a wine and cheese party held Friday night in St. Joseph's Centre at Lancaster. The party was in the nature of a kick-off for a campaign to sell shares in the enterprise.

The objective is sale of 200 shares at $100 each to cover major cost of construction but the committee will also accept donations in lesser amounts.

Most of those in attendance pledged to purchase at least one share and anyone wishing to participate can do so through any member of the committee.

In the absence of Dr. H. K. Abbey, chairman of Lan-Char Enterprises, Archibald Macdonell chaired the gathering, explaining the project and the proposed method of financing. A plan to tie-in the medical centre with a winter works grant had to be shelved because of a lack of capital, Mr. Macdonell explained, and a more modest building is now proposed, one that would house two doctors or a doctor and dentist. Estimated cost is $30,000 to $35,000 and it is expected the clinic would be self-supporting within two years.

Lancaster Township Reeve Alex McNaughton presented a copy of a council motion granting $5,000 over a three-year period. Reeve Adrian Gaddis of Charlottenburgh, felt his council would match that grant at its meeting this week and Village Reeve W. J. Cumming reported his council would donate the site, part of the Smith property on the Williamstown road. Village council will also survey the property, widen and pave Victoria St. and provide street lighting.

Ole F. Villeneuve, MPP, complimented the committee on its initiative and expressed confidence in the project and the community response that would carry it to completion.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

A Doctor In The House

A letter to the editor in another column of this page is critical of area medical men because of their reluctance to make a house call. It is a complaint that is frequently aired, not only in this area, and it apparently is breeding a resentment that may not be equally deserved among all members of the profession.

Some area doctors make some house calls, we know; but some do so with a reluctance that is only too apparent.

Time brings change and the changing times have seen the virtual extinction of the country doctor of old. Always on call, he was ready and willing to travel the concessions at any hour of the day or night, bringing his comforting presence to the ailing through all kinds of weather.

It would be unrealistic to expect that kind of service even beyond the call of duty, in a day and age when most other sectors of society are demanding and getting an ever-shorter work week with more fringe benefits. People are more oriented to leisure than the work ethic today, and members of the professions can be expected to be attuned to the times.

More hospital beds are more easily accessible and within the financial reach of all under today's medical and hospital plans. It is probably true in many instances that the doctor can more effectively treat patients at the hospital than in their own homes. Hospital staff and facilities may be unnecessarily made use of in many cases, though, and there is a natural aversion against going to hospital, as instanced in the case that prompted this letter to the editor.

The younger element may take trips to the hospital in stride but ingrained in their elders might be the dread that that journey could prove a one-way ticket. While appreciating the benefit to the community their hospital constituents, they are quite satisfied to have others make use of it.

Understandable it is that doctors prefer to see their patients at the hospital but many people resent that impersonal atmosphere and feel that it is being overdone. Frequently current too, are stories of emergency calls being refused and of the inability to reach any doctor, especially on Wednesdays when one is supposed to be on call.

Medical men are as entitled to leisure hours as is any other segment of society. Those periods of relaxation are probably more prone to interruption since medical services became "free" under a provincial health plan and the doctor cannot be faulted for refusing house calls he has reason to feel are flighty. When an actual emergency arises, though, he or one of his colleagues should be quickly available.

It is this failure of a doctor to respond in an emergency that does a disservice to the entire profession.

Parable Of The Corn

There was a man who was in the business of raising chickens. However, he raised no corn to feed the birds and the hens refused to lay eggs unless they were fed.

Nearby there was a farmer who grew large quantities of corn, so the chicken-farmer went to him and offered to work one day each week for a wage of $5.00.

The agreement was made, the chicken-farmer went to work each week, earned five dollars and gave the money back to the farmer in return for five bushels of corn.

For a time everyone was happy. The hens got their corn, their owner earned five dollars a week and the farmer had the labor of the chicken farmer one day each week.

Then one day the chicken farmer went to the farmer and said: "The price of everything is going up so much that I cannot work for less than $7.50 per day".

The farmer agreed that that seemed fair enough, but added: "I agree that prices are going up and that you should get $7.50 per day, but prices have gone up for me too and I can't sell you a bushel of corn for less than $1.50".

The chicken farmer agreed that that was fair, so he worked for $7.50 per day and paid $7.50 for five bushels of corn.

Finally he got $10.00 per day and paid $2.00 a bushel for corn.

And the farmer was happy and said to his wife: "Things are good. I get two dollars a bushel for my corn".

And the chicken farmer said to his wife: "Things are good. I get ten dollars a day for my labor".

And the statistician said: "Isn't this wonderful: National incomes are at new high levels".

And the politicians bragged about it and said: "It was our party that did this for you".

Everybody felt so good about it that they voted for the politicians.

Make Work Incentives Don't Work

Another of those communiques from the federal department of regional economic expansion reached our desk on the weekend in its important-looking huge brown envelope. To help create 19 new jobs at Barry's Bay, Honorable Jean Marchand is pleased to announce his department is supplying $87,000 to Adventure Charcoal Enterprises of Toronto. That sum represents 15 per cent of approved capital costs, estimated at $202,000, plus $3,000 for each job created.

Similar news releases reach us regularly with their reports of generous government incentive grants and one is left wondering how many hundreds of millions of dollars Mr. Marchand's department has lavished. It would be interesting too, to find out how many actual new jobs have been created through this incentive program.

We doubt the new job openings created by these regional development incentives would come anywhere near approximating the number of workers losing their employment as established industries close down. And yet the economic factors forcing so many industries to suspend operations include high levels of taxation required to finance Mr. Marchand's incentive grants and other questionable government make-work programs.

The pulp and paper industry is among the hardest hit and there have been mill closures in Quebec, New Brunswick and Newfoundland while most other paper companies are cutting back on production and closing whole sections of plants. Rising rates of taxation by all three levels of government are progressively reducing the general ability to compete in world markets and the paper makers are now asking both provincial and federal governments for reductions or exemptions from present taxes that would keep their mills competitive with those of less heavily taxed countries.

An entire company town in Northern Quebec faces extinction with word last week that Canadian International Paper would close one of its oldest mills, throwing some 800 men out of work. Its production is no longer competitive on world markets, in part because of high taxation, and so its entire work force faces unemployment. Yet some of the taxes imposed on such existing industry is being used by Mr. Marchand's department to underwrite a big new paper mill in another area of Quebec.

Somehow it doesn't make sense when existing industry is priced out of employment to pay taxes that are used by government as make-work incentives. If those millions Mr. Marchand is dispensing were turned back to private industry by way of lower taxes there might be no need for a department of regional economic expansion.

Survey Shows Benefits Of Fluoridation

Alexandria's municipal water supply is slowly but steadily being improved but we have yet to hear of any public demand for fluoridation. Parents of growing children, it seems, are indifferent to the sad state of their teeth; or they have yet to be convinced that the addition of fluoride to a municipal water supply can work wonders in reducing dental caries.

Dentists and dental societies have been advocating fluoridation of water supplies over several decades and there have been many reports of surveys to substantiate the fact that fluoride works effectively in preserving teeth.

One such is a dental health report on the counties of Leeds, Grenville and Lanark completed last week. It indicates fluoride is the reason for improved dental health of public and separate school students in those counties.

Three years in the making, it shows that pupils living in centres with a fluoridated water supply have better dental health than pupils from areas where the chemical is not used. The value of fluoridation of drinking water in Brockville, Perth, Prescott, Carleton Place and Smiths Falls continues to reflect on the improved dental health of children born and living continuously in these centres, the report states.

It found that children up to 12 years of age showed superior secondary teeth with fewer than expected premature losses and less evidence of cavities. Dental health was in good balance in schools where most students drank fluoridated water. In schools where students were not exposed to fluoride, dental health was far below average.

A survey of dental health in primary schools of this area has been underway for some time, as we recall. It would be interesting to know the dental condition of Alexandria youngsters and we doubt not the findings will compare unfavorably with those of Perth and other towns that fluoridate their water supplies.

At little cost Alexandria could provide improved dental health for its young people. All that is needed is public opinion sufficiently aroused as to demand fluoridation of our water supply.

EDITOR

NOT FOR HOUSE CALLS

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

My somewhat sporadic reading of your sometimes interesting paper leads me to believe that the local citizens take some pride in their community and its services and that their energies are in part dedicated toward the good life. Toward this end a modern hospital has been established with its various attendant services and there is no doubt that this institution is a significant blessing. Apart from all other benefits it provides an outlet for public spirited citizens to indulge in a public service and permits local politicians to have their pictures taken from time to time.

There have also been various incentives to attract physicians to the community to practice their humanitarian profession and this too has been, I am told, a considerable success with many promising young men having settled in this local Garden of Eden. Prayers are said for them and their work almost every Sunday.

It was therefore with some surprise that an unfortunate incident

"Give Them A Blast"

"We get lots of suggestions for editorials," declares editor Ken Campbell of the Strathroy Age-Dispatch, and he mentions a few of them received on an average week:

"How come they . . . ha, ha, ha . . . painted a white strip on Caradoc Street . . . ha, ha, ha, then paved over top . . . ha, ha, ha . . . then painted a new set of lines, then . . . ha, ha, ha . . . dug up the streets. (We might add that this fellow rejected our suggestion that he run for council and put a stop to this sort of thing).

Isn't it kind of dangerous for that telephone booth beside the wall of that burned out building on Front Street to be used?

Has Middlesex County Council or Strathroy or anybody decided whose job it is to take some action getting that vacant house on Front Street cleaned up?

Aren't you going to give them a blast for ordering parking meters for Front and Frank Streets?

Aren't you going to give them a blast for not ordering those parking meters for Front and Frank Streets yet?

Aren't you going to give them a blast for not telling us what is going on with parking meters for downtown?

Why don't nobody turn out for nothing in this town? Give them a blast.

Why is everything for boys in this town? Why isn't there something occasionally for girls?

Why don't they do something?"

RAMBLING REPORTER

THIS KIND OF FENCING WE GO FOR

They're taking up fencing at the high school, somebody mentioned early last week and darned if we liked the idea. We'd rather have a fence come down than see one abiding. "Don't fence me in" is one of our mottoes and why should they have to teach kids to build fences when the trend is from small farms to big ones that presumably won't need as many fences.

"But it isn't that kind of fencing," says he, cutting off our tirade, and our mind immediately jumped to other kinds of fencing. Surely they're not planning to turn out the kind of graduate who'd go in for buying stolen goods, we decided, and so it must be verbal fencing they're taking up, debating and parrying questions, vocal ripostes that might come in handy for a budding lawyer.

It never entered our head the art of duelling was making a comeback in a day when the quick rub out is accomplished with an automatic rifle or machine gun. We hadn't heard sword play was being taught at even the university level but this kind of fencing we'll go for as a new high school sport.

It's cool. In fact they used to call it cold steel in a day when the knight of old was defending the honor of his fair lady with thrusts and lunges and parries. It was even a romantic way to die, far more so than today's blast of lead poisoning, the zip blade or a conk over the head with a tire chain.

If this kind of fencing proves popular in the schools it could in time mean a resurrection of more honorable codes of conduct like in those romantic days of King Arthur and the Round Table. We might even see a bit more honor among thieves if the saved-off shotgun gave way to the sword.

This course in fencing, though, isn't intended to bring duelling back, Stan Fraser tells us. As he sees it, fencing is great for foot work and quick reflexes. It develops a quick eye, poise, graceful motion and it's not meant to make the blood flow too freely. The duelists are amply protected against even an inch of steel.

Wouldn't it be nice, though, if the blade could be used to sheer off a few inches of hair without nicking eye or ear.

Today's young blades, with their rapier wit, may choose to their fencing with broad swords.

MAKE THE PENALTY FIT THE CRIME.

One of the most unsightly forms of littering must be that blob of cigarette butts dumped on the roadside by some irresponsible driver intent on emptying his car ashtray. A single cigarette butt mashed underfoot on the sidewalk can be eyesore enough, but en masse those ashtray leavings are so ugly, especially against a backdrop of snow, they leave one wondering what kind of a pig pen the litterer lives in.

Surely anyone even a bit fastidious about one's home doesn't develop such gross habits merely by entering one's car. The person who thinks nothing of littering the landscape must be a messy one to pick up behind in his own home and backyard.

This is a particularly revolting type of littering and we're happy to see one of these ashtray dumpers being brought to task at Toronto.

The complainant in the case said he saw a woman stop a convertible on Yonge Street, get out and dump the contents of an ashtray. At another intersection she emptied a second ashtray and this prompted the complainant to note the car's licence plate number.

The charge under the Highway Traffic Act was the first to come out of a private complaint against littering. It will be heard March 8th and the maximum penalty is $50.

That no doubt will be reduced to the usual $10 and costs if the litterer is found guilty. A more effective penalty, we'd think, would be a court order to force the litterer to return to the scene of her crime and pick up all those unsightly butts she dumped.

Their place is in the car driver's home garbage.

Smudged with lipstick, those ashtray leavings dumped on the street make us see red.

TO DEMONSTRATE HOBBIES

Winter weather, and 16 inch snowfalls, tend to keep one confined to the house. Then is the time to follow a hobby.

George Matsell believes this, and finds time goes all too swiftly for the many interests he has developed.

He will demonstrate some of these on Friday, February 25th, to members of the Women's Institute, and all others interested in occupying their time.

Mrs. John Sinclair, will give a talk on Health.

Members will please meet at 7.30 p.m., general audience at 8 p.m., Maxville Community Hall.

Everyone is welcome, so come along and spend an hour with us, any enjoy a cup of our famous tea.

BLIZZARD CUT SHORT BLIZZARD BLAST

Blizzard Blast, Maxville High School's annual winter carnival commenced on Feb. 2nd with Scruff Day. The students were asked to wear anything they wished, so long as it was clean. Prizes were awarded to the best costumes and they were: 1st, Jennifer Franklin, 2nd Debbie Grant and 3rd Ronnie Bradley.

Thursday was Green and White Day, with the students dressed in these colors. Prizes were again awarded. This time first went to Phyllis Colbran, Bonnie Bradley second and third Jennifer Franklin. Judging of the Carnival Queen beauty pageant took place Thursday at the school. The judges were Dr. Conn, Mrs. Theoret and Constable Deveau. This was the first time it was held at night and many parents and friends came.

Each girl was asked to display a talent and speak on a topic at random. Second Princess is Shelley MacPhee (a Grade 12 student) who put on a fine display of dancing the Sailor's Hornpipe. First Princess is Delane Lariviere, (Grade 13), who sang "Cotton Ginny" accompanied by guitarists. Miss Carnival Queen of 1972-73 is Joanne Guindon of Apple Hill. She sang "Mr. Tamborine Man".

The princesses each received corsages and the queen got one dozen red roses. They also received various gifts donated by local stores and restaurants. The Sadie Hawkins Dance was cut short by the storm and a few didn't even make it home that night. The rest of the "Blizzard Blast" events have been postponed until after the midterm exams on account of the blizzard!

occurred some weeks ago. It seems that an elderly gentleman, 87 years of age at the time, living with an almost equally venerable brother about seven or eight miles out of Alexandria, injured his leg and was forced to take to his bed. His condition grew worse and the sick man could not be persuaded to allow himself to be taken to the hospital. His condition was reported to some of his children living in distant parts. These, with the benefit of the long distance telephone, attempted to have their father taken to the hospital but he steadfastly refused. In desperation one of his sons sought the assistance of first one doctor and then another, again by long distance telephone and finally canvassed all the practicing doctors in the community in a vain attempt to have one of them make a house call on the aged parent. They all refused.

Finally this frustrated son in desperation came from Toronto and physically transported the now seriously ill parent to the hospital where the professional men were able to reach him with the felicity which they require and time and attention worked a miraculous cure.

There must, however, be some answer to this seeming professional obscenity but so far it has escaped the undersigned. Perhaps you or some of your readers have an explanation.

Yours very truly,
A. G. Sweeney.

CHEESE PRICES

To the editor,
The Glengarry News,

How many remember back in July and August when the cheddar cheese price climbed steadily to as high as $1.00 per pound? The reason for this hike was the Belleville Cheese Exchange where it was sold for an all time high of 75c per pound. The farmers finally received a raise based on the cheese price.

Since that time the price of cheese has gone down to 64c per pound with the resulting drop in returns to farmers; but what has happened at the supermarkets? Almost nothing! The price to the consumer should have come down by at least 10 cents. Has it? Consumers and farmers alike should inform the managers and owners of stores that the price has come down and that you want the saving that should be coming to you. In a world where everyone takes as much as he can get, it is only through informing the storekeeper of your feelings that anything can be done about the unfair cheese price.

Letters To The Editor

THE MEANING OF SOCIALISM

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

Ottawa, Ont.

The federal government has many members who pose as Liberal, Conservative or NDP but who are dedicated Socialists. Two of our provinces have recently elected Socialist governments. Step by step Canada is being changed into a Socialist State. We wonder if Canadians realize what Socialism really is and what it can do to damage the Canadian economy.

in England, under the leadership of Sydney and Beatrice Webb and George Bernard Shaw, using the weapon of Social reform and Human Welfare, began their plan of wrecking the British Empire. Later this same plan known as Socialism was brought to the United States in order to reduce that country to a shambles.

Now we see this same scheme being introduced into our Government by men previously known to favor the Socialist idea but now posing as Liberals.

At the close of the last war Britain was a respected nation. She could have recovered her stability and strength even though her sacrifices were tremendous in both men and money. But two succeeding governments followed Socialist ideas. A majority of the electorate voted for the Labor Party in 1945 and that government under Clement Attlee proceeded to use its power over the people. They extended war-time controls, appropriated property and restricted and harassed the people.

The government undertook redistribution. They levied high income taxes, taxed luxury goods at high rates, controlled food prices, clothing and shelter. Not only that but they provided free Medical Services, pensions and otherwise helped those with small incomes. The more they distributed, the less they had to distribute. By 1948 rations had fallen below the war-time average.

In a very short time the Socialists were able to wreck what remained of a once healthy economy. This was caused by nationalization, controls, regulations and restrictions. The initiative for action was taken from the people and given to a bureaucracy. Industries which were taken over were placed under the authority of Boards. They proceeded to make prisoners of the people and free enterprise was lost.

In general terms the program of Socialism is to substitute government for private enterprise, to put all productive industry under State administration, thus making the State the sole employer and placing all workers in the employ of the State. In other words, all means of production are nationalized. Consider the huge army of government clerks it requires to handle the administrative duties of a Socialist State.

Consider the number of huge, high-rise buildings which have been built in Ottawa since the close of the last war. These buildings are filled with government employees all busy with their paper work. All business connected with the war, 1939-1945, as well as the usual work connected with government business was done with far fewer employees in less and much smaller buildings than the huge complexes dotted over the landscape (even in Hull) with the army of employees arriving in Ottawa almost daily.

The leaders of Communist countries name their system of government, Socialism. Where does Socialism masquerade as Liberalism lead us? It has nowhere to go but to Communism, unless it is stopped by the voters. The Welfare State is not inevitable. Our future like our past will be just what we make of it. If we take from a man the personal responsibility of caring for the needs of his family, then he becomes a slave of government. In a Guaranteed Annual Income demanded by Socialists, we must realize this is part of a Socialist plan and it certainly would not be a cure-all for all the ills of society.

Where indeed does any government get the money to finance these Socialist schemes which are being forced on our people? The more Socialism, the greater the tax burden. Money to support these plans must come from the people and nowhere else.

One of the chief economic problems in Russia before Communism was to find an export market for its huge surplus of grain. Now the USSR is forced to import from Capitalist countries. Argentina was once the world's principal producer and exporter of beef. As a result of Socialist theories and government interference, domestic sale of beef is only allowed every second week.

One could go on to cite other examples of ruinous consequences all brought on by Socialism being applied to government policies. Ignorance and refusal to realize the results of Socialism may destroy in a single generation, the progress that it took many past generations to achieve. The percentage of correct decisions which men may make is very high when they are risking their own money and their own future. But the percentage of correct decisions is very low indeed when made by politicians, so-called intellectuals and others, regardless of their intelligence, who are not faced with the discipline of having to pay for their mistakes with their own earnings.
