Public Hearing Tuesday, Here, Found Cheese Industry Far From Happy

More than a dozen briefs were presented to a government committee studying the cheese industry when it held a public hearing in the Ag. Rep's office, Alexandria, on Tuesday. The hearing lasted from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. and was one of a series being held across Ontario.

The cheese industry is not happy, it was made clear in the briefs presented by cheese manufacturers, representatives of the trade, suppliers and other farm groups. The committee, set up by provincial Agriculture Minister William Stewart to find out the status of the industry and its major problem areas, is now digesting the problems presented by area cheese-makers.

One of the industry's major gripes appears to be price restrictions for cheese set by the federal government during the winter.

It has set a floor price of 47 cents per pound from May 1 to Nov. 1 and 42 cents during the remaining months, to discourage winter production.

The committee is also trying to establish the disposition of fodder cheese and an alternative outlet for cheese milk during the winter months.

It also hopes to tabulate reaction from the industry to the establishment of alternative cheese products and variety cheese making.

Jack Bain of Toronto, chairman of the committee of inquiry chaired the meeting.

Among organizations presenting briefs were the Glengarry and Stormont County Milk Committees, Kraft Foods Co., Quigley Cheese Manufacturing Co., Glengarry Federation of Agriculture, the Stormont local of the Farmers Union and the Cheese Manufacturers' Assoc. of Ontario.

Hearings were also held at Kemptville yesterday and at Belleville today.

Barn Fire Near Martintown Cut Power Over Area

Alexandria, Maxville, Apple Hill and a large rural area were without power for nearly four hours yesterday as a result of a barn fire in the Martintown area. The flames spread to Hydro poles on the main line from Cornwall and the resulting power interruption lasted from 2:10 p.m. to 5:45.

The barn on the farm of Romeo Leroux, 1½ miles south of Martintown, was completely destroyed by the flames, discovered about 2 o'clock. Some 3,000 bales of last year's hay were lost with the barn and the flames spread behind a fresh west wind to consume Hydro poles and threaten the home of Kenneth Barton, Jr., across the road from the Leroux farm.

Fire brigades from Martintown and Williamstown worked effectively and were assisted by area residents in containing the fire.

ness of our editor, it is my happy privilege to report what has already been done and what is planned.

First of all, an aerial photograph of the whole town, a copy of which hangs in the town office, was finished two years ago by Spartan Airway of Ottawa. This photo is invaluable because a contour map can be made from it. This map will show the heights of land, slope, proximity of buildings and general layout of streets. This information is vital in planning the size and direction of storm and sanitary sewers, the locating of water mains and the grading, building and surface drainage of streets.

It is customary that a 25 per cent grant of cost be given by the County involved along with a 25 per cent grant from the Attorney General's Office. The cost in towns already planned has been approximately $30 per lot. With a 50% grant this figures at a $15 involvement. Amortized over two years this reaches a figure of $7.50 per lot. The value of such a plan far outweighs the cost when

IT'S OUR OPINION

A Privileged Popular Couple

Our newspaper file of 60 years ago records the marriage of Peter J. Morris and Mima McPhee. Ten years ago we reported the reunion of family and friends that marked their golden wedding date and this week we are delighted to be publishing an account of their diamond anniversary celebration.

The 60th wedding date is a milestone of longevity few couples are privileged to reach. Of those that do, few retain a youthful outlook and vigor to match that evidenced by Mr. and Mrs. Morris at their anniversary mass and the celebration that followed on Saturday.

Another enviable feature of that celebration was the presence of all their children, as well as their children's children for two generations more. Not too many families so evidence the hardy, healthy stock from whence they sprang as to survive intact even into their fifties. That interim of ten years since the golden date was marked has seen the start of a fourth generation, with not one subtraction from the family circle.

This, no doubt, was something Peter and Mima gave thanks for at their anniversary mass. Their legion of friends are thankful they have been spared to maintain one of Alexandria's most hospitable homes through almost 60 years.

It's Holiday Time

We publish no paper next week as this office shuts down for annual staff holidays. In making the announcement other years we have emphasized the point that readers should not blame the postal services for non-arrival of this one issue. This time such is not necessary for the postal services have been to blame for two previous issues not reaching subscribers beyond the confines of this county.

Surely the government will step in soon if the postal unions show no signs of a reconciliation. Surely the public good that is so seriously being hurt by the halt in postal services will not be longer ignored by a government that has so recently been given the mandate to administer national services.

This is Prime Minister Trudeau's first real test of his qualities of leadership and millions who voted him into office are fast reaching the point of total frustration. If his government fails to take a firm stand with these obstreperous employees of the public service there will be a feeling of unease, of uncertainty as to what is ahead if Canada is to be ill-served at Ottawa as it was in the Pearson-Diefenbaker decade.

Not Just Another For The Traffic Toll

Society pays an awful price in dead and injured for today's ease of travel. Accidents are a daily occurrence and their frequency tends to harden us into an acceptance of the traffic toll as something almost inevitable.

There are exceptions, though, accidents especially tragic in their circumstance and involving innocent victims that stir the entire community to protest. Such a senseless tragedy one night last week took the life of one of our conferees in this office, Mrs. Phyllis Mosher. Walking home from a neighborhood store this gentle, friendly mother of four was battered to death by a speeding car that did not stop.

As one person put it: "It seems as though the whole town is mourning". Shocked and saddened, Alexandrians were and vocal in their criticism of the speeding that is said to be commonplace on Bishop Street since it was widened and resurfaced. It was only a matter of time until something dreadful like this happened, residents along that street aver.

Unhappily, Mrs. Mosher was that first victim. The tragic death of so widely known and popular a person might serve some purpose if public indignation led to some lasting reforms. More responsible driving practices, not only on Bishop Street, might save other lives, including those of the drivers. Stricter traffic control could weed out the proven irresponsible driver, if the courts and police combined to show less leniency.

Local police work might be improved in the aftermath. Have any of our constabulary had any training in first-aid, even the St. John's Ambulance course? Should they not be trained to meet emergencies the ordinary citizen cannot cope with? Our town is fortunate enough to be free of catastrophe but we might feel more secure

Cities Already Too Large

Montreal is in serious financial straits, notes an editorial in the Gazette. A crisis is approaching and it can be averted only by seriously and permanently enlarging municipal tax sources. Most of the larger cities across Canada face the same problem of over-spending on a limited tax base, according to the Gazette, and it is in the Canadian cities that the most pressing problems of growth have to be faced.

The movement of the country's population is toward the cities. The Economic Council of Canada estimates that by 1980 from 70 to 81 per cent of the people of this country will be living in cities. And Montreal, together with Toronto and Vancouver, will have one Canadian in every three living within their boundaries.

How is city growth on this scale to be financed? Certainly not by the tax revenues that are at present available to the cities. The principal source of municipal revenue is, of course, the tax on real estate. This base was reasonable enough in the days when civic services were few and cheap. But today the base is too narrow. And it is narrowed still more because the tax on real estate has to be shared by the municipalities with the school commissions.

It is a problem faced by towns and villages, too, and a re-arrangement of the tax sources between the various levels of government would probably be an improvement over the present grant system. Federal and provincial grants serve as an inducement to over-spending by municipal governments and there would probably be more business-like budgeting if the local governments had to do their own taxing to finance expenditures.

Our larger cities may need special help in the way of tax sources but additional revenue will not solve their problems which stem from overgrowth. Montreal, Toronto and other cities are already unhealthfully large. The forecast that one in three Canadians will be living in three of our cities in little more than a decade promises a concentration of population that will ill affect the economy of the entire nation.

Governments should be doing everything possible to change the trend, to alter the flow of population and divert industry to the small towns and rural areas. Instead the planners in government are bent on depopulating the countryside, encouraging what they term the fringe farmer into leaving the land to swell the ranks of the city jobs.

So the problems of cities, already too large, grow and multiply.

FRENCH-CANADIAN CULTURE?

It is questionable whether there is, in this day of rapid communications, any "national" culture remaining in the Western World. That is why the term "French-Canadian Culture" is a pretty nebulous one . . . one that is used too loosely by too many people who do not know what "culture" is all about.

NEED STIMULATION

This country today is basically occupied with a levelling of society rather than a building of new economic strength. We accept dependency on government rather than teach creative risk. The young need stimulation and challenge. Here is one explanation for fast cars, reckless use of drugs and a general approach to living that has shades of wildness in it.

TAXPAYER SWINDLED

The findings of the auditor-general have consistently shown that the federal government annually mis-spends millions of dollars and no one seems to care . . . To some extent, every taxpayer is being swindled by the government. The influence of that swindle is to stifle personal initiative and create a mood where the government isn't for the people but against them.

PROBLEMS ON DOORSTEP

The serious labor troubles that confront Prime Minister Trudeau at the very beginning of his career—the disputes in the seaway, the railways and the post office—are not a group of separate cases, which happen to have come together by coincidence. They are all parts of a single problem. It is the problem of strikes in essential public services. The problem is certainly not one that has arrived for the first time. Mr. Trudeau's predecessors in office were confronted by it too. But this problem of strikes in the public services, so long unsolved, can scarcely be left unanswered. Some prime minister, at some time, will have to come to grips with it.

EMPHASIS ON YOUTH

At one time, many years ago, it used to be considered something extraordinary for a man in his 20s or 30s to be elected either to the provincial or federal parliaments. This is no longer so and there is no better evidence of the change in our own immediate area. Atikokan is represented in the Ontario legislature by Thomas Patrick (Pat) Reid, the youngest member of the house who is still in his early 20s. In the last federal election, when we were part of the Ecnora-Rainy River district, our representative was John Reid, Pat's brother, who also achieved election for the first time while still in his 20s. Now, as part of the Thunder Bay riding, we are represented by Keith Penner of Dryden, who is 35 years of age. Years ago this would have been unheard of. Now it is almost commonplace across the country.

A Forecast For 2000 A.D.

Frank C. Mansfield, News & Notes, East Side Associated Industries, Belleville, Ill.

In the year 2000, the United States will be dominated by at least three gargantuan megalopolises—"Boswash" (extending from Washington to Boston), "Chippitts" (concentrated around the Great Lakes from Chicago to Pittsburgh and north to Canada), and "Sansan" (stretching along the Pacific Coast from Santa Barbara, or even San Francisco, to San Diego).

There will be a $1 trillion economy in 1975, $1.5 trillion in 1985, and about $3 trillion in the year 2000.

There will be a work year of only 1,600 hours, and many Americans will be rich enough to work only a few months each year and then "retire" to pursue their hobbies. (One family in twelve will have—after taxes—an income of at least $50,000 a year.)

Governments will know as much or more about the individual than his own family. His life will be recorded in a central computer bank beginning with his birth and covering his education, employment history, and personal activities.

The main line of national defense will be in outer space. Automation and cybernation are likely to create as many jobs as they eliminate. There will also be widespread household automation; moderately priced robots, to do most of the housework, will probably be available.

A REALLY BIG BAND

After 20 years of annual rambling to the Glengarry Highland Games we thought we'd seen just about everything in the way of pipe bands. But never had we heard of a 50-piece band and we can hardly wait to see this St. Peter's Pipe Band in action.

Sounds like a miniature massed bands performance and we're wondering if so many young pipers can make music that's not more than a little off key. We'll have both eyes and both ears trained on this over-sized entry and if they're not more than a little flat in spots the hat we never wear will be off to these youngsters from Massachusetts.

This St. Peter's band is bound to be the biggest if not the best at Maxville, Saturday, and the anticipation has been building up in us for weeks. The music of one band is enough to "send" your Rambling Reporter. The color and sound of those massed bands send shivers up his spine and he's starting to shiver in anticipation of Saturday's show already.

He may have a different type of the shakes next week when he takes to the air for the first time. The editor is flying out to Saskatoon to take in the Canadian Weeklies convention so your Rambling Reporter is going along. As it happens this will be the first time up for either. They're not at all worried about the take-off; it's how they come down that has them more than a bit concerned.

And so after a busy Games' weekend and a flighty holiday week we'll be back to rambling, we hope.

If you want proof that the music of the pipes is heavenly —St. Peter's band is coming to the Games.

ON THE WAY OUT

There was big talk of big-league baseball for Montreal next year. A franchise had been granted the metropolis, there were plans for a huge covered stadium and six rich backers had agreed to start a team. 12 million dollars to start a team.

Two of those backers backed out last week and the plans for the multi-million dollar stadium are stalled. Seems interested parties are taking a second look—and we think they're smart to do so.

Baseball has been declining in popularity ever since television came along to provide a picture of the game and incidentally wipe out the minor leagues that provided the stars of tomorrow. The brand of ball has been slipping for two decades and the all-seeing eye of the camera permits no build-up on the sports pages of a player to the aura once enjoyed by a Babe Ruth, a Ducky Medwick or a Dizzy Dean.

This year several pitchers may end up with 30 wins, when once a 20-game winner was in the charmed circle. Only eight batters are hitting over .300. "Pitching may be 75 per cent of the game", observes a San Francisco sports-writer, "but hitting is 75 per cent of the gate". Going into the second half of the schedule eleven of the 20 big-league clubs are in the throes of attendance slumps. Ticket sales are way off and ironically many clubs may still be solvent only because of revenue from television, which is killing the sport at the grass roots.

Time magazine takes a look at baseball in its current issue and the conclusions of its sports editor may not be too comforting to Montreal moguls preparing to invest their millions in a big-league franchise. Says Time:

"Interest in baseball has been falling off for years as people discover how exciting other sports and forms of leisure activity can be. Compared with the violence and sophistication of pro football, the frenetic pace of hockey and basketball, baseball seems elementary, antiquated and soporific. It still draws more fans in total than other pro team sports. But that is only because there are 1,620 big-league baseball games each season (v. 182 pro football games). Attendance per game in baseball has actually dropped by 2,639 fans over the past 20 years. Donald-Deskins, a social scientist at the University of Michigan, says the big problem is that baseball simply is out of step with the times. 'It's too slow,' says Deskins. 'It's not action-oriented.'"

The men with money in Montreal might better be investing it in an Alouette football team that isn't exactly dying. But not as a long range investment either.

Television could also kill football if it insists on saturating the airwaves every weekend from noon to midnight. Too much of a good thing kills.

Remember when the Big Four kicked off the season in September? Now it's not even an August occasion.

SOREN SPORRING DIED
Soren M. Sparring died Thursday, July 18, 1938, on the General Hospital, Cornwall. In failing health for nearly a year, he had spent the winter months in Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge and the General Hospital.
A native of Denmark, he emigrated to Canada in early manhood and settled in Saskatchewan where he was a blacksmith by trade.

In 1936, he and his family moved to St. Elmo, and he continued his trade until the outbreak of World War II. Then he and several of his sons enlisted and proceeded to play their part on European battlefields to relieve the allied forces.

On his return the family took up residence in Maxville. Mr. Sparring became employed with D. S. Ferguson and Sons, manufacturers of Ferguson Threshing Mills and continued until ill health forced his retirement.

His remains rested at Munro Funeral Home where the funeral service was conducted on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Henderson of the United Church of which Mr. Sparring was a devout member, Rev. I. D. MacIver of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church conducted the funeral service. Burial was in Maxville cemetery.

Palbearers were Mogens Jensen, J. Rae Ferguson, N. Donald Ferguson, Peter Alex McLean, Eddie Carter and Gordon Munro.

Mr. Sparring is survived by his wife the former Anna Christena Ries, now a resident in Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge, Cornwall; three sons, Chris of Monkland, Peter, Deschene, Que.; Carl in Montreal; and two daughters, Mrs. Anna Hildabough, Cumberland; Mrs. Ina Lindsay, Sydenham, Ont. A number of grandchildren also survive as do two brothers and four sisters.

Lochiel And McCrimmon Decide First Place In Friday Night Final

(by Maurice Sauve)

The regular season schedule is closing this weekend in a special feature fashion. Friday night will see a meeting of Lochiel and McCrimmon to determine first place. Both these teams are tied for first going into this weekend game. In case of a tie, another final-death game will be played next week.

Greenfield and Glen Sandfield are both only two points behind and will be playing Monday night to also break their tie. Playoffs will commence the following Friday and Saturday.

In a rough, speedy game last Saturday, Greenfield battled it out with McCrimmon and won 2-0, joining them with the three other clubs in first place. This is probably the first time in history that all four teams have been all tied for first spot so near the end of the season. Wilbert McDonald and Albert Gill counted for Greenfield.

Lochiel, on Monday night, decided they wouldn't be out-done by Greenfield, so through high-spirited and enthusiastic play managed a 1-0 win which landed them in first place. It took the comeback skill of old pro Hubert Hay to register this winning goal.

McCrimmon came back Tuesday, determined they'd win over Glen Sandfield and that they did, by an upset score of 5-0. This placed McCrimmon in a tie for first place with Lochiel. Rhonda MacSweyn again starred with three goals, Bruce Kennedy one, and Hugh MacGillivray one.

All teams and players are requested to hand in last season's trophies to prepare them for this fall's presentations.

The coming games are Friday, August 2nd, Lochiel vs. McCrimmon; Monday, August 5th, Greenfield vs. Glen Sandfield.

Curlers To Have Fry

Lancaster Curling Club members will hold their annual summer fish fry and dance next Wednesday night, Aug. 7th, at Dan's Place, South Lancaster.

Fresh perch will be served between 7 and 9 p.m. and boat rides will be provided by the Flaro family. Dancing will follow. Bud Algire is chairman of the event.

Glens Finished In Second Spot

The Junior Glens finished their season in a strong second spot behind Morrisburg and now awaits the play-offs. Cornwall Wildcats and Celtics were tied at third spot and the play-off alignment awaits breaking of that deadlock.

Children who failed the July course are encouraged to retake the course. Those who passed are allowed to move to the next category.

Lacrosse Notes

(by Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald)

The Glengarry District Lacrosse Association has been offered an Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association playoff. This would mean teams from Ottawa, Morrisburg, Cornwall and the entire Eastern Ontario area would hold their initial playoffs here. It would entail upwards of 200 boys from six to 16 in the Tyke, Pee-wee, Bantam and Midget categories over an entire weekend.

The local Association will hold a meeting on Thursday night to discuss the possibilities of accepting the offer. We would need a lot of help, but surely there are enough district people who would be willing to help put our town on the map as a "Lacrosse Town" rather than see this offer rejected. How about it folks; we would appreciate a call to let us know if you are with us and can lend a hand.

In the Junior game against the Wildcats here on Tuesday night, Larry Harrison suffered a broken wrist. It was our first major injury this season and took place in the last game of the regular schedule, so it put a damper on the locals 15-5 win.

Junior scoring was by Archie McPherson 5, Charlie O'Brien and Norman Menard 3 each. Glen Allan McPherson 2, Don Blackadder and Danny O'Brien 1 each.

Our Midgets earned a win and tie with Cornwall in play with Cornwall in two games.

In Monday night's game here it was a 6-5 win. Our goals were all singles by "Junior" Lalonde, Jean Louis Menard, Donnie McRae, Brian Jos, Jimmie and Blair MacDonald. Scoring for Cornwall were Ray Scott 2, Robert Beaudette, Roy Ledoux, Peter Amyott and Art Sinfield.

In a return match in Cornwall Tuesday night the score was 7-7. Blair MacDonald notched five, Jimmy MacDonald 1 and Chris McDonald 1. Art Sinfield counted 4 for Cornwall, Gerry Burns 2 and Ray Scott 1.

Four teams of our ten and under Tykes and novices took part in a tournament in Cornwall last Saturday. The novices lost both their games to Cornwall and Morrisburg while in the Tykes Alexandria upended Cornwall's Graveyard Trailers 5-4 but were defeated by Cornwall V and L 8-5 in the final game.

Agricultural Minister Spent Friday In Glengarry On E. Ontario Tour

Hon. William A. Stewart, Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food, spent Friday in Glengarry when he toured much of the county with Ag. Rep. Jim Humphries. Mr. Stewart was primarily interested in drainage and corn production and had Mr. Humphries drop in on farms that caught his interest. He was accompanied by Bob Carbert, associate director of the department's information branch.

The Minister of Agriculture had attended a farm family day at Finch on Thursday and had also spent Wednesday touring the United Counties.

"There is a great potential for corn production in Eastern Ontario," Mr. Stewart stated following his tour. "The ideal soil, the new early maturing varieties of seed corn and the leadership provided by Kempsville Agriculture College are all contributing factors to this new development in the area."

But, Mr. Stewart had a few words of advice and caution to the farmers in the eastern counties.

"The Nation River Project is essential to the development of Eastern Ontario," he warned. "I have high hopes that the people of Eastern Ontario will accept the offer of the federal and provincial governments to develop the projects that have been considered essential for flood control, better drainage, summer water storage and outlets for municipal drainage systems. We will do everything possible to encourage the successful development of these projects."

Turning to the production of corn, Mr. Stewart stressed that it is necessary for farmers to follow rigidly the formula for growing corn. Part of this formula is securing a soil analysis which will indicate the proper amounts of fertilizer that should be applied.

Mr. Stewart also pointed out that he felt corn growers don't need a lot of expensive farm machinery for the harvesting of corn. A corn-picker and storage cribs should be all that is necessary with the farmer trying to hold at

Counties Clerk Kennedy Has Part To Play In Make-Up Of Board

L. L. Kennedy, clerk-treasurer of the United Counties, has been given the task of determining the number of public and separate school supporters to be elected to the new general board of education. The new board will take over administration of public and high schools in the Counties as of Jan. 1.

He also disclosed this week that United Counties Council will be required to divide the United Counties into wards for election of the 14 trustees required. This will have to be done before Sept. 1, in accordance with the Secondary Schools and Boards of Education Amendment Act 1968.

There are 21 municipalities in the United Counties, including the city of Cornwall. Combined population is 92,725. Thus, some of the wards will involve more than one municipality. Small villages are expected to be lumped with townships to reach the required balance.

Contract Signed For Township Area Public School At Avonmore

Culminating months of planning, climaxed by approval by the Ontario Department of Education and the Ontario Municipal Board the Roxborough Township Public School Board early last week signed a contract for the erection of the new Avonmore Public School at a cost of $359,000.

Work on the new school, to be built immediately west of the village bordering the Avonmore Falls Grounds on six acres purchased from Alex Armour, will begin immediately.

The contract was awarded to the Noel Couture Construction Co. Ltd., of Cornwall.

Signing the contract on behalf of the Board were Sessel Wert, chairman, and M. F. McRae, secretary-treasurer. M. S. Thompson, representing the architectural firm of Holtshousen, Thompson, Laframboise and Mallette, Cornwall, was present for the signing ceremonies.

The new school will include six classrooms, a junior opportunity classroom, a library resource centre and a large general purpose room. In addition there will be such features as a guidance office, health room, staff room and a principal's room.

The general purpose room, with exciting possibilities for both the school and the community, will be 38 feet by 74 feet. Included will be a movable stage 29 feet by 38 ft.

Total cost of the school has been set at $383,511. The approved legislative grant on the new building will be approximately $303,000.

The projected time for the erection of the new school is 24 weeks. However, the Board has been assured that the kindergarten and the junior opportunity class facilities, which will serve all the Township of Roxborough, will be ready by next January.

The school will provide accommodation for approximately 266 pupils. Of this number 226 will be registered in the regular classes; 16 in the junior opportunity class, and 40 in the kindergarten.

The new school will replace the former building in the village erected in 1926. An addition was added in 1948.

The total area of the school will be in excess of 17,000 square feet.

lake front property to greater accessibility and value and in turn to greater assessment. It could provide more on-street parking in a much needed area.

It would also develop a scenic driveway along our beautiful lake and improving park. The fill necessary for this project could come from our yet uncompleted street program and could be as beneficial as the fill used to enhance our park. The cost of the project is being investigated by our town engineer, G. Seguin & Associates, on their retainer fee and will soon be available for decision.

Town Council in general is taking a long hard look at town planning because of our own rate of growth and the rate of growth of our neighboring urban municipalities. Alexandria is everyday becoming a population centre because of our geographical location. This is evident by the public acceptance and growth of our park, hospital, recreational and educational facilities. By statistics we are learning that the surrounding agricultural area is fast reaching a population saturation, due to the advent of more and better machinery. Thus it becomes imperative that we provide job opportunities for the young people who will graduate from our rapidly expanding High School. Industry and its attendant opportunities are our only answer. We are building a better High School to train our students, so we must plan a better town to lure industry to absorb them.

Any suggestions or help which can be given to plan a better Alexandria will be greatly appreciated by my committee and myself, concludes Councilor Costello.

who went to many places and did interesting things. They are still doing this and I want to know about more of them.

The message in this column is—why don't I hear from more readers? I do hear in writing from a few persons, and many more comments favorably on interesting stories they read in "Glengarry Historical Notes". I hear from some people who disagree with what I write, which is their privilege.

I would hope to hear from many more people who would say—"I know about such and such a person who did such and such, why don't you write about him?" My answer would be, tell me more about him and I will do enough research to complete a story.

The editor of this paper is always looking for more letters to the editor. I seek more letters to the columnist. Write me c/o the newspaper or c/o the Ontario Archives, Parliament Bldg., Toronto.

What I want to hear are anecdotes about interesting Glengarryans that you would like me to write about. Send as much basic information as you have, such as, where born, birth and death dates, not necessarily exact dates, what the person did and where. From this I will do more research.

In my next column I will list a number of Glengarryans I have information on but need more background before I can complete a story. You may have this information, so get out your pen and write.

GLENGARRY HISTORICAL NOTES

by HUGH MacMILLAN

Over three years ago I involved myself in writing a historical column, for this newspaper. It has been a most interesting experience to put together information that will tell the story of Glengarryans, both at home and abroad.

Most of the stories are fascinating and getting the information half the fun. I would hope to continue this column for many a year. There is no lack of subject material. The big problem is first to get the time for the actual writing, then pick a person or subject to write about.

We all consider ourselves to be leading busy, active lives, whatever our occupation. My problem is somewhat unique inasmuch as what I used to consider a hobby—locating early historical manuscripts—is now my work. Thus the work gets inextricably involved with your leisure time.

The work really never ends because often idle conversation during leisure time results in someone saying—"You should go and see so and so because I believe he has some old papers. Over half these leads given with the best of intentions prove to be of no value. However, none can be overlooked because only investigation will prove the worth of the lead.

Many of these leads that prove worthwhile result in stories for this paper. This is because a large percentage of documents recovered around the province have some tie-in with Glengarry. The people from Glengarry have always been seeking "greener pastures", and they made history wherever they went. They explored, founded business firms and did all sorts of interesting things.

Documents I discovered last year to do with Sir Sanford Fleming, inventor of Standard Time, led to information on a family of McLeans from Glengarry who migrated to Kentucky and founded the largest firm in the world manufacturing hardwood—mosaic and parquet flooring. This family started out in the lumber business in the Ottawa Valley and migrated westward. It is but one example of many involving Glengarryans
