Wins Second Car

Doug. Gebbie, Bishop Street, became the first two-time winner of a grand prize car in the Lions 300 Club, Friday night, when his ticket, number 119, was pulled from the drum. Donald McKinnon drew the winning ticket at a dance in the Legion Hall.

Mr. Gebbie had been winner of the third draw in May 1963.

Home Guttled In Lancaster Area

The home of Emmanuel Dubeau, 2nd Concession Lancaster, was gutted by fire Tuesday evening, despite a hard fight by Lancaster Fire Brigade.

Left homeless by the blaze were the parents and 10 children.

The fire originated in the frame summer kitchen shortly after 7 p.m. and firemen apparently had the blaze under control when a shortage of water permitted the flames to spread through the entire brick house. The Lancaster truck made four trips to the village to refill its water tank during the long fight to quell the flames.

The brigade under Chief Oscar Menard had spent four hours during Monday night fighting a barn fire on the farm of Raymond Andre, between Williamstown and Lancaster. The Williamstown brigade was also on the scene.

Not in use, the barn was totally destroyed in the fire which broke out about 1 a.m. from unknown causes.

Three-Year-Old Won $1,000 Bill

Peter Lee Charlebois, 3, was the lucky winner of the Lions Club $1,000 draw held last night at the Park Opening celebration. His father, Bernard Charlebois, Kenyon Street West, had purchased several tickets in the names of his children and Peter's came through royally.

A burning sun held down the afternoon attendance but this was counteracted by an especially large evening turnout. Park and Recreation officials report the day quite successful.

The opening parade was a bit short on floats though those entered were excellent, especially so the I.G.A. float which pictured signing of a peace treaty between Montreal and the Indians. This float won top award and the entry of the Daughters of Isabella placed second.

Among children's floats, that of the J.R.C.F. La Jeunesse Rurale Catholique Francaise, took first place.

Miss Richelieu was tops among decorated cars and Gerald McGillis placed second in this class.

Tops among the many decorated bikes were those of Denis Ladouceur, Gerald Menard, Bruno Lauzon, Yvette and Therese Duperron. Prize for pets went to Diane Beauvais.

H. A. Blair Funeral To Moose Creek

The funeral of Hugh Alexander Blair was held from his home in Maxville to Knox Presbyterian Church, Moose Creek, on Tuesday, June 23rd at 2:30 p.m. The service was conducted by Reverend I. MacIver, assisted by Mr. Raymond Glen. Mr. Blair died at Cornwall General Hospital Annex after a lengthy illness. He was in his 84th year.

He is survived by his wife, the former Catherine C. McDermid, and two daughters, Verna (Mrs. C. L. McGregor) and Eileen (Mrs. Melville McEwen), both of Maxville. A son, Keith, predeceased him last December. Also surviving is one brother, Charles, of Moose Creek, and nine grandchildren.

Born in the Sixth Concession, Roxborough, a son of the late William Blair and his wife, Isabella Munro, he farmed in the Dyer section until his retirement in 1957, when he moved to Maxville village. A summer resort complete with housing development, 18-hole golf course and artificial lake is under construction some 10 miles east of Alexandria, just within Quebec's border and touching on Glengarry. To be known as the Bo-Champ Golf and Country Club, the development is being promoted by Quebec interests. The location is northeast of Dalhousie Mills.

Gerard Roy, of Glen Robertson, has come up with this report on the project.

The ideas of a golf course originated some two years ago, when a group of businessmen, most of whom from Maisons Traditionnelles of St-Louis de Gonzague, in the Beauharnois area, were visiting the farm of the late Alexandre Beauchamp in the ninth concession of the Township of Lancaster, just west of the Quebec boundary.

The sandy rolling land, the woodlands and numerous springs on that particular farm and in the immediate area attracted their attention and within a few months they had purchased some 500 acres of land in the area. Although their first intention was a golf course, the project under development at the present time includes a summer resort, a recreation centre, an artificial lake, club house and an 18-hole golf course.

Some 25 lots have been sold since May 1st and the number of shareholders is increasing rapidly. The digging of an artificial lake, which will be approximately 80,000 square feet in area, is underway.

The Board of Directors has held weekly meetings to speed up the development of the project. As many as 150 cars per weekend have been counted at the Information Bureau which is open to visitors every day of the week.

At the present time access to the Bo-Champ project is by Ste. Justine Station or by Dalhousie Mills. Free picnic tables are available to visitors who plan to bring their families on a tour of the project.

Fine Horse And Cattle Classes Seen At Well Attended Maxville Fair

Outstanding quality in the horse and cattle classes marked Maxville's Spring Show which ended a three-day run Saturday night. While attendance was not up to last year's unusually heavy draw by the Musical Ride of the R.C.M.P., it was up to the average of recent years and quite satisfactory, Secretary-Manager Don Gamble reports.

The heaviest 4-H classes on record were showing Saturday with 14 clubs competing. Glengarry's new Dairy Princess was named Friday when a Maxville area girl, Elaine Christie, won the honor.

The largest Jersey show ever, on Friday saw a Berwick breeder, Floyd R. Dingwall, sweep most of the top placings. He showed the Grand Champion female, the best bull and topped 14 divisions to win Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor honors. R. A. Smith, of Lancaster, won three first places.

In Holstein competition Basil Dawley of Winchester, and G. M. Henderson of Howick, Que. picked up two special awards each.

Dawley won the Premier Breeder Rosette award and the prize for the cow with the highest composite

B.C.A. for fat and milk or R.O.P., previously shown in the regular classes.

Henderson took home the awards for the best Holstein Bull over two years and for the two best artificially sired females, any age, sired by bulls in service at Eastern Breeder's Incorporated, Kemptonville. Lorne Henderson, Brinston, won the special trophy for the best Holstein Dairy Cow in milk while David McGregor was declared winner of the Premier Exhibitor Rosette award.

Other Holstein division winners included Mr. Henderson with three firsts, G. M. Henderson with seven first place awards, and C. E. Byers, and Son with three firsts. One of Henderson's firsts was the Senior and Grand champion, Vinedale Fond Aster.

Basil Dawley picked up three firsts while Lloyd Howes and Son of Dalkeith earned two firsts. Leslie Allen, Vankleek Hill, H. Fine, Ottawa, and Dwight Dawley, Winchester, each won a first place award.

In the horse competition there was an equally full entry.

Fire originating from lightning during Saturday's early morning storm destroyed the home of Joseph Lacombe, two miles south of Alexandria.

The family of 18 reportedly lost everything but the clothes they were wearing. They are now occupying a house on the McCormick Road, in Lochiel Township.

The parents were away at the time of the fire and the children, reportedly frightened by the storm, had gone to a neighbor's house. The flames were noticed by a passing motorist and Alexandria Fire Brigade was called.

The house was completely gutted by the flames. It was owned by Raoul Clement, Alexandria.

A drive for furniture and clothing was initiated in the area. Donations may be sent to Green Valley parish church or Alexandria Legion Branch.

Quite A Trick, Sexing A Chick We Saw On Visit To Major Hatchery

We had read of chick sexing, sorting the cockerels from the pullets, but we had never seen it done until Monday when this News representative visited the big hatchery of W. J. Major and son Laurent at North Lancaster.

Kiyo Oka, of Cornwall, born in Vancouver of Japanese parents, was on one of his periodic visits to the Major hatchery to sex a new batch of chicks. We watched with wonder as he and an assistant literally flew through their task at a rate of 800 chicks an hour. One hand snatched up the little yellow ball of fluff, the eagle eyes trained on the tiny genitals and the chick was being tossed either to right or left, almost in the same continuous motion.

The day-old cockerels would have only minutes to breathe before being disposed of; the pullets would live on to produce eggs for the Montreal market or to be shipped to Western Quebec or Eastern Ontario customers.

This method of sexing originated in Japan, we were told, and was perfected in the U.S. within the last 20 years. Young, personable Mr. Oka learned his trade in the States and now works out of Cornwall servicing hatcheries through Eastern Ontario.

This is a comparatively slack season for chicks and only 8,000 were

Father Joyal Bade Farewell Feted On Jubilee

Marking the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, Rev. Father Lionel Joyal celebrated Solemn High Mass on Sunday, June 28, at St. Mary's Church, Green Valley, in the presence of His Excellency Bishop Rosario Brodeur. Assisting the celebrant were Father Gordon Villeneuve as sub-deacon and Father Patrick Breton as deacon. Attending Bishop Brodeur were Father Rejean Lebrun and two members of the Order of St. Gregory, Dr. D. J. Dolan and Gerard Roy.

His Excellency delivered the sermon and spoke on the sublime vocation to the priesthood.

Following the celebration some 200 friends and relatives gathered at the Green Valley Pavilion for a banquet. Toastmaster Josephus Filion introduced the headtable and Ronald Lajoie read an address on behalf of the parishioners. Presentations were made by Rhea Henri and Mrs. Wilfred Menard from the parishioners and Mrs. Wilfred Lajoie presented a token of appreciation on behalf of the Ladies of Ste. Anne.

The guest speaker was Father Breton who spoke eloquently of the qualities of heart and mind of the jubilarian and extended best wishes for the next 25 years.

Under the direction of Rene Roy, the guests were entertained by a group of local artists.

In his acknowledgement Father Joyal mentioned his recent appointment as pastor of the church in Dalkeith and he thanked those connected with the organization of the jubilee festivities. He expressed gratitude to God for the grace of a Silver Jubilee and his kindest wishes went to his good friend, Father Patrick Breton who was chosen to replace him as pastor of St. Mary's Church, Green Valley.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

We're Sick, Sick, Sick!

Yesterday was Canada's 97th birthday and we wonder how many Canadians took time out to recognize the event with even the wish that their country enjoy many more natal days.

Ninety-seven is not old as countries go but these are critical years leading up to the century mark. A steady diet of controversy such as we are now having to digest is hard on the system and if our medicine men in politics don't soon come up with a proper diagnosis, there is the chance major surgery will have to be resorted to.

That could prove fatal to the hopes of all Canadians, no matter the language in which their innermost thoughts are couched.

If Canada as we know it fails to survive to its centennial year we have a notion historians of the future may find that it was talked to death. Reading in the newspaper files of 1964 of the stupid goings-on in Parliament, of weeks of witless, pointless argument over the flag issue and a film the CBC has decided not to show, historians may see how lacking in leadership all Canada's parties then were.

An autopsy would probably prove that Canada was basically sound, most of her parts functioning well, but that rigor mortis had been induced by a rush of bloody, cheap politicians to her head.

That fatal clot may develop suddenly, but it seldom comes without warning and we Canadians need no doctor to tell us our country is sick on its 97th birthday. We know now what historians of tomorrow may deduce; that we have shown an alarming inertia toward keeping the circulation to our head clear. If the brain tissue is damaged to the point where now only empty words pour out of our body politic, is it not because the heart of democracy, the pulse of public interest, is not pumping as it was when Canada was young?

Now in our 98th year, we should be deciding to pay more attention to our nation's health if it is to know many tomorrows. If we are sending poor blood to our head—and that seems as true of provincial capitals as of Ottawa—a complete transfusion may be called for. That would demand that all of us become blood donors to the ideals of democracy. Too many of us, it seems, are suffering from tired blood.

Do we deserve to last to our centennial summer?

July 1st - Our Nation's Birthday

Lest the above editorial leave you too depressed, we bring you a refreshing breeze from the Meaford Express. A bit of hope for our country's future, it is predicated on the belief that Canadians are not a bunch of jackasses.

We reserve our judgment, and we hope the writer's optimism is justified.

"Next Wednesday is Canada's birthday. Our nation will be 97 years YOUNG, in good economic health and held in high regard by the other nations of the world.

"We should always be proud of our Country, we have every right to be, but let us be especially proud this year on Dominion Day. Let us also make a resolution to work together for a united and prosperous Canada during the next year.

"Before we complain too bitterly about the faults of other Canadians let us look first at our own thinking and our own actions. Perhaps, we will find that we are far from perfect and we have left ourselves open to criticism.

"Canada has come a long way in its first century and there is a bright future ahead for us if we are willing to work together as a united nation.

"We are reminded of the story of the two donkeys who were tied together with a six foot rope. In the field there were two piles of grain eight feet apart. For a lengthy period of time the donkeys engaged in a tug-of-war as each tried to get to one of the piles of grain. They nearly wore themselves out trying to get to the separated piles. Then they realized that they were a couple of jackasses and started to work together. They shared one pile of grain and then moved over to the other pile and shared it.

"Isn't there a similarity in our national life. We are so afraid that someone else will get more than their share that we keep pulling against each other. How much better it would be if we joined forces and worked together for the common good. We would all get more, we would use less energy and life would certainly be more enjoyable."

Some Fare Too Well On Welfare

Refreshing it was, last week, to see more than 150 men line up in their search for work in Alexandria's new industrial plant. Most were people already employed but who are seeking to better their lot. Some undoubtedly were welfare cases, simply going through the motions in order to maintain their "unemployable" status.

We have a hope the cynic will be proved wrong who expressed the belief that "most of those guys won't do a day's work as long as welfare will keep them." According to him there were men in that line who have lived "by their wits and witless welfare all their lives, and who intend to get a state funeral."

Most of us know instances where men are living the life of Reilly while Reilly works to support his family and pay taxes, too, to keep the drones in comfort. There are people who have an antipathy to work and there are others who think Welfare Departments do everything possible to encourage them in their sloth.

We know it's more complicated than that, but we do feel that organized Welfare is encouraging the "I Won't Work" drone. It irks us to know we are slaving to keep him in beer and all his other creature comforts.

"What Is So Wrong About Working?," asks the editor of The Uxbridge Times-Journal.

Last week Saskatchewan's minister of welfare stirred up a terrible storm of protest when he declared that welfare recipients in his province would be forced to accept work if they wanted their payments from government funds to continue.

"Personally, we can't find much to object to in the minister's declaration. Exactly what is so terribly wrong with making a man work if work is available. It is true, of course, that this no-work, no welfare policy could be carried too far in some cases. Overzealous welfare administrators might insist on a man working when he was ill or mentally incapable.

"We have all due sympathy for those who are unfortunate enough to need public assistance, but we are beginning to develop a fairly keen appreciation of that other type of unfortunate who works all the time to support those who can't—or won't.

"No figures have ever been published in Canada to indicate just how many dependents the working man now supports—but it must be a very large group. In addition to his own wife and children he is responsible for several old people who live on old age security; he is maintaining someone, somewhere on the benefits of unemployment insurance, his taxes are keeping patients in general hospitals, inmates in mental hospitals, war veterans on pensions, retired government and public service employees of all kinds.

"All the arguments in the world cannot change the fact that a comparatively small number of wage earners provide the money for taxes out of which all public welfare schemes must be paid. The big question is—how many more dependents can these workers afford to support?"

Grade 13 Marks Too Late

The annual rush of anxious students has been experienced this week in this office as High School pupils and parents seek to find out whether or not they were successful in the school year just past.

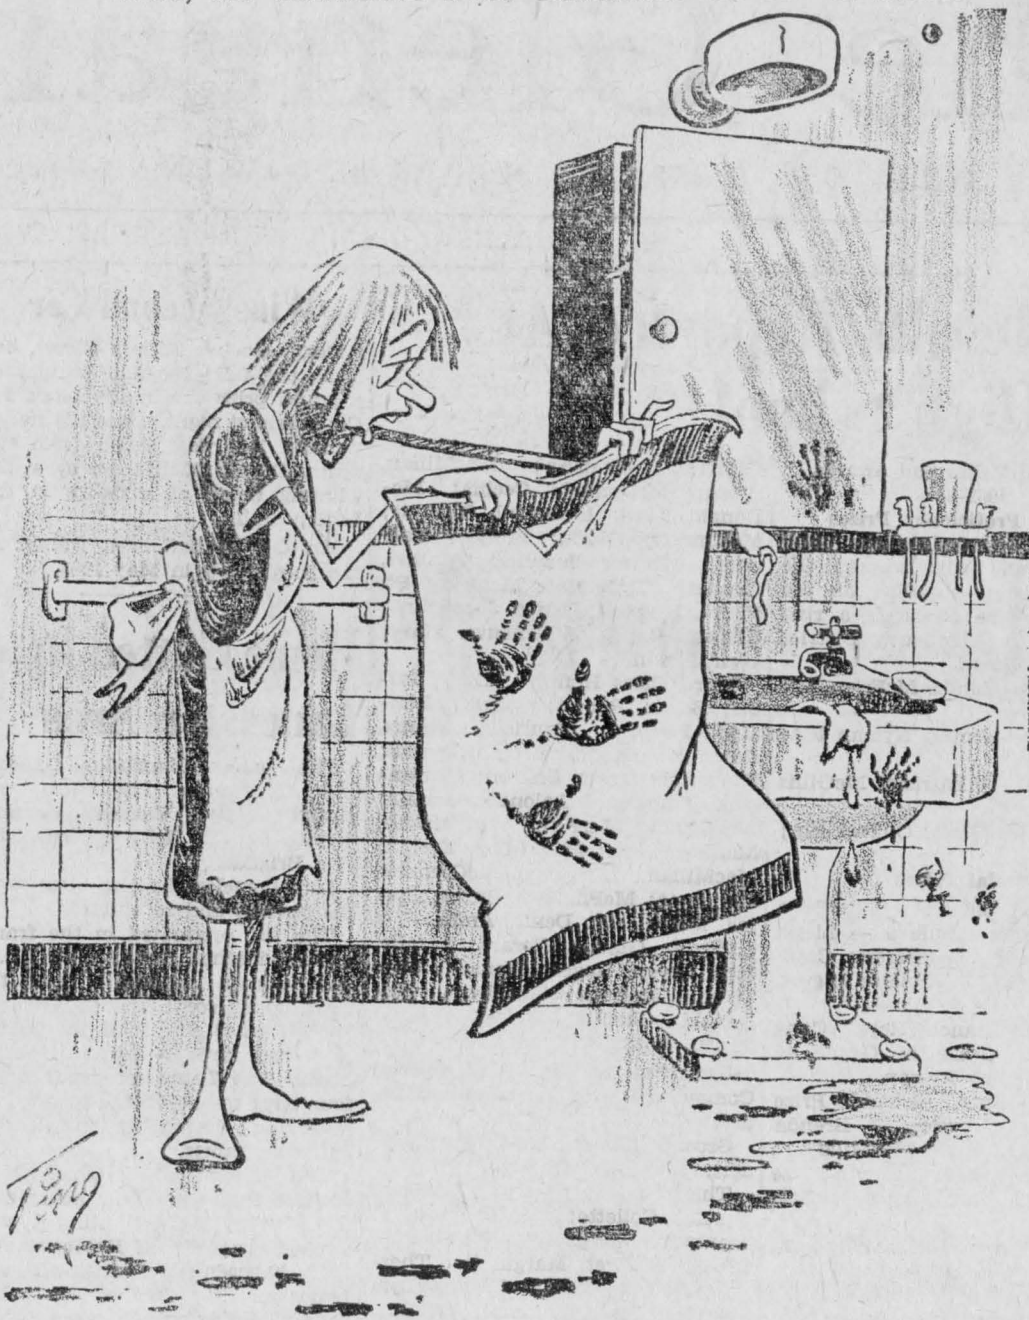

Due to wait out several more weeks of uncertainty are Grade 13 students and The Prescott Journal has a suggestion we think worthy of study.

Despite moves by the Department of Education to step up marking schedules to give Grade 13 students their marks as soon after writing examinations as possible, the four to six-week waiting period is still too long.

The problem lies in the fact that the papers have to be marked under strict department supervision in Toronto. Answer to the problem is to let each school mark its own papers. Probably the Department is frightened by the fact that local teachers might snig a mark or two here and there, but this cannot really be a big problem.

The exam is set by the Department and the marking scheme can be sent to the local high schools for use by the teachers doing the marking. With tens of thousands more Grade 13 papers being written every year, the Department of Education is soon going to have to discard this time-worn and out-of-date marking procedure.

TWICE IT STRUCK

The thunder was thundering and the lightning was flaring about midnight Friday. Down at the Legion the Lions were preparing to make the lucky draw for a 1964 car and in his Bishop Street home one Douglas Gebbie was where he properly might be expected to be at that hour—in bed.

That's when lightning, which isn't supposed to strike twice in the same place, reached out for Doug for the second time in little over a year.

His was one of 300 tickets in that revolving drum and the other 299 might as well not have been there. When draw chairman Mike Barbara read the name on that stub he couldn't believe his eyes. The same man, Gebbie, had repeated his lucky win of May 31st, 1964.

For the second time in 13 months the poor fellow was dragged out of bed and he must have been keeping an eye out for lightning bolts as he covered the short distance between home and Legion Hall. Shocked as he was, another strike might have left him numb.

Tickets for the next 300-club draw are now on sale and your Rambling Reporter is to be in charge of this sixth Lions Club car draw. We intend to make sure Doug Gebbie doesn't get a third phone call along about next January 8th.

We're going to have his wife take the phone off its cradle that night so the poor fellow can get a good night's sleep.

Don't criticize young people—they're just doing what most of us oldsters would like to do.

AN INVITATION WE RELISH

If your Rambling Reporter ever gets himself out of that groove that sees him spending almost every spare moment touring the fairways of the Glengarry Golf & Country Club maybe one day he'll find himself in Shawinigan, Que., and if his rambling gets him to Shawinigan he'll know exactly where to go to know Glengarry hospitality.

STILL MORE BONERS

As before, I repeat that these are supposed to be answers from examination papers—but don't quote me...

Caesar was borned July 12, 100 B.C.; he was a great general well up in Greek and art. His mother taught him when he was a young boy. He fought in many battles. The Ides of March murdered him because they thought he was going to be made king.

The Romans made their roads straight so the Britons could not hide around corners.

William the Conqueror fitted out some vessels and marched across the land.

King Richard was captured and put in prison by the German Emperor, but the English people were very fond of their ruler and so they boiled him out.

Magna Charta said that the King could not order taxes without the consent of parliament.

Queen Elizabeth rode through Coventry with nothing on and Sir Walter Raleigh offered her his cloak.

James the First claimed the throne through his grandfather because he had no father.

A lot of Englishmen were shut up in the Black Hole of Calcutta with one small widow. Only four got out alive.

They gave William IV a lovely funeral. It took six men to carry the beer.

Queen Victoria was the longest Queen on the throne.

The Battle of Trafalgar was fought on the sea, therefore it is sometimes called the Battle of Waterloo.

This is heartwarming Kenn; but do you ken how seldom we ramble anymore, since we started shagging golf balls over the Garry. Come and join us.

Many At Beach Over Weekend

Supervised swimming on the local beach got underway Saturday though the official opening of the park season came only yesterday. The hot weekend weather brought a large number to park and beach.

Fortunate it was that supervision was in effect Sunday when two youths from Hawkesbury, non-swimmers, got beyond their depths while trying to walk to the diving float. They panicked and were struggling when lifeguard Bruce MacLaren reached them.

Head instructor at the beach this summer, Bruce was in Toronto last week taking a Red Cross Instructors course.

The atmosphere is 75 times as deep as the deepest ocean.

Quite A Trick...

All the hatchery buildings are lighted by automatic control, we learned, and as the pullets near the end of this first 20-week period the automatic lighting remains on longer each day to prepare them for graduation to the next plateau and another building.

The Major Hatchery is now building up to a breeding stock of 11,000 birds, we learned, and 30,000 commercial layers. After 14 to 15 months of laying, the hen is marketed, to be replaced in the never-ending cycle of egg, chick, pullet and mature bird.

W. J. Major ex-M.P. Glengarry; had no thought of politics when he started his hatchery about 1925, in a very modest way. Now Reeve of Lancaster Township, his son Laurent probably had no yen for the municipal field when he left school to join his father in expanding the business. Now they employ 15, including a salesman always on the outlook for new orders for Dekalb chicks or for markets for eggs. Even now, father and son are looking to the day when they will add cage-operation layers to boost egg production.

That will wait, though, for a year when the egg market offers a better price.

One of the newer buildings on the Major holding showed us eggs arriving from the pullet houses, being washed, candled, graded for size and packaged for storage in a walk-in cooler at the rate of 18 cases an hour. The eggs were being handled on an assembly-line basis and one of Willie Major's granddaughters is helping on that line through the holiday months.

This impressive Major Chick Hatchery is firmly established as a family business, it would seem. And it will remain a major asset to the local economy of the North Lancaster area.

Our tour concluded, enjoying the coolness of the modern Major home, we had to ask of Willie the inevitable, unanswerable question. "Which came first, the chicken or the egg," we shot at him?

"It must have been the egg," was his answer, but he didn't seem too certain. Perhaps he hesitated to downgrade the chicken, which has done so much to egg him on to the better life.

NEW HOSPITAL INSURANCE PREMIUMS

More people in Ontario receive better and more costly hospital care than ever before

On the average day some 56,000 patients — enough people to populate a city — are under care in hospitals of all types in Ontario. These patients are receiving skilled treatment which has never been equalled in the history of the province. Furthermore, the cost of medically-necessary hospital care is no longer a problem for over 98% of Ontario's residents who participate in their government-sponsored hospital plan . . . the plan that ended hospital-expense worries in Ontario.

BETTER CARE—HIGHER COST

For many years the cost of hospital care has been going up steadily, not only in Ontario but also in the rest of Canada and in other countries. Though costly, the advanced scientific facilities and special skills available in hospitals are essential in treating the sick. The quality of necessary hospital care cannot be sacrificed. Since 1959 the average cost to the Commission for one day of patient care has increased by approximately 50%.

WHY COSTS CONTINUE TO RISE

PRICES ARE UP

Hospitals, like everyone else, are paying more for salaries and wages, food, drugs, equipment, supplies and services.

About 70¢ of every $1.00 in hospital costs is used to pay hospital employees. Hospitals, today, have more and better-paid employees to serve more patients and provide essential round-the-clock care.

HOSPITALS ARE USED MORE

Greater use is being made of hospitals as medical science now provides many new, costly types of treatment which require admission to hospital. These procedures require more skilled staff, more facilities, drugs and other expensive supplies. Furthermore, there is no longer a financial barrier to necessary care, so more people obtain the care they need without being burdened by the cost. Also, there are increasing numbers of elderly citizens many of whom require prolonged treatment in hospital.

MORE BEDS AVAILABLE

In 1947, Ontario had only 17,473 active treatment, chronic and convalescent hospital beds; in 1958 there were 31,000. Today there are over 40,000 such beds available to insured persons and, by 1970, it is anticipated there will be 47,000. More beds mean more patients, more cost.

In addition, insured patients are entitled to care, without charge, in provincial mental hospitals (23,000 beds) and tuberculosis sanatoria (1,825 beds).

ADDITIONAL OUT-PATIENT SERVICES

Beginning July 1st, 1964 the following services will be included as out-patient benefits:

- 1) Hospital visits to complete treatment of fractures which were originally treated on an in-patient basis. (Previously, this benefit was only for fractures originally treated on an out-patient basis within 24 hours of an accident.)
- 2) Radiotherapy hospital services for the treatment of cancer in clinics of the Ontario Cancer Foundation and hospitals approved by the Commission for these services.
- 3) When prescribed by a licensed physician as a medically-necessary course of treatment and provided by hospitals approved by the Commission:
 - a) Use of physiotherapy and occupational therapy facilities where available. Note: Consideration is being given to approval of other physiotherapy facilities at an early date. A further announcement will be made.
 - b) Speech therapy where available and provided by qualified therapists for the treatment of an organic illness or injury.

Note: The above summary is for your convenience only. For detailed information please refer to the provisions of the Provincial and Federal Acts and Regulations respecting these matters.

NEW PREMIUM RATES (Standard Ward Care)

Because of continued rising costs, the Provincial Government has announced increased premium rates for Ontario Hospital Insurance beginning with the regular advance payment to cover the benefit month of October, 1964. In 1961, 1962 and 1963 the Provincial Government prevented, by subsidy, a rise in premiums. In those years the Government contributed $125.8 million to the plan from general revenues. It also paid an additional $157.8 million for the care of patients in mental hospitals and tuberculosis sanatoria.

Even with the higher premiums the Provincial Government must continue to subsidize the cost of hospital care, and the Federal Government's contributions to the plan will also increase as the cost rises. (The cost of the plan does not include the Government grants which are paid to assist communities build their hospitals.)

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

In the last issue of the News, the Editor ran a front page story, "Glengarry Signs In Scotland". As a result, this has created quite a discussion among members of the Cornwall Seafood Bar Club.

First a briefing of this Club. The members are mostly Glengarrymen along with some Cornwallites.

The headquarters is a part of Glengarry in Stormont, literally speaking. At times you will find this Glengarry group in the south-east area of the Stormont (lounge, not County), Cornwallis.

Similar to a line in the Squid Jiggers Song, "This is the place where the fishermen (sportsmen) gather."

Among the members there are two able debaters who also have a yen for fish rolls. Occasionally, when ordering a jigger, regardless of how busy Cecil (Boxer dog) Hunt, or Alec (Apple Hill) McDermid might be, they request to be served this fish delicacy, plus the best sauce complete with serviettes.

Hence, that able and jovial hotelman, Matt Cassidy, recently christened the group, The Seafood Bar Club.

Now back to the Signs in Scotland story. The Weekly Scotsman, printed in Edinburgh, pictured road signs to Maxville, Williams-town, Lancaster, even the "drive slowly" warning at Laggan. Subsequently, there was quite a Seafood Bar Club discussion that veered from these prominent road signs to the names and origin of neighborhood areas such as Frog Hollow, The Little Bridges, The Bullfrog, Cotton Beaver, The Burnt Beaver, Hughie Stinker's Corners and Stove Pipe Village, to mention a few bearing some history as well as prominence, although no road side signs.

Here is the problem the Club anticipates could arise, and if so, what is the answer?

That the Glengarry News gets around is an old axiom. In all probability a copy of last week's issue could find its way to an editor's desk behind the Iron Curtain. Truth being stranger than fiction, and Russia's world claim of always being first, a Russian editor could very well forward a copy of Pravda or Isvestia to the editor of the News.

In such an issue we can visualize a picture of the jog in the road about two miles south of Glen Robertson, on the way to Dalhousie, and at this jog one sign pointing west, marked "Little Russia", and another pointing east to "Siberia."

If this should happen, the question now being debated is not so much the initial erection of road signs, but how come this area of the Glens was saddled with the names Little Russia and Siberia. Possibly a News reader could help solve the problem.

Sport fans learned with regret of the death of the internationally known sportsman, Leo Dandurand, who died at his Westmount home last Friday following a short illness. He was 76.

One of the greatest leaders French Canadian Clubs may ever have at their helms, is the capsule record of Leo Dandurand. He was born in Bourbonnais, Ill., and became an adopted son of Montreal in 1905. Later he completed his education at St. Mary's College.

The writer's first recollections of Leo Dandurand will remain with us a lifetime. Following the First World War, the Canadian Hockey Club was for sale due to the death of the former owner, George Kendall, known as George Kennedy. Leo Dandurand and his partners, Joseph Cattarinich and Louie Letourneau, bought the Club for $11,000.

The following Spring Ottawa and Canadiens met in a two-game goal playoff for the right to travel to the West Coast and play for the Stanley Cup. In the first game, Mount Royal Arena, Montreal, Billy Coutu and Sprague Cleghorn, Canadian defencemen, brutally cut down Cy Denny and Lionel Hitchman of Ottawa, and gave the remainder of the team an unmerciful going over. Denny and Hitchman were hospitalized.

The Montreal Star said this ice mayhem could send hockey to an early and undesired grave. Leo Dandurand rose to the occasion by not waiting for N.H.L. President Frank Calder to take action; he, himself, suspended for the remainder of the season both Coutu and Cleghorn. This drastic action cost Canadiens the playoffs and the Stanley Cup, later won by Ottawa, who were still crippled. On the other hand this decision stamped Leo Dandurand to be an up and coming, outstanding sports leader, and he proved the prophets to be correct.

It has been said that if Leo Dandurand had been at the time, the head of Alouettes, Sam Etcheverry and Hal Patterson would never have been so ruthlessly traded.

Among the many business enterprises that Leo Dandurand took part in was his active office as vice-president of Alexandria Wood Products Company, and that is, of course, in the days when the Choquette Brothers manufactured hockey sticks in their plant across the tracks from the local C.N.R. station.

So, once again, we in the Glens have reason to join the widely known sportsmen and sport organizations in expressing our admiration of an exemplary sport figure who will be greatly missed.
