Spring arrives early at local greenhouses

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — It began just 11 days ago — March 20 at 2:41pm Universal Time to be exact.

It took some time for anyone to notice, most were still shell-shocked by the last 40 cm blast of snow. But then, for the first time in months, the mercury in the thermometer popped up past the zero mark and headed toward the double digits.

Suddenly it's spring and in about a month from now the first customers will park their cars along County Road 3, near South Mountain and head into Loughcrest Gardens Ltd. to buy, what is for many, the essence of the season — plants and flowers for their gardens.

Mud mixed with snow, an inevitable result of the seasonal meltdown, clogs the path to the seven greenhouses but inside spring is already in bloom.

For greenhouse owners, spring begins long before its calendar date. The Lough's enterprise, in business since 1960, runs all year round. Items like poinsettias and baskets for special occasions keep it going but the garden season is the busiest.

"It's a job 12 months of the year," says Barb Lough, who owns the business with her husband Alex.

"You never quit, in reality. You quit for a week if you're lucky," agrees Alex.

Their plans are already laid out for spring— spring of 1994. The seeds are on order. Last year's shipment is planted and currently germinating in their oil furnace-heated atmosphere.

GREENERY

A fan whirs a gentle breeze over rows of red, white and pink geraniums poking their petalled heads from among an explosion of green leaves. The Loughs have planted 7,000 of them plus a multitude of other flower and vegetable varieties.

The fresh smell of green — the combination of moist earth and young sprouting plants, is everywhere.

It's as warm as spring or even warmer. The temperature is a balmy 25 degrees Celsius. As the sunshine streams in, it climbs close to 28 degrees. The fan gives some relief from stuffiness. Plants, like people, need fresh air.

"You don't need to go to Florida. We don't understand people who go to Florida. All we need to do is come out here," says Barb.

Right now their days are filled with planting and replanting their seedlings. As the temperatures climb, they have to be more careful — too little heat can stop the plant from growing and too much sun can burn them.

The Loughs will set some of the flats outside to make room as soon as the snow melts. They'll be covered with plastic to protect them from the cold.

Traditionally the best time to start planting a garden is after the long weekend in May when there is less chance of frost. Customers will start to flow in at the beginning of the month and on the Mother's Day weekend, the roadside will be covered with parked cars, according to Barb.

"Last year was one of our best years. People had no money so they stayed home and they planted flowers," she says.

CONNAUGHT GARDEN

East of Winchester on the Berwick Road, work at Connaught Garden Centre started in mid-February when the first seedlings were poked gently into the soil.

"Peppers, hybrid marigolds, go in about that time," explains owner Christine Cormier, who has run the business for 17 years.

"I buy my impatiens and other stuff in plugs, they come down from Southern Ontario. They come in already started, they've got two sets of leaves. They're four weeks old when they arrive here."

Cormier has two greenhouses. The second one is now idle, waiting for warmer days. It's an older wooden structure and it doesn't keep the heat as well as her newer model, a metal frame building draped in two sheets of clear plastic which are inflated by a constantly running fan. Both will be operational before the spring rush in May.

Along with the traditional marigolds, geraniums and tomato plants, people are demanding less commonly known flowers and vegetables.

We've gone to some European-type vegetables in the last 10 years like Celeriac, it's root celery. It grows like a turnip, it grows underground," she says.

Constant rain and cold dampened the hopes of many gardeners last summer. Cormier isn't sure if last year's poor growing conditions will mean fewer garden enthusiasts this year.

"People will always put them in (gardens) with the hopes they're going to have something," she says. "Last summer if they didn't get the results they wanted, it will be this spring they'll cut back and say the heck with it."

But she's confident, after a winter of imported fruits and vegetables, there will be enough people who will want to grow a few of their own.

Cormier raises a few hothouse tomatoes during the winter as a hobby but she says nothing compares with the taste of one straight from the garden.

"They taste like your hothouse tomatoes of Ontario. They don't have that flavor."

Growing concern

Clockwise, from the top left corner: a vine, which accidently grew in a pot of ferns, has sprouted small tomatoes at Loughcrest Gardens Ltd.; Barb Lough displays one of thousands of garden plants in her greenhouses; Loughcrest employee Angela Fawcett transplants seedlings; a basket holds blooming results; and Christine Cormier tags her plants at Connaught Garden Centre.

Farm update

Changing face of agriculture will impact rural values: Meldrum

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

KEMPTVILLE — The demands of consumers and our trading partners in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and the North American Free Trade Agreement may force dairy farmers to make some changes- says Stormont County dairy farmer and journalist Paul Meldrum.

Everything farmers have been accustomed to over the past 15 years is being dismantled. And with the industry currently at a crossroads producers need to look at things a little differently, Meldrum told a crowd attending the Eastern Breeders Inc. annual meeting last week in Kemptville.

As host of the popular CJOH television program The Valley Farmer Meldrum says he is able to pick the brains of not only some very good farmers but a wide cross-section of people in the industry including processors and retailers.

As well as changes resulting from free trade, GATT and world unrest, the industry is also being impacted by what's happening right on the farm, said Meldrum.

Through improved livestock genetics, feed formulations and other advances, farmers have been able to increase productivity over the past 15 years. Dairy farmers are producing more milk with fewer cows and the increase in efficiency has resulted in the need for fewer farmers, he said.

Farmers constantly hear politicians tell them how they must become more efficient... when in fact they already are very efficient, said Meldrum.

"We have produced ourselves out of jobs...Who else has become more efficient," he added.

But that message isn't getting across to the public Meldrum claims.

Through the media, powerful animal welfare groups spread propaganda on how farmers are treating their animals poorly, and how they're pouring chemicals into the food. And since many journalists aren't from rural backgrounds, often they don't have an understanding of what the farmer is talking about during an interview, he explained.

Farmers are also affected by the influx of urbanites moving to rural areas — either into bedroom communities or buying up vacant farms for hobbies, added Meldrum.

And while the changing rural faces may impact the farming practices themselves, Meldrum says he is concerned it may also change rural values.

"We might lose the value of our neighbors... how much they mean to us."

EDUCATION KEY

Working with animals teaches children to respect life, and with this in mind, Meldrum says the only way to turn around a negative attitude about farming is through education.

Farmers must expose children to the industry now because they will be the politicians, teachers and reporters of tomorrow, he said.

"Show them farmers are not abusive ogres."

LEADERSHIP

Good leadership at government and board levels is also an important key to ensure the dairy industry remains healthy once the dust of GATT settles, he added.

Meldrum predicts we will see changes in the supply management system of today, and that strong leadership will help the industry survive.

Paul Meldrum

According to Meldrum, an area of concern especially for younger producers is the high quota prices.

Quotas were meant to be a tool to obtain a fair price for their product — not as a retirement fund, he said.

Meldrum has been a farmer for the past 11 years and a reporter for 10 years. Besides hosting the Valley Farmer, he writes a column for Ontario Farmer. His family milks approximately 30 cows.

Holstein breeders visit productive farms

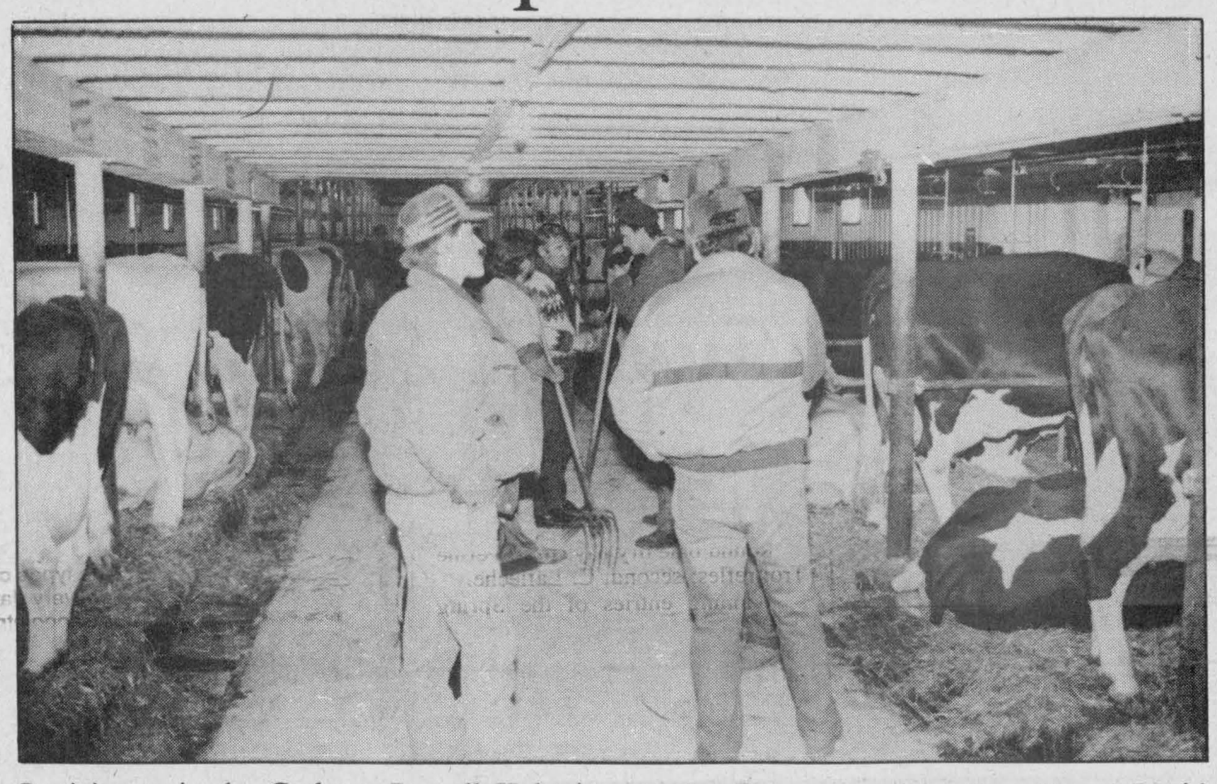
RUSSELL— The Carleton Russell Holstein Club sponsored its car tour of six farms on Saturday.

From 10:30am until 3:30pm interested individuals and their families visited farms between Ramsayville to the north and Marionville Rd. south of Vernon.

Farms on the tour included Noble Harvest, the operation of Bert and Theresa Ruiter of Ramsayville; Quinndale, located on John Quinn Rd. and operated by Leonard and Shirley Quinn; Breezehill, the Vernon area farm of Glenn and Larry McDonald; Vernlea, operated by Russell and David Anderson, east of Vernon; Applecrest, Wally Vandekemp's farm on Marionville Rd.; and the operation of Ben and John Melenhorst located on York's Corners Rd., just south of the village of Kenmore.

By the time the tour arrived at Vernlea, more than 60 people had already signed the Anderson's guest book. The fine, spring-like weather contributed to the good turnout, according to organizers.

Russell Anderson explains, "This is an annual opportunity to get together with farmers who share an interest in farming in general and in the Holstein breed in particular.



Participants in the Carleton Russell Holstein Club's car tour, Saturday look over cattle at Vernlea Farm, owned by Russell and David Anderson, one of six stops on the tour.

"It is an excellent chance to share operating ideas and farming methods and to check and compare pedigrees and production records of herds. There is no rush and no pressure.

"Farmers can join the tour or leave it anywhere along the route and stay in each place as long as they please. The fellowship aspect is wonderful and, I think, very valuable," says Anderson.

According to the Anderson guest book, participants on the tour included a visitor from Holland.

10 Steps to strategic planning

by Eda Van der Linden

WINCHESTER — The participants in The 10 Steps to Community Action course held their sixth active learning event in Winchester in the Henderson hall on March 24. "Which mountain are we climbing?" was the title for that evening.

Invited guest Gary Annable of Winchester Chamber of Commerce told us what Winchester has to offer. He told about the different actitivies that the business community is organizing to make Winchester grow, also of the difficulty Winchester is experiencing with their water supply and what is done about it. Winchester also has a Business Improvement Association and a Merchant Association.

Strategic Planning was the topic for the evening. It was conducted by Joyce Gravelle of Martintown. Gravelle was the first woman in Canada who received an accreditation of Certified Economic Developer from the Economic Association of Canada and the University of Waterloo, and she is now a Director of the Economic Developers Council of Ontario.

After a lecture explaining strategic planning we were put to work in different groups and we had to look at our own communities. Where are we today? Where are we going? What is the strength of our community and what are the weaknesses and how are we going to reach our goal? Long range strategic planning is very important but be realistic.

Always remember nothing happens, unless someone makes it happen. The more people you can get in the plan, the easier it is on each person and burnout can be avoided.

As always during our session in the 10 Steps Program a few participants have to make impromptu speeches. It is always fun, and every attempt, excellent or less excellent, gets rewarded with hearty applause.

We all had to make an unrehearsed speech with a roll call: "My most embarrasssing moment". This was answered by a story from a father whose two dogs ate his first grade son's teacher's pet rabbit. (It was their son's turn to take care of it for the weekend), to the case of absolutely going blank on a name while doing the introductions of all the guests at an official dinner. (He had known the person for at least 10 years.)

Lesson: never be afraid to do something out of the ordinary, you have lots of company if it does not go as planned.

Apple producers veto national marketing group

OTTAWA — Dr. Cliff McIsaac, Chairman of the National Farm Products Council, announced last week that Canadian apple growers have voted against the formation of a national supply management marketing agency for fresh apples.

On Feb. 26, apple producers in British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick voted on the proposed agency.

Out of 3,800 growers eligible to vote, 59.5 per cent participated through a mail-in ballot to their provincial agricultural supervisory board. Of those, 44 per cent supported the proposal, 52 per cent said no, and four per cent of the ballots were rejected.

Seventy-two per cent of Ontario producers who voted said no.

"I would like to thank the provincial agricultural supervisory boards in each province for carrying out this vote on behalf of the council," McIsaac said. "The Canadian Apple Marketing Agency Task Force is also to be commended for their hard efforts over the last few years in developing and promising this plan to Canadian growers."

In 1990, the council conducted public hearings on a proposal by the Canadian Apple Marketing Agency Task Force, to establish a supply management system for fresh market apples. In its report to the Agriculture Minister, the council recommended that an agency be established if the majority of producers in Canada supported the concept.

The National Farm Products Council is the supervisory body for national marketing agencies.

Ag society explores farmers' market idea

METCALFE — A farmers' market may be held in Metcalfe during the coming summer months if members of the Metcalfe Agricultural Society are successful in developing their ideas.

According to MAS board member Daphne Gee, the circumstances seem to be tailor-made.

"We have the facilities here," Gee says. "We have a big agricultural hall that is empty from the end of May to the end of September."

There is also a generous supply of people who could profit from having such a place to market their wares.

MAS board members see a local farmers' market as providing an ideal opportunity for local farmers, craftspeople, artists, gardeners, bakers and cooks to sell their products in a country market atmosphere at modest cost.

"It's kind of to help small business and people, to help augment their income," Gee says.

She sees the MAS as helping to get the farmers' market going and then continuing as sponsors.

"Hopefully, we'll have a voice on it, but it will be run by the people involved."

Gee explained that some communities charge a $10 fee to join its farmers' market, with an additional $10 for each Saturday the exhibitor sets up a booth. Much of the money collected goes into advertising to promote the presence of the farmers' market and the wares it offers.

"People who run them find they get better every year," Gee says, adding it has become a very profitable sideline for many people.

"Even those people who sell their garden produce outside their houses find it profitable (to sell at a booth in a farmers' market)."

The MAS is holding a meeting on April 22. That time of the month is the only time Robert Chomey, executive director of Farmers' Markets of Ontario, is free to attend; and his input and expertise would be important to the group.

"There are about 140 farmers' markets in Ontario and just under 100 are part of this organization," Gee says. "It seems the best way for us to go because we can get so much help from them."

The meeting, which will be held at the Metcalfe Curling Club at 7:30pm on April 22, will be open to all interested parties.

For additional information please call Daphne or Derek Gee at 821-1964.

Other events being planned by the Metcalfe Agricultural Society include its Annual Society Ball on May 8 and a baseball tournament June 12.

Tractor-trailers collide

MORRISBURG — Two tractor-trailers collided when one vehicle tried to pass the other on Hwy. 401 near Church Rd., just of east Hwy. 31.

John Goodin, 52, of Kingston was westbound at 8:15pm on Wed., March 17 in a 1987 Kenworth tractor-trailer when Anthony Vince, 52, driving a 1988 Peterbuilt, attempting to manoeuvre into the left lane, collided with the rear of Goodin's vehicle.

Goodin, who was experiencing problems with his vehicle, was travelling at slightly less than the legal limit.

Vince's vehicle was demolished while Goodin's was severely damaged. The Morrisburg Fire Department removed Vince from his cab, and transferred him by ambulance to the Winchester District Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a broken hip.

Vince was charged with failure to turn out to the left to avoid collision.

Holstein Canada holds convention in London

BRANTFORD — The 1993 Congres National Convention will be held in London, Ontario from April 17-20.

The convention, hosted by Holstein breeders of the Western-Ontario district of the Ontario Branch of Holstein Canada, will be attended by members and visitors from across Canada, and around the world. They will be welcomed to participate in a variety of events, many at the convention headquarters, the Radisson Hotel in London.

A smorgasbord of activities are planned including the renowned Ontario Spring Show to be held at the Stratford fairgrounds Saturday, April 17. Top cattle from Ontario, Quebec, the Maritimes, western provinces, and the U.S.A. will be placed by experienced judge, Jack Fraser, Brampton, Ontario.

Farm visits and sightseeing tours are scheduled for April 18 and 19, Sunday and Monday. A curling bonspiel will be held on Sunday for all levels of competitors, with the President's Reception honoring Mac and Barbara Logan, held in the evening.

On Monday, later in the day, a National Convention Sale will be featured with some of the finest genetics from across Canada auctioned. A barbecue is included in the evening's program.

Tues., April 20, is the main event—the Annual General Meeting of Members which commences at 9am. This year the highlight of the meeting will undoubtedly be the report to the members at approximately 11am, from the Management Consultants, Peat, Marwick, Stevenson & Kellogg. They were engaged one year ago to assess the entire association, and recommend improvements. For those who might enjoy a break from the business agenda, the program headlines a fashion show. The evening of April 20 promises to be a fun time with a gala banquet and entertainment by The Leahy Family.

During the convention week, the National Board of Directors and staff of the Association will gather for meetings. Providing valuable services to members in a timely and cost effective manner, as well as interaction with industry partners, will dominate the discussions.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all Holstein enthusiasts in Canada to visit London in April.

For more information, please contact Jane N. Whaley, Promotion Manager, Holstein Association of Canada, P.O. Box 610, Brantford, ON N3T 5R4. Tel.: 519-756-8300.

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS — Being admitted to the hospital is nobody's wish. However, while I was there as a patient I was impressed with the warm personal care I received. Thank you Dr. D. Flowers and Dr. R. Dawes and staff of the medical floor. Thank you to my family and friends for your stream of visits and flowers and plants. You all made my stay so much easier.
— Jannie Van Noppen
52c

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS — I wish to thank my family, friends and neighbors for all their kindness shown me when I broke my ankle; for cards, phone calls, gifts and food while I was in hospital and later at home. Special thanks to Doris Michels and Vera Moorehouse for their help on the day I fell. Also thanks to doctors and nurses in Winchester and Civic hospitals.
— Fay Robinson
52

CARD OF THANKS — The family of the late Winnifred Cross would like to thank relatives and friends for their acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral tributes, cards and charitable donations made in her memory.
— Doreen, Gerald, Alice and family
52

CARD OF THANKS — John and Rose Campbell would like to thank all our friends for their cards and calls with good wishes for our golden wedding anniversary. To our nieces and nephews, a sister, and neighbors who shared an afternoon with us, thank you, it was good to see you. A special thank you to our daughter Mary Fisher, Floyd Fisher, our grandsons Donald and Peter, you all can keep a secret. The messages from the political parties will serve as resource material for future historians. The beautiful floral arrangements could not have been delivered "50" years ago, because Highway 31 was blocked, so the warm weather and sunshine in 1993 were appreciated.
52

CARD OF THANKS — We, the family of Rhetta Morris-Sheldrick wish to express our deepest thanks for the kindnesses shown during our mother's lengthy illness and time of her death. We want to especially thank management and staff of LaPalme's Nursing Home in Embrun. Thank you also to the staff of Osgoode Care Centre for their kind and loving care. Also, the Rev. Peter Crosby and Rev. Katherine Wallace for their devotion during our time of sorrow. Thank you also for the beautiful flowers and donations to the charitable organizations. Also, the ACW of Holy Trinity Church, Metcalfe, for their delicious lunch following the service. Thank you for the kindness of St. Mary, Anglican Church ACW, Russell. Also, for the food brought to our homes and to the Duncan Funeral Home. Your kindnesses and thoughtfulness will always be remembered.
— Thank you, the Morris family
52

CARD OF THANKS — Sincere thanks to everyone who sent cards, gifts, made phone calls to me, or stopped in to visit me while I was in the Civic Hospital and also at home. To everyone at Stock School Transport and Inkerman Public School, the fruit baskets were great. Our neighbors, the Warringtons, Fawcetts, Goldbergs, who either drove me wherever I wanted to go, took charge of the snow removal, as well as stopping in to talk a few mornings, we appreciate your kindness. Thanks to the staff of 2A for making my week so comfortable, and Dr. Murnaghan and his associates for an excellent repair job.
— Tom Allison

CARD OF THANKS — A sincere thank you to my friends who so kindly remembered me while I was patient at WDM and OG hospitals. The flowers were lovely and the treats, cards and phone calls added a cheery note to my days. Thanks to Dr. D. Justus and Dr. Burke and doctors at OGH. Special thanks to Keith and Mabel Carkner for so many trips to visit me. A special thanks to Allan and Diane Sargent and family - especially for caring for my home! Corgi says thank you Allan for TLC. It is most difficult to adequately say how much all these special favors meant.
— Sincerely, Grace Mulloy

In Memoriam

QUINN — In memory of Earl who passed away April 6, 1992.
Your last parting wish

Playhouse brings in celebrities for Gala

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

MORRISBURG — CBC celebrity Peter Gzowski is not a noted Canadian actor.

The host of the radio program Morningside is better known for his ability to read letters. Gzowski has read correspondence from listeners on air for years and has published several books with some of the best.

It's one of the reasons Upper Canada Playhouse Director Marshall Button thought he'd agreed to be a guest performer at the Playhouse's 10th anniversary Gala production of Love Letters May 21 at 8pm.

Gzowski will perform in a play about a couple who correspond over a 50-year period. His partner will be Canadian actress Jackie Burroughs, who is currently starring as Aunt Hetty in the CBC series Road to Avonlea. Part of the proceeds will go to Gzowski's literacy campaign.

"I knew the play itself would appeal to him, the idea that he could be an actor in a play that doesn't require him to learn lines or sing a song," says Button, adding Gzowski himself contacted Burroughs about the role.

Button, who has worked with Gzowski several times in the past, is hoping the presence of two Canadian celebrities will bring in crowds to help Morrisburg's cash-strapped professional playhouse.

Although he says the theatre is not in immediate danger of closure from its $100,000 deficit, it has threatened the facility in the past. In 1989 the theatre company almost shut down after attendance dropped severely when it moved from the area to the Aultsville Theatre in Cornwall. Previously performances were held in a tent that eventually became too damaged to use.

The company regained some foothold in 1990 when, through donations and volunteer support, the theatre purchased and remodeled the former Odonto toothbrush factory into a 250-seat theatre, 35 seats have been added since.

BEST EVER

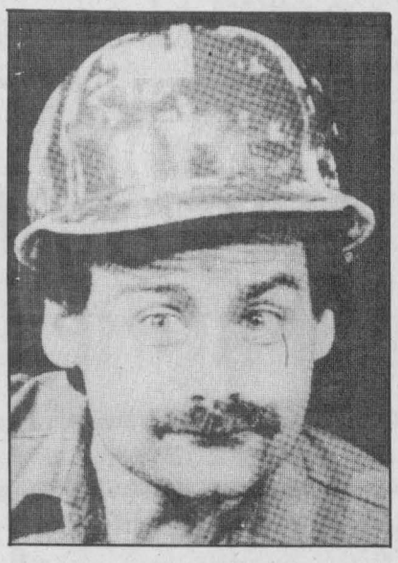
Last year productions such as the Affections of May and The Honeymooners gave the playhouse its best season but it still only broke even.

"We've been doing fairly well but we really haven't gotten rid of our debt," says Button.

"There's a lot of strain. We're getting more funding, and we're getting terrific crowds and terrific support but since I've been working here, which is six years, our annual budget has quardrupled."

The playhouse's annual budget now hovers around $400,000 with most of the money going towards its productions. About 20 per cent of its money comes from grants, with the rest generating from donations and ticket sales.

"Our ticket prices are the lowest of any professional theatre in Canada and we want to keep them that way," says Marshall.



Button as Lucien

"The average income around here isn't what it is in Ottawa and Toronto, places like that. We want to make it possible for people without a lot of money to come and experience theatre."

Celebrating its 10th anniversary will not likely reduce the theatre's deficit. Plans call for the Playhouse to put on its most elaborate and expensive season ever.

"It's for the fact that we've been able to go for 10 years and this year is meant to be a celebration of that," explains Marshall. "I think we're in pretty good shape compared to many other theatres and arts organizations but I'm not comfortable if there's even a dollar deficit."

Once again, to bring in audiences this season, Button will perform Lucien, his one-man comedic show featuring a papermill worker who expounds his theories on topics such as education, religion, and politics. Lucien, which will run three nights from June 18 to June 20, has sold out in past performances.

The season will officially open on June 26 with Trafford Tanzi, a play about a woman who wrestles literally and figuratively with her mother, father, best friend and husband in order to come out on top. The stage will be converted into a wrestling ring for the production which will run until July 18.

Canadian comedian Lorne Elliott's Culture Shock will run from July 22 to August 8, a tale about a man from Newfoundland who travels to Quebec to seek fame and fortune, but instead runs into a pair of brothers with a penchant for shotguns, drug dealing and bank robbing.

Elliott will return to the playhouse for stand-up comedy performances August 11-15 and September 7-11.

Playwright and actress Rona Waddington, whose production East of Elvis premiered last year in Morrisburg, will release her newest work Earhart on August 19.

The playhouse will also bring back The Seaway Story, written by Cornwall native Jan Irwin and James Fagan Tait with the help of the Dialogue Theatre Company.

The Seaway Story will run from September 15 to October 3.
