NDP candidate speaks on free trade issue

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — New Democratic candidate Steve Corrie believes his party is democratic not only in name but in its processes.

Corrie was chosen last Tuesday as candidate for the Stormont Dundas riding at a nomination convention in Cornwall attended by about 50 people.

The New Democratic candidate first became involved in politics in 1985 when he ran unsuccessfully to replace retired incumbent George Samis in the 1985 provincial election. Although he was relatively unknown in the area, he gained 6,000 votes.

A native of Victoria, B.C. the 43-year-old father of three with a background in aviation, has been with Transport Canada Training Institute for 22 years, and was transferred to Ottawa n 1967 as a Unit Training Officer.

As a centennial project, Corrie took it upon himself to learn French as a second language, studying at Laval University.

In 1969, he went to Montreal where he later met and married Lucie Veillotte, a native of the Trois Rivieres area. Corrie is a believer in the principles of bilingualism, but says that its implementation has gone awry.

In the fall of 1979, he came to Cornwall as a bilingual Air Traffic Control instructor, where he has remained for nine years. He is now on leave of absence without pay to compete in the Federal election.

"Trying to find solutions to world problems is what drives me to run," he says.

Free trade issue

Corrie finds very little positive to say about free trade except that it is an effort to stop the protectionist mood in the UnitedStates. He is not opposed to the concept.

"But we didn't get what we set out for, which was guaranteed access without countervail."

"We gave up the right to our energy resources, and are required under the agreement to continue to provide the Americans with the same percentage of energy resources we now provide them with," he says.

"About 80 per cent of trade with the United States is now tariff free, and for 20 per cent we signed a 1200 page agreement which almost nobody can understand."

"Our sovereignty and our cultural industries are not protected, and the Americans control 90 per cent of the film distribution," he said. "Widening the trade base with countries in Europe, South America, the Orient and Australia would be a preferable alternative."

Community involvement

The candidate has been involved in community activities as a coach for minor hockey and minor soccer. In Cornwall, he was a Regional Director of the Association Parents Instituteurs (API), which is a French version of the Parent Teachers Association.

He is a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, John McMartin Memorial Branch 297 Cornwall.

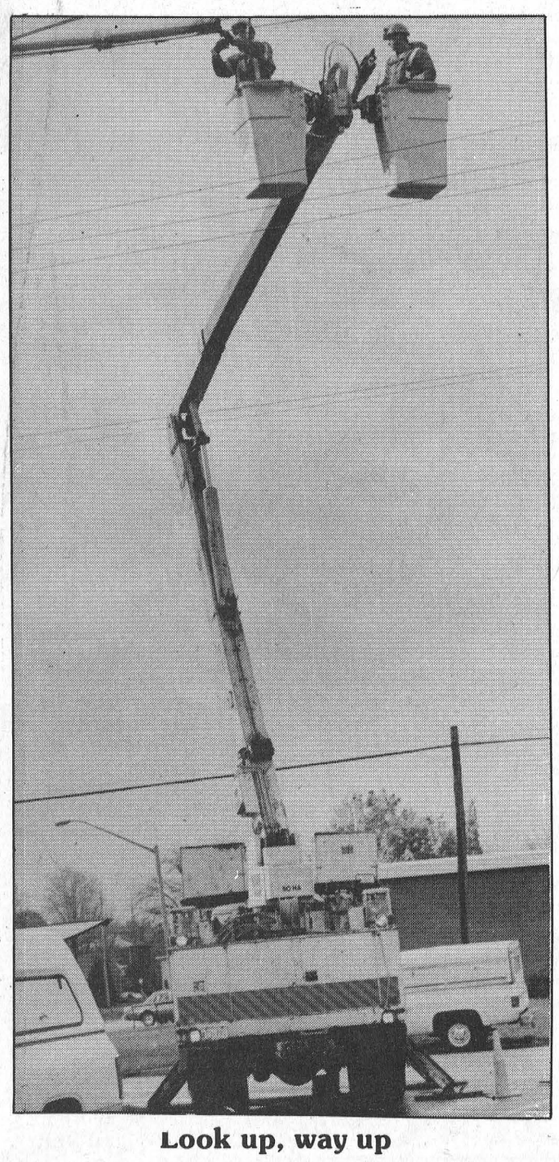
Corrie believes that many people would like to vote for the New Democratic Party but hold back out of a misconception that the party is not fiscally responsible.

He is quick to point out the rural background of the party which started out as the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation in the Province of Saskatchewan.

"The party developed out of a need to form co-operatives such as wheat pools and food co-operatives to counter the economic imbalance of a more industrialized Eastern Canada, and the costs of transporting goods there," he says.

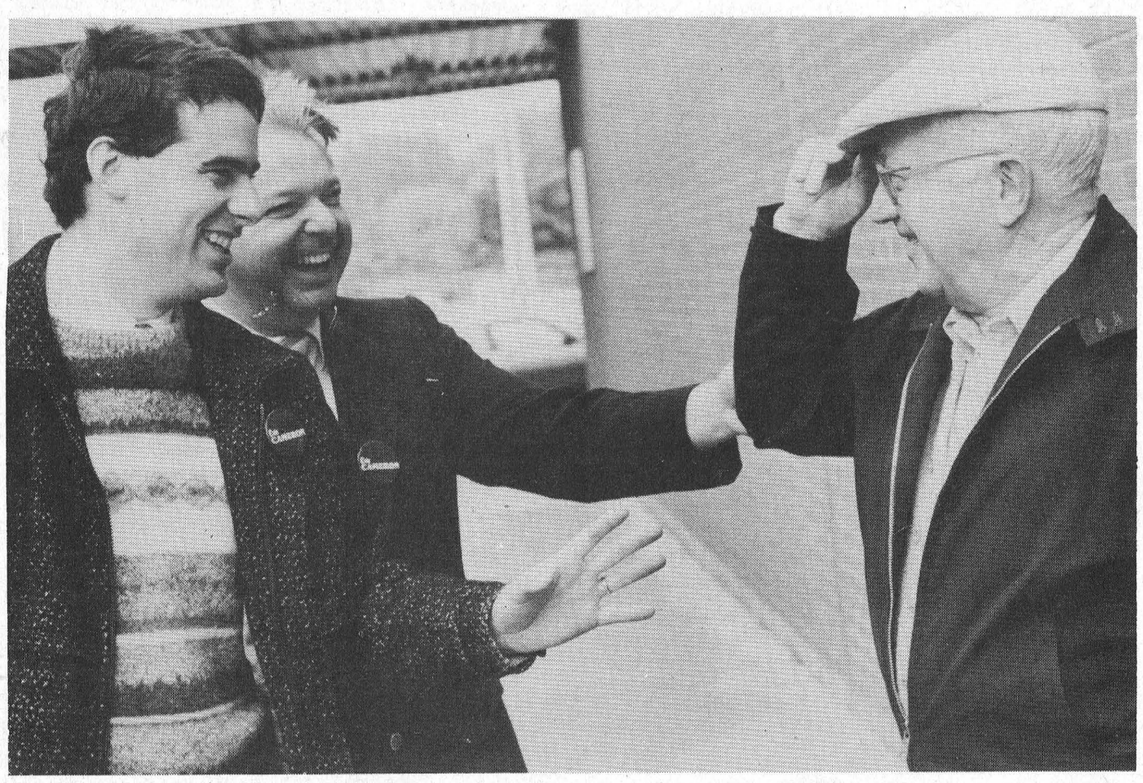
"In fact, wherever the New Democrats have been in power, they have shown fiscal responsibility."

He has started a campaign of mainstreeting in the City of Cornwall, and will also be visiting smaller centres in the two counties.



Look up, way up

Ontario Hydro employees were busy Monday following an unexpected power outage that affected all of Morrisburg as well as many other communities north of the village. Hydro officials say the interruption occured when the newly-installed 44,000 volt cable blew into one of their grounded wires causing the charged line to arc and evidently trip a main transformer switch.



"It's about that scathing article on free trade, Art!"

Dillabough welcomes challenge by Veinotte for village reeveship

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — As is the case in business, competition in politics can only achieve effective results.

Or so thinks Bill Dillabough, the long-time reeve for the village who is now forced to campaign for the first time in 13 years.

In 1975, Dillabough beat out former deputy-reeve Bob Bright for the reeveship and has been acclaimed to that position ever since.

"I certainly welcome Mr. (Harland) Veinotte's challenge. Afterall, elections are one of the purest forms of democracy," says Dillabough.

Veinotte is no new-comer to municipal politics in Morrisburg. In fact, he served as deputy-reeve three years ago but then decided he would not seek re-election.

Unlike Veinotte and Dillabough former councillor Peter McCooeye won't have to worry about securing votes since he is running unopposed for the position of deputy-reeve.

As second in command, the local insurance salesman will be serving his second three-year term on council.

There also appears to be a race for the three remaining seats for council with five candidates announcing their intentions Monday.

Village solicitor, Peter Remillard, former Justice of the Peace Gord McGregor, former councillor Willard Steinberg, local contractor Dirk Testerink and Linda Bowers who has been working on village recreation for the last several months have all declared they will be seeking the position of councillors.

As for the two seats on the Morrisburg Hydro Commission, both John Allison and Bruce MacDonald are returning by acclamation.

Voters will have an opportunity to meet those seeking office at an All-Candidates meeting at the Morrisburg Civic Building on Monday, October 24th beginning at 7 p.m.

Committee continues to discuss plans for recreational facilities

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

Despite upcoming election and government cutbacks

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Council's recreation committee wasn't exactly exuding great confidence at its last regular meeting here last Tuesday night.

However both members, councillors Donald McElheran and Carson Elliott were steadfast in their commitment to provide the area with not only a million dollar recreational facility by early 1990 but also an illuminated ball park by next summer.

All this despite the impending announcement by the provincial government to cut back on recreational grants and a fiercely-competitive upcoming municipal election.

"I'm sick and tired of just sitting around and talking about it. It's time we started to get things done around here," said Elliott who intends to run agaisnt the township's deputy reeve Peter Zeran.

At Tuesday night's meeting, McElheran, chairman of the recreational committee, informed council that a contractual agreement between the township and the S.D.&G. Board of Education would be signed shortly.

For more than a year, the township has discussed the possibility of cost-sharing a joint recreational facility that would be used by both parties.

"But it probably won't be signed until sometime after the election," says McElheran.

Facility will have high usage-rate

He adds the facility would be used during the daytime by nearby schools, including Rothwell-Osnabruck and turned over to the community on weekends and nightime.

"We're looking at a 90 per cent usage rate," says McElheran, who attributes that figure to a facility study taken last year.

"It's unlike most other community centres, which are usually left idle and are only used every so often."

Both councillors agree that the tentative facility would have at least a double-gym and a cafeteria.

Elliott even goes as far as to include the possibility of using the buliding for educational purposes.

"We're forced to bus our kids all over the world because we don't have the facilities to teach them right here."

He says there's no reason the project couldn't incorporate some technical and shop classes as part of its design.

Facility won't come free

But all this won't come free. Current estimates for such a facility is about $1.375 million.

However, both councillors are convinced that once a draft plan has been completed funding would be more accessible.

The recreation committee is hoping the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation will cover 50 per cent of the cost — leaving $685,000.

"The remaining amount would be split amongst the township, the school board and hopefully the Ministry of Education," says Elliott.

Should the second ministry agree to pay half of the residual fee, Elliott says the township and the board would only be responsible for coming up with about $175,000 each.

He says council would try to solicit funds through fund raising and corporate donations first.

Will have to pay

"If people from this area really want this facility, well then they're going to have to accept the fact that they're going to have to help pay for it," he says.

As for the ball diamond next summer, Elliott says the township has already received a "verbal confirmation" from the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation.

"We lobbied successfully and managed to solicit funds for half of the $150,000 ball park from the ministry."

McElheran says the park will include seating capacity for 200 spectators and will be lit by an elaborate lighting system costing about $25,000.

Council has already begun to clear out the site for the new diamond, which will be located at the southwest corner of a 20-acre land adjacent to Rothwell-Osnabruck High School.

So far, the township has collected $65,000 for its ballpark fund.

"And we've also received some $3,000 from the local Rotary Club and the Celebration 30 committee," says McElheran.

Elliott expects the need for additional municipal funding will be reduced as many local contractors have offered their services to the township.

He says their help will be considered on a monetary basis and would be counted as part of the municipality's contribution.

Both McElheran and Elliott say the park will be completed by June 30 in accordance to the stipulation of the ministry's grant.

Public meeting to discuss planning

IROQUOIS — It is time for the Village of Iroquois to hold a public meeting to discuss changes on its official plan, Councillor Rick Leroy reminded a regular council meeting here last Tuesday.

The statement was prompted by an invitation from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs to attend a regional meeting in Ottawa on the Draft Policy Statement on Housing as it relates to land use planning.

Leroy stressed the obligation under the Planning Act to hold public meetings every five years to give taxpayers a chance to discuss the official plan. He also outlined some foreseeable changes.

"Planning in the future would be directed towards entire regions such as South Dundas, and may take the form of shorter plans and policy statements," said L,eroy.

"Each region should have a planner to give it some direction and what next council needs is an imaginative planner. He added that "the waterway of the St. Lawrence River requires more planning for its industrial and recreational areas."

Leroy also reminded council of a thrust toward regional economic.

Council Joyce Fader said the economic study now being undertaken by the South Dundas Economic Commission was establishing this base for industry in the area.

The Townships of Matilda, Williamsburg and the Villages of Iroquois and Morrisburg were the first municipalities in Eastern Ontario to join together in an industrial commission, later known as the South Dundas Economic Commission.

"Right now," explained Leroy, "the four municipalities are in competition with each other and we have duplication of services in recreation and every aspect."

Fader suggested that such co-operation may be possible under one council, each municipality sending two representatives.

"This might be a way for municipalities to stop fighting over services like firefighting and waste management," said Leroy. "Programs like recreational facilities and waste sites could be shared, with costs apportioned on the basis of assessment."

Hart likely to be next Counties warden

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — It appears Stewart Hart will not only be holding on to his seat as reeve in Osnabruck Township but will probably sit as warden for Counties Council next year.

Running alone for the reeveship, Hart is next in succession to be selected as warden of the Three United Counties.

However the race for deputy-reeve seems to be slightly more interesting with the encumbant Peter Zeran running against councillor Carson Elliott.

However, Elliott's name also appears on the list of names of those seeking councillor positions.

Two other councillors, Jim Bancroft and Donald McElheran are also seeking re-election.

The municipal election campaign will also see some new faces to local politics including Newington resident Wayne Summers, Ingleside resident, Joseph Carboni and Newington resident, Ray Smith.

Former deputy-reeve Gord Ross hopes to return to municipal politics and has declared his intention on running for councillor.

Matilda council all acclaimed

MATILDA TOWNSHIP — Voters in the Township of Matilda are the only ones in the district who won't be going to the polls to elect a new council on Nov. 14.

Monday night's nomination deadline came and went with no challengers coming forward. This enabled the entire council to return to their seats by acclamation.

Lorne Mellan returns for his second consecutive term as reeve and Charles Barkley as deputy-reeve.

Returning councillors are Norm Tinkler, Peter Swank and Mike Ault.

Three veterans vie for deputy-reeve seat

WILLIAMSBURG TOWNSHIP — Doesn't anybody want Johnny's job?

Reeve of Williamsburg Township since 1957, Johnny Whitteker is once again running unopposed for his position, as he has for the past 31 years.

However, the race for second in command appears to be a little more exciting with the encumbent Glen Cunningham facing off with long-time councillor Lyle Van Allen and former deputy-reeve Robert Gillard.

But Gillard's name also appears on the list for councillors, along with encumbent Graham Hess.

Trevor Tolley, who has sought a position on council twice before has officially declared he will be trying one more time for councillor.

Two newcomers to local municipal politics Arden Schneckenburger and David Carkner are also seeking positions as councillor.

The race should prove to be interesting with five candidates running for the township's three councillor positions.

Changes forseen in Iroquois council

IROQUOIS — Voters in the village of Iroquois will be making a complete change in their council when they go to the polls on November 14.

The only member of the last council who is seeking re-election is councillor Lorraine Fader, but she is now seeking the newly-created deputy-reeve position.

Also after the deputy-reeve spot is Edward P. Thompson who formerly served on the school board.

John McAllister, who announced his intention to run for reeve several weeks ago, was acclaimed when no other challengers came forward by nomination deadline Monday night.

McAllister replaces Frank Rooney who decided not to run this time around due to health reasons. McAllister is no stranger to Iroquois council having served the village of Iroquois as councillor for six years.

He returns to council after a six year absence.

Iroquois voters are also being offered a choice of councillors with four people vying for three seats. Seeking election are former councillor Clare Brown and residents Wilfred Gibbons, Ronald Miller and Richard Zandbergen.

Meet the candidates

MORRISBURG — Candidates for the up-coming municipal election in the municipalities of Morrisburg, Williamsburg, Iroquois, Matilda and Osnabruck, who have not yet submitted their pictures to The Leader are invited to do so as soon as possible.

Photo appointments can be arranged between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays at The Leader office.

Council briefs

IROQUOIS — A request from the Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron of Prescott to sell tags in the village of Iroquois on Saturday was turned down on the grounds that the Cubs, Beavers and Boy Scouts were planning to sell apples the same day.

•

Council deferred a request from Upper Canada Playhouse to assist in the financing of a permanent structure to the next council.

•

A request from Ottawa Mayor Jim Durrell to attend the Recycling Council of Ontario's 9th Annual Conference in Ottawa from October 24 to 26 was filed.

The need for changing the numbering on Beech Street was further discussed. The village solicitor will be asked for advice on changing the numbering to sequential numbering, and the matter will be brought up for the next council, since both the Morrisburg OPP and the ambulance service have requested it.

Reeve Frank Rooney suggested that the village might buy the house numbers, while councillor Joyce Fader said that people might exchange numbers.

Fader stressed the necessity of the change, since in a regional emergency system a control number would be called to the police in Ottawa, who would be unfamiliar with the village, and need clear directions.

•

The Readplan for Pay Equity consultant interviewed municipal employees with the intention of developing a pay equity plan. His report will include gender-neutral evaluation and identify wage gaps where jobs are of equal value.

Seaway Presbytery debates gay issue

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

LONG SAULT — At a lengthy session of the Seaway Valley Presbytery executive, here last Thursday members struggled with the wording of a statement of conscience on the ordination of gay ministers.

The meeting was to coelesce the requests of the various churches opposing the ordination of self-declared homosexuals. If accepted at the next presbytery meeting in Cardinal United Church, the statement will become open policy for the Seaway Presbytery, and a copy will be forwarded to General Council.

"It's necessary to give cogent reasons based on Biblical grounds why you object to the ordination of homosexuals," said Frank Bailey, chairman of the executive.

"After seeking legal advice, if it is seen that the church is discriminating against gays and lesbians, there could be a test case."

"But if it's seen as a statement of conscience regarding the moral behaviour of ministers also setting out the behaviour of heterosexuals, it would not be regarded as a witch hunt against a particular group."

At a meeting of General Council held in Victoria this August, a policy was adopted that homosexuals would be eligible for ordination.

However, council admitted diversity within the church, had difficulty taking a stand on the issue, and ultimately referred it back to the grass roots level of churches, presbyteries and conferences for discussion.

Even at the meeting in Long Sault, ministers found it difficult to see eye to eye.

For example, countering the statement that sexually active gay ministers could set a bad example was the argument that heterosexual ministers may also set a bad example, and there are some homosexual ministers who have no adverse effect on the community.

Another objection raised was the argument that admitting gay ministers would be a radical departure from tradition and Christian theology.

"But why is this a tradition?" asked one minister. Another pointed out that if tradition were slavishly followed, the church might alo be against the ordination of women or condone slavery.

Statements were read from 29 pastoral charges throughout the presbytery concerning General Council's motion. St. John's United Church in Kemptville questioned the legality of General Council's actions and Merrickville United Church asked for a ballot vote to be put to all members on the contentious issue.

Brinston and Hulbert United Churches are also opposed to the ordination of self-declared homosexuals, voting unanimously to withold money from the mission and services fund.

Because the overwhelming majority of representatives in the Seaway Valley Presbytery have voted against General Council's decision, and churches in Renfrew Presbytery and Kingston Presbytery have made similar decisions, there is a possibility of a remit.

A remit is a process whereby if enough presbyteries consider that the 32nd General Council has changed the basis of union of the church, the following General Council will change the motion, and make a public statement.

Many trustees returning back to school boards

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

DUNDAS COUNTY — Both the separate and public school boards should consider including a class to help people figure out what trustees represent what districts.

Residents all across Dundas County will be voting for the same Separate School Board trustees.

Running unopposed for the English language trustee is encumbent Peter Van Moorsel, while two candidates are planning to fight for the position of French language trustee for the board.

Encumbent Alphonse Lafrance will run against Jean Charles Landry.

As for the public school board things get slightly more complicated.

The three candidates vying for the board's two French language trusteeship for the entire Dundas County are encumbents Basile Marchand and Charlemagne Lamarche and newcomer Daniel Morin.

The position of English language trustee for the public board is slightly more complexing, with municipalities sometimes sharing their representation.

For Morrisburg and Williamsburg, the encumbent Susan Adams is returning unopposed, while for Matilda and Iroquois, the encumbent trustee Dale Beckstead is also back by acclamation.

Osnabruck has its own trustee and William Fleming will also return for yet another term untested.

Conservative campaign offices open in Cornwall, Winchester

WINCHESTER — The race is on as federal government candidates start campaigning in earnest and offices are opening up everywhere.

Conservative hopeful Eric Cameron has opened the doors to two campaign offices, one in the City of Cornwall and one in the Village of Winchester.

At the Winchester opening, Cameron stressed the importance of getting the Free Trade Agreement through.

"The world is watching us closely," he said. "If we allow ourselves to be shut out from a major trading bloc, this country of 25 million people will be in trouble."

He added that Stormont Dundas is a sensitive swing riding which votes according to the government's record.

But he was confident that the Conservatives would win, boasting a "solid economic record, and the best polling results."

Cameron has been hitting the campaign trail the last two weeks, and says that people in the area have been quite receptive. Last Thursday, he toured Morewood Industries with campaign volunteer Ken Stewart, and spent half a day in dairy farmers' barns.

Friday was spent visiting senior citizens and businessmen in Morrisburg.

His schedule took in a multi-cultural dinner in Cornwall, and should include a visit to Rohm and Haas Incorporated.

The Cornwall Campaign Headquarters is at 46 Second Street West, Cornwall, at the corner of Second Street and Augusta Streets. Hours are 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday this week, and starting October 24 will be from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The Winchester office, supervised by Bea Eadie, is located on St. Lawrence Street adjacent to the Book Place, and will be open from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Escapes injury

MATILDA TOWNSHIP — A South Mountain man escaped injury this weekend when his vehicle slid off a road and collided into a telephone junction box and hydro pole, early Sunday morning.

Police say a 1987 Ford Mustang was headed westbound on Boundary Road, between Matilda and Mountain townships, when the driver, Oscar Devries lost control and entered the south ditch slamming into the two utility posts.

Police are not sure what caused Devries vehicle to spin out and haven't placed any charges.

INGLESIDE — Two area Kraft plants will be asking local children to smile and say cheese this weekend as the company embarks on a Child Identification Day Saturday, October 22.

Working in conjunction with the Ontario Provincial Police, Kraft is extending this service to all employees and their families as well as any families residing in Ingleside.

Beginning at 10 a.m. at their Ingleside plant, Kraft expects to process more than 800 children before 3 p.m.

The company sponsored a similar event three years ago.

LONG SAULT — The local OPP detachment is asking nature enthusiasts and bird lovers to be on the look out the next time they are visiting the Upper Canada bird sanctuary.

"We're received three separate complaints from motorists who've had their vehicles broken into," says Const. Bernie Gadbois.

He said several purses and money have been stolen from the unattended vehicles over the past month.

"Even if you lock your doors, make sure you don't leave any valuable in the car," he suggested.

He added that the force is currently investigating the problem.

Informed vote is important

In just a short time from now, municipal ratepayers in Morrisburg and many other municipalities will be called on to cast their ballots for the representatives who will be making decisions on their behalf for the next three-year period. These decisions will have a very important impact on your community, your lifestyle, and the welfare of you and your family. It is extremely important, therefore, that you give careful consideration to candidates before you throw any support to anyone.

The late Sir Winston Churchill is credited with the observation that democracy is probably the worst form of government, but no one has yet invented any system that works any better.

For those electors who want change, there will be some different names on the ballots. And there could be many old familiar ones as well. And since we have the great good fortune to live in this democratic nation, it is the voters who will be making the selection. Traditionally most of those people who will be seeking office will make an appeal for your support through the area newspapers. In Morrisburg, there will be an added opportunity to rate the prospective candidates at an all-candidates meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce at the Civic Centre, on Monday, October 24, at 7:00 p.m. You owe it to yourself, as well as to your community to know the candidates and the issues, and to determine those best suited to serve all sections of the community in the various municipal offices.

Personal integrity and personal honor are more important than a reputation as "a fighter". Can you imagine how chaotic would be the meetings of a council, a board or a commission composed solely of "fighters"? The greatest wisdom seldom comes out of the biggest or the loudest mouths. Intelligent co-operation and a wide knowledge are far more desireable qualities for any candidate, and can accomplish far more for the electorate.

Before you give your support to any candidate or any slate, we urge you to be sure that they are worthy of it. And above all, we urge every voter to become informed about the candidates and the issues, and to exercise their franchise when the voting day finally arrives. It is your only opportunity for three whole years to have any say at all in the conduct of your municipal affairs. Remember the community is yours; if you don't care enough to become informed - if you don't care enough to vote, then you have already forfeited the right to criticize those who do.

For a safer Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en has always been one of the happiest holidays of the year for Canadian children, and as the eve of the Great Pumpkin, and witches and goblins approaches again, more and more parents are concerned at the cruel and evil practices which have threatened some of their children in recent years. Poisoned candy treats, apples containing razor blades and needles, beatings by older groups, are just a few of the hazards which young children have faced.

Before your children set out on their rounds this Hallowe'en, it might be well for parents to consider these few common-sense safety tips, and to be sure that all their children observe them;

1. Wear light-colored, flame resistant costumes with retroflective strippings so that they can easily be seen by motorists.
2. Clothing should be short enough to avoid a tripping hazard.
3. Face masks must not obstruct vision. Make-up is preferable. It allows you a greater field of vision.
4. Calls should be made along one side of the street, then along the other, with no criss-crossing. Children should cross a street only at intersections or cross-walks.
5. Be sure they carry a flashlight, to see better and to be better seen.
6. They should go in groups of four or five. Very young children should be accompanied by a parent or responsible adult.
7. Set a curfew and boundaries within familiar neighborhoods.
8. Forbid children strongly to enter the house or apartment of a stranger.
9. Children should not eat any treats until they can be examined by an adult, at home, in a clear light.
10. Drivers should be particularly careful on Hallowe'en night as the risks of unseen pedestrians or road obstructions are almost always vastly increased.

Why not plan ahead to observe a little extra care and caution on Hallowe'en night? If everyone would observe these suggestions, the traditional holiday could be a safe and happy time for young people, and a worry-free time for parents.

Lung damage is forever

There is increasing evidence that lung infection in some children may inflict undetected damage that lasts for an indefinite time — perhaps for life.

According to the Ontario Lung Association, new research suggests that one of the most common diseases in babies and very young children, called croup, may have effects that last longer than has previously been suspected. The disease, usually caused by a virus, affects the voice box, windpipe, and sometimes, the air passages of the lungs.

Because the voice box is constricted, youngsters with this infection develop a harsh, barking cry, that sounds like a puppy's. Breathing is a terrible chore. When fever is present, the situation requires immediate medical attention.

The illness is usually brief. Until just a few years ago, it had been assumed that the effects seemed to disappear.

A few years back, however, a study at the Hospital for Sick Children and the University of Toronto raised the distinct probability that those children who have croup may constitute a special group susceptible to developing chronic lung disease as adults. They may be also more affected by air pollution and smoking. The study was reported in The American Review of Respiratory Disease, a most prestigious journal.

Typical of the disease pattern, there were many more boys than girls in the study. All the children had been hospitalized for croup eight years earlier, but had shown no apparent ill effects since then. However, in a follow-up study, their group performance in tests of lung infection were markedly different from those of a normal population; and there was evidence of dysfunction of the small airways, which can be the beginning of long-term lung disease.

Your local Lung Association is always happy to provide information about lung disease, how to prevent it and how to treat it. The continued operation of this and other services is made possible in large part by your generous response to the annual Christmas Seals Campaign. Your Lung Association will be contacting you shortly, with an envelope of seals for this year's campaign. You can contribute to the continued good health of yourself, your family and your neighbor, by keeping this association near the top of your Christmas gift list.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Headlines in the October 18th, 1978 issue of The Leader read Tennis courts could cost $40,000. A proposal by Morrisburg's recreation department to revamp the recreational property owned by the S.D.&G. Board of Education, if passed, would cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. The proposal was organized by five summer students working under recreation director Doug Moses. The project included the installation of tennis courts, the re-location of ball diamonds, the drainage of the entire property, re-surfacing of the athletic track and re-location of present lighting.

A Sunday night accident resulted in heavy damage to two cars and one house on the northwest corner of Fifth and Augusta Streets. The house, leased by Peter Kennedy, was damaged to the tune of $2,000 with most of the repair work needed to a surrounding verandah. The two cars were driven by Maurice Kolff and Peter Durant.

Nominations for the upcoming municipal election were slow coming in. Only in Morrisburg had the existing council filed nomination papers. At Williamsburg township the only person to file papers was Glen Cunningham who was running for another term as deputy-reeve. At Osnabruck Township no nomination papers had been presented to the clerk as yet, although an abundance of forms had been picked up.

At Heinz' Food Market Anjou pears were 49 cents a pound and cooking onions were 99 cents a 10 pound bag.

The Morrisburg Golden Knights, the community's newest and only intermediate hockey team was prepared to provide its home fans with 12 excellent games of hockey as it made ready to open its 24 game schedule. Owned by Bill Dillabough, the team was to be coached by Tom Bowen. Sharing the goaltending duties were Kevin Baldwin and Steve McCann and defencemen included Rick Leroy, Garth Baker, Tim Cassell, Mike Felker, Steve Casselman, Danny Cassell, Gord Dillabough and Kenny Morrow. Forwards included super shooters Bill Mullin, Doug Byers, Bill Lawlor, Chuck Lawlor, Doug McNairn, Art Sinfield, Hugh Gillard, Gary Hess, Allen MacDonald and Bill Dillabough.

It was reported in the October 18th, 1968 issue of The Leader that just 10 years ago the Parks Commission, in co-operation with the Department of Lands and Forest and the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources undertook the creation of a Wildfowl Sanctuary which is known as the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary.

The Sanctuary comprised of 3500 acres of land on the waterfront. In 1958 initial planning and development was started with cultivation of 55 acres for fall planting.

A pond was created within an enclosure in preparation for the arrival of eight Canada Geese from Codrington on November 15. These geese were the nucleus of a resident flock and they wintered comfortably.

In June 1959 the resident flock was increased with the arrival of 55 Canada Geese from Bombay Hook, Delaware.

The first wild birds were attracted to the Sanctuary during the fall migratory in 1959 and while most rested and continued on their journey south, three remained over the winter.

With some misgivings, the resident flock was released April 7th, 1960 and although they wandered freely they showed no inclination to leave the area.

The next important step was taken when 15 pairs of breeding geese were brought in and after a brief acquaintance with their new surrounding they too were released. Hatching was first observed on May 27th but the final results were somewhat disappointing when from 70 eggs only 12 goslings were hatched, eight of which were lost through natural causes.

During the 1960-61 migration hundreds of Canada geese and ducks were attracted to the Sanctuary and the volume steadily increased year by year to countless thousands.

The October 22nd, 1948 issue of The Leader reported that Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill of Hudson Heights, Quebec had completed the purchase from the estate of the late Ralph Fetterly the river property, building and equipment of Rosedale Inn. The new owners were planning to maintain Rosedale as a year-round hotel rather than having it open in the summer only. Extensive alterations were being made to winterize the dining room which faced the river.

Captain Eric Roy, formerly of Morrisburg and chief instructor and test pilot for KLM Royal Dutch Air Lines, Holland, had the honor of being the first Canadian to fly the beautiful Convair plane across the Atlantic in record time.

At Weegar's store 12 tins of Campbells soup were selling for $1.40 and salted mixed nuts were 50 cents a seven ounce package.

1938

The October 21st, 1938 issue of The Leader reported an unidentified, stuttering and trembling man made good an audacious holdup robbery of Purity Milk Bar on Prescott's main street escaping with a little over $15 in cash and the police close on his heels. He had not yet been caught.

Dr. T.A. Hamilton of Brinston was appointed Chief Coroner for the County of Dundas. He had been practicing in Brinston for 13 years.

At Becksted and Rae, side pork was 19 cents a pound and one tin of chicken haddie was selling for 15 cents.

1928

The October 19th, 1928 issue of The Leader reported Harold Jarvis, undertaker of Morrisburg, had been notified that his application for a certificate of qualification as an Embalmer, had been granted. Mr. Jarvis had 25 years experience in the profession.

Announcement that provision for old-age pensions would be placed on the Statutes at the next session of the Ontario Legislature was made by Premier G. Howard Ferguson.

At the Dominion, a three pound tin of Crisco was 69 cents and cottage rolls were 27 cents a pound.

Queen bees control hive with pheromone

By Carolyn Hoskins

A team at Simon Fraser University in B.C. has identified a substance produced by queen bees that has eluded scientists for 25 years. The substance, a queen bee 'pheromone', is responsible for the behaviour of worker bees in the hive.

The researchers think their discovery may be a way to get bees to work harder. It may also provide a key to stopping the northward spread of 'killer bees' from central America.

Dr. Mark Winston, an entomologist involved in the project, says "The exciting thing is that for the first time we are close to understanding the chemical organization of a social insect."

Winston, a biological sciences professor, and chemistry professor Dr. Keith Slessor isolated the substance from the mandibular gland of queen bees. It had been known that this gland, located in the queen's jaws, was the probable source of the pheromone. However, what contributed to the difficulty in identifying the pheromone was that five, not just one, chemical substances were involved.

Pheromones are chemicals produced by an organism that influence the behaviour of other members of the same species. The queen bee's extremely important 'retinue' pheromone tells worker bees that a reproducing queen is present and thereby stabilizes the social structure within the hive. It also attracts workers to the queen.

If the pheromone is not present, for example due to death of the queen, or if it becomes diluted, as when a hive grows very large, the workers raise another queen and a swarm forms, dividing the hive. Dr. Winston suspects that the pheromone may also cause suppression of ovulation in the worker bees so that they don't lay eggs (ie, become queens).

The pheromone also elicits typical licking and antenna-wiggling behaviour in the workers.

The mandibular gland produces 24 different compounds and painstaking research was needed to determine which combination was the magic one. Three of the five 'retinue' compounds had been known for 25 years, but the other two, which are present in extremely minute quantities, were not known before, Winston says.

When the scientists tested the substances on bees, each substance by itself produced no effect, nor did combinations that did not include all of them. But the five together not only worked, but also worked in amazingly small quantities—less than a millionth of those produced by a queen bee.

The team then synthesized the pheromone and tested whether the synthetic one worked on bees also. When the team put a hive of bees next to a real queen, about 85 per cent of the workers found her. Then they tested a 'pseudo-queen'—a small piece of glass tube smeared with the synthetic pheromone. It attracted 75 per cent of the bees—just slightly fewer.

The synthetic pheromone may have tremendous implications for agriculture, where bee pollination is responsible for some $20 billion of the North American fruit and vegetable crops. The scientists think it could be used to increase foraging behaviour and thus stimulate pollination, or to attract bees to a preferred crop.

It could also be vitally important for the U.S. campaign to stop the northward spread of African killer bees at the U.S./Mexican border. Queen bee pheromone could be used to lure the invaders into traps.

Move over Mr. Goodwrench

A group of girls enrolled in the Car Care Class at Seaway District High School are taught more than just washing and waxing according to their teacher John Peters. He says the girls are more attentive than the boys and usually receive better marks.

Girls get a kick start out of Car Care

IROQUOIS — It's a Friday afternoon at Seaway High and John Peters, who teaches a Car Care Class, has asked his students to rip the engine out of a beat up '78 Honda.

But wait, there's something peculiar about these students who are now up to their tail lights in motor grease.

Wrapped around the ratchet sets and screwdrivers are soft, white, finely-manicured hands.

Only a few wear coveralls, the rest of them are dressed in either pastel-colored sweat pants, jeans or skirts.

That's right, skirts.

All 23 students in Peters' class have more in common than a fascination with cars — they're all girls.

But before you start making jokes about the girls missing class because of a broken nail or a favorite soap opera, Peters says his female students are more eager to learn than most of the boys in his auto mechanics program.

Girls more attentive

"The guys seem to think they know everything but the girls are more attentitve and ask more questions," he says.

Peters says the girls' Car Care Class was re-introduced last September after a two-year absence.

"I think it's always been a fairly popular course but due to department cutbacks by the board, it had to be dropped.'

This year, Seaway High is offering three Car Care Classes designated specifically for women.

Peters says the girls feel more comfortable in an all-female class.

"They're not intimidated by the boys, who seem to take this type of course for granted," the teacher says.

Hands on approach

He said the course provides the students with a hands-on approach to learning.

"But it's not just washing, waxing and changing oil," he says.

The course is designed to help students select, insure and maintain an automobile in a safe and intelligent manner.

"We want to get the girls familiar with the basic construction of a car and know the difference between the transmission and the exhaust."

Peters, who has been teaching for more than 11 years, says the girls' marks reflect their willingness to learn.

He says the girls look forward to his 55-minute daily class and usually can't wait to take apart the car to see how every mechanical aspect works.

"They're genuinely curious," explains Peters.

In addition to reviewing the operation of the car's engine, students are also taught how braking, steering and electrical systems work along with many other things.

Well-rounded education

"We try to give them as well-rounded an education into the automobile as possible," he says.

Other aspects the class covers are, cooling systems, insurance and even a lesson in proper driving techniques.

Meanwhile, back in the shop, the girls are already washing up for their next class.

"Here sir, can you hold these? I've got to clean my hands," asks one of the girls who's placed her five gold rings in Peters' hand.

Ironically, Peters realizes that there are still some girls in his class who are more interested in ladies' rings than piston rings.

"Now, this would never happen in a boys' class," he says with a smile.

Community futures committee seeks project manager

CORNWALL — Neil Burke a prominent Cornwall businessman, and chairman of the local Community Futures Committee announced recently that the committee is seeking a dynamic area resident to spearhead the Committee's job creation efforts.

Mr. Burke stated, "this is a stimulating and challenging opportunity for the right person to assist the local economy on a lasting basis."

The Project Manager will work with a committee of area residents. Interested persons should contact The Cornwall Small Business Development Inc.

Engagement of the manger will coincide with expansion of the Futures Committee territory to include Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

"Many clients who have called at the centre for start-up business advice have been from outside Cornwall city limits and so expansion of our boundaries was required to enable us to provide them with full services," said Mr. Burke.

Community Futures is a program sponsored by Employment and Immigration Canada that permits a local committee of citizens to access and direct programs and services aimed at assisting with local job creation.

The role of CFCs is to analyze the problems in their communities and identify the potential for creating lasting economic improvement.

The CFC is not intended to compete with or duplicate existing efforts. Rather, it is seen as providing a complementary effort to the goal of community development.

Its objective is to achieve an effective coordination and mobilization of community resources and talents to achieve economic growth within a framework and goals set by the community, itself.

CFCs also have a coordination role with respect to the implementation of other federal or provincial programs that can supplement and support the initiatives of their communities and the private sector.

CFCs may receive contributions of up to $100,000 in any one year for approved expenses, such as salaries and mandatory employment-related costs for administrative staff, fees for professional consultants, researchers and the chairperson; travel expenses not exceeding Treasury Board guidelines for public servants; purchase of materials and supplies; rental of accommodation and equipment where they are not available by other means.

The maximum program contribution is $200,000 over six years from the date of approval of the CFC by the Minister.

Morrisburg brought in seven knitted sets, 60 pairs of mittens and a pullover sweater and Morrisburg's Rummage Sale is on October 28th. The Winchester Rummage Sale made $846, and a cheque for $2,500 was received from the Gift Shoppe last month.

Linda Snyder is the new treasurer for the Gift Shoppe, and a person with buying experience is still urgently needed for the Gift Shoppe.

Ethelwyn Carkner of the Sunshine Circle noted that several groups including Roma McMillan, Jim Wicks and Louise Shaw had been in to entertain the patients. It was voted that $100 would be given to help with incidental expenses of this group.

The Auxiliary added $575 to the $500 from the Lake John F. King estate to purchase a Gerichase for Second Floor and two new plants have been purchased for the dining area of One East.

Plans were finalized for the 40th Anniversary Tea and Bazaar October 22 from 1:30 to 3:30 at North Dundas High School. So see you there. Remember there is no admission.

Teachers workshop

High school teachers of S.D.&G. will be attending a Professional Development Day in Cornwall on October 21st. The day consists of two workshop presentations. The afternoon workshop presenter is Mr. Harvey P. Mandel. He is the Director of the Institute on Achievement and Motivation at York University. He will speak on the topic of how to motivate underachievers.

Paper tole products create third dimension

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MATILDA TOWNSHIP — Two township residents have found that the art of creating a three dimensional picture from a flat one is a challenge.

The art is known as "paper tole" and Pat Peters of Lakeshore Drive has been creating these productions for about 18 months.

Peters learned the craft from her sister in Nova Scotia, and taught her friend Lynda Logie of Iroquois who has been practising it for about a year.

Another word for the craft is sculpturing or 'decoupage': the art of decorating by applying cutouts and coating with several layers of lacquer or glass varnish to give it a porcelain look.

A minimum of six picture prints are needed to create one three dimensional image.

"It's just like building," said Pat Peters. "You cut the petals of flowers and add them edge to edge."

Feathering of birds can be etched with a fine tool or a fingernail. Droplets of silicone are used to make the layers adhere.

Once completed, the work must be framed and enclosed in glass to prevent the accumulation of dust.

Peters has created several large pictures of birds, each requiring a minimum of 50 hours in order to complete the feathering.

Lynda has made flowers, wedding invitations, and reconstructed a print by artist Norman Rothwell.

Both women find the work relaxing but it demands all their attention. When not actually involved in creating, Lynda finds she is constanting thinking about making three dimensional pictures from photos and placemats she sees.

Pat finds the work a continual challenge.

"But you have to enjoy yourself, otherwise it gets to be too much like work."

At the Cornwall Heritage Valley Arts and Crafts show in Cornwall last year, Peters entered 20 pieces which took two months to create.

At times she stayed up until 2:00 a.m. to finish a piece.

Both ladies would like to expand their craft and sell more items. They have placed their work in local shops and exhibits and have planned a show November 1 in the Iroquois Civic Centre.

Finishing touches

Lynda Logie, of Iroquois, is shown adding details to a three dimensional picture for a children's room. The art of paper tole is otherwise known as decoupage or paper sculpturing.

Stampville girls take home school's first championship

MORRISBURG — The Stampville senior girls soccer team took home the school's first championship trophy Thursday thanks to a 1-0 overtime win against Nationview in the final of the Annual Dundas County tournament played here.

The final ended in a scoreless tie, forcing the game into sudden death overtime. Stampville pulled out the win with a mere three seconds left on a goal by Crystal James.

Teams equal

Both teams played well in the first half, neither getting much of an opportunity to score, but in the second Nationview came out strong to dominate play.

Momentum see-sawed again in the first overtime stanza with Stampville gaining the edge and finally putting the ball home for the victory with three seconds left on the clock.

It was the first championship win for the school aside from the B victory claimed by the boys at their tournament in Iroquois last week

Good goaltending

Goalkeep Brenda VanAllen led Stampville to the final, giving up only one goal in three preliminary round games.

The girls opened the tournament with a 3-0 win over the Maple Ridge Bs on goals by Amanda Mabo, Melanie Warren and Crystal James.

They posted an identical score against the Maple Ridge As with Mabo, Warren and James again counting and finished it with a 1-1 tie against Morrisburg, Mabo getting her third goal of the tournament.

The Nationviews As started with a scoreless tie against the Stampville Bs and then defeated the Nationview Bs 1-0 and St. Cecilia's 2-0.

On top with five points

Eight teams participated in the tournament, the Nationview As and Stampville As coming out on top with five points each and earning the right to advance to the final.

Morrisburg, Maple Ridge As and Nationview Bs all finished with three points on one win-one tie records.

Morrisburg opened with a 1-0 loss to the Maple Ridge As, defeated the Maple Ridge Bs 1-0 and held the Stampville As to a 1-1 tie.

Field One game scores: Nationview Bs 1 - St. Cecilia's 0; Nationview A 0 - Stampville Bs 0; St. Cecilia's 2 - Stampville Bs 0; Nationview As 1 - Nationview Bs 0; Nationview Bs 0 - Stampville Bs 0; St. Cecilia's 0 - Nationview As 2.

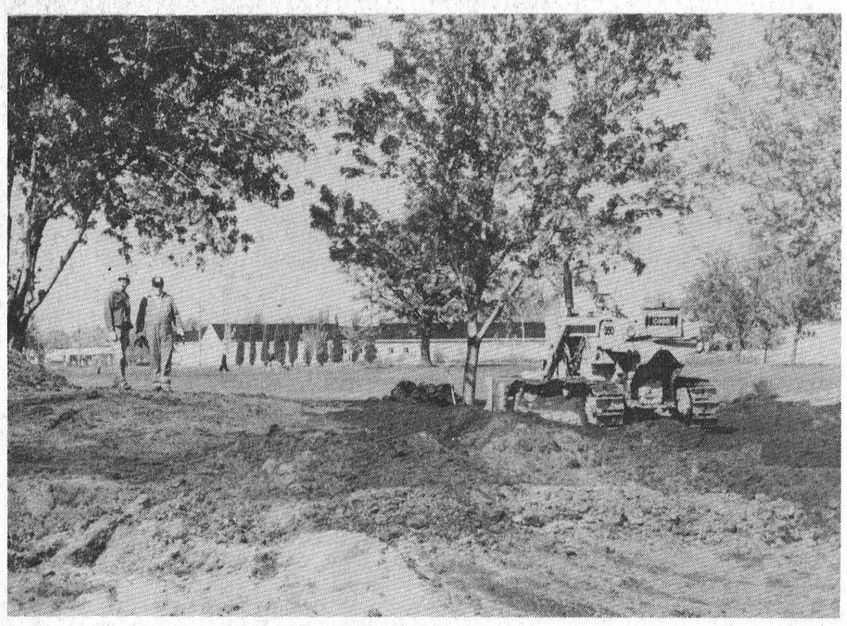
Field two game scores: Maple Ridge As 1 - Morrisburg 0; Stampville As 3 - Maple Ridge Bs 0; Stampville As 3 - Maple Ridge As 0; Morrisburg 1 - Maple Ridge Bs 0; Morrisburg 1 - Stampville As 1; Maple Ridge As 0 - Maple Ridge Bs 0.

Which way did it go?

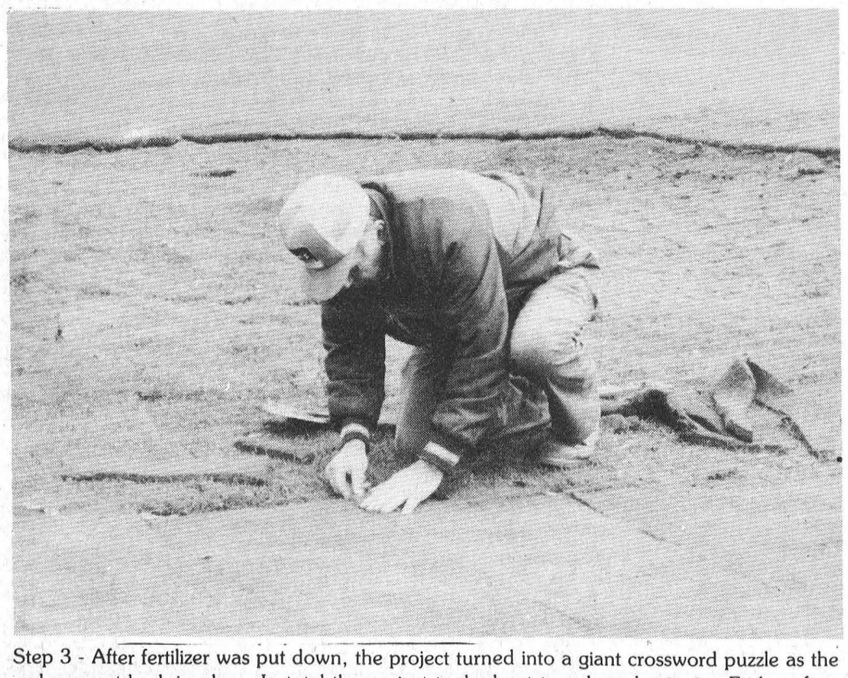
The best way to get warm last Thursday morning was to keep moving and that's just what the girls at the annual Dundas County Soccer championship played at Morrisburg did. The tournament was won by Stampville, the girls taking home the school's first championship. McNairn photo

Building a golf green in three not-so-easy steps

Step 1 - Anyone who has ever played the Morrisburg Golf Course knows a good round can quickly turn into a disaster at the par three-sixth hole. Now, just maybe, with the weekend re-construction to the sixth green completed, all this may change. The first step to the reconstruction involved cutting away all sod, and removing the top soil.



Step 2 - For step two the heavy equipment went to work. The sand traps were cleaned out and the sand mixed with the top soil and remaining fill. The re-shaping of the green and traps was then completed including the removal of rocks and finally raking. The top-soil was put back down to a thickness of six inches and again it was back to raking.



Step 3 - After fertilizer was put down, the project turned into a giant crossword puzzle as the sod was put back in place. In total the project took about two days, beginning Friday afternoon with the removal of the sod and continuing for 12 hours Saturday. By late Sunday morning all sod was back in place. If the weather co-operates the green could be ready for play by mid-June next year. McNairn photos

Town league opens season

Hills entry claims only win

MORRISBURG — Morrisburg town league hockey got underway at the arena here last Thursday night with Hills the only team to start the season on a win.

Hills edged Veinottes 6-5 while Hummels and the Flyers settled for a 3-3 tie.

Hummels and the Flyers got off to a slow start in the opening game of the season but both found their respective nets in the final minutes of the first period.

Fred Veley kicked it off with 3:30 left in the frame and less than a minute later Bob Deleavey upped the Hummel advantage to 2-0.

Before the buzzer sounded to end the frame the Flyers were able to get one back from Randy Casselman to close the gap to 2-1 heading into the second and final period.

Hold it to one

Hummels struck three minutes into the final, Deleavey getting his second of the game but at 11:11 Larry Gallinger hit for the Flyers on a penalty shot again narrowing the gap to one goal.

The tying goal came from Kevin Whitteker with 7:44 left in the game.

Archie Mellan was between the pipes for Hummels and David Black saw action for the Flyers.

In the second game of the night Veinottes turned it on in the second for four goals but Hills couldn't be stopped.

Hills open strong

Hills opened strong with four first period goals, a single from Scott Corden followed by a hat trick from Ian Hooles, his last two goals coming in the final minute of play.

Veinotte's answered with a single from Lyntley Froom.

Jeff Van Moorsel struck for Veinottes seven minutes into the final but Barry Elliott cancelled it four minutes later.

Come to life

In the final minutes of play Veinottes came to life hitting for three counters, a pair from Tom Hodgson and one from Jim Tuttle but Sam Moss' tally with 1:47 left did the talking, giving Hills the 6-5 win.

Jack Bjergso was between the pipes for Hills and Jeff Fowler saw action for Veinottes.

Seaway High's golf team dominates annual SD&G tourney

CORNWALL — The Seaway District High School golf team took the only step it could at the annual S.D.&G. tournament played recently, moving from its 1987 second place position into first.

Played at the Cornwall Golf and Country Club on Friday, October 7, the tournament was dominated by the Seaway golfers who were led by the girls who won their division by 30 strokes.

Seaway also claimed the boys' team championship and with both categories wrapped up they easily scored the overall victory.

Girls strong

The girls played very strong games for Seaway, Kim Bucking and Tammy McEwen coming home with nine-hole scores of 56 and Wendy Casselman right on their heels with a 57.

Leading the boys was Greg Wells with an 18-hole 85 followed by Jeff Ferguson at 90. Wes Baker shot a 92 and Randy Mullin a 98. Scott Burgess was the team spare.

Seaway combined the girls' aggregate of 169 with the boys 365 total for a 534 and the S.D.&G. championship.

Last year the tournament was won by St. Lawrence High School with a 550 aggregate. Seaway was second at 557.

The team members all returned to Seaway with gold medals and Kim Bucking claimed a silver for her second place finish among the girls.

Fossils hit hard, to take over first place

MORRISBURG — The Blue Fossils hit hard in flag football league action here Sunday morning when they combined their 20-0 win against the Greens with a 32-13 White victory over the Reds to move into first place.

The Fossils now lead the league with 12 points while the Red Stingers and White Peppers are tied for second with 11.

Phillip Dillabough quarterbacked the first half of the Reds, throwing for six to Mike Barclay. The Fossils successfully shut down the Green offence throughout the half and Mike Thompson came up with a big interception late in the frame against quarterback Doug Wilson to keep them off the scoreboard.

The second half saw Greens quarterback Dave Tait, also shut out, while Blues QB Tom Dawley threw for six to Sam Laurin and to Cam Dillabough.

Single points for the Blues were converted by Phillip Dillabough and Steve Coligan for the 20-0 win.

In the Whites versus Reds game it was all Harry Pepers for the Whites in the first half as he rushed for big yardage and was good for two touchdowns.

Kevin Adams and Tim Smith had no luck in the pocket for the Reds.

The second half saw Leo Lafortune throw two touchdowns for the Reds but Tom Pepers held the pace for the Whites throwing for two more to end the game 32-13.

Curling Chatter

MORRISBURG — The curling season has arrived and novice and old-pro curlers are busy taking advantage of this week's free ice time to work on their games.

The free curling has been offered by the Morrisburg Curling Club from October 17th to Thursday 20 with both afternoon and evening time slots.

This Friday night the Industrial Curling league will kick off its schedule and all other registered curlers will be contacted prior to their first draw.

Some draws are starting next week and some not until the week after.

The club is still looking for people who will be willing to help with the Little Rocks program this year.

It is hoped that some interested parents will come forward to give assistance.

The Little Rocks have practise sessions on Sunday afternoons and once or twice a year they go out of town to bonspiels. Curling parents, who can help the children with the game, are especially needed.

Last weekend was our garage sale and it turned out very well. A special thank you to everyone for your support.

Seaway High News

Hi gang, sorry I wasn't here last week but my lovely sister Kori forgot to turn my news.

But I'm back this week with all the upcoming events at Seaway.

Questionnaires have been distributed among the classes please turn them in as soon as possible. This year teachers filled them out also, and they had to put their favorite excuse. So far the funniest was from Mrs. Madden which was 'A cow ate my gym clothes off the clothesline'. That was pretty priceless. On Tuesday there was a volleyball tournament (boys) held at Seaway, scores were unavailable at press time.

The grade 12 and 13 advanced English and History classes will be travelling to Ottawa on Thursday to see the new art gallery and 'The Spirit Sings' exhibit.

And on Friday there is a P.D. day. That means a 3-day week for me and everyone else in my English and history classes.

See you next week.

United Church women

MOREWOOD — Morewood United Church was host to the annual fall rally for the Region Three of the Seaway Valley Presbyterial United Church Women on October 3.

The Morewood United Church Women attended the registration of the 60 women representing 13 area churches.

The book display was looked after by Betty Beckstead and Kay Eadie, Literature Convenors for Presbyterial U.C.W.

After a delicious pot luck supper, the program began with a sing-a-long directed by Jennie Harwood accompanied by Colleen McLaughlin on the organ.

Following the program the group was welcomed by chairwoman, regional vice-president June Herriman and Morewood U.C.W. president Marjorie Thompson. Lorna Suffel, president of the Inkerman U.C.W., gave the worship service.

Mrs. Melba Morrell of Williamsburg U.C.W. introduced guest speaker, Mrs. Wilma O'Connel, co-ordinator of the Palliative Care Program for St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in Brockville and Carol Davis, a volunteer with the same program.

Mrs. O'Connel traced the history of the program and outlined the tremendously important work being done by the staff and the volunteers with both the patients and their families.

Carol told of some patients she has worked with and of the satisfaction she receives from helping people who are terminally ill.

Mrs. O'Connel expressed the hope that a palliative care group would be formed in the area, close enough for some of the ladies in the audience to take part as volunteers. She assured everyone that it is most gratifying work.

Donations from the ladies for work in the palliative care unit were gratefully accepted by Mrs. O'Connel and Muriel Milne thanked the speakers.

Rietta Hillis, Presbyterial President, brought greetings from Presbyterial U.C.W. and Doris Ennis and Orma Earl presented a humorous skit to inform the group of the proceedings at the Summer Event held in Kemptville.

Margaret Dutta, president of the Morrisburg U.C.W., thanked everyone for their part in the evening and the meeting was closed with all ladies repeating the Mispah benediction.

Wheels of justice grind slowly

MORRISBURG — Those who attended Morrisburg Provincial Court Tuesday were well aware of the fact that the wheels of justice grind slowly.

Steve Mellon, charged May 26, 1979, in Matilda Township for driving with an excess of alcohol was fined $300 and his license suspended for three months. Almost ten years ago Mellon was originally arrested for drunk driving. Inebriated behaviour and two breath samples confirmed the fact.

However, Mellon took off shortly after his first arrest for the West in order to take a job, and was arrested last Sunday on a bench warrant from 1979. When the accused was arrested on Sunday, he was employed, had two dependent children, and assumed he still held his job but was unsure because of two days spent in custody.

•

A charge of driving with an excess of alcohol against Lawrence Quinlun was dismissed because according to Judge Bruce Hunter, no time was given when the accident occurred.

A serious accident November 10, 1987, in Williamsburg Township on Highway 401 was reported by a service centre employee. Constable Bamber was dispatched to the scene where three nurses were attending a severely injured man who was lying on the shoulder of the road, and a transport truck lay in the ditch.

Quinlun was driven to Winchester Hospital, a blood sample taken apparently with his consent, and the sample sent to Forensic Sciences in Toronto, which showed a high level of alcohol.

But although there was evidence of elevated alcohol levels, according to Hunter, "no time was given when the accident occurred, or when he was driving."

Hunter dismissed the charge, but admonished Quinlun that he shouldn't have been drinking and driving any vehicle let alone a transport. Defense lawyer Patrick Rudden mentioned that Quinlun had been in agony since the accident and assured Judge Hunter that Quinlun had the drinking habit under control.

Deonarine Ramsarup was given a $300 fine or thirty days, and prohibited from driving for three months, for an incident of impaired driving in Williamsburg Township October 8.

Kevin Duvall was fined $50 for breaking a window October 1 in Morrisburg. Police were notified after the incident occurred when Duvall attempted to enter property inhabited by his estranged spouse, and owned by him. Duvall also had paid $14 to have the window repaired and was attempting to establish communications with his spouse.

•

Proceedings were stayed against Bruce Mullen, who had been acquitted in a trial three weeks ago of an assault charge laid last May at the Loyalist Motel. However, a new charge of assaulting a different victim had been laid in relation to the same incident.

As Judge Bruce Hunter said, "This man could have been charged properly in the first place, and there is no point in taking two bites of an apple from the same man."

Pretty fall wedding celebrated in Brinston

Mr. and Mrs. Peters

BRINSTON — A pretty wedding was solemnized on September 2, 1988 at Brinston United Church when Cindy Suzanne Ault became the bride of Kelly John Peters.

Cindy, the daughter of Patricia and Frank Ault, and Kelly the son of Patricia and George Peters, were joined in marriage by Rev. Dr. Allan Tysick.

After the 6 p.m. ceremony and reception at Matilda Community Hall in Dixon's Corners, the newlyweds honeymooned in the 1000 Islands area. Guests attended from Toronto, Thorold, St. Catharines and Nova Scotia.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Carolyn Garlough, who acted as maid-of-honor and bridesmaids Trish Peters, sister of the groom and Mrs. Betty Fawcett. The flower girl was Miss Chelsea Ault, a niece of the bride.

The groom was assisted by best man Casey Taylor, and ushers were Darin Eden and Steve Dunn.

The bride wore a white satin gown with ruffled train, accentuated with pearls, lace trim and a sweetheart neckline. Her headpiece was a ring of flowers with blusher veil and floor length train.

Her maid of honor wore a royal blue satin tea length dress while the bridesmaids wore jade-colored gowns. Their bouquets were hurricane lamps surrounded by daisies, sweetheart roses, lilies and baby's breath.

The groom wore a grey tuxedo with silver bow tie and cummerbund while his attendants wore black tuxedos with black and grey bow ties and cummerbunds.

Women's Institute

MORRISBURG — The October meeting of the Morrisburg Women's Institute was highlighted by an Auction sale, of donated items, with Maurine Casselman being the auctioneer. It was profitable and entertaining.

The roll call, "Why I am an Institute member was answered by 16 members and one visitor.

The Resolutions, to be presented at the 73rd annual convention of Eastern Ontario Women's Institutes at the Talisman Hotel in Ottawa, were discussed and approved by all present.

It was brought to our attention that "Meals-on-Wheels" were in need of support. A donation was approved.

Due to the length of the auction, the programme on the Tweedsmuir History prepared by Mildred Gillmor, was not presented.

The meeting closed by singing God Save the Queen.

Lunch was served by Mildred Gillmor and her committee of Ruth Sturgess and Dorothy Merrill.

IN MEMORIAM

CASTLEMAN — In loving memory of a dear husband, Albert Milton Castleman who passed away October 25, 1986.
Each morning when I awake and know that you are gone;
No one knows the heart ache as I try to carry on;
My heart still aches in sadness,
A secret tear will flow,
What it meant to lose you Milton.
No one will ever know you meant so very much to me.
Far more then words can say.
There still an ache within my heart.
That years can't take away;
I miss your smiles and your kind ways,
In my heart you will always remain;
And never be forgotten,
And will meet you in heaven.
Sadly missed by your loving wife
