Consumers' Gas In Area Again Seeking Oil Or Gas

Consumers Gas officials have returned to the McCrimmon area in search of oil or natural gas and some farms both east and west of McCrimmon have had their mineral rights leased for another two-year period.

The area is generally the same one leased two years ago, farms on the north side of the road west of McCrimmon, in Caledonia Township, and lots 32 to 38 in the 9th Concession Lochiel, east of McCrimmon.

Company officials are also interested in possibilities of the Kirk Hill area where technicians were making some tests early last fall. One McCrimmon area farmer quotes a "technician as telling him" we know there is a fault in the rock formation somewhere in the area. If we can find it our drills may locate either oil or natural gas."

One of the farms leased again is that of Dougald McDonald, west of McCrimmon, where a diamond drill crew made tests some four years ago. Another such crew is expected in the area as soon as weather conditions moderate and there is the possibility of more farms being leased.

An option for two years is being sought at one dollar per acre this year and a like payment in 1968. There would be a royalty on net earnings if the find proved workable, we understand.

Two Plants At St. Isidore Lost To Flames

A 6½-hour fire which threatened to wipe out the entire village was brought under control late Saturday after it destroyed the community's two main industries.

The damage is estimated at more than $300,000.

The blaze started in the grain elevator of a feed mill operated by Maurice Lamoureux and spread to a wood-working plant owned by J. R. Menard.

Both buildings were levelled by the fire, which started about 10.30 a.m. and burned out of control until after 5 p.m.

The village's 350 residents prepared to evacuate when officials feared the wind, gusting to 30 mph would change direction and sweep the blaze through the village.

Surrounding buildings were frequently doused with water to prevent the fire from spreading farther.

More than 100 men from Alfred, Plantagenet, Maxville, Casselman and St. Isidore fought the blaze.

About 300 tons of grain were destroyed and firemen had to spread the remaining grain to stop it smouldering.

The temperature dropped to 20 degrees below zero during the fire, freezing hose lines and hampering efforts to contain the blaze.

Charged With Theft

Charges of theft were laid here, Wednesday morning, under the Criminal Code of Canada against William J. Murray, suspended clerk of the township of Charlottenburgh.

A warrant was issued at the same time for Mr. Murray's arrest. He is expected to be remanded and to appear next Tuesday in court here.

Mr. Murray was suspended, Feb. 3, when alleged irregularities were found in the township books at Williamstown by a firm of auditors, which had moved in two days earlier.

The case has been under investigation since that time by Ontario Provincial Police.

Maxville Ups Rate Interest On Taxes

At the February meeting Maxville Village Council was given a review of the 1966 financial statement of the village as presented in the report of the auditor, James A. MacKillican of Renfrew. Both expenditures and receipts followed closely the estimates in the budget drawn up early in the year, the year's operations ending with a surplus of $269.40.

Total tax arrears, which at December 31, 1966 amounted to 35% of the current levy, or $24 per capita, as compared with 32% and $19 per capita in 1962, were discussed by Council. It was decided to increase the present rate of interest on tax arrears which is ½% per month to a new rate of ⅔% per month or 8% per year, effective March 1, 1967.

A by-law was approved setting the maximum expenditures on streets and drains which would be eligible for 50% subsidy at $5,500.

1967 annual memberships to the Seaway Valley Travel Council and the Eastern Ontario Development Council were approved.

Cornwall Approves Raisin River Brief

A brief submitted to the International Joint Commission by the Raisin River Conservation Authority to divert water from St. Lawrence River into Raisin River was approved, Monday night, by Cornwall's council.

The Authority said critical water problems of low summer flow and pollution on the Raisin River watershed have resulted in insufficient water supply for stock watering, recreation and fish life.

In its letter to council, the Authority said the diversion of water from St. Lawrence River would assist in solving the pollution problem and would improve the wildlife potential of the river.

Centennial Carnival Here Opens Wednesday With Selection Of Queen

The Richelieu Club's centennial carnival is set for next Saturday, Feb. 25th and club organizers report a very satisfying public response has already assured its success. The interest shown promises wide participation in making this a memorable day.

Opening activity comes next Wednesday night with the competition for carnival queen in Sacred Heart Hall. The nine contestants will be scored by outside judges on appearance, talent and speech and the public is invited to be present to see the carnival queen and two princesses selected.

On carnival day, minor hockey starts off the activities with a four-hour program against out of town teams. The mayor will then officially open the carnival at the Mill Square and the queen and other contestants will be presented to the public.

Then, will follow a full afternoon of fun, packed with scores of activities such as, bazaar, pie eating, tug of war, roll the barrel, snow shoe races, broomball, ski-doo rides and other sports.

The free supper will be served between 4 and 8.30 p.m. at the Faisan Bleu.

The club notes that it has planned a program for which there will be absolutely no admission charged to these activities, thereby making them accessible to all the public.

Carnival dances will be the highlight of the evening bringing to a close this day of fun and enjoyment that blends well with the spirit and atmosphere of gaiety that should reign during centennial year.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

The Sooner The Better

The return of Glengarry Gardens to its place in the local recreation set-up is by no means an accomplished fact but the first important step came last week when town council voted unanimously to seek an option on the arena and negotiate for its purchase. Word of that decision drew many favorable comments over the weekend.

It is to be hoped the Gardens' directors will be in a receptive mood and that a mutually acceptable purchase price will be arrived at so that ice can be restored to the arena early next fall.

Such an eventuality may pose problems for the Carnation Company, now using the arena for warehousing of its products. An early agreement on purchase of the building by the community probably will provide time enough for the Carnation people to make other plans.

Sports-minded residents of town and the district will be hoping for early news that negotiations have been successfully completed.

A Trailer Park Should Up The Tourist Influx

Members of the local Legion Branch will be providing a real community service if their centennial plans for a trailer park can be brought to reality in time to catch some of the summer tourist trade. The playground site is admirably suited for such a purpose and we have been advocating establishment of a trailer park there for more than a decade.

Expo was a subject of much discussion among weekly newspaper people at last week's Ontario convention and it seems many of the editors are planning to bring their families to Montreal via trailer. They were delighted to learn Alexandria would have such facilities within easy driving distance of the world fair and several are already making plans to make this their base of operations.

The fact that all the services, including sewerage, are available at the spot will be a big selling point. It seems this is one of the services most often missing at trailer parks and most in demand.

The Legion trailer park will have other nearby facilities not usually found by trailer families; the supervised swim beach, slides and rides and picinic spots on the park. The fact that we boast a golf course is another selling point the tourist will value.

Preparing the trailer park for the summer influx of Expo-bound tourists should not require too much time or effort. As soon as planning has been firmed up Legion officials expect to get the word out to other Legion branches across the country, to border points and tourist information centres. No doubt the fact that these trailer services will be available here will be passed on, too, to Logexpo, the exhibition's bureau for coordinating lodging facilities for visitors.

The fact of a trailer camp here could result in a distinct jump in our tourist trade this summer and in subsequent years. That would benefit local stores, restaurants, and theatres, perhaps in a particular way, but everyone would eventually gain from the tourist dollars spent here.

This centennial plan of the Legion Branch promises to fill a long felt want.

Advertising And Prices

(The Printed Word)

Actually, in these times when advertising is such an accepted part of commerce, there is very little about prices that is not common knowledge. Before there was advertising it was possible to deceive the buyer, but so long as there is public advertising of commodities, prices are not going to get very far out of line.

Not so many years ago on one of those occasions when there was suspicion of collusion because two people were offering goods at the same price, a deputy minister of finance told a committee that under perfect competition prices were bound to be the same. And competition is stimulated by advertising, whether it takes the form of radio, TV, newspapers, handbills or a puppet show in a shop window.

There are people who probably have never worked in a practical arena and who believe and preach that advertising is an expense that could be eliminated for the benefit of the consumer. But advertsing creates business and the creation of business maintains an active competitive world to the advantage of everyone who manufactures goods and who sells, buys and consumes them.

This has been proved on a number of occasions when strikes have compelled newspapers to shut down. The most recent example is Toledo, Ohio, with retail sales falling off in spite of every effort made through radio, TV and other substitutes for newspaper advertising.

When one of the large chains many years ago began opening stores in small towns the price of goods went down. Other merchants in the community had to reduce their prices to put them in line with the chain store. Their markups had been maintained for many years but they found that if they were going to stay in business they had to meet the new store's prices. The housewife and all consumers benefited.

Some of the people who now are decrying chain-store activity and competition are not old enough perhaps to remember that before there were chain stores there were high prices.

Glengarry's Founders Are Ignored

The Confederation train is proving a popular centennial feature according to press reports from British Columbia which tell of long line-ups. As many as 800 an hour are filing through the train at its BC stops to view the exhibits designed to tell the story of Canada's history.

There has been a furor in Parliament because of the fact no picture of Queen Elizabeth is included in the train. Another lack, of much more moment to Glengarrians possibly, is pointed up by an editorial in the Smiths Falls Record-News. It seems the part played by the United Empire Loyalists is almost totally ignored. The editorial follows:

"We understand that the Confederation train has omitted any reminder of the Battle of the Plains of Abraham. It is absurd to skip over an event that shaped our history from that day to this, but at least there was some reason, however weak, for it—a wish to avoid offending the French-Canadian portion of our population during our national celebrations. But this concern for hurt feelings has apparently spread to include American sensibilities, as well, states the Brockville Recorder and Times.

"A complaint from certain English-Canadian groups that the train's exhibits ignore the United Empire Loyalists, has produced the explanation that displays covering our early settlement and the war of 1812 "leave an inference" of their role. The UEL, who migrated to Canada out of loyalty to the Crown when the United States colonies revolted, must surely rate more than an "inference" in anything purporting to be a review of our history. In addition to their considerable contribution in colonizing the country, their story is important in quite another way. When French-Canadians and the Loyalists stood together to fight off the invading United States forces, it marked the first time the two founding races had co-operated in resisting a common foe—an important milestone in our history.

"Surely the Confederation train organizers do not feel it necessary to soft-pedal the War of 1812 for fear of reminding the United States that it once tried — and failed — to conquer Canada? United States citizens are not afflicted with our hypersensitivity about unpleasant incidents in their past.

"Canada had its war of British against French; the United States had its Civil War of North against South. But the subject is not taboo there — the Civil War is an ever-popular subject for movies and books and every major battlefield is well marked with monuments. A Canadian suggesting a movie on the theme of the Battle of the Plains of Abraham would probably be considered a subversive."

Democracy in Canada? Bah humbug! The Blacks in Rhodesia have more say in their country's affairs than we do by way of their headsmen and tribal chiefs, not to mention their parliament.

Like when were we Canadian voters ever asked if we wanted to see Red China seated in the UN? Whether we wanted our country to apply sanctions against Rhodesia and deprive babies of their milk? Were we ever asked if we wanted to get rid of our familiar National flag or wanted to integrate our armed forces and hand them over to the UN as a "peacekeeping" force while we ourselves became defenceless?

Did our government consult us about stripping the Royal coat of arms from our mail trucks? Did the pseudo-socialist Liberal Government ever ask the voters how we felt about selling our wheat to help feed the Red Chinese army or

THE SENATE WAS ADJOURNED

Up at Ottawa the Gentleman of the Black Rod, or some such character, plays a part in opening sessions of the Senate.

There's no such ceremony in connection with the local senate. It opens every week day when Gerry the barber gets to work; it adjourns for an hour while he has his lunch and each session ends informally when he closes shop for the day.

That's the way it's always been, with the members of the senate dropping in whenever it suits them and taking part in the debate just as long as they can spare from more mundane duties. Politics has its place in these sessions of the senate but there's a fount of other information to be gleaned there and the members have been known to needle and play practical jokes one on the other on occasion. Some of those sessions rival those in the Red Chamber for human interest and there are local senators who figure the day doesn't start with the dawn but at that precise moment when Gerry puts his key to the door lock.

They had a bad time of it getting through last week. The senate was adjourned and in the hands of the decorators while Gerry and the missus sojourned in the big city of New York.

The way we hear it there's a motion being prepared to prevent that ever happening again. Local senators are much more faithful attendants than the Ottawa breed and they're completely at sea when their gentleman of the black rod takes even a day off.

NO ONE-HORSE TOWN NOW

There are probably people who refer to Alexandria as a one-horse town but we'll be able to give them the lie from now on. Albert Depratto has closed out more than 30 years of hauling by horse and wagon and is putting old dobbin to pasture.

There's no longer even that one last horse to provide an opening for those caustic critics of our town.

Albert's still in good shape and he looks forward to doing odd jobs. His familiar figure will still be seen around town. But this age of the auto is death on horses.

The town dump keeps getting ever more distant from the town proper. Since Radislav Verc closed his shop there's not a blacksmith left to shoe a horse in Alexandria. For want of a shoe a battle was once lost, they say; and one of the big reasons Albert is retiring his horse is because there's no place to get it shod.

And that's a shame. Entire generations of kiddies are doomed to grow up totally ignorant of the joys to be found in standing timorously in the smithy's door, awesomely admiring the blacksmith as he braves those flying hooves. The anvil chorus will ring no more to make music for the childish ear; the bellows are left to bullies; that shower of sparks, the white hot glow of the shaping horse-shoe, will no more light the eye of the lad peering with wonder into the soot-stained shop where once horses were shod so daringly.

We're going to miss the clop, clop of Albert's coming. That rhythmic sound of horses' hooves striking the pavement was much to be preferred to the screeching tires of today's car cowboys. The smell of a horse's passing was much healthier for our lungs than is the cancer-producing cloud of the car's exhaust.

No longer can they say Alexandria is a one-horse town. For one who's an admirer of good horse flesh pride in our community might be even higher if we still had equines in plenty.

LETTERS

whether we'd like to help the USA, Australia and New Zealand stop the spread of communism throughout Asia?

Not on your life! They just weasel-word an X out of us with a phoney platform of promises, then cynically lead us by the nose down the pink path of socialism and "One Worldism" under the dictatorship of the UN.

But not me, brother. My kind of democracy is the kind where government serves the people, not vice versa, and I'll keep saying so till the next election by which time I hope voters won't kiss their liberty goodbye with an X.

Yours sincerely,
Jane Hunt.

New Name And Local Management For Maxville's Junior Hockey Team

The Maxville entry in the St. Lawrence Junior B Hockey League has a new name today and is under new management.

From now on the team will be known as the Highlanders instead of the Millionaires. William Coleman, a village councillor is the new coach, and Donald (Doc) Munroe, a former star defenceman of the old Millionaire teams of the 1930s, is manager.

In first place in the league, the team will be taking on its closest rivals on the weekend, in the Russell entry. Game will be on Friday at 8.30 p.m., and Maxville hopes to nail down first place.

The Highlanders also play Prescott at the Jubilee Arena on Sunday, with game time 3 p.m.

The village group now in control of the team disclosed that the same player personnel will be retained. They asked village and area residents to get out and support the young players who have been league leaders all season despite disappointing crowds.

They indicated sponsorship of a Cornwall firm has been withdrawn and it is up to area residents to support the team if it is to continue operations.

New Post Office For St. Isidore

Contract for a new post office at St. Isidore has been let to A. Seguin of St. Eugene, the Public Works department announced Tuesday.

The successful tender at $24,935 was the lower of two opened.

Of frame construction with brick exterior finish, the 31x37 ft. office will be located on St. Catherine St.

Plan Youth Home At Cornwall

A Home for Youths, to serve Cornwall and the United Counties, will be erected in the north part of Cornwall at a cost of $100,000. This initial unit is expected to accommodate some 15 youths in the 12 to 18 age group.

They will be mainly referrals from the Juvenile and Family Courts but some may be from the Children's Aid Society or school authorities.

The new Home will be privately sponsored by a group headed by Rev. Peter Barkway which has received its charter. Among members of the group are Juvenile Judge Percy Bergeron, Rev. Rudolph Villeneuve of Glen Walter and Derry Tenger of Dunvegan, a CAS social worker in Cornwall.

Cost of the new Home will be met for the most part by the Ontario Government under the Children's Institutions Act.

Petition Started For Community Centre

Plans for a petition to town council favoring a new community centre on the park, rather than purchase of Glengarry Gardens, have been temporarily suspended, reports Martin Clement. Mr. Clement and Gerald Charlebois had originated the petition and had some 60 signatures.

According to Mr. Clement costs of such a centre will be ascertained before further action is taken.

LEGION-AIRES

Alexandria Branch No. 423

In keeping with the season of Hearts and Flowers, this week we have invited the Ladies Auxiliary to share our column. This, we hope, will become a regular habit. So to those ladies who share our pleasures, and share our woes, we say welcome to our column.

The treasurer (that old smoothie) reminded me time and again and then some more, not to forget to extend happy valentine day wishes to our dear wives, and not to forget our own Ladies Auxiliary. The 1st vice-president (Longfellow) has contributed the following verse for the occasion: "Roses are red, Violets are blue; Ladies, What would we do without you?" Well I'm glad they thought of it. And them are our sentiments ! ! .

The executive officers are reminded that this is the night, Thursday, February 16th, executive meeting.

And now fellows, here are the gals.

Legionaires from the Ladies Auxiliary

At the last regular meeting, February 8th, our president, Laurette Jette welcomed the following new members: Miss Diane Hurtubise, Mrs. Bill Watson and Mrs. Emma Billes. Welcome to the fold, girls.

We are sorry to hear that Comrade Laura Gagnon is in Hotel Dieu. Speedy recovery Laura.

President Jette (The Jet) has come up with another of her great ideas, this time its an Album of Auxiliary activities, past, present, and future. If you girls have any snaps, photos, picture, etc. and you wish to donate same to the cause, they will be gratefully received. They should be of some Legion activity or member. Let's try to fill this Centennial Album. (Mr. editor please do not spell album with 2 Ls.)

Of things to come: February 21, Bingo; March 8, regular meeting; March 18, social get-together with Hawkesbury and Lancaster branches of ladies and the men; April 15, Legion Centennial Ball; get the needles going gals. Tickets on the beautiful centennial shawl to be drawn that night are available now.

Say girl. have you heard the latest? The BBs, no that does not stand for Briget Bardot or Bad Boys but does stand for "Bearded Braves" have adopted a motto "We who are boss at home", now isn't that the greatest? Smiles and chuckles and laugh, laugh, laugh. Oh, well there are only 28 in the town and the area.

And may the good Lord bless and keep us till we meet again.

Roy A. Pechie Died At Cornwall

Roy A. Pechie, who operated a garage in Avonmore for several years, died suddenly in Cornwall last Tuesday at the age of 53. Mr. Pechie was highly esteemed in the Avonmore community. The announcement of his death came as a great shock to his many friends.

Born at Dalkeith, he was the son of the late Alexander Pechie and Louise Sauve, both former residents of Dalkeith.

Mr. Pechie left Avonmore in 1961 and worked in Montreal until last August when he moved to Long Sault and worked in a service station on Brookdale Avenue, Cornwall. At work last Tuesday morning he suffered a series of heart attacks and passed away within an hour at the Cornwall General Hospital.

Mr. Pechie leaves his wife, the former Bella Campbell, one son, Gordon of Cornwall; two grandchildren and four sisters: Mrs. George Cline and Mrs. Lionel Bourbonnais, Maxville; Mrs. Leo Viau and Mrs. Michael Thompson, of Ottawa.

The body rested at Miller's Funeral Home, Cornwall. Rev. H. Russell Ferguson, minister of Kenyon Presbyterian Church, Dunvegan, officiated. Interment was made in the Dunvegan cemetery.

Pallbearers were Peter Sauve, Albert Cadieux, Nelson Montgomery, Murdie Campbell, James Campbell, Lionel Bourbonnais, John Campbell and Henry Brunet.

St. Finnan's Cathedral, Alexandria was the scene of a mid-winter wedding when Ann T. Gouthro and Donald Joseph MacPhee, both of Toronto, were married on January 28th, 1967.

Msgr. D. A. Kerr officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Gouthro of Silver Spring, Md. and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Edward MacPhee, Alexandria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white crepe, traditional style with fitted bodice and long sleeves coming to a point over the hands. The front of the gown was appliqued with lace and seed pearls and had back interest of a flat bow to which was attached a short train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a pill box of lace and seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a circle of white carnations centered with a red rose.

Miss Lee Gouthro, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Catherine Olive MacPhee, sister of the groom and Monica Gouthro, sister of the bride.

John J. MacPhee of Ottawa, was best man and the ushers were Michael Smith, Washington, DC and Ewen McDonald, Alexandria.

A reception was held in the Alexander Hall following the ceremony and later the bridal couple were piped from the hall by Bobby MacCrimmon.

For a wedding trip to the Georgian Bay area the bride wore a three-piece suit of black and white tweed with fur collar and cuffs and a black and white pill box hat. Her corsage was of red roses.

Out of town guests attended the wedding from Silver Spring, Maryland, Wash., DC, Detroit, College Park, Md., Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa.

World Day Of Prayer Marked

Representatives of all three Alexandria churches joined Friday in the Church on the Hill in marking the World Day of Prayer. It was the first occasion on which women from the three churches marked the day together and some 175 were present.

This service was prepared by the late Queen Salote of the Tonga Islands in the South Pacific, where the first observance of the World Day of Prayer is held each year.

Mrs. R. J. Graham delivered the message while Mrs. J. Y. Humphries, also of the United Church, conducted the service of prayer and commitment.

Mrs. Lloyd McHugh, representing St. Finnan's Cathedral, read the words of the prophets Isaiah and Daniel and of the Angel speaking to Mary. She further took leadership in reading the attributes of the Kingdom. Miss Suzanne Roy, representing Sacred Heart Parish, assisted.

Mrs. Leonard S. Woolfrey led in prayers of confession and intercession assisted by Miss Patsy Bradley, Miss Ruth McCrimmon, Miss Gail Gebbie, Miss Helen Upton and Miss Sharon McLennan.

Hymns of praise were led by a choir of girls from Glengarry District High School with Mrs. D. M. Macleod at the organ. Mrs. James A. Wightman sang "Teach Me Lord To Pray" by W. G. Nightingale.

Mrs. Douglas J. Baxter and Mrs. W. C. Austin received at the vestibule doors while Miss Karen Hall and Miss Linda Whitehead assisted with the taking of the offering during the service.

IMPORTANT NEW DEVELOPMENT FROM CO-OPERATIVE RESEARCH:

New CO-OP* Cattle Mineral A fights phosphorus deficiency in milking cows.

A shortage of phosphorus reduces milk production. Too much Calcium in relation to the Phosphorus has the same effect. That is why Co-operative Research has developed new CO-OP Cattle Mineral A. This formula contains Calcium and Phosphorus in equal proportions . . . the same ratio found in milk itself . . . to assure you of maximum milk production. CO-OP Cattle Mineral A also contains salt, iron, iodine and important trace elements, plus vitamins A and D. BELL LINES

by L. M. Holtby
your telephone manager

I wonder how many of you have ever noticed a small box — usually black plastic — tucked up on a basement beam in your home. It is placed quite close to the point where our telephone wire comes into your home. We call this small box an inside station protector and we use it as a safety device where the inside wire and the outside wire are joined. It protects both our equipment and the telephone user from stray electrical currents over 300 volts and from lightning surges. The protector serves much the same purpose as the more familiar electrical fuse except that instead of opening a line, as a fuse does, the protector grounds it. If this should happen — and it very seldom does — your phone immediately is put out of order. So seldom do we have to change or repair these station protectors, in fact, that I discovered recently that many homes still have those installed with their first telephone many years ago. These are from the pre-plastic era and are of white porcelain. Many, too, were placed in the days when cellars were cellars and not beautiful recreation rooms, family rooms or finished workshops; when panelling or attractive tile did not conceal bare ceiling beams. Many people today are converting basement space into wonderfully liveable rooms. If this should be in your home improvement plans would you please locate this protector? Under no circumstance should any of the wires leading from the protector be disconnected. They are vital to your service.

Then, if you are installing a ceiling, perhaps you could leave the small area unboxed or place a removable panel to give easy access to the black box. It would also be to your advantage to provide access to the ground wire connection which usually runs from the protector to a nearby water pipe. Chances are our Installers or Repairmen will seldom have to gain access to these connections. However, if that need should arise, it would take longer to restore your service and perhaps mar a beautiful ceiling if the protector or ground connections have been hidden by the panelling or ceiling tiles.

I wonder how many of you remember back to the days when the telephone was still looked upon either as a toy or the invention of the devil? From our historical file comes this tale from 1911 — only 56 years ago. "Recently on entering the house of a subscriber an instrument setter noticed the telephone decorated with small bags attached to the transmitter and receiver. It was learned that the bags contained camphor and had been placed there to ward off scarlet fever, as another party on the line was quarantined on account of this disease."

To help speed your long distance calls along, Canada and the United States have been divided into calling areas. Each calling area has its own three-number Area Code. When you call outside your own calling area, these special codes direct you to the area you are calling. Whether you are able to dial the calls yourself or whether a Long Distance Operator must place them for you, using or giving her the Area Code speeds your call. Codes for many locations are listed in the front of your telephone directory.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

Recently while browsing through the weekend press before the fireplace we received a long distance call. The speaker's voice for a moment was not too familiar, then, sure enough it was Werden Leavens, secty-manager Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association.

Mr. Leavens, in conjunction with president Ken Glendinning, Delhi News-Record, was via phone requesting that we take on what turned out to be a very pleasant assignment.

At the Association's annual meeting, February 9, 10 and 11, we were told confidentially, our News editor was to be honored by his colleagues and it was a must that he be in attendance. (Past presidents sometimes fail to attend). We assured Messrs. Leavens and Glendinning that come convention dates the Rambling Reporter would do his rambling within the confines of the Royal York.

So last Thursday, as the News was rolling off the press the editor waved s'long to his staff and we headed through the Glens to Cornwall where we boarded the CN's crack "Cavalier" to Toronto.

Our first port of call was at the suite of President Ken Glendinning. The prexy was ably assisted in extending greetings by his son Don and Mrs. Glendinning. Our first impressions are lasting ones. The Glendinnings, we thought, were exemplary of the town or country home where members of the family were being welcomed across the threshold to spend a couple of days with the "old folks." There prevailed a distinct homey atmosphere created by down to earth friendly people representing possibly the sole remaining link with traditions of past eras — the family weekly newspaper.

The gracious ladies in attendance were not decked out in fancy dan cocktail dresses but attractively gowned as they would be back home. There was no command performance by the editors to flash stuffed-studded shirts; on the contrary wear your business suit and be as you are at home to the readers of your paper.

The festive board, too, groaned with a variety of food that would tempt any scribe to forget for the nonce his callory limit. Even the coffee made you pleasantly wince like Jackie Gleason on a Saturday night.

When the mechanism of any convention runs smoothly it is obvious someone in the background is keeping the gears well lubricated with experience and timing. Here in Glengarry we frequently refer to John Jamieson as Mr. Highland Games and we think this is a fitting way to class Werden Leavens as Mr. Ontario Weekly. Bright and early Friday a.m., Werden had the show on the road in fact, a bit too early for a few editors we met. The entire schedule, especially dinners, (lining up that head table can be a headache) were right on time. Honestly we think if Werden was younger he would be drafted by NHL president Clarence Campbell to join the referee staff as he whirled around the convention floor with all the authority and poise of a Red Storey or Frank Udvari. Werden, like an efficient linesman in a game, is also a great retriever. During the course of his busy hours he even retrieved a precious note book that allegedly contained information not ordinally used by an editor. However, either by accident or design Mr. Leavens from the head table at Saturday's closing function presented the lost and found article (a tradition of weekly papers) to the rightful blushing owner and this provoked a round of applause that splintered a few of the roof garden rafters.

Among the many editors that it was our privilege to meet were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hvidsten. Peter has been to Ourtown but Mrs. Hvidsten, a great enthusiast of Highland Games, has yet to visit Glengarry. Our delightful conversation as you would expect started on shop chatter switching a bit to sport after learning that the Hvidstens edit both the Port Perry Star and Uxbridge Times-Journal. We mentioned the Port Perry Roaches, remember John Ross Roach one time great NHL goalie who succeeded "Jumping Jackie" Forbes in the days before the current Leafs.

Mrs. Hvidsten is more than a bit interested in Scottish history and traditions as we discussed, Ralph Connor's, The Man from Glengarry, Grace Campbell's, Highland Heritage and who can overlook, at such a time, The Cabot Trail and Cape Breton.

Among those who addressed the convention was Glengarry's Hugh P. MacMillan, liaison officer, Department of Ontario Public Records and Archives. Eastern Ontario editors won quite a number of competition awards as reported in another column. In addition to extending congratulations to all the Weekly winners, Glengarry News readers and this paper's staff will share with justified pride the honor bestowed on our editor who was chosen by his associates as the Weekly Newspaper Man of the Year.

HITHER AND YON IN METRO:

Had there been an award for Centennial beard growing editors then the Fort Erie Times Review would have been an easy winner . . . However, if this was an open class our Hugh P. (Historical Notes) MacMillan with his flowing red locks would hold a winning lead like Northern Dancer in the Kentucky Derby . . . While on this theme, we liked the old fashioned brush cut of that up and coming editor Don (Delhi News-Record) Glendinning . . . Don reminds us of the late "Brunny" Wadsworth when he was an Ottawa-St. Pats student-football recruit out of Renfrew.

George Gathercole, Ontario Hydro Chairman, in his luncheon remarks extolled the power production potential of the Madawaska thus causing a Mae West chest expansion by Jack (Almonte Gazette) Graham, Gordon Fenn and Francis Murphy (Arnprior Guide) and Don (Renfrew-Advance) McCuaig . . . then came the deflation when a Western Ontario editor quipped . . . "What and where is the Madawaska?" By the way, Don hails from our Glengarry Bainsville McCuaigs while Francis Murphy is a brother of Ourtown's Mrs. Lyall Costello. Editor Andy (Vankleek Hill) Boyer had as his luncheon guest a former townsman Ranald (Rannie in the bank) Macdonald . . . Keith (Chesterville-Record) Graham among the head table directors . . . John (Prescott-Journal) Morris and his son in the 100 years printing honor bracket . . . Ron (Winchester Press) Workman accepting their awards while brother Reg steps up to 1st Vice President.

The Rambling Reporter and his old confrere Bill (one time Sugar and Spice columnist) Smiley held quite a reunion in the finale hour . . . Their reminiscing was spicey and oddly enough they used more ice cubes than sugar.

We found time to review the Metro sport pages . . . In Orillia despatches re the Ontario Consols play we noted references to Ross (one time Alexandria resident) Tarlton, president of the OCA . . . In 1954 Ross skipped his rink to the Ontario title, then on to Edmonton and the Brier . . . Peter (Greenfield-Kirkland Lake) MacInnes a plate glass skip this time
