Four Townships And Town Council Reach Agreement On Fire Protection

Agreement on fire protection with all four neighboring townships was reached at a special meeting of town council last week, attended by representatives of the four outside councils.

An annual stand-by fee of $600 will be paid by Lochiel, Kenyon and Lancaster Townships and $500 by Charlottenburgh which has fewer buildings in the seven-mile area to be served by the Alexandria brigade.

The agreement is retroactive to January 1st, 1966 and will be in effect until six months after either party has given notice of its intention to cancel.

A service charge will also be payable for each call—$50 for the first two hours the truck is out and $10 for each additional hour; $3.00 per man for the first hour and $2.50 for each additional hour. Not more than eight firemen of the 20-man force are to respond and other firemen on stand-by duty during a call will receive $2 per hour. There will be a further charge of $3 for transportation.

Town Council is now considering purchase of a second fire truck, we understand.

In the absence of Mayor Raymond Periard, attending another meeting, the chair was taken by Reeve Bruno Massie and all members of council were in attendance.

Representing Charlottenburgh Council were Reeve Archibald MacDonell, Deputy-Reeve Donald Thomson, Councillors Bruce Sova and Raymond Fillion. Reeve Alex McNaughton and Deputy-Reeve John J. McBain represented Lancaster Township and Lochiel had present Alfred Joannette and Deputy-Reeve Mrs. Enid MacDonald. Reeve Albert Faubert was present for Kenyon.

Was It A Flying Saucer?

First report locally of an unidentified Flying Object reached our desk Friday night when Zepherin Viau of Alexandria, dropped in with word he had seen one earlier that evening.

Mr. Viau was crossing the tracks at Green Valley, heading north, about 7.10 p.m. when he spied the UFO not more than 100 feet up in the air. "It had a bright light, about the size of a 40-watt bulb he estimated, and was trailing sparks as it travelled west.

He estimated it at about 10 feet long, including trail of sparks.

Several other area residents he has since spoken to also saw it, says Mr. Viau.

Monday night's visitor, reportedly a meteor seen over a wide area, was spotted by many local residents.

NEW HOMES READY FOR OCCUPANCY—The landscaping and extension of Dominion Street South await the laying of water and sewage lines, now underway; otherwise the 10 new bungalows in Laporte's Gardens are ready for occupancy. The builders, Poirier and

Touchette, had the three-bedroom bungalows completed by April 15th to qualify under the Winter Works program and we understand some five of the homes already have prospective owners. An "Open House" is being held Sunday afternoon when the public is invited to see them. —Photo by Robert

Alexandria's Man Of The Year

At the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Development Association in Ottawa, today, Gerard Lefebvre, president of Glengarry Transport Ltd., is to receive a scroll as Alexandria's Man-of-the-Year.

His nomination was made by the Board of Trade which annually selects one of our citizens for this recognition. Some of the highlights of Mr. Lefebvre's 19-year career in Alexandria were brought out in the presentation ceremony and they recorded a steady expansion in his transport business since September 1st, 1947 when Mr. Lefebvre bought the trucking business of Shepherd Bros.

It then consisted of four open stake trucks with a Class "A" licence for hauling between Alexandria and Montreal.

Today Glengarry Transport Ltd. has 98 units, most of them the latest type vans, trailers and tractors. It employs 75 and in recent years added a new terminal here which boasts a warehouse, office space and a modernly equipped maintenance garage.

Since 1960 the company has been increasing daily service between Toronto, Cornwall and this area, as well as Montreal, Valleyfield and other points. Plans for the immediate future call for new warehouses at Cornwall and Toronto.

Now in the works is the addition of a second storey to the 25x50 foot office.

Born at Glen Robertson in 1915, Gerard Lefebvre is a son of Josephus Lefebvre and Alexandrine Lefebvre who went to Rigaud in his childhood. After attending Bourget College there, he joined his father in the trucking business in 1936. Eleven years later he came to Alexandria and his business has grown steadily with the increasing tempo of the local economy.

Mrs. Lefebvre is the former Laurette Quesnel of Ste. Marthe, Que., and two of their sons, Gilles and Lionel, are important cogs in the family business. So is Yvon Trotter, husband of daughter Giselle. Another son Andre is in High School.

Hope To Start Street Paving Later This Year

If necessary approval can be secured from Toronto in time, town council hopes to get started this fall on its overall streets resurfacing program.

Members of the roads committee of council met last week with a consulting engineer, G. E. Seguin of Hawkesbury, and an inspection was made with him of the 12.4 miles of streets within the town limits.

Mr. Seguin is to prepare a report which will then be submitted to Toronto. If the necessary approvals from the Highways Department and the Municipal Board can be secured it is hoped the resurfacing program can be started possibly in September.

Meanwhile patching will be resorted to again this year to repair the ravages of spring.

Leonard Cuthbert Died At 57

The death occurred Wednesday night, April 20th of a widely known resident of the Alexandria area, Leonard Cuthbert. His death in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, followed an illness of three months and came at the age of 57.

Latterly he had been employed with the Highways department and on Lochiel Township roadwork.

Elected Orange Grand Chaplain

The Provincial Grand Lodge for the Orange Order in Ontario East held its annual session in Cornwall on April 22 and 23.

Rev. James A. McGowan, BA, minister of Knox Presbyterian Church, Vankleek Hill, was elected and installed as chaplain of the Grand Lodge. This is an honor to Vankleek Hill and the counties of Prescott and Glengarry, as it is the first time this county lodge has had one of their members as an officer of the Orange Grand Lodge.

Rev. Mr. McGowan, who is the present Master of LOL 214 Vankleek Hill, is a past grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Prince Edward Island, and a past deputy grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia.

Many of the problems faced by farmers in today's economy were aired in the Legislature April 20th by Osie Villeneuve MPP, Glengarry, when he took part in the throne speech debate. A major part of his address follows:

In the field of industrial development and trade expansion, this is the one area in which I feel some approach has to be made to attract secondary industry to rural Ontario, in order to better blend itself with our depleting agricultural population so that it will help balance our economy. Many of our citizens have arrived at an age where they cannot farm but must earn money. Others have to supplement their earnings, but must be within distance of some industry so that they can commute, and also, with a family in some cases, operate a farm holding in order to make things go.

Our small towns are depleted of their life blood because we have nothing to offer to attract young people to settle or to live there. They just have to pick up and go where opportunities to earn a livelihood are afforded them in the large urban centres. We see what is happening in this great city of Toronto. What will happen in the next ten years, I do not know, because traffic congestion and the problems that confront this city are certainly of great concern, not only to city government, but to the province and to the population as a whole. It would appear to me that many of the smaller industries locating in Toronto could be placed in other sections of Ontario that would receive satisfactory service.

Toronto is a wonderful city and we are all very proud of it, but as many other cities of the world are finding out, the bigger you get, the more problems that are created, and it is sometimes detrimental to all concerned if you grow too large. Bill No. 81, recently introduced, will be useful if applied carefully and is a step in the right direction to improvement. Mr. Speaker, representing an agricultural area, I must elaborate more on this subject than on any other, since it represents the lifetime of more than 80 per cent of my population.

It is generally conceded that the population as a whole is interested in the necessities of life; namely, food, and in buying it at the cheapest price possible. This is quite natural, but the problems confronting agriculture do not stop here. These are matters that concern all governments and the farmer of today is confronted with a problem beyond his control. I think it is very timely that this Department of Agriculture should be called the food and agriculture department, because we are going to be responsible to see that sufficient supplies of food products are available to our population at all times at a fair price to the consumer.

I believe our national and provincial authorities are coming to realize that to have an adequate supply of food more consideration should be given to those who produce it and, at the same time, place the Canadian farmer in a much more comparable economic position in what takes place in other phases of our society.

Why should pork prices be 70 per cent higher in January of 1966 than they were 13 months previous, in November, 1964? It goes back, yes, to the law of supply and demand, but it also goes further than that. I want to illustrate a fact. In 1963 and in 1964, when there was a large surplus production of hogs in the United States, and not more than an average level of production in Canada, the chain organizations in this country purchased as much pork products in quantity from the United States in 1963 than the total purchased from that country in the previous 10 years altogether. For the first time, we reversed the trend by buying more pork than we sold to that country in the years of 1963 and 1964.

Why? Because they could buy it at a price that kept the return to the farmer down to an unprofitably low level in Canada. What happened? There were fewer hogs produced in 1964 because the price was at such a low level during the years 1963 and 1964, to the producer, that it put many small operators completely out of the business. Results have been such that the consumer has had to pay through the nose for this condition, and the average producer is not the one, in the final analysis, who benefits the most.

Plan Meeting To Discuss Library

Possibilities of establishing a public library here, will be further discussed at a public meeting to be held in the High School Wednesday, May 18th, at 7.30 p.m.

Rene Gauthier, chairman of a local committee recently set up for the purpose reports Claude Aubry, director of the Regional Library at Ottawa, will address the meeting. He will outline the procedure for establishing a library to serve Alexandria and the area.

All interested persons are invited to lend their support by attending this meeting.

Galaxie Sportswear Would Purchase Armouries For Industrial Use

Response Generous In Cancer Drive

Residents of Alexandria and surrounding districts are beginning to realize the great amount of good done by the local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, Mrs. Raymond Jette, president and campaign chairman, said yesterday.

The reception of the canvassers in the area was very good and residents appeared more generous this year.

If some homes were missed accidentally, as could have happened, those wishing to contribute may mail cheques to Post Office, Box 99, Alexandria, or have their donation picked up by calling 409 or 584.

A report of the total amount collected will be listed shortly.

Galaxie Sportswear has approached town council with a view to purchasing the Armouries building and we understand council is now considering its possible sale.

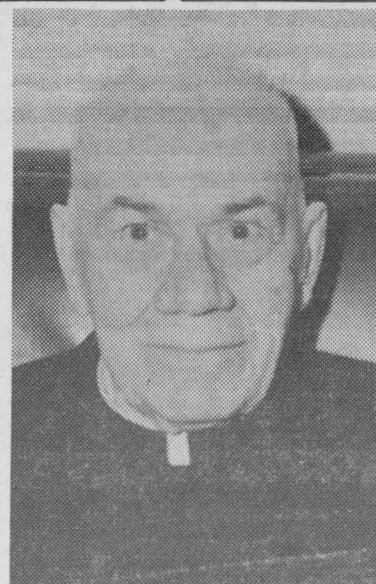

The firm is now located above the Hub Restaurant but requires more space and local Manager Brian Prange feels the Armouries building would be almost ideal for his purposes. Involved would be major electrical installations possibly costing his company $10,000.

If the Armouries is made available Mr. Prange sees the parent company, Fashion Promotions, moving its Montreal offices, cutting and shipping operations to Alexandria from Montreal. A brother, David Prange and Julius Schier are co-owners of Fashion Productions.

The move would involve some 10 to 12 families to Alexandria, according to Mr. Prange. His firm now employs some 72 here.

ANOTHER ERA WILL BE RECALLED—Some of the great hockey games of more than a half century ago will no doubt be relived when these three get together, May 9th, at the Lions Club Sportsmen's night in Alexander Hall. Ottawa Rough Riders' Red O'Quinn will be the guest speaker and he will be talking football. Sometime that night the talk will turn to hockey as Tommy Lowrey, Father Gauthier and Jim McCaffrey recall that hockey team of 1913 that gave Alexandria the Lower Ottawa Valley championship.

IT'S OUR OPINION

It Should Never Happen Again

Fire struck Dalkeith in threatening form recently and in the aftermath we understand there is pronounced resentment by residents of that village because Alexandria's brigade failed to come to their aid. Fortunately other brigades responded and worked effectively to control the flames.

The fact that Lancaster's firemen saw fit to go to Dalkeith's aid when Alexandria so much closer to the scene refused, was seen by many as leaving our town in a bad light. We share that view, even while we are aware town council has a primary responsibility to afford protection here.

With only one truck able to provide adequate water, successive town councils have gone by the rule that outside assistance should only be afforded within a seven-mile radius of town. That, it was felt, would permit a quick recall in case of fire here and there was the further thought that beyond that mileage we would in most cases arrive too late to do any good.

That may be true of most farm fires, but there are the exceptions, such as this call from Dalkeith when fire threatened a built-up area. In such an emergency, we have always felt, there should be no question but that our town will respond instantly. In the unhappy coincidence that an alarm develop here while the truck is out of town, a phone call could bring it home in quick time; or other brigades could be summoned under the mutual aid plan.

Such a duplicate emergency might not be expected to strike more than once in a millennium.

Fortunately there are indications we will not be left in such a poor predicament again. The neighboring township councils, we understand, have agreed to help finance our fire protection set-up in return for limited outside aid. Town Council is also considering purchase of a second fire truck. That will leave us in the happy position of having protection at home even while members of our brigade are rushing to the aid of fire victims outside town.

If there must be a limit on mileage to be travelled by our firemen, we trust town council will not be arbitrary. There should be leeway for a threatening fire in any Glengarry built-up area. In the unhappy event that Dalkeith, Dunvegan or any other county centre is threatened surely it will be able to depend on us, as a good neighbor, for help.

Situated as we are at the hub of Glengarry, Alexandrians will be in a happy position to offer help in any emergency when we have that second fire truck. There should be no hesitation in our response to any call.

The Clamor Should Be For More Justice

A free vote in Parliament has rejected the move of those who would abolish the death penalty even for capital murder. But proponents of abolition are still vocal and one of their frequently heard arguments is the Truscott case in which a 14-year-old boy was sentenced to death seven years ago.

Fortunately he did not die for a crime public opinion now believes him to have been innocent of perpetrating. His case is to be reviewed by the Supreme Court and we are among those who hope to see the Court grant a new trial.

After reading the book by Mrs. Isobel LeBourdais we are convinced the trial of Steven Truscott was a travesty of justice. But we do not agree with those who would abolish the death penalty that this is an argument for abolition.

We think their fervor is misdirected and that it should be channelled toward a public outcry for a better system of justice that would minimize the chances of any innocent being found guilty.

Is our judiciary well chosen and competent or does politics have too big a play in appointments? Is the jury system as we now know it a sufficient guarantee that an accused will be fairly judged by his peers? The entire court setup perhaps needs major surgery.

Should the crown attorney be so intent on a conviction that his conscience will allow him to keep from the jury evidence which might weigh toward an acquittal? Are the rules of evidence so circumscribed as to prevent the true facts from emerging? Have the lawyers, who frame the rules by which courts are conducted, purposely left loopholes in the laws that work to the benefit of the legal profession?

The law is held in disrepute by a vast number of people who see this battle of wits in a criminal court case as fine for the lawyers but destructive of any ideal concept of justice. Distrust of our courts reaches right up to cabinet level. Successive governments at Ottawa have adopted the practise of commuting every death sentence to life imprisonment.

The inference must be that even our lawmakers have their doubts as to the kind of justice our courts are meting out.

If there was as much bungling in the trial of Steven Truscott as Mrs. LeBourdais maintains in her book, it can be inferred that many more travesties of justice occur in our courts. That being the case should there not be public clamor for a greater degree of justice, a re-writing of the rules of courtroom procedure?

If The TV Year Had Seven Months

Never have we seen such a flap as has been fomented by the big brass of the CBC. Their clamp down on the producers of the program "This Hour Has Seven Days" has evoked a public outcry that can only be compared to the reaction Canada's new flag received.

This is constructive criticism, we think; and it is encouraging. It seems to indicate the public taste is not being served by that steady diet of soap operas and sports and low-calory quiz programs television dishes up for an audience of morons.

A lot of viewers relish something more titillating, if one is to judge by the letters to the editor columns in the press. These have been inundated by Seven Days' admirers since the announcement that Messrs. Watson and LaPierre have been fired.

We don't go as far as our letter writer of last week in threatening to change party allegiance over the issue. Mr. Pearson has many weightier problems he should be concentrating on and we say that despite the fact Seven Days was one of the few programs we liked to view on television. We will feel cheated if one of the very few programs with "ping" is withdrawn because it is controversial. But it is not a do or die issue with us because we find little time to waste on the parlor screen and some of the Seven Days' programming we have thought in very poor taste.

One of these had Mr. Diefenbaker on the griddle and though we have little sympathy for Honest John we honestly thought "This Hour" was unfairly putting him under the third degree of their thousand watt lighting. Messrs. Watson and LaPierre have given us an hour to look forward to once a week, but in fairness to the CBC management it must be said that some of their programming could have been done with more clarity and a mite more charity.

It has already been suggested that CTV, the independent network, would be smart to latch on to Messrs. Watson and LaPierre and come up with its own version of Seven Days. That might be a smart move but the TV setup in Canada suggests an upset CBC might have something to say in a negative way to the overriding Board of Broadcast Governors. The independents in Canadian television are only independent to a degree.

We have another thought emanating from this situation where the CBC's TV producers are threatening a strike over this "Seven Days" issue. The strike threat is becoming common in the public service and would not this be an ideal time of year for the producers to tie up TV and take it entirely off the air?

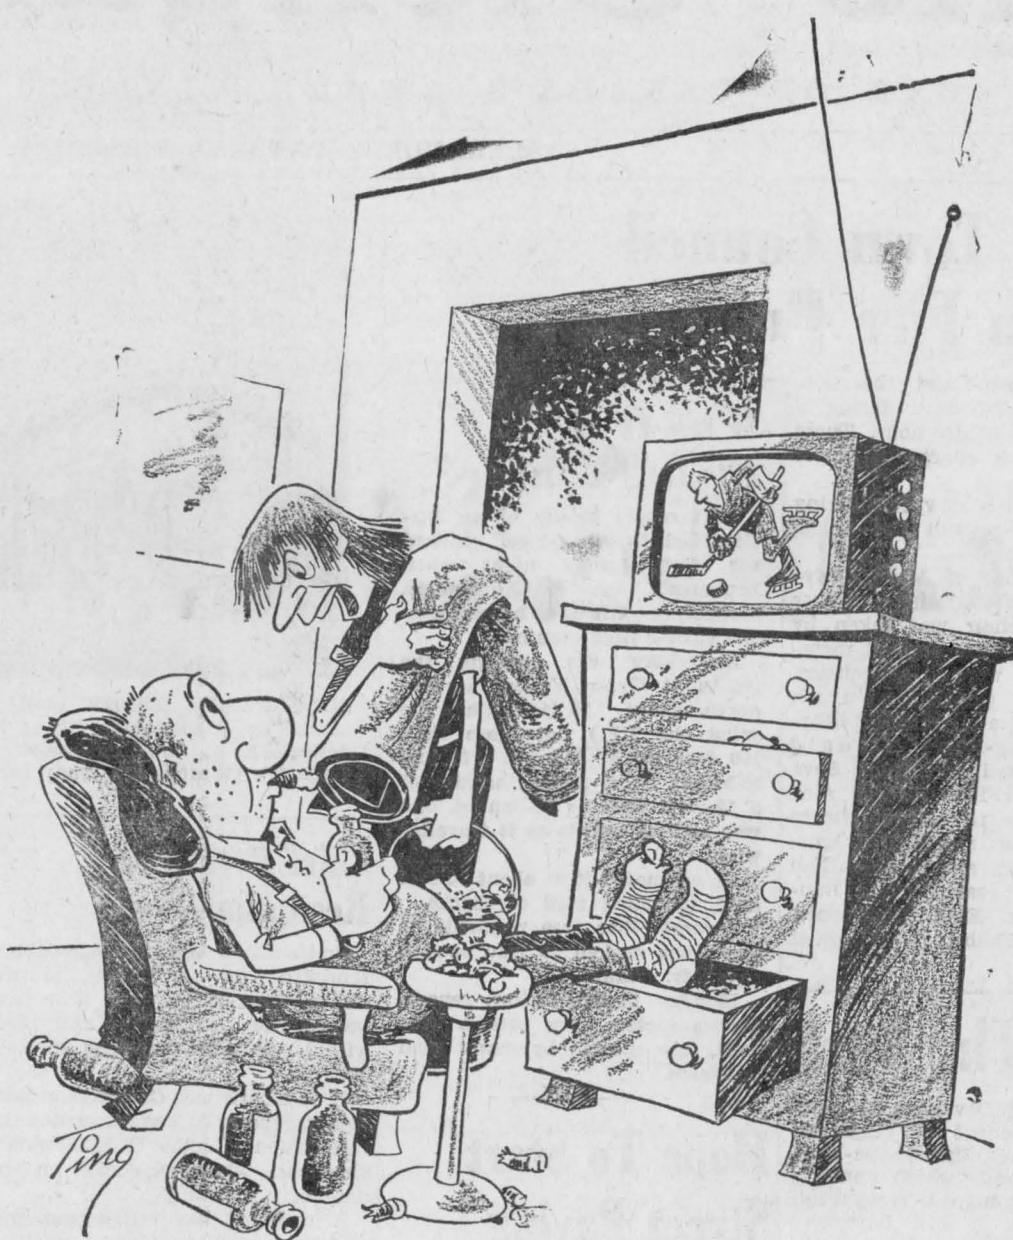

Think of the millions of dollars our government would save from not having to buy the rights to tired old movies Hollywood canned decades ago. The Canadian dollar might be solid in New York if the CBC wasn't spending so much for celluloid that's a silly waste of time to look at.

If that CBC producers' strike lasted through the summer what lasting value it might have in every household. The kids might get to bed at a reasonable hour, might arise with the birds to relish the summer sun and a day of adventuring we knew before TV came along to supply something not to do. They could be healthy and happy and what a different outlook their mothers might have; freed from attendance at "General Hospital" and knowing the satisfaction that can only come from healthy appetites.

One summer without television in the parlor might set a trend that would be as lasting as Daylight Saving Time. It could prove so beneficial to better living that we would vote an annual summer holiday for TV entertainers even more generous than that we give our teachers.

Our secret hope is that the producers will vote to strike. If they do, our avowed hope is that the viewer will realize how little he's missing.

"SO WHAT! I've played a man short for THREE weeks!"

The Glengarry News,
We are geographically located at Ontario's "tail-end" and Toronto never allows us to forget it in Glen Robertson.

County Road No. 10 from Alexandria to the Quebec border is supposed to be a "Development Road" but it has become the most treacherous route in the province. There are about 20 hills, all bad. Half of them are "blind hills" which are suicidal. The old corduroy road has made a washboard of the surface.

There is no longer any excuse. Resurfacing and patching is OUT. Wait for Quebec is OUT.

This road has claimed enough victims. The responsibility for any more deaths will surely rest with the provincial authorities.

SOUNDS LIKE A STRIP-TEASE

Another big batch of publicity from Expo '67 arrived in the week-end mail to reassure us the public relations people are still on the job. There were pictures of pavilions now abuilding, of Montreal's new subway but never once is there mention that Montreal is to have a World Fair in 1967.

That magic word EXPO seems to be sufficient; but is it?

Test polls in the United States indicate that practically nobody down there is aware Montreal is to stage a world fair next year. Some of them have a vague feeling they've seen or read something of Expo but darned if they realized it was a world fair that was being publicized.

No doubt there are a lot of Canadians, too, who have heard the phrase but have some vague idea what's being touted is some kind of new photographic equipment or maybe a strip-tease.

Many millions of our dollars are being spent on publicizing the World Fair and we hate to see it wasted by over-use of the wrong kind of publicity. Why don't those PR people smarten up and start getting their message across by calling Expo what it really is, Canada's World Fair at Montreal?

If the Americans don't flock up to Montreal in droves next year to see the Fair it's due to be a dismal flop, at the box-office, at least. If our cousins to the south are to be expected, they should be making plans now.

But nobody's told them there's going to be a World Fair at Montreal. All they've heard of is Expo '67 and that could be a new brand of rye or next year's version of a fan dance.

Why don't they drop Expo in Montreal harbor and come up with some effective World Fair publicity?

Lifting too many glasses can make a spectacle of you.

AHEAD OR BACK?

Your Rambling Reporter is waiting with bated breath, as they say, to read this week's copy of the Uxbridge Times-Journal. He's anxious to see how gracefully the lady editor of that paper accounts for a man-sized boo-boo in last issue.

It's that pesky time-change that caused all the trouble. While most papers were reminding their readers to turn their clocks ahead one hour on retiring Saturday night, readers of the Times-Journal were getting the idea they "Can Sleep Late This Weekend".

The editorial mind must have been napping when this advice was penned:

"Daylight Saving Time goes into effect this weekend and all the drowsy-heads who never find sufficient sleeping hours during the average night will have the opportunity for at least one extra hour on Saturday night."

"Official time for the change-over is at 2.00 a.m. Sunday morning, April 24th, but it is logical to turn clocks back before retiring."

This must be that logic women are said not to argue with.

Actually, if your Rambling Reporter was a gentleman he'd have ignored this boo-boo entirely. As it happens he's a columnist looking for something to fill his column with.

So is Leila and she'll understand why we're making a big deal out of a very understandable error.

Can't help wondering if she got to church on time.

Said the ankle to the knee. You needn't act so flip. You'll be forgotten just like me. When they start to show the hip.

EYES DOWN

Rambled down Main Street the other night and a guy could have sworn this was late November rather than April. The moon and many stars were staring down and as that Novemberish chill registered we shivered and glared right back at them.

There was frost in the air, we swear; and the thought of freezing all over again must have got our back up. That's probably why our eye turned to the sky and in our usually milky way we rambled into the idea that on such a night as this Unidentified Flying Objects (Continued on Page 3)

DONATION ACKNOWLEDGED

The editor,
 The Glengarry News,
 The Glengarry Historical Society, had hoped that some small item from the possessions of the late Alex Willie MacMillan and especially from his farm home, would be placed in the Glengarry Museum, in his memory. His wife, Mrs. A. W. MacMillan, now of London, Ont., regrets that all possessions have since some time been dispersed.

Mrs. MacMillan very kindly sent a money donation to the Glengarry Historical Society "in memory of Alex Willie MacMillan". The gift was accompanied by a delightful letter bearing good wishes to the Society in particular and to all her Glengarry friends in general.

Press Secretary,
 Glengarry Historical Society

LET'S LOOK AHEAD

Bainville, Ont.

The editor,
 In your issue of April 21st you printed a letter that I did not appreciate as a friendly Glengarryman. It appears that no matter how much of one's self goes into his work there are always those ready to condemn.

One of the greatest assets that Glengarry farmers have and this takes in quite a large percentage of our population, is our Agricultural Representative, Jim Humphries has only one thought in mind, that is to improve the living conditions of the farmers in the county. He sees, as I do, the deplorable conditions and lack of education of a large percentage of our farmers. Surely we are not to be condemned for trying to get these people to look forward instead of backward.

I hope our historical group go beyond our county borders in their study of history. If they have they know that every society that has remained static and resisted progress has floundered.

We are told by Mr. Humphries' critic how to enjoy life, namely the social gatherings, dances, going to church, etc. Certainly Christianity sets down certain rules that any successful society must follow and recreation is good for the mind. But we must remember that "Nero fiddled while Rome burned". Is it possible that too many of our farmers, through lack of education and initiative are letting the same thing happen in our district.

The next point that needs to be aired is the mention that these non-Glengarryians come into our midst and put bad ideas in our citizens' mind, such as going into debt. Often in the past and unfortunately there still is improper use made of borrowed capital. The greatest single reason for this is that these people have not made as much use of our extension service as they should. I do not know of one progressive farmer, and I have the acquaintance of quite a few, that has not or does not make use of borrowed capital. All other industries in the world make full use of borrowed capital and I don't think it can be said that industry has not progressed.

Possibly this is one of our problems, that farmers are not making enough proper use of available capital.

I would like to end this letter by saying that if the farmers of Glengarry worked as hard and studied as much for themselves as Jim Humphries does for them, they would not have the reputation of living in one of the two most depressed areas in the province. I agree whole heartedly with Jim. Forget the past and make this county a better place for our children to live in.

Lloyd McRae

EYESORES GALORE

Maxville

The editor,
 Spring clean-up time is here again — and has anybody taken a drive around our fair county lately?

More junk yards than ever before and always right beside the roads. Some without the slightest pretence of a screening fence, others with a token twenty feet in the center and the rusty hulks mushrooming away on either side for five acres. A couple have the required six foot fence all the way around, and the junk piled thirty feet high behind it, like a hideous imitation of the Egyptian pyramids and very nearly as big.

The municipal refuse dumps have become an appalling eye-sore. There is one on every concession, always in plain view right beside the road. With our Centennial and the World's Fair coming up next year Glengarry should have plenty of visitors, and many of them will expect to enjoy quiet country driving after the rush and roar of the city. Unfortunately, by next summer some of our concession roads will have been blocked by dumped rubbish creeping across the road allowance. Tourists who find their progress impeded by the local garbage piles certainly won't come back again. In an area with so much vacant, abandoned land these dumps could be a mile off any road, and periodically bulldozed under.

Everybody is talking about water pollution. The St. Lawrence and the Ottawa turn brown, Lake Erie dies, the Don looks like an oil slick — and woe betide us if the authorities start tracking pollution right up to the source. Rural families live on the head waters of all our rivers, and on most farms it is still the common custom to dump any and all rubbish into the nearest pond, lake, or stream.

We drove along a busy highway one day last week. A lovely drive beside a winding river, with fine old trees along the banks and a picturesque bridge. And behind the attractively painted farm house in the center was the family dump — cascading fifty feet wide down the bank to the river. Contributing their full share to water pollution, and effectively ruining half a mile of scenery. The tolerance of indiscriminate dumping in rural areas is dismaying. Visitors approaching this county from the north are treated to the edifying spectacle of half the local population enjoying swimming and picnicking at one end of a large quarry — while the other half of the local population blithely continue to heave their rubbish into the other end of the same swimming pool! The inhabitants of Pointe Claire or Alta Vista wouldn't tolerate this much longer than ten minutes.

More by-laws and their stricter enforcement are not the whole answer to the problem. We talk a lot about better incomes for farmers, and a higher standard of living for rural families. We had better demonstrate by our attitudes and our actions that we could recognize a higher standard of living if we should happen to meet one.

should be clearly visible, even if they remained unidentifiable.

We scanned the horizon in every conceivable direction, but darned if we could see a UFO. And that's when we decided those little green people must have a mad on for newspaper people. They were in the area just last Friday, some of our more observant readers have told us; and again on Monday they passed over with the speed of a meteor.

But these aging eyes missed them both times and we're about ready to give up on looking up. We've practically decided to keep looking down for lost golf balls the rest of the summer. That way we may miss the odd flying saucer, but we'll have a ball checking up on the height of milady's skirt.

That's if milady dons a skirt this summer; if we ever get a summer.

From somewhere we get the thought we're almost as mixed up as the weather.

But we have a clever device for selling even more Pontiacs. We call it our Pontiac dealer. He's the man with all the answers. He can show you, for instance, exactly why it is that we're putting more of our Success Cars in people's driveways than ever before. He's a man you should make it a special point to meet. He can tell you about Pontiac's lavish interiors with their host of standard equipment luxury and safety features. He'll even demonstrate Pontiac's new brand of performance if you're feeling adventurous. But more important than anything else, he can give you an excellent deal on the Pontiac of your choice. ## Minor Lacrosse Group Pleased By Response Of Young Fry

Payment of a $100 training fee for each minor player will automatically classify his parents as members of the Alexandria and District Junior and Minor Lacrosse Association, it was decided at a meeting of the executive held last Wednesday night.

Minors are responding in greater numbers than was expected and the management promises to arrange the schedule as closely as possible to accommodate out of town players. They are hoping the hockey rinks in the district will be left standing for practise sessions or, possibly, scheduled games.

A request has been sent to the Ontario Athletic Commission for a consignment of equipment for the minors.

At a meeting of the Eastern Lacrosse Association held in Ottawa, manager Norman Laperle bid for Friday nights for the local Junior games, with Saturday night as an alternate. The ELA schedule was to be ready this week for approval by the seven team entries.

President Lloyd McHugh and manager Alex McDonald at a Cornwall meeting posted a $100.00 bond for the Junior entry. This is refundable at the end of the season provided their team shows up for every scheduled game and abides by all the rules drawn up by the league. In addition to this, a $30 entry fee paid by each Junior entry helps to underwrite the league's expenses.

Coach Cameron McCormick is making every effort to build his team from material in the immediate vicinity.

About 40 players are undergoing training in a bid to qualify. Selection will be made this weekend.

Minor Baseballers Prep For Season

The annual meeting of the Lower Ottawa Valley Minor Baseball League was held in the King George Hotel, Maxville, recently. Gerald Emberg, Moose Creek, veteran sportsman in the Glens was re-elected president while the secretary, post will again be handled by Len Gutoskie, Maxville, who carries quite a Barry's Bay and Upper Ottawa Valley baseball background.

Moose Creek, Casselman, Fournier and Maxville are definite starting clubs. John Guindon, one of the league founders will have until May 1st to decide the operations this year of the Apple Hill franchise.

As Alexandria was not represented league delegates presumed there will not be an entry and any players from Alexandria wishing to play ball will first be awarded to Apple Hill.

Nick Haramis, Maxville, requested and was granted permission to sign one Alexandria player in particular, Andy McNulty Jr., if this player so desired to play ball.

Last year's age limit of 15 was raised to 16 and this will become the maximum age of the league. Each club may play 3-16, 3-15, 3-14, 6-13 years old and younger players.

The schedule will open Sunday, May 22. Each club has until their first scheduled game to file their deposit with the league president.

The following were club delegates: Moose Creek, Leonard Dupuis and Lawrence Montcalm; Maxville, George Currier and Nick Haramis; Fournier, Gaston Lalonde and Billy Muir; Casselman, Oscar Desjardins and Robert Lafortune.

Farm Problems . . .

be much better off and happier if a new stabilized price system was to be maintained than to have it go from one extreme to the other.

This is where marketing has to come into the picture, not only on a provincial basis, but on a national basis, in order to control these abuses that are taken advantage of by the chain organizations and manipulators for their benefits. Because of public resentment, in six weeks pork prices have dropped $11 to $12 a hundred to the producer.

Let us take a look at some of the basic reasons for this unfortunate situation. A governing factor, as I have stated, is the age-old law of supply and demand. We cannot escape it. When production of any commodity exceeds the demand, there is always bound to be a depressed price. Today, I repeat, the problems which face the farmer, centre around marketing rather than production. The benefits to date from increased production have been largely lost to the farmer. I am in no way minimizing the value of farm organizations and the contributions that they have made to Ontario agriculture, but why in this land of apparent progress, prosperity and plenty, should these people who are engaged in producing the bread of life, on which depends the very survival of mankind, have to maintain themselves on the lower side of our economic and social scale? There is no sound or just reason why they should.

Mr. Speaker, I want to elaborate just a little. Five per cent of our total consumption in 1963 in pork products was imported from the United States, but because there were only 200,000 hogs, which was in the neighborhood of three per cent produced, less in Canada last year, it caused the price to rise 70 per cent to the consumer.

Those are the things that make it rather hard for any farmer or producer to know how to govern production, when three per cent one way or the other can cause this situation. And if there ever was a time for marketing legislation from a board in authority that can revise our present legislation to prohibit abuses of this kind the time is now ripe.

After Canada entered the last

Ernest C. Ross Died At 76

A respected farmer in the Martintown area throughout his life, Ernest Clark Ross died at Cornwall General Hospital, on April 16th. He was in his 77th year and his death followed but a brief illness.

Mr. Ross was born on the family homestead in the 7th concession Charlottetown, December 15, 1889, a son of Thomas Ross and his wife, Lucinda Clark. He married Pearl McEwen who predeceased him nine years ago. Seventeen years ago he moved to the King's Road where he resided with his son, Gordon M. Ross.

Two sons and one daughter survive: Ewan C. Ross of Goderich; Gordon M., King's Road; Edith, Mrs. Lyall Symonds of Campbellford, Ont. He also leaves one brother, James D. Ross, King's Road, Martintown, and 12 grandchildren.

The funeral was held April 18th to Martintown United Church where the service was conducted by Rev. Douglas G. MacKay. Three grandchildren were present in the choir and one of them, Heather Symonds sang a solo "How Great Thou Art".

Burial was in the North Branch Cemetery, Martintown.

Honorary bearers were: Clifford McDermid, Martin MacMartin, Dan MacMartin, Alex Lagroix, William MacPhail and Clarence Grant.

Active pallbearers were, Kenneth Gordon, Harold Brown, Marland Murray, Edwin Sansom, Allan MacLeod and Donald MacEwen.

Friends and relatives attending from out of town included Miss Ethel Ostrom, Alexandria; Robertson Ross and Bill MacIntyre of South Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Johnston, Mrs. Wilma Riddell, Winchester; Ross MacGillivray, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacGillivray, Mr. and Mrs. Mack D. MacGillivray, Glen Sandfield; Ross McIntosh of Strathmore. Others were present from Lancaster, Apple Hill, Maxville, Dalkeith, Cornwall, Alexandria and the area.

world war, in 1939, the federal government froze farm prices at the then present level. At the same time, they have allowed major industries to carry on with a cost plus basis. It would appear that since that time we have built up an ever-increasing control on the pricing level of our farm products, at the same time failing to exercise any degree of control on these factors which contribute to the cost of farm production.

We regret that lack of space forces us to hold over the balance of Mr. Villeneuve's address until next issue.

SPORTS

in the GLENS

teams — hunger and desire.

Sid Abel is looking for his first Stanley Cup as a coach. Bill Gadsby after all these years has yet to have his name cut in the silverware. Dean Prentice, Andy Bathgate and Leo Boivin are exhibiting their gratitude to the Detroit organization in the most tangible manner (by scoring goals) for picking them out of the discard deck.

Right now the Red Wings are a reminder of other great clubs in sport history who came roaring down the stretch. Remember when Pepper Martin, the wild-horse of the Osage, led the Gas House (St. Louis) gang to baseball heights assisted by Diz and Paul (me and Paul) Dean. Then there were the wrecked Ottawa Senators following a Canadiens playoff who headed West in bandages but the late Frank Nighbor was agile enough to spark the flame of desire and they won the Stanley Cup in Vancouver. Even King Clancy took over goal-keeping while Clint Benedict served a penalty in the Edmonton series.

Sentiment rides with the Red Wings but it will take all their skating ability and no mistakes to stay ahead of Les Habs.

LACROSSE ON THE WAY

While the Gardens is in the process of being decked out for the lacrosse season, prospective players are getting in condition by Monday, Wednesday and Friday workouts in the Armouries.

Head coach Cameron McCormick is more than enthused with the number and apparent ability of the candidates reporting to tryout for a spot on this year's Glens Juniors.

It is a bit early to single out promising youngsters, however, Rondo MacSweyn is among the newcomers drawing attention. Then from the opposite direction to the Lagan area there are two more first timers showing promise in the McPherson boys, sons of Angus Bernard (Munroe's Mills) McPherson and cousins of Burns McPherson, a noted GDHS athlete. Linden (Alexandria) Cameron may be on the light side but this far he is holding his own and could be around for a while.

The heavy work in practise could be underway by next week in final preparation for the schedule opening.

LIONS DINNER MENU

The Alexandria Lions Club, like their fellow townsmen of the Riche-lieu Club, are noted far beyond Outtown limits for their works of charity and aggressive leadership. So it's no surprise that there was an affirmative reply to the suggestion that teenage might be changed to a minor pattern of a Sportsmen's Dinner a trend set up by Cornwall, Ottawa and many of the larger centers.

The first such dinner meeting, that we trust will grow each year in popularity, will be held in the Alexander Hall, Monday, May 9th, at seven p.m. Original plans were to hold the dinner in the Armouries but circumstances caused a switch to Alexander Hall.

As already announced Red O'Quinn, Rough Rider manager, is to be guest speaker. Since hanging up his cleats as an end with Alouettes, Red O'Quinn has become one of the noted newcomers and highly respected by executive members in Canadian football.

The theme of the evening in addition to O'Quinn's talk will be a review of Glengarry sport in general and Alexandria in particular.

Father Charles Gauthier of Lochiel one of the outstanding contributors especially to the youth of the Glens, will head the honored list of "old timers".

Jim McCaffrey, always rated a foster son of Alexandria, will be down from Ottawa. Jim is Mr. Football in the Capital and most parts of Canada. He was Alexandria's goal keeper when Father Gauthier (then Charlie Gauthier) coached Alexandria to the Lower Ottawa Valley Lacrosse championship, 1913. Cecil Duncan, CAHA past president and Ottawa Sham-rock lacrosse player in those days against Alexandria will accompany Jim McCaffrey.

Another noted sportsman and pillar of the newspaper field, T. G. "Tommy" Lowrey will also be with the Ottawa guests. Tommy Lowrey's father, a contractor, built the Armouries in 1913 and while a member of his father's staff Tommy Lowrey led Alexandria to the hockey championship of the Lower Ottawa Valley and a memorable playoff with Hull in the old Dey's Arena, Ottawa.

Due to Stanley Cup play and Rideau Carleton races Ernie Calcutt is unable to attend but his assistant Larry Kelly of CPRA is slated to head the sportscasters. Sport writers of neighboring dailies are to attend and as we go to press Dinny Dinsmore, one time Montreal Maroons NHL star, has telephoned best wishes to the Lions Club and confirming that he, too, will be on hand to meet his old cronies of the past hockey and football (Argos) era.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Lions Club.
