W. McIntosh Top Exhibitor At Seed Fair In Maxville

Weldon McIntosh, of Dunvegan, showed the grand champion seed exhibit at the Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry Seed Fair held Monday and Tuesday in Maxville's Community Hall. Neil MacLean, of Maxville, was premier exhibitor with 87 points.

Sponsored by the Soil and Crop Associations of the three counties, the Show drew good attendances both Monday evening, when woodlot management was the chief topic, and Tuesday afternoon when seeds and forage crops were discussed.

Junior Seed Judging was a feature Tuesday morning when a lass from Dundas, Nora Allan, took top honors in the under 16 age group. Ted Hunter, of Maxville, was in second spot.

Winner of the Lions Club of Alexandria trophy in the senior class was Jean Allan, of Dundas, and Brian Arkinstall, Dunvegan, placed second. The trophy was presented by Lion Al MacLennan, of Alexandria.

Tree farm certificates were presented to seven area farmers Tuesday evening. They are: Gordon Ferguson, RR 1, Cornwall; Cormic Macdonell, Green Valley; Christopher McRae, Glen Robertson; Erwin Shields, Maxville; Donald Smith, Apple Hill; Keith and Emerson Franklin, Maxville; Hugh McDermid, Apple Hill.

Kenneth Murphy of the silviculture division, timber branch, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, discussed the development and productive possibilities of woodlots in this district. J. D. Coats, of Toronto, secretary - manager of the Ontario Forestry Association, addressed the meeting and presented the certificates.

J. Y. Humphries, Glengarry agricultural representative, presided over a panel discussion on woodlot management and profit possibilities. Robert Staley, zone forester, took part in the discussion and supervised the exhibit of the Department of Lands and Forests at the seed fair.

Certificates honoring those nominated for the Harris McNish awards were presented Tuesday afternoon to Eric Casselman, Chertville; Harold Pickles, of Long Sault, and Harold Blaney, of Maxville, by George Suffer, of Mount-SCIA. Trophies were presented by Alfred Beaudette of Northfield, also a provincial SCIA director.

The afternoon session, under the direction of chairman Morlin Campbell, of Laggan, president of Glengarry Crop Improvement Association, included a discussion of the new Canada Seeds Act by Douglas Parks of Kemptonville Agricultural School, and some ideas on quality hay advanced by J. A. Dalrymple, of KAS. Mr. Parks emphasized the desirability of using certified seed, and Mr. Dalrymple outlined the high value achieved when the best possible quality hay is cut and stored.

An auction of ten bushel lots of seed closed the fair. Many samples were retained by the Association for showing at next week's Ottawa Valley Seed Fair.

Overhead Crossing For 34 Here? A group of Ontario Highway Department engineers is here this week and is taking levels in the area of the CNR crossing on Highway 34.

This has started speculation that an overhead crossing of the railway is planned. There is a possibility this will materialize some day, though not necessarily this year, one local roadman believes, though he has heard nothing official on the matter.

Another thinks that eventually Highway 34 will be diverted along the eastern edge of town to by-pass our narrow Main street.

Another special gang from the department has been in this area cutting down all trees within 12 feet of the travelled portion of Highway 34. This is most evident south of town where all the trees that once stood in that area near the 1st Kenyon sideroad are now gone.

Same Band For Park Opening

The band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, Montreal, will entertain again this July 1st at the season opening of our Park. This fine musical aggregation made an excellent impression here last year, and Mayor Simon was delighted to learn they would be returning.

Teen-Age Guests Of The Lions Hear How Globe-Trotters Do It

Bob Turner, Cornwall's director of recreation, was the special speaker at Monday's annual Teenagers' Night of the Lions Club of Alexandria, and he made a hit with young and older.

It wasn't until well along in the meeting, using for the first time the swank new hall of Alexandria Legion Branch, that the youngsters became aware of the fact they were in the presence of a guy named Turner, who had played baseball with the Chicago White Sox; and all more impressive, had been good enough to find a place on basketball's starry Harlem Globe-trotters.

That was when teen-age ears perked up. Lion Ray Periard briefly reviewed Mr. Turner's athletic achievements in his introduction and the guest speaker chose as his theme the relation of Faith, Hope and Charity to his personal experiences in a career of sport which earned him a college degree.

Faith, Hope and Charity had combined to find him a spot as catcher on his secondary school nine. Faith in his own ability, hope for a higher education and the charity of coaches and others in key posts had found him a place in junior college athletics; and the same had held true through his university career.

Mr. Turner touched on the barriers facing Negro athletes in the days of his youth, of his association with such baseball greats as Sat-

Char-Lan School Also Entered

Char-Lan High School at Williamstown was broken into during Tuesday night and Provincial Police are seeking the same burglars who Monday night broke into the High School here and into RCSS 13, Green Valley, as well.

The High and Separate Schools at Casselman and the school at Moose Creek were also entered recently and there is a possible link in all cases, police believe.

Nothing was stolen at Char-Lan, police report, but considerable damage was done in broken windows and forced doors. Some $20 in petty cash was taken at Glengarry - Alexandria High School, which has been entered three times in the last two years.

Instant Powder Proving Popular

Increasing consumer interest in "instant" skimmed milk products has skyrocketed production of powdered skimmed milk in Canada, according to information supplied by the Canada Department of Agriculture.

Tracing the brief six-year history of the instant powdered skimmed milk industry, a CDA spokesman said sales of powdered skim milk have jumped from an unpretentious 10.2 million pounds in 1955 to a record high of 33.4 million pounds in 1960.

The Alexandria plant of the Carnation Company supplies the Canadian market with this Company's Instant Milk product. No figures on production in 1960 are available.

Ten years previous, in 1951, retail sales of dry skimmed milk in Canada totalled only 2.6 million pounds. By 1954, the year before the "instant" process was developed, it had climbed to a high of 8.1 million pounds.

Spray dried skim milk is turned into instant powdered skimmed milk by a re-wetting process that turns the dry product into crystals. These crystals, clinging together, possess increased solubility in water.

Retail stores, said a Canada Department of Agriculture spokesman, are now the largest outlet for powdered skimmed milk. Previously the bakery industry was the largest single user of the skimmed milk produced.

EDITORIALS

IT'S OUR OPINION

Glengarry Should Pay For Its Pride

It was at a gathering of weekly newspapermen and the discussion, as we recall, was on the reader interest of our items of Auld Lang Syne. We were arguing that these collections of the local news of ten, or thirty, or fifty years ago, are possibly the most popular feature our paper carries.

A confrere whose grandfather was fortunate enough to have been born in Glengarry backed up our opinion. "Of course," he added, "Glengarry people, wherever they may be, have an exceptionally close tie with their native county." He went on to recall how Glengarrymen of another era had gone out to settle the West, to give leadership in many spheres in almost every part of North America. He was a living witness to the fact that no matter where they dropped anchor the Glengarry-born never completely severed the ties with their home county. Once a Glengarryman, always a Glengarryman, was his theme.

And this is most evident to one who occupies the editor's chair of this newspaper and who has a box seat from which to witness the reaction of Glengarrymen abroad to any worthwhile appeal emanating from Glengarry. The response from those who have left their native county in the search for the good life is invariably more heart-warming, more generous, than can be counted upon from Glengarrymen at home.

This should not be — but it is. And that is why this editorial is aimed primarily at resident Glengarrymen.

Two appeals to your generosity are coming up. One is even upon us now; the canvass for funds with which to organize and equip a Glengarry Pipe Band. Plans are also in the making for fund-raising that will realize another long-felt want, a Glengarry museum.

Both are worthwhile schemes that can add immeasurably to the Glengarry scene, and which tie in with the tradition of our historic county. Both can be realized if enough Glengarrymen, at home and afar, show sufficient interest by way of furnishing needed funds.

Easter And Spring

It's been a long winter for all of us; even longer, perhaps, for the many Canadians who had to sit it out because of unemployment lay-offs. We found it an easier winter to get through than many others we can recall as colder and stormier. Nevertheless we are glad to see it go; delighted to see the snow disappearing under a stronger sun that is with us longer each day.

The Canadian winter takes some living up to. That is undoubtedly why we welcome Spring so warmly; and an early Easter with its promise of new life for the soil and in the animal world.

The Easter message is synonymous with Spring in Glengarry. The story of Christ's resurrection comes at a time of year when plant life is about to start new growth, when

For much too long has Glengarry been without a pipe band it could call its own. We bring the top pipe bands of the continent to our Highland Games each summer and we lack even a band of our own to greet them. Pipers we have had in plenty, but there has always been a dearth of drummers to make a band complete. That lack is now being remedied by the school for drummers at Maxville and we have the picture of a 20-piece band, made up of young blood, which will be available for any special celebration in any section of the county. Is that not something worthy of support?

And so with this plan for a Glengarry museum — something which might better have been brought into being fifty years ago. We are proud in our traditions, we Glengarrymen; but until now we have given them only lip service. We have permitted many precious relics of pioneer Glengarry to be scattered to the four winds, or to be sold for scrap. Many antiques have been preserved in spite of us; and there is the promise that this year these will be on display in a suitable setting as a permanent recollection of Glengarry's early days.

This, too, is a project that can be accomplished without too much sacrifice by any one of us, if all of us pitch in.

We are not worried concerning the response from Glengarrymen abroad. They have been tried in the past; and they have responded to such appeals from their native county in a way that could be termed only as most generous.

It is to the residents of Glengarry today that we primarily make this pitch. These are two causes many of you should find worthy of support. And if enough of you are moved to make a contribution, no matter how modest, both these projects will be assured of success.

Contributions from Glengarrymen, no longer resident in Glengarry will be needed, and welcomed. But we hope to see a much more generous response right here at home than has been evidenced in fund raising in the past.

animal life is multiplying, when the human spirit is shedding the stultifying influence of cold weather and quickening to a faster tempo under a warming sun.

Easter and Spring are once more with us. Soon business will be booming again for many who idled through a long winter. A hectic, hot summer season lies ahead.

In this in-between time at Easter we can relax in a feeling of well-being because winter's worst has been survived. We can be renewed in spirit by the comforting story of God's death on the cross and His return from the tomb.

May you have a happy Easter and may the months of summer ahead be sunny for you.

Our Railways Have It Rough

Getting there by air must be a satisfying thing if one is meeting an emergency. The air lines can flick one across this vast continent in hours, as compared with the days and nights of travel by rail.

But we like to travel by train and it leaves us sad to see Canada's railroads in such travail as they are experiencing now. It was the CPR that made a coast-to-coast Canada a reality, and almost a hundred years later we have still to complete a trans-Canada highway in a day when motor travel is seriously crippling railroad service.

An unholy alliance of competition on highways and in the air for passenger and freight traffic, coupled with unrealistic railway union demands for ever more pay for fewer hours worked, has drained our railroads of almost all incentive. A further factor is the heavy hand of government which operates the publicly-owned CNR.

The Canadian Pacific Railroad is one of Canada's giants, but it is not as powerful today as it was in Canada's formative years when our federal government was but a shadow of the bureaucracy it has become. In those days there was no CNR, backed by the public treasury, to offer competition; there were not the strong international unions we know today, and they had not then the advantage of being able to bring pressure on a government-operated railroad.

Politics has played a large part in hamstringing our railroads, in our opinion. Government intervention in wage disputes has almost invariably tipped the scales against management and we now see services being cut wholesale by both our major railroads in a last-ditch stand to stay solvent.

Wage scales that often seem out of this world in relation to hours of actual work are only part of the picture. The railroads have to maintain their right-of-way, they must build bridges and tunnels and keep their many stations staffed and in good repair. They are limited by government edict on what freight rates they may levy; they are called upon to pay taxes on their real property.

The men who run our railroads can be excused if sometimes they get to thinking the cards are stacked against them. They have adopted piggy-backs in an effort to compete with the giant road transports which are freighting almost a freight car load along highways provided them out of public funds. The railroads must maintain their tracks; the privately-owned tractor-trailer transports travel on roads which are kept up to standard by the provincial treasury.

And so with air transport; another competitor for the freight and passenger traffic. The government, the public purse, pays for landing fields, sinks millions into an airport at Dorval or a glassy structure at Uplands which shatters at the first sonic boom.

Something must be done to pump new life into our railroads or we face the possibility of the diesel some day following the old iron horse into the discard. That would be a backward step for Canada which still depends on its ribbons of steel to bring its widely scattered people together.

The Weeklies Say

GOOD PARENTS

No persons are better citizens than those who are good parents. Every good parent is making a vital and invaluable contribution to society and to the community which can be matched through no other channel of activity. — Cochrane (Ont.) Northland Post.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

We must have supply and demand in order to balance our economy. Various situations cause a demand and the demand must be supplied. That being so, more jobs are thus created. — Huntingdon (Que.) Gleaner.

SWEET SOUND

The sweetest music to farmers this side of Montreal is the sound of the "ting-a-ling" that means the sap of the maple tree is dripping into the sap buckets. — Granby (Que.) Leader Mail.

NOT AVAILABLE

To want to work and to be unable to find work is one of the bitterest misfortunes that can befall a person. — Virden (Man.) Empire-Advance.

OUR LOCAL MERCHANTS

... at least some of them — are turning away business by their short-sighted policies of advertising. Many do not tell the people they have bargains. They leave it to our residents to find out for themselves and they lose sales to those who do take the trouble to advertise. — Campbellton (N.B.) Herald-Tribune.

DIVIDED WE FALL

Should Canada attempt to assimilate the various ethnic groups which comprise its population, or should it maintain its past policy of fostering distinct racial groups? Upon the answer will depend Canada's future greatness. — Fort Frances (Ont.) Times.

NEEDED SAYING

It is a reasonable bet that Canadians like what they are hearing these days from that surprisingly confident young American, President Kennedy. . . . In his first speeches in office he has said many things that needed to be said, both to his own countrymen and to the world. — Chilliwack (B.C.) Progress.

Gleaned from the files of THE GLENGARRY NEWS

TEN YEARS AGO

W. K. MacLeod, Dunvegan, won the Goodyear Feeds trophy for best sample of seed at the Glengarry Seed Fair held in the High School.

A young Alexandrian, Claude Poirier, son of Mrs. Edward Poirier, will be ordained a priest in the Dominican Order at Ottawa this morning.

David Hammeault, 53, of Bainsville, was one of two men seriously injured Monday night on Highway 2 when his car struck a culvert.

Pte. David Lasalle, who served his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lasalle, Laggan, has been transferred to Rivers, Man., to train as a paratrooper. — Val J. Chisholm, Lochiel, was re-elected president of the County Farm Forum group at the annual meeting Monday.

In Sacred Heart Church, Monday, Colombe Pauline Lauzon became the bride of Lloyd Gagnier. That same day Marie Rose Jeanne Laporte was married to Alfred Desormeaux of Ottawa.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Friday, March 28, 1941

Katherine Mary McMaster, wife of Major D. C. Cameron, now serving overseas, died suddenly in Cornwall General Hospital, Tuesday, after but a few hours' illness. — Miss Ida McDonald left this week for Montreal, where she has accepted a position. — In St. Finnan's Cathedral, March 24th, the marriage took place of Miss Amanda Hay, of Rifleman Marcel Bedard. — John Thompson of Glen Robertson, lost his hair by fire last week. — Cecil Kemp of Alexandria, died in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, March 20th, aged 54.

Mrs. A. W. McPhee of Lochiel, received word on Sunday of the death of her brother, Alex Neil MacMillan, in Los Angeles.

Ontario To Lift Fluoridation Ban

(The Montreal Star)

The Ontario Minister of Health, Dr. M. B. Dymond, has introduced in the Legislature a bill to empower municipalities to fluoridate their water supplies. This is the Government's comment on the Morden Committee Report tendered a fortnight ago. The adoption of the measure is hardly in question, and with it the lifting of the prohibition imposed two years ago on further spread of fluoridation.

The measure signifies that the Minister has dropped some of the reservations he voiced earlier, about fluoridation.

But the legislation departs, in an important respect, from the recommendation of the report, as if the Minister were not completely convinced even yet.

The report advocated empowering municipal councils to decide whether fluoridation should be introduced, without reference to the voters. The matter, it explained, was not of a nature that lent itself to intelligent decision through referendum. The measure before the Ontario House provides for referendum, either by council decision or alternatively by petition of ten per cent of the municipal voters.

The Minister could hardly have done less, but he could, with the Morden Report for support, have done more. The government's order is no longer to prevent municipalities that wish to fluoridate their water supply from doing so, but obstruction is all but invited. It is an equivocal sort of leadership for health authorities to offer.

WITH OUR RAMBLING REPORTER

by ED.

Money doesn't go very far, but what it lacks in distance it makes up in speed.

BE A PAL

The editor still is curious to find out what impelled two Nigerian teenage boys to write in search of pen pals. Where did they hear of The Glengarry News, he wonders? How did they know there was a small town in Ontario, Canada, called Alexandria? Who is Hilda, who gave the first writer "the address of Canada?"

The News does go to Nigeria, to Our Lady's Missionaries in Tokola. Maybe that's where our new friends in Lagos came across it.

But however it happened, he hopes these appeals for pen pals will find a response among Glengarry teen-agers. A new interest in life may open up for the local youths who take time to answer these appeals. A wholly new world may be waiting on the point of your pen.

Africa is awakening. These boys from Lagos are receiving an education perhaps their parents went without. They show a thirst for knowledge in their letters and if that thirst is not easily quenched it is conceivable that ten or twenty years from now these very boys may become men of stature in Nigeria.

The pen pals you make today may become people who help shape history tomorrow. The influence of your letters just possibly could have earth-shaking overtones three decades hence.

By all means write them. The mere act of writing will at least improve your penmanship.

The poor man may be as free as the birds, but few go south with them.

INSTANT SUDS FOLLOW INSTANT SPUDS

What'll it be next? Now it's instant beer an American corporation hopes to put on the market. You just add water and the familiar color, aroma and flavor come frothing through.

The big brewers and the Brewery workers Union are against it, naturally. They don't want any such newfangled idea upsetting their brewery carts.

We can't see it either. Imagine adding Alexandria water to this concentrated mash. What a color, aroma and flavor would come through. We started drinking beer because we couldn't stomach the water. Now they'll be asking us to use our own water to water their brew.

If this stuff goes over, though, the local Carnation plant oughta get in on the ground floor — the ground floor of another addition to the local plant, we mean. Instant Milk was an instant hit, so we'd better not discount the appeal of instant beer.

It's wise to beware of half-truths; you may be getting the wrong half.

AS SEEN FROM ON HIGH

Jim O'Neill, who writes a most readable column in the Smiths Falls Record News, hopes he'll never run into a man from Mars, or other parts of outer space. He was visualizing such a happening in last week's column and he was having a tough time explaining the foibles of our earth creatures to his Martian interviewer.

We particularly liked the bit on women and the modern kitchen, and so we're stealing it. The man from Mars has been watching the housewife in her kitchen for more than a year and is greatly confused. He puts it this way to Jim:

"Well, I saw a wife who spent months nattering at her husband, demanding that he buy her a new cooking appliance. He gave in and bought her one that cost 700 of your earth dollars."

"Then she continued to heckle him to buy her an electric coffee pot so she wouldn't have to cook coffee on this 700 stove."

"Fine," I would say, although with uneasy under-tones.

"Next she insisted he buy her an electric fry-pan so she would have a lot of other foods she wouldn't have to use the stove for. And an electric toaster as well."

"Go on," I would mutter, beginning to blush.

"The next thing she got was an automatic rotisserie which just about meant she didn't need the new 700 stove at all."

"Yeah, I'm beginning to get your point."

"Then when the snows melted she badgered her husband into building an outdoor barbecue in the

Isabellas Had Communion-Meet

Forty-six members of the Daughters of Isabella, Fatima Circle, attended Benediction and Holy Communion in the Sacred Heart Church on Wednesday, March 15th. Rev. Cynille Contant was the celebrant. They then proceeded to the Knights of Columbus hall, where Father Contant gave an inspiring lecture on the education of our children, emphasizing his belief that mothers were too lenient in the teaching of prayers to their teen-agers. He was introduced by our local regent, Mrs. Germaine Vaillancourt, who later presented him with a cheque as a token of the esteem in which he is held. He was thanked by the vice-regent, Mrs. Dora Ranger, who asked several questions on behalf of the mothers; these he ably clarified.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Therese Major, the minutes and correspondence were read by Mrs. Geo. Lefebvre. Mrs. Jeanine Menard gave the financial report, and Mrs. Dorothea Trotter gave the treasurer's report.

It was decided to hold a special meeting in the K. of C. clubrooms on Thursday, March 23rd, for arrangements for the tea and fashion show to be held on April 9th. Models are to be chosen among the members. All are asked to attend.

SAW NEW MILKING SYSTEM

EUGENE OUELLETTE of Ouellette's IHA Hardware, Alexandria, is seen with THOMAS W. MERRITT, president of Babson Bros. Co., Chicago. Mr. Ouellette was pictured while attending a three-day advanced training course in the planning, installation and servicing of Pipe Line Milking Equipment and Milking Parlors including the new Tonganoxie Milking System. This advanced Training Seminar was held at St. Charles, Illinois, by Babson Bros. Co., builders of the Surge Milker. The importance of parlor and pipe line milking in the dairy business has been increasing rapidly. Just as today's agriculture is becoming more specialized, the men who install and service agricultural equipment must have intensive special training. This advanced course provided an exceptional training opportunity for those attending. One of the interesting features of this Training Seminar was the use of live cows which were milked with equipment set up in various milking arrangements. These arrangements included both Milking Parlors and Stanchion Pipe Lines.—Advt.
